In America, the word crop is more strictly used than elsewhere in the world. Here, it means maize, but originally, it was any small, hard seed of a plant. Generally it means whatever cereal crop is grown primarily in a specific locale. In Scotland and Ireland, for instance, the word crop refers to oats; in England, it refers to wheat.

Growing corn needs protection from predators, from time to time. But one, AATREX 41, is made by Ciba-Geigy in such a way that it remains stable in its container for more than three years.

Corn once grew wild in the highlands of southern Mexico. The pre-Columbian Indians "tamed" it and brought it north where it now satisfies even the most cultivated taste.

Statement of Nondiscrimination

Continental Telephone Company of Kentucky has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder, to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Such complaint must be filed not later than 180 days after the alleged discrimination, or by such later date to which the Secretary of Agriculture or the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complaints will be kept confidential.

Home Office Deduction

If you use one room of your home as an office, make sure that you are taking advantage of the tax break that is entitled to you. How much of your home office expenses can be taken as a business expense depends on the size of the room in relation to the rest of the house.

For example, if the house has 1,600 square feet of space and the office measures 10 x 16 feet (or 160 square feet), you are allowed 10% of the total running costs of the house's light, heat, repairs, painting, and other maintenance, depreciation, taxes and so on.

But, remember that the room must be used exclusively for business use; preferably as a main place of business, or show that the room was necessary to see clients or patients. Also, expenses cannot exceed the income earned from the business. Also, if you have any valuable equipment in your home office, don't assume that it will be covered by your regular homeowners insurance policy. You'll need a special form to protect against loss.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Ford Realty & Auction Co., Inc., Mt. Vernon, Phone 256-4545. We're here to help!

Emma Hopkins

Mrs. Emma Hopkins, 77 of Loyal, Kentucky and formerly of Mt. Vernon passed away suddenly Thursday, January 19, 1978 at the Miners Memorial Hospital in Harlan, Kentucky. She was born on October 24, 1900 in Rockcastle County, the daughter of the late John C. and Emma Jane Owens Taylor. She was a member of the Loyal Christian Church.

Survivors are: her husband, Elmer Hopkins of Loyal; three daughters, Mrs. Aubrey Chestnut of Barbourville, Ky., Mrs. Rex Younce of Loyal, and Mrs. David McCauley of Mt. Vernon; eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by one infant daughter, Ruby Hopkins.

Funeral services were held Sunday, January 22, 1978 at the Loyal Funeral Home Chapel, Loyal, Ky. Committal service was held at the Graveside in Elmwood Cemetery by Rev. Ernie Johnson.

Local arrangements were by the Cox Funeral Home.

Lewis Brown

Lewis Brown, 76, died Tuesday, January 23 in Dayton, Ohio.

The body is at the Cox Funeral Home where arrangements are incomplete.

Bullish Future For Burley Predicted at Quota Hearing

By Bennett Roach

As the tobacco markets near the end of the sales season the burley industry is awaiting word from Washington on the 1978 crop quotas and outlook.

The 1978 marketing quota for burley is to be announced some time before February 1 by the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture.

Now under study by USDA tobacco program specialists are the views and recommendations of growers, dealers, manufacturers and others, as submitted last Tuesday (Jan. 10) at the annual burley quota hearing, at Lexington, Ky. Without exception all growers, handlers and buying interests heard from at the meeting favored continuation of 1977 marketing quotas for the coming year. Many expressed satisfaction over the upturn in prices since the holidays, and spoke confidently of a continued strong demand for U.S. burley.

The Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association's president, David J. Williams, gave the co-op's position as strongly in favor of keeping last year's quota. He cited government figures as showing supply and demand at a desirable level.

The booming export trade in U.S. burley was noted by Frank B. Snodgrass, vice president and managing director of the Burley and Dark Leaf Export Association, who cited another record high mark of 117 million pounds sold abroad in the calendar year 1977. He added: "It appears that the export buyers have been quite active in the 1978 phase of the market."

But Snodgrass warned that increasing supplies of foreign produced burley are giving us competition, both in the domestic and export market...and at a price less than half the U.S. burley.

"Therefore it is urgent that we maintain high quality since we can no longer compete price-wise in the world markets."

Quota setting each year is a basic part of the system of production controls favored by burley farmers. Quotas are adjusted in line with the changing supply/demand situation.

Views submitted at last week's quota hearing are a major factor, but many other elements also govern determination of a national marketing quota. These include figures of the past ten years as to yield, production, carryover, supply, and annual disappearance.

If the USDA should leave the national quota unchanged from 1977, it would...

...be pleasing to most burley belt representatives whose views were heard at the quota meeting.

...be in line with disappearance (domestic use plus exports) for marketing year ending Sept. 1, 1977 (610 million pounds, or 7 million over 1976).

...take cognizance of last year's jump in burley exports, now totaling 117 million pounds (about 17% of burley sales).

...reflect belief that supplies are well in line with demand, as evidenced that the 1977 crop just marketed is considerably smaller than 1976 crop.

...show satisfaction over volume of loan holdings by Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, and the Burley Stabilization Corp., totaling 57 million pounds (All Burley stocks 1973 and earlier have been sold).

...be a decision by USDA to reduce the national quota would... indicate concern over mounting supplies, now above the desired level of 24 years supply. (Stocks are not sufficient for 3.5 years' use).

...regard as a serious buildup of carryover and foreign burley stocks, now up 8% (O.C. 1) from year earlier.

...take note of a 3% drop in domestic use of burley for cigarettes; estimated cigarette production down 2.3% from year earlier; manufacturers using less leaf per cigarette.

...take note of record low output of smoking tobacco, a drop of 6% pct., to 43 million pounds.

Volunteer Opportunities Available On Daniel Boone National Forest

People interested in ecology, environment, and natural surroundings, and enjoying their enthusiasm with others are invited to participate in the Forest Service Volunteer Program.

