Enjoy Your Inflation Hedge

The best way to get people to talk about economies is to have prices skyrocket. People who worry about inflation aren't kidding; the problem is real and serious. But what can we do to protect ourselves?

If you are a homeowner, you are doing it unknowingly because one of the safest and surest hedges against inflation is the ownership of real estate. Your "shelter" expense will stay fairly steady even in times of rising prices. The monthly payments on a mortgage don't change at all.

If you decide to sell, you can be confident-except in a forced sale-of getting back more money than before-inflation hit. And, if you're in need of cash, your rising equity in your home increases your potential borrowing power. So, if you're a homeowner, you've been an effective economist all along and didn't know it.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Ford Realty & Auction Co., Inc., Mt. Vernon, Phone 256-4545. We're here to help!

William K. Bullen Awarded Contract Garbage Pick-up System in County

At a special meeting held last week, William K. Bullen was awarded the contract for operating a garbage pick-up system in the county.

District 1: Renfro Valley Lake Road from Renfro Valley to the boat dock, resurfacing; District 2: Low Gap Road and Ford Hollow Road to the Sand Hill Church, resurfacing; District 3: Copper Creek and Level Green Roads, resurfacing; District 4: the road to Fairview Church and the Fairview Con-way roads, resurfacing and District 5: Red Hill and Orlando roads, resurfacing.

the court to request the removal of the trash dumpsters from the entrance to the road. Mr. Ford said he felt the dumpsters should be moved somewhere more off the road where they would not be a hazard to people driving onto Chestnut Ridge. He was assured by Judge Thacker that something would try to be worked out under the new system of either having the dumpsters removed or keeping the area clean enough to prevent it being a hazard.

Benton Owens with the State Department of Highways was present at Tuesday's meeting of the Fiscal Court to take recommendations from the magistrates for possible additions to the county road aid program.

Mr. Owens told the court that they had available $5,900 in energy funds for which they needed to pick a road out to be repaired. The court agreed to let the funds be spent on Ky. 1955, the Red Hill Road.

Bob Wittenbach, representing Continental Telephone was also before the court to request permission to cross over and under county roads. Mr. Wittenbach told the court that the telephone company was getting ready to replace the party lines in the county to only 4 party systems and at times it would be necessary to either cross under or over county roads in some areas.

At present, the program covers 135.2 miles and six bridges for maintenance at a cost of $151,258 per year.

A report was made to the court concerning the ambulance service vehicles. There are four at present, all running, but one does not meet state standards for use as an ambulance. The court was requested to approve the sale of the vehicle as a van with all equipment and the ambulance markings removed.

Permission to do this was granted but the court requested County Attorney James Lambert to prepare an agreement in writing that the roads would be put back in the same condition as before the work.

Brodhead Town Board Meets With Few Items on Agenda

The Brodhead Town Board found few items of business on their agenda at their regular monthly meeting Monday night.

Board member David Cash asked for an explanation of why the city's water bill was so high and it was explained to him that the fire department had used 65,000 gallons of water to fight a fire and that there had been a break in one of the town's water lines.

Mrs. Margie Harris was also before the court to request gravel for the Marier Hollow Road on which she lives. Mrs. Harris said there had been some occasions when the school bus was unable to get in to pick up her children. Mr. Harris said that the county had graded the road three times and that some gravel had been put on the road but that this was not sufficient for the bus. Magistrate Boone Cromer, in whose district this is, said later that the road to the Harris home was in such a state of disrepair that it would take more money than he had allocated to him to make it passable all the time.

An old item of business - dumpsters in the city park - was the first item discussed. Mrs. Elizabeth Mullins, Chairman, expressed concern that the dumpsters had not been removed as requested several times and stated that they would be removed from the park if she were forced to have them moved herself.

Two gentlemen present, David Cornett and Steve Jones with the Public Housing Commission, who were present at the meeting were then introduced to the board. They were present to discuss with the board the construction of public housing for Brodhead. If Brodhead is to qualify for funds for public housing, they must submit an application by May 15th.

William K. Bullen, who was recently awarded the garbage pick-up contract, was also before the court to discuss the number of extra pick-ups the court wanted him to make. After some discussion, the court decided to approve 20 extra pick-ups this month with the option to lower or raise the number as needed.

The need of a town marshal was then brought up by Mrs. Lillian Collett. The need arose following the sudden illness of Lloyd Albright who will be unable to return to work indefinitely. Doc Brown, a former deputy sheriff, has been filling in for Mr. Albright for two weeks but notified the council that he would be unable to continue in that capacity after Saturday, March 11.

It was decided by the board that there would be two public meetings held to let the townspeople decide on what type of housing they wanted. Board member Ronnie Cash said he would try to get permission to have the meetings at the Brodhead School but no definite date was set.

Students Face Longer Days and Year To Make Up For Lost Time

At Monday night's regular monthly meeting of the Rockcastle County Board of Education, the major topic of discussion was a definite plan for making up the 38 school days lost because of bad weather.

Two bids were received for the installation of a television cable for the high school. The work is being funded with 70% funds from Kentucky Educational Television and 30% from Title IV.

Mr. Parsons and the other 75 superintendents at the meeting learned that the Gov. Julian Carroll had granted schools five additional days that would not have to be made up and, earlier in the week, the education board advised State Superintendent James B. Graham to grant up to five "calamity" days to districts on an individual basis after they submit a revised school calendar.

The continuing problem of the roof at the various types of roofing material available and what might work best for the high school and it was tentatively agreed that several kinds of roofing materials would be looked at and probably tested before the roof was constructed.

Mr. Parsons said that he had asked the state board if it would be possible to lengthen the school day by 30 minutes, take advantage of the 20 minutes now being taught at the high school over the required 6 hour minimum and to start the high school classroom day 22 minutes earlier with a supervised study period.

After some discussion between Supt. Parsons, the board members and Mr. Shelton, it was agreed to give the contractor on the new school bus garage an extension to June 15th for having the building completed.

Mr. Parsons also told the board that with this extended period each day (which actually only extends the school day for one-half hour in the afternoon), school would have to be in session until June 2 or 8th depending on what the board chose to do. Mr. Parsons said he felt that for the added "instructional value" the children would receive it might be best to extend the school year to June 8th and cut off the extended day at the appropriate time in May - this all contingent on whether or not we miss any more days of school.

After the June 15th date, the board agreed that Mr. Collins would be charged the $25 a day non-completion penalty.

