God bless you all, for the words (thank you) cannot express the depth of our love for one and all. Perhaps you sent a lovely card. Or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray. If so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words. As any friend could say, Perhaps you were not there at all. Just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to ease our hearts. We thank you so much. Whatever the part.

County 4-H History Contest

In celebration of the 75th year of 4-H in Kentucky, a special category has been added to the Community Pride Contest. The category, "County 4-H History" will involve 4-Hers and leaders in learning more about our county 4-H program and in writing our 4-H history. The finished entry will provide a permanent and update historical record of the development and accomplishments of our County 4-H programs.

VS.

CLYDE SIMECK AND RALPH ELLER DEFENDANTS

By virtue of a Judgement and Order of Sale rendered by the Rockcastle Circuit Court on the 10th day of November, 1983, in Civil Action Number 83-CI-160, I shall proceed to offer for sale at public auction to the highest and best bidder for cash or upon credit of 90 days provided the purchaser pays twenty (20) percent of the purchase price down upon the date of the sale, on March 5, 1984, at or near the front door of the Rockcastle County Courthouse, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, the following described property, to-wit:

TRACT NO. 1-Beginning on the east side of the L&N Railroad Company culvert, corner to L.P. Chase; thence running southward with the railroad to Zeb Proffitt's corner at the railroad; thence northward up the hill with the said Proffitt line to a big hickory tree; thence on down the hill with Proffitt to Dan Halcomb corner; thence on down to the foot of the hill known as the two acre tract; thence westward with the two acre tract a straight line to L.R. Chase corner; thence on down the branch with Chase line to the beginning, containing twenty three (23) acres more or less.

TRACT NO. 2-Beginning at the center of the culvert on the east side of the L&N Railroad Company's right of way; thence running a north course with said right of way to a stone corner at Carson Lee's yard fence; thence a northeast direction with Carson and Delbert Lee's line to a stone corner in E.C. Watson's line; thence with E.C. Watson's line a south direction to a corner in W.C. Watson's line, also a corner of Brummett heirs two acre tract; thence west to a corner of Herbert Lawrence place; thence west down the branch or drain with its meanders to the beginning corner at the center of the culvert on the east side of the L&N Railroad Company's right of way, containing fifty (50) acres more or less.

There is excluded from the above described real property approximately six and two-thirds acres (6 2/3) conveyed to Lew Hunt, et ux., by deed dated November 18, 1968, executed by Ed Crank and of record in Deed Book 88, Page 376, in the office of the clerk of the Rockcastle County Court, Mount Vernon, Kentucky.

Being the same property conveyed to the defendant, Clyde Simeck, from Emma Crank, et al., by Deed Dated 27th day of December 1974, and of record in Deed Book 97, Pages 402-405, Rockcastle County Court Clerk's Office, Kentucky.

The amount to be raised is as follows, to-wit: The sum of $38,030.68, plus interest as of October 14, 1983, in the amount of $4,254.72, and for interest from the date of October 14, 1983 to date of this judgement in the amount of $185 to date of this default judgement, and thereafter at the legal rate of interest.

The foregoing described property shall be sold subject to all existing liens, encumbrances and unpaid taxes of record.

A federal right of redemption shall exist for any federal agency having a lien or interest against said real property.

The purchaser shall assume risk of loss upon date of sale.

If sold on credit of ninety (90) days, purchaser shall be required to pay twenty (20) percent of the purchase price down upon date of sale and shall be further required to execute bond with an approved surety for the payment of the purchase price, same to be due and payable on or before ninety (90) days from the date of sale and to bear interest at the rate of twelve (12) percent per annum and shall have the force the property sold as additional surety for the payment of the purchase price.

Bidders shall be prepared to promptly comply with the aforesaid terms and conditions.

Preserving Our Heritage In Quilts

Long before photographs and family picture albums, patterns and fabrics told the stories of families, political events and social conditions. Quilts make a major contribution to the story of our heritage and often their sentimental value is immeasurable—a quilt may be the only tangible reference to an individual. To ensure our descendants opportunities to learn from these fabric records, proper identification, handling and care are essential.

Storage
Plastic should not be used for quilt storage. Plastic cuts off air circulation and often gives off harmful by-products as it ages and decomposes. Mold and mildew result from moisture trapped inside plastic covers, and static electricity generated by plastics attracts dust.

Cardboard boxes that acidify quickly are detrimental to some dyes and fibers, especially silks and linens. Boxes also tend to cut off air circulation.

Avoid direct contact with wood, especially un-

Wallace Proctor. The District discussed several items of business. A supply of placemats was ordered for the Stewardship Week and for the Farmers-Businessmen's Banquet. The District Board also reviewed an equipment loan request for Bull-Well Development of Brodhead. David Stipes of SCS reported that plans are being finalized for the Lake Linville Critical Area Treatment Project. David also reported that there was some new activity in the Rural Action Funded Mine Program. The meeting adjourned at 4:30 p.m.

"Letter To The Editor" (Cont'd from P-2)

meeting Thursday night was one of the best examples of pure Democracy I've ever witnessed. The people had a concern and were able to share those concerns in order to resolve a situation that could have meant the loss of jobs and the closing of our industrial parks.

Now we must prove to the railroad that we can stand up to them profitably by working together to bring more factories and jobs to our community. Again, thank you Rockcastle and Lincoln counties for taking a part in salvaging our railroad, so that together we may grow and prosper.

Sincerely,
Denny E. Ford

sealed wood, such as that in cedar chests. Wood, like cardboard, gives off detrimental acids, and quilts need several layers of protective materials between wood and fabric area.

The best material in which to store quilts is well-washed cotton muslin or percale fabric or acid-free paper. These materials protect quilts from dust, light and abrasion.