Under this program on the Daniel Boone National Forest, volunteers may serve on the seven ranger districts during the spring, summer and fall months. The positions do not pay salaries or wages but do permit free camping in campgrounds. Families are welcomed to share the units and other facilities are provided.

The Volunteer Program offers interested members of the public a chance to assist the Forest Service in its job of land management and conservation.

Work done by Volunteers depends in part on individual skills and interests. Typical work could include serving at visitor information stations, trail guides, conducting interpretive natural history walks, helping visitors to select a campsite, provide fee information and doing light cleanup at facilities throughout the campgrounds, picnic grounds or at boat launching ramps between visits of regular clean-up crews. As provided for under special legislation passed by Congress, the program allows a volunteer to serve full time a few hours or days each week or contribute to "40-hour" time service.

Preference will be given to those who apply to work for the full recreation season, which runs venerationly from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

Anyone who wants to become involved may apply, retirees, professionals, housewives, students, teenagers and youngsters. Volunteers under 18 years of age must have written consent from their parents or guardian.

Persons interested should contact the Forest Supervisor's Office at 100 Vought Road, Winchester, Kentucky 40391; or one of the following Ranger Districts for more detailed information or for application forms.

WIC Clinic Schedules Told

The Rockcastle County Health Department officially set aside each Tuesday as WIC Clinic at the beginning of its new program which provides supplemental foods for women, infants and children who are considered nutritional risks. The reason for setting aside a special day for WIC Clinic was due to the limited space in the health department quarters which causes problems on other clinic days if visits are numerous, and patients may have to wait.

However, recent weather conditions have made it impossible for some potential WIC recipients to come on Tuesdays, so the health department announces that there are other days that will be open when persons may come for WIC evaluations if they cannot make it on Tuesdays.

The following is a listing of clinics held at the health department: Tuesday Wic Clinic every week, all day; Wednesday, KMAP clinic every week, all day; 1st and 3rd Thursday, Family Planning (Dr. Hutchins) until noon; 2nd and 4th Thursday, Pap Smear Clinic, afternoon open; 1st and 3rd Friday, Immunizations Clinic; 2nd and 4th Friday, open.

Those who think they may be eligible for WIC may come to the health department for their evaluation and certification on Tuesday or at any other time if the clinic schedule is listed as "open." If visits are made to the health department for any of the other clinics, evaluations for WIC may be done at that time if the patient wishes.

After persons are evaluated and enrolled in the WIC Program, they may come to receive their food vouchers on any day except Monday.

School administrators seek ways to make up for lost school days

With Kentucky burdened by its heaviest winter storms in 100 years, county school officials have started to consider how they will recapture lost school days.

Students in Rockcastle County have missed 17 days of school this year and more of the same appears to be in the near future. Some rearrangement of scheduled has been arranged, but all of the lost days cannot be made up.

Supt. Charles B. Parsons announced that two teacher in-service days would be moved forward on the calendar from March 29-31 to Jan. 26-27 unless a great change in the weather occurs. That would give students back 100 days they have missed.

School officials are hopeful that the state board of education will grant them 5 calamity days this year. That would shorten the required number of teaching days from 175 to 170. Should the board grant 10 calamity days, teachers start back to school on Monday and if they don't miss anymore, school could be out by the end of May. But that is a lot of qualification.

Alternatives are available. The school day could be elongated as it was last year. Instead of one hour and 15 minutes, however, Parsons hopes the day will have to be lengthened only 1/2 hour. That is one possibility.

Others include classes on Saturdays or simply extending the school year as long as necessary. School must be dismissed by June 30, which is the end of the Fiscal Year.

School was scheduled to be dismissed for summer vacation on May 18. That gives the board 11 days in May to extend the school year without having classes in June.

So, it appears that if Mother Nature doesn't improve her foul mood in the next few days, the schools may have some serious problems to face in terms of meeting state education requirements and still getting the kids out of school in time for summer vacation.

Perhaps students, teachers, and administrators can take comfort from the fact that almost every other school system in the state faces the same set of problems.

Spring of '77 brought floods and forest fires

The Spring of 1977 will probably long be remembered for the disastrous flood which hit the Cumberland River Valley in early April. Remembering the flood, few people realize that there was actually less rainfall than normal during the first half of the year. It seems that all the rain we had fell during that one 24-hour period. But, before the flood and starting again within one week after the flood, crews from the Kentucky Division of Forestry were busy fighting forest fires throughout the state. Here in Rockcastle County alone, 35 forest fires burned 144 acres of timberland during 1977.

Most of the forest fires occurred during the spring fire season, from late February until the middle of May. The Division of Forestry's Southeastern District Office in Pineville reports that the spring of 1977 was one of the worst fire seasons in recent years. "Although dry weather makes for bad fire seasons," comments Steve Bullen, Rockcastle County Ranger, "the fact is about 99% of the forest fires in this area are caused by man. Four or five rainless days, especially if there's much wind, can dry the forest out and produce a severe fire hazard. But, if people would just be careful, we could get through even the driest of times with very few forest fires" said Bullen. Fortunately, no homes or other buildings were lost as a direct result of forest fires in Rockcastle County last year, but it's difficult to estimate the value of the timber which was damaged or destroyed. Other-related resources, such as wildlife, water quality and recreation were also damaged.

"With a little help from everyone, we can avoid another spring fire season like last year's," said Bullen. "Persons who would like more information on how and when to burn outdoors should contact the Division of Forestry's London Ranger Station, phone 864-8396 or the Pineville office, phone 337-3011."

Livingston home destroyed by fire; Residents save few contents

A two-story frame house was completely destroyed by fire Sunday night in Livingston along with most of its contents.

The home, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Barrier, caught fire at about 6 p.m. Sunday. Mrs. Barrier said she saw "flames come up out of the bathroom." The fire was nearly out but an apparent electrical short inside the house prevented firemen from using water on the blaze. Continuing to burn, the fire quickly got out of control.

