gin, starring the children from all grades at MVES, from the wee ones to the junior high. Mr. Danny Ford and Mrs. Ruby Stewart will be our Masters of Ceremonies. We will also have a drawing for a fifty dollar savings bond. The early bird will get the better rate, tickets will be on sale at various businesses. Oh! We must not forget, Santa will be there to have your children's picture taken with. It's going to be lots of fun, and we invite everyone to join in the festivities.

The Mt. Vernon PTA Executive Committee will meet Tuesday, December 13 and our Christmas program will be our unit meeting. Be sure you don't miss this big event. Merry Christmas!

take several steps to help them get through the winter unscathed.

Rodents present a big winter hazard for fruit trees. A prime concern for home fruit growers right now should be rodent control, through cultural practices and chemical controls.

Mice and voles or rabbits injure fruit trees by chewing the bark from the lower portions of the trunk which may girdle the tree and cause it to die. Young trees are especially vulnerable. Mice or voles can girdle a tree above or below the ground. The Pine Vole is the one responsible for the damage below the ground, which often goes undetected until the tree dies.

Some ways to keep from attracting rodents to fruit trees, are first, harvest any fruit remaining on the tree and pick up any fruit on the ground. This will reduce the attraction for rodents because you'll be removing a food source, and it will help reduce disease carry-over for next year.

Clear the grass from an area a foot or two wide around the tree trunk to discourage feeding. To discourage meadow mice, put pea size gravel around the tree trunk about 4-6 inches wide and deep. The gravel also helps to firm the soil around young trees and give them more stability.

You can also use tree guards to prevent rodents from getting to the trunks. Buy plastic guards or make your own tree guards from 4 inch hardware cloth. Just be sure you cover over 18 inches of the trunk and extend the guards about an inch or more into the soil to prevent mice from slipping with field mice after using these cultural practices, you may want to consider using poison baits, although they may be dangerous.

Disputanta

By Hilda P. Gabbard

Hello from Clear Creek. Thanksgiving 1983 has come and gone and from what I hear, the turkey count has gone down considerably. Folks near and far came together in celebration and to give thanks for the blessings of the year. It has been a good and peaceful year. We don't know what the next one will bring when we hear what unrest is sweeping the world.

Up King Hollow

An event took place on Brush Creek 43 years ago, November 26th which is so unusual that I went to see, and to talk to the people who took part in it. In King Hollow, at the old Huston Rowlett place, lives a "young" 93 (will be 94 in March) year old man, Morgan Abney and his 91 year old wife, Ida. Of course, age has slowed them down some but they still have the calm attitude and always toward life as I always knew them. Morgan has a hearing problem and eyes that give him trouble but he gets around and has a good memory of the past.

So does Ida. I asked her if she remembered her wedding day. She did, and said she wore a white dress with black patent leather shoes. They were married by "Uncle Westly" Abney. The young men at the wedding did not charivari them that night as was the custom of the hills when they made a lot of noise, shooting off guns, beating on tubs, and yelling around the house.

On this Thanksgiving Day, six of their ten living children, 13 in all, came together to celebrate Morgan and Ida's anniversary. From Berea came Everett Abney and Ella McCracken. Myrtle Adams from Wildie, William Abney from Berea, Robert and Eula who live at home and take care of the parents.

I stopped to see Eligh and Julie Abney. They had returned from a visit to their daughter, Rita and husband Jan Shelton and family in North Carolina. Julie said the young folk had promised to return their visit at Christmas. Eligh had sold their tobacco on the early market so this family will have a nice Christmas to celebrate. In fact, I think Julie has been dropping hints to Eligh about what she would like to find under the tree Christmas morning. They've gathered their walnuts in and Julie says she will put away the kernels for later use. She still visits her mother, Sarah King, in the hospital.

Another sister, Edna and Carl Heckmond from Dayton, Ohio came to visit them and also her mother.

Evelyn Builens has visited her doctor in Richmond recently. But I think what has helped her more than anything was the discharge from the army of her son, Lonnie, who was there with his wife, Lori. She drives to Berea to work each day and Lonnie hopes to join the labor market soon. But just now, he makes Evelyn happy by being home again.

Evelyn spent Saturday night with sister-in-law Goldie and Alvin Isaacs who live at Flat Gap.

Brother Dillard and Mossie Bowman were guests of their daughter, Wavelene and Ben Mullins for Thanksgiving supper at Climax. Also present were Jerry and Caroline Nicely with Children, Chris and Jacqueline from Hammond Fork Road.

Although Charley Junior King is moving into their underground house that he is building, it is far from being finished since he does most of the work himself. But it will really be worth the wait some day I told him. He and wife, Diane will have a nice home as well as an interesting one.

Bertha Long took her father Charley King to see wife, Sarah at Berea then came home to eat Thanksgiving Dinner with him and Nina Beatty Jack Smith from Lexington visited Charlie one afternoon.

Back in Disputanta, I saw a car with Indiana license on it at Matilda Miller's. Es... and Louise Anglin, with son, Troy, had come home to spend Thanksgiving with his mother. Matilda Estil said he took his son on a drive up Big Hill and over down through Climax crossing Loman Hill down to Clear Creek.

I wanted to show my son where I had gone to school long ago at Climax. A lot of difference in that place and the one he goes to now." Estil said.

I joked him by saying, "You won't find white lightning in the hills now either." He laughed at that.

The John and Mary Harding family came together with all children and grandchildren so needed the three turkeys that were served. I looked around and saw a large bow and arrow that Perry and David use hunting and wondered if they had been to the hills.

