As in the past, the 4-H, Agricultural and Economic Fair will also take place on the grounds during the fair.

relations program to help motivate the public into taking pride in keeping county roads free of litter; all equipment to be kept clean at all times; neat and courteous servicemen to perform duties and bidder to work diligently with Magistrates and County Judge in solving any problems that may arise concerning the service.

Fields' proposal called for a $41,000 savings for the county the first year and even greater savings each year thereafter of the five-year plan. The court did not take action on Field's proposal; however, they did tell him they would examine it carefully and consider it when they advertised for bids.

The present garbage collector for the county, Clarence "Jibb" Hasty's contract expires each year, but with the fate of the proposed landfill still undecided, the court voted unanimously to extend Hasty's contract for one more year to consider advertising it on a month-to-month basis until something is known about the landfill. The court also voted to again pay part of Hasty's dumping fee at the landfill in Laurel County at a cost of an additional $480 per month.

Lily landfill in Laurel County at a cost of an additional $480 per month.

In other business, the court accepted the bid they received for improvement on the jail - from Nu-Way Security of Harrodsburg for $28,800.

The improvements will make the jail state law for a 96-hour holdover facility and will be paid for by a grant from the state.

However, second district Magistrate Tom Clark, who did vote in favor of letting the bid, opposed spending money for a holdover facility. "If we're going to spend that kind of money, we might as well go ahead and build a first-class jail," Denny said. Denny got no response from the rest of the court and his suggestion went undiscussed.

Ray Newcomb, a Livingston area resident, came before the court to ask their help in getting a bridge built across the Old Wildcat Road, just south of Livingston on the Rockcastle River.

"This is a terrible situation and we ought to take care of it now," said Fifth District Magistrate Joe Clark. The bridge is built using now is not safe for anyone to walk on, much less drive a vehicle," Clark added.

"I'd like to see a low-water bridge put in about 20 or 30 feet high," Newcomb said, "then we could get across the river about 90 percent of the time."

"I think we ought to ask the state for help on this matter," First District Magistrate Donald Ross said. "They have about 80 percent of the money available for these water supplies and if we can't come up with our twenty percent, they're not going to be down on us it is built."

After about fifteen minutes of discussion on the subject, Judge Jasper told Newcomb that the county would do everything they could to help him and get back to him as soon as possible. The court also voted to advertise the closing of the Ernie Walker Road near Lamer at the request of Russell Smith.

Clarification of who will be responsible for setting down the underliner, independent monitoring of the landfill and installing a water line in the event that "our guess is wrong and variables go awry," and closed access to the site off U.S. 25 to prevent unauthorized dumping.

However, even with all these safeguards, Fitzgerald said "we are taking an unacceptable risk."

In his closing argument, Clontz attempted to rebut the main points of Fitzgerald's closing and reminded the court that "we do not live in a perfect world and in a society that has an increasing amount of waste."

Clontz said there was no possibility that any application would ever satisfy all the fears of everyone and that the state Department of Natural Resources concluded that the site can be a workable, viable landfill...that the county can finance which will reasonably protect the environment.

Clontz conceded that construction of an additional landfill would be a good idea and "one that the county" have no problem with." In fact, Clontz said this county had already made this offer.

The matter will now be reviewed by Clendenen and he has 30 days from the time he receives the last of the evidence the county's showing of financial responsibility and any comments or observations on this by plaintiffs' attorneys, to make a report, including his recommendation, to the secretary of the Natural Resources Environmental Protection Cabinet.

Clendenen's report to the Secretary will also include any objections or observations of his findings by either party.

The Secretary will then make a final decision on the permit issuance and this decision can then be appealed by either side to Franklin Circuit Court.

During one of the recesses, one Livingston resident said, "This opposition to the landfill is nothing personal. It is not a vendetta against anyone, it's against the landfill." "Good water is too scarce and precious to take chances with," another said.

For about an hour before the beginning of the Administrative hearing Monday, these Livingston residents showed their concern over the proposed landfill site by demonstrating in front of the county courthouse.

As can be seen, the turnout by Livingston residents was good at the Administrative Hearing held this week to help determine whether the county should be issued a permit to operate a landfill at the site they have chosen just off U.S. 25. In the background of the photo is County Judge Executive Bob Jasper, who was the first witness called at the hearing.

but $2,398 of the money needed for the project and asked the board to advance them the funds to buy the air conditioners so they would not fall short of their goal before the opening of school in August.

They also told the board they would reimburse the school system as soon as money comes in from their various fund-raising projects.

The board approved the outlay of money and it will be used to buy the final four air conditioners needed to cool the school.

GED certificates were approved by the board for Regina Woodall, Charles Brock, Robert S. Sparks and Brenda S. Lovett.

With the possibility of not having a special major available to teach in the school system, the board also voted to give Martha Eversole her endorsement in Special Ed or anyone else that had the required six hours, so they could be used if needed.

The board also voted unanimously to give principals and central office personnel a 5 percent raise on the extra service portion of their salaries. This is for time worked when teachers are off for vacation.

