Check to see if you have done your part. We will publish a list of donations and expenses at the end of the summer. You may send your donations to John Hopkins, Lloyd Cash or Ben C. Clean Petcock, Safety Valve, Gauge

Be sure to clean the petcock so that during canning all the air can be driven out of the canner in 10 minutes. Clean the safety valve so it can do its job if pressure becomes too high.

Before each canning session, clean the petcock and safety valve openings by drawing a string or narrow strip of cloth through them.

Never use sharp tools that might nick and damage openings.

Test Dial-Type Gauge

To destroy harmful bacteria takes the right pressure and the right length of time for each food, so your pressure gauge must be accurate.

Bring your canner cover with a dial-type gauge in to the County Extension Office at the Courthouse.

aluminum canners by scrubbing with a cleaning powder and vinegar. Clean "every nook and cranny" of your canner, including the cover. Be careful not to immerse the dial gauge. Dried on food, or scale from hard water can prevent a tight seal and allow steam to leak out.

Thorough cleaning can also banish an unpleasant odor which may have developed during storage.

Test Canner for Pressure

To check the canner, use only water in it and try turning the pressure up to 10 pounds. If much steam leaks around the lid, pressure will not rise.

An old hardened gasket may be the cause. If so, soften it or replace it. To soften, remove it from the lid, place it in boiling water and boil it for 20 minutes. Then remove it from the water and stretch it gently.

Return gasket to lid. If it seems too large, just keep working it until it fits snugly. You can usually find one at an appliance or hardware store. Or you might need to order one from the manufacturer.

The last wild horse breed discovered in the 1800s by Russian explorer Nikolai Przewalski, was named for him.

Conservation District Holds Breakfast

The Rockcastle Conservation District sponsored a breakfast Monday in observation of Soil Stewardship Week being observed April 30-May 7.

About 25 local people were guests of the district at the breakfast. Soil Stewardship Week is set aside each year to emphasize man's responsibility to be a good steward of the land and our natural resources.

Greg Stephens, Director of the local Soil Conservation Service, said Monday, "This week is a time for all of us to think about how dependent we are on the most basic of all natural resources, our soil. The quality of life is directly related to how a nation cares for its soil and if there are to be generations to come, soil conservation must be practiced today." John Houston, chairman of the conservation district, welcomed the guests and Bro. Cecil Daway gave the invocation. Following the meal, Roy Brown, supervisor of the conservation district, discussed the purpose of soil stewardship and introduced the film to be shown "The Earth is the Lord's."

Several local community leaders were present Monday for a breakfast at the Rockcastle Steak House given by the Conservation District to kick off Soil Stewardship Week. A film entitled "The Earth is the Lord's" was also shown.

Board Discusses Bonding Potential; Girls' Basketball and School Calendar

The Rockcastle County Board of Education met Monday night for its regular monthly meeting with perhaps the most important item on the agenda, a report by Fred Dupree of Dupree and Company in Lexington explaining the school's bonding capacity for construction.

Mr. Dupree presented to the board members a written Debt Capacity Study for Building Purposes. This report very clearly showed the board's bonding potential and explored other possibilities for funding should the need for a new middle school become pressing.

According to the report, Rockcastle County presently receives about $256,500 a year for construction and/or debt service. Of this amount, $218,000 is being used to pay off the new high school and, since the State Department of Education requires that not over 80 to 85 percent of these funds be committed to debt service, there is about $63,000 a year which could be committed to debt service for new construction.

In his report, Mr. Dupree pointed out that because the existing debt of the new high school runs out in 17 years, it would be possible to combine new debt with the old and stretch out the debt to the year 2000 which would enable the school board to sell about $1,000,000 of new bonds. The report also pointed out that a $1,000,000 bond issue will not build a $1,000,000 school but only about an $850,000 school due to interest to be paid during construction which must be capitalized in the bond issue and also because of fiscal, legal and architectural costs involved. Of course, these figures assume no source of funds other than the Capital Outlay Fund and this would probably provide but over half enough to build what is needed.

