FOOD AND HOME NOTES

It is not safe to freeze uncooked, stuffed poultry. You should not stuff cooked poultry either. Freeze separately.

Iodized salt and seafoods are reliable sources of iodine. Regular use of iodized salt is the most practical way to assure that there is enough iodine in your diet.

Brined cabbage (good sauerkraut) has a pleasant tart and tangy flavor, and should be free from any off flavors or off-odors. It is crisp and firm in texture and has a bright, creamy white color. Good kraut does not have large, coarse pieces of leaves or core.

Fran-fried fruits lightly browned in butter or margarine make a deliciously different accompaniment for meats.

Did you know that cooler air in your refrigerator moves downward and forces the warmer air near the bottom to rise? This is the air motion that dries out any uncovered or unwrapped food.

Cheese served with fruit or crackers is a simple, yet satisfying snack or dessert.

A tray of assorted cheeses and a bowl of fresh fruits makes a dessert attractive enough for a party.

When making cheese sauce, stir shredded cheese into the completed white sauce and heat only enough to melt the cheese.

When making a cheese omelet, add the shredded cheese after the omelet is cooked just before folding.

Casserole dishes containing cheese should be baked at low temperatures to prevent these toppings from toughening during baking.

One half pound of cheese yields about 2 cups of shredded cheese.

The sharp rise of the price of sugar back in 1974 increased the costs of the production of bread.

EKU Offers Sparetime Courses For Busy People

For people who have jobs or businesses and want to improve skill and knowledge in their work or recreation through sparetime study, Eastern Kentucky University is offering more than 250 evening classes during the spring semester.

Many of these courses, offered by EKU's seven colleges, fulfill degree requirements, including those in the College of Business which may lead to a master's degree in business administration in five semesters of evening study.

School teachers have a larger selection of sparetime evening classes, since the offerings by the College of Education outnumber those of any other EKU college.

Other colleges offering nighttime study are Arts and Sciences, Applied Arts and Technology, Allied Health and Nursing, Law Enforcement, and Central University College.

To enroll in these classes, undergraduates should pick up registration packets at the registrar's office, and graduates at the graduate school office. Registration times for these courses are 5:30-8:30 p.m., Jan. 13 and Jan. 17-19.

Further information about these courses may be obtained from the dean of admissions and the dean of continuing education at Eastern.

Look Ma, No Cavities

Soon the refrain, "Look Ma, No Cavities," may be heard all over Kentucky, thanks to a voluntary fluoride mouth-rinse program being sponsored all across the state by the Health Services branch of the Department for Human Resources.

"It smells like shampoo."
"I like it."
"Teacher, Joe swallowed his."
"It's yucky!"

These are some of the comments made by first graders at Cassidy Elementary School in Lexington, as they take part in the mouthrinse program.

Under the supervision of the Lexington-Fayette County Health Department, they are rinsing their mouths with the fluoride solution once weekly to help reduce tooth decay. They will continue it for 30 weeks.

Every Tuesday morning a group of parents comes to Cassidy 30 minutes before school starts to prepare the mouthrinse solution for distribution to the classroom teachers.

Each child takes about a tablespoon of the mouthrinse from a paper cup, "swishes" it around the teeth at one minute, "spits" it back into the cup, then uses a paper napkin to absorb the solution. The paper cups and napkins are collected in a plastic bag for disposal.

The program began in Fayette County in October and so far 17,268 school children in grades kindergarten through six are participating in the program. Of the 501 students enrolled at Cassidy, 467 of them take part in the program.

"Since participation is completely voluntary," noted Mrs. Joyce Bothe, Dental Health Coordinator for Lexington-Fayette County, "parents or guardians must fill out a consent form before a child can take part in the weekly mouthrinse."

"The school board, the teachers, the parents have all been very supportive; that's why we have been so successful," added Mrs. Bothe.

Mrs. Dorothy A. Friend, Cassidy principal, also commends the program: "Because it is held at school and is free, it reaches the student who otherwise would not benefit."

The cost of making the fluoride mouthrinse available to the students is about 32 cents a year per child and will be absorbed by state and local health departments.

According to Dr. Larran Sprouse, director of the state dental program, national surveys have shown that "when used regularly by children five to 14 years old, the mouthrinse can reduce cavities by 30 to 40 percent."

The fluoride itself is actually "tasteless," he said. It is quite safe for the child and would not harm him, even if he should accidentally swallow some of it.

So far, the fluoride mouthrinse has reached Kentucky youngsters; so that "sticky stuff" may just be the best 32 cents Kentucky has invested in preventive care.

