Mount Vernon Signal

MOUNT VERNON, KENTUCKY 40456

VOLUME 90 - NUMBER 43

THURSDAY, JUNE 28, 1979

Somerset Oil service station on Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon was just about the only station with gasoline with weekend. Cars line up in both directions and manager James Drummett said 8,000 gallons were pumped over Saturday and Sunday when 5,000 is usual.

Gasoline Situation Here Improves As Police Guard Delivery Trucks

By Jane Kundtz

Rockcastle County was among those counties in Kentucky hardest hit by gasoline shortages last week caused by the national strike of independent truckers. The situation has improved, as National Guardsmen and state police escorted drivers carrying fuel through the area.

"Generally, the Somerset area was the worst in the state because of all the refineries there," Tom Little, director of the state's Division of Disaster and Emergency Services, said Tuesday. "Gasoline is now moving fairly well, but the Guardsmen will remain on duty."

He said there were violent incidents Monday in the Somerset area, which signaled to the Governor that the National Guard should remain. The Governor is evaluating the situation on a day-to-day basis.

Much of the gasoline is hauled into Rockcastle County by independent truckers. Guardsmen were unable to get through last week because of blockades and snipers along I-75. Over 300 National Guardsmen were called into Kentucky, most of whom are stationed in the Somerset and London areas. Some units are guarding refineries and overpasses on I-75. Shots were fired on an Ashland Oil Inc. bulk storage plant Monday in London, and people at an Exxon storage area were received threatening phone calls at the same time.

A spokesman for Curry Oil of London, which supplies the three Shell stations in Rockcastle County, said that their trucks were coming back last week with tires full of nails, and that there had been a definite risk for their drivers before the police escorts were provided Monday. Beeker Oil Co. in Mt. Vernon, which supplies Exxon stations here, had been out of fuel for a week and unable to get more because of the situation described.

There were over twenty incidents of violence in Whitley, Wayne, Pulaski and Laurel counties between Thursday to Monday. In Rockcastle County, three trucks were attacked by rock-throwers last Thursday. They were owned by Owens Illinois, H. Lee Phillippi Co. and State Flatting, Inc. Leslie Lambert, a trucker who resides in Berea, was fired upon thirteen times five miles south of Mt. Vernon on I-75 about 9 P.M. that evening.

While all but a few stations closed over the weekend, by Tuesday many were back in business. Grocery stores reported no shortages, although a few managers were worried about their meat supplies.

"It would probably take a few weeks for shortages to show up in grocery stores," the manager of Food Fair in Mt. Vernon said. "Our supplies are low on staples like sugar and flour, because some people panicked and bought a lot when the trouble first started, but there are not shortages." Managers of Pic Pac, Convent, Hammonds, Hill Top, Carter's and others had similar comments.

Gas Dealer Says He's Caught in a Bind Of Government, Oil Company and Public

At least one local service station owner closed his pumps Saturday when he still had a little gas left in them primarily because customers were getting so ugly at being limited to a $5.00 purchase. The owner, who asked not to be identified, said that his employee was threatened several times by customers who wanted filled up instead of only $5.00 worth and the line was getting so long at the station he said it posed a traffic hazard. At the time he closed his pumps, there was enough gas left to run his own service truck and in case of an emergency for local people.

This dealer is angry because he says the service station operator is caught between government regulations, the oil companies and the public. The federal government regulates the minimum and maximum that can be charged for gasoline and he says the price has increased so rapidly in the last few months that he has about wore his pumps out changing prices and still cannot make a decent profit because the amount that can be charged for gasoline was set by the government in May of 1973 and was not adequate at that time. He also complained that his distributor was not cooperative in delivering his allocation when it was needed or wanted. One month, he tried to hold off on taking delivery of all of his allocation until the latter days of the month would be certain to have gas when most other stations had to close because of a lack of gas but his distributor, angry because he had not already sold his allocation, refused to deliver telling him instead that he obviously didn't need the gas since his delivery requests had been slower than others during the first part of the month. At one point, the distributor also tried to dictate the price he would charge for gas but a quick call to the State Energy Department nipped this in bud. The distributor's objective was apparently to make the dealer lower his price and sell more gasoline even at a price which would have cost the dealer money.

The public came in for their fair share of criticism from the operator also. He complained that it was not uncommon for drivers to fill up at the self-service pumps at grocery stores and cut-rate outlets and then drive into his station to make use of his restroom facilities, air, etc.

Rockcastle County Industrial Authority Plans to Spend Over $450,000 in Grants to Build Water Lines to Park

A $57,976 allocation recommended by the Rockcastle County Coal Severance Economic Aid Board has been approved, according to Commissioner William O'Daniel, Department for Local Government.

The allocation will be used toward extension of water and sewer lines to the industrial park. In addition to economic aid funds, the county industrial authority will use $139,000 from Appalachian Regional Commission, $165,000 from Kentucky Industrial Finance Authority, $40,000 in area development funds and $41,024 local money.

Economic aid funds were established by Gov. Julian Carroll in 1976 and approved by the 1976 and 1978 legislatures with $10 million allocated from coal severance money each biennium.

Funds are allocated to the 47 coal-producing counties on a formula that includes population and per capita income. An economic aid board in each county selects the projects to be presented from its allocation to the Department for Local Government.

Funds are administered by the Department of Finance which has final approval of all projects following a technical review.

