FmHA Directors to Crack Down on Delinquent Loans

Kendell L. Seaton, returning from a training session in St. Louis held for recently appointed State FmHA Directors, announced that the Agency will step up its efforts to reduce the number of delinquent loans.

Seaton said Washington leaders pointed out that future allocations of loan funds will depend on how well individual states perform.

"This does not mean wholesale foreclosures for Kentucky, and FmHA will go along with borrowers who are making an honest effort," Seaton said.

According to Seaton FmHA has fallen away from extending supervised credit in recent years because of the heavy volume of loans made by the Agency, leaving less time for supervision and servicing. He said farm and home plans are a vital part of supervision, together with an analysis at the end of the year.

He continued, "When necessary we will use our authorities to reschedule or reamortize with those that have reasonable chance of success. The Agency in Kentucky is planning some re-organization of personnel and duties to better utilize

The Livingston Volunteer Fire Department received the Rockcastle Improvement Council's Improvement Award Monday night. Shown receiving the award from member, Tom Mills, are Bobby Wilson, center, Mayor and Fire Chief of Livingston and Jerry Mink, assistant fire chief. In the picture below is Livingston's new fire truck. The department borrowed about $5,000 and, using volunteer labor, have constructed a two-bay fire house. Mayor Wilson said the project had been a success mainly because the whole town had cooperated and many others had contributed. He said the Broadhead Fire Dept. donated $500 and, in addition, when buying materials for the building, it was often sold to them at cost and sometimes donated outright. Some citizens reportedly donated the amount their insurance premium was reduced. Mayor Wilson said the 18-member fire department also makes county runs.

C.A.P. Continues Program of Repairs to Older Area Homes

The Christian Appalachian Project is continuing to accept applications for older home repairs in Rockcastle County. This service is particularly aimed at homes of the elderly and/or handicapped who otherwise would not be able to obtain needed repairs.

With the upcoming winter weather, roof repair and other outside jobs would have to be taken on a weather permitting basis.

C.A.P.'s work crews primarily are directed to carpentry type work such as ceilings, walls, floors, partitioning of existing rooms, and repair or replacement (if available) of some doors and windows.

We are reluctant to take work on trailers because of special needs, such as replacement materials and parts. Regulations and restrictions prevent us from working on plumbing and electric repairs.

Individuals who own and are living on their property and who are elderly, handicapped, or limited income may apply through the Family Life Center on Route 25 North past Henfry Valley.

Acceptance of your application does not in any way indicate a contract to take this desired work. C.A.P. has a crew working in your area. We try to help as many families as possible. Time, money, and equipment limit how many we can help. Some homes are really beyond our ability and means to help.

Federal Crop Insurance Extended to County but Burley is Excluded

According to a recent correspondence from Congressman Harold Rogers, to Delmo Mink, concerning Mink's inquiry about the Federal Crop Insurance Program, the program will be expanded to include Rockcastle County in 1982.

However, the crops covered by the insurance do not include burley tobacco, as had been the hope.

Crops grown in Rockcastle County included in the 1982 Federal Crop Insurance Program expansion are corn, wheat and barley.

This is the first time in the 37 year history of the insurance program that Rockcastle County has been included.

Harold Ballinger, of the local ASCS office, says he does not know why burley was excluded from the insured crops since several surrounding counties have had the burley crop included in the insurance program for several years.

Indictments Returned

The following indictments have been returned by the Rockcastle County Grand Jury for the November term of Circuit Court:

Mike McFerron, Brodhead, two counts, forgery.

John Bently and Sallie Ray Pruitt, East Bernstadt, criminal mischief, first degree.

Marshall Allen Leitch and Anthony Wayne Ooten, London, third degree burglary.

Joyce and Billy Bussell, Brodhead, two counts of theft by unlawful taking over $100.00.

James Brown, Donald Newcomb, Duke Gibson and Paul Milburn, rape first degree, murder, robbery first degree and kidnapping.

Pleading guilty before Judge Phillip Wicker were James Brown on charges of theft by unlawful taking over $100, first degree wanton endangerment and third degree burglary - sentence has not been passed and Larry Boshers, who pled guilty to third degree assault and was sentenced to twelve months in the county jail.

MVBP ELECTS OFFICERS

The Mt. Vernon Business and Professional organization met Tuesday and elected officers for 1982. Karen King was elected president.

Ken Robinson was named vice-president. The office of secretary-treasurer was divided and Judy Stewart-Shackelford was elected secretary and Billy Hiatt was named treasurer.

