

Rockcastle Recollections

John Lair

Back in the days when folks had to largely supply their own entertainment practically every night had one or more practical jokes always thinking up some prank to play on somebody in the neighborhood. These jokes were generally meant one of two general descriptions. Either they were big rough and ready guys who could protect themselves against reprisals or they were small active fellows who could get themselves out of trouble by out running their enraged victims. Think back over the pranks in your past and see if they didn't fit one or the other of these descriptions.

Some fun makers of my boyhood days gained more than a local reputation by carrying on their activities over a broader territory. Principal among those I remember were William Owens and Jacob Elder. These gentlemen were close friends and companions in devilry who devoted much of their time to jointly teaching singing schools in Rockcastle and surrounding counties, not so much for the small fees they received as for the opportunity to give their sense of humor a wider field of endeavor.

They always worked in pairs and one of their favorite tricks for a cold winter night was one known to many old-timers but used only by performers of much nerve and some considerable fleetness of foot. In visiting a home in the country during nighttime it was an inflexible rule that you didn't just walk right up to the front door and knock on it to arouse the inmates. With respect to courtesy (as well as personal safety) you stopped at the front gate and called out in a loud voice. The head of the house came to the door in his nightshirt and opened it to see who the visitor was and what he wanted. Assuming on the observance of this set procedure the confederate of the scoundrel who was engineering the joke had slipped up in the darkness and taken his stand beside the doorway with a bucket of icewater and when the victim opened the door in answer to the call he got doused with the bucket of icewater. By the time he recovered from the shock of this totally unexpected treatment the perpetrators were half a mile down the road whaling with delight and pounding each other on the back in appreciation of a job well done.

This was a favorite stunt with Owens and Elder and although used only once to a neighborhood soon brought them under suspicion and one man who had reason to believe he was slated to receive such attention at their hands loaded an old flintlock army musket to the muzzle with navy beans and grains of corn and placed it beside the front door to be handy if and when the call came. It was only a few nights later that the would-be victim's intuition was justified. When the midnight call came he was quick to pick up the musket and open wide the door to give himself room for action. Only the fact that the water with which he was drenched wet the powder in the pan of the old musket and caused it to misfire saved at least one of the intruders from a smart peppering with its charge. Incidentally, this was the end of the cold water trick in that particular community.

I remember another favorite trick often practiced by this pair of jokers that in at least one instance ended in the discomfort of one of them. When they were teaching singing school during the growing season in a community where some farmer had a crop of corn close to his house they would plan to go there late on some dark night, equipped with a cow bell each. They would take up positions some distance apart and one of them would start rustling the stalks of corn and ringing his cowbell at about the cadence of somebody's milk cow feeding on the corn.

First, the farmers dog, or dogs would set up a furious barking and soon the voice of the aroused farmer could be heard, urging them to the attack. He would generally appear upon the scene, barefooted, clad only in his night shirt and with a lantern in his hand. His aim was to get the invading cat out of his corn before they had time to do much damage. About the time he got on the scene the man with the audible cow bell would start running and jangling the bell, with the farmer and dogs in hot pursuit. When they were almost on his

he would muddle his bell and his companion, in another part of the field, would start jangling his. They would keep up such tactics indefinitely and keep their victim up for almost the rest of the night before muffling the bells and taking off for their boarding place, where they would slip in and go to bed to sleep sweetly until time to get up and get ready for that night's session of the singing school.

One night they happened to strike on a farmer who had an unusually large and unusually active bunch of dogs around the house. They were soon pressing their quarry so closely that he discontinued ringing his bell and took refuge in a ditch, hoping that they would pass him up, a hope which was not justified. In the flush of excitement when they first pounced on him they removed some of his skin and most of his clothing before he learned to lie still in the bottom of the ditch and make no attempt to get up. All the time he was wandering why wasn't the other cow bell ringing and what had become of his partner. We can answer that question. The old saying "there is honor among thieves" does not apply to practical jokers. When he had stopped ringing his bell it had suddenly occurred to his partner what a joke it would be to go off and leave him on his own and laugh at him about it next day.

