Cards in Preparation For Chemical Users

If you're among the 74,000 Kentuckians who sit through some pesticide training sessions held this year, you probably haven't received your applicator certification card yet.

But that's not problem, according to Fred Waters, who heads the pesticide section of the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection. The cards will be mailed beginning later this month Waters said, and all certified applicators should have their cards well before the end of the year.

Preparing the cards has taken on all the aspects of "Mission Impossible" for Waters' small office staff, and he estimates the job will require more than 5,500 secretarial man-hours of work before completion. A total of 4 minutes and 45 seconds are needed to process each set of test results and prepare the laminated card.

Both the training and the certification card will be required for farmers to purchase pesticides classified for restricted use by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Waters said EPA has indicated the restricted-use labels will not be ready for use by chemical manufacturers before the first of the year, and noted that dealers cannot require that farmer-shop certification to purchase chemicals not labeled as restricted.

That means the EPA's announced deadline of Oct. 21, 1977, for farmers to be certified is no longer operative, and that the new deadline will be moved back at least to early 1978, or whenever the new labels become available.

Another possible delay in the program could result from EPA's slowness in designating which agricultural chemicals will be on the restricted list, Waters noted. A partial listing of 23 EPA-restricted pesticides appeared in some newspapers recently and two chemicals commonly used by Kentucky farmers - methyl bromide and parquat - were included on that list.

But Waters emphasized he has had no official notification from the federal agency on these 23 or any other products classified for restricted use.

Florida Shot Rules

Threatens Heifer Market

Some new Florida cattle vaccination rules are threatening the sale of Kentucky grown dairy replacement heifers into that state.

Such sales are worth some $20 million annually to Kentucky producers, according to State Veterinarian Dr. Tom Maddox. The heifers are brought by Florida dairymen to replace old cows and animals not producing milk at sufficient levels.

Florida's new rules, set to go into effect July 1, 1979, will require that all dairy cattle coming into that state show proof of calfhood vaccination for brucellosis. The heifers would have to display official ear tags showing the vaccination took place when he calves were two to six months of age.

"For without faith it is impossible to please God; for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him" (Hebrews 11:6).

I believe all sincere religious people desire to please God and most would agree that in order to please Him one must have faith. Obviously, however, many misunderstand the Biblical meaning of faith. The Hebrew apostle defined faith as: "The substance of things hoped for; the evidence of things not seen" (Hebrews 11:1). Paul said, "We (Christians) walk by faith, not by sight" (2 Cor. 5:7), and "the just shall live by faith" (Rom. 1:17).

Many kinds of faith are mentioned in the Scriptures: weak faith, little faith, vain faith, etc., but only one is pleasing to Him.

The word of God which produces faith is a gift of God, but faith itself is not. "So then faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God" (Romans 10:17). We conclude from the Scriptures that pleasing faith: (1) based upon the word of God, (2) believed because it is the word of God, and (3) acted upon according to that word. If God's word, the Bible, rightly divided, does not contain the doctrines we believe, though we have utmost confidence (faith) in them, God is not their author and they are therefore not the faith that pleases Him. For example, most churches use mechanical instruments of music in their worship services. Where has God authorized Maddox said fewer than one-third of Kentucky's dairy calves receive the shots at present, but he has asked Gov. Julian Carroll to appropriate contingency funds that would pay veterinarians $2 per shot vaccination fees for farmers. Federal officials have indicated matching funds would be available if the state money is approved.

He is "hopeful" that Gov. Carroll will approve the short-term funding, Maddox said, so the program can begin by the target date of Oct. 1. The next legislature will be asked to provide permanent appropriations that would cover the estimated $120,000 necessary to ensure continued access to the lucrative Florida market.

A large number of the Florida-bound calves are sold from Southcentral Kentucky, in Warren and surrounding counties, Maddox said. Many are purchased from North Carolina farmers, fed to a heavier weight on the Kentucky farms, and sold to Florida milkers just before calf-rearing and beginning milk production.

Warehouses Will Sell Loose-Leaf Burley

Reports that two of Kentucky's largest tobacco warehousing companies will handle loose-leaf burley this season have provided a boost to Farm Bureau officials planning a 40 million pound loose-leaf program in the eight burley-producing states.

Central District Warehousing Corporation and Western District Warehousing Corporation have announced they will accept and offer baled and sheeted burley for sale.

The two firms operate a number of auction floors in Central and Southcentral Kentucky, and their decision to accept untied leaf gives farmers in much of the central one-third of the state assurance of a loose-leaf marketing outlet.

"This is one of the first big breakthroughs we've had on this year's program," said Kentucky Farm Bureau President Bob Wade. "The warehouses in my area (southern Kentucky) have urged me, since they're wanting to take loose-leaf. It looks like there will be an ample supply of warehouses for farmers to sell this untied tobacco."

George Leer, general manager of the Lexington-based Central District, urged other warehousemen to accept loose-leaf burley from their farmer-customers. He said his company's decision was based on an "unprecedented" number of letters and phone calls from farmers wanting to know and sometimes demanding - that we allot a certain amount of selling time and space for loose leaf tobacco during the 1977-78 marketing season."

