Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

It looks like the fishing schedule is about a month behind normal this year. As most anglers know, fish react to rising temperatures in the spring, beginning their spawning activity by the thermometer, not by the calendar.

That's fine for the fish, but it can be downright frustrating for the fisherman. Psychologically, we've been ready to go for what seems like six months, but the weather just won't cooperate.

Water temperatures are still low—in fact, the surface temperatures are about the same now as they were at the beginning of March last year.

Walleye are usually the first fish to start spawning runs, usually in February. This year, the first walleye activity was reported on March 21. White bass have started to stir some, but again this activity resembles what usually takes place in late February.

So unless things warm up quickly, we'll likely have late spawning seasons for most species. But fishery biologists are predicting good fishing this year. After the severe winter, which probably caused some mortality among all species, the fish should react with heavy, intense, spawning pressure, according to Charlie Bowers, director of fisheries for the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Bowers says he wouldn't be surprised to see excellent fishing this spring, with good catches continuing into, if not throughout, the summer. If his predictions hold up, the fishing this year should be worth waiting for, so hang on just a little longer.

And while we're waiting, here are a couple of good bets to look into. If you've never attended one of the Department of Park's Fishing Unlimited programs, you've missed a good time and a chance to collect a handsome trophy.

These fishing unlimited programs offer a chance to get together with other anglers at one of Kentucky's fine state resort parks, to look over the latest fishing gear on display and to learn from guest experts.

Trophies are awarded for the largest black bass, the largest crappie, the heaviest string of bass, the heaviest string of crappie, the largest fish other than black bass or crappie. The youngest and oldest fisherman entering fish will also receive trophies.

Fishing unlimited programs will be held at Barren River State Resort Park April 22-24 and at Lake Cumberland April 29-May 1. The $45.00 rate includes two nights lodging and six meals.

For additional information, contact the Kentucky Department of Parks, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Another way to win a prize on your fishing trips this spring doesn't involve entering a contest, just catching certain fish. The Department of Fish and Wildlife wants to know about any legal sized rockfish, musky, walleye, or any bass over five pounds you catch. In exchange for a few scales from any of these fish, the department will send you a wall certificate and lapel pin.

The scales will then be used to determine stocking success, growth rate and other information about these important game fish. Your participation in this program not only brings you something, it also helps biologists create better fishing for the future.

Write Jim Axon, Division of Fisheries, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Ky. 40601 for details and mailing envelopes for the scales.

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Read the label on frozen, canned and dry packaged foods. Ingredients are listed in decreasing order by weight. In tuna fish, for example, if oil is listed first, and tuna second, the can has more oil than tuna. Reading the information on the label can help you get more value for your money.

"WHERE THE BOONEWAY JOINS THE DIXIE"

The Mt. Vernon Signal, Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456

VOLUME 90 - NUMBER 29

Thursday, March 31, 1977

No injuries were received last Wednesday afternoon in a collision between two trucks on U.S. 25 in Mt. Vernon. According to State Police reports, Denny Gay, 28, of East Bernstadt, a driver for John Evans of London, was going south on 25 when a pickup truck, driven by Wade Thomas, 58, of Route 1, Mt. Vernon pulled in front of him from a parking area. Mr. Thomas said that he looked before pulling onto the highway but failed to see the truck approaching. Mr. Thomas hit a sign post on the edge of 25.

Certification Needed for Application of Certain Pesticides by Oct., 1977

Private applicators of pesticides must be certified. As of October, 1977, every Kentucky farmer must be certified before he can apply an insecticide, fungicide, or any other pesticide that falls under the "restricted-use" category.

One of the specifications of a 1972 amendment to the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act requires, among others, that all users, or applicators, or "restricted-use" pesticides be certified as competent to use such chemicals.

The private applicator is a person who applies, or supervises the application of a restricted use chemical for the production of agricultural commodities on property he or his employer owns or rents or on the land of a neighbor as an exchange of services.

The Cooperative Extension Service is not involved in any way in the actual regulation of certification, but we are involved in educating people so they can become certified applicators and will have the subject matter knowledge requires to achieve certification.

All the private applicator has to do is to view a series of slides keyed with explanatory tape recordings to learn the fundamentals of the program. After he has seen the slide presentation, he then fills out a form that shows he has completed the instruction session.

The form is sent to the Pesticide Section of the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection in Frankfort, and a card, much like a credit card, will be sent to the individual—the card serves as his evidence of participation in the Kentucky Private Applicator Certification Program.

A person who has his private applicator certification card can then go to a pesticide dealer, present the card, and be able to purchase "restricted-use" chemicals.

However, we don't know at this time what the restricted chemicals are, because the EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) has not published a list. But we do know that some of the more toxic chemicals will probably be on that list and that farmers have used some of these toxic chemicals in the past in their farming operations.

Facts Concerning Rockcastle Co.'s Industrial Park on Hwy. 150

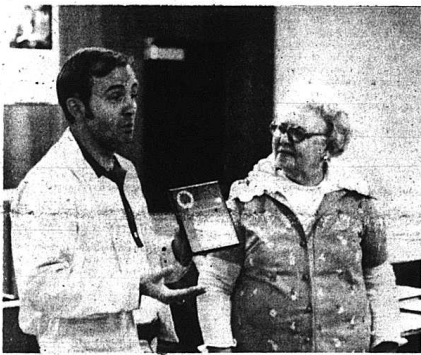

On March 1, 1977, the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court established the Rockcastle County Industrial Development Authority. The Court granted permission to Judge Hubert Thacker to appoint members of the Authority. On March 7, 1977, Rockcastle County Development Authority was organized and Judge Thacker appointed Bill Bailey, William James, Clyde Linville, Tommy Harold Mink, D.A. Robbins, and Willard Whitaker as members. In an organizational meeting following the appointment, the Authority elected William James Chairman, D.A. Robbins Vice Chairman and Clyde Linville, Secretary and Treasurer.

