Water pollution control will be the main item of business at the Cumberland Valley Resource Conservation and Development Council meeting on April 25 in London. David Rose, and other officials of the Kentucky Division of Water, Frankfort, will speak on how the Cumberland Valley is going to be effected by Section 208 planning of non point water pollution control.

The RC&D Land & Water Committee, in cooperation with the ADD Board, has the local responsibility of keeping the public informed about the water pollution control planning that will take place in the Cumberland Valley. The RC&D and the ADD Board will also help gather suggestion and ideas from the public to be utilized in the plan. The RC&D Council members including representatives of the eight county fiscal courts, conservation districts, municipalities and other interested individuals will be invited to the RC&D Council meeting and are urged to attend by R. Lee Brown, Sr., Council Chairman.

American Red Cross has Assisted Flood Victims

The American Red Cross has as of April 15, spent over four million dollars assisting flood victims in Southeastern Kentucky according to Mr. John McGraw manager of the Kentucky Division American Red Cross.

In announcing this figure, Mr. McGraw stated that survey information compiled by disaster teams in the fifteen county area of the state revealed the following:

Families suffering loss, 9,789; Homes destroyed, 474; Homes with major damage, 2,288; Mobile homes destroyed, 396; and small business damaged or destroyed, 301.

McGraw returned from the disaster area Monday where he had been coordinating emergency assistance provided by Red Cross.

Dr. Frank Stanton, National Chairman of the American Red Cross, was also in the disaster area this week. In describing his tour to President Jimmy Carter, Dr. Stanton stated "it was a heartbreaking journey" and that the "devastation was incredible."

The Kentucky Division of Red Cross is now hard at work trying to raise $560,000, its share of the National fund raising goal for disaster assistance.

Mr. McGraw expressed appreciation for the public response in donating cleaning supplies to the fire stations last week. Two tractor trailer loads and 3 vans of brooms, mops, scrub brushes, buckets, cleansers, detergents and disinfectants were sent into the area as a result of a campaign initiated by County Judge Todd Hollenback and coordinated by county fire stations.

The cleaning supplies followed thousands of coats, blankets, medical supplies, comfort kits, and other items sent into the area by Red Cross.

The most recent request Red Cross has processed is the shipment of 5,000 surgical masks into the flooded area.

These were needed as protection from the dust that now hampers the recovery effort.

Mr. McGraw paid tribute to the thousands of volunteers in the disaster area that have labored so long and hard in helping with the assistance program. "Without the help of volunteers the suffering, as bad as it was, would have been magnified many times" state Mr. McGraw.

County Judge Executive

My campaign slogan has been a Progressive County With Management. To progress, you must have leadership. To have leadership, you must have Management. To have Management, you must have Cooperation. To have Cooperation, you must have the Ability to understand the issues before the County.

Under the new Judicial System that becomes effective in Jan. 1978, the County Judge loses all judicial powers and will be a county manager -- nothing more. The County Judge Executive therefore will be obligated to work closely and in harmony with his Fiscal Court to provide the best management for all the people of the county at the least cost and the best services that can be provided through cooperation and sound programs. To accomplish these objectives, the CJE has to be the most qualified man that is available to the public.

In View of These Requirements - I am the Best Qualified Candidate for this most important job in our county government.

Emergency Food Stamps Issued to Flood Victims

More than $1 million in Emergency Food Stamps have been issued by the Department for Human Resources to victims of the April 3-9 floods in Eastern Kentucky according to Don Harvey, coordinator of Disaster Assistance for the Bureau for Social Insurance. "We're seeing a gradual decrease in requests for food stamps, since the immediate emergency has passed," said Harvey, who has manned the disaster command post in London since Thursday, April 7. The Bureau for Social Insurance, distributing agent for the U.S.

Department of Agriculture, is issuing an average of $200,000 per day in food stamps. Harvey said his office is increasing its heavy demand for federal aid through the Individual Family Grant Program (IFGP) designed to meet needs not covered by other public assistance programs. "As of Wednesday evening, we received and processed almost 3,500 applications for the family grant program," he said. Upon approval by a review panel, families qualifying for the program received aid for rebuilding, cleaning, and sanitizing their homes, funeral and medical expenses, food insurance and replacement of personal property.

To become eligible for IFGP, households must exhaust all other possible avenues in public assistance and carry flood insurance if they live in the flood-prone areas designated by the federal government. They may receive up to $5,000 through the program. "We asked for over 100 volunteers to staff our offices; it appears we'll need at least that many additional workers," Harvey said. "Right now we're just trying to keep all operations afloat. It looks like our centers in Corbin, Hazard, Warfield, and Auxier may be over the hump."

THE BRIDGE

Along a stretch of highway,
Over yonder ridge,
They stands a mighty structure,
It's called Livingston bridge.

It towers over Roundstone Creek.
Its piers are old, but strong
And no matter how far away I get,
I'm never gone for long.

That bridge has recorded my footsteps,
And all the others before me,
We've strode across its proud sturdy body.

The passage allowed us for free,
My thoughts become reminiscent,
As I gaze at the old bridge through tears
It carries its age with such beauty,
And reminds me the passage of years.

