Rockets beat Bobcats for seventh win of season

by Richard Anderkin

The Rockcastle County Rockets' football team upped their season record to seven and one last Friday night when they easily defeated substitute for Bell County 40-0 in front of a huge home crowd.

The Rockets, who have now won five games in a row, handled their first district opponent with ease Friday night as Bell County actually threatened to score only once during the entire game.

Senior Steve Holcomb had another fine game gaining 106 yards in only eleven carries. However, Holcomb had the misfortune of having a 105 yard touchdown called back because of a penalty on the Rockets. Holcomb did not score a touchdown in the game, but Junior Bozie Kirby and sophomore Gary Fain each scored two touchdowns to lead the playoff-minded Rockets to the easy win.

Kirby scored the first touchdown of the game on the Rockets' second possession of the night when he rushed in from five yards out. The touchdown was set-up by a twenty-six yard pass from Quarterback Chris Cornelius to flanker Greg Long. Kirby also made the two extra points to give the Rockets an 8-0 lead in the first quarter.

Bell County's only real threat of the night came in the first quarter when they drove the ball to the Rockets' one-yard line. However, on the next play from scrimmage Bell County fumbled the football and the Rockets recovered.

Rockcastle had the ball with three seconds to play in the first quarter when Holcomb's 105 yard touchdown run which was called back because of a penalty, came on the Rockets' first play after the fumble.

Two plays later, senior Jeff Lear picked up a Bozie Kirby fumble on the five yard line and rushed 95 yards for the Rockets' second score of the night.

Rockcastle's 14-0 lead held until halftime but the Rockets came out in the second half on fire.

Their tenacious defense kept Bell County in poor field position the entire night and allowed the Rockets' offense to take advantage of their good field position.

About half-way through the third quarter, Coach Larry Woods began to substitute some younger players into the lineup. It was obvious that this move did not hurt the Rockets any as they were to score two against Casey County last week, they put any doubt out of anyone's mind in the fourth quarter as to who was going to win the football game as they put twenty points on the score board in the fourth quarter.

As the Rockets did a

The fourth quarter scoring started on a fine defensive play by senior Teddy Lawrence. Lawrence picked off a Bell County pass on the Bobcat's 12 yard line and took it in for the score.

With the game quite in hand at this point, Coach Larry Woods began to substitute some younger players into the lineup. It was obvious that this move did not hurt the Rockets any as they were to score two

Senior Jeff Lear is tackled by two Bell Co. Bobcats after receiving a pass from Quarterback Chris Cornelius in Friday night's game which the Rockets won 40 to 0. During the game, Lear had a 95 yard touchdown run. The Rockets play Lynn Camp here this Friday.

Kentucky's officially designated state representative for pioneer life, the Craig's Creek Muzzle Loaders Club, were part of the attractions at the Melasses Making Festival last weekend at Bernice Valley. The club ran a muzzle load turkey shoot a festival. The thirty or so members (including family members who are part of the club) are from Central Kentucky where the club has been active for the past 10 years, making it one of the oldest associations of its kind in the state. Robert Zeigenshuler, far right of Lexington, who is president of the group, said they grant as many requests as possible to participate in festivals, parades, fairs, display camps and Revolutionary War reenactments. They did receive part of the proceeds from the turkey shoot last weekend, but usually their trips do not generate revenue and the expenses are met by club members personally. This picture was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Dawson's lawn in Mt. Vernon, where the group ate supper Saturday night. Mrs. Dawson's son, Eldon McGuire, standing far left, is a member of the group.

Sophomore Gary Fain, who replaced Holcomb in the back field, scored the Rockets' fifth touchdown of the night on a thirty-nine yard run from scrimmage to give the Rockets the assured victory.

It looked as if Rockcastle might be through putting points on the board with only three seconds on the clock and the ball on Bell County's two-yard line. However, Rockcastle called off a Bell County pass on the next time-out and, on the next play, Fain scored, once again as time ran off the clock.

The game was over. Bell County would take their winless record back to Harlan and Rockcastle was one step closer to meeting Lincoln County in the playoffs. Rockcastle will play Lynn Camp this night. However, the next two weeks, they face two district foes. Tough Cawood comes to Rockcastle on October 23 and the Rockets travel to Knox Central on the 29th.