However, two of the board members, Mrs. Isabelle Mason and Kenneth Adams, felt that possibly the extended days should be carried through the school year and school be let out on June 2nd. Their thinking was that children who work would have less time to do so especially if the board is required to begin the 1978-79 school year earlier as has been explained as a good possibility.

The Wildie Christian Church will be conducting its 3rd annual Faith-Promise Mission Rally, March 10-12, with the Jackson Bros. of Operation Evangelize, Chesapeake, Ohio, with a goal of $4,500 for missions in 1978.

RCHS Girls Are Runners-up In District

The Rockets girls basketball team fell to a hot outside shooting Clay County team in district championship play last Saturday night, 59-41.

Jackson Bros. To Conduct Mission Rally at Wildie

Mary and Art have both attended Great Lakes Bible College of Lansing, Michigan and Eastern Christian College of Bel Air, Md. where they also spent 3 1/2 years working as Student Recruitment Representatives. They now travel and work full-time with the Operation Evangelize Youth Mission of Chesapeake, Ohio.

The RCHS girls let early in the first quarter and were only down 8 points at half time. However, the Clay County girls came on in the second half to widen the margin.

The Frankfort Report

By Paul L. Whalen

By the time you read this, the 1978 session of the Kentucky General Assembly will only be about a week remaining to complete its business. As of last Thursday, March 2, there had been 383 bills and 55 resolutions introduced in the Senate, in the 161st session, and 108 resolutions had been introduced during this session. The House had passed a total of 195 bills and resolutions while the Senate had passed 124 bills and resolutions. Gov. Carroll had only signed 16 bills into law.

Last week Governor Carroll revealed plans to spend an additional $73.5 million in state money above the original total for the budget for the next two years. This addition money will go to teachers, prosecutors (county and commonwealth attorneys) and to the state auditor's office. Carroll had originally cut the auditor's budget by about 97%.

The Senate voted down an amendment to House Bill 137 which would have banned political contributions by people holding or negotiating for state contracts. The Senate rejected House Bill 137 by a 36-0 vote. This bill if signed into law by the governor, would prohibit political parties from using money from the checkoff system and using money from the checkoff system on income-tax returns in primary elections.

which would transfer the division of tourism to the state Department of Commerce until July 1, 1979, at which time it would become a separate division. However, it was not passed without objections from Senator Doug Moseley (R-Columbia). Senator Moseley charged that the bill is designed to supply a tax aid state to further the campaign of Commerce Commissioner Terry McBrayer, who is presently Governor Carroll's choice for the 1978 gubernatorial nomination for governor in 1979.

The Senate passed a bill 31-5, which would require companies offering group health insurance to offer coverage for the treatment of alcoholism.

The House by a 44-45 vote defeated House Bill 491 which would have destroyed the state's no-fault insurance program. The bill supported by trial lawyers would have required people to consent in writing to no-fault insurance coverage.

After three tries the Senate Agriculture and Natural Resources Committee approved legislation which would put Kentucky in compliance with 1977 federal standards. The bill, Senate Bill 278, would restore stripped mountains to their original shape. It would ban dumping dirt and rock down hillsides and its requires segregation and reuse of the topsoil.

The House Health and Welfare Committee approved a bill which would create a statewide commission to coordinate and to finance cancer research in Kentucky. The bill, an appropriation of $2 million for cancer research for the next two years.

The Senate passed a bill which would make misuse of stolen or lost automatic banking cards subject to the same penalties provided for the misuse of credit cards.

The House passed a bill to allow public school teachers to be paid regularly over the school year instead of bad weather. The bill has already passed the Senate and is expected to be signed into law by the governor.

The only major bill left, the public should let elected representatives know how they feel. To do this you should inform your legislators by calling them at 1-800-372-2976.

Legislative News

By Rep. Harold DeMarcus

Recently, I recalled the story of the basketball player who caught a rebound, turned and drove the length of the court for a basket. There was just one problem in his mind. He was going the wrong way because he went to the hoop. He, the members of the Kentucky General Assembly, who have been working long and diligent hours will reach the right goal because the lives of the citizens of the Commonwealth and future generations will feel the effect. This is why it is so vital for a representative to be heard from the people of his district. Because, the prime duty of a state representative is to be the people's voice in Frankfort.

With this in mind, I would like to give you a brief summary of recently conducted business in the 1978 legislature.

In both the House of Representative and the Senate, long hours have been spent in session and in committee meetings and hearings. The House considered long lists of bills each day and the Senate brought to test their committee system with discharge petitions to wrest two controversial measures from committees.

Several times, sponsors of Senate Joint Resolution No. 4 (to rescind Kentucky's 1972 ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment) stepped forward on their petition to bring the resolution to the full Senate for a vote and each time they failed for the lack of one vote. Section 1 of the ERA Amendments to their petition to bring the resolution to the full Senate for a vote and each time they failed for the lack of one vote.

Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex.

A discharge petition was also filed on Senate Bill 141, the "Bottle Bill" (which in effect prohibits the use of non-refundable beverage bottles). The bill failed by a tie vote to come out of the Senate Committee on Judiciary Statutes, and its sponsors were unable to get enough votes in the Senate Chamber to bring it to the floor for debate and vote.

Efforts in the Senate to delay vote on Senate Bill 88, the professional negotiations bill for certified teachers, which some here at the Capitol are calling a "Meet and Confer" bill, were successful but two days later, the bill was called up again in the Senate and passed and was sent to the House for consideration. The bill was originally introduced as a collective bargaining measure but was substituted by the Senate Committee on Business Organizations and Professions. Opponents of the bill committed to the Senate Committee on Education for study.

Both the Senate and House passed Senate Bill 106 which requires school teachers to retire after 30 years of service regardless of age. It will now go to the governor for executive action. The governor can either sign this bill, veto it, or let it become law without his signature.

While the Senate voted down the efforts that were made to rescind the ERA, a House committee endorsed House Joint Resolution 52 and sent the measure to the full House for a vote. The measure would rescind Kentucky's ratification of the amendment on March 24, 1979, the expiration time of the ERA. This is an effort to require another vote on the issue if Congress extends the time limit for the ERA.

An active floor debate on House Bill 206, a coordination of benefits for group health insurance plans was defeated recently. And the sponsor of House Bill 51 placed his bill on the clerk's desk after a floor amendment was passed.