Their guests were Hubert and Kathleen Abney and family, Glenn and Linda Martin and family, Ben and Esther Gay and family, Ronnie and Janice Owens and family, David and Kathy Harding and family. Perry and Phyllis Harding. Along with John and Mary, the family were thankful to be able to gather under the same roof again.

Perry and Phyllis visited her parents Thanksgiving night near Berea, J.S. and Rosada Peters at Scaffold Cane where they ate another Thanksgiving supper. Now that's being lucky, or is it? A fellow can eat too much.

Mary Harding attended a stork shower for her granddaughter at Berea, Deby Chamberlain Friday night. She was accompanied by her family members from Clear Creek, Janice Owens, Kathy and Phyllis Harding.

Matilda Miller's daughters joined her for Thanksgiving dinner. They were from Berea, Ola from Lexington, Wanda and daughters, Tammy and Regina here on the creek. Re-gina's friend, Jeff Martin, from Berea was also a guest.

David and Betty Henderson with children, Scott and Stacy from Mt. Vernon, Jerry and Kim Thomas with sister, Rita from Berea came to have Thanksgiving dinner with their folks. Joe and Ruth, Abney's daughter, Joyce Thomas and her son, Kirk were unable to be with them.

Joe and Ruth were in Lexington to the Humana Hospital to see Billy Maitcote, son of Everett and Ethel Robinson of Scaffold Cane.

Ruth Abney showed her friend finished quilt with the Round the World design. It is so pretty and when you think of all the hours that went into making the quilt, you know its value. And she is giving it away.

Judy Frittz of Paint Lick entertained with a luncheon at her home for Blanche Payne at a belated birthday celebration recently. Mary Payne and daughter, Peggy Rowlette of Berea also attended.

Visitors of the week to Cleve and Blanche Payne were Russell and Christine Robinson of Berea and John B. Payne, Jr. from Hamilton, Ohio. J.B. also attended the Berea Homecoming. Cleve and Blanche invited John and I to eat Thanksgiving dinner with them again this year. Since Cleve and I are the only ones left here of the big family that once gathered, we were glad to sit at the table with such good food as Blanche knows how to prepare and be with them. Too, I was thankful that I didn't have to eat at the "second table" as we did back in childhood. Don't go away. Be back next week.

Miss Tammy Napier recently won a Kodak 4000 Disk Camera in the Rural Kentucky essay contest, "The Day the Lights Came On". Tammy's entry was written as an assignment for her humanities class. She and over fifty other humanities students studied the process of interviewing, interviewed someone. She could remember living without electricity, and wrote essays of approximately one hundred words. Her students reported that although the assignment was rather difficult, it was an interesting and reward experience. Excerpts from some entries in the contest may be published in the December issue of Rural Kentucky. Entries were submitted from throughout Kentucky. Tammy is the daughter of Charles Napier and Helen Napier. Her classmates and school are very proud of her accomplishment.

Christmas Parade Scenes

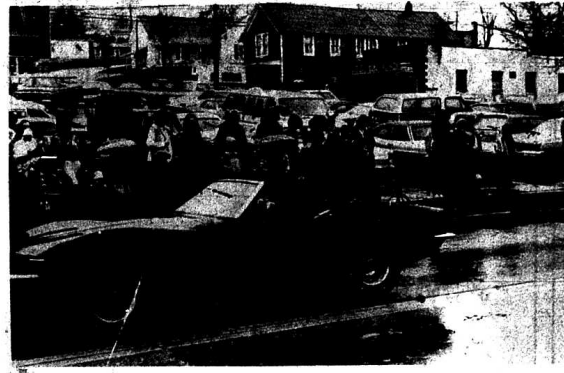

The rains let up long enough Saturday for the annual Christmas Parade to be held in Mt. Vernon. The arrival of Santa Claus, accompanied by Kenny Johnson, cumaxex the parade. The turn-out for the parade was excellent.

Sunrise Baptist Church took first place in the float division and received a $100 prize.

Scotty Robinson, a premiere running back years, served as Grand Marshal of the parade for the Rockcastle Rockets for the past few years.

Broadhead residents weren't quite as fortunate later in the day as the skies opened up and the water came down all during their prize drawings and the arrival of Santa. The festivities were sponsored by the Broadhead Willing Workers Homemakers Club.

School Board will provide for another special education class

By: Richard Anderkin

The Rockcastle County Board of Education voted unanimously Tuesday night to enter into a contract with Family Life Center at Renfro Valley for the purpose of providing more facilities for exceptional children.

Supt Charles B Parsons told board members that he was recommending this contract because there were six children with multiple handicaps staying with families at the center who needed to go to school. He said that with the present situation at Mt. Vernon Elementary, it was virtually impossible for the children to go to class there since Mrs. Ann Abney, the teacher, already had enrolled her limit of 12 students.

And, Parsons reminded the board that it was state law that they must provide facilities for these children so that they will have the same chance to learn as any other child in the school system.

About six more children will be educated at the center, which will provide the facilities for the class, if the board will make available the supplies and pay the utilities.

The Superintendent went on to say that the class would begin on January 9th because that was when the state funded the second half of the school year. There are not any qualified teachers presently on the waiting list but there are four students graduating from Eastern in this field in December and Parsons said two of those students have already contacted him about the job.

At least for the time being, the addition to the Mt. Vernon Elementary School has been shelved.

During Tuesday night's meeting, Parsons presented the board with a financial report on the bonded indebtedness of the school system.

This report shows that if the board goes ahead with their estimated $625,000 addition, they will be using all but 10 percent of their capital outlay money which the board receives each year from the state to help pay for new construction or repairs.