The people of Livingston love it,
And though often, some of them roam,
When they want to look back in
"Reflection"

The Livingston bridge takes them home.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS Sibling Rivalry

Does the arrival of the second or later children in the family sometimes seem to trigger jealousy or resentment on the part of the first child? A few guidelines, consistently followed, may help to preserve family harmony at this time.

The child should be told about the prospective baby, usually about the time the pregnant mother's change of figure is apparent! Making and carrying out plans such as preparing the baby's room, collecting or sewing infant garments and collecting first toys should be shared with the children in the home. All need to develop a feeling of acceptance. This will happen if parents demonstrate love for all of their children, being careful not to "play favorites."

Parents do well to demonstrate love, provide security and family unity all times, but it is especially crucial to

A Better Buy

Sure mortgage interest rates are higher than they were, but so are the market values of homes and land. In this sense, real estate is the most worthwhile investment you can make and your best protection against inflation. And don't forget the priceless dividends your family will enjoy as you live in your growing investment.

Financing for other purchases often costs twice a smuch-and these things depreciate while a house usually grows in value. Check the trade-in value of your car when you turn it in for a new one. Also for the past ten years, real estate values have doubled the increase in the Dow Jones average.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Ford Realty Auction Co., Inc., Mt. Vernon, Ph. 256-4545. We're here to help!

Food Talk

Waste not, want not. This saying, like "a penny saved is a penny earned," makes as much sense now as it did in grandma's day. And small daily savings in the kitchen can add up to a substantial amount in annual food costs for a family. If you waste one slice of bread a day, by the end of the year you have bought about 22 loaves of bread that you didn't eat.

Money-saving habits. So starting with bread, let's look at some ways to avoid wasting food. Save bread heels for crumb toppings for casseroles or for bread puddings, meat and poultry stuffing. Freezing keeps them fresh and they can be used without thawing.

Leave the crusts on bread when you make sandwiches.

Eat the skin and outer leaves of most fresh vegetables and fruits, because they contain important nutrients. Just wash them first.

Leave skin on potatoes, carrots, apples and pears for baking and scalloping, for scalloping, slice pieces very thin and skins will be more tender. When cutting up or shredding vegetables and fruits, do so just before serving to prevent loss of vitamins. Leave skins on apples, pears or apricots for use in salads.

Cook vegetables just until tender. Overcooking wastes both nutrients and fuel.

More tips: use standard measuring cups and spoons, and follow recipes carefully. For instance, when you make biscuits or flour meats, don't use so much flour that some will be thrown away.

Roast meats at a low temperature from 300 to 325 degrees F to prevent excessive shrinking. This shrinkage can increase cost per serving.

Serve smaller helpings to young children. Offer them second helpings if they are still hungry.

No more throw-aways: to avoid throw-aways every time you clean out the refrigerator, check the foods on each shelf before you do your weekly food shopping. That way you'll spot the ones that should be eaten up right away before they have a chance to spoil.

Refrigerate foods in storage bags or covered containers to keep them from drying out or mingling their flavors. Cold air is dry air and it can rob unprotected foods of their moisture and freshness.

Prepare only the amounts of food your family can eat before it spoils, and use leftovers regularly. Call them "planned-overs" instead, and treat them accordingly!

Down On The Farm

BY ROY G. BROWN
ASSISTANT VICE PRESIDENT
CUMBERLAND PCA

The last few days there have many food thoughtful persons been thinking about gardening. And this is a most healthful, money saving thought.

There is no reason why anyone of sound mind could not have a bountiful garden of fruit and vegetables to provide food for a healthful family.

With a good garden most all families can have fresh food just about any month of the year with a freezer to store surplus food for winter use.

Gardens will not grow wild. They need a good piece of land, well drained that is free of weeds as possible, plowed and a good seed bed prepared. Select the things to be grown in the garden that the family likes.

Gardens can be planted at different times to provide fresh food from early summer to late fall.

There is no reason to buy so much food in cans, plastic bags, or paper bags when much better food can be grown at home. Oh, yes, it will take some work, time and care, but most people could do this while driving to town to buy food from a super market. It would also conserve energy that is so badly needed for many other things and also give you some badly needed exercise to keep healthful.

Try this for a summer project and see if you don't have a better table of food for the family and realize you have done a good deed "Down on the Farm."

Tobacco Plant Beds Need Water

The importance of moisture for tobacco plant beds is continuing to be emphasized by UK extension tobacco specialists.

"Seed germination time and immediately after the plants begin to appear in the beds are the critical times when the plants need moisture," says Joe H. Smiley, one of UK's tobacco specialists. "Unwatered beds can result in poor stands and stunted plants."

Windy weather, which is quite normal for the spring season, can carry moisture away from the soil surface. Windy weather, which is quite normal for the spring season, can carry moisture away from the soil surface. Windy weather, which is quite normal for the spring season, can carry moisture away from the soil surface.

Smiley urged the growers to check the plant beds frequently to keep tabs on any moisture needs. "Frequent watering at germination time is recommended if the soil surface is dry," he said. If the soil surface is dry, 150 gallons of water per bed will moisten the surface adequately.

After the plants are established, however, he advised that from 300 to 500 gallons of water per 100 square yards of bed may be needed each week during any given dry period.

