

One in Thirteen Cars Inspected Found to be Defective

One of every thirteen vehicles inspected in Kentucky during 1976 was found to have at least one mechanical defect, according to a report released here by State Transportation Secretary Calvin Grayson.

The Division of Inspections of the Bureau of Vehicle Regulation reported that 1,751,601 automobiles had been inspected at more than 3,000 official stations across the state.

Although the number of vehicles inspected increased by 7.3 per cent over 1975, the number of rejected automobiles was up by only four percent.

Archie Craft, Director of the Bureau of Inspections, credited this to the upswing in new car sales during 1976. On the average, inspectors found 1.5 defects for each vehicle they rejected.

As in past years, the most frequent cause of rejection was a faulty exhaust system. Other common defects found by the inspectors were turn signals, tires, tail lights, stop lights, head lights, and windshield wipers.

STRETCHING YOUR FOOD DOLLAR
 Refrigerating a "small amount of food in a large container is not a good idea. All that extra air in the oversize container will just dry out the food. So put a little food in a little container to make the food keep better and longer.

EXTENSION HOME ECONOMICS

 FOR HOME ECONOMICS

Fresh Greens From Ma Nature
 Even if your spinach, kale and beet greens aren't yet ready to harvest, you can probably still have your own fresh greens for supper tonight.

Look over your lawn, your yard, and uncultivated parts of your home garden for wild greens. They're every bit as good as any you can grow in your neat garden row!

Wild Spinach or Lambs Quarters-this one is called "pig weed" also. It is at its tenderest best right now, although you can keep harvesting and eating it for several months. It may be just another garden weed to you, but gather up a bunch and cook it the way you would cook spinach-just barely, in a small amount of water in a tightly-covered pan. It will taste much like spinach, and it contains all the same vitamins and minerals.

It's a pretty little plant. The underside of the light green leaves is mealy-white. You can start picking and eating it when it's just 3 or 4 inches tall. Later on, the stems of the larger plants are tough, but you can cut them off and just cook up the still tender leaves.

Pokeweed: Poke first comes up like tender stalks of asparagus and can be cooked and served the same way as this delicacy. A little later, gather and cook the tender new leaves.

The poke berries that finally appear are poisonous, but you can eat the younger leaves of a mature plant.

Wild leaves are biting-tasting and the stalks become woody and not safe to eat. You can recognize early poke by its light green clump of three or four finger size spear. These tender shoots are good boiled in a little water and served with butter and salt.

Other Wild Ones: These are just two of the favorite and most abundant wild greens in Kentucky, but there are many others free for the picking: dandelion greens, wild lettuce, crow's foot, "hammer-on-the-rock", evening primrose, watercress, upland cress, shepherd's purse and broad-leaf plantain.

For more information, stop by the Rockcastle County Extension office in Mt. Vernon. It's located in the courthouse. Ask for Extension Publication ENP-32, "Wild Greens", by Information Specialist Neely Shackelford and Foods and Nutrition Specialist Fudeko Maruyama.

If you discover lots of these wild green nearby, you might want to can or freeze some. Freezing is easiest and best. Otherwise, process them in your pressure canner, following the directions for spinach. If you put up the tender young spears of pokeweed, follow the directions for asparagus.

 For more help get an old-timer familiar with these plants to make the rounds of your yard, pastureland or garden with you. Learn how to recognize this free and nutritious food. Mother Nature is raising.

An Old Mountain Legend: Wild greens gathering started here in Kentucky during pioneer days, according to Extension information, specialist Neely Shackelford. After a long winter of eating deer meat, salt pork, hominy and dried foods, the settlers craved fresh fruits and vegetables.

One early spring day, pioneer women tending cattle outside Ford Boonesborough decided to try out the greens their cows were eating. They gathered up some of these wild plants and cooked them with a piece of salt pork. They found them not only delicious, but also deep-down satisfying.

Spring is when a camper, hiker or fisherman might encounter young wild animals in the woods. The first impulse, in many instances, is a desire to "adopt" the baby skunk, raccoon, fawn or other creature.

But the best course of action, according to Joe Bruna, fish and wildlife's director of game management, is to leave baby animals, even those seemingly "orphanded", where they are.

Although this advice may at first glance seem hard-hearted, it is actually kinder in the long run for both the animal and the humans involved, Bruna says.

First, the baby animal may not be orphaned at all. A fawn, for example, that seems all alone in the big woods probably is an anxious mother waiting nearby, but she will not show herself while a human is in the vicinity.

Second, the care and feeding of a young animal is demanding and complicated, so most of those taken from the wild will die unless they are given the expert care that only a knowledgeable person can provide.

And if the animal does survive past infancy, other problems arise. Unlike dogs or cats, which have been domesticated for centuries, wild animals seldom lose their "wild" nature. An adult deer, particularly a buck, can be extremely dangerous, and a raccoon, even one raised in the house, starts thinking he can whip anybody in the family when he gets to weigh about 25 pounds—and he's right.

Wild animals raised in captivity can seldom be returned successfully to the wilds, creating the problem of what to do with an unmanageable adult fox, raccoon, skunk or deer. Often the animal must be destroyed, since it is almost impossible to get zoos to accept wild pets.

Then there's the problem of disease. Wild animals can carry and transmit to man several diseases, the most serious of which is rabies. Often, an animal which allows itself to be captured is diseased, so any animal which does not show a normal fear of man or displays signs of distress should be left strictly alone.

Skunks are particularly dangerous, since they can carry the rabies virus for six to eight months before symptoms appear. Even a skunk bought from a pet store and certified disease-free could develop rabies months after it is purchased.

Skunks and foxes probably represent the most common reservoirs for rabies in the wilds, although "virtually all mammals are capable of carrying this disease and transmitting it to man. The danger of rabies, by itself, it reason enough to leave wildlife in the woods.

Finally, there's the legal aspect. To keep wildlife as pets, a permit from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources is required, and a permit will be granted only for those animals taken during the open season for that particular species or for animals obtained from pet stores or other legal sources.

Without a permit, the animal is subject to confiscation and the owner can be fined. A conservation officer, upon application for a permit, will check to see if the animal was obtained legally and if the facilities for keep it are sanitary and of adequate size. The officer will also make periodic checks to make sure the animal is being well cared for.

So for both animals and people, the best course of action is to leave wildlife in the woods. Although the impulse to adopt a wild creature can be great, it's better to enjoy birds and animals in their natural surroundings instead of subjecting both them and you to unnecessary hardships.

Consumer Comment

By Robert F. Stephens
Attorney General

Many consumers have been attracted or persuaded by advertising which declare, "Thousands of fabulous jobs are opening up...Let us qualify you for a high paying, prestigious career—all you need is ambition to secure the job of your dreams...and only $10 down...sign here."

Unfortunately advertisements of this type often mislead consumers into investing in an illegitimate private vocational or trade school that results in a great loss of both money and time.

