CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS

Decorations are a part of Christmas, but expensive, huge and gaudy ones are not necessary for effectiveness. Simplicity and moderation show a sense of values and taste. The simple elegance of a well-done, but not over-done, idea or theme can be easily and inexpensively reached. The real purpose of Christmas decoration is just if you try to out-do your neighbors.

In decorating you are "arranging," thus, for the best results, each light, each decoration, and each bough should pass the necessary and moderation tests of flower arranging. These are (1) Is the accessory in keeping with the theme or effect desired? (2) Is this item (flower, greenery or accessory) needed, does it add to or is it just there? and (3) Is it in scale? It has been observed that many flower arrangements would be more effective if one-third or more of the flowers were removed and the rest properly placed. Size and showiness do not make a decoration good nor do smallness and plainness. However, do not belittle any small effort, if it is the best that can be afforded or done.

Outdoor lighting and decorations. Stringing lights through and over evergreens and shrubbery in the foundation planting, along the eaves, down the ridge, and up the TV tower often produce a gaudy show when restraint and good taste are not used. When you string your lights, step back, even across the street, and determine whether you have too many or need more. Then take a second look to see if one color of lights would be better than alternate or mixed colors.

What kinds of figures are you using? Would movement add to their effectiveness? Are they in scale with the home? Do they look like they "belong"? Is the background right? Have you used so many that the scene is cluttered?

Some talented persons can produce very pleasing decorative effects by painting special Christmas scenes which can be displayed in or on their windows or in the front yard. Good lighting is necessary for best effects.

Tree care and decorations. Christmas trees will last longer, and be more fire-resistant, if their bases are freshly cut and placed in a holder which holds a deep supply of water. Daily watering is usually necessary.

Such and Austrian pines usually hold their needles better with this simple treatment than other narrow-leaved evergreens. Spruce is the poorest keeper while balsam fir ranks close to Scotch pines.

Many people like flocked trees. Some have been done well, others have been overdone. They have been available in colors for several years. Be certain to select a color which look well in the room.

SNOW AND ICE REMOVAL

Evergreens. Should snow be removed from evergreens is a perennial question. If the snow is so wet and heavy you are afraid it will break limbs, remove it by gently shaking the limbs or by using a pole or broom. There is no better protection from winter sun than some snow. A small amount of snow helps maintain a steadier temperature in the plants it covers, yet it usually lets adequate light through to the leaves.

Ice from sleet storms is not harmful until it becomes heavy enough to break the plants down. It can damage other woody plants as well as evergreens. Wind increases the damage to ice-laden trees. Ice cannot be shaken off easily without causing breakage of limbs and twigs. In severe cases, propping limbs may be necessary if the tree is not too large.

Walks and drives. Ice may be a problem on steps, walks and drives. Streets are often cleared with a chloride salt. This material can cause problems if used on the home drive, walk or steps where drainage is toward shrubs and grass. Ammonium nitrate can be used to melt ice in these spots. When it flows toward your shrubs and grass, it also fertilizes them. If ammonium nitrate is not readily available, commercial fertilizers that are high in nitrogen and potassium may be as effective.

Unless there are many ice spells, there is little danger in using ammonium nitrate or complete fertilizers. However, do not, reason if a little is all right, a lot is better. Use only what is needed to melt the ice.

Do not shovel wet, heavy snow from drives, walks and steps on to your shrubbery. Sometimes it can be disposed of among shrubs where openings occur. "Dry," light snow or small amounts of snow probably will not harm shrubs when swept or shoveled on or about them unless the shrubs are already loaded to capacity or more snow is likely to fall.

Do not pack snow tightly about or over shrubs. Packed snow can smother evergreens, while naturally loose snow is a good "mulch."

PRUNING SHADE TREES

Each year we receive many inquiries about pruning shade trees, and particularly about the best time to do it. Actually, shade trees seldom, if ever, need drastic pruning. The occasion may arise, however, when some of them will need to have a few branches removed to improve the form, prevent branches becoming crossed, or keep them from interfering with other plants, or the roofs of nearby buildings. This kind of pruning is corrective and is practiced only under these conditions. The idea that shade trees, especially younger ones, need to be pruned every year is not sound; to know this is true, just look at some of the most beautiful trees found growing in pasture fields from which a single branch has never been removed.

The best time for corrective pruning is when the tree is absolutely dormant. January is one of the best months because even maples will not bleed or lose sap from pruning done then. Also, the leaves are off the trees at this time, and you can rapidly see how much cutting needs to be done.

The idea that trees must be topped to keep them from growing too tall is false. Trees that are inclined to shoot up two or three very tall branches will not get too tall, because after these branches have made this growth they slow up and wait until the trees fill in below. This is especially true of the silver or water maple. If you look at maples that are growing native, you see old trees that have the regular spreading growth that is to be expected of this variety, yet they have never been pruned.

Young trees should not have the lower branches removed until the tree is from 4 to 6 inches in diameter since these branches cannot be replaced once they have been removed. Allow the tree to attain some size before cutting off the branches to the desired height. For example, if the lawn has sufficient space leave the lower branches on a sugar maple so that they are almost on the ground. This makes for a more beautiful specimen. Of course, where space is limited this cannot be done. Grass and weeds do not grow under these branches when they are left on, and the ground becomes bare; nevertheless, it makes a beautiful, picturesque tree.

HOLIDAY FOODS

Here are some "tried and true" recipes for special treats. I have made these and found them to be very good. I hope you and your family will enjoy them too.

DATE BALLS

1 pound dates, cut up
2 eggs, beaten
2 cups sugar
1 cup margarine
1 cup chopped nuts
shredded coconut

Mix all ingredients except coconut and nuts and cook 4 to 5 minutes. Cool slightly and add 4 cups rice-crispies and 1 cup nuts. Form into balls and roll in shredded coconut.

HONEY MILK BALLS

1/2 cup milk powder
1/2 cup peanut butter
1/4 cup honey or corn syrup
1 cup corn flakes

Mix milk powder, peanut butter,

The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, Dec. 16, 1976 P-11

and syrup and roll into small balls. Roll balls in 1 cup crushed cereal flakes.

NO-BAKE COOKIES

3 tblsp. margarine
1/2 cup chocolate pieces
1/2 cup butterscotch pieces
1/4 cup oats
1/2 cup flaked coconut

Melt margarine, chocolate and butterscotch pieces. Add oatmeal and coconut. Roll into balls.

APRICOT TRIFLE

1-lb. prepared pound cake (or angel food)
1-10 oz. jar apricot preserves
1/2 cup pecan pieces
2 cups boiled custard (or prepared instant pudding)
1/2 cup sherry whipped topping
Candied cherries

Slice cake in serving bowl, alternate layers of cake, apricot preserves and nuts. Pour custard or pudding over layers; add sherry. Refrigerate overnight. When ready to serve, top with whipped topping; decorate with cherries. Yield: 8-10 servings.

Make Christmas A Time To Remember

By Helen Pries Stacey

Christmas is a magical time. It is a season of memories that travels from now to all of yesterday's Christmases, continuing on to Bethlehem. Memories of this Christmas - 1976 - will linger on into the future, and for this reason the day, the season, the fellowship, sharing of gifts and love should be emphasized.

