There's no mystery...

high efficiency saves

If you decide you need an air conditioner, you'll probably hear a lot about BTU's, volts, condensers and a variety of prices. Choosing the right model may seem like a mystery. All of those things are important, but an air conditioner's efficiency is the thing to ask the dealer about. If the efficiency ratio is 8 or higher, you could save a lot on operating costs. Just remember, the higher the efficiency rating, the lower its operating cost. And more efficient air conditioners can help reduce high-summer demand for electricity, conserve our natural resources, even help reduce the need for costly new power plants—all of which help keep electricity costs down.

Projected completion date is June 25, 1983, according to Jim Houston, superintendent of construction. From left, are Houston (of Morrow, Ohio,

City to apply for HUD grant to supplement Downtown project

Members of the Mt. Vernon city council voted Thursday night at a special meeting to apply for a Co-operative Assistance Grant to supplement the already funded ARC Downtown Revitalization Grant the city has received.

The funds are available through a national project sponsored by the Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and range in grant amounts from $50,000 to $100,000.

According to Michael Hayes of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, who will prepare the formal application for the city, the money may be used in a wide variety of ways to enhance the revitalization project.

Danny Ford, local state representative, attended the meeting to discuss efforts to solve mail delivery problems at Winterwood, the elderly housing project located behind city hall. Postal authorities had previously ruled out delivery to boxes at the housing site, however, Ford and the council decided to petition postal authorities with a request for city-wide delivery. A request for special permission to put boxes at the site.

City policeman Joe Howard was granted a 10% raise. The raise increases his wages from $3.35 per hour to $3.69. Howard has been on the police force for one year.

In other business, the council granted Mayor Roland Mullins authority to sign a five year contract with the L and N Railroad for use of railroad property as a city parking lot. The lease agreement pays L & N $200 for the five year lease.

The council also granted the Rockcastle Jaycees $500 to pay on a note the club made to finance fencing at the city park at Renfro Valley on Lake Linville.

Body of man exhumed following investigation into cause of death

The body of a local man who was killed when he reportedly fell over a cliff in the Climax section of the county, has been exhumed and sent to Louisville for an autopsy.

County coroner, Bill Dowell, ordered the disinterment last Tuesday and said early this week that the autopsy on the body of Dempsey Morris, which will be performed by Dr. George Nichols, chief medical examiner for the state, could be made available to police investigators as early as next week.

Morris was found dead Tuesday, June 8 at the bottom of a cliff near the Jackson County line.

It was presumed that Morris' death was accidental until after the burial when information began to surface leading law enforcement officers to suspect foul play.

State police detective Roland Huckabee is in charge of the investigation.

Fiscal Court splits over final approval of budget

Three magistrates locked horns with County Judge/Executive Bob Jasper and the two other magistrates Wednesday at a meeting called to act upon the 1982-83 county budget of $30,453.50.

Opposition to the budget, which was in the final stage of approval, centered around the fact that $5,000 in county funds had been earmarked for salary for Mark Jasper, grandson of the judge, who has been serving in the capacity of deputy or assistant to his grandfather without pay.

Following Jasper's motion to adopt the budget Wednesday only two magistrates, W.H. Wren and Joe Clark backed the motion. D.G. Albright, Tom Denney and Donald Rowe voted "no."

Project developers seek bids

Bids pertaining to the Downtown Revitalization Project are being sought by the City of Mt. Vernon Local Development Corporation.

Seven different engineering and architectural firms have expressed interest and have asked for specifications and requirements concerning the revitalization project.

Floyd Owens, Project Director, stated that bids are to include, among other requirements, investigate and determine the potential of developments in Mt. Vernon's downtown area to include all business places in or near Main St.; evaluate the economics and physical feasibility of these developments; approach for Mt. Vernon; develop a merchandising and promotional program for Mt. Vernon; shopper and merchant surveys; problem identification; analysis of market potential; overall design concepts for downtown architecture and landscape renovation; provide information and recommendations necessary for Mt. Five injured near Livingston

A local businessman and her children and sister were injured in a two-vehicle accident near Livingston late Tuesday afternoon.

According to Sheriff William Taylor, who accompanied state trooper Jimmie Silvers to the scene of the accident, Teresa Smith, 28, of Mt. Vernon was traveling north on U.S. 25 about 6.5 miles south of Mt. Vernon when a south-bound vehicle driven by Teresa Durham of Livingston apparently went out of control and struck the Smith car.