If you are considering enrolling in a private vocational or trade school, consider the following:

First, obtain the school catalogs or brochures. Study these carefully, be sure to note the educational objectives.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Doan of Ohio visited Mr. Jim Blanton Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Wager and daughter of Cincinnati, Ohio visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cash Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Singleton of Cincinnati, Ohio visited Mrs. Cordia Cash Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cash visited his wife, Debbie's aunt in Louisville, Saturday.

Mrs. Ray Bullock is a patient in the Rockcastle Co. Hospital at this writing. We hope she has a speedy recovery.

National Nursing Home Week

Snyder Nursing Home, along with nursing homes across the nation, will be observing National Nursing Home Week, May 8-14. This special week, starting appropriately on Mother's Day, is sponsored by the American Health Care Association to honor residents of nursing homes and acquaint the public with the wide range of valuable services these facilities provide.

The nursing home welcomes and encourages visitors at anytime, but during National Nursing Home Week a special invitation is extended to surrounding communities to pay a visit to the nursing home to talk with old friends, make new friends and meet the staff.

Observance of this emphasis week affords an excellent opportunity to share a friendly smile, a warm handshake, a pat on the back or a few words of encouragement to someone who needs to know you care. Remember the week of May 8-14 and help make it special for the residents and staff of the nursing home by your visit.

Are Damages Tax Deductible?

As a homeowner, expenses from damages or improvements may affect your income taxes. For instance, damage to your house from, say, fire or windstorm may be partially deductible as a casualty loss. After subtracting insurance compensation, deduct $100 for each accident and the remainder can be claimed as a tax deduction.

Improvements, such as a porch, garage, finished basement and so on cannot be deducted. However, they can be added to the cost of the house when figuring profit on the sale. So, keep good records of such expenses.

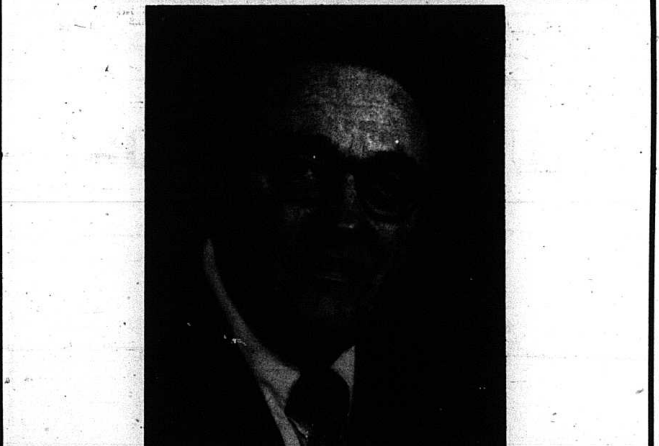

Try to preserve cancelled checks and receipted bills. They will help substantiate the figures if necessary. I'm just scratching the surface here. If this situation applies to you, I suggest you contact your nearest Internal Revenue Office for a copy of their pamphlet #530 "Tax Information on Deductions for Homeowners." It may save you some money.

To the Citizens and Voters of Rockcastle County VOTE FOR ROBERT E. ROBINSON

County Judge Executive

My campaign slogan has been a Progressive County With Management. To progress, you must have leadership. To have leadership, you must have Management. To have Management, you must have Cooperation. To have Cooperation, you must have the Ability to understand the issues before the County.

With the implementation of the new County Judge Executive (County Manager) system this coming January, the time has arrived for the citizens to think of what the next four years will be if we are to continue to progress and to have a better county to live in and raise our children. In my travels and campaigning around this county of ours, the most important thing in the citizens' minds is progress, growth, educational opportunities and future jobs. It is obvious to them that our current situation of county management isn't the answer to our problems. We must therefore utilize our future resources and funds that are available for the betterment of our county, for all the citizens and not for building a political base for future campaigns. For strong leadership and management, vote and elect me as your next County Judge Executive.

SHORT ROWS

By Neville Shackelford

Each spring many well-intentioned persons out on walks often dig up wild flowers and shrubs and bring them home with the idea of starting a wildflower garden. This may not always be a good thing. First, such practice may be against the law, especially so if the plant is in a state park. Then the digger-upper may be guilty of trespass, if not of theft of private property. Even in permissible, wild plants and shrubs should never be moved unless the remover knows what he is doing. It is not always possible to transplant from the wild with success. Most wild plants are highly selective as to where they will grow and in what type of soil.

To achieve even a moderate success, a person trying to establish a wildflower garden should provide as nearly as possible the conditions found in nature. Light direction-how much sunshine falls on the plant during that day-is important. Some plants need much sunshine, others but little. Most wildflowers need plenty of humus and the productivity of the soil depends in large measure upon the amount of organic material it contains. Some wild plants require acid soil and persons desiring to make wildflower gardens should first procure the best information obtainable about the types that will do well in the type of soil and under the climatic and topographic conditions in which the garden is to be made. Plants taken from nature and transplanted under conditions in which they cannot thrive is a waste of time and effort, if not a waste of plants.

In fact, it is permissible to dig up wild plants only when they are threatened by destruction by some kind of a construction or earth moving project. Our flowering plants are much too scarce to permit further waste. The attempt to establish a wildflower garden by approved methods is commendable. By such methods, threatened plants, may be saved from extinction. Also wildflower lovers may insure themselves and others an opportunity to always enjoy them by making such gardens. The thing to do is make them in the right way.

Actually the best and safest way to secure wildflowers for transplanting is to purchase them from one of several mailorder nurseries that specialize in such products. Most garden magazines list such nurseries in their classified advertisements. These offerings are relatively inexpensive and because they are partially "tamed" are more likely to grow. Too, instructions on how to nurture these plants usually accompany the product.

Fairview

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church May 1st, and Sunday School attendance was one hundred and ten. It's so good to be able to be in the Lord's house on the Lord's Day. We extend a welcome to you to come and worship with us any time. We'd be glad to have you.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Dean and daughter of Dayton, Ohio were Sunday guests of his father, Rev. Ray Dean of Boone. They also attended Sunday School and church at Fairview.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander and son, Kenneth visited with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen, Friday night.

Mrs. Willard (Louise) Todd of Rockford returned to her home Saturday from the Berea hospital following a stay there of nearly two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen visited Mr. and Mrs. Willard Todd Sunday afternoon. Please continue to pray for her.

My news this week is scarce due to my being so busy. My main reason for writing is to wish all you wonderful mothers a happy and joyful day next Sunday, May 8th. My mom has been gone now over two years but I still miss her so much. Mothers (real mothers) are wonderful people. They go through so much, bringing a child in the world and raising them to be nice decent men and women. It takes much praying, counseling, sweat and tears. But thank God there's a lot of joy and happiness mixed in these years. I have five wonderful children and ten beautiful grand children and I love them dearly and I know all you Mother's love yours as much as I love mine.

Now to you who have a Mother, I'd like to say be good to her, love an respect her and please visit her when you can. If you live away and can't go see your Mother next Sunday-give her a call on the telephone and tell her you love her. It will make her feel good and you, too. Love is a wonderful thing; it reaches out to people.