An Editorial

By Roger Callahan

Friedrich Nietzsche was a 19th Century philosopher of some note who is most commonly known today as the originator of the "God is Dead" movement. He was the idol of Adolph Hitler, initiated by early 1900 pseudo-intellectuals, the opponent of democracy and the proponent of the "overman." He advocated the destruction of a democratic society and the organization of a race of supermen who were chosen and selectively bred in much the same way as modern day farmers produce superior animal breeds. This system was put into effect by Adolph Hitler in the 1940's and was found to fail miserably. Nietzsche hypothesized that if only the healthiest and brightest of humans were allowed to produce offspring eventually the entire race would be one of supermen. He also stated that democracy allowed the "hopeless imbeciles" to be dealt with on an equal basis with those who are brighter and have greater potential.

Henry Emerson Ford, on the other hand, stated that democracy is founded on the principle that there are extraordinary possibilities in ordinary people. This theory was put into practice in the latter half of the 19th Century, long before Nietzsche was born, and has met with great success.

It is interesting to note odd characteristics of old societies. There are incongruous ironies that exist but would hardly be noted. Phrases such as "excuse me" or "please" are notably lacking in most ancient tongues. Their societies were built on a closed caste system much like the one Nietzsche proposed. Such niceties were uncalled for. A master would never beg the pardon of a slave if they chanced to bump into one another. The slave was always expected to yield to the master and risked a severe beating if he didn't.

The ancient Jews took great care to never come in contact with either the clothing or person of a Gentile. If they did by accident touch, however lightly, the Jew immediately went home, scrubbed his flesh and burned the clothing which he wore. It was eventually shortened to "Thank, a man of Jewish upbringing, received when he blessed and healed both Jews and Gentiles as he walked the earth.

And yet, perhaps as we view these people and these societies, confident in our own snug blanket of democracy and our guilt of christianity, we could learn from the master and risked a severe beating if he didn't.

Many words and phrases become anemic and die from a language as it and the society in which it is used ripen to maturity. By the same token they are words and phrases that have fallen into disuse and the society suffers. "Thank you" was eventually shortened to "Thank," a man of Jewish upbringing, received when he blessed and healed both Jews and Gentiles as he walked the earth.

But, there are two words that should become anemic and should decay and die from having to never be used. What a wonderful society it would be if only one could be recorded in history as never having to have said "I'm Sorry."

And her courage and her cheerfulness, To make a dark day bright, It takes a Mother's thoughtfulness to mend the heart's deep "hurts", And her skill and her endurance to mend little socks and shirts, It takes a Mother's kindness to forgive us when we err, To sympathize in trouble and bow her head prayers, It takes a Mother's wisdom to recognize our needs, And to give us reassurance by her loving words and deeds, It takes a Mother's endless faith, her confidence and trust, To guide us through the pitfalls of selfishness and lust, And that in all this world there could be no another, Who could fulfill God's purpose as completely as our Mother!

EXCISE TAX

on long distance calls and 15% on local service.

Several years ago Congress acted to eliminate the tax, which stood at 10% for almost 20 years. Now the rate drops 1% each year until it is eliminated in 1982.

The tax has cost consumers billions of dollars and the Independent Telephone Association estimates the U.S. Treasury will receive almost $2 billion from the levy in 1977.

The tax has cost consumers billions of dollars and the Independent Telephone Association estimates the U.S. Treasury will receive almost $2 billion from the levy in 1977.

The telephone industry fought the tax, calling it regressive and citing the unfairness of taxing a basic necessity especially for the poor and elderly.

Volume Of Long Distance Calling Increased In 1976

Kentucky Telephone Company reports that their customer in Laurel.

"TWO DEAD."

Williams was among those between the eyes, after he was dead.

Williams' body was found in a building that housed the mill according to Pulaski County sheriff John Adams. Keith's body was found in an automobile parked behind the mill. The body of a dog, also shot to death was found in the front seat of the same auto.

Four hostages were allegedly bound with and forced to lie on the floor of the mill's office as Morrison enjoyed a shooting spree with law enforcement officers.

Ozell May, one of the hostages reportedly worked his bonds loose and lunged at Morrison, pushing him through a window. Morrison was immediately subdued and disarmed by law enforcement officers. Morrison and Odell were treated for minor injuries at the Lake Cumberland Medical Center.

Morrison allegedly had minor facial injuries suffered during the exchange of gunfire. Odell received lacerations when he pushed Morrison through the window.