Leer said the Council for Burley Tobacco's recent action urging farmers not to market untied burley this season was a "vote to continue to delay a fair and impartial test of loose-leaf sales in the marketplace."

Leer added that curtailing sales is not the way to find out which package is best. "The purchasing companies will essentially determine this (their preference for bales, sheets or bundles) them to do so? He hasn't! Therefore, to use such instruments is by presumption (presume that God will be pleased), and not by faith. The fund raising activities of some religious groups include raffles, pig sellers, contests, etc. How has God instructed the church to be financially supported? I Corinthians 16:2 directs members of the church to "lay in by store upon the first day of the week as they have prospered. Other passages in the Bible harmonize with this method. This we do by faith (remember that faith is obtained by hearing the word of God); any other method is unauthorized.

The Faith That Pleases God

We are commanded: "Whatever you do, do it all in the name (by the authority) of the Lord Jesus" (Colossians 3:17). The only religious practices that can be done "by faith" are those authorized by Christ in the New Testament (see 2 Timothy 3:16-17 and 2 Peter 1:3). All others are presumptions, based upon opinions, and with such "It is impossible to please God."

Wheat Set Aside Won't Lower Stocks

Plans to "set aside" 20 percent of next year's wheat crop acreage "won't reduce the surplus wheat supply to any large extent," Kentucky Farm Bureau President Bob Wade has said.

In a recent interview, Wade noted that several factors point to a minimal impact of the 1978 set aside program on U.S. wheat stocks, currently totaling 30 million metric tons.

"The program is voluntary. A number of Kentucky farmers have indicated they won't participate, Wade said, and will plant their full acreage. If they did, they would not show a profit just from crop loans and support prices.

"Participating farmers will set aside their least productive acres and may increase fertilization to bring yields up on the remaining 80 percent. With higher support prices in new farm program legislation, "efficient farmers may be able to show a profit just growing for the government," Wade said.

"Wheat stocks are so large now, more than 100 million tons worldwide, that "We could have a 100 percent set aside for next year, and still have plenty of wheat," he said. "The weather here and in other parts of the world will have the most to say about wheat prices."

Cattlemen Urged to Vaccinate For Blackleg

Blackleg continues to be a major cattle disease problem in Kentucky, despite the fact the reliable, cheap and safe vaccines have been on the market for years to protect cattle from the disease.

Outbreaks usually occur in the fall and winter, but blackleg can hit a herd at any time of the year.

Failure to use the vaccine stems from the tricky nature of the disease. The fact that blackleg usually doesn't strike the same herd every year lulls the cattlemen into thinking that continued vaccination is unnecessary. He may get by without vaccinating for two or three years but then all of a sudden the disease breaks out in his herd and takes its costly death toll.

The disease organism lives in the soil for years, waiting for the right conditions to infect cattle. Although the greatest danger is in pastures subject to stream overflow and where blackleg death losses have occurred, the Extension veterinarian says all pastures in Kentucky should be considered as contaminated with the disease.

Another characteristic of the disease is that an outbreak often kills the biggest, fastest-growing calves in the herd. Blackleg gets its name from the fact that it affects the heavy muscles of the animal, including the leg, back, hip, shoulder and chest. Gas-filled swelling of the infected muscle and lameness are usually the first symptoms observed, but in all cases death follows.

The answer to the costly blackleg problem in Kentucky is a continuous vaccination program. The loss of one calf equals the cost of vaccinations over a 10-year period.

W.E. Wise, Extension veterinarian, UK College of Agriculture recommends vaccinating all cattle under two years of age every year. Although one injection usually confers immunity, in some areas of the state it is necessary to vaccinate cattle twice to get adequate protection. The two injections should be given several weeks apart. Calves vaccinated at a very early age should be revaccinated within a year.

What To Do In September

Renovate your lawn. Late this month is a favorable time to de-thatch, reseed and fertilize.

Spray established lawns to control broadleaf weeds. Ask your agent for 1978 recommendations (Ext. publication AGR-211) if you do not have a copy.

Clip hedges for the last time this year. Prepare sites for new hedges. Plant evergreen hedges from mid-September to mid-October.

Divide and transplant perennials. Plant daffodil bulbs.

Bring in houseplants. Keep tender plants away from windows on cold nights. Transfer plants liking plenty of light from a west to a south window. Complete repotting and pruning.

Take cuttings of tender plants that you wish to overwinter indoors.

Remove faded blooms from roses. For quality blooms on hybrid teas, remove small side buds from flower stems. Prune climbers and ramblers which have only one flush of blooms, and also sweeping standards.

Prepare ground for planting trees and shrubs late in September or in October.

Other materials for fall flower arrangements: Milkweed, foxglove, bittersweet, habyberr, sunac, curly dock, hydrangea, okra, etc. are excellent materials.

Harvest and store white and sweet potatoes.