At the present time, the board uses $153,955 of their allocated $277,000 to pay on the bonds issued when the high school was built. The report shows that if the board goes ahead and floats a bond issue for the addition, it will cost an addition $67,500 out of capital outlay and this would leave only about $200,000 a year for emergency repairs to the county's schools.

The board seemed reluctant to cut their capital outlay money so close and decided to wait until Spring after the General Assembly meets to see if the state might fund a building program with which would allow school districts to apply for grant money for their projects.

Four bids were received for the board's workmen's compensation insurance. The only local bid was submitted by Norton Insurance Agency but it was also the highest of the four bids.

The low bid, which was accepted, was from The Kentucky School Board Trust for $9,852.

Roy S. Graves was the high bidder on the board's tobacco barn on the Noe property. Graves bid $212 for the barn.

The school board also opened bids on 54 lunch-room items. Five companies submitted bids and the lowest bid was accepted on each item.

In a departure from tradition, Rockcastle school children will not get out early on Monday and Tuesday school before Christmas vacation begins. Supt Parsons presented a letter to the board Tuesday night from the state Supt. of Public Instruction which says, in part, that school systems must comply with the six hour a day classroom law. The letter also said that any time lost for early closing will have to be made up and a schedule for making up the time lost must be sent to the state Board of Education.

Parsons explained to the board that this also means that when it snows and school has to be let out early, it will have to be made up. In the past, Parsons said, if this happened the day was counted as a whole one.

The Supt also said that the days that school was let out early in the summer because of the heat will not have to be made up because this requirement was not in effect at that time.

If you are a parent that thought you were only going to have to pay $4.50 for your child's pictures this year, then you got a shock when your child told you the pictures would be $7.50. This was no one's fault, Parsons told the board, because when the bids for school pictures were opened earlier in the year, the low bid of $4.50 was accepted from Georgian Studios in Ohio.

However, after an inquiry by Mr. Parsons, it was found that Georgian had made a mistake and their actual bid should have been $9.00. This meant the next lowest bid had to be accepted which was from McEachern Studios of Loudon, Tenn. of $7.50, Parsons said.

In the past, the FFA department at the high school has made money for activities by raising the tobacco bid at the school. However, federal law required the sale of the base and it brought $7,708.68. School board member Kenneth Adams told the board that ag department teachers, as well as the FFA club, wanted the board to invest this money so that it could draw interest and activities could still be funded.

The board agreed with the request and asked Mr. Parsons to look into it.

The Broadhead School will be getting to work on their building. Parsons presented a letter to the board from architect Donald B. Shelton of Lexington, which stated that the board could begin work on the windows, which were termed "in bad shape" for about $50 to $60,000.

The windows in question are located in the stone building.

In other business, the board approved G.E.D. certificates for Delilah A. Linville and Karen Brown as well as approving an extended leave of absence for bus driver Willie Gibbons.

Robert Legger was transferred to Gibbons' route and Thomas McCracken was hired as a full time bus driver.

Fiscal Court has light agenda; lays off 5 workers

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court didn't have a lot on the agenda for Tuesday's regular monthly meeting but they did lay-off 5 road workers because the county is "short on funds and they (the men) can't do a lot during winter months," County Judge Executive Bob Jester said.

Magistrate Bill Wren's motion called for the lay-off of L.D. Bond, Delno McClure, Billy Adams, Danny Joe McKinney and Luther McKinney from Jan. 1, 1984 to April 1, 1984.

Wren's motion was seconded by Donnie Rowe and Tom Denny voted yes. But, Magistrates Alex Albright and Joe Clark both voted against the motion with Albright objecting on the grounds that the county is paying out additional money for the garbage hauling contract and having to lay workers off. "It's not right," Albright said.

Deputy Sheriff Clarence "Jib" Hasty retorted that the men can make more money drawing unemployment then they can working 32 hours a week. Hasty said, "If any of those boys that work for the county (and are being laid off) want to work for what those boys (the men who collect the garbage at the various sites in the county) are paid, they are welcome to it (the job)."

Albright also asked Hasty if there was anything in "that contract that says you don't pick-up on holidays." Hasty said he knew that the men weren't at the collection sites Thanksgiving although he didn't know they weren't going to be beforehand. But, he defended the system saying he knew there were problems but "its (the collection system) is better than it was."

Later in the meeting, the court, with Albright voting "no" and Denny abstaining, approved the payment of another month's dumping fees for the service up to 28 loads at $15 a load.

Also during the meeting, attorney James W. Lambert, who was sitting in for his son County Attorney James H. Lambert who was tied up in district court, was instructed by the court to write a letter to William D. Gregory concerning a fence belonging to Gregory on road off Negro Town Hill.

Lambert was instructed to notify Gregory to remove that portion of his fence which is located on the road's right-of-way within 30 days or county employees will be billed for the cost.

Lambert protested that he was familiar with the portion of the fence in question and said that it was "not hurting anything." Lambert added, "There is plenty of room to pass the fence." However, Magistrate Wren, who made the motion, disagreed saying, "If we let one man set his fence in the ditchline, then we will have to let everybody."

Trial date set in bootlegging case

A February trial date in district court has been set for an Orlando woman charged with illegal possession of alcoholic beverages for resale and possession of a police radio.

Sherry Decker, 30, of Route 1, Orlando, pleaded not guilty to the charges, following a raid on her residence by state Trooper Jimmy Silvers and Sheriff William Taylor, during which 102 cans of beer and 6 1/2 pints of vodka and whiskey were confiscated.

Mrs. Decker is free on $3,000 bond. A Whitley County woman has been fined $10 and cost and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a charge of illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages for resale.