Numerous pieces of mail have been received in opposition to many sections of House Bill 51. This bill was filed after extensive study by the Interim Joint Committee on Counties and Special Districts to establish a uniform procedure for special districts in the state. After a floor amendment excluding libraries passed in the House, the sponsor led the bill on the clerk's desk. During the interim, representatives were offered during the interim to provide input into the legislation and that floor alteration of the measure would merely dilute its effectiveness.

As the 1978 General Assembly moves into the final weeks, the members are being urged to complete their introduction of bills. With very few legislative days remaining, the members will spend less time in committee meetings and more time in the House and Senate Chambers considering proposed legislation.

At this writing the House of Representatives is preparing for many day and night sessions in these final weeks. Although we have experienced a malfunction in our electronic voting machine causing a large backlog of bills still to be acted upon.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those concerned citizens for their massive response to the opinion poll.

Local Student Enrolled In Cooperative Program

Benedetta French Stilwell, from Mt. Vernon, a student at Eastern Kentucky University, is one of 12 students from various Kentucky Universities enrolled in a cooperative work-study program with the U.S.D.A. Forest Service. This program involves on-the-job training for students of the biological sciences.

These students work and attend school in alternate semesters. They learn in school and apply this knowledge to closely related disciplines on the job. They then return to school with a greater understanding of their chosen field.

This Cooperative Education Program was instigated by Willie R. Curtis, Project Leader of the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station, Berea, Ky. The "Surface-Mined Land Reclamation Research" project's mission is to develop practical methods of reducing damage to the environment and forest resources during surface mining operations and to rehabilitate mined areas for the production of quality water, timber, wildlife, recreation, range and aesthetic benefits.

The students, headquartered in Berea, are working on their assignments in the entire Appalachian coal field. They assist in conducting research in Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee, Alabama, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Stilwell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. French of Mt. Vernon.

Are Your Children Developing Normally

Mental Health Matters

People responsible for the guidance and management of children often ask themselves the question, "Are these children developing normally?" As an informed person you will know that it is considered normal for the 2-year-old to look confident, be on the move, be aggressive, play side by side with other 2-year-olds, have a short attention span, to be dependent and to be lacking in judgement.

The normal 3-year-old will be more organized, better coordinated, will try to do what is expected of him, attempt to carry on a conversation, need help with group play, may have unreasonable fears, may rather talk than do, and needs a chance to use artistic tools.

Four-year-olds are DOER's, drop and lose things, may not finish projects, are inconsistent, reject rules, possess boundless energy, can carry a tune, enjoy simple tours, ask questions, possess vivid imagination and a quality known as exuberance.

Normal 5-year-olds are independent, enjoy helping, love routines, exhibit spontaneous humor, enjoy learning by doing, possess longer attention spans, engage in highly imaginative play, and respond well to sight-seeing trips.

How To Clean Brick Surfaces

If your brick fireplace, hearth or wall is discolored from smoke and soot, there are several ways to clean it.

You may not be able to restore the original color, because crevices do hold, but you should be able to remove signs of smoke and soot. Following are methods for cleaning brick, starting with the simplest, one of which may do the job for you.

1. Use a cleaning product containing trisodium phosphate, adding three tablespoons to one gallon warm water. Apply it with a stiff-bristle brush and lots of "elbow grease." Clean out the brush often. Rinse the surface well. If the brick is smooth, you may want to use a sponge instead of a brush.

2. For your own "home brew", add

50TH ANNIVERSARY- Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Himes of Route 4, Berea celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary December 24th at their home. They were married December 24, 1927 at Hummel by John McNew. All their children and several friends were present to help celebrate.

one-fourth cup ammonia to one quart of warm water and detergent. Mix in enough detergent to make a respectable suds. Use as above and rinse well.

3. Try a powdered cleanser containing bleach. Rinse well afterwards.

4. Use a commercial brick cleaner. Follow instructions carefully.

5. If all else fails, scrub bricks with a dry stiff-bristle brush to wear off a thin layer of the face of the brick. Be careful not to damage the mortar.

Once you have cleaned the surface, you may decide to apply a sealer. This will help prevent further discoloration and will also make future cleaning easier. If the brick surface is close to fireplace or stove, be sure to choose a sealer that is heat-resistant. Most sealers give a slightly shiny finish.

Lower Water-heatin Setting.

Cut Song Sheet in Shower

Showering is supposed to use less hot water than taking a bath but not if you sing your favorite country music songs as gallons of water disappear down the drain. Cut your song if you want to save money and energy used for heating your water.

A lower heat setting on your water helps, too. A setting of 140 degrees F or less is plenty hot enough for most household uses.

If you're all going to be taking showers or baths within a few hours, or if you plan to run load after load of clothes in your washer, turn the heat setting up for that period of time. Use a cold water rinse for your wash. It works just as well for the rinse cycle as hot water.

Did you ever try a cool rinse in the shower, too, after you're all soaped-up clean? It closes your pores, and can be a stimulating experience for a healthy person.

If you love tub baths and can't bear to give them up altogether, then don't! Remember that a long, lazy soaking in the tub uses less hot water than an operetta sung in the shower.

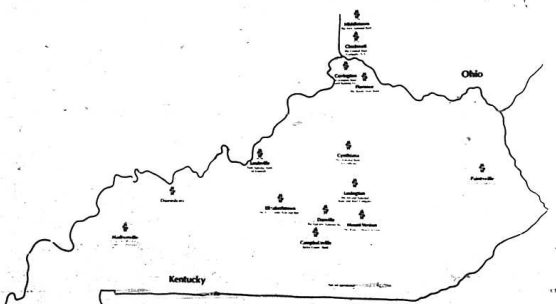

It's easy to check up on how much water you use if your shower is over a wash tub. Just close the drain when you start your shower and see how full the tub is when you're through. Do you use that much water when you take a bath?

Two Extension Home Economics Programs Coming in March

Do Ahead Meals will be taught by Dr. Sherrill Foree, Extension Food Specialist from the University of Kentucky on Friday, March 10 at 1:00 p.m. at the Library Community Room. This is the homemaker club lesson for March, but anyone who wishes to attend may do so. The lesson will be open to the public. Dr. Foree presented the program on microwave cooking last fall. The program will include preparation of foods which can be made ahead of time and frozen or served later. She will also include many time-saving techniques of cooking. Please call the County Extension Office (256-2403) if you wish to attend.

