Sophomore Steve Center puts a fake on an Anville player in semi-final action last Thursday night in 49th District competition. The Rockets won the game behind Center who had 18 and David Pensol who got 17 to lead all Rocket scorers.

David Pensol, No. 24, tries to pass the ball in closer to the basket in action Saturday night in the 49th District Tournament Championship game. No. 33 for Oneida was one of the Rockets big reasons for not winning. Reportedly a freshman, the player is well over 6 feet, has exceptionally good moves for a big man and a good shooting eye.

Jeff Burdette, No. 12 for the Rockets, seems to be dribbling the ball from a funny angle but actually, he was just having a little ball-control problem in Thursday night's game against Anville. Burdette got 7 against Anville to help the Rockets to their 64-51 win over the Bulldogs.

Rockets Lose to Oneida in District Will Meet Knox Central in Region

The Rockcastle Rockets came in second in the 49th District Tournament last Saturday night behind a good Oneida team.

The Rockets defeated Anville earlier in the tournament by a score of 64-51 but were unable to overcome the Mountaineers in their 61-53 loss.

In the Anville game, the Rockets had a very balance scoring attack from three men - junior forward, Larry Harman had 16; sophomore guard David Pensol got 17 and sophomore forward

Steve Center pumped in 18 to lead all scorers. The Rockets out-rebounded Anville badly and just played a better all-around game.

In the final game, the Rockets were down by as much as 16 points but fought back to be within two points late in the fourth quarter. Oneida had beaten the Rockets by 12 points earlier in the season.

The Rockets didn't play good ball the first half. Pensol and Center, who had hit extremely well the previous game were shut out from the outside almost completely and they were behind by ten points at half time. However, in (Cont. to 14)

RCHS Girls are Runners-up in District

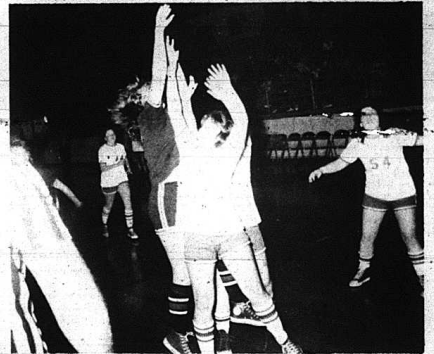

The RCHS Girls team also came in second in 49th District Tournament play by falling to Clay County last Saturday night 66-36. Clay County is ranked in the top ten girls teams in the state.

The girls beat Anville in semi-final action by a score of 62 to 36. Leading scorer for the girls in that game was Gina Ruppe with 18, Nancy French and Diane Thacker had 10 each, Brenda Bullen got 8, Sandy Sturgill 7, Kim Howard 4, Sheila Deatherage 3 and Sharon Farthing 2.

The girls were simply out-played Saturday night, missing several close inside shots, with Clay County ready to feast on their errors.

Scoring in the game went as follows: Sandy Sturgill and Diane Thacker, 6 each; Sharon Farthing and Nancy French, 4 each and Sandy Sturgill, Brenda Bullen and Gina Ruppe, 2 each.

Gina Ruppe, No. 49, goes for two against Anville in the above photo. Ruppe, along with three other Rockets, was named to the Girls District All-Tournament Team.

Sandy Sturgill has trouble getting off a shot in Saturday night's game against Clay County. Sturgill, named to the all-tournament team, got 7 points in the Clay County game. The girls drew Middleboro in Regional play and will play this Sunday afternoon at 3:15 at Barbourville.

Brenda Bullen, No. 25, for the Rockets goes after a loose ball in action Saturday night against Clay County at Clay County. Brenda got 8 points in the championship game.

Produce Early Grazing With Nitrogen on Grass
Many cattle producers are going to be short on feed before the spring grazing season normally arrives. By planning ahead here's one production practice which can be of help to them by hastening grazing time by 10-14 days. This practice is topdressing grass fields with nitrogen fertilizer.

When to apply nitrogen—early March or just about the time grass breaks winter dormancy.
How much nitrogen to use—40-80 pounds of actual nitrogen should result in top yields. Most of the nitrogen response is obtained with the first 40 pound application—50-60 pounds may equivalent per pound of nitrogen used.

What grasses to fertilize with nitrogen—tall, fescue, bluegrass, timothy, orchardgrass, and bromegrass will all respond well to nitrogen. But fescue normally grows faster during early spring than the others, so topdressing fescue fields with nitrogen is more likely to provide the earliest grazing.