So again, I say-God bless all you Mothers, everywhere. Have a happy day.

Down On The Farm

BY ROY G. BROWN
ASSISTANT VICE PRESIDENT
CUMBERLAND PCA

April, as most of you know, was designated as clean up month.

I would like to commend the many persons who took part in the cleanup campaign.

I know this was hard work as I helped some in picking up all kinds of litter from baby pampers, beer cans, coke cans, whiskey bottles, milk cartons, jugs, tires, clothing and just about anything you can think of.

On one half mile strip of Ky. 70 over ten large garbage bags were filled.

It is a shame and disgrace to the human race that we have people that don't have enough pride and respect for their neighbors and country that will deliberately drive along our highway and throw out all this rubbish and litter.

Some will even bring it from their homes and throw it out on the road sides. If it is not picked up by somebody, it will soon drift out on the farm land to get clogged up in farm equipment and cause it to bread down, therefore adding to the cost of food.

The littering law needs to be enforced and everyone seen throwing out or dumping garbage on roadsides should be fined the limit. This would help in keeping our roadsides attractive and people could enjoy driving through the countryside.

Again, I would like to commend and thank the ones who helped cleanup not only roadsides but around the farms and homes. A special thanks to the children who worked so hard to make our county look better "Down on the Farm".

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Arch McGuire, wish to express our heartfelt thanks to each and everyone who helped in anyway. The Beasley Sparks Ramey and Martin Funeral Home, Bro. Arnold Pingleton, the music by Mrs. Edmunson, also the ones who brought food. All this was greatly appreciated and will never be forgotten. God bless each and everyone of you.

"What is a Mother?"

While the first grade children were making their mother's card for Mother's Day, Mrs. Jordan asked this question, "What is a Mother?" The answers were so cute that she would like to share them with you.

"She's a woman that's got kids," said Melissa's quick reply.
Bobby said, "She's a woman that fixes us something to eat."
"She cleans us up for school," Mike said. "And she cleans up the floor."

added Anita.

James says, "She helps you get your shoes on."

Tracey says, "She makes the beds and works all the time."

"Mother is a person who loves you," smiled Julie.

"She's a wife," said Chris. "And she's a girl," added Jennifer.

Kenny replied, "mother is a sweet person to be with."
Chucky said, "She's a lady."

CANCER Answer line

American Cancer Society

A regular feature, prepared by the American Cancer Society, to help save your life from cancer.

A shoe salesman asks: "What is fiber, and what role does it play in our diet in relationship to cancer?"

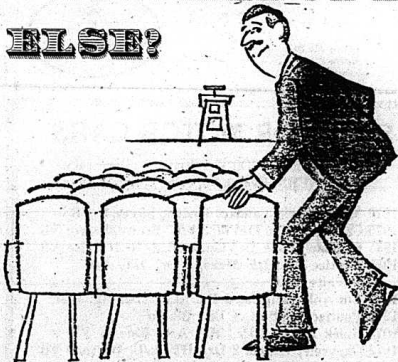

ANSWERLINE: Fiber or "roughage" is the non-digestible part of plant food which provides the body with a useful bulk substance but little actual nutrition. Bulk is very important to proper intestinal function, and in recent years, there has been increasing speculation about a possible relationship between a diet high in fiber and a population with a low rate of colon-rectal cancer.

For example, Uganda, which has a very high fiber diet, also has the world's lowest rate of colon-rectal cancer. On the other hand, in a state like Connecticut, where the fiber intake is generally low, the rate of colon-rectal cancer is much higher. This is a statistical observation and a lead to follow up with more biological and biochemical research. There are, however, a number of scientists who now believe that it is wise to include a higher amount of fiber in the typical American diet by including fresh fruits and vegetables, and substituting whole grain bread, flour and cereal for refined, flour and white bread.

A woman in her 40's writes: "I plan to take hormone pills to help me stay and look young despite menopause. Is this a wise idea?"

ANSWERLINE: In the opinion of Dr. Saul B. Gubberg, Professor and Chairman of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City, and an authority in the field, the routine use of hormones such as estrogen to keep women "youthful" is misguided and possibly dangerous. There is a good deal of scientific evidence that women taking estrogen have a higher risk of developing endometrial cancer, a form of cancer in the lining of the uterus. It is therefore unwise to use estrogen to "preserve youth" a desired effect that has not been proven. Please note that this discussion centers on the use of estrogen therapy for a cosmetic purpose, there are medical situations which call for the short-term use of estrogen under careful surveillance.

County Agent's Notes

COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Watch For Tobacco Anthracnose in Plant Beds

Kentucky tobacco growers have been warned to keep a check on their plant beds for signs of anthracnose, a disease that hits the plant beds and can cause severe losses.

Joe H. Smiley, a UK extension tobacco specialist, said anthracnose is probably carried to the plant beds by water that flows over the area from outside the boundary of the bed. To combat that source Smiley advised the grower to be certain the bed is well ditched and raised above the surrounding ground so that any excess surface water will flow around the bed and drain off. Preparing beds in that manner was termed a safer practice than allowing the beds to be level with the surrounding terrain.

The tobacco specialist said the infection may also be carried on the shoes of workers who have walked through pastures and then stepped on the surface of the plant beds. He added the disease has also been observed in beds over which livestock have been allowed to walk.

One of the early symptoms of anthracnose is the appearance of numerous small spots on the leaves of the tobacco plants, Smiley said. The spots are reddish brown at first, but later turn purplish white, sometimes giving the plants a silvery appearance.

He said brown, elongated spots also appear on the underside of leaf midribs and veins, causing the leaf to pucker or break. Several spots on a small leaf often are seen to merge into a single dead area, killing the entire leaf.

"The disease may be unusually severe in wet weather, killing large as well as very small plants," Smiley said. "If the plants are not killed, they remain yellow and stunted as long as the disease remains active."

In advanced stages the plants over the entire bed appear to have been scalded, he added.

Anthracnose is normally checked by clear, dry weather, but the tobacco specialists said, the disease can remain active in a wide temperature range.

As for control of the disease, there are several materials recommended that have proven to be very effective. The materials are Polyram, Perham, Zineb, and Maneb. Any of the materials may be sprayed on the beds in solution or applied as dust; the materials being available in dust or wettable powder form.

Smiley emphasized that users of the materials should follow instructions on the labels when making the applications.

Sprays or dusts should be applied weekly, he said. In spraying, use a pressure sprayer at the rate of three to five gallons per acre.

"When plants are larger, more spraying may be needed for sufficient coverage," he noted. "Dusts applied with a rotary duster will also give good coverage of plants."

When using Polyram, one treatment is usually all that is needed, however, sprays can be applied as often as two or three times without injury to the tobacco plants.

