Children Need to Eat Right—
And Stay Fit, Too

Weight watching often seems to be a national pastime for American adults. But obesity is all too common among children, too, in our sedentary, food-oriented society.

The age at which a child develops obesity is crucial. Fat cells are believed to be formed at only certain specific periods in the life cycle, and one of those is the early years. Once fat cells are made, they are never lost; only the fat content of the cell can be emptied.

This means that subsequent weight gain in either childhood or adulthood is possible or even probably, since the existing cell simply has to refill with fat. This condition is similar to inflating and deflating a balloon.

Studies also show that as many as 80 percent of obese children become obese adults. Approximately one-third of the adults in the U.S. are obese. Above their normal body weight in fat (adipose) tissue. About one-third of these adults were obese as children. So it is apparent that prevention of obesity must begin early.

Weight control is a matter of energy balance. Both food intake and exercise are important factors in maintaining it.

Food energy can come from the three nutrients of fat, carbohydrate and protein. Protein is needed for growth and repairing tissue, as it is not used for energy as much as the other two nutrients. All three of these can result in stored body fat in children if they consume too much of any or all of these energy sources.

Energy is measured in calories. Simply put, calories measure energy in foods as well as calories expended in activity or normal body processes.

It's good to know that 3,500 calories a day above what a child or adult requires can result in pound of weight gain in five weeks or 10 pounds in a year. Just 10 potato chips or one extra-large sugar cookie a day could add those unwanted pounds.

Use the chart below as a guideline for the calorie intake children need (based on Recommended Dietary Allowances, 1980).

1-3 years of age, 1,300 calories per day; 4-6 years, 1,700 calories per day; 7-10 years, 2,400 calories.

Calorie needs of children vary with the amount of physical activity they get. Children who tend to be obese should be encouraged to become involved in activities that use up a lot of calories. If good exercise habits are developed early in life, they may carry over through adulthood.

Children tend to do a lot of sitting at school or at home in front of the television. Try to encourage your child to be more active by involving him or her in family-related activities such as fast walking or bicycling. Other activities that burn up a lot of calories are rope, jumping, swimming and of course, group games such as basketball or volleyball.

One reason that children often gain too much weight is that they eat the wrong kinds of snacks. Snacks should be planned as part of the day's meals. The following tips are suggested for parents to try:

—Prepare nutritious snacks ahead for children to have after school or play. Have your child help prepare good snacks, and discuss the reasons why they are good.

—Do not reward your child with snacks such as candy and cookies.

—Do not punish your child by withholding snacks.

—Ask friends and neighbors to help give your child empty-calorie treats.

—Gently refuse when your child asks for money to buy empty-calorie snacks.

—Work with your child to help him or her develop a list of daily snacks.

For more information on good, low-calorie snacks that your child can help prepare, contact your county extension agent for the leaflet—"Snacks-The Mini Meals."

Girls get wins over Jackson Co. and Oneida; boys lose two close ones

The girls improved their season record to 5 wins and 8 losses with two wins in their last two outings - over Jackson County and Oneida, both district foes.

The girls had an easy time with Jackson County in a make-up game at home Saturday as they dominated the game from the outset and wound up winning 47-23.

But, things didn't go quite so smoothly with the Oneida Lady Mountaineers as the girls had to play catch-up ball the entire first half for their final 47-45 win.

In the Jackson County game, the girls took an early 8-0 lead but saw it dwindle to 6-4 at the end of the first quarter. But, they came out smoking in the second quarter and put the game on ice - outscoring the Lady Generals 13 to 3.

The Lady Generals couldn't solve the girls' zone defense and only scored one field goal in the first half, garnering the rest of their points at the free throw line.

In the third quarter, the Lady Rockets outscored Jackson County 16 to 8 and added to their lead in the fourth quarter by scoring 12 points to Jackson County's 8.

The girls were also playing without the services of senior Theresa Sturgill, who didn't dress because of sickness, but freshman Sandy Hunter and junior forward Betty Milburn took up most of the scoring slack, putting 10 points each in the basket. And, Hunter had to set out almost the last six minutes of the game as she picked up three quick fouls and had to hit the bench with 5:57 remaining.

Senior Kristi Martin got 8 points; Paige Anderson scored 7; Melissa Partin, 6; Tammy Faulkner, 4 and Caroline Machal, 2.