Rockets lose to Williamsburg; defeat Panthers in second game

The Lady Rockets didn't look good in their opening game against the Whitley County Lady Colonels, losing 89-44, but they came back Tuesday night to defeat the Knox Central Lady Panthers, 48-38.

The Lady Colonels lived up to their pre-game billing as they out-hustled, out-shot and just generally outclassed the Lady Rockets.

Three of the Rockets fouled out in the game and the Lady Colonels took advantage of their trips to the charity stripe -- garnering 31 of their points there out of 47 attempts.

One bright spot for the Rockets was the performance of senior forward Theresa Sturgill, who was the leading scorer in the game with 25 points.

Whitley's big senior center Selinda Pickard scored 20 points. Nine other players scored for the Lady Colonels -- four in double figures.

In Tuesday night's game, the Lady Rockets jumped out to an early 10-2 lead over the Knox Central Lady Panthers before Knox Central fought back to go ahead 17-18 early in the second quarter.

Anderkin, who was benched mid-way through the first quarter with two fouls, came back into the game and scored 8 of her 14 points, during the last of the second quarter to help give the Lady Rockets a 28-18 bulge at halftime.

Then, the Rockets had to contend with the return of junior center Pam Napier, who checked out of the hospital in time to see second half action. Napier, who had suffered an injury to her esophagus on the bus trip home from the Lady Panthers' Monday night win over Lynn Camp, scored 14 points in the second half -- 10 of them at the free throw line.

This additional scoring power helped the Lady Panthers to whittle an early third-quarter 13-point deficit down to 4 points at the beginning of the fourth quarter. However, Milburn and Sturgill combined to score 10 points in the 4th quarter and the Lady Panthers were held to 8 points.

Sturgill was high point player with 15 -- five at the free throw line. Anderkin got 14; Partin, who made two beautiful drives down the lane, got 7; Milburn, 6; Hunter, 4 and Faulkner, 2. The girls journey to Estill County next Monday night.

Sophomore reserve guard Benny Blanton takes the ball to the basket against the Williamsburg Yellow Jackets Friday night. Blanton got 2 points in the game. Tuesday night, the Rockets were defeated by Knox Central.

Broadhead Willing Workers - Homemakers Club

As we entered Deborah Newland's living room and saw the table loaded with gifts, it made us wonder if Emily Giovak and she thought it was Christmas! But when they presented the lesson "Gifts From the Kitchen" we knew the gifts weren't for us. They were created to show us what we could make for gifts, what to use for packaging and what recipes had fewer calories and less fat, sugar and salt. Later, we enjoyed eating food from some of the recipes—two salads, strawberry bread, nine bean soup and cranberry pineapple relish besides dip and punch.

Announcements made were on Saturday, December 17, the Family Christmas dinner at 6 p.m., will be at the Country Club with Sylvia Whitl and Elizabeth Mullins as co-hostesses. Husbands are supposed to bring a gift (around $3.00 for exchange) while homemakers reveal the year's secret pals with a gift. Homemakers Council Meeting, Nov. 8 and Candy Making Class Dec. 1 at 1 and 7 p.m., fee $3.50.

Browns provide different type of vacation for visitors from all over

By Leigh Anne Hiatt

Vacationists come from all over the world to see all walks of life to spend some time at Roy and Flora Mae Brown's home on Route 1 in Brodhead.

The Browns have entertained people from France, Brazil, Germany, Belgium, Canada, Florida, Texas and New York. They've been hosts to lawyers, doctors, dentists, nurses, professors, printers, bankers and firemen.

For 18 years the Browns have used their spacious brick home to accommodate guests who want to spend time on a farm, relax and enjoy good home cooking.

After Roy Brown and his wife build a house on their farm in 1962, they decided to experiment with keeping visitors in their home 20 years later they sat comfortably by a fire in the fireplace of that same house, and explained how their experiment began.

"We're successful and only had ever imagined. What gave them the idea of opening a vacation farm?"

Brown said, "We'd been reading about it in some magazines, they were doing this around southeast Ohio. There we talked to the extension people and they began working on it to help us out. It took two or three years before we started. We had to get advertised and that came a little later."

The Browns have printed a brochure that encourages vacationists to "Enjoy yourself with a fun-filled family-style farm vacation." The brochure is full of pictures and description about their farm, and it also lists places that tourists can visit while in Rockcastle County. They leave copies of it in Chambers of Commerce, automobile clubs, and at Parks ... in Frankfort.

The brochure is a good drawing card, but most of their publicity comes from a two-page spread in a publication called "Farm, Ranch and Country Vacations". The book is written by Pat Dickerman and features farms, ranches and inns in the United States that are open to vacationists. It is sold in the United States and abroad.

The Browns were especially pleased to have their farm on the cover of the 30th Anniversary issue of "Farm, Ranch and Country Vacations" in 1979. The author, Pat Dickerman, came down from New York, and was joined by several people in public relations from Frankfort. The group took pictures of the farm for the cover, and Mrs. Brown remembered, "They all ate supper here that night."

In the 1983 issue of the same book, Dickerman quoted a guest of the Browns who said, "Fun to let the horses run-or to be alone with the trees, wind and stream. The Browns are now our family in Kentucky."

Roy and Flora Mae Brown keep the majority of their guests from May to September when families travel with their children, but they occasionally have vacationists at other times of the year. Most guests stay for a week, but they've kept them for as long as one night up to three weeks. The Browns charge a weekly rate, with daily rates slightly higher.

Brown figured they've averaged about 30 visitors a year, and that people have come from 65% of the United States. They've entertained people of all ages. He said, "We had two people here from Louisiana last fall that were in their 70's."