Throughout Kentucky its elderly citizens will look at the face of a child pressed against a steamy window and remember other faces looking into a world of snow, pine trees, footprints on paths to the barn or to the woodlot to get wood for the fireplace and kitchen stove, pawprints leading from a wood pile and chickens scratching for special holiday treats, and sharing their bounty with cardinals, bluejays, juncos, sparrows, titmice, cedar waxwings and a brown thrush who decided to winter in the Commonwealth.

Ozell Preston of Johnson County remembered Christmas Day in Eastern Kentucky was fun, "though presents were meager and few." He found that simply putting more coal on the fire that day "seemed to give a brighter glow."

George Moore from Elliot County, remembered a two-room log house and Christmas that included oranges. "It was the only time that year we had oranges. I remember from then on the boys on the creek always wanted to have firecrackers and Roman candles to shoot off."

Christmas memories of Moore's, a well-known regional writer, included a "program and tree at Shady Grove School. We'd get striped candy from the teacher." The best-remembered boyhood memory was the year he received a small red, tin "pull" wagon.

"First Christmas ever I remember," said Mrs. Polly Oakley of Rowan County. "I hung my stockings around the fireplace and next morning I found what they call a chiney doll, a black-headed doll you don't see anymore, and a peppermint sawing. That was all the go in that day and time."

Now "pushing 80," Mrs. Oakley recalled childhood Christmas feasts including fish and wild turkey. She said "Licking River usually was frozen solid and my brother would push me along on a home made sled and we had to knock holes in the ice to get the fish. We'd always have fish with wild turkey. One time I saw 18 wild turkeys fly to a tree across the river."

Mrs. S.B. Allen of Florida remembered Christmas in Morgan

County, recalled especially children's parties at the Nettie Filson Carter home in West Liberty. "Each girl at the party one year was given a small china doll," she said, "and the boys horns. There were bowls of fruit and peppermint candy, pine along the mantel and balls of mistletoe hanging from glass chandeliers."

Mrs. Allen clearly remembered twin trees that stood in the hall on each side of the front door. "They had been made of materials that were spun and crystallized, too lovely almost to bear."

In Pike County Mrs. Marguerite Weber, native of Russia, still remembers snow and gassy Christmas when she was a child. She and other children spent hours making tree ornaments of nuts, gold and silver thread and paper chains. "We made little angels with fluffy wings, tiny houses with rooftops of snow, boxes with a surprise inside and funny old Santas known as Grandfather Frost... We would fill walnut halves with beeswax, then place a tiny candle in the wax for a ship mast. During the holidays we would navigate these boats in a basin filled with water in a dark room with only light from the tiny candles. Well, it was like in a fairy tale."

"Today's children will be tomorrow's adults and the future's elderly. This year make Christmas as bright, glorious and holy as a holiday program in a country church on a wintry night. It will make Christmas a time to be remembered."

Consumer Comment

Robert F. Stephens
Attorney General

If you have not paid a debt, your creditor may obtain the money through a procedure called garnishment.

To garnish wages, the creditor files a suit in court. If the court enters a judgment, an order of garnishment is issued by the court and served on the debtor's employer, who is called the garnishee. The employer then withholds a certain percentage of the debtor's wages until the debt is repaid. The withheld wages are forwarded to the court by the employer and given to the creditor. The employer is required to give the employee whose wages are being garnished a copy of the order of garnishment stating the amount of wages exempt from the order, the percentage to be sent to the court, and an explanation of the garnishment procedure.

Under present law the maximum amount of the employee's wages which can be garnished is 25 percent of weekly disposable earnings or the amount by which weekly disposable earnings exceed 30 times the federal minimum hourly wage, whichever is less.

Disposable earnings means the amount left after taxes. The remainder of weekly salary is exempt from garnishment.

An order of garnishment is only effective for a period of two weeks, but subsequent orders can be issued after each two-week period until the entire amount owed is paid. The debtor is also required to pay court costs for each order of garnishment and his employer's cost in handling the garnishment. These employer costs should be minimal.

Anyone whose wages are being garnished may not be freed because of this. But this provision does not apply if a person is being garnished by more than one creditor.

All consumers should be wary of financially over-extending themselves and should always keep accurate records of any payments made. Remember too, that if your wages are garnished you should read all materials presented to you and make sure a legal amount is being garnished. You also may want to consult with an attorney.

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the consumer hotline. The number is 1-800-372-2960.

Fairview

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Rev. Ray Dean filled his regular appointment over the week end at the Fairview Baptist Church with good attendance. Sunday School attendance was one hundred and seven. I thank God for everyone who attends church services, regardless of who they are or where they attend. It's always good to be in the house of the Lord. We can never thank Him enough for the wonderful blessings of life.

We extend our sympathy to Mr. Charlie Thomas of Berea who recently lost his wife. May God comfort and bless her loved ones in this time of sorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen visited Mr. and Mrs. Willard Todd last Sunday. Mrs. Todd remains very ill at this writing. Please continue to pray for her. Bless her heart, she is a wonderful person. May God heal her body and make her well again.

Attending a Gospel Singing at the Kentucky Training Center in Lexington December 9th to hear The Hensons and Seekers were Mr. and Mrs. Preston Anderkin, Cheryl Vars, Kitty Sherwood, Gary and Kenny Pickle, Shirley and Jesse Mullins, Ronnie Abney, Vonda Croucher, and Mrs. Pauletta Ponder.

Mrs. Lloyd Pickle and children spent the week end of November 27th and 28th in Rural Retreat, Virginia in celebration of Mrs. Pickle's father, Carl Hubbard, 80th birthday. Mr. Hubbard was honored with a surprise dinner at Grace Lutheran Church on Sunday. Forty eight guests, friends and relatives attended. The biggest surprise for Mr. Hubbard was a large birthday cake topped with eighty one dollar bills, a gift from the children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Pickle was overjoyed to see and visit with her brother, Frank, whom she hadn't seen for ten years. It was a wonderful time for all the relatives. Mr. Hubbe accompanied Mrs. Pickle home for a few days visit.

J.B. Alexander of Orlando visited his father Delbert and Mrs. Alexander, Sunday. Mr. Alexander is improving slowly. May the good Lord bless him to be well soon. Mrs. Alexander who has been ill for years also needs our prayers.

Mrs. Helen Powell and son, Dwayne of Berea visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cope Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton Jett of Jackson visited her mother and father Albert Powell and later visited her sister, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander.

Also visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander Sunday were his brother, William and family of Orlando.

Visiting Mrs. Della Bullens of Macedonia Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen.

Attending the Associational Youth Meeting Saturday night at the Scaffold Cane Baptist church from Fairview were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burdine, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Malone, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Anderkin, Wesley Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. David Poynter and Vince, Kitty, Sherwood, Kenny and Gary Pickle, Shirley and Jesse Mullins, Cheryl Vars, Rita McCollum Faney and Tim Anderkin and Josh and Jason Smith. They all enjoyed the meeting very much.

Please remember church and Sunday School. I know everyone is busy as Christmas time is drawing near, but we need to take time out to worship our Lord and Savior. Just think what He has done for us. God bless you all.

