Asbestos problems

That left about $15 million in asbestos abatement work to be done, she said, and of that amount some was probably completed during the summer but not yet reported to the department.

The total cost of eliminating friable asbestos that is crumbling and potentially cancer-causing—from school buildings in Kentucky was estimated at $19.4 million in the survey.

Of the 10 districts that did not respond to the survey, five had earlier reported they had no asbestos problems. The other five faced asbestos abatement costs totaling $1 million at the time of a similar survey in 1983.

The 1,309 districts represented 1,309 schools, of which 171 schools in 83 districts reported problems with friable asbestos on ceilings or walls. Abatement measures totaling nearly $3 million had been taken at 104 schools, and replacement materials had been applied by 66 schools at a cost of $562,261.

The presence of friable asbestos used for insulation on pipes, boilers, storage tanks and the like is a much more prevalent problem, department officials said. Its presence was reported by 649 schools in 144 districts, including 76 districts where some schools also had problems with asbestos on ceilings or walls.

The survey shows that abatement measures for asbestos in plumbing-related uses had been taken by 411 schools at a cost of $587,375, and 137 schools had applied replacement materials at a cost of $226,114.

Robert Spillman, associate superintendent for local services, said that as of the survey date 88 public schools in Kentucky still had abatement work to be done both for sprayed-on asbestos in school buildings and for asbestos on pipes or water tanks. Those schools are in 41 districts, he said.

An additional 10 schools in eight districts had problems only with friable asbestos on ceilings or walls, and 404 schools in 72 districts had work remaining to be done only with the plumbing-related types of asbestos, he said.

Kentucky schools with asbestos work still to be done may qualify for aid under the federal Asbestos School Hazard Abatement Act of 1984, Spillman said.

An appropriation of $50 million was provided for the 1985 fiscal year.

The legislation assigns responsibility for the program to the governor of each state. Federal guidelines are still being developed for a record-keeping plan to be submitted by each governor's office.

Governor Martha Layne Collins will later be asked to submit a list of Kentucky school districts seeking help and to assign priorities on the basis of need and the extent of asbestos problems in those districts.

Kentucky school districts have also been advised by the Department of Education to join two legal actions involving asbestos manufacturers if they now have asbestos problems or previously had such problems, said Jim Judge, director of the Division of Buildings and Grounds.

The deadline for filing claims in the Chapter 11 bankruptcy of Johns Manville Corp., a leading asbestos manufacturer, has been extended by a federal judge to Jan. 31. The state buildings director recommended that districts unsure whether their materials came from Manville file claims in order to keep their options open.

The other case is a class-action suit in Pennsylvania involving asbestos manufacturers other than Manville, Judge said. Under a recent ruling, schools that have already removed asbestos will be able to join in the suit in an attempt to recover the money they spent.

Notices will be sent to school systems across the country informing them they are considered part of the class action unless they remove themselves from the suit, which names 55 asbestos manufacturers.

"We are advising school districts that if they have or have had an asbestos problem, they should join the suit," Judge said. The alternative of filing a separate suit "is expensive and time-consuming," he added.

Judge said the federal legislation "on asbestos abatement made local districts responsible for determining whether asbestos hazards exist in their schools, notifying parents and employees, and determining what action, if any, would be taken to resolve the problem. The federal law does not require abatement but does require notification and the maintenance of asbestos files at each school, he said.

"If there is asbestos in the building, then the parents and employees deserve to know about it," Judge said. "After they are notified, it's generally up to the local district and its public as to what is done about the problem."

The state Department of Education has no enforcement role with regard to asbestos, he noted, but is required by federal law to compile information on the progress of local school districts in complying with asbestos regulations and to forward this information to the U.S. Department of Education.

While spraying asbestos was sprayed on ceilings and walls for insulation, acoustics or appearance from about World War II to the early 1970's, before its potential hazards were generally known, Judge said. It was outlawed for sprayed-on use in 1973 and for other building uses during the next few years, he said.

No asbestos use was permitted in schools after Jan. 1, 1979, so reports are not required for schools built after that time.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has estimated that up to 14,000 schools in the United States contain crumbling asbestos and sets the total cost of removal at $1.4 billion.

Friable asbestos on ceilings or walls is "a monumental, expensive problem to deal with," Judge said. The 1984 abatement act says that in many schools, "materials containing asbestos fibers have become damaged or friable, causing asbestos fibers to be dislodged into the air" and that their presence "creates an unwarranted hazard to the health of the schoolchildren and school employees who are exposed to such materials."

