EXTENSION HOME ECONOMICS

There's More to Salad
Than Lettuce
Anyone who has visited a grocery store lately knows that the price of head lettuce is sky high. And as a result of the farm labor troubles in California's lettuce growing valley, the price will shoot even higher.

What can you do if the cost doesn't fit your budget? Try substituting other salad greens that are more reasonably priced. Fresh spinach, Chinese cabbage and endive are a few possibilities. Or stretch salad greens with other raw vegetables, like shredded raw carrots, broccoli or celery. Or you may decide to forget about tossed salad until next summer when you can grow leaf lettuce, bibb or some of the other varieties in your garden. In the meantime, serve vegetable or fruit salads.

Three-bean salad, ade by combining green and yellow beans and red kidney beans is one possibility. Cabbage and grated carrot slaw is economical and nutritious. Fruit salads which combine some fresh fruits with canned are good; for variation try a molded vegetable or fruit salad unflavored gelatin.

Three-Bean Salad
1 can, 16 oz. green beans
1 can, 16 oz. yellow wax beans
1 can, 16 oz. red kidney beans
1 large sweet red onion, sliced, in 1/2 cup thinly sliced green pepper
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 cup salad oil
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper

Drain beans and place in large bowl. Add onion and green pepper. Blend vinegar, sugar, salt, pepper and oil together. Add to vegetables and toss lightly and chill 12 to 24 hours. Serves 8 to 10.

Fresh broccoli is available all year at a reasonable price. It is usually cooked as a vegetable but also makes a good salad.

Fresh Broccoli Salad
1 lb. fresh broccoli
2 tbsp. vinegar
1 tbsp. soy sauce
1 tbsp. salad oil
1 tbsp. sesame seed, toasted
1 tsp. sugar

Cut broccoli stalks lengthwise into uniform spears. Halve spears crosswise. Steam 5-7 minutes, or till just done. Drain, chill broccoli. In screw-top combine vinegar, soy sauce, oil and sugar; cover, and shake to mix well. Drizzle vinegar mixture over broccoli, toss gently. Sprinkle with toasted sesame seed. Makes 4-6 servings.

VOLUME 91 - NUMBER 28

THURSDAY, MARCH 15, 1979

Above is a sketch by architect Helm Roberts of Lexington showing the proposed off-story Senior and Handicapped Citizens Center to be built on the Brodhead Fairgrounds at the corner of the main entranceway and Hwy. 150. The Fiscal Court is taking bids on the project this week.

Fiscal Court Takes More Action On Brodhead Fairgrounds Project

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court took six more steps toward building a recreation and housing center at the Brodhead Fairgrounds.

- 1) Advertise for bids for the construction of a one-story frame building on a concrete slab, including a kitchen and two restrooms. The building is financed through the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and is to be used as a center for senior and handicapped citizens.
- 2) Negotiate with the city of Brodhead about installing water and sewer facilities to the fairgrounds site.
- 3) Use the county's means and equipment to construct a road in the fairgrounds.
- 4) Accept an agreement with Lawson Witt, in which Mr. Witt agrees to remove and demolish an outdated residential house now located at the site, in exchange for building materials salvaged. Mr. Witt agreed to clear any materials he does not want to salvage.
- 5) Call on private developers about building low and middle income housing at the fairgrounds site.

6) Tear down the old grandstand. The magistrates had considered using the old grandstand at this year's Fair, but the Rockcastle County Fair Board members told them that the building was in Cont'd to P-7)

All Commercial Garbage Haulers Will Need County Health Permit

Commercial garbage haulers will need to pay a permit at the Rockcastle County Health Department, which will start inspecting the trucks and keep track of the routes and manner of garbage disposal.

This does not mean that a private individual needs a permit to haul and dump his own garbage, Steve Midkiff, county health environmental supervisor, said. Mr. Midkiff said that the new rule only will apply to individuals or companies that haul and dispose of trash for a profit.

The County Health Board passed the rule at its last meeting and the ordinance will become effective August 1. Mr. Midkiff said that Rockcastle County was in a minority of counties that did not already have such a rule.