It was announced that an excess of $1,500 was realized from the beauty pageant recently sponsored by the association. Members discussed the possibility of purchasing new Christmas decorations for Main Street and mention was made of the fact that part of the money will be spent on float prizes this Christmas parade and on a new banner for the Rockcastle County High School marching band, which has already been ordered.

Danny Ford was designated by the association to look into the possibility of forming a Chamber of Commerce from the Business and Professional Association.

The Christmas parade was also discussed.

Kiwanis Club Hears World's Fair Representative

The local Kiwanis Club had as its guest speaker last Thursday, November 19, Mrs. Marion Kozar, of the public relations department of the 1982 World's Fair Board. According to Mrs. Kozar, the theme of the fair is "Energy Turns the World". The fair will be held in Knoxville during the months, May through October.

The setting for the Fair was described as a 70 acre parklike grounds complete with a 366' global sunsphere structure with five floors and an observation deck.

The Fair will be open from 10 a.m. till 10 p.m. with special rates and accommodations for groups of over 25. The cost of a one day visit is $9.95; a two day pass is $15.95; and a season pass is $60.00 (nontransferable). Corporations or companies can purchase 10 or more season passes for $55 each.

In September, Senior Citizens will receive a considerable discount.

Fair officials expect 11 million one-day visitors to the fair. Mrs. Kozar said, and recounted the fact that approximately 52 million persons live one day's drive away from Knoxville.

The Roaring Class of '23

By Nancy Mullins

I recently was given unlimited access to a 1923 Mt. Vernon High School annual. Annals are especially interesting to me because they are able to give such an authentic flashback not only into the nature of the times in comparison to today, but also, it is interesting to see how individuals have and have not changed. I was struck by the truth of the saying: "The more things change, the more they remain the same."

I have tried to pull from the annual, items which illustrate the prosperous, post-war, pre-depression era in Rockcastle County. The year was vibrant, bright and obviously fun-loving Class of '23.

From the 1923 Mt. Vernon High School Annual "The Owl":

The class Will included the following bequests:

To Joe McHargue, Ina Meadows' love for mathematics with the hope that he will "star" instead of "stare".

To Maude Middleton, Amanda Davis' happiness of a lifetime found in the one perfect hour of the day-the first period after noon.

To the next basketball team, the ability of Leonard Davis and Jack Crawford, William Sparks being unwilling to bequest same.

To Hattie Jones, Elizabeth Lawrence's gift of "gab".

To Geneva Cox, the musical gifts of Margaret Fish, "Music hath charm to soothe the savage beast."

To the classes to come, Pansie's flivver and chauffeur, trusting use of same will be equivalent to that of the Class of '23.

To Geneva Griffin, Lelia Davis' sweet disposition.

The Senior Horoscope:

And now I see a lady who believes in woman's rights and in strong lectures and debates. Ethel Chestnut now a street car conductor.

Now I see Lela Mullins, a teacher in one of our large normal schools.

As I gaze, I recognize the rival beauties of the Class of 1923 Amanda Davis and Margaret Fish. Amanda is a movie actress, while Margaret is a movie star, both of them being in New York.

As I looked I could also see Ina Meadows a society girl, admired by everyone and especially the young gentleman, and I could see her, the belle of every gathering, the queen of every ball.

From the Social Calendar:

Sept. 11-School opened, large number of visitors.

Sept. 14-Classes still in confusion-over scarcity of books.

Legislative

Report

By Wm. Harold DeMarcus

On November 10th, the Redistricting Committee approved a Congressional reapportionment plan. The new plan will now be submitted to the Interim State Government Committee.

Under the new plan the 1st district will gain that half of Ohio County now in the 2nd district.

The 2nd district will lose Anderson County to the 6th district.

The 3rd district will extend to Valley Station, Fairdale, Fern Creek, Jefferson-town and St. Matthews.

Kenton and Campbell counties now divided, will be reunited in the 4th district along with Grant and Pendleton counties. Also, Shelby County will move from the 6th district to the 4th district.

The 5th district will lose Madison County to the 6th and gain all of Jessamine County, which is now divided between two districts.

The 6th district will gain Anderson, Madison, Pendleton, Robertson, Mason and Lewis counties. Also, the 6th district will lose Shelby, Grant and Pendleton counties, and parts of Kenton, Campbell and Jessamine counties.

Lewis, Mason, Bracken and Robertson counties will be moved from the 7th district to the 6th district.