Is other fertilizer or lime necessary? It probably is on most pastureland in Kentucky, but you really can't tell unless you have the soil tested. Take time to pull soil samples from these grass fields as soon as the ground thaws (take samples 0-4 inches deep) so that if they badly need lime, phosphate, or potash, they can all be spread at the time with the nitrogen.

How many acres should be fertilized with nitrogen—one acre for every 2.3 cattle should provide enough grazing AFTER GRASS HAS GROWN TO 4.6 INCHES HEIGHT.
When should grazing be started—let the grass get 4-6 inches top-growth before turning cattle onto pasture and DON'T let cattle cut in into the ground. Use temporary fencing in fields or rotate from field to field so that enough top-growth (especially in early spring) can be maintained to justify grazing. If at all possible, move cattle off fields when top-growth is grazed down to a 2 inch height.

What about grass tetany problems on such fields—animals under strong nutritional stress would be likely risks for grass tetany if this early, succulent grass forage is their sole feed supply. The most likely prospects would be heifers, cows which have calved or soon will be calving. Such animals should be fed a supplemental ration to ensure that their daily energy, vitamin, and mineral requirements are met.
How much additional growth will nitrogen fertilized fields produce—University of Kentucky College of Agriculture research has shown that 30-50 pounds of actual nitrogen will allow double dry matter production over unfertilized areas.

Winter vs. Grass Tetany
Both winter tetany and grass tetany may occur in beef cattle breeding herds in late winter and early spring. Winter tetany, also called pregnancy disease or ketosis, usually occurs before grass appears in late winter. Cows in late pregnancy and those nursing calves under 6 weeks old are usually affected.

When cows are forced to meet their energy needs from their own body fat in late pregnancy they develop ketosis. The best hay prepared for the herd should be saved for feeding at this time plus 4 to 6 lbs. of concentrate containing 1% dicalcium phosphate daily. For prevention, free choice feed equal parts of TM salt and dicalcium phosphate.

Grass tetany occurs in cows nursing young calves when first spring grass grows rapidly after a warm period. This grass contains relatively high levels of potash and low levels of magnesium. Treatment consists of intravenous injection of magnesium salts. A grain mix with 1/2 to 2 oz. of magnesium oxide is an effective preventive.

Heavy applications (over 50 lbs.) of nitrogen should be avoided in early spring on pastures where grass tetany has occurred.

Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

If you've always wanted to see your name in the record books, here are a couple of easy ways to get it there.

On the department of fish and wildlife list of state record fish taken by rod and reel, there are two species with no entries. The first person who submits an entry for either of these will have a state record, no matter what size the fish actually is.

The two species are the yellow bass and the alligator gar. Both are found primarily in far western Kentucky, but other than that, there's little similarity between them.

The world record yellow bass, according to Field and Stream magazine, is two pounds, two ounces. This fish is a close relative of the white bass, and many anglers probably can't tell the two apart. If you catch a small, yellowish fish, suspect a yellow bass.

If you want a state record alligator gar, be prepared for more of a fight. The world record here is the second largest freshwater fish taken by rod and reel, its 279 pounds surpassed only by a 360 pound sturgeon.

If you've ever seen a gar, chances are you won't mistake any other fish for one. The alligator gar occurs in the Mississippi basin and up the Ohio as far as Louisville. It can be distinguished by two rows of large teeth on each side of the upper jaw. Other species of gar have only one row.

So if you catch a gar about 10 feet long and want to count its teeth, no right ahead—you deserve to be in the record books.

There are 26 other species of fish on the state record lists, but for these you'll have to beat already established records. These records range from a one pound warmouth to a 100 pound blue catfish and include one world record, an 11 pound, 15 ounce smallmouth bass caught from Dale Hollow Lake in 1955.

If you catch a fish that's larger than usual, look into the possibility that you may have a new state record. If you don't know the record for a particular species, weigh your fish and keep it frozen until you find out. There are several potential records fileted and eaten each year because the angler didn't take the time to check the list.

To qualify as a state record, the fish must be taken by rod and reel and must be weighed on an official scale. In this case, "official" means any scale that is certified legal for trade. The nearest grocery store will generally be the best place to find such a scale.

Weigh the fish before three witnesses and measure its length and girth at the longest and widest places. Write down the weight and measurements and get the signatures of the witnesses.

If there's a possibility of confusing your fish with another species (Kentucky bass or largemouth, for example) keep the fish frozen. A biologist may need to examine it to make a positive identification.

Then get in touch with the local conservation officer or call the Frankfort offices of the Department of Fish and Wildlife for an official entry blank. Furnish the requested information on the entry form and return it. If everything checks out, your catch will be recognized as the state record.