But the end was not yet. When the farmer, guided to the scene by the yelping of the pack, came up immediately recognized their quarry and realized what was happening. He pretended, however, not to notice what was going on and walked past and headed for the house, leaving the dogs to their fun. They soon gave up and followed him, however, and the sadly bedraggled culprit got up and made his way home, worrying all the time about what could have happened to his partner. When he got in, though, and found him sweetly sleeping in their bed it is quite probable that his worry was changed to a much stronger emotion to which he no doubt gave instant and vigorous expression.

Owens and Elder have long since vanished from the earthly scene but it will be a long time before their fun-loving pranks are forgotten in the various communities to which their work took them. I have often thought that I would someday like to take time to make the rounds of their activities and talk with old folks who might have been living during their time, or younger folks who might have had from their parents some account of their various doings which I never heard about. Their humor may appear a little rough to the present generation, but they practiced in a day and time when such Halloween stunts as putting a neighbor's calf down the well, his cow on top of the barn or fastening the doors and windows of his house from the outside so nobody could get out, were considered mild pleasures, so they can not be unduly blamed for following the pattern of their times.

KFB Advisory Committee Supports Dairy Proposal

A Kentucky Farm Bureau dairy advisory committee has recommended support for a proposal that would double dairy men's promotional assessment, from 4 cents to 8 cents per hundred pounds of milk.

The funding increase is scheduled for a referendum among Grade A producers during the month of October. State Agriculture Department officials say ballots will be mailed to producers by Oct. 3 and must be marked, signed and returned to the agency no later than Oct. 24. The current 4-cent rate was approved in a 1969 referendum.

The advisory committee also recommended Farm Bureau's support of first point testing of cattle for brucellosis, as long as such testing is a condition of the state's receiving federal funds to help eradicate the disease. Currently, 32 of Kentucky's 68 stockyards are conducting the tests, but a suit is still pending by a group of the largest markets to set aside the state regulation which requires the tests be run on each female beef animal over 18 months of age, offered for sale.

Farm Bureau has supported several programs over the years to combat brucellosis, but the organization's policy has never specifically endorsed the state's controversial new first-point testing project.

The recommendations by the committee at its Sept. 19 meeting do not carry the weight of official Farm Bureau policy, but often serve as the basis for policy consideration at the annual convention or by the Board of Directors. Committee members are primarily dairy farmers, but also include representatives of state agencies and the University of Kentucky.

DO YOU REMEMBER... The above photo, graciously loaned to us by Mrs. Maude Martin of Mt. Vernon, is of the interior of an A&P Store which was operated on Main Street by Mr. and Mrs. Martin in the 1920's. Behind the counter with Mr. and Mrs. Martin is Mrs. Martin's sister, Mrs. Lillian Franklin. The two customers identifiable in the picture are Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hamlin, both now deceased. Some of the prices charged for items are quite visible such as 6c for a loaf of bread, 24c for a hogs box of oats and 10c for a smaller box, etc. Of course, if these prices make you yearn for the good old days, you must remember it was a two-way street since wages at that time were equally low. After operating the A&P Store, Mr. and Mrs. Martin opened the first five and ten cents store in Mt. Vernon, behind where Hatt's Five and Ten is now located. They later moved to that building. At the same time as the A&P Store, a Kroger Store was operated where Cummins Grocery is now located.

Verlton Thomason, 54, Dies As Result of Auto Accident

According to Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell, an autopsy Tuesday determined that Verlton L. Thomason of Route 1, Mt. Vernon, died Sunday as the result of a two-car accident on Ky. 1004 near Mt. Vernon. It had earlier been speculated that Mr. Thomason, 54, may have suffered a heart attack or some other type of seizure just prior to the accident because of the report of the other driver involved, William L. Stevens.