Pattern Fitting and Alteration Classes will be held Monday, March 20 and March 27 from 7 to 9 p.m. Both sessions will be held at the PCA Meeting Room in Mt. Vernon. The first session will deal with what is good for basic alterations, and making a muslin shell. Each participant will make a shell. In the second session, personal help for individual fitting will be given, and alterations done on a personal basic pattern. If you will be attending, please call the County Extension Office to register.

Alpha Smith

Mr. Alpha Smith, 70, of Renfro Valley, passed away Wednesday, March 1, 1978 at the Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington after an illness of several months. He was born on Sept. 11, 1907 in Carter County, the son of the late Tom and Melinda Stamper Smith. He was a retired barber, a member of the Brush Creek Holiness Church, Ashland Masonic Lodge #640 P.F.A.M. and had operated the Renfro Valley Lodge for the past 17 years.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Cloia Wilson Smith of Renfro Valley; one son, Gary Smith of Renfro Valley; three daughters, Mrs. Alene Collinsworth of Renfro Valley, Mrs. Helen Ratcliff of Columbus, Ohio and Mrs. Roslie Gustin of Ironton, Ohio; two brothers, Clyde Smith and Roy Smith, both of Olive Hill, Ky.; five half-brothers, Clarence and Bob Smith both of Olive Hill, R.C. Smith of Lexington, Ralph and Frank Smith both of Cleveland, Ohio, 11 grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by six sons.

Services were held Saturday, March 4, at the Leslie Anderson Funeral Home in Olive Hill. Burial was in the Garvin Ridge Cemetery with Bro. Joe Mobley officiating.

Arrangements were by the Cox Funeral Home. *****

James L. Davis

James Lewis Davis, 52, of Mt. Vernon died Wednesday, March 1 at the Rockcastle County Hospital after an illness.

He was born in Harlan County on May 19, 1925, the son of the late Leonard Travis Davis and Lura Hiatt Davis and was a veteran of World War II. He was a member of the First Christian Church of Mt. Vernon, a member of Ashland Lodge #640 P.F.A.M. of Mt. Vernon and a Post Engineer at the Blue Grass Army Depot.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Juanita Kirby Davis of Mt. Vernon; three sons, James Albert Davis of Lexington and Charles Tony and Leonard Wheeler Davis, both of Mt. Vernon; one brother, Billy W. Davis of Lexington; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Ann Durnell of Gaithersburg, Maryland and Mrs. Jennie Lou Gilliland of Fern Creek and 5 grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday, March 5 at 2 p.m. at the First Christian Church by Bro. Ernie Johnson and Bro. Harvey Pensol. Interment with Masonic services was in Elmwood Cemetery.

Active pallbearers were: Dr. Joe Henderson, Charles A. Mullins, Karl Davis, Billy Davis, Jack Davis, Bob Davis, Tommy Kendrick and Billy Kendrick. Honorary Pallbearers were: Loyd L. Anglin, J.R. Scrivner, Henry Amster, Roy Ekins, Ralph Sigmon, W.D. Genis, Renis Hansel and Clyde Owens. Arrangements were by the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home. *****

Oswald Sheridan

Oswald Sheridan, 83, of Melbourne,

Florida, died Friday, March 3 at the Rockcastle County Hospital. He was born in Canada on March 24, 1894, the son of the late William Sheridan and Bessie Elizabeth Condit.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Lucille Hart Sheridan of Melbourne, Florida; one son, Oswald Sheridan, Jr. and one daughter, Mrs. Viola Nagler.

The body was cremated. Arrangements were by the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home. *****

Mrs. Ella Ramsey

Mrs. Ella Ramsey, 68, of Valley Station, and formerly of Rockcastle County, died Saturday, March 4 in Louisville. She was born in Rockcastle County on December 19, 1909; the daughter of the late Curt and Matilda Gadd Baker and was a member of the Bethaven Baptist Church in Valley Station.

She is survived by her husband, Fred Matt Ramsey of Valley Station; four sons, Anderson Ramsey of Henderson, Lewis Ramsey of Greenwood, Indiana, Golin Ramsey of Louisville and Robert Ramsey of DePauw, Indiana; two daughters, Mrs. Donna Thomas of Chattanooga, Tennessee and Mrs. Eva Jo Helmer of Louisville; three brothers, U.G. Vernon, Mrs. Flora McGuire of Crab Orchard and Mrs. Ruth Roberts of Broodhead; 21 grandchildren and 6 great grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ramsey were held Tuesday, March 7 at 2 p.m. at the Dowell & Martin Funeral Home by the Rev. Raymond Roaden. Interment was in the Renfro Valley Cemetery.

IN MEMORY

of Robert Cecil Burdette, who departed this life March 12, 1977.

Daddy,
God saw you getting weary, so he did what he thought best.
He came and stood beside you, and whispered, "Come and rest."
You bade no one a last farewell, or even said goodbye.

Our hearts still ache with sadness, our eyes shed many a tear.
God alone knows we miss you, and this ends the first year.

Sadly missed by wife, Bessie, Daughters, Sue, Jean, Lois and Teresa Davis, Bob, Ray, and Bill And Grandchildren

February was Coldest on Record

The ground hog may have come outside on that traditional day in February to check on the end of winter, but the frigid temperatures sent him scurrying back to his warm den.

February was an extremely cold month with record breaking conditions that will probably result in higher electric bills later on, according to a spokesman for Kentucky Utilities Company.

The National Weather Service has reported that last month's average temperature in Kentucky was 28.8 degrees, nearly three degrees lower than the record set in 1896. Based on information for the Lexington-Blue Grass area, there were 1,219 heating degree days (DD) in February which was an increase of 45.8% over last February's 836 DD's. Compared to the 30 year average, last month's degree days showed an increase of 46.5% above normal.

Heating degree days are determined by subtracting the mean temperature in a 24 hour period from a base of 65 degrees (an average temperature of 65 degrees Fahrenheit requires little or no heating).

January or February had a total of 2,557 DD's for an increase of 11.5% over the same period in 1977 and 39.9% more than the 30 year average of 1,827 DD's for the two months.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of James Lewis Davis would like to thank all those who were of service to us during the death of our loved one. A special thanks to Bro. Harvey Pensol, Bro. Ernie Johnson, the pallbearers and the Dowell-Martin Funeral Home, those who sent flowers and brought food. Thanks so much.

