

Rockcastle Recollections

© JOHN LAIR

Beginning this week I expect to start putting the finishing touches on the family history section of the book. I cannot, of course, include the history of every family who has ever lived in Rockcastle. There would not be room for all of them, and we would not know enough about them. I am trying to include for serious study fifty or seventy-five of the largest families, the earliest to come to the county or those that have proven to be most important. In addition I will try to touch briefly on all which I can secure sufficient information.

The list given below consists mostly of those on whom we have some information but need more. If you are a member of any of them the information or family history you may have might prove to be the deciding point on whether or not they will be included in the history of Rockcastle County. Please give this your immediate attention, as I am starting to really pull the manuscript together and this appeal for help may not be made again.

In the beginning the intention was to run family histories from the first beginning down to members now living, but it was soon seen how impossible this would be, so in most cases, we will have time and space to include of the family, where they came from, when they came to America, when they came to Kentucky, when they settled in Rockcastle County and descendants of until a couple of generations ago. Dates, such as birth, marriage, death, army records, etc. are important, as well as an account of anything outstanding any member, or members of the family accomplished anywhere along the line.

One difficulty I am finding is that there are several branches of some families scattered around the county, in some cases families of the same name that are not related to each other. An example of this is the Adams family. There are several distinct family groups with that name, so I have had to take the one about whom the most is known, the one whose members have been most active and well-known and confine most of my efforts to them.

It must be borne in mind that tracing family records in this county is an especially difficult matter since all county records since the forming of the county in 1810 were destroyed in the courthouse fires of 1878. The local DAR has done a remarkable job in gathering up cemetery records, marriage records and old bibles and their efforts along this line are to be found in the public library at Mt. Vernon, but many genealogical and other personal records are to be found only in the recollections of older individuals the county over and many never come to light unless brought out now and included in this first published history of Rockcastle County.

I give below such facts as I have on certain families and ask that anyone who can do so further such information as they may have.

BAKER-Alex Baker, who was in the Battle of Bunker Hill, married Dolly Campbell. Their children were Wilson, Reverend Jim, Hardee, John, Bob, Mary, Susie. They lived first in Clay County, then moved to Jackson, Wilson Baker and brothers, John and Hardee, moved to Rockcastle County. Were they in any way related to the U.G. Baker family? Were they descendants of the John Baker, the Long Hunter, who later came back to Rockcastle County to live and discovered Great Saltpetre Cave.

ABNEY-John Abney came from Virginia to Rockcastle, date unknown. Lige Abney came to Brush Creek when 12 years of age. Jonathan Abney was a veteran of the Revolutionary War and was killed after the war was over. That's all I have on this family, which has numerous descendants in the county.

BURDETTE-Need additional information on the Burdette who was an attorney at Mt. Vernon and county attorney for the county one or more terms. Also the Burdette who was an officer of the Revolution.

COOK-Lofius Cook was an officer in the War of 1812, under Andrew Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans. Buried in Renfro Valley in 1839. Cooks intermarried with several earlier families, but I have no information on them.

CROMER-The only Cromer family history I have is from William V. Cromer, Norwalk, California and is only his immediate family. Would like to know where the first of the name came from and when they reached Rockcastle County.

CLARK-There are several Clarks in Rockcastle County, of whom the best known was probably Dave Clark, prominent for years in country politics. Have been told that Wallace-Clark came to Brush Creek at an early date from the George Rogers Clark settlement, at Louisville and that his son, Talt Clark, was among first to vote the Republican ticket when it first appeared on official ballots in 1848. Need confirmation on this and further information on the Clark family.

BAILEY-I remember that in my boyhood days I heard it talked around the neighborhood that people were lawlessly leaping from different parts of the county trying to find out something about the Bailey family that once lives here. Those requiring were generally relatives by birth or marriage trying to trace down the antecedents of the Baileys. According to Rockcastle census for 1810 John Bailey and Peter Baile were heads of families in the county but were gone by 1820 and are not shown on the census report for that year. However, an old deed in the possession of Jones Bennett Hiatt shows that in 1828 Bennett Hiatt purchased from heirs farm formerly knowas the Harno Bailey place. Apparently all the Baileys must have moved away before that time some going to Logan County. I need as information available on the Baile family, especially the parents of Sari and Celia Baile, who married Pease and Bennett Hiatt, respectively.

OVER-ALL WINNERS in the Ladies Tournament at Cedar Rapids Tuesday were, from left: Tommy Woodall, low gross; Jackie Pence and Wanda Withrow, tied for low net; Lou Hie, fewest putts and Connie Hamm, most strokes.

The Lucrative Library Lease

There is an unquestionable need for a new state library but the clouds of suspicion that linger over the controversial library lease purchase agreement recently negotiated in Frankfort leave a lot of questions unanswered.

Last month, the Executive Department for Finance negotiated a lease with B.T.J., Inc. of Frankfort. The contract calls for B.T.J. to construct and lease a 125,852-square-foot building to the state for $627,917 a year, with an option to purchase for $3.3 million if the state cancels the lease before 1990.

Exercised at the end of the term of the lease.

One must question if this lease was negotiated in the best interest of the taxpayers when the advertisement for bids suggested the state was seeking existing property and when no mention of the lucrative purchase option was made in the advertisement that appeared only in the Frankfort State Journal. Had the willingness of the state to lend its credit rating to private vendors through the purchase penalty been so indicated in the advertisement, such a lucrative no-risk venture would surely have attracted many additional bidders.

One must also question if the present administration can legally obligate future state budgets for the inflated $3.3 million "purchase penalty" clause. I personally hired an eminent Frankfort Attorney, Joseph J. Leary, to check the constitutionality of such a lease and the legality with which the contract was negotiated. Mr. Leary tells me this lease appears to violate Section 177 of the Kentucky Constitution.

Among other things, one must question the apparent violation of the Governor's own leasing policy concerning existing space availability. Our findings show the state does in fact have suitable space presently under lease, and that this specific space was previously approved by officials in the state Department of Libraries.

We also found that this lease was negotiated and public funds committed to construction and leasing of a building with absolutely no detailed designs and specifications. It's almost inconceivable that the state does not have a set of plans for a building that will ultimately cost the taxpayers millions of dollars, a building that someday the state may own and that the state must, under the terms of this lease, maintain.

