

4 West German exchanges entertained by local families

By Leigh Anne Hiatt

The four German visitors gathered in Dr. M.A. Gutierrez's office in Mt. Vernon the day before they were to leave Kentucky, ending a month's stay made possible by the cooperation between the International Four-H Youth Exchange and the Rockcastle County 4-H Extension office.

The girls and three boys were an attractive group. All of them were tall and slim and wore clothes that would have looked right at home on a native Rockcastle Countian. Only their English, spoken with a German accent, gave away the fact that they lived half way across the world.

This is the second summer local families have participated in a foreign youth exchange. Martha Brown, the county 4-H extension agent, helped coordinate the visit for this area. She explained that while here the visitors are to be taken in and treated as a member of the family so they can learn about American home life.

The National 4-H Council has declared that the purpose of the program "is to increase international awareness. Exchanges are sent here to learn about our culture and share it with people at home."

The visitors will have many experiences to share

when they return to their different homes in West Germany, thanks to four families in the county who have made sure their guests enjoyed a wide sampling of life in Kentucky.

The Germans have found Kentucky to be very different and yet often similar to their country, which is just smaller than the state of Oregon. In general, Germans are well-educated, and intelligent, and have a rich heritage in music, history and the arts. All Germans enjoy freedom of religion under their constitution, but theirs is a secular society with a minority of the people attending church regularly.

West Germany is one of the top five industrial states of the world. And their country is ruled by a Social Democratic Party-Free Democrats coalition with Helmut Schmidt as Chancellor and Karl Carstens as president.

Last summer, local families learned about the culture of Luxembourg, one of Europe's oldest countries,

"Through this, I've noticed that church and religion are very important to the people in the states and I didn't think it was so important." He added that Lutheran and Catholic are the main denominations in Germany where religion doesn't play the large role that it does in America.

Bruno teaches agricultural subjects at a vocational school in Germany and he especially enjoyed visiting area farms so he could compare them to those in his country.

Burkhard Meiners is the youngest of the group at 16. He is outgoing and when he first met his family, Don and Judy Stewart-Shackelford, he went right up to them and said, "Hi, I'm Burkhard Meiners!" Although his family has visited Wisconsin and California, this is his first time to the United States.

He came here with two definite goals in mind: to learn something about farming here and to learn the English language better. He plans to go to school for three more years to become a farmer. He noted that, in Germany, people are allowed to drink beer and alcoholic beverages at the age of 16, but in America they have to legally wait until they're older. Then, thinking we might misunderstand his observation, he said reassuringly, "But we don't drink too much."

The Stewart-Shackelfords also entertained a boy from Luxembourg last summer and Mrs. Stewart-Shackelford said, "We don't treat them like guests at all; they're just part of the family." She thought Meiners enjoyed watching the Olympics on T.V. while he was here and that his English was much better after a month's stay in this country.

Meiners found the weather to be "more hot here and long hot and drier." In other words, our hot weather lasts longer than it does in Germany. He also noted that "the whole church here seems to be a family."

The fourth member of the group is 22-year-old Jens Bruhn. He and Guntter Bruns are the leaders of the four. He said, "It was a dream of mine to go to Canada or the United States for the first time. I am mostly interested in farming and the Yellowstone National Park and Nevada and Arizona. But it's too large, to see everything in six weeks so I'll have to come back!"

Bruhn stayed with Dr.

After leaving Rockcastle County, the visitors were to travel to Washington, D.C. and begin a two-week tour set up by the 4-H Council. They would then leave from New York for Germany.

Gunter Bruns expressed the appreciation for the whole group when he said, "I met a lot of people who tried to show me things in the states and especially in the county of Rockcastle. All of us very much to say thank you very much to all the people who have spent us the county and have shown a lot of time with us."

If you would like to have the special experience of hosting an international visitor in your home let Martha Brown, the county 4-H extension agent, and plan ahead for an interesting, unusual summer in 1985.

M.A. Gutierrez and his wife, Alison, while in Rockcastle County and was impressed with the nature here during a rock climbing trip with Gutierrez. "Everything is larger and wilder here in Kentucky; it's a huge area and a smaller number of people who are living in it."

Although Bruhn had been farming for a living, in April he started medical school and has about seven years of studying before he graduates. Gutierrez especially liked discussing medicine with his guest and on several occasions, he showed Bruhn how patients are treated in America.

Gutierrez said he would recommend the experience to anyone and that the valuable part of it all for him was learning about Germany and their medicine, politics and view of life.

Schoolteachers recognized

The Rockcastle County Board of Education and school administrators wish to commend the following teachers who did not miss a day of work during the 1983-84 school term.

Certificates of award were presented to the following teachers by Superintendent Charles B. Parsons during the in-service program August 16: David Hamed, Rockcastle County High; Mrs. Dollie Roberts and Keith Singleton, Mt. Vernon Elementary; Harry Lee Holland, Roundstone Elementary; Margaret Sexton, Katreka Shivel and Preston Parrett, Livingston Elementary.

During the ceremony, a plaque was presented to Robert Jerry Mink, principal of Livingston Elementary School, recognizing Livingston for having the best percentage of attendance for the 1983-84 school year. Livingston's percentage of attendance for the year was 96.4 while the county's average was 93.9.

through the seven exchanges who stayed here and in Laurel and Bell counties. This year, there are 24 guests from Germany with the other 20 staying in different parts of the state.