In a story in the June 21st edition of the Signal, it was reported that all teachers and classified personnel would receive a 5 percent increase. This was incorrect and the Signal regrets this error. Only classified personnel, which consists of cooks, janitors, etc., will receive this increase. Teacher salary increases are set by the state.

Disputanta

By Hilda Payne Gabbard
Hello from Clear Creek Valley.

It just hasn't been my week. I told you last week I wrote the news between midnight and 1:45 a.m. one night. Next morning, I didn't want to get up to cook John's breakfast before he went to work.

"I'm going to ask Mrs. Anderkin to fire you," he grumbled.
"No, no," I said. "Don't do that. Remember how many people would be disappointed (probably none). Edd Croucher would get out of that easy chair again."

So, I rushed into the kitchen, one eye still shut, and jerked the refrigerator door. I had put a glass of milk on the top shelf, knowing good and well it was not the thing to do. When I shoved back some containers, you know what happened. A white Niagara Falls foamed downward, covering everything in milk. I stomped the door shut, hoping it was a dream. It wasn't, but you know I was sleepin' when we did it sometimes. But how did it know I needed to clean the refrigerator?

As if that didn't destroy my day, I later drove up Davis Branch Road and met Richard Venable and pretty wife, Marie. He said, "Why don't you stay home so kinfolk can come to see you?"
"I didn't answer that for I remembered he hadn't rung the dinner bell when I was up Anglin Falls Hollow Road. Here is my chance to get even, I thought, and today when picture had been returned to me from the company where I sent the films, 'Marie, I hadn't put it in the Signal for I didn't know whether you might want a picture of a better looking man beside you.'"

Richard's comeback was another thing to ruin my day. "Oh, I don't know about that," he said. "It's a cousin to you, being Ann Abney Anglin's grandson, and if they can look at you, they might as well look at me." There's always a smart aleck in every family.

Mary Payne of Berea had son, Jimmy Payne and wife, Millie, of Michigan for guests I over the Fourth. No trip home is worthwhile to a Payne descendant unless they visit Clear Creek so out they came to visit Uncle Cleve and Blanch Payne. Jimmy likes to talk of his dad, Howard, and the days when he lived here as a little boy. Michigan has its waterways but nothing like Clear Creek and its willow and cypress lined banks.

I was made very proud recently when, upon completion of Boone County High School, my grandson, Chesley Dion Cornett, a fourth-generation Payne descendant, and the son of Chesley Payne Cornett of Florence, was nominated to the Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland by U.S. Senator Wendell Ford. He was also honored by being nominated for the Air Force Academy by U.S. Representative Gene Snider at the same time. This was based on Dion's scholastic achievement in high school. He chose to accept the naval one. Our family is indebted to Senator Ford and grateful to a family friend, Rep. Snider.

John Luther Phillips, once of Three Links and now buried with his wife, Grace, in the Berea Cemetery, never dreamed that his legacy of a Wendell Payne family in the hills of Rockcastle would go out into the world and make it better. When he ran the Three Links Post Office, and a store there in the hills, he was doing the best he could to live and raise a family. There was no great hope for bright futures for the overall child and sun-bonneted children trudging a dusty road to a one-room school just because their parents insisted they go. But, if the mountain children felt there was a future out there, then there was no stopping them. And they, Phillip's children, must have felt it, I found out last week. Remember, I told of a homesick woman who wrote me saying,

"I am John Luther Phillips' daughter, Patricia Kincaid, a schoolteacher in Lebanon, Ohio, and you bring it all back by writing of Loman Hill. I did better than that last week - I brought back a whole van load of Phillips but I didn't know so when it stopped at my door and a cute, vivacious blonde came to see you and find out the kind of person you are. We just wanted to know the woman who wrote about our Dad."

was like Astor Anglin. I couldn't have lifted a feather I was so shocked. That is what is rewarding about this column, I get to renew the past or know so many nice people.
Lou Phillips Kingery, in real estate, came from California; Edna Phillips Bowman, also in real estate, from Dayton, Ohio; Lorene Phillips Mullins, a teacher from Ketalways wanted to be one. "Do you think it's too late?" he asked. "Law yes. Bill Bullens had that race closed tighter than a cornob stopper in a moonshine licker jug," I told him. (How do I know, you ask?)

William has Pearl's dark eyes and features. Pearl and Eli are very proud of these men who return often to visit. Floyd confessed to loading his truck with wood Eli had cut during the spring. So that's why Eli was complaining - "These boys have about eaten me out of house and home. Now, they're going back without doing the farm work I had laid out for them to do." Yeah, I could see he was mad (as he grinned).

He'll next week: They've found something that does the work of five men ... one woman!

Dick Abney sent me some "tales" of Rockcastle this summer. Experiences he had in the mountains, as well as those of others - sales he had heard, all which make for very funny reading. I'm thinking of sending this Indiana boy a doctor's bill for sore sides from laughing so much. Will be in touch, Dick.

Henry Voltmer of Indiana writes he may be down to visit Clear Creek (which he's never seen) and said he would stop in the Signal office. Do so, Henry. You'll be rewarded when you see their front office girl, Teresa Brown. But don't get interested in Fuzzy, Tippy and Ethel Payne - those are Blanche Payne's pet cats.