I say it's a bad deal for the taxpayers when the state guarantees any vendor a million dollar no-risk proposition. The state obligating itself for $16 million for a $3 million metal building is an unnecessary waste of public money, and it's just not right.

Jesus scorned a life of work without joy when He asked, "Is not life more than food, and the body more than clothing?" (Matthew 6:25 BSV). Our New Fall Line Has Arrived Come in and Make Your Selection Now.

Football Practice at RCHS began in July and head coach Glen Polly has expressed high hopes for this season - mainly because of the good number of returning freshmen and sophomore classes. Coach Polly has been putting the boys through a daily rigorous work-out, including running the ball, sprints, and work in the field, individual contact work and scrimmaging. The Rockets open their season August 25th at Burns.

Football Season Is Here Again

August 4, 1977 P-13

All over the nation American males are tossing and kicking and running with footballs, all the way from 8-year-olds in the backyard to junior and senior high and college teams to the big bruisers of the professional leagues.

Football is a rough contact sport and inevitably will produce its full quota of bumps and bruises, strains and sprains, cuts and gashes. Most of these aren't serious and the lads concerned are back in the game shortly.

Thorough medical examination is highly important for boys preparing to go out for football to make certain that there is no physical condition that should be noted before beginning the rigorous training and hard knocks of the game.

Proper physical conditioning hardens the body and increases resistance to fatigue, thus helping prevent injury. A minimum of three weeks of conditioning are recommended prior to the first game of the season. Coaches and team physicians are alert to the fact that many injuries occur when the player is tiring and thus less alert.

Good coaching enables the players to perform better and thus be less prone to injury. Good officiating makes for better games and also helps protect players. Proper equipment and facilities are important to reduce injuries. Good first aid procedures and medical care, with a physician available during practice drills and on the bench during games are major factors in cutting serious injuries.

Precautions against the extreme heat of early season days also are important. Many coaches now schedule the hot weather workouts in early morning and late afternoon to avoid the heat of the day. The old rule against drinking water during drills and games has long since been proved invalid and dangerous. Water and salt is necessary to replace fluids lost through copious sweating.

If your boy is playing on an organized team, the chances are good that all of these safeguards are observed. If most of his playing is done on a vacant lot in the afternoons and on Saturdays, it becomes the parents' responsibility to see that the player has the benefit of the safety principles.

Although rhubarb is eaten as a fruit (often with strawberries), it is actually a vegetable.

Silver for the first dimes minted was provided by George Washington from his own household silverware.

Cedar Rapids Corner

There will be an Adult Party at the Cedar Rapids Recreation Center Saturday night, August 25th with a live band.

Admission will be $10 per couple in advance, $12 at the door. You may sign up and pay at the Pro Shop until August 15, 1977.

There will be a meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary Club August 4 at 7 p.m. at the club house. Ladies, please plan to be present.

The Friday and Sunday buffet will be discontinued the remainder of the summer. The restaurant will be open as usual for short orders.

DHR Preparing Notices for Crisis Program

The Kentucky Department for Human Resources (DHR) is preparing 340,000 notices to acquaint its food stamp, welfare and medical assistance recipients with the Special Crisis Intervention Program, which provides relief for low-income families burdened by high fuel and utility bills.

"We are pursuing an aggressive plan of informing the public, particularly the elderly and others on fixed incomes, about this brief opportunity to recover some financial stability lost during the severe winter," said DHR Secretary Peter Conn, noting that the deadline for applications is Aug. 31.

"Households with total incomes less than 25 per cent above the national poverty index (approximately $600 for a family of four) may qualify for assistance in two categories.

If its fuel and utility service has been shut off or is in danger of being discontinued, a family may be eligible for payments of up to $250 which will be forwarded directly to the service provider by DHR.

A household which proves financial hardship because of paying fuel and utility bills since last October may qualify for cash allowances of up to $50.

Conn said his department is cooperating with utility companies in an extensive mail and telephone campaign to reach the greatest possible number of potential beneficiaries.

DHR bureaus for social insurance and social services are coordinating activities with local Community Action Agencies in their efforts to contact potentially eligible Kentuckians.

"Anyone who believes they may qualify, or knows someone else who may be eligible, should contact their local welfare (Bureau for Social Insur) office as soon as possible," said Conn.

He indicated that, if necessary, DHR was prepared to staff an office in each Community Action Agency to take applications. The individual agencies will gain an intensive outreach program Aug. 8.

reclaim some 101,000 acres of abandoned surface mined areas in the Eastern and Western Kentucky coalfields."

"Landowners may enter into a 3 to 10 year long term agreement with the Secretary of Agriculture to become eligible for cost share assistance," he pointed out.

Adding, "Cost-share assistance could run up to 80 percent. Exceptions could be made here to reduce matching cost share if (1) the main benefits to be derived from the project are related to improving off-site water quality, off-site esthetic values, or other off-site benefits and (2) the matching share requirement would place a burden on the landowner which would probably prevent him from participating in the program according to the act.

Under the Presidentially approved act, a conservation plan would be developed for eligible and participating unrelaminated mining areas in the nation. "This means," according to Murray, "there will be a good deal of latitude from one site to the other. Plans will vary based upon expected land use, site and soil conditions, and the age of spoil area."

U.S. Soil Conservation Service technicians believe the average cost of reclamation per acre will run around $1,600. This will depend on existing conditions and the previous or expected land use.

Woodland areas, predominant in the east, may cost as low as $500 due to limited site preparation needs. On the other hand, other sites being restored may go as high as $23,000 per acre because of the need for more extensive shaping and grading procedures.

These restoration endeavors will go a long way in enhancing Kentucky water quality, Murray emphasized. On a three year average, SCS roughly estimates that 120 tons per acre per year of sediment is being washed down into the Commonwealth's streams and rivers from unrelaminated surface mined sites. This sediment has caused untold amounts of off-site damages in the form of channel filling, excessive reservoir and lake sediment deposits, bottomland swamping and degradation of fishing waters.