The troupe's repertoire includes such American folk dances, singing games and story telling drawn largely from the traditions of the Appalachian South. New England and the colonial period. Their Morris dances feature lively tunes, tinkling bells and vigorous steps.

Under the direction of Dr. John Ramsey, the dancers, in 1981, performed in England, Scotland and Denmark, participating in the Craigmillar Festival, Edinburgh, and the Landstaevnet, festival sponsored by the Danish Gymnastics and Youth Association. Before leaving the states, they performed in Washington, D.C. and at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts in New York City.

In 1975 and '79, the troupe made two American tours of England and were the only Americans participating at the Tyne and Wear Folkmoot, an international folk festival. They also have made a People to People tour of Latin America. The dancers have performed at the White House, were featured by the Cincinnati Symphony in its mini-festival series and, in 1976, were featured on NBC's "Today" show.

The old straw, cleaned the floor and brought in fresh, sewed the rug back together and lived on luxury.

We would go to the creek where there was a lot of pipe clay, a bluish looking clay that we found between limestone rocks. We'd dig it out, put it in buckets and carry it back to spruce up the outside of the house. The clay was mixed with water and we applied it with a broom. We had an orchard in back of the house with apple, peach and pear trees. When we got finished 'whitewashing' the house and the palling fence in the spring, we'd get back always and look at it, our orchard blooming in the background, and think it was the most beautiful scene in the whole world.

Question and Answer

Question: How do you harmonize I John 3:6, 9; 5:18 with I John 1:8? If a Christian "doth not commit sin," why does the Bible tell us, "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us," and "Answer: The key to harmonizing these verses lies with the context of the passages, and the meaning of the statements "sineth not" and "doth not commit sin."

By Austin Mobley, Minister, Providence Church of Christ

abideth in me, and I in him, the same beareth much fruit: for apart from me ye can do nothing. If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered, and they gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned." By abiding in the Lord, one does not abide in sin.

Again in I John 5:18 the reason why one who is born of God "sineth not" (continually sins-A.M.) is because he "keepeth himself, unspotted from the world" (James 1:27).

It is quite clear from I John 1:8, 10 and 2:1 that the Christian does sin. The apostle is quick to admit this, and to prescribe the remedy: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (I John 1:9). But the Christian does not "practice sin"; it is no longer the ruling principle in his life. The unregenerate sinner continues in his sin; it is the habit of his life.

Whoever truly born of God does not live a life of sin because: (1) he abides in Christ, (2) the seed remains in him, (3) he keeps himself unspotted from the world.

fall fire season began October 1

Leopard Season started October 1st and will run through December 15, according to Steve Bullen, Rockcastle County Ranger for the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

Weather conditions during this period are such that the danger of forest fires is much greater than usual. For this reason the law states that it is illegal to burn anything within 150 feet of any woodland before 4:30 p.m. during Fire Hazard Season. Other laws prohibit burning anything at any time without first taking all reasonable and necessary precautions to keep the fire from spreading, and also required that someone be with the fire until it is completely out.

Starting July 15, 1982, the minimum fine for violation of the burning laws is $100. This fine is just for the violation; if a wildfire results from the violation, the person responsible is also liable for the cost of controlling the fire and for any damages resulting from the fire.

"The long range damage from even a small forest fire can be devastating," said Steve Bullen.

"To keep the stock organized, they 'run a perpetual inventory.' 'We have a lot of different vendors that we order supplies from,' said Asher, 'but if it's a normal stock item, we run cards of them on about a daily basis and they show someone how to order.' The system saves time and makes ordering efficient."

"For special items, someone has to send in purchase requisition and if it's something out of the ordinary, the Board of Administrators has to approve it."

Maintaining a hospital is a continuous job

By: Leigh Ann Hiatt

Keeping a hospital maintained and supplied is a continuous job, and one that is extremely important to patients and staff members alike.

At the Rockcastle County Hospital, Gary Asher has been working for 10 years at keeping the health care facility maintained. He is presently responsible for the jobs of purchasing agent, safety director and plant engineer.

Each job involves something different. As purchasing agent, Asher is in charge of Central Supply. His office in the basement of the building stocks large stocks of supplies and extra supplies are stored.

"Every single supply comes through here (his department) except pharmaceutical and dietetic supplies," said Asher. This requires him to fill and deliver requisitions from staff members, order supplies and keep up the paperwork such as charging expenses to the right department.