Mr. Dupree went on to explain in the report about another probable source of funding known as the Kentucky School Building Authority, an authority created by the 1978 Legislature for the purpose of providing construction grants to needy school districts. Not a great deal is known about the guidelines under which the new authority will operate since it has not as yet been staffed. But, generally, the authority will have funds budgeted so that it could issue 80 to 100 million of its own bonds and then distribute the money in the form of grants, on some kind of need formula to school districts. Mr. Dupree's report said it seems reasonable to expect grants to start in about a year, maybe less.

Of course, local school districts would still be expected to issue bonds to their capacity with grant money from the authority making up the difference, if applications were approved. The board decided to get the building program started to the extent that when the grant monies become available, Rockcastle County would be ready to begin if our application was approved. Mr. Dupree also pointed out that under almost any criteria, Rockcastle County would have a rank fairly high and can be fairly sure of a grant. Present tentative plans call for the middle school to house the 6th, 7th and 8th grades from Mt. Vernon Elementary to begin with and to build in such a manner that later, if necessary, the 9th and 8th grades from the other county schools could be consolidated into it with some additional construction.

"Girls' Basketball Program Policy" A committee of coaches, principal and some board members met recently to set up guidelines for the girls' basketball program at RCHS. The following items were established as the board's policy:

- (1) Form a "B" team which would practice during the same time slot as the "A" team girls, using the same transportation and with the addition of an assistant coach.
- (2) The "B" team to play as many games as possible within the school's present schedule. Since Anville has dropped girls hall, Knox Central will be scheduled to play an A & B game at Rockcastle this year with a return game there next season and to pick up one other school with a "B" team.
- (3) Concerning cheerleaders, the committee decided to have a nine-member cheerleading squad separate from the boys' team cheerleaders.
- (4) The bank will be taken to all district and regional games and to have the band play at the two afternoon games.
- (5) Concerning pep rallies, it was decided to hold pep rallies for the girls before all district and regional games and to combine the boys and girls rallies where feasible during the regular season. One requirement the committee set up was that if a student is going to the pep rally, he must buy a ticket to the game first.
- (6) Pep buses will be available when sufficient students desire to attend games (at least 35 signed-up by 10 a.m. of the previous day).
- (7) Girls home games will be promoted through announcements to students the day before the game.
- (8) Scheduling for boys and girls will be left as is but consideration will be given to some Tuesday and Friday night games in early November for the girls' squad.

Also during the meeting, a suggested school calendar for 1978-79 was discussed. Supt. Parsons told board members that the State Department of Education had said that any school that did not begin by August 10 may as well not ask for calamity days so with this in mind, the board approved the suggested calendar which is as follows:

- (1) Begin school by August 10, 1978 with an in-service day. August 11 will be a professional day and August 14th will be the enrollment day for students. Christmas vacation will be shortened to one week.
- (2) School will end May 8, 1979 unless

PRECINCT LOCATION CHANGES

days are missed because of inclement weather or other problems. If by March 1, 1979, districts have not missed any or only a few days because of inclement weather or other reasons, calendars could be amended to include days off for the state tournament and spring vacation.

In other action, the board awarded the bid for carpeting the administration building to Hysinger Carpet who submitted the low bid of $3,048.00. The award was made subject to the architect's approval of the type carpeting to be used.

Awarded Carr Roofing Co. the bid for roofing Brodhead Elementary for their low bid of $20,200 with the board to replace the sheeting on the gymnasium roof themselves.

Approved the application for three programs for 1978-79: ESSEA Title I, Adult Education and Summer Youth Work.

Accepted the resignation of Thomas Collins as panel bus driver at Pine Hill and employed David Mason as replacement.

Accepted the resignation of Glenn Polly as teacher and football coach at RCHS. Mr. Polly has accepted a position with Laurel County schools.

Approved a year's leave-of-absence for Mrs. Bobbie Ann Durham, a reading teacher at Elmwood.

Approved the return of Paul Holbrook to the high school as math teacher for the 1978-79 school year.

Legislative News

By Rep. Harold DeMarcus
 Leadership is an important criterion for the successful fulfillment of an endeavor. Hence, leadership is an important factor in the orderly operation of a legislative assembly. Each house elects officers to preside over its sessions, as required by the Constitution.

Today, I would like to describe the offices of legislative leadership and explain some of their duties. It should be noted that all leadership offices are open to all members of the General Assembly, the public and media representatives.