SHORT ROWS

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

It may not be an exact fact but it seems that, as the gardening season wanes and summer fades into autumn, vegetables fresh from the garden become tastier and more succulent as the days go by. The last "scrappy" mess of green beans and the last remaining tomato seem much more flavorful than in the abundance of midsummer.

Perhaps for this and other reasons, veteran gardeners make arrangements to extend the harvest until the last goose has departed from the North on its migratory flight and the voice of the last katy did has been stilled by the frost.

In doing this, they plant cauliflower, broccoli, Chinese cabbage, turnips, Kale, mustard, and racing, or taking a gamble on the season—maybe other crops.

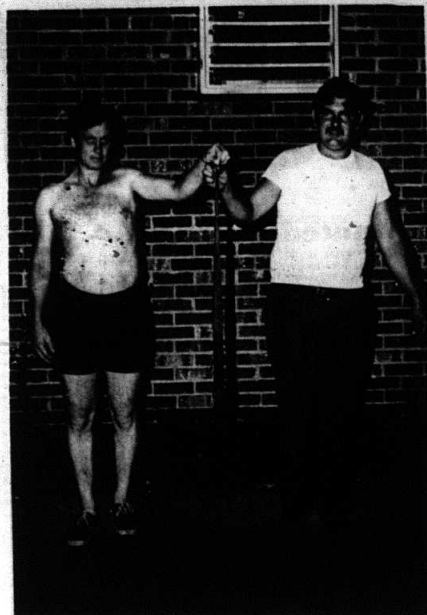

UK Extension garden specialist C. R. Roberts says that, in our Kentucky climate, there is still time left to plant bunch beans, beets, cabbage, carrots, chard, collards, sweet corn, lettuce, okra, and radishes in late July or early August. However, before making these plantings, he adds, it most likely will be necessary to replace soil nutrients used up by previous crops. For the home gardener, a complete fertilizer such as 10-10-10 should be applied at the rate of one pound per 25 feet of row in order to realize the most benefit from this or other fertilizer and to avoid possible fertilizer burn. Roberts advises that a furrow be made with the corner of the hoe on both sides and about three inches from the center of the row. The recommended amount of fertilizer should then be divided between the two furrows.

As the weather is often hot and dry at this time of year, it may be necessary to protect the seed against drying out. A thin mulch of finely chopped straw or grass clippings off the lawn and scattered over the row will help keep the soil moist and promote germination. To further speed up germination during the dry hot days of midsummer, gardeners have been known to lay strips of cardboard or newspapers over the rows of newly-planted seed for two or three days.

With this method extreme care must be exercised, and this type of mulch must not be kept over the seed too long. Else the seed may be killed or the seedlings smothered out.

A fall garden planted to crops adapted to growing late in the season, especially if well tended and cultivated, will not only provide a supply of late vegetables, but will often give better products for canning, freezing, and storing.

Late grown snap beans, lima beans, and spinach, for example, are excellent for canning and freezing. Beets, carrots, cabbage, and turnips can be kept in storage until late winter. Sometimes the late garden can be as important as that of early spring. After a long season of planting, hoeing, weeding, watering, and insect fighting, a lot of gardeners are ready to call it quits by late July. Nevertheless, a late garden is well worthwhile and worthy of the effort. If this is disbelieved, try sitting down sometime in October to just one mess of good old fall beans cooked with a piece of country side meat. Few things of spring and early summer can taste better.

Never Argue With Success

There is a sound philosophy based on the premise: "Never argue with success." If you have the urge to invest in real estate, listen to what some of the most successful investors have to say about it.

Andrew Carnegie: "Ninety per cent of all millionaires become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined."

Marshall Field: "Buying real estate is not only the best way, the quickest way, and the safest way, but the only way to become wealthy." John D. Rockefeller: "The big fortunes in the future will be made in real estate."

John Jacob Astor: (He's a little more specific.)—"Buy on the fringe and wait. Buy land near a growing city! Buy real estate when other people want to sell. Hold what you buy."

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY'S MAPPING PROJECT has begun. The project, which will take 16-18 months to complete, will be done by, from left: E.T. Kale, asst. supervisor, Teddy Day, Liz Mink, Kathy Albright, Margaret Offutt, Lynn Parsons, Bill Bailey and R.J. Martin, supervisor.

County Fiscal Court Approves Application for $60,000 Grant

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court approved a final application for a $60,000 Title VI grant to upgrade recreational areas in the county. In addition, part of the grant will go toward dirt removal at Rockcastle County Hospital.

Red Cross Organizational Meeting set for Aug. 10

There will be a meeting Wednesday, August 10 at noon at the Rockcastle Steak House for anyone interested in organizing a Red Cross Chapter in the county.

Plans are to elect a board of directors, and to discuss the possibility of setting up classes in first aid, water safety, nursing and disaster.

The meeting will be conducted by Bill Calhoun, of Louisville. If you are interested in attending, contact John Holbrook at 256-4323 or 256-4416.

Archery Club to Organize

There will be an organizational meeting of the newly formed Rockcastle Co. Archery Club Tuesday, August 9 at 7:30 p.m. in the community room located at the Rockcastle Co. Library. All interested persons please plan to attend.

For more information, contact James Bowman.

New Strip Mining Act Will Be Expensive

Lexington—The U.S. Soil Conservation Service (SCS) revealed here today the new strip mining act may cost an approximate $160 million for Kentucky to reclaim its abandoned surface mined areas.

Glen Murray, SCS state conservationist, said, "When President Carter signed into law Wednesday the new federal strip mine regulations, he set in motion the potential apparatus to will be installed at Livingston Elementary School. In addition, two city parks, one in Livingston and one in Brodhead, will be upgraded and improved if the grant is approved.

Stables at the Brodhead Fairgrounds will be improved with grant funds. Rotten boards will be replaced and general repair of the stables will be done.

A 40x100 area at Rockcastle County Hospital will be prepared for expansion with the funds.

If the project is approved for Rockcastle County, a total of 10 people will be employed - 9 laborers and 1 supervisor will be hired for the one year project which would be completed in July of 1978. A total of 40 acres of parks and recreational areas plus the hospital grounds would be upgraded under the grant.