Mr. Gregory looking rather dejected as water pours from a broken main in front of the office building which he is constructing on Main Street in Mt. Vernon, on Monday. Some of that water also came in handy Tuesday when an overturned heater, being used by the bricklayers working on Mr. Gregory's building, scared everyone to death for a few moments until some cool heads in the crowd found good use for some sand lying nearby.

the Jail to pass inspection according to the law. The Jail Commissioner said I had to have fire-proof mattresses, fire-proof blankets for which I didn't have beforehand and which was dangerous. But the other jailers made out with what they had. The late law won't approve of the equipment I once had and it was very expensive-what I had to buy. The chemical appliances is bought by large quantities in order to get a better price. They are also high priced. The equipment on the floors cost big money also. The Fiscal Court set my budget up on twelve months, which is one half enough to pay the expenses of these requirements by law. As long as I am jailer, the Jail will be run according to the requirements requested by the Grand Jury, State Inspector, Jail Commissioner and the Health Inspector. The kitchen and the equipments are sanitary, free from bugs and germs.

Miss Janis Lynn Durham, niece of the bride served as flower girl. She wore an off-white knit dress trimmed with red ribbons and carried a flower basket of rose petals.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Rockcastle Co. High School and a 1976 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University. She is employed as a teacher by the Laurel Co. Board of Education at Pittsburg School. The groom is employed in construction. The couple are residents Route 6, London.

Good Living

Probably nothing illustrates better the progress in the level of living in America than the increase in life expectancy.

A GOOD LIFE-In 1800, the life expectancy at birth in the U.S. was 35 years of age, today it is over 70.

In 1800 the average life expectancy at birth in this country was only 35 years of age. By 1865, it had increased to 46. By 1910 it was 51 and today, it is over 70. This is due to the vast change in the way we live great advances in medical science, better diet, better sanitation, and more healthful clothing and houses.

This is only part of what our free enterprise system has accomplished, a system that has helped make us the healthiest, richest and most dynamic country in the world.

Down on The Farm

BY ROY G. BROWN
ASSISTANT VICE PRESIDENT
CUMBERLAND PCA

The year of 1976 is closing out in just a few days. Many things have happened during the year, some good and some bad.

In many respects farmers have had a very good year. Crops have been very good along with a good growing season. But prices for many farm products have been much too low to meet the cost of production.

The cost of production has increased by 288% in the last few years. While the cost to the consumer has not been nearly so bad. In fact, the consumer can buy more food from an hours wages than ever before. Today it takes 14% of the dollar. A few years ago it took 21% of the dollar to buy food.

We in America, have the most and best food of any nation in the world. Thanks to research, sciences and the long hours of hard work by the farm family "Down on the Farm."

Let There Be Light

Your telephone rings. It is your REALTOR saying that he is coming right over with a prospect. You hang up the phone. What's the next thing you do? Turn on every light in the house. Why?

Because you want to give the prospect the best image you can of the comfort, beauty and livability you are offering. In other words, you want to sell a home not a house. And, full illumination is the best way to give your home that "lived-in" look. Furniture and rugs and fixtures take on a warm glow from the proper lighting. Here are a few "bright" ideas:

Turn on every lamp in the living room, bedrooms and family room. Be careful about turning on the overhead lights in these rooms for it could be harsh and make the room look uninviting. Turn on every light in a storage room or closet. Go all out in illuminating the kitchen - the cheerier the better. Brighten up the bathroom too - but carefully choose the right wattage for bulbs by the mirror, pick the most flattering one. Remember, it's just as important to have lights on in the afternoon as it is for a night-time showing.

CUMBERLAND'S OLDEST STUDENT - Harold Tomlin has been attending colleges and universities throughout the United States and Europe for over 47 years. In his first semester at Cumberland College, the 68-year-old student says he has never tried to set any record, but that "it has merely been a way of life." (Cumberland College photo)

68-Year Old College Student Says It's "Way of Life."

Harold Tomlin is like any other student at Cumberland College. He studies and worries over exams. He socializes over a cup of coffee with other students in the campus center between classes. But there is one difference - Tomlin is 68-years old and he has been attending colleges and universities for 47 years.

"I have never tried to set any record," Tomlin writes in a brief statement about himself. "It has merely been a way of life."

So from whatever money he has saved, and the little he receives in Social Security and pension, Tomlin continues to pay tuition because he has never seen any reason to quit school. Even during the 25-or-so years he taught high school mathematics in southern Ohio he continued taking night classes at the University of Cincinnati.

"Education is most important," Tomlin says, "and becoming more so every day."

The world of education began for Tomlin in 1929 when he "fell in" with the right group of people and enrolled for evening classes at the University of Southern California.

Later Tomlin returned to his home state of Ohio and carried on extensive work with the University of Chicago before his 26 years at the University of Cincinnati. At Cincinnati he earned both a bachelor's and a masters degree in math.

Today Tomlin has amassed somewhere between 700 and 800 college credits, a figure difficult to calculate because much of his study was done in the European system.

Tomlin, who is balding and of average height, knows of no one with as many credits. He wears bottle-bottom glasses and is often seen wearing a black suit which gives him a professor-like appearance.

He says his drive to acquire knowledge is sparked by Biblical teachings, the book of Proverbs, in particular. "And it (education) is the one thing you can take with you when you die," Tomlin added.

"Many have asked me if it is harder to learn now," he writes. "I don't think so. The only thing I've observed is that whatever the subject, a person must stay with it."

Tomlin has stayed with it long enough to master four foreign languages. He has studied at prestigious universities in Austria and Germany, and he has studied amidst the rubble-ruining of striking Spanish students in Granada.

At the University of Granada Tomlin worked toward his medical degree and finished the first three years. During this time he did quite a bit of work translating the research notes of Spanish doctors into English.

The University of Granada has asked him to return and translate what Tomlin believes will be three or four weeks worth of material, and it is for this reason that Tomlin is leaving the campus of Cumberland College after only one semester.

After leaving Granada, around the first of March, he plans to continue medical school in Poland, where he has been informed of his acceptance for enrollment.

"At my age I just want to finish medicine," says Tomlin, determined and still exhibiting a youthful vigor to learn. He appears satisfied while his eyes reflect years of study slowly coming to an end.

But by no means will Tomlin remain idle. "There is a lot of research to be done," he says. "I'll be happy in research."

A CHILD'S DREAM

By Ross Jordan

When I grow up to be a man,
I'd like to change this mixed up land,
If I were the President for my look,
I think I'd use the Golden Rule.

Do unto others as you would others do unto you.

The Circuit Judge I'd like to be,
So I could tell those who complain to me,
That it plainly says in God's Holy Word,
And I'd pound on my desk so I could be heard:

Judge not for whatsoever you judge ye shall likewise be judged.

If I could be a doctor, I'll tell you what,
I'd throw all the pills out of the pot,
And instead of feasting upon dope,
I'd doctor with charity, faith and hope.

As a mechanic I'd gear the speedometer down,
So a little more time could be found
To visit the sick, needy and poor,
To give a friendly knock upon the neighbors door.

For whatsoever ye have done unto one of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

If I were a preacher-the first thing I guess,
Would be to sew a tail on the ladies' dress.

And fasten a stamp on the tongue of men
To try and put a stop on two awful sins.
Thou shalt not commit adultery and thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

If I grew up to be a lady,
I don't know - but just maybe,
The best thing to do in this world,
Would be to live as a clean, wholesome girl.

Let your light so shine among men that they might see the good works that

As a teacher - I'd try to lead,
All children to be able to read,
The Bible and grow in wisdom each day,
As Jesus did along the way.

Study to show thyself approved by God.

As a mother - 'twould be my delight,
To gather my family around each night,
To read God's word, to sing and pray,
As Jesus in Matthew told us to say.

Our Father who are in heaven hallowed be thy name.