Council Hears Suggestions from Public On How to Spend Revenue Sharing Funds

The Mt. Vernon City Council listened to suggestions about how to spend revenue sharing money, went over next year's general budget and a report on the sewer system, and voted on several ordinances at its meeting Monday night.

Ordinances on down spouts and weeds: All down spouts are to be disconnected from the sewer system in order to keep the surface water out, according to the ordinance adopted Monday. Surface water has been over-working the sewer system, which is still in violation of Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) standards. Matt Powell, Jr., city water superintendent, said that the water from the down spouts should run into storm drains without trouble.

The Council also asked the City Clerk to look up the ordinance on leasing domestic animals so that they may consider how it might be better enforced. The Council voted to write the Christian Appalachian Project about an ordinance the prohibits swimming in Lake Linville. CAP, which leases the boat dock from the city, has been advertising swimming at the lake.

Revenue Sharing Budget: Several individuals and groups submitted suggestions to the Council about how the city should spend its

State Finance Officer Advises Fiscal Court Invest Money, Keep Road Funds Separate

A state finance officer examined the books of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Monday and came up with several suggestions and criticisms.

Al Howell, Local government Advisor with the Department of Local Government in Frankfort, said that while he found no major problems or irregularities with the Court's financial dealings, he did have these suggestions:

1. Road funds should not be divided into separate funds maintained by each magistrate. This is against state law, although the Court may keep its accounts that way. Also road money should be kept separate from the General Fund, because certain state grants are for roads only and must be budgeted separately.

2. The Court should keep only the amount of money it spends in one month in its General Account. Currently, this shows a balance of over $92,000 when only about $30,000 is spent each month. The extra $60,000 should be placed in interest-earning accounts, and put back when needed. This would earn the county hundreds of dollars a year.

3. The Sheriff's Office and the County Clerk's office were not budgeted properly for salaries and expenses. They should have recorded more money.

4. The Court should not record expenses for supplies in rounded figures like $300 and $200. Exact amounts should be recorded and accounted for under a purchase order system.

5. Judge Hubert Thacker's secretary should be allowed to sign checks in his absence or in cases of emergency.

6. The county treasurer should submit a financial statement every three months as required by the state.

Mr. Howell, who talked with Judge Thacker and plans to write a letter to the Fiscal Court, said that his job is only to help and make recommendations, so that all the county fiscal courts comply with state law and the Uniform Service of Accounts for Kentucky Counties.

"County government is big business and must be managed properly," he said. "Your county, for example, spends over $600,000 per year. This is a lot of money."

Services Held Friday in Mt. Vernon for Alfred B. Sparks, Founder of Sparks Funeral Home, Owner of Florist Shop

Alfred B. Sparks, Jr., 54, died Tuesday evening in Lexington from head and internal injuries received in a one-vehicle accident the day before. He had been treated at the Veterans' Hospital in Lexington and local people donated blood in response to a radio broadcast asking for help for Mr. Sparks.

The incident occurred about 2 P.M. in the vicinity of Spiro Road. He was born in Mt. Vernon on June 21, 1924, the son of Bentley and Christine Davis Sparks and was a member of the First Baptist Church of Mt. Vernon. He was a Veteran of World War II serving in the Navy, a member of Ashland Masonic Lodge #640 F&AM of Mt. Vernon, Scottish Rite, Oleika Shrine Temple in Lexington and the V.F.W. Post #6939 of Livingston. He had been a licensed Funeral Director and Embalmer since 1950. In October of 1951, he founded the Sparks Funeral Home and continued its operation until 1969 when he sold an interest to Billy Dowell and Roy Martin. The firm later became the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home. He and his wife, Eva Sparks, continued to own and operate the Sparks Flower Shop, and until his death, he was employed by the Kentucky Department of Highways as a Supervisor.

He was survived by his parents, Mrs. and Mrs. Bentley Sparks of Mt. Vernon; one son, Charles (Chucky) Sparks, at home, two daughters, Mrs. Sharon Arnold of Danville, Illinois and Miss Sheila Sparks of Mt. Vernon; two sisters, Mrs. Jane Doty of Los Angeles, Calif. and Alfred B. Sparks, Jr. Mrs. Ann Logan Bradshaw of Frankfort. Funeral services were conducted Friday, June 22, at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home by Bro. Harvel Penol. Burial with masonic rites, was in the Elmwood Cemetery. Pallbearers were Casey Compton, Charles McElred, Jack Sheen, Keith Singleton, Louie Kelsey and Raymond Baker.

July 15 Will be Deadline To Report Grain Acreages

All Rockcastle County farmers are reminded that they need to report 1979 acreages of spring seeded grain (corn) crops to the county ASCS office by July 15, 1979. James E. (Doc) Brown, Chalice person, Rockcastle County ASCS Committee said today.

Mr. Brown stated that farmers who are participating in the 1979 Wheat-Feed Grain Program will also need to report on acreages of corn, set aside or diverted acreage from production of 1979 grain crops.

He also emphasized that it is important for all farmers to report since the crop acreage will be considered to be zero if no acreage report is filed.

No More Rabies Cases Confirmed

Thirteen skunks were killed this week in the Willallia and Negro Creek areas of the county by people who suspected the animals might be rabid. Seven dogs and five cats have been destroyed in Willallia and another is under a 90-day quarantine because they came into contact with the skunks.