It is important to emphasize that the new Congressional reapportionment proposal is nothing more than a proposal. Without question, the issue of Congressional and state legislative re-districting will be the most hotly debated item on the 1968 General Assembly's agenda.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Now that the Thanksgiving season is here, it is well for us all to reflect, and be thankful that we still have much that is good in America. To illustrate my meaning, I can recall that there was a gathering in Chicago in 1923, by a few of the world's most successful men, who placed their trust in their riches: the president of the largest independent steel corporation, Mr. Charles Schwab; the greatest wheat and grain speculator, Arthur Cullen; the then president of the New York Stock Exchange, Richard Whitney; and a member of the U.S. President's Cabinet, Hon. Albert B. Fall; the then greatest heart of Wall Street, Jesse Livermore; the president of the International Settlements Bank, Leon Fraser; and the head of the world's greatest monopoly, Mr. Ivar Krueger. All seven great leaders of wealth in the United States.

How the picture has changed when we look at these same seven great leaders just twenty-five years later.

Mr. Schwab had lived on borrowed money the last five years of his life and he died in shame. Mr. Cullen died abroad and broke. Mr. Whitney - just released a term in Sing Sing prison, disgraced. Hon. Mr. Fall, once high in our government, released from prison, so he might die at home. Mr. Livermore, disheartened with his life, chose to commit suicide. Mr. Fraser, the great banker, takes his own life by suicide. Mr. Ivar Krueger, who had once headed the world's greatest monopoly, realizing the necessity he had made of his life, preferred to also end his life by his own hand-suicide.

What a record for seven world leaders. In their lifetimes dedicated to grab riches by whatever means. Can we not apply this to the present day magnificence we all face? Four hundred years ago the Indians, whom the white man trampled down had a better way. There were no taxes, no National debt, and the women did all the work. It beats me how the white man thought he could improve on such a great system.

Sincerely,
C.A. Nolan, Sr.

Rev. and Mrs. Bob Blevins Missionaries in Southwest Africa, who are at home on furlough in Williamsburg and taking some advanced courses at Cumberland College, were at the First Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon Thursday evening, November 19. Rev. Blevins gave a very interesting presentation, along with slides, of their work in Africa. His wife, Oakie L. Blevins explained the curios she had on display to the attentive listeners. The program was under the direction of WMU president, Mrs. Joan Allen and seven leaders, Gayla Winstead and Jewell Hanes. At the half session, the actees served cookies, cokes and coffee.

Let's cut out the Gobbledygook

At times, from a financial standpoint, it is difficult for us to cut out the gobbledygook. Every time we take a breath, it seems, another savings program is being program to emerge.

What is best? Money Markets, 30-month certificates, an Individual Retirement Account, an All Savers tax free Account... a combination of two or more? Ask us. We'll tell you.

There are so many variables, so many circumstances to be taken into consideration, there is no way we can explain your best financial move simply by writing an ad or brochure.

Nothing replaces the "eye-ball-to-eye-ball" approach when your financial well being is at stake. Stop in, tell the receptionist you want to talk to someone concerning your individual (or family) financial future.

We'll no doubt have the answers. If we don't have the answers we'll tell you where to get the answers. Don't be hesitant to ask. It took us time, even special seminars and a great deal of study, to understand all the new savings programs.

Ruppe, 8; Teresa Sturgill and Kelly Thomason, 6 each; Stephanie Wolfe, 5; Glenna Reams, 4 and Christi Martin, 3.

Disputanta

By Hilda Payne Gabbard

Hello from Clear Creek!

Wow! Was it ever scary Friday when nature put on a show with wind driven snowflakes cutting like needles in its icy blast. The scary part was "old timer's" predictions that we will have as many snows this winter as the day it falls on. I think of 20 snows on these hills, not to mention roads. Bet Judy Miller and Jean Payne are shivering in their boots as they will drive to Berea daily in their work.