Mr. Stevens told State Police that he was traveling east on 1004 when he saw the Thomason vehicle, traveling west, come into a curve and that something appeared to be wrong with the driver. Stevens said that Thomason had his head bent over the wheel and did not attempt to negotiate the curve. The State Police report said the Thomason vehicle crossed over into the path of Mr. Stevens, striking his car in the left front.

Mr. Dowell said that death was attributed to a ruptured vein in the chest.

Thomason was alone in his Volkswagen at the time of the accident. Both Mr. Stevens and a passenger, J.B. Stevens, 41, of Route 1, Mt. Vernon were slightly injured in the accident.

Mr. Thomason was born November 10, 1922 in Rockcastle County, the son of Mrs. Maggie Doan Thomason of Route 4, Mt. Vernon and the late Martin Thomason. He was a retired truck driver for the Vulcan Oil Co. in Cincinnati, Ohio, a veteran of World War II and a member of the Nazarene Church.

Survivors besides his mother are: his wife, Mrs. Betty Raper Thomason of Rt. 2, Mt. Vernon; one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Mallette of Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon; five brothers; Bill and Bentley both of Mt. Vernon, Joe, Ted and Herbert all of Cincinnati, Ohio; five sisters, Mrs. Ruby Rice, Mrs. Mary Cummins, Mrs. Roberta Pittman and Mrs. Minnie Stewart, all of Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Dessie Javins of Dayton, Ohio; two grandchildren, Tammy Jane and Travis Verlton Mallett both of Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon; a host of nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, Sept. 29, 1977 at the Cox Funeral Home Chapel with Sister Sharon Webb and Ruby Blanchard officiating. Burial was in the Elmwood Cemetery.

$64,000 Grant Awarded for Construction of Water Line

Senators Walter (Dee) Huddleston and Wendell Ford have announced today that the Appalachian Regional Commission has awarded a $64,000 grant to construct a 4" water line along highway 1617 in Rockcastle County, between Roundstone at U.S. 25 and the Madison County line.

Huddleston and Ford said the project also includes construction of pumping station and a 20,000-gallon water-storage tank. The project will serve 60 users including a dairy farm, residences, small industrial plants, and small commercial establishments.

The total project cost is $202,000. In addition to the ARRC grant, the Farmers Administration has provided an $82,000 grant and a $17,000 loan to finance the project. Local sources will provide $94,000 from tap fees. The Northern Rockcastle County Water District will receive the grant.

Casey Hines Achieves Commended Student Status

The principal, Mr. Cleston Saylor, announced today that a senior student at Rockcastle County High School has achieved Commended student status in the twenty-third annual (1978) National Merit Scholarship Program. This honor is the result of a student's outstanding performance on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) which was administered at the school on October 1, 1977.

Casey Hines
-Son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hines-

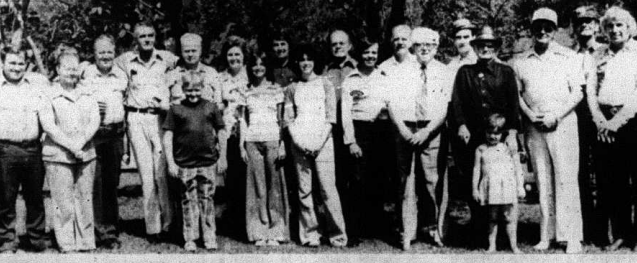

Letters of Commendation were presented to Henry Casey Hines.

A total of approximately 35,000 commended students throughout the United States are being honored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC) which administers the yearly scholarship competition. Students in this group represent less than two percent of the total of graduating U.S. secondary school seniors. Although these students scored slightly below the level required for Merit Program participants who were named Semifinalists and who will continue in the competition for Merit Scholarships to be awarded in 1978, each Commended student had demonstrated exceptional academic promise.