The rates include three meals a day prepared by Mrs. Brown, who has developed a reputation for her good cooking. Dickerman's

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown in the living entertained guests from all over the world room of their home in which they have book pointed out. "Meat-times are a parade of dishes too good to resist; home-made everything." She serves her own jams, jellies, vegetables and meats.

Mrs. Brown hasn't held a job outside of her home, so she has been able to keep up with the demands of living on a farm, and housing guests on a regular basis. At 66 she looks young for her age and speaks enthusiastically about their vacation farm.

Roy Brown worked at the Cumberland Production Credit Agency from 1947 until he retired three years ago. He's now 68 and still farms, raised tobacco, and keeps cattle.

Their farm has 45 acres, two ponds, four horses and a log cabin built near their house about three years ago. The cabin has two rooms and a bath, and can sleep up to four people. Guests have the option of staying there or in the Brown's house which has four bedrooms and can accommodate up to eight visitors. There's a den downstairs where guests can watch TV or play pool.

Brown explained how vacationists pass the time while in this part of Kentucky. "They do some horseback riding, they have ponds to fish and swim in, and they hike over the field and woods. Some use our house for headquarters and go to Mammoth Cave, Cumberland Falls, Lexington, Berea, horse farms and things like that." He added, "Some like to come and relax and rest and not do much of anything."

His wife had her opinion. "Some like to come because they don't have to cook for themselves." Mrs. Brown explained that she has family members who help do the work necessary to open their house to vacationists. Although their three daughters had moved away from home by the time they started their vacation farm, Christine and Virginia Lee live nearby. Their other daughter, Kathy lives in North Carolina.

They now have grand children to lend a hand, too, and she said, "The family has enjoyed the guests the same as we have. We've always worked as a family and they help me out any time I need them. People have written back and commented on us being such a close family and that it helped them to be with us."

The Browns' home was one of three in Kentucky that was listed in the 1979 issue of Farm, Ranch and Country Vacations. In the 1983 issue, they are the only vacation farm in Kentucky. Why don't more people open their homes to visitors?

Brown answered, "The work and responsibility, I guess." His wife said, "Nobody really understands how I keep my house and how or what I cook." Mrs. Brown has been asked to give advice on running a vacation farm.

She remembered when a doctor and his wife came to stay with them from Brazil and the woman wanted the Browns to visit them sometime. "She told me her maid would wait on me and I wouldn't have to do one thing," said Mrs. Brown and laughed.

One of the most enjoyable aspects of keeping vacationists in their home is learning about different cultures and places. The Browns usually talk to their guests about where they're from.

They've hosted a mother and three sons from Africa who was working at a bank in New York and came down to visit their farm. Mrs. Brown said, "We really enjoyed him because he told us how he lives and their ways over there."

They've hosted a mother and three sons from Austria who stayed almost three weeks. And in 1982 a Frenchman came to stay on a Wednesday. On Friday a girl called from a bus station in Cincinnati and needed a place to stay since she was traveling from France. It was nice they were here together, said Mrs. Brown. "They really made good visitors. They didn't live too far apart in France, but they didn't know each other."

One family from Canada stopped at the Browns on their way to Florida, and another family held a reunion there. Some people have visited on a regular basis.

We had this family from Florida with three girls and Mrs. Brown. After the father and mother quit coming, one of the girls brought three friends when they graduated from high school and stayed a week. One of those girls still writes me every Christmas and keeps me in touch with the others."

Not only have the Browns been hosts, but they have also been the guests of some of their visitors. They have stayed at one family's home in Florida. Mrs. Brown said, "We've visited several of these people. And then we've had some of them stop by to see us while passing through."

The Browns have also received many gifts from

Year-End Tax Planning

(A Few Ideas)

Now is the time to do something to cut your 1983 tax bill because once December 31st rolls around, it will generally be too late. Consider some of these ideas.

The purchase of a personal computer may have some tax benefits. To the extent the computer is used for business or to produce investment income, you're entitled to investment credit and depreciation deductions.

You may even choose to expense up to $5,000 of the cost of the business portion.

Installing a safe in your home to safe-guard stocks, bonds, and other investment assets allows you to deduct the cost of the safe over a five-year period.

Before the end of the year, collect clothing, books, toys, household goods, and other items around the house that are no longer used and donate them to a charitable organization. Get a receipt showing the valuation of the items donated, and you'll be able to take a charitable deduction on your 1983 tax return.

If you received a lump sum distribution from a qualified retirement plan, you can defer taxation on the distribution by rolling some or all of the funds into an IRA or another qualified plan within 60 days.

Keep track of the fees paid to banks or brokerage firms to set up or manage your IRA account because they are deductible.

Do energy-saving installations before December 31st to qualify for the energy credit in 1983. Qualifying expenditures include storm doors and windows, insulation, and weatherstripping.

Review your tax situation and the best ways to minimize your 1983 taxes with your accountant.

Sophomore forward Greg Mink scored two points for the Rockets in the final moments of action last Friday night against Williamsburg, which put the Rockets over the century mark. Defending against Mink was Williamsburg's center Steve Croley who scored 23 points.

Senior center Chad Brock goes high to defend against a Williamsburg Yellow Jacket. Brock was high point man in the game with 26.

Rockets break century mark in opener; lose to Knox Central Rockcastle fans had a lot to cheer about in the boys' season opener against Williamsburg last Friday night when they won 101-57. However, they met a strong Knox Central team Tuesday night and came up on the short end, 92-69.

In the opener, the Williamsburg Yellow Jackets were simply outclassed as Coach Appelman cleared his bench and 9 players scored — five in double figures.