Carola Hatop, the only female among the four, is 19. During her first visit to the United States, she is staying with John and Cheryl Witt. She has worked the last three years in a household on a farm and is getting ready to go back to school to study home economics.

When asked what seemed different to her about Kentucky, she answered, "The houses stand alone in the country." One of the others explained that houses are built closer together in certain parts of Germany. The activity she enjoyed most was going water skiing on Laurel Lake for the first time with her family. But she didn't hesitate to agree that, after several weeks' vacation, she was ready to go home.

This is the second year the Witts have had an international visitor in their home.

"The thing that impressed me about the visitors," said Mrs. Witt, "is that the people from Luxembourg and Germany are so similar to Americans." Her daughter would like to go to Europe someday and Mrs. Witt added that their hospitality might be returned to them in the future.

Dave and May Alther kept a German guest this summer for the first time. Alther said there was an "exchange of ideas" between her and his wife and Gunter Bruns, who at 29 was the oldest member of the group. "We learned a lot about things we only suspected," Alther said. "This way, we get it first hand."

Bruno, who made his first trip to this country, is also getting a first hand look at the attitudes concerning religion in Kentucky since Alther is minister of the Bethany United Methodist Church. He said,

'84 Individual Retirement Accounts

Talk to us now, and next year you'll be sending the I.R.S. less!

An '84 IRA means an immediate tax deduction when filing your federal and state income taxes. Your IRA deposits come directly off your taxable income. You can deposit as much as $2,000 per year ($4,000 for working spouses filing jointly). You can also have a company pension plan and qualify for an IRA. As a matter of fact, if all you make is $2,000 a year, you can deposit the full amount. Anyone with a wage or salary income qualifies for an IRA. Unemployed spouses may deposit $250 yearly in an IRA.

Often, it's easier to start small and make deposits at regular intervals. Most important though is to begin building your '84 IRA NOW.

Your IRA with us earns the highest interest possible and keeps on earning year after year and you never pay taxes on the interest until you retire (when you are usually in a lower tax bracket).

Our IRAs mean a tax deduction and a tax deferral for you. Stop by with your questions. We're ready with the answers!

A substantial interest and tax penalty is charged for early withdrawal.

Disputanta

By: Hilda Payne Gabbard

Hello from Clear Creek Valley.

By the time you read this, I may be gone from Kentucky. I might be moving to Colfax, Indiana to live next door to Jessie Chasteen. Norton whose letter to me this week has spiked my spirits so much that I'm bound to go plant myself right next door to this gal. The Signal doesn't need me to write of past memories of Clear Creek. They need Jessie Chasteen, daughter of a much loved former citizen, postmaster, schoolteacher, and representative, Sherman Chasteen, who lived on the creek until 1918.

Jessie was 13 when the family moved away but her letter is filled with memories of life here. Some of the long gone schools that Sherman taught were Climax, Wildie, Boiling Springs, and Davis Branch.

Those were the days when we didn't know about achievement tests or Remedial Math and Reading scores. A kid went to the blackboard with his class and he could either do it or not when called upon. There were no runs to it only seven school months in the term. If you didn't learn to read with the "primer" group, it was hard to catch up and that was your bad luck.

The Jessie says, "O.M. Payne was my father's closest and dearest friend. They would talk often on the wall telephones of that day."

Now right there, Jessie, is where you put the gravel heavy on the biscuit. I do remember (in later years) my dad would talk of a fellow who used to be the Disputanta postmaster before him which was located about a mile or two down from our home, the then site of Disputanta postoffice. Sherman kept the postoffice in a small building, which I believe is still standing and now owned by Mossie Cope down Lower Clear Creek. Dad would say, "Sherman was an all right kind of fellow," and tell of the humor in their association. They were alike, Dad and Sherman Chasteen, in having ideas for a better Clear Creek, as others there have had, I'm sure.

Jessie enclosed a column written by the Cletus Tussy and printed in the Signal about 30 years ago she said. That was the pen name of my brother, John Payne, who wrote in that column of his experiences as a grade school kid when he went to Davis Branch School the year that Sherman taught there.

John says Sherman would play marbles and horseshoes with the schoolboys, seeming a part of a youth as he knucked down in the dust, "shooting fair and square."

Cletus (Payne) Tussy's final tribute to Sherman Chasteen was "Here is a Man!"
Jessie pays a farewell tribute herself to the Clear Creek of her childhood when she says, "If I should win an all expenses paid trip to Hawaii in a contest or be given the option of traveling Clear Creek's roads, it would not be hard to make the choice to come back there where I spent the happiest days of my life!"

It was such an inspiring letter and I really thank you, Jessie, I wish I could share all of it with you readers in which she talks of many other people on the creek.

There are just some things you can't tell around here. I had to get the cat out of the bag by bragging of all the plumgranies that I was raising (our long neck goose seeds never did come up) for folks have begun to ask, "I just want to speak for some, one or two to save for seed."

Cleve made a trip to look at my vines and saw the small melons piled on the vines, "Gee, a fellow used to could have a time going to revival meetings, carrying them in his pockets so he would smell good to the girls."
Leonard Abney believes that. He said he'd like to have two or three to put in his kitchen to make the room smell great.