If you'd like a current list of Kentucky record fish, write the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Mental Health Matters Children And The Death Of A Family Member

A family-related situation that places a severe strain on the preservation of good mental health is the death of a family member. How do children react to the death of a close relative? Children, being imitators, frequently take their cues for behavior in this type of crisis from the adults around them.

Children should gently be told the truth about the severity of an illness, and the probable outcome if death is expected. Children worry less when they know the truth than when they are given crumbs of information, leaving the rest to the keen imaginations. Fear of the unknown or a depressing misunderstood situation can be disturbing, anxiety-producing and paralyzing. Questions like "Why can't Mommie talk anymore?" or "Why doesn't Daddy smile at me?" may be more easily answered for the child, if they are allowed to view the body. Attending a funeral with sensitive, loving, care, question-answering adults can be helpful and reassuring to a child.

Rockcastle Recollections

By John Lair

People traveling through and around Rockcastle County today on a network of paved county roads and such super highways as I-75 could scarcely imagine the trials and tribulations of earlier automobile travel over the same territory. Fortunately we do not have to try to imagine such conditions, because Col. Jim Maret has left us an account of an actual participant in the struggle involved in traveling from Covington to the Tennessee line; via Rockcastle, in 1919. Col. Maret reports the journey as it came to him in a letter from B.M. Brady, who made the trip. His account follows:

"Our first trouble was in crossing Negro Creek at Brodhead, which was a little up on account of rain. My companion cranked up once amid stream and we made it over. The road from here to Mt. Vernon was something fierce and was a hard job to negotiate. At Mt. Vernon we learned that it was that little town that started all this noise about a highway from the blue grass through the Cumberland mountains of southeastern Kentucky, and from all indications the movement will be carried out. They have named the road Boone way in honor of Daniel Boone, one of the earliest pioneers into Kentucky.

We put on chains at Mt. Vernon for making the hard grind over to Livingston, and by using the skill I was able to command from fighting my way through Montana gumbo in a Ford for about three years, we managed to make that little town on Rockcastle River, at the mouth of Roundstone, by seven o'clock, requiring two and a half hours, and some six hours from Lexington (71 miles.)

At Livingston we found three cars stalled on account of condition of the road and were advised properly that it would take assistance to get over Gauley Mountain and down to the ferry on Rockcastle, and six miles up that stream. We made the start about seven o'clock next morning and traveled about two miles to the foot of Gauley. The road to the foot of the mountain is something undesirable, being about half boulders, some of them two feet in diameter, the balance red sticky mud. I made the mountain without assistance about a third of the way up, then stuck and could get no further without aid. The grade is very steep, and was very slippery, and even with chains I could not make the top. Here we engaged a team of mules which was hitched to the front of the car and with the aid of the power from the engine, augmented by a full tank of gas, I was able to reach the top. There are two climbs, the last being the worst of the two.

After passing down the summit we shortly reached the new grade of the highway which is being constructed around Gauley mountain. The mud on this grade was very stiff and I just did make it without assistance, but my companions were unable to do so and had to be helped out onto the new grade, out of a bad mudhole about a mile from the river. It was a freak of luck that enabled me to mount the grade. Some leaves and loose dirt thrown on one side of the mudholes enabled me to negotiate these bad places. We were ferried across the river and made for London about 20 miles and all the hard driving through mud I must say it was the limit. There was simply no road, just a sea of mud about the entire distance, with the exception of four miles where the road was improved into London over an old abandoned railroad bed, with the exception of a quarter of a mile of very bad mud at the corporate limits. Then we made for Corbin, a distance of 14 miles, the highway being over an abandoned railroad grade was good until within a half mile of Corbin. Getting into Corbin was nearly as bad as getting out, but we got in about one o'clock. Leaving that place half hour later we struck out for Williamsburg, 20 miles away. We found the Corbin Street turn up for reconstruction with excellent concrete materials which will prove of great value to the place. We arrived at Williamsburg at 4 o'clock. Made Jellico after dark, after being pulled up one mountain on the way.

These were the conditions found along the routing of the cross state highway from Covington to the Tennessee line in 1919, some eight years ago. Today (1927) the trip can be made from Lexington to Livingston in 2 1/2 hours instead of 6 and can be made across the state from Covington to Cumberland Gap in 11 hours or less, where it required sometimes 3 days to make it in 1919, before the roads were completed. Mt. Vernon, the Boone Way Association and Rockcastle people are entitled to much credit for being the originators and pushers of the movement the places the town and county on the map by the establishment of a thru national highway thru their region and southeastern Kentucky-lakes to the Gulf connections."