On March 9, 1977 the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court appropriated $26,000 to the Industrial Development Authority to be used as the first installment in purchasing the 92 Industrial Park from Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Payne. The Industrial Authority acquired the property by deed dated March 9, 1977.

Howard K. Bell, Consulting Engineers, Incorporated of Lexington, Kentucky, developed a preliminary plan for the Rockcastle County Industrial Park. A preliminary cost estimate was presented for development of Phase I of the Industrial Park. The estimate of $1,017,000 represents the cost of purchasing the property, providing water and sewer service to the property, constructing the road for Phase I, and a rail spur from the L&N Railroad. It is anticipated that a major portion of the development cost will be available as grants from various governmental agencies. Other monies will be obtained through the sale of plant sites to prospective industries and from local sources.

Pan American plans to shoot some of the mountain footage and urban scenes in Kentucky and the remainder of the film will be set in the Dominican Republic. The screenplay is now being written and "no definite date has been set as to when filming will start," Crespo said.

Crespo is currently involved in pre-production arrangements for a second feature film entitled "The Long Way Home." He hopes to produce this G-rated, action film entirely in Kentucky, specifically the southeastern portion of the state. "The Long Way Home" is slated for production sometime after the completion of the Trujillo biography.

In addition to their motion picture enterprises, Pan American Productions, a sister company to Pan American Films, recently announced the acquisition of a franchise from the Barbizon School of Fashion of New York and will be opening the Barbizon School of Louisville soon. The school will offer classes in modeling, acting, fashion merchandising, and interior design and should be open in late April, Crespo stated.

Federal Land Bank Association Executives Attend Conference In Louisville

More than 300 Managers and Directors from Federal Land Bank Association (FLBA) in Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and Tennessee convened at the Galt House for the 1977 Managers and Shareholders Conference, March 14-15. According to Paul D. Playforth, Manager of the Stanford FLBA, those attending the Conference from Stanford Association were Clay A. Colson, President of the Board of Directors and Paul D. Playforth, Manager. Hosted by the Federal Land Bank of Louisville (FLB), the Conference included reports by bank officers regarding operations of the Fourth District Land Bank System.

At the opening session of the Conference, Federal Land Bank President Paul F. Bachman introduced a slide presentation commemorating the 60th Anniversary of the Federal Land Bank System depicting the growth and development that the Fourth District has experienced. Bachman also reported that on January 20, 1977, the FLB reached a milestone in its service to farmers in the District by reaching $2 billion in loans outstanding. In so doing, the Bank becomes forth of the twelve district Land Banks to reach this mark.

Other speakers during the Conference included Carroll C. Cardwell, Deputy Governor of the Farm Credit Administration in Washington D.C.; and Dr. C. Bronson Lane, Vice-President Operations of Dairy Farmers, Inc., Orlando, Florida. The conferences also viewed a new, award-winning Land Bank movie, "Generations of the Land." Produced cooperatively by the nation's 12

Federal Land Banks, the movie traces the development of U.S. agriculture and describes the challenges facing today's farmers as their operations change from labor-intensive to capital-intensive.

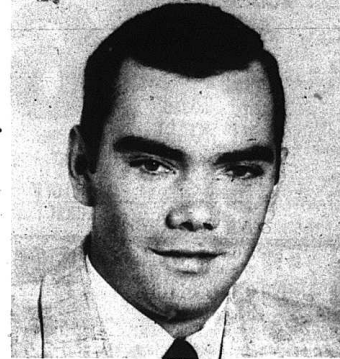

Commenting on Land Bank activity in this area, Paul D. Playforth, Manager at the FLBA of Stanford, Kentucky, said that his Association recently reported 615 loans outstanding, amounting to $25,000,000. FLBA of Stanford serves the long-term credit needs of farmers in Lincoln, Garrard, Boyle, Mercer, Rockcastle and Casey counties.

Charles D. HOLBROOK for County Judge EXECUTIVE

In Seeking the Republican nomination as your County Judge Executive, my first concern will be to all the people, not just a few.

If elected, a Concerned Citizens Committee will be appointed from all parts of the county, to work with the Fiscal Court in determining the needs of each community.

One-third of my salary will be given to the Rockcastle County Rescue Squad.

In my opinion, our present county government is nothing more than a mockery of Judicial Justice.

I have no ties with any special interest groups, or any organizations. I see they've started the campaign factories again, now come on Mr. Judge, we've all heard that tune before.

If it takes 4 years to find a place to put a factory, everybody will be on Social Security before it's built.

No campaign funds will be solicited, I want your VOTE not your money. pd. for by candidate

Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Dwayne Neeley

Howard-Neeley Vows Said

Miss Debbie Sue Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Howard of Cincinnati, and Mr. Timothy Dwayne Neeley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Neeley of Cincinnati, were married recently at the Bartley-Johnson Legion Hall.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert B. Cole, friend of the bride's parents, beside a wedding arch of white flowers and greenery.

Miss Pam Clark, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Lisa DeBoard, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. Robert Neeley, Jr., brother of the groom served as best man. Terry Neeley, brother of the groom, was usher.

Miss Becky Marple, cousin of the groom, presided at the guest register. A reception was held at the Legion Hall immediately following the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of white satin gile. The bodice has a horseshoe neckline, empire waist, long fitted sleeves, an A-line skirt, and attached chapel train. Venice lace and pearls highlighted the bodice, sleeves and skirt. The headpiece was a picture hat trimmed in blending lace and pearls with a bow and streamers of illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath, and trimmed with greenery and white satin ribbons.