Tax-Free House Sale If Over 65

A homeowner who is over 65 or older may be able to avoid all income taxes on the profit from the sale of his home if he meets certain requirements. The two main ones are: The house must have been used as the taxpayer's principal residence for five of the eight years preceding the sale. The just sales price of the house must be $35,000 or less. If you sold for more than $35,000, you can still avoid tax on the gain attributable to the first $35,000 of the sales proceeds. If husband and wife own the house jointly, only one has to be 65 or older for the rule to apply. Unfortunately, this tax exclusion can be used only once. You make the election to exclude the profit by attaching a signed statement to this effect with your tax return. Check with an accountant or Internal Revenue Service for details and form numbers. # Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

Kentucky's dove season, which opened Sept. 1, is getting mixed reviews from department of fish and wildlife regional supervisors around the commonwealth.

The supervisors, who oversee the activities of the state conservation officers, report that their men checked 11,631 dove hunters in 84 counties during the first five days of the season. The hunters harvested 11,631 doves and 1,284 of them had taken their limit of 12 birds each when checked. The officers made 306 arrests for hunting violations.

The supervisors report that the doves are scattered this year. In the western Kentucky wildlife districts, the supervisors feel that the earlier than usual harvest of grain and silage gave doves too much area in which to feed, letting them avoid hunted fields.

But in northern and central Kentucky, just the opposite was true; not enough fields had been cut, giving the doves no good feeding areas in which to concentrate.

Eastern Kentucky supervisors feel that dove populations and conditions were just about average. Comparing this year's dove per hunting ratio to last season's shows a slight decrease. In 1976, the CO's checked 7,242 hunters with 36,764 doves, an average of 4.77 doves per hunter. This year, the average is 4.22 birds per hunter. These figures tend to confirm the supervisors' assessment of less than ideal hunting conditions and, in some areas, dove populations slightly below normal.

The dove season will continue until Oct. 31, when it will close until the second much shorter phase of the split season, Dec. 10 through Dec. 18. Hunting hours are from noon until one-half hour before sunset, local prevailing time; the daily limit is 12 and the possession limit 24 after two or more days of hunting.

The weather on opening day may have discouraged some hunters. I know of at least one, who usually reports in this column the number of boxes of shells he managed to reach a limit, who stayed home in front of a fan.

But those hunters who did spend the afternoon in a hot, shadeless cornfield were probably thinking about waterfowl hunting in an attempt to feel cooler. This January, when they're up to their hipboots tops in ice water in some goose blind, remembering the opening day of dove season should do as much good as at least three cups of hot coffee.

And for those who want that goose blind to be at the Ballard County Wildlife Management Area, here's the final notice to get your requests for reservations in. The application period begins Sept. 15 and ends Sept. 30 for both geese and duck on the area. Applications must contain the name and address of each hunter in the party, a first and alternate choice of hunting dates, a fee of $5 per day per hunter or $15 per pit (cashier's check, certified check or money order only), preference for duck or goose hunting and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mail application to Ballard Co. Wildlife Mgt. Area, Rt. 1, LaCenter, Kentucky 42056, and write "hunting application" on the mailing envelope.

And when selecting hunting dates, remember that goose hunting on the Ballard wildlife area doesn't start until Dec. 1 even though the statewide season gets underway Nov. 12. Duck hunting won't be allowed on the refuge until Dec. 10. Duck and goose hunting will cease on

Down On The Farm

By Danny McKinsey
Branch Manager
Cumerland PCA

Tobacco harvesting is almost complete and we will be into stripping within a couple of months. A subject that is being hashed around is loose leaf marketing. The farmers in North Carolina that switched in the early 60's have never had any second thoughts about the change, yet it seems there is still quite a bit of disagreement as to the feasibility of the program.

Kentucky produces approximately two-thirds of the annual burley crop which runs approximately 600,000,000 pounds and so it seems that we should have a voice in selecting our marketing managers.

There are two methods of marketing loose leaf. The first method is to use burlap sheets to bind the leaves in and the second is to use bale type bundles. Each of these methods have advantages and disadvantages so we should be studying the pros and cons and decide which manner of marketing loose leaf tobacco best suits our needs, while deciding if loose leaf marketing would help us "Down on the Farm".

Fall Liming Best For Tobacco Fields
Applying lime in tobacco fields this fall will prevent manganese toxicity in next year's crops, a major problem in the production of tobacco on acid soils in Kentucky, says Ken Wells, Extension soils specialist in the UK College of Agriculture.

He recommends having soils tested and applying as much lime as needed to adjust the soil pH to around 6.4. This will maintain the desired pH range of 5.5 to 6 during next year's growing season after fertilizer has been applied. High rates of fertilizer commonly used on tobacco reduce the pH to half point to a point below the initial reading.

The best time to apply lime in fields growing continuous tobacco is before seeding the cover crop, Wells says. Farmers using a crop rotation of 2 years grass-legume sod followed by 2 years of tobacco should apply lime right after harvesting the last tobacco crop in the rotation.

"Full application gives the lime time to react with acids in the soil so it will do the most good," says Wells. Research shows that tobacco yields and quality are higher when lime is applied in the fall instead of waiting until spring.