The Fiscal Court granted easements to the Western Rockcastle Water District to install water lines in the Scaffold Cane and Chestnut Ridge Area. Deputy Sheriff Cleda Shepherd presented the court with the tax settlement for fiscal year 1978. A total of $244,514 went to schools and $135,261 to the county from taxes collected by the Sheriff's office.

The county's single grade operator was granted a $1.00 per hour raise. The operator will be assigned to each district one week at a time on a rotating basis in the future. Past experience has shown the operator to be in some districts for an extended period of time while being seldom used in others. The raise brought his salary to $3.50 per hour.

A resolution was adopted by the fiscal court in memory of Clifford Bales, County Court Clerk, who died in July of 1976. The Resolution reads as follows: WHEREAS, ROY CLIFFORD HALENS, former County Court Clerk passed away one year ago on July 19, 1976

WHEREAS, Rockcastle County has been especially fortunate in having had the services of Roy Clifford Bales for ten and one half years

Clifford was very helpful and pleasant to all who came and sought his help with records and always had a pleasant word or an interesting story

WHEREAS, the efficiency of Roy Clifford Bales in the office of himself an this staff is deeply appreciated by the Fiscal Court of Rockcastle County

Maupin Found Guilty

Ronnie L. Maupin, 31, of Jackson County was found guilty of willful murder in Circuit Court Tuesday.

The jury, of six men and six women, deliberated for just under two hours after a two-day trial Monday and Tuesday. Maupin was charged along with Arthur Jones of Red Hill with murdering William Drew of Red Hill last August.

Drew was found dead on Drew Valley Road last August 10. He had bled to death from a gunshot wound in the right arm, according to a pathologist's report. Drew had also been hit in the head and chest according to the report. The body was found about eight hours after death.

Maupin stated that he, Jones and Drew had gone into Drew Valley to get a gallon of moonshine. After going down to a still located in the area, Maupin said they were ambushed while returning to their car. Maupin also suffered a gunshot wound in the right arm.

Maupin's attorney claimed that the trio was ambushed by George Drew, also of Red Hill. William Drew was an eyewitness to the shooting which resulted in the death of Coy Phillips two years ago. George Drew was later found guilty of killing Phillips.

The jury, hearing the case, recommended that Maupin be sentenced to 20 years in the state penitentiary. Sentencing will take place Thursday morning at 9 a.m.

Arthur Jones is scheduled to be tried later in this court term.

Mapping of Rockcastle Co. Begins

Robert Cromer, Rockcastle County Property Valuation Administration, has announced that the Kentucky Department of Revenue is conducting a property identification mapping project in Rockcastle County. The boundary lines of all parcels of property in the county will be drawn on aerial photographs and the names and addresses of the current property owners will be determined. Information will be obtained primarily through field interviews with the property owners. Approximately 6 Rockcastle County residents will be employed on the project for 12 to 15 months. Supervision is provided by staff members of the Department of Revenue. All persons working on the mapping project will have identification cards with photographs issued by the Department of Revenue.

In accordance with Kentucky Revised Statute 132.670 all counties in the state will be mapped by July 1, 1982. Ninety-one counties have been completed and nine counties are currently in progress. Each county is responsible for providing suitable office space for its mapping project. The Department of Revenue is responsible for personnel salaries and expenses, equipment, supplies and all other expenditures.

The primary purpose of the project is to provide the Rockcastle County Property Valuation Administrator with an efficient record keeping system and complete inventory of all property in the county. However, the maps and records will serve many other useful functions.

Each property owner will be able to see his land drawn to scale and compare the size, shape, location, and boundaries with other properties. Prospective industries will be able to select sites most suitable for their needs and readily determine which owners they must contact. Right-of-way acquisition for roads and utilities will be easier and quicker. The maps will be valuable for county or regional planning. Attorneys, real estate agents, and others will find the records helpful in determining the location, ownership and boundaries of parcels of property and in abstracting titles.

Further information may be obtained by contacting R.J. Martin at the project office in the Gregory Building.

Help for Alcoholics Is Available Through Comprehensive Care

By: Roger Coldiron

Many of the folk songs and ballads written in Kentucky not only record the history of the people, but associate them closely with the making and drinking of moonshine. It seems, when one listens to some of the old songs, that most of the people spent part of their day making alcohol and the rest of the day drinking it.

The church-going people of this area, by and large, condemn the use of alcoholic beverages. These two factors often force people in the area to totally refrain from the use of alcohol. Unfortunately, these same attitudes also force a number of people into alcohol consumption as a way of life. A number of individuals feel that in order to be accepted into their peer groups, they must drink and drink heavily.

When these individuals lose control of their drinking, they become alcoholics. Drinking becomes something that they do without thinking - it becomes as automatic as getting dressed in the morning.

People drink to escape from problems or as a vehicle for "solving" their problems. They may be shy or self-conscious around others and drinking makes them feel more at ease and helps them make conversation more easily. However, alcohol will inevitably creep into one or more areas of a person's life where it doesn't belong. On the job, in one's business, social or marital life is where alcohol doesn't belong but usually turns up. When the person is willing to sacrifice any of these parts of his life for his drinking, he is an alcoholic. The first stage in helping an alcoholic is recognizing his problem.

If drinking in excess continues for an extended period of time, delirium tremens (D.T.'s) will develop. At this stage, the individual's life is in real danger - D.T.'s can kill.

A Comprehensive Alcoholism program is available to those who need it in Rockcastle County through the Comprehensive Care Center in Mt. Vernon. An alcoholic usually needs professional help and the Comprehensive Alcohol Program provides that help.

Alcoholics usually have a very low opinion of themselves, often because of their problem, or that may be their problem. They need help in coping with their problems rather than trying to forget them. More constructive ways of coping with one's life are sought out with the help of professional counselors and psychologists. An alcoholism field coordinator is available at any time, day or night, for crisis intervention if needed. Very often, the alcoholic will push himself to the edge and can only be snatched back by someone who knows the alcoholic's problems. That person is the field coordinator who has received extensive training in emergency treatment of alcoholics.

Rehabilitation programs are available in Alcohol Rehabilitation Centers, Eastern State Hospital is the location of a 28-day rehabilitation program for this county. Admission to the center is on a strictly volunteer basis and the daily routine is strictly controlled. The alcoholic is conditioned not to drink. The habit is broken and the illness will be treated through outpatient consultation and education locally. The alcoholic can continue to get counseling at the local Comprehensive Care Center for as long as it is needed.

