Bob Mullins of Climax killed this forty-seven inch rattler Monday afternoon near his home. The snake had 11 rattles and 1 button. Mr. Mullins shot the "varmint" as it crawled onto the blacktop headed for his [Mr. Mullins'] garden.

that Rose was there on business, but the nature of his business is not indicated. He is also said to have been a friend of Jim Bowie. Allensworth Adams also claimed to have been on friendly terms with Bowie, whom he credits—instead of Travis with suggesting that he try to escape if he felt so inclined. If we ever get down to the facts might there not be a possibility that Rose and Adams are one and the same man, with the one story of escape between them? Bowie is known to have come into the alamo with a party of around twenty men. No statement has been made as to whether or not they were all enlisted men, so I am getting off a letter to the proper governmental sources to see what was the status of his followers.

Allensworth Adams was known in his earlier days and well into his later ones as "Devil Bill's wildest son". He's not inclined to take anything seriously, even his marriage vows. He was three times legally married and his family especially his first wife—were highly suspicious that he had at least one wife and family in Texas. The certainty of that belief on the part of his wife was the moving cause in her action for divorce in 1840. As mentioned earlier, a deciding factor in helping us to arrive at a decision in this case would be a schedule of his travels and activities between 1836 and 1841. We know that he, like many other young men of his day, was of a restless, restless nature and could not be tied down to one place for long at a time. Did his ramblings include a visit to the fabulous Texas frontier and the romantic alamo and did he leave there when and as he said he did?

It is regrettable that no serious early attempt was made to get the story of the alamo on record. It was not until 1860 that an authentic account was published in book form by one who was personally acquainted with many of the participants and the circumstances connected with much of the story. By that time many legends were afloat, not many of which agreed with each other. For instance, some claimed that Davey Crockett was one of a party of six who surrendered to the victorious Mexican army and were taken before General Santa Anna for disposition as prisoners of war and that he ordered them executed on the spot. This is vigorously denied by Crockett's admirers, who claimed he died fighting and fell surrounded by Mexican troops who fell before his unerring rifle and Bowie knife. His rifle, "Old Betsy" has been discovered in an Arkansas museum, but it is not known whether he used it in the final fight at the Alamo and another less ornate one he sometimes carried. There were different stories as to how Travis met death. Many of the Mexican accounts say that he killed himself to escape death at the hands of the Mexicans. Other accounts are just as positive that he fell with an enemy bullet through his brain while heroically maintaining his post at the cannon which he had wrecked much execution on the invading Mexican forces. There were many stories of how Jim Bowie met his death from his sick bed and of the number of the attackers he shot with his two pistols and carved up with his famous and deadly knife. Bowie was known to have been confined in his bed, or cot, for several days and a member of his family has written that he had died of his ailment more than an hour before the final attack on the Alamo. A woman who claimed to have been in the act of giving him a drink of water when the Mexicans broke in and massacred him is now believed not to have been in the Alamo at all.

Kentucky Highlands Investment Corporation Receives Grant

Kentucky Senators Dee Huddleston and Wendell Ford announced final approval of grant funds totalling $3.9 million this week for the Kentucky Highlands Investment Corporation (KHIC), a London, Kentucky-based community development corporation. The funds, which will be made available from the Office of Economic Development branch of the Community Services Administration (CSA), will be used by KHIC over the next two years to finance new manufacturing business start-ups in a nine-county area of Southeastern Kentucky which includes Bell, Clay, Clinton, Harlan, Jackson, McCreary, Rockcastle, Wayne, and Whitley Counties.

Products, the largest manufacturer of kayaks in the United States, located in Tyner, Williamsburg, Outdoor Venture Corporation, a tent manufacturer in Stearns; Kentucky Woodcrafts Company, a manufacturer of hardwood trophy bases and plaques, located in Tyner; and their most recent investment, the American Bag Corporation, a sleeping bag manufacturer just beginning operations in Pine Knot. At the end of 1976, KHIC had invested at total of $1,597,450. In addition, $5,202,750 was invested in KHIC-financed companies by other sources (primarily banks), for total financing of $6,800,000 in these businesses which are providing real jobs in the Southeastern part of the state. A typical KHIC investment is a combination of equity and subordinated debt so that venture financing can also be secured from other sources. KHIC prefers that its equity (ownership) position be less than 50% of the company. It anticipates completing three financings in the $100,000 to $500,000 range each, and perhaps one or two financings of less than $100,000 in 1977 and expects an increase in investment activity in 1978.

Rockcastle Recollections

By John Lair

The presence of another Rockcastle County native at the siege of the Alamo is clearly established with the finding of his name on the casualty list. He was Peter James Bailey, and while he did not leave from Rockcastle to go to Texas he did spend his earlier years in Renfro Valley, living for a while in the cabin built by Johnnie Renfro when he and his wife, Lulu, became the first white settlers in the valley.

the time, had finished the law course at Transylvania and was a fullfledged lawyer. His diploma is a part of the permanent display in the Alamo.

Peaslie and Sarah Bailey Hiatt had a son born in 1824, whom they named for her brother, Peter James Bailey. After Bailey's death his namesake was always referred to by his full name, Peter James and was always proud of his famous uncle.