Although customers practiced conservation by the wise use of electricity, heating units and other electricity powered equipment were undoubtedly used more because of the extended period of cold weather. It is important, the spokesman said, that all of KU's customers continue their assistance in load reduction to help improve the reduced coal stockpiles and to save on their electric bills.

INCOME TAX REFUNDS SLOWED BY WEATHER

Commissioner of Revenue Maurice Carpenter said today that the severe weather in January and February means Kentuckians may receive their income tax refund checks less promptly than in previous years.

Carpenter explained that many taxpayers were unable to file returns as early as in previous years. This was due to many business closings resulting in delays in providing employees with copies of withholding statements. In addition, processing days were lost when state offices were closed during bad weather.

The Commissioner said that revenue employees are working on Saturdays to get refunds out as rapidly as possible, and consideration is being given to starting a night shift operation.

"For this year," Carpenter said, "the big problem will result from the fact that many people just could not file their returns early. Filing late always means waiting longer for your refund, and this will be especially true this year because of weather-related problems. We will have a much larger volume of returns coming in during the final weeks of the filing period than usual, and our processing system will be flooded with last minute returns. This will result in slower issuance of refund checks."

Flowers For The Living
By Cepha D. Kincer

Give flowers also to the living, I would say,
And a sweet bouquet to a lady named Pansy Lovell McCay.
She has done so much for county and town,
And doesn't seem to want prestige or renown.

She goes from day to day,
Blessing all, along her way,
Trucks of clothing and food for the poor,
Are deposited at her door.

At Christmas and Easter and all through the year,
She distributes necessities with lots of good cheer,
Not only in gifts of the material things,
But spiritual blessings also she brings.

The first meeting of the H.S. Association was requested by her.
To be held at her residence at Burr.
There's lots of wonderful people, along life's ways,
Who might appreciate our gratitude and our praise.

A Lovely Lady

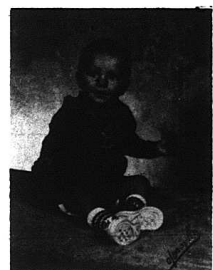

There's a lovely lady, I'd like you to know,
I made her acquaintance many years ago,
She's just 'aunt Minnie' to her loved ones and friends,
And when I just think of her, my countenance mends.

The jolliest of person, she has always seemed to be.

And I'll always keep her laughter in my memory.
Although age and much illness, has caused a decline,
She has kept busy and made jewelry from time to time.

The month of February is her birth date.
The happiest of birthdays, she should rate.
When I was born, she was sweet sixteen,
I reverence her friendship, as though she were a queen.

When there is a Preference... there is Cox

There are times in all our lives when confusion and doubt cloud our thinking. This is especially true at the time of death of a loved one.

Today, many people know exactly what they want in a Funeral Service; and if you are one of these people, you can relieve your loved ones of many details and be reassured that your every wish will be carried out by making a pre-arranged funeral service with COX FUNERAL HOME.

Eternal Truth

IN OUR CHANGING WORLD

What? No Piano?

Many who attend services of the church of Christ are surprised at the obvious absence of an instrument of music. They cannot imagine "church music" without an organ or a piano. Some may think we are "some kind of nuts".

Why is it that there is no kind of mechanical instruments in worship services of the true church of Christ? Well, the reason is very simple. But before I tell you that simple reason, please consider what some others have said about the use of instrumental music in worship:

John Calvin (1509-1564), Founder of Presbyterianism: "Musical instruments in the celebration of praises of God would be no more suitable than the burning of incense, the lighting of lamps, and the restoration of other shadows of the Law. The papists have...borrowed this, as well as other things, from the Jews. Men who are fond of outward pomp may delight in that noise; but the simplicity which God recommends to us by the apostles is far more pleasing."

Martin Luther (1483-1546), Founder of Lutheranism: "An organ in the worship of God is an ensign of Baal."

John Wesley (1703-1791), Founder of Methodism: "I have no objection to instruments of music in our chapels, providing they are neither seen nor heard."
Adam Clarke (1762-1832), Methodist Commentator: "Music as a science I esteem and admire; but instruments of music in the house of God I abhor and abhor. This is the abuse of music, and here I register my protest against all such corruption in the worship of the Author of Christianity."

Charles Spurgeon (1834-1892), Renowned Baptist preacher: He preached to thousands in the Metropolitan Baptist Tabernacle in London, England, where he would allow no instrumental music to be used. He said, "I'd as soon pray to God with machinery as to sing to God with machinery."

These five men are reputed to have been excellent Bible scholars and they renounced such practices in worship. However, the words of mere men neither authorize nor prohibit anything in the Lord's church. Consequently, their renunciations are not reasons for not using mechanical instruments of music in our worship. As I mentioned before, our reason is very simple: God said, "SING" (Matt. 26:30; Acts 16:25; Rem. 16:19; 1 Cor. 14:15; Eph. 5:19; Col. 3:16; 1 Tim. 3:16; Heb. 2:12; Heb. 13:15). In every one of these passages the word "sing," or a form of it, is used. Thus, we know God will be pleased with singing. Beyond that we cannot go (2 John 9). If any of our readers know of a scripture where instruments of music were used in the church in worship to God, please write it down and mail it to us.

SCC and Berea Sign Agreement

Last week Dr. Roscoe Kelley, Director of Somerset Community College and Dr. Willis Weatherford, President of Berea College signed a Direct Transfer Agreement. This Agreement provides for the transfer of students from Somerset Community College to Berea College. The Agreement outlines Berea's requirements for transferring students and provisions to be made by Berea College for these students who meet requirements of the Agreement. The agreement becomes effective for Associate Degree graduates of Somerset Community College of the current graduate year. In developing the Agreement, Dr. Weatherford said that Berea has been pleased with the students from Somerset Community College who have in the past transferred to Berea. He also stated that such an arrangement as the Direct Transfer Agreement would be mutually beneficial to both Somerset and Berea's progress. Persons desiring additional information about the Direct Transfer Agreement with Berea should contact Mr. Ray Miller, Coordinator of Student Services at Somerset Community College.