The ordinance will require haulers to pay $10.00 for a permit at the health department, and provide a map showing the specific route of pick-ups, the solid waste disposal site, description of vehicles, schedule of receiving and disposing of wastes, names of drivers, and other information. Violators can be fined up to $100 a day.

Mr. Midkiff said that some haulers who do not cover their trucks properly, among other things, create a health hazard.

Member of the Department's Board are Dr. G.W. Griffith, Dr. G.H. Griffith, Dr. A. Thomsen, Jerry Cox, County Judge-Executive Hubert Thacker, Doris Towery, and Andrew York.

Parents Should Check Child's Immunizations

Now is the time to check your medical records and make sure your children have had their immunizations, they will not be allowed to attend school in the fall.

The series of necessary vaccinations takes three months, so now is a good time to start—so that the children will be fully immunized by the time school opens, according to Charles Parsons, school superintendent.

Mr. Parsons said that state law requires all children to have had certain vaccinations, and that Rockcastle County must comply with the law.

The first step is to check your medical records, because many children may not need the entire series of shots, but just a booster. Or the Health Department can

Preschoolers to be Tested for Readiness

About 25 children are being tested this week to see if they are ready to start school at an age younger than most of their classmates.

Sue Hamm, Rockcastle County guidance counselor, is administering the tests on the following days:

March 15—Brodhead School
March 19—Livingston
March 20—Mt. Vernon
March 21—Roundstone

The tests come in little picture booklets, and a sample program, might be to draw a circle around a cat sitting on a rug on a page with drawings of cats in various situations. Part of the test is whether the child has the ability to sit and concentrate, according to guidance counselors.

Testing for school readiness became necessary this year when the Kentucky State Legislature changed the school entrance age. Children must be five years by Sept. 1 to enter kindergarten, and six years by Sept. 1 to enter first grade. The tests are for children who will be five between Sept. 1

Health Dept. Gets Money

Rockcastle County's Health Department was one of 36 that will divide a $130,650 grant from the federal government to expand the immunization program. Rockcastle's share is $382. The grants were awarded on the basis of the number of children in each health unit area, according to Peter Conn, state Human Resources Secretary. Sixteen health departments received over $3,000.

Four Blood Drives Planned

Another blood drive for the three girls involved in a traffic accident last month is planned for Monday, March 19, at Lincoln Court High School in Stanford, from 3:30 to 8 p.m.

The victims, who are still hospitalized, are Ruth Burch, Marchburg, Susan Hammonds, and Tammy Fletcher, both of Brodhead. All three girls are 18 years old.

The Central Kentucky Blood Center is also planning three blood drives this year in Rockcastle County, all at The Bank of Mt. Vernon. The dates are May 24, August 29, and November 1, all sponsored by the Rockcastle County Jaycees.

According to Harry Alheid, staff member with the Center, if Rockcastle can collect 195 pints of blood this year, attendants of the community will be "covered" under a sort of insurance plan. If anyone from the county should need blood, he would not have to pay extra for it or ask members of his family to donate it. The number of pints is based on the population.

When an individual donates blood, he also gets a sort of insurance policy for blood that covers himself, his dependents and spouse, parents and parents-in-law. An individual can donate 5 times a year, and designate other people to be covered under the blood plan.

Rockcastle's record in blood donation had been poor for the past few years, Mr. Alheid said, but it is improving.

A blood drive for the accident victims brought in 50 pints of blood last month.

16 Year-old Mt. Vernon Boy Killed by Auto on Hwy-461

A 16-year-old Mt. Vernon boy was killed instantly Friday when he was struck by an automobile on Ky. 461, about two miles south of Mt. Vernon.

Dead is Dwayne Monroe Vanzant, a freshman at Rockcastle County High School.

The driver of the automobile, James William Cooper, age 40, of Somerset, said he came over a hill crest and around a curve, when he saw the boy step into the path of his automobile. He told state police that he was unable to stop, and hit the boy almost the same time he saw him. Mr. Cooper was driving alone at the time, about 4 p.m.