The sheriff said that the road at the site of the accident, in the curve near White Star, is being resurfaced and has not been shouldered yet. Reportedly, the Durham car dropped off the new pavement and when the driver attempted to bring the car back onto the roadway, she lost control and struck the other car.

The Smith car turned over an embankment and came to rest on its top. According to Taylor, the engine was knocked from the Durham car, but the driver escaped serious injury.

Injured were Teresa Smith, Julie Hunt, 19, Stacy Smith, 8, Coby Smith, 6, and Donovan Smith, 10. All were taken to the Rockcastle County Hospital. Mrs. Smith and Stacy and Coby Smith were transferred to St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington where Coby was released a few hours later. Stacy was admitted to the intensive care unit where her condition was listed as serious. Mrs. Smith was listed in stable condition. Julie Hunt remains in stable condition and Donovan Smith was treated and released at the local hospital.

Federal program to provide legal services to low-income

Appalachian Research and Defense Fund of Kentucky, Inc. ("Appalred") with its administrative office in Prestonsburg, Kentucky, is a federally funded, non-profit corporation providing legal services to low income clients in 37 counties in eastern and south central Kentucky. The Somerset Office, one of eleven branch offices, serves residents in the counties of Lincoln, McCreary, Pulaski, Rockcastle and Wayne.

To be eligible for the legal services offered by an Appalred office, a person must reside in one of the counties served by the office in which assistance is sought, must have income at or below the federal poverty guidelines, and generally be unable to obtain legal services from any other source. Appalred cases, nor can they represent individuals in cases in which a money settlement would pay for a private attorney's fees. Presently there are other criteria being developed that will limit the types of cases accepted because of the loss of funds to adequately staff the offices and handle the many cases presented.

A variety of legal services are offered by Appalred such as family law, bankruptcy, debt collections, individual civil rights violations, environmental infractions, and pension benefits. Other poverty law matters handled are consumer transactions, sales, contracts, garnishments, housing, landlord/tenant, evictions, education welfare, AFDC, Social Security, SSI, unemployment benefits and employment terminations.

The Somerset office of Appalred is staffed by three attorneys, two paralegals, and two secretaries. In an effort to better meet the needs of low income persons in Rockcastle County, a staff member from Somerset will be at the Rockcastle County Courthouse on Monday, July 12, between the hours

One of the earliest churches in state

(From DISPUTANTIA by Terry Allenbaugh, copyright in 1979)

One of the earliest churches established in Kentucky was the Scaffold Creek Baptist Church in 1792. Members of the Clear Creek community most likely attended this church up until the late 1800's. Before then, there was no church in their community. A journal kept from the beginning of the church is speckled with Clear Creek names such as King, Croucher, Loman, Hardin, and Shasteen.

Scaffold Cane was called the United Baptist Church of Christ and met on Saturdays once a month. Each month's meeting was kept in the journal. Such matters as baptisms, changes in membership and various committee appointments are listed, but the most impressive facet of history the journal relates involves the church as a governing body of the community. In one case, John Shasteen brought before the church a "allegation" that one of his neighbors was late in paying his debts. A committee was appointed to visit the man, and the matter was reported settled the next month. In another instance, the church was asked to respond to a disagreement over a boundary dispute.

The procedure for all such allegations was the same. First, the charge was brought before the whole church. A committee was then appointed to visit the delinquent person, hear and attempt a settlement.

If a person would come to the church and apologize and ask for forgiveness for his wrong doing, he was received back into the church with full rights. If not he was excluded. The church worked to weave Christ's teachings of forgiveness into their parental manner of social control. The church had no authority to imprison a man, but their employment of justice was more effective in obtaining their ends than our present judicial system and more expedient. A man who was thrown out of the church found it more difficult to obtain the needed community support when it was time to raise a barn or clear off a section of new ground. The peer pressure worked to a great extent in an isolated Baptist community where there were few lines of distinction between the religious and secular affairs.