To keep the stock organized, they "run a perpetual inventory." "We have a lot of different vendors that we order supplies from," said Asher, "but if it's a normal stock item, we run cards of them on about a daily basis and they show someone how to order." The system saves time and makes ordering efficient.

As chairman of the Safety Committee, Asher has to drill new employees on the safety procedures of the hospital. "There is a fire plan, an external disaster plan and a tornado plan that I have to go over with these people," he said. "We try to conduct two external disaster drills yearly, involving the other organizations in the county such as fire rescue and sewer plants."

"I also conduct monthly fire drills and report to the Safety Committee about it. We have an automatic device that calls the fire department in case of fire. Employees try to locate the fire internally and see if the building can be evacuated." The Safety Committee is made up of department heads.

Asher is also the plant engineer. "We're responsible for repair and upkeep of all equipment in the building, whether mechanical or electrical," he said. "They work on everything from typewriters to heart monitors."

"We even service our own air conditioners and phone system, but you can't know everything. There are a lot of things we can't do when you get into electronics and we call on outside help," Asher explained. "Most of it is done by biomedical engineers."

"If something comes up they can't handle, a biomedical engineer can usually explain how to fix it over the phone or send a part. If he can't talk Asher through the repair, the machine comes to fix the machine."

"We also do quarterly biomedical checking of all the equipment as a routine safety inspection. This is something that we've done since we started the hospital," he said.

Asher feels his responsibilities doubled after the recent renovation of the acute wing and the addition of the Skilled Nursing Facility. "Up until three years ago, I did this by myself with the help of Virgil Brock, who is now in housekeeping." They organized the departments then, and Hershel Callahan and Jerry Martin were hired to help him. The stock room was also built at that time.

Besides their regular duties, the three men also did a large part of the renovation for the acute wing. They did electrical work, plumbing and painting, taking one room at a time over a period of a year.

Does Asher enjoy his job? "Definitely. It doesn't get too boring. There are a lot of different things to do."

"Everybody's department is theoretically ours in the sense that we deal with all of them."

"FIRE SEASON"

est fire is tremendous," explained Ranger Bullen. "Studies have shown that over a 75 year period the loss due to decrease in timber quality plus the loss of value added to the local economy averages $2000 per acre burned. Everyone not just the landowner, loses when a fire burns the woods. With this potential loss of income and the possibility of a fine for illegal burning, it just doesn't make any sense to use fire carelessly or unnecessarily."

If you must burn something, be sure your fire is both safe and legal. For advice on burning conditions, fire safety, Fire Laws, or to report a forest fire contact any Forest Ranger or call the Kentucky Division of Forestry office at London, phone 864-9396.

Suit filed against executive committee of county Farm Bureau Federation

by Richard Anderkin

A civil suit was filed in Rockcastle Circuit Court last Friday against the executive committee of the Rockcastle County Farm Bureau Federation.

The suit names, president of the County Farm Bureau, Wallace Proctor, former vice president, Jackie Cash and secretary, Sharon Burton, as defendants in the case.

The suit was brought by twenty-three members of the county Farm Bureau: Shelby L. Mullins, Stephen C. Bullen, Sherman Hansel, Donnie Stephens, Roland Tankersly, Henry Owens, Howard Bullock, John W. Clark, J.B. Sexton, Tab Bullock, Ernest Poynter, Carl Miller, Wayne Jasper, Virgil Mullins, Frances Rigby, Perry McCoy, Wayne Adams, Frankie Bullock, Billy Ramsey, Donald Thompson, Arthur McKinney, Bobby Thacker and Donald J. Clark.

The suit, which was filed for the plaintiffs by attorney Steven Connolly of Berea, alleges that on September 18, 1982, during the annual meeting of the association, a secret election was held contrary to the association's by-laws in which all existing officers and directors were re-elected.

The suit further alleges that a majority of the regular members in good standing, who attended this annual meeting were denied an opportunity to vote for the selection of officers and directors as provided in Article V, Sec. 2 of the by-laws.

A copy of the Farm Bureau by-laws, which was attached to the suit, states in Article V, Section 2 of Directors, that directors shall be elected by the regular members at the annual meeting and shall hold office for one year or until their successors are elected and qualified.

According to the suit, the meeting on the 18th of September at the Fairgrounds at Broodhead was never called to order, no agenda was followed, no ballots were provided, no audit or annual financial statement was presented to the members. The suit alleges that all of these missions were contrary to the association's by-laws.