The first step in treating an alcoholic is getting him to recognize his problem. The second step is to get him to the Comprehensive Care Center where he can be placed in the hands of a professional and receive the expert care he needs.

LOCAL WINNERS in the Ladies Golf Tournament held at Cedar Rapids Tuesday were, from left: Mollie Bryant, lowest score; Connie Hamm, most strokes; and Laura McHugh, low gross score.

Dr. Charles E. Barnhart, second from right, was guest speaker at PCA's annual meeting and cook-out last Thursday night. Frankfort Watchline

By Ferrell Wellman

Since becoming lieutenant governor almost two years ago, Thelma Stovall has frequently complained of nothing to do.

Under the present constitution, there is little work for the lieutenant governor except preside over the state Senate. That does, however, leave plenty of time to run for office.

The lieutenant governorship is not a dead-end job. The last two men to hold the office, Sen. Wendell Ford and Gov. Julian Carroll, have become governors. Already, Lt. Gov. Stovall has announced her intentions to seek the top job in the 1979 election.

In 1975, Gov. Carroll wrapped up the governor's race early. With his statewide name recognition, campaign ability and large bankroll to engulph the state with advertising, the primary and general elections were only formalities.

With the governor's race in Carroll's grip, the ambitious politicians of two years ago tried the lieutenant governor's contest. The field was swamped with eleven candidates, six of them considered serious contenders.

In 1976, the race for governor is generally considered to be wide open. At least four prominent politicians are considering the office: state Auditor George Atkins, state Commerce Commissioner Terry McBrayer, Lt. Gov. Stovall and U.S. Rep. Carroll Hubbard. With this interest in the top slot, some Frankfort observers had originally thought the 79 lieutenant governor's race would not draw the attention it did in 1975. Not so.

The list of interested candidates, all Democrats, continues to grow. It now includes two major constitutional officers, two state commissioners, at least three members of the legislature and several other prominent Kentucky politicians.

The name of Supreme Court Clerk Martha Layne Collins of Versailles brings smiles to a couple of gubernatorial hopefuls. She is a dogged campaigner, excellent speaker and her tenure in the statehouse has been scandal free. Clerk Collins is also an attractive woman with few enemies in the upper echelon of the party.

"I think it's too early for the commissioner's name to be mentioned," says a close aide to state Agriculture Commissioner Thomas Harris. However, the aide would deny that the commissioner is interested in the race and has the statewide name recognition to be a serious contender. Harris is from Carroll.

A run by Kentucky Public Information Commissioner James Vernon of Corbin could put the Carroll administration on the spot since the governor's expected back McBrayer in '79 for the number one job. Although McBrayer and Vernon are close friends and speak highly of each other, some people in the Carroll administration see too much similarity between the two men.

"Jim Vernon is not a man I would want mad at me," says one top Carroll aide. Vernon has a reputation as a superb fundraiser and campaigner.

State Senate President Pro Tem Joe Prather of Vine Grove is considering a run for the lieutenant governorship. So is a former chief administrative officer for the governor, former state Rep. Richard Lewis of Beaman.

Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenback is rumored as a possible running mate for McBrayer is Hollenback can win his re-election bid in a convincing fashion this fall.

Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane, who cannot succeed himself, will try for one of the top two jobs. Sloane's campaigning for the constitutional convention is giving him a chance to evaluate his position across the state.

The man who ran Carroll's successful 1975 primary campaign, Federal Highway Administrator Bill Cox of Madisonville, could become an entry. Another rumored candidate is Dale Sights of Henderson. Sights engineered the Carter campaign in Kentucky last year.

House Speaker William Kenton of Lexington often had his name dropped as a potential candidate for lieutenant governor.

Kentucky Attorney General Robert Stephens, also of Lexington, was once thought to be considering the job, but reports now indicate Stephens might be more interested in a 1980 run for Congress.

By the way, wedding bells will be ringing this weekend (August 6th) in Frankfort. The governor's son, Kenneth M. Carroll, will be married to Lee Triplet of Frankfort. *****

Down on the Farm

BY ROY G. BROWN
 VICE PRESIDENT
 PUBLIC RELATIONS
 CUMBERLAND PCA

Summer is moving on as we are in the month of August.

Many farmers are topping and spraying tobacco, and all tobacco will be topped this month. Then in about 3 or 4 weeks the hardest job of all in tobacco will start. That is the cutting and housing of the crop to cure for stripping later in the fall. And again labor will be hard to get.

Another job that needs doing is the mowing or clipping of pastures. This will provide better grazing and also help in the prevention of pinkey in cattle. Also keep dustbats or snakes where cattle will have to come in contact with them, such as gates, doors or runways. These things will make you money as pinkeye prevents cattle from gaining weight.

Don't forget to have your crop seed ready to sow. All land should be sown after crops have been taken off.

This not only protects soil loss this winter but provides pasture during the winter, also.

There are many things we as farmers can do to help cut the high cost of farming and increase the small income we have "Down on the Farm".

Eternal Truth

IN OUR CHANGING WORLD

JUDGING OTHERS

Occasionally when exposing false doctrine and sin, someone says, "It is wrong to judge another's religion. Jesus said, 'Judge not, that ye be not judged'" (Matt. 7:1).

The word "judge" is used in the Bible in both a good (John 7:24) and bad (Matt. 7:1; Rom. 2:13) sense.

Jesus apparently deals with its use in a bad sense in Matt. 7:1. His reference is to Pharisaical hypocrisy. They placed heavy burdens upon others (Matt. 23:4, 16, 18), yet did not keep God's laws themselves. They were like a father who lectures his son about the evils of drinking alcohol while mixing a cocktail for himself.

Of these Jesus said, "...first cast the beam out of thine own eye..." (Matt. 7:5).

But Jesus also said, "Judge righteous judgement" (John 7:24). He means that we should render judgement which the law dictates, not a judgement of one's own decision based on appearances.

If all judgement is prohibited, then NO PERSON could criticize another for ANYTHING! Try living in a society like that for a while... We could have no judge on the bench or preacher in the pulpit.