The sheriff's office reported that Morrison was armed with a .38 calibre pistol, two bayonets and a target knife. None of the police officers were injured.

Knox, Rockcastle, and Clay Counties have made many more telephone calls this year than they have done before. The electronic switching office in London, Kentucky has functioned very well during its first year of service and plans to increase its call handling capacity as in the making. The pre-electronic machine could only handle around 3,000 billed calls each day. The electronic office handled a record 9,280 calls during one day in November and averages in excess of 8,000 billed calls every business day! It is clear from this that the Company's promise to improve the DDD service has been met and that it has contributed significantly to the general increase in business activity in the counties served by the company.

To confirm this, statistics show that for the first time ever the number of billable calls handled by the equipment and the operator passed the 3 million mark-a healthy 22.9% increase over this time last year. The majority of these calls are business calls and the number of telephone calls originating in an area is a good indicator of the economic health of the area. It is interesting to note that more than 75% of the total calls leaving 25% to be handled by the operators in the London toll center. This is almost a reversal of the situation which existed prior to September, 1975. Then only about 35% of calls were handled by the equipment and 65% by the operators.

Part Of Judicial Article Implemented Says Judge Reed

Chief Justice Scott Reed announced recently that an important part of the Judicial Article was implemented on December 7th when the Judicial Retirement and Removal Commission held its first meeting in Frankfort. Until enactment of the Judicial Article in 1975, Justices and Judges could only be removed by impeachment by the legislature. The new Commission has the authority, after notice and hearing, to order retirement for disability, suspend without pay or remove for good cause any Justice or Judge of the Court of Justice. In limited circumstances, it may also issue a private reprimand or public censure.

When the Commission receives a written verified complaint concerning the conduct of a judge, it will conduct a preliminary investigation to determine whether formal proceedings should be initiated. Notice of the investigation is given to the judge. If the Commission concludes that formal proceedings should be pursued, it will notify the affected judge who may file an answer to the charge. After a hearing, the Commission will make its decision, which is subject to review by the Supreme Court.

Under the new Judicial Article, the Commission is composed of six members, five of whom are presently serving. The sixth will not be elected until the District Courts take effect. The present members are Judge Harris Howard, a Judge of the Court of Appeals selected by that court; Judge N. Mitchell Meade, a Judge of the Circuit Court elected by the Circuit Judges of the State; Honorable Amos Eblen, an attorney selected by the Kentucky Bar Association; and two lay members, appointed by the Governor from the two political parties having the largest number of registered voters. Ma. Choe Gifford, a Democrat, former President of the General Federation of Women's Club, Lexington, Ky., and Mr. Maurice Johnson, a Republican, Chairman of the Board of the Citizens Fidelity Bank of Louisville. A sixth member who will be elected by a majority vote of the District Judges, will not be able to serve until January, 1978.

The Commission requests that complaints be filed with the Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, State Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601, in an envelope marked "Personal and Confidential." Complaints must be written and verified.

MY FIRST CHRISTMAS IN HEAVEN

I have just had Christmas in Heaven. A glorious, wonderful day! I stood with saints of the ages. Who found Christ the Truth and the Way.

I sang with the heavenly choir: Just think! I, who longed so to sing! And oh, what celestial music, I brought to our Savior and King! We sang the glad songs of redemption, How Jesus to Bethlehem came, And how they had called His name Jesus That all might be saved through His name.

I sang once again with the angels, The song that they sang that blest morn, No Christmas on earth could compare, With all the rapture and glory, We witness in Heaven so fair, You know how I always loved Christmas, It seemed such a wonderful day, With all of my loved ones around me, My family so happy and gay.

Yes, how you see why I loved it: And oh, what a joy it will be, When you and my family are with me, To share in the glories I see, So, dear ones on earth, here's my greetings, Look up till the day dawn appears, And oh, what a Christmas awaits us, Beyond all our parings and tears!

RCIC Formulating Plans For Rockcastle Improvement Award

By Eagle Coldiron

The Rockcastle County Development Council met on Monday night and began to formulate plans for the presentation of the Rockcastle Improvement Award. The award is the brainchild of the council and will be presented to the individual, business, or civic organization which the council judges to have made a good and lasting improvement to either the quality of life in the county or to its appearance.

The award will be presented more often than monthly, however it will not necessarily be presented on a monthly basis. The council solicits suggestions from the citizens of Rockcastle County concerning the recipient of the award.

