Former Jailier Convicted Of Assaulting Prisoner

A former Rockcastle County jailier was convicted last week in Circuit Court of assaulting a prisoner on December 18, 1977 at the jail. The jury recommended that Larnie Durham, the jailier, be sentenced to thirty days in jail along with a $500 fine plus court costs. Formal sentencing is set for April 17.
Tim Bullock had accused Mr. Durham of intentionally assaulting him while he was being detained at the jail.

The only other major case before the Circuit Court is that of three men accused of torturing and killing two horses belonging to Bennett Burton on August 5, 1978. The case has been postponed until one of the men has been examined by a psychiatrist.

Health Department's Proposed Building May be Constructed at Site Near Library

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court approved a site for the proposed building for the county Health Department at its regular meeting Tuesday. The site is on county-owned property near the library.

Dr. George W. Griffith, president of the Health Department Board, told the magistrates, "We have looked at many sites and think this one will suit us to a 'T'. There will be plenty of room for parking, too."

The Health Department and the Fiscal Court is working together to secure a grant of $122,000 from the state to finance the one-story 3,000 square foot building. Another $122,000 for the project would be raised from local sources. Dr. Griffith said that the Department has hired a consultant to help coordinate the project.

In other business, the court turned down a proposal presented by District Court Judges Daniel Venters and Walter Maguire, and Trial Commissioner Robert Robinson. The three asked that some changes be made in the District Court room including the removal of the last row of chairs and a wooden barrier in front of the judge's desk. Judge Maguire in a letter written March 27 to Mr. Robinson, said, "I think it imperative that the wooden barrier which separates the jury seats from the bench be removed," adding that the bar "contributes to congestion...and makes it difficult for (People) to gather for consultation at the bench." He said the last row of seats should be removed to "provide a more orderly flow of traffic...and to permit those who wish to observe proceedings to secure seating without having to come all the way to the front or having to squeeze past seats on the far sides of the courtroom."

Joe Clark's motion to approve the suggested changes died for a lack of a second. After the meeting, magistrate Frank DeBorde said that the courtroom was for county use first, and he

The Rockcastle County school system got a report card this week from the Kentucky Department of Education, and with it came recommendations on how to improve.

The "Facilities Survey Report," issued every four years, was presented Monday to the Rockcastle School Board. The Board has 60 days to go over the report and adopt or reject its recommendations.

The report was done by a survey team of five experts who went into every classroom and administrative area of every school. They inspected facilities only, and the report in no way mentions the quality of teaching by individual teachers.

In general, the schools rated good to fair, with only a few excellent and poor ratings. Rockcastle County High School got the highest marks, and no recommendations were made for its improvement. Every department of the high school and the Harry Sparks Vocation School rated "good," and the library, food service, vocal music, and band rooms received excellent ratings.

Roundstone School likewise received good ratings for facilities, but Mt. Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston were judged mostly fair to adequate. Blue Springs should be considered an "interim" facility, according to the report, and its condition was judged to be poor. However, classrooms at Blue Springs received a "fair" rating.

The survey team is predicting some growth in the number of children the schools will serve in the future. "During the period between 1972 and 1977, annual daily membership in the county schools varied by only one student," the report says. "But by the end of 1978, the district had shown an increase of over 100 students. This trend should be watched very closely for with the old crowded facilities in the middle and ele-

The system should start a building program with top priority given to the construction of a middle school for 7th and 8th graders. "This would relieve overcrowding at Mt. Vernon elementary and remove the need for an addition to the Roundstone elementary," according to the report. It should have a capacity of 600 students and be in the Mt. Vernon area.
Mt. Vernon Elementary should build a new cafeteria, physical education facility and 12 basic classrooms to replace the substandard classrooms in relocatables and the concrete block buildings.
"Extended planning should call for a low elementary to

Fiscal Court Hires People to Construct Roads, Senior Center and Water Lines At Brodhead Fairgrounds This Spring

Construction work at the Brodhead Fairgrounds on road, water lines, and a Senior Citizens Center should begin soon, according to County Judge Executive Hubert Thacker.

At a meeting last week, the Fiscal Court opened bids from five contractors on the Senior Citizens Center, and accepted one from Carter Johnson of Berea. Mr. Johnson's original bid was $39,916, but after negotiation with the Fiscal Court, he came down to $38,600.