Smiley made another point for growers to check-fertilizer injury. He said if any fertilizer injury begins to show up in the bed and the plant stand begins to disappear it is a definite indication the bed needs water.

Feeder Calf Sales

A record number of feeders were sold at the graded sales held at Laurel Sales and Farmers Livestock Market Friday, April 8, 1977. The 1,838 head of steers and heifers sold for a total value of $386,682.97.

The feeders were sorted at each yard according to breed. Farmers Livestock Market sold the Angus and Charolais and Laurel Sales sold the Hereford, Black-White Faced and Simmental feeders.

The graded steers at Laurel Sales sold for an average of $40.31 with an average weight of 571 pounds. Heifers weighed an average of 483 pounds and sold for $31.67.

The steers at Farmers Livestock Market weighed an average of 540 pounds and sold for $39.65 per hundred weight. Heifers weighed 532 pounds average and sold for an average of $32.54.

The sale top of $44.75 on 442 pound black-white faced steers and $34.10 on 470 pound Hereford heifers.

The number of feeders did attract a record number of potential buyers. Quality was better on heavier feeders, than on light-weight feeders in the sale.

The sale represents the growth in beef backgrounding and growing programs here in the area. Farmers buy of kept-light calves in the fall and winter them on a growing ration.

Local producers are wintering the 400 pound calves to gain 200 to 300 pounds during the winter months. The program is well suited to many farmers with high quality feed and skill in buying and handling light feeders.

The next graded sale will be September 2, 1977 for Yearling Steers only. Farmers Livestock Market is scheduled to have the September 2nd sale. If more than 1100 steers are entered, both yards will be used again to handle steers in the sale.

Pesticides

Some farmers are feeling the sting in the billfold and their pride... "Pesticide Hooker" who sell pesticides to farmers and other users by telephone are at it again.

A March 4, edition of a small town newspaper warned readers. "Many chemicals are being sold by telephone because of this one or you might find barrels of questionable products delivered to your door C.O.D. Many North Carolina officials have calculated that some herbicides being hawked by phone are so diluted that a user would have to buy $3,289 worth to treat one acre."

Prizes are sometimes offered to encourage purchase-watches, clock radios, etc. Calls are usually in early morning hours.

The vast majority of pesticide producers and dealers in this country condemn these unethical actions. The lessons for us is to watch the fly-by-nighters and continue to do business with reputable dealers.

Farmers are urged to help stop the telephone sales racket by keeping an accurate record of such calls and reporting them to the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. Helpful information would include: date of call, caller's name, his company's name, his telephone number, name of product(s) being peddled, the manufacturer and the EPA registration number of the product if one exists.

You should report these episodes to: Mr. Fred Waters, Supervisor, pesticide Section, Department for Natural Resources, and Environmental Protection, Century Plaza, Hwy. 1278, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

Some of Kentucky's most productive fishing occurs during the spring when game fish are spawning. During the spawns, the fish tend to be concentrated in certain areas and this makes them easy to catch.

So many fishermen try to plan vacations or even long weekend trips to coincide with the spawning activity of their favorite species. However, predicting exactly when a spawn is going to occur is pretty difficult, if not downright impossible.

In the first place, we can't predict the weather, and it is weather which determines when the spawn will take place. As the water temperature rises in the spring, fish begin to develop eggs and sperm. This development continues until the fish are ready to begin spawning, at which point they will begin to display the characteristic activity of the particular species.

The rate at which the water temperature rises is often as important as the temperature itself. A rapid rise will sometimes mean that the fish aren't yet ready to spawn, even though the temperature is within the range when spawning activity usually takes place. A gradual rise in temperature, on the other hand, gives the eggs and sperm time to develop, so spawning may take place as soon as the temperature reaches a certain point.

We do know, however, the temperature ranges at which spawning activity for the popular game species takes place. Remember that, like most everything else associated with fishing, the following guidelines are general and subject to influence by a variety of environmental factors.

The white bass is the first of our most popular fish to spawn, usually at a water temperature of 55 to 60 degrees. White bass "run" up tributary streams or into headwaters of lakes, where they deposit their eggs. The eggs adhere to the bottom, and the flowing water of the stream keeps them from sitting over. Fishermen who catch these white bass runs in full swing can often catch a limit of 60 fish in a short time.

As water temperatures continue to rise, crappie become more and more active, moving from the deep water areas into the shallows. They spawn at temperatures of between 60 and 65 degrees, usually in water from three to 10 feet deep with some kind of brush, weeds or sunken tree tops for protection. Crappie are communal spawners with large numbers congregating in the same area. Just find one of these areas and you're in business.

After the crappie have about spawned out, the largemouth bass begin. Like crappie, bass prefer water from three to 10 feet deep. However they like open water over a sand, gravel or hard clay bottom. Although bass are not communal, there will often be several beds in the same area because suitable conditions exist there. Since bass guard their nests, an intruder, including an artificial lure, will be attacked.

Bluegill wait until summer, when the water temperature exceeds 80 degrees, to spawn. These fish build nests in water up to three feet deep in areas where there are overhanging trees or bushes. Live worms or small artificial lures are productive over bluegill beds, but the angler has to be careful not to spook the fish back into deeper water.