Now, Leonard, I wasn't born yesterday. I know what you want these good smelling, egg-sized melons for. You see, Leonard travels the roads up and down Brush Creek, Orlando, and always going to Mt. Vernon on Thursday get the Signal, he says, (I know better.) So that's why he is begging for the plumgranies.

Mayor Bill Bullens of Lower Clear Creek has a granddaughter, Marlene Lawson, living in Berea. She has pestered me as to the date of Clear Creek's Festival. I told her to ask her grandparents, that I didn't make decisions, only wrote of them (if the council ever made one).

I learned the Lawsona were Signal readers. I asked how come when she's over there often. "Why anybody from Rockcastle is going to take and read the Signal," she assured me. "Besides, I might miss Clear Creek news and they say you tell everything."

Well, I'm about to thank that red-headed woman from Texas, April Guy, for her letter in the Editor's column, saying she liked this paper while here on a visit. The woman is spoiled to death by her parents, Bill and Lorense Fowler. They told her, while she was here, they were giving her a present of the Denver Post, a large national daily newspaper in Colorado, to read where the family once lived, to come to her home in Texas.

Her answer to the gift offer was that if they really wanted to send her a newspaper, she'd rather give her the money for that "little Rockcastle paper." Boy, I can't get over her choice in throwing aside the big daily paper in favor of the once a week Signal. Are you listening, Editor Anderkin to what she chose?

I want to send get well wishes to friend Cepha Davis Kinsler of Erlanger whom, I read in the Signal, (by Lella Stokes from Florida) was at her daughter's home at Union, near Florence and Erlanger, recuperating from a hospital stay. Here I was, about to wonder, publicly, if Cepha had made it to the Brothed Fair, Rockcastle's homecoming time. Then, news of Cepha was relayed back to Kentucky from Florida by the Signal. Wonders never cease. But do hurry up and get well, Cepha. We Rockcastle gals may be down but we ain't out!

Naomi Edwards recipes for the festival on the use of rattlesnake meat to be used and sold at David Harding's food stand are barbecued, snake alk king, fricasee, char-broiled, sandwiches rare, medium or well done on rye bread. For a dessert feature, she suggests rattlesnake pie (something like mince-meat pie).

The last named one really got to Marie Todd of Scaffold Cane, who is all enthused about the festival. I asked if we could save her and her husband, Edmund Todd, a piece of the minced rattlesnake pie, for when they get over to the festival. I thought the woman would like laughing. "Law, Edmund won't even come if you mention rattlesnakes, he's so scared of them," she was hysterical. Maybe we could get him to eat a teeny piece.

But Naomi makes further suggestions for the rattlesnake hunt which she assumes I will be leading and planning. Do they think I am into everything? Naomi also says to place the Signal Editor, Judge Jasper County Attorney Lambert, John H. Mullins, and Aster Durham of Copper Creek (we'll ask them) John and Mary Harding and a preacher in the line-up for hunting the snakes. She advises we'll need the pastor.

Willard Todd once lived on Scaffold Cane just above Disputanta but he now lives with son, Edmund, and wife, Marie, near Berea. He was in great spirits the day I made this picture. He says he used to court the girls down Clear Creek long ago.

Vanwinkle Reunion

On August 6th 1984 the Vanwinkle Reunion was held at the Family Life Center in Renfro Valley. Those from out of town were his cousins and friends. Sorry I don't know their last names. The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, August 23, 1984 P-A3 greetings to good Signal readers, (said they'd rather have a reader button instead), whose birthdays all came in August making them one year older but they won't let me tell. Bessie Davis, Peggy Rowlett, Sue Payne Dalton, and Martha Faye Rowlett.

The guest speaker for Macedonia Baptist Church on Sunday, August 26th will be Sherman Ponder, grandson of old time preacher at Clear Creek, Bro. Hughie Ponder.

For the past two weekends, we have had Bro. Ballard Rader of Berea whom I would like to write about next week. Space is short. I am sending belated birthday

Asbestos found at Brodhead School

By Richard Anderkin

Asbestos has once again surfaced in the Rockcastle County School System.

One day before school started, state officials were at the Brodhead Elementary School investigating the possibility that some employees might have been exposed to asbestos.

A State Occupational Safety and Health (OSHA) inspector and a federal Environmental Protection Agency inspector were at the school last Thursday and state officials said Tuesday they were looking for any asbestos-related violations. Results of the investigation are not expected to be made public for at least 30 days.

The classrooms affected by the asbestos are two rooms in the "old agriculture building" the two classes usually held there are kindergarten and remedial reading.

Brodhead School principal Tom Payne said Monday that he had locked the doors to the classrooms and that he was not going to hold classes in that part of the building until he had written proof that it was safe to use them.

Rockcastle school Superintendent Charles B. Parsons said last Friday that several maintenance men were working on a heat duct that travels through the rooms in question when they discovered a paper-like substance that was thought to contain asbestos.

Parsons said he had the material tested and that it did contain asbestos.

The Superintendent also told a Lexington Herald reporter last Thursday that the main building at Brodhead was not affected by the asbestos, but principal Tom Payne has stopped holding classes in two of the 7th and 8th grade classrooms in the main building.

Parsons confirmed Tuesday that some asbestos had been taken from the two rooms but that the situation did not pose a health hazard to anyone. He did not comment on who actually removed the asbestos from the two rooms.