Funeral services were held Sunday, March 11, at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home Chapel by Bro. Jimmy Miller. Burial was in the Chasnetta Cemetery.

Palbearers were Wayne Vanzant, Gary Lackey, Ellis Lackey, Dewey McGuire, James Bowman, and Henry Isaac Vanzant.

He was born in Hamilton, Ohio on August 8, 1962, the son of Delmer and Alma McGuire Vanzant of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one brother, Rodney Delmer Vanzant, at home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vanzant of Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon; several uncles and aunts, and a host of other relatives and friends.

City Council Negotiates Contract With Archery Club on Lake Property

The Rockcastle County Archery Club asked the Mt. Vernon City Council at its regular meeting Monday, for a 25-year lease on the city property adjoining the old Brodhead Road and running to Lake Lind.

The Council agreed to a short-term lease, but appointed a committee of Chester Hellard and Joe Young to study whether the Council should commit the city and future councils to such a lease.

James Bowman, president of the Archery Club, presented a written proposal that said the club will pay $200 annually for the property. The club is planning a clubhouse with snack bar, pool tables, and meeting rooms, as well as ranges of archery, pistol, trap, and primitive weapons. Other improvements outlined are picnic tables, roadways, parking lots and horse trails. The club would fence the area and require people using it to be members.

Mr. Bowman said that some of the plans are "may be 15 years away." He said it was important to the club to get long-term lease so that they have some security in building the improvements.

The Christian Appalachian Project is still interested in the Lake Linville boat dock property, although no representatives attended this meeting. Mayor Roland Mullins said that as far as he knew, CAP's lawyers were drawing up a lease between the city and CAP.

discussed taking legal action, if necessary.

Poplar Street area: David Shivel and Lee Earl asked if the city had or would pass restrictions on trailer parks, which they said were congesting that area. Mr. Earl said, "Trailers are jammed in there, and there will be more of them," because of some new ownership of land in the area.

Mayor Mullins said that the city had no such ordinances.

Carl Clontz, city attorney, said usually such ordinances could be passed as part of a comprehensive plan of regular planning and zoning regulations. Councilman Young discussed the need for an overall city plan to insure property values.

Fairground Hill: Treey Gray asked for a street light in the center of his block, saying that residents are keeping their porch lights on at night because it is so dark. The Council voted to send members of the street committee there to investigate this week.

Valley Manor Subdivision: Dwight Griffin reported that there was a bad water problem in the subdivision, and some cover was needed. The Council will investigate this also sometime this week.

Mayor Mullins said the $54,960 fire truck will be paid for without borrowing, by using a grant and revenue-sharing funds.

The Council okayed a request from the fire department to spend $400 on firemen's gear at a factory outlet store in Beattyville, where prices are unusually low.

The Council approved sending policeman Paul Thomas to a 10-week training session at Eastern Kentucky University.

There was some discussion about a five-year plan for sidewalk improvements, and raising water rates.

Rockcastle Manufacturing Starts Training, Factory to Open Mid-April or Early May

Rockcastle Manufacturing Company is about a month behind schedule, but superintendent Lee Gloschen is expecting to proceed quickly now that the weather has improved.

"We expect to have the factory built by mid-April or early May, if the weather continues to be good," he said.

Some foundation work has already been completed at the Rockcastle Multi-County Industrial Park. Sewer and water lines are being finished, and the state of Kentucky is proceeding to build an access road to the new garment factory.

Mr. Gloschen has hired three training supervisors to help him prepare about 30 to 40 workers. Training is taking place in the Eaton Building in Mt. Vernon, where sewing machines and a cutting room have been established.

The 30 or 40 workers will be chosen from some 2400 applicants on the basis of test scores on a sewing test, educational level, and other factors. Those chosen will be trained at the Eaton Building for a seven week period with half working four hours in the morning, and the other half working four hours in the afternoon.

This construction worker is laying water lines at the Rockcastle Multi-County Industrial Park. In the background is the site of the Rockcastle Manufacturing Company, the first factory to be built at the park. So far, land has been leveled and some gravel spread over it. Owners expect the plant to be complete by mid-April or early May.