Water temperatures at most of Kentucky's larger lakes are now approaching 80 degrees. White bass runs are going strong in several places, and crappie are starting to move into the shallows.

We're just at the threshold of our best fishing, so get ready!

Think of our historic structures and sites and treat them as living parts of

The Legislature gave two judgeships for the Pulaski and Rockcastle District - not for the counties. The result is that these two judges for this District are both from Somerset. The police courts are gone. The Magistrates Courts are gone. The local courts have been replaced. Before LIBERTY could ring we had to pay the toll.

Americans paid a heavy price in order to tell the whole world for whom the Liberty Bell tolled.

Both in lives and money. Today, that bell still rings loud and clear. Thanks to the over 9 1/2 million Americans taking stock in their country, buying U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Whether for education, retirement, or even a new home, Savings Bonds offer safety and security in savings. Savings that can mean financial independence for you. And an investment in freedom for America.

Roger Coldiron Withdraws From Magistrate's Race

Roger W. Coldiron has announced his withdrawal from the race for Magistrate of the First District.

"It is with great regret that I withdraw my name from consideration of the voters of Rockcastle County for 1st District Magistrate. There are several sound reasons for withdrawal and I have given much consideration to this decision.

First and foremost is that I am presently employed by the Signal. I don't feel that I could adequately perform my duties as a journalist if I were campaigning at the same time.

The founding fathers of the United States made freedom of the press the first and perhaps the greatest freedom we enjoy in this country. It was designed this way to make the press separate and apart from governmental authority. The press should be the watchdog of government-snapping and snarling at their every move. When the press becomes the lapdog of government, we are well on our way to destroying the democratic process. Therefore, the press should be separate and apart from government.

Thomas Jefferson once said, "If I could take my choice of government with newspapers or newspapers without government, I would gladly choose the latter." Jefferson knew that the two should never be merged in any way. Feelings of guilt have burdened me ever since I began making the attempt to serve in both capacities. The conflict is just too great.

In addition, there is an increasingly evident possibility that I will be leaving Rockcastle County near the beginning of 1978. It would be unfair to the people of the first district to vote for me if I were

On Saturday, April 16, Bert McWhorter and Jackie Cash took a truck load of linens, food, bedding and cleaning supplies to the flood ravaged town of Pineville, Ky. "We go there just in time," said Jackie, "their supplies were nearly exhausted. A line formed while the truck was being unloaded. Distribution by authorities there was made in an orderly fashion with the recipients registering their names and size of their families. They received the good accordingly." Bert and Jackie described the situation there in one word, "AWFUL." The people were busy hosing out the mud and hauled to a dump. To add to their distress, the stores in the area are unserviceable and their autos are, for the most part, destroyed. Therefore, they have no transportation to areas where supplies could be purchased. "I hope I never see anything like that again," they said.

On behalf of the Pineville residents, we would like to express our gratitude to all the wonderful Rockcastle Countians who gave so generously to this cause. Our appreciation also goes to Lee Durham, Cheryl Witt, WRVK and the Mt. Vernon Signal for freely publicizing the appeal; to Estil Hodges of the Western Auto store for his liberal contribution; to Brown's supermarket who not only made a generous donation but also sold us all items at discount prices; to E.J. Taylor of Taylor Produce for furnishing the truck-free of charge; to Bradley's Aroo station for donating gasoline for the truck and to Broedhead S&T Hardware, Cox Funeral Home, PCA, and Livingston Motors for allowing their places of business to serve as pick up stations.

We were told that government officials are to be in Pineville this week to dispense food stamps so, hopefully, the needs for food will be met. However,

Ordinance Will Prevail on Opening of Lake Linville

By: Roger Coldiron

The Mt. Vernon City Council took no further action on a motion made at the last regular council meeting to change the dates of operation of Lake Linville.

At a called meeting Tuesday night, the Council discussed the matter but, according to Mayor Roland Mullins, since no formal action was taken at the meeting, the date of operation specified in a city ordinance must be enforced. This would mean that no power boats will be allowed on the lake until June 10th. No move was made to rescind the motion that the date be changed to late May because Councilman Dennis Halcomb, who made the original motion, was not at Tuesday's called meeting.

The general feeling of the Council was that no further action would be taken to change or amend the city ordinance because by the time this could be done, June 10th would be passed.

Danny Ford and Roy Adams presented a proposal to the City Council asking that city water be supplied to their subdivision at Mareburg.

After lengthy discussion, the two and the Council decided that they (Mr. Ford and Mr. Adams) would hire a backhoe to dig the ditch for the line and buy the pipe and the Council would allow two city employees to lay the pipe. This move was necessary because city-owned equipment is now allowed outside the city limits.

Businessmen in Mt. Vernon have become concerned with traffic congestion around the Bank of Mt. Vernon where construction is underway. The mayor appointed Councilman Bob Jasper to meet with downtown businessmen and asked that group to discuss the problem with bank management.

William A. McClure, 62, of Mt. Vernon was hired to work a four-hour, six-day per week, watch for the Mt. Vernon Police Department. McClure was hired on the basis of his experience with the Pinkerton Agency which supplies security personnel to business and industry.