Store valuable quilts in the living area of your home where temperature and humidity vary less than in attics, basements and unheated storage sheds. Choose an area that is dark most of the time but provides some air circulation. Clean the area regularly to help check for and prevent insect infestation.

A major problem with folding a quilt on flat storage is the folds, crease stress on the quilted fabric, stitches and batting placement. You can lessen the strain by padding folds, with crumpled acid-free tissue paper. Fold quilts center and in a different place each time. Change the folds at least once a year. Avoid stacking heavy quilts on top of each other.

Cleaning

If a quilt has any possible historical or significant monetary value, have someone with professional expertise examine it before having it cleaned. Many quilts ruined in the cleaning process could have been preserved if treated in a more gentle manner.

Displaying quilts as wall hangings or as bedspreads is a popular trend in "country look" decorating.

If you display your quilts, you should replace the one on display with another one occasionally rather than leave one display year-round. Avoid extreme temperatures and humidity and direct sunlight. Ultraviolet rays from sunlight and fluorescent tubes are very damaging to dyes and fibers.

Never hang a quilt by nails, staples or pins. This creates severe stress in small areas and often breaks threads, causes rust spots and results in sagging and permanent reorientation of yarns. Distribute the weight of the quilt evenly over its entire width. Several methods for hanging are possible:

1. If the quilt is not too large or heavy, baste hook-and-loop fasteners, such as Velcro, to the top edge and to a support board so you can hang and remove the quilt easily.
2. Sew a casing along the top of the quilt, from side to side and insert a rod between the two layers. Make the outer side of the casing wider than the underside so the rod will slip through easily.
3. If the quilt needs extra support because of its condition or construction, baste a well-washed backing fabric vertically to the quilt at 12-inch intervals. Construct a casing from the backing fabric at the top for hanging.

Airing: Lessen a musty smell by airing a quilt outside in the shade. Airing, combined with vacuuming frequently, is the only safe treatment for delicate, fragile, silk or painted quilts. Do not beat or shake.

Wet Cleaning: Although wet cleaning can result in a much cleaner and "healthier" fabric, it is a potentially damaging method if not done correctly.

For more information on care of quilts, contact the County Extension Office.

In eighteenth century England eyeglasses were often worn purely as fashionable accessories, not as aid to vision.

Extending Homemakers have been practicing their quilting skills and learning new techniques in quilting-making at a recent lap quilting workshop. The procedure involves making a block of patchwork, quilting the block to batting and a backing fabric and then machine stitching the blocks together to form an entire quilt. This method does not use a hoop or frame, is portable, and enables the quilter to use much creativity in the project. Twenty homemakers participated in the workshop taught by Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent for Home Economics.

Assassination attempt made on life of Rockcastle Sheriff

By Richard Anderkin

An assassination attempt was made on the life of Rockcastle County Sheriff William Taylor Thursday morning around 10 o'clock. Taylor was leaving his home on the Old Broadhead Road to go to work when he decided to feed his dog

The sheriff said that he went back into the garage and got some dog food and that while he was bent over putting the food into a pan, he was shot at from a pine thicket across the road from his house.

"I felt the shot before I heard it," Taylor said. "As I was raising up from putting the food in the pan, a warm sensation grazed my left shoulder and then I heard the shot," he said.

Taylor was not injured by the shot but the bullet did go through his shirt where his sheriff's patch is sewn on, just barely grazing his skin.

The sheriff said that when he realized what had happened, he pulled his gun out and shot three times into the pine thicket in the area where he thought the shot had come from. Taylor then ran into the house and called for help. While he was in the house, he got his rifle and woke up his son, Billy, who was asleep at the time of the shooting incident.

Taylor said he waited for help to arrive and when it did in the form of Deputy sheriff "Jibb" Hasty, Mt. Vernon City Policeman Frank DeBorde, State trooper Dale Webb and deputy coroner Martin and David Pensol, they went into the woods to see if they could find the assailant. However, after about a 15 minute search Taylor decided that the gunman, who fired only one shot, had fled as soon as that shot was fired.

Taylor said about a ten minute lead on us and if someone was waiting for him on one of these side roads, I'm sure he was well on his way in just a few minutes," Taylor said.

At around 10:30 a.m. other units of the Kentucky State Police began to arrive and blood hounds were also called in as well as a state police airplane to aid in the search.

However, the four searches in no arrests and police have only a sketchy idea as to what the get-away vehicle looked like.

Police said that the investigation is continuing and that arrests in the case could be expected in the near future.

"Motax" system successful says County Clerk Bales

$10,200.80 in motor vehicle taxes were collected during January, according to County Clerk Irene Bales. This figure, Mrs. Bales said, is about $2,000 more than the amount estimated by the state.

The 1984 taxes collected are divided between the county, state, schools, library, health and extension depts., Mrs. Bales said.

The system is working well, Mrs. Bales said, "although it has added extra work to our office, especially with the extra reports that have to be filled out."

The clerk reminded motorists that when they come (Cont'd to P-16)

uncle, Hubert Taylor, City Policeman Frank DeBorde, who was one of the first law officers to arrive on the scene following Taylor's call for help, and Roy Martin.

Harold Ballinger, left, director of the local ASCS office, was recently presented with a 15-year service award, in the form of a certificate and pin. The presentation was made by Don Reynolds, district director for the ASCS.

Forest fires burn 188 acres in Rockcastle

Eight fires burned over 188 acres in the county since February 16, according to Steve Bullen, forest ranger with the Ky. Division of Forestry.

Bullen said that last Thursday, 15 acres were burned near Lameroy; on Friday, 7 acres burned near Cove Branch and that three fires Saturday, burned over 163 acres at Boone Hollow at Maple Grove, Chestnut Ridge and south of Burr on 25.

