

Shown above are adult members of the Cumberland River Valley Comprehensive Care Center school. Some are wearing medals that they won in the Special Olympics last month.

Care Center Helps Retarded Adults and Children

Carol is the youngest of 18 children who live in a small old house on a hillside in Rockcastle County. She was slow to learn to talk, and by the time she was three years old, she only knew a few words.

She had learned to make a sound like a chicken, however. And although she was afraid of strangers, she would make the chicken sound when her parents asked her, and she would make others laugh that way.

The family had no radio, or television, and Carol had never seen a book or magazine. When she went to school, she could not make any sense out of the teacher's talk about letters and words. She withdrew from the other children.

Today Carol is progressing normally in the Rockcastle school system. She earns average grades, and while she is still shy, she is no longer terrified of new people and things. Yet just a few years ago, she was considered a retarded child.

All this was possible through the work of the Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center and their day-school for children, age 2 to 7.

"Many of our pre-school children are not retarded," Mary Singleton, director of the program, said. "They have been unable to develop because of circumstances in their lives. If we can identify them at an early age, and work with them, we can help them overcome their disadvantages."

By exposing such children to different experiences and making them familiar with books, phonograph records, and other things, the Center helps them adjust to school. Otherwise they might have become discouraged at an early age and be permanently considered retarded children.

The Center operates the pre-school program from 8 a.m. to noon every weekday at the building behind "The Attic" on Williams St. In the afternoons, a program for retarded adults is held. School-age children are handled in the regular school system in classes taught by teachers with special training.

Each person in the program is treated as an individual and given individual goals, Ms. Singleton said. Some people can eventually learn a trade in a sheltered workshop program. Others might be able to learn only how to take care of themselves and how to behave in appropriate manner in social situations.

Kathy Alore and Alma Kendrick are in charge of the pre-school and adult programs at the Center. Each group takes an outing once a month to places like the Fire Department, Tomlinson Junction, or a picnic. The people sometimes play educational games or make crafts, but the important thing, according to Ms. Singleton, is that they socialize.

The highlight of the year for the adult group is always the Special Olympics, held last month at Morehead University. Five Rockcastle adults went this year—each won medals in such events as 22-yard dash or baseball throwing.

Ms. Singleton said while the group practices very hard all year, and competes vigorously in the regional events, the important things is to win the chance to go to Morehead.

"Once at Morehead, they don't care about winning so much," she said. She told a story of one man who was winning in a race when he suddenly stopped and looked over his shoulder. He said he had to wait for his friend to catch up so they both could win medals.

"These people are the best of friends, and call each other at home sometimes," Ms. Singleton said. Without the Center, most would have no social life at all.

Ms. Singleton said she has seen many people develop through the program, and she is pleased with the work of the Center except for one thing. "I wish we could reach more people," she said. "We have so much to give, and I just know there are more than 13 pre-schoolers and ten adults in the county who might benefit from this program."

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Leave skin on potatoes, carrots, apples and pears when baking or scalloping them. It is a money-saving food tip from food specialists with the Cooperative Extension Service of UK's College of Agriculture. But it was emphasized, scrub the skins well. For scalloping, slice pieces very thin and skins will be more tender. Cook vegetables just until tender—you'll save both nutrients and fuel.

False Economies

There are many ways to cut corners when you sell your home. But some of these may be very costly in the final outcome. I refer to selling without the service of a REALTOR and attorney. Their experience and knowledge could easily be the best financial insurance you can buy.

An attorney can be well worth his fee if he steers you clear of a single financial or legal pitfall.

Trying to play expert by filling in the blanks of standard deeds, purchase and sales agreements, binders, or financial forms can easily backfire. Some of the biggest monetary losses have come about precisely in this manner.

Select a REALTOR from the stars listed in his recommendation for the best selling price. He knows the local market. Let him handle the whole transaction for you from advertising, showing, financial arrangements down to the final closing. Anything less could be very false economy. Selling a home is serious financial business. It should be handled just that way.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at Ford Realty & Auction Co., Inc., Mt. Vernon, Phone 256-4545. We're here to help!