I'd like to blot out the shows on T.V.,
That little boys and girls don't need to see,

For Jesus told satan when he tempted him so,
Just before he was ready to go.

'Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

I'd like to be a forest ranger,
From my tower I'd search for the manager,
I'd paint a picture on sky so blue,
Of the true spirit of Christmas, for all of you.

For unto you a child is born, and you shall call his name Jesus and He will be the Son of the world.

As a musician I'd join the angel band,
We'd sing and sing all over this land,
Help bring the world back as it was that Holy night.

Peace on earth, Good will to all men.

Jesus paid the price of sin,
Even before our sins began,
He left us these words of love,
As he ascended to Heaven above,

I go to prepare a place for you, And I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am you may be also.

Amazing Grace, o' holy night,
O' beautiful star that shines so bright,
That lead the wise men on their way,
Unto the place where Jesus lay.

He died upon the cruel cross,
That you and I might not be lost,
Let us sing praises unto Him,
The Holy Child of Bethlehem.

Oh, how I love Jesus,
Oh, how I love Jesus,
Oh, how I love Jesus,
Because He first loved me.

TO FIND HAPPINESS YOU NEED:

1. Something to do.
2. Something to look forward to.
3. Something to believe in.
4. Someone to love.

ON MAKING FRIENDS:

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts.
It involves many things, but above

Dr. William Qualls, standing, of G. Reynolds Watkins Consulting Engineers, explains Mt. Vernon's pre-application and priorities in preparation of the official request for a community block grant by the Council from HUD. The meeting was held Monday night as a joint Public Hearing and regular meeting by the Mt. Vernon City Council. Also in the photo are seated, from left: Mayor Roland Mullins, Councilman Elmer Alcorn (back to camera) and Councilman Dennis Halcomb. (See story elsewhere on front page).

Council Holds Second Public Hearing; Discusses HUD Application With Engineer

Dr. William Qualls of G. Reynolds Watkins Engineers of Lexington was on hand Monday night, December 13th for a meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council and their second public hearing concerning the Council's application for a community block grant from HUD.

Dr. Qualls fielded questions from interested citizens concerning the usage and application of the funds available through the grant as well as priorities which have been established. The total amount of money which the Council will apply for will be $499,516 divided into 4 projects.

The priority project which has been established will be a rehabilitation project in the Owens Subdivision. This project will entail reconstruction of homes in that area with complete renovation of the sewage disposal system and the addition of more sewer facilities.

The second priority established was site acquisition of the property at the corner of Main and Richmond Streets. The $26,000 allotted for this project would cover only site acquisition and clearance. It is planned to use the site for an elderly housing project but no construction costs are included in the allotment for this priority.

The third priority has been set as a flood protection and storm drain improvement study. $15,000 has been allotted for this project, the need for which has been made evident many times by the blocked storm drains under West Main Street.

The fifth project set up in the application will be an elderly housing/pedestrian safety development program at a cost of $13,750. The completion of this part of the total program would involve building 400' of sidewalk and construction of proper drainage ditches near the present housing project for the elderly off Richmond Street.

It was agreed by the Council that the grant would be applied for with these intended uses to be submitted in the application.

Following the public hearing, the regular monthly meeting of the Council was held. Two residents of Rose Hill Road were present to request a water line to their property. The total amount of line needed would be 300 feet. The matter was referred to two members of the Council who will discuss the matter with Homer Hala who is selling these lots at this time.

The remainder of the bill for renovating and adding to City hall was presented by Preston Collins and approved by the Council. Total cost of the project was $50,700.

Sales of "Untied" Burley Began In 1976-77 Season

By Bennett Beach

Every year's tobacco market is "different," and the 1976-77 season is unique in providing the first experimental sales of untied burley in sheets.

Also, this marketing season is carrying an another experiment, with a continuation of last season's tryouts of marketing burley in the form of compressed bales on the warehouse floors.

Both experiments are being watched by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, which is interested in any endeavor that benefits producers and the industry.

Meanwhile, in the auctions through December 7 a total of $112,900 pounds had been consigned under loan to the burley coop, which handles the price-support program in Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Missouri.

So far, about 2 percent has gone to the pool. Alvin R. Beckley, executive secretary-treasurer of the Association, reports that in the corresponding period last year 4.96 percent had been taken under loan, totaling $1,191,647 pounds.

Several designated markets throughout the burley belt are participating in the sheet sales of untied burley. Some of the leading tobacco companies are holding in both the sheeting and baling tests, and have agreed to purchase amounts sufficient to provide definite information on these types of tobacco handling, its economic and quality aspects.

The innovations of baling and sheeting are aimed at labor-saving. It is emphasized that the season's tests are for evaluation purposes.

Another proposed improvement in burley marketing would stress quality marketing. This proposal, still in the talk stage, comes from several quarters, including some dealers. It proposes that growers of top-quality tobacco be rewarded with "premium" price

Improvement Council to Apply For Federal Funds for Development

The Rockcastle County Improvement Council is preparing to apply to the Appalachian Regional Commission for funds to develop the county's proposed industrial site. The application will be in the amount of $82,500, which will be used toward purchase of the site, and $337,000 for construction of primary access roads, etc.

County Judge Hubert Thacker signed a contract this past week with Howard K. Bell Consulting Engineers of Lexington to develop a Master Plan for the site.

The plan would include primarily a Master Plan for primary access roads, railroad sidings, water and sewer facilities, publicity of the availability of the site among prospective industries, etc.

The Council has had funds in the amount of $82,500 available in the past but they have never been applied for this use.

107 District Judges Needed; Judiciary Courts Comm. Estimates

After lengthy discussion, a joint meeting of the Senate and House Judiciary Courts Committees today honed down an estimate of the number of district judges needed for the state's new court system to 107.

The meeting started with Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) estimate of 124 judges, based on a caseload study weighted according to the type of cases handled by the existing courts in a district.

The 107 judge figure is the lowest yet suggested by legislation introduced in the General Assembly. Those figures range from 112 to 174 judges. The Senate will not act on the matter of district judges until it receives a bill on the matter from the House. Sen. William Sullivan (D-Henderson), chairman of the Senate Judiciary Courts Committee said after the meeting.

Rep. Charles White (D-Owensboro), chairman of the House Judiciary-Courts Committee, said the House committee will act on the recommendation of the joint committees during a special meeting at 9 a.m. Friday.

Some members of the committees expressed doubt about the fairness of the way the number of judges were decided. "What galls me," Sen. John Berry (D-Newcastle) said, "is the members of committee can get more judges for their district than districts unrepresented by committee members."

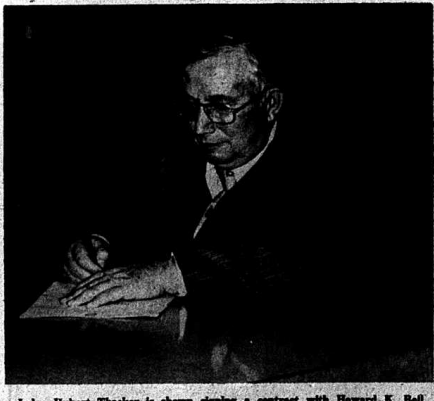

"I think we're in a situation where everyone is getting the most he can for his home district," he said. Rep. Steven Beshear (D-Lexington) on the other hand, urged a close reliance on the study presented by the AOC.