The Bible teaches that a man can "believe a lie" and "be damned," and warns against such (2 Thess. 2:11-12). John warned, "Believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they be of God; because many false prophets are gone out into the world" (1 John 4:1). Jesus said,

"Beware of false prophets which come to you in sheep's clothing, but inwardly they are ravening wolves" (Matt. 7:15). We are to be careful WHAT we believe - and these passages are talking about RELIGIOUS TEACHERS. Every body is not right religiously, because everybody is not following the truth! The old cliché, "It doesn't matter what you believe, as long as you are sincere" will not pass the Bible test.

If we have the right attitude we will not resent having our religious practices called into question for we know that the Bible teaches that we are to "prove (test) all things" (1 Thess. 5:21). One who becomes angry or defensive because another "kooks" his religion may be afraid of what a search for the truth might reveal. The kicked dog yelps the loudest! TRUTH does not fear honest investigation. Peter said, "...be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason concerning the hope that is in you..." (1 Peter 3:15). The man who is not willing to do so is moral and spiritual coward and not worthy of the name of Christ.

Unwilling Adoption

Unmarried and pregnant, Charlotte asked her doctor to arrange for an adoption. After the baby was born she completed all the legal formalities. Then months later, she decided she had made a mistake. In a court hearing Charlotte tried to have the adoption cancelled. Grounds: duress.

"I was weak and depressed at the time I signed those papers," she explained. "Giving your consent in that mood should not count."

However, the court ruled that the adoption was valid. Calling Charlotte's mood normal under the circumstances, the court said people would become leery of adopting children if the procedure was too easy to revoke.

It is true that an adoption may be cancelled because of duress. But, out of concern for the adopting parents, courts are cautious about recognizing such a plea.

In another adoption case the mother claimed duress on the ground that her doctor, her clergyman, and her own mother had all urged her to give the baby up.

But again, the court said this was not enough to constitute duress in the eyes of the law. The court pointed out that at the time of the adoption, in juvenile court, the mother had been clearly informed that the decision was hers alone to make.

On the other hand the court did find duress in another case involving a young married couple. Here, a few days after the birth of their baby, the father told the mother that he had lost his job and was walking out on her.

In desperation, she decided on an immediate adoption. But this time a court decided later that these pressures along with technical irregularities were too serious to disregard. Revoing the adoption, the court said:

"The circumstances prevented her from exercising her own free will."

attends in London.

Lots of my news I make two copies and it is so easy to pick up the original instead of the one I've corrected as I did in the article under the picture of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Newland, Sr. last week. The right copy was that Mr. Newland was formerly of Lincoln County and Mrs. Newland is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wallin and granddaughter of Dr. and Mrs. S.C. Davis of Mt. Vernon. The same thing happened in the article of our dear brother's death, Mr. Charlie L. Davis, who passed away in May. The corrected copy stated that he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Davis and grandson of Dr. and Mrs. S.C. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Rickels. This copy was left on the writing table and the wrong one went to press.

A poem copied from "Our Daily Bread" devotion book entitled "I'm Sorry, I Was Wrong"

There may be virtue in the man
Who's always sure he's right
Who'll never hear another's plan
And seeks no further light;

But I like more the chap who sings
A somewhat different song,
That he has lost the fight or way,
Because his light burned dim.

It's hard for anyone to say
That failure's due to him,
That he has lost the fight or way,
Because his light burned dim.

It takes a man to cast aside
The vanity that's strong,
Confessing, "I was my fault, I lied,
I'm sorry, I was wrong."

And so I figure those who say
This honest, manly phrase
Hate it too much to lose their way
On many future days.

They'll keep the path and win the fight,
Because they do not long
To have to say when they're not right,
I'm sorry, I was wrong.

Mrs. Juanita Prather of Blue Ash, Ohio; two nephews and one niece.
Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, July 27 at the Cox Funeral Home Chapel with Bro. Zade McClure officiating. Burial was in the Elmwood Cemetery.
Arrangements were by Cox Funeral Home.

Mrs. Walker Owens

Mrs. Walker Owens died Tuesday morning, July 26th at the Sunflower Hospital in Indianola, Mississippi.
Services were conducted in Indianola and she was buried in the family cemetery in Calhoun City, Mississippi.

Mrs. Owens lived in Mt. Vernon a number of years during which period she assisted her husband in his position as head of the Rockcastle County Health Department.

She acted as president of the Mt. Vernon Woman's Club during the period 1938-1940 and later became Governor of the Ninth District of K.F.W.C. During these years, she gave much time to helping local young people develop their artistic talents.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Owens moved to Danville and for many years served as manager of McDowell House, former home and office of pioneer physician, Dr. Ephraim McDowell.

She had served as state chairman of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Kentucky Medical Association. She also was the first chairman of the auxiliary's furniture committee in the mid 1940's when the organization began to furnish the house with items from the period in which the McDowell House was built.

Brindle Ridge

Homecoming

Everyone enjoyed the Homecoming at the Brindle Ridge Baptist Church Sunday. Bro. Green Ellis of Williamsburg was the morning speaker and several groups of singers took part in the afternoon. A group of well over 200 were in attendance. The Church wants to thank each one who attended.

REAL ESTATE COURSES AVAILABLE AT SCC

Two courses in Real Estate will be offered in the evening program at Somerset Community College during the Fall semester, 1977. These courses meet the 30 classroom hour requirement for salesmen and brokers relicensing.

On Monday nights, beginning September 5, Real Estate Principles I will be offered from 7:00 - 9:45 p.m. This course is designed to help the salesman with listings, prospecting and showing. The student will learn how to qualify clients and will be given some insight into the organization of time. Woodrow Simmons, an Appraiser with the Highway Department, will serve as course instructor.

The second course is entitled Real Estate Law. This course will meet on Tuesday nights from 7:00 - 9:45 p.m. beginning September 6. This course is an introduction to the management of income-producing real estate. It is designed to give the student a basic background in property management. The instructor for the course will be Philip Price, also an Appraiser with the Highway Department.

Students interested in these courses may register now or at the time of the first class meeting. For further information, call 678-8174.