The suit further alleges that as a result of the conduct of the officers and some directors, which was contrary to the association's by-laws, the plaintiffs were denied their rights as regular members of the association and will continue to be denied their rights until a new election is held and a financial accounting made to the membership.

Wherefore, the plaintiffs demand, in the suit, that the court order the secret election held on September 18th, void.

The plaintiffs also demand that the court directing the project is not expected to begin until after January 1983, however, Garland said, actual construction depends upon the speed of the progress made on the initial pre-construction phases.

Update on the progress of 461

Some progress is being made on the proposed Ky. 461 road improvement and by-pass, according to D.J. Garland, pre-construction project engineer from the District 9 office of the Department of Transportation in Somerset.

Garland said Tuesday that the right-of-way design plans for the section from Wadd up to where the road will intersect U.S. 150 are complete. Utilities companies are now being asked to move access lines. The city of Mt. Vernon has been asked to move water lines on 461 and near Renfro Valley, where the by-pass will connect with U.S. 25 and I-75.

Right-of-way appraisals for that section of road are in the process of being made on property expected to be taken by the road change.

All other sections of the road are still under design plans, according to Garland.

Circuit Judge Wicker resigns to join Lester Burns in law practice

by Richard Anderkin

He said that Luker would be named chief justice of the 28th Circuit Court.

Rockcastle Circuit Judge Phillip K. Wicker announced his resignation at a press conference in Somerset last Friday afternoon.

Wicker, 46, who had 14 months of his eight-year term left to serve, said during his 20 minute speech that he was resigning to join the law practice of his long-time friend, Lester Burns.

The former judge said that he had received hundreds of calls urging him to stay in office.

He said that the outpouring of support had touched his heart and that he would be eternally grateful to the people in Rockcastle and Pulaski counties.

Circuit Judge C.R. Luker and Robert Helton have been named to temporarily fill the vacancy, according to Henry Pennington, chief Regional Judge of the Southeastern Regional Judicial Circuit.

Pennington said that the appointments would remain in effect until Gov. John Y. Brown, Jr. appointed someone and, according to Pennington, that will take at least a month.

Somerset City Attorney John T. Mandt has emerged as a strong possibility. Dale Mitchell, who ran against Benny Hamm for Commonwealth attorney, has also been mentioned, but he is reportedly not interested.

A source in the Rockcastle Circuit Court Clerk's office said Monday that local attorney Carl Clontz had been mentioned as a possibility for the job. However, Clontz reportedly said that he would not be interested.

District Judge Daniel Venter has announced that he will run for the office of Circuit Judge next fall. However, Venter cannot be appointed to fill the present vacancy now because he has not been practicing law for the required eight years.

Fiscal Court meets Monday

Kaye Robinson was hired as nutrition and transportation for the Broodhead Senior Citizens during a special called meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court, Monday morning in the judge executive's office.

Ms. Robinson will replace Mary Johnson, who resigned because of illness.

In other business Fifth District Magistrate Joe Clark made a motion to rescind a motion that was passed at the last Fiscal Court meeting, concerning the surveying of Blair Cemetery. The court's decision was to pay $150.00 for the survey to be done. However, all the magistrate voted unanimously Monday morning to rescind the motion.

Magistrate Donald Rowe made a motion to buy title insurance on the Robert Miller road, because, according to Rowe, the road needs it. All magistrates voted yes and the meeting adjourned.

FFA will organize Alumni Chapter

There was a meeting held last Saturday at the high school concerning organizing a Future Farmers of America (FFA) Alumni Chapter. Officers were elected for the 1982-83 year in this meeting. The president, Harold Ballinger; vice president, Donnie Hurst; secretary/treasurer, T. D. Newberger; Anthony Holbrook.

The FFA Alumni Chapter will have activities in the chapter and will help with the school concerning a judge contest, and elect officers in the Rockcastle County Chapter.

The next alumni meeting will be November 8, at 3 p.m. in the agricultural department of the high school. All past FFA members are eligible to attend the Alumni Chapter and are welcome to attend.

In the absence of visual beauty, mountain woman often struggled to create it in some simple manner in her home

by Nancy Mullins

Woman's enduring appreciation of beauty coupled with the stamina and determination to produce beautiful and pleasant surroundings are qualities that deserve focusing on.