The last fire was fought Tuesday when three acres burned below Livingston.

Cigarettes, children and debris burning which got out of control are the three major reasons for the fire which were fought Saturday by about 30 volunteers. The Mt. Vernon and Livingston Fire Department also assisted in controlling the fires, Bullen said.

It's early to be worried about the fire season but, Bullen said, that Saturday the relative humidity reached a low of 20% which is about as low as it gets anytime.

Bullen said that despite the rain Saturday night and early Sunday morning, it is still very dry and urged everyone to be very careful.

The official fire season will begin March 1 and debris burning times will be controlled by law.

Woods reduces bond as Jones is released

A preliminary hearing was held Monday, February 13 in the murder case of Lisa R. Jones, charged with the January 30, 1984 slaying of Johnny Keith Falin.

Following the hearing, before District Judge Ernie Woods, Ms. Jones was ordered held to the grand jury on the same charge but Judge Woods reduced her bail to $30,000 property bond. The bail has been posted and Ms. Jones has been released.

The crux of the state's case against Ms. Jones seems to be the testimony of two witnesses who gave statements to the effect that there were no other vehicles in the vicinity of Hwy. 1004) when shots were heard. And, tire tracks found in the snow allegedly indicate that there was only one vehicle present at the time of the shooting.

Sanborn says "NO" to rail closing of 70 mile Sinks line

by Richard Anderkin

You could say that it kind of restored faith in the American way, when president of the Seaboard System Railroad, Richard Sanborn announced last Thursday night that he would not close the railroad line between Livingston and Lebanon, as had been previously stated.

Sanborn told a group of over 100 persons at the Farm Bureau building in Stanford that he was leaving the 70 miles of railroad, known as the Sinks line, open indefinitely.

The announcement by the president of the railroad brought a standing ovation and cheers from the crowd, who were hoping for, at the most, an extension of the closing for one year.

"I came here prepared to say that we would postpone abandonment plans until April 1, 1985," Sanborn said. "But now I am convinced this may well not be enough."

Mayors, County Judge/Executives, state government officials, farmers, feed and fertilizer dealers, factory owners, bankers and legislators came prepared to tell the president of Seaboard that the closing of the rail line would cut their economic lifeline, and they did just that.

After listening to over 25 speakers who said that abandonment of the line would cripple businesses and eventually whole communities, Sanborn said, "I am prepared to indefinitely postpone what we intended to do."

Sanborn not only promised to leave the rail line in place, he promised to work hand-in-hand with local communities to attract new businesses to central Kentucky.

When the applause finally stopped, 5th District Congressman Harold Rogers said, "This restores a lot of faith in the railroad. Now we know what a bolt of lightning feels like when it is sugar coated."

After the meeting, Gatliff Craig executive director of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, who lives near Brodhead, said that he was very pleased with the announcement. Craig said it was more than he had expected.

Craig seemed confident that the $280,000 federal grant that had been earmarked to build a rail spur at the Rockcastle County Industrial Park would now be released. He said that state officials who administer the funds had frozen the money when the railroad announced the closing of the line.

The executive director said that the decision could have a long range positive effect by showing that a handful of Kentucky communities were able to convince Sanborn to stay with the Sinks line.

One resounding effect that the decision will have on Rockcastle County is that Mt. Vernon Plastics can go ahead with expansion plans.

According to the company's president, Jack Touratson, will create 200 new jobs in the county. However, Touratson said Thursday night before Sanborn announced his decision, that if the railroad closed, Mt. Vernon Plastics would be "out of business."

"I am Greek and the main reason I came to the United States was because of the opportunities that were available here," he said. "If the railroad closes, that will be like one of those opportunities has been taken from me."

While many who attended the meeting were stunned by the announcement that the plans would be postponed indefinitely at least one local man was less shocked than others.

State Representative Danny Ford of Mt. Vernon had said as early as Tuesday of last week that he thought there was a strong possibility of the rail line being left open. "The president of Seaboard would not come down here and take all this heat if he did not intend to gain from the trip," Ford said. "When I found out that he was coming to the meeting, I thought that he was going to announce the postponement. If he had intended going ahead with the closing, he would have sent a vice president to take the heat."

Ford went on to say, "I am elated that the railroad is staying open and that Sanborn is willing to work with the communities on getting new industry along the line. That could certainly help with the unemployment rate in this area," the Representative added.

Sanborn said, while trying to make a case for the abandonment, that the Sinks line was a problem line and that railroad deregulation would mean that they have forced rail companies to eliminate light density lines. He said that the company had planned to take up 155 million of continuous-weld "ribbon rail" that had been laid between Livingston and Lebanon.

The president added that opposition had been so great that Seaboard had decided this week to hold the abandonment at least until Thursday night's meeting, (Cont'd to P-16)

Legislative Report.

By Rep. Danny Ford

The middle of February found 700 bills and resolutions introduced in the House of Representatives and 286 bills and resolutions introduced in the Senate.

The House has passed 81 bills and the Senate has passed 72 bills.

Twenty-one bills have been passed by both the House and Senate and of that number the governor has signed eleven into law.

By most accounts, the 1984 session of Kentucky's General Assembly is one of the most fast paced sessions in recent memory.

House Bill 474, the Collins Administration's $12 billion budget proposal, continues to be closely reviewed by legislators, lobbyists and other concerned citizens.

It is vital that the legislature make every effort to streamline Kentucky's state government, put an emphasis on efficiency and eliminate duplication.

Also, the Collins' proposal to extend the 5% sales tax to services was unanimously rebuffed by the members of the Appropriations and Revenue committee.

Obviously, the sales tax extension was a poor idea, which is clearly indicated by the general lack of legislative support for the proposal.