Managing Metrics

Though some American consumers automatically sink at the thought of changing ounces to grams or quarts to liters, many are finding that the liquor industry's change to the metric system is making it easier for them to shop.

Instead of the confusing array of 38 different sizes sold under the old system, liquor will be bottled in six standard metric sizes. For example, the old quart or 32-ounce bottle will be replaced by a liter holding 33.8 ounces. The fifth, which is 25.6 fluid ounces, will give way to a 750-milliliter bottle equivalent to 25.4 ounces.

The law allows a period of grace to the end of 1978 (1978 for wines) to convert fully to the metric system, and most distillers will switch over gradually as they use up their 1977-78 orders for

One of the first metric bottles to reach the United States was Beefeater Gin in a jumbo 1.75 liter bottle, which replaces the old half-gallon. To make things easier for consumers, it's called the "Beefeater Biggie," which is somewhat simpler to ask for than 75.75 liters of Beefeater in the new metric bottle, please.

The Fourth Street Tobacco Warehouse Softball team from Lexington will be one of the teams participating in a tournament at Brodhead Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 6 and 7. The team, a combination of the old Hacienda, Sportworld, an Scott Co. Merchants Team, has participated against national competition throughout the country and, this year, has won five tournaments, going undefeated in four of them. They are also the winners of the Lexington Metro Open League and the Lexington Metro City Tournament champions. Last weekend, they defeated the Pineville Radicals, 33-17 twice to win a tournament in Manchester. Their record this year is 66 wins to 14 losses and the latest edition of Southern Softball Magazine has them ranked as the No. 1 team in Kentucky. Gene Bishop, one of the members of the Fourth Street Tobacco Warehouse team, is the son-in-law of Mrs. Eva Brown Brodhead.

Some Favorite Recipes For Homemade Pickles

Here are four favorite Kentucky pickle recipes developed by Extension food specialist from the UK College of Agriculture. See your local county Extension agent, Cheryl Witt, for other up-to-date recipes for fruit and vegetable pickles, relishes, catsup and sauerkraut.

- #### Bread and Butter Pickles
- 1 gallon sliced cucumbers
 - 8 small white onions, sliced
 - 2 green peppers, shredded
 - 5 cups sugar
 - 1 1/2 teaspoon turmeric
 - 1/2 teaspoon cloves
 - 2 teaspoons mustard seed
 - 2 teaspoons celery seed
 - 6 cups vinegar
 - 1/2 cup coarse salt

Mix sliced cucumbers, onions, shredded pepper and salt. Cover with cold water (ice water, if possible) and let stand 3 hours. Drain well.

Bring vinegar and spices to boiling. Add vegetables, reduce flame, and simmer for a few minutes, but not until cucumbers are soft. Pack in hot jars, leaving 1/2 inch head space. Adjust jar lids. Process 5 minutes in boiling-water-bath canner. Makes 7 pints.

Mixed Vegetable Pickles

- 1 quart small cucumbers
- 2 cups pickling onions
- 2 cups small pieces of cauliflower
- 2 cups carrots (cut in 1/4 inch circles)
- 2 cups string beans
- 1/4 cup coarse salt
- 1 quart water
- 1/2 cup white mustard seed
- 1/2 cups sugar
- 1 1/2 quarts vinegar

Cover vegetables with a brine made from the salt and water. Let stand overnight. Drain, cover vegetables with clear water, and let stand for 2 hours. Drain, cover with mixture of sugar and vinegar, and let stand overnight.

Drainoff the vinegar and heat it to simmering. Then add vegetables and simmer 15 minutes. Pack in hot jars, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Adjust lids. Process 10 minutes in boiling-water-bath canner.

Pickled Pears

- 6 pounds pears
- 3 pounds sugar
- 3 cups vinegar
- 3 cups water
- 2 tablespoons whole cloves
- 5-4 inch sticks of cinnamon

Select small, ripe but firm pears. Wash and remove the blossom ends. Peel pears, leave whole and cook in clear water for 10 minutes. Drain. Mix together sugar, vinegar, and water. Add spices, tied in a clean cloth and boil for 5 minutes. Put pears in sirup and boil until fruit is tender. Let pears stand in sirup overnight.

assist landowners in managing their timberlands for increased production. According to the Kentucky Division of Forestry Office in Pineville, few Rockcastle County landowners have taken advantage of this valuable program. Timberland, like crop land, need proper care and attention if it is to achieve maximum production. Foresters can help the landowner pick out desirable crop trees in his timberstands. Then any undesirable trees or vines can be removed to make sure the crop trees have enough sunlight and other growth factors to remain healthy and vigorous. The ASCS program provides money on a cost-share basis to have such trees cut or deadened.

The ASCS reimburses the landowner for 75% of his cost, up to $35.00 per acre. Thus, for a very small investment, he can be assured that his forest acres will return to him the maximum profit in the long run. According to the Division of Forestry, investment in timber is like money in the bank.

Cost-share money is also available for planting trees on old fields and idles land. Service Foresters from the Division of Forestry are available, free of charge, to advise landowners on timber stand improvement and tree planting practices. Interested persons should contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry, P.O. Box 31, Pineville, Kentucky 40371, phone 337-3011, or the Rockcastle County ASCS Office in Mt. Vernon.

Plan to Shorten Beef Calving Season

Beef cattle producers who want to go after more profit by shortening their calving season have a decision to make soon—when to remove the bull from their cow herd.

"March and April calves, preferred by most Kentucky cattlemen, require a 60-day breeding season approximately from May 20 to July 20," says Ron Parker, Extension, beef cattle specialist in the UK College of Agriculture.

To avoid too much of an adjustment the first year, he suggests removing the bull on August 31. This should be followed by pregnancy testing all cows about 90 days later, or at least several days before November 20. The decision then is whether to go to one or two calving seasons.

If a large percentage of the cows are pregnant, Parker suggests going directly to one calving season per year. Next spring, put the bull back with the cow herd earlier on the target date (about May 1) and leave him in longer (until about August 10).

This is still considerably longer than the desired 60-day breeding season, but by checking previous calving dates, you may be able to shorten the breeding season more than this the first year. By working at it you can be on target in a few years.