He was hired after the Council decided that Ghief Clifford Pittman needed help with covering the town more completely. Mr. McClure's exact hours are to be worked out later, but he will be working afternoons in the downtown area.

In other action, the Council decided to work out a plan for a clean-up of the town during April. Plans will be made for city employees to pick up "special" trash for one day. Watch next week's Signal for more information on this effort.

Time Changes This Sunday

You don't have to take my word for it - I wouldn't blame you after last year's fiasco but I have it very good authority that Eastern Daylight Time goes into effect this Sunday, April 24th. My very good authority is a calendar put out by Ford Realty and Auction Co., so if it's wrong - go looking for Sam Ford.

Mrs. Leah Riddle, right, Mt. Vernon Chairman for the Cystic Fibrosis Bike-A-Thon, and Mayor Roland Mullins, seated, look at a map. Police Chief John Grider maps out the route for Saturday's activities. The Bike-A-Thon is being held in the area of Mt. Vernon Elementary School and through pledges, the children will raise money by riding their bikes, for the Cystic Fibrosis Breath of Life campaign.

Rev. Lester Arnold has been preaching over WVEF for the past 21 years and he was surprised at Saturday night's Happy Gospel Jubilee at the Big Barn in Renfro Valley, with an award for his faithfulness. The award was presented by the Sunday

Over 600 children from Rockcastle County were once again treated to a free day at the Shrine Circus in Lexington last Saturday by the Rockcastle Shrine Club. Ten buses were supplied by the local board of education, the drivers donated their time, the Shriners bought the gas and insurance and 10 bands of children departed from the Mt. Vernon Elementary School about 1 p.m. Shriners participating in Saturday's event

Frankfort Watchline

By Ferrell Weikman

It was well past midnight when I swung my splattered car into the driveway of my home. Standing on the back porch, I carefully slipped off the green rubber knee boots that had seemingly become a part of my body during the previous five days. The mud on the boots had hardened into a thick layer of dirt. I dropped them into the grass to keep from spreading dust across what I knew would be a freshly vacuumed floor inside the house.

Entering the kitchen, I headed straight for the sink to get a drink of fresh water. It was a luxury I couldn't enjoy in Pineville, Pikeville, Harlan and South Williamson where I had spent my week. As I took a long drink, I knew my wife and child were sleeping soundly down the hall.

Standing alone in the kitchen, I suddenly began to feel guilty, helpless and very thankful. I was fortunate. My home and family were safe, clean and secure. The tragedies that I had spent five days recording were now only something I could describe to my Central Kentucky neighbors at our next cook-out. The ultimate misfortune of losing everything didn't happen to me. I had seen and sensed the grief, but I had left it in the rubble, silt and slime of the Big Sandy and Cumberland Rivers.

Every day with miracle drugs, modern technology and insecticides we fool Mother Nature. Sometimes, though, she won't be fooled. Our floodwaters and dams had not been successful in Eastern Kentucky. The stories of the victims brought back memories of the 1974 tornadoes. The people had little warning before the lethal powers of nature had ripped through their homes and businesses.

The floodwaters and dams had given many a sense of false security. "I never dreamed we'd have a flood again in downtown Pikeville," said a service station operator. "This one sure made a believer of me."

The floodwaters did not play favorites. Giant homes lavishly furnished with the wealth that coal had brought were treated with the same disregard as old camp houses with peeling green paint and tin roofs.

In one of his three day-long tours through the flood-stricken area, Governor Julian Carroll described the tragedy as "unholy". It was not an overstatement.

Carroll notices, as did other outsiders who ventured into the region, that despite the wreckage the spirit of the people remained high. Many had been washed out before. They knew it could happen again. Few would leave.

Almost everywhere I traveled, the residents of the devastated towns and their officials were friendly and helpful. Much more so I thought than I would have been had I been forced to stand by helplessly and watch my life's work destroyed.

As the floodwaters rose in Williamsburg, old-timers were comparing the river's expected crest with previous high water marks. As the downtown district and low-lying homes were evacuated, many people still smiled. They were willing to chat. A few wondered aloud why the federal government couldn't help get their town a floodwall.

While walking through downtown Pikeville after the floodwaters receded, shop owners carrying hoses and brooms smiled. Many laughed when I photographed them removing buckets of mud from their stores.

"President Carter had got to see this for himself," said one Pineville store owner pointing to a high water mark well above the sign hanging outside his store. Although dust was everywhere, the people were busy trying to restore a little normalcy to their lives. Normalcy that I had always taken for granted. I won't again. At least not for a while.

The story of Barbourville was inspirational. Put simply, the people saved their town. Surrounded on almost all sides by the twisting Cumberland River, Barbourville was a marshmallow in a cup of hot chocolate.

Still smiling after 36 hours without sleep, local officials and police officers described how everyone had pitched in during an all-night vigil to fill sandbags to keep the floodwaters out. For a few hours it was touch-and-go as the Cumberland reached to top of the bags, but the town was spared. Only when the residents of Barbourville see the damage upstream in Pineville they realize how fortunate they were.

Standing in front of the Pike County courthouse with a three-days growth of beard, County Judge Wayne Rutherford spoke softly about the spirit of the mountain people. "The mountain people are strong. We must rebuild and we will. This is a terrible thing that has happened, but we'll be back," Rutherford is running for re-election, but this was not a campaign speech. It was a sincere comment to an out-of-town reporter just passing through.