Getting back to Allensworth Adams, the other Rockcastle native who claimed to be at the Alamo after the siege began, we are still actively searching for corroborative evidence to support his story. The fact that his name does not appear on any muster roll concerning the Alamo defenders is not necessarily to be taken to mean he was not there. He may well have been present as a civilian, as was Louis Moses Rose, whose unsupported claim to have been there and to have escaped has finally been accepted by some historians, although on somewhat flimsy evidence. It is claimed

Council Votes To Raise Unpaid Parking Fines

The Mt. Vernon City Council voted to raise overtime parking fines from $5.00 to $20.00 if it becomes necessary to issue a warrant for violation. The $1.00 fine still applies if tickets are presented at city hall within 96 hours of its issue.

In the past, the city has collected $5.00 after a warrant issue and had been losing money on all warrants. It was financially impractical to serve warrants outside the city limits, so parking violators living out in the country ignored the citations. However, the $20 fine makes it possible to pay county police officials to serve the warrants. The initial 48 hour grace period was extended to 96 hours after which a warrant will be issued and the $20 fine collected.

The council also discussed plans for both city parking lots. One space was eliminated from the lot adjacent to Western Auto. The last space next to U.S. 25 on the north end of the lot will be made a no-parking area because cars parked there obscure vision down Richmond St. A sign will be erected by the end of this week.

The council voted to investigate the possibility of sealing the same lot and painting new spaces. Citizens had been complaining that the lines could not be seen. Consideration of blocking off one end of the lot to through traffic was dropped after Chester Hellard and Conrad Farret checked into the situation. That possibility was discussed at the June meeting.

In the process of fencing the city parking lot adjacent to Jasper's feed mill, it was discovered that a 12-ft. strip of land between the lot and the mill belonged to the mill. The city had planned to tie the fence off to the mill. Bob Jasper agreed, on behalf of the mill, to grant the city an easement.

Betty Lewis asked the council to have city employees patch Williams Street adjacent to her home. After some discussion over the ownership of the street the council agreed to repair it. According to Ms. Lewis, minor repair is all that is needed.

Roy Lucas appeared before the Council to discuss the water problem on old U.S. 25. There was some misunderstanding as to the cost of installing city water in the area. The city agreed to provide labor to lay the line if residents of the area supply the material and backhoe for digging 1300 ft. of line will be needed for the project.

A preliminary survey will be made to annex an area just north of Mt. Vernon. The line will extend to just past Ernie's T&M Market on old 25. The city accepted for maintenance a pump station in Countryside Estates, west of Mt. Vernon. The station was built after it was discovered that there was not sufficient pressure in water lines to serve houses in the highest part of the subdivision.

At the request of Assistant Police Chief John Grider, the council agreed to purchase a shotgun for the city police cruiser. The weapon will be kept locked inside the cruiser and will be a defensive weapon for policemen.

17 Died from Traffic Accidents

Over 4th of July Week End

Seventeen persons died as a result of traffic accidents on Kentucky roadways over the Fourth of July weekend. Lt. Ernest Bivens, State Police safety education director, said he is "very upset, especially since 13 of those killed were between the ages of 15 and 35." Traffic deaths are the number two killer of young people in this country.

Last week, 21 persons died over the long weekend. "It's a shameful that we have come to be pleased with a reduction and just expect so many people to die each holiday," said Bivens.

So far this year, the traffic toll is 428 compared to 433 this time a year ago.

Residents in the Moreburg area had some cleaning up to do after a storm last Sunday afternoon. The high tree above was snapped off in Randall Stevens' front yard on Hwy. 150. Residents reported hearing a roaring wind that lasted about 20 seconds. Several trees were uprooted or broken during the storm.

Two Bids Total $306,343 For Work on County Roads

A $39 million contract for approximately 1.5 miles of Louisa Catlettsburg Road (US 23) near Lockland in Boyd County led the list of the latest highway projects to be announced here today.

The contract award was announced by State Transportation Secretary Calvin G. Grayson who said that the project will provide for grade and drain construction, and surfacing work to be carried out from about one-half mile east of Lockwood north to White Creeks Road (Ky 787).

Contractors on the project will be Bizzarr Brothers Construction Corporation of Frankfort.

Awarding of the US 23 contract followed a June 23 bid-letting held by the state's Bureau of Highways which resulted in more than $20.5 million worth of bridge and road improvement contracts being approved statewide. The figure raises to nearly $160 million the total value of highway contracts awarded this far this year.

Nearly 20 miles of roads in Rockcastle County were named under two contracts costing a total of $306,343. The successful bidders were Robert L. Cartes Co., Inc., of Frankfort and Allen Co., Inc. of Winchester.

The larger of those contracts ($179,775) calls for planing and texturing work along approximately 14.4 miles of Interstate 75, beginning at the Laurel County line.

The other contract provides for surfacing Broadhead Sprig Road (KY 1250), south from US 150 to Hamm Road (CR 1290), a distance of 1.3 miles; and Copper Creek-Conway Road, northwest from the vicinity of Ky. 1505 to North Fork Copper Creek Road (CR 1361), 3.6 miles.