All four other bids were at least $8,000 over Mr. Johnson's. Mr. Johnson has until the first week of July to finish the building, which will have a kitchen, and two large assembly rooms, one of which can be used for crafts.
Besides the Senior Citizens

Center, construction work on roads to back property in the Fairgrounds should begin soon. Judge Thacker said that county workers using county equipment will build the black top road, with S.B. Riddle of Mt. Vernon working along with them.
The center Show Ring will also be rebuilt and the bleachers on the inside of the track should be improved before the Brodhead Fair, which is in the second week of August. Judge Thacker said.
The water superintendent and crew from the city of Brodhead has agreed to put in water and sewer lines at the Fairgrounds.
Improvements to the Fairgrounds and the Senior citizens Center are being paid for with a grant of over $271,000 from the federal government.

Fireman Gary Hanel sprays water on a 3 A.M. fire Wednesday at a Poplar Street house owned by Louise Fletcher. A next-door neighbor, David Shivel, called the Mt. Vernon Fire Department, who came with an entire crew and two engines, including the new one. Fire Chief John Cox said that the roof of the house was already falling when the men arrived, though they were able to contain and extinguish it by 5:30 a.m. Chief Cox said that no one was living in the house at the time, and cause of the fire has not been determined.

Legislative News

By Harold DeMarcus

In August of 1978, the Legislative Research Commission authorized the Interim Joint Committee for State Government to establish a subcommittee on state vehicles and property. The purpose of the subcommittee is to formulate legislation that will more clearly define how Kentucky's elected officials may use state vehicles. Most of the controversies have dealt with the state's 13-plane airfleet and how the governor may use them. However, the subcommittee's most recent meeting dealt with and involved the Lt. Governor.

For many years, it has been the practice of the Kentucky State Police to provide security details for the Governor's and Lt. Governor's mansions. Also, the state Bureau of Corrections provide prison trustees for the respective mansions to do domestic chores.

The Governor's executive security unit consist of 16 state police officers and the Lt. Governor's mansion became hungry. Supposedly there was no food in the mansion and the trooper did not wish to leave his post.

So the trooper sent one of the prison trustees assigned to the mansion out to get him a pizza. The trooper let the inmate use his state police car to run the errand.

Coming back with the pizza, driving at a high rate of speed, the prison trustee crashed into four parked vehicles in South Frankfort and damaged a sidewalk and steps, as well as destroying the police car and injuring himself.

Rep. gubernatorial Candidate Ray White met and talked with those attending his speaking at the Courthouse last Friday night. He is shown here talking with David Bales, Deputy Clerk. Approximately 100 people attended the speaking at which Mr. White expressed some of his political views.

If the accident hadn't occurred the price of the pizza would have been under $5.00. But when you total the damages to the four parked automobiles, the sidewalk and steps, the state police car and injuries to the prison, the total price of that pizza was $11,132. Now that's a high price for anyone to pay, especially considering that Kentucky taxpayers picked up the tab.

Although the situation was not without humor, there are some very serious aspects. The prisoner who was deemed negligent in the accident is serving a sentence for armed robbery.

The subcommittee wanted to know if, while driving the state police car he had access to any weapons. It was found that the trustee had no access to weapons in the unmarked state police car, since no weapons or ammunition are carried in the vehicles assigned to the executive security detail.

Because the accident occurred very near Frankfort High School, the subcommittee wanted to know who would have been liable if the state vehicle driven by an inmate had injured or killed a group of students. Of course, a prisoner is not a state employee but he is under the direction of the state Bureau of Corrections, thus the state would have been liable for personal injury just as it was for property damage.

A state regulation says that inmates who hold valid operator's licenses may drive, unaccompanied, official cars assigned to the executive mansions when authorized by the officers in charge. So it seems that inmates assigned to the mansion details may use state vehicles to run errands such as picking up groceries. However, all concerned must realize that running an errand for a late-night snack is not like answering a three alarm fire. Since the April 13th accident, no prisoners have been allowed to drive any state vehicles. The state trooper in question is still assigned to the Lt. Governor's mansion, the prison trustee is up for parole and the subcommittee is still investigating.

It's A Shame . . .

But Rockcastle County still loses

many of its finest young people

due to lack of work at home.