The presiding officer calls the House or Senate to order and presides over each day's session. He or she preserves order and decorum in the Chamber and may order the floor cleared at any time. He recognizes members to speak, and may speak to points of order and matters of procedure, subject to appeal to the membership. He signs all writs or other processes and signs all measures passed by the General Assembly.

Our Constitution specifies that the Lieutenant Governor shall be President of the Senate. HE is presiding officer of the Senate. HE is not a member and so may not debate, except in Committee of the Whole, and he may vote only to break a tie. His affirmative vote in such instance results in passage of the measure in question. His negative vote simply puts him on record as opposed, since the result is the same as if he had remained silent, namely defeat of the measure.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the family of Lula England, wish to thank each and everyone for their kindness and prayers during her illness and time of death. Also for the ones who sent flowers and food. Dr. Griffith and the nurses at the Rockcastle Co. Hospital.

Daughter and Grandchildren,
 Brothers and Sisters

The Senate elects one of its members to preside. The Speaker has the right to vote, and may leave the chair to participate in debate. The Speaker is chairman of the Rules Committee, and the Committee on Committees.

The House elects one of its members to preside in the absence of the Speaker or when authorized by the Speaker to perform the duties of the Chair. Each political party chooses its floor leader for each house. The job of the floor leader is to represent his party's views on measures deemed important or significant by his party.

The Cathedral Quartet

The Cathedral Quartet In Concert

The Cathedral Quartet of Akron, Ohio, will present a gospel concert Thursday night, June 1, 1978. The concert will begin at 8:00 p.m., in Phelps-Stokes Chapel, on the Berea College Campus.

The Cathedral Quartet is a group of talented men dedicated to spreading the gospel thru their ministry of music. They sing of hope, love and happiness found only in the Christian life, and one of the friendliest groups you will ever meet.

Musically, the Cathedral Quartet has always combined individual talent with unique "togetherness". Their's is the ultimate in smooth, rich harmony. They sing a wide variety of music, much of which is written by members of the quartet. And they are grateful to have been the finalists in the Gospel Music Association Dove Awards, and the singing news awards for the "Best Male Gospel Group" in the 1977.

For a worship and praise experience, go to see and hear the Cathedral Quartet in person. They will put a smile on your face and a song about Jesus in your heart. For their purpose in performing is to help others know the real joy of living in Christ.

Tickets for the concert are $3.50 in advance and $4.00 at the door. Children 12 and under admitted free. Tickets can be purchased at the Search The Scriptures Bookstore in Berea, Ky. or by writing P.O. Box 423, Berea, Ky. 40403. The concert is another production of Search The Scriptures Ministries.

RECOUPERATING

Mt. Vernon Cab Co. owner and operator, Logan "Buster" Wilmore, returned home Tuesday from the Berea Hospital where he recently underwent major surgery. Mr. Wilmore said Wednesday that he should be able to return to work in about 10 days.

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Check the USDA grade stamp on the meat you're buying, say food specialists with the Cooperative Extension Service of UK's College of Agriculture. It isn't required by law, but it's the only way you can tell for sure what you're buying. USDA grades for both quality and yield. Yield is the amount of beef in proportion to fat and bone. There are five grades of yield. A Grade-1 yield has the most beef compared to fat and bone, while a Grade-5 yield has the least.

LEGISLATIVE NEWS

Each party also selects a caucus chairman for each house. He sees that members of his party are on the floor when an important bill is under consideration or an important vote is possible.

In both Houses, each party selects a member to serve as whip, whose duties are to assist the floor leaders and caucus chairmen in getting members on the floor for key votes.

In addition to providing leadership, the officers are a guiding force on Rules Committee and the Committee on Committees, as well as standing and interim committees. And, excluding the Lieutenant Governor, comprise the Legislative Research Commission.

Most members of the legislative leadership have served several sessions. They know a great deal about procedure and precedent and can be of great help to members, especially first-term legislators. Their experience and efficiency of these leaders make it possible for the General Assembly to do a large amount of work in a limited amount of time.