Other action, the House of Representatives has addressed such controversial issues as multi-county banking, repeal of the bond form, and a proposal to move Kentucky's primary election from August to May. All three of these measures are now being considered by Senate committees.

As the 1984 General Assembly proceeds through the 60 day session, it becomes very important for a state representative to keep in touch with the concerned citizens he is elected to represent.

If you have any suggestions or opinions about any matter before the state legislature, please write to Representative Danny Ford, House of Representatives, Frankfort, KY 40601.

Also, the Legislative Research Commission is

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to all those who participated in the Railroad Abandonment hearing Thursday night. Without a doubt both Rockcastle and Lincoln County would suffer dramatically in their industrial plans had the abandonment become a reality. The large turnout and enthusiasm shown expressed to me in times of despair our people are devoted to working together for the benefit of all. The postponement by the railroad gives our counties the opportunity to prove we are concerned with bringing new industry and jobs to our area.

While traveling back to Frankfort my two colleagues in the house of Representatives began analyzing the meeting. Representative Clarence Noland of Irvine reminded me of a speech we had given on the night before when Congressman Larry Hopkins spoke. Congressman Hopkins remarks concerning a recent trip he had made to Russia. He spoke of how deprived the people were, how they were not allowed to speak out on matters of interest to them, how they were unable to attend church or to receive religious material. Many times we fail to realize and take for granted the freedoms we enjoy. The

Local Friends of KET to kick-off membership drive

Local friends of KET now are in the final planning stages of a county-wide call-out campaign that will be conducted February 27 and 28. The telephone membership campaign will raise funds for evening and weekend programming on Your Kentucky Network.

Volunteer callers will be asking Rockcastle Countians to join them by becoming a Friend of KET. Those who become Friends will receive a subscription to the monthly KET Program Guide and discounts on KET merchandise. Each year, members also have the chance to vote for programs and series they would like to see purchased for the next year.

If you would like to become a member of Friends of KET during the Rockcastle County-KET Tele-Fund, call Ann Henderson, Rockcastle coordinator at 256-2319, or be listening for your phone to ring the evenings of February 27 or 28th and be ready to say, "Yes, I want to be a friend of KET." Your contribution will ensure the continuation of great programs for you to enjoy on KET-Your Kentucky Television Network.

PEAK SPEAK

On-Peak

In the next few years, you're going to be hearing a great deal about energy management—that is, making the most efficient and economical use possible of our existing energy resources.

It is particularly urgent that you and your Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation put a sensible energy management program into operation immediately to help solve a rapidly growing problem of "peak demand."

What is "peak demand?" "Peak" time in a utility system such as ours is the time when the greatest amount of electricity is used by member-consumers during the course of a day. During an average day, these "peak" times fall between the hours of 7 a.m. and 10 p.m. to 10 p.m. in winter, and between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. in summer.

Over the past few years, this "peak" has grown by as much as 15%, and if it continues to do so at this alarming rate, your co-op will soon be confronted by the gloomy prospect of having to build expensive new power plants to fulfill this demand.

Who pays for these costly new plants? You, the member-consumer.

The solution to the problem? A program of wise energy management, in which co-op members take intelligent and reasonable steps to alter some potentially expensive habits of energy use, by shifting some electricity consumption from "peak" to "off-peak" hours.

The problem is serious. The solution is in your hands.

Sunday night, February 26, at 7 p.m. the Bell Ringers from Oak Dale High School in Jackson will be singing. Everyone is welcome.

State Tournament Drawings To Air Live on KET

KET will air live the 1984 State High School Basketball Tournament drawings from the KET Network Center in Lexington-Friday, February 24, at 2:00 p.m. (ET), 1:00 p.m. (CT). Earl Cox, Courier-Journal sports columnist, will host the program, which will feature guests Vanous Lloyd, coach of Warren Central High School, last year's winning girls team, and Al Prewitt, coach of Henry Clay High School, last year's boys winning team. The drawings will determine the pairings in the first round of this year's competition. The boys tournament will be held March 24-27 at Rupp Arena in Lexington; the girls tournament will be March 21-24 at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond.

Freshmen boys lose out in finals of own tournament

The freshman team at RCCHS, coached by David Riddle, narrowly lost their first freshman tournament, held at the high school last Saturday.

The freshmen, led by two big ninth graders, Johnny Kirby and Doug Cox, easily beat Oneida 56-41 in the first game and led Corbin all the way in the championship game until the final minutes of the fourth quarter, when they were outdistanced in the 34-31 win.

The freshmen boys shot out to an early 10-4 lead at the end of the first quarter but Oneida fought back to get within four at half-time, 23-19. Then, in the second half, the Mountaineers tied the score at 33 all, late in the third quarter but, in the ensuing minutes, the RCCHS freshmen boys outscored Oneida 23 to 8 for the final 56-41.

Most of the scoring outburst was done by the freshmen guards with Scott Adams getting 8 of his 10 points the second half-six straight at the beginning of the fourth quarter. This string was followed by one by Steve Falls, who contributed five straight on two field goals and a free throw. Leading scorer was Doug Cox with 12; Johnny Kirby got 11; Adams, 10; Falls, 7; Kevin Bussell, 6; Rodney Mullins, 4 and Greg Rowe, Ralph Mullins and Randy Anderkin, 2 each.

In the championship game, the boys led 6-2 and 18-8 at the end of the first quarter and half-time but Corbin came back to within 6, 24-18 at the end of the third quarter. They tied the score at 29 all on a free-throw with 1:17 left in the game and went ahead on a field goal with 57 seconds left.

