

KU to provide home energy audits

Kentucky Utilities Company announced plans this week for implementing the Residential Conservation Service Plan, a program that will provide home audits and information for KU's residential customers...

The Company will submit the plan to the Kentucky Public Service Commission within 30 days. Training of auditors will begin soon and the first audits are expected to be made either in late February or March.

All customers of KU will receive in their electric bill an envelope an announcement of the plan, including an estimate to conduct an audit. A KU spokesman said that since the Company operates in 78 Kentucky counties and serves 285,000 residential customers, it will require a period of time before all customers receive the announcement and audit application form...

There will be a charge of $15 for the audit. A trained auditor will be sent to the customer's home to measure and inspect it for energy-saving opportunities. The customer will receive a computerized printout indicating the energy savings that can be accomplished by utilizing the applicable conservation measures.

If a customer requests assistance in obtaining bids and contractors or obtaining bid and financing information, the auditor will provide such information.

KU has actively promoted energy conservation measures for the Company's customers for many years but, the spokesman said, the audit program will provide the information in a more formal manner.

The Company does not know how many customers will request audits, but the spokesman said it is KU's desire to communicate effectively with the customers and provide a well-conducted audit that will be beneficial to the customers.

Birthdays...

Angela Marie Couch celebrated her fourth birthday February 9th, along with her brother, Ricky McCoy. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy of Pine Hill.

Hazel Thompson has worked for Food Service for almost 18 years and is presently supervisor of the department in addition to helping prepare the meals served at the hospital, she is responsible for all personnel scheduling and the cleaning schedule and most of the supply purchasing.

Employee of the Month

The February Employee of the Month at the Rockcastle County Hospital was chosen from the Food Service Department.

Conditions at the hospital kitchen have changed over the years since Mrs. Thompson began working there. "I guess our equipment is one of the biggest changes," she said. "The modern equipment in the kitchen makes the job easier for the food service staff, but she added, "We have more patients now."

J'What does Mrs. Thompson enjoy most about her job? "I just enjoy cooking for people," she said. "That's all I've ever done." She intends to continue working as long as she is able. "I'd rather work than sit at home as long as I can do my job."

Mrs. Thompson lives in Mt. Vernon and is the wife of the late Lloyd Thompson. She has six children: Billy Ray, Parkey, Nancy, Gary, Larry and Roger.

Interest rates for USDA

FmHA loans drop

Interest rates for loan programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration will drop again on January 17, State Director Kendall L. Seaton announced today.

"These lower interest rates, which apply to most loans made by Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), USDA's farm credit agency, will be of great benefit to the rural economy and particularly for the nation's farmer's who depend heavily on credit," Seaton said.

It is the third such reduction since October 1982 by FmHA which makes farm, home and other loans to rural residents and communities who cannot get credit from private lenders. Seaton said the reductions are possible because of a general move toward lower interest rates in all sectors of the economy and because of lower costs of federal borrowing.

Interest rates for farm operating loans, used to finance annual costs of production, will drop from 11.5 percent to 10.25 percent. Farm ownership rates will drop from 11.5 to 10.75 percent. Interest rates for "limited resource" borrowers, those unable to afford the full interest rate, will drop from 7.5 percent to 7.25 percent. Limited resource farms ownership loans go from 5.75 to 5.25 percent.

Ky. FmHA successful in reducing housing delinquency

Kendall L. Seaton, State Director of Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) announced January 5, 1983 that the delinquency rate for monthly payment housing borrowers has been reduced from 24.5 percent to 15.9 percent during the last month. This success has been accomplished by increased collection efforts and utilization of FmHA's new tools for reducing interest credit and moratoriums in justified cases. Kentucky has a portfolio of 28,855 monthly payment rural housing loan borrowers. Seaton said, "This represents significant progress and effort on the part of the borrowers and FmHA field personnel. A borrower is considered delinquent when the payment is more than 15 days past due. Presently, 16 county offices in the State have lowered their delinquency rate to less than 10 percent. However, 18 county offices have a delinquency rate in excess of 19 percent. Three county offices have a delinquency rate in excess of 26 percent."