Schools employ four methods in dealing with sprayed-on asbestos, Judge said: an operation and maintenance plan to minimize hazards; encapsulation in a lacquer-like material that makes the soft, flaky substance hard, enclose by some type of airtight wall, or removal.

Removal is "the only ultimate and final solution," Judge said. "With all the others, you still have the problem. The asbestos is still in the building. Abatement measures for asbestos on pipes, boilers or storage tanks are simpler and less costly, he said. They include an operation and maintenance plan to minimize hazards; use of some other material to cover the asbestos; or removal of the asbestos insulation, with or without its replacement by some other material.

Free eggs for local classrooms

Home economics students are limited when it comes to hands-on cooking experience with eggs. With limited food budgets, the very idea of every student fixing their own omelet may be considered prohibitive. Not so with our Free Egg Giveaway program for home economics classes.

After contacting the home economics teachers, an after-school workshop was held in each of the 5 counties participating: Rockcastle, Boyd, Fayette, Hardin and Martinburg. This meeting included demonstrations of egg cooking and audio-visuals.

Rockcastle Homemakers put on Holiday bazaar

Since I was worn to a frazzle from wrapping gifts for children for their moms and dads, adults, etc. I had to have a breather at noon, so I left the bazaar for lunch.

When my partner, Elia Mae Martin, and I returned to the Mt. Vernon Elementary School's door, the sounds from the gym sounded as if a gym class or a basketball game was in session. We knew who was making the noise! The county's homemakers and their partners were causing the "hullabaloo." The only calm and quiet person there was a man, Santa Claus.

Well, the homemakers giving demonstrations weren't noisy as they worked. Laraine Neuman demonstrated soft sculpture with Emily Gllovak's help. Juanita Davis, pine cone wreaths; Judy Makin, tone painting; Irene Baker, old fashion teddy bear; Cheryl Witt, molded card making; Margaret Coffey, cathedral windows; and Alta Bullock, chicken scratch embroidery.

The winners' names picked by Santa Claus from raffie boxes caused Juanita Davis, the winner of the Teddy Bear. Betty Rose, the winner of the Ginger Bread House, and Carolyn Chasteen, the winner of the baby quilt, to yell loud enough to be heard at all the tables.

The county's table was in the center of the gym with the individual county clubs' tables set up around the walls.

The Kiddie's corner proved to be the most popular table. The $1.00 and $2.00 gifts donated by the clubs were purchased by older students as well as the children. We didn't gift wrap the adults purchases, however.

Probably the homemade items that didn't sell can be put in both malls until next year's bazaar. I predict that this will be an annual event!

The county's table reduced items to "clear the table." I said to the table's keeper, "I'll give you all the money in my change purse for that $1.00 pot holder." She agreed. I gave her 45 cents.

Late customers got bargains. Don't miss the occasion next year! Elizabeth Mullins Reporter

Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving was begun when the Pilgrims sought to thank God for a bountiful ant harvest, knowing they were recipients of His benevolence and mercy. These God-fearing and God-loving people manifested openly a faith and trust in Almighty God and gave thanks. So what, then, would be more fitting than to set aside a special day of "thanksgiving" at the end of a bountiful harvest? This they did. They had gaiety and merriment, with a sumptuous feast of wild turkey, deer, ducks, choice vegetables and other such food as their early culture could provide. However, the accent was not on fleshy appetites and carnal desires. There was an over-riding consciousness that they were still under God's care, and there was no flagrant attempt to ignore it. "Thanksgiving" has lost much of its significance to that day set apart by our Pilgrim fathers. It has been polluted by unholy desires, carnal lusts, and selfish gratification in festivities, fun and frolic. The "spirit of thanksgiving" is epitomized by turkey and dressing, pumpkin pie, and football games. It is a day of ungodly delight, as our writer is God truly thanked? Even the practice of "thanksgiving" before meals is becoming gayer.

Thanksgiving is still a reminder to God's children to be more fervent in their devotions. If illnesses have been overcome, give thanks to God; but be even more thankful if illness has not been encountered. If you have been engaged in Christ (Eph. 1:3). We know that "every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming from the Father of lights...." (James 1:17). "Thanksgiving" is still a reminder to God's children to be more fervent in their devotions. If illnesses have been overcome, give thanks to God; but be even more thankful if illness has not been encountered. If you have been engaged in Christ (Eph. 1:3). We know that "every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming from the Father of lights...." (James 1:17).
May we fully evaluate all blessings which God has regularly supplied. "Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ" (Eph. 5:20).