Kirby tied the game again on two free throws with 47 seconds left but that turned out to be the end of the scoring for the

LOCAL CAR CLUB DONATES FUNDS FOR NEW UNIFORMS

The Rockcastle Region Antique and Street Rod Association recently donated $150 to the Rockcastle County High School basketball program toward the purchase of new uniforms for the freshman team.

The Rockcastle Street Rod Association is an organization dedicated to the restoration of classic and antique cars. The local club has a membership of about 50 people.

There is an annual car show each year, the first Sunday in June.

Anyone interested in joining the club should contact Mike Mink, president, at 493-4751.

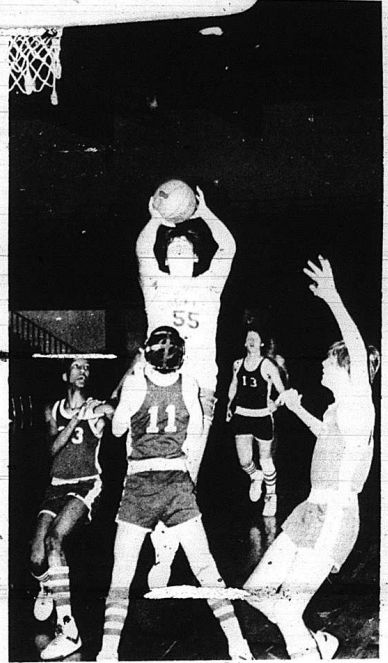

Others donating toward the purchase of new uniforms were the Bank of Mt. Vernon, Citizens Bank in Brookhead and Jody Harrison.

The RCCHS coaching staff appreciates the efforts of everyone.

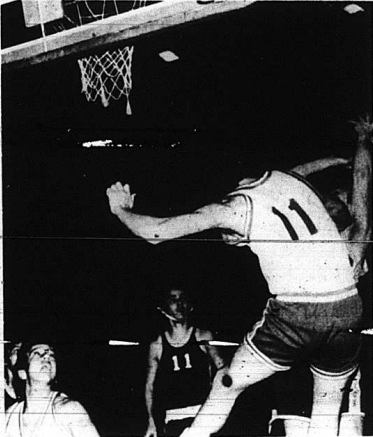

Bread will retain its original quality for two to three months if left in the wrapper and stored in the home freezer.

freshmen Rockets as Corbin converted on another field goal with 7 seconds left in the game and then scored their final point on a technical foul shot on the Rockcastle players for calling a time out they didn't have left.

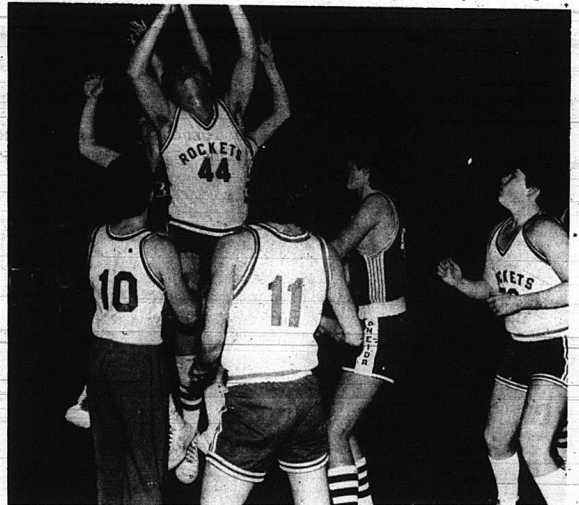

Kirby was the only Rockets in double figures, scoring 14 points; Adams was next with 6; Ralph Mullins and Kevin Bussell contributed 4 each and Cox scored 3.

Doug Cox, No. 55, goes for two against the Mountaineers. Cox was high-point man in the game with 12. Also in double figures were Johnny Kirby with 11 and Scott Adams, 10.

Kevin Bussell goes high to block a shot against the Oneida Mountaineers during first-round action Saturday. The RCCHS freshmen won the game 56-41. Also in the photo is Rodney Mullins.

Johnny Kirby hit the boards well during the Oneida-Rockets game Saturday and scored 11 points. In the championship game, Kirby was the only Rocket in double figures, scoring 14. Other Rockets in the photo are Scott Adams, No. 10; Kevin Bussell, No. 11 and Greg Rowe, No. 50.

After 30 years, Parrett still loves coaching basketball

By Leigh Anne Hlatt

Preston Parrett's love of basketball began in the small community of Bond in Jackson County. He spent his recesses and spare moments in the school yard at Bond Elementary playing the sport that he would eventually devote his life to.

"When I was in the seventh grade," said Parrett after settling into a chair in the teachers' lounge at the high school, "they hung a basketball backboard on an oak tree and one on a pine tree, and we put sawdust on the ground and played on that. In the winter it didn't get too cold or too muddy to play."

He laughed at the recollection. "I guess I've still got skin on those trees over there!"

Parrett was born in Bond and grew up with four brothers and two sisters. He was heavily influenced by his teacher at Bond, Jerry Hacker. "Hacker started me out in basketball," he said, "and I've always respected and looked up to him. I guess that's one of the reasons I got into the teaching profession."

Practice on the sawdust court paid off and Parrett played four years of basketball at Tyner High School, also located in Jackson County.

After high school he volunteered for a four year stint in the Marines and served from 1946 to 1950, spending the last two and a half years in China. He played basketball in the Marine Corps and found it to be much different than high school ball.

"We played other service teams and it was quite a bit rougher," he said as an understatement. "We really knocked heads."

College came after the Marines and Parrett enrolled at Sue Bennett in London, where he also played basketball. It was there he met his wife, Allene Doan. She was from Brodhead and a student at Sue Bennett.

Parrett graduated from Sue Bennett with a two year degree, went to Union College in Barbourville for a year, and then graduated from Eastern Kentucky University with a bachelor's degree in elementary education.