Landscaping Notes

A low house will have more style if you plant irregular, broad leaves deceduous shrubs to break the corners rather than column or cone-shaped, narrow-leaved evergreens. The softening effect of the broad leaved shrubs de-emphasizes the corners, allowing emphasis at the entrance to direct visitors to the front door.

It is also important to select corner and all other foundation plants whose mature heights require minimum maintenance to keep them in proportion to the home. For instance, choose corner plants which will not grow much taller than two thirds of the distance from ground to eaves. For below the windows, select plants which "break" things above the window sill.

Plants styled by pruning to keep a disciplined, neat shape effectively soften straight lines of buildings. The custom of shearing plants does not soften building lines. In addition, depth of foliage to sheared plants' interiors is shallow. This usually results in poorer growth and earlier death than with discipline-pruned plants.

Fads and fashions in landscaping may last long enough to become recognized as past or present customs, but only those which improve your home's appearance and are in style produce the most effective landscape. There is no reason to follow the landscaping fashion of a past period if it is not in style.

This Little Piggie Limped to Market

Next time you meet a pig limping down the street, know that it's a victim of civilization. Once upon a time the pig roamed over carpets of grass or mud. Now he roams in a pen with a concrete floor. It's a sanitary but hard on his feet and legs. The result is the pig develops stiff legs and weak feet.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has found that unsound feet and legs in pigs are inherited, so an attempt will be made to breed out these characteristics.

What Is Soil Stewardship?

By Greg Stephens
Soil Conservativist
Rockcastle Co. ASCS

At a time when pressures grow on the land it is useful to remind ourselves of our allegiance to God and our dependence on His grace.

Scientists studied 155 pigs from 47 litters calling 25 different boars "papa" (the father) and 25 different sows "mama" (the mother). They found that pigs with the fastest early growth generally were sown in their feet and legs after they reached two pounds. And pigs with less backfat and larger loin eye areas generally had sounder feet and legs and moved more freely. Tests indicate that careful selection and breeding practices could, within a reasonable time, produce faster gaining and leaner, heavier pigs with sound feet and legs, even on concrete. A leaner pig, of course, means leaner pork for you. This might also give people with foot problems too much backfat something to think about.

To: Voters of Fifth Magisterial District

On May 24, 1977, the voters of the Fifth Magisterial District will choose the candidate to represent them for the next four years. For twelve years, I served as Magistrate. I did my best with the money that was allocated to this district to serve all the needs. There was money and will little money to do the job with. If I did the best I could with what money was available and I promise you that if you elect me as your Magistrate in the Republican Primary on May 24, 1977, I will serve the fifth district with honesty and integrity.

You will recall, it was the other members of the Fiscal Court and I who helped to get you a new courthouse, a new library and a county-wide garbage pick-up. We also made improvements on your Rockcastle County Hospital. I am sure that all of the voters benefited from these facilities. If elected you as Magistrate, my priorities will be to improve our county garbage pick-up facilities, make necessary improvements to your county courthouse and extend my fullest cooperation to all Magistrates in improving our county roads so that we will have the finest road system in any county.

"One of my opponents states that he does not need the job. I am retired and assure the voters of the Fifth District that, if you will elect me as your Magistrate, I will devote my full-time to that position. I believe my twelve years as Magistrate make me aware of all your problems. I will not be able to solve all your problems but, I promise you that you will get full benefit from every tax dollar you pay.

It is impossible for me to talk to each and every one in the Fifth District; however, I would like to assure you that I appreciate all the kindnesses and courtesies which have been extended to me. If you have any questions you would like to discuss with me, please feel free to call on me. My name will be fourth (4th) on the voting machine. Please go to the polls on May 24, 1977 and pull the fourth (4th) lever. I will forever be grateful to you.

Shown above is an illustrative development plan for the Brodhead Fairgrounds, drawn up by Howard K. Bell, Consulting Engineers, Inc., on which the county has taken an option. $271,900 has been approved for purchase and renovation of the 25-30 acre site, located at Brodhead, by the Department of Housing and Urban Development and only lacks final action by the Fiscal Court before being funded. According to County Judge Hubert Thacker, the site will be developed into a county recreational area with possibly some low-income and elderly housing units made available at a later date. (See story elsewhere on front page.)

Fiscal Court Meets

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court found itself overdrawn in its Revenue Sharing Account for this quarter at Tuesday's meeting.

County Court Clerk Irene Bales said that $14,911.61 was left in the Revenue Sharing Account and $16,000 would be needed for salary this quarter. This is in addition to overdrawn magistrate and road fund accounts. Revenue Sharing Monies are allotted quarterly to the county. The Court gave Court Clerk Bales and County Treasurer Arletta Norton permission to transfer money from the general account to wherever necessary to cover the accounts. $25,503 was allotted for this quarter.

rent him the office for $10 per month until January 1st. Speculation arose concerning the use of that office by the District Judge.

The court also voted to advertise for bids on a new three-bay ambulance garage to be located at the Rockcastle County Hospital. Bids will be opened at the June meeting.

One magistrate briefly mentioned but did not discuss the purchase of the Brodhead Fairgrounds by the county. This matter was deferred to a later meeting.

Rockcastle County Soil & Water Conservation Service presented a letter explaining their services and accomplishments for the past year. The service was funded for $11-12 hundred last year and requested $1,000 more for next year. The magistrates decided to wait and see if the new tax structure raised their allotted funds. They received about 25% of the total taxes last year.

Civil Defense Director Larry Burdette requested use of an office adjacent to his for storage of Civil Defense supplies. The court voted to

Mt. Vernon Awarded HUD Grants

Kentucky Senators Wendell Ford and Walter (Dee) Huddleston have announced that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has given preliminary approval to Mt. Vernon's application for a $76,000 non-metric discretionary Community Development block grant.

According to Ford and Huddleston, local officials now have been invited to submit full applications. If the final application is in accord with the preliminary application, then funding is virtually assured.

The funds will be used for housing site development.

Ford and Huddleston noted that more than 130 applications, totaling $150 million, were submitted seeking a share of the $13.2 billion that was allocated to Kentucky.

"I'm gratified that these communities are going to be able to benefit from the community development funds, yet I know that there were many other worthy projects deserving of approval if funds were available," Huddleston said. "I am confident that Congress will continue to demonstrate its strong support of this program which is so very important to the growth and revitalization of communities across the state."

$271,900 HUD Grant Awarded County for Purchase and Renovation of Brodhead Fairgrounds

By: Roger Coldiron

An application for approval of the fairground project was apparently filed sometime during the month of April. The matter was never publicly brought before the fiscal court but was discussed with each magistrate privately. Judge Thacker said that he feared opposition from special interest groups who would oppose the building of the facility.

A representative of Howard K. Bell, Consulting Engineers of Lexington, was contacted concerning normal application procedures. He said that normally the fiscal court approves the primary application and, a resolution is later drawn up for formal acceptance of the funds. Judge Thacker said that Rockcastle County's resolution has been prepared and will be approved by the fiscal court before further action is taken on the development.