Hundreds of Rockcastle County families have sons and daughters who were forced to leave their home and go to surrounding cities and states because no employment was available here.

For years, the citizens of this county have begged state government for help in locating industry and creating jobs. But Rockcastle is a small county, and all of our representatives live somewhere else. It's little wonder, therefore, that we receive almost no attention. Recently, our concerned citizens, our magistrates and County Judge and the Rockcastle County Improvement Council have taken the initiative and found some industry willing to locate here. But this is only a start and much remains to be done.

It's about time that Rockcastle County receives its fair share of attention from state government. It's time our young people are given the right to find jobs here so they can stay at home.

Identifying Growth and Development Patterns

Mental Health Matters

It's a known fact that children grow and develop at different rates and in different ways. How can parents identify unusual growth and development patterns that warrant serious concern and perhaps professional help?

Most parents who seldom obey parental directions, is physically abusive to other children, or fails to learn to read by second or third grade is clearly in trouble. What about the girl who seems alert—except that she demands excessive personal attention and affection or the teinageliter boy who is excessively mischievous, withdrawn, or without friends? Parents often neglect problems like those just described in hopes that they are just temporary or "nothing to worry about."

For reliable information and/or help contact your pediatrician or local mental health center. Serious problems of later life can often be prevented or lessened if attended to in childhood.

For further information concerning Parent Education, contact your local Comprehensive Care Office, 256-2129.

One "city" in Kentucky hasn't had any inflation this year and is smoothly run by a ten-year-old mayor.

The city is Paradise City and the mayor is Mike Vargasko.

Paradise City exists within the walls of Barbara O'Connell's fifth grade classroom at Kingsolver Elementary School in Fort Knox. For two years the simulated city has helped reinforce the English and math skills of O'Connell's fifth graders and has taught them the basic principles of democracy.

O'Connell developed the idea of the mock city, with its bank and elected officials, as a means of helping students put their skills to work "in a way that is not painful for them."

"I wish I had had something like this in my education."

Paradise City is not a game. Students have checkbooks and balance sheets, and they pay property and income taxes. And if one should break the rules of the city, he or she pays a fine levied by the officials elected by the class.

Every student has two jobs to do each week. Some consist of regular jobs such as cleaning areas of the class, washing the chalkboard or passing out papers. Students also have academic contracts to fulfill which may mean self-testing or working on a particular math or English skill.

Paradise City has its own currency. The students are paid a salary for completing their work and bonuses for doing extra work. Out of this they must pay property taxes, based on where they live, and income tax. The tax form is the Paradise City 10-90.

"Everyone can participate in the town," O'Connell said. "The basic skills required are simple. But there is room for the more advanced students to excel, mainly through starting businesses."

To start a business, a student must have a bank balance of $100 and demonstrate good conduct and study habits. Also the business must not cost the student or his parents very much real money.

"There are about seven businesses operating right now," said O'Connell. "One girl sells popcorn. Other students sell things they make, such as bookmarkers and woodburnings."

The elected officials, a mayor and three city council members, maintain order in Paradise City. Students caught disrupting class or running in the halls are fined. Only the elected officials can levy fines and students must pay them. "There's no abuse of power because I say there won't be," added O'Connell.

"I'm not trying to teach any complex democratic and economic principles," she said. "Just the broad, basic concepts. You have to work to earn money, and you need to spend it wisely."

"Some parents have told me they were impressed by the program. And the students seem to be learning from it. One student said, 'It's fun to act like a grown-up.'"

O'Connell said. Like their parents, students in Paradise City are preparing for the April 15 deadline for taxes. The advanced math students will be profiting from taxes since they will be opening up their own version of H and R Block.

White asked in the interview and at the meeting that voters think before voting in the primary and to vote for the man who could win in November against the Democrats rather than use the primary as a "popularity contest."

White admitted that his main problem was going to be name recognition against his more well-known opponent in the primary but said he was overcoming this with his full-time state wide campaigning.

Mr. White was introduced at the meeting by local attorney Bill Gregory and Sam Ford ended the meeting with remarks as to why he was support White's candidacy.