The crisp white sheet and blanket never felt so heavy when I slipped beneath them for what I hoped would be my first good night's sleep in a week. I knew, though, that only 150 miles away thousands would be spending the night on cots and old mattresses in church-basements and school gyms. What could I do? I'd done my part. For 18-20 years a day I reported on the scope of the tragedy and the massive needs of the people. Still, I felt I hadn't done enough.

Rockcastle Dar Visits Old State Capitol

Several members of the Rockcastle Chapter Daughters of American Revolution, visited the Old State Capitol on Saturday, April 16th, to visit the Old Capitol and the Kentucky Historical Society Museum. The tour began in the basement of the museum where displays included Stone Age tools and weapons of Prehistoric Indians. Another interesting display was the interior of a pioneer cabin showing the furniture of the period, wooden utensils for eating, forged iron tools and cooking utensils. Rooms on the first floor of the Museum featured period costumes and military uniforms of the early 1800's, silver articles crafted by early Kentucky silversmiths, a piano harp, and a "graveyard" quilt. A transportation exhibit displayed scale models of a stagecoach, flatboat, keelboat, steam boat and early steam locomotive.

The Old Capitol, which is the third capitol to be built on this spot the other two having burned was started in 1827 and completed in 1829. The architect for this beautiful stone Greek Revival style building was Gideon Shroyer, who was only twenty five years old at the time the capitol was started. One of the most interesting architectural features of the building is the free-standing, circular, stone stairway held in place by the keystone at the second floor landing. The rooms on the first floor are furnished in the periods of 1830-1850 in Shaker, Empire and Victorian styles. On the second floor are the chambers of the Senate and House of Representatives. Paintings of Kentucky artists were displayed on the first floor.

The ladies enjoyed a picnic lunch and then spent some time in the Kentucky Historical Society Library before returning home. The members of the group are hoping to return to Frankfort to tour Liberty Hall, the Orlando Brown House and the Armory.

To The Citizens And Voters In The Rockcastle County Primary Election May 24, 1977:

This is a series of accomplishments performed by me under my administration as County Judge of our county. These articles will be a little lengthy, so I hope you will bear with me and take time to read all of them.

I want to say at the outset anything I say will be the truth and can be proven by facts and records.

My first article will commence with my first term as Judge, which was January 1, 1934. At that time, our county was in debt $240,000.00 which would run into millions at the present time. At that time, the Bank of Mt. Vernon was the county depository and still is. If you had a county check or voucher at that time and took it to the bank to be cashed, they would discount it from 10 to 20 percent depending on who had it and it was for as the older citizens will know and will tell you so.

When I received my first voucher as County Judge, I took it to the bank for payment and the cashier handed me the money, less 10 percent. I asked him for the full amount and he told me that was the rule they had. I told him that I would not accept anything less than the full amount. He told me I would have to see the president who was Dr. Monroe Pennington. He ran the bank at that time and with an iron hand. The doctor's office was upstairs over the bank and I immediately went up to his office and told him of the circumstances, to which he said yes that was right - they would discount it 10 percent. I told him they wouldn't discount mine one penny and he said I would like to see you get it. I said I'll get it - every penny.

At that time, we had about $400,000.00 on deposit in the bank in a voted road bond issue. I went to the courthouse and ordered the sheriff, Dave Clark, to summon the magistrates to meet in my office the next morning at 9 o'clock for a special session of court.

Next morning, Mr. Tom Nicely, the County Court Clerk, saw the magistrates gathering in, which was unusual at that time. He asked Dave Clark what was going on and Dave said I guess you will find out soon.

I had called the magistrates for the purpose of moving our depository and Mr. Nicely, being one of the directors of the bank, said hold on men and let me go talk to Doctor. He went and in a few minutes, he and the Doctor came back to the courthouse and the Doctor said boys we have decided to pay you officers the full amount of your vouchers.

I had looked into the law about the matter and told them they would not only pay ours but everyone we give legal things, that the law said what we give would have to be paid as long as they were legal.

They had to agree to that because one bank, The Peoples Bank of Mt. Vernon, had just gone into bankruptcy a short time before this and they knew if we changed the depository there would be a run on their bank and they might have to close out.

From that day to this you can get 100 percent on all vouchers the county gives. At that time, there was no government guarantee on deposits.

We have come a long way since then and I am writing these articles to show the progress we have made while and when I was County Judge.

Next week, I will take up the $240,000.00 indebtedness and how we paid it off to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The magistrates at that time were:
Bill Hansel, District Number 1
Sam Chandler, District Number 3
Sherman Swinford, District Number 4
Frank Shell, District Number 5

All good honest men that looked after the affairs of the county as should be.

Charles C. Carter, Candidate County Judge Executive, May 24, 1977

The above article is no reflection on any of the present Bank of Mt. Vernon officials as none of the present officials or employees were in the bank at that time.

resurfacing for 1.3 mile of KY 1250, Brodhead-Spiro Road and 3.3 miles of Copper Creek-Conway road; and grading, drainage and stone surfacing for nine-tenths of one mile of KY 1797, Cooksburg-Johnetta Road.