The Rockets' girls B-team also had a good game, defeating a previously unbeaten Jackson County B-team 28-27.

The girls fought back from a third quarter 7-point deficit to go ahead, 26-25, with 17 seconds left. Anita Burke was then fouled but missed the front end of a 1 and 1.

The Lady Generals then drew the foul and hit both free throws to take back the lead with 8 seconds showing on the clock.

The Rockets brought the ball down the court and fed it to freshman Regina Campbell in the corner, who, with one second on the clock, unleashed a long one which swished into the net and the girls had claimed the one-point victory.

In Tuesday night's game at home against Oneida, the girls had a hard time getting their offense going, falling behind 20-12 in the second quarter. But, the Rockets scored 12 unanswered points late in the second quarter, six by senior guard Melissa Partin, to go ahead 74-40 at the half-time buzzer.

In the third quarter, the girls were behind by one at 33-32 when Anderson put up a half-court shot at the buzzer which sailed through the basket and the girls took a one point 34-33 lead.

Then, in the fourth quarter, the lead switched back and fourth with Oneida making numerous trips to the free throw line and scoring 10 of their 12 fourth quarter points - finally tying the game at 45 all on their one field goal with 1:07 left in the game.

Then, with less than a minute remaining in the game, Betty Milburn got two clutch free throws and the Rockets went ahead 47-45. Oneida got the ball back and had time to score but good defense by the Lady Rockets forced a turn-over and the girls had won their fifth game of the season.

Partin was high scorer for the Rockets with 12 - eight of them in the first half; Sturgill got 11 - 7 of them in the fourth quarter; Faulkner scored 8; Anderson and Martin, 6 each and Milburn 4.

The B-team also won big, defeating Oneida's B-team 54-20.

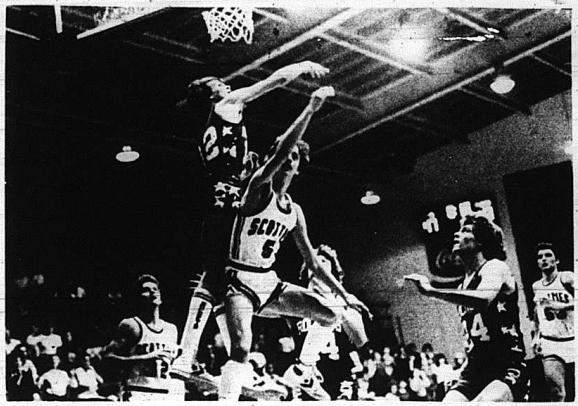

The girls play Somerset there Thursday night; meet Clay County Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. in an away game and then travel to Whitley County next Monday night.

BOYS LOSE TWO CLOSE ONES

The boys didn't fare quite as well, dropping both of their last game by 4-point margins.

Friday night, the Rockets played the Mercer County Scotties and, although they played from behind all night, they were always in the contest.

Sophomore Jackie Woodall got way up there in an attempt to block a shot during Brock who scored 15 points in the contest and Shannon Bishop, who was held to 4 points.

good stand of grass should be renovated. The primary reason for renovating Kentucky's acreage are cool season grasses, such as tall fescue, orchard grass, bluegrass and timothy. By adding legumes to the grass, there is an increase in the quality of feed produced, legumes increase the summer production and legumes take nitrogen from the air.

In Kentucky, productive alfalfa stands can fix 200 to 300 pounds of nitrogen per acre each year. In comparison, a corn stand can fix 100-200 pounds, ladino clover—100-150 pounds, vetch, Korean lespedeza and other annual forage legumes can fix 75-150 pounds of nitrogen per acre each year. This is possible because bacteria properly inoculated seed which infest the roots of legume plants supply energy to the bacteria and they use the energy to change the form of nitrogen taken from the air to one which the legume plants can use.

Legumes improve quality by their positive effect on palatability, intake, digestibility, protein, mineral content and the effect is also on companion grasses which increase their yield by taking advantage of the nitrogen produced by legumes. We also find that most of the growth of cool season grasses occur during the first one to two months of the growing season. Since legumes make more growth during the summer months, legume grass mixtures improve the seasonal distribution of pasture and hay crop production over that of grass alone.

Moisture and temperature are two important factors in establishing legumes in old grass sods. In the long run, early spring clover seedlings (mid-February through March) are more likely to be successful than late spring or late summer seedlings. Some keys to a successful renovation are: Graze or mow the grass clove, prior to renovating. This will let tillage tools tear into the sod more easily. Don't plant legume seed into tall grass. The grass shades legume seedlings and reduces their growth.