Canning and Freezing Tips

Q. I bought a large supply of small plastic garbage bags on sale. I thought I could use them for storage of chickens and such. Is this a good idea?

A. No. These garbage bags are not made of food-grade plastic and are not moisture proof enough for use in the freezer. Some plastics contain chemicals that are not supposed to be used in contact with food.

Q. I just found a box of canning lids that have been stored away for 2 years. Is it all right to use them? Can I still count on their sealing the jars?

A. If the rubber compound on the lid is smooth and firm, not dried out and hard, they should still work fine.

If there are any breaks in the rubber compound or if it seems to be brittle, you'd better buy new lids. Some manufacturers state that their canning lids will be good for several years if the lids are stored in a cool, dry place.

Q. Is it possible to use a pressure canner, without the pressure, for waterbath canning?

A. Yes, as long as the canner is deep enough to allow for 2 inches of boiling water over the jars of food to be processed.

Just make sure that the pressure-canner top is not fastened down and that the vent and/or weighted gage opening are not closed.

Q. I have lost the rack that came with my pressure canner. Is it really necessary, or is it just a convenience?

A. Yes, it's really necessary, to keep the jars from touching the bottom of the canner. They could break.

If you can't buy another rack to fit right away, use a cake-cooking rack, or tie some canning jar rings together and put them in the canner to set the jars on.

Q. When jars are sealed with screw bands, will removing the screw bands, before storing jars cause the seal to release?

A. No. Bands should be removed (exception, sometimes), 24 hours after canning as bands are unnecessary once jars are sealed. If left on, juices on the threads of the bands may cause them to stick to the jars. Follow manufacture instruction.

Q. Why do some jars not seal?

A. If you use sound canning jars, good quality canning lids, up-to-date methods and the proper processing time, you shouldn't have trouble with jars not sealing.

When a jar doesn't seal, it is probably for one of these reasons: you used offstandard jars (such as one-trip jars from the food store); you used "maverick" jar lids (some of the new off-brand brands have not yet passed rigid performance tests); old lids, used lids, or rusted and dented screw bands; you used a jar with a nicked or cracked sealing edge; you didn't wipe the sealing edge clean; you didn't screw the band tight enough against the sealing edge before processing; you didn't process the jars of food for the recommended time.

You can take care of the problem and reprocess the jar of food right away, or you can refrigerate it and eat it within a few days.

Q. When processing in the water bath, should water completely cover the jars?

A. Yes, water should cover jars at least one inch over top. If water boils down, add enough boiling water to keep at this height.

Q. Should bubbles appear in the jar after it is taken out of the cooker or canner to cool?

A. Bubbles always appear in the jar when it is taken from the cooker or canner because food is still boiling in jar. Usually bubbles do not appear after the food has been allowed to thoroughly cool, unless the jar is shaken. A very tight pack of food may show air bubbles.

Q. Where should hot jars from canner or cooker be set to cool?

A. Set hot jars on a folded cloth or board. Do not set hot jars in a draft or on a cold wet surface. Do not cover them with a cloth.

minutes. Afterward, you relax in a canteen area with some refreshments.

Mr. Alheid said that people don't give blood because (1) no one asks them to, and (2) they are afraid. Some fears are that giving blood weakens a person, makes him sick, or hurts. None of these is true.

"You can go about your normal business a few minutes after the donation," Mr. Alheid said. "A healthy person can give blood every 56 days."

The blood donor gets a very important benefit to himself—a sort of insurance that covers blood needs for himself, his spouse, unmarried children up to age 18, other dependants, parents, and parents-in-law, anywhere in the United States. Most commercial insurance does not cover the full expense of blood transfusions. Mr. Alheid said.

Hospitals use a pint of blood every 17 seconds in this country, yet only 3% of the population donate. Mr. Alheid said.

It does not take much time," he said, "and you are helping to save a human life."

Tax Revolt Unlikely Here: Some Rates Fell Last Year

Rockcastle County would not benefit from a California-style tax revolt because, under the current rules, rates on property taxes here are already limited and actually decreasing.