Most of the monthly payment rural housing borrowers receive interest credit. This permits borrowers to pay reduced interest (but not less than 9 percent) so that the housing costs of principal, interest, real estate taxes and property insurance will not exceed 20 percent of the household's adjusted income. Seaton said numerous borrowers qualify for interest as low as five percent. Regulations require that FmHA review the family income annually and make adjustments as necessary in the monthly payment. When the income of the family has increased the house payment is increased accordingly. Seaton said this program is designed to help people help themselves and become owners and tax paying citizens. Generally, when a family receives a low interest loan and becomes a homeowner a series of events typically follow: 1. After two or three years, family income increases; house payment increases; the portion paid by the Government decreases. 2. Homeowner makes improvements to the dwelling; collateral for FmHA is enhanced. 3. After 10 years, the borrower may be able to pay the full interest rate. 4. After 12-15 years, the actual loss loans due to natural disasters remains at 8 percent for those farmers unable to get credit from private lenders. For farmers who can obtain natural disaster loans elsewhere but choose to deal with Farmers Home Administration, the rate remains at 14.25 percent.

The interest rate for production loans to farmers who need financing above the actual loss and are unable to get credit elsewhere drops from 14 to 13 percent. The rate for real estate purposes remains at 13 percent.

Interest rates on long-term loans for soil and water conservation, grazing associations, irrigation and drainage drop from the present 11.5 percent to 10.75 percent.

In housing, interest rates for single family homes drop from 11.5 to 10.75 percent except for borrowers who can afford rates charged by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Real estate rates remain at 12 percent.

Rural rental housing loan rates drop from 11.5 to 10.75 percent. On December 31, 1982, rates for water/sewer and loans were lowered. The "market" interest rates for those communities able to afford it went from 10.625 to 10.75 percent. The "intermediate" rate dropped from 7.875 to 7.375 percent. The poverty line interest rate remained at 5 percent.

borrower may be considered for graduation to other credit.

5. When this loan is paid, FmHA can then assist someone else in becoming a homeowner.

Seaton said, "Of the 28,855 monthly payment housing borrowers, 4,570 (15.9 percent) are delinquent. Of these, 1,821 (6.3 percent) are delinquent one month; 1,900 (6.0 percent) are delinquent two months; 476 (1.7 percent) are delinquent three months; and 1,043 (4.9 percent) are more than three months delinquent."

County office personnel provide needed supervision and servicing to assist borrowers to become successful homeowners. Conditions develop from time to time that prohibit a borrower from making the scheduled payment. However, it is the borrower's responsibility to notify the FmHA county office of the extenuating circumstances and when the payment can be expected.

Seaton said every effort will be made to work with delinquent housing borrowers. We cannot take any action without a written disclosure on any FmHA-assisted homeowner. To do so, implies FmHA made a mistake. However, he said, "the bottom line is, we expect payments to be made on time."

A WINTER'S NIGHT

By Juanita Fordyce
No stars to shine, or moon to light,
On a cold and winter's night,
The wind a fury of distress
A patient, blue white winters' nest!
Bare trees coated with ice hanging low,
Roof tops glistening white with snow
In my neighbors window I look for a light,
On a cold and winter's night.

Hoping this night of fearful plight,
Will be gone by morning light
And at the breaking of the dawn,
Will appear like a gentle dawn.

Icy roads blamed for accidents Monday

One accident on I-75, two miles north of Mt. Vernon, Monday morning, was followed by a rapid succession by two more, according to state trooper Guy Blevins.

Seriously injured in the first accident was Henry Franklin Ibaugh, 41, of Gulf Port, Florida, driver of a tractor-trailer cab.

Blevins said witnesses told him the truck came over the hill southbound and lost control when the driver apparently hit his brakes on the icy road. The truck slid off the road and hit the rock cut throwing both Ibaugh and passenger Terry Bozart, 34, of St. Petersburg, Florida, out of the cab.

Both were taken to the Rockcastle County Hospital. Ibaugh was transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center where he was listed in critical condition, suffering from multiple head injuries.