Test the soil and apply needed lime, phosphate and potash. Disturb 40 to 60 percent of the grass for sowing clover, 80 to 100 percent for alfalfa. This tillage helps control grass growth and opens the soil so that legumes will have a better chance to germinate and live.

A disk, field cultivator, or a d/tiller will do a good job. A once-over renovation seeder can be used to eliminate the need for tillage which disturbs the sod. Broadcast seedlings of lespedeza, white clover or red clover made on top of the ground will often result in good legume stands if seedlings are made in late winter, the grass is grazed extremely short, and proper fertility is supplied.

Now certified seed of adapted legumes at the rates recommended for seeding along with before broadcast seedlings with the proper nitrogen-fixing bacteria. Be sure that some inoculum is stuck to all seeds.

Renovated fields should be kept grazed short until the livestock begin biting off the young legumes. At that time remove the livestock and allow cover (4-6 weeks) and alfalfa (8-10 weeks) to become established. Thereafter, mow and/or graze the field to best suit the particular legume that was planted.

February 6 meeting. Anyone member wishing to sponsor a ride, who has not already done so, is urged to attend the meeting at 7:30 at the Courthouse or get in touch with an officer or director of the club.

Officers and directors of the club elected at the January meeting were: president, Paul Gentry, vice president, Bobby Taylor; secretary, Tamara Cox; Treasurer, Audra Noe; reporter, Mary Owens.

Directors are James Reppert, Paul Noe, Darrell Owens, Joe Adams, Bobby Cox, Joe Martin, Gary Asher, Glen Bowman and Jay Thompson.

Club membership for 1984 are now available. See you at the banquet.

If a once over renovation is used to till, plant the legume seed, and press the seed into firm soil, special attention must be given to grass management. After planting legumes, the grass should be kept grazed or mowed very closely to control grass competition. When the animals begin grazing the legumes, remove them and permit the legumes to become established. If the newly seeded field cannot be properly grazed or clipped, Paraquat may be used to aid in grass suppression. Apply Paraquat at the rate of 0.5 lbs. of active ingredient per acre to bands over the seeded row, leaving about 50% of hand surface untreated. This assures a good grass stand will remain in the renovated field. Even with Paraquat, grass growth should be controlled by a combination of grazing and clipping. Follow label instructions as to when grazing can be started after use of the chemical.

Seeding rates, in pounds per acre, for renovating are: white clover, 1-3; red clover, 8-12; annual lespedeza, 20-25; alfalfa, 12-20, in combinations while clover, 1-2; and red clover, 4-8; alfalfa, 8-10; and Ladina white clover, 1-1.

Applications are now being accepted for ACP funds to assist farmers with making renovations. If you plan to improve existing grass fields, now is the time to make an application with the ASCS office and get your soil sample to the County Extension Office located on the second floor of the Courthouse.

For more information on renovation and its value to beef farmers, attend the 2nd Beef Shortcourse meeting, Thursday night at the South Kentucky RECC in Somerset at 7:00 p.m. Contact the County Extension office for more information.

BRODHEAD PTA UNIT MEETING

Brodhead PTA will hold its unit meeting Thursday, February 2 (tonight) at 7:00 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Ms. Judy Lawless will present a program on "Alcoholic and Drug Abuse." Everyone is welcome.

MVES PTA Meets

The Mt. Vernon Elementary PTA met last Tuesday night. The meeting had been cancelled at an earlier date because of the weather. The meeting was called to order and the first business discussed was the success of the Christmas program after the expenses had been met. An appropriation steering committee had met earlier to discuss many different ways the money could be used to best benefit in furthering the education of all the children at MVES. The committee was chaired by Mr. Tony Hopkins.

The committee presented their ideas to the unit, P.T.A. and the unit voted unanimously to buy World Book encyclopedias and Child Craft Books to be used in the classroom. One set for grades K thru 2, one set for 3 thru 5, and one set for 6 thru 8. These books will be rotated to each room so each student will have access to them. They will also have movable carts made for the books.

Mayor Mullins reported on the follow-ups of the letters sent to the State and local Health Departments about the bird problem at the school grounds and volunteered to keep us posted on the situation.