California voters to limit property taxes to 1% of the market value, to use 1976 assessments, and to put a 2% limit on annual assessment increases. This has cut their property tax bills 57%.

But Rockcastle taxes are well below 1%, and a limit on how much they can increase was passed in 1968.

According to Property Evaluation Administrator Robert Cromer, the total amount of property taxes collected are not allowed to rise by more than 10% each year in Kentucky. But yet property values in the state have increased by more than 10% annually in recent years. This means the tax rates are lowered so that the amount of tax collected does not exceed 10% more than that collected the year before.

In 1968 under Gov. Edward Breathitt, a special legislative session froze property tax rates except for natural growth. The session was called after the State Court of Appeals ruled all property had to be assessed at "fair cash value."

"Fair cash value means just that," said Mr. Cromer. He said that as it is his job to make assessments in Rockcastle County, and he does this by determining what a piece of property would sell for today in a fair market, that is, between a willing buyer and a willing seller.

Mr. Cromer said that every piece of property is not reassessed every year, and that when a reassessment is done, the property owner is given notice. If he disagrees with the assessment, he can request a formal hearing in the matter.

However, Mr. Cromer said that most disagreements can be worked out informally, and there has been only one such hearing in the last ten years.

Mr. Cromer makes assessments by inspecting the property, and measuring the value of the land, and the number and conditions of the buildings. Real estate sold recently in the area is a good clue to the fair market value of property.

he said. For example, if your neighbor sells his home for $40,000, yet both yours and his were assessed at $10,000 a few years ago, chances are the value of your home has gone up too and you probably should have your land reassessed.

Mr. Cromer said that people here are paying $6.26 per $1,000 of their assessed property values. City taxes are an additional $2.00 per $1,000 for Mt. Vernon; $5.00 for Brodhead, and $3.00 per $1,000 for Livingston.

Of the $6.26 collected, Mr. Cromer said that the Board of Education receives $3.07, the county government takes $1.98, and $3.15 is for the state of Kentucky.

The rest is Health Department: $3.00; Library: $0.15; and Soil Conservation, $0.025.

Mr. Cromer said the rates that each department receives are fixed by law, and that they receive increases only when more taxes are collected in general.

The California tax revolt is expected to have repercussions all over the country. In Kentucky, Pate Elzerumpe has organized a Taxpayers Action Group, which is being formed as a protest to reassessments in Jefferson County, but they are hoping to generate support all over the state.

California's state government is a $34.1 billion operation, whereas Kentucky's is $400 million. The tax revolt is expected to mean a loss of 75,000 state employees in California.

City of Brodhead To Repair Streets

Streets in Brodhead that need patching and repairing will get it soon. The City Council of Brodhead accepted a bid from J.C. Newland of $40 a ton for blacktopping at their regular meeting June 5.

In other business, the Council purchased a police cruiser from Henry Walden, a Chevrolet, for over $4,000, according to Ron Lash, a member of the Council. He said they also discussed hiring a part-time policeman. Brodhead has one full-time policeman at present.

Free Nixon Tickets

Free tickets to see President Nixon when he comes to Hyden, are available at the Circuit Clerk's office according to Bernice Cummins, Deputy Clerk. Mr. Cummins will be allotted 30 tickets to give away on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Colorado Man Killed Saturday Night In Truck Accident on Interstate 75

Alger Tavener, a 47-year-old man from Greeley, Colorado, was killed Saturday about 4:20 a.m. four miles south of Mt. Vernon on I-75. He was a passenger in a car driven by Bill Joe Jacobs of Paris, who was critically injured in the accident and is being treated at Patty A. Clay Hospital in Richmond.

Their automobile struck a tractor-trailer in the rear, and ended up underneath it. The truck was driven by Marcum Woodall, Middletown, Ohio, who was not injured.

Burton "Bo" Huffines of Mt. Vernon and Gene Helton of Kaywood, had an accident June 9 at 11:40 a.m., two miles west of Mt. Vernon on U.S. 150. No one was injured.