School Board Meets

The Rockcastle County Board of Education turned down all bids Monday night on 2 out of 4 projects to be completed during the next year.

Bids on janitorial supplies and on the building of a new school bus garage were scrapped. Bids on roofing Mt. Vernon Elementary School's gym and a new boiler for Brodhead Elementary School were accepted.

Supt. Charles B. Parsons said that the quality of janitorial supplies that were bid on were checked before any of the three bids were accepted. All of the bids on the three-bay school bus garage were rejected because they were too high. The architects will be consulted again for cost estimates and possible additions to the specifications.

Karr Roofing Co. of London, was given the go-ahead on roofing MVE's gym. The firm bid $11,400. Phelps Roofing Co. and Tri-State Roofing Co., both of Lexington, each submitted a higher bid. Phelps bid $11,880 and Tri-State $15,880.

Jack St. Clair of Mt. Vernon was awarded a contract for a new boiler for Brodhead Elementary School's heating system. He bid $8,295.

Enjoy Travel and Save Gasoline and Money

With a new vacation season looming on the "emergy-plagued horizon," come a number of questions in regard to how to enjoy recreational travel and at the same time save gasoline—and the "drain on the money pocket of the motoring vacationist."

"One of the big problems facing the motorist and recreational travel is that auto fuel is costing us more," says Allan Worms, UK outdoor recreation extension specialist. "Auto fuel is, and apparently will continue to be in more limited supply than in the past."

"We have come to enjoy traveling for pleasure in many ways—sightseeing, short term or weekend trips and vacations," Worms continued. "Travel has simply become way of life for us."

He emphasized there are means to enjoy recreational travel and still use as little gasoline as possible citing some obvious tips as driving at moderate speeds, starting and stopping smoothly and to avoid driving the "super gas guzzling automobiles."

Another travel tip is to look for "exciting travel destinations within shorter range of home." Instead of traveling across the country, he said a person may be surprised at the number of "new and exciting places under our noses."

He also recommended selecting "full-service" resorts and parks that offer a variety of interests and activities for the entire family—places where the "family bus" may be parked and have activities available such as hiking, water sports, horseback riding and some of the "many healthful outdoor activities." He noted that auto driving is "not really very good exercise."

Worms said an idea that fits in well with a regional round trip, operating from a central resort base, is to set up "themed exploration" in a given area. "For example, by following a historical trail, a river or any of many backroads, we can find some very different and beautiful places that are generally undiscovered by the majority of the tourist crowd," he explained.

As for why people often travel long distances on vacation, Worms said the reasons may be found in that people simply want to get as far away from home as possible to find new, different and exotic places and to enjoy the excitement of such places.

"And, of course, these are exactly the same reasons people came to Kentucky," he pointed out.

As for finding the "new places" within a short driving range, Worms suggested a variety of information sources, including travel routing services available from oil companies, auto and travel clubs, chambers of commerce and tourist information services of state governments.

"But, without too much effort, a person can find enjoyable places to visit without causing a pinch of the pocketbook," Worms concluded.

Teens Make Headlines In 4-H Achievement

CHICAGO—Not all the news about today's teenagers is bad!

Two young people who recently made headlines for good reasons were a North Carolina coed who designed special clothing for handicapped children, and a Colorado youth who manages a herd of registered Herefords to finance his college education.

Shirley Goodnight and Tom Field, both 19, were among nine 1976 national scholarship winners in the 4-H achievement program sponsored by Ford Motor Company Fund. And both went on to win Presidential Awards, the highest honor in 4-H.

Miss Goodnight, a University of North Carolina sophomore from China Grove, designed garments with quick-opening front zippers and detachable hibs to help physically handicapped youngsters dress themselves more easily.

Field, a rancher's son from Gunnison, Colo., saw his 4-H beef project grow in nine years from one registered Hereford heifer into a highly profitable herd that is paying his way through Colorado State University.

4-H achievers can earn county, state and national awards donated by Ford Motor Company Fund through the National 4-H Council. Awards include up to four medals of honor at the county level, an expense-paid trip to National 4-H Congress to one 4-H'er per state, and $1,000 educational scholarships for nine national winners.

This year's achievement scholarship winners will be announced at the 50th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 27-Dec. 1 in Chicago. The high-ranking girl and boy, along with their counterparts in the 4-H citizenship and leadership programs, will receive silver trays presented on behalf of the President of the United States.

Young people can learn more about the national 4-H achievement program from their county extension agents.

Hillbilly Hoedowners To Appear At Lion's Blue Grass Fair

The 1975 & 1976 Grand Champion Elementary Clog Team, known as the Hillbilly Hoedowners from Irvine will perform three nights during the Lions Blue Grass Fair at Masterson Park in Lexington.

These youngsters will appear in the Pepsi Cola Theatre Tent at 6:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday, July 16, Friday, July 22 and Saturday, July 23.

The eight children, who comprise the team, are all natives of the beautiful hills of east central Kentucky and they dance the famous mountain hoedown, thus the appropriate name of Hillbilly

Hoedowners was given.

During the summer of 1976, they performed at many Biennial festivals, such as the Capitol Expo in Frankfort, Apple Festival at Paintsville, Red-White-Blue Day at Prestonsburg and the Renfro Valley Barn Dance. They were regulars on the Kentucky Mountain Barn Dance on WTUV-TV in Lexington.

These youngsters dance not only for their love of the sport. Each team member must practice 30 minutes a day individually on their clog step or

Hang 'Em High
It may come as a surprise, but hundreds of years before cattle rustlers and such varmints were being hanged by mobs in America's Old West, lynch law was known in Scotland.

In the old days one of the most dangerous parts of Scotland for a traveler was the border country between Scotland and England. The border clans were a law unto themselves and, if they were not paying on visitors (particularly English visitors), they were paying on each other.

The main Border court of justice was held in the town of Jedburgh, popularly known as "Jeddart." The motto of the court was said to be, "Hang him first, and try him afterwards."

Teacher's Scotch Information Centre is happy to point out that things have improved. "Jeddart justice" no longer exists, and the town is now more famous for "Jeddart snails."

These are peppermint sweets first made in the town by French prisoners of war kept in jail at the time of the wars between Britain and France.

VISITORS TO FRANKFORT'S OLD CAPITOL CAN SEE EXHIBIT

Visitors to Frankfort's Old Capitol can see an exhibit depicting some of Kentucky's outstanding architectural heritage through Sunday, June 12.

Now on display in the Changing Arts Gallery are 40 measured drawings, 25 photographs and six plaster models from the Historic American Buildings Survey (HABS). Entitled "A Perspective of Kentucky Architecture: The HABS in the Commonwealth," the exhibit is sponsored by the state Historical Society and the state Heritage Commission.

The plaster models are of Liberty Hall, the Green County Courthouse (oldest in the state), a Shaker town building, the Ephraim McDowell House, Castletown and the Cross Keys Tavern.

The Kentucky Historical Society will observe National Preservation Week, May 8-14," said General William Boster, the society's executive director. "One of the activities is a reception in the Old Capitol on Thursday, May 12 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. which will be open to the public."