The Barriers did manage to save a few items of furniture.

Fire units from East Bernstadt, London, Brodhead, and firefighters from Mount Vernon fought the blaze and contained the fire to the one house.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Barrier of Livingston was completely destroyed by fire Sunday night. Fire fighters from Brodhead, East Bernstadt, London and Mt. Vernon managed to contain the blaze to only one house, but fought a losing battle for the Barrier's home. A few contents were saved.

Mt. Vernon Mayor Roland Mullins has recently contacted the state Department of Highways seeking help in erecting guard rails on the more hazardous curves at Lake Linville. Within the past year two cars have slid off the road and into the water. No one has been seriously injured yet and Mayor Mullins hopes that guard rails at places such as the one above will prevent that from happening. The photo was taken near the first curve on the lake road near Interstate 75.

What's Your Opinion ?

Recently, a bill was pre-filed in the State Senate concerning rescission of the ratification given the Equal Rights Amendment in Kentucky. The bill is now in danger of dying in committee and never reaching a full vote in either the senate or house.

Since Kentucky legislators report that they have heard little of how the public feels concerning ERA, the Signal's editorial staff is conducting a survey aimed at measuring the reaction of people to this bill. Results of this poll will be forwarded to Rep. Harold DeMarcus and Sen. John Rogers for their use.

Please answer the questions as honestly as possible. There is no need to identify yourself and your opinion will be anonymous. Mail your completed questionnaire to the Mt. Vernon Signal, P.O. Box 185, Mt. Vernon, Ky. or drop it by the Signal office, 8:00-4:00, Monday thru Friday.

1. Are you aware that Kentucky is one of the 32 states that has ratified the Equal Rights Amendment? YES NO
2. Are you aware of the provisions of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment? YES NO
3. Are you in favor of rescission of Kentucky's ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment? YES NO

The Frankfort Report

By Paul L. Whalen

Other than the unusual winter weather, the highlight of last week's session of the Kentucky General Assembly was Governor Julian Carroll's budget message.

The governor announced a $7.5 billion budget for 1978-80. This represents a 17% increase over the 1976-78 budget. The largest single expenditure is for education. This budget will go into effect July 1, 1978. No new taxes were proposed. But certain fees, such as those for strip-mine permits will be increased.

The governor's budget calls for more than $270 million for Kentucky's public schools. This includes an across the board increase in teacher salaries, statewide kindergarten programs, abolish all student fees, free textbooks for all students and increased aid for the poor school districts.

Some of the legislation proposed by the Republicans includes: Abolition of the state inheritance tax and the sales tax on consumer utility bills.

An increased return of the coal severance tax revenues to the coal producing counties.

Action to reform the broad form deed.

Regulation by the legislature of state personal service contracts.

Some trivia concerning action taken by a legislature in one of Kentucky's sister states. The Iowa legislature passed an arbitrary law which is the strictest in the nation. Legal experts say that even buying a cup of coffee for a public official in the course of a session about legislation could land both the buyer and the public official in jail for five years.

In percentage terms 41% of the $7.5 billion budget will go to education. Transportation will receive 19% of the budget and Human Resources 24%.

Sales and usage taxes will finance 41% of the budget. The other 58% of the budget will be funded from Individual Income Taxes 27.2%, Property Taxes 9.6%, Corporation Income Taxes 7%, Severance Taxes 8.3% and all other sources of state income 4.9%.

The priorities for the money allotted in the 19% of the budget for transportation are for road maintenance and road maintenance.

The Department of Mines and Minerals is scheduled to receive an additional $1.5 million increase over 1976-78. This money will go to improve the state deep-mine safety inspection program and to implement the miner training and certification program.

The state fire marshal's office has been allotted $1.4 million to upgrade its services over the next two years.

The Carroll budget calls for spending $850,000 over the next two years on advertising and promotion of the Kentucky State Horse Park near Lexington.

An additional $750,000 was requested to promote Kentucky in the advertising media around the world. $205,000 has been budgeted to establish a Division of Tourism Development in the Department of Commerce.

Spiraling environmental costs are reflected in a beefed up inspection program for surface mines and dams and increased funding for the regulation of toxic materials and for the replacement of state forestry vehicles.

House Minority Leader Harold DeMarcus (R-Sherwood) led a news conference in which the Republican lawmakers presented a legislative

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing concerning all this violence they have over the T.V. and this woman who made them stop reading the Bible and made them take prayer out of schools. I think it is awful, I am against it and this homosexual stuff. What has happened to our nation? Or better than that, to our country.

I am for freedom that our boys fought for. I stand for our wonderful Bible, not what man has made. I have been a Christian for over twenty years and the Bible is what I stand for. It will stand when the world is on fire. I am not for man-made religion. So let's pray that all our leaders will realize all this and get our Bible reading back in the schools and get this other rotten stuff off T.V.

Adolescence, A Time for Privacy

It's no news that adolescence is a time when 13-18 year olds may experience periods of self-doubt, turbulence, general uneasiness, or embarrassment. To help adolescents negotiate these difficult experiences, we can begin by maintaining a constant respect for their "right to privacy." Don't "listen in" when they telephone their friends. Don't read their mail because you want to know more about their friends or what they are "up to." Don't make excuses so that you can "search their rooms."

A young adult needs time and a place (usually his or her own room) to do some soul-searching, to accumulate meaningful objects and books, perhaps to keep a diary, and enjoy his or her own kind of music. The adolescent sometimes needs privacy to "think through" problems or to fantasize about the future.

Most adults treasure the right to enjoy a degree of privacy - let's not deny this same privilege to our adolescents.