John Dyer of Eubank hit a parked vehicle owned by King's Used Cars of Crab Orchard, and a fence owned by Cecil King. The accident occurred June 8 at 11:30 a.m. nine miles west of Mt. Vernon on U.S. 150.

State Police at London also reported a burglary at the home of Brenda Owens on June 11, but no details are known at this time.

County Should Give 'Fair Share,' Blood Center Says

Rockcastle County is one of the three worst counties out of a 40-county region in blood donation. In the past three years, only 18 pints of blood have been collected here, when the county is using about 454 pints per year, according to Harry Alheid, Donor Service Representative of the Central Kentucky Blood Center in Lexington.

"Checking our records, I find that Rockcastle did have a somewhat active program in the early 1970's but it died out," he said.

Last March a mobile unit for blood donation was set up at the Bank of Mt. Vernon, but less than twenty people participated. Steve Mikiff, at the Public Health Department, blamed the bad weather for the low turnout.

Mr. Mikiff and others in the community hope to improve the Rockcastle record this summer by organizing another blood donation. An empty store building in Renfro Valley has been offered at no charge for the drive, which will probably be held at the Music Festival in July.

Mr. Alheid said that other counties manage to give as much blood as they require. For example, Pulaski County's need is estimated at 1368 pints annually, and people there are able to collect that much by regular blood drives.

"Any group can offer to sponsor a blood drive every six months, for example," Mr. Alheid explained. "Sometimes it is a group of employees or a church or club. The important thing is that it is done on a regular basis."

The Central Kentucky Blood Center is a non-profit organization that supplies blood to 33 hospitals in the 40-county region. About 35,000 pints are needed every year, and not enough is being given.

In fact, whatever is collected one day is used up the next. Mr. Alheid said that he sometimes calls on friends to donate when the Center is in a crisis. All employees at the Center give every 56 days.

Mr. Mikiff has given more than 30 pints himself.

"It really doesn't hurt," said Mr. Mikiff.

He explained that the process takes about 45 minutes. You fill out a registration card at the Blood Center or mobile unit, and then you are given a thorough medical examination in which your temperature, blood pressure, pulse and hemoglobin counts are taken. The examination lasts about a half hour, but the actual blood donation takes about 5 (Can't to P-16)

Bids For New Fire Truck Are Too High, Mayor Mullins Says

Talk about buying a new fire truck dominated the regular meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday evening, although no bid for the truck was accepted.

Mayor Roland Mullins said that he was disappointed that the bids on the truck ranged from $57,000 upward to $69,000 and had hoped that a truck could be bought for about $45,000.

Mayor Mullins asked Fire Chief John Cox and council members, Oscar Bullock and Chester Hellard, to look over the literature from the companies bidding on the truck, and see if the specifications might not be changed so that a cheaper but adequate truck could be purchased.

Representatives from four fire truck companies gave detailed presentations that included slide shows and pictures. Jerry Ikard, manager of South Kentucky Mack Trucks, Inc., Somerset, Ky., wrote a letter saying that his company was asking for a 10-day extension of the bidding time. Mr. Ikard said he wanted the truck specifications changed "for the good of Mt. Vernon."

Bill Bkaer, of Jack Cocks Company in Mobile, Ala., said that South Kentucky Mack Trucks, Inc. could not produce the truck the city specified.

In other business, Councilman Elmer Alcorn's resignation was accepted and Joe Young will fill his unexpired term. Mr. Alcorn had moved out of the city and asked to be replaced.

Discussion continued on improvements to City Hall and the new storage building to house city and waterworks equipment. In October, the city was granted $25,000 from the state of Kentucky for the project. Charles Shivel's bid for brickwork was accepted at $17,900, as was his bid of $3,025 for a firehose tower, subject to state approval. No bids were received on erecting the metal building.

A bid of $6,680 had already been accepted on the building itself. Since all these bids add up to more than $25,000, Mayor Mullins asked City Clerk Mary Craig to write the state of Kentucky, about the matter.

Engineers Jack Crawford and Richmond Moore gave a progress report on a study they are doing about the city sewage system. Mr. Crawford said that funding for expansion of the system and/or building new sewage plants would be available a year from September, and that the Environmental Protection Agency would be the best source of funds.