Grayson also announced two contract awards for the refurbishing of road signs along I-75 in Whitley, Laurel, Rockcastle and Madison counties and along I-64 in Clark, Montgomery, Bath, Rowan, Carter and Boyd counties. The I-75 project covers almost 100 miles and was awarded to International Sign Service of Nashville. It will cost $222,275.

$3,922 Initially Approved for Industrial Site Option

Rockcastle County has received initial approval for allocation of $3,922 to retain an option on a 90 acre industrial site.

Department for Local Government submitted the completed application to the legislative advisory committee for coal county development fund allocations.

The Executive Department for Finance and Administration administers the funds and must give final approval on all projects.

Named to Dean's List

Irene Alexander of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon, a Berea College, senior and daughter of Mrs. Carter Napier of Rt. 1, Everts, has been named to the Dean's Honor List Berea College, Berea, Ky. for the term just completed. To be eligible a student must receive a grade of B or better in all of four or more courses.

Berea is a non-denominational private liberal arts college which also offers degrees in agriculture, business administration, industrial arts, home economics and nursing. Each student works at least ten hours a week in a college-related job to help earn expenses.

Six New Teachers Hired at Board of Education Meeting

Six new teachers were hired and one was transferred by the Rockcastle Board of Education at their regular meeting July 4. Nancy Busch and Patricia Reese were hired to teach at Rockcastle Co. High School. They will teach English and math, respectively.

Katreka Shivel and Brenda Abney Bullock were hired at Livingston Elem. School. Mrs. Bullock will teach the new kindergarten. Vicki Scott was hired for the Broadhead Elementary School and Jerri Lynn Smith was hired at Mt. Vernon.

Mark McKinney who has been teaching at RCHS requested and received a transfer to Broadhead Elementary School. He will teach 8th grade and will be the school's athletic coach.

The board received resignations from two of their employees. Eddie Owens resigned from his position as custodian at Rockcastle Co. High School. Earl Owens was hired on a 90-day trial basis to replace him. Judy Alexander resigned as special education teacher. No replacement has been found for her. Custodians and bus drivers received raises for the next year. Present custodians were re-employed with a $10 an hour salary increase and regular bus drivers were granted a 5% salary increase. Other drivers were given a $15 per month increase.

The board authorized School Superintendent Charles Parsons to advertise for an accept bids on supplies which will be needed for opening the schools. The items include foodstuffs, milk, gasoline, white lubricants, coal, pest control, and garbage disposal.

Roy Brown Promoted to PCA Vice President of Public Relations

Roy Brown, Branch Manager of the Cumberland Production Credit Association at Rockcastle, has been promoted to Vice President for Public Relations of the Association. This much deserved promotion is effective July 1st, 1977.

Mr. Brown started with PCA in March 1947, on a part-time basis, working only on Saturdays. During the entire year of 1947 only 44 loans were made in Rockcastle County for a total of $2,974.00. In contrast, the Mt. Vernon office disbursed 621 loans for $7,177,855 during the year of 1976. At the present time there are 662 loans outstanding in the Mt. Vernon office with a volume of $7,703,600. This tremendous growth has been due, largely, to the efforts of Mr. Brown and his staff.

Although Mr. Brown's promotion becomes effective July 1st, he will remain and continue to work in the Mt. Vernon office for a few months until his successor, Danny McKinney, becomes acquainted with the people and the programs in Rockcastle County.

As Vice President, Mr. Brown's headquarters will be in Somerset, Ky. He will be in charge of supervising the public relation programs for the

The board also authorized the sale of used school buses at auction. Arrangements for the sale will be arranged at a later date. The August meeting of the School Board will be held on Wednesday, August 3, instead of the first Monday of the month. Superintendent Parsons will be attending the State Superintendents Conference on that Monday.

Three Murder Cases on Docket for Court

Three murder cases will be tried in circuit court when it convenes for its fall term.

Bonnie Lee Maupin and Arthur Woodrow Jones will be tried for the murder of William Drew. Drew was found dead August 9, 1976 in Drew Valley near Red Hill. Jones and Maupin are accused of shooting and bludgeoning Drew to death. A moonshine still was found near the murder scene.

Chester A. Robinson and his son, Adrian Robinson will be tried for the murder of Walter Abrams. Abrams was shot to death on February 23 of this year after an alleged argument between him and the younger Robinson. Adrian Robinson is accused of complicity and his father of murder.

Gary Kiby will be tried for the murder of James E. Miracle, which occurred on February 4. Miracle was allegedly shot to death after an argument broke out during a dogfight at the home of Gary Mullins at Burr. State Police said that Kirby gave himself up following the shooting.

Entertainment was Superb; Attendance was Excellent at Bluegrass Music Festival

By: Roger Goldiron

The cool night air was so thick it felt like a semi-fluid canopy hanging from the sky. The musicians were lined up in clusters near Little Renfro sek. The day had been hot and humid I intermittently rains had failed to parse the thousands of people barely hie on the far side of the tiny stream, as standing behind a temporary stage it had been set up for Mac Wiseman's nro Valley Bluegrass Music Festival-7 Edition.