Steve Midkiff, county environmentalist with the Health Department, said that no more animals were tested for rabies this week. A skunk killed in Willallia was confirmed to be rabid June 13, bringing the number of confirmed rabies cases to three in the county since April.

Water Works Association Holds Meeting at Renfro

The Mt. Vernon Water Works, Mayor Roland Mullins and Superintendent Matt Powell, Jr. were host to the Eastern Kentucky Water and Waste Water Operators' Association Saturday, June 23.

Members and their wives met at the water plant about 10:30 a.m. After coffee and doughnuts and water plant inspection, they re-assembled at the Renfro Valley Lodge for their business and technical session. Before lunch, they were greeted by Mayor Mullins who welcomed them to this area. After lunch, Mayor Mullins gave the membership a run down of the city's entire operation. At this time he complimented Superintendent Matt Powell and his crew for the extensive black top program on city streets, city park, boat dock, snow removal as well as a good water and sewer plant operation.

Henry Cox acted as liaison between the Operator's Association and the City of Mt. Vernon in planning this meeting.

Letters to the Editor

Gentlemen:

Kathy and I would like to thank the people of this community for their wonderful support, interest, and kindness during my campaign for Governor. Our opportunity to come to know so many of you was a rare privilege. Many good things have been said about our campaign, and everyone who was involved shares the credit. We will return, often I hope, to visit you again, but meanwhile I will carry the knowledge of your support far past this Primary. It means a great deal to me and my family. Again, thanks for everything. Sincerely, Harvey I. Sloane, M.D.

Dear Editor:

I am writing to you to ask for subscription price to the Signal. Mr. Elmo Anderkin gave me my weekly copy for writing Boone

News from 1957 till April, 1976. I moved to Berea on the later date.

Please print rest of this letter so my friends will remember me. I moved to Boone's Gap in March 1946 and attended school at Gabard School for two years. I came from Texas and made my home with my parents, William R. and Margaret Durham, and two sisters, Nancy and Catherine and lived in the Charlie Hicks house for many years, attended church at Fairview Baptists church. My family is buried at Fairview Cemetery.

I met many friends in Rockcastle County. I do not drive so I cannot visit in Rockcastle Co, nor don't receive many phone calls, or visitors myself. I receive one newspaper a day, "The Richmond Register" and no weekly paper magazines as I can't afford them. I would love for Rockcastle friends to remember me in your prayers. Write me a few lines and let me know. I am very slowly improving at my home.

If anyone from Rockcastle Co. is ever in Berea and would like to stop by, I live in Boone Square, Apt. 67. It is located just off Bash Road. Or write, I would love to hear from you.

Yours truly,
 Carl Durham

Legislative Report

By Rep. Harold DeMarcus

The personal service contract review subcommittee met on June 12 for the purpose of reviewing forty-one contracts and amendments to contracts. Thirty-eight contracts were approved, two were deferred until July and one was reduced by $138,000.

The State Department of Finance submitted a $150,000 contract with Leisure and Recreation Concept, Inc. of Dallas, Texas. The contract is to pay for a feasibility study and market survey to be made into the possibility of constructing a theme park (a Disneyland or Kings Island type of establishment) on ten acres of land located at the State Fair and Exposition grounds at Louisville.

The feasibility study on the theme park will cost $12,000 and the remaining $138,000 was to be used to construct the park. The committee directed the Department of Finance to reduce the contract to $12,000 and then we would consider approving the study.

As for the remaining $138,000, we felt that it constituted a padded personal service contract, bureaucratic agencies must not be permitted to earmark your tax revenue in such a manner. Officials from the Department of Finance agreed to the committee ruling, thus the contract will be reduced by $138,000.

And if the study shows that a Louisville theme park could be built, then the question of the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington will be brought up. Millions of your tax dollars have been poured into the Horse Park and there are those that feel this type of venture does not provide equitable rewards for all the people in the Commonwealth.

In other action the committee approved a Department of Transportation contract with Mid-Eastern Enterprises of Louisville to provide for the annual operation and inspection by scuba-divers of a valve located under forty feet of water at Lake Linville, near Mt. Vernon.

Transportation officials stated that an embankment of the lake enjoined Interstate 75 and they wanted to be assured that the lake could be controlled if it were to threaten the highway.

The committee approved a Department of Natural Resources contract amendment which will entail a minor re-adjustment of agency funds. The contract is with Miller, Whyry and Lee of Lexington to provide a three phase, statewide management plan for Kentucky's eight wild rivers which includes the Rockcastle River.

Also, the committee approved a $16,000 Department for Human Resources contract with the Kentucky Association of Mental

FACTS about electrical energy.

No one thinks about their energy use ... until the bill comes.

Electricity works for you automatically and dependably day and night. Many appliances are used in the home, and some keep running even when you're away - refrigerator, freezer, furnace.

About 21 percent of all energy consumed nationally is in the home, with more than half going for heating and cooling. The water heater is the next highest user, while lighting, cooking and appliances take the rest.

Energy management is distinct to each family. Your use of electricity varies from time to time; holidays and hot weather require more energy. Think now about the demands you make on it before the bill arrives... and follow these energy-saving tips.