Senior center Chad Brock was high point man in the game with 26 points; senior guard Roger Isaacs was close behind with 21; junior forward Shannon Bishop got 13; sophomore forward Harold Graves scored 11; sophomore reserve forward Jackie Woodall came off the bench to score 10 points; senior guard Chris Cornelius got 8; sophomore Greg Mink, who scored the basket that broke the century mark for the Rockets, got 4 points and Bruce Blanton, Tony Harrison, Benny Blanton and Jeff Vanhook, each scored 2 points.

Then Tuesday night, the Rockets just couldn't get on track. They spotted the Knox Central Panthers 10 points before finally getting on the scoreboard on two free throws by Graves. And, there were plenty of trips to the charity stripe for both teams as 62 fouls were whistled in the game — 33 on the Rockets and 29 on the Panthers, including two technical fouls against the Rockets — one on the bench and one against a player on each team, following a defensive play by the Rockets which momentarily sparked a free-for-all late in the game.

But, free throws were not the difference in the game as the Rockets actually garnered 6 more points there (33), than did the Panthers.

What did make a difference was the shooting accuracy. The Rockets came out cold and never warmed up much although guards Isaacs and Cornelius both sunk some outside beauties with Isaacs picking up 3 field goals in a row at one point.

However, the Panthers controlled the box ends of the court and forced their handling press with-

Isaacs was high for the Rockets with 20 points and Cornelius, who fouled out late in the game, was the only other Rocket in double figures with 16. Brock was held to 8 points; reserve Bruce Blanton scored 7; Mink, who was the only other Rocket to foul out, and Steve Ponder, each scored 4 points; Bishop scored 3 and Harrison, Vanhook and Graves each got 2.

The Rockets play Laurel County this Friday night at home and next Tuesday night will travel to Jellico, Tenn. for a game.

"VACATION FARM"

their guests over the years. A man from Belgium, who was in the granite business and cut diamonds for a living, visited their farm for awhile. "He brought me a fingernail file that was covered with diamond dust and was the best fingernail file I ever saw," said Mrs. Brown. "And a lady from Austria brought me some placemats." Others have given them pictures, towels, dishes and even a fruit basket.

ket. One thing they've neglected to do is keep a guest register. "We didn't start a register," said Mrs. Brown regretfully, "and we're so sorry we didn't." The Browns have maintained their private life by traveling extensively themselves, and by not scheduling visitors during family outings or holidays. For the last three years, they've spent January, February and March in Florida, and they take a farm tour each July. Although they haven't been to Europe yet, they visited such places as Canada, Hawaii, Mexico, California, Wisconsin and Missouri. They're planning to keep vacationists a few more years and then taper off gradually. "We're cutting down a little bit right now," said Brown. They both agree the effort has been well worth it. Brown told about a family from New York that lived on the 20th floor of an apartment building, and whose children were hardly ever on the ground. "They just went wild when they got here," he said of the children. "They'd get out in the yard... to look at the stars and moon. They said they couldn't see them where they live—just buildings." Mrs. Brown said, "By the time the guests have stayed a week, you've got so attached to them you hate to see them leave. And they hate to leave!" Brown summed up their past experiences with vacationists when he said, "We've enjoyed it and met a lot of interesting people. They've helped us by telling of their backgrounds and where they're from. We have a lot of new acquaintances and friends." But all last Roy and Flora Mae Brown said during our talk didn't speak as loudly about their ability as hosts as the homemade apple pie that was waiting to be cut on the kitchen counter. Before I left their home, Mrs. Brown offered me a piece of her pie with coffee. Now that's hospitality.

Think About Appliance Needs Before Christmas Shopping

When it comes to Christmas shopping for mom, most families head for the appliance section of stores. And appliance manufacturers happily accommodate by providing everything from a mini ice cream freezer to an electric potato peeler. So long as we know mom doesn't have one, we often feel that Christmas is the time to buy her the latest kitchen "toy".

But before you start down the small appliance aisle looking for something she doesn't have, do some thinking about mom herself. You may discover her lifestyle has changed since the good old days when the kids were at home or when they were all young. Maybe mom has a new job outside the boundaries of the kitchen or she may be a part-time student these days. If that's the case, her present needs are decidedly different.

For example, remembering all those harvest-hand dinners mom once fixed, you may be inclined to buy her the largest size of an appliance—the large capacity slow cooker, the 12 inch electric skillet or the 6 quart saucepan. Most likely mom may have enough "biggies" and she may now

What's happened to energy costs?

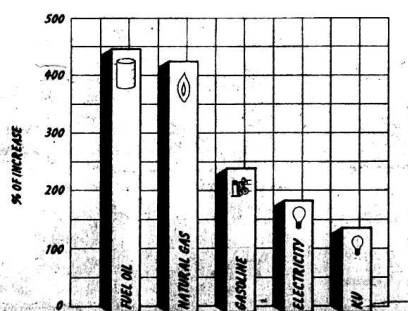

All energy costs have risen in the past 10 years, but electricity's increases are substantially less than those of other fuels.

In the past 10 years, KU's electric rates have not increased as much as the national average and when residential rates are compared nationally, KU's are among the lowest.

Although our rates are among the lowest, you can help control your cost by using energy wisely. Our home energy audit will show you ways to use energy more effectively. Contact us for the details.

As your energy partner, we're working hard to keep the cost of electricity as low as possible and to provide a reliable source of energy for your needs now... and in the future.

need the "minis". The small omelet pan or the 8-inch electric skillet or a set of small-sized casserole dishes, may better fill the niche of her present way of life.
As you look at small appliances, picture the kitchen "home" that it's going to. If counter and cabinet space are at a premium in mom's kitchen, she may want to forego the convenience of a new appliance instead of finding space to store it.