Mixing lime thoroughly in the soil throughout the plow layer is important to provide good growing conditions for plant roots. Don't just spread lime and plow it under. Disk it in well when working up a seedbed for the cover crop.

Soil samples for testing are handled through county Extension agents for agriculture with offices located in every county in Kentucky. They have soil containers and instructions for taking samples in the fall.

City Council Meets

Residents of Old Highway 25 north of Mt. Vernon may soon be getting the water system they have been requesting for several years.

Roy "Schooner" Lucas represented the residents of the area at Monday's regular meeting of the city council. There was a misunderstanding between the residents and the council two months ago when the residents mounted a concerted effort for city water. The problem resulted from cost estimates for installing the system which will have to be borne by the subscribers.

At the Monday meeting, it was agreed that the city pay the cost of crossing Highway 25. Residents will pay the cost of digging the trench for the line and materials. The city will supply two men to lay the pipe.

The only obstacle remaining is the application for a permit to cross 25. The permit must be issued by the Department of Highways. Work will begin when the permit is received by the city.

Annexation on the north end of Mt. Vernon ran into a snag when Mrs. Fannie Mullins presented the council a letter she had written before the survey was done. She wanted her property to a depth of 150' annexed but not the remainder. The land she wanted to remain out of the city is behind Northside Baptist Church.

The council agreed to amend the limits since she had filed her request prior to the survey.

The sidewalk committee presented its first report to the council concerning recommendations for sidewalk repair and reconstruction. Funding details were not formalized but will be discussed with landowners in the coming weeks.

First on the list for sidewalks were: Tevis & Crawford Streets, Lovell Lane, and Main Street between Williams and Quarry Streets. The repair and construction projects fall under a 5 year program specifically designed for sidewalks.

A street light recently removed from the area behind the Dinner Bell building on Richmond St., will be replaced at the request of area residents. The light was the only one nearby and had to be removed because of construction work in the area. Residents of Davis St. also requested a streetlight be installed there.

Mrs. Larry Durham asked the council for the second time for a sewer line to her home on Town Hill. She was advised to investigate the possibility of hooking on to an existing line near their home. Otherwise, private property will have to be crossed and additional expense involved.

Virgil Sowder who lives on Richmond St. complained to the council that groups of people have been gathering in the Snack Shack parking lot late at night and creating a disturbance. The situation was discussed with Asst. Police Chief John Grider. According to Grider the police are powerless to do anything because the people are always quiet when the police are nearby. They are also on private property and have the owners' permission to stay. According to Grider the only solution is for warrants to be sworn for those involved.

Councilman Oscar Bullock also said he had received a complaint about a city policeman taking the police car to I-75. However, it was explained that Richmond Police had requested help in catching 5 people wanted in connection with a rape there. Other councilmen and the mayor endorsed the officer's action in what was obviously an unusual situation.

Stealing Ginseng Seed

A $1,000 reward has been offered by John H. Holbrook of the Brindle Ridge Section of the county, for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons stealing a large cache of Stratified Ginseng from his farm recently.

Mr. Holbrook said the thieves were well-schooled in the processing of Ginseng seed as the seed were separated on the spot from the sand by means of a strainer.

The seed stolen were known as the Manchurian White strain and are used in cosmetics and for ornamental use.

If you have any information concerning this matter, please contact Mr. Holbrook at 758-9865.

Rockcastle Farm Service

Broken Into

Wednesday night, September 7, thieves entered the Rockcastle Farm Service in Mt. Vernon and made off with several tools, according to Wayne Stewart, owner.

Taken in the break-in were a portable tape player, a radio, collector pocket knives and a car tape player. In addition, Mr. Stewart said the safe handle was broken and the office vandalized.

Entry to the building was gained by forcing a side door.

Christian Church To Observe Third Homecoming Sunday

First Christian Church in Mt. Vernon will celebrate its Third Homecoming Service Sunday, Sept. 18. Headlining this year's program will be Bro. Lanis Kineman of Anderson, Indiana, a former pastor of the church. Bro. Kineman will be speaking during the morning worship hour at 11 a.m. following Sunday School at 10 a.m. A pot-luck dinner will be served on the grounds at 12:30 p.m. and a time of visitation and recollection will follow. The evening service will be held at 7 p.m.

Bro. Kineman is presently serving the Bethany Christian Church in Anderson, Indiana where he has been for the past 15 years. During this time, the congregation has grown from a membership of 300 to over 1700. Worship attendance has increased from 280 to over 800 and Sunday School from 300 to over 600. The budget has jumped from $28,000 in 1962 to $300,000 in 1977.

The church plant is located on 16 acres of land on the city's east side and consists of a new sanctuary, built in 1963, an educational building constructed in 1970 and three new parsonages. A staff of four ministers, one of them Bro. Kineman's son, Larry, who serves as Youth Minister, serve the congregation.

A new congregation was begun in 1973. This congregation, Southern Heights Christian, is running approximately 250 in attendance. Present plans call for the construction of a new sanctuary seating over 1300 and a Family Activities Center. Land is presently being purchased for another new congregation on the west side of the city.