He and Allene married in 1953 and began teaching at Fairview, a two-room school north of Conway, while they finished their degrees. Mrs. Parrett taught the first four grades, and Parrett taught the fifth through eighth grades.

The Parretts have two children, Tanya, who is 13, and LaJoy, 28, who teaches at Livingston. LaJoy is married to Nelson C. and they have a 5-year-old son named Devin Preston, after his grandfather.

Parrett and his wife were transferred to Livingston in 1954 when the school needed high school teachers. They moved to Brodhead and built the house they live in now. They've commuted to Livingston for 30 years.

"I always enjoyed it and never did want to go any place else," he explained. Although he had been doing that for the last 25 years.

It was at Livingston that Parrett began his long and successful coaching career. "The first year at Livingston I was the assistant coach under Coach Lethgo. When he left at the end of that year, I became head coach." For the next 15 years Parrett coached the boys varsity basketball team.

Denny McGuire of Mt. Vernon, remembers playing for Parrett from 1957 to 1959, when he was a sophomore, junior and senior in high school. "He used to give me a basketball at the end of each season to thank me, and I used it all summer. I believe he did that for 15 years," said McGuire. "And I think he gave me a new net, goal and rim every year. He made me the basketball player that I was."

Dale Whitaker of Livingston can also recall playing basketball for Parrett for three years in grade school and his freshman year before the county high schools consolidated in 1972. Whitaker remembers Parrett's dedication.

"He was the hardest working person I was ever around," noted Whitaker. "He was very strict and disciplined. He was a coach, but he was also a friend of the court. He was a person who got the most out of you. I remember him holding little camps on weekends for anyone interested. He was always in the gym working then and would let anyone play."

Livingston became an elementary school after the consolidation and Parrett coached the fifth through eighth grade boys teams for two or three years.

He talked about his early years coaching the high school boys team at Livingston. "We always had a lot of players to turn out and it's been a good situation for me down there. I've hauled players all over that end of the county to get them to practice. That was the only means of transportation some of them had. It was either that or be a loser and I don't like to lose," said Parrett laughing.

He found the roads to be very rough back then in the areas of Lamer, Sand Hill, Red Hill, Three Links and Chestnut Ridge. "I used my own personal car usually a station wagon. I've worn out two or three good automobiles."

Parrett switched to coaching girls nine years ago when he took the seventh and eighth grade teams at Livingston and made their success something to be envied by the other basketball teams in the county. "Since we started the elementary girls basketball program at Livingston they've only lost five games in nine years. And the girls have won 80 games in a row without a loss over the last four seasons." Parrett added, "Mt. Vernon has had us three times, Roundstone once and Tyner once."

Anita Burke of Livingston is a junior in high school and has played for Parrett for six seasons. She said, "In the first grade he was my gym teacher, and he got me started in basketball. I don't think I could've had a better coach. The whole team loves him."

Billy Riddle coached the first year girls team the year they were first organized in 1975, but found it to be top time-consuming while he was also coaching the high school boys team. So Parrett took over the girls team the second year and has been with it ever since.

"I asked him how he had kept up his dedication for 30 years. 'It's just been my life,' he explained. 'I enjoy working with the students and ball players. I enjoy the excitement of the game and butting heads with other coaches.'"

His schedule is very hectic. He usually has two girls games a week besides their practice sessions, and he also helps Charlie Napier broadcast the boys varsity home games one night a week. Sometimes scouting will take up even another night. His slack time comes in March when he spends time with his family and raises a garden.

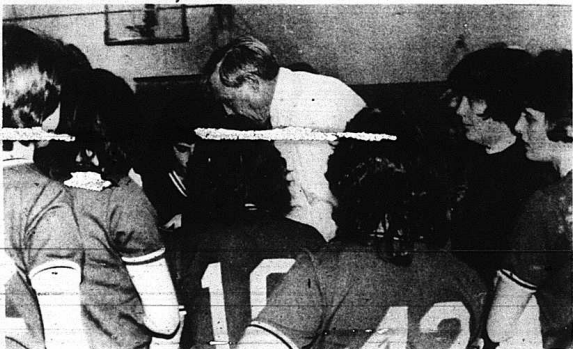

What's the philosophy he's used in all his years as a coach? "My basic philosophy is to treat everyone as fair and honest as I can in selecting members of the team and the starting line-up. And my philosophy of ball is I like to run and gun. I don't like to fool around too much with the ball. I'm afraid I'll lose it and won't get to shoot it."

Kristi Magtin of Brodhead has played for Parrett her four years in high school. "He's taught us how to work as a team," said the senior, "and he's taught us how to be good sports." Judy Bullock has been the high school girls assistant coach for six years, and had coached the Mt. Vernon Elementary School girls for 11 years, often playing a

Ms. Bullock said, "He has a great relationship with the team, and as a matter of fact they call him 'Dad'. Even on road trips they call him Dad, and people approach me and ask if those kids are really his."

She went on, "It's a challenge to beat him, of course, since he's always had the best team in the county. I've learned a lot from him, and it's made me a better coach trying to outwit him."

When asked the major difference in coaching the girls and boys, Parrett joked, "The girls' dressing room smells better." Then he got serious, "With the (Cont'd to P-16)

Steve Smith of Science Hill was awarded the MVP award by School Board Chairman Dr. K.R. Burdette, following his stellar performance in the Brodhead Invitational Tournament. Smith scored a total of 74 points in the three games. Science Hill won on their way to claiming the championship.

Deer hunters to get refunds

Hunters who purchased a 1983 deer permit after December 31 to hunt on the perimeter of Bernheim Forest can get their money back, Fish and Wildlife Commission Carl E. Kays announced today.