"Mr. Payne told me that he did not want to hold any classes in those two rooms either, until he had written proof that the air was safe," Parsons said.

"I had Metro Lab out of Louisville check the rooms last week and they have told me unofficially that they are completely safe," he added.

Parsons went on to say that a written report about the air quality in those two rooms would be ready this week.

The superintendent said further that he had contracted Hibbits Bros., a London-based firm, to remove the asbestos from the agriculture building, beginning this Friday.

"You must have a qualified firm to remove it (the asbestos) and August 24th was the first day that the nearest qualified firm could do the work," he said.

Local health inspector Steve Midkiff said Tuesday that he did not see any health hazards at the Brodhead School and did not think that any students were in danger.

When asked why the asbestos at Brodhead was not uncovered during the state's inspection of all the schools about four years ago, an investigation Midkiff participated in, Midkiff said that at the time, they were looking for a different type of asbestos.

"We were looking for 'friable' asbestos, the kind that is much more dangerous because it is already broken up and fibers are being released into the air," Midkiff said.

"What they have at Brodhead is chrysotile asbestos, a form of asbestos that is not dangerous because it is not broken up and being released into the air," he said.

On Tuesday, Mt. Vernon Elementary School also fell victim to the closing of two classrooms.

"Two 4th grade classrooms in the same building were closed by principal Buford Parkinson."

Superintendent Parsons said Tuesday, of the MVES classroom closings, "there is no problem at Mt. Vernon, people should not get alarmed."

Parsons went on to say that J & R Salvage Company of Brooks, Ky. took asbestos from two rooms in 1983 and took it out according to recommended procedure.

"When they were finished, they checked the air quality and it was fine," Parsons said.

A call to J & R Salvage Wednesday morning revealed the same answer as the superintendent had given.

A spokesman for the company said that there was no problem at Mt. Vernon school and no reason why classes should not be resumed in the two classrooms.

Parsons said that it was his understanding that Mr. Parkinson closed the rooms after assistant principal Mark McKinney told Parkinson that he could see fibers floating in the air in the two rooms.

Jury gives Kirby one-year jail sentence

A Rockcastle County man has been found guilty of second degree wanton endangerment.

Junie Kirby, age 29, of Mt. Vernon was found guilty by a Rockcastle Circuit Court jury on Wednesday, August 15.

Kirby, who was indicted for criminal attempt to commit murder last December, was found guilty of a lesser charge by the jury which recommended a one-year sentence and a $500 fine. He was ordered to jail without bond by Circuit Judge Dan Venters, who set formal sentencing for September 14.

Kirby had been free until the trial on a $20,000 property bond, which was filed by former Sheriff Billy Kirby. Venters revoked Kirby's bond and ordered him to jail to await formal sentencing.

The conviction stemmed from a November 23, 1983 incident in which Kirby pulled a gun on Rockcastle County Sheriff William Taylor, while sitting in the back of Taylor's cruiser, after being arrested by the Sheriff.

Taylor told jurors that he

Petitt pleads guilty to 2nd degree manslaughter

Katherine Pettitt, age 25, of College Park, Georgia has pleaded guilty to second degree manslaughter in connection with the death of her 11-month-old daughter.

Last Wednesday in Circuit Court, Pettitt's court-appointed attorney, Jim Cox, entered Mrs. Pettitt's guilty plea, after negotiating with Commonwealth Attorney Benny Ham.

Ham said Monday that a September 14th sentencing date has been scheduled and that he has yet to decide on how many years imprisonment to recommend for Pettitt.

"I told Jim Cox that I would not ask for any more than eight years against her but I could recommend even less. I don't know," he said.

Mrs. Pettitt's indictment stemmed from a May 2, 1984 incident when she left her child in a ditch alongside U.S. 25 at Burr.

Police said that she left the baby to go get her boy friend, who was staying at the Holiday Motel and, when she (Cont. to 16)

Roundstone has "air-conditioning"

Things are a lot cooler at Roundstone Elementary School these days.

When students arrived at school last Friday, they found an air conditioner in each classroom.

Thanks to a hard-working P.T.O. and air conditioner committee, 18 new units were purchased for the school for the start of this school year.

Helen Reppert, chairman for the committee, was very pleased with all of the community's efforts towards purchase of the new units. She spoke about the project last Friday at the school.

"It was only a dream when we first started last year, but now it is a reality," the chairwoman said. "There are a lot of people to thank for this and I'm sure it has been a worthwhile project."

Something like this pulls a community together and our people really got behind the project," Mrs. Reppert added.

The P.T.O. raised $7,600 for the air conditioners through several fund raising events such as a Spring Festival, car washes, candy sales and local private and business donations.

"We fell $2,400 short of the $10,000 we spent so the school board advanced us the money we needed to finish the project," Mrs. Reppert said.

She went on to say that the P.T.O. would continue to raise money until the debt is retired.

Roundstone is the first grade school in the county to be air conditioned.

Citizens bank is planning 1800 square foot addition

Citizens Bank is planning an expansion to their present building in Brodhead.

Bank president Bobby Proctor announced last week that the board of directors at the bank had voted to add an 1800 sq. ft. addition to the existing structure at a cost of $200,000.

"Our new addition will create two more lanes to our drive-in window, as well as many other needed things," Proctor said.

The president said that a board room, employee lounge, large bookkeeping room and more storage area would make up the new addition. He also said that a vestibule will be built in the front of the bank.