Mrs. Polly Graves of Mt. Vernon occupied part of her time during the recent bad weather by building her a snow "woman" in her yard. By the time we got there for a picture, melting had

Sheila Lamb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lamb of Brodhead, assisted by neighbor's Tim, Sheila and Freda Kirby and Keith Bussett, walked away part of their time last week by sculpting a few stems on the Lamb lawn. The children built a snowman, elephant and igloo from the abundant material of snow which has blanketed Rockcastle County, in varying degrees of depth, since Sunday.

January 8. Weather reports Wednesday called for additional inches for the area and school has been called for the remainder of the week.

United States Crop Production Highlights

U.S. corn production for 1977 is estimated at 6,357 million bushels, up 1% from the 6,266 million bushels harvested in 1976.

The U.S. soybean crop in 1977 totaled 1,716 million bushels, 33 percent above the 1976 crop.

Burley tobacco production across the belt (Kentucky and 7 nearby states) totaled 6432 million pounds, down 6% from last year's crop of 6783.0 million pounds. Type 22 tobacco is estimated at 37.8 million pounds, up the 1976 crop of 27.3 million pounds. Yield per acre is estimated at 1,851 pounds. Type 23 tobacco estimated at 9.1 million pounds, is up from last year's crop of 6.0 million pounds. Yield is estimated at 1,643 pounds per acre. Type 33 tobacco at 14.4 million pounds with a yield of 1,823 pounds per acre compares with last year's belt production of 10.5 million pounds.

Don't Forget

HELP IN MONEY MANAGEMENT AVAILABLE

Don't forget! A correspondence course on Money Management will begin in the first week of February, 1978. Included in the course will be information on how to get what you want, using credit, new laws affecting women and credit, doing business at the bank, how to balance your checkbook and budget. A special feature of the course will be a computer analysis of your spending as it relates to your income and assistance in budgeting.

Six lessons will be mailed, one about every ten days. Participants will have answer sheets to return and be graded. CEU's and certificates will be awarded to those completing the course. However, I am sure the greatest benefit you will receive is how you can better manage your income.

The fee for the course is $1.00. Please register by calling the County Extension office at 266-2400 or mail your name, address and fee to P.O. Box 2897, Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456. Be sure to register by February 1, 1978 so you will receive your first lesson on time.

The course is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service.

The College of Agriculture is an Equal Opportunity authorized to provide research, educational information and other services only to individuals and institutions that function without regard to race, color, sex or national origin.

A TIP OF OUR HAT...

To Mrs. Elizabeth Mullins, Brodhead's Chairman of the Town Board, who saw to the clearing of snow from the city's streets after the last snowfall. A Brodhead resident called us to tell us of Mrs. Mullins' quick action which enabled residents of the town to move about without problems.

In her official capacity, Mrs. Mullins hired two private contractors to clear all the city's streets and the two-day job was finished Monday.

Also a tip of our hats to Mt. Vernon Mayor Roland Mullins who put the city's backhoe to work clearing the main streets in Mt. Vernon. It was certainly appreciated by those having to be out in the horrible weather.

Kentucky Crop Highlights
1977 Crop

Barley production down from 1976. Kentucky's 1977 barley tobacco production is estimated at 434.1 million pounds, 8% below the 470.3 million pounds produced in 1976. Yield per acre averaged 2,425 pounds compared with the 1976 average of 2,475 pounds. Acreage for harvest totaled 179,000 acres, down 9% from the 190,000 acres harvested in 1976. The 8% decrease in production is due to the 6% decrease in harvested acres plus the 2% decrease in yield per acre. Unfavorable weather conditions have hampered stripping and movement of tobacco to market during recent weeks.

Corn production below last year. Corn production in Kentucky is estimated at 126.3 million bushels, the second largest crop on record. This year's production is 9% below last year's record crop, but 46% above the 1975 crop of 87.8 million bushels. Yield per acre averaged 90 bushels, the second highest yield on record. This year's yield is 12 bushels below the record yield of 102 bushels last year but 13 bushels above the 1975 yield of 77 bushels. The 1977 crop was harvested from 1,410,000 acres, up 4% from the 1976 acreage and 24 percent more than the 1,140,000 acres harvested for grain in 1975. Weather conditions were generally favorable during the growing season but not as good as the ideal 1976 growing season.

Soybean production sets record. Kentucky's soybean production is estimated at a record high of 40.1 million bushels. This was 39% above last year and 24% above the previous record of 32.4 million bushels for 1975. Yield per acre equaled the previous high of 29.5 bushels set in 1971 and was 2.5 bushels above 1976.

Dark tobacco production up: Kentucky's type 22, fire cured tobacco is estimated at 11,550,000 pounds, 24% above the 1976 crop of 9,296,000 pounds. The crop was harvested from 6,600 acres up 18% from the 5,600 acres harvested in 1976. Yield per acre at 1,750 pounds was 90 pounds above 1976.

Type 23, fire cured production of 7,920,000 pounds, is up 55% from the 5,110,000 pounds produced in 1976. An average yield per acre of 1,650 pounds compares with 1,400 pounds per acre in 1976. Harvested acreage of 4,800 acres was up 1.150 acres from last year.

Type 35, one-sucker tobacco production is estimated at 10,980,000 pounds, 35 percent above the 8,160,000 pounds produced in 1976. Yield per acre at 1,800 pounds compares with an average yield of 1,600 pounds for last year. Harvested acreage was up 1,000 acres from 1976.

Type 36, green river tobacco production (grown only in Kentucky) is estimated at 5,931,000 pounds, 29 percent above the previous year. Yield is estimated to be 1,825 pounds per acre, 95 pounds above last year. Acres harvested at 3,250 compares with 6,560 for 1976.

Eternal Truth
IN OUR CHANGING WORLD

The Right View of Jesus

When Christ appeared on the earth, many people failed to recognize his true identity. Some folks thought of Him only as a Galilean peasant and dismissed Him from their minds. Many others admired Him as a great teacher, but did not follow Him. On the other hand, a few saw Jesus as the promised Son of God.