Homemaker's local Blood Drive nets fifty-two pints

On Tuesday, November 6, 52 people donated blood at the Bank of Mt. Vernon in Rockcastle County. The drive was sponsored by Central Kentucky Blood Center and the Rockcastle County Homemakers.

Contributing to the successful drive is the Bank of Mt. Vernon for letting us use their facility to draw blood. The Rockcastle County blood program is greatly aided by the community support of the ARGUMENTS for publicizing these Mt. Vernon drives. Thanks to the generosity of Druther's Restaurant all donors received a free chicken dinner.

Blood donors are extraordinary people who give a vital human resource to help patients on their way to recovery. Central Kentucky Blood Center recognizes this effort and gives awards of appreciation based on the number of times a person has donated.

Upon completing their eighth donation (one gallon), donors are eligible to receive a special key chain which is imprinted with the donors' blood type and number of gallons given. New key chains are given after completing each additional gallon. The key chain is numbered and postage guaranteed if the keys are lost and dropped in a mail box.

When a donor reaches 10 gallons a special plaque is presented to recognize outstanding contributions to their community's blood supply. Central Kentucky Blood Center depends on the generosity and support of the supporters of the Rockcastle County blood program to help meet the increasing need for blood and blood components. ## Local Social Services department employees complete 31 hour training Staff from the Rockcastle County Office of the Kentucky Department for Social Services recently completed 31 hours of training. The training was sponsored by the Department of Social Services of troubled families. Mike Bryant of Mt. Vernon, field office supervisor; Kathy St. Clair of Irvine, social worker; and Cora LePore of Mt. Vernon, social worker, earned continuing education units from the University of Kentucky for their efforts.

Social Services Commissioner, Anna Grace Day said the program was designed to help the department's social workers to offer more to the family with problems than just an investigation and the breakup of a family where child abuse or neglect may have occurred. "We must always work first to keep a family together," Day said. "We cannot allow the existence of programs such as foster care, adoptions, group homes, or other residential placements to become our first line of treatment. They must be alternatives which are only used when there is no hope of getting the family back together to meet the child's needs."

A primary goal of the training is to increase the social worker's ability to deal with the "involuntary client" part of their work. Bryant said. "This training concentrated on areas of skills which in our turn must use in working effectively with children and their families. Our staff works for the protection of the child, but we also realize that disruption of the family can have its own negative impact on the child. That is where this training program will help each of us to sharpen our techniques on situations where separation of the child from the rest of the family can be avoided through counseling and direct involvement of all family members in solving the problems in that particular home."

McCowan, DeBorde plead guilty to reckless homicide

By: Richard Anderkin

Two Rockcastle County men have pled guilty to reckless homicide.

Robert J. McCowan, 53, of Lameroy will be sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary on December 14th after he pled guilty in Circuit Court on November 12th to the homicide of Arthur W. Jones of Livingston on July 18th, 1983.

McCowan was granted a mis-trial last April because of a story in the Signal about his upcoming trial. Most of the jurors read the story and a mis-trial was granted by Circuit Judge Dan Venters.

McCowan's plea was in conjunction with the July 18, 1983 incident in which he reportedly shot Jones to death at the home of Thelma Keene, 43, of Lameroy.

Jones, who was 28 at the time of his death, died at the Rockcastle County Hospital after he was taken there by his father, Ovie Jones, and Ms. Keene.

McCowan will be sentenced by Circuit Judge Venters on December 14th.

Michael DeBorde of Mt. Vernon also pled guilty in Circuit Court on November 7th to reckless homicide in connection with a traffic accident on Ky. 1505, 5 miles north of Brodhead on April 25th.

DeBorde will receive one year in the state penitentiary when he is sentenced on November 30th by the Circuit Judge.

DeBorde's plea was in conjunction with an accident which claimed the life of James Northern, 27, of Brodhead.

According to police reports, DeBorde was racing his vehicle with that of Ricky Bussell, 26, of Brodhead when Bussell failed to negotiate a curve on 1505 and hit a tree.

Police said that the impact caused Northern to be thrown from the Bussell car in which he was a passenger, causing him to strike his head and kill him. He was pronounced dead at the scene by local coroner Bill Dowell.

Bussell was also indicted for reckless homicide in connection with the case, but police have been unable to locate him.

Another county resident, Dean McCoy also pled guilty in Circuit Court last week to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, and will receive 12 months in the county jail when he is sentenced December 14th.

McCoy's plea stemmed from an incident earlier this year when (Cont. to A8)

Parents, school personnel offer opinions at Forum

By: Leigh Anne Hiatt

Rockcastle Countians confronted problems that ranged from student discipline to the dropout rate during an historical town forum on education.