MY MOTHER'S ANTIQUE BIBLE The 7 Year Drought and Famine in The Land of Canaan and Egypt

Joseph was sold into the land of Egypt by his brothers for 20 pieces of silver when he was 17 years old, and God was with him. After Pharaoh saw that God was with him he had great respect for him, and Joseph found grace in him and Pharaoh made Joseph overseer of all his house and all he had in the field, and the Lord blessed the Egyptians house for Joseph's sake, and the Blessings of the Lord was upon all that he had in the house and in the field.

Joseph was a godly person and was well favored.

The Egyptian King's wife did not like Joseph, and she sought some way in which she might betray him. She bore false witness against Joseph to her husband. She attacked Joseph in the Palace but Joseph refused her and tore loose from her. She ripped his coat off him and kept it in her room until the King came in. She reported to King Pharaoh that the Hebrew boy had attacked her. The King was angry at Joseph and without any trial he ordered Joseph sent to prison. Joseph spent a number of years in prison due to the false witness of the king's wife. The also prisoners like Joseph because he was a God-fearing man.

In Pharaoh's house, there was a chief butler and a chief baker that served the household of Pharaoh. Somehow in their services to King Pharaoh, they offended him and he sent them to prison. They were put into the same cell with Joseph and they became acquainted with him and found him to be a servant of the most high God.

One night the baker and also the butler each had a dream, and Joseph interpreted their dreams to them and it came to pass that the butler was given back his job, but the baker was beheaded.

When the butler was released from prison, Joseph asked a favor of him. Joseph told the butler, when you get out of prison, as I told you in the interpreting of your dream, you remember to tell the king about me still here in prison, and that I am innocent to the accusations of his wife against me. Also tell him that I was stolen from my father in Canaan. When the butler was released, he forgot to mention anything about Joseph.

Joseph served about 2 years in prison, and he spent a lot of time in prayer. The great God of Heaven was concerned about Joseph, and God warned Pharaoh in a dream about the drought that He was going to send upon the world. Pharaoh had two dreams and his spirit was troubled so much that he sent for the magicians, but they could not interpret his dreams.

When the butler heard about the King's dream, he remembered his promise he had made to Joseph 2 years before, and he told the king about Joseph. The king sent to the prison for Joseph and had him brought before him. He told Joseph about his dreams and Joseph interpreted them saying that in seven years God was going to bring upon Egypt and Canaan a drought, but that there would be seven years of plenty before the drought in which to make ready for the drought. Pharaoh's heart was changed and he appointed Joseph over all the land of Egypt. Pharaoh turned everything over to Joseph's care except for the throne and his wife. Under the leadership of Joseph, the chosen one of God, the whole nation began to be obedient and obey Joseph's commands. The whole nation began to prepare for the coming drought. The farmers were taxed a fifth part of their crops for 7 years. They built cribs and barns, to store away for the drought. During the seven years of famine all the farmers ran out of food and had to buy back from the storehouse of Egypt in so much that they had to sell their land, their cattle and horses in exchange for food. They finally had to give up their farms and become servants of Pharaoh to save themselves from starvation.

Ed's Note: The following article appeared in the March, 1977 issue of the World Mission Journal. Rev. Harvey Pensol, whom the article concerns, is pastor of Northside Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon.

Thank You
A Tribute To
Harvey Pensol

The most surprised individual who reads this will be Harvey Pensol. A picture and a bit of information about him is not an adequate "thank you" for a man whose association experienced a 400

Touring Choir At Wildie Christian Church

PER CENT BROTHERHOOD ENROLLMENT INCREASE IN 1976. but it is a sincere and expressed commendation.

Harvey was born in 1931. He and Mrs. Pensol (Emily Joyce Dixon) have three boys: one a student at Cumberland College, one at Georgetown and one a high schooler.

Pensol's educational background reads as though he has never done anything but go to school: Mt. Vernon High School; EKU, Richmond; University of Alaska; University of Maryland; University of Florida; College of Guam; University of Washington; San Antonio College; University of Omaha; San Angelo Junior College; University of Wisconsin - Madison; and Clear Creek, Pineville, And, as though that wasn't enough - Military: Basic Administration, Advanced Administration, Adm. Supervisor, Personnel Management, Public Relations, General Instructor and Air Force Salesmanship. Oh Yes! In 1968, he began as pastor of Northside Baptist Mission (Mt. Vernon). It is now a church. He is pastor. Also - He is Missions Coordinator for Rockcastle Association and Rockcastle Association Brotherhood Director, and some men "don't have time." Another "Thank You, Harvey, it's fun to work with you."
-Forrest R. Sawyer

The 34-member touring choir of Johnson Bible College from Kimberlin Heights, Tennessee, will be presenting a musical gospel concert entitled, "Reconciliation," at the Wildie Christian Church, Friday evening, March 11, at 7:30. The choir, under the direction of Michael Dunn, is beginning its annual Spring tour. In previous years, the choir has presented concerts in many states and even had the opportunity of presenting the message of the Gospel in music in the Rotunda of the U.S. Capitol Building in Washington, D.C. Johnson Bible College is the oldest, preacher-training institution among the Christian Churches in the U.S. and it is dedicated to the training of young men and women for Christian service. Its motto, "Faith, Prayer and Work" has always been indicative of those coming out of this institution of learning. The public is invited to share in this musical experience and blessing. There is no charge.