County Agent's Notes

Eastern Tent Caterpillars Infest Trees

This is the time of year when ugly, web-like nests show up in many trees in Kentucky. These nests contain large numbers of eastern tent caterpillars. The population of these insects seems to have increased this year, according to Wesley W. Gregory, Extension entomologist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The young caterpillars become active in March, when they gather in the forks and crotches of trees to spin their webby nests. They leave the nest during the day to feed on the leaves of the trees.

Gregory says black cherry and apple trees are the favorite food trees of the hairy brown worms. However, if those trees are scarce, the insects will make nests on hawthorn, pear, plum, birch, elm, maple, oak, willow, and other fruit and ornamental trees.

The defoliation caused by these worms is usually not harmful enough to kill the host trees, says Gregory. Also, the trees are not subjected to continuing attack, since there is only one generation of the insects per year. The worms will be gone by mid-May and will not return again for another year.

Gregory does not recommend using control measures for the insects unless they infest ornamental plantings. In this case, homeowners may want to rid the trees of the ugly nests for aesthetic reasons.

Spraying with malathion, Sevin, or methoxychlor will control the caterpillars. Also, nests can be manually removed and burned. Burning out nests in the trees, however, is almost always harmful to the trees.

Gregory says infested trees in farm woodlands should not be treated. Treatment can be expensive, and as mentioned earlier, is not necessary, since trees recover from the attacks of the caterpillars.

Gregory emphasizes that homeowners interested in using chemical control methods should read and understand the insecticide labels. Information on safe handling, mixing, applying, storing and disposing of insecticides is available from the county Extension office.

Spring Spray Rig Maintenance

A thorough check of spray rigs before they are needed could make springtime chemical applications quicker and more economical. Advance maintenance work beats last minute repairs or equipment failures during spring applications.

Farmers would be wise to inspect their spray equipment piece-by-piece, making sure that every part works. Fiberglass tanks should be inspected for cracks. Steel ones should be free of flaking rust. Any tank containing drugs from last year's applications should be completely cleaned to prevent harming plants with unwanted chemicals.

Pumps should be checked to be certain that rollers, bearings and other moving parts are free of rust and move easily. The pump should also be tested to be sure it maintains proper pressure.

Most pumps on these rigs are made so you can take them apart and check them. While they're apart, oil them, clean them and remove rust. Check pump housing for cracks. It may have been damaged in hard freezes.

Repair or replace hoses that have cracks, splits or dry rot. Clean out strainers and screens so they will allow a free flow of materials.

Most importantly, you should check nozzles, replacing those that show signs of wear. Nozzles made of brass or other soft materials wear out easily, and the farmer can lose or misapply a lot of chemicals through these leaks, costing extra dollars for each application.

When all parts have been cleaned and inspected, fill the tank with water and operate the pump. Check pressure gauges. All nozzles should be putting out the proper spray pattern.

When you're done, drain the tank completely and run anti-freeze through the pump to protect against late freezes.

Now's the time to find out what is wrong with your sprayer rather than on the day you want to start using it.

Safe Storage of Herbicides

In the coming weeks farmers will be purchasing and storing herbicides for use during the approaching growing season. The proper and safe storage of herbicides will result in longer shelf life of the chemical, minimize the possibility of poisoning to humans and livestock and prevent environmental contamination.

Herbicides should be stored in a dry, well ventilated area where the temperature can be controlled. Preferably, the herbicides should be stored in separate buildings; however, isolated storage rooms are usually adequate. For safety to all concerned, the building or storage room should be locked at all times, except when in use.

Herbicide formulations such as dusts, wettable powders and granules are usually packaged in paper of some type. When wet, these packaging materials may deteriorate. In addition, when these formulations get wet, they may become solidified and not usable.

Herbicides should be stored in an area that will not freeze. At low temperatures, the chemical in emulsifiable concentrates and liquids can crystallize out of solution, and may not go into solution later when the temperature increases. As a precaution, it is best to store herbicides in an area where the temperature never gets below 45 degrees. Herbicide deterioration can also occur at high temperatures. The chemicals can expand at these higher temperatures and could rupture their container, thus resulting in loss of the product.

Always store herbicides in their original container with the label intact. Accidental poisonings and misuse of herbicides occur when the material has been placed into another container such as soft drink bottles, quart jars, etc. Do not store herbicides near food, feed, seed or fertilizer.