Eli Chasteen had just cut a ham down from the smokehouse rafters. It was not because I had stopped. I knew Floyd and William, his sons from Ohio with their "best girls" had come home for a few days visit, bringing a camper. Now Pearl won't treat those boys mean - she'll see that Eli dips into the freezer and raids the smokehouse.

to receive calls from persons interested in providing homes for the 6,000 children in the state who will need foster care during the year.

Foster parents are needed

Unlike some teenagers who dream of the day they grow up and leave their parents, many foster children dream of the day they will have parents. There are teenagers living throughout Kentucky who are waiting for permanent homes.
Kentucky foster parents have the responsibility of providing a safe, supportive environment for children placed with them. It is demanding work, but foster parents say they get a lot of satisfaction from helping teenagers when they need it most. Foster parents say, "The pleasure we get from helping foster children is something money can't buy."

The Kentucky Department for Social Services is looking for more foster families to provide temporary homes for troubled teenagers. A statewide recruitment campaign is underway.
"We are working with our state officials to spread the word in Rockcastle County," said Mike Bryant, local field office supervisor. "They have provided radio, television and newspaper announcements and other media materials, emphasizing the gains of being a foster parent."
Interested persons can call 256-2138. In addition, Bryant said, the Department for Social Services has installed a toll-free telephone line - 1-800-232-KIDS -

Health and Science Briefs

"The National Institutes of Health cautions older Americans to take care to prevent injury to their more fragile skin by not using water that is too hot, by wearing gloves when cleaning, and by avoiding the use of harsh products."
A skin-brander cream is recommended for skin of all ages when used with polishes, detergents or other products that may irritate the skin. A highly effective one, Kerodex, is made available by Avert Laboratories. The cream is smoothed onto hands (and arms, if they are to be involved) and acts like invisible gloves that do not interfere with finger dexterity.

and the ultimate motivation, or prime adrenaline pumper, many coaches believe, is anger.

But Dr. Thomas A. Tutko, professor of psychology at San Jose State University, has found conflicting evidence that flies in the face of this conventional locker room wisdom.

In the July edition of a magazine called psychology today Tutko says: "Coaches, especially in contact sports, have traditionally exhorted their charges to get mad at opponents. Anger supposedly gets the adrenaline pumping, producing superhuman efforts in which the athletes hit harder, jump further, run faster.

"In fact, anger often destroys concentration and diminishes performance," Tutko goes on. "The good performers keep their cool, even when provoked. And the best are those who anticipate potentially upsetting events and rehearse a way of handling them."

Man and Wife drown Tuesday in Linville

By Richard Anderkin

castle County Rescue Squad is shown dragging the lake for the body of her husband, Virgil Hatton. The squad recovered Hatton's body shortly after dragging operations began. The couple were residents of Madison County.

Two Madison County residents were found dead Tuesday afternoon in Lake Linville.

Virgil R. Hatton, age 22, and his wife, Janet Adams Hatton, 16, both of Spurline Park, Richmond, were pronounced dead at the scene by Rockcastle County Deputy Coroner Roy Martin.

Martin said that preliminary indications were that the Hattons were both apparent drowning victims. He has ordered an autopsy in the case.

Mrs. Hatton was found by a passerby at approximately 5:30 p.m. in shallow water near the bank in front of Gertrude Holt's home on the lake road, according to police.

The passerby, who was with several other people, went to the boat dock for help.

When authorities arrived at the scene, Mrs. Hatton was lying on the bank, where she had been put by the passerby, and, according to Martin, she had probably been dead two to three hours.

Witnesses said that Mr. and Mrs. Hatton had been at the lake swimming for the better part of the day.

The Rockcastle Rescue Squad dragged the area of the lake where the two were last seen swimming and, at approximately 6:30 p.m., the rescue squad brought Mr. Hatton's body to the surface out of about 10 feet of water in the same general area as Mrs. Hatton's body had been found. Martin said that he had also been dead for at least two hours.

According to reports, the Hattons had been married for only about a month and no funeral arrangements had been made at press time.

According to files in the coroner's office, the Hattons are the third and fourth victim to drown in Lake Linville since it was opened in 1970.

Only one of the victims was a Rockcastle resident.

Local arrested in connection with recent break-ins

By Richard Anderkin

One local man has been arrested and a warrant has been issued for another local man, in connection with the rash of break-ins that have occurred in the Mt. Vernon area in the past several weeks.

Mt. Vernon police chief Ronnie Hurd announced the arrests Monday, during the regular monthly meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council.

"I would say that these two men have been involved in 90 percent of the break-ins in Mt. Vernon," Hurd told the council.

Arrested and charged with receiving stolen property, valued at over $100, was Earl Overbay, age 18, of Carter Drive in Mt. Vernon.

Overbay is scheduled for a preliminary hearing on Monday and is presently lodged in the Rockcastle County Jail under a $10,000 bond.

"I would say that these two men have been involved in 90 percent of the break-ins in Mt. Vernon," Hurd said.