"While construction is going on, the drive-in window will be closed but the lobby will be open so that there is no inconvenience to our customers," Proctor added.

Proctor went on to say that the night deposit would be moved to the east side of the building.

Branscom Construction of Russell Springs has the contract for the project, which is slated to start in the next few weeks with a completion date of around the first of the year.

See architect's conception of Citizens Bank's planned addition on page 4.

Ohio River yields $1,000 bass

By: Emily Morse

Somewhere in Nebraska is a Kentucky fisherman who is $1,000 richer — and doesn't know it.

Kenny Doyle, Salem, caught a tagged largemouth bass from the Ohio River June 9. Before leaving for Nebraska to work on a pipeline construction crew, he returned the tag to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

(Since Doyle moves around on his job, he currently has no forwarding address. But when he does call home, he'll get a pleasant surprise — his tagged fish netted him $1,000.

This fish is part of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' tagging program in the Ohio River. It offers cash rewards ranging from $1 to $1,000 for certain fish caught. Fisheries biologist Ralph Jackson uses the tags to study fish movement, age and growth rates. Jackson said fish are usually caught a couple of weeks after they are tagged and usually in the same area. However, one fish caught traveled 24 1/2 miles in three days.

Kenny Doyle, his 109-pound, seven ounce largemouth bass from the Crooked Creek embayment of the Ohio three days after it was tagged there. On the day he caught the fish, he had been having trouble with his trolling motor. His friend that he always fishes with, Jerry Wilson, pulled his boat for him.

This bass was one of 30 caught that day by Doyle, Wilson, Tom Cannon and Debbie Rector. All four friends have caught a tagged fish each this spring and have jokingly agreed to split the cash rewards, saying they would probably each receive dollar. "We never dreamed of $1,000," said Wilson, principal of the Livingston Co. Middle School and winner of a $1 reward. He will try to forward the good news to Doyle.

The tagging project hopes to encourage fishing in the Ohio River, which has become a much poorer place in recent years because of stricter anti-pollution laws. Wilson said the group fishes the river all the time. "Usually three out of five bass we catch are keepers. We do really well," he said.

This year approximately 375 fish were tagged in the western part of the river. The tag is a small piece of plastic tubing sticking out of the fish's back, just below the dorsal fin, with "KY FISH" and a number on it.

Special envelopes for returning the tags are available from fish and wildlife conservation officers at local bait and tackle shops or docks. In addition to the information requested on the envelope, the department needs a few scales from the fish. Complete details are printed on the mailing envelopes.

Jones murder trial ends Wednesday with hung jury

A quarter has 119 grooves on its circumference.

An 8-man, 4-women jury returned to Circuit Court last Wednesday afternoon and reported to Circuit Judge Dan Venters that they could not reach a verdict in the murder trial of Lisa Jones.

Jones is charged with the Feb. 1984 shooting death of Johnny Keith Falin of Orlando.

Circuit Judge Dan Venters said after he learned of the jurors' non-decision, that he would not send them back with orders to reach a verdict.

"When a jury is deadlocked 7-5, there is not much hope of them reaching a verdict," Venters said. "In a case like this, where so much of the evidence is circumstantial, I can see why it would be very hard to reach a verdict."

Venters also said that a retrial would be scheduled for some time next year and that Jones will be released on the same $30,000 property bond which she is presently under.

Five Common Faults of Homemade Pickles

Soft. shriveled, hollow, too dark or pale and whitish-what happened to your homemade pickles to make them turn out that way?

Taking a look at jar after jar of pickles that failed, here are some of the possible reasons why it might have happened:

Soft Pickles: You used too weak a brine or acid, or you didn't keep the cucumbers or other vegetables covered with brine, or you over processed them, or the seal was faulty, or you used moldy (old) garlic or spices.

Shriveled Pickles: You put them in too strong a solution of brine, vinegar or sugar, or you overcooked or over-processed them.

Hollow Pickles: You let them stand more than 24 hours before brining, used poorly-developed cucumbers, or too strong or weak a brine during fermentation.

Darkens' pickles: You used hard water instead of soft, ground spices instead of whole, too much spice or iodized salt. (Use coarse salt only).

Pale, Whittish Pickles: You didn't brine the pickles properly.

Having your pickles turn out well every time means going back to some of the fundamentals. It means using fresh firm fruits and vegetables and high-quality ingredients, following an up-to-date recipe, and then processing the pickles in a boiling-water-bath canner for exactly the number of minutes given. It means making sure the seals are tight, and then storing them in a dark, cool place, and using within a year.

Usually, you should start counting processing time when the water comes back to boiling after the jars are put in the canner. However, with fermented cucumbers and fresh-pack dills, you should start counting as soon as the jars are first placed in the actively-boiling water in the canner. This prevents a cooked flavor and loss of crispness in these pickles.

Drying Herbs and Onions

Herbs are very easy to dry. Simply wash thoroughly to remove dirt and trim and hang them in a warm, well-ventilated room until the leaves crumble when touched. Or, if you are in a hurry, dry them in the oven at the lowest setting. If you have a microwave oven, herbs can be dried very quickly. Follow directions in your user's manual. Store your dried herbs in moisture-vapor-proof containers with tight-fitting lids.