After a wedding trip north, the couple will make their home in Cincinnati.

Debbie is the granddaughter of the late Charles and DeBoard of Brodhead, and Mrs. Ellen Howard of Crab Orchard, and the late Robert Howard.

FOOD Facts & Fancies

Tomato lovers might like to know that tomatoes got the name "love apples" because the first tomatoes being yellow were called by the Italians "pomo d'oro," golden apples. To the French that sounded like pomme d'amour or "apples of love."

Apple lovers still got fruit from the trees planted in the 18th and early 19th centuries!

To The Voters Of Rockcastle County

ELECT

G. H. "Hobe"

GRIFFIN

County Judge

Executive

I would like to take this opportunity to tell you about some of my accomplishments while serving as Magistrate of the First District.

- Helped work for and built the Rockcastle County Hospital.
- Helped work for and build a new courthouse.
- Worked to get the Streets on Fairground Hill blacktopped.
- Reconstructed and blacktopped Town Branch Road.
- Reconstructed and Graveled Mareburg Road.
- Reconstructed and Graveled the Boston Daughtery Road from Hwy. 150 to Freedom.
- Reconstructed Cove Branch from Brush Creek Road to Cove School House and built a bridge on this road.
- Reconstructed and assisted in blacktopping Hummel Road and Buckeye Road.
- Assisted and built East Fork Road from Ott Kirby to Hense Renners.
- Reconstructed Sand Springs Road from Ernest Bullocks to Lloyd Robbins.
- And, while with the Kentucky Department of Highways, helped reconstruct Copper Creek and Negro Roads.
- Reconstructed and blacktopped Lambert Road.
- Reconstructed and blacktopped from U.S. 25 at Calloway to Sand Hill.
- Helped build the Sand Hill Road.

The people that I served as Magistrate in the First District know that I did a good job, to the best of my ability. This is what I plan to do if elected as your County Judge Executive. There are many areas of the county that need to be improved upon.

Crime in our county is raging out of control - this is one of our most serious problems. I plan to back the State Police, Sheriff and other law enforcement officials and to work in cooperation with the Trial Commissioner in trying to clean up our county.

This is a crucial time in our county - we need industry here and I plan to continue to work to get industry into our county. We need jobs for our people, especially for the young people, as more young people are entering the job market everyday.

Next week, I will discuss some other things that I am for.

Experts Predict Tornado Increase This Spring;

I.I.I. Urges Midwest Residents to Prepare Now

Midwesterners may find little solace in the flight of winter as weather experts forecast that tornadoes threaten to carve a wider-than-normal path of destruction this spring.

In the past five years, over 1600 twisters have ripped the U.S. mid-section, injuring thousands and causing damage of almost a billion dollars. This year, the Severe Storms Center of the National Weather Service predicts the southern portion of the Midwest through Missouri and eastward may see a higher-than-normal number of tornadoes.

The Insurance Information Institute warns that regardless of where you live, however, you should prepare now and keep informed about what to do before, during and after a tornado.

BEFORE THE STORM

Keep in mind that inflation is increasing the cost of home repair and replacement, so review your insurance coverage with your insurance representative to make certain you will be adequately compensated in the event of a storm loss.

Be sure and keep important papers, including insurance policies, titles, wills and other records in a safe place where they are not likely to be damaged by water, wind or fire, but where they can be easily retrieved. Also, keep an up-to-date inventory of possessions, complete with photos of your property. This will aid you and your representative in determining your losses after a storm hits.

Also, keep a first-aid kit, a flashlight, a portable radio and extra batteries handy. Then you will have them when you need them most - during and after a tornado.

If you live in a mobile home, the Institute recommends securing it with anchors or tie-downs and positioning them to take advantage of natural windbreaks such as trees and hills. Even then, mobile home residents should seek more secure shelter in the event of a tornado, as a twister can quickly turn such a home into a mangled mass of steel and wood in seconds.

When storm conditions develop, keep alert to radio and television weather advisories and plan your work and play schedules accordingly. Remember - a tornado watch is issued when conditions are favorable for a tornado to develop. A tornado warning means a twister has been sighted.

If a tornado is sighted in your area, move to a place of safety immediately - the basement is the safest place if you have one. If you do not have a basement, move to the center and lowest floor of your home or apartment where outside walls offer maximum protection, making certain to stay low, preferably under a piece of heavy furniture, and away from windows.

Most injuries during a twister are caused by flying debris. Wherever shelter is taken, a person should also make an extra effort to protect his head and chest.

AFTER THE STORM

Be careful. Avoid loose electrical lines and stay away from badly damaged buildings that could topple over. Keep tuned to your radio for any instructions from community officials.

Avoid using the telephone. Phone lines will be disabled or tied up with emergency calls.

If your home or business has been severely damaged, turn off gas and electricity at the point these utilities enter the building. This will reduce the hazard of fire.

You should inspect your property as quickly as is practical and report any damage to your insurance representative as soon as possible. Also, make any temporary repairs that will prevent further damage to your property, such as covering holes in the roof or walls with plastic or other temporary siding. And, keep the receipts, since these costs are normally covered by your home insurance policy.

If you are forced to move to temporary quarters, such as a motel, this cost is usually covered by your insurance. And, be sure to leave word with neighbors and your insurance representative as to where you can be reached.

Following major storms, the insurance industry mobilizes adjusters from throughout the country, says the L.I.L., sending them to the stricken area to expedite the handling of claims. Larger, more serious losses are given priority.

In addition to insurance personnel, government and private relief agency officials, there will be other groups on the scene of a disaster. Looters, day-by-night contractors, bogus "adjusters," instant "tree surgeons" and a variety of others will attempt to take advantage of storm victims, especially if the resident has just received a check from the insurance company.