Community Service Scholarships Awarded

Fraser Ralph Betin, President of the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) announced today that 17-year-old Rockcastle County High School senior Patricia Ann Mink is the winner of a $1,000 college scholarship in CAP's Third Annual Community Service Scholarship Competition.

Patricia carries a 3.85 grade point average at Rockcastle County High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delno Mink of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon. Scholarships totaling $8,000 were made to seven students graduating in Garrard, Jackson, Jessamine, Lincoln, Madison and Rockcastle Counties.

Applications, available in February in that six county area, are reviewed by community leaders.

Although scholastic record, high school activities and need are considered during the review, CAP groundrules states that community involvement will be the deciding factor in the selection of a winner.

Miss Mink plans to attend Cumberland College.

Christianity Without Denominationalism

That word denomination did Peter James, John, the 3000, Cornelius, the eunuch, Lydia, the Corinthians and the jailor belong? They were members of the body of Christ, which is the Lord's church (Eph. 1:22-23; Col. 1:18, 24), yet they were not members of any denomination. All who were saved became members of this body, the church, by virtue of the fact that God added them to it (Acts 2:47). Yet, they belonged to no denomination. They had been "called out" of the "power of darkness" of the world, and translated into the "kingdom of God's dear Son" which is the church (Col. 1:13-14, 18), but still they were not members of any denominational church.

Just so today, if a sinner believes in Christ, and is baptized, just as the church (Col. 1:13-14, 18), but still they were not members of any denominational church.

Just so today, if a sinner believes in Christ, and is baptized, just as the church (Col. 1:13-14, 18), but still they were not members of any denominational church. Should this number come together on the first day of the week for worship (Acts 20:7), call themselves by the same name as did the Apostle, and early Christians, accept and teach the Bible as their only rule of faith and practice, select such servants as the Bible authorizes, and observe the same commands in the same way as the Apostles and early Christians did, and as set forth in the Bible they would be simply New Testament Christians, members of the body of Christ, or New Testament church, assembling for worship without being members of any denomination on earth.

This is exactly what the church of Christ is, and contends for. If you want to be simply a New Testament Christian, member of the body of Christ, or a member of the Church of Christ. If you want to follow the Bible strictly without addition or subtraction then come to the Church of Christ.

The Mt. Vernon Adult Activities Class attended the Regional Special Olympic Competition in Barbourville, at Union College on Saturday April 29th. The 10 participants won seven 1st place ribbons, nine 2nd place, three 3rd place ribbons and one 4th place ribbon. The competition included soft ball throwing, standing long jump, 50 yard dash and 220 yard dash. Some of the class will be selected to attend the State Special Olympic Competition to be held at Morehead University in June of this year.

A New Kind of Joy

About 125 developmental, 14 disabled children and adults gathered at Union College last Saturday to run, ump, and throw in competitive age groups and were awarded ribbons for their efforts. But they got a lot more—recognition, affection and a sense of accomplishment.

The events are the Special Olympics and are sponsored by the state Department for Human Resources and the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation. They are coordinated in this area (Region 6) by staff from the Cumberland River comprehensive Care Center. Mike Sewell and Van Hudson served as Co-ordinators and organized the events this year with the aide of Mayme Wallace and Pat Howard. Barbourville City Mayor, Charles Buchanan welcomed the Special Olympians to Barbourville for the festivities. Union College hosted the Special Olympics for the fourth straight year and the atmosphere was different from the average sports competition. Concern, affection and a large sense of pride was present everywhere—among competitors, coaches, teachers, chaplains, and anybody else who happened to be around.

Most of the people working at the events were volunteers from Union College, Kiwanis, Boy Scouts, various schools who sent life competitors, and other people who are just interested in helping the handicapped.

Several of the volunteers served as "huggers". Huggers are the people who congratulate every competitor at the finish lines or award tables. Some of the contestants were so excited when they crossed the finish lines or received their ribbons they cried.

The one-day track meet has no losers. The competitors came from many miles to enter the events and to share the friendship, and enjoyment for recognition of their efforts. Competitors came from an eight county area (Bell, Clay, Harlan, Jackson, Laurel, Rockcastle and Whitley) for the activities which are held in early spring each year and are followed by a state meet. Region VI will send about 40 competitors to the annual State Special Olympics to be held June 2, 3 and 4 at Morehead State University this year.