Basic for presentation of the award would be projects such as renovation of a place of business; facade of a business place of business which would enhance its location, construction of a new place of business which benefits the entire community; Rehabilitation of dilapidated homes by group or individual; clean-up and delimiting of areas of the county by individuals or civic groups or any project which enhances the quality of life or makes Rockcastle County more attractive.

Council President Bill James updated the progress of funds which have been applied for totaling $21,500. $30,000 has already been allocated to sewer and water lines at the industrial site. The remaining $32,500 is awaiting federal approval having been cleared through the state.

A brief description of the county's newest industry - Rockcastle Steel Co. was given by Mr. James. The firm is owned by J.C. Denney of Cythians and fabrics steel products. It is located at the same site at the recently closed Braden Steel Corp. Production in that plant is scheduled to begin during the first week of January. Mr. Denney stated that he had more than one half of the contracts he expected for the first year already in hand. Approximately 10 people are already employed, however plans include raising the number of employees to near 50 by the end of 1977.

Quotas and Referendum; Two Events Up Early In '77

By Bennett Roach

Two events coming up early on the New Year burley calendar are claiming the attention of tobacco growers, now that the markets are closed down for the holidays.

These are: (1) The fixing of quotas on 1977-78 production. (2) The regular 3-year referendum among burley growers on continuance of the price-support program.

Amount of the national burley quota is required by law to be fixed no later than February 1, for the 1977-78 marketing year. Although the date for voting has not been determined, the tentative date of February 24 is under consideration.

The 1977 referendum will be the second since poundage controls went into effect. In 1976 the federal production control program was given a 98.3 per cent favorable vote, in the five-state burley belt of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Missouri where the price-support program is administered by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, with offices at Lexington, Ky.

By a ratio greater than 100 to 1, flue-cured growers in half a dozen southern states voted in mid-December to extend the tobacco quota system another three years.

A meeting to discuss burley quotas will be held sometime in January at Lexington, preliminary to the fixing of 1977-78 crop limits. The time and place of this meeting are yet to be determined. Written comments by growers are invited, on the subject of 1977 production, to be mailed before January 17, to the USDA Tobacco Division, P.O. Box 2415, Washington, D. C. 20016.

Indications are that the 1977-78 quotas probably will be held at this season's level, as burley carryover stocks are up slightly.

During the last week of auctions before the holidays the Burley Co-op received 9.24 per cent of sales, and now has taken 4.52 per cent under loan from the 1976 crop, a total of 14.5 million pounds, it was announced by Alvin R. Beckley, executive secretary-treasurer. The auctions will resume on January 5. Directors of the Association over the five states estimate that approximately 75 per cent of the crop has been sold.

NATION'S FIRST STATE TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE CENTER

Preliminary negotiations are now underway between the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the University of Kentucky to establish the first State Technical Assistance Center in the nation at Lexington, according to Sen. Wendell Ford.

Car-Truck Accident Claims Life of Ohio Youth

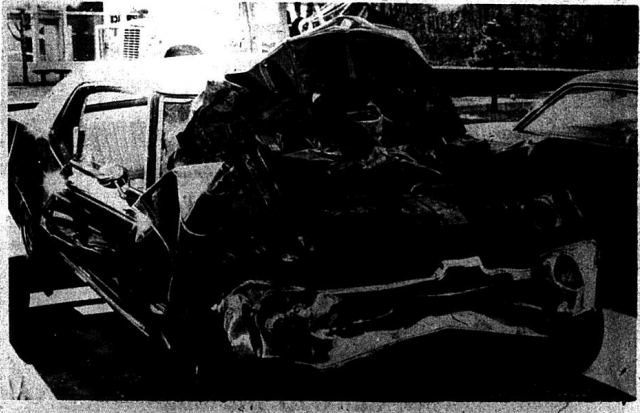

One youth is dead and another injured following a car-truck accident on interstate 75 in the early morning hours of December 23rd. Jonathan Redwine, 17, of Cincinnati, Ohio was pronounced dead at the scene by coroner William Dowell, from chest injuries suffered when the car he was driving collided with the rear of a tandem truck trailer parked on the shoulder of I-75 near the 61 mile marker.

Craig Garrett, also of Cincinnati, and the owner of the auto, was taken to Rockcastle County Hospital where he was treated and released at mid-day on Thursday. Garrett was allegedly asleep in the back seat of the car at the time of the impact.

The truck, driven by Glenn Long of Orlando, Florida, was parked on the shoulder of the interstate. Long, an independent operator, stated that he knew nothing of the crash, drove away shortly after the collision occurred. He was taken into custody by Kentucky State Police and charged with leaving the scene of an accident. Long was released on bond early Thursday.