Following the reception, Walter E. Langsam, assistant director of the Heritage Commission will speak on "The HABS in the Commonwealth."

HABS began in 1933 as an effort of the National Park Service to document the nation's most important historical and architectural resources. To maintain the Survey's uniformity and other high qualities, the National Park Service, the Library of Congress and the American Institute of Architects established HABS in June 1934.

HABS has since been the nation's official program for gathering historic American architectural records, recording is now done largely by summer field teams of architectural students who work under the direct supervision of university professors.

HELP NOW AVAILABLE FOR PARENTS OR GUARDIANS OF MENTALLY RETARDED PERSONS

Parents of guardians of non-ambulatory, mentally retarded persons will now have help in caring for them in case of family emergencies or during a vacation, according to Margaret Doyle of the Department for Human Resources.

A new program at Hazelwood Hospital, Louisville, is designed to ease the burden of caring for non-ambulatory, mentally retarded persons of any age for up to 30 days per year. The "respite care" program is to begin May 1.

VOTE GREGORY FOR STATE REPRESENTATIVE

Realizing that my opponent has been seriously ill and has had to undergo lengthy hospitalization, I have been deliberately quiet about some issues. I have been reliably informed that he is now released from the hospital and I wish him recovery without further complications.

The time has now come to address ourselves to the issues that are important to the citizens and taxpayers of this district.

I have, in my possession, a form letter which was mailed to an individual using postage paid for by the State of Kentucky. The letter is from my opponent and it alleges things that he states he has worked for and asks for support for him. This would be fine for him to do were it not for the taxpayer having to pay the bill for his postage.

Recently, I went to Frankfort to try to find out who paid for the postage, stationery, mailing labels and envelopes used in this letter since the letter contains the same postage meter number as other state government letters. The people in charge of accounting for postage used in state government told me that an individual absolutely was not permitted to use state postage for personal or political use, only for official state business. My opponent has used the state postage for this form letter and only he knows how many other letters and how much he has cost the taxpayers by this use of state funds.

My campaign finances are being paid for out of my pocket, with a few contributions from my friends. I do not have the resources of the state treasury to pay for my postage.

I will continue to openly put ads in all the papers of my district and not use form letters to make promises. Remember, that money in the state treasury came out of your pocket. Did you get your letter? You should have, you paid for it.

Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Overbey

Carloftis - Overbey Vows Said March 26

The marriage of Miss Betsy Margaret Carloftis and Freddie Overbey was solemnized March 26th at 2 p.m. at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Carloftis, Fort Sequoyah, Livingston.

Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Overbey, London, Route 9. He is the grandson of Mrs. Nannie Overbey, Rt. 10, London and Mrs. Ida Black, London.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ernest Blair. Nuptial music was provided by the bride's brother, Buzz Carloftis, while the bride's sister, Don Carcellie Burchette, read John Donne's "A Hymn to Christ," a sonnet written in the early 17th century.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sleeveless gown of imported white cotton eyelet fashioned with a scoop neckline forming a double self ruffle edged with eyelet Batiste lace.

Batiste lace ribbon circled the natural waistline ending with a back bow and streamers. The gathered skirt with deep ruffle flounce at the hemline extended into a full chapel train. She wore a matching flounce at the hemline.

Miss Patty Hart of Corbin served as maid of honor. She wore a long rose dress with a coop neckline and capelet sleeves. She carried a single rose in a deeper shade of pink.

Best man was Buddy Isaacs of London, Robert Dustan Carloftis and Jon Carlos Carloftis, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The guest register was kept by Miss Robin Maxie, niece of the groom.

A reception was held in the home immediately following the ceremony. Hostesses were Don Carcellie Burchette and Koula Collinsworth, sisters of the bride.

The couple will make their home in London, where the bride is employed by Sta-Fit Health Spa and attends evening classes at Sue Bennet College and Cumberland College and the groom is a mechanic at Ray Overbey Garage.

The People have awakened, we have opened our eyes and we see. Look around you what are they doing to us. Where is the money that was funded to keep the dumpsters empty, and yet they remain filled. The people can't afford to swim at the Country Club. They can't afford the price, and now they speak of more swimming pools, shopping centers and skyscrapers, we can't afford to attend these either. The taxpayer will be saddled with more debts, more taxes. They speak of Federal Funding: The Federal Government gives you nothing, they only take. They are placing a burden on the taxpayer that will never be paid. What happened to our rebate money, what happened to the coal severance tax money. First, we need jobs, half the people are out of work.

I firmly believe some county government officials have traveled to Brodhead, Negro Creek, certain streets in the county seat and filled the Courthouse with the dreaded disease, better known as the Democrat Itch. With the help of the people, I will, on May 24th, rid the county of the few officials who have been stricken with the disease better known as the Democrat Itch.

In closing, my opponents have now reached the epidemic state in their promises. We, as citizens, must learn to choose office holders, according to what they actually deliver. The Democrat Itch is nothing more than unkept promises and higher and higher taxes. We are a poor County. I will do my best to help in locating jobs within the County. I will retain fiscal responsibility in this County and I will lower taxes. If elected I will not build swimming pools and shopping centers. We simply don't have the money.

BIDS WANTED

Sealed proposals will be reviewed by the Rockcastle County Board of Education in the office of the Superintendent until 7:00 p.m., Monday, May 16, 1977, at which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud for furnishing all materials and labor and for performing all work to construct a new school bus garage.

The School Board rejected all bids that were submitted May 2, because of high cost. The plans and specifications will be revised somewhat. New plans and specifications are available at the office of Donald B. Shelton, Architect, 2891 Richmond Rd., Lexington, Ky., or the office of the Board of Education, Mt. Vernon, Ky.

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

had 32.6 percent of the unemployment decrease but, in spite of the improved employment climate in Kentucky, there were 49 counties with unemployment rates of 6.5 percent or greater in March. Twenty-six of these were in Eastern Kentucky.

The unemployment rate for Rockcastle County in March was 8.2 percent.

OUR APOLOGIES

Due to having an unfamiliar camera to work with, the pictures which we look at the Gong Show at Livingston last Thursday night did not turn out.

We understand we will have another opportunity to make amends since the same type of show is going to be presented by the Brodhead Lions Club later this month.

Contrary to popular belief, owls can see in the daytime.

UNEMPLOYMENT RATE DROPS IN MARCH

Unemployment in Eastern Kentucky dropped to 7.1 percent in March, a decrease of 2.6 percent from February's rate of 9.7 percent. Department of Human Resources staff noted the rate is well above the state rate of 5.6 percent but shows a definite downturn of the eastern section.

The total number of persons unemployed was estimated to be 19,490.

Robert MacDonald, chief labor analyst for the department said, "All major areas in the state had less unemployment in March than February as a result of increased job opportunities."

American Shoppers Gain On British Pound

Because of the current low exchange rate for the British pound, American tourists are now able to combine a travel adventure with a money-saving shopping spree.