A few minutes later, a two vehicle accident at the same location occurred, but no injuries were reported.

Blevins said the driver of one of the cars, Ernest C. Jones, 20, of Dayton, Ohio, was following a car driven by Mable Evans, 68, of Versailles, Indiana. As Ms. Evans apparently slowed down at the scene of the accident, Jones unable to stop on the slick road and ran into the rear of the Evans vehicle.

The third accident occurred after trooper Blevins arrived on the scene.

Gary L. Cormany, 41, of Waverly, Ohio came over the hill in the left lane and as the vehicle in front of him slowed, he attempted to slow also and lost control of his car. The car slid from the roadway and into the ditch and hit the rock embankment but escaped injury.

The accident occurred around 10 a.m.

Quota set for 1983 Burley

The national marketing quota for 1983 crop burley tobacco will be 647 million pounds, five percent less than that for 1982, according to Everett Rank, administrator of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

When adjustments for over and undermarketing are taken into consideration, (Cont'd to P-8)

And the snow came... just enough to close school Friday. (School was dismissed early Thursday also, due to malfunctions of the furnace at RES.) But, true to form for this winter's snow, it was gone, at least from the roads, Friday before noon. If you happened to oversleep Sunday morning, you missed... the snow that was supposed to be 3 to 4 inches. It turned out to be only 1 1/2 inches deep and was gone by noon Sunday. Above, Steve Griffin, a Junior at RCHS, shoveled the snow in front of the school Monday, shortly after school was dismissed at 10:45 a.m.

County magisterial districts to be redrawn soon

Following each ten year census taken in the United States, Kentucky law requires that magisterial districts be reapportioned and boundaries drawn so that each district represents as nearly equal population as possible.

According to KRS 67.045 the number of districts can be reduced to three or increased to eight.

Mt. Vernon Business

Assoc. to meet

The Mt. Vernon Business and Professional Association will meet on Tuesday, February 15 at 10 a.m. at the Bank of Mt. Vernon. All members are urged to attend this very important meeting.

Presently Rockcastle has five districts.

At the March 1 Fiscal Court meeting, the Magistrates plan to name a three member commission to do the job of reapportionment.

Rockcastle man dies in Madison

A Rockcastle County man was found dead in his car around 7 a.m. Saturday, February 5 in Madison County, according to Madison County Coroner Emory Curry.

David Potter, 19, was found in the front seat of his car parked by the side of the road on Ky. 52 east approximately 3 miles from Richmond.

Curry said the motor was running when Potter was discovered. An autopsy revealed that the cause of death was carbon monoxide poisoning, according to Curry. Potter was a resident of the Scaffold Camp Area in Rockcastle County. Survivors include his parents: Myrtle Gadd Potter of Route 3, Mt. Vernon and Burn Potter of Neon, Ky.; four sisters, Brenda Cralch, Coria Potter and Alice Potter of Rockcastle County. Virginia truck driver injured in Rockcastle as strike continues

Local merchants report no shortages as a result of the 11 day old independent truckers strike.

Kentucky highways had remained relatively calm throughout the strike until last Friday night around 10:45 p.m. when trucker David Showalter, 28, of Mellyford, Virginia received superficial gunshot wound in the shoulder as he traveled South on Interstate 75 in Rockcastle County.

The incident occurred at the Brindle Ridge overpass, according to state police Trooper Stanley Hale. Showalter was struck by one of five bullets which were fired from the overpass and hit his truck.

The driver was taken to the Rockcastle County Hospital and then transferred to the Virginia Medical Center in Charlottesville, Virginia for treatment.

Another instance of violence occurred late Monday just below Livingston on Interstate 75 in Rockcastle County when the Griffin Pie truck was struck by gunfire as he traveled south. The driver of the truck was not injured and no arrests were made according to Rockcastle County Sheriff William Taylor.

Hale said there were several reported instances of cut air hoses and nails strewn on entrance ramps in the Somerset-London exit area Friday night. However, the number of incidents has diminished since that time.

Eight troopers, twice the regular number, were assigned to Rockcastle County, as well as Whitley and Laurel, as a result of the violence.