Unsolicited offers of assistance from other than bonafide relief agencies should be regarded with suspicion. A call to the disaster center, which is set up after a tornado, is wise before conducting business with over-eager strangers. Also, watch for out-of-state license plates on trucks or cars in the stricken area and report suspicious activity to the police.

Tornadoes often strike with little warning. But knowing what to do before and after a storm can save not only time and property, but also lives.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

by Will Bernard

Careless Mechanic

Joyce left her car at the corner garage to have a sticking gas pedal fixed. The following morning, she picked up the car and started driving home. But within minutes the pedal stuck again, forcing her to wear into a parked truck.

Shaken and bruised, Joyce filed a damage suit against the owner of the garage. At the trial, a mechanic took the stand to deny blame.

"I checked my work on that pedal," he said, "and it seemed to be working okay."

"Some checking!" countered Joyce. "He tried it out while the car was standing still with the motor off. That's just not good enough."

The court agreed with her and awarded damages. Something as critical as a gas pedal, said the court, calls for more care than this mechanic displayed.

One who won on your car has a legal responsibility at least partly similar to that of the manufacturer. Even without a specific guarantee, he promises by implication that his work will be free of negligence.

This may spell liability even if the problem does not show up at once. Another motorist's brakes gave way two weeks and 1200 miles after being overhauled. When he sued, the garage said this amount of intervening usage "insulated" it from liability.

But the court ruled in favor of the motorist. The court said the evidence pointed to a slow leak in the brake system, which was directly traceable to poor workmanship.

Without such a cause-and-effect relationship, however, there is no liability. In another case a man complained that his motor "froze" only a week after a lubrication and change of oil.

But he could not establish any causal connection between the motor problem and the work done. Blaming the garage in such circumstances, said the court, would be sheer guesswork.

"Six American Families" Debuts On KET April 4

"Six American Families" debuts on Kentucky Educational Television (KET) on Monday, April 4 at 8 p.m. (ET), 7 p.m. (CT).

This series of one-hour specials looks into the real life experiences of six different, yet typical families from diversified sections of America. The strengths and tensions of family life are reflected through these programs.

In the second program, the problems of a separated family are revealed through the Greenberg family of Mill Valley, California. The family is breaking up. Jackie and Arnie, soon to be divorced, are trying to forge new lives for themselves without hurting their son and their daughter.

This series was produced in association with the United Church of Christ and the United Methodist Church.

"Six American Families" provides a candid, in-depth look at the realities of American family life.

It's Twins!

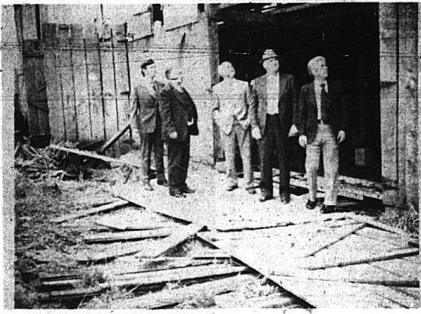

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Eaton, Jr. announce the birth of twins, a boy and a girl, born March 19 at the Lake Cumberland Medical Center in Somerset.

Christopher Mark weighed in at seven pounds and his sister, Patricia Julianne, weighed six pounds, two ounces at birth.

They were welcomed home by Johnny and Angie Sue.

Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Patricia Holland and paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. John G. Eaton, Sr.

The buildings on the Clyde Payne Farm on Hwy. 150, which the county recently purchased for an industrial site, are being cleared. Looking the situation over Monday were, from left: Bill James, president of the Improvement Council; County Judge Hubert Thacker and three members of the newly-created Industrial Authority: D.A. Robbins, Clyde Linnville and Willard Whitaker.

education programs pertinent to industrial development. Three types of programs were outlined.

The first program explained by Mr. Roundtree is a referral service which helps keep tabs on people who have a specific type of training and can be employed by a certain industry. The second is a program which trains people for specialized jobs if they already have a general knowledge of a job. The third is training people for a specific industry. This program closely relates the industry and vocational schools.

Mr. Roundtree said that 11,000 students are presently enrolled in vocational education in the eight-county region of which Rockcastle County is a part.

Ray Roundtree of the Kentucky Department of Vocational Education was present at Monday night's meeting of the Rockcastle County Improvement Council and outlined programs available to Rockcastle County for further development in the field of vocational education. The programs will prepare young people for jobs in Rockcastle County industry.

"ROAD AID PROGRAM" (Cont'd from Front)

maintenance and improvements in its county road system.

The county road aid program was established in 1936 to help local government meet the costs of maintaining their county road systems.

It is financed under a formula which provides that nine-tenths of one cent collected in tax on the sale of each gallon of motor fuels in Kentucky be set aside for allotment to the counties as county road aid money.

The allotments are made once annually, on a fiscal year basis.

PUBLIC RECORDS ARE OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

Any person can examine public records that are not expressly exempted by law, according to the State Attorney General's office.

State Asst. Atty. Gen. Carl Miller issued the opinion in response to a question from Erlanger attorney Ervin L. Bramlage. Bramlage asked whether Albert J. Roll should be allowed to examine Erlanger-Elmwood Independent School District records. The Board of Education had previously denied Roll's request, saying he was not a resident of the district and his request, saying he was not a resident of the district and his requests amounted to harassment.

Miller said the specific records that Roll requested were not exempted under the Kentucky Open Records Law and that Roll's non-residency was not a basis for denying him access to the records. Although an agency can refuse access to records on the basis of harassment, Miller said that Roll's actions did not show intent to disrupt the essential functions of the school district and did not constitute harassment.