Arrested and charged with receiving stolen property valued at over $100 was Earl Overbay, age 18, of Carter Drive in Mt. Vernon.

Overbay is scheduled for a preliminary hearing on Monday and is presently lodged in the Rockcastle County Jail under a $10,000 bond.

"I waited to arrest Overbay after he turned 18 so that he could be tried as an adult," Hurd said. Overbay was arrested last Thursday, on his 18th birthday.

The police chief went on to say that he also recovered several items that had been taken during recent break-ins, such as a Polaroid camera, flash, film, backpack and some watch cases, stolen from Franklin's, as well as several keys to the soft drink machine at the same store and a 22 rifle that had been taken in a break-in at J. & L. Equipment in Mt. Vernon.

The other warrant issued is for Randy Graves, age 20, also of Mt. Vernon.

Hurd said that Graves had apparently left town but that when he was apprehended, he would be charged with the same crime as Overbay.

Only one break-in has occurred in the city limits of Mt. Vernon in the past ten days, a trailer at the Mt. Vernon Elementary School police said.

The Little World's Fair and Horse Show will return to Brodhead this year on July 30 and will run until August 4th.

As usual, the fair will be held at the Brodhead Fairgrounds from Monday through Saturday night.

Admission prices to the fair this year will be $3 for adults; $1 for children under 12 and children under 6 will be admitted free. On Tuesday and Thursday, from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., all children 16 and under will be admitted free.

Protestors voice opinion during hearing on proposed landfill site

By Felicia Anderkin

The Circuit Courtroom was packed Monday for the first day of the Administrative Hearing concerning the proposed landfill just off US 26.

Most of those present were residents from the Livingston area - residents who wanted to show their concern over the possible danger to their water supply.

The day began early for these people as they put together a demonstration of about 40 persons in front of the courthouse prior to the hearing. The demonstration, complete with posters which spelled out their concern, was well covered by both the print and broadcast media, including all three Lexington television stations and at least three daily newspapers.

The action then moved inside the courthouse where the day and a half hearing commenced and the testimony was voluminous and oftentimes highly technical.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs, 11 residents of Livingston, from the government-funded Appalachian Research and Defense Fund, called several witnesses Monday, including County Judge/Executive Bob Jasper, Emmitt Foster (who has been certified as a landfill operator); the geologist whose firm prepared the geology report for the permit application; Douglas Mullins, one of the engineers for the project; Al Fritsch, research coordinator for Appalachian Science in the Public Interest and an expert on household pollutants and, finally, Dr. Robert O. Ewers, who occupied the stand the longest amount of time.

Dr. Ewers, a professor at EKV in the Geology Dept., disagreed almost completely with the report made by the geologist for the defendant.

Their main area of contention was over the presence or not of any of the Breathitt Formation beneath the toe of the proposed landfill site. The presence of this formation is important in that the Breathitt is made up of granite and is very permeable to water, thus lessening the chance of run-off from the landfill percolating through to the much more porous Livingston Conglomerate, to the Newman Limestone and into the ground water which the plaintiffs attempted to show connects with Roundstone Creek, the source of Livingston's water supply.

Since no rock borings were required by the state for the permit application, no one knows for certain what exactly lies beneath the landfill site but Dr. Owens' theory is that the Breathitt Formation is absent from the area and that even with the clay lining some pollutants would very likely end up in Livingston's water.

Dr. Owens also said that, in his opinion, the location picked was "the worst possible site" that could have been chosen because of the underlying rock formations and because of "classic Appalachian Karst." Karst is the term applied to sinkholes, etc. on the surface caused by the collapse of limestone beneath the surface which has been eroded by water seepage.

The defendants' geologist, Richard Q. Lewis, Sr. of Geological Associates in Somerset, said in his report attached to the permit application, that it was possible a small amount of water might seep through to the Newman Limestone and into the ground water but, he testified, that this statement did not take into account the planned foot of clay liner which the county intends to put down on the site.

Clay retards the seepage of water and would lessen the chance of run-off from the site ending up in the ground water (Cont. to 15)

School board hires teachers approves textbook rental

With school beginning on August 16th, the Rockcastle County Board of Education, in preparation for the new start, hired seven teachers for the 1984-85 school year.

All but one of the teachers were hired to teach in the elementary schools with Mrs. Martha Lay of Berea being hired as a part-time French teacher at RCHS.

The other six teachers hired were Debra Lynn Abney, Shane Bullock, Carrie Hedrick, and Ruby Jean Cornelius, who will transfer from the homebound program to the regular classroom because of a lack of students and Edna Dawson, who will turn the gifted program over to Mrs. Hedrick and take a regular teaching position at Mt. Vernon.

Five teachers retired from the school system at the end of last school year. They were: Kathalene Hunt, Christine Krueger, Juanita Witt, Ann Smith and Alene Parrett.

The 1984 Kentucky General Assembly discontinued the free textbook program for high schools in the state, effective this school year, and required that local schools establish a textbook rental system.

regular monthly board meeting, Willie Taylor made a motion to establish such a rental system at the high school, with each student paying a $4 rental fee per book. The motion also stated that each book be returned in good usable condition or the student will have to pay the value of a new book as a replacement.