- Make certain your air conditioner is operating at top efficiency.
- Don't set the thermostat too low. Raise the setting even higher if you're going to be away for awhile.
- Check for insulation needs. Proper insulation can be the single biggest money and energy saver.
- Make sure storm windows and doors fit properly.
- Use vents and exhaust fans to pull heat and moisture from your attic, kitchen and laundry directly to the outside.
- Keep direct sunlight out with awnings, draperies, blinds or shades.

You can help control your cost by conserving electricity.

Mulching The Home Garden

Mulching is a practice every home gardener should consider. Mulches reduce weed growth, maintain uniform moisture conditions, keep the soil cool, reduce erosion, reduce water loss and water requirements, reduce nutrient loss and fertilizer requirements, and add organic matter to the soil when organic materials are turned under.

Grass clippings, sawdust, straw, peg moss, fine wood chips, leaves, compost, paper and black plastic are common materials for mulching. With the organic materials, simply spread a 2 to 3 inch layer of mulch on the soil surface around the plants after the plants are 3-4 inches high. The mulch should remain in place until September.

Mulching with grass is a good way to dispose of your lawn clippings. Sawdust makes a better mulch if it is well rotted. Straw should be clean and weed-free. Compost is probably the best mulch one can use. Make it yourself from leaves this fall along with other organic waste materials (plant) so it will be ready for next year's garden.

Mulches prevent the loss of moisture from the soil through evaporation. Moisture moves to the surface and evaporates if the soil is not covered by a mulch. Sun and wind hasten this loss of moisture.

Raindrops falling on the soil surface splash soil onto vegetable fruits and increase rotting, soil erosion and soil compaction. Mulches break up the raindrops and slowly filter the water into the soil.

Mulches keep the soil from getting hot under intense sunlight. The hotter the soil the greater the loss of water through evaporation.

Mulches, especially grass clippings and compost, add organic matter to the soil and furnish food for earthworms which are valuable in aerating the soil and are a good source of humus. Humus helps to keep the soil crumbly and easy to work. The mulches should be worked into the soil at the end of the growing season to supply organic matter the following year.

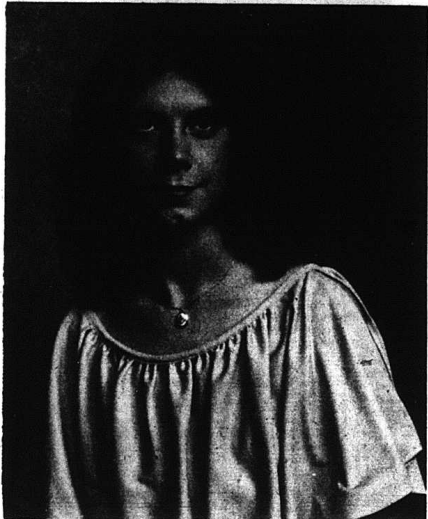

Organic material such as straw, sawdust, and wood shavings or chips are rich in carbohydrates but low in nitrogen. You will find it beneficial to add nitrogen fertilizer to these materials when turning them into the soil. Add one cup of ammonium nitrate for each bushel of organic material.

So do put off for tomorrow what you can save today. Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

For, remember, a rolling Bond gathers no dust. But does gather interest.

Which is why a Bond in time saves.

Take stock in America.

KHC was established to assist lower income Kentuckians to achieve decent, safe and sanitary housing, and since its start-up in late 1973, the Corporation has been able to assist over 12,000 families to purchase single-family houses.

Funeral services will be held Thursday, June 28 (today) at 2:00 p.m. at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home by Bro. Green Ellis and Bro. Arnold Pingleton. Burial with masonic services will be in the Elmwood Cemetery.

and nearly 10,000 to find low-cost housing in multi-family apartment units.

By conducting its operations in a sound fiscal manner, the Corporation has been able not only to fund its operations and debt service without the aid of tax revenues, but also to repay initial state appropriations of approximately $300,000 even though repayment was not required.

Faded Dreams... And Remembered Songs

The following article appeared in a "Sentinel Star" published at Orlando, Florida. It was sent to Mrs. Elizabeth Mullins by Mrs. Melinda J. Randolph of Florida.

By Bob Greene

The first time I saw him, he didn't fit in. This was in 1973, with all the disc jockeys and 24-year-old secretaries and youthful programming executives running around the offices at WLS, Chicago's giant rock-and-roll radio station, Karl Davis was an odd sight indeed.

Karl was 67 then. He had a good 40 years on most of the on-the-air talent at the station, and since I was new to the radio environment, I couldn't figure out who he was doing at first. He was a pleasant-faced, white-haired man with a Kentucky drawl, and often he wore a suit coat over a plaid shirt. I would see him playing 45 rpm records in a small studio, over and over and over. He would stand as he did it.

I asked around and found out that Karl was a "record runner." That meant that when the newest rock-and-roll hits by teen-age millionaires came into the station, Karl would play them while an engineer transferred them to tape cartridges for use on the air.

I wondered why Karl's job wasn't being done by some kid. I soon found out. Karl Davis used to be a star. Back in the days when WLS "Nation Barn Dance" was broadcast live out of Chicago on WLS' 50,000 watt clear channel, Karl's sweet voice could be heard all over America. He was a singer, one of the most famous country singers in the United States. He had come to Chicago from Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, in 1939, and had become a hit on the "Barn Dance."