Through an open window on one e of the stage, I could hear the king of a banjo string as one farmer tuned his instrument, before sing on. The performer was Little y Lewis and he, and the rest of the y family, was standing in a side on which served as backstage for the icians. Roni Stoneman was finishing c at consisting primarily of jokes k even these young trees in Renfro hie had heard hundreds of times.

The wait was short and no sooner s I comfortable than it began. Like a rest, rushing, but perfectly controlled sment, the music pervaded the thick air and the charisma of the Lewis Family carried my mind away. It became d walked. I was transfixed and, during the rt lull between acts, the audience sed to catch its collective breath. I lked around to the front of the stage d waited.

when Little Roy started picking and all the family began to sing.

Earlier in the day, Mrs. Martha Monroe, wife of the late Charlie Monroe, told me, "If Pop Lewis don't go to Heaven, there's no need for any of us tryin'." As I listened to the Lewis Family for the first time, I tended to agree and began to hope that this family would support all the music for years.

The Lewis Family is a real, honest-to-goodness family - not just a label they have randomly chosen. The performers consist of "Pop," the father, his two sons, Wallace and Little Roy; the three daughters, Polly, Maggie and Janis; Travis Wallace's son and Lewis, five-year-old son of Janis. Lewis has his own miniature banjo with which he imitates his uncle, Little Roy.

Much imitating he has to do - Lewis was named the top Bluegrass Entertainer for 1976. So many glowing words have been written about this fabulous entertainer that it would be pointless for me to say more than, "He's great."

But all of the Lewis family is "g-r-e-a-t." When their music begins, it is as if the whole world sings. Pop stands o stage and smiles and pride emanates from deep, deep inside him.

In over 20 years of recording LP's, the family has made in the neighborhood of 21 albums for they try in their 24th continuous year of Sunday television appearances in the Augusta, Georgia (Cont. to 12)

Mac Wiseman sponsored the Festival and also did his share of performing.

THE LEWIS FAMILY, considered by many to be the "first" which turned out for last Saturday's Bluegrass Music Festival Family of Gospel Music. It is shown performing for the crowd at Renfro Valley.

Frankfort Watchline

By Ferrell Wellman

Has Governor Julian Carroll become a casualty of the Stearns mine dispute? "Yes," says some Democrats in strike torn McCreary County. The governor upset Democrats in the Whitley City area when he appointed Sheriff Joe Perry, a Democrat, to succeed McCreary County Judge Robert Anderson.

Anderson resigned July 1st citing health and family reasons. At the time, he admitted the nightly trouble at the Stearns mine played a role in his stepping down. Anderson was beaten in the spring Republican primary by Jimmie Greene.

The governor apparently did not seek the opinion of the local Democrat party before appointing the controversial sheriff to fill the term of the resigning county judge.

Perry's appointment came as a blow to the Stearns Mining Co. and its parent firm, Blue Diamond Coal. Perry, 46, at times had been openly sympathetic to the 153 miners who have been on strike since July, 1976.

While Sheriff Perry was quoted in one report as saying, "My feelings have been with the miners. I don't like to see no kerry man walkin' the streets," Perry, however, has pledged neutrality in his new role as county judge. He'll face Green in November.

The race for county judge executive will be a test of the governor's pull in McCreary Co.

Governor Carroll's prestige won't be the only casualty as a result of the strike. The last rites have already been said for truth. It died beneath the nightly hail of gunfire along the picket line.

Last summer, the miners voted 151-1 strike Stearns because of what they claim was an unsafe working condition. They want to be represented by the United Mine Workers.

The company has no intention of accepting a UNWA contract clause which creates a safety committee. The committee could pull the men from the pits if it felt working conditions were unsafe. While the miners say safety is the sole issue delaying ratification of a contract, the company says it's but one of several points preventing a settlement. Talks between the union and Blue Diamond broke off in January. The miners call the picket line at the mine site a "free fire zone." Strikers will complain they haven't been permitted guns at the line for five months, but fresh rifle shells can be found inside their trenches. Some miners will admit to returning fire, but say they never shoot first.

The miners claim the security guard company protecting the Stearns mine compound has been using automatic weapons and magnums to keep them from the picket line. However, during a surprise visit to the compound, reporters saw nothing but shotguns.

The modern mine complex could now easily be a set for a World War II epic. The mine buildings and four bunkers are riddled with bullet holes. The limbs of the trees which surround the compound have been chewed away by the thousands of rounds of gunfire that have been exchanged since the guards came to the mine earlier this year.

On a night when a mine guard was shot, another guard told reporters that for 15 1/2 hours the miners had laid down the heaviest barrage since the strike started. This statement came as a surprise to reporters who had spent the night in the area and could remember only three times when shots had been exchanged.

The state police add little light to the dispute. When questioned about the gunfire, a state police lieutenant just shrugged his shoulders. Except for escorting the mine "bosses" into and from the mine the troopers generally stay away from the strike zone.

"This isn't a dispute between some workers and Stearns," said a miner identifying himself only as Tucker. "This is a battle between the UMW and the coal operators of America."