The extra troopers will be used as long as the strike continues, he said.

Monday, Governor John Y. Brown called upon National guardsmen to help patrol Kentucky's main roads with the use of helicopter.

New federal jobs program to replace CETA on October 1

A new federal job program is being unfolded through the state and area development districts and is being prepared to set in motion by the September 30, 1983 demise-date of the Comprehensive Education and Training Act (CETA).

The new program, Job Training Partnership Act, is aimed at increased employment and training of participants and reductions in welfare dependency.

The guidelines for the program call for the establishment of a Private Industry Council which, along with elected officials would help develop the plan and decide who will administer the program funds locally.

The main thrust of the program will be the training of persons in the low income category to fill needed positions in local industry.

The program in Rockcastle will take form with the help of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District and participation of local governmental officials.

More information will be made available as the program emerges.

Jailer explains dispatch use

In response to the report on last Tuesday's Fiscal Court meeting at which it was reported two wrecker operators complained because the jailer (who also serves as dispatcher) does not call them to wrecks, Jailer Henry Lee Abney asked for and was granted an interview to explain.

First of all, Abney says he does not dispatch any wreckers for the state police. State police routinely call the London Post to request a wrecker. Furthermore, Abney emphatically states that when the sheriff or the city police call in a request for a wrecker, they are sent the wrecker service requested.

The duties of dispatcher are not required of the jailer, Abney points out. "The jailer is elected to take care of the inmates of the county jail," he says.

Before Abney took over as jailer, the county and the three city governments hired the jailer to serve as dispatcher for a nominal fee.

The fee from all four of the counties amounts to (Cont'd to P-9)

Forty-five years a volunteer fireman; the character of the man, John Cox

By Nancy Mullins

John Cox could easily be judged as a man who has more name and face recognition in Rockcastle County than almost anyone. The reason lies, no doubt, in the fact that Cox has been on Main Street in Mt. Vernon running a hardware store for most of his adult life.

Another reason is Cox's position on the local fire department and the blue uniform he always wears as fire chief.

The hardware store is one his father, Claude, ran for well over a half century which probably accounts for the unique atmosphere of the store. That, coupled with the fact that Cox respects tradition and prefers to keep some things as he has always known them.

The atmosphere is one which combines an abundance of antique and modern merchandise, an assortment of seating accommodations, a pot-bellied coal stove, conversation (if desired), the latest street or scanner news and a man who can and will fix anything that can be broken. "A problem to fix is a challenge to John Cox. He recommends and solves as many problems connected with the everyday/mechanical process of living as a doctor does in the field of medicine or a judge might deal with in the legal arena.

Take, for one example, John's expertise in the field of locks. Almost everyone knows when panic strikes during a situation such as being locked out of house or car, you just keep cool and call John. John is always cool, and what's more can get a person out of an otherwise seemingly permanent predicament.

C.C. Cox Hardware is a business local persons view as pretty common, but when those who live in a suburban area (particularly children) walk into the store, there is a reaction of awe. Having been accustomed to shopping center-type stores, these transient customers are overwhelmed by the authentic nostalgia of the store, his son Jim has remarked.

Martha Cox, John's daughter-in-law, once wrote this description of the store for a class:

"The wooden aisle that takes you through the store is cluttered with stacks of merchandise and shows years of use. Many people have walked down this aisle over the years to get that needed kerosene for their lamps and lanterns, or to get that wanted shiny linoleum for their kitchen floor. Little boys have stopped and looked longingly at the pearl-handled pocket knives displayed in the glass cases while waiting for their fathers to purchase milk buckets, wash basins, lard cans and rat traps. All these items are still sitting in the aisle, laying on top of the sagging counters and hanging from the high ceilings along with well buckets, cast iron pots and every type of tool imaginable. Wooden kegs still hold the nails in the front of the counter, and they are frequently used to hold the feet of regular customers as they sit on top of the worn-out splinty counters. Also in front of the counter, in the only space not occupied by dusty merchandise, proudly sits a high heating stove. Even though the building is heated by a coal furnace, the importance of this warm, antique object can be quickly seen. On cold snowy mornings, old men (Cont'd to P-8)