Though the church regulated many aspects of the community's social interaction, drinking, dancing and swearing were the three vices demanding most of their attention. If a man was careful, he could find himself committing all three in a space of about five minutes. Charles King brought suit against another member in March of 1827 for dancing and by the next month the defendant had admitted guilt and was received back into the church. Two Hardins, William and John, were mentioned frequently, William being the dedicated upstanding committee member. John, the wayward one who was in and out of church quite a few times. In April of 1847, Bro. John Hardin was charged with "drinking too much spirits" and was cited to attend the next meeting. Apparently, John became riled at whoever sent to deliver the message because the next meeting the additional charge of profanity was added and Brother John, "giving the church body no consideration, he is excluded." In October, during a revival Brother John was received back into the church. A few years later charges were brought against him again, this time for drinking and dancing. A member was sent to announce charges, but by the next month, another allegation was added that Brother Harding had said that the Scriptures contradicted themselves. He, at once, found himself on the other side of the fence. But for 1850, the entry reads: "Brother Hardin returned to his seat in society." Three years passed before his name was mentioned, and unfortunately it was once again an allegation against him for drinking. The next month he appeared before the church. He must have been particularly eloquent that day and able to speak with emotional pleas that appealed to the members' hearts, because "he gave the church satisfaction unanimously." Brother Hardin went on to serve as a committee mem-

Letter to the editor

Dear Editor:

If you would give me the privilege, I would like to make a few comments on the article, Bible study is destructive, by Austin Mobley, minister, Providence Church of Christ, Signal 6-3-82. It reminds me of the statement Jesus made in His parable of the sower (St. John 4:32). I have meant to eat that ye know not of. There seems to be many things in the scripture that Mr. Mobley knows not of. I study the Bible, not to argue with Mr. Mobley or anyone else, but to learn more about God and how Jesus teaches me to live as a Christian.

First, Bible study does not destroy all denominations. The church of the Nazarene's main theory is clean hands and a pure heart (Psalms 24:3-4, James 4:8, II Co. 7:1), also being born again (St. John 3:3 and I Peter 1:23).

Second, Bible study, to me, does not destroy all religious institutions but one. All born again believers are members of the spiritual church (Hebrews 12:23). I believe there are many different religious institutions (denominations) here on earth promoting the cause of Christ as it would please Him. I have met many people from different ones, that truly manifest the fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22).

I would also like to call Mr. Mobley's attention to Doris Baldwin, Robin Stroh, Covington and John Lee, Mt. Vernon.

Released:
 Ronnie Fentress.

to the apostle Paul being referred to as a ruler of the sect of the Nazarene's (Act. 24:5). This is when he was on trial for promoting the cause of Christians were called Nazarenes ho?

Third, Bible study to me does not destroy my belief that God does still perform miraculous healings today, and other miracles. Now unto whom is able to cure, exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us (Eph. 3:20) James 5:13-15) and many other infallible proofs. Just because I do not have the knowledge of a matter, has no right to say that it does not exist.

Fourth, Bible study to me does not destroy the use of musical instruments in worship. There are numerous accounts in the Bible of God's people using musical instruments to praise Him. I can understand how a man can set until 12 midnight Saturday night, listening to the Grand Ole Opry, have a good time, and play a stringed instrument on Saturday and sing if you will hush up your mug! I will fill up your mug with that good old mountain dew, go to church on Sunday, take communion, give the lesson, and it be wrong to use music to worship God.

The most beautiful music I ever heard was played on a piano in a worship service at Calvary. Mercy there was great and grace was free, pardon there was multiplied to me, at Calvary.

So you people out there that read this, remember that first John 1:9 (Cont. to 4)

Insanity in our courts

When I heard that John Hinckley, the man who says if we confess our sins, he is faithful and just, to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. Praise God for that.

"LETTER"

I read Mr. Mobley's article about Jehovah's Witnesses. I do not agree that there is no hell or that man does not have a soul, but all of the Jehovah's Witnesses people that I have met are the most friendly, moral and upright people you can meet.

Who am I to judge another man's servant? (Romans 14:4).

I am writing this as an individual member of the church of the Nazarene and not as the Nazarene Church.

Thank you, Charles C. Hurst
Route 1,
Mt. Vernon, Ky.

shot President Reagan, had been let off by pleading "insanity." I was absolutely outraged, and I am joining with others in Congress to make sure this doesn't happen again!

What has happened to our courts? And what has happened to the American system of justice when a man can freely admit he carefully planned the murder of our President, stalking him like an animal, and then walk away from court as if he hadn't done anything wrong? Sure, he has been committed to a mental hospital for "evaluation," but the end result is that he won't serve a single day in jail for his crime.