One Kentucky coal executive said he thinks Blue Diamond will shut down operations for five or ten years, because the coal in the ground will increase in value. When this proposition was put to Tucker he admitted ten years is a long time, but quickly added, "We'll still be here."

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor,
 Being a concerned citizen, it is beyond my comprehension to fully understand the duties of the county agent and home demonstration agent. It seems to me they should be combined as one county agency.

County Agent's Notes

BY H. LEE DURHAM
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
FOR AGRICULTURE

More Beef Per Acre With Corn Silage
Corn silage is the key to an intensified forage production program tailored for the Kentucky cattlemen who want to increase herd size without devoting more acres to his beef enterprise.

The potential on the hillsides of eastern Kentucky, for example, is enough hay and silage to carry 1.3 animal units per acre this year," says Mason Morrison, UK extension livestock specialist. "This is nearly three times our previous long-range goal of two acres per cow."

He bases this on a study conducted over a five-year period (1971-1975) at the UK Robinson Substation, Quicksand, Ky. A hillside with slope ranging from 12 to 20 percent produced an average annual yield of 5.7 tons of dry matter per acre. A 1,000 pound beef cow (one animal unit) requires 8,000 pounds of dry matter per year.

The intensified forage production program, designed for the study of UK extension agronomist Ken Wells, consists of sod-planted corn followed by barley and red clover in a three-year crop rotation. Corn is harvested as silage. Barley is seeded in the fall after corn harvest and red clover and is seeded the following February. Barley is harvested as silage in May. Red clover is cut for hay two seasons before the land is returned to sod-planted corn.

"No silo is needed," says Morrison. "In the study, silage was stored in an above-ground stack covered with black plastic, and there was no spoilage when the stack was opened in December or January."

Here are his recommendations: Select a firm, well-drained site, dump the silage, spread and pack continuously between loads. Cover the stack with 6 mil black plastic, sealing it in a trench dug around the edge. Add about 3 inches of sawdust, old hay, soil or limestone to keep out rodents and to prevent thawing and freezing which causes spoilage at the top.

In the study, only about two-thirds of the silage was fed in 1973. The stack was resealed in April and opened again in September. Only spoilage was about 4 inches on the face of the stack when it had been resealed, according to Morrison. Spoilage was removed before the new-crop silage was stacked.

Although you could see the line between old and new silage, there was no apparent difference in feed quality," says Morrison.

Proper stage for harvesting corn silage is when ears are full-dent, containing 32 to 38 percent dry matter," adds Morrison. "The material should be chopped about one-half inch in length.

Dust Bags Keep Flies Off Cattle On Pasture

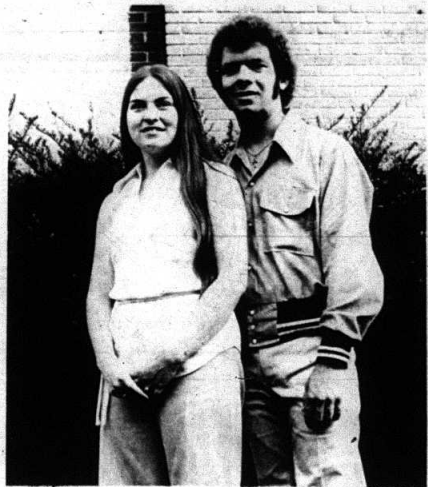

Forcing cattle on pasture to walk between dust bags containing an insecticide on their way to and from water or salt and mineral will control costly flies this summer, says Chris Christensen, UK extension entomologist.

This easy, self-treatment method is effective against horn flies and face flies—the two major pests of cattle on pasture. Both reduce weight gains and studies have shown that the incidence of pinkeye increases with an increase in the number of face flies on cattle.

For cow-calf operators, Christensen says that increased weaning weights potentially can return $10 for every $1 invested in dust bags and insecticide. He bases this on tests in Nebraska where controlling horn flies with dust bags increased weaning weights an average of 13 pounds per calf. At 40 cents a pound for feeder calves, the extra sale weight would be worth $5.20 per calf. He estimates the cost of fly control at 52 cents per head.

An even larger return is likely, considering the link between face flies and the incidence of pinkeye. In University of Kentucky experiments, calves that had pinkeye at least once average 36 to 40 pounds lighter at weaning than calves not infected by the disease.

University of Kentucky research shows that cattle use about one-tenth ounce of insecticide dust per animal per day. The normal fly season extends from May through September, or 153 days.

FORTHCOMING MARRIAGE—Mr. and Mrs. Jim Calton of Rt. 1, Crab Orchard wish to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marty, to Gary Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson of Rt. 1, Brodhead. The bride is a student at Danville School of Practical Nursing and the groom is employed at Stanford House Nursing Home in Stanford. A late fall wedding is planned at the New Hope First Church of God.

To set up for fly control in a 100-head herd, a cattlemen will need to buy two dust bag kits costing about $18 apiece. Each kit comes with 25 pounds of insecticide dust. That plus two 25-pound refills, which cost about $7.50 apiece, will last the entire fly season, says Christensen. Total cost per head comes to 51 cents.