Principal Cleston Saylor will be in charge of supervising and accounting for the textbooks. Money collected from the system will be deposited by the board, which will be responsible for purchasing all new books needed with the rental money.

In other business, the board voted to hire Mrs. Loreta Powell as guidance counselor in the grade schools and she will split these duties with Mrs. Sue Hamm.

The state accreditation team that evaluated Rockcastle school last year frowned on the fact that only one counselor served all four grade schools, according to Superintendent Charles Parsons.

Mrs. Powell will work at Mt. Vernon and Roundstone and Mrs. Hamm will be responsible for Brodhead and Livingston.

A project that the Roundstone PTO has been working on for the past several months also came before the board during the meeting in the form of two PTO members, who requested the board's help with their project to put air conditions in the grade school.

The members told the board that they had raised all (Cont. to pg. 16)

Court considers proposal; approves jail renovation

By Richard Anderkin

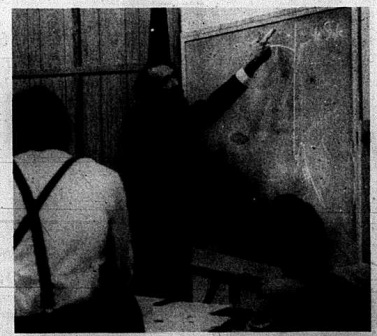

Although the crime problem in Rockcastle County prompted the Fiscal Court to pay Sheriff William Taylor $1,000 to hire an additional deputy to patrol the county roads at night, during their regular meeting last Tuesday, they also took action on many other items of business.

The question of garbage collection in the county, a sore spot for the magistrates and the County Judge since they took office over two years ago, was once again raised during the meeting by Eddie Fields, an employee of Multi-County Services, a garbage collection agency owned by William K. Bullen. Multi-County has half the garbage franchise in the city of Mt. Vernon at the present time.

Fields presented the court with a proposal for garbage collection in the county on a five-year basis. "This proposal is being presented in hopes that you all will use it as a guideline for advertising for the garbage collection in the county," Fields told the court.

The plan calls for weekly door-to-door pick-up; 30 gallon garbage bags furnished; successful bidder to start public (Cont. to 15)

Dr. Robert O. Ewers, EKV Geology professor, illustrates his theory that ground water from the site of the proposed landfill definitely will connect with Roundstone Creek, Livingston's water supply. Dr. Ewers spent most of Monday afternoon on the stand and disputed the findings of the geologist, who conducted the geological survey, attached to the permit application, in several areas. In the foreground of the photo are the attorneys for the plaintiffs, 11 Livingston residents.

Pack 263 News

Cub Scouts traveled to London for Expo 84 this year. We all had a very enjoyable day.

At the Expo, Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts from all over Kentucky put up booths, ranging from a fishing booth to a rope bridge. Rockcastle's booth was very well participated in. Our boys took barrels and turned them on their sides and then participated to help to keep them on course by walking on top of them. This wasn't as easy as it sounds as many scouts found out.

Our pack then headed for the other booths while the leaders stayed to take care of the barrel-racing. From Indian dancing, to the golf course, basketball throw, fishing to walking a rope bridge and much, much more, the pack tried it all.

All day long, in a sectioned-off area, the pin car derby races were held. Chuck Sowder stayed in the race the longest and came in about 12th out of 200. This was a terrific showing. Good going to the pack.

The highlight of the day was when Sonny Shroyer "Enos" of the Dukes of Hazard, drove in. He visited all of the booths and tried out a lot of the events. His last was the rope bridge, which almost did him in. As he was talking and cutting up with the Scouts, he forgot to look down at the rope he was walking on and almost fell. But, just like the Dukes of Hazard, "Enos" came right back with a laugh and went on to finish walking the rope bridge. The scouts were able to talk to him and get autographs and pictures.

Everyone had a wonderful time. The following scouts were at Expo 84: Brian Hamm, Jerry Makin, Chuck Sowder, Neil Bray, Brad Shackelford, Eddie Moseley, Chris Makin and Bobby Moseley.

Blood donors needed on Thursday, July 19

Share your good health and donate blood. Central Kentucky Blood Center and the Rockcastle County Homemakers have scheduled the second blood drive of 1984 in Rockcastle County for Thursday, July 19th at the Bank of Mt. Vernon from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

The need for blood and blood components in Central Kentucky Blood Center's 44 county service area increases daily. Patients undergoing heart surgery, organ transplant recipients and many cancer patients depend on the generosity of volunteer blood donors.

Thanks to the generosity of Druther's Restaurant, all donors will receive free food coupons. For more information about donating blood or the Rockcastle County donor group, call the County Extension Office at 266-2403 or Harry Alheid at 1-800-432-9528.