County Agent's Notes

By H. Lee Durham
County Extension Agent
For Agriculture

Moss and Algae in the Lawn
The presence of moss in a lawn indicates a basic fault in that lawn. Moss never invades a dense, vigorously growing turf. The presence of moss is usually associated with low fertility, poor drainage, high soil acidity, improper watering, too much shade, soil compaction, or a combination of these factors. Lack of fertility and poor drainage are the most common causes of moss invasion. A regular balanced fertilizer program will go a long way toward preventing moss. Established moss may be removed by hand raking, "burning" with ammonium sulfate, or spraying with copper sulfate. When removing moss with ammonium sulfate, apply concentrated amounts to the moss spots when the moss is damp and refrain from watering the material into the soil. Copper sulfate may be applied at a rate of 5 ounces of copper sulfate in 4 gallons of water per 1,000 square feet. After the moss has been removed, be sure to correct the basic cause and follow with management practices that will produce a dense, vigorous turf. Algae may be found growing in most areas under trees where it is often mistaken for moss. It is a fresh water plant which may be eliminated by spraying with one teaspoon of copper sulfate in eight gallons of water. Algae will return if the cause—usually poor drainage, inadequate light, or low fertility—is not corrected.

Magnesium Supplements Prevent Grass Tetany

This is the time of year when an otherwise healthy cow can be dead within a few hours. The culprit is grass tetany, a disorder that usually affects cattle from early March until mid-April. Grass tetany is caused by a low level of magnesium in the blood. Duane Miksch, an Extension veterinarian at the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture Princeton station, reminds cattlemen that magnesium supplements are necessary to protect grazing cattle from grass tetany. "Watch supplements to make sure you don't run out," advises Miksch. He notes that a couple of days without the supplement could prove fatal. Grass tetany usually appears in late winter and early spring when low temperatures mean little water is evaporating from the soil. This upsets the oxygen balance, preventing the uptake of magnesium by plants. "Most good producers have experienced grass tetany in the past and recognize the need for supplement with magnesium since cows don't seem to store magnesium in the body," says Miksch. Grass tetany quickly leads to the death of an animal that is not treated. Symptoms of the disorder include excitement in an otherwise calm animal, lack of coordination, severe twitching, grinding of teeth and frequent urination. Convulsions usually follow early symptoms, and coma and death occur if an animal is not treated. What Is A Farm? According to the January 3, 1979 release from the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service a "farm" has been redefined and includes "places which had annual sales of agricultural products of $1,000 or more." Using this definition in 1978 there were 99,000 farms in Kentucky. The average farm size was 146 acres. Estimates for 1979 are 96,000 farms and an average size of 150 acres. The average helicopter can cruise one mile every 48 seconds. GROW PICKLES FOR CASH CROP For information, contact: WILLIAM K. The team went undefeated for three straight years until they were beaten once in 1978. Members of the team are, left to right: Diane Martin, Melissa Arnold, Patricia Parker, Holly Waddle and Jennifer Tankersley. Second row:

Melissa Partin, Dora Gilbert and Myrtle Pig. Third row: Celina Burdine, Shirley McHargue, Libbie Ruppe, Theresa Sturgill and Coach, Preston Parrett. Livingston took a clean sweep of all four county basketball championships - a records that the coach said could be equaled but never broken.

Livingston Girls Win

7th & 8th Grade Tourney

By: Coach Preston Parrett

The Livingston 7th and 8th Girls re-captured the county championship tournament this year by defeating Mt. Vernon girls 40-32.

Over a six-year period the girls have won 56 games and lost only 4 games. They compiled 43 consecutive victories before being defeated. They have won 5 out of 6 county Championship Tournaments. Mt. Vernon has the other championship, acquired in an overtime victory in the '77-'78 season.

We would like to congratulate our coaches, players, cheerleaders, students and fans for winning all four county championship trophies this season. This is a record which can never be broken, but only tied.

We would also like to express our appreciation to the Livingston Fire Dept. and the Livingston Police Dept. for providing the teams with victory escorts through town following the championship victories. We salute our teams on a "clean sweep" and our fans for your continued loyal support.

In Memory of our Mother, Ollie Travillan, who passed away April 7, 1978

Like a lovely red rose springing up alone in barren ground, you enhanced our life with a beauty so proud and dignified. You've shone in the sun, warm and vibrant; bending with the breeze, strong and resilient. You taught us to endure, to be strong and use our days worthily.

My Bible tells me that a word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver. What words could be more fitly spoken than the beautiful words, "Happy are the people whose God is the Lord."