Never let it be thought that mountain woman, either frontier or modern, abandoned the longing for beauty or failed to recognize the value of it even in circumstances which seemed hostile to what one generally considers lovely.

To the early mountain woman, the struggle for objects of art was unrealistic. The struggle for food, warmth and shelter was all-consuming. Yet, in this intense struggle, woman was able to project some of her innate artistic abilities in the quilts she made, clothes she created, flowers and gardens she grew, food she preserved and in the home she made and kept clean.

This story is a simple retelling by an 82-year-old Rockcastle County woman of the way her mother meticulously kept house and of the importance she placed upon each enhancement. We lived in a remote section of Rockcastle County when I was born in 1900 in a four room, L-shaped house which consisted of an original one-room log house and two boxed rooms, added later.

Beauty was a clean house to my mother and most of her spare time was spent keeping our house spotless or making something to make it look better.

Back then, there were no amazing cleaners that cleaned with no rinsing, no scrubbing or that degreased or cleaned and waxed at the same time. We used homemade lye soap or Big Deal soap (a large cake of strong soap) and sand. Our floors were dressed pine and poplar. My mother made scrub water using the harsh soap and dipped the scrub rag in a little pile of sand to clean our floors... and it was real work. Some people left the sand on the floor, but she took it all away, but not my mother, she rinsed her floors until all remains of the sand were gone and the floors were white.

We had a big long porch all the way across our house with turned posts and rails. I remember her scrubbing them with sand too, until they were white as snow. She scrubbed around the blackened fireplaces, the mantles and window frames and facings the same way.

Every spring and fall she'd sun the feather beds, sometimes emptying them out and washing the ticks. My mother always emptied the shuck ticks and washed them until they were white as socks. We children would tear new shucks into shreds to put back into the ticks. New shuck ticks made the best beds.

We had nine windows, more than most people had back then, and my mother kept them sparkling. She first washed them with soap and water and then rinsed them with vinegar and water and wiped them dry. My dad liked to whittle and fussed a little because he and mother had a bird house on the windows. We would wash those curtains, made of "scrim", a see-through cotton with a heavy stripe, and wash them in a cooked flour starch and spend hours ironing them with irons heated on the stove or the fireplace.

Every spring mother would tear off the loose paper from the walls and repaper using flour paste and colorful magazines, almanacs and newspapers we had saved. It looked so pretty to us then. Once we got wall paper enough to paper one room and I thought that was the biggest trick.

I will remember when we got carpet to go on one room. For years we wore and saved rags and rolled them into big balls. Grand ma helped us. When we had enough, my mother went to Pine Hill about 10 or 12 miles away, to use someone's loom. She stayed and wove our rugs into a carpet. She and grandma sewed the long strips of rug together. It was the grandest thing we had ever seen. We gathered dry grass and straw for a mat to go under it and when it was fresh it stood up 2 or 3 inches plus. Every morning and before we took it up and mother took it apart and washed each strip and hung them on the fence to dry. We took out (Cont'd to P.9)

The man selected will come from a list of three names that will be presented to Gov. Brown by a Judicial Nominating Commission, headed by state Supreme Court Justice Robert Stephens and will be comprised of two members of the Bar Association in the judicial district and two members from each political party.

The commission lacks only the four non-lawyer members that will have to be appointed by the governor.

If Governor Brown does not make the appointment within sixty days after receiving the nominees then Chief Justice Stephens will make the appointment.

Wicker's resignation became effective October 12th.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Fifteen years ago Danny Thomas founded St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital. Children are admitted to the facility free of charge and without regard to race, sex or religion as long as they are referred by a doctor, and if their disease is under study.

Once a child is accepted, the research hospital provides total medical care. When needed, the research facility also provides transportation, food, and lodging for parent and child.

The children who go to

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital are afflicted with the most devastating kinds of childhood diseases: acute lymphoblastic leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, and other forms of cancer, infantile malnutrition, and other diseases.

There have been several children from this county who have received care at St. Jude.

Please keep in mind that the purpose of the St. Jude Bike-a-thon is to help children win the battle for their lives over a deadly disease and please keep giving as you generously have done.

Sincerely,
 Deborah Newland

Dear Editor:

I respectfully ask that this letter be published expressing my views concerning the forthcoming tax proposal on the November ballot.