John Hinckley wasn't insane. He knew exactly what he was doing. Hinckley's actions were carefully mapped out. Something must be done to keep the world's "insane" off our streets and behind bars.

Within hours after the court announced travesty of justice, several plans were offered in Congress to make sure that criminals pleading "insanity" can't get off scot-free.

One way of doing this is to simply not allow pleas of temporary insanity. What is insanity? Instead, is a plea of "guilty, but insane." This means the court could convict the criminal of his crime while recognizing some mental disorder. In other words, criminals would serve time behind the bars of a hospital for the criminally insane instead of a federal prison. This way we keep behind bars those who have proven they are unfit to roam free in society.

Another way to solve this problem is to make defense attorneys prove that the accused is really insane. In the Hinckley case, the prosecuting attorney's had to prove Hinckley's sanity. It just makes good sense to presume someone is sane and rational unless it can be proven otherwise.

If you are half as angry as I am over this weird situation, I think that you will want to see something done quickly to fix this obvious flaw in our laws that allows some one to avoid justice by hiring expensive lawyers and claiming to be crazy.

After talking with my fellow Congressman, I am convinced that we will move quickly to resolve this matter. I hope that the individual states will also act quickly to change their laws, too.

ber to attend sister churches and associational meetings. The church, always referred to in the female gender, was proud, domineering and moralistic; but above all, she showed faith in the rebirth of man.

Scaffold Cane was not limited to being a church just for Baptists, but welcomed all denominations. The various sects co-existed for many years without major differences. Eventually the Methodists gained power in the church and felt the call to challenge the church's practice of baptism by immersion. The Methodists favored sprinkling. Mrs. O.M. Payne writes:

"A debate was held for ten days and well attended by the neighborhood. One old man, in particular, attended faithfully every day. His name was Uncle Elijah Owens. He wore a long white beard. Being somewhat hard of hearing, Uncle Elijah always sat down near the front, near the speaker. On the tenth day, the debate came to an end. The judges decided in favor of the Baptists. To demonstrate there were no hard feelings, both sides joined in songs and hand shaking. Uncle Elijah noted the commotion around him. After sitting quietly for several days, he arose to his feet, pushed his beard to one side, smote the table with his fist, and proclaimed in a loud voice, "I've always been a Republican and I always will be."

Christians' Annual Picnic

As the cars and church buses from Christian churches in this vicinity rolled over the Paris Pike, Sunday, June 27, the occupants of the vehicles saw the "cream" of the Kentucky Bluegrass area with white fences keeping horses within their bounds. When they reached the Cane Ridge Meeting House grounds, near Paris, they viewed more green rolling ground with old, well preserved trees that shaded the picnic area. Before they

This photo of the Hardin brothers of Disputanta was made around the turn of the century and includes all the family of brothers except Silas. The sons of Rebecca and Silas Harding were from left, front row: James, Lewis, and Howard. Back row: John, Robert and Franklin. The boys' grandfather was John A. Hardin who was born in 1817 and fought for the North in the Civil War. He was mustered out because of "old age and a lung weakness" due to bouts of pneumonia. He died in 1867. His brother William Pleasant Hardin was also a Union soldier. No doubt these are the two Hardin brothers mentioned in the accompanying feature article [Photo courtesy of John Hardin, whose father is Howard, front, right]

John W. Dees was a Civil War soldier who fought with Union forces as a member of the 7th Regiment Infantry at the Battle of Wildcat in Rockcastle. Dees was the grandfather of John Franklin Hardin, who lives at Disputanta. Hardin says his grandfather often told him old Civil War stories including one in which he was down south and had been out of chewing tobacco for some time. As Dees and other Union soldiers were going through an abandoned house, he felt up over the doorway and discovered a twist of homemade tobacco. He told his grandson that it was the best tasting tobacco he had ever chewed. Dees' wife was Joann Devore from Fayette County. Dees died in 1923. His daughter, Dora Frances Dees Hardin was John's mother. [Photo courtesy of John Hardin]