The forum was held Thursday night at the Rockcastle County High School in conjunction with almost all of the state's 180 public school districts who were conducting meetings at the same time.

The idea and the format for the forums came from the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence, a state organization.

In Rockcastle, there were 112 teachers, parents, administrators and interested citizens who attended the 2½ hour meeting to voice their opinions about education in the county and listen to what others had to say.

Judy Stewart-Shackelford, the chairman of the Prichard Committee for Rockcastle, opened the forum by explaining that its main purpose was to provide expression of opinion about what public schools should be doing.

The evening's format was designed to let as many people as possible speak for two minutes. To avoid argument or debate, a speaker was not allowed to give comments to disagree with another person, but was to simply state their own ideas concerning the county's school system.

Before the discussion began, the audience watched a brief address concerning the forums on Kentucky Educational Television. The program featured Gov. Martha Layne Collins, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald, and former Gov. Bert T. Combs, who was filling in for Edward F. Prichard, Jr., the chairman of the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence.

Prichard was ill and unable to appear.

Collins said on the broadcast, "Our efforts can be an important step in education. Better schools mean a better life for all Kentuckians. You are the key."

McDonald said, "For years Kentucky has lagged the nation in education; our children and our state have suffered. I know our students are as intelligent as those in other states. Kentucky has lagged with a crisis in education."

Combs, a member of the Prichard Committee, explained that the committee was made up of 40 to 50 people from across the state who met to discuss ways to improve the education system in Kentucky. From the forums the group will get ideas about what need to be done.

The moderator for the Rockcastle County forum was Wayne Stewart, who directed comments from the floor after the KET broadcast.

Carolyn Lamb and Gary Mink, vocational school graduates, and Donna Hopkins, a vocational school teacher for 14 years, all proposed that the state channel more funds into vocational training. They said the money should be used for up-to-date programming and equipment so that students can be competitive in the job market if they choose not to go to college.

Nancy Mullins, a parent and a high school teacher, said that more emphasis needs to be placed on academic excellence. She recommended more competitions for students to participate in, such as debate teams, math contests, and the 4-H speech contest.

Bussell was also indicted for reckless homicide in connection with the case, but police have been unable to locate him.

Sammy Ford, a parent, received applause when he said teachers need to know they have

New deadline for discount on property taxes

Because property tax bills were late in getting out this year, a new deadline has been set for paying taxes and receiving the full discount.

Rockcastle County Sheriff William Taylor's office said Tuesday that the new deadline is December 14th, and that any resident paying their taxes by that date will receive a 2% discount.

The tax bills were late getting out this year because the state would not certify the 1983 taxes until 92% of them had been collected.

The 92% was not collected, but a total of just over 90% of the taxes were paid, and the state certified them because this year's tax bills needed to go out.

This year's burley tobacco market opens with average price over $1.87

Tobacco markets are open, and the price is higher than a year ago.

Monday morning tobacco markets across the state of Kentucky began their sale season for 1984, and the average price per pound was $1.87.

The opening day price was about 11 cents higher on the pound than the average price one year ago.

Kentucky markets sold 20.3 million pounds on opening day, and most farmers were pleased with the higher price.

Last year only 14.3 million pounds of tobacco sold on opening day, and the average price was $1.77. Last year's drought stricken crop was the smallest in four decades and was generally of poor quality.

Although the price was higher on opening day, about 35 per cent of the tobacco sold went into the "pool."

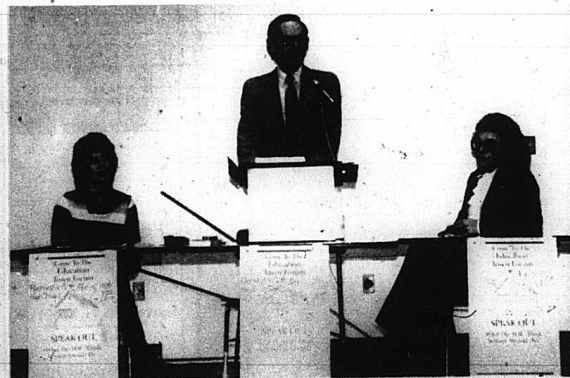

Most of the tobacco going into the federally funded pool was that of higher grades that has a support price as high as $1.95.

Averages for surrounding markets were as follows: London, $1.88; Richmond, $1.89; the highest average in the state, Winchester, $1.88; Somerset, $1.87; Danville, $1.88; and Lexington, $1.87.