The Council will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday, June 18, to handle a situation on Poplar Street. People are complaining that someone there is stopping up the drainage system and causing flooding when it rains.

Police officer Bonnie Halcomb said double parking in front of the Post Office was her biggest problem in Mt. Vernon. She suggested that the parking meter be changed to five-minute only meter. She also suggested that a sign advertising the city parking lot be erected because "people don't know the lot is there, and they park all over town."

Property in Owens Subdivision was officially annexed. Annexing part of the Fairground Hill area was considered.

Wayne King, manager of the boat dock for Renfro Valley, Inc. had requested that his lease payment be left at $1,000 instead of $2,500 it is scheduled to revert to under the terms of the original lease. The Council decided to take no action on his request at this time.

The Council went into executive session to discuss police personnel. Afterward, Mayor Mullins said that he would try to work out a schedule with police that eliminates overtime.

Policeman Joe Howard received a 15% routine raise.

'Town Meeting' Called to Talk About Community's Most Urgent Concerns

"A Forum on Community Concerns" will be held Thursday, June 22, at 7 p.m. in the Community Room of The Bank of Mt. Vernon. Everyone is being asked to attend.

Larry Keaton, of the Cumberland River Comprehensive Care staff, is organizing the "town meeting" to provide the opportunity for people to talk about problems, crimes, and concerns in their community.

Mr. Keaton said that after talking with police officers, social workers and other involved citizens, he decided that the five areas of major concern are: Juvenile Delinquency, Alcoholism, Drug Abuse, Family Disunity, and Child Abuse and Neglect.

"We will have a speaker on each topic," Mr. Keaton said, "but after the 5-minute speeches, everyone will have a chance to talk and ask questions."

He is contacting over 100 people about the meeting, and hopes to have radio coverage.

"We want to get everyone's feelings on these concerns," he said, "and to create a real community dialogue."

A Fire truck like this one has been specified by the Mt. Vernon City Council.

Frankfort Watchline

By Paul L. Whalen

This reporter recently picked up a book which should be read by all members of the Kentucky General Assembly. That book is "The Sometimes Governments—a critical study of the 50 American Legislatures, by the citizens Conference, on State Legislatures, written by John Burns. The book is a write-up of the results of a study of all 50 American state legislatures.

The conference made a very thorough study of all 50 state legislatures pointing out their strengths and their weaknesses. Recommendations were suggested for each state legislature to overcome its weakness. Finally all 50 legislatures were ranked 1 to 50. According to this study the Kentucky General Assembly ranks 31st out of 50.

Five major categories of criteria were considered in ranking the 50 state legislatures—functionality, accountability, informedness, independence and representativeness. In each category of major consideration, the Kentucky General Assembly ranked 49th as being functional, ranked 2nd as being accountable, 48th as being informed, 44th as being independent and 7th as being representative. In considering each of these five criteria different factors were considered. Under the criteria functionality, factors such as time and its utilization, facilities, size of the houses and the committee structure were considered. Under the criteria informedness, such things as having enough time for each session were considered. In considering the independence of a legislature, such factors as legislative autonomy regarding legislative procedures and legislative independence of the executive branch were studied. In the matter of representativeness, such things as identification of members of the legislature and their constituents, diversity of the membership in the legislature, and member effectiveness were considered.

According to the book, some of the reasons for the high level of accountability of the Kentucky General Assembly is the size of the House of Representatives and the fact that all districts in both houses are single member districts.

Some of the recommendations offered by the Citizens Conferences on State Legislatures for the Kentucky

General Assembly include some of the following: The removal of constitutional restrictions on sessions. It is recommended that the General Assembly meet annually in sessions of not less than 90 days. Presently the General Assembly meets for 60 days every other year. The conference recommended that the General Assembly from within its own membership, should have the power to call special sessions. Individual members of the General Assembly meet office space while they are in Frankfort. Presently only the leadership of both houses have office space. Rank and file members of the General Assembly have no office space.