"CANE RIDGE" (Cont'd from P-9) ate, however, they walked through the cemetery of makers and vaults with late 1700 dates for births and early 1800's for deaths of the pioneers that helped to build this meetinghouse in 1791 of blue ash logs, that had a gallery where slaves sat. Daniel Boone directed his friend, Rev. Robert W. Finley, from North Carolina in 1791, to this spot that he had found earlier and called it "The Cane Ridge" because of the extensive cane breaks found there. Historians say that crowds of 10,000 to 25,000 attended tent meetings here in 1801. They came from as far away as North Carolina and Virginia in mule drawn wagons and stayed for a week or longer to hear the preachers. Sometimes as many as five were preaching in different areas of the grounds. Modernizations of the Cane Ridge Meeting House brought great changes, but logs of the original building were saved, so in 1932, it was restored to its primitive appearance. To preserve this structure, a superstructure was built over the entire Cane Ridge Meeting House in 1957. An average of 7,500 people per year visit this Cane Ridge Meeting House and enjoy its beautiful grounds and museum. They come from all of the U.S. States and 16 other countries to see the spot where the early beginnings of the Christian Church had its growth. After partaking of the food spread out on the serving picnic tables, our group gathered in the old meeting house to hear an informative speech from the president of Johnson Bible College, David Eubanks, about the birth and growth of the Christian Church. We heard, from members of some of the churches there, songs that could have been sung in the early 1800's. The Christian churches represented here last Sunday at Cane Ridge were: Southern Heights in Somerset, Glades and Wayside in Berea, and four Christian churches from Rockcastle

County-Wildie, Buckeye, Mt. Vernon and Brodhead. by Elizabeth Mullins

State Legislature

By Sen. John Rogers

The Legislative Research Commission (LRC) has organized the 1982-84 system of interim committees. During the interim the fifteen permanent standing committees became interim joint committees, meaning they are composed of both House and Senate members.

Also, there are several special and advisory committees established by legislative resolution or the LRC.

The fifteen standing committees which in essence do the bulk of work during the interim are as follows: Agriculture and Small Business; Appropriations and Revenue; Banking and Insurance; Business Organizations and Professions; Cities, Counties, and Special Districts; Education; Energy; Health and Welfare; Judiciary-Civil; Judiciary-Criminal; Labor and Industry; Natural Resources and Environment; State Government; and Transportation.

Committees shall consider legislative proposals or conduct investigations on matters referred to them by the LRC. Within its jurisdiction, an committee may initiate a proposal for study or investigation and undertake the project after submitting it to the LRC for approval.

Meetings of each interim committee shall be called by the interim committee chairman after his or her appointment and in keeping with the overall schedule of interim activities developed by the LRC. The Chairman shall call a meeting when he feels there is sufficient pending business to justify a meeting and after at least two weeks notice.

The Chairman may recognize any person appearing at a meeting or public hearing of the committee who desires to be heard. Such person shall be required to state their name, address and who he or she represents before making a statement.

Committees shall have no authority, unless prescribed by law, to administer oaths, issue subpoenas, compel the attendance of witnesses or the production of any papers, books, accounts, documents or testimony.

At the close of the interim each committee submits a final report to the LRC indicating its activity during the interim and its recommendations for legislation to be presented to the forthcoming General Assembly.

Since the General Assembly meets but once every two years, you can see why interim committees are of much importance. Many vital issues are investigated and studied during this time, for the purpose of developing competent legislation.

$264,606 ALLOCATION FOR COUNTY ROADS

The state Department of Transportation has announced a $264,606 allocation to Rockcastle County for rural secondary road maintenance and improvements in fiscal year 1982-83.

The funds will provide maintenance along 75 miles of rural secondary roads in Rockcastle County, Transportation Secretary Frank Metts said.

Improvement projects include resurfacing one mile of KY 1912, Richmond-London Road, from KY 1004 north.

Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, July 1, 1982 P-11

The rural secondary program is financed with 22 percent of the motor fuels taxes collected in Kentucky. It was established in 1948 to help maintain and improve farm-to-market and other essential rural roads.

About 51 representatives from Circuit Clerk's offices in a 14 county region attended a training session at the Rockcastle County Courthouse Monday, June 28. State department workers Sherry Conley and John Burt, far right, were in charge of the meeting, the purpose of which was to enlighten employees about new law

By Austin Mobley, Minister, Providence church of Christ

I have been asked by one of our readers to respond to a recent letter to the Signal's editor written by Naomi Edwards and I am happy to do so. I appreciate her reading the articles and commenting about them. I trust she is "searching the scriptures to see if those things are so", and her comments give me an opportunity to expand upon a subject which has obviously been misunderstood; in this case, the church.