Future plans were as follows:

A committee will find ways of acquiring playground equipment for the smaller grades.

Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, February 2, 1984 P-17 A committee will plan a Spring festival.

To have a chili supper and spelling bee for the members of P.T.A.

It seems the PTA is off to a great start with a lot of great ideas and people to carry them out. We still need your help. We urge everyone to attend the meet-

The Executive meeting will be held Tuesday, February 7 and the Unit meeting will be held Tuesday, February 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Orlando man shot to death Monday night near Burr

By: Richard Anderkin

A Rockcastle County man was shot to death Monday night in the Burr Hill section of the county, according to Rockcastle County Sheriff William Taylor.

Taylor said that Johnny Keith Falin, 34, of Orlando was dead on arrival at the Rockcastle County Hospital around 9:15 p.m.

According to police reports, Falin was a passenger in a car being driven by Lisa Lopez Jones. Police said that Ms. Jones turned onto Hwy. 1004 (the Brush Creek Road) around 9 p.m. and, just after turning onto the road, a dark-colored pick-up truck pulled in behind her and began flashing its lights.

Ms. Jones told police that she stopped her car and Falin got out. She said that she was listening to the U.K. basketball game on the radio and did not turn around to see who it was that Falin was talking to.

She was followed to the hospital by state Trooper Jimmy Silvers, who saw Ms. Jones driving at a high rate of speed toward Mt. Vernon and ending behind her.

her. Silver and state police Detective Doyle Stodgill are the investigating officers in the case.

Rockcastle County Coroner B. D. Dowell said Wednesday that Falin died from a single gunshot wound to the upper chest and that the murder weapon was probably a small caliber handgun, possibly a .38. Dowell said that an autopsy was performed Tuesday in Lexington and that it will take several days to get complete results back.

Taylor also said Wednesday that no arrests have been made in the case but that an attempt is being made to identify the driver by while the incident was underway.

The Sheriff said that Ms. Jones told authorities that she did not have any idea who was driving the pick-up truck or even what color it was.

She did say, however, that two vehicles pulled around the truck and her car while Falin was outside talking.

Falin was born August 21, 1949 in Rockcastle County, the son of Tommy and Maxie Chestnut Falin.

He was a driver for the Oliver Trucking Co. and a member of the Flat Post Baptist Church.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one son, John Kevin Falin; one daughter, Kristie Lynn Falin; their mother, Mrs. Peggy Alcorn Falin; a brother, Robert Falin; one sister, Mrs. Pamela Leger of Atlanta, Georgia and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hathe Chestnut of Orlando.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday, (today), February 2 at 2 p.m. at the Flat Rock Baptist Church in Lexington. The Rev. James officiating. Burial will be in the Maple Grove Cemetery. All arrangements are by the Decker and Martin Funeral Home.

Rockcastle Rollerdrome provides much needed form of entertainment

By Leigh Anne Hiatt

Rockcastle Countians now have a new type of family entertainment available to them and, judging from the number of cars seen nightly and on week ends at the Rockcastle Rollerdrome on U.S. 25, just south of Mt. Vernon, it is being very well received.

The Rockcastle Rollerdrome occupies a long, beige building across the road from the rollerdrome. The idea to open a skating rink in the county was conceived over coffee.

"It was a coffee table discussion one night between the two families," explained C.T. Huffines, who owns the rink with Jimmy Cromer. "The building belongs to Eugene Philbeck and we rent from him." It was about six months after the initial discussion that the rink opened on December 23.

Why did they decide to call it the Rockcastle Rollerdrome? "We wanted Rockcastle because of the county and the high school," said Huffines. "and Rockcastle came from a skating rink in Nashville called the Hi-Perdrome; we put roller instead."

The inside of the Rollerdrome is cheerful and looks like a pleasant place to get exercise. The skating rink is painted robin egg blue, and there's a red-carpeted lounge area with blue and yellow benches. There's also an eating area, and one wall lined with several video games.

The skaters are shelved in the back of the building, right behind the concession stand. The hanging globe over the rink casts a syncretic light on the skaters.

The Rollerdrome doesn't have any employees; the two families take turns running the rink with the help of two boys who volunteer to act as floor guards and deejays. "This is really supposed to be a family-run business," said Huffines.

He feels there's a need for this type of entertainment in Rockcastle. "There's not a whole lot of things for kids and families in the county to do, and this is something we can have right in our own back yard. It's the type of place where you could bring anybody."