Though your days, like the shadows, have declined and your body likened to the withered grass, which one day covers us all, we will carry our pictures of silver always. A rare rose who endured; never losing her beauty and dignity, nor her wonderful faith, from beginning to the end.

Turkey Permit Required

For the first time this year, all Kentucky wild turkey hunters are required to purchase a special "turkey permit." Fish and Wildlife Commissioner Carl E. Kays reminded the state's sportsmen today.

The permit, which costs $5.50 for both residents and non-residents, is required in addition to the appropriate annual resident or non-resident hunting license. Kays said, adding that the 2-day non-resident license is not valid for turkey hunting, each hunter taking a turkey must have a bird checked at the nearest check station or by a conservation officer no later than 6 p.m. on the day the turkey is taken. A portion of the permit will be retained by the check station operator and the remaining portion attached to the bird.

A list of check stations in open counties is attached to each turkey permit. Kays said. Hunters are limited to one turkey gobbler with visible beard per year.

Turkey hunting will be permitted April 21 through April 30 in eight eastern Kentucky counties (Bath, Jackson, Lee, Letcher, Menifee, Owsley, Pike—except Breaks Interstate Park—and Rowan) and in one west-central county Butler.

Hunters may hunt from one-half hour before sunrise until noon, prevailing time, and may use shotguns from 10 through 20 gauge, muzzle-loading shotguns and muzzle-loading rifles. Breach loading rifles may not be used.

Turkeys may also be taken with longbows and compound bows. Cross bows are permitted only on the Pioneer Weapons area in Bath and Menifee Counties. Arrows must be fitted with broad-head points at least 7/8 inch wide, Kays said.

Special hunts* will also be conducted on Land Between the Lakes (April 11 through April 29) Ft. Campbell (April 21, 22, 28, 29) and Ft. Knox (all Saturdays and Sundays in April). Military and civilian post personnel have first priority at Ft. Knox, but a limited number of off-post civilians will be allowed to hunt.

Consumer Comments

By Robert F. Stephens
Attorney General

Have you ever needed a large, expensive item for just a short period of time—too short a time to be worth buying the item? If you need a car, furniture or some other appliance or personal property for only a certain amount of time, perhaps leasing is a better idea than buying.

If you are an individual leasing personal for more than four months and will use it for personal, family or household use, the Federal Consumer Leasing Act requires leasing companies to tell you the facts about the cost and terms of their contracts.

With this information, you can compare the cost of leasing with the cost of buying or even the cost of leasing from another company.

Before you agree to a lease, the law requires you to get a written statement of the costs. You must also be informed about certain terms of the lease, including types of insurance needed, warranties on the property, who is responsible for maintenance, penalties for default, cancellation clauses, and whether or not you can buy the property and at what price.

There are basically two kinds of lease payments: open end and closed end.

In an open end lease, you are responsible for the value of the property at the end of the lease. If at the end of the leasing period than the leasing company's original estimate, you may have to make a balloon payment. A balloon payment means that you must pay the difference between the original estimated end value and the actual end value. The leasing company must tell you before you sign that you may have a balloon payment and how it is calculated. Also at the end of the lease you have the right to obtain an estimate of the property's worth from an independent appraiser. Both parties must abide by the estimate. The law limits any balloon payment to no more than three times the average monthly payment.

In a closed end lease, you are not responsible for the property's value at the end of the lease, but the monthly payments will probably be higher as a result.

When you decide to lease or buy, consider all expenses such as insurance, maintenance and special fees. To help you make the decision of cash, credit, or open end lease, the leasing company is required to tell you the total amount for which you are responsible under the lease, the value of the property at the beginning of the lease, and the difference between the two.

The law also requires that if a leasing company advertises costs and downpayments, the ad must contain other information such as total of regular payments, your responsibilities at the end of the lease, and whether you can buy the item.

replace the present Livingston school," according to the report. An addition should be built to Harry Sparks Vocation School to provide programs in Auto Body and Carpentry.

The above are long-range projects, but the survey team also came up with some short-range goals for Rockcastle schools.