Redwine's remains were taken to Dowell & Martin Funeral Home in Mt. Vernon and later transferred to Schmidt-Dibonan Funeral Home in Cincinnati.

Trooper Cletus Brown investigated the accident.

Excise Tax Reduced On Telephone Bills

Good news for New Year's local telephone users will have some extra money thanks to a drop in the federal excise tax on telephone bills from 6% to 5% January 1, the Kentucky Telephone Company announced today.

Telephone customers in 1977 will save approximately $275 million at the lower rate, compared to what they would have paid had the tax remained at 6%, according to estimates by the U.S. Independent Telephone Association. Some $51 million of that amount will be saved by customers of the independent telephone companies.

The association represents the nation's 1,600 non-Bell System telephone companies serving almost 28 million phones - one out of every five in the nation.

Congress first imposed the tax on telephone bills during World War I as a "temporary" measure. Although repealed briefly after the war, it was reinstated during the Depression and at one time rates were as high as 20% (Cont'd To P-12)

FRANKFORT

WATCHLINE

BY FERRELL WELLMAN

The halls of the State Capitol are empty. The lobbyists are missing from the third floor and the local Holiday Inn. The governor is taking a 16 day vacation. The tour guides are reading books. Press row is deserted. The 1976 special session is over. Frankfort is resting.

It's a rest well deserved. Kentucky's lawmakers spent the last month of the year passing legislation which will have a considerable impact on all of our lives for many years.

With less fuss than expected, the legislators moved Kentucky's judicial system into the 20th century. Our capital punishment law has been re-written to conform with U.S. Supreme Court guidelines.

Our miners who work underground should be safer in the future as the result of comprehensive deep mine safety legislation passed by the General Assembly. It's distressing, though, that it took a tragedy such as the one at the Scotia mine to get the safety legislation enacted.

Kentucky's business community can rest easier since the legislature revised the state's workmen's compensation law. Insurance rates for many employers being reduced by more than ten per cent.

The residents of Jefferson County will be better able to cope with the problems surrounding sewer installation thanks to legislation approved by the Legislature and signed by the Governor.

Residents in Northern Kentucky will be able to ride their buses a little longer. The lawmakers gave their okay to a revolving loan for TANK (Transit Authority of Northern Kentucky).

The back-patting stops, though, with the "Truckers' Bill". The bill which earned this label was originally a good place of legislation. It required a standard traffic citation for all police departments in the state. Uniform fines would be charged for violations. The days for dining room justice and bloated fines were eliminated. Also eliminated, however, was one proven life saver, the encouragement to drive 55 mph.

An amendment tacked onto the bill by Representative Herbie Wellman, a Democrat from Pikeville, prevents the state from assessing points to speedsters who are cited for driving up to 15 mph over the posted limit on interstates and parkways. Only two points are assessed for violations up to 20 mph over the limit.

The bill sped through the House appropriately, but ran into a roadblock in the Senate in the final days of the special session. An unusual coalition of liberals, Republicans, and others who had good sense enough not to fiddle with the point system fought the amendment.

The Senate vote on the measure was 19-19. Lieutenant Governor Thelma Stovall had the opportunity to break the tie killing the bill. Instead, she voted for it.

"The most unconscionable thing we've ever done," is how Senator David Karem of Louisville described the bill's approval. Karem had earlier shown his fellow senators two the 55 mph limit had dropped Kentucky's death toll on the highways by 400 in one year.

"We've stuffed grief into a lot of Kentuckians with this," was the opinion of Senator Tom Easterly of Frankfort. Republican Senator Gene Stuart of Prospect accused the governor of trying to help the trucking industry with the legislation. Stuart had watched almost helplessly as the Democratic leadership gressed the bill through. Governor Carroll did not sign the bill, but let it become law without his signature.

Do you remember bringing the water bucket and milk from the kitchen in by the fire to keep it from freezing into ice? Also do you remember the many times we would heat the iron to take in the back bed room where the snow would be blowing through the cracks or window panes that were broken out. But that made everybody a little tougher and healthier, too, being exposed to the rougher elements, "Down on the Farm."

Winter had an early start this year with cold weather and very little rain. Most of us farmers could have utilized more moisture to get tobacco in case. This resulted in a lot of tobacco to be stripped yet. But our weather pattern has changed the past several years.

The winters have been warmer the last few years.