Bro. Kineman, a native of Brookport, Illinois, is the son of the late Charles and Ida Kineman. He graduated from Brookport, Illinois High School, received his A.B. degree from Johnson Bible College in Tennessee in 1948 and a B.D. degree from Butler University, School of Religion in 1956. His wife, the former Kathryn Winton Turnbull, also holds an A.B. degree from Johnson Bible College. Mrs. Kineman's father, the late William Turnbull, was minister for more than thirty years of the First Christian Church in Paterson, N.J.

The Kineman's have four children: Larry, mentioned earlier; David, 24, serving as Minister of Youth of the First Christian Church in Maryville, Tenn.; Kathy, 20, works as a dental assistant and Janet, 19, a cashier.

Lanis Kineman

These children in Mrs. Phyllis Hines' 4th grade at Mt. Vernon Elementary School are shown taking part in the Florida Mouth Rinse project, presently being carried out in all the elementary schools in the county. The children take the pleasant tasting liquid in their mouth, swirl it around for one minute and then spit it out. Tests have shown that this is an effective weapon against tooth decay in children. Shown participating are, from front to back: Gregory Nichols, Bobby Cummins, Lesane VanWinkle, Scott Parrett and Chuck Lovell. In all, approximately 825 children at Mt. Vernon took part in the program which was administered by Mrs. Bige Towner, R.N., school nurse and Mrs. Keyo Singleton, nurse aide.

City Council Incumbents File For Re-Election

The incumbent Mt. Vernon City Council and Mayor have filed their declaration papers for re-election in the November General Election and five from Livingston have also filed to run for trustees.

Filing their papers Tuesday were: Roland Mullins, Mayor, and council members: Bob Jasper, Conard Parrett, Oscar Bullock, Einar Alcorn, Chester Hellard and Dennis Halcomb. Of course, the office of Mayor is a four-year term while that of city council member is only for two years.

Announcing officially their intention of being candidates for Livingston Trustee were: Curtis McFarlane, L. D. Bond, Guy Black, C. H. Webb and Bertie Rio.

Late Tuesday afternoon, no candidates had filed for similar offices from Brodhead.

Wednesday, September 14th was the deadline (yesterday) and at press time of the Signal, no other candidates had filed.

Rockets Down Clay Co. 20-7

Brilliant running by Bill Hackworth and an extra effort defensively by Kyle Miller enabled the Rockets to win their second game of the season Friday night 20-7 over Clay County.

Last week we reported that this was Clay County's first year for football but that is not altogether correct. The school has played football for the past three years, not with a varsity schedule, but with a freshman, freshman-sophomore and freshman-sophomore-junior schedule. So, the Rockets win was not as easy as it was supposed to be. Clay County had a good quarterback, some excellent running backs and on defense certainly were no slouches.

For the first time this season, the Rockets won the toss and elected to receive. On the first play from scrimmage, Hackworth took the ball and ran around right end for 50 yards and the score and then Hackworth scored the two extra points and with 11:44 remaining in the first half the Rockets were ahead 8-0.

Clay County was unable to get their first down and the Rockets took the punt and began their second drive of the game on their own forty. Steve Mitchell picked up a first down on the next play to Clay County's 32. Hackworth got 5 on the next play and Miller then added three yards to make it 2-2 on Clay County's 24. On the next play, Hammons found Rick Andertin in the end zone, but the ball was dropped and, on the next play, Hackworth scampered 24 yards for the score. The extra point attempt was no good but the Rockets were ahead 14-0.

It looked like the Rockets might be in hot water on the next series as Clay County took the kick-off and ran it back to the Rockets' three-yard-line. However, the Rockets held for two plays and on the third attempt, Clay County's quarterback fumbled and Earl Hammons recovered for the Rockets on the Rockets' 10-yard-line. A pass from Hammons to Eddie Thompson was good for 38 yards to the Rockets' 10-yard-line. A pass from Hammons to Eddie Thompson was good for 38 yards to the Rockets' 46 and a first down; but, several plays later, the Rockets had to punt the ball away. A short punt gave Clay County the ball on their own 30 yard line. Clay County made one first down, but a penalty and two incomplete passes later the Rockets took over on their own 44 on a fake punt by Clay County. A long run by Mitchell, was nullified by a clipping penalty against the Rockets and, failing to get the first down, the Rockets had to punt the ball away. Clay County took over on their own 42.

Clay County next showed the fans their version of the shotgun formation from which the pass was long enough for a first down but the receiver was out of bounds. Another completed pass was nullified by a clipping penalty against the Tigers and, after another pass, which was incomplete this time, Clay County was forced again to punt.

The Rockets began this series from their own 40-yard-line and three first downs later were on Clay County's 20. An incomplete pass and a 2-yard-loss on a running play made it 3-12, but then Hammons uncorked a pass to Hackworth at the five yard line and it was 1-goal. A penalty against Clay County put the Rockets on about the 2 1/2 yard line and then Hammons went in for the touchdown. The extra point attempt was no good and the Rockets led at half-time 20-0.