COUNTY CLERK NOT REQUIRED TO KEEP OFFICE OPEN

A county clerk is not legally required to keep his office open beyond the regular closing time to accept the nomination papers of a candidate running for public office, according to an opinion by the Office of Attorney General.

Asst. Dep. Atty. Gen. Walter Herdman advised Adair County Clerk Robert M. White, however, a county

Salt Is Winter Enemy Of Trees And Shrubs

There may be a "mysterious killer" lurking among landscape plants in Kentucky as a result of the severe winter earlier this year, says Robert McNeil, of UK's Horticulture Department.

More than likely a lot of persons have already done some inspection on their landscape plants trying to detect any winter injury, he said, noting that some cold and sun damage can already be diagnosed—particularly in such plants as magnolias, hollies, cherry laurel, and the like. "The leaves on such plants may definitely be brown, but the stems may not be damaged," he said.

As for the "mysterious killer," McNeil revealed it as being the salt that was applied to streets and highways in record quantities during the past winter.

"You may find salt injury on susceptible plants located near roadways due to salty spray being splashed on them," he said. "Arborvitae is very susceptible to splashing salt spray or mist—the side of the plant toward the street is more likely to show damage than the side away from the street."

He said, however, the most severe cases of damage will probably show up later—from sometime in April through June—because salt may have accumulated on the soil surface. The ground was frozen for such a long period not allowing the salt to sink in until now, when the plant roots have become more active. "Once active, these roots will be killed by the higher than usual salt concentration that accumulated on the soil surface, or the roots will transport the salts into the plant where the foliage will be killed," McNeil explained. "In either case the plant will probably turn brown and die in a short period of time."

Plants most easily affected by such salt conditions were listed as beech, Burford holly, dogwoods, hemlock, Scotch and white pine. Others that are slightly more tolerant include hawthorn, taxus or yew red, sugar maple and hornbeams. Junipers and pyracantha were termed as having even more tolerance to salt.

Plants that have good salt tolerance and probably will not be injured at all by salt situations include Norway maple, honeylocust, red and white oak, Russian olive, honeysuckle, and blue spruce, McNeil said.

"If you suspect salt injury to your plants, you might correct the problem by leaching out the salt in the soil around the plants," McNeil recommended. "To leach out the salt, apply lots of water around the plant. The water will carry the salts out of the root zone."

He warned, however, to attempt the leaching only if the plant is growing on a soil that has excellent drainage, noting that if soil drainage is poor, leaching will not help.

Arson Suspected in Several Grass and Brush Fires

This past week end was a busy time for the Mt. Vernon Fire Department. At about 10 a.m. Saturday morning, they were called to the residence of Jimmy Payne in Owens Subdivision to extinguish a grass fire.

On Saturday afternoon, they made two trips to an area behind Northside Baptist Church and were again called out Sunday at 7:50 p.m. to the same area. Because of a brush fire, an old barn and two outhouses in the area were burned. At 8 p.m. Saturday, they extinguished a fire on the front porch of the Ideal Cafe Building on Main Street and Sunday afternoon, at 4 p.m., they were called to a fire in an apartment over the Montgomery Ward Store where a mattress was on fire. It was believed to have been caused by a burning cigarette. Arson is suspected in all the above fires except the Payne fire.

Republican Primary May 24, 1977

I want to take this opportunity to discuss with you, the voters of Rockcastle County, my candidacy for the office of County Clerk.

I worked as Deputy Clerk for 10 years and 7 months under my late husband, Clifford Bales. As most of you are aware, I became County Court Clerk July 19, 1976, following the death of my husband.

As you can no doubt understand, due to the heavy work load associated with this office, I will be unable to see each of you individually before the election. However, I do want to ask your support in the upcoming Primary.

Please let me stress at this time that I am actively engaged and connected with only one campaign in this primary, my own for County Clerk. I am not connected in any way with any other candidate for office.

My late husband, Clifford Bales, did enjoy being of service to the people of this county and I pledge myself to continue this effort on behalf of you all.

SINCERELY,

Memory Hill Park in Morgan to Contribute to Tourism in Ky

By Helen Price Stacy
Come to majestic, moving Morgan County this year, and along with noting progress, take a walk through Eastern Kentucky history that begins in the mid 1700s with the birth of Daniel Williams and continues with a row of log cabins on a hillside at the Wardie Craft farm at Caney on Route 191.

Daniel Williams carried a Bible and long rifle when around 1800 he entered what later would become Morgan County and built his cabin at Wells Mill, later named West Liberty. He already had been with Daniel Boone at Boonesborough and family history says he married Violet Crouch at the fort.

A number of prominent people made it a point to visit at the Williams cabin. One of these was Richard Mentor Johnson, later to become vice president of the United States.

Williams already had fought at the Battle of Blue Licks and seeing enough fighting in battle had decided to fight in a different direction. He lived for some time in Montgomery County and helped establish the Lulburg Church in 1793. In the early 1800s he was instrumental in organizing 11 Baptist churches and in 1813 in founding Burning Springs Association of Primitive Baptists.

Before his death in 1820, Williams and his family moved to Caney where he built a handsome house of malarial he thought more handsome than poplar logs - canal coal. He was intrigued by the satin luster of blocks of canal coal, built his house and later saw it catch fire and burn. He built his next cabin with logs.

Elder Daniel Williams and his wife,

Violet, are buried on the bench of a high hill overlooking Caney Valley near the site of his home. On days when he wanted to call his flock together to worship, he stood on the hillside and blew on a large horn, the sound echoing up and down the valley.

Not far away on the same hillside is the beginning of Memory Hill Park as a memorial to Williams and his contemporaries. Wardie and Hazel Craft, former schoolteachers, and he a former principal and now pastor of his own Baptist church, already have built six cabins; each to be furnished as a pioneer museum.