Today it is no different. There are still varied opinions about Him. To some He is "Jesus Christ, Superstar." He is hero of the "Jesus People," the first "hippie," they think. Philosophers and theologians say He was nothing more than a great moralist and teacher.

The Sunday School Times told of an unusual-looking rock that lay for years in a stream in North Carolina. Many people noticed it, but no one stopped to examine it closely. Then one day a man saw that the stone could be used as a weight to hold his cabin door open. So he removed it from the stream and carried it home. Some time later, a geologist who was hiking in the area happened to stop at the mountain cabin. Immediately his attention was drawn to the doorstep, and his trained eye told him it was a valuable lump of gold. It turned out to be the biggest nugget ever found

By Austin Mobley, Minister Providence Church of Christ

What is the right view of Jesus? He is the Son of God (Matt. 16:16). He is the Savior of sinners (Luke 19:10). He is the Head of the church (Col. 1:18). He will be the judge of all people (John 5:22). We can be certain that is the right view of Him because of His mighty works (John 10:37-38; 3:1-2; Acts 2:22). And His resurrection from the dead (Romans 1:4). Over 500 witnesses saw Him at one time following His resurrection! We, with Thomas, can say, "My Lord, and my God" (John 20:28).

Those who have the wrong view of Jesus are like the man in the story who saw only a doorstep in the priceless gold nugget he found in the river. Do you have the RIGHT VIEW OF JESUS? What we believe about Christ determines how we respond to Him. If we do not recognize Him as the Son of God, it is unlikely we'll give Him the honor and devotion He deserves.

Homemade Whole-Wheat Mix Adds Fiber, Saves Time & Money
Make your own Master Mix for biscuits, rolls, pancakes, pizza, hot breads, dumplings, and topping for casseroles.

Twelve-Cup Recipe
4 cups unsifted whole-wheat flour
4 cups unsifted regular flour
3 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons salt

1 1/2 cups hydrogenated shortening
Do not use lard
1 cup non-fat dry milk
3/4 tablespoons sugar

Combine dry ingredients in a large bowl and stir until well-blended. Cut in shortening with pastry blender or two knives until mixture looks like cornmeal. Store in a cool, dry place, using a container with a tight-fitting lid. It will keep up to 8 weeks, and much longer than that in your refrigerator or freezer.

Easy Dinner Rolls
3 cups Master Mix
1 cup warm water
1 egg
1 envelope active dry yeast

Beat egg in mixing bowl. Add warm water and yeast.
Add Master Mix blend ingredients with woden spoon until combined. Then stir vigorously 30-40 strokes. Place bowl in warm place for 20-30 minutes, until batter has doubled.

Stir down and spoon into greased muffin tins. Let rise 20-30 minutes. Bake in 400 degree oven for 15 minutes, until lightly browned. Makes 12 large rolls.

Breakfast Pizza

2 cups Master Mix
1/2 cup milk or juice
1/2 cup apricot or peach preserves
3 brown and serve sausages
(or 3 partly cooked sausages)
Add milk to Master Mix and stir about twenty five strokes. Turn onto a lightly floured surface and knead five or six times.

Roll dough into a circle, 1/2 inch thick. Place on a cookie sheet or in a large cake pan.

Combine lemon juice and preserves and spread evenly over dough. Cut sausages crosswise in slices and sprinkle over pizza.

Bake at 450 degrees for 15-18 minutes or wrap and store in refrigerator and bake the next day. Makes 4 servings.

Stop by my office and pick up a booklet on Master Mixes.

Some say floating tea leaves in a cup of water is coming.

USDA Donates More Food to States

As announced by Carol Tucker Foreman has announced that states will receive more donated foods, or cash instead of donated foods, to assist schools and non-residential child care institutions which participate in the school lunch and child care food programs.

Ms. Foreman said the value of these donated foods, or cash instead of donated foods will be increased from 11.75 cents to 12.75 cents for each lunch served in the school lunch program and for each lunch and supper served in the child care food program.

The new rate reflects changes in the food away from home series of the Consumer Price Index. It will be effective from July 1, 1977 through June 30, 1978. Recent legislation (Public Law 95-166) requires that this rate to be adjusted retroactively this year, and then at the beginning of each "school year" thereafter, which is established by program regulations as July 1 through June 30.

USDA Increases Reimbursement Rate

Schools and nonresidential child care institutions will receive increased payments for milk served in the Special Milk Program, Assistant Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said.

Ms. Foreman said the rate of reimbursement has been increased from 62 cents to 65 cents per half pint of milk served to paying children, for the period July 1, 1977 through June 30, 1978. This increase is based on changes in the food away from home series of the Consumer Price Index.

New legislation (Public Law 95-166) requires this rate of reimbursement to be adjusted retroactively this year, and at the beginning of each "school year," which is established by program regulations as July 1 through June 30.

The rate of reimbursement, announced in a schedule of rates in the Federal Register of Jan. 6 and will be effective as of July 1, 1977.

Producing enough electricity for future needs isn't as simple as pulling a rabbit out of a hat.

It takes time to plan and build a generating station. If we started one today, it would be several years before we could take it out of the hat for your children. You count on electricity to be with you at home, in school, in the hospital, or at work. A shortage would seriously affect everyone. At K.U., we're constantly planning for tomorrow, and it's important you know why we're building more power plants. Even with conservation, the demands for our service will grow. You know electricity isn't magic. But we'd still like to meet your demands as quick as you can say "Abra Cadabra."

Rockcastle Recollections

By John Lair

On February first, the finishing touches will begin to be put on the manuscript for the proposed Rockcastle County History, "Rockcastle Recollections". This does not mean that only a slight amount of work is yet to be done but we do expect to have it on the market in a fairly reasonable length of time. I have by far the greater amount of copy in rough form. It is hoped that getting it together in proper sequence will not take up too much time.