Dust bags, to be effective, must be installed where cattle are forced to come in contact with them every day. Fencing off the water supply works best, says

Christensen. But if this isn't practical, he recommends setting up the dust bags so that cattle have to go through them to get salt and mineral.

Barbed wire, woven wire and an electric fence will do a good job around a pond. But for a small area around a water tank, Christensen recommends a strong wooden fence that will withstand the extra pressure from thirsty cattle crowding against it.

"ABRA CADABRA" won't work.

Producing enough electricity for future needs, not as simple as pulling a rabbit out of a hat.

It takes time to plan and build a generating station. If we started one today, it would be several years before we could take it out of the hat for your children. You count on electricity to be with you at home, in school, in the hospital, or at work. A shortage would seriously affect everyone. At KU, we're constantly planning for tomorrow and its important you know we're building more power plants. Even with conservation, the demands for our service will grow.

You know electricity isn't magic. But you still like to meet your demands as quick as you can see 'em. 'Abra Cadabra'.

"Grapevine" News From Stowder Nursing Home

(Ed's Note: Stowder Nursing Home in Broadhead publishes a newsletter called "Grapevine News" concerning residents and happenings, we are reprinting portions of the newsletter and will do so once a month. pm)

Two new residents are now at the nursing home: Mrs. Effie Jones and Mrs. Katie Jones.

CELEBRATE LIFE-Our "Celebrate Life "Stars" for the month of July are: Ora Langford, July 6; Lillie Sigmon, July 20 and Effie Jones, July 22. A Big thank You to Mrs. Janet Brooks, who decorates a beautiful birthday cake for us each month and to Miss Barbara Witte, who supplies the birthday flowers to the birthday people each month.

RESIDENTS CORNER: The following poem was written by John Feather, a resident of the nursing home.

Today, I stand on Jordan's west bank, And gaze with rapt attention toward the east. In the not too far distance and in the twilight shadows, Of my evening hours, I see, but dimly, The Promised Land. Tomorrow, in the sunlight of God's love, I shall cross the river. I will not be alone, for He will go with me His hand will guide and sustain me and Then I will see more clearly. I envision the Holy City, the New Jerusalem, and without fear or trepidation, I enter the east gate and stand by the temple there. I hear the angels sing "Glory to God"; Peace on Earth, good will to men. I can hear my mother's voice as she sings "How Great Thou Art!" Out of the melodies of other voices, I hear others singing the songs I love. I hear my aunt as she sings "Whispering Hope". Hands and voices beckon me to enter the temple and in the Holy of Holies I stand before the throne of Grace. I make my last confession, wholly unworthy. I come just as I am, without one plea, but that "Thy blood was shed for me". May it be that I shall hear these words: "Well done, thy good and faithful servant. Enter thou into the joys of thy Lord, Amen. Thou has been faithful over the few things. I will make thee ruler over many. Enter, Amen."

Miss Doris Coffey found the following poem in reading and would like to share it with us.

Take Time
Take time to play...it is the secret of perpetual youth.
Take time to read...it is the fountain of wisdom.
Take time to pray...it is the greatest power on earth.
Take time to love and be loved...it is a god given privilege.
Take time to be friendly...it is the road to happiness.
Take time to laugh...it is the music of the soul.
Take time to give...it is too short a day to be selfish.
Take time to work...it is the price of success.
Take time to do charity...it is the key to heaven.

THE MT. VERNON SIGNAL THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1977 P-7

Shown above are three of the instructors who taught Doug Brock the "One Length" and "The Wedge Cut". These two new cuts are for the ladies, and I'm looking forward to getting them started in this area. It does take a certain type hair and facial structure to wear these styles. So come in if you are looking for a new style. I have eight styles that I have mastered so far.

I would like to thank everyone for their response to my article on "What's Happening in Hair." Glad it was received in good taste by most. But to the one person who wrote me the anonymous letter on how I should look and run my business, I would like to say that although I may not believe in what you say, I will defend your right to say it with my life. To this letter writer, I know not who you are, but it's people like you that holds Rockcastle County back, both in ideas and progress. Because today's knowledge makes yesterday's facts false.

So I would like to end this article with my motto: "I don't care how you wear your hair, whether you're male or female, whether it's long or short, just give me a chance to help you take care of it."

Thank You Very Much

Kentucky Dog Law and Regulations

Requirements For Licensing

All dogs six months of age or over are required to be licensed on or before July 1 of each year.

All dog owners shall apply to the dog warden in each county in which he lives for a license for each dog owner or harbored by him.

The Department of Agriculture shall supply for sale all license tags to each county. The tag shall be affixed to a collar furnished by the owner and kept on the dog at all times.

The license fee for both male and female dogs is $1.50.

Any person operating a kennel may in lieu of obtaining a license for each dog, apply to the dog warden for a kennel license. A license fee of $10.00 is required to keep ten dogs or less; a fee of $15.00 is charged to keep more than ten dogs. The number of kennel tags charged to keep more than ten dogs. The number of kennel tags supplied shall equal the number of dogs to be kept in the kennel.