The rural secondary road program was established under a 1948 law to help maintain and improve the farm-to-market and other essential rural roads.

It is financed under a formula which provides that two cents of the tax collected on each gallon of motor fuels sold in Kentucky be set aside for allocation to support rural secondary road programs.

The allocations are announced once annually, on a fiscal-year basis. Grayson also announced the 1977-78 Energy Program for Rockcastle County, which totals $1,051. This money will be used, Grayson said, for blacktop patching on 16.1 of Mt. Vernon-Sand Springs-Billows Road.

Senator Huddleston said last week that Agriculture Secretary Robert Bergland spoke too hastily in coming out against loose-leaf sales of burley tobacco.

"The results of this year's experiments in loose-leaf sales are not yet in, and I think it is unwise to be making judgements before that time," said Huddleston, whose Senate agriculture subcommittee handles tobacco legislation.

a primeval scene complete with pre-historic animals, plants and a volcano. The exhibit was a project of all the 6th grade science classes and was sponsored by Mrs. Carla Hale, science teacher.

Rhoda Sue Clement, SN/BC and Teresa Foddrell, SN/BC from the Berea College Senior Nursing program were at the Senior Citizens meeting Tuesday afternoon and on two previous meeting dates of the organization. The first two dates were concerned with a health screening - weight, height, blood pressure, pulse, respiration, hemoglobin and blood sugar - and on their last visit Tuesday, the nurses gave the senior citizens an explanation and coordination of the data collected earlier. A filmstrip "Perspectives On Aging", Part II, was shown to emphasize the self-dignity and importance of the aged in today's society. The purpose of the programs was to increase senior citizens' awareness of health maintenance, early detection of general health status with referrals and related teaching and to recognize the aged as a unique being. A Science Fair was held at the Mt. Vernon Elementary School last Thursday which revealed projects of artistic and scientific interest. Students in the top photo are studying a project demonstrating plant structure.

County Will Receive $249,576 for Rural Secondary Road Program

by Emmett Rogers

State Transportation Secretary Calvin G. Grayson has announced that Rockcastle County will receive $249,576 to support its 1977-78 program for rural secondary roads.

Similar allocations to other counties also are being announced locally.

According to Grayson, the Rockcastle County program for the fiscal year, beginning next July 1, will provide for maintenance along some 74 miles of local roads.

Special improvement projects also included in that program are blacktop

More than 130 burley farmers in Kentucky too part in the loose-leaf experiments and four major tobacco companies are to report next month on how the loose-leaf sales worked for them.

"In addition to these reports, it is vitally important for the Agriculture Department to receive the comments of burley farmers themselves, especially those who took part in the experiment, before any final decisions are made," Huddleston added.

Mrs. Edna Shell Allen of Hamilton, Ohio supplied us with this 1937 photo of the Brushy Ridge School taken by Theo. Fig. Mr. Hubert Smith was the teacher at that time. In the photo are, back row, from left: Elsie McGuire, Celia McGuire, Ruth Shell, Mable Smith, Lena Miller, Edna Shell, Ruby Himes, Marie Mullins, Ruby Anglin, Elizabeth Young and Alpha Shell. Middle row, from left: Elizabeth Smith, Virgil Mullins, Walter Smith, John Anglin, Earl Anglin, Raymond Miller, Noah Mullins, Cecil Mullins and Homer Mullins. Seated, from left: Arthur Anglin, Delmer Shell and Walter Young. Last week, we ran a picture of the Brick Plant that used to be at Dudley, near Brush Creek, with an unidentified man in it. He is no longer unidentified. Mrs. Addie Miller tells us that this is her husband, Orville "Dude" Miller who is now 70 and they reside at Pine Hill. Mr. Miller, who was about 17 or 18 when the picture was taken, worked in the sand quarry at the plant.

Judges, Justices and Master Comm. Must Disqualify Selves

Judges, justices and master commissioners in the new state courts system must disqualify themselves from cases in which they or close relatives have a financial interest, according to an opinion from the state attorney general's office. The opinion was written by Charles W. Runyan, assistant deputy attorney general in response to a request from Jefferson Circuit Court Judge Charles M. Leibson, Common Pleas Branch. According to Runyan's opinion, judges should disqualify themselves from cases in which they or close relatives have a financial or ownership interests, "however small, in a business organization which is party to the law suit...This could include stock ownership, corporate bonds and bank or saving and loan association certificates of deposit."

The only exception to this, he said, would be ownership in a mutual or common investment fund that holds securities, or a proprietary interest of a policyholder in a mutual insurance company, or a depositor in a mutual savings association if the outcome of the litigation could not substantially affect the value of the interest."

Runyan further wrote that the legislature adopted the basic concept of interest of the Judicial Code of Conduct which uses the civil system of determining the degree of relationship. This would include relatives of the third degree of relationship, including parents, offspring, brothers, sisters, grandparents, grandchildren, aunts, nieces, great-grand parents, great-grand children, uncles and nephews.

Runyan said that cases in any stage of active litigation on and after March 19, will be affected by the disqualification statute.