No person in this county could be more concerned for an ambulance nor know the value for one more than I. For seven years I have been in training, taught, or some way worked with the Emergency Medical Services. I am an Emergency Medical Technician, Emergency Medical Technician instructor, Emergency Medical Technician Inactive Paramedic, hold an Associate of Science Degree from Eastern Kentucky University with my major in Emergency Medical Care, and a part time instructor for Vocational Education teaching the Emergency Medical Technician program.

Illness or injury can occur without notice to any person and professional treatment and transportation of the patient to a medical facility is imperative. The need of the patient is not for an ambulance to be delivered to a medical facility by other vehicle means. The need is for a functional Emergency Medical System and professional personnel.

From the adoption of federal and state minimum standards for operating ambulance services, taxpayers have spent billions of tax dollars to upgrade the delivery of care for the sick and injured. For the expenditure, the taxpayer has not fully received functional services.

At present I do not feel that our service meets the minimum standards, nor do I feel that granting our fiscal court the requested tax could do anything to create even more mismanagement by them and their implementing agents. The problem is that local governments do not understand how to operate this type service or the responsibilities of this service. Local governments generally have passed their authority to agents that I so lacked knowledge. There is much more to operating a service of this nature than the daily management task.

Apathy towards emergency Medical Services, unwisely delegation of authority and politics has ruined what good intention for humanity that was sought. What more could be more important than the survival of lives, prevention of further damage, and a caring hand for sick or injured people.

Recently several Certified E.M.T.'s resigned from our ambulance service. Other Certified E.M.T.'s applied for their positions but were passed over for unskilled, untrained and non-certified persons. Until I was contacted by one of the E.M.T.'s that had been passed over, I was unaware that my jobs were vacant. Our county doesn't publish job openings in the want ad to my knowledge. I checked with several state agencies about both subjects and found that all was legal. The new people that was hired soon were vacated. Our county Kentucky University to train them in their jobs. This cost us as taxpayers would have cost nothing. Besides this surely the standard of trained care to our people was sacrificed. Today these persons have gone through the required training and have not received certification.

The only thing I can draw from this is that political favorites are more important than quality of patient care or concern of taxpayer expense. Salaries and benefits for our E.M.T.'s is not adequate for them to properly maintain their families nor provide for them during sickness or injury. In the past they were always promised better wages but it never got to their paycheck. Naturally it would be said that the government didn't have the money but I don't feel this would be true. I think it could be found if it were to increase their salaries or hire their family members or give business to their families.

I feel that our ambulance service has been unwisely in the past by the medical community in the transfer of patients to other hospitals. Patients have been sent out with advanced medical procedures being sent with the patient. Emergency Medical Technicians are not taught nor can they interfere with these procedures. Every medical person has their own and can do's according to their license and training. This is a safeguard for the life and welfare of the patient. To do otherwise places unnecessary risk on everyone.

This is not the only time that I have expressed my views to our fiscal court. Several months ago I arranged a private meeting with the fiscal court and the director of the Lake Cumberland Emergency Medical Services System. This agency, a well-respected and efficient E.M.S. system within Kentucky, maintains a community of surrounding counties ambulance services in a professional and business-like manner. This agency is the only surviving E.M.S. Regional Agency for they have proved their proficiency and knowledge of operating and maintaining, with high standards, local services. This agency also has the ability to provide training and conform to standards that will allow advanced Emergency Medical care within rural communities.

The director of this agency explained the system to the members of the fiscal court and it was shown that our county could have a better service, more employees, better back-up equipment and personnel, improved communications and recording of vital information, improved billing and collections, etc. for the same or possibly less money that they are (Cont'd to P-8) pending. The members of the fiscal court decided that they would prepare a financial statement and cost sheet to send to this agency and in turn the agency would prepare a proposal to submit to open court for their approval.

Soon after this meeting our fiscal court members was approached by the present implementing agents and were asked not to continue further negotiations with Lake Cumberland. I fought for the change but the power and position of the fiscal court agents of our present service was more than only one could undertake. Lake Cumberland is a county and the county never got a proposal from them.

These same agents of our present service and our fiscal court now come asking us as taxpayers to vote for their tax proposal to assist them in operating the same service for us that I feel is substandard. They use on us as the taxpayer their political blackmail that they will discontinue our present ambulance service if we don't vote for their request.