Onions are simple to dry and will be similar to the dried onions you find in the grocery department at the grocery. Peel and chop onions. Dry in oven or sun. If sun-dried, pasteurize them in the oven afterwards for 10-15 minutes 175 degrees F., or 30 minutes at 150 degrees F. This heat treatment kills any insects or their eggs. Let them cool thoroughly before packaging.

Like a shoplifter, an electricity thief can be prosecuted. But stealing electricity also carries the risk of immediate termination of service. And worse yet, the potential exists for serious or even fatal injury, or fire hazards, while tampering with utility equipment.

It is illegal to tamper with an electric meter and for anyone other than a Company representative to turn on Sheriff William Taylor, left, and city policeman Tyree Gray are shown with the 10 Marijuana plants they found in the city limits of Mt. Vernon Monday. Taylor, Gray and state Trooper Jimmy Silvers pulled up the plants and later burned them.

Hints, hunches 'n things. Characteristically, University of Kentucky football coach Jerry Claiborne is quick to declare that if he were a prophet "the way some of you guys (reporters) think, I'd be in the stock market making a million dollars."

But alas, Claiborne is only a college football coach grumping through the dog days of August, having to answer dumb and stupid questions from media-types before getting down to 2-a-day workouts with his team. When the UK coach met the media last week at Commonwealth Stadium he was in typical "let's get this out of the way" form, alternately testy and accommodating.

Testy? A television reporter thrust a microphone under Claiborne's weathered nose and told him what UK fans expect this season since the Wildcats are coming off a winning one (6-5-1) and the school's second bowl appearance since the Korean Conflict.

Claiborne rolled his eyes heavenward and rubbed his forehead. "You know, I've been in this game a long time and I've learned not to worry anymore about what the fans expect. We need our fans' support of course and we need 'em, but I just don't worry about what they expect."

But...but... "You see," Claiborne went on. "It's a lot tougher trying to improve on a winning season like we had last year instead of a losing one like we had the year before."

But Claiborne the pragmatist, can be accommodating too. "I'm a very positive thinking person," he said, "and I think we're going to have a winning season. I believe that and I want our players to believe it too. And I want our players to think we're going to a bowl game-oo-oo!"

There is a hint here somewhere. But before digging for it, let's have an interjection from director of athletics Cliff Hagan, followed by one more analytical "hint" from the coach.

Hagan stood up at the press luncheon to congratulate Claiborne once more for last season and said he had not decided yet how UK managed to turn an 0-10-1 in 1982 into a 6-5-1 last year. "It was either masterful scheduling or good coaching, or maybe a combination of both."

Hagan got it straight. "But Claiborne is looking ahead. "As a squad I think we'll be stronger and bigger," he said. "I am concerned about whether or not we'll be fast. But I think we're going to have good speed. We will lack (Cont. to 16) "

The Rockets traveled all the way to Fleming-Neon Saturday night to open their season against the Pirates. They lost the ballgame with 55 seconds showing on the clock as a Pirate made a good run around left end for the score. Their extra point attempt was unsuccessful but they had all they needed for the victory. In the above photo, Junior Devin Ford defends against a Pirates pass. Neither team were successful in moving the ball, although several Rockets' drives were cut short by fumbles or interceptions.

Two Rockets go after a Pirates' running back during action at Fleming-Neon Saturday night. The Rockets played without the services of tailback Garry Fain, who injured his ankle at the pancake games. Rodney Brummett, who has been handling most of the quarterback chores during the young season, was also out of the game due to injuries. Junior Troy Taylor played the quarterback slot and did an admirable job several times, picking up long gainers for the Rockets.

The Cardinals Little League baseball team won the season-end tournament, after coming in second in the regular season. Members of the team are, front row, from left: Andy Hedge, Donovan Mullins, Rod Lewis, Kyle Rader, Kelly Whitaker, Chris Dooley.

News from "The Rock"

Dale Atwood captured his first win at the Rockcastle Co. Raceway Sunday evening, after having four blown engines during the past few weeks. This was a welcome relief. Bob Ridner powered his racer to victory in the Super Stock division to capture his first feature win at "The Rock". Ridner had set the fastest time and Bobby Carrier, Jr. won the Trophy Dash. The heat was won by Tim Yeager of Harrodsburg. The top five in the Feature were: Bob Ridner, Somerset; Bobby Carrier, Jr., Harrodsburg; Vance Whittle, Russellville; Tom Curtsinger, Harrodsburg; and Bill Martin, Crab Orchard. The Super Stock point leader was fifth.

The Mini-Modified 4 cylinder division saw Paul Purcell of Crab Orchard making a close race for the win with the Trophy Dash and the Feature and also setting fast time. Merville Brown, Orlando; Ed Hasy, Danville; Anthony Reams, Orlando; and Steve Hubbard, London, rounded off the top five finishers in the Feature. Reynolds is the point leader in the Bomber division.

The school board did not buy classroom air conditioning units, recently installed at Roundstone. The board paid for the wiring, part of the installation and the other part was volunteer work by parents and committee members. The units bought by the board were for non-instructional areas such as the library, principal's office and kitchen. The P.T.O. bought, and are still paying for, all classroom units.