The four-day open deer season in portions of Bullitt and Nelson counties was originally scheduled to be held in conjunction with the Feb. 3-6 hunt on Bernheim Forest Refuge, but a court injunction prevented this hunt from taking place.

Only those hunters who purchased 1983 deer tags in 1984 and who did not or were not eligible to hunt on the Bernheim refuge itself will be granted refunds, Kays said.

Because county court clerks retain a 75-cent fee from every tag sold, only the fish and wildlife department's share ($10.75) of the $11.50 tag will be refunded. To receive a refund, mail the deer tag along with your complete mailing address to Deer Tag Refund, Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

The Signal was visited last Wednesday by members of Mrs. Edna Dawson's 4th through the 8th grade Challenge Class from Livingston Elementary School. The children were given a tour of the paper's composing and darkroom areas.

(Ed's Note: Pat Hansel, a 7th grade student at MVES, wrote the following article for inclusion in the 7th and 8th grade Humanities Class' newspaper. We thought it was a good view of the Brodhead Invitational Tournament through the eyes of a child who actually participated in the event and decided to use it for our news story on the tournament.

The B.I.T.

by Pat Hansel

In Rockcastle County in the month of January, the basketball fanatics go crazy — it's time for the B.I.T. or Brodhead Invitational Tournament.

The tournament consists of 8 teams and has been held for the last three years. Mt. Vernon, who was picked to win the tournament the last two years, has been disappointed with a 1-1 loss in the championship last year and being beaten by 12 this year in the semi-finals.

But, the team with the bright uniforms and loud fans have gotten to the finals two years straight. Brodhead beat Mt. Vernon by 1 last year and then got beat this year by the Champs Science Hill or should I say, Steve Smith.

Smith scored 26, the first game, 33 the second and 15 with 3 men guarding him in the championship, ending with 74 points for the three games, an average of almost 25 points a game.

He received the MVP award for the tournament, which is a basketball with all the teams' colors and mascots on it.

After the game, I asked Smith if he would play pro for the Sixers or the Lakers and he said, "Neither, the Suns." Pretty confident, huh!

Well, all four county teams were in the tournament. Roundstone was beaten by Science Hill, Livingston to Pulaski Coukers, Mt. Vernon by Science Hill and, last, in the championship game, Brodhead by Science Hill.

Well, if next January you're looking for somewhere to go and have a good time and an inexpensive one, got to the B.I.T.

To Feed or Not to Feed

Last year's weather hit goose management plans on the Ballard Wildlife Management area, a one-two-three punch. One was the wet spring which delayed the planting of crops for the geese which winter on the area. Two was the drought which withered what crops were planted. And the final blow was the record cold December which sent what seemed like every goose in the Mississippi Flyway into Ballard County to spend the winter.

With over 100,000 geese and a lower than normal food supply, wildlife officials began wondering if it would be necessary to do some supplementary feeding to help the birds make it through the winter.

To help answer that question, a team of investigators from the National Wildlife Health Laboratory, Madison, Wisconsin, examined 33 Ballard geese. Their conclusions were that, unless another spell of bad weather hits us, feeding is not called for.

Three of the geese were emaciated, but these birds also had symptoms of lead poisoning. The remaining 30 birds were all rated normal for this time of year.

at fat deposits, breast muscle mass and overall weights. All these indicators fell within normal limits for geese this time of year, when some weight loss is normal.

The report from the health laboratory concludes that "the next four weeks could be uneventful if normal or good weather predominates in the area. If severe weather returns or if snowcover combined with ice covers available food resources, the potential for rapid loss of condition exists."

So now Tom Young, the area manager, and his staff are just watching, waiting and hoping (like the rest of us) that February will be a mild month. But if Old Man Winter does try to return for the knockout punch, arrangements are being made to have ample goose food available. The geese will begin leaving the area in early March, so we won't have to keep our fingers crossed too much longer.

There are several problems associated with the artificial feeding of wildlife, and game managers resort to it only when absolutely necessary. While a backyard bird feeder or some food scattered about for a resident covey of quail certainly can help birds make it through the winter, such projects seldom are feasible on a large-scale basis.

Even when, as is the case at Ballard, feeding is possible, there are still problems. One of these is political. Fearing that a state might use feeding to "short stop" geese, the girls it's relatively new to them, and I think you have to have more patience and understanding. And they're more thoughtful and considerate of a coach than the boys.

He has no regrets about the way he's spent the past 30 years. "If I had my life to do over I'd do it the same way, marry the same woman, have the same kids, coach the same teams. My wife has been outstanding the years we've been married. She's always supported me and never fussed about my long hours."

Although Parrett has enough years in to retire, that's not on his mind yet. He still continues to teach each class at Livingston for 25 minutes a day and coaches two girls basketball teams. The satisfactions make the long hours worthwhile.

"Those kids in kindergarten and first grade hug me around the legs," he said and laughed. "They're something else. And the high school girls started calling me 'Dad' and the new ones take it up as they come in. They don't call me 'Coach' just plain—old 'Dad'."

As he started to leave Parrett pulled on a yellow jacket with blue lettering that reads "Dad Parrett, LES, Girls Coach." He informed me it was a gift from the girls team at Livingston, and that he had a navy jacket with white letters given to him by the high school girls. It reads "Dad Parrett, RCHS, Girls Coach."

Parrett walked to his car after a full day of teaching and coaching, and as he drove to supper, a student's coach going home. He was just plain old Dad.

Plans abandoned to close rail line

(Cont'd from front) and then for a period of one year.

Sanborn said he made his decision to stop the abandonment proceedings after listening to the people who opposed the closings at Thursday night's meeting. "When we hear from a constituency like that, we listen," he said.

Several observers are giving former state Energy Administrator Secretary William Sturgill most of the credit for his behind scenes talks with Sanborn.