Clay County took the kick-off to begin the second half and put on an excellent offensive drive. One scoring threat was stymied during the drive when defensive end Danny Hunt brought the runner down on the Rockets 34 but three plays later, a reverse fumbled everybody and Clay County scored. The extra point was good and it was 20-7 with 7:01 remaining in the third quarter.

On the Rockets next series, a

$276,000 Project

Being Carried Out

On Interstate-75

A $276,000 Planning and Texturing project is being carried out on I-75 in Rockcastle County by Robert L. Carter Co. of Frankfort.

The project is a relatively new innovation in highway maintenance whereby old layers of blacktop are ground down to where the surface is smooth once again. The primary advantage to this technique is that it keeps layers of blacktop from building up which eventually results in new drainage ditches, etc. having to be constructed.

For the process, the construction company has a machine which cost $350,000. This machine can be used on any type of blacktop surface.

The county project covers fourteen miles and, at present, the southbound lane of the interstate is being worked on. The project should take about eight weeks.

STATEWIDE SIZE LIMIT ON BASS CHANGES

The state Fish and Wildlife Commission acted today to change the statewide size limit on bass from 10 to 12 inches. The new limit will become effective January 1, 1978. Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold Mitchell said, and was made upon recommendation of fishery biologists with the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

In other action dealing with fishery management, the commission authorized amendment of regulations which would legalize the use of live bait "rakes" to take the corbula (Asiatie clam) in all commercial fishing waters and to open the season for the taking of carp, buffalo and gar with a bow and arrow throughout the year in all waters of the state. (The season had formerly been closed during the month of May in non-navigable waters.)

Consumer Comment

By Robert F. Stephens
Attorney General
Equal Credit Opportunity Act

In the past ten years America has become a country run by credit. A person's credit history plays an important role in his purchasing power in the marketplace. In the past, however, women have found it difficult to establish their own credit records. Even though a woman or her husband both use the same credit cards, and contribute jointly to the payment of the charged accounts, the reports to credit bureaus have always been made in the husband's name. Problems are then created when a woman finds herself in a position of need or wanting to use credit in her own name because of death of the spouse, divorce or separation from the spouse, or for personal reasons.

The new "Equal Credit Opportunity Act" states that as of June 1977, creditors who report information to credit bureaus on how you pay your bills can be required to give both names on the accounts shared by spouses. If you wish to furnish a credit report, you are required to furnish a form with your bills asking if you want your credit information reported in both your and your spouse's names. It is especially important for married women to fill out this form so that in the event that credit is ever needed in their own names, it won't be necessary to begin the difficult task of suddenly having to establish a personal credit record.

The credit history you build up over the years is one of the most important factors creditors evaluate when extending credit.

Information regarding your income, the length of time you've been at your job, and your past record of paying debts bear on your creditworthiness. The Act requires that in evaluating your application, a creditor may request and consider information about your spouse only when your spouse will be liable for the account, or when you are relying on your spouse's income or property.

Creditors have until October 1 to automatically separate accounts which are listed in both spouses' names or which are used by both spouses, or to send a notice to married couples asking if they want their files separated. This applies to all accounts opened after June 1, 1977. For accounts opened before June 1, the creditor must automatically report the credit information in both names.

The Federal Trade Commission has developed a new publication called the "Equal Credit Opportunity Act" which is available free to the public by sending a postcard to the Consumer Information Center, Department of Justice, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. This pamphlet also explains how the act protects against discrimination in giving credit because of sex, marital status, race, national origin, religion, or receipt of public assistance.

For more information on the Equal Credit Opportunity Act and what married women's credit rights are, write for the FTS publication or contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The office has found it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write if you have a complaint. However, if you have a question or an mistake was made in the newspaper account it could be easily corrected, but if a mistake got between the corners of a book there was no way to correct it. That is the reason as we have said before that stories may not appear in the book exactly as they have in the Signal. There have been some few cases where readers have written in to call attention to a mistake and we have found upon further investigation that they were correct. In such instances we have been glad to make the necessary corrections in our book copy. There have also been instances where we could not be positive which version of a story was correct. In such cases we have generally given both accounts and left it up to the reader to decide.

Friends have criticized me for not setting out the county in a more glamorous light and bragging on it more. I have not felt that this was necessary. Everybody who would be interested knows the many good points of the area. It isn't necessary to write about the transportation advantages when anybody can look at a road map and see that such important highways as I-75, U.S. 26 and Route 150 intersect at Henrivo Valley, within about a mile of the county seat and in addition to these and a network of less important roads, both the L&N and C.V. Railroad Lines cross the county. A thoroughly modern and well equipped hospital and a model school system, well housed and well staffed, are here as a result of long years of effort. A good trades school, a small new courthouse, a top-bracket public library, a country club, civic playgrounds in our three principal villages and a centrally located public park (in the making) add much to the pleasure of residents of the area. But all these things, together with the knowledge that many churches of practically all denominations are here to look after our spiritual welfare, are common knowledge; speak for themselves, are readily apparent and need no boost from a source such as this. So this will not be a Chamber of Commerce sort of county history.