The trouble is that I am entirely unfamiliar with the nature of the part of the work which lies ahead and am unable to predict with any certainty just when it will be finished. In my estimation I can have all my work done by April 1. After that comes what is to be done by others to put the book on the market. First, the entire manuscript of around 300 pages must be carefully corrected as to spelling and punctuation. This will be the master copy from which the printer works and there must not be a single mistake of any kind anywhere in it. When this copy is ready the whole thing has to be broken up into paragraphs and chapters, space must be indicated for illustrations and the photographs themselves be worked over and put in good condition for the clearest and best reproduction. Then begins the long process of setting up the type for the actual printing, after the proper book paper and type faces have been selected. Some professional historian should be employed to read the entire book, page by page, before it goes to the printer. After the printed pages are between covers it is too late to make corrections. With the "recollections" part we need not be so particular, but dealing with historical facts is something else again. Dates must be of record, not by guess. The book will not, of course, be perfect. I have never read a history which was. The object is to get it as near historically correct as humanly possible—and don't think there won't be people reading it who are looking for mistakes, and finding them.

By the time we have gotten this far the whole thing is completely out of my hands and into the hands of professionals who are experienced at their job. Somebody else will be doing the indexing, a particularly difficult job; somebody else will be making up the bibliography list naming and describing the books, papers, documents and original sources from which I have gleaned such information as I have used in this work. The introduction, or foreword, will have to be written, which will be done by J. Winston Coleman, and a man of Mr. Coleman's status as a writer-historian is not going to write a word describing any book until he has read it deliberately and conscientiously so he'll know just what he wants to say about it.

After the book is completed there comes the business of binding, which is also time-consuming and which, of course, cannot even be started on until the book is otherwise completed. What I am not taking into consideration at all is the fact that we do not know exactly what we will run into in buying paper and other supplies for the work. I am trying to order ahead of time to avoid delay, but that seems rather hard to do. Many printers don't want that much paper piled around their warehouses for too long before it is needed!

So you can see that writing and publishing a book the size of this contemplated volume is not an easy job. There's more to it than setting down and doing off a lot of typewritten pages. Being an amateur at the business I have no previous experience to go by. Generally by the time a writer gets out a hardback book of this size and type he has wrestled through with a half dozen lesser attempts and knows what he's up against. Generally he has had a half dozen manuscripts turned down before he has one accepted. The other—and only—manuscript I ever submitted was for my Lincoln Book and it was accepted for publication by the first publisher I showed it to. Following acceptance it was sent away to Boston and New York to be published and I never saw it until it was finished and on the market, so I missed out on a lot of experience that would be very helpful to me right now.

Future columns in the Signal will probably be fairly light, but there will be articles from time to time in an attempt to gather additional information as needed. Hope to be able to put an advance price on the book soon as we can advise readers on it.

Teacher Collective Bargaining Proposal Threatens Citizen Control of Education, Spokesman Says

A bill introduced last week in the Kentucky State would weaken elected boards of education that citizens would have no effective means of controlling their schools, according to Dr. J.E. Johnson, Chairman of the Bourbon County Board of Education and President of the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA).

Senate Bill 88 would require local school boards to bargain with teachers' unions. "We are certainly not opposed to collective bargaining in the private sector," Johnson says. "However, we do not believe that a state law forcing locally elected school officials to bargain with teachers is in the best interest of the students, the schools or the community."

The proposed legislation would mean much more than just a change in school board-teacher relations, Johnson notes. The real issue, he believes, is the control of public education. Senate Bill 88 would result in private teacher unions and organizations having the power to set the level, direction and quality of the education program in elementary and secondary education. "These private vested interest organizations are not elected by the people, and they certainly are not accountable to our taxpayers," says Johnson. "In our democratic form of government, it is wrong to take legitimate authority away from elected officials who are the people's representatives—and to give this authority to any private group. This is a fundamental question at stake here — who is going to control the direction of our schools — elected, accountable officials, or private organizations which exist only for the vested interests of their members."

School boards would be required to negotiate with teacher representatives on wages, hours, and other terms and conditions of employment, and would have to enter into binding contracts containing the results of the negotiations. All teacher-board negotiations would be subject to binding arbitration, to resolve a bargaining impasse.

The bill contains no penalty or prohibitions against strikes or work stoppages by teachers. "Actually," declares Johnson, "the bill has language that does everything but specifically legalize teacher strikes." Section 4 of the bill says certified educators (teachers and most administrators) shall have the right to: "Engage in other concerted activities for the purpose of collective bargaining or other mutual aid and protection."

"That is tantamount to saying that to say that it is legal for teachers to strike," Johnson says. "The binding arbitration provision to settle impasses and this round-about endorsement of strikes are among many provisions of the Bill which are totally unacceptable. Regardless of what the effect or impact is of the arbitrators' decisions, school boards would have to implement it, and taxpayers would be footing the bill. An arbitrator is not an elected official, and is not accountable to the students or the taxpayers. Giving this degree of power to someone not accountable is contrary to our entire system of democratic government," says Johnson.

The Kentucky School Boards Association, a non-profit service organization to which all of Kentucky's 131 boards of education belong, has long opposed mandated collective bargaining in public education. School boards can now bargain with employees if they feel it is in the best interest of the education program.

KSBA officials say it is important that citizens understand the real issues raised by Senate Bill 88. "This is certainly not just a matter of giving teachers a chance to have their voice heard," says James Melton, KSBA Executive Director. "Most school boards already have written procedures to guarantee that. The real issue is whether citizen control of public education will be shattered by a tough collective bargaining law."

KSBA President Johnson agrees. "We want everyone to realize that this bill would so weaken the managerial authority of school boards that citizens would no longer have an effective mechanism for controlling the operation of their children's education. If the people don't like the way in which the schools are now operated, they have a recourse — they can vote board members out of office. However, when private teacher organizations weaken school board authority, by means of collective bargaining, then the public no longer can effectively control education. You can't hold private vested interest organization accountable as you can elected school board members."