Rockcastle Countians Attend ARC Meeting

Nine Rockcastle Countians attended a hearing of the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) at Corbin, Kentucky, Wednesday, April 13th. The hearing, in keeping with a congressional mandate, gives local citizens an opportunity to identify and discuss issues which will be considered in the ARC Plan for 1978. Projects in Rockcastle that are sponsored or co-sponsored by the ARC include: West Rockcastle Water Project, Rockcastle Industrial Site, North Rockcastle Water Extension, Vacation School, Child Development (KIPP) and Parking area for the Rockcastle County High School.

The hearing followed a board meeting of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District at the Corbin Holiday Inn. It was scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. but due to the volume of business of the Cumberland Valley ADD Meeting, the ARC hearing didn't start until nearly one hour later.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Wilburn Pratt of the Kentucky Development Cabinet. The hearing was conducted by Mr. Darrell Gilliam of the State ARC Staff in the Development Cabinet. Issues discussed were housing, flood problems, health care, community services, economic development, transportation, education, environment issues and public participation. The late start of the hearing drew the criticism of one participant, Mr. Bill Carson, Station Manager of Radio Station WYWT, Barbourville, Kentucky. Ballots were distributed for each person present to list each issue in the order of importance as they saw them.

Forty-nine people attended the hearing. Those attending from Rockcastle County were: Mr. Wayne Stewart, Mr. William W. James, Mr. Howard Linville, Judge Hubert Thacker, Mr. Clyde Linville, Mayor Roland Mullins, Mt. Vernon, Ky., Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Carlotti of Livingston and Mrs. Hubert Thacker.

These bus drivers volunteered their services last Saturday to transport Rockcastle County children to the Shrine Circus in Lexington. The buses are furnished each year by the Rockcastle County Board of Education. In the photo are, from

Mrs. Cleda Shepherd. Over 600 children and adults from Rockcastle County attended the Shrine and guests of the Rockcastle County Shrine Club.

The "World's Largest Rolling Casket Display" was displayed Monday afternoon by Raymond "Pill" Baker. The 35 foot tractor-trailer's interior was custom designed and built by employees of Kentucky Casket Company in Livingston and carpeted by Jerry's Tire Center. The trailer will hold 50 assorted size caskets at one time and Mr. Baker, and his partner Monty Baker, use it on their sales trips through a seven-state area for the casket company, Kentucky Casket, owned by Monroe Baker, is presently expanding its facilities and putting on more employees. The factory has been in business for the past 16 years and has a policy to employ only Rockcastle County since this type of casket display is the only one of its kind in the country.

Cumis Insurance Society, 11.1 percent; Commonwealth Fire and Casualty, 25 percent on personal injury protection and 10 percent on bodily injury.

A filing for a 5.6 percent increase in Pennsylvania General was denied after representatives of the company failed to appear. Hearing officer Manny Frockt, Louisville, said he was forced to deny that request since the company had received the same notice of the hearings as those firms that did sent representatives.

An appearance by another company, The Home, has been canceled since that carrier's request for a 24.8 percent increase is for the physical damage portion only of auto premiums and does not apply to no-fault coverage.

State Rep. Jimmy White (D-Barbourville) also appeared as an intervenor against Prudential. However, Frockt ruled that White's contention that the cost of Prudential agent's training sessions were passed on to policyholders was not germane to the hearing. Frockt said questioning should be limited to the credibility of the filings and that the hearing was not called to "philosophize about the type of insurance Kentucky should have."

McGuffey said a ruling on the rate increases would be made in about a month.

Requested Rate Increases for No-Fault Insurance

The president of the Kentucky Trial Lawyers Assoc. lambasted the state's two-year-old no-fault insurance program here yesterday during a Department of Insurance hearing on requested rate increases for automobile insurance by six of Kentucky's smaller carriers.

Gary Weiss, Louisville, said the rate increase went against "the original concept of no-fault insurance" and claimed that the system was more costly than the previous common-law method. Weiss suggested that Insurance Commissioner Harold McGuffey overrule all no-fault rate increase until the 1978 General Assembly meets in early January. Weiss said a measure calling for the repeal of the current no-fault law would be brought before the legislature.

"The insurance companies here today who proposed no-fault advertised it as the answer to all problems and badly misjudged the effect of that law should pay for their mistakes. The public should not," Weiss suggested.

However, several insurance company spokesmen cited inflation as contributing most to the requested increases.

McGuffey, in a later interview, replied that a freeze on auto rates would "not be in the public interest and would result in chaotic conditions." The commissioner said the auto insurance market was becoming increasingly restrictive as that a rate freeze would force many car owners into a substandard market where rates become quite prohibitive.

In addition, McGuffey said he thought the no-fault law had been successful in that those injured in car wrecks have received more benefits and prompt payments while realizing a possible savings over the old tort system.

The commissioner pointed out that most companies had adequate rates prior to a mandated year-long freeze beginning July 1, 1975, with the implementation of no-fault. McGuffey explained that he had denied all rate increases six months prior to that period. "Under these circumstances, plus the effects of inflation, it is very difficult for me to understand why some people feel that some rate increases are not in order," he stated.

The companies appearing before the department to request increase for both bodily injury and personal injury protection and the increases requested were:

Prudential, 13 percent; Meridian Mutual, 25 percent; Nationwide, six percent; Colonial Penn., 25 percent;