Building An Ark
According to "Ripley's Believe It or Not" a man in Colorado built an ark. Why did he do it? He opened up his Bible and it said, "Make thee an ark of gopher wood" (Gen. 6:14). Now you may be saying, "Anybody ought to have enough sense to know God was speaking to Noah." That's right, but we would all do well to avoid making the same KIND of mistake. You respond by saying, "I am not about to go out and build an ark." No, but many people open their Bibles to any place and say, "That's for me," and they pay no attention to whom it is addressed.
For instance, look at the most obvious division in the Bible; the separation between the Old Testament and the New Testament. The old covenant was God's contract with the Israelite nation, and the whole agreement was annulled when Jesus died on the cross. Friend, don't go back to go out and build an ark. Thatlaw is not for you (Deut., 5:1-22; Col. 2:14-16; Ga. 3:23-27).
These cardinal rules of Bible study are: (1) Notices who is speaking; (2) To whom it was spoken; and (3) when was it spoken. We are to "rightly divide" the Bible (2 Tim. 2:15), not adding to or subtracting therefrom (Rev. 22:18-19). Here are some examples:
1. "March around Jerico" was spoken to Joshua and Israel (Josh. 6).
2. "Remember the sabbath day to keep it holy" was to the Jews only (Ex. 20:8, 31:16-18).
3. "Ye shall be baptized with Holy Ghost..." was spoken to the apostles (Acts 1:5).
4. "Take no money" was said to the apostles sent on a limited commission (Mk. 6:7-11).
5. "And the Levites stood with the instruments of david...and all the congregation worshipped..." was said of Israel (1 Chron. 16:42; 2 Chron. 29:26-27).
The will of Jesus, the New Testament, came into effect. He died on the cross. This gospel is for all nations until the end of earth time. That includes you and me. If we want to please the Lord, we must make certain that our belief and practice is found in the New Testament law of Christ (Heb. 9:16-17; Mat. 28:19-20; Mk. 16:15-16). "Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law of Moses;" ye are fallen from grace" (Ga. 5:4). Let us look to the law of Christ for redemption and eternal salvation.

Reunions

Reunion

The fourth annual Reppert reunion was held on Sunday, July 8, 1984 at the Berra-Memorial Park, Berea.

Descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reppert met there for a day of fellowship and a good time.

Survivors of the reunion, along with present for the occasion: Everett Tip, Mary Jane, Ira, Myrtle, Dorothy and Alvin Lee.

All of those from out of state attended the morning worship service at Fairview Baptist Church along with family members. They all love to come back to Fairview (the beloved town where they all attended as children with mom and dad many years ago). It's always so good to have them worship with us here. During the time they were all together, we sang together, talked and laughed together, ate together, prayed together and cried together. God gave us a wonderful day.

Following our business meeting, we had a moment of silent prayer in remembrance of our sister-in-law, Mrs. Lillian Reppert, who passed away July 17, 1983. She was a wonderful lady and we all loved her. She is greatly missed. God bless her family.

We also had two precious little new members this year—Jimmy Rex Davidson, born April 1984 and Courtney Paige Alexander, born April 19, 1984. God bless them and their parents.

Well, our Reunion Day was complete and to 1985. We look forward to 1985 with good health and much happiness in the coming year.

To each one, I'd like to say, I love you and wish you the very best in life and hope to see you at our 1986 Reunion.

Love n Prayers

Report Reunion

We wish to thank our niece Jewell Davidson for the lovely two-layer "Reppert Family Tree" cake. Bless her heart, she put in a lot of love and time preparing and decorating it. None of us had seen one like it before. So there were several pictures made of it. It was not only beautiful, it was delicious as well. Thanks again, sweetie.

All in all, we really enjoyed our day together. It was mostly cloudy and not too hot. We thank God for blessing us with some of the others. I think, along with some of the others, that this was the best reunion we have had so far. Certainly we missed those who couldn't attend this year but thank God for everyone that was there.

The food was delicious as it always is and there was so much love shown toward each other. During the time we were all together, we sang together, talked and laughed together, ate together, prayed together and cried together. God gave us a wonderful day.

RCH reduces rates for outpatient surgery

The Rockcastle County Hospital's outpatient surgery program has been undergoing an operation of its own. First, the fees for that type of surgery have been drastically reduced, and second, the program has a new name as a result of an employee contest.

Administrator Wayne Stewart announced that a special effort has been made to accommodate persons needing outpatient surgery by cutting the fees charged for it.

Two hospital employees, Bethel Falin and Linda Hayes, each won a vacation day by naming the outpatient surgery department as the "Same-Day Surgery Center: Our Program Saves."

Not only does the program save money, it also saves time. If the required surgery can be done on an outpatient basis it keeps the patient from having an overnight stay.

Outpatient surgery is usually done in the operating room, and, if no complications arise, the patient goes home the same day as the operation.

The Rockcastle County Hospital has been expanding its list of outpatient surgery procedures for over a year under the direction of Dr. A.E.T. Thomson, a general surgeon. He is aided by an anesthetist and an operating room nursing staff.

One of the main reasons for the increase in outpatient surgery is that insurance companies, as well as Medicare and Medicaid, have started refusing to pay for inpatient surgery that could have been done on an outpatient basis.

Several of the procedures performed at the Rockcastle County Hospital are the following: Excision of cysts, lesions and lumps, circumcision, minor skin grafts, male and female sterilizations, repairing minor fractures, toenail removal, D and C's and biopsies of the breast, cervix and muscle.