I now resume my visits with the good people of Wilde Road. After leaving the Hurley's home, I stopped next to knock on the door of Mossie Baker Cope's, a "farming man" in his day. She is a spry, cheery, happy-go-lucky lady who claimed she always spent much of her life working outdoors rather than indoors. Maybe the attitude that she has could be bottled and sold to the rest of the "world weary" citizens could acquire her lively, spritely air and be refreshed to face these days of nuclear threats as well as David Stockton's "telling tales out of school." I have a special feeling about Mossie's family since some of the children came to school with me at Disputanta in by-gone years. There was James in the first grade and about the best reader in the class, Doris was the middle grader with a great IQ. Arlie and David held their own in the upper grades in spite of having to miss some days to help with the family as country boys were accustomed. (Wonder what principal Glea Van Winkle at Roundstone Elementary would do about that now?) I have good memories of those who I had children in our classroom. There were born 11 children to Frank and Mossie Cope and raised, she remarked to me. All have left the nest with time, except Larry, the youngest. He lives with his mother and farms the acres his father acquired during his lifetime.

along with a growing family. Mossie's life is easier now since the burden of child care is gone. The house she lives in has quite a history but I leave that for another time. I could hardly believe my eyes to see how handsome and pretty "our children" had grown to be in the beautiful wedding and other pictures that she showed me but 28 years is quite a span of time.

There is a large, beautiful structure of stone built on a rocky point that looms out over Clear Creek Road with a wonderful view of Clear Creek winding its sluggish way southward. Here I found Marvin Brown, the man with the load of pumpkins that I had held up (with kind words, of course) just before Halloween, and his wife, Martha Brown, who is one of Charlie King's daughters. Martha and I knew little of each other, even though we both had been around here in this area, but I found her conversing from a serious illness with which she had been in the hospital and had just returned home. I was invited in and found Martha to be a lovely person with a strong determination to get well and she will! That's all it takes. Here I got news again of "my former children", Eula and Marvin whom I remembered as being such a pretty girl with a little, quiet boy for a young brother. In talking with the Browns, I discovered they had a deep seated grudge! But it is a common grudge among people county wide about this time of season. Taxes! It seemed their taxes had been raised, terribly high and with the expenses of her illness, this was just too much. I'm sure many of you will sympathize with these people for taxes like everything else keep rising. Now the evaluation of their home had jumped to a high price one year ago, and both told me the nice stone house, built 14 years ago, had been damaged in the 1980 earthquake that rocked through Kentucky. Nature can be very destructive for one end of the house was shaken loose from its foundation, causing cracks to come around the windows. Marvin and Martha, both aged 62, felt the damage to their home did not warrant the rise of its evaluation for 1981 taxes! Then Martha came at me with an astonishing story you will hardly believe. It could only have come out of "Ripley's Believe It or Not," a feature in news years ago. The story starts when Martha Marie Brown reached a point in life when she could apply for Social Security benefits having worked much of her time around Dayton, Ohio, and in different job situations. Martha filled out various papers and was called, in due time, to come in to the government claimed she had been drawing her Social Security for the 11 years past. A feather could have knocked her over the shock was so great. This is how the government, contested Martha Marie Brown's claim. A Martha Marie Lamson had retired on disability 11 years before and was drawing Brown's Social Security claim because; their parents had the same name, their birth dates were the same, both girls had been delivered at birth by a midwife of the same name, each had the same S.S. numbers, birth certificates were the same, both Marthas had worked in Dayton, Ohio at the same places and both were born in a county by the same name, except Lamson came from a town in Pennsylvania. With seven ironclad reasons against her, what do you think Martha Brown could do to rightfully regain what belonged to her? Read the answer in next week's column.

Matilda Cope Miller, 71, widow of Hughie Miller, lives in the old Payne home-place where I was born and raised, as the daughter of M. Payne. Matilda and Hughie had bought the property from Jim and Aggie Wolfe, who in turn had purchased from my dad years ago. Four children were reared by them and when Hughie passed away several years ago, two children married and settled near their mother. As I was told, Jackie withdrew from college in order to help his mother run the farm. Wanda moved a trailer to one corner of what had been the Payne's garden, and lives there so Matilda is far from being alone. She showed me a picture which she had bought for the granddaughters to play. Tilda, as she is called, also said she was caretaker for the youngest's large brood of pretty cats and kittens! It seems the girl can't be part with any. As we walked through the familiar rooms, a flood of memories swept over me of 11 children who romped noisily through those rooms! Matilda is a good neighbor and I see her often at church where she lays the cornerstone for a better home.