The owners have been pleased with business so far. "I hope everybody comes," said Huffines. "We welcome visitors to come and see what's going on. We're going to offer special activities and events for each month. On Valentine's Day admission and skating will be free per couple."

He added, "Rockcastle County should be proud of their young people. They have not been neglected. We haven't had any real problems."

Manuel Shepherd is a deejay at the rink and he commented, "We usually have a pretty large crowd. Mostly I'll take requests such as the crazy trio, Limbo, or speed skate for women and men. Or if they request a song I'll always try to play it if we've got it."

Charlie Bellin, 15, has been there about every night since it opened. He said, "It's a good place to go and get exercise." His skating has improved and he bragged, "I can skate backward now."

Joe Clark, 24, travels from Jackson County to skate at the Rollerdrome, and even the winter weather doesn't stop him. He gets in his few wheel drive and come anyway. "This is one of the better rinks I've been to," said Clark. "I've been to Champs in Lexington and to Great Escape in Jackson, Ky. I'm here about three times a week and I've gotten better. The people are nice and fun."

Tami Huffines and Todd Philbeck give free skating lessons each Saturday morning from 9 a.m. to noon to beginners to 12 years old. The instruction is classroom style. Philbeck said, "The little ones can learn to skate better than the older ones can. They want to learn and they don't have very far to fall!"

Miss Jackson added, "I enjoy working with the children and they're fun to be with. We've had them as young as two years old." The Rockcastle Rollerdrome has regular skating hours along with private parties which can be arranged almost any time that doesn't interfere with the public sessions. The schedule is as follows:

Monday-Two, two-hour evening sessions for private parties.

Tuesday-7:10 p.m. for the public.

Wednesday-7:10 p.m. for the public.

Thursday-two, two-hour evening sessions for private parties.

Friday-7:10 p.m. for the public and one, two-hour private party after 10 p.m.

Saturday-9 a.m. to noon for beginners to 12 years old. 2-5 p.m. for the public, 7-10 p.m. for the public and one, two-hour private party after 10 p.m.

Sunday-2-5 p.m. for the public, and 7-10 p.m. for the public.

Don Walker, owner of Jean's Restaurant, received the Rockcastle County Improvement Council's Improvement Award at their meeting Monday night. Shown with Mr. Walker is Sam Ford, president of the council, who said Mr. Walker received the award primarily for being Rockcastle's "Ambassador of Good Will."

Three brothers injured in Monday morning accident

Three brothers from the Flat Gap area were hospitalized Tuesday morning following an accident on Dogwood Drive in Berea.

According to a family friend, the accident occurred when a car, driven by Rick Isaacs, 18, topped a hill and encountered another vehicle on Isaacs side of the road. Isaacs reported cut left in an attempt to avoid the collision but the other vehicle also cut in the same direction and struck the Isaacs car in the side. The accident occurred about 9:30 a.m.

Isaacs is in the Berea Hospital with several cuts and bruises. His two brothers, both passengers in the car, were also hospitalized, one with serious injuries. Phillip Isaacs, 7, received a concussion, head cuts, a bruised lung, some internal injuries and possibly a broken foot. He is in intensive care in a Lexington hospital where, according to the same source, the prognosis is good. The other brother, Charlie Howard, 14, was hospitalized for numerous cuts and bruises.

The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Isaacs.

Letters

Dear Editor,

We would like to thank Dr. John Parsons, Monroe Hansel, Norma Lyons, Steve Midkiff, Robert Fish, Quentin Barrett, Ben Cox, Donny Marshall and Jonathan and Jason Payne for volunteering their services in helping us move into our new facility. Your help was deeply appreciated.

Rockcastle Co. Health Center Staff
Dear Editor,

I just have to disagree with your statement in "ramblings" last week (1-26-84) about our road department's good work. I live in Rockcastle County - Clear Creek-Disputanta area. Our road is supposed to be gravel. Since it hasn't been graded or had gravel put on it, it's been a "ball of ice," this winter, or "mud city" when it rains. I think our county road department is "non-existent" since they never come our way.

Eleven families live on this road (Anglin Falls Road). Of these eleven, six men go in and out daily to work. The maintenance school van and the bookmobile also go up and down this road. This road is also the route to Anglin Falls, a tourist attraction. This road is vital, important and I hope our magistrate will read this and come to see it. (Be sure Mr. Wren, to wear hip mud boots and drive a 4x4 truck.)

of creek or railroad gravel on it.