Other readers may feel that I have spent too much time on the past and not enough on more recent activities. After all, this is supposed to be a history and history properly concerns itself with the past, not the present or the future. There may be some justice in contending that I have gone too far back into the past, to a time so remote that many people of our day feel little interest in it. This book is aimed less at enticing newcomers than at honoring earlycomers. Since we are going back in history, we decided to go all the way back, and we did go all the way back to the beginning of Kentucky's history. The first white man who visited Kentucky and kept a written account of his journey was also the first white man who visited what is now Rockcastle County, ending his journey of exploration at Rockcastle River, in the vicinity of the present town of Livingston. That was in the year 1750, 19 years before Daniel Boone came this way and 25 years before the settlement of Boonesborough.

This book will also give an account of the establishment of Skaggs Trace, originating in the Rockcastle area and becoming the first trail named and established by white men leading towards Central Kentucky. Also within these pages will be found the most complete published account of the Long Hunters, who came from the old settlements to hunt and explore the new frontier of Kentucky in 1780 and 1770, spending a part of their time along the Rockcastle River and on Skaggs Creek. Three of them remembered our Rockcastle Hills so favorably that in later years they returned, with their families, to make the Skaggs Creek and Crooked Creek sections their home. One of the, John Baker, discovered Great Saltpetre Cave and built his cabin home nearby, where he spent his remaining days.

So it may easily be seen that Rockcastle County has nothing to be ashamed of in her more remote past and in bringing to light more facts that has remained unknown to her present-day citizens. It is felt that a signal service has been rendered. This has come about as the result of a lot of work and travel and use of a library to which the average reader might never have had access. My own personal library of rare and out of print books, the result of many years of collecting, will be made available to history teachers in Rockcastle County schools after this book is finished, and the book itself will contain a list of other works in the larger libraries of this and adjoining states which we read in the preparation of this work.

The average Rockcastle reader, faced with the responsibility of making a living, might not want to spend either the time or the money involved in traveling over the country and tracing down clues of people and times so long gone. I hope to crowd enough into the pages of "Rockcastle Recollections" so that he can share in it all at the cost of a few hours reading time and the modest price of a book.

I am sure that many readers who have followed the long drawn out work of getting the manuscript together have already formed an opinion of what the finished history will be like, and very likely not all your opinions are entirely favorable. Many of you have thought that the book should have been finished and on the market long ago, and you are probably correct. Four years does seem like a mighty long time to spend getting a few stories together and putting them down in due form.

Actually, there is a little more to it than that. Remember that there is no official record of any happenings in connection with the history of the county between 1810 and 1873. All these were destroyed in the courthouse fires of 1873 and the only way we can go about getting up a history for that period is to listen to stories passed down through succeeding generations from those who were eye witnesses or actual participants in what took place.

They mostly all agreed on the central facts in each instance but differed a little in the details.

It was for this reason that we hit upon the plan of printing them in a newspaper before they went into a book. If a to open eight others to that activity. The closed streams are Little Kentucky River in Trimble County; Peters Creek, Barron and Moore; Beaver Dam Creek, Edmonson; Canada Creek, Wayne; Claylick Creek, Crittenden; Greasy Creek, Leslie; Little South Fork, McCreary and Wayne; Laurel Creek, Elliot, and Hood Creek, Johnson and Lawrence.

 Streams opened to gigning and snagging of rough fish are Russell, Fox, Pike, Long Creek and Puncture Creek, Allen; Little Whippoorwill, Logan; Cloverlick, Harlan; Kinnickinnick, Lewis; Hurricane Fork, McCreary, and Bunches Creek, Whitley.
 All of the above changes, except the 12 size limit, will become effective, Mitchell said, as soon as the regulation amendment process can be completed, a procedure which usually requires 60 to 90 days.

Requests for reservations should be sent to the Ballard County Wildlife Management Area, Rt. 1, LaCenter, Ky. 42036 and must include the names and addresses of all hunters in the party; a first and alternate choice of hunting dates; a fee of $5 per hunter or $15 per party (only cashier's check, certified checks or money orders will be accepted); preference for duck or goose hunting and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Also, the request must be sent in an envelope with the word "reservations" clearly marked on the outside. Hunters will be limited to six hunters per season, with no more than two Saturdays.
 The Ballard area, which is owned and operated by the state Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, is located 35 miles southwest of Paducah. Rooms and meals are not available on the area and there are no facilities for campers or trailers during the waterfowl season. Hunter accommodations are available, however, in such nearby towns as LaCenter, Barlow, Bear, Bandana, Wickliffe, and Paducah.

Get Request in Now For Waterfowl Hunting

Requests for waterfowl hunting reservations for the Ballard County Wildlife Management Area must be postmarked no earlier than September 15 and no later than September 30, according to state Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Arnold Mitchell.
 Goose hunting will open on the area December 1 and continue through January 20 and duck hunting will be allowed there December 10 through January 14. Statewide bag and possession limits will apply but there will be no shooting on Christmas Day shooting on the area, Mitchell said.