- 1) Provide more exploratory and enrichment programs for upper elementary school pupils. Addition of an art specialist appears to merit consideration.
- 2) Air condition the business office, radio and TV and two other classrooms at Sparks school.
- 3) Replace windows at Broadhead School.
- 4) Upgrade lighting at Broadhead and Roundstone.
- 5) Start a general program of site improvements at all schools.

you'll have no trouble and plenty of money." He earned more than $4,500 during his peak years.

Jack Chinn, a Meiser County horseman, said he asked Murphy "what his horse the Ban Fox at St. Louis." "It was the time that Bankrupt was sweeping everything before him, and I asked Murphy if he thought he could beat Bankrupt in the next race."

"What can your horse do the distance in?" he asked me. I told him he could run the three-quarters—that was the distance—in 1:14 1/2. "If he can do that I can win," he said, "because Bankrupt can't do it."

The next day Chinn took Murphy out to the track and gave him instructions. As usual, Bankrupt shot out on the lead. Ban Fox followed two or three lengths behind. Murphy kept Ban Fox behind Bankrupt until "it was just .49 to the dot. In the last quarter he (Murphy) closed up on Bankrupt, passed him, and came under the string an easy winner," said Chinn. "I looked at the time when it was hung up. It was just 1:14 1/2."

Murphy's career started downhill when he was charged with drunkenness while aboard a horse named Firenze in a race at Monmouth Park on August 26, 1890. Murphy denied being drunk, saying he was weak from losing weight. Many turfmen said he had been drugged. His last year of racing was 1895, when he won only two of 20 starts.

He died of pneumonia in 1896 at the age of 35. All his life, Murphy maintained a constant battle with weight. He kept himself at 100 pounds during the season. Off season, his weight would climb to 130 or 140 pounds. Due to his weakened condition during the racing season, Murphy was prone to illness.

His funeral was the biggest in Lexington's history up to then, with 500 people, black and white, in attendance. He was buried in a Lexington cemetery which through the years became neglected, so that his grave was lost for decades. Recently Murphy's remains were moved to the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington and placed next to those of Man o' War.

Plans Progressing for May 10th Rockcastle Revue

The Woman's Club of Mt. Vernon has lined up 20 acts for its "Rockcastle Revue," a variety show for and performed by local people. The show is set for May 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Renfro Valley Barn.

Leah Riddle, one of the coordinators of the show, said that auctioneer Sam Ford will be master of ceremonies, and introduce skits, musical numbers and all kinds of talent from the community. Proceeds from the show will benefit the civil and charitable activities of the club.

Tickets for the Revue will cost $2 for adults and $1 for children, and can be purchased from Woman's Club members, or at the door. For more information, call Mrs. Riddle, at 256-4709.

The Woman's Club is one of the oldest in the county, having been organized in 1909. Throughout its long history, the club has sponsored many projects, including awards for young people in art, good citizenship, and scholarship. The Club started and still maintains the small park on Main Street in Mt. Vernon, and the shrubbery around the Rockcastle County Hospital.

Its 34 members meet once a month in The Bank of Mt. Vernon, and are affiliated with the Kentucky Federation of Women's Club. Besides the civil work, the members also enjoy social activities, such as an "International Dinner," in which members cooked dishes using recipes from all over the world.

"Famous Kentuckians"

Isaac Burns Murphy

by JoD Neace

Black, five-foot-tall Isaac Burns Murphy won 44 percent of all the horse races he rode in a record that has not been broken by any American jockey. And he was a Kentuckian.

He is recognized primarily for his Kentucky Derby record, winning three in all, which was not equaled until 1930 by Earle Sande and not surpassed until 1948 by Eddie Arcaro when he won his fourth Derby on Citation.

Murphy won the 1884 Derby on Riley, and the 1891 Derby on Kingman.

The 1891 "walking Derby" was the slowest ever run at one-and-a-half miles: 2:52. Trainers of the horses had told their riders to stay off the pace. Dudley Allen, trainer and half-owner of a Kewanee, explained, "I told Murphy to 'lay' for Balgowan. I told him if Balgowan walked, then he was to walk. And he came near doing it."

Although Murphy is remembered for his Derby victories, he won races that were more important at that time than the Kentucky Derby. He won four of the first five American Derbies in Chicago and won five Latonia Derbies as well as the Swift, the Travers and the Saratoga Cup. And, of course, well-remembered is Murphy's victory over Tenny in the celebrated match races in which he rode Salvador.