Noel (Tex) and Wanda Miller Russell, with two pretty daughters, Bogina and Tammy, live in a very nice trailer, home to which they are adding on rooms, Tex doing much of the work himself. This must mean Tex plans to stay around awhile. I remember him as a serious young man several years ago when we stopped to visit Hughie and Wanda, another one of "my girls". He had a job as an insurance salesman. Now Tex knew to interest a customer, you first gave out a "gimmick". Well, he came forward and presented me with a pack of shiny, new needles! Funny that a small action can bring kindness toward a person through the years. So I was glad to find the Russells were our neighbors when we moved back. He is now a salesman for a company, driving out daily to work, as well as Wanda. She works for the Berea Hospital in their medical records department. Tex is 40 and Wanda, 38. They had so many interesting things in their home I wanted to stay a week just to look over things he had made. But when they showed me a large rock that was used in the foundation under a back porch, I saw the initials in a boyish carving, W.S.P. I felt it was my brother, William Stanley Payne, who passed away some years ago, and Wanda agreed.

From my kitchen window, you can look out across the fields through dead branches of some old, old apple trees to where smoke curls lazily from a chimney of a small yellow house. It was the last home of my brother, John Payne, who passed away in the 70's. Pines form a green backdrop of a small yellow house. It was the only colorful thing here had to offer in winter here. Here, Cameron Bartlett, an "outsider" lives in blissful solitude, enjoying the good country life of Clear Creek Community. Cameron just sort of wandered in here from Lexington one day and stayed. He is fifty-ish was all I could get out of him about age. But I'll tell you kids, Santa Claus is not at the North Pole! He is right here on Clear Creek, or at least his double is hiding behind Cam's whiskers. He is a dead finger for Santa with bright, blue eyes, white beard, and has Santa's jolly ho-ho attitude about everything. He just flies up and down the road in a small yellow van, his beard waving in the wind as he leans out to give a neighborly greeting.

"Featuring People" She was a pillar of strength to her family. No problem she faced, no task that demanded toil and sweat, could lessen the courage of this mountain woman, to whom her family looked for encouragement is seeking a livelihood, as they struggled against the hardship of the hills. We went to Sanders Nursing Home in the town of Brohead to find my next deserving person. A former resident of Lower Clear Creek, Pearl Van Winkle greeted us from a wheel chair where she sat with a very alert mind for special week, the most memorable event will most likely be the inauguration of the college's fifth full-time president.

On Tuesday, November 3, the Rev. Raymond Eugene Lawrence was officially installed as Mid-Continent's fifth full-time president.

Bro. Lawrence has been at the post since the first of March this year, although his inauguration was not until last Tuesday night.

He was elected to that position in December of 1930 by a unanimous vote of the school's trustees, representing 14 associations of Southern states.

A graduate of Georgetown College and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, he has served Kentucky Baptists as pastor, moderator of two associations, a director of Baptist hospitals, a trustee of Cumberland College, and seven committees of the Kentucky Baptist Convention.

He delivered the annual sermon to the Kentucky Baptist Convention in 1930, and served on the Board of Directors of the Western Recorder, the state paper of Kentucky Baptists.

Until he came to Mid-

Continent, the Rev. Lawrence had served as Assistant to the President of Cumberland College. He was also an instructor in that school's religion department and directed various mission projects connected with that school, located in Williamsburg, Ky., including a Seminary Extension Program.

Bro. Lawrence and his wife, Eula Whiteaker of Cynthia, have two children. During the past several months prior to his inauguration Tuesday night, Bro. Lawrence had been traveling throughout the midwest on behalf of Mid-Continent.

Held at 8 p.m., the inaugural services for Bro. Lawrence were presided over by Bill Whittaker, president of the Kentucky Baptist Convention. Mark Maslin, minister of music at the First Baptist Church in Mayfield, was the music director.

Various hymns and special music selections were also presented during the service.

Dr. H. Franklin Parrish, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Nashville, Tenn., and a former president of the Southern Baptist Convention, was the inaugural speaker.

Dr. Paschall has spoken at commencements and other special events connected with the school. His installation message for the young trustees called a "masterpiece of pulp work" by knowledgeable hearers, a spokesman said.

Representatives from other schools and groups attending the inaugural services were as follows:

Harvard University, Mrs. Anne Parrish Markham; Union University, Joe Layman; Georgetown College, Kenneth M. Wells; Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. John C. Huffman; University of Oklahoma, Dr. Henson Harris; University of Tennessee at Martin, Robert Van; Murray State University, Dr. Constantine Curris; Clear Creek Baptist College, Dr. D.M. Aldridge; Paducah

Community College, Dr. James V. Hennessey; Mid-American Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. Phillip Allison; Boyce Bible College of Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, Dr. H.C. Chiles; and Southern Accrediting Association of Bible Institutes, and Bible Colleges, represented by their president, R. Charles Blair.

Mrs. Morris is Boss of the Day

The following article was taken from "The Daily News", dated Wednesday, October 21, 1931.