Rockcastle Archery Club Member Kills 200 lb. Russian Boar

Rockcastle Archery Club member Jack Bowman killed a 200 lb. Russian Boar with a 150 lb. Barnett crossbow and Wasp-3 head while hunting on a game preserve in Southeastern Ohio recently. Crossbow boar hunting in Europe was a major sport 600 years ago. In modern times, fewer than ten boar have been taken with a crossbow. Wild Boar are considered the third most dangerous game because of their size, unpredictability and razor sharp tusks. Mr. Bowman said, "The difference between boar hunting and deer hunting is that the challenge of deer hunting is to get within shooting distance and the challenge of boar hunting is to stay out of charging distance." Mr. Bowman shot his boar at 20 yards. James Bowman of Mt. Vernon, president of the Kentucky Crossbow Hunters Association also announced Tuesday that, for the first time, there will be a state-wide crossbow season for deer and rough fish. The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife approved the season Monday for October 1-15 for deer and year round for rough fish. Notice to Members There will be a meeting of the Rockcastle Archery Club Tuesday night, March 9th at the Bank of Mt. Vernon Community Room at 7 p.m.

JACKSON COUNTY REEC RECEIVES APPROVAL OF LOANS

Jackson County Rural Electric Cooperative has received approval of loans for 1978 as follows: Rural Electrification Administration - $1,595,000.00 at 5%; National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corporation - $883,000.00 at 8%; Total - $2,278,000.00. The money will be used to finance construction of new electric lines to serve 1900 new members and to make system improvements to the existing lines in order to meet the ever-increasing needs of the members.
Lee Roy Cole, President and General Manager of the Cooperative stated that construction for 1977 and plans for 1978 are record setting years for the Cooperative. The same amount as above was also budgeted in 1977. Nearly all of the money needed for plant investment is borrowed.

See Richard and Arnold Hibbitts if you need the best. We think you'll be glad you did.

Dog Gone

Arthur's prize terrier, turned loose to get some exercise, never did come home. Convinced that the dog had been stolen, Arthur determined to claim a deduction for theft on his next income tax return. But the government challenged his claim and a court agreed with the government. The court said the mere disappearance of the dog was not enough evidence that it had really been stolen. "Too many other things," said the court, "could happen."

Distributors of reliable L.P. gas, the EMPIREGAS OF CORBIN has won the admiration and respect of area residents for their honest and neighborly business practices. They deliver propane in both bulk and bottled forms and assume the immense responsibility for heating many of the homes and farms in this section. Anyone interested in fulfilling the venturing of gas should contact them on Hwy. 25 N. of London or phone 864-4046 or 528-5818 (Corbin) for full information. They have been winning London, Rockcastle and Winter Knotts areas for many areas.

This is the general rule with regard to income tax deductions for theft. Although the taxpayer need not have proof positive that the item was stolen, there must at least show circumstances pointing strongly in that direction.

County Agent's Notes

Pest News Alert

Be Aware That: Several farmers have reported problems with birds feeding on cattle grub.

Expect Problems With: Rabbits gnawing trees and shrubs due to the lack of food caused by the extended snow cover; lice on cattle, hogs, and various domestic birds; various household and stored product pests.

Watch For: Increasing activity of attic flies which should be one of the first signs of spring.

Now is the Time: To apply dormant sprays to trees and shrubs for the control of scale insects, aphids and some mites.

The depredations on cattle due directly to cattle grubs are sufficient in themselves to cause significant economic loss. The gadding by the adult fly runs weight off the animal and sometimes causes the animal to injure itself in its panicky flight. Further loss in weight gains or milk production occurs as cattle grub larvae migrate through the body. Warbles in the back damage the meat and hide in that area so cattle are downgraded at the market. Besides these reasons for grub control another one is manifesting itself more this year because of a combination of circumstances. Based on a report from Bob Jones in Pendleton County, cowbirds and other blackbirds are pecking the grubs out of the cattle's back more than usual, because the birds are having difficulty finding other food on snow covered ground. If the bird is unsuccessful in getting out the grub it may still kill the grub and cause the flesh to be more "jellied" in that area. Sometimes the birds will continue to peck at the hole from which they took a grub and feed on the cattle's flesh. One case has been reported this year in which the bird damage was sufficient to kill the animal. Infections can also occur in the wounds made by birds.

We have no tried and true solutions for repelling birds from grubby cattle. Prevention of the grubs should have been used in the first place. Squeezing grubs from the warbles before birds attack may reduce the attraction of birds to the affected site. Putting cattle up during the day and letting them graze at night when birds are roosting may also be of help. Disinfectant applied to wounds, besides preventing infections, may make the area distasteful to birds, but we are only guessing on the taste part.

Four- or spot-on-treatment of cattle applied in the fall will effectively control grubs. It is a simple job for the saving in money and future headaches.

Provide Early Grazing

With Nitrogen On Grass: Spring grazing may not come early enough this year for cattlemen hit hard by a rough winter and dwindling feed supplies. But applying nitrogen to grass pastures can help this situation by speeding up the grazing season.

Topdressing grass fields with nitrogen fertilizer can hasten grazing time by 10 to 14 days. Tall fescue, bluegrass, timothy, orchardgrass and bromegrass respond well to nitrogen, but fescue is likely to produce earliest spring grazing with the nitrogen application.

Nitrogen should be applied at just about the time grass breaks winter dormancy. Forty to eighty pounds of actual nitrogen per acre produce top yields, with most response obtained with the first 40 pound application.

Let the grass get 4.6 inches topgrowth before turning cattle onto pasture, and don't let cattle eat it into the ground. Use temporary fencing in fields or rotate pastures so that enough topgrowth—especially in early spring—can be maintained to justify grazing. If possible, move cattle off fields when topgrowth is grazed down to a 2-inch height.

One acre for every 2.3 cattle should provide enough grazing after grass has grown to 4.6 inches in height.

Soil tests are recommended to determine other fertilizing or liming needs. I suggest pulling samples as soon as the ground thaws, so that needed lime, phosphate or potash can be spread at the same time as the nitrogen.

If this early, succulent grass is their only feed supply, animals under strong nutritional stress would be likely risks for grass tetany. Beef cows which have just calved or are about to calve are especially vulnerable. Their feed should be supplemented to ensure that daily energy, vitamin and mineral requirements are met.

Figures from UK College of Agriculture research show that 30-50 pounds of actual nitrogen per acre will about double dry matter production over unfertilized areas, on the average for eastern, central and western Kentucky.