Looking at the ranks of states neighboring Kentucky their legislatures were ranked as follows: Tennessee 26th, Virginia 34th, West Virginia 25th, Ohio 16th, Indiana 40th, Illinois, 3rd and Missouri 35th. The California legislature was ranked 1st and the Alabama legislature was ranked 50th.

In looking at Kentucky's May 1978 Primary election there were no real surprises. Except maybe in the 6th Congressional District Democratic Primary where State Senator Tom Easterly defeated three term incumbent Congressman John Breckinridge.

Perhaps the biggest surprise was the disappointingly low voter turnout for the primary election. Only about 10% of the eligible voters statewide bothered to go to the polls. One wonders if Kentucky voters are weary of having elections every year. This writer suggests that Kentucky lawmakers should consider changing state and local elections to coincide with federal elections. In this way, all elections in Kentucky would be conducted in even numbered years. The state and local governments would only spend about half of what they are presently spending to conduct elections if they were only held every other year. To compensate for the time spent voting on a longer ballot, voting hours could be extended, so that the polls would be open from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m.

In keeping abreast of next year's gubernatorial race State Auditor George Atkins political committee manager has already hired an advertising agency to begin work on his campaign. Farmer Louisville Mayor Dr. Harvey Sloan has begun a walk across the commonwealth to help him win support in his bid for the Democratic nomination for governor. Sloan previously tried this technique successfully when he was an unknown Louisville doctor running for mayor of Louisville.

Business is Alive and Well at Livingston Casket Company

A casket is no longer a plain wooden box. Some are in colors ranging from solid copper to pastels, with their insides decorated with elaborate drawings and expensive velvets and crepe cloth. Their handles can be silver or gold designs with angels and curliques locks.

You find this out when you visit the Kentucky Casket Company in its 18th year. It is one of only two manufacturing firms in the county. R.A. Baker and his brother, Monroe, own and operate the firm, which employs about 20 people. They hope to expand to a staff of 75 or so in the coming few years.

"We are hoping to move into the Rockcastle Industrial Park if possible," Monroe Baker said. "However, no definite plans have been made."

The company receives the caskets in pieces from metal fabricating firms. Welders trained at the Harry Sparks Vocational School put together these pieces into the familiar oval-shaped boxes.

Then they are smoothed and sanded for paint. Hardware locks and handles are added; the more expensive the hardware, the more expensive the casket. Many colors are used to paint the caskets, but Mr. Baker said that the most popular are grey and copper followed by pastels.

The inside of the caskets are made in a separate operation. Pillows and shirred blankets are machine-sewn at the plant. Again, the more expensive the cloth, the more expensive the casket.

Then the inside pillows and panels are placed inside the casket. The panel that fits into the lid of the casket can be decorated in a variety of ways. Some show the Lord's Supper, or clouds or flowers. The pillows are made with a machine that looks a little like a hand held hair dryer which blows the cotton into the pillow.

Mr. Baker said that he is proud of the way that the company markets the caskets. They use a very large truck with red carpeting on its floors and walls to display 60 caskets at once.

"It is the world's largest traveling display of caskets," Mr. Baker said.

The truck travels throughout the United States to funeral directors everywhere who order from this Livingston firm.

A silver angel trims a vault, adding on to its price.

Welders trained in the Rockcastle School system assemble the caskets.

Eternal Truth

IN OUR CHANGING WORLD

The Life You Save May Be Your Own

You will recognize the above slogan in regard to traffic as a reminder to motorists to drive safely and to observe speed laws and stop signs, etc. In so doing they could possibly save their lives.

When you stop to think about it, this is a marvelous slogan, in the realm of spiritual life. Of course, it is Christ who saves (Matt. 1:21), our obedience simply assures it (Matt. 7:21).

The Bible teaches that Christianity is a way of life by such expressions as: "we should also walk in newness of life" (Rom. 6:3) and concerning good works, Paul instructed Christians to "walk in them" (Eph. 2:10) followers of Christ are to be the "salt of the earth," "light of the world" (Matt. 5:13-14). We are a leavening influence for good or evil. Consequently, we are placed in an exalted position to save both ourselves and others. The Christian who is married to an unbeliever can, by a godly life, save his or her spouse (I Cor. 7:16; I Pet. 3:1-6). Preachers, by taking heed to themselves and into the doctrine, can both save themselves and those who hear them (I Tim. 4:16). When an erring Christian is restored, James said a soul is saved from death and a multitude of sins are hidden (James 5:20).