The project has been a success because of a strong-willed air conditioning committee, concerned parents, P.T.O. members, students, teachers and many more concerned individuals. The project did not rest this summer. The air conditioning committee headed fund raisers such as car washes, yard sale and a fund-raising drive. Our biggest fund raisers were the candy sales and the Spring Festival last school year. Here again, parents, teachers, students and many others concerned worked hard for this project. We have some parents who took vacation time from their work in order to help with the various projects.

I feel it's time to set priorities. Our children need the best education possible should be our main goal as a parent.

Parents, it's time to work with our school administration and not against them. We have a concerned capable administration and many quality teachers in our county. Let's not get caught up in political squabbles and lose sight of our main goal - our children and their education.

Mr. Parsons and the school board have stated they would give the same support to any and all the other P.T.A.'s in the county if the P.T.A. would buy the classroom units. The board is paying a lot when you consider rewiring, installation, upkeep on the units once they are in and the electric bills. The board is giving a lot too and all we as an organization is giving are classroom units.

Roundstone P.T.O. bought and is paying for all classroom air conditioners. We are paying our own way!

Respectfully,
Helen Reppert

Dear Editor,
The recent Supreme Court decision concerning the United States Jaycees has received a great deal of attention in the news media. The Jaycees have traditionally been an all-male organization, devoted to community service and personal growth.

According to the highest court, the Jaycees must now include women. In Kentucky, there have been women Jaycees for some time, although separate from the men. Our state organization has moved to allow women to participate with men, even though we are not one of the states directly affected by the court decision.

Personally, I heartily welcome this move. I believe women's participation can only benefit the Jaycees. Now that the legal red tape has been eliminated, I would like to invite, on behalf of the Rockcastle Jaycees, all interested women, between the ages of 18 and 35, to join our organization. Anyone (male or female) who would like to know more about the Jaycees may call me at any time.

Sincerely,

Bill Nance
President, Rockcastle Jaycees

(Ed's Note: Frank Arneson, who founded the John Wayne Memorial Fund, is in the process of reactivating the fund for the purpose of making donations to charities. Below are several letters of support for his efforts that Mr. Arneson has received and which he asked us to reprint.)

Dear Mr. Arneson:
I thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated your thoughtful letter. It is nice to hear from an old friend of Hale's family. I have heard them speak of you so often and know how much they miss seeing you, now that you are living in Kentucky.

I am also delighted to learn of the John Wayne Memorial Fund which you have established and am happy to enclose a contribution (to the John Wayne Fund). The picture of you and John Wayne, which I will receive, will be a treasured keepsake. I can assure you!

Thank you again for your very kind letter and my warmest best wishes for success in this most worthwhile endeavor.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Arneson:
Thank you for your letter in response to a recent fund-raising solicitation from my campaign office. I apologize for the long delay in getting back to you. I can't tell you how happy I was with the picture. I put the Duke and you up over my desk at work and anyone who asks has to hear a long speech about The Fighting Seabees. They had a

You are to be commended for the work you are doing with the John Wayne Memorial Fund. Again, thank you for your support and please accept my best wishes.

MARY ANN TOBIN
AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS
COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY

Capitol Annex
Suite 168
Frankfort, Ky. 40601
(502) 564-4226

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Martha Layne Collins, Governor
Honorable Robert Jasper, County Judge/Executive
Members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court

We have examined the Statement of Assets, Liabilities and Fund Balances Arising From Cash Transactions of Rockcastle County as of June 30, 1983, and the related Statement of Cash Receipts, Cash Disbursements and Changes in Fund Balances for the year then ended. We also examined the Sheriff's Settlement - 1982 Taxes for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1983. Our examination was made in accordance with the "Standards for Audit of Governmental Organizations, Programs, Activities and Functions", issued by the Comptroller General of the United States, and accordingly, included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As recommended by the State Local Finance Officer, pursuant to KRS 68.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the assets, liabilities and fund balances arising from cash transactions of Rockcastle County at June 30, 1983, and its cash receipts and disbursements and the 1982 taxes charged, collected and distributed during the year then ended, in conformity with the accounting system described above, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

We did not conduct a study and evaluation of internal accounting control as we concluded that the audit could be performed more efficiently by expanding substantive audit tests. Therefore, we placed very little reliance on the internal accounting control system.

We also conducted tests of compliance with state and federal laws and regulations including federal revenue sharing requirements enumerated in the Comments on the Audit Requirements of the 1980 Amendments to the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act issued by the Office of Revenue Sharing. Unless otherwise noted below, the tested items were in compliance with applicable state and federal laws and regulations. During our examination, nothing came to our attention to cause us to believe that the untested items were not in compliance.

Recommendations and areas of noncompliance are as follows:

In our examination of the Sheriff's records for 1982 tax collections, we have determined that he owes the county an additional $3,347 for 1982 taxes. This amount is reflected in the accompanying financial statements. We also found that he had collected $1,050 in fiscal court advertising costs. At June 30, 1983, this amount had not been paid to the County Treasurer.

Based on available records, there was a deficit of $2,081 in the Sheriff's tax account at June 30, 1983.

We remind the fiscal court that KRS 424.260 states that bids for materials, supplies, equipment or services are needed if the expenditure is more than $7,500. From our tested items, the county expended $123,588 from the Road and Bridge Fund, $14,902 from the Revenue Sharing Fund and $15,802 from the Local Government Economic Assistance Fund without obtaining bids. However, bids for these items were obtained in the 1983-84 fiscal year.