In the center of the complex, visible for some distance, will be built a granite shaft similar to Washington's monument but on a smaller scale. This will be inscribed with names of people who have contributed to the cost of the work and park and when completed will be dedicated to the memory of Elder Williams.

The cabins are monuments to individual families. Logs are from the Henry cabin that stood near Index, the Rev. Billy Davis cabin from Wolfe County and old family homes from Breathitt, Perry and Magoffin counties.

In addition to the many descendants of families who once lived in the reconstructed log cabins, many other families are connected with Memory Hill Park. The Wardie Crafts themselves have a number of adopted children and altogether have reared or helped rear more than 100 orphaned or homeless children. The Rev. Mr. Craft has preached, married and baptized for 49 years. Opposite the log cabins is a memorial garden with graves marked by sculptured Italian marble, one of these a memorial to "Parson" Daniel Duff, pioneer preacher who married, baptized and buried many noted Eastern Kentuckians in the Kentucky River area.

Elder Daniel Williams and wife had a large family with sons and daughters marrying into prominent and regional families. As an example of family influence, one son, John T. Williams was appointed by Gov. Adair to help start proceedings in 1822 for forming Morgan County. John T. Williams' son, also named John T., became a regional hero as Capt. Williams in the Civil War.

Another son, Wiley, was Morgan's first state representative, and Elder Williams' daughter, Nancy, married David Lykins and was the mother of William Lykins, first judge of the county after adoption of the 1850 constitution. daughter Edith (Edy) married Richard Allen who had come from North Carolina. This couple's son was George Allen and their son, Caleb, was father of noted attorney, the late Grover Cleveland Allen of Breathitt County. Atty. Allen was father of Malcolm Allen of Jackson and grandfather of Henry L. Allen of West Liberty, Eastern Kentucky educator.

Anyone who would like to help with the work at Memory Hill should contact Wardie Craft, Rt. 4, Box 224, Caney, Ky. 41407. Membership in the Daniel Williams Society is $1 per year, and the society with Craft as president, is the owner of Memory Hill Park.

Unemployed Fathers Program Extended

The state's public assistance program for unemployed fathers has been extended because of January and February's abnormally high unemployment rates, according to Gail S. Huecker, commissioner of the Department for Human Resources' Bureau for Social Insurance.

This winter's energy squeeze, which resulted in increased work layoffs and a tighter job market, caused the bureau to alter plans that would have halted the program April 1.

"We had no idea the energy crisis would have such an impact on unemployment rates," Commissioner Huecker said.

Legislation enacted by the 1974 General Assembly requires the department to begin this portion of the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program when the unemployment rate reaches six per cent.

Phasing out the unemployed fathers' program is compulsory when the statewide rate drops below 5.5 per cent over a four-month period.

The August, September, October and November, 1976, unemployment rates averaged 5.4 per cent, but the bureau has continued taking and processing applications, Huecker said.

The bureau has projected an unemployment rate of at least six per cent for the November-February-

December-March periods, suspending plans to discontinue the assistance.

Commissioner Huecker said, "This program really helps those who do trouble finding work over the winter. We have high hopes that the economy will improve and that Kentucky's economic development program will bring more jobs into the state."

Each of the 6,900 participating families was previously notified of the plan to end the program, but today's announcement cancels the interruption of payments.

By statute, recipient fathers must be unemployed and they must meet income and eligibility requirements of the state's regular Aid to Families with Dependent Children program.

Kentucky's unemployed fathers are receiving an average of $250 per month. Huecker said they were also eligible for medical assistance and food stamps. The amount a family pays for food stamps depends on income and household size, she explained.

Huecker estimated that the program will have paid out $27 million to Kentucky recipients by April 1.

KU's New Insulation Guidelines Save Energy

If all of the new electrically heated homes and apartment units built in the Kentucky Utilities Company's energy area through 1980 used the firm's new insulation guidelines instead of the former insulation guidelines, enough electrical heating capacity and energy could be saved to meet the needs of several thousand additional residences.

KU said the savings could supply the heating requirements of 4,566 additional average size, ranch style homes and 939 more apartment units. Calculations were made for the heating needs of a 1,500 square-foot house and a 650-square-foot apartment unit contained in a 12-unit complex in normal weather conditions for the Lexington area.

A spokesman commented that "not only do savings accrue to customers from the increased use of insulation, but it is obvious that it would also help us as utility to reduce the need for additional generation capacity while meeting the energy needs of future customers."

The new recommended guidelines are expressed in "R" values, a term used to indicate the ability of a substance to restrict heat flow. These are R-38 for ceilings, R-18 for walls and R-19 for floors. The old guidelines suggested "R" values for 24, 13 and 13, respectively.

Construction projections through 1980 were derived from the annual average number of new homes (4,300 and apartment units (1,600) which were built from 1972 through 1976. Some predictions indicate an even larger number of starts in the future, which could result in even more savings.

If each house used increased insulation only, there could be a savings of eleven per cent or 1,350 watts for each house. By reducing air infiltration with improved weather stripping and using other means to cut heat loss as suggested in the guidelines, an additional savings of 10 per cent, or 1,220 watts, could be possible. When added to the savings resulting from more insulation, the total saved by all the new homes over the four-year period could be 44,174 kilowatts (kw), or enough to supply the 4,566 additional homes.

Figures for the requirements to heat apartment units indicated that combined insulation and infiltration-reduction efforts could provide savings of 13 per cent, or 530 watts per unit. Through 1980, the total energy savings could be 3,392 kw, an amount sufficient to meet the heating needs of the 939 additional units.

The company's first insulation recommendations were issued about 20 years ago, and throughout this period the KU guidelines have usually been in excess of the minimum recommendations of governmental housing agencies.