Several times members moved to reconsider districts that had already been assigned a certain number of judges. Several of the districts received an increased number of judges on reconsideration.

There was still dissatisfaction with the numbers of judges some districts were assigned. "You don't need me here," Rep. Ray Brown said (D-Sandy Hook), who favored a greater number of judges than was being voted by the committee. Calling the committee "consistently inconsistent," he left the meeting early.

A summary of the district judges to be assigned each district judges that districts consisting of more than one county (for example, Rockcastle and Pulaski) would have a part-time trial commissioner in each county without a district judge under the Judicial Article.

Two judges are slated to serve Rockcastle and Pulaski counties but there is the possibility that both judges could be from Pulaski County.

Judge Hubert Thacker is shown signing a contract with Howard K. Bell Consulting Engineers of Lexington for the drawing up of a Master Plan for the county's industrial site on Hwy. 150 (the Clyde Payne farm). Judge Thacker was authorized to sign the contract by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at their regular meeting last Tuesday. The plan is a necessity before applications for funds to develop the site can be obtained through grants.

Overall Cost of Judiciary System Cut

The overall cost of the 1977-78 judiciary system plus a pre-trial release program was pared down from about $23.5 million to about $14.5 million, committee chairman Joe Clarke (D-Danville) told the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee today.

The reductions are a result of an all-day Sunday meeting of the governor's budget staff, Finance and Administration staff, Office of Planning and Management staff, Clarke and others.

The "singular difference between Friday and Sunday's budgets" is a 30 percent reduction in circuit clerk support, said Gilmore Dutton, staff analyst for the committee. The reduction is possible because of an estimated 20-40 percent increase in efficiency under the new system, he said.

However, revenue is still expected to be about $2 million short of the cost, Clarke said. Expected revenue from the courts will be about $22 million and expected cost will be about $17.9 million, plus $6 million to be returned to local governments.

At one point, discussion of the budget turned to the presentation of the budget to the committee.

"I don't like having information being rammed down my throat," said Joseph H. McBride (D-Waverly). "I don't like having to digest it in a few hours."

Rep. Buddy Adams (D-Bowling Green) agreed. "The Legislative Research Commission's been working on the budget since March, the Administrative Office of the Courts for months, Office of Planning and Management for 1 don't know how long. We've only had two weeks-some of it we've only had an hour."

Most of the people who worked on it are not responsible to the people at home, Adams added.

"I think we're in a better position to vote on this budget than any budget we've voted on before," Clarke said.

McBride said he didn't like the budget or the way it was handled, but that he would support it because "of the personal integrity of the chairman and his conviction that this is the best we can do with the information we have."

The committee reached a consensus on several matters. They include:

- *A tentative decision to keep drivers licensing responsibilities in the circuit clerk's office. This may be changed by discussion of the circuit clerk's duties in the House today;
- *Placing in salary increases for circuit clerks rather than providing the total increase at the beginning of the new judiciary system;
- *Providing full state funding for the pre-trial release program since its current funding may not be present. Its advocates claim that the price range is rewarded with "premium" price supports. Its advocates claim that the price range beyond ordinary quality and top burley tobacco has been too narrow.

Top-quality production requires extra care in culture, harvesting, curing and separation by stalk positions. Premium price supports, it is claimed, would offer inducements to produce higher standards, an strengthen the export market, where foreign buyers pay top prices and favor high quality.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

By Ferrell Wellman

A growing number of legislators at the special session of the Kentucky General Assembly here in Frankfort is optimistic the Assembly's work can be wrapped up before Christmas.

Despite a heavy and controversial workload, the President Pro Tem of the Kentucky Senate believes the lawmakers will be able to pack their bags in a few days. Senator Joe Prather, a democrat from Vine Grove, thinks the session could be over by December 18th. Senate Majority leader Tom Givrett of Paducah also believes the lawmakers could begin their exodus from the Capitol before the holidays. Garrett places the burden of an early adjournment on the shoulders of the members of the House of Representatives. Garrett says leaving early depends on how the lawmakers in the lower chamber handle their work.

Workers' compensation, which leaves most observers shaking their heads in confusion, and the number of judges for the state's new district court system are the stumbling blocks to pre-holiday adjournment. Senator William Sullivan of Henderson claims finalizing judicial reform won't be as time consuming as many people think because the various proposals aren't that different. Sullivan chaired one of the key committees responsible for recommendations on how to set up the new court system.

Originally, Governor Julian Carroll was suggesting fewer than 100 district judges be authorized. Carroll now says 112 would be a more suitable number. The Governor changed his mind after lawmakers and the Supreme Court agreed to restrict the duties of trial commissioners. Carroll wanted much of the work to be done by the trial commissioners in the initial years of the state operated district court system.

A legislative committee is pushing for 107 district judges. The Chief Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court, Scott Reed, wants 120.

Hearings into the financing of the district courts have been detailed and lengthy. Representative Joe Clark of Danville, the chairman of the Appropriations and Revenue Committee has been conducting hearings in the early morning hours and on Friday afternoons when lawmakers not belonging to the A&R committee head home for the weekend.

By only one vote, a joint House-Senate Banking and Insurance Committee decided against asking Governor Carroll to add the state's no-fault insurance law to the special worksheet. The committee decided to hold off any action until the 1978 regular session of the General Assembly.

The vote, however, is not a vote of confidence for the no-fault legislation. Several of the committee members who voted not to ask the Governor to amend his call actually favor repeal of the no-fault bill which was passed by the 1974 legislature.

The lawmakers are putting off action for two major reasons. First, they don't want to lengthen the special session. Secondly, some legislators think more information needs to be collected on the effectiveness of the law in Kentucky.

A representative from the state insurance department told the committee that personal injury rates have not increased in the state since no-fault became law. Just the same, a machine is gearing up to repeal no-fault, and the state's trial lawmakers would like to be the ones shifting gears.

Wild Turkey Hunting Dates

Hunting for wild turkey will be allowed in all or portions of nine Eastern Kentucky counties April 30 - May 1 and May 7-8. Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold Mitchell said today following a meeting of the state fish and wildlife commission in Frankfort.

The open counties are Jackson, Owsley, Bath, Rockcastle, Lee, Rowan, that portion of Menifee County north of U.S. Highway 460; that portion of Pike County between State Highway 197 and the Kentucky-Virginia border, and the portion of Letcher County between U.S. Highway 119 and the Kentucky-Virginia border.

The limit will again be one turkey gobbler (with visible beard) per hunter for the season, and either gun or bow and arrows may be used.

Dates for turkey hunting on three wildlife management areas were also set by the commission, Mitchell said and they are: Fort Knox Wildlife Management Area in Harlan, Bullitt, and Meade Counties, all or any of the following dates, depending upon training priorities: April 2-3, 9-10, 16-17 and 23-24. Land Between the Lakes WMA in Lyon and Trigg counties, April 20-30, and Pioneer Weapons WMA in Bath and Menifee counties, April 30-May 1 and May 7-8.

Permits will be required for hunting at Ft. Knox, and they will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Applications should be sent, no earlier than March 1, to Turkey Hunt, Recreation Office at Golden Pond after March 1. No permits are required for hunting on the Pioneer Weapons area.

Also approved by the commission was a change in the state falconry regulation which, was necessary to comply with federal falconry rules. According to the new regulation, all falcons will be required to pass an examination before being issued any one of three classes of falconry permits. The permit classes are: apprentice falconer (must be at least 14 years old and have a sponsor holding a general or master permit); general (must be 18 years old and have at least two years experience in falconry at the apprentice level or its equivalent); and master (must have at least five years experience in falconry at the general class level or its equivalent).