Several years ago the creeks and ponds would freeze over and we would skate on the ice for weeks at a time. When we didn't have to cut wood for the cookstove and also fireplace or heating stove. Yes, there was many other chores on the farm to be done. Such as shelling corn for the chickens, ducks and geese. Shucking corn for other livestock as well as hauling in hay that has been stacked

A Christmas program was presented Wednesday night December 22 with a large crowd attending. Our visitors and friends are always welcome at our church. So come and worship with us anytime.

Mrs. Ida Ramsey spent Christmas in Dayton with her daughter, Mrs. Robert Broyles and family.

Everyone around here seemed to have had a wonderful and merry Christmas season. I know we did at our house. But you know we don't have to receive expensive gifts to be happy. All we need is the love of God in our hearts. And good health. When we think of the many people who are ill and of so much misery, heartache and sorrows in the world we should be so thankful that we and our loved ones are well. Christmas to me is a time of giving and to visit the sick and helping someone less fortunate than we are. To me it is much more blessed to give than to receive. I treasure the many Christmas cards we received from friends and relatives telling us they love us, or what a good friend we have been to them or our kindness shown in the past. That, to me is one of the greatest blessings of Christmas. I hope each one of you had a blessed and peaceful Christmas. Jesus loves you.

Rockcastle Recollections

By John Latr

GENERAL WILLIAM SMITH William Smith was born March 21, 1773, in Russell County, Virginia. He was too young to take part in the Revolutionary War but, after 10's close when the Indians were still troublesome, he served as a spy along both the Clinch and the Kentucky rivers, settling in 1795 in what was later to be Rockcastle County. His grandson, Col. James Maret, Rockcastle County's most active early historian, believed that in that year he built the substantial two-story log house in which he lived until his death in 1849. Since he would have been only 22 years of age in 1795 it hardly seems likely that he would have put up a house which would have been a mansion at that time.

Soon after coming to this location he married a daughter of Col. Richard Singleton, who served as a major with Amish forest at the battle of King's Mountain. They had two children, a son, Col. Elisha Smith, and a daughter who married Col. James Terrill, one of the very early settlers in the area. Upon the death of his first wife, General Smith married Ann Fish, daughter of Thomas and Winford Burney Fish, she having been born in Guilford County, North Carolina, in 1784, later being brought to Kentucky by her parents, in 1791. There were born to William Smith and his second wife, 5 sons and 3 daughters; George W., Alfred, Elisha, James, Pendleton, Eilan, Glatha and Mary. George W. went to Columbus, Texas, became a lawyer and was a member of the Superior Court under Confederate occupancy. He died of yellow fever in 1872. At the time of his death he owned 20,000 acres of range land, 10,000 cattle and property in several Texas cities. Alfred became a major during the Civil War and is buried beside his parents in Mt. Vernon's Elmwood Cemetery. Elisha became a large landowner in the county and was a man of affairs. Nothing is now known concerning James. Pendleton, youngest son of William and Ann Fish Smith, is buried beside his parents. Eliza married George Maret and became the mother of James Maret, frequently mentioned throughout this book. Glatha married Mitchell Maret, brother of George Maret. Information on Mary, the third daughter, is not now available. Some confusion also exists concerning Elisha Smith. Some sources indicate that Pendium Smith had two sons, named Elisha, one by each of his two wives, while others show that there was only one Elisha and he was the son of William's first wife, the Singleton woman.

William Smith was commissioned captain of the first company raised in Rockcastle County for service in the War of 1812 and was the first to leave for the scene of action. This company was part of the Kentucky Battalion of Mounted Volunteers and took up their march on September 18, 1812. Serving under him were two of his brothers-in-law, Thomas and William Fish. Thomas Fish served as a sergeant of the company, while William Fish enlisted as a private but later became a colonel. Smith, himself, was promoted to General, the first Rockcastle County native to attain that rank.

During his lifetime General William Smith became one of the biggest landowners in the county and his son, Elisha, also amassed considerable holdings. At the death of General Smith, Calloway Mullins, another owner of considerable acreage, purchased from Smith's heirs a large tract from one of his original grants. Calloway and wife sold 700 acres of this land to the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Company as right-of-way when they were building their line through the county. Several years ago this tract came into my possession and I have the original survey going back to the first deed made for it. Since I have been working on this history of the county I have received from Mrs. Ruth Cottogim, of Winchester, Kentucky, a collection of old deeds and land grants from the papers of the father of her deceased husband, my long-time friend, Maurice Cottogim. I was amazed to find among these papers General Smith's original grant from which this land was taken. This old grant originally called for points in the still older Pearl grant, which it adjoins, and which was among the first surveyed in this part of the state.