A spokesman for NMSC stated that the corporation believes "the high standing of Merit Program Commended students is an attainment that deserves their public recognition, because the national as well as these students will be benefited by continued educational and personal development of their talents."

opportunities for college admission and financial aid NMSC has offered each an attention sent by the corporation to the higher education institutions selected by the student. In addition, NMSC makes it possible for all regionally accredited U.S. colleges and universities to receive home addresses for Commended students, on a cost basis, so that an institution may contact any of these promising young men and women directly. It is hoped that recognition of the Commended students in each year's Merit Program will serve as an encouragement to able youth and will assist them in obtaining whatever information and assistance they may need to pursue their educational plans.

Commended students do not continue in the Merit Scholarship competition, but to increase their

If Grants Are Approved - More Housing Will be Available for Elderly

There may soon be more housing available in Mt. Vernon for the elderly and handicapped, according to Roland Mullins, Mayor.

Mr. Mullins said Tuesday that a preliminary approval has been given for a $28,000 HUD Block Grant for purchase and development of the site, already under option to the City. The site which has been chosen is the Sigmon property which lies behind City Hall.

Mr. Mullins said that the city should hear something definite by October 15th as to final approval of the $28,000 grant. An application by Rural Development Association of Knoxville, Tennessee (builders and operators of public housing) is also pending before FHA for a loan to build the housing. If approved, a total of 32 units would be built, 29 one-bedroom elderly units and 4 one-bedroom units for the handicapped. An office, laundry, maintenance and recreation area would also be included in the project.

Mayor Mullins said that the city would have nothing to do with the actual operation of the project and would sell the Sigmon property to Rural Development Association, along with improvements made on the property such as streets, water lines, sidewalks, etc. From the money realized from this sale, Mr. Mullins said, a request would be made to HUD to allow the city to retain the money and use it for maintaining and improving old sidewalks and building some new ones within the city limits.

However, this is all dependent on the city's obtaining final approval of the $28,000 grant for purchase and development and upon Rural Development Association obtaining a loan from FHA for construction. Rural Development Association presently is building housing projects in Richmond, Corbin and other Kentucky towns.

Letters To The Editor

Last week's Signal contained the letter from Mr. Wm. W. Thompson of Pompano Beach, Florida. I wish to answer a few of his questions. Yes, I remember your father, Mr. Logan Thompson. For many years we served together in the Masonic Lodge. He also was a Salesman of some wholesale company. As he traveled by horseback, you could recognize his fine black horse farther away than you could the rider. We had no mail routes nor telephones in those days. Horseback was our only means of traveling on rough and rugged roads. We would get our mail once a week at the Railroad Station. Everyone knew Mr. Thompson as "Log". He had a son by the same name "E.L." who worked at the Mt. Vernon Bank where I was acquainted with him. Another time, I remember the younger Logan Thompson, when we attended the Grand Lodge in Louisville at the Y. Hotel, where several Mt. Vernon people attended. I remember many names and there was one Logan Thompson there. I do not know if it was

Eternal Truth

IN OUR CHANGING WORLD

By Austin Mobley, Minister
Providence Church of Christ

WATER BAPTISM

That saves, but obedience to God's commands—all of them, and every accountable person is commanded to be baptized. When obedience is completed, the blood of Jesus washes away the sins (Rev. 1:5).

Bible baptism is a burial (Rom. 6:3-4; Acts 8:36-39). Hence, any substitute such as sprinkling or pouring water on a candidate is not baptism but originated with man (Matt. 15:9). Sprinkling was first substituted in 251 A.D. when a person who wanted to be baptized was too ill to be immersed. Later, in 1311 A.D., the Roman Catholic Church, in the council held in Ravenna, Italy, made sprinkling for baptism acceptable for Catholics. Those who sprinkle for baptism got the idea from the Roman Catholic Church, an apostate body, not from the Bible.

Water is necessary for man physical survival. He drinks it, bathes in it, swims in it, goes boating and water skiing in it, picnics and wades in it, and sometimes teaches that when God tells him to be baptized in it to have his sins washed away, it suddenly becomes repulsive and unclean.