The regulation also carries restrictions as to the numbers and kinds of birds which may be held and used for hunting by the various classes of falconers. Mitchell said, and requires all falconers to make annual reports to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The regulation will become effective upon completion of the state regulation-adoption procedure, probably in late spring.

Christmas Trees Being Trucked In

With Christmas just around the corner, trucks from surrounding states are starting to roll into Kentucky bringing Christmas trees.

According to Elmer C. Grim, director of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection's Division of Forestry, chances are that the pine, fir or spruce that will grace living rooms this year will not have been grown in Kentucky.

Approximately 400,000 Kentucky families will purchase live Christmas trees this season and, of those, only about 75,000 will have been grown in Kentucky. At an average cost of $5 per tree, approximately $25,000 trees will be brought into the state.

Grim said, "The joy of Dad and the kids toiling a fresh-cut Christmas tree home from the woods is an opportunity only a few of us will have this year."

"A few Christmas tree growers near large cities sometimes open their plantations to people who wish to cut their own trees. This saves the owner the cost of harvesting and marketing the trees while providing enjoyment for a family. Unfortunately, there are too few such opportunities in Kentucky."

Grim explained that more Kentucky

ings aren't involved in the Christmas tree growing business because most people want to see an immediate return on their investments. It takes six to eight years of work to bring the first planting of Christmas trees to market. According to a University of Kentucky publication, a landowner can expect a net return of $50 to $100 per acre per year over a 10-year rotation period.

With the renewed interest in conservation of natural resources, some growers are offering balled and burlapped trees for Christmas. The homeowner can enjoy the tree in his home and then plant it in his yard after the holidays are over.

Grim urged landowners interested in the Christmas tree business to contact the Division of Forestry, 618 Teton Trail, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, for information on sources of planting stock, establishment and care of plantations.

STATE HISTORIC PROPERTIES
TO BE PUT ON FILM AT LIBRARIES

Soon every citizen in the Commonwealth can go to the public county library to see what Kentucky properties are on the National Register of Historic Places. For the first time, all National Register properties in Kentucky have been put on microfiche by the Lost Cause Press in Louisville.

Charles F. Hinds, director of the Kentucky Department of Library and Archives, said that microfiche is a sheet of microfilm on which it is possible to record as many as 192 photos or documents.

Hinds said six-volume sets of microfiche on Kentucky's National Register properties are being distributed to the state's 110 public libraries. "Every county library in Kentucky has a microfilm reader-printer, which is available to the public and is adaptable for rearing microfiche," said Hinds. "The equipment was placed in the libraries last year by the Department of Library and Archives. Kentucky is the first state to supply county libraries with standard microfilm reader-printers," he said.

The microfiche, arranged according to counties, pictures each building or object at different views, also giving the subject's history. "It is entertaining as well as educational," said Hinds. "The microfiche can be used by school children studying history and adults interested in historical research," he said.

Hinds, a member of the Kentucky Heritage Commission (KHC) said the National Register is a federal program which denotes properties of historical, architectural or archeological significance. In Kentucky, the program is administered by the heritage commission.

According to Mrs. Eldred Melton, director of the heritage commission and state historic preservation officer, the microfiche lists all Kentucky properties placed on the Register up to February this year. "I am excited about this project," said Mrs. Melton. Up to now, there was only one list of National Register properties in the state, heritage commission's office in Frankfort.

"This way, by the microfiche being distributed to local public libraries, people across the state have an opportunity to see Kentucky's heritage," said Mrs. Melton. "Also, those interested in placing property on the Register can see what is required in preparing the National Register nomination forms," she said. The forms should then be forwarded to the heritage commission, she said.

Hinds added that Kentucky has become the first state to lend microfilms to local libraries.

Miss Hellard Weds Mr. Kirby
In Double-Ring Ceremony

The marriage of Bonnie Sue Hellard and Robert Earl Kirby was solemnized November 27th at 5:00 p.m. at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Poynter, Route 9, London.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Hellard and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kirby, both of Rt. 1, East Bernstadt, Ky.

The double-ring candlelight ceremony was conducted by George Cromer, uncle of the groom. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Danny Adams, who also served as best man.

The bride wore a white gown which was trimmed in Venise lace and pearls.

A double row of lace also accented the attached train. The bridal veil was camelot style with pearl clusters and edged with Venise lace.

The bride's bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and red roses with white love-knot streamers.

Mrs. Wilrene Adams, sister of the groom, was the ring bearer. (Cont. to 17)

MR. AND MRS. BOB BARNETT of Route 3, Mt. Vernon celebrated their 55th Wedding Anniversary December 7th. Mrs. Barnett was also 81 on the 7th and Mr. Barnett was 84 on May 18th. The couple have six children: Edgar, Eli, Isaac and Bodie, all of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; Mrs. Alta Philbeck of Route 2, Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Margie Callahan of Richmond, Indiana. They also have 15 grandchildren and 25 great grandchildren.

J. Ronald Phillips

To Visit Locally

The Mt. Vernon congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses is being visited this week by Mr. J. Ronald Phillips, minister and circuit overseer of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Mr. Raymond J. Schneider, presiding overseer of the group, said that this would be a week of special activity for the congregation, winding up on Sunday with a public lecture by Mr. Phillips.

The congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses, throughout the world, are visited two times a year by circuit overseers like Mr. Phillips. He is a responsible for up to twenty-five congregations. His work includes working with the local ministers in the congregation. He will be giving a variety of discourses to the congregation this week and will be working with the local members as they carry on their house-to-house preaching work.

The public lecture this Sunday will be on the subject "What Kind of a name are you taking with God?" Mr. Schneider said that the public is invited to come and hear this talk free of charge at the local Kingdom Hall on East Main Street, across the street from the telephone exchange. The meeting will begin at 10:00 a.m.

RCHS Students Selected For All-State Choral Festival

THESE SEVEN RCCHS CHORAL STUDENTS were recently selected for the All-State Chorus following auditions held at Tates Creek High School in Lexington October 31st. They will take part in the All-State Choral Festival at the new Civic Center in Lexington on March 10, 11 and 12, 1977. Selected were, front row, from left: Cathy Carey, Brenda Treon, Kim Bullock. Back row, from left: Mike Miller, Jan Cummins, Ernie Blevins and Audrey Faulkner.

By: Ernie Blevins
Publicity Chairman

Last Friday in the Choral Department, there was a lot of excitement because we received the results from our All-State Chorus auditions. On October 31st, eleven members of the Castle Chorus went to Tates Creek High School where we tried out in quartets in front of four judges. This is very difficult since when you sing you strive for perfection and to be better than the other voices in the district.

Those who went were David Craig, bass; Mike Miller, bass; Eddie Delaney, bass; Jan Cummins, tenor; Ernie Blevins, tenor; Kaye Payne, alto; Audrey Faulkner, alto; Kim Cornelius, alto; Kim Bullock, soprano; Cathy Carey, soprano and Brenda Treon, soprano. Mrs. Wilcox was very pleased with each individual's performance.

The song we had to sing was "I have Longed for Thy Saving Health," by William Billings.