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the letter to the editor from Ethan Eversole. I know Ethan and he is a very good trapper and a great conservationist. The people of this county should be aware of the problems that fur-bearing animals can, will and are causing in this county. One of the most frequent statements that is being used by the people that are against trapping is that our fur-bearing animals are becoming extinct. This is not true. Mother Nature provides us with an excess crop each year, if not trapped they would die of starvation, disease or in the jaws of a predator. Any one of them is worse fate by far. Mother Nature is much more cruel than hunters and trappers. Another untrue statement against trappers is the brutal clubbing of animals is inhumane. We trappers do not club our animals. One sharp blow on the head renders an animal unconscious. It is much quicker and more humane than the gas or electric shock systems which are utilized in Humane Society dog and cat death chambers. I just hope you, the person does not suffer as much as a trapped animal when it is your time to go. One more thing I would like to mention is the foothold trap is called "Necessary Wildlife Management Tool" by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, The Wildlife Society, Wildlife Disease Association and the Wildlife Federation.

Thank you,
 Danny Brodhead,

To The Editor:

I have received the Signal for 2 weeks now and don't know who is having that done for me. Whoever it is, I want to thank them and say that it is deeply appreciated since I have no correspondence with anyone in Kentucky and I was born there and went to school at Quail, and it feels good to read of the happenings of those back there. I read today where my uncle Glenn Hamm of Cincinnati, was visiting his sister, Willis Todd and of others I enjoyed hearing about such as the Benton Owens, Florence Albright, Ruth Mink and etc. People I knew years ago and know nothing of except for the Signal. I'm getting now from someone. My family and I are 1600 miles from Kentucky, living in Layton, Utah, a 10 minute drive from Salt Lake City and 15 minute drive from Ogden, Utah. If anyone from Kentucky area is ever out West, please come visit with us. My personal thanks to Vivian Owens for the Quail news. Keep up the good work.

Lester G. Herrin, 80 years old, formerly of Rockcastle County, died Sunday, January 30th in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio, of a heart attack. He was the husband of Beulah Thomas Herrin, who survives. Also surviving are three children, Ms. Jane Stowe, Mrs. Brenda Brooks and Mr. Paul Herrin, his brother, Elsie Renner, his sister, Mrs. Margaret Cooper and the late Jack Owens. Miss Laverne Long is a patient in the Rockcastle County Hospital. We wish her a speedy recovery. We also wish Mr. Estill Gentry, who is in Lake Cumberland Medical Center in Somerset, a speedy recovery.

tion, effective farm quotas for 1983 are expected to total 877 million pounds, or about 13 percent less than last year, he said.

Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, February 10 1983 P.4

Seventh graders participate in Talent Search 1982

Recently seventh grade students from Rockcastle County participated in the 1982 Talent Search conducted by the Talent Identification Program sponsored by Duke University in Durham, North Carolina.

To be eligible, the students must be 7th graders and must have scored in the top 3% on their achievement test taken in the 6th grade. They must have scored in the 97 percentile on at least one of the subjects in math, verbal ability, language arts, or total battery.

The students went to Berea on Saturday, February 5 to take the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) from 8:30 to 12:45.

The testing institution describes the test and its significance as follows: This test is meant to help predict academic success in college and is designed chiefly for above-average high school students. The TIP has found that the SAT also has enormous validity in predicting academic success for very gifted seventh grade students. The tests require knowledge and skills rarely taught in junior high schools and are quite difficult for all but the ablest seventh graders. Greater than one-third of the participants in 1982 Talent Search conducted by the Talent Identification Program were found to have scored as high as the average college-bound senior on the SAT.

Out of the 269 sixth graders who took the California Test of Basic Skills as an annual achievement test, there were 16 local students who qualified to participate in TIP. The parents of these students were notified of their child's qualifying and were provided instructions to follow through with the registration process. Of the 16 students who qualified, seven chose to pursue the project.