Precious reader, you have a soul worth saving. Jesus said a word is more than all the wealth (Matt. 16:26)

One could gain the whole world in education, profession, finances, social position, and politics, but at the expense of his soul, he is a loser.

Man has a responsibility in his own salvation. Peter said, "Save yourselves from this crooked generation" (Acts 2:40). Salvation is by both grace and faith (Eph. 2:8-9). It is not wholly by grace (God's part); it is through faith (man's part); it is not by faith only (James 2:24) because men must obey the teaching of grace in order to be saved by grace (Titus 2:11-12). Jesus saves those who obey Him (Heb. 2:9-10).

How were the people to whom Peter spoke saved? They gladly received the word, repented and were baptized for the remission of sins (Acts 2:38, 41). Then they continued steadfastly in serving Christ (Acts 2:42). If you will "gladly receive God's word" you can save yourself. The soul you save can be your own.

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durham,
County Extension Agent for Agriculture

On the farm, in the church, in the garden and in nature, June is a busy month. In nature, bees are busy gathering and carrying home nectar and helping fertilize flowers. Some modern birds brood over clutches of eggs while others hustle about in search for food for young already hatched.

In the garden, weeding and cultivation commences in earnest, and there is much hay to be cut on the farm. In the church, young maidens are eagerly getting married and everywhere roses are blooming, poets are writing poems and the overall scene is one of undiminished activity.

Summer really gets down to business in June. During the month's long "perfect" days, the poet sang about plants and vegetables rush to maturity before the "letting down and drying up" season in the hotter months of July and August put a damper on growth activities.

No other month, not even December, enjoys the popularity of June. In the opinion of the ancients, it was the best month in which to get married, especially during the periods when the moon was full. The beauty, freshness, and luxuriance of its flowers and its usually fine weather fit well in all and for all its festivities and activities.

If by chance there is a let up in weeding and hoeing in the garden, cutting hay, getting married, attending "infirmary", and writing poems, June is a fine time to mow the grass. If moisture is favorable, cut the grass about 2 inches high. If dry weather prevails, raise the height to 3 inches.

It is also a fine time to rejuvenate the strawberry patch. Check with your county extension agent if you do not already know the best way to do this. Also, by mid-month, plant seeds of broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower for fall transplants. Later in the month, spray peach tree trunks with Thiodan for peach tree borers. For best results, follow with other sprays in early August and September.

Like several of our other months, June was named by the Romans. Some calendar authorities insist that its name was taken from Juno, special genius of the female sex, great queen of the gods, and the patron saint of marriage, geese and cuckoos.

This seems reasonable enough, but other historians claim the name was derived from "juniores", because in early roman times this month was specially dedicated to young men fated for matrimony.

By name and by nature, June is a priver month as well as a busy one. It is a time when bees swarm, butterflies hover over midweed blossoms, students graduate, and maiden aunts swoon to the strains of Mendelssohn. It is a glorious month.

Hints for Campers

Campers, hikers, picknickers, and ridge-walkers should be aware of pest problems and ways to combat them. Ticks, especially the American dog tick (wood tick) is the most common species found around camping area. This tick attacks man, sucking blood and may transmit Rocky Mountain spotted fever, rabbit fever, and a rare form of paralysis. Chiggers, also known as red bugs, itch mites, harvest mites, etc., affect man in two ways by transmitting scrub typhus and more commonly by causing severe dermatitis. They seem to like to get where the clothing is tight, like around your waist and socks.

TICKS WANTED, DEAD OR ALIVE. County Agent H. Lee Durham shows the bottles and mailing carton which he uses to send tick specimens to the University of Kentucky.

Agent Lee Durham Wants Ticks for UK Study

County Extension Agent H. Lee Durham has about 10 little bugs in bottles that have been given to him by local people.