For example, food processors, a popular gift, should be situated conveniently on a counter top to enable access to versatility. But if the whole family is going together to purchase this gift, you may find that bringing her into the scheme of things is better than a surprise.

By talking with her and finding out if she wants to rearrange her kitchen or perhaps add counterspace by purchasing a small table or roll-around cart, the family can buy the kind of gift that will please and be used this Christmas and many more.

As you decide on the appliance, take a look at care and cleaning requirements. Are there many crevices to collect grease, requiring a lot of work to clean? Does the appliance do double-duty? Food processors and toaster ovens, for example, are great quick change artists.
Look for special features that will prove helpful over the lifetime of the appliance. Easy to read dials and an indicator light, which glows when the appliance is in use, are two beneficial features.

Smoke Detector Makes Good Christmas Gift
A smoke detector makes a good gift for your family or your friends' families. It could mean the difference between no more Christmas and many more.
Family homes have been the scene of more than half the deaths caused by fire in this country. Since this is the time of the year when we have more fires, installing fire detectors in your home can be an excellent investment.
A fire detector alerts family members early enough to safely get out of the building and perhaps put out the fire to avoid loss of property.

There are two basic types of fire detectors: heat detectors and smoke detectors.
Heat detectors sense the temperature of the surrounding atmosphere, the rate at which the temperature is rising, or both. In short, they are designed to detect flaming fires.
Smoke detectors, on the other hand, are designed to sense the presence of smoke in the atmosphere. A smoke detector is particularly effective in detecting smoldering fires in their early stages in these situations, smoke often develops before there is much increase in temperature. Thus, smoke detectors are considered particularly effective for home use.

When an abnormal quantity of smoke is sensed, a smoke detector will sound an audible alarm. This is an important feature since many home fire victims are asleep when fires start.
When selecting a smoke detector, check its sensitivity rating. The lower the number on the detector the greater the sensitivity.
Choose a detector with a sensitivity rating of 20 to 25. Any detector with a rating below 20 will be prone to nuisance alarms. And any rating over 40 may react too slowly to warn your family in time.
For the most effective protection, smoke detectors should be installed in each separate sleeping area and at the head of each stairway. This basic protection can then be supplemented by installing detectors in all other major areas of the home. It is also important that you have a fire plan so that each family member knows exactly what to do in case of a fire.

The Rockcastle County High School FFA of the club depicted a home-like Christmas Chapter also entered an excellent float in setting with all the ensuing activities at Saturday's parade in Mt. Vernon. Members this special time of year.

Jackie McKinney of Route 1, Mt. Vernon drove his 1948 Anglia in the parade. Mr. McKinney is a member of the Rockcastle Region Street Rods and Antique Car Club and is presently restoring two other antique autos. McKinney was accompanied in the parade by his son, Josh, and nephew, Eric McKinney.

Consider a "Live" tree this Christmas

For many of us, Christmas simply isn't Christmas without a "real" Christmas tree. We grumble when we get it home—it's too tall or too short, we didn't notice the bad side and don't know how we'll hide it. We strung the lights and six red bulbs ended up together. The kids got tired and threw the tinsel on so the tree looks infested with aluminum snow balls. And, of course, the tree is not to dry out and to stop dropping needles.

But most of us will live with these problems to get the softness of a white pine's needles or the prickliness of an eastern red cedar. No artificial tree can match another nature for color or aroma, or for that special feeling that each year's "better-than-last-year's" (to quote my Dad) tree elicits.

The problem is the real thing keeps getting more and more expensive for those who purchase trees. For this reason, more people each year opt to buy a living Christmas tree (one with its roots still attached). Prices are generally fairly comparable to live or cut trees, but the living tree can later be used to enhance and modify one's outdoor environment.

Before you rush to buy a living Christmas tree, be sure of two things. First, will there be an appropriate place for the plant? Match a specific tree with a specific outdoor location before buying.

Second, will you give the plant the necessary extra care it requires to stay alive and "transplantable"? The plant will need close attention before, during and after its stay in your home. The maximum time the tree should be kept inside is seven to ten days. But you will need to select and buy your tree ahead of time to insure finding a good plant.

Once your plant is purchased—but before it is moved into the house—keep it out of strong wind and sun. Check its water needs (Cont. to 20) daily—a balled-in-burlap plant will dry out more quickly than a container-grown plant. You might also cover the plant's ball or container with a temporary mulch of leaves or pine needles to conserve moisture and buffer the roots against freezing.

A few days before planting the plant inside, put it in a somewhat warmer location—an unheated garage or a sunporch. If the plant (especially a spruce) is taken from temperatures of 30 to 40 degrees directly to a temperature of 70 degrees, it may drop part or all of its leaves. Such a shock will decrease its subsequent chance of survival.

the house, located the tree or shrub where it will be as cool as possible. If the plant is small enough, nightly stays in the cooler garage or sunporch will be beneficial. Above all, avoid placing the plant near heating vents, wood stoves or fireplaces.

Since the plant will not be indoors for a long period of time, a sunny or bright location is not mandatory. Besides, sunny locations tend to be warmer and cause more rapid drying of the leaves and soil.

If your plant is balled-in-burlap, place the ball in a container such as a plastic-lined redwood tub or straw basket to avoid damaging the floor or carpet when you water. Again, check water needs daily now that it is indoors.

A container-grown plant can be placed on a tray or saucer and the container covered with a tree skirt.

When you select your tree, be sure not only that it will fit its intended outdoor planting site but also its intended indoor site. You do not want to remove the top or many branches to make it fit inside because you don't want to ruin its landscape shape. And be sure to carefully put on lights and ornaments to avoid breaking branches or scragging bark. Use lights that generate a minimum of heat to reduce foliage drying.