Tonsillectomies, closing lacerations and repairing minor ruptures are also done on an outpatient basis, along with several other operations.

Rockcastle's Same-Day Surgery Center saves time and money and enables patients to recuperate in the comforts of home.

Gutierrez begins practice in internal medicine

Dr. Mike Gutierrez took his place on the Rockcastle County Hospital's medical staff on July 9, adding the specialty of internal medicine to the medical services available to the people in the county.

Internal medicine deals with adult diseases that generally do not require surgery. Gutierrez is an internist with an emphasis in cardiac and respiratory diseases. He pointed out that in his practice, he'll be dealing with serious, more difficult diseases, as well as diabetes and high blood pressure.

He said, "I think, more than anything else, the one thing I can offer the people in the county that they don't have now is the ability to take care of the seriously ill without having them go to Lexington."

Gutierrez, a native of Golden, Colo., completed his undergraduate degree in chemistry at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore. He then went back to his home state and entered the University of Colorado Medical School. After finishing there, he came to the University of Kentucky Medical Center to do his residency in internal medicine, which he just completed in June.

Gutierrez and his wife, Alison, have lived in Mt. Vernon since November. Mrs. Gutierrez will be commuting to Eastern Kentucky University this fall to work on her master's degree in hospital administration.

Gutierrez has selected his office staff. His office manager is John Barker Gray, who was previously the chief clerk at the bone marrow transplant unit at the U.K. Medical Center.

Lee Carol Oakes will be doing the office nursing in addition to her duties as office nurse. Mrs. Oakes has served as a head nurse at the Berea Hospital and has taught nursing at Berea College. She most recently worked for the Madison County Health Department.

Brenda McKinney from Mt. Vernon will be Gutierrez's transcriptionist. Mrs. McKinney has worked for the Rockcastle County Hospital and in another of the local physician's offices.

Gutierrez said he is looking forward to practicing medicine in Rockcastle County and he plans to run a very efficient office. He will be practicing in the new physician's office building across from the skilled nursing facility in back of the hospital. His hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The office telephone number is 256-5176.

Candy Strippers learn nursing skills, get feel of hospital

Candy Stripper Julie Dowell passes out ice to a patient at the Rockcastle County Hospital. Miss Dowell is one of five Candy Strippers who were oriented during June to do volunteer work once a week at the hospital. She is the daughter of Billy and Sandy Dowell of Mt. Vernon.

At the Rockcastle County Hospital, five teenagers recently completed the summer orientation for volunteer Candy Strippers. Those who completed the sessions are Sandra deBeaumont, Shana Donovan, Julie Dowell, Jeanine McClure and Kristie Vaughn.

The volunteers were oriented by the hospital's training director, Betty Purcell, who is a registered nurse.

Rockcastle's Candy Stripper Organization is open to any boy or girl who is attending high school. To become a Candy Stripper, a person must fill out an application, learn the skills for the duties they are allowed to perform, and receive a TB skin test. After a probationary period of one month, the volunteer is informed if they are an official Candy Stripper.

Shana Donovan, 14, of Mt. Vernon, commented on why she wanted to be a Candy Stripper. "I enjoy helping people who aren't able to help themselves," she said. "The sick are often forgotten; however, there are many people willing to give their time and care. I'm happy and proud to be a Candy Stripper at the Rockcastle County Hospital."

After becoming a member, the Candy Stripper receives a uniform and is encouraged to work at least one session a week. The Candy Strippers are required to log their hours at the nurses station and, after 25 hours of service, they are given a cap. After 50 hours, they receive a pin.

Some of the skills Candy Strippers learn are proper hand-washing techniques, passing ice, and water, assisting with passing food trays and the use of wheelchairs.

A hospital Candy Stripper learns responsibility, contributes to the well-being of others and gets health care experience that could lead to a future career.

The Rockcastle County Hospital is always glad to have volunteer Candy Strippers. The next orientation for Candy Strippers will be in September. For more information, call Leigh Anne Hiatt at the Rockcastle County Hospital, phone 256-2195.

Dr. Mike Gutierrez and his wife, Alison, inspect the office where he began practicing medicine on July 9. Gutierrez, an internist, will be treating adult diseases that generally do not require surgery. He has an emphasis in cardiac and respiratory diseases. He is located in the physicians' office building right behind the hospital.

Know what to do for heat exhaustion, heatstroke

Along with the warm summer weather comes several of the season's ills: heat exhaustion and heatstroke.

If you or someone you're with seems to be suffering from heat exhaustion or heatstroke, follow this advice, offered by Flaget Memorial Hospital in Bardston, Ky., in their publication "For Your Good Health."

Heat Exhaustion

Hot weather can bring about heat exhaustion, especially in someone unaccustomed to the heat. Heat exhaustion occurs when a person's body lacks enough liquid and salt to tolerate excessive sweating.

The symptoms include pale, clammy skin, nausea, dizziness and faintness. Breathing and pulse rate may rise, and headache and muscle cramps develop. If the heat exhaustion is not treated, heatstroke may develop.