Nearly every church practices something called "baptism," but we plead with our sincere readers to examine those baptisms. You will find most denominations teaching that one is saved before baptism; that baptism is sprinkling or that baptism is sprinkling and pouring. Regardless of what man teaches, the Bible still says, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved" (Mark 16:16). Will you do what the Lord asks of you, anticipating the forgiveness of sins and the hope of life eternal?

Water baptism is commanded (Acts 10:48), and that should settle the mind of anyone who is confused about it's being required. Christ commanded baptism in the Great Commission (Matt. 28:18-20; Mark 16:15-20); Peter taught baptism for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38); Saul of Tarsus was told to "Arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins..." (Acts 22:16); and the inspired Peter said, "baptism doth also now save..." (1 Peter 3:21).

Subjects for baptism in the New Testament were penitent believers who had confessed Christ (Acts 8:26-40), and this would naturally exclude infants and unaccountable persons. They are SAFE and do not need to be saved. (Matt. 18:3).

The purpose of water baptism is to save (Mark 16:16); for forgiveness of sins (Acts 2:38); to wash away sins (Acts 22:16). At the same time it puts one into Christ (Rom. 6:3, Gal. 3:27), and into His church (1 Cor. 12:13). Needless to say, it is not the water the same fellow or not. The hotel gave us a special room for the Mt. Vernon people. No one was allowed by the delegates from Mt. Vernon. I remember a few other names present, Mr. Henry Anderson, Broadhead and Mr. Rob

McKenzie, wife and daughter (the little girl was the entertainer for the day, only 4 or 5 years old and didn't see a stranger).

Remember the F.L. Thompson Sr. and Jr. here in Mt. Vernon for many years. I can almost see the Sr. Mr. Thompson now as he came into the store at Brush Creek and he would speak to everyone, always smiling and called them by name. He would wait sharpening his pencils until he could catch Mr. Reams not busy then take his order. He would sell Mr. Reams a big bill in a few minutes. Soon as he had finished, he would bid everyone goodbye and get on his horse and go to the next store several miles away. He would make that round every two weeks. I cannot remember him too much as a Mason but I'm quite sure he's right, because I was elected Senior Deacon and served the Lodge in that capacity at every meeting. I have served in every office of the Lodge five or six times, but was always called on as a Senior Deacon. I have worked with the Grand Master in organizing and setting up several lodges to work, until I became disabled. I am past 101 years old and experienced many things, as you have already seen I have no education, all my knowledge is through experience. Experience has been my best teacher. If you had asked me, "Are you a Mason?" My answer would be I am and have been since 1902.

I joined with the Mt. Vernon Signal in making inquiries about Mr. F. Logan Thompson and thank you very much for your information. My Lodge is Ashland Lodge #640, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Fraternally yours, W.C. Johnson

Dear Editor:

One of the goals of the International Women's Year is the recognition of the contributions of the women to the development of our country. I have been appointed by Dr. Allis C. Hixson, Chair of the Kentucky International Women's Year Coordinating Committee, to conduct the search for information about the women who have helped to make Kentucky's history.

early days of your county? Who were the women who are now working to make Rockcastle County a better place in which to live?
This information may be obtained in a letter about a particular woman's life and of her contributions to her community or it may be a regular biography. This would be an excellent way to honor a deserving woman by placing her story into the written records.

Down On The Farm

By Danny McKinney
Branch Manager
Cumberland PCA

"Down on the Farm" we are constantly talking about prices, expenses and what an investment farming involves. Did you know, an average farmer in the U.S. Farms 900 acres and including his cattle, equipment, and land has invested approximately $185,000.00? He will usually owe approximately $65,000.00 on his assets and will gross $35,000.00 per year. When he has gambled on this huge investment, he will not or have for his family an income of $5,800.00.

Some of the above statistics may not be real close to our situation in Rockcastle County, however I think the basis still apply. We sweat thru all of the above and just to be able to feed the world or at least we provide for 85% of the requests for food from other countries.