He is sending them to the University of Kentucky where they are being studied as part of the national effort to stop the spread of Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

"We know it is caused by a tick, but we don't know which tick," said Mr. Durham.

There have been no cases of the fever in Rockcastle County, but Mr. Durham said it seems to be spreading from western Kentucky toward the eastern region. Cases have been reported in Clay County.

Rural Committee Plans Four-Day Southern Trip

About thirty people have signed up to take a four-day tour of farms in five southern states, according to H. Lee Durham of the Rockcastle Rural Development Committee.

The group will travel through Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Louisiana, and visit horse farms, peacan orchards, a fish farm and a horticulture experiment during the week of July 10.

Although the emphasis will be on farm methods, the tour also includes stops at the Huntsville Space Center, Lookout Mountain in Georgia, and a night in New Orleans in the French Quarter.

It is the first tour since 1971. Mr. Durham said in past years trips have been made to Pennsylvania, Chicago, Indiana and other states, but Mr. Durham said that there wasn't much interest shown in organizing a trip until this year.

This year's trip will cover 1575 miles on a chartered Greyhound bus. The group will spend three nights in Holiday Inns in Birmingham, Ala., New Orleans, La., and Atlanta, Ga. The trip was organized by Roy G. Brown and Clay Colton.

What This County Needs Is A Map - These People Are Making One

Mrs. Margaret Offutt uses a planimeter to make an accurate map of a portion of Rockcastle County. She is one of several people who have been working on a project sponsored by the Department of Revenue and Rockcastle County.

You may have already had a visit from the Rockcastle County map-making project, but if not, they are coming.

Under Revised Kentucky Statute 132.870, all property in Kentucky must be mapped by July 1, 1980. Each county must provide a suitable office for the project, while the State Department of Revenue pays for salaries, equipment and expenses.

The maps will be the first accurate ones ever made in Kentucky, and will be used by the Department of Revenue, said R.J. Martin, supervisor of the Rockcastle County project. Mr. Martin said the maps will also be useful to attorneys and anyone who deals in real estate, and will provide each property owner with an exact description of the boundaries of his land.

Mr. Martin and eight employees have been working about a year on the project, which was originally supposed to last 18 months. Mr. Martin said it will take much more time than anticipated because of last winter's bad weather.

Seven of the employees are "field workers." They have been visiting each household and asking whoever is home to answer a one-page questionnaire about the land. The questions deal with when it was purchased, the number of buildings and so forth. Then the field worker takes a photograph of the main building on the land, and shows the person interviewed an aerial map of his section of the county. The person is then asked to fill in the boundaries of his land on the aerial map.

The field workers return the maps to Mrs. Margaret Offutt, who has the job of drawing the boundaries accurately on a final version of the map of Rockcastle County. She uses a terman device called a Planimeter, by which one can trace the lines on a map drawn to scale and convert the scale drawing to actual measurements.

"Sometimes it is necessary to consult old deeds," Mr. Martin said, "but we prefer using the field workers' information."

Mr. Martin said many old deeds describe boundaries by a certain tree, long since removed or roads no longer existing. The field workers are Edna Kirby, Lou Bussell, Katha, Carpenter, Cathy Owens, Willetta Owens and Dorothy Hubbard. Sandy Hubbard is working in the office for the summer.

JUNE is DAIRY MONTH CONGRATULATIONS to our DAIRY INDUSTRY

DAIRY MONTH IS A NATURAL TIME TO SAY THANK YOU.

The dairy farmers and their families who live and work around our community deserve a great deal of thanks. Their stability helps our community remain stable and healthy. Their insistence on offering only the highest quality milk and dairy products sets an example for us all, and improves the quality of our lives. We congratulate them now, during Dairy Month, and thank them for their contributions.

June is Dairy Month

This month is a good time for all of us to take a closer look at our Dairy Industry. One thing is certain, it has become big business and is getting bigger every day. And our dairy farmers have done an excellent job in increasing production to meet growing demands. They are using the most modern, up-to-date equipment in rigidly controlled modern plants. We salute them for a job well done!