Once the holiday celebrations are over, carefully undecorate your tree and move it in stages to the garage or sunporch and then to the initial protected location. Give the plant a reverse adjusting period of a week or so before planting it in its permanent location.

In addition to buying your live Christmas tree in advance, you should prepare its location early also. Dig the hole and cover it with much and a board for safety. Or heavily mulch the spot where you intend to plant. This will keep the ground from freezing before the hole needs to be dug.

When you plant the tree, be sure to water it in well and mulch it heavily. Then regularly water through the following year.

If the permanent location is in full sun or the patch of strong winter winds, screen the plant until spring with a board or lath structure.
If you do forget to dig the hole in advance and the ground is frozen by planting time, put the plant in a plastic bag and mulch it heavily. Water regularly and plant as early in the spring as possible.

Berea Hospital will dedicate new wing Sunday, Dec. 11

Berea Hospital marks a major milestone in its 85-year history with the dedication of their new 40,000 square foot wing on Sunday, December 11th. Ceremonies scheduled for 2:30 p.m. that afternoon will feature a short program prior to the official ribbon cutting at the new front entrance of the hospital. Seating and shelter for the outdoor ceremonies have been arranged.

Hospital staff and Auxiliary volunteers will be on hand immediately following the ceremony to host tours of the new building. Guests will be shown through the Emergency Care Department, Laboratory, Radiology, Special Care Unit and the Surgical Suite, as well as patient rooms on third and fourth floors. Several of these areas will not be accessible to the public once occupied, so the tours will be an excellent opportunity to see the vast improvements afforded by the new structure. Additionally, staff will be available in each department visited to describe new services and technology.

Other activities in progress during the tours will be a reception in the newly renovated dining room, open house hosted by physician offices located in the facility, and historical displays. Cordial Corner, the hospital gift shop operated by the Auxiliary, will be featuring gift items for the Christmas season. Also, during this time, drawings for door prizes, which were generously donated by hospital vendors, will be held at regular intervals throughout the afternoon.

Berea Hospital Board of Directors, Staff, and Auxiliary cordially invite everyone to share in the celebration of this community accomplishment.

Two Rockcastle County High School graduates, Teddy Burke and Lisa Parsons, are serving as senators on the Berea College Student Association. Teddy is representing Bingham Residence Hall, while Lisa is representing the Home Management House.

Teddy, the son of Mr. Teddy Burke, Sr. of Route 2, Mt. Vernon, is a junior political science major and Lisa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Parsons of Route 1, Broodhead, is a junior dietetics major.

other medical items and services not covered by hospital insurance.

Protection for people who sign up during the general enrollment period will start July 1, 1984.

Medical insurance is financed by premiums paid by those enrolled and the Federal general revenue. Currently the Federal Government pays about three-fourths of the cost.

People who sign up during a general enrollment period may pay a higher premium. Anderson said this is because the premium is increased by 10 percent for each full year a person could have had this protection but did not.

More information about the medical insurance general enrollment period can be obtained at the Richmond Social Security office. The telephone number is 623-5856, or visit your local Social Security representative, who is at the courthouse the first and third Tuesday of each month.

Phelps tours with Berea Choir

Ricky Phelps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phelps of Route 1, Mt. Vernon performed with the Berea College Chapel Choir during its fall tour December 2-4. The choir gave concerts in Pikeville and Somerset.

The choir's presentation included choral music of various styles and from several different periods, including a variety of Christmas music.

The 55-voice choir is conducted by Dr. Stephen Bolster. First formed in 1949, the group has made two foreign tours, one through six European countries in 1967, and another to Russia and Poland in 1979.

Other notable performances include appearances with the Cincinnati Orchestra in a presentation of the oratorio Children of God and with the Louisville Orchestra. The choir also has sung in New York City's Riverside Church, the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C. and with the United States Marine Band in Constitution Hall. The group has had two televised Christmas concerts.

Emergency feed assistance is available to farmers

The U.S. Department of Agriculture issued eligibility and quantity guidelines for the emergency feed assistance program to sell Commodity Credit Corporation-owned low grade corn to livestock producers whose livestock feed suffered because of drought, hot weather and related disaster.

The farmer or rancher must be located in a county designated by the U.S. Department of Agriculture as a disaster area due to drought, said Everett Rank, administrator, USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. The farmer or rancher also must have suffered a loss of feed normally produced on the farm and must not have sufficient feed on hand to maintain foundation livestock and poultry through the end of the 90-day feeding period, which begins when a producer applies for assistance. Sign-up began December 6 and runs thru December 14.

CCC-owned lower grade corn will be sold to producers at 75 percent of the current basic county loan rate for the average quality of available corn in the county where the corn is stored, Rank said.

Sowder Nursing Home in Brodhead will hold their annual Christmas Bazaar on Saturday, December 10 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Family and friends of patients are asked to donate items for the bazaar and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The maximum amount of assistance that may be granted is 10 pounds of feed grain per day per animal unit times the number of days in the feeding period. The maximum amount is reduced by the amount of feed on hand and the total amount may not exceed the amount of production lost.

Rank said farmers and ranchers should contact their county offices of USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service for further details and to make application for assistance.

FFA Alumni Meeting

The Future Farmers of America (FFA) Alumni Association of Rockcastle County will be having a meeting this Saturday, December 10th. Anyone interested in becoming a member is invited to come to the Agriculture Department of the Rockcastle County High School at 2:00 p.m. Membership is open to all.

Officers for the next year will be elected at this meeting. Plans and activities will be discussed about how we will be able to help the high school FFA chapter in the upcoming year.