Although KY issues insulation guidelines, the company makes no recommendations as to brands or types of insulating products to be used. The customer or builder must decide the type of insulation to be used and how much.

Copies of the guidelines are available at all company offices.

Real Estate

By SAM FORD
REALTOR

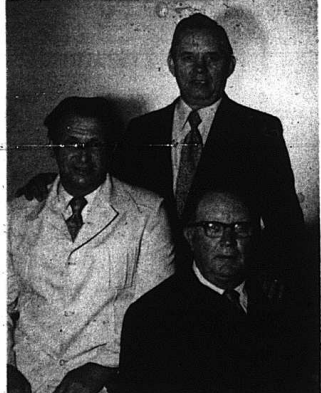

A Realistic Approach

During inflation (and we're in it), there's an excellent case for investigating in real estate. Most of the investment is paid for with borrowed money. Someone else's fixed-dollar savings provides your mortgage money. Even though interest rates are up several notches from where they were, a mortgage loan is the only way the average consumer can borrow long-term money.

This, then, is your big chance to turn inflation to your advantage. Your mortgage gives you full-price dollars to work with today. You then pay them back with cheaper dollars you will be earning for the next 20 to 30 years.

This isn't a cynical approach. It's realistic. In fact, it's one of the main reasons why many wealthy individuals continue to make big real estate investment. And you can do the same with a home that you own and need anyway.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Ford Realty & Auction Co., Inc., Mt. Vernon, Ph. 256-4545. We're here to help!

TAG DEADLINE EXTENDED TO APRIL 15TH

Governor Julian Carroll has extended from April 1 to April 15, the deadline for buying 1977 registration tags for commercial vehicles, trailers, semitrailers and house trailers.

In signing the executive order, Gov. Carroll said the extension was necessary because of financial hardships caused by extremely cold temperatures and inclement weather in January, February and March.

Gov. Carroll previously granted a similar 15-day extension for buying registration tags for private cars, which normally are due March 1.

County Agent's Notes

COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
FOR AGRICULTURE

Herbicide Residues from Cornfields Can Damage Tobacco

Fields which were in corn the past one or two years and which were treated for weed control with atrazine or some other chemical should not be used for growing tobacco this year. The chemical remains in the soil for a long period of time and is likely to be damaging to tobacco. Some farmers who use atrazine treated fields for tobacco may get by, but most will have greatly reduced yields.

Use land for growing tobacco which has been in grass sod the past two, or three years or else use the same fields which were used for tobacco last year. Tobacco is very sensitive to most weed control chemicals, and especially to atrazine. Only three herbicides are approved for use on tobacco fields. Most other weed control chemicals leave residues which may be harmful to tobacco. Thus, any field which has been used for another crop and treated with herbicides in the past couple of years should not be used for tobacco.

How To Make No-Tillage Successful In 1977

It is likely that more Kentucky farmers than ever before will be using the no-tillage system to plant their corn and soybeans in 1977.

One of the best reasons to plant no-till this year is to save fuel. No-till planting requires about 60 percent less horsepower and fuel per acre than conventional tillage and planting.

No-tillage also helps hold down the amount of soil erosion. This is an especially important consideration this year, since many farmers are putting steep land into row-crop production in an effort to meet the demand for increased agricultural output.

Farmers using the no-till method should keep in mind that undisturbed soils tend to warm up a little slower than soils which have been plowed. For early no-till planting of corn, seed should be planted shallow, one-half to one inch deep. Deeper planting can be made as soil temperatures rise or as surface moisture becomes less favorable. The maximum planting depth for corn for any planting date should be two and one-half inches.

Soybeans should not be planted over two inches deep except in very sandy soil.

Proper adjustment of the planter is an important part of successful no-till planting. Planting rates should be about ten percent higher than with conventional tillage for both corn and soybeans. The planter should be level when planting, and weight should be used when necessary to get good coulters penetration. Coulters and seed placement units should be lined up carefully for proper placement of the seed. Keeping coulters sharp is very important.

Weed control is a critical factor in no-till planting. Weed control starts with a contact herbicide with surfactant. At least 30 gallons of water per acre should be used with the contact herbicide. Recommended residual herbicides should also be used at planting time to control weeds after planting. For land in continuous row crops, a combination of chemicals is most successful for controlling broadleaf weeds and grasses.

Good fertilization is important for top yields in no-till crops, just as in conventionally planted crops. Fertilization should be based on the results of soil tests. Land in continuous no-till crops normally needs lime more than other fields. Soil insect problems may be more severe with no-till corn than with conventional corn. Under most conditions, use of a soil insecticide will pay.

A University of Kentucky publication, MD-1 "1977 No-Tillage Recommendations," is available without charge from local county extension offices.

Down On The Farm

BY ROY G. BROWN
ASSISTANT VICE PRESIDENT
CUMBERLAND PCA

We as farmers find ourselves in a very busy time of the year with all the spring work to be done, with most of the things to do, if we don't get them done right at the proper time it will make a big difference at harvest time, this fall.

Some of the jobs that need doing are checking fences before turning cattle out to pasture. If we get the fence in good shape before they find a place to get out, it will save trouble and destroyed crops later.

Grass and legumes need seeding if you have not already done so to take advantage of early moisture and most production. Tobacco plant beds should be carefully treated for plenty good strong sturdy plants at setting time. Plowing is not a task as it used to be since many farmers use the no-till method.

Early seeding and planting has a bit advantage over late if we have a dry summer and fall.

Cattle need treating for lice, grubs and other things before turning them out. They will do much better if growing and putting on weight if they are healthy and in good growing condition.