Local seventh graders who ranked in the 97 percentile or the top 3% of those taking the achievement test last year were eligible to participate in the 1982 Talent Search conducted by the Talent Identification Program sponsored by Duke University in Durham, North Carolina. Those who traveled to Berea February 5, to take the Scholastic Aptitude Test from Rockcastle were, front row, from left: Joe Gregory and Tim Hodges from MVES and Ginger Robinson from RES. Back row, from left: Amy Hamm and Andy McKinney from RES and Tracy Burdette, RES. Absent when the picture was taken was Pat Hansel of MVES.

Reminds

By Leila Stokes

Congratulations to our dear sister, Mrs. Cepha Davis Kincer on the great job she did in writing such an interesting History of Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, of fifty years ago. It is sensational and to those who have read it will agree with me. And I want her to know I truly appreciate my copy with my name engraved. It's really astonishing how she got all that data in such a short time of research. Her son, John Kincer II assisted in the publication of the book, which consists of sixteen chapters of the history of Mt. Vernon besides the excellent Poetry. Bentley Sparks commented to his wife, Christine, "I just don't know how that child could get all those facts and get them so correct, it is wonderful." Mr. Bill Thompson of Florida wrote Mrs. Kincer "Thank you for that handsome bound copy and beautifully written book of the History of Mt. Vernon, Ky. with my name engraved on the cover. After being in and out of hospital recently at home reading your book, I can't forget my ailments." Mrs. Kincer appreciated the kind letter from Mr. Thompson, who was a farmer neighbor and a long time friend of the family.

I wish to express my sincere and heartfelt sympathy to the families of Mrs. Lola B. Taylor and Mrs. Minnie Stokes in their bereavement.

Also deep sympathy is extended to our cousin, Milton S. Proctor in the recent death of his son, Jimmy.

When Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Smith returned to Bradenton, Florida from a visit with their grandson, Rev. Jerry and Norma Kincer and their grandchildren, Jeremy and Joanna, they brought me a picture of the children, for which I'm thankful. I can see how much these lovely children are growing.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer (Ruth) Brossart of El Rancho Village, Bradenton, Florida were delighted to receive a letter recently from their daughter, Mrs. Maxine Kincer that she had written herself. Since the accident over three years ago, Maxine had showed little improvement until recently. Just before Christmas, Maxine called her parents on the phone and carried on a normal conversation for which the Brossarts were proud to hear her voice so clearly. Ruth said, "Leila there was tears of joy flowing freely down our cheeks. Maxine is at the home of Mr. Bill Kincer's mother, Mrs. Pauline Kincer, who has proven to be one of the best in practical nursing. Mr. and Mrs. Brossart moved from Covington, Florida, in accordance with the advice of his doctor in Covington, to Florida. Mrs. Brossart is subject to heart attacks and is kept under observation by her doctor. So we can see how deeply concerned they are in their daughter's response to the therapy treatments."

Mrs. John Kincer called me Wednesday from Erlanger, to let me know how our sister, Mrs. Ethel Greenwood was doing since returning to her apartment from the hospital. Mrs. Kincer, Mrs. Emma Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hampton and Mrs. Betty Barnett visited Mrs. Greenwood in Bedford, Indiana, on her 89th birthday, February 1st. Mrs. Greenwood's granddaughter had a dinner for her at her home. Mrs. Kincer said she looked good and is greatly improving from a broken wrist and fractured shoulder caused from a fall.

We enjoyed the interesting article interview of our great aunt, Mrs. Bessie Chesnut. Many times I was in Dr. Chesnut's office getting news for the Signal. I'd call Mrs. Bessie "Nurse Bessie". She knew a lot about medicine and was a real good nurse. Everyone loves Mrs. Chesnut.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hampton of Florence recently visited her sister, Mrs. Dave Turner and family in Sarasota, Florida and her aunt, Mrs. Stokes and Joyce Wiseman at the home of Mrs. Roberta Cummins of Kindleville, Indiana, is visiting her son, Ralph in Sarasota, Florida and her sister, Mrs. Zelma Loney, who is in the Blake Best Home in Bradenton, Florida. Mrs. Cummins is the sister-in-law of Mrs. Jalia Cummins Dotson and wife of the late Rev. Carter Cummins, formerly of Rockcastle County.