The Kentucky General Assembly has considered this issue for 10 years, but advocates of collective bargaining in education have not succeeded in implementing a bargaining law.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Why do some people like celery and hate spinach, enjoy turnips but abhor parsnips?

These and similar questions concerning vegetables have been asked for centuries but as yet there are no definite answers. Scientists think, however, that these likes and dislikes are all wrapped up in odor, flavor, taste, and even in the sound of the vegetable as it is being eaten. For example, the crunching sound of a crisp cucumber pickle or a stalk of celery as it is being chewed heightens the enjoyment.

The basic taste—sweet, sour, salty, and bitter—are important factors in likes and dislikes for food. About these tastes and the chemical constituents that cause them, scientists have well-developed concepts, but much about odor—another important contributor to food flavor and goodness—remains a mystery.

Odors play the most important part in the distinctive flavor of many fruits and vegetables, but only recently has any progress been made in the search for the odorous materials in these products of the orchard and garden. The principal problem in studying these odor-producing chemicals has been the very small quantities that occur naturally in foods. For instance, in securing less than one-half ounce of odorous material, a scientist and his coworkers found it necessary to distill no less than 5 tons of celery.

Substantial progress has been made in the isolation and characterization of fruit odors. A great part of the odor research has been done with strawberries, apples, oranges, peaches, pears and muskmelons. The distinctive aroma of strawberries appears to be due to several dozen chemicals, while peach aroma can be traced to six or eight characteristic chemicals.

With increased knowledge in this area, horticultural researchers, through genetic control, can make vast improvements in the elusive flavor qualities of fruits and vegetables and thus increase the joys of eating.

Scientists in other fields have discovered that the olfactory nerve carries its findings to the seat of logic, recollection and imagination so the brain's senses are set up memories so nostalgic that a person's whole mood may be changed. Aromas of all fruits and vegetables are generally associated with pleasant times and places.

Completes Training

Marine Private Barbara J. Bullen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe C. Bullen of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon, has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the eight-week training cycle, she was introduced to the typical daily routine that she will experience during her enlistment, and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

She participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills including close order drill and first aid. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1976 graduate of Rockcastle County High School, she joined the Marine Corps in July 1977.

Legislative Report

By Rep. Harold DeMarr

As of January 13, there has been 122 bills introduced in the Senate and 204 bills introduced in the House of Representatives with additional bills being filed in both chambers every day. By the end of the 1978 session of the Kentucky General Assembly, somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,500 pieces of legislation will have been considered by the members.

Only a member of the General Assembly can introduce legislation. However, legislators do introduce bills suggested by other individuals or organizations. All bills must begin with the words: "Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

Bills may vary in length from a single paragraph to hundreds of pages. The Constitution states that a bill may relate to only one subject, which must be stated in the title. Bills which do not adhere to this rule are declared unconstitutional by the courts.

Amendments may be proposed by a committee or any legislator, but bills can be amended only a vote of the House or Senate. If changes are numerous or alter a bill significantly, a substitute bill may be drafted and given the same number.

All bills are introduced by delivering them to the House or Senate clerks, whereupon they are subject to the committee system that I discussed last week.

Bills on the floor are read by title only, since members have complete copies of each bill at their desks. The Constitution requires every member's vote on each bill to be recorded in the House or Senate Journal. Amendments, however, may be adopted by voice vote.

After a bill is passed in one house, an engrossing clerk copies it, incorporating any amendments adopted on the floor. The bill is delivered then to the other house, where the procedure is repeated, going through a comparable committee system.

The first house must agree on any amendments passed in the second house. If the two houses don't agree, the respective presiding officers appoint a conference committee, which tries to arrive at a compromise. Conference committees report their recommendations to both houses, which may only accept or reject them. If the report is rejected, the house may give special instructions or another conference committee may be appointed to attempt to break the deadlock.

After a bill has passed both houses, it is signed in open session by the presiding officer in each house. It is delivered then to the governor, who has 10 days to sign or veto the bill or to let it become law without his signature. If a bill is vetoed while the General Assembly is in session, it goes back to its house of origin with a message from the governor explaining his action. The bill still may become law if the majority of members in both houses vote to override the veto.

The Constitution specifies that an act shall become law 90 days after the General Assembly adjourns, unless the act contains a later effective date or an emergency clause. In the latter case, the act must be approved by a constitutional majority (half of the members plus one) and becomes effective immediately upon its approval by the governor.

Besides bills, the legislature may express its feelings in citations, or in single or concurrent resolutions. Legislative citations are presented by the Senate or House to honor, commend or express condolences to an individual or group. Simple resolutions require action by only one house. They are used to handle procedure and organization or express the sense of the house on a particular matter. Concurrent resolutions adopted by both houses are used for special events and to send messages to other branches of government. They are sent to the governor, but do not have the force of law.

Another type of resolution, a joint resolution, is used for matters requiring expenditures, forming joint committees, proposing constitutional amendments, ratifying amendments to the U.S. Constitution, memorializing Congress to act on a particular subject, and other matters not having the force of law, and, therefore, are not included in the statutes. Joint resolutions have the force of law, and must pass both houses, be signed by the officers of each house, and filed with the Secretary of State.

On January 17, Governor Carroll gave his budget address a few hours after he declared Kentucky in a state of emergency, because of an unusually large amount of snow. Only 60 of the 138 members of the General Assembly were able to attend the speech. Yet the Governor state that hundreds of people were contacted for the purpose of "individual involvement in the budget priorities." I wonder how many citizens of the 80th district were contacted about budget priorities.

Also, the governor called for the allocation of funds for a new state park and several golf courses. I wonder how many citizens in Kentucky are able to afford the luxuries of the state parks we now have.