This is just a few of the many things we as farmers have to do in trying to make enough money to feed the family, pay debts and the necessities of life besides feeding a hungry people of the world. And, oh yes, don't forget that farmers need some recreation in between all the hard work. "Down on the Farm"

Plant Cool Season Vegetables Now

Certain vegetable crops thrive best in cool weather and should be planted early in the spring for best results, according to C.R. Roberts, extension vegetable specialist in UK's Department of Horticulture.

Cabbage, cauliflower, spouting broccoli, Brussels sprouts, kohlrabi and Chinese cabbage are considered cool season and should be transplanted to the garden now, he said, adding that a relatively cool, moist period insures the best results for these vegetables.

The cool season vegetables may be grown on a wide range of soil types, but a clay or silt loam soil is best, Roberts said. Plants will mature earlier in lighter soils, he said, with a soil pH of around 6.5 being the most desirable. Leafy vegetables such as are found in this group, are heavy users of nitrogen and potash, it was noted. Two to three pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer, or a similar analysis, per 10 square feet of soil surface area is termed as normally adequate for these crops.

Cabbage plants that have been well hardened before transplanting to the garden have been found to withstand temperatures as low as 10 to 15 degrees below freezing for short periods of time, Roberts said. When transplanted the cabbage plants should be spaced 12 to 15 inches apart in the row.

"Be very careful when cultivating the cool season vegetables," Roberts advised. "Many of their roots grow in the top two inches of the soil and may be cut off with deep cultivation."

Root crops also should be planted early in the spring to take advantage of cool growing conditions, he said.

Included in this group are beet, carrots, parsnips, turnips and radishes. All these crops have similar cultural requirements, doing the best in a deep, friable, loam soil with a pH of 6.5 to 7.0.

Roberts pointed out that planting root crops in early spring usually results in better quality. Beets, for example, will have a higher sugar content and dark internal color throughout the root when planted early, he said. Beets that are planted late and exposed to high temperatures develop alternate white and colored zones in the roots.

Thinning root crops will help increase the size of the root and help result in a more attractive vegetable, Roberts added.

Record Number of Children

Applying for Easter Seal Camp

With record numbers of children with handicaps applying for Easter Seal camp, the need for increased Easter Seal funds is greater than ever this year. Bert T. Combs, chairman of the 1977 Kentucky Easter Seal Campaign, said today.

Camping and recreation are essential to the normal social development of any child who is separated in any degree from able-bodied children," Combs said. "So it is of more importance than ever before that the Easter Seal Campaign this year be given generous support by all Kentuckians."

He said that the Kentucky Easter Seal Society hopes to send more crippled children to camp this year than in 1976. But he encouraged parents to register their children early because of the increased demand.

At both Easter Seal camps in Kentucky, Camp Kyoac at Carrollton and Camp Green Shores at Rough River Lake, a staff of well-trained counselors experienced in working with handicapped children direct a full program of activities which contribute to their educational, recreational and social growth.

The professionally planned program includes swimming in a heated pool, boating, nature lore, campcrafts, overnight campouts, camp fires and sports especially adapted to handicaps of the campers.

The Easter Seal Campaign continues to April 10, Easter Sunday.

Consumer

Comments

Consumers often call us about cars they have purchased which do not get as many miles to the gallon as the EPA gas mileage estimates they relied upon when buying their new car. What is an EPA gas mileage estimate?

The Environmental Protection Agency publishes fuel economy figures on different makes and models of cars. They are based on the "city" and BUILDING A CAMPFIRE for a cook-out is one of the popular activities of youngsters who attend Easter Seal resident camps in Kentucky. The scene above was pictured last summer. Camping sessions will begin in May and June at Camp Kyoac at Carrollton and Camp Green Shores at Rough River Lake. More than 1,100 handicapped boys and girls enjoyed two-week sessions in 1976.

"highway" gas mileage figures of the EPA, which are derived from cars driven on test platforms designed to simulate city and highway driving conditions. Because of this, they are nothing more than estimates and should not be relied upon as a true measure of the performance to be expected from the car. Man consumers overlook this fact. EPA figures can be used to compare fuel economy on different model cars and are often used in car advertisements. But don't forget to consider the following factors which affect EPA gas mileage figures:

The engine size, transmission type and fuel system result in different gas mileage for the same model car. This information should be disclosed in ads, so be on the lookout for it.

When mileage figures in an advertisement are for a specific car and not from the EPA Mileage Guide, the ad must disclose all optional equipment which can increase fuel costs. In addition, the impact of the absence of optional equipment must also be disclosed.

Consumers should also note that individual driving styles and the condition of the car can cause the "Miles gallon" figures to vary. For example, an engine that is already warmed up (one that was used within the last 4 hours) requires less fuel to reach its most efficient operating condition than a "cold" engine. Trip length also affects gas mileage. Shorter trips (under 5 miles) do not allow the car to warm up to its peak operating temperature and engine condition. A car's condition has a bearing on the number of miles which can be driven per gallon of gas. On the average, a tuned-up vehicle gets approximately 3 to 9 percent better gas mileage than one which has not been properly maintained. Under-inflated tires also can increase gas consumption.

You can obtain a free copy of all EPA gas estimates in the brochure, Miles Per Gallon Ratings for 1977 Cars. Write Fuel Economy, Pueblo, Colorado 81001. This pamphlet can help you to compare the fuel economy of different makes and models of cars.

Did You Know.....

Kentucky Educational Television got its first official boost from a 1960 House Resolution directing the Legislative Research Commission to study the feasibility of educational television in Kentucky?

The American farmer deserves a lot of credit.

Our 60th anniversary is an appropriate time to salute the greatest producer of food and fiber in the world - American farmers.

Sixty years ago, the Land Bank was established to help the farmer by providing dependable, long-term financing.

We've changed a lot over those years, but our purpose has remained the same - to provide farmers with the credit to produce that food and fiber.