Why do we do it? I suppose we have and burn fondness for the land and caring for it. Most farmers would rather go through the headaches and sometimes heartaches of farming rather than give up living on the farm.

"After dinner sit a while, After supper walk a mile."
Thomas Fuller

[Ed's Note: The following letter was received by Cheryl Witt, Home Demonstration Agent for Rockcastle County.]

Dear Cheryl,
Last week, I had dinner in a restaurant on Interstate 75 which was not only delicious but the service was very good. In the restaurant, I bought a copy of the Mount Vernon paper where I found directions on drying apples.

The night we had dinner in the restaurant, they had fried apples which were very good. I hope you can send me a recipe for these. Also any ideas on cookies or any lunch box ideas.

I enjoyed your newspaper, just wish I could have spent a little more time in your city.

Thanking You, I Remain,

Real Estate
By Sam Ford

Buying VS Renting

To buy or rent - that is the question. Both have their place. First, renting can be the answer for families who know they'll only be in the area for a short time or who prefer not to contend with maintenance. It's also the only solution for anyone with insufficient funds for the down payment on a home.

The main disadvantage of renting is a financial one. As living costs rise, so do rents. A lease may protect you temporarily, but when it expires, the landlord is free to increase the rent - even under rent control when justified. Rent payment cannot be deducted from income taxes as the homeowner can deduct real estate taxes and interest on the mortgage payments.

Your best buffer against inflation is to own your own home. You'll also be pleasantly surprised to find it also is one of the best financial investments you ever made. Your payments will remain level while your resale value, especially in this area, will continue to rise.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Ford Realty & Auction Co., Inc., Mt. Vernon, Ph. 238-4545. We're here to help!

Metrics ... Slow But Sure

You buy 35 millimeter film for your camera, your youngsters may be swimming 100 meters and you sweated in July's 32 degrees Celsius temperature. The engine of your car is measured in cubic centimeters and, more often than not, your groceries are measured in grams as well as ounces. The metric system is slowly but surely infiltrating the American way of life and the Kentucky Department of Education is doing its part to make metric conversion as simple as possible for Kentuckians. More than 30 teachers and administrators have been selected as members of Kentucky's Metric Task Force. They learned, during an intense one-week workshop, to train others to use the metric system and each task force member has agreed to train at least 100 Kentucky instructors in methods of teaching metrics in the classroom.

Teachers reach out to schoolchildren ... children are the best promoters of metrics to parents ... parents talk to neighbors ... slowly the metric system is becoming a reality in Kentucky.

Robert S. Pickett of Greensburg takes a closer look at the metric system.

Calhoun Vaccination Program Announced

Kentucky Agricultural Commissioner Tom Harris recently announced that the state will begin a calhoun vaccination program against brucellosis in order to comply with Florida regulations.

Harris said the program should be implemented in early October through $25,000 in seed money authorized by Gov. Julian Carroll from his contingency fund. He stated that the federal government would provide matching funds on a two-to-one basis to get the vaccination program off the ground in Kentucky.

Harris said that Kentucky dairy cattle producers could lose some $25 million annually in Florida dairy shipments unless the program is undertaken here in the Commonwealth. He explained that Florida now requires any dairy animal shipped into that state to have been vaccinated against brucellosis as of July 1, between two and six months old.

The Agricultural Commissioner said Florida normally replaces its dairy herds by out-of-stock, many of which come from Kentucky.

Harris called Kentucky's immediate solution a "stop-gap measure," but added that his office has requested more permanent federal aid on a 60-40 basis with the U.S. providing 60 percent of the funds. He said his office would request Kentucky's 40 percent share in the budget to be submitted to the 1978 General Assembly.

Keep Potatoes in Dark

As long as they're in the dark, potatoes will keep well for several months after harvest in almost any storage place. This is their normal "resting" cycle.

After this time, they'll start to sprout at room temperature. Temperatures between 34 and 41 degrees are best for long-term storage.