Last Friday, when we got the results back we were thrilled to see that seven out of the eleven had made the Kentucky All-State Chorus. They are: Kim Bullock, Cathy Carey, Brenda Treon, Soprano; Cathy Carey, alto; Jan Cummins, Ernie Blevins, tenors and Mike Miller, bass.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Harve Robbins wish to express their thanks to all who sent flowers and food. A special thanks to Brother Charles Shivel and Mrs. Ercei Cromer.

Sadly Missed By
Father, Mother and Sister

When God calls little children to dwell with him above,
We sometimes question the wisdom of His love.
For no heartache compares with the death of one small child
Who does so much to make our world seem wonderful and milk.
Perhaps God was tired of calling the aged to his fold,
So he picked our Lonnie before he could grow old.
God knows how much we need him but he needs him too.
To make the Land of Heaven more beautiful to view.
Believing this is difficult, still somehow we must try
The saddest word mankind knows will always be "Goodbye."
So when a little child departs, who are left behind
Must realize God loves children and angels are hard to find.

Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

Kentucky's deer hunters had a good opening weekend, according to preliminary results tallied by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

A check with the department's nine regional directors across the state shows that 1,400 deer were taken Dec. 4 and 5, the first two days of the five-day gun deer season. This is almost double last year's tally, when 798 deer were taken during the first two days of the season.

To some extent, the increase can be accredited to the weather. Last year, heavy rains and cold temperatures deterred many hunters, while sunny skies and moderate temperatures this opening weekend offered hunters good conditions.

The regional directors also feel that the deer population is up over most of the state. Of Kentucky's nine wildlife districts, only one, the seventh in Eastern Kentucky, showed a decrease in deer population. The second district in the west-central part of the state experienced a 40 per cent increase over last year, according to Regional Director Wayne Riley, Bowling Green.

The state's conservation officers checked 7,941 deer hunters during the opening weekend. This figure is also up from last year, when 6,246 were checked. The COs made 291 arrests for deer hunting violations.

With the new check procedure in operation, the total figures for the five-day season should be available shortly after the Dec. 8 closing date. Hunters who took deer during the gun season were required to have the deer checked, either by a conservation officer or at one of the check stations established in all counties open for deer hunting.

Joe Bruns, director of game management for fish and wildlife, expects that the check station system will become a permanent feature in future years since it provides a much quicker and more accurate account of the total deer harvest than the post-season survey used in the past.

Bruns also feels that zone management, with regulations tailored to specific counties, will become more prevalent in future years, but final decisions will have to await the start of this season's zone system, which permitted hunting for either sex deer on opening day in five counties and a three-county area where either bucks or does could be taken during the entire season.

For those hunters who were not successful during the statewide season, there are still opportunities to take a deer in Kentucky. The bow season will re-open Dec. 18 and run through Dec. 31, and gun hunting will be permitted at the Ft. Campbell hunt. Call the post (502-768-2929) for details and requirements.

And then, for those of us who won't bring home the venison this season, there's always next year, and the hope for that magic moment when we'll be in the right place at the right time when that 12-point buck suddenly shows up out of the woods. *****

Brindle Ridge

A Christmas play entitled "The Scarlet Ribbon" will be presented by the young people of the Brindle Ridge Baptist Church on Thursday night, December 23rd at 7:00. Everyone is invited to attend.

There was good attendance at the Brindle Ridge Baptist Church over the week end. There will be a Nat. Night Service on Friday night, December 31st at 8:00 p.m. Bro. Arnold Pingleton will be bringing the message.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. George Wyatt and daughters of Berea, Mrs. Jenny Sowder and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Coffey and Tammy were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Coffey and Marilyn.

Mr. Danny Mullins spent several days last week in the Rockcastle Co. Hospital. We are glad to report he is feeling some better now.

Billy Cameron spent Sunday with Ricky Burdette. Mrs. Jerri Burdette and Shawn spent Tuesday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley Bullock at Willilla.

Sympathy is extended to the Livesey family of Mt. Vernon. Sgt. and Mrs. David Holland and children of Illinois will be visiting his mother, Mrs. Pat Holland, and family for a few days this week. Sgt. Holland recently had surgery. His many friends here are glad to hear he is much improved.

This community is very busy preparing for Christmas. We want to wish everyone a Merry Christmas. *****

QUAL TEEN 4-H CLUB

The Quail Teen Club has been busy working on its Christmas project. They have made macrame hanging pots from year to present to each patient at Sowder's Nursing Home. The club raised the money needed by giving a bake sale. They would like to thank everyone who purchased something or made a contribution.

If you live in the Brodhead or Mt. Vernon area and have some starts of winter plants that are frost cold, use please phone either Mrs. Shirley Martin, 758-8170 or Mrs. Darlene Cameron, 256-4373 and someone will come and get them. Thank you and Merry Christmas. *****

Tax Planning Suggestions

Closing out your tax year is always a challenging task but it's doubly so this year. Taxpayers not only have to try to predict how next year's income will compare with this year's and decide what steps to take now to minimize the tax bill—but must do so under the new rules of the Tax Reform Act of 1976.

This article is aimed at making the annual tax planning chore a little easier by suggesting ways to shift income or deductions into a tax year in which Uncle Sam's tax bite will be less severe, and otherwise to avoid payment of taxes unnecessarily.

Effective on 1976 incomes, the standard deduction claimed by those who itemize their deductions has been increased. It's now 16 percent of adjusted gross income up to $2,400 ($2,600 for couples filing jointly). What's more it's already reflected in the tax tables for taxpayers with incomes as high as $20,000.

If this causes you to decide to use the standard deduction, there are several things you might want to do now. If you expect to go back to itemizing next year, for example, defer until 1977 as many deductible expenses as you can. Among the expenses that are sometimes controlled are charitable contributions, certain state and local taxes, medical bills and health insurance premiums.

In deciding whether to use the standard deduction, keep in mind that you can do so now while enjoying the tax break of not having to itemize if you have to pay someone to look after their children or other dependents while the parents are at work. This formerly was limited to those who itemize.

(Next year you'll be able to get a deduction for alimony you pay without having to itemize other deductions, but not this year or 1976, either if you take the standard deduction there's no alimony deduction.)

Possible future government actions can affect tax planning decisions. For example, there has been speculation that there might be an income tax cut early in 1977 to stimulate the economy. If that happens, you might want to have some other reason for expecting your tax burden to ease next year, you might try to defer some income into 1977.

The most obvious way to do so this is to delay the sale of an asset on which there will be a capital gain. But some taxpayers also have a certain amount of control over the timing of other income such as bonuses, commissions or royalties. Tradesmen or professional people, for example, might delay or advance their billings to customers.

For those who qualify, such as employees not covered by a pension or profit-sharing plan, one good way to reduce taxable income might be by investing as much as 15 percent of adjusted gross income up to $1,500 in an Individual Retirement Account, IRA (investments, and the dividends or interest they earn, are tax-protected until drawn out after retirement).

The beauty of the IRA as a tax planning device is that you can defer until the closing days of the year before deciding how much of a contribution to make, then project as much as 15 percent of income up to $1,500 from taxation at this time.

You may have read that some IRA investors now can increase their annual contributions beyond $1,500 to provide retirement funds for a spouse. That does not apply to 1976; only subsequent years.

If you employ terminated a pension plan during the past two years and gave you a cash settlement, you can defer the tax on that, too, by reinvesting it in an IRA plan before the end of 1976. After that you'll have only sixty-days between settlement and reinvestment in an IRA.