Mr. James Wagner, second from left, recently celebrated 25 years with General Motors in Norwood. Mr. Wagner, who works in the Material Control Department, is being congratulated by Walter Reagan, Plant Manager, left; Steve Bobet, Supervisor Material Control Department, second from right; and John Smale, Material Control Director, right. Kentucky Afield

It's been two bad months for Kentucky fishermen. Most of our lakes and ponds are iced over and many access roads and ramps are still impassable, even if there is open water beyond them.

The results have been some of the worst cases of cabin fever ever recorded. Most of us are really desperate to get out and catch some fish—any kind of fish.

However, it looks like most of the really good spring fishing is still about a month away. Even with a warming trend it will take several weeks for water temperatures to rise enough for white bass and crappie to get active.

But there are several species of fish which can be caught now by the average angler, and you might want to give one or more of these fish a try while you're waiting for the waters to warm up.

Even during the worst of this winter's weather, fishermen below Barkley Dam were catching limits of largemouth bass. The department of fish and wildlife's annual trout stocking program is ready to go, with most trout streams scheduled to get fish during the latter part of March (weather permitting).

The fish and wildlife department stocks 31 streams, nine tailwaters and 10 lakes with rainbow trout. In addition, fishing with jugs below just about any dam (including navigation dams on such rivers as the Kentucky or the Ohio) would probably hook into a few sauger—or perhaps in many cases more than just a few.

Another possibility for cold water fishing is the walleye. Several lakes have good walleye populations and these fish are generally easiest to catch when they make their spawning runs into headwater streams. As soon as fishermen can get into these headwater areas we should start hearing about some good walleye catches.

The headwaters of Lake Cumberland are best known for walleye runs, but Barren, Rough and Noln lakes also have good walleye populations, and these fish should be concentrating in the headwaters now.

A third good bet is trout fishing. The department of fish and wildlife's annual trout stocking program is ready to go, with most trout streams scheduled to get fish during the latter part of March (weather permitting).

The fish and wildlife department stocks 31 streams, nine tailwaters and 10 lakes with rainbow trout. In addition, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service stocks 11 streams in the Daniel Boone National Forest with the initial stockings scheduled for the first week of March. Eight other streams within the national forest are stocked once annually with small trout, which grow up as wild and wary as native fish.

But before you head out for a near by trout stream, make sure you have a valid trout stamp (as well as a 1978 fishing license). The $2.25 cost of the trout stamp is used to pay for the trout stocking program.

For a current list of trout streams in Kentucky and a schedule of the month they are stocked, write to the Division of Public Relations, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

The Farm Conservation Plan

By Greg Stephens
Rockcastle Co. Soil Conservation Serv.

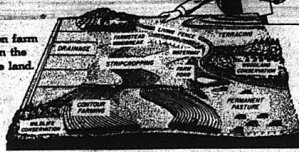

What's a farm conservation plan? That's the question asked most when I mention the idea to farmers. So I'd like to explain what a farm conservation plan is.

Basically, a farm conservation plan is a field by field examination of a farm. Then land management practices are suggested to get the most "production" from the land without regrading it. This means a high level of production than can be maintained indefinitely. Now "production" means different things to different people. To one person "production" could be centered around row crops, to another forage production or wildlife, timber, beauty, etc. So each farm conservation plan is developed with the individual's ownership objectives in mind. Farm conservation plans are prepared throughout the Rockcastle Conservation District by a professional who is educated, trained and experienced in the field of land management. In many cases the present land use is the best use of the land. Often, the farm planner can offer suggestion to the farmer or landowner that can increase production and better protect the land. This is the idea behind a Conservation Farm Plan. So how is it presented to the farmer or landowner so he can use it?

The parts of the plan which offer the most to the farmer or landowner are the maps. With each plan that is prepared there is a soil map of the farm showing the location and types of soils present. To go along with this there is a soil legend describing the general nature and productive potential of each soil. There is also an aerial photo showing farm boundaries, fences and fields number and showing approximate acreage and land use. These maps are extremely useful to any farmer or landowner to determine amounts of seed, fertilizer, lime, etc. Along with the maps is a conservation writeup. This is a written statement which suggests ways to protect the land and increase its production. When you put all these parts together, you have a Farm Conservation Plan.

The Rockcastle Conservation District has the goal of a conservation plan for every farm in Rockcastle County and this service is offered free of charge to anyone interested. Contact any Conservation District Supervisor or call Greg Stephens at 256-2541, or stop by the District office in the courthouse to request a Farm Conservation Plan on your farm or forest land.

SHORT ROWS

By Nevyle Shackelford

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Each spring, inspired by the beautiful artwork and glowing texts of seed catalogs, gardeners go out to plant with renewed hopes of bountiful harvests dancing in their heads. Unfortunately for many of these gardeners, especially those with minimum experience, the summer often turns out not to be one of abundance but of blights, molds, mildews, viruses, rots and profound disillusionment.

But this need not be entirely so. Granted that these do pose considerable threats, steps taken in early spring can control the ravages of some plant diseases and prevent others, says John Hartman, UK Extension plant pathologist. He makes the following recommendations:

To control plant diseases in the home garden, remove trash from last season's crop. The old plant refuse materials contain fungus spores, bacteria and viruses that can be the "seeds" for destruction of this year's garden.

Plan to rotate the crops in the garden. Planting a single kind of vegetable in the same place year after year will allow fungi, bacteria and nematodes, which live in the soil, to build up to harmful levels. Most pathogens (disease-causing agents) attack only certain types of plants, so pathogens of beans, for example, will die out in the soil during the next season if tomatoes, cabbage, or cucumbers are planted in the area.

Plan to use resistant vegetable varieties whenever possible. Seed catalogs usually indicate whether or not different varieties of plants are resistant to disease problems. Tomato varieties marked "VFN" are resistant to Vesicular Nematode, Fusarium wilt, and nematodes. Cabbage varieties marked "YR" are yellows resistant. Certain varieties of cucumbers and beans are resistant to mosaic virus. So in purchasing seed, be sure to check for their disease resistance or tolerance. Information on varieties recommended for Kentucky is available at local county Extension offices.

Avoid introducing plant pathogens into the garden. Use certified, disease-free seeds. Seed collected, and saved from season to season by the gardener is more likely to carry disease than commercially produced seed. Buy only healthy transplants, then check them frequently in the garden and remove them if they appear sickly. Sick seedlings rarely grow up to be healthy plants.

Also in this year's garden, plan and be prepared to use fungicides if necessary. In some years, tomatoes can be vulnerable to attack by blight fungi. Read up on plant diseases beforehand so that if they should strike, you will have an idea of what fungicide or what remedy to use and when to apply it.