By the same token, there will be two votes against this tax levy and my vote will remain the same until I see improved standards of patient care and a properly managed ambulance service. The day our fiscal court discontinues our present service is the day that any member of the fiscal court that I can vote for re-election is the one that I too will vote against. If the voters of this county have the same impression, I do not feel we will lose our ambulance service. If our fiscal court can find the money to increase their salaries and hire non-essential personnel, they can find the money to our ambulance service.

If the fiscal court wants my vote then they should give me something to vote for. Show men that the lives of our people are the most important aspect and that my money is being spent wisely. Give me an Advance Emergency Medical Service and one that is properly managed and I will vote for a tax levy.

Until this time, I will vote no for the service we now have. Find the money to operate it that you have always done in the past. Many people that I have spoken to feel as I do but expect the present service to continue.

Thank you,
John W. Rush

TO THE EDITOR

In response to last week's letter to the editor regarding the Broadhead St. Jude Bike-a-thon, I think that it is time to give credit where credit is due.

I have never responded to a letter to the editor before but when I read the one in last week's paper, I thought it needed some defense.

I am wondering how many of the mothers and other people really know where the prizes come from in the first place or have even bothered to find out.

The homemakers club in Broadhead works as volunteers for this project. They sit at road blocks, make KoolAid, serve food, tally up sponsor sheets, etc. The main organization and success of the Bike-a-thon is due to one person. This person is Deborah Newland and I think she should have the credit for the success of the Bike-a-thon. The volunteers do very little compared to what Mrs. Newland does. Her job doesn't begin on the day of the Bike-a-thon. The work starts weeks and even months before.

Now to get to the point of where the prizes come from. Mrs. Newland works especially hard on the prizes. Long before the day of the Bike-a-thon, Mrs. Newland goes to various places of business and explains to them that they can donate a prize or money to be used for prizes. By combining the money that is donated she can buy the larger prizes such as bicycles, etc. Sure, sometimes she gets rejections but on the other hand most of the businesses are quite generous and are happy to donate for this worthwhile cause. She goes to grocery stores asking them to donate food, KoolAid and sugar to be used for the riders of the Bike-a-thon. She also takes enough care in getting permission to have the streets blocked off for the safety of the children. She arranged for a homemaker volunteer to sit at each of these road blocks to make sure that cars stay out of the riders route and to keep the riders on the right side to further insure the safety of the children. And to take the concern for safety a bit further she also asks a volunteer to take care of a first-aid station. To keep track of the rounds that the children make, she needs volunteers to punch their cards when they make a complete round. She also rides her golf cart around one time leading the children and showing them the proper route. After the Bike-a-thon it takes an additional two hours for the volunteers to tally up each of the sponsor sheets of the children showing how much money that they need to collect and how far they have ridden. No! it still isn't over yet. It takes about 2 more weeks for the children to bring in the money and collect their prizes. Then the money is counted and tallied and all the papers put in order before it is sent to the St. Jude Hospital! This isn't all that goes into making the Bike-a-thon a success. These are the things that I know. I am sure that Mrs. Newland can tell you more and more and more. But you should be able to tell from what I have told you that it takes more than the day of the Bike-a-thon.

Since Mrs. Newland wouldn't boast or brag about the work she does or the things that go into it, I thought I would do it for her. She deserves some credit. St. Jude doesn't pay Mrs. Newland for this help. She does it from the good of her heart, for the help and the need of the children of St. Jude.

I have defended Mrs. Newland enough. I will get into the case of Greg Bullock earning the bike for a second year. I used to know "Bullock" instead of "win" because he earned it as well as won. If you want something bad enough to work for it then you deserve to earn it. I also sat at one of those road blocks and I watched the children ride. Some of the children would stop and talk to their friends while Greg Bullock rode with the same amount of speed each time he passed it. It was clear to see that he knew how to ride in order to win and that he had the determination to win. Everyone had the same chance to win no matter what their size or sex. If everyone had worked and got as many sponsors as Greg Bullock just think of the benefits that St. Jude would have gotten from it. What ever Greg chose to do with the bike after he earned it is his privilege. He was the one who worked for it. The thing that was unfair about it is the criticism and negative response from those who should care enough to work for the children of St. Jude and not for what they can get out of it for themselves.

Since there has been so much unfair criticism about this year's Bike-a-thon, I am wondering if there will be one next year. I also wonder how many of the people that thought it was unfair will be willing to do all the things that Mrs. Newland has done to make it a success.