Curing Potatoes

Cure the potatoes you plan to store through the fall and winter. Curing heals up any minor cuts and skinned places. It conditions potatoes for long keeping.

Sort freshly-dug potatoes to remove diseased or damaged ones. Brush off most of the dirt. Handle gently. Spread them out to "cure" for about a week in a shady, well-ventilated place - such as an open barn, shed or garage.

Storing Potatoes

Use slatted wood boxes, shidlow lugs, perforated cardboard boxes or strong woven baskets for bulk-storage containers. Set these up off the floor on shelves, or stack them on wood crossboards to allow air to circulate in between.

File potatoes gently into storage containers and put them in your root cellar. If you have no root cellar, store them in the dark in an unheated room or basement that you can keep close to 40-50 degree temperature range. It should be humid and well-ventilated for the best results.

Keep Using Them

Don't forget about them! Use potatoes regularly in your meals throughout the next months. About once a month, it's a good idea to inspect

Separate Fruits

Don't store potatoes close to apples or pears. Put these fruits in another place, or partition off a section of the room for them since fruits produce ethylene gas which acts as a ripener.

WHAT'S FOR LUNCH? Mr. and Mrs. David Stewart and family of Orlando had an unexpected guest for lunch on their recent trip to the Smokey Mountains. It seems the Stewart Family were sitting in a park near the North Carolina line getting ready to eat their lunch when a bear cub wandered out of the nearby woods and decided to join the group. The Stewarts quickly decided not to debate the issue with him and vacated the premises very quickly whereupon the bear polished off a 5 lb. jar of pickled bologna (after unscrewing the lid), a box of cookies, potato chips and a box of crackers. Mrs. Stewart said he fooled around with an unopened can of Spam but, after sinking a tooth into the can, abandoned it for the jar of pickled bologna. Several bears had already been seen that day by the Stewarts and they had taken up all their film. Other people in the park took some shots of the bear cub enjoying his meal and forwarded a print to the Stewarts.

Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

There are youth groups around Kentucky who would like to develop worthwhile projects to help wildlife, but just don't have the expertise to know exactly what to do, or the lands on which to do it.

And there are landowners who wish they could provide wildlife habitat on some of their unused acres, but don't know exactly how or just don't have the time to manage lands for wildlife.

It would be a great idea if these two energetic young people and landowners with some idle land and perhaps some farming equipment could get together under the guidance of a wildlife biologist. And if they had some money to work with, things would be even better.

Well, the Game Management Division of the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has hired a biologist to bring these two groups together, to offer technical assistance, planning and planting wildlife habitat and to reimburse the youth group (from $5 up to $250) for such items as seed, fertilizer, lime, soil tests and fencing.

This program was initiated last January with the hiring of Jimmy May, a Kentucky native who has attended Murray State University and Oklahoma State University. May held a similar position in Texas since 1973.

This is the first full school year of the program, and May hopes to find at least 30 youth groups interested in doing some wildlife management and get them together with willing landowners. He expects that most of his youngsters will belong to groups such as 4-H or FFA, but scouting groups could get involved, as could civic or sportsmen's organizations who want to sponsor a worthwhile project for youngsters.

The wildlife plants will be designed primarily for farm game animals such as rabbits, quail and doves. However, as with all such wildlife habitat improvement projects, many non-game species, such as song birds and beneficial insect-eating birds, will also use the food plots.

Besides the immediate benefits to wildlife, there are educational advantages as well. The participating youngsters learn the importance of wildlife habitat and how changes in the environment can improve conditions for birds and animals.

And the landowner will probably learn something about habitat improvement also. In most of the projects already under way, the property owners have pitched right in with the kids and seemed to enjoy themselves just as much, May says.

Since most of the youth groups will be farm oriented, May expects the knowledge the members gain from their projects to stay with them, so as adults, they will know quite a bit about wildlife habitat improvement. All in all, he expects the long-term educational benefits to be more important than the actual habitat improvement work.