Legislative Report

By Harold DeMarcus

As everyone knows, America has always been one of the world's technological leaders and as you would expect all information pertinent to the workings of Kentucky state government is stored in computers.
 Most of the state's larger agencies have their own separate computer systems. For instance, the Department of Justice has one that is frequently plugged into the University of Kentucky's computers. This provides a massive bank of information also located in the Capital Plaza at Frankfort, the Commonwealth maintains an IBM 370, which is the largest and most expensive computer made by IBM.

Kentucky Revised Statute 7.110 states that the Legislative Research Commission (LRC) or any member thereof, or an employee duly authorized by the LRC or chairman thereof, shall have access to all records of every agency, division or department of state government, and of any agency or institution, public or private, which has been the recipient of public funds.
 Although, the law is clear, many of the Commonwealth's bureaucratic agencies are delaying and in some cases withholding important information from the General Assembly, which is representative of the people. Most certainly the people of Kentucky and the legislature do not want any secrets kept about the expenditure of their tax dollars.

In January of 1977, I introduced a resolution before the LRC that would have made it possible for the LRC computer to plug into the state's computer bank. During the 1978 regular session, I sponsored House Bill 144 which sought to allow the LRC direct access to computer banks and processed financial information of state agencies. If this bill had been passed, it would have required the executive department of finance and administration to provide the LRC with all desired financial data.

You would think that after these actions, the LRC would have access to the state's computers. Unfortunately, the only action taken was the formation of a special LRC subcommittee on a statewide information system. This action was nothing more than an attempt to dodge the real issue, that being legislative access to all of the state's informational systems. Instead, we have a subcommittee studying why we need this information.

It is obvious why the legislature needs access to all of the Commonwealth's computers. How can a state budget be fiscally responsible or a state government be run efficiently if the General Assembly is denied information or given all the facts in a manner in which they may be completely applied.

The legislature needs to know in the quickest and most comprehensive way such information as: the monthly summaries of allotments, appropriations and expenditures by the major operating fund, the appropriation allotment schedules and justification data, workmen's compensation records, Kentucky department of transportation's inventory of equipment and the department of personnel files. These are just some of the very important examples of the information slow-down.

Because the law is clear and because the LRC subcommittee is merely a figure-head and a waste of tax dollars, I am removing myself from the subcommittee on statewide information in the help that this drastic action will wake up the General Assembly and make them see that if the Kentucky legislature is to be an independent and representative branch of government, they must have access to all of the Commonwealth's information systems.

For there to be a truly representative state government and for there to be the much needed fiscal responsibility in Kentucky government, the legislature must be able to get whatever information it needs immediately upon request, especially if this information is stored in a state computer. And if the state's bureaucratic agencies do not like it because they will not be able to keep skeletons in their closet, so be it.

Mr. DeMarcus Could Receive Full State Pension Now

Some people have expressed concern to me regarding a retirement pension for Mr. DeMarcus. Long before announcing as a candidate for State Representative, I contacted the proper state authorities to determine if Mr. DeMarcus was eligible for a pension.

Information received from the Kentucky State Retirement Board confirms that Mr. DeMarcus could receive a full state pension now. A Kentucky law passed in 1974 [KRS 61.559] now permits a member of the legislature to receive full benefits after only 4 years of service if he is 65 years of age or over at the time he retires.

 As Mr. DeMarcus has been in office for 16 years and is over 65 years of age, he could now receive a full state retirement pension if he resigned, retired voluntarily or was defeated in an election.
 Mr. DeMarcus has indicated to several people that the main reason he is running for re-election is to secure his retirement. I know the voters of this District will all be happy to know that his retirement is now guaranteed.

Do seasons come earlier or later than they used to?

Some old-time farmers and outdoorsmen say "yes the seasons come earlier in the year" while others are of a different opinion. Each group offers proof to back up the belief.