Born on the traditional birthday of Thoroughbreds, January 1, in 1861 in Fayette County, Murphy's last name was originally Burns. His mother changed his name to Murphy in honor of her father, with whom she lived after her husband's death.

Murphy got his start in the racing business by galloping horses for the Owings and Williams stable. Trained by "Uncle Eli" Jordan, also a black, he was riding in races in 1875. His first big stakes winning was in 1877 at Churchill Downs, where he rode a horse named Vera Cruz.

It is said that Murphy had an uncanny sense of pace, had a pleasing personality and was incorruptible. "Isaac could have made enough to buy a Bluegrass farm if he would have agreed to lose on Falsetto in the Kenner Stakes of 1879," according to L.P. Tartton in his article on Isaac Murphy in the March 21, 1896, issue of the Thoroughbred Record. Murphy is said to have told a fellow jockey, "You just ride to win. They get you to pull a horse in a selling race, and when it comes to a stake race, they get Isaac to ride. A jockey that'll sell out to one man will sell out to another. Just be honest and

THE MT. VERNON SIGNAL
Thursday, March 29, 1979

Rockcastle's Future Homemakers Club sent these representatives to a state meeting in Louisville where one of them was elected a state officer. Theresa Glovak (second from left) was elected State Song Leader, the first state office held by a Rockcastle countian in the organization of 16,000 members. Teresa Arnold and Janice Jones (left of Miss Glovak) won state honors with their report books on self-improvement goals and community activities. With the FHA members is their home economics teacher, Mrs. June Stevens.

Rockcastle's Use of $15,216 From Coal Severance Monies Approved

A $15,216.85 allocation, recommended by the Rockcastle County Coal Severance Economic Aid Board, has been approved according to Commissioner William S. O'Daniel, Department for Local Government.

The county will use the money to purchase a truck and trailer to transport equipment from one county project to another. The same pieces of equipment are used at the industrial park, county fairgrounds, recreational park, sanitary landfill and other public areas. Relocating this equipment has proven both expensive and time consuming for the county.

Economic aid funds were established by Gov. Julian Carroll in 1976 and approved by the 1976 and 1978 legislatures, with $10 million allocated from coal severance money each biennium.

Funds are allocated to the 47 coal producing counties on a formula that includes population and per capita income. An economic aid board in each county selects achieve in the organization. To achieve this, a FHA member must show leadership in home, school and community.

Also during the meeting, Theresa Glovak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Glovak of Brodhead, Kentucky Association of Future Homemakers of America.

She will help guide and direct the activities of the 16,000 FHA'ers in the state of Kentucky. Theresa is a third year homemaking student at Rockcastle County High where she serves as 2nd vice president for the local FHA chapter and Honor Roll Chairman for the thirteen region.

Along with the many responsibilities inherent with serving as a state officer, one treat in store will be a trip to the national FHA meeting in Washington, D.C.

We, at Rockcastle Co. High, feel extremely proud of Theresa for being elected to this high position. As far as records show, this is a "first" for Rockcastle County in the many years homemaking education has been a part of the school curriculum.

Tornado Season is Here

Kentucky experienced its first tornado March 23 in Calloway County, prompting state Disaster and Emergency Services officials to remind all Kentuckians of actions to take during a tornado "watch" and "warning."

"Tornadoes can occur at any time," said Wilbur Buntin, Executive Director of DES, "but we know that they are most common around the Commonwealth in spring and early summer."

Tornadoes form so suddenly, and are often so short-lived, sometimes lasting only a few minutes, that the best way to deal with them is a well rehearsed plan for quick action when one approaches.

"A watch is issued by the National Weather Service whenever conditions exist that could cause tornadoes," Buntin said,

"and there are definite actions that should be taken."

He advised that during a watch individuals should determine the best shelter area for use if necessary and clear the lawn of outdoor furniture, trash cans or any other objects that might be blown away, since such items can be deadly weapons in high winds.

Local Students Participate in State FHA Meet

Future Homemakers of America from Rockcastle County were among 1,300 junior and senior high home economics students attending the 34th annual state meeting held at Ramada Inn in Louisville March 30 and 31. Attending from here were Janice Jones, Theresa Glovak, Teresa Arnold and their advisor, June Stevens.