By complying with KRS 68.280 which allows for amendments to the budget, the county could have avoided being in conflict with KRS 68.220, the Uniform County Budget Law. The Rockcastle Ambulance Service Fund was overspent by $17,578.

The county expended $5,777 from the Grandstand and Exhibit Hall Fund without the funds being budgeted as required by KRS 68.220 and 68.240.

The General, Road and Bridge, Revenue Sharing, Local Government Economic Assistance and the Jail Funds had deficit fund balances at the end of the fiscal year. Expenditures in excess of available moneys are prohibited under KRS 68.110(1).

During the audit engagement, it came to our attention that the County Treasurer was bonded for $60,000 on a special revenue sharing bond and $20,000 on a general bond. We recommend the fiscal court require the bonds to be combined and increased to a minimum of $200,000.

We recommend that the Sheriff obtain a county revenue bond as required by KRS 134.250. We recommend the fiscal court require bonding of this official in an amount of not less than $100,000.

The fiscal court continues to be in violation of KRS 68.005 by not adopting an administrative code. We remind the court that under this statute, each county is required to operate under such a code. The State Local Finance Officer has information relevant in implementing this code.

Yours for a better Kentucky,

Mary Ann Tobin

"BOB WATKINS"

experience, but that doesn't mean we don't expect them to play well."

Hint I. The UK squad is more strong than big, but it is better and attitudes—so vital in football—have changed. Meet Tom Wilkins, a 6-3, 251-pound sophomore defensive guard from Russellville who transferred to UK from Florida State.

"I didn't consider Kentucky (out of high school)," Wilkins said. "And I really didn't give up on Alabama. I was a fair shot because of all the losing and problems up here in the past and all. Even when I came home from Florida State I was considering some other place like Vandy. But some of my friends talked me into visiting UK. It's a completely different atmosphere here now. We have team unity and pride. If I'd used proper judgment I'd have come here in the first place. It's great."

Wilkins' testimonial reflects a prevailing attitude around the UK camp and that brings us to a little guesswork.

Hatch I. Kentucky is going to have a good season, say 7-4 or perhaps 8-3. And there is tangible supporting evidence.

First, the schedule. Kent State, Indiana, Tulane, Open, Rutgers, Mississippi State and LSU had losing records last season and the toughest among them, LSU, comes to Lexington, UK ought to have a 5-1 record by Oct. 20, with perhaps a loss at Mississippi State. That will bring the bowl scouts sniffing.

Hatch II. UK's next five games—four against SEC foes—are in almost sold-out Commonwealth Stadium where the Wildcats won four of their six games last season. A couple of wins down the stretch could make things "peachy" by New Year's.

Hatch III. Kentucky will win some games 24-22, 31-20, and the like. That is, UK's defense will probably, in the words of the coach, "bend some, but hopefully won't break," while the offense looks to have plenty of potency.

Quarterback Bill Ransford is the key. If he clicks as a starter the way he did as Randy Jenkins' relief pitcher, and if senior tailback George Adams lives up to his (established) reputation, then the UK's ought to "outscore" its opposition.

Claiborne can afford to leave elaborate guesswork and predictions to those foolish enough to make them, but one senses that the coach feels quite good about his team's chances of having another success.

"One winning season doesn't make a winning tradition, and that's what we're trying to establish here, tradition," he said. "But I'm not a prophet. If I were one I'd be in the stock market."

But the hints and hunches are all good ones during these dog days of August.

Mel Turpin

According to Cleveland Cavaliers' general manager Harry Wetman, the NBA team and Melvin Turpin are still far from a contract agreement. Seems the former Kentucky star's agent is asking for more money than the Cavs are willing to pay.

Funny thing about contract impasses in sports: The "far apart" agent is usually quickly depending on who walks in the door. Turpin's stock looks to have gone up this week when would-be Cavs center, 6-10 Geoff Crompton reported to camp. Crompton showed up weighing 343 pounds.

Stay tuned.

Knight said it

Maybe President Ronald Reagan should have checked with the U.S. Olympic coach before talking about the Russians last weekend. After the U.S. won the gold medal Bobby Knight told reporters in Los Angeles: "I've watched the Russians play for two years and we'd beat them—anywhere they want to play."

Comment: The White House lawn would be nice. Reagan is good on radio. He could do the play-by-play.

Steve Alford

Indiana University's contribution to the U.S. gold medal winner in basketball at the Los Angeles Olympics has already found a place for its medal.

"I'm giving it to my father (coach Sam Alford)," young Alford told Bloomington sports editor Bob Hammel last week. "The greatest feeling, definitely, was the raising of the flag after we had our medals. Sure, I sang the national anthem. All of us did. It was unbelievable."

Alford certainly has quieted his critics since signing with IU. And this reporter is reminded "frequently" by my "Hoosier Platoon" friend that I was one of those who rated Kentucky's James Blackmon well ahead of Alford.

I was wrong.

McKinney said Tuesday that the reason Parkerson stopped having classes in the two rooms was because J & R Salvage was the same company that took asbestos out of Brodhead School in Feb., 1983 and he (Parkerson) did not want to take any chances involving the safety of any student.

PTA met Tuesday night to discuss the problem at Brodhead and have scheduled another meeting for this Thursday night at 7 p.m. at the school. They have invited Mr. Parsons to the meeting to explain about the asbestos.