Authority To Destroy

Any person may kill any dog which he sees in the act of pursuing or wounding any livestock or wounding or killing poultry or attacking humans, whether or not such dog bears the license tag required by the provisions of this Act. There shall be no liability of such persons in damages or otherwise for such killing.

Any unlicensed dog, not accompanied by its owner or keeper, that enters any field or enclosure where livestock or poultry are confined shall constitute a private nuisance and the owner or tenant of such field, or his agent or servant, shall kill such dog while it is in the field or enclosure, without liability or responsibility of any nature for such killing. This shall not apply to licensed dogs, when accompanied, by their owner or harborer, unless caught in the act of worrying, wounding, or killing any livestock, or wounding or killing poultry, or attacking human beings.

Procedure For Filing Claims

a. Any livestock owner must license all dogs owned or harbored by him, prior to the date of the loss, before he can be recompensed for livestock losses.

b. If the owner of the dog or dogs doing the damage is known, then an effort must be made to collect the damage from the owner of the dogs.

Punishment For Violators

Any person failing to license their dog or dogs as required by the Act are subject to a fine of not less than five dollars and not more than one hundred dollars or be imprisoned for not less than five nor more than sixty days or both so fined and imprisoned.

258.255 Confinement and control of female dog when in heat.

It shall be unlawful for the owner or keep of any female dog to permit her to go beyond the premises of such owner or keeper while she is in heat, unless she is properly in leash.

Real Estate
BY SAM FORD
REALTOR

Zoning and the Land Owner

A good community has zoning laws to protect its homeowners. However, zoning is even more important to the buyers of land who are planning to erect their own home. Some communities may have zoning that will make it impossible for you to build the home you plan.

For instance, one community may require a specific amount of acreage for a one family zone. If you buy a smaller lot than the zoning ordinance requires, you may not be able to build the house you want on the lot you own.

Also, look into the type of home which is allowable in your zoning area. You may plan to build a second floor apartment, possible for another member of your family or even for rental purposes. If the property is a one family residential zone, you may be out of luck. No need to worry as long as you check out the zoning before you buy.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Ford Realty & Auction Co., Inc., Mt. Vernon, Ph. 256-4545. We're here to help!

not let fruit soak for more than 20 minutes because nutrients will be lost. Work with small amounts of fruit at a time.

Filling Jars

Two Methods: Foods can be put into the jars raw, or they can be preheated and packed into the jars hot. Both methods have their advantages.

The raw pack method calls for packing a raw food into the jar, then adding boiling liquid and processing. This method is quicker and easier than the hot pack but the foods have to be processed longer in the boiling-water-bath canner.

In the pressure canner, processing times are usually the same, since raw packed foods are thoroughly hot by the time the 240 degree temperature is reached.

The hot pack method calls for a short precooking or preheating. Then the boiling hot food is packed into jars and processed. Preheating makes the food pliable so that it can be packed more tightly into the jars. Some fruits keep their color better when hot packed. Raw-pack directions-put prepared raw fruits into hot, clean jars, and cover with boiling hot sirup, juice or water.

Pack most vegetables tightly into jars, because they shrink during processing. Pack corn, lima beans, and pack loosely, because these expand during processing. Cover with boiling water.

Press tomatoes down in jar so they are covered with their own juice. Don't add liquid.

Fill jars to within 1/2 inch of top. Remove air bubbles by working the blade of a table knife gently down the sides of the jar. Add more liquid if necessary to cover the food. Be careful not to chip the jar with the knife.

Wipe rims of jars with clean cloth. Close jars, following the directions for the type of lid you are using. Process as directed.

Hot-Pack Directions

Heat fruits in sirup or water. Preheat tomatoes and juice fruits without adding liquid and pack them in the juice that cooks out.

Precook vegetables in water, or steam. Pack in hot, clean jars. Cover with cooking liquid or boiling water. The cooking liquid contains minerals and vitamins dissolved from the food. If there is not enough cooking liquid to cover vegetables, add boiling water.

Fill jars to within 1/2 inch to top, except when directions call for 1 inch headspace.

Remove air bubbles by working the blade of a table knife gently down the sides of the jar. Add more liquid if necessary to cover the food. Be careful not to chip the jar with the knife.

Headspace

It is important to follow directions for each fruit or vegetable on how much headspace to leave at the top of the jar. This gives the food room to expand and also leaves space for the liquid to bubble up into during processing. Without this headspace, some of the food might be forced out of the jar with the air, causing a deposit of food on the jar rim and ruining the seal.

If you leave too much headspace, food at the top might discolor, or the jar might not seal if all of the air is not exhausted during processing, the vacuum created between the lid and the food and the lid is what helps cause the jar to seal.

Fruit-Canning Tips

Sweetening Fruits-The natural flavor of fruits is intensified by canning them in a light sirup. Less sugar is needed to sweeten fruit if you add it during the canning process. Sirup doesn't help preserve the fruit, but it does help it keep its natural color and firmness.

Sirups to Use-For each quart of fruit, you will need from 1 to 1 1/2 cups of sirup. Make the sirup by mixing water and sugar together, stirring until all the sugar is dissolved, and bringing it slowly to a boil. Keep sirup hot until ready to use.