An "Energy Efficient Home" is something special.

One new method of providing space for more insulation is 2" x 6" studding.

An Energy Efficient Home is more than a pretty place. It's a quality-constructed home with many energy-saving features built in. It's a whole new concept that can save the homeowner energy and money.

If you're building a new home, you should consider recommendations for an Energy Efficient Home. Greater use of thermal insulation and installing a heat pump are two crucial parts of Kentucky Utilities' guidelines. Other features are insulated water pipes, less window area, and orientation of the house to the sun.

Initial costs are minimal compared with the long-range savings realized. And, an Energy Efficient Home can make the difference between money "in the bank," or literally "out the window" - the decision is yours.

County Agent's Notes

BY H. LEE DURHAM
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
FOR AGRICULTURE

What To Do in March

March is the dawn of the garden year and the month in which winter-weary gardeners first begin to see daylight. When the first really warm days appear and spring peepers start calling from the swamps, the temptation is to rush out, start removing mulches and putting seeds in the ground.

But in this respect, March should be a month of restraint. Without a doubt, there will be some setbacks before Old Man Winter finally departs. Premature plants and those not protected by mulch may get frostbit.

There are, however, some vegetables that can usually be safely planted in March, provided the soil is dry, and the somewhat fickle weather is amenable. Horticulturists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture say that, in central Kentucky, peas and spinach can be planted after the first of the month; turnips, radishes, collards, beets and onion sets around the middle of March, and carrots, parsnips, kale and lettuce in the latter part of the month. The earliest safe planting dates for vegetables are usually about 10 days earlier than this for western Kentucky and 10 days later for the eastern part of the state.

Mid-March is also a good time to plant Irish-potatoes, and an old planting rule is to get them in the ground sometime during the "dark nights" of this month.

Also, if time begins to hang heavy, the horticulturists say March is a good time to finish pruning fruit trees, roses, grapes and certain shrubs that bear their blooms on "new wood" or on the current season's growth. Some of these are snowball, hydrangea, hypericum and caryopteris.

While working in the orchard, March is the time to start a spray program beginning with a commercial dormant oil spray to control scale insects. It will also be a good time, too, to work on the lawn. Bare patches on bluegrass lawns can be reseeded. The horticulturists recommend 1 to 2 pounds of Ken-Blue variety per 1,000 square feet. For lawns not fertilized last fall, and if the fertilizer is available, 5 pounds of 201-105 or 10 pounds of 10-10-10 are recommended per 1,000 square feet.

March is also a good time to put crab grass preventive on the lawn—the horticulturists say this should be done, if possible, before April 10. And, to rid lawns of broadleaf weeds, apply 2-4-D, this month. For details on using these materials, and for other information on lawn and garden care, check with your local county Extension agent.

In March, too, the restless gardener can calm himself and profitably pass off the time by getting his garden tools together and in good repair. The Garden sprayer should be checked and cleaned; if new parts are needed, these should be secured before aphids and other insects start working on early plants.

Annual flowers like begonias, impatiens, verbenas, and vincas can be stored indoors from seed; gladiolus bulbs cleaned; and dahlia and canna tubers taken out of storage, divided and made ready for May planting.

With fertilizer in short supply and it therefore being necessary to conserve this material, soil tests by all means should be made during this month. This will help the gardener make the right decision as to what fertilizer is needed and how much.

Also with these recommendations for things to be done in March, an old farm almanac lists some others that might be followed with profit. Make and erect some blue bird houses, says the almanac. Clean house, buy a new hat, read Psalm 122, get up early in the morning, drink saffron tea, show Billy how to fly a kite and go to church every Sunday.

Winter VS. Grass Tetany
Both winter tetany and grass tetany may occur in beef cattle breeding herds in late winter and early spring. Winter tetany, also called pregnancy disease and ketosis, usually occurs before grass appears in late winter. Cows in late pregnancy and those nursing calves under 6 weeks old are usually affected.