Today's selection for Businesswoman of the Day is Mrs. Carolyn Reppert Morris, Substance Abuse Co-ordinator of Harlan, Knox, and Bell counties, for the Middleboro Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center.

Mrs. Morris supervises and coordinates alcohol and drug programs in these counties, and does individual, family and group counseling. She was instrumental in

The girls' Athletic Association met and organized October 12, 1931. Officers are: Laura Hiatt, captain and Amanda Davis, business manager. The girls had a fast mappy team and out of four games lost two, due to the illness of their forward which prevented her from taking part in the games. The season was as follows: Brodhead 15-Mt. Vernon 16; Brodhead 7-Mt. Vernon 15; Waco 8-Mt. Vernon 7; Waco 9-Mt. Vernon 5.

The boys of the Mt. Vernon High School met in the early fall and organized a High School Athletic Association. The officers elected were Russell Nicely, business manager and Leonard Davis, captain. With Davis acting as coach, the boys were full of spirit in their games. With their scientific playing, in four games, they lost only one and tied the score once. Teams played were Brodhead, Livingston, Waco, and London.

involvement of all family members in the treatment process. Before Mr. and Mrs. Morris returned to Kentucky, Mrs. Morris worked in medical casework and taught at Lighthouse for the Blind in Palm Beach County, Florida. While at Lighthouse, she wrote "Teaching Visually Impaired Adults Medical Transcription."

This manual was copyrighted in 1929 and is used as a guide for medical transcription programs. Mrs. Morris is a member of the National Association of Social Workers, National Historical Society, B&PW, Eastern Kentucky University Alumnus, and the National Honor Society.

Mrs. Morris is the daughter of Mrs. Mabel Reppert of Mt. Vernon.

A Salute to Mid-Continent
Baptist Bible College

[The following article was taken from the Friday, November 6, 1931 issue of the Mayfield, Kentucky Messenger.]

By Jim Abernathy

The first week of November has been a special week for Mid-Continent Baptist Bible College.

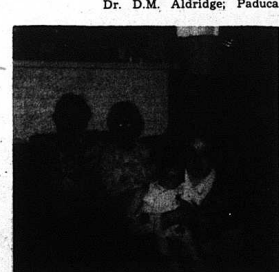

Various activities have been held on the college's Harris Campus, which is located on U.S. 45, north of Mayfield and near Hickory. Other activities have been scheduled elsewhere including the First Baptist Church in Mayfield.

This week was proclaimed Mid-Continent Baptist Bible College week here by Mayor Charles O. Davis and Graves County Judge Executive Dick Castleman. And, with that in mind, The Mayfield Messenger and the business included within this section salute that school and all its faculty, administrators and students.

Fix Tobacco Beds

Regardless of the time of the year, it seems as if there is always something to do around the farm pertaining to tobacco. The fall of the year is no exception as now is a good time to prepare tobacco beds for next year's crop. By going ahead and preparing the beds, farmers will be able to work the soil better than in the spring and they will have more time to devote to other management operations next spring.

When making preparations for a bed, the most important consideration is location. The bed needs to be near a good, clean source of water such as a pond, well or city water. Locating a bed near a creek or stream spells trouble. When streams or creeks are used as water sources for beds, there is always the danger of contamination with a disease such as black shank. If contaminated water is used on the bed and if the water infects the plants, the disease will be spread into the field when the crop is set.

Selecting a location that is free of shade is important

Well, news is scarce so I'll just quit, and wish you all a most blessed Christmas holiday. Just remember to thank God for his wonderful blessings we receive every day. I pray He will help us all to have a more grateful heart and to appreciate what He does for us. Please remember church and Sunday School. God bless you all.

on a hill, face the south so they will get maximum exposure from the sun. Reducing erosion around the bed is another consideration. Flow the ground so that a ditch will be formed on both sides of the bed, leaving a crest in the center to guide water runoff to the ditches.

As for treating the beds, recommendations are for either gassing them with methyl bromide, vorexler, or vapam, or burning the beds if it's practical to do so. For protection during the winter, keep a cover on the bed at all times. Make sure the plastic cover is secured tightly. This can be done by placing tires, irrigation pipe or anything on top of the bed so the cover will stay in place.

Many farmers are wondering about what to plan on fields treated with Ridomil last spring. According to Dr. Bill Nesmith, Extension Plant Pathologist at the UK College of Agriculture, tobacco, corn, and root crops may be planted a year following Ridomil application.