First of all, I would like to make it clear that I neither write nor preach orally for the purpose of argument. My sole purpose in both is to set forth the gospel which is God's power to save (1 Cor. 1:18). In preaching the Word, one must "prove, rebuke, exhort..." (2 Tim. 4:2). This angers some, provokes some, causes some to close their ears, but it also saves some. It is my fervent prayer that my feeble efforts will result in the latter. Souls cannot be saved by our shunning "to declare all the counsel of God" (Acts 20:27). Holding back part of the gospel, while it may sound pleasing, will profit no one (Acts 20:20). "Ticking the ears" will result only in turning people "from the truth", and they shall "be turned unto fables" (2 Tim. 4:3-4).

Now about the church. "Providence" is a designation used to distinguish that particular congregation of the church of Christ from all other churches of Christ. We are happy to report that there are thousands of churches of Christ in the world, several in our immediate area, and one with the same address as our brethren who make up the church of Christ at Fairview would be unhappy and rightly so should the man deliver to them our electric bill, phone bill, etc. But, if there were no designations to determine which church of Christ, he would not be at fault. However, if we had no Scriptural authority for designating local churches of Christ, we would have to settle that and other related problems in some other way. We must have Bible authority for all things in religion.

"Church" is used in two senses in the Bible: the universal church (Matt. 16:18; Acts 2:47; Eph. 1:22; 3:10; 5:23-24, et al.) and the local church (Acts 14:23; 15:4; 20:17; 1 Pet. 5:13; Acts 13:1, et al.) When more than one local church in a particular area is referred to they are "the churches of Galatia" (1 Cor. 16:1), "seven churches which are in Asia" (Rev. 1:4), etc. Several local churches in various areas are called simply, "the churches of Christ" (Rom. 16:16).

Jesus promised to build His church (Matt. 16:18). It thus belongs to Him. The church is the bride of Christ (2 Cor. 11:2; John 3:28-29). Why should the bride choose rather than to wear the name of her Bridegroom to wear a name that describes a work done by the Bridegroom's cousin, John the Baptist? Incidentally, his name was John (Luke 1:13); he was referred to as "the Baptist" or "the baptizer" to distinguish him as the John who baptized.

Jesus prayed that we all might be one in Him (John 17:20-21). My prayer being the same, we are not to be united in Him as long as human names, beliefs and practices continue to divide us.

So that there can be no further misunderstanding regarding the scriptural designation for the church, let us have the following conversation between Mrs. Edwards and me:

"Mr. Mobley, what church are you a member of?" "The church of Christ." "Where?" "At Providence." "Are churches of Christ mentioned in the Bible?" "Yes." "Where?" "Romans 16:16."

"Mrs. Edwards, what church are you a member of?" "The Baptist Church." "Where?" "At New Albany" (or wherever). "Are Baptist churches mentioned in the Bible?" "I never ever read in the Bible about the Baptist church." (The last statement is a direct quotation from Mrs. Edwards' letter to the editor, Mt. Vernon Signal, June 17, 1982.)

The question, "Is the church you are a member of mentioned in the Bible?" need never again be answered negatively. If you will hear, believe and obey the gospel, the Lord Himself will add you to the one you can read about in the Bible. (Acts 2:47). Then continue to live faithfully until death and Heaven will be your home. (Rev. 2:10).

For the final process, each manager was given a list of the 20 top players. They then determined each player's ability by rating them on a scale of one to ten for each of the following categories: baserunning, throwing, batting, fielding and attitude. The rating for Anthony Brock has been named a 1982 United States National Award winner in Basketball. Anthony, who attends Rockcastle County High School, was nominated for this award by Roscoe Denney, basketball coach at the school. Anthony will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally. Selection for the award is made upon exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards for Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Anthony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tedd Brock of Broadhead and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Denney of Somerset and Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Brock of Broadhead.

Waterdogs win tournament

The Waterdogs of Broadhead were the winners of the Berea Hospital First Annual Softball Tournament held at the Berea Community School Athletic Field. The Waterdogs overpowered the Warthogs of Berea to win the final game 10 to 3. The third place winning team was Dwayne's of Berea. The most valuable player was Mike (Spider) Weaver of the Waterdogs. Donnie Moberly, hitting two home runs out of the park, won the most home run trophy.