General Smith was a man of some importance in the early history of Rockcastle County even before his services in the War of 1812. When in 1810 the county was formed an act of the General Assembly set up the Rockcastle Academy, with a grant of 6,000 acres of land for its support. This land was to be surveyed from any public and unappropriated lands wherever located and the trustees were empowered to use one half of it to pay for the location and surveying of it. General William Smith was given the contract for this work. All his work on the project was completed by 1820 but payment was not made during his lifetime. It was not until 1859 that the trustees of Rockcastle Academy deeded to Smith's heirs 2,500 acres of land due him for his services.

The substantial home which General Smith had erected on the outskirts of Mt. Vernon in which he had raised his family and in which he died on February 15, 1849 was still standing and in good useable condition in the 1940's at which time it was torn down to make room for a motel. General Smith was buried in the old part of the Elmwood Cemetery at Mt. Vernon and following her death, in 1862, his wife was laid beside him. Near them sleep two of their sons, as previously noted. The markers over the graves of Smith and his wife, which were the slab type, in common use at the time of their burial, are broken and deteriorated almost beyond repair. In 1915 their grandson, James Maret, had them restored but they are again in deplorable condition. It will be no credit to Rockcastle County and the town of Mt. Vernon if, through lack of pride and appreciation, these last reminders of those who sleep here are allowed to disappear forever from the sight of those who have so richly enjoyed the fruits of their early labors.

EKU Third In Toledo Tourney

The Eastern Kentucky University basketball team has a week of rest for the Christmas holidays before resuming its regular practice schedule Dec. 27 for the Colonels' next game, a Jan. 3 encounter at Robert Morris College in Corsopolis, Pa.

EKU owns an earlier victory, 80-61, over coach Tom Weirich's Colonels of Robert Morris. In that game, EKU sophomore guard Kenny Elliott, who was later chosen United Press International's Kentucky College Player of the Week, pumped in 30 points to pace the Eastern attack.

Last weekend in the Blade-Glass City Classic in Toledo, Ohio, Eastern finished third in a four-team field. The Colonels defeated Marshall's Thundering Herd, 97-80, after losing an opening-round game to the University of Toledo, 78-82.

In the tourney's first game, EKU was bothered by fouls in the second half and saw three of its players foul out of the game. Elliott led the Colonels' scoring attack with 16 points, followed by junior guard Denny Fugate's 14 points and freshman center Dave Bootheck's 12 points.

In a run-and-gun game against Marshall, the Colonels blistered the nets for 52.9 per cent from the field (37-70) and 82.1 per cent from the free throw line (23-28) in evening its season record at 3-3.

Elliott, who was named to the five-man all-tournament team, pumped in 10-14 field goal attempts and added 6-6 from the free throw line for a 26-point night. Bootheck added 24, while junior forward Mike Oliver had 23 points. However, for the first game this season, Eastern was out rebounded 48-36.

"When you get beat out of a championship game, it's difficult to tell how your team will come back," said EKU head coach Ed Byrne. "Barely"

Young's entry back into the lineup in the second half seemed to pick us up a little bit."

Young, a starter all of last season, was academically ineligible for first semester and his appearance at Toledo was the junior forward's first action of the season. He scored 10 points against Toledo and eight versus Marshall and also added 15 rebounds for those games.

The EKU coaching staff has decided to red-shirt junior guard Darryl Davis after a pre-season injury sidelined him with torn ligaments in his right ankle. Injuries have also forced 6-8 1/2 junior center Bill Dwane and 6-4 freshman guard Jim O'Brien to the sidelines. Dwane has a badly bruised foot (one which was broken this past summer), while O'Brien has been having problems with an injured knee. Both players' return to the squad can not yet be determined.

On the season, Bootheck continues to lead the Colonels in scoring with his 18.0 average, followed closely by Elliott's 17.7. Oliver is scoring 12.2 per game while Fugate rounds out twin digit scorers with his 12.0 per game average.

Oliver, currently listed in the NCAA statistics as the fifth leading rebounder in the nation, tops the team in that department with his 12.8 mark. Elliott heads the Colonels in free throw percentage 28.29 (.966) and field goal percentage 39.70 (.577).

After their Jan. 3 game with Robert Morris, Eastern returns home Saturday from the opening of the regular 14-game Ohio Valley Conference schedule against league favorite Austin Peay. Murray State follows APSU into Alumni Coliseum Jan. 10 for a 7:30 p.m. game.