Mrs. Rosie Mullins of Mt. Vernon recently visited her brothers and their family in Palmetto, Florida. She pleasantly surprised Mrs. Ella Ponder and myself with a telephone call. She accompanied her daughter and family from Indiana to Florida.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cromer, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary recently at their home. They have four lovely children, Martina, Cindy, Todd and Hope.

Before leaving for the Navy on January 18, and for Great Lake Naval Training, Glenn Barnett accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Betty Barnett and his niece Leslie of Elmore, spent a few days with his aunt, Mrs. Dave Turner and family in Sarasota, Florida. He also visited Mrs. Leila Stokes and Mrs. Joyce Wiseman in Bradenton.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Furman of Ohio are spending the winter in a trailer park in Winter Haven, Florida. Mrs. Furman is a step daughter of Mrs. Ella Ponder. Mr. and Mrs. Furman visited Mrs. Ponder frequently when she was in the Manatee Hospital. We are happy to say dear Mrs. Ella is marvelously improving in health and enjoying the excellent care she is receiving from her daughter, Ann and husband, Jack McDannell.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McDannell announces the marriage of their son, Frank L. McDannell of Bradenton, Florida to Miss Gail Hunter of Cincinnati, Ohio on January 16. The lovely ceremony was performed at a Presbyterian Church in Cincinnati. Those attending were close friends and relatives. The groom's special guest was his great aunt, Miss Faye Dooley. The bride is a banking computer instructor and Frankie is a building contractor. They are making their home in Bradenton, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Dotson of 2003 Canal Dr., N7, Bradenton, Florida are as happy today as they were 64 years ago, January 21, 1919 in Mt. Vernon, Ky. when they were married by Rev. H.T. Young. Their attendants at the wedding were Mr. Lewis Ramsey and Mr. Robert Fish. Their six children are, Mrs. Wilbur (Kay) Smith, Mrs. Geneva Lunsford, Robert Dotson, Mrs. Betty Young, Mrs. Alvin (Bernice) Kipp, and Mr. Richard Dotson.

Parents and the public are invited to the four elementary schools between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. on that day to look over the books and, if they choose, to evaluate the books. Evaluation forms will be available at the display. The science text book will be adopted for six years and the health book for three.

In case of snow, the display will be held the following Friday.

The newest known Chinese wallpaper, dating from the mid-16th century, wasn't used to cover walls, but was presented by merchants to their foreign customers.

Wood burning equipment

By David Robertson
Rockcastle Resource Ctr.

Heating with wood is becoming an increasingly popular way to warm homes and buildings in this country. When the wood can be purchased or harvested nearby, it is far less expensive than oil, gas or electric heat. Wood also gives off fewer pollutants, per heat unit provided, than fossil fuels. Finally, wood tends to be a "local" product; all of the money spent on it usually stays in the local economy, whereas with other fuels only a fraction remains and the rest is sent to the Middle East or a distant corporation.

When purchasing or building a woodburning appliance, a major consideration is its efficiency. A more efficient model will provide more heat to the living area from a given amount of wood and will require less frequent loadings. However, you should note that the efficiency ratings of commercially-produced appliances are achieved under ideal testing conditions. The efficiency of a wood heater depends on the operator. The crucial factors are whether or not you keep the stovepipe and flue clean, operate the damper and draft control properly, and insulate your house sufficiently. Nevertheless, different types of woodburning equipment usually vary within a certain range of efficiency.

Fireplaces tend to be the least efficient means of gaining heat from wood. In fact, most modern fireplaces, which were designed mainly with aesthetics in mind, can actually be heat losers if they are operated when the outside temperature is lower than 25 degrees; they consume more centrally-heated air than they contribute. The most efficient fireplaces are those which have a shallow and high firebox to project heat into the room and provide a substantial mass for heat storage.

Prefabricated fireplaces, either freestanding metal models or ones with sufficient insulation to allow them to be recessed into a wall, can also consume more heated air than they produce unless they include some efficiency-boosting features.