Any interested group or individual can get more information on this program by writing Jimmy May, Division of Game Management, Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

phosphate and potash) do not leach from the soil, they can be applied now for next spring's crops.

In either case, Wells recommends taking soil samples from fields as soon as possible so that there will be enough time to have them tested for lime and fertilizer needs. County Extension agents for agriculture, located in every county in the state, have containers, instructions for sampling fields and will arrange for having samples tested by the soils testing laboratory on the UK campus in Lexington.

Full application of lime, phosphate, and potash for spring-planted crops has several advantages, Wells points out. When applied in the fall, lime has time to react with acids in the soil, and generally will correct acidity problems before spring plantings are made. Weather conditions usually are better for getting spreaders in fields during the fall, lessening the chances of causing soil compaction.

Waiting until spring to fertilize fields increases the risk of not getting the job done because, in Kentucky, rainy days are much more prevalent during spring planting time than in the fall. Biggest advantage, however, may be the time saved next spring when the main objective is to get seed in the ground. Spring is the rush season for fertilizer dealers, too, and sometimes they can't supply the kinds and grades of fertilizer wanted in the spring when conditions are right for spreading.

Lime, phosphate, and potash can be fall-applied effectively for next spring's crops, but use of nitrogen should be limited to fall-growing crops which need it small grains and grass pastures, says Wells. For small grains, he recommends 30 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre before seeding and an additional topdressing of 30 to 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre around the first of next March. Straight grass pastures should be topdressed with 35 to 70 pounds of nitrogen per acre as soon as possible to increase fall growth and extend the grazing season longer into the winter.

Double-cropped fields, with fall-seeded small grains to be followed next spring by corn or soybeans, can have phosphate and potash requirements for both crops applied this fall, according to Wells.

Use Care With Systemic Cattle Grub Insecticides

Be careful when treating cattle for cattle grubs. Systemic insecticides applied as pour-ons, spot-ons, sprays or dips are very effective means of controlling these fly larvae. Now is the time to control cattle grubs in Kentucky. Anytime between late July and the end of October is the proper time to use systemic insecticides for the control of these pests.

When using pour-ons or spot-on systemic insecticides be sure to estimate the weight or get an actual weight on the animal so that you can use the proper amount of insecticide. Don't use more than recommended on the label because it won't give you any better control and might cause problems for the cattle.

A lot of cattlemen like to worm, vaccinate, implant, dehorn and castrate all at the same time. If you do all this at one time be very careful of systemic insecticide dosages and check your animals often to be sure none have reacted unfavorably to all this stress. If you have an animal go down, get them up and keep them moving until they shake off that woozy feeling. Do not use organophosphate wormers such as Ruelene Oral Drench, Loxon or Maxxim Crumbles at the same time you treat for grubs because systemic cattle grub insecticides are also organophosphates.

Applying the two together can produce organophosphate poisoning or overdose.

If you use sprays for grub control be sure to apply the spray solution at pressures of 250 psi or greater to ensure that the insecticide penetrates the hair and thoroughly wets the skin.

Time to Plant Spring Flowering Bulbous Materials

September is the time to plant all kinds of spring-flowering bulbous plants as soon as you get them from the retailers. This includes tulips, daffodils, crocus, hyacinths, bulbous iris and all of the other "Dutch" bulbs.

Most of these bulbs do not store well during winter "on the shelf". Bulbs such as most of the lilies that flower later in the season (summer) can be stored and planted in the spring. Many thousands are handled in this manner, but they can also be fall-planted out to their good.

The oldest golfing club in the world is the Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers, which came into being March, 1744.

Soils Specialist Recommends Applying Fertilizer This Fall

Fall is an ideal time to apply fertilizer needed by crops to be planted next spring as well as by feeded crops and grass pastures, says Ken Wells, Extension soils specialist in the UK College of Agriculture.

Many fields in the state need lime and fertilizer for top production of fall-growing or fall-seeded crops, according to the specialist. Since lime,