When the days of the live "Barn Dance" ended, and WLS became a 24-hour rocker, the station offered Karl a job: a job as a record runner. It was a come-down for him, but it was a paycheck, and he was grateful for it.

I was doing some commentary a the state when I met him, and one day he told me that he still had his dreams. He said that every night after work, he would go home and play his guitar or mandolin and sing until he was tired. The two of us were alone in an empty studio at the station. Karl looked around to make sure no one else was there and then he began to sing, in a country voice so clear and beautiful that it almost hurt to hear it.

Down in the old cabin home, The Welcome mat is always at the door,
We'll sing a song or two,
And we'll play a tune for you,
Down in the cabin home.

I asked him why, for all his early stardom, he hadn't saved enough money to retire.

"Oh, I guess we just came along a little too early, that's all," he said. "I guess we were before our time. This rock-and-roll music, I've come to like it, though. I hear it at the station every day, and I have heard some wonderful songs."

"It's not like these singers have it today, with big money," he said. "We'd make a personal appearance in a place like Ishpeming, Mich., and we would get $25. So when there was no more 'Barn Dance', I was very grateful to be given this job as a record runner at WLS. It allowed me to keep my wife and family in Chicago."

Karl was loved by the young staff at WLS. Everyone there called him "the Colonel," which he liked, the disc jockeys listened to Karl's stories about the early days at the radio station with a combination of awe and amusement. Being around him was a joyful thing.

One afternoon Karl invited me to his home. His wife, Jean, greeted us; Karl and I went to the basement.

Mrs. Davis brought us sandwiches and soft drinks, and Karl went through his old scrapbooks with me, showing me programs from concerts he had played and letters and cards sent by fans of the "National Barn Dance."

And then he began to play and sing for me. In that shadowy basement he sang the words he used to broadcast to millions of listeners across the breadth of the land. As the hours passed, he was no longer an old man working in a rock-and-roll mill; he was a star again, and I found myself transfixed by the strength and loveliness of that Kentucky voice.

My commentary job at the radio station ended, and I didn't have a reason to be in the WLS offices any more. Occasionally I would wonder about the Colonel, and remember the evening when he had given me the gift of his songs. I have just heard the news. Karl Davis died peacefully in his sleep one morning. He was 73.

or three hours. If preparation is done the night before, put foods in the refrigerator immediately after preparing them and keep them there overnight.

-Keep foods at a safe temperature in a properly insulated cooler if they are to be served more than three hours after removal from the refrigerator.

-Pack food in a cooler with ice if the food will be carried in an automobile. In the summer, the temperature inside the car can reach more than 100 degrees F.

-When packing food in ice, make sure food wrappings and containers do not leak. Water from melting ice can make food soggy and may contaminate it as well.

-It is safer to properly dispose of leftover foods that are susceptible to rapid bacterial growth than to put them back in the hot car, take them home and serve them the next day.

An Eagle For Sleep

Move over men, you have just been bested. Of course, you won't be too surprised when we tell you it was Mrs. Aslee Bray who did it.

Mrs. Bray is known for her prowess on the golf course at Cedar Rapids and Monday afternoon, playing in a couples league, she proved her ability once again.

Number three hole is known for its treacherousness because there are woods on either side of the tee which tend to psyche you out and make you hit the little white ball into the rough on one side or the other. But, Aslee is not bothered by the things that bother us other mere mortals. Her drive wound up at the bottom of the hill, where they are all supposed to and so seldom do, and on her chip onto the green, the ball made straight for the cup and climbed in. So, on a par 4 hole, Mrs. Bray came up with a 2.

(Would you be interested in knowing what I had on this same hole Monday afternoon? Forget it.)

CENSUS MAP

A map of Rockcastle County that will be used to take the 1980 Census will have been finished.

Lois Philbeck, one who worked on the map, said that their job was supposed to take only three weeks, but it ended up taking three months.

"The Census Bureau gave us a map that must have been 100 years old and it was made in Chicago," she said. "All the roads were marked wrong, like Carter Road was marked 'Cooke'."

It was Mrs. Philbeck's job, along with three others, to correct all the names on the map and make every address correct. The map will be used to mail the 1980 census forms next April. Helping on the project were John Teeter, David Noe and Virginia Clark.

The federal government has taken a census every ten years since 1790. The population figures compiled in the census are very important to a community because they determine how much federal money comes into that particular place.

Mrs. Philbeck said that her group started in March, and worked on rainy and snowy days. A native Rockcastle countian, she said she went into parts of the county she had never seen, and one timemate a lifelong friend on a remote road.

"Don't tell me you are lost in Rockcastle County," said her friend.

"I know where I'm at," Mrs. Philbeck said, "but I'm lost on this map."

Cautions For Picnickers

Outdoor eating is a summer-treat, and picnics on trips can save travelers some money. However, the Department for Human Resources warns that carelessness in the preparation or storage of certain foods can result in foodborne illness. And that's no fun!

According to John Draper of the department's food control branch, any food containing milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, or seafood is capable of promoting rapid growth of harmful bacteria. "It's best to remember that hazard when planning your picnic," he said. "Keep those foods cold until serving time."

Caution should be used when preparing salads made with potatoes, chicken, tuna or ham. These foods, Draper said, are easily contaminated during preparation.

"Hands, utensils, equipment and surfaces which may come in contact with food should be clean," he advised. "No one with a cut or open infection on the hands should prepare food."