Billy Hackworth, far left hand corner, took the hand-off on the Rockets' first play from scrimmage Friday night and scampered 50-yards for the score. Hackworth picked up a total of 157 yards in 17 carries during the game, scored an extra point and another touchdown for one of his best offensive nights of the young season.

Danny Hunt, defensive end for the Rockets, puts the skids to a run by Clay County end Darrell Jones. Other Rockets identifiable in the picture are: No. 73 - Charlie Fain. No. 39 - Kyle Miller, No. 10 - Earl Hammons and No. 24 - David Owens. The Rockets won the game 20-7.

JUBILATION was the word for the Rockets and their fans as they found themselves ahead 8-0 with only 16 seconds having elapsed in the first quarter of Friday night's game against Clay County. Billy Hackworth, who just scored the two extra points, is shown indicating the fact.

"Rockets Win"

fumble, recovered by the Rockets, and a clipping penalty forced the Rockets to punt and Clay County took over on their own 29. Clay County picked up a first down to their own 40. But, on the next series, a short pass was picked off by linebacker Kyle Miller, who returned the ball to Clay County's 10 yard line. Two running plays gained very little yardage and, after an incomplete pass, a field goal attempt was made which was no good. Clay County then took over on their own 20. Once again, Miller got the big interception only to see a fumble in the backfield give the ball back to Clay County two plays later. Clay County couldn't move the ball and had to punt it from deep in their own territory. It was a short punt and Hackworth got a good runback but it was to no avail as a clipping penalty against the Rockets made it 11-0 on the Rockets 37. The rockets then picked up two more downs and had decided to go for it on a 42 situation on the next series when a delay of game penalty made it 4-7. Anderson's punt drove Clay County back to their 10 yard line from where Clay County began their last serious offensive of the game. They picked up two first downs gaining ground to the Rockets 35 before turning the ball over. Good pass coverage by Dusty Carloffs and Earl Hammons contributed to Clay County's inability to sustain this drive.

Once again, the Rockets looked as though they might go in for a score. Hackworth picked up five yards, this was nullified by an offside penalty on the next play, but then Hackworth carried the ball 22 yards to Clay County's 43. Mitchell picked up 8 and then a long run by Hackworth, down to inside Clay County's ten-yard-line was nullified by another penalty. David Owens carried the ball the next two plays for good yardage which put the ball on Clay County's two yard line, but the last of these carries was nullified by an offside penalty. On the next play, Owens again got good yardage, but this too, was nullified by a penalty on the Rockets. Mitchell then got 10 and Owens carried the ball the last two plays of the game.

Defensively, the Rockets looked sharper than against Lincoln County. Pass coverage has improved and the Rockets always play very well the first half both offensively and defensively. However, there seems to be a let-down in the third quarter, but then the team manages to get it back together for a usually good fourth quarter. Next week, the Rockets take on Leslie County at home. Game time is 8 p.m.

It was an exciting first quarter for the Rockets Friday night in their win over Clay County when, as the scoreboard indicates above, the Rockets took the lead 8-0 with only 16 seconds having elapsed in the first quarter. Spiced Crab Apples

You can pickle those rosy little apples on your flowering crab apple tree. But before you start, poke a hole clear through each apple with a long needle. This will keep them from becoming waterlogged. Follow the recipe carefully, using white sugar and whole fresh spices. Use either cider vinegar or white distilled vinegar with a 4 to 6 percent acidity (40 to 60 grains).

2 quarts crab apples with stems
1 1/2 tablespoons whole cloves
1 1/2 tablespoons whole allspice
6 cups sugar
3 cups vinegar
3 cups water
2 sticks cinnamon

The spices in a cheesecloth bag. Combine the sugar, vinegar and water. Add spice bag and boil 5 minutes. Leave apples whole, and with stems on. Add apples one layer at a time to spiced syrup, and cook gently until the apples are almost tender. Carefully remove apples, and repeat until the apples are cooked.

Pour boiling syrup over apples, cover and let stand 12 to 18 hours in a cool place. Carefully pack apples into hot canning jars, leaving 1/4 inch headspace. Remove spice bag from syrup and heat syrup to boiling. Pour over apples in jars, leaving 1/4 inch headspace. Adjust caps. Process pints and quarts 15 minutes in boiling-water-bath canner. This makes about 6 pints or 3 quarts.

Dairy Referendum

The state Department of Agriculture will conduct a referendum among Grade A milk producers in October to determine if the producers will allow deduction of an additional four cents per hundred pounds of milk products sold to distributors. The deduction would fund a program to promote the production, use and sale of Grade A milk and milk products.

The requests for the referendum was approved by June 1 by the State Board of Agriculture after receiving the request from the American Dairy Association of Kentucky in May. The referendum would, if the proposal passes, raise the amount presently paid into the promotional program fund from four cents per hundredweights of products to eight cents per hundred weight.

Ballots for the referendum will be mailed to all Grade A milk producers on Oct. 3 and must be returned to the state [Cont. to 15]