Recently, it has come to be known that 35 members of the General Assembly who "braved" the weather to reach the legislative session this week, were in fact delivered to Frankfort by the Kentucky State Police. The 1978 Executive Budget is the largest budget in Kentucky's history with a total of $7.5 billion. I feel that instead of increased spending, there should be, and be, citizens of Kentucky deserve, a tax reduction.

Some people believed it good luck for a better life, through their coat sleeves.

Property Ownership in Kentucky
In planning to buy, sell or otherwise transfer property, one of your most useful tools is knowledge of how property ownership works in Kentucky.

According to an Extension economist in the UK College of Agriculture, this knowledge is helpful in seeing that an estate transfers smoothly at the death of its owner.

Property ownership is one of the most important and least understood aspects of effective estate planning, says Wilmer Browning. The conditions under which property is owned help determine what becomes of it when the owner dies.

"Browning points out that property rights are granted by state rather than federal law, causing ownership laws to vary from state to state.

The most complete way of owning property in Kentucky is called fee simple. This is absolute ownership with the right to hold, give away or dispose of by will. Property owned in fee simple at death, and not disposed of by will, will pass to heirs of the deceased.

They will then own it in fee simple. Property also may be held as a life estate. Under these conditions, the holder is entitled to the use and benefits of this property during his lifetime only. The rights to the property end at death. It cannot be willed to another, nor does it pass to one's heirs at death.

Two or more people may have interest in ownership of the same piece of property at the same time. The two types of co-ownership most common in Kentucky are tenancy in common and joint tenancy with right of survivorship.

Tenancy in common is co-ownership in which each owner has an individual interest in property. The shares of ownership need not be equal. Each owner has the right to the use and possession of this property. Each may dispose of his share without consent from the other owners. Each has the right, through his will, to determine who gets his share of the property at his death. If he does not have a will, his share of the property will descend to his heirs according to the law of descent and distribution in Kentucky—not to the co-owners.

In joint tenancy with right of survivorship, surviving owners automatically acquire interest owned by a co-owner who dies. A joint owner may not dispose of his interest by will, nor will his interest descend to his heirs-in-law in absence of a will. This type of ownership is often used by husbands and wives. It may simplify administration of an estate, but also results in higher death taxes. This is true because the full value of a jointly held property may be considered to have been property of the first co-owner who dies, unless the survivor can prove that this own funds went into the purchase of the property.

Men and women have equal rights to property ownership in Kentucky. When a man and woman get married, each retains his or her right to the property each owned before marriage. Each has the right to acquire property in his or her own name after marriage. But common law provides that a wife have a "dower" interest in her husband's property and that the husband have a "curtesy" interest in property of his wife. Because of these interests, real estate transfers must be signed by both husband and wife on property owned jointly or separately.

Browning and others in the UK College of Agriculture are conducting estate planning meetings in 13 Kentucky counties this January, February and March. The meetings are open to the public and cost nothing to attend. Your county Extension office can provide further details.

Save Energy

You can probably save on your home heating and cooling bill by putting your home on a computer. Within a few minutes, your home can be analyzed in such a way as to tell you the advantages of added insulation and weather stripping among other money-saving tips. Simple, easy to understand directions are readily available from your county Extension office and it's all free. Use of just a few energy-saving tips can cut dollars off your home heating and cooling costs.

City of Livingston

Says "Thank You"

We would like to thank the following people who gave us their help when we asked for it Sunday night: The Broadhead Fire Dept. for their men and truck, the Mt. Vernon Fire Dept. for their men, the East Bernstadt Fire Dept. for their men and trucks, the Laurel County Fire Dept. for their men, the Rockcastle County Rescue Squad, the Rockcastle County Civil Defense, the Kentucky State Police, and all the people who came out to do whatever they could, such as holding hoses, running pumps, moving furniture, etc. If it had been for these people and their equipment we would have been faced with a disaster. We also want to thank the Southeastern Kentucky Red, the 506 Base, the Dirty Sally Base and all the others too numerous to mention for their help in radio communications. We are sorry that the Base radios could not be saved but we are very thankful that no one was hurt.

Mr. Roy Wayne Wright has been a patient in the Fattie A. Clay Hospital, where he had surgery recently. He returned home Tuesday. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Bro Jimmy McKinney preached at Ottawa Sunday morning and evening. We are glad to report that the sick are better.

Mrs. Virgil Lawrence is home from the Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington.

HEULLESTON STATEMENT ON HEW AND CALIFANO ANTI-SMOKING CAMPAIGN

Mr. Califano seems to be putting the cart before the horse by launching a massive anti-smoking campaign before the scientific evidence is conclusive.

The Secretary presented no evidence to support the long list of statistics he used to indict smoking and his program acknowledged this fact by purposing further action by the surgeon general. It seems to me that a comprehensive review of all research on all the possible effects of smoking should be in hand before launching such a program—not just as an afterthought. He has reached a conclusion and is asking the researchers to go out and find information to support those conclusions.

A massive propaganda campaign by the government ought to be based on sound information. And, while obviously some restrictions should be placed on where people smoke, smokers should not be treated as second-class citizens and their rights should also be respected.

So, we will review very carefully the implementation of Secretary Califano's program, looking to keep it fair and based on sound fact.

I am pleased that the Secretary did not include an attack on the government's tobacco price support program, which means so much to Kentucky's farmers. I think our intervention with the President was the major reason this feature was not included.

SPREADING THE WORD

Every two years (or more often if there is a special session of the legislature), the state Capitol's corridors and team with lawmakers, lobbyists, constituents from back home and legislative staffers, among others.

Some of those "others" are representatives of newspapers, television stations and radio stations. Although many of these press people are part of the Capitol press corps—that is, they're headquartered in Frankfort year-round—many others come to Frankfort only to cover the session.

During the first days of the 1978 General Assembly, the Legislative Research Commission held a Media Day for press representatives. Part of the offering was a tour of the Capitol facilities (below right).

For the first time this session, Kentucky Educational Television (KET) is filming legislative activity daily.