One 85-year-old farmer, who has spent a lifetime cultivating a Middle Ford River farm in the Quicksand Extension Area, says that back in his younger days, spring came a lot earlier than now. Back then, he said, farmers made a point to have all their corn planting done by the last of March. Another old-timer sitting around the stove in a country store while this discussion took place agreed. He said he remembered hoeing corn in April.

Another senior citizen sitting by the stove chimed in with the statement that for all practical purposes, winter came earlier than now. He recalled that many times during his youth, it often snowed in September when leaves were still on the trees. He recounted how he and his brother went to school barefooted one warm autumn morning. That afternoon they went home with some school-boy friends, to spend the night. In the soft, seductive warmth that early fall evening, they had a fine time playing "whoopie hide" outdoors but when they awoke next morning the weather was a different story. During the night a six-inch snow covered the landscape.

With their shoes at home, the two boys had no alternative but to hit the snow barefooted.

Without access to weather records of times past it is difficult to figure out whether, on the average, the seasons come earlier or later than in times present. Recalling tales of the big snow of May 19, 1894, it is easy to believe that springs came later than usual. On the other hand tales of planting

Laurel County Extension Agent Debby Murray taught Homemaker Club leaders a lesson in "Outdoor Living Spaces." One idea she suggested is to draw the plan of your house and backyard, and figure on paper how the patio, picnic area and other parts of the yard can become additions to the house. Mrs. Murray also showed slides of do's and don't's in using shrubbery. Outdoor Living Spaces will be the theme of March Homemaker Club meetings.

"IMMUNIZATIONS"

start the vaccination series where they stopped the last time.

The sequence for an elementary school age child who has not been vaccinated as an infant is #1-measles and rubella; #2 (one month later), Diphtheria, tetanus and polio; #3 (two months later), second Diphtheria, tetanus and polio. One year later, the child might need a fourth booster shot, Nancy Bradley, of the Rockcastle County Health Department, said.

The sequence for a high school age student who has not been vaccinated is #1 diphtheria, tetanus, and polio; and #2 (four weeks later); second diphtheria, tetanus and polio.

Mrs. Bradley said that children are not usually vaccinated for measles and rubella after they reach puberty.

Children who are entering first grade for kindergarten also will need to take a tuberculin test which is necessary before giving the measles and rubella vaccinations.

Mrs. Bradley said that the vaccinations cannot be given on an "assembly line" basis in the schools because parental permission is required in each case. Parents must understand what the vaccination is about by coming into the Health Department in person and obtaining information, then signing a permission slip.

A guardian or grandparent or babysitter may bring the child in for the actual vaccination as long as the parent signs the permission slip himself first.

The Health Department is located in the Mt. Vernon Courthouse. The immunizations are given the first and third Friday's of every month, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. All service is free.

Every student must have their immunizations through the Health Department, or verify that a private physician performed them before being allowed to go to school next fall.

There will be only two exceptions. If a parent objects for religious reasons, he can have the minister of his church sign a form to that effect. Or if a child is unable to take the immunization for physical reasons, a doctor can verify this in writing.

"FISCAL COURT"

too bad of shape to use even one more year. The Fair exhibits will be shown in the Senior citizens Building, which should be completed by that time.

Harold Ballinger, a member of the Fair Board, said that the Board and Fiscal Court both hope to have a new grandstand by the August Fair, but they are not sure if it can be completed in time.

Judge-Executive, Hubert Thacker said that he, Mr. Ballinger and Jim Cass, of the Tri-

County Community Development Agency, went to Frankfort last Thursday, and were able to secure $2,000 in matching funds from the state's Department of Fairs and Shows. The state will continue to provide up to $2,000 annually if the county also spends that amount at the fairsgrounds.

Judge Thacker said that the county also will apply for a grant of up to $50,000 through Governor's contingency fund earmarked for county fairs.

New Action will Help Savings and Loan Assoc. Make More Home Loans

Savings and loan associations will soon be able to make additional home loans to rural and smalltown families by using a loan guarantee program now offered by Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Action by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board (FHLB), currently underway, will change the rules under which savings and loan associations operate so as to permit them to sue the FmHA home loan guarantee program.