The three day event featured the following teams: Waldonians of Lexington, Dwayne's, Baird's Bunch, Berea Hospital, McDonalds, Parker Seal, Rockcastle Rebels, Superior, Waterdogs, Convenient.

Each player was totaled and the top ten players were chosen for the All-Star Team.

In case of a tie in the voting process of selection, the president of the tie vote to be listed with the top 20 players. In case of a tie in the rating process, the player who used a coin flip; if more than two players were to be involved in the tie, a vote would be taken.

"FISCAL COURT"

they felt the county needed the protection of the sheriff's department worse than the county needed a budget appropriation was made to the sheriff's department despite efforts on county treasurer's including petitions and attendance at budget meetings.

The county fiscal court met briefly Monday morning and hired Floyd Owens as county treasurer for four more years beginning July 1, 1982. His salary was set at $8,400.

Five hundred dollars was the amount agreed upon to charge a party from Pulaski County who has plans to use the Broadhead Fairgrounds for a horse auction some time during the summer.

Robert Robinson petitioned the court to fill on the Old Broadhead Road across to Mareburg on U.S. 150, a distance of approximately 2 1/2 miles. After some discussion, the court voted to open up the road all the way through, providing the road had never been closed by court order.

Several amendments to the 1981-82 budget were made allowing for a balanced budget with no deficits. There was no surplus left over, however, with some bills being held over for presentation at the July meeting, which pays bills from 1982-83 budget money.

Unanticipated funds from Local Government Economic Assistance in the amount of $13,228 were amended into the budget along with $100 in unanticipated revenues from various sources plus $99,342 into the county fund.

RECC to hold annual meeting

The Jackson County Rural Electric Cooperative cordially invites its members to their 44th Annual Meeting and Business Session on Tuesday, July 6, 1982 at the RECC Farm, six and one-half (6 1/2) miles South of McKee on Highway 290. Registration will begin at 6 p.m. with the program getting underway at 7 p.m.

Country recording group, The Blue Ridge, will highlight the evening program, which will also include the crowning of a new Miss Jackson County RECC, children's entertainment and door prizes. Jackson County RECC President and General Manager, Lee Roy Cole said, "I'm excited about this year's program, it's one of all our members will enjoy."

The Blue Ridge is a group whose roots go deep into country and gospel music. According to Mr. Cole, the group has entertained all across America and Canada. With "Music For All America," a syndicated television program, over 300 personal appearances each year, and 107 albums to their credit, the Blue Ridge appears to be one of the busiest groups around.

Mr. Cole says, "they have just recorded a new album, produced by Sheb Wooley and released on Monument recording label, "Lovin' You is Worth the Wait," "Lay Your Healing Hands on Me" and "A Cowboy's Love" are among the songs on that album which should do well on the country charts."

The Blue Ridge has a style somewhat similar to the Oak Ridge Boys, "and" says Mr. Cole, "I think they are just as good." The group is based in Spartanburg, S.C., and is no stranger to rural audiences. In addition, Miss Michele Blackwell from Irvine, Kentucky, the reigning title holder, will crown the winner of this year's Miss Jackson County RECC Beauty Contest, who will then compete in the Miss Kentucky Rural Electric

Pageant in August. For the children there will be a special act called "Gory-The Almost Human Gorilla." According to Mr. Cole, "This act is terrifically funny! Gory will do several stunts and a few tricks that will have you rolling in the aisles." Gory has appeared in fairs and circuses in the U.S. and in Europe. He most recently