Tickets for EKU's 10 remaining home games may be purchased at the EKU Athletic Ticket Office in Alumni Coliseum.

County Agent's Notes

COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
FOR AGRICULTURE

THE WINTER OF '76-'77 FOR THE CATTLEMAN

The winter of '76-'77 already promises to be one of increased feed costs and higher mortality if cow needs are not fully considered. By the nature of the beast, the beef cow is quite tolerant to short periods during which rations are not balanced with respect to essential nutrients. But extended periods of nutrient deficiencies can be costly in terms of mortality or subsequent lack of production.

Kentucky's 1976-77 winter could be 45 to 60 days longer than in most previous years. Of greatest concern are the accumulated or stockpiled feces pastures that are used by many cattlemen as the major winter feed supply for the cow herd. The percent "brown material" (especially in pastures where no nitrogen was applied, or inadequate rains fell after nitrogen application) in early December approached that level previously measured in February. Three years of observation by University of Kentucky Agronomists indicated 8.6% crude protein content in the brown material while 12.7% crude protein was measured in the green material even in February. Compared to the nutrient requirements for both the dry and the lactating beef cow, the protein requirement is only 0.8%. If all pasture is brown the cow with a nursing calf will be deficient in protein since her requirement for protein on a dry matter basis is 9.2 to 10.9%. Even dry cows consuming only brown fescue over extended periods might also develop a protein deficiency due to lowered feed intake and thus a deficiency of energy and other nutrients.

Possibly a greater concern than that of protein content is the composition of the standing forage with respect to energy, calcium, phosphorus and vitamin A. Deficiency of any of these nutrients can be detrimental to production as a protein deficiency.

Energy is extremely important for it is the "fire of life." Agronomists have found the green material to be more than adequate with respect to energy for both wet and dry cows but the brown material is only about 1/3 as energy rich as the green material. A 900 pound dry cow should consume 7.8 pounds of TDN per day. This means nearly 36 pounds of dry matter must be consumed per day if nothing but brown material is available. Will the consumer that much? Not assuming a normal appetite a cow would be expected to consume only a little more than 1/3 that amount.

Following the protein and energy picture, calcium, phosphorus and potassium levels are greatly reduced as the green material turns brown. Both brown and green material appear to supply sufficient amounts of calcium and phosphorus to the dry cow but the brown could supply as little as 60% of the level of these nutrients for the cow with calf.

Potassium content of stockpiled fescue or bluegrass is a perplexing question. Little research has been directed assessing the content of potassium in accumulated forage. Most growing or harvested forage has more than adequate amounts of this nutrient, but potash would be expected to leach rapidly as severe frosts rupture the plant cells and rains pass through the brown forage. A deficiency of potassium can result in reduced appetite thus multiplying the effects of other nutrient deficiencies. If 5 to 10 pounds of hay is provided, the potassium level is probably met. (Note: this refers to a situation where the total diet is brown materials).

Vitamin A especially needs supplementation on "brown" diets. Vitamin A is essential to many of the vital body processes and is easy and inexpensive to supplement. Approximately one million International Units of Vitamin A per month is needed by the beef cow. This can be injected, fed at one feed per month, or added to the mineral and/or protein supplement.

So, how do we use our accumulated this year? (1) Strip grazing is essential for optimum utilization. Cows are naturally going to eat the most palatable green material first, leaving the brown until later. Strip grazing forces, to some extent, the uniform consumption of both brown and green material. (2) Give cows with calves the opportunity to graze mostly green forage when its growth provides good hay-supplementation must provide more than 50% of the total nutrients required.

(3) Dry cows can best utilize brown forage for short periods. For extended periods energy and mineral supplementation are necessary. (See UK Publications ASC-8, ASC-9, and ASC-12.) (4) Vitamin A supplementation is essential for any cattle on stockpiled winter pasture. (5) Magnesium should be supplied in either feed or mineral mix to aid in prevention of tetany. (See UK Publication ASC-16).

SECOND ANNUAL KENTUCKY SPRAY SCHOOL

The second annual Kentucky Spray School will be held January 8-9, 1977 at Hopkinsville Community College in Hopkinsville, Ky.

This year's spray school has two objectives: (1) to provide up to date research and technical information for Kentucky's Commercial Pesticide Applicators and (2) to provide training and the opportunity to take federal certification examinations for pesticide applicators. All who apply restricted use pesticides must be certified by October, 1977.