I know our magistrates are busy, but we would make an effort to see all roads in our district and repair them.

Our future, our children are going to bounce over these roads as they grow up and when grown. They will choose to live in counties where residents get better results and service for their tax dollar.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Pat Harding

Dear Sirs,

In the January 19th, 1984 issue of the Signal, page 9, is a picture of the 4-H club who went to Junior week in Lexington.

I am the girl standing on the right side of the boy on the back with the glasses. Beside me is Lillie McKnight who is now Mrs. Fletcher Phillips from New Port Richie, Florida. I can't remember the names of the others. Do you know anyone in town who might know these people?

How can I get a copy or the negatives of this

AS A LEADER OF KENTUCKY'S YOUTH

1909-1984

"Reflections from the past"

By Martha Brown

For 4-H

Cove 4-H Club
The first 4-H club in Rockcastle County was organized in the Cove Branch District on June 21, 1919, by County Agent, Robert F. Spence from Berea, Kentucky.

The leader at that time was W.C. Johnson, and some of the members were:

Frank Johnson, Glenna Johnson, Jessie Johnson, Roscoe Proctor, Ethel McNew, Virgil McNew, Lena Parrett, Winnie Parrett, Cora Parrett, Mary Sharp, Lizzie Sharp, Dave Sharp, Susie Riddle, Grace Riddle, and Hazel Riddle.

This membership increase from 15 members in 1919 to 38 members by 1923. The names of the additional members are as follows:

John Sharp, Virgil Sharp, Woodrow Biddle, Tam Langford, Louise Langford, Russell Bullock, Esmer Bullock, Aden Bell, Annie Clark, Ida Legner, Estill McNew, Mattie Halcomb, Rose Halcomb, Pearl Moore, Ann Moore, Earl Moore, Ted Parrett, Corene Bell, Perlie Clark, Margie Legner, Hazel Clark, Hobert Bryant.

As years went by there were other 4-H clubs organized throughout Rockcastle County. However, the Cove 4-H Club was the outstanding club for many years. They organized and held the first community 4-H fair in Rockcastle County. Some of its members attended the State Fair in Louisville and participated in some of the activities there. We thoroughly enjoyed the 4-H Club work. As some of our members became too old for the beginning 4-H club age, we organized a Junior 4-H club so these older members could continue in 4-H work. These junior members would become leaders for the beginning group.

Rena Johnson Jordan is one of these junior members. She continues to lead Cove 4-H Club in their work until our rural schools were consolidated and our members then became 4-H members in their individual class groups.

(This material was given to us by Rena Johnson Jordan who has been a 4-H member, leader and county member for some sixty years.

Mary Wallace of Mt. Vernon furnished us with an old 4-H Achievement Day picture taken about 1928-29. The Brindle Ridge Club was the champion club recognized that day when this picture was taken on the steps of the Mt. Vernon Christian Church. Ms. Wallace didn't know everyone in the photo (no wonder) but she was able to point out several well-known names in the community, many of whom are still living here. Identified in the first row of the photo were, from left: Farmer Wallace, Owen Thompson. Ms. Wallace, then ninth from left, Marshall Scoggins and Vera Roberts, second from right, first row. Mrs. Ruby Sutton Gentry is the first one on the left in the second row and Mary Helton Hansel is third from the right in the second row. Ruth Hilton Lambert is third from right in the third row and Ms. Wallace's mother, Ida

Children Unclean

Question: What did Paul mean about children being unclean in I Cor. 7:14?

Answer: The passage reads, "For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband; else were your children unclean."

In verses twelve through sixteen, Paul answers their questions concerning a Christian living with an unbeliever. Is the child justified or is separation advisable? What about children born into this marriage?

Under the law of Moses, if an Israelite married a Gentile, the Israelite was profaned by it; he was made "unclean." They were therefore shut out from God's blessings, and often led into idolatry.

However, this is not the case under Christ's law. Paul admonishes the believer to maintain the marriage if the unbeliever is constant to do so. He said the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife. By this he means that God recognized the marriage when it was consummated and the fact that one party has since become a Christian does not nullify the legality of the marriage. God considers the union sacred and there was nothing shameful or sinful about it. The word "sanctified" is generally used of those who are saved, but it is not so used here. It does not indicate that the unbelieving companion is saved, but that the marriage is sanctified by the Lord.