Mrs. Janie Olmstead Head, a former State FHA president, former Miss Kentucky and now owner of a charm and modeling school, spoke to the group on the subject of "Tomorrow - It's Up to the Youth of Today."

Nation's president of the over one-half million members of FHA addressed the group at the banquet session Friday night. Miss Laura Riggs is a senior high student at Danville, Illinois.

The highlight of the two-day meeting was the conferring of the state homemakers degrees. Janice Jones and Theresa Glovak received this coveted honor. This is the highest honor a member may

"Whenever the shelter is," Buntin continued, "all pictures, mirrors and other hanging objects should be removed from the walls."
He also noted that schools have tornado plans and that parents should not go to schools when a warning is given.
"Parents only expose themselves and their children to needless risk," he added. "In nearly every case the child will be safer in school than at home."
Buntin reported that additional safety information is available through local DES, civil defense, and other emergency preparedness organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bullock were visited by their daughter, Ruby, Scanning and her son, John, of Louisville on Sunday. Ruby and her husband are in the home building business in Louisville.

areas should remain tuned to a local radio or television station and watch the sky to the southwest.

Buntin noted that several radio stations in the state have installed radar systems in the past year and coupled with television station radars the state will be better covered for tracking storms. A warning is issued when a funnel has actually been sighted. People in affected areas should take immediate safety precautions.

If a "warning" is issued, people in the affected area should insure that windows are open on two sides of the house, east and north, so air can pass through, without creating a vacuum.

Residents should also insure that everyone in the household or immediate area is warned and seek shelter immediately.

EXTENSION HOME ECONOMICS

By Cheryl Witt
County Extension Agent
For Home Economics

Alcohol and Pregnancy Don't Mix

Alcohol can cause birth defects in children of mothers who drink heavily during pregnancy. Heavy drinking is defined as three or more ounces of absolute alcohol per day. This is equivalent to six or more ounces of 100-proof liquor.

The first defects include mental retardation, abnormal growth and other malformations. Heavy drinkers who reduce their alcohol consumption during pregnancy have infants with fewer abnormalities.

There is new evidence that even moderate alcohol intake (two or four drinks per day) is harmful during pregnancy and may increase the risk of birth defects. Mothers who drink moderately are known to give birth to small babies. It is also possible that consumption of moderate amounts of alcohol may result in mental deficiency and learning and behavioral problems in children.

A safe level of alcohol for a pregnant woman has not been determined. So the best advice is, if you're pregnant, don't drink.

Save Money and Still Have Quality with Master Mix

You can save money and at the same time improve your nutrition by making a master mix to prepare biscuits, pancakes, rolls, cookies, etc. from the same mix.

Compare the current grocery store prices for similar convenience products and see where the savings are. You can save 30 percent for dinner rolls, 33 percent for pancakes and waffles, and 50 percent for oatmeal cookies by using this mix.

Directions for making three kinds of master mixes are available from your local Cooperative Extension Service. Ask for a copy of ENP-7, Home-made Master Mix.

Invest a Little Time For a Big Payoff

Like most athletes, each of us is worried about winning or losing. The saying, "You win some, you lose some," may make you feel more comfortable, but deepinside we all know that the real name of the game is to win. That's why we always set our sights a little bit higher and strive to achieve.

When two teams compete in a sporting event, one team typically wins and the other loses. It's impossible for both teams to win at the same time. But when it comes to human development and interpersonal relationships, it's possible for all of us to be winners when we're competing within ourselves. Take time to look at yourself—find the "good guys and the bad guys." Note which habits are helpful and which are harmful.

Getting off to a good start is also good advice during a sporting event. It can mean the difference between winning and losing. It's helpful in meeting a new neighbor and can bring success with that new job. Getting a good shove-off is also the secret to a quicker trip down a snow-covered hill on a sled.

In life, as with most sporting events, getting off to a good start is a must. Don't let yourself get in a groove where a change of direction becomes difficult.

We each start off twice a day—in the morning when we first wake up and at night just before falling asleep. Falling asleep is the start of a long period of sleep. Even when your body is asleep, your deeper mind is quite active and can have an impact on your day-to-day happiness.

As you enter and exit sleep, your subconscious mind is particularly open to impressions, an our subconscious plays an important role in our behavior.

So, do some big thinking and make some decisions about your life—first thing in the morning and the last thing at night. This small investment of time will bring a big payoff.