When cows are forced to meet their energy needs from their own body fat in pregnancy, they develop ketosis. The best hay produced for the herd should be saved for feeding at this time plus 4 to 6 lbs. of concentrate containing 1% dicalcium phosphate daily. For prevention, free choice feed equal parts of TM salt and dicalcium phosphate.

Grass tetany occurs in cows nursing young calves when first spring grass grows rapidly after a warm period. This grass contains relatively high levels of potassium and low levels of magnesium. Treatment consists of intravenous injection of magnesium salts. A grain mix with 1/2 to 1 oz. of magnesium oxide is an effective prevention.

Heavy applications (over 50 lbs.) of nitrogen should be avoided in early spring on pastures where grass tetany has occurred.

Mrs. Thelma Sparks, 25, Killed in Car-Train Accident

Mrs. Thelma Marie Damrell Sparks, 25 of Rt. 3, Berea, was killed instantly early Sunday morning when the car, in which she was a passenger, was struck by an L&N train at the Fairview Railroad Crossing at Snider. Her husband, Donald Ray Sparks, 29, is in the intensive care unit at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

According to State Police reports, the Sparks car was traveling west on the Fairview Church Road toward U.S. 25 and had started to cross the railroad tracks when the vehicle apparently stalled on the tracks. The train's engineer, Clarence B. Piper of Covington told State Police that when he first saw the crossing, the car was on the tracks and (Mr. Piper) began to brake at that time. Mr. Piper said the train was traveling about 40 m.p.h. The car was struck on the right side about the front of the door, spun off the tracks after which it struck two wooden posts and overturned. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sparks were thrown from the car. Coroner Bill Dowell attributed the death of Mrs. Sparks to multiple injuries.

Mrs. Sparks was the daughter of John Harriman Damrell and Mrs. Ruby Poynter, both of Rt. 3, Berea. Besides her husband and parents, she is survived by two daughters, Donna Marie and Stephanie, both at home, 10 brothers

School Board Authorizes Purchase Of Site for New School Bus Garage

By: Roger Coldiron

The Rockcastle County Board of Education completed preliminary plans for building a three-bay school bus garage at Rockcastle County High School.

The board approved architect's plans for the garage and voted to purchase land owned by Joel Gentry adjacent to the school. The garage will be located in the rear of the school on the east side.

A total of 6.5 acres will be purchased at a cost of $19,000. This includes a 1,417 pound tobacco base which will eventually be divided by the ASC office in Rockcastle County. The extra land will provide needed acreage for further expansion.

In a related action, the board authorized Superintendent Charles B. Parsons to secure an elevation survey on the site where the garage will be located. Director of Transportation Willard Whitaker recommended two contract haulers to transport children in supplementary school buses. Dean Singleton and Roscoe Powell were approved for the positions.

A kindergarten program will be instituted at Brodhead next school year and efforts are being directed toward its opening. The board approved the purchase of furniture and supplies and the renovation of the Agriculture-Shop building. It will also house the Title I Reading Program.

The board also approved the purchase of two new furnace boilers for the Brodhead School.

$9,000 will be available to Rockcastle County for 1977-78 for instituting a career education program. Relevance of high school courses will be taught in each class. Rather than spending extra time on the program, it will be interwoven into the present curriculum.

The board also approved textbooks recommended by teachers and principals for 1977.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

By Errell Wellman

Does Kentucky's legislature need more annually? Should our cities be permitted to funnel tax dollars into downtown redevelopment? Do our state officials receive enough pay? Should our state constitutional officers be allowed to succeed themselves in office?

A yes answer to any of the above questions would require a change in the 1891 constitution which is the foundation for local and state governments in Kentucky. In November voters will decide if they want to call a constitutional convention which would be held in early 1979 with the aim of drafting a new state charter.

For the call to be successful, proponents must remove the question from the partisan political arena. Republicans already have remarked that "the Democrats seem ready to write a new constitution for us."

Supporters of the call hope to get the executive committees of both parties to endorse the call much as the two candidates for governor in 1975 supported the judicial reform amendment.

Governor Julian Carroll says he hasn't yet decided what action he'll take concerning the question. "I have to find some time for that one of these days," says Carroll.

Carroll, however, leaves little doubt that he thinks the constitution concerning the governor's powers and responsibilities should be changed. Carroll says, "This may well be the time to remove some of the burden from the governor."

"This job has been tough on me the last couple of years," says Carroll. "The federal programs are putting extra pressure on the governor. I'd probably be a better governor if my office were in Washington."

Despite Carroll's claims that change should be made in the governor's office it appears unlikely at this point that he is going to give proponents of the call much assistance. "I don't know if I have the time to work for the call," says the gov.