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS

I sighed because the day was dark. Then I met a child who had no eyes, I complained because the walk was long. Until I met a man who had no legs, I prayed for wealth beyond my need. And then I met a poor soul with no bread at all, Oh, God, forgive me, for the world is mine.

"There is always room at the top."

When's the best time to go fishing? "Right now," says Charlie Bowers, director of the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife department's fisheries division. According to Bowers, now through the middle of May is the best time of the year to catch fish in Kentucky. "Most game species spawn during this period, and spawning activity causes fish to concentrate in shallow water areas where they are easy to locate and catch."

The only dark spot on this otherwise bright angling horizon is the weather. Spring in Kentucky is almost always marked by unsettled weather conditions—thunderstorms, cold snaps, strong winds, and other disturbances that make fishing less than ideal.

But, Bowers says, the fish are often more adaptable than the fishermen and will spawn under less than ideal conditions. Those anglers who wait for that perfect day might miss the peak spawning periods. So get out on the water whenever you can, even if it is a little colder, cloudier or windier than you'd like.

KY'S TRAFFIC FATALITIES RATE INCREASES IN 1977

Traffic fatalities in Kentucky last year claimed 958 lives, an increase of 9.6 percent over 1976, and injured another 43,857 persons, according to information just released by the Kentucky Department of Transportation.

A total of 147,847 accidents were reported by Kentucky law enforcement agencies, state and local, during 1977, an increase of 7,262 over the previous year. The report is only the second of its kind to be compiled in Kentucky reflecting all accidents, fatal and non-fatal, reported in the state. Prior to 1975, local law enforcement agencies were not required to report non-fatal accidents to Frankfort.

Kentucky State Police compile the report and make it available to KYDOT's Office of Highway Safety Programs (OHSP). The data is used by OHSP to assist state and local agencies develop various traffic enforcement, highway safety engineering and educational programs and obtain the necessary federal funding to support them.

During the past fiscal year, OHSP approved federally funded traffic safety grants to state and local agencies amounting to more than $1.7 million.

Additional information contained in the 1977 report revealed that the worst time to be on the highway last year was at 6 p.m. on Saturdays when 15 fatalities and a total of 1,322 accidents were reported. In contrast, midnight Monday was the safest travel time.

Males between the ages of 25-34 led the list for the most accidents—55,960, including 282 fatal accidents.

Males were involved in more than twice as many accidents as females, according to the report.

Walking on the roadway contri-

Of course, this doesn't mean that you should keep fishing during really severe weather. Our "Sapsak" gets rough ins hurry when the wind gets up and it's extremely dangerous to be caught out in an open boat during a thunderstorm. So temper your desire to catch fish with a good dose of common sense and keep a watchful eye on the weather.

This persistent cool weather had held spawning activity back, Bowers says. But he doesn't expect any adverse effects on future fish populations. Because of the enormous number of fish spawned each year, even a very poor season will see many more fish hatched than can survive to adulthood.

Right now, the crappie are ready to spawn but they are waiting for just a few degrees rise in water temperature. With just a few warm days, fishing should become excellent just about anywhere, Bowers believes. And a rapid warming trend should also see a big jump in black bass activity.

In the meantime, however, try fishing a little deeper than you normally do. Most of the fish seem to be holding right at the edges of their spawning areas, waiting for the correct temperature. So if you don't get results in three to five feet of water, try fishing from 15 to 20 feet deep.

But to 44 of the 115 pedestrian fatalities reported, and 179 children between the ages of five and nine were injured while crossing the street, at places other than intersections.

Fifteen bicycling deaths were also reported. Bikers injured from being struck by a motor vehicle totaled 625.

Although most two-vehicle accidents involved one parked vehicle, the head-on collision caused the most fatalities. Rear-end collisions led to the most injuries.

Failure to yield right-of-way was the biggest single cause of all accidents, but speed and alcohol was involved in the largest number of fatalities.

In accidents where mechanical failure was identified as the cause, tire failures led the list, with defective brakes a close second.