Sturgill is a member of the board of directors of CSX Corporation, the parent company of Seaboard and the Chesapeake Rail System.

Speakers from Rockcastle County told Sanborn that the closing would devastate the area. Growth of the county, besides the fact that Mt. Vernon plants would probably go bankrupt, other businesses in the county would also be hurt immeasurably. Kenneth Stewart, owner of Stewart Fertilizer in Mt. Vernon, told Sanborn that the closing would mean the end to his business. Stewart said that he had done business with the railroad since 1963 and that one of the major reasons he decided to make his investment in the fertilizer business was the railroad.

He said that he realized that business had been down on the rail in the past couple of years because it was down for him as well. Stewart mentioned last summer's drought as a major factor for buying fertilizer, which is shipped in rail cars.

"Towns in central Kentucky are just now being recovered by industry," said Fred Beste of Kentucky Highlands Investment Corporation, a private non-profit firm which has invested over $2 million dollars in the Rockcastle Industrial Park. "We are just now beginning to flex our muscles and businessmen keep their promises," Beste said.

The president of the Lincoln County Industrial Foundation told Sanborn that the railroad needed them as much as they needed the railroad. "If we have your help, we can land more industries in this area," he said.

The president of the railroad promised to do just that. "The railroad has a plan to solicit more coal traffic and may reroute any future coal trains back onto the Sinks line. When Chesapeake and Seaboard merged to form CSX, the company diverted much of Kentucky's east-west coal traffic to the shorter northern route through Lexington and Cincinnati."

Sanborn made a very good case for closing the line. He showed the crowd figures that indicated the railroad lost over a million dollars on the line last year. "I need your help," he said. "We need every car of business we can get. We will work with you to bring those industries back, but you have to help us by using the railroad and not going out and buying your own trucks," he said.

Only 176 cars were used on the local line in 1983.

According to Mike Hays of the CVADD in London, bids for construction of the rail spur at the Industrial Park will be awarded later this week.

Hays said that two separate bids would be awarded, one for the grade work and the other for the actual laying of the ties, track and putting the switch in.

He said the low bidder on the grade work was Hogue Construction, a Nicholasville-based company, which bid $80,616. Annex Railroad Builders, out of Indianapolis, was the low bidder on the other segment with a bid of $93,348.32.

Hays said that construction of the spur should be getting within ten days of awarding the contract.

Grass Tetany
In Beef Cattle

What is grass tetany?
True grass tetany is a cow disorder caused by an abnormally low amount of magnesium in the animal's blood. This is caused primarily by the cow's feed being low in magnesium. When grasses are used for feed, this condition will mainly occur in the spring.

Grass tetany is usually confined to females and is more likely to occur in older animals. Cows are more susceptible during their third and fourth lactations. The animals exhibit milk fever symptoms and may begin to walk stiffly or stagger. Their appetites may decrease, and they usually become very dull in appearance. In many cases they will isolate themselves from the herd. As the disorder progresses, the animal sometimes becomes very nervous and occasionally has muscle tremors and will exhibit rapid breathing. In advanced cases the animal will collapse, go into convulsions and die. The disorder can run its course rapidly, and unless corrective measures are taken, death sometimes can occur less than an hour after the onset of visible symptoms.

If the magnesium level in the blood is low, it is mainly due to a low level of magnesium in the animal's feed. Three reasons why magnesium may be low in the animal's feed are species of grass, soil nutrient status, potassium levels and weather.

Grasses are lower in magnesium than legumes. The early lush growth is likely to be all grass (since legumes start growth later in the spring) and may be deficient in magnesium. Pastures, even grass-legume, should have adequate magnesium content in late spring, or summer. Cereal crops such as corn, rye, barley and oats are poor accumulators of magnesium. Forages of this type are apt to be low in magnesium in the spring or fall.

The plant must get its magnesium from the soil, and soils low in magnesium can cause a low plant content. However, at the present time, it appears that magnesium fertilization on most Kentucky soils would not be feasible. If the soil has a high potassium soil test the application will do little to increase the magnesium content within the plant. Only coarse (sandy) soils and soils with a low potassium soil test would show an increase in plant magnesium when fertilized. However, massive applications, such as with dolomitic limestone, would probably have a beneficial effect.

The potassium content in the soil is probably the dominant factor affecting the uptake of magnesium by the plant. Potassium competes with the uptake of magnesium in the plant, and, as the potassium available to the plant increases, there is a sharp drop in the uptake of magnesium. A similar type of relationship appears within the animal itself. The higher the amount of potassium entering the animal, the lower the amount of magnesium found in the blood. If the intake of magnesium is constant, the amount in the blood is lowered by higher potassium intake. Because of this, the potassium content of the soil should not be allowed to get into the high soil test range. A medium or high medium soil test should be sufficient for good pasture production and prevent significant reduction of magnesium in the plant, and subsequently, in the animal.

Tetany has been associated with spring weather for quite some time. Also, it is worse some years than others, and this is mainly because it is closely associated with weather conditions.

Grass tetany occurs mainly when the temperature is rather low and other conditions are favorable for grass growth. The frequency of tetany is much higher in years with a sudden quick growth of grass in spring than in years with poor, slow growth.

Grass tetany is a threat anytime the average daily temperature is between 40 degrees and 60 degrees. Once the average daily temperature remains above 60 degrees for six consecutive days, the change of grass tetany occurring is very low. Many times, the number of grass tetany occurrence is high five days after a sudden rise in temperature in the spring.

The feeding of magnesium to the animal is the fastest and most certain method of preventing the occurrence of grass tetany, though problems may still exist. Therefore, the prevention of tetany must be through a combination of correcting fertility imbalances in the soil as well as orally supplementing the animal.