In announcing the new cooperative effort, William E. Burnette, FmHA State Director, explained that the agency may guarantee loans made by savings and loan associations and other lenders up to 90 percent of their value.

DAR Holds Regular Meeting

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR met on Tuesday, March 5th at the home of Mrs. Joe Henderson. Mrs. Wallace Williams, presided with Miss Janie Ramsey serving as Chaplain. The President General's message was read by Mrs. Raymond Towery, and the National Defense Report was given by Mrs. Henderson.

Mrs. Thomas Ashley of Lexington spoke on "Friends in Deeds," telling of genealogical information found by careful study of deeds. She emphasized the importance of checking indexes very carefully. In those days and it is true today people spoke differently and names were written as they sounded to the clerk—so there could be great variation in the spelling of a family name. She also pointed out that it sometimes took years to settle an estate even as much as twenty-five years. She warned that an heir mentioned in a deed or will is not necessarily a child. It could be parent, niece, nephew, brother, etc. She said to be sure to check the small additions added at the end of deeds. The wife's dower right would probably mention her father or mother. The present location of children is often added at the end. The power of attorney is often found placed in deed books. Guardian record is a rich source of genealogical material and often placed in deed books or will books.

"WEDDING" (Cont'd from P-5)

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of white organza and venise lace styled with a high neckline empire bodice and long sheer sleeves. The bodice sleeves were accented with lace and the chapel length train was also edged with lace. Her elbow-length veil, bordered in lace, was attached to a lace cap. The bridal bouquet was bridal pink roses surrounding a cybidium orchid.

The bride's sister, Jo Anne, served as maid-of-honor. She wore a soft rose colored floor-length gown of polyester knit with a pleated skirt. Her bouquet was of miniature pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

Flower girl was Amanda Johnson, who wore a soft rose floor-length gown and carried a

Of interest to those living in counties where the court house has burned is the fact that during the 1850's the State of Kentucky kept marriage records. Much genealogical material can be found in Circuit Court Records.

Though the Fayette County Courthouse burning in 1803, Fayette County District Court records go back to the 1780's. After the fire many people re-registered their marriage records and also their deeds. The partially burned records are preserved and available in Kentucky Historical Society Library in Frankfort.

The Rockcastle Chapter deeply appreciates Mrs. Ashley bringing this excellent program to the chapter.

basket of pink and white rose petals.

Ring bearer was John David Riddle, brother of the bride. Joe Ryan of Louisa served as best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Riddle chose a soft rose floral crepe dress with off-white accessories and she wore a cybidium orchid corsage.

Mrs. Caperton was attired in a deep lavender crepe dress with black accessories. She also wore a cybidium corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home. Seating at the bride's table were Miss Angela Stricklin and Mrs. Joyce Stricklin, both aunts of the bride. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by miniature wedding bells.

After a wedding trip to Florida, the couple are making their home in Huntington, West Virginia.

The bride is a graduate of Rockcastle County High School and attended Eastern Kentucky University and the University of Kentucky. Mr. Caperton graduated from Louisa High School, attended the University of Kentucky and is presently employed by Ashland Oil Co.

Mrs. Caperton is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Riddle of Mt. Vernon and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stricklin of Somerset.

Times have changed... but not Cox service.

Life's bound to change, techniques have changed. Priorities have changed. People, however, are much the same as they were and have always been.