Draper listed some general rules to follow when planning a picnic:

-Keep any food containing one or more of the above mentioned foods hot (140 degrees F or higher) or cold (45 degrees F or lower) unless it will be eaten within two

IT'S THE MOST!

The most affluent woman in the world was probably Princess Wilhelmina of Orange-Nassau. Her fortune has been estimated at over $550,000,000!

The most frequently overlooked form of insurance by women and professionals is personal disability insurance. The American Society of Chartered Life Insurance Agents and the Association of Life Insurance Professionals, points out that relatively few working women own the disability insurance they need to protect their income!

"DEALER'S VIEW"

He would like to see the service station operators refuse to open at some point during July for a certain period and when asked if the Kentucky Retail Gas Dealers Association wouldn't be the one to organize this protest his answer was that this organization was more of a joke than anything else since no constructive help for operators ever came out of their office.

One point he made was that most service stations would have a hard time if it financially keeping their station open with even a week without gas because all of his expenses go on with some minor exceptions. He also resents the fact that government regulations make operators figure their expenses, which determines what they can charge for a gallon of gasoline, before rent and he says his rent has been raised substantially since he went into operation. Another service station operator said that he took the limit off his gasoline sales because there was just too much controversy with customers over it. He said he sold them all they wanted and when he ran out that was it until another shipment which was not following any set schedule because of the strike.

One thing he said people couldn't seem to understand and because of it tended to vent their spleen on the operators was that regardless of whether the public believes there is a gas shortage or not if the service station doesn't have it then there is a shortage. He said he felt there were several contributing factors to Kentucky's problems last week end. One was that this is the vacation time of the year and the majority of vacationers head south with Kentucky right in their line and Rockcastle because of their strategic location on I-75. Another reason he felt was that people are vacationing earlier this year because of the possibility of even less gas later, and of course, thirdly, the truckers strike slowed or, in some cases, stopped delivery altogether.

His major complaint with the entire situation seemed to be that the news media has done their share in explaining to the public why there is a shortage choosing instead to play up the long lines and hardships caused by the lack of enough gasoline. He feels that if people could be made to understand the complicated reasons why they are experiencing the shortage then they might be more ready to plan their lifestyle more in tune with today's times.

Health. The contract will pay for a computation of research on what happens to patients after they are released from the state's mental health centers. The research will provide a profile of follow-up statistics on the type of jobs that are available for these people and the overall quality of statewide out-patient care.

This committee meeting marks the last one to be held in the 1978-79 fiscal year. Within a few weeks we will see what impact the committee has had on state personal service contracts. Preliminary statistics reveal that $13 million less, has been spent on the contracts this year on compared to fiscal year 1977-78.

"CITY COUNCIL"

$19,864 from the federal government. The Fire Department represented by John and Buddy Cox, requested $5,000 mostly for special equipment.

John Rush, president of the Mt. Vernon Business and Professional Association, submitted four suggestions:

1. Hire a city planner at a cost of about $5,000. He suggested Will Linder & Associates of Berna, a consultant firm which is helping the Association.
2. Repair sidewalks.

3. Buy street-sweeping apparatus.

4. Tear down the "Outhouse" Building next to McBee's Store on Main Street. Mr. Rush said the building was an eyesore and fire hazard, and could be purchased for about $15,000 and torn down for an additional $500. He suggested putting a small city park in the area.

The building, formerly a pool-room, is owned by Raymond and Monroe Baker. The lot behind the building is owned by Dr. Andy York.

Floyd Stokes suggested that some of the money be spent on cleanup debris near Lake Linville. Mary McClure suggested putting in a handrail at the steps near Hiatt's Store. Policeman Tyree Gray, Jr. suggested replacing certain street signs and placing benches in the park at the end of Main Street.

Mayor Roland Mullins submitted a tentative budget with $304 to mental health; $500 for senior citizens; $9,000 for Lake Linville projects; and $3,500 for a city police car.

Sewer Report: Two engineers from the Schimpfeler-Corradiño firm asked the Council to allot $4,750 for a second study of the city's sewer system. Richard Moore, technical vice president of the firm, explained that the study would actually cost $23,000, but the rest of the money would come from the federal government.

The study is the second one required by the Environmental Protection Agency as part of a step-by-step process toward getting a large grant to improve the existing sewer system, which is in violation of EPA standards.

Chester Hellard asked the engineers why so many expensive studies were necessary, and why the city can't just go ahead and correct the problems its own.

Mr. Moore said that the city may be able to get over $1 million in government money if it followed through on all the steps required by EPA. The engineering firm has been working with the City Council for almost three years, and Mayor Mullins noted that if the new study were done, almost $50,000 would have been spent so far on studies.

Mayor Mullins worked with the engineers to bring their current request down to $23,000 from $34,000.

The Council voted to allow the engineers to apply for the money, but put off a decision about whether the city should spend the $4750, if the application is approved by EPA.

Other Business: The Council accepted a bid from Montgomery Wards of $4626 for a fence at the Lake Linville park. The Council voted to advertise for Nova police car or its equivalent after no bids were received for a Chevette.

The Council okayed a plan by Mayor Mullins that would allow the Cumberland River Valley Comprehensive Care programs to use the "milk house" building near the lake. The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and another state agency have agreed to relocate the building at a cost of $4,000 if it is used to help the mentally ill or retarded.