Usually, this feature is a pair of convective air vents which are located at the sides of the firebox. An electrically-powered blower helps to increase the rate of air movement and hence the efficiency. The prefabricated models' efficiencies range from ten to thirty-five percent.

Fireplace inserts can increase a fireplace's efficiency to the 35-45 percent range. All of the inserts make use of convective air movement to provide heat to the room. If an insert includes glass doors, they should be kept open while the fire is burning at its peak to maximize the heat gain, but they should be closed as the fire dies down to coals.

The woodstoves have efficiencies that vary from 40 to 70 percent. The simplest type of woodstove is an old oil drum, laid horizontally on legs, with holes cut in it for the stovepipe and door. In addition, a second barrel placed above the first will increase heat from the rising smoke and transfer it to the room. However, the bottom barrel will burn through after one or two heating seasons. Longer-lasting stoves are popbellies, Franklins, circulators, airtights, and step-stoves. Popbellies and Franklins burn wood more quickly than the other three designs and thus their heat output tends to fluctuate unless the wood is restocked regularly. Circulators are surrounded by a larger box of sheet metal. Cold air is heated in the space between the boxes and circulates into the room. Airtight stoves usually have internal baffles which lengthen the path taken by the smoke, thus increasing the combustion of gases with high ignition temperature (a process called secondary combustion) and allowing more of the smoke's heat to radiate into the room before going up the flue. Furthermore, the airtights' draft controls can be closed almost completely; the small amount of oxygen reaching the fire produces a slow, steady burning of the logs.

Finally, step-stoves feature a two-level surface, the back section being higher than the front. This design creates a longer smoke path and two different temperatures, which makes it useful for cooking. Instead of heating only one or two rooms with a woodstove, you can move up to a wood furnace, which will provide heat for the entire house. Three major types of furnaces are available. Add-on units can be tied into a conventional furnace system, but only if the smoke can be accommodated by the furnace's flue. Second, a strictly wood-burning furnace is quite efficient. These models usually employ a heat exchanger, automatic draft controls, and secondary combustion methods. Finally, a multiple-fuel furnace offers convenience if you're not around at the right moment to restock it. If the wood burns out, a thermostat will turn on the gas- or oil-fired burner.

The range of woodburning equipment is large and it continues to expand as the industry carries out research on new ideas. Of utmost importance in the use of any wood heater, however, is its safe installation and operation. In the next article in this series, the safety issues which are involved with wood heating will be discussed.

This year, heart disease and stroke will kill nearly 200,000 Americans before age 65, according to the American Heart Association.

Rockcastle man shot during Saturday incident

A Rockcastle resident was treated and released from Rockcastle County Hospital Saturday night after suffering a gun shot wound to the left shoulder. Injured was Dean Kirby, about 40, of Blue Springs. State police reports confirm that Kirby was shot while at the residence of Russell Young, 6 miles east of Livingston located on Highway 490.

According to trooper Guy Blevins' report, Kirby, Geraldine Allen and Russell Bussell were inside the house when Clarence Young, Jr. listed as being in his sixties of Laurel County, pulled into the yard and called the occupants of the house to come out or he would kill them.

Witnesses said he then opened fire on the house. One of the bullets came through the front door and struck Kirby. Police investigators found six bullet holes in the house assumed to be from Young's .32 caliber gun. A warrant for Young's arrest has been issued. The charge is first degree assault.

1983 ASC cost sharing program now underway

Applications are now being taken for the 1983 ASC cost-sharing. Some of the programs available through ASCS cost-sharing are sod waterways, developing springs or ponds, strip cropping and grass seeding and reseeding. Rockcastle Co. ASCS is now under a new cost-sharing method known as the variable cost. It is based on the amount of soil saved by doing a practice. Due to this new cost-sharing method it has become necessary for all requests of grass practices to first have a soil test made of the fields to be seeded by the applicant. Take the soil sample unless the County Agent's Office on the second floor of the courthouse and at that time stop by the ASCS office and sign your request for cost sharing.