The Kentucky Society of CPA (Certified Public Accountants) reminds you that one other step you might want to take before the year ends is to have your employer adjust the amount of income taxes withheld from your final 1976 paychecks. If you are seriously under-withheld, you can avoid penalty and interest by making up the deficiency before the end of the year.

Air Can Be Expensive!

The air that moves into or out of your home can be mighty expensive, because it's a waste of energy. In summer, the cool air that escapes from your home (or the hot air that enters) means your air conditioning system has to work harder and longer. In winter, the reverse situation — incoming cold or outgoing heat — means higher heating costs. The answer, of course, is an air-tight home.

Proper insulation is extremely important because it keeps heat from passing through building materials. But the air that moves through cracks and spaces around doors and windows can cancel a lot of the benefits of even perfect insulation.

The ways to achieve air-tightness are simple: Storm windows and doors, weather stripping, and caulking. Call your cooperative if you have any questions concerning air-tightness in your home. You can save money and energy. And energy saving is everybody's business.

Rockcastle Recollections

BY JOHN LAIR

This year marks the end of the Renfro Valley Mountain Children's Christmas Party as we have known it for the past 36 years. It really had its beginning in a reduced form, in 1939 the year we moved into the Valley and started broadcasting the Renfro Valley radio programs. You will remember that Cotton Foley, Red Foley, Whitey Ford and myself were the group that came down from Cincinnati, in 1939 and settled down to business in our new home.

One of us (I believe it was Whitey) came up with the idea that we should do something to help some of the needy families in our own and surrounding communities. We didn't have much money but we made up enough among ourselves to buy enough groceries to fill fifty baskets for distribution among the needier families. As an afterthought we added to each basket a little toy of some kind for the youngest in each family. When we started out to deliver these baskets we got a big surprise which would be a still bigger surprise today! Only a few of the recipients appeared genuinely grateful, four families refused outright to accept their baskets and one highly insulted man ran us out of his yard, declaring both that he wanted no charity from anybody. Compare that spirit now with that of the general attitude of everybody with their hand out to take anything offered them and you can see what a change has come over the free and independent and prouder people of America since the beginning of the fifties.

From this experience we turned our attention to the children. The most independent parent could hardly deny our giving Christmas presents to any youngster and we soon started inviting them to come to our Renfro Valley Christmas party to share in the fruit and candy small gifts and surprises. Many of them came, but since we had no plan of transportation worked out they had to depend on some sympathetic neighbor to see that they go here. Where transportation was not available many of the youngsters came on their own. I well remember early one Christmas morning going down to the room in the big log building, which later became our broadcasting studio, and finding three youngsters hovered over a fire in the big fireplace there. They were an older brother of about ten, a younger brother of eight and a little sister of seven. They were sitting on the floor to their knees, having waded a creek or two, on the four mile journey from their cabin home back in the hills, which they had left long before daylight in their eagerness to get here in time. We had left the building open the night before and they had rustled around for chips and firewood to start a blaze they could thaw out by. The older boy had had three matches in his pocket and it was with the third and last of these that he had been able to start their fire.

Word of the strange doings in Renfro Valley at Christmas time spread like wildfire and every year our attendance doubled. Soon we were asking for volunteers to bring the children in for the party and before long it was necessary to use school buses for the job. These were gladly offered by the county school system and many other regular drivers volunteered to drive them, with many businessmen and others more than willing to take their places as they dropped out. The job was soon far beyond our expectations and possibilities. The Jaycees took over most of the responsibility of the program, with volunteers outside the organization still doing much of the work. We at Renfro Valley undertook to finance the project with generous contributions from our wide listening audience. We had to abandon the practice of selecting children invited for the party after that function was turned over to the teachers in the various county schools, who designated certain groups to attend the party, meeting at specified pick-up points and expecting to be transported there. The trouble with that was that when the buses stopped to pick up the invited children they would find many other youngsters gathered there before the buses were out on their way all eager to climb on the bus with and come along to the party. Since we have never had a bus driver hardhearted enough to shut the door in their faces, it is possible that our attendance has continued to multiply until now a bunch of a thousand kids in and around the Big Barn for the party is not an unusual sight.

Since it must be apparent to anyone that there couldn't be a thousand needy and underprivileged mountain children in such a small area I cannot, in good conscience, continue to ask listeners to help us take care of that many. Already they are showing progressive discontent with our problem and this year's contributions have fallen well below the average, which leaves the Jaycees in something of a spot since they had borrowed a sizeable sum of money in earlier in the season at a greatly reduced rate. When I learned this and told listeners this would be the last party of this kind and asked their help with it, the money started coming in. Time is so short that there won't be time for enough to come in to clear the Jaycees, but Renfro Valley will see to it that they are taken care of in view of their hard work and earnest efforts of the past.

Actually, I am sure that everybody is conscious of the great change in conditions that has taken place in this community in recent years. When we started this Christmas program the need for it was undeniable. There were many needy children, actual war orphans, whose children were poorly clothed and often hungry. With the various state and government aid programs now being carried on that is no longer true. I have noticed that many of the children who attend this party appear well fed and clothed, with very little evidence of actual want. There are still some cases where circumstances have combined to leave children in a most needy condition. There are many orphaned, sick, and crippled children who have never been able to leave their homes to attend the Christmas Party. These children will in the future be the objects of our special care. We will obviate their coming to us by going to them. Some of the Jaycees and others who will volunteer to do so, will around the Christmas Season, carry to them in their own homes or places of residence, such Christmas treats and toys as we are able to provide for them. Where roads to the back country are such that a car can't get over them, some of the members of our Rockcastle County Saddle Club (the biggest in the state of Kentucky) will go in across the hills by such trails as exist, to carry in food and gifts. In more thickly settled communities we may be able to make neighborhood deliveries for a number of families by bus or truck. Anyway, we should be able to see that our offerings are actually getting to those who really deserve them, leaving out those who don't. We will depend on school teachers, county preachers, and community workers to help us locate those in greatest need.

Unquestionably, here was a great need for the Christmas Party in the beginning. Really pitiable cases showed up from time to time. We had a big room full of clothing and low or three girls spent time in there during the party. When some shivering youngster showed up without a coat it was generally possible to fit him out from the stock on hands, and there was generally a pair of pretty good shoes to fit any girl whose feet were on the ground. I remember one year when a twelve year old girl came wearing a pair of shoes her mother had put together from a tire tube. There she sat at the girls' group, dressed in overalls, like her three brothers. It developed that she had never had a dress in her life until we found one for her. Listeners were generous and easily touched. When one little girl cried because Santa had brought her the wrist watch she had set her heart on, the mail during the next few days brought her sixteen wrist watches from sixteen people who had heard the broadcast. The little girl who said she wanted a dollar for Christmas, and who explained by saying she had a dollar, but it had been lost, got a show of dollar bills in prompt order.

Yes, the Underprivileged Mountain Children's Christmas Party was beautiful experience and very worthwhile. I hope we can come up with another plan for providing help and good cheer where most needed.

Approved funding for court administrators, suggesting they might be used on a regional basis across the state.

Approved raising the maximum salary for trial commissioners from $7,300 to $10,000.

The committee also discussed possible sources of revenue, particularly using an estimated $20 million surplus in the road fund for the energy trust fund.

Having money available when commitments come due would eliminate the possibility of a deficit in 1978, Clarke said.