To have a clean garden to use as a healthy garden and as in human health, sanitation is a prime requisite. When a plot is allowed to grow with weeds, disease problems multiply, Hartman concludes.

Energy Supplies

Many rural Kentuckians using propane gas or fuel oil to heat their homes have experienced shortages or non-delivery of fuel this winter. Because of the snow and hazardous road conditions, delivery of fuel oil and propane gas has been virtually impossible.

The Kentucky Department of Energy has been able to provide some relief when shortages of fuel supplies occur or a complete deficiency exists. The state has "hardship" or emergency fuels set aside that are available in emergency situations. Although the Energy Department does not have its own trucks and equipment necessary for delivery of the fuel, it will contact suppliers and coordinate road clearings with county governments, local rescue squads, fire and police departments.

Kentucky residents experiencing shortages or complete deficiencies of fuel oil or propane gas should contact the Department of Energy for more information. Their toll free number is 1-800-372-2978.

Another problem that has occurred with regard to fuel supplies is a failure to deliver the fuel because of the expense incurred in servicing remote areas. Many times there is only one fuel supplier in an area, making consumers in that area solely dependent on that supplier. In several instances these supplies have refused to service areas which they claim would be too expensive for them to service. The question has been raised whether suppliers can legally refuse to service consumers under these conditions?

Once a relationship between a supplier and purchaser is established, according to Greg Guess with the Department of Energy, service cannot be discontinued without mutual agreement. As long as the credit relationship remains in good standing, service cannot be stopped.

The Kentucky Department of Energy does not have jurisdiction over questions involving credit, prices, or normal business practices with regard to energy supplies. Consumers with problems in these areas should contact the US Department of Energy, Federal Office Building, 600 Federal Plaza, Room 563, Louisville, Kentucky 40202.

If you have a question involving fuel oil or propane gas supplies, contact the Kentucky Department of Energy on their toll-free hotline or contact the Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 209 St. Clair, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively handle written consumer complaints and encourages you to write if you have a complaint. For further information or if an emergency situation call the toll-free consumer hotline number at 1-800-372-2960.

Sue Bennett Festival Is Scheduled For March 28 - April 1

The fifth annual Sue Bennett College Folk Festival will be held on the College campus in London from March 28 to April 1. The opening event of the Festival will be a quilt and covering show on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Featured guests and performers this year will include Neil Tenney of Berea who will hold workshops in batik and puppetry, Sarah Bailey of Bledsoe and Joan Curry of Lexington who will conduct two cornshuck workshops, and on Friday the internationally known McClain Family from Berea will conduct workshops and present an evening concert of bluegrass music. The McClains have represented the United States in 45 foreign countries in Africa, Asia, Eastern and Western Europe, and Central and South America.

The arts and crafts displays, always a popular part of the Festival, featuring both professionals and amateurs, will bring to the London campus approximately 50 demonstrations and exhibits of hand-made wares, Christmas ornaments, paintings of birds on rock slabs, dulcimers, sketches, quilts, wood carvings, dolls, jewelry, candles, etc.

The annual Old Timey Hymn Sing is scheduled for Wednesday evening and will involve musicians of the local area.

A more detailed schedule of events will be published prior to the Festival.

Bill To Aid Elderly Receives Approval

By Julian Beckett & Bill Weather
Gov. Jenna Carroll's measure to provide financial assistance to the elderly to help defray energy costs received Senate approval today.

Payments would be made directly to the person, to a supplier of energy or to both jointly under Senate Bill (SB) 278. Carroll has budgeted $5 million for each year of the biennium to finance the program.

Blind, totally disabled and persons over 65 years old whose incomes are not more than 125 percent of the poverty level would be eligible.

Administration of the program would be assigned to the Department for Human Resources with the responsibility of providing an annual accounting of funds to an interim joint committee of the General Assembly.

An attempt by Sen. Larry Hopkins (R-Lexington) to amend the bill to include the elimination of sales tax from all utilities was declared out of order. Senators who had supported elimination of utilities sales tax voted with the majority in upholding the ruling of the chair that this issue was not germane to the bill under consideration.

The Senate also passed by a vote of 23-10 a bill which would require all newly constructed homes in the state to be equipped with smoke detectors.

SB 145, sponsored by Sen. David Karem (D-Louisville), is a watered-down version of the original which would have required additional smoke detectors sold have the devices installed.

Some members objected to the measure of the grounds that while smoke detectors are proven lifesavers, to require their use by law might be an infringement on the citizen's right to make unwise choices.

Sen. John Berry (D-New Castle) said, "his is not an appropriate function of the General Assembly of Kentucky; this is telling people what to do in their private lives."

Sen. Walter Baker (R-Glasgow) said he supported the bill because of the lives it would surely save.

Mentally retarded citizens would be granted due process of law under a bill sponsored by Sen. Jon Ackerson (R-Louisville) and passed today. SB 265 applies primarily to patients in institutions and private nursing homes.

The method by which cost severance allocations would be distributed during the next biennium, is established in Senate Bill (SB) 348 which passed the Senate recently. The measure changes the make-up of the local project board and spells out the types of projects for which funds may be used.

Economic Aid Funds are allocated to counties on the basis of total production and are to be used for economic development projects within each county.

In other action, the Senate passed: SB 79, an act relating to TVA security officers.

SB 215, changing benefits on state police, state employee and county employees retirement systems with an amendment that deletes restricted disability benefits provided in the original measure.

SB 292, sponsored by Majority Floor Leader Tom Garrett (D-Paduch).

which would appropriate $100,000 for the state board of education to try to deal with problems of vandalism, delinquency, and absenteeism.

Senate Joint Resolution 21, sponsored by Sen. Nelson Allen (D-Russell), which would direct the Legislative Research Commission to study the needs of dyslexic children. Dyslexia is a learning difficulty characterized by reading and writing some words in reverse, or backwards, for example "aw" for "wa" or "b" for "d".

Airman Denise G. Sargent, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. Sargent of Rt. 3, Brodhead, has been assigned to Cory Field, Florida, after completing Air Force basic training. During the six weeks at Lackland AFB, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned the individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force. Airman Sargent will now receive specialized training in the communications systems operations field. The airman, a 1976 graduate of Rockcastle County High School, attended Eastern Kentucky University.