Doug Brock asked for an easement across city property to put in an electrical line for his property near Lake Linville. The Council took no action on his request, although several councilmen have inspected the property. Mr. Brock said he could not afford to build without the easement.

Warren Berry of Southeast Financial Services explained an insurance plan for city employees.

Councilmen took home copies of Mayor Mullins' proposed budget, which follows this article. They will vote on it next time.

Some people think forced deposits or "bottle bills" on beverage containers can solve the litter problem, but, in fact, non-refillable bottles and cans have little to do with litter. What forced deposits can create is higher prices. In the State of Michigan, which recently passed a bottle bill, consumers are paying an average of 36 cents more per six-pack for soft drinks and 30 cents more per six-pack for beer than consumers in neighboring states.

Lions Purchase Eyeglasses

The purchase of three pair of eye glasses was approved by the Mt. Vernon Lions Club at their regular meeting, which will result in a cost of about $200 to the club, announced Robert Robinson, president of the club.

President Robinson stated that the club approved the purchase for children of parents who could not afford glasses for their children. Eye care and sight conservation is the main project of the local club along with other projects the club sponsors.

To raise money for their projects the Lions Club sponsors the "Community Flea Markets" the first Saturday in the summer months at the Mt. Vernon school and are currently raffling a "American Spirit" pocket knife to raise money.

The next flea market will be at the school parking lot on July 7th and the club is seeking donations of items to sell to raise money for these projects.

Table space is rented at $5.00 per space to housewives, vendors, dealers, or anyone who wishes to sell their items at the market. The club also accepts donations from people who do not wish to sell items, but will donate them to the club for the club to sell and keep the money for their projects.

Anyone wishing to donate items to the club may call the flea market committee of Robert Rob-

Letters from her grandchildren were not being re-read as they had been before.

A visit to the ophthalmologist enabled her to have an eye condition corrected and to receive eye glasses, at 758-8399; Ed Hunt at 256-2557; Lee Durham at 256-2403; or Floyd Owens at 256-2203 or any other member of the local club, and they will arrange to pick up the items.

KENTUCKY IS 16TH IN MILK PRODUCTION

Kentucky will always be famous for horses. The Bluegrass is becoming famous for its milk products, too, ranking third in the nation in cheddar cheese production and 16th in milk production.

Making sure these Kentucky products are safe and pure is the responsibility of the Department for Human Resources.

"Milk products are good for health," says Leon Townsend, manager of the department's milk control branch, "but only if they are free of chemicals and disease-producing organisms." Townsend and his staff are responsible for the purity, sanitation and labeling of Kentucky dairy products. They regulate more than 6,800 milk producers, about 100 milk plants and more than 800 milk haulers and distributors.

The 1972 General Assembly passed the Kentucky Milk and Milk Products Act under which the department adopts regulation enforced by the milk control branch. The regulations include standards for grade A milk used in making butter, cheese, and other products; standards for labeling and open dating of dairy products; requirements for milk haulers; quality standards and other criteria.

The branch inspects every Kentucky facility concerned with the production and distribution of milk. Inspectors have the authority to enforce state regulations. If they find a facility is violating a regulation, they post a sheet that gives public notice of the violation.

If there is still a violation by the next inspection, an "intent to suspend the permit" is posted. The facility is then inspected a third time. If the violation remains, the permit is revoked.

In addition to enforcing the regulations, the milk control branch offers training to new milk haulers. The school is held every two months and informs the haulers of state regulations and standards for transporting milk.

Two advisory committees, the Grade A and the milk for manufacturing committees, work closely with the milk control branch. They offer valuable suggestions for the development and updating of regulations and policies.

The committees are made up of producers, processors and consumers nominated by milk industry and consumer groups. Appointments are made by the Secretary of the Department for Human Resources.

Everyone Evidently

Satisfied With

Property Assessment

No one in the county has asked for a hearing to reconsider his property assessment, according to Robert Cromer, county tax evaluation officer. Books in his office were open for public inspection June 11-15, and a few people came to examine their new assessments, but none asked for a hearing to change them. In Fayette County, one out of every six taxpayers applied for a reassessment.

Anyone whose real property assessment was changed up or down was notified in person or through the mail, Mr. Cromer said.

SPEAKING WHERE THE BIBLE SPEAKS

By Austin Mobley, Minister
Providence Church of Christ

The Church of Christ is Different

If you should attend the services at the Providence Church of Christ, you would probably observe some things that are different from what you have been used to. There is no instrument of music in worship. There is no denominational organization or headquarters to which the local congregation is accountable. Each church is independent to carry out its work without outside control. We proclaim the basics of the Christian faith: the verbal inspiration of the Scriptures, the virgin birth of Christ, His resurrection and salvation by obedient faith in Him. When people hear our plea they often exclaim, "The church of Christ is different." Yes! It is! Here are some differences.