The hurts, the happiness, the fears, and the hopes inside people go on and on as the landscape changes. So, in a way, the services we provide today for our friends and neighbors are not different than those provided by our founder, W. A. Cox, over seventy years ago. The quality of our professional care and the type of personal attention we give has established a reputation you can depend on.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Proctor attended the Rockets ballgame Tuesday night at Middleboro-so did a lot more people-but a lot more people got back home the same night. The Proctor's car quit in downtown Middleboro when they started home. Four young men tried to fix the car and also two policemen-no mechanic duty in town. After one and one half hours everyone gave up and a very nice young policeman found a motel with a vacancy and took them to it, where they spent the night, after calling home Wednesday morning as turning they in they asked to use the phone to call a taxi, and explained why, since we were a ways out of town. The young man there picked up his keys and insisted he take them in his snazzy sports car. He left them at a parts store the man there made a phone call, someone else picked them up in a small pickup truck and checked the car and said it would have to be towed, so took the Proctor's to a garage and with a wrecker and pulled their care to an auto electric shop. Then took them to the car where the mechanic worked until two o'clock. And decided the piece they needed had to be ordered from Knoxville. Another call home and their daughters, Louise and Elizabeth, also Billy Ray, came to Middleboro and brought them home. Their son, Doug, took them back the next afternoon to pick up the car. School Entrance Age Rules Have Changed Parents that plan to enter their children this fall in first grade or kindergarten should be careful not to overlook the new state law that requires a child to be five years of age by September 1 to enter kindergarten and a child to be six years of age by September 1 to enter the first grade. If your child will be five years of age between September 1 and December 31, and you wish to enter him in kindergarten or your child will be six years of age between September 1 and December 31 and you wish to enter him in the first grade, you may request an application at the office of the county school superintendent on Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon. The application is for a readiness test to determine if your child will qualify for the desired program.

A date in April will be announced for the test to be given in each of the elementary schools. A child that is currently enrolled in either kindergarten or first grade will need not be concerned about this regulation, because they are exempt from this state law.

Children who are five years of age by September 1 are in school, instead of seven years of age in the past. These children may go to kindergarten if their parents give their consent. Without parent approval, the child must be placed in the first grade.

Is Cave House-Wave of the Future?

John Holbrook Thinks So

By Jane Kundtz

Being a cave man may be the wave of the future, according to John Holbrook of Broadhead.

In fact, Mr. Holbrook is so enthusiastic about living underground he is currently building an "earth-powered cave house" near Lake Linville. He is also encouraging others to do the same, and has become a franchise dealer for a company that owns the cave house idea.

Mr. Holbrook became interested in the houses about four years ago, after reading a magazine article.

"The earth's temperature remains constant underground," he said, "about 52 degrees. So when you build underground, you only have to provide about 10 to 15 degrees of heat or cooling. You just don't have the fuel bills you get with a conventional house."

He and his family later made a trip to Arminington, Illinois, to visit the designer of cave houses, Andy Davis. Mr. Davis' own house is heated solely by a wood-burning stove, and in the worst of winters in 1976, the Davis house required only two truckloads of wood. "In one four-day period, the temperature outside varied by as much as 50 degrees, but the Davis house never dropped below 62 degrees, even without heat from the stove."

Mr. Holbrook also learned that the houses are not usually built entirely underground, but with an exterior side open to the south where the sun enters to provide more free heat and light.

Ground level might be about two feet beneath the roof of the house, which is reinforced to withstand pressures of over 400 pounds. Mr. Holbrook's house will have walls, floors and ceilings of concrete, which will conduct and hold in the heat of the house. This effect, along with the natural insulation of two feet of dirt, will eliminate the need for conventional heating and air conditioning.

Mr. Holbrook said that some of the cave houses are built without one side open to the sun, and you enter them by going down steps built from the top of the roof. The roof usually contains a skylight, again for solar energy, although some can be built without the skylight and thus have more earth insulation.

"The houses can be as big as any five- or six-bedroom home, and some plans call for swimming pools and built-in garages. They can be built in any terrain of land, using plans from 'Davis Cave Earth-Powered Homes.'"

But, won't the house be dark and gloomy without a lot of windows? Mr. Holbrook said absolutely not.

"In the ones I have been through, you don't even know you are underground," he said. "Light comes in through the open exterior, or the skylight, and you have plenty of artificial lights, of course."

Mr. Holbrook said that his son and daughter are enthusiastic about the cave house, but his wife was skeptical at first. He said that she gradually became sold on the idea after visiting cave houses in Knox County and Indiana, and is looking forward to building theirs this summer.

He has the names of 17 people in this area who might be interested in building a cave house, and after his build, he expects to help others do the same. Still, Mr. Holbrook expects to take some teasing about living underground. But when you consider that the fuel bill for one cave house last month was $1.50, he may just have the last laugh.