The Governor says he needs to be able to spend more time with his family. While that's probably true, more likely Carroll won't be willing to saddle his hand-picked 1979 gubernatorial candidate, Commerce Commissioner Terry McBrayer, with the burden of supporting constitutional revision. Carroll doesn't need to be reminded that the three previous attempts for a call in the century have failed.

Some resentment remains in courthouses across the state over the passage of the judicial reform amendment two years ago. Carroll's support of the effort hasn't been forgotten.

As Kentucky approached the 20th century the general feeling among the public was that the legislature should meet as little as possible. Folks reasoned the less the lawmakers met the less damage they could do.

While the public's perception of the general assembly might not have changed much in the past 86 years, the demands on the lawmakers have increased. Occasionally, some lawmakers have proposed a change in how and when the legislature meets.

In addition to legislative sessions, the 1891 constitution places what many feel are unreasonable restrictions on salaries for our county officials. Kentuckians also seem to elect every public official. We are the only state still electing a county jailer. Limitations are also placed on the terms of many local and state office holders.

Those who favor the call and a new state charter know they have an uphill battle. It will be interesting to see the tactics they employ during the eight challenging months which remain before election day. *****

Letter To The Editor

How would you react if a government official restricted your income to a minimum amount, and penalized you if you earned over this minimum amount?

How would you react if you were a participant in a pension plan and promised certain retirement benefits for a certain amount of contributions by you, but the trustee keeps making you contribute more each year in order for you to remain eligible. This Official makes you contribute whether you want to or not, with treat of criminal prosecution if you don't.

Would you be forced to contribute more to the pension plan than another person because you make more money, but you'll draw no more in benefits at retirement. Some classes of workers can elect to participate in Social Security. Do you have that right?

How would you react if you found out that the trustee was taking your contributions and not investing it to make the funds grow, but was giving it to someone else who never pays it back, thereby keeping the fund in a dangerous financial position?

Would you put up with government which "takes from those according to their abilities and gives to those according to their needs" which is the philosophy of Communism?

Would you sit still while the government makes most pension plans be properly funded at a constant rate and guarantee the retirement benefits are available to you in a lump sum or monthly income for so long as you shall live, and at the same time, allow one specific fund to operate otherwise. If you die, this fund may only be required to pay your survivors $225.00 and they keep the rest of your lifetime of contributions.

Would you allow these things to happen? Sure you would and you do! The Social Security Administration does all these things and you are letting them get away with it.

Do you think it's time you get off your duty and demand that your Congressmen do something about this thief of your hard-earned income. Demand that your money be properly invested and used for no other purpose than your retirement. Demand that Social Security taxes be stopped permanently at the present rate and base.

If you don't, it won't be long before Social Security taxes will take all of your paycheck.

Don't complain to your local Social Security office, take your complaints to your legislators who should shut and stop this injustice and down right socialist rip-off.

When any candidate promises an increase in Social Security Benefits, if elected, don't vote for him. The increase in benefits will only be followed by an increase in taxes.

Sincerely yours,
John Allen Haley

KY. HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Rockcastle County citizens can help the Kentucky Historical Society expand the history museum's costume collection. Women's dresses from the 1860's, 70's and 80's, especially needed, said Martha Blazer, curator of the museum's costume collection. There are approximately 1,200 items in the costume collection which includes men's women's and children's clothing and accessories. The earliest dress dates back to 1800. "Besides dresses from the late 1800's, we are also looking for good examples of clothing from the 1850's and 60's as well as clothing from the 1970's including blue jeans," Blazer said.

"Costumes reflect both the art and history of an age. We are not attempting to recreate the past, but instead are trying to illustrate social history," Blazer explained.

In addition to clothes which reflect different periods, styles and economic backgrounds, the museum sometimes needs money for restorations and repairs. "Money can also buy an item which is extremely rare and would not likely be donated," Blazer said. "One example of an item needed by the museum is an Indian shawl, of fringed cashmere or wool, woven paisley patterns from the 1850's." (Cont. to 12)

Keep a Watchful Eye on Cash Register Window

Pricing errors do sometimes happen when checkers are ringing up a cartful of food and other items, so get in the keeping a watchful eye on the cash register.

A smudgy price imprint, hours of ringing up hundreds of items, fatigue and a faulty memory on the day's specials all make it not surprising that mistakes happen now and then.

One way that you can help make a checker's job easier is to group like items together. For instance, put those three-for-a-dollar cans next to each other, with the price showing. Then stand where you can get a clear view of the cash register window, and watch it carefully.