1. The Church of Christ is different from Paganism by faith in one true God. Paganism hardly presents a problem to us, but it was a problem in the first age of the church. The answer to Paganism is the "unknown God" whom Paul preached. (see Acts 17).
2. The Church of Christ is different from JUDAISM by its faith in Jesus Christ as the Son of God. The Jews rejected Jesus as the Christ, and had Him Crucified. (John 1:10). The Jews refused to understand the prophecies of the Old Testament Scriptures. They did not want Jesus to interfere with their traditions. (Mark 7:8).
3. The Church of Christ is different from ROMAN CATHOLICISM by its faith in the sufficiency of Christ. He is sufficient as head over the church. God gave Him "to be head over all things to the church, which is his body." (Eph. 1:22-23). The office of Pope is utterly unknown in the Bible. The true church of Christ is guided by Christ through the Scriptures in all things. It does not need an ecclesiastical structure to formulate its doctrine. The members of the church of Christ are determined to turn away from all such innovation of men.
4. The Church of Christ differs from Protestant Denominationalism by its faith in the authority of Christ. Fifty years ago the issue between us and Protestantism was almost entirely that of authority. When Jesus said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved". He meant exactly that. Most of the denominational world rejects the necessity of baptism and additionally believes that there is no real pattern governing the word and worship of God's people. Today the question of inspiration also separates us from much of denominationalism. Can we trust the Bible as God's inerrant revelation to man? We answer emphatically, Yes! Many Protestant leaders now say, No!
5. The Church of Christ differs from the non-profession of the Irrigors by its faith in the life of Christ. There is virtue and reward in righteous living! Christ left "you an example that ye should follow his steps..." (I Pet. 2:22). Follow His example. Turn to Him who is the author and finisher of our faith and you will discover that the happiest life is the holy life.

Child Abuse Defined

Dr. C. Henry Kempe of the University of Colorado Medical Center defines the victim as "Any child who receive non-accident injury or injuries as a result of acts or omissions on the part of parents or guardians." This can be in any form—fists, belts, lighted cigarettes, sexual abuse, fractures of extremities caused by twisting—often frequent shaking can kill an infant or child by damaging delicate blood vessels in the brain.

What is Neglect? In situations of active neglect, children may be starved, locked in or out of houses or rooms, or left alone to wander. "They may be emotionally starved or abused causing emotional trauma or 'failure to thrive'."

Why? Studies show, a large amount of child abuse is done by otherwise apparently "normal" people during a traumatic situation. Few are found to be mentally ill. Poor parenting skills are evident. Usually, there is one abusive parent and one who passively accepts this. Some parents are compulsive disciplinarians who feel any way they punish their child is their business alone. Many abusive parents have also been victims. It was not uncommon for them to be "slapped around" or to have the "blood beaten out". They may be abusive due to rage, resentment of an unwanted child, personal crisis or ignorance.

Abuse occurs in all social levels, though it seems families of the lower economic level have more stress-poor housing, large number of people in a small home, little or no money for recreation, trips, baby sitters, etc.

Also, it may be that abuse situations within the middle and upper income families are not as likely to be reported.

The Law—In Kentucky suspected child abuse must be reported to the Bureau for Social Services who will investigate each report and take appropriate legal action. In some cases, removing the child from the abusive situation is necessary. Persons reporting abuse or neglect are not required by law to give their names. However, it may be helpful to have follow-up contact with the reporter.

Is protecting the child enough? Suppose other children are born to this union. If the child is removed from the home, should he be returned and when? These are baffling questions. Obviously, both the children and parents have immediate as well as future needs.

Help is available for abusive parents as well as the child who has been subjected to such trauma. # Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

"You get a line and I'll get a pole. We'll go down to the crawdad hole."

A lot of Kentucky fishermen are going down to the crawdad hole these days, although not for the purpose implied in this old favorite folk song. Instead, they are after soft craws, an effective bait for a variety of fish.

Soft craws, in case you don't know, are crawfish which have just molted. After they shed their hard exoskeleton, crawfish are particularly palatable since their new skin has not had a chance to toughen up. They are also very active during this stage, making them easy for fish (or fishermen) to catch.

The easiest way to collect a bunch of craws for bait is to take a lantern down to a nearby creek at night. This is when the crawfish are most active. After you grab a few, you'll soon be able to tell the difference between the light-colored soft claws and the darker hard ones.

The best way to keep crawfish is in a styrofoam cooler or bait bucket. Put a batch of craws in the bottom of the cooler and cover them with damp cloths or paper towels. Then put on another layer of crawfish and more towels. Repeat this process until you have enough bait for your fishing trip.

Don't put the crawfish in water—they either drown or harden. In either case they won't make very good bait. But if kept dampened and in a cool place, the craws will remain in the soft stage for several days.

To use the crawfish, hook them with a #2/0 aberdeen hook and use either no weight at all or a small slip sinker. Fish them on the bottom around rocky banks, points or other areas of the lake where they are both native crawfish populations and good structure for game fish.

Although most soft craw fishermen are after black bass, they will also catch white perch and catfish. When a fish picks up the craw, let him run with it. Sometimes a bass will run a short distance with the bait, then stop. When he starts again, set the hook hard.

Soft craws are also effective bait in streams. Let them drift through riffles or fish them along rock ledges to catch both bass and channel catfish. Another good place to fish soft craws is just below the locks on rivers such as the Kentucky.

Right now we're at the peak time for collecting soft craws. By the middle of July, most crawfish will have shed their old skins and the new ones will have hardened. But there's still another way to fish crawdads. In the early fall, try drifting with small hard craws along the steep banks and rock ledges on lakes like Cumberland. It's a good way to pick up a stringer of bass when nothing else seems to work.

The average baby doubles his weight at about 5 months of age.