Brodhead Homemakers

Fifteen members and one guest, Sylvia Whit's mother, met at Kaye Carr's home with Elzora Gray as co-hostess, Thursday, June 24, 1982, at 7:30 for a meeting of the Brodhead Willing Workers homemakers Club. After Glenna Brooks called the meeting to order, L. Jean Albright gave a devotion of friendship of parents and children. Roll call was answered by a favorite dairy product. Suggestions were made that members attend the November 4, 1982, Area Meeting at Cumberland Falls, to remember the Blood Drive in July and plan to exhibit at least one item at the Little World's Brodhead Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee in October. Members that attended the fair on June 15 told of their experiences. This month's lesson was presented by L. Jean Albright on Better Wife/ mother. She passed out papers for us to compare the years of 1965 with 1980 in what men, women or both usually did in each of these years in the care of the home, children, business, etc. All agreed that in 1980, men and women were more equal in doing these tasks. Then she had the group "grade" themselves as a partner in marriage. After this she read and commented on "Building Your Marriage" by Mary D. Browder, a former extension specialist in Family Life. Kaye Carr gave each member present a beautiful card with the poem "In Praise of a Good Woman". Loraine Newland gave us a puzzling game to make phrases and then gave us a list of Bible names of men to match with their mothers. After a blessing by Elizabeth Mullins, delicious pecan pie, made by Elzora Gray, and sandwiches made by Kaye Carr, were served. The July meeting, will be at Betty Machal's home with Sylvia and son, David. The session will be "Our Favorite Recipes". The meeting will be July 29th.

Tips for High-Quality Frozen Foods

If you were disappointed with some of the frozen fruits and vegetables you put up last year, take a look at what might have gone wrong. Don't let it happen again!

Freezing is lots easier and quicker than canning, but you have to do it right. If you break the rules, you're bound to be disappointed with the results.

Here are some questions you can ask yourself, along with a few reminders about what it takes to end up with top-quality frozen fruits and vegetables.

Did you freeze fruits and vegetables at peak quality and as fresh as possible from garden, vine, bush or tree?

Did you use ascorbic acid to help preserve the color and flavor of fruits that need it?

Did you blanch vegetables the recommend-length of time in boiling water, making sure the water covered them? Then did you cool them right away by plunging them into cold water until they were cold to the touch? Did you pack them into containers immediately and then tuck them into the coldest part of the freezer right away? Did you fast-freeze small amounts at a time?

Did you use moisture-vapor-proof containers especially made for freezing? A tight closure is important, otherwise the cold air leaks in and dries out the food, robbing it of flavor, color and nutrients. If you used glass jars, were the tops tightly screwed on? Did you allow too much head space in the jars?

Did your freezer stay at zero or below? If you used the freezer compartment of your refrigerator, the temperature was just not cold enough for those long months of storage.

How long were the packages of food in the freezer? Most fruits and vegetables keep their fresh flavor and good texture and quality from 8 to 12 months if stored at zero or below. Frozen jams keep their high quality as long as a year.

For more help on doing the freezing job right, stop by the county Extension office in the Mt. Vernon Courthouse for your free copy of "Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables."

Use Pressure Canner For Most Vegetables

For safety's sake, most vegetables should be processed in a steam-pressure canner with an accurate gauge.

No matter how many hours you process vegetables in a boiling-water-bath canner, the temperature never gets higher than 212 degrees F. That's not enough to make sure of destroying food-spoilage bacteria and possible Botulism toxin.

Fruits, tomatoes, rhubarb and pickled vegetables have a high-acid content and can be safely processed by the boiling-water-bath method. Not so all the other vegetables, which must be processed the required time at a temperature of 240 degrees. That's the temperature reached at 10 pounds of pressure.

You should check the accuracy of your gauge before each canning season. Take it in to the county Extension office at the Mt. Vernon Courthouse and the agent can test it for you. If the reading on the dial is off 5 pounds or more, you need to buy a new gauge.

If your gauge is off 4 pounds or less, you can still use it by allowing for a higher or lower pressure reading when processing your food. For instance, if the gauge reads 4 pounds higher than the actual pressure, process food at a reading of 14 pounds. If the gauge reads 3 lbs. low, process food at a reading of 7 pounds and so forth. Mark correct reading on canner so you won't forget.

What about using a pressure saucepan for canning? You can do this if it has an accurate gauge for controlling pressure at 10 pounds. Just add 20 minutes to the regular processing time. This makes up for the quick climb in temperature at the beginning and the more-rapid cooling at the end of processing time.

A FRIEND NEXT DOOR

You've got to be a neighbor. If you want a friend next door. And who doesn't want the pleasure of a friendship of one's door. A bit of kindness or a smile. Cooperation, too, is fine. When one needs to put a ladder, On the driveway o'er the line. There's many needed little help. That one can do or give, And the payment made in friendship. Is what helps each one to live. So be a kindly neighbor. Add a touch of friendship, too. You also will be greatly paid. With love and deep respect for you.