In case of heat exhaustion, lay the person down in a cool place out of the sun and elevate their feet. Loosen the person's clothing, and if they're conscious give them water to drink with a little salt added, if possible.

Heatstroke

Prolonged exposure to intensely hot weather or the sun can cause heatstroke or sunstroke. Symptoms include a high temperature; flushed hot, dry skin; a strong, rapid pulse; confusion; and unconsciousness. Body temperature must be rapidly reduced. At a temperature of 107 to 108 degrees Fahrenheit, not uncommon in heatstroke, brain damage or death can occur.

If heatstroke occurs, move the person to a cool place.

Remove their clothing and wrap them in a cold, wet blanket or sponge them with cold water. To reduce a very high temperature, immerse the person in cold water or pack them with ice.

Next, fan the person and rub their arms and legs toward their heart. Continue the fanning and rubbing until the temperature drops to 101 degrees Fahrenheit. If the temperature starts to rise again, repeat the cooling procedures. And finally, get medical attention for the person as soon as possible.

Following this advice can help you to cope with heat exhaustion and heatstroke that could affect you during the upcoming hot weather.

Local entertainer Charlie Napier joins patients Robin and Danny on the grounds of the Rockcastle County Hospital. They were there for the skilled nursing facility's second annual "4th" of July picnic held last Friday. All of the patients who were able to go outside, enjoyed the picnic along with family members and friends who were invited to attend. During the cookout, Napier sang a variety of country and gospel songs. There were 25 guests who came to the picnic. Those who traveled the farthest were from Louisville.

Adult Protective

Service now available

When a baby or a small child in Rockcastle County is beaten or seriously neglected, authorities move to enforce child abuse laws and to protect the young victims who are unable to protect themselves.

But what about abused adults who can't fend for themselves—elderly people, the adults with disabilities, the abused spouses? These citizens also have a law and agencies to protect them. According to Cabinet for Human Resources Secretary Al Austin, the Department for Social Services office in Rockcastle County can provide help through its Adult Protective Services workers.

"Simply put, that's their mandate," said Austin, "to investigate alleged abuse or neglect, to assist adults in Kentucky who need protection and to help those citizens find the support necessary to avoid the same kind of abuse in the future."

Mike Bryant, Social Services field case supervisor for Rockcastle County agrees. "Our adult protective workers are dedicated beyond resolving a single incident in the life of a person referred to our office," he said. "In every case, we attempt to link the individual with available services that can help that person remain independent. It is not our intent to place people by imposing some highly restrictive service. Instead, we look for options such as the in-home and home health services available across Kentucky. We want to avoid a continuation of the abusive situation at the same time maintain the client's independence."

Last year, 4,939 cases of suspected adult abuse or neglect were referred to the Department for Social Services for investigation and assistance. At least 11 of those cases involved citizens of Rockcastle County.

Richard Newman, manager of the Adult Protective Services Branch in Frankfort, said most of Kentucky's adult abuse or neglect cases fall into four categories: self-neglect, mental or physical abuse, caretaker neglect and exploitation.

"Self-neglect is probably the most frustrating situation of all," said Newman. "Most of these cases involve adults who are old or disabled and have difficulty functioning on their own. Often they don't realize they can benefit from some outside assistance—assistance that won't deprive them of their independence or dignity. Many elderly people have never needed government help and look upon our social workers as though we're trying to interfere with their right to live as they choose. It's almost always a very sensitive situation until we can show that all we want to do is help them help themselves."

Almost as challenging to deal with, according to Newman, are the cases of physical and mental abuse. "Approximately half of these cases involve spouse abuse. However, we also see numerous incidents of family members who use their frustrations on older relatives. And, in some cases, involve harassment of older family members for financial assets," he said.

The failure of an institution of individual to provide the proper assistance to a dependent adult constitutes caretaker neglect. The institution could be a nursing home, a family care home, a provider of in-home services or any other agency responsible for providing specific services.

Exploitation is the misuse of an individual's government benefit funds by another person or agency. This category includes misappropriation of unemployment benefits, social security checks or other government assistance funds.

Newman said the first step in all cases referred to Adult Protective Services is to set up direct contact between the staff and the affected individual. "When appropriate, we attempt to put the victim in touch with community services that can help prevent future abuse, neglect or exploitation," he said.

Rockcastle County can help adults who need assistance by contacting the Department for Social Services and its Adult Protective Services workers. "In cases of child abuse, the problems may come to the attention of a teacher or a physician, who sees that help is obtained," said Mike Bryant. "That's not as common with adults. We need the assistance of anyone—friends, neighbors, medical professionals—who suspect an individual's health or welfare may be in jeopardy."

He added, "Many abused adults don't know they can get help and still live their own lives. Our job is to protect people, sometimes from themselves, but most often from others who would take advantage of them."

and they always tell me that it's in the Bible and they'll look it up and let me know.

So far, no one has. I have read and re-read the New Testament, and I thoroughly searched the old Bible. I can't find it. So, if some of you preachers out there would let me know where it is, if it is really in the Bible, I'd sure appreciate it.