When you spot what looks to you like an error is being rung up, ask the clerk to stop and check the price for you. If it turns out that you're right, he or she can easily make the correction and go on.

It's your money. You have every right to keep an eagle eye on the cash register that's totaling up your bill.

Save Money with Homemade Cleaners

You can save money by doing a lot of your cleaning chores with homemade products. Most of the ingredients you'll need are inexpensive. Chances are you already have them on hand—baking soda, salt, lemons, etc.

Here is a good recipe for a good drain cleaner. Mix 1 cup of baking soda, 1 cup salt, and 1/2 cup cream of tartar. Pour 1/2 cup of the mixture in the drain and add 1 cup boiling water. After a couple of minutes, flush with cold water. This will not open a clogged drain, but weekly use will keep drains free. Store the drain cleaner in an air-tight jar to keep its potency between uses.

You can use 2 lemons and 2 trays of ice cubes to clean your garbage disposal. Put lemons in eight, put them down the disposal with the ice cubes on top of them. Then turn on the cold water and operate your disposal until everything is gone. The lemons help clean the blades and get rid of odors. The ice makes the grease thicken so it can be chopped and flushed out.

You can even reacquaint a sluggish septic tank with one of these homemade brews. Add 1 pound of brown sugar and 1 envelope of dry yeast to 1 quart of water and stir until dissolved. Pour mixture in the commode and flush. This will restart proper bacterial action in the septic tank.

Berea College Receives Grant

Berea College has received a grant of $37,878 from the National Historical Publications and Records Commission. The announcement was made by Howard Goodpastor, coordinator of the State Historical Records Advisory Board and state archivist.

"This is the first grant Kentucky has received from the commission," said Goodpastor. The grant will allow Berea College to employ a assistant archivist for two years to work with the special collections librarian in cataloging and indexing documents on the Southern Appalachian area. Both will be assisted in the project by a paraprofessional employe and student workers.

Berea College has accumulated a large collection of materials, such as the files of the Council on the Southern Mountains, the Appalachian Volunteers, and the Thomas Clark papers, said Goodpastor. Berea College has not had the staff to process these documents and others relevant to Southern Appalachian history. A good deal of the archives have historical significance due to the college's ties in the abolitionist movement, Civil War history, connections with the Clay family and others, as well as the college's commitment to interracial education and education of the disadvantaged.

Goodpastor said the National Historical Publications and Records Commission cooperates with various federal, state and local agencies, and with nongovernmental institutions, societies and individuals to encourage collecting, and preserving papers and documents important to understanding and appreciating United States history.

In Kentucky, the nine-member State Historical Records Advisory Boards, appointed by Gov. Julian Carroll, is the liaison with the National Historical Publications and Records Commission. Goodpastor said the board has operated since January, 1976. Co-ordinator of the board is Gen. William Buster, executive director of the Kentucky Historical Society. Other members are: Bruce Denho, director, University Press of Kentucky, Lexington; Dr. Lowell Harrison, Western Kentucky University; Dr. Thomas Clark of Lexington; Dr. William Morrison, University of Louisville; Dr. Stuart Sprague, Morehead State University; Dr. Jacqueline Bull, University of Kentucky; Dr. Henry Cheaney, Ken-

Social Security Earnings Report Due by April 15

People who earned over $2,760 and got one or more monthly social security retirement, dependent, or survivor's checks in 1976 must submit an annual report of their earnings to social security by April 15, according to social security officials here.

The report shows how much was earned in wages and self-employment income last year by people who got monthly social security payments—as well as how much they expect to earn this year.

"The report will be used to determine if people were paid the correct amount of social security benefits for 1976," a spokesman said. "It will also be used to adjust their monthly 1977 social security payments according to their estimated earnings."

Full social security benefits could be paid to eligible people in 1976 if they earned $2,760 or less for the year. But no matter how much they earned for the year, they could be paid their full social security benefits for any month they earned $230 or less and didn't do substantial work in their own business.

The figures for 1977 are $3,000 for the year and $250 a month.

"People who file an annual report late or don't file one that's due may suffer a penalty," the spokesman said. "People who were 72 or over in all months of 1976 don't need to file an annual report of their earnings."

"If you have questions about the annual report or need an earnings report form, call or write any social security office," the spokesman said. "The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare."

HOMEMAKING TODAY'S NOW!

Then: When a drain got clogged up it was time to take out the plunger. A homeowner would fill up the sink basin and pump the plunger vigorously over the drain—hoping it would be "popped."

Now: Unclogging a drain can be an easy matter with Drain Power, the one-second drain opener. It works without dangerous chemicals by setting up pressure waves in the pipe that "pop" the clog right out! Now, that's progress!