Light sirup 1 cup sugar to 3 cups water; medium sirup 1 cup sugar to 2 cups water; heavy sirup, 1 cup sugar to 1 cup water.

Fruit may also be canned in unsweetened juice, instead of either water or sirup.

Anti-darkening Treatment-To prevent darkening during preparation of apples, pears, apricots and peaches, drop pieces into a solution of 2 tablespoons each of salt and vinegar per gallon of water. Drain or lift from solution. Do Thousands of Bluegrass Music Fans gathered for last week's Bluegrass Music Festival at Rentro Valley. Periods of rain failed to disperse the loyal crowd.

A watery front row seat was sought by five boys in a boat that floated down Little Rentro Creek in front of the stage Saturday afternoon.

Roni Stoneman, a popular television entertainer, performed at the Festival Saturday. "BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL" (Cont. From Front) appearances on other gospel shows, and one wonders how they got the time to be so good - and how does Polly have time to collect her ows? As I wandered around the festival area. This, teamed with festival and guest appearances since 1970 and guest.

Red Rector stood in as M.C. at times and performed with his mandolin at other for the crowd.

most of the day Saturday. I must have looked very lost. It was my first and it must have been for that reason that David Deese "adopted" me.

David is the banjo picker for the Jones Brothers and the Log Cabin Boys. David is also an accountant in Salisbury, N.C.

Perhaps I should get one thing straight before I go any further. The instrument is not a banjo - it is a banjer, and, it is not played, it is picked. Forgive my apparent snobbery if I say, "maybe they can't say it, but they surely can play it."

Anyway, David is an accountant and the occupations of the rest of the group are equally as interesting. They include a disc jockey, a car reconitioner, an auto body repairman (who is also a race car driver) and a former barber, who is unfortunately, blind. The fiddle player is blind and, according to David, can hear a wrong note for miles in the middle of a thunderstorm. And that is good for the group because they never play them wrong.

And, play they do. Foot stomping, jump up and down, be happy music is blended with short comedy routines that are as fresh as the revival of Bluegrass.

The Jones Brothers sponsor their own Bluegrass Festivals twice a year in North Carolina and the good Lord willing, this is one new Bluegrass fan who hopes he can attend one.

They, too, are presently making television appearances in places south of Kentucky. They have a syndicated show which is broadcast weekly on three southern television stations covering several states.

David, one of the kindest and friendliest people I have ever met, was hired by the Jones Brothers as a guitar player. He had been working with the late Red Smiley and has been a Log Cabin Boy for 7 years. If you ever hear David play a banjo, you'll think he has never put it down.

Blue Denims was probably the youngest of the groups who played at the festival. They consist of (believe it or not): a bank vice president, an airline ticket agent, a terminal manager for a large trucking firm, a civil engineer and an electrician. Though they have been together as a group for one 4 1/2 years, they sound more like 40 1/2 years.

Don't get the wrong idea. That just means 4 1/2 years as a group. R.C. Harris, the bank vice president, has been playing the banjo professionally since 1953. Nobody said these groups haven't worked long, hard hours to get where they are.

and a television personality and not really one of the giant family of Bluegrass people.

That was just the way David Deese explained it to me as he took me from one group to the next introducing me. As the day progressed, I began to feel really a part of that wonderful "family" he kept talking about.

When I drove down to that festival, I had no idea what to expect. Performers are so often known for their high-nosed snobbery with the public or their questionable morals - but with Bluegrass people, that is just not so. I could not have received a more heartwarming reception if I had been walking into my own home.

I have written this entire article without mentioning the man responsible for it all, Mac Wiseman did a beautiful job, not only in choosing those who would entertain, but in his own performances. Mac, too, is a part of that Bluegrass "family" I mentioned earlier.

It was a week end packed with music that is woven into the soul of our part of the United States. It was also a week end overly full of effervescent personalities reaching out and saying, "Come, join our family."

Saturday's rain made mud, and mud attracts boys almost without fail. These boys enjoyed the mud even more than the music.

The Jones Brothers and the Log Cabin Boys were among the large number of Bluegrass entertainers at the festival.

such a household qualifies for increased four dollars to $170.
According to Gail S. Huecker, commissioner of the state Department of Human Resources' Bureau of Social Insurance, the federally ordered cost of living increase will probably result in a one or two percent rise in the number of recipient households and a similar increase in the total allotment of stamps.
In March, 123,935 Kentucky families with 421,088 individual members paid nearly $6 million for more than $17 million worth of food stamps coupons.
Ms. Huecker said it is usually necessary for recipients to purchase food stamps, the cost depending on income. The number of coupons received by each household depends on its size.
U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland ordered the changes for each state food stamp distribution agency. Mrs. Huecker said the adjustments were based on a "thrifty food plan" for a family of four.
The commissioner said she could not predict the total effect on Kentucky's food stamp program, but indicated that more families will become eligible for more stamps.
The maximum income figure for single persons and couples did not change, but the increases for households with three to nine members range from four dollars to $27.
Recipients will be able to purchase up to $5 more in food coupons each month.