If an opposite conclusion were reached, and this marriage was an illicit relationship, then the conclusion must apply

By: Austin Mobley
Providence Church of Christ

with equal force to the children of this couple. The children must be considered unclean-illegitimate. But if their relationship is holy (sacred before God), then the offspring of this union are also holy-legitimate. This is not intended as a reflection upon the children born to an illegitimate relationship-God does not consider them morally or ceremonially unclean. The wrong would be attached to the RELATIONSHIP that brought them forth, not to the children.

But still another problem - Suppose the unbelieving partner is averse to the other's religion and refuses to continue the marriage. What then? The Christian is to passively "let him depart" (v. 15). He or she is powerless to prevent the separation. Some marriage counselors would advise that the Christian renounce his religion for the sake of saving the marriage. But this is not even hinted at by the apostle. If such a situation should develop, the Christian is not "under bondage". This word does not allow for divorce and remarriage because it would conflict with the Lord's teaching in Matt. 19:9. It means that the Christian is not obligated to fulfill the marriage responsibilities, but is permitted a separation so as to "live at peace" with God. It is far more advantageous to live alone in peace than to live together in strife.

Tom Clear Creek
Whoever said if you did not like the weather in Kentucky, just wait a bit and you'd get a big change, sure said the whole nine yards of it." We have had a deep snow, below zero weather, a January thaw, and warm sunny days. Someone asked me if we wouldn't do just as well in Alaska.

As you know, news has been scarce here due to the weather and my being afraid to set foot out the door fearing another fall. When Mayor Armon Neeley was asked for a news item, he had this to say: "It's no use for a fellow to waste energy these days when he can't get out. Why I've been making quilts. Due to my balance being poor since I had my foot operated on, I've had to sit a lot. Seeing Harriet piecing quilts to keep warm, I thought I would take it up too. So I've been cutting out the pieces for her. After all, I want to keep warm this winter too."

Now there's a smart man who didn't drive his ducks to a bad market.

I send birthday greetings to an 88 year old "girl" from Rockcastle who celebrated it February 1st in Dayton, Ohio. Cynthia Langford who keeps up with news back here by reading the Signal. I know she is fine by hearing she just made a trip to California to visit her children, Frank Payne and Jane Lee Dondanville.

Lorene Fowler and Martha Faye Rowlett threw a "quilting bee" but after they heard I could hardly sew on a button, I was not invited. Guess they didn't want to pull stitches out after I'd gone.

Inez Miller Stanley was pushing a grocery cart up the aisle at Superior Market in Berea when I met her. I've always liked this girl since she was once a pupil of mine and growing up hasn't changed her friendly attitude. Inez laughed about her nieces, Regina and Tammy Russell from Clear Creek coming to visit her and becoming "marooned" during the big snow when they only meant to spend the day. I'm she said they had fun.

I'm going to caution Henry Voltmer of Indiana, a "good Signal reader" that winter isn't over yet and he had better lay a good supply of wood behind the stove to dry out for Indiana has about the same weather as we Kentuckians have.

I read that this is the "Year of the Cat" and that a Wildcat Celebration Week is in the near future. Nathan Mullins will probably bring out his old muzzle loader rifle to celebrate if one comes around.

Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, February 2, 1984 P-9

All that noise you heard from the Scaffold Cane community was from kinfolk Benny Stephens whooping it up when he'd reached his 16th birthday on January 31st and could drive the roads (maybe to see a pretty girl) without Mom Joyce or Dad Donnie being along. I'll bet he's promised not to do any one arm driving, at least for a while anyway!

I've received several million dollars in the mail this past month. Now that was exciting except for the big "if" before you could collect. But a body can dream can't they...It was nice to do on these dark days.

Melinda Isaacs, Colette

Templeton and son, Luke, with Mary Payne came to visit. Blanche and Cleve Payne one afternoon after the snow was gone. Luke, almost two, was glad to visit Aunt Blanche and became a collector of the many pretty things she has sitting around on her tables and stands. He moves so fast, it kept the four women busy moving things out of his reach.

Heard Don Gadd came out well with the sale of his pepper crop last fall. I hope Don doesn't blame Tom Leger nor me after he's eaten turnips all winter to make him more active for spring work if it doesn't