In recent months, thousands of Americans have been pouring into London each day to take advantage of unprecedented shopping values. This favorable rate of exchange (approximately twenty-one percent better than last year) coupled with the exemption of foreigners from most sales taxes, has made British goods the most attractively-priced of all the world's products.

What sort of goods are these?

- Custom-tailored, Savile Row clothing—made to last for years—and costing a fraction of the price for custom clothes in North America.
- Stylish dresses, gowns and ladies' coats, cosmetics and jewelry, all unbelievably moderate in cost.
- Fine chinaware and pottery by Royal Worcester, Wedgwood, Minton, and Spode and Poole, among others at prices that in English pounds, have caused many travelers to blink in surprise.

Many American travelers are also hiking in surprise at one-week tours which is

Livingston - Mt. Vernon and Co Asked To Submit Applications

(Ed's Note: We have a story concerning the same information as the article printed below except that this article also mentions a grant to Livingston. We did not receive this information until Wednesday and so are running it here in order to give you a little more information on the monies which should be soon forthcoming to our county. pa)

From the office of Congressman Tim Lee Carter

Livingston, Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle County have been given the green light to submit final applications for federal community development block grants, Congressman Tim Lee Carter has reported.

Rep. Carter said the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development April 29 approved Livingston's preapplication for $109,200 to finance its proposed housing rehabilitation, sidewalk repair and low-income housing development.

Mt. Vernon was asked by HUD to submit a final application for $26,000 towards its planned neighborhood rehabilitation and elderly housing and flood-control projects.

The county was invited to apply for $271,900 to help pay for its planned housing complex.

"HUD will now be making its final decision about whether the cities and county will actually get this money under what is known as the non-metropolitan discretionary community-development block grant program."

"More than one-third of the projects chosen to submit final applications are from our Fifth District and the money involved is 40 per cent of the total available statewide."

"I certainly hope these applications are funded so that the money can be on its way soon to Livingston, Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle County," the Congressman added.

The three projects from Rockcastle competed with 132 others from nonurban areas throughout the state during the preapplication process. The amount available from HUD for Kentucky's nonmetropolitan areas is $13.3 million.

In his announcement of the preliminary approvals, Rep. Carter stressed that acceptance of a preapplication from a city or county did not guarantee the final application would be approved. If the final application met the requirements of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, however, the project would be funded.

Plant A 4-H Mini-Garden

CHICAGO—Lack of yard space won't keep urban and suburban 4-H members from enjoying nutritious home-grown vegetables from their own gardens this year.

With a little ingenuity, 4-H'ers can be planting mini-gardens on patios, balconies, windowsills, and sunny sides of garages or apartment buildings. Their gardening projects and activities are supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by Ortho Division, Chevron Chemical Company.

4-H'ers have discovered the key to successful mini-gardening is choosing a small number of vegetables and ones that take up little space (radishes and carrots are good examples). Dwarf and miniature varieties can be used when available. Vine crops like pole beans, peas and tomatoes are space savers because they can be trained to grow vertically on stakes.

Making a plan showing the size and shape of the mini-garden is also helpful. It can indicate where each vegetable is located in each row and can show dates of planting and expected harvesting.

Mini-gardening is a learn-by-doing experience that 4-H'ers can carry out on their own, with other young people in their club or group, requested the additional help to aid flood victims in returning to their homes more quickly.

Corpsmen will be accompanied by about 15 Center support personnel including cooks and work supervisors. The group will be housed at Camp Blanton, a Boy Scout Camp, located between Harlan and Pineville.

"Our young men are anxious to help these folks. They have worked hard in the vocational training and educational programs here in the Center and on the Daniel Boone National Forest, and want to put some of their skills to work helping others," commented Center Director Dan Hill.

The Corpsmen feel that this is a small partial repayment to the public for their support of the Job Corps program," the Center Director said.

Director Hill also pointed out the work by Corpsmen after the disastrous tornadoes which hit Kentucky April 3, 1974. On that occasion, Corpsmen worked at cleanup for about two weeks in Wayne and McCreary Counties.

Corpsmen spent 9000 man-hours suppressing forest fires this spring on the Daniel Boone National Forest. The Pine Knot CCC has been part of the Daniel Boone National Forest since the program began in 1965.

The program provides both educational and vocational training to young men between the ages of 16 and 21. Corpsmen from cities and rural areas live on-center where training in nine vocational programs in the construction trades is provided by a professional staff.

TRANSY COACH TO CONDUCT ANNUAL BASKETBALL CAMP

"Don Lane's Transylvania University Basketball Camp" will conduct sessions this summer for boys, ages 7-18 and girls, ages 10-18. This marks the tenth summer the camp has been presented at the Lexington campus.

According to Lane, the camp "provides individual instruction in all phases of basketball, including complete coverage of offensive and defensive fundamentals."

The camp utilizes a "station" approach in which the public for the youngsters rotate from one area to another, receiving personal instruction by coaches specializing in various techniques. That's the same system Lane developed to train basketball players last summer in Ecuador. His program has now been adopted by Partners of America - a cultural exchange program - for use in all basketball clinics conducted in South America.

Camp sessions are arranged so campers compete with other youngsters in their own age group and within those groups, they are divided according to size and weight. AT the end of the camp, each camper is given a complete evaluation of his or her personal progress.

This year, five one-week sessions will be offered. They are: 10 to 18 year old girls, June 27-July 1; 15 to 18 year old boys, July 18-22; 11 to 14 year old boys, June 20-24 and July 11-15 and 7 to 10 year old boys, July 5-9. All sessions are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday, except the 7-10 boys' session which is held 9 a.m. to noon, Tuesday through Saturday.

Camp tuition for resident campers is $89 each, including lodging, meals, insurance and infirmary fees. For day campers, it is $59 each, including meals, insurance and infirmary fees. Costs for half-day session (boys 7-10) is $36 each, including insurance and infirmary fees. Group rates for resident campers are $85 each for five or more campers from the same school.

"The law enforcement ticket"

First of all, I would like to talk to you about my eligibility for the Sheriff's office. When I first got interested in the Sheriff's race it was as a deputy with Mr. Shelley Mullins. Mr. Mullins, after a while, felt that his age would not permit him to be the kind of Sheriff that he would want to be. So he came to me and told me that if I would run for Sheriff he would not run. So I had an attorney to write the Attorney General's office and explain the circumstances about my eligibility and he advised me that I would be eligible and file, now I am on the Ballot and will be in the No. 1 position.

Since announcing for Sheriff my deputies and I have been to many homes throughout the County. We have received an awful lot of encouragement and have been asked a lot of questions concerning the law enforcement of our County. They wonder why they can't leave their homes to go to church, and other places, like a vacation, or visit friends and relatives without coming home and finding their homes looted? People say that they are selling their antiques and anything of value so that they will be of less risk to being burglarized.