If too many cows are open after the November pregnancy test, consider two calving seasons; one in the spring and one in the fall. To do this, put the bull back with the cow herd from November 22 until February 10. This 80-day breeding season will make cows calve from about September 1 to November 20. Return the bull to the spring calving herd from May 20 to August 18 - a 90-day period.

The challenge then is to shorten both breeding seasons to 60 days or less in the following years. Add replacement heifers to either the spring or fall-calving herd, whichever you want to emphasize.

The beef cattle specialist has three reminders: A cow requires a minimum of 40 days after calving before she likely will rebreed. Breed replacement heifers 20 days earlier than the cow herd to allow them extra time to rebreed after their first calf.

Cull open or late-calving cows.

Clipping Can Improve Pastures

Clipping pastures will make them more productive when there's not enough grazing pressure to keep down growth and maintain young, palatable forage for cattle.

"Cattle don't like mature forage that is tough, stemmy and seedy," explains Ken Evans, Extension forage specialist in the UK College of Agriculture. Mowing the tall growth lets more sunlight get to the base of the plants so they produce tillers of tender new forage that's palatable for cattle.

There are two other important reasons for clipping pastures. One is to control weeds by preventing or reducing seed production. The other is to remove materials that irritate the eyes of cattle and increase problems from pinkeye.

Grazing heavily before mowing is recommended, especially for beef cattle pastures, if it is practical to do it and when the clippings will be left in the field. This will force cattle to eat some of the good forage that otherwise would be wasted.

Fescue and orchardgrass already have produced seed heads and should be clipped. Evans recommends mowing close, two to three inches above the ground. This removes mature growth, promotes fast regrowth and helps keep legumes in the pasture stand.

If there is enough excess summer growth to bother with, harvest it for hay or silage. Stored food from clipping pastures can make a substantial addition to winter food supplies.

Farmers Urged To Increase Farm Storage Facilities

Beverly G. Yeiser, Sr. today appealed to farmers to protect their grain supplies through proper farm storage. The grain storage situation is tight, and substantial increases are still needed in farm storage capacity. Beverly G. Yeiser, Sr. is State Executive Director of Kentucky Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Mr. Yeiser said that the problem of inadequate grain storage facilities is not new. The tremendous increase in grain production in recent years was not accompanied by a corresponding expansion in storage facilities. Allot production, prompted by strong price incentives, directed producers' efforts toward increasing production.

one year's crop with 30 percent down and 7 1/2 percent interest.

Wet storage structures (silos) are also authorized under this facility loan program.

Quality stored grain will not only protect the farmer's investment, it will safeguard the Nation's food supply and assure orderly marketing, Mr. Yeiser said.

Additional information regarding Farm Storage Facility and Dryer Loans may be obtained at any County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office or the State ASCS office, 333 Waller Avenue, Lexington, Ky. 40504.

Kentucky Afield

Perhaps the best way to describe the relationship between the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources and the hunters and fishermen of Kentucky is by an analogy to business.

If the Department were a corporation, then the sportsmen of the state would be the stockholders in this company. Their "stock certificates" are the hunting and fishing licenses which they purchase each year and, as in a corporation, these "certificates" entitle the stockholders to a voice in the operation of the Department through their selection of members of the Fish and Wildlife Commission and Board.

The dividends of these stock purchases are not, of course, returned in the form of financial gain, but there are dividends nevertheless in the assurance of continued quality hunting and fishing for the residents of the state, of clear streams and lakes and of healthy wildlife populations.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife, which receives no general revenue funds from the state, operates almost entirely on money from its "stockholders." Hunting and fishing license fees usually account for around 80 percent of the Department's total income. Another ten per cent of the total also comes from hunters and fishermen, but in a different form.

There is an 11 per cent federal excise tax on all sporting arms and ammunition and on fishing tackle sold in this country. The money collected from this tax is then prorated back to the states for fish and wildlife programs - research projects, management programs and land acquisition for wildlife.

Kentucky's share of this federal money amounts to about 10 per cent of the total departmental income. The remaining 10 per cent is derived from miscellaneous sources, including commercial license sales, fines, camp fees and "Happy Hunting Ground" magazine subscriptions.

The money collected by the Department is placed in a separate account - the Game and Fish Fund - and can be used only by the Department of Fish and Wildlife. A provision of the federal laws governing fish and wildlife restoration money stipulates that any state diverting license revenue to other uses besides fish and wildlife will lose its federal funds.

The sportsmen of Kentucky, then, provide the support for the Department of Fish and Wildlife, are indeed its "stockholders." And, like stockholders in a corporation, the sportsmen of the Commonwealth do have a say in how their money is spent.

Their voice in the running of the Department is through their elected representatives, the members of the Fish and Wildlife Commission. This nine member group, with a representative from each of the wildlife districts in Kentucky, is the governing board of the Department. The Commission has a voice in the Department's major policy decisions, including the setting of hunting seasons, bag and creel limits, license fees and size limits.

The commission members are selected by the licensed sportsmen of each district at an open meeting, where five nominees are selected for the post. These five names are submitted to the governor, who then appoints one of them for a four-year term.

According to state law, no more than five of the commission members may be from the same political party. Should a vacancy occur before the expiration of a member's term, the appointment is made from the names remaining on the list originally submitted by the sportsmen.

These meetings to nominate commission members are publicized in

You can't cool the whole town!

More than half of all the space heating fuels used in America and about a third of all the electricity are used in our homes. That means that almost all of us can do something to save energy and save money at the same time.

More than half of the energy we use in our homes goes into heating and cooling. Nobody knows how much of that energy (and cost) is escaping into the great outdoors. The culprit is that many of us are trying to heat the whole town or countryside. And that can't be done.

Airtightness is important if we are to keep the air that we cool in summer and heat in winter within our homes. We can do something about that. A poorly insulated home costs about 50% more to heat and cool than a properly insulated house. Think of that in dollars! Most of us probably can save $1 out of every $3 that we spend for heating and air conditioning.

We can save enough in about a year to match the cost of adding 6 inches of insulation in the attic. That amount is all savings from then on.

Contact your electric cooperative for information about insulation, caulking, weather stripping, storm doors and storm windows. Ask about the advantages of improving your home's airtightness during the summer rather than waiting for cold weather.