Thanks,
Glenna S. Brooks

P.S. After I wrote this I also learned that some people in M.A. also helped. Thanks to them, also. I didn't want to leave them out.

Dear Editor:

Well, we had our so-called "County Meeting", there was a better turn-out than expected, but things got out of order about a road which didn't even concern the meeting, in fact, the road is under law suit and I didn't even want it brought up, but, it was a free speech meeting so I couldn't tell them not to talk about it.

I was very glad to see the amount of concerned citizens that showed up. This is a start.

Even though it got out of hand and I didn't get to finish my meeting to bring up the other things, I hope the concerned people will read this letter and think of the things I am about to say.

1. Our Sheriff's Department must definitely needs financial help and backing.

2. We do need the Ambulance Service.

3. People need to get together and help our Senior Citizens, painting homes, cutting grass and taking in groceries where needed and clothes.

4. People need to have their lands surveyed so you don't even have to go through what my mother and father are going through now.

5. We have old roads that need to be closed to save the county money and we also have some that don't need to be spend just because another man sold a man a piece of land and there is no outlet except on the man that sold this land so now he is trying to get it open on everyone else, a road that has not been maintained in 15 to 20 years.

6. As for the magistrates, I still say there are a few that have their own little play house in that courtroom, and if the people of this county would just go to the Fiscal Court meetings, once a month, I'm sure they would get their eyes open and better believe a lot of us will think twice before voting next term.

7. We need a better system of collecting and checks and grocery bills, we need to be able to find a judge when a warrant or summons needs to be signed.

8. We need for our County Attorney to get those delinquent taxes collected so the Sheriff's Dept. will have money to work with.

9. The prisoners that are in that jail every week need to be put to work on things to better the county instead of sitting up in jail and our tax money keeping them nice and comfortable. In Virginia they work the roads for their room and board. This would save tax money and I don't think our jail would stay too busy then.

10. The concerned citizens that know about drug pushers or users, should report it to Narcotic Bureau in Washington, D.C.

11. Give our children some decent recreation, our grown-ups have their Country Clubs, most can't afford to go there, but our children need something, besides making a circle around Mt. Vernon every weekend. Give them skating rinks, movies and keep them decent so the parents won't be afraid to let them go there.

12. Give food and clothing to the Home Nursing to distribute to the poor and handicapped on their rounds through the county, for sick people that can't raise gardens and keep food in the houses. I have been there and there is no greater reward than the smiles and handshakes you receive when you help them people, it is not charity, it is helping one another. Mrs. Betty Lewis is a great help in there.

Well, this was the rest of my county meeting that I didn't get to present, but I expected trouble when I called this meeting and the ones that caused the commotion just proved the old saying, ".... making .... of themselves," and we all have to overlook these people and try to forgive

Thanks, Orlando, for your help, we won't quit. This is just a start, for we have found out that we are concerned citizens. One man said all I wanted to do was get my picture in

Adams Optical and Dr. David Coleman FOR YOUR EYES ONLY Why should I have my eyes examined? Nothing hurts.

You should have an eye examination for the same reason you should take an annual physical, see your dentist twice a year or have regular check-ups on your car. Prevention. Something might be going wrong.

When you have an eye examination, the eye doctor looks for symptoms and signs of internal and external diseases. He tests for the proper functioning of the eyes. Often an eye examination may turn up evidence of high blood pressure, diabetes, glaucoma, multiple sclerosis, kidney diseases, blood diseases and other medical problems.

What happens during the exam? The first step is the interview. The examiner should ask you many questions to obtain a case history of your general health, the type of seeing jobs you perform at work and while engaging in your hobbies or sports activities. He will record your symptoms as you review them and other essential facts.

Then he will start a series of tests to measure, appraise and record your visual capabilities and acuity. He will inspect the external and internal parts of your eyes, looking for eye and bodily diseases. With scientific instruments, he will also determine any conditions of nearsightedness, farsightedness, astigmatism or muscle imbalance that may exist. He will test your depth perception, your ability to judge distance, your peripheral or side vision, your color vision, how your eyes focus light and evaluate many factors.

When the examination is completed, he must study all the information he has assembled and make a professional decision on how to give you the highest possible visual efficiency. Today, in America, the science, art and technology are available to correct wholly, or in part, something like 95% of all vision problems. And, the eye examination is the first step toward better vision.