People are scared to death to leave their homes for any length of time. I have chosen two sober men to be Deputy Sheriffs with me and I we are elected I promise the people of this county that we will enforce the law. I want every voter to know that we are a "law enforcement ticket". I pledge that we will be present at all school functions, such as ball games and anything where the public is in attendance. We will assist our funeral homes whenever they request us. All these things will be subject to call 24 hours a day. We will have at least two radio equipped cars and we will answer all calls that are legitimate. We will cooperate with all law enforcement agencies such as K.S.P. and local police investigators in such crimes as they see of need. One of our top priorities is to try our very best to stop your homes from being burglarized and I know we can if we all cooperate in this.

Your vote and influence appreciated

It's a known fact that children grow and develop at different rates and in different ways. How can parents identify unusual growth and development patterns that warrant serious concern and perhaps professional help? A child who seldom obeys parental directions, is physically abusive to other children, or fails to learn to read by second or third grade is CLEARLY in trouble. What about the girl who seems alright - except that she demands excessive personal attention or affection or the intelligent boy who learns quickly, but who is excessively mischievous, withdrawn, or without friends? Parents often neglect problems like those just described in hopes that they are just temporary or "nothing to worry about." For reliable information and or help contact your pediatrician or local mental health center. Serious problems of later life can often be prevented or lessened if attended to in childhood.

PUBLIC NOTICE

There will be a public hearing held on the proposed Title XX Social Services Plan on Tuesday, May 10, 1977 at the Laurel County High School Cafeteria in London, Kentucky from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. This hearing will be for the Cumberland Valley Area Development District Counties, namely, Bell, Clay, Knox, Laurel, Jackson, Whitley, Rockcastle and Harlan. All interested persons are invited to attend.

A copy of the proposed plan may be obtained by contacting Margaret Hoekensmith, Department for Human Resources, 403 Wapping Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

STRETCHING YOUR FOOD DOLLAR

Take care of the food you purchase, and store it properly at home as soon as possible. If you leave the food in a hot car while you go shopping, you will lose quality and nutritive value of frozen fruits and vegetables. Thawing and refreezing of frozen foods should be avoided because there is a loss of nutritive value as well as flavor and there is a possibility of spoilage.

To The Citizens of Rockcastle Co By Charles C. Carter Candidate County Judge Executive

This week our road system-

In the year 1946, we had a windfall in road money. At that time, Simeon Willis, a Republican, was governor.

The Legislature, under a former governor, had set up a county road project of $5,000,000.00 for county rural roads in the state, based upon the area of the county, the population and county roads in the county. Our county was allotted $31,000.00.

Someone for the larger counties brought a suit contending that the legislature acted illegally, saying each county had to take care of their own county roads. The courts upheld this contention, thereby leaving $5,000,000.00 in the State Rural Road Fund.

Governor Willis, by executive order, then had the money distributed as set out above giving Rockcastle County $31,000.00. I then made a proposal to the fiscal court that we buy a fleet of trucks and motor grader for our roads. The trucks cost just over $4,000.00 each at that time.

The court readily agreed and we advertised for bids for the above equipment and bought 5 trucks, one for each magisterial district and a motor road grader. At that time, we had one horse power grader for all the county and, of course, it was a very poor excuse for road purposes.

The magistrates then went to hauling creek gravel, paying for the loading out of their truck tax money which amount to about $8,000.00 divided between the five magistrates. This truck tax money amounts to about 50 or 55 thousand dollars now.

This is the way our road system was set up and is still being used except for one little hitch when the fiscal court turned our road tax money over to the state which proved to be a very poor project for Rockcastle County.

We took that out of the state's hands when I was next elected Judge and are now under the system first set up by me.

If you are keeping up with these articles, you can easily see I have always been a progressive judge, qualified for leadership and management as C.J.E. as one of my opponents so artfully stresses he is the only one qualified.

If had been County Judge over the past 4 years, our county hospital expansion, of which we are so badly in need would be under way. Also, our ambulance service would be at the hospital where it belongs under continual service at all times.

Next week I will take up our vocational school and what it means for our young people. Also, our present high school building and what and how I helped in that matter.

If elected, I intend as I always have in the past to be Judge of my court, not having to ask someone for an answer. Anyone elected to office should be able to answer questions concerning his office; if he can't, he is not qualified for the office.

I am asking for your vote and help in this election and if elected, will repay you with good service and a better Rockcastle county.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Everyone:

As the month of April was National Clean-up month, the Willing Workers Homemakers Club decided to do their bit to clean up the streets of Broodhead. We picked up a half a dumpster of cans, bottles, and paper on part of three streets, some of the bottles were still full, guess some one made a mistake and threw away the full ones.

If everybody that likes to pitch out their empties, would pitch them in front of their house and in their yard for just a week. They would see what they make other people's property, look like and "Maybe" break the habit of throwing out their trash anywhere and everywhere.

I live out of city limits and I'm sure it's not the "Ridge" people that line our roadside with no cans, but boxes and sacks of cans pitched out on the edge of the roads.

If everyone would do their part by taking their trash home to their garbage cans instead of tossing it out the window, we'd have a cleaner and prettier county.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Marjorie Shivel

Dear Editor:

Citizens of the fifth district, I am writing this piece to tell you that we need Ernest Mason for magistrate in the Fifth District. He has kept our roads up every since he has been in office. The roads are in better shape now than they have been in a long time. If you don't believe it go over the roads and find out we need Ernest Mason for magistrate.

Thomas Jefferson, the U.S. president, was a redhead.

Cub Scouts On Outing

Den 1 of the Cub Scout Troop went on an outing Monday to Lake Linville where they enjoyed a weiner roast and caught about 30 fish. The den had previously went on an outing to the Rescue squad where Dickie Collingsworth gave the boys a tour of the facilities.

Mrs. Shirley Cummins, one of the den mothers who accompanied the boys on the outing, said that while they were there, the Scouts attempted to clean up the area they were in but found the project to be just too big. Perhaps it might be a good project for the city to at least install some litter barrels for the beer and pop cans and perhaps an occasionally worker to pick up the dead fish discarded on the banks.

Scouts on the outing were: David Hood, Garry Fain, Danny Bustle, Bobby Cummins, Bron Mullins, Frankie Bond, Billy Cummins, Chris Baker, and Danny Reams. Not present was Shelly Mullins. Den mothers, other than Mrs. Cummins, accompanying the Scouts were: Mrs. Brenda Mullins and Mrs. Marsha Baker.

SHERIFF

As my campaign for Sheriff progresses, I am being questioned about deputies. I'm happy to know that you are concerned about the type of person to be chosen for this position.

You might remember that when I first announced my candidacy for Sheriff, I had a deputy, who later withdrew without explanation, to seek the office himself. This act has made me realize the caution which must be used in selecting the right person.

I believe a good deputy should not be selected merely on his vote-getting ability, but on his ability to uphold his duties as a law enforcement official.

The position is still open for a person with the right qualifications.

Any questions or suggestions are welcome.

SINCERELY,