Getting Ready For Market... The 1984 tobacco market has opened and prices are better than last year. Above, Randall Stevens, Myrtle Alexander, Lydia Roberts and Pate Bullock are shown stripping tobacco in a barn near Spiro Monday night. This is a familiar sight across the county as farmers attempt to get their crop ready for market.

Hospital administrator, Wayne Stewart, served as Moderator for last Thursday night's Town Forum at the high school. Karen King left, recorded the opinions given by those present on "What I Think Our Schools Should Do." Judy Stewart-Shackelford welcomed those attending and set out the guidelines for the forum.

 Mt. Vernon Signal
 Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456

Signal helps us to keep up with people and happenings in the area.

Dear Editor:

In addition to those special thanks that we have extended already, we would be remiss if the following two groups were not recognized.
 Our sincere appreciation goes to the ladies of the Mt. Vernon PCA office: Pat, Jewel, and Sherry, for taking responsibility for the Mt. Vernon Signal for their coverage.
 Thank you for your very important help.

Sincerely,
 Audrey (Brown) Payne

P.S. I am sending a copy of a poem about autumn, my favorite season, which I would like to share with other Signal readers if you have space for it.

Autumn Magic

The rhythmic sound of raindrops plopping on a cardboard box. The freshness of the breeze drifts in to greet my eager nostrils at the door.

The sun comes out to shine, its brilliance shouting its defiance to the rain.

The heart within me swells to bursting now. O' Autumn, please don't work your magic any more.

A.L.E.R.T. program helps anyone to learn to read

If you are between the ages of 16 and 95 and unable to read, you should know about the A.L.E.R.T. program, available through the local library.

A.L.E.R.T. (Adult Learning Experiences Reading Tutoring) provides volunteer tutors, on a one-to-one basis, and materials designed especially for adult learners.

The program is free and you may obtain more information by calling the Rockcastle County Library at 256-2388.

If you can't read, there are several dangers such as illness, even death, because you can't read medicine labels; accidents because you can't read, safety instructions or danger signs and, most of all, an empty mind because you can't fill it with ideas from the printed page.

The program will enable you to be able to read the Bible; enjoy books and magazines; know what's going on in newspapers and journals; understand legal documents and read and write letters to your loved ones.

Please remember, the program is FREE and tutors are available so, if you are interested, call 256-2388 for more information.

meet Barbara Rader's challenge on raising plumgrannies. Freda's answer was, "We may not be able to raise as many as she does, but we'll bring out our potatoes, some weighing as much as two pounds each. That will show her what we do in Fairview until we get a melon start."

Charley King, Clear Creek tax assessor, tells me he will plant his seed on the high banks behind his house and the melon vines will grow down the bank to him. That shows Charley wasn't behind the door when brains were passed out.

plans in raising the little melons. "Yes, I'll put in a crop of the plumgranny. I know I can sell all I raise to Jack and Robert Smith, also Cameron Bartlett, another bachelor up the road. The fellows will take them when they go courting."

Conley Saylor took the three I gave him wrapped in fancy paper and ribbons home to pretty wife, Virginia. He had been telling everybody that he had found her in a briar patch. So he has been trying to square things at home.

"But he made me give him the seeds later," Virginia said as she thanked me for the melons. Now I find out Saylor plans to raise them so needing land to grow the melons he hopes to go in partners with Ronald Swinford who owns land on Hammond Fork Road.

Ronald is anxious to try a new crop, but Conley had better play the deal close for I know Ronald owns an old muzzle loader rifle and, like all Kentucky men, he can use it.

Saylor probably means to put up a stand 'outside' Superior Market in Berea.

In talking to Swinford's farm manager, Don Gadd, I asked him how he felt about making the switch from raising peppers to plumgrannies for a new money crop. "The only thing I have to say is that I can't expect much help in hoeing out the crop from Ronald or Conley either one when the sun gets hot."

Janine Ramsey who meets the postman at the door to get the Signal on Friday (and is nice to me in seeing that I get her copy for extra), says she'll grow some of the melons for they bring back memories of Wildie days where she once lived.

April Gay, the Texas 'red-head', says she'll start a crop there to help out on the land for the Ewings have cornered the oil market.

Jack Dorman in Florida has had great success on the beach when he carried a plumgranny in the pocket of his swimming trunks. He says he since had to fight off the girls. Now, why fight, Jack?

Bill Stephens of Scaffold Cane tells me how the plumgranny helped him out in courting his wife, Flossie. It seems Bill was slow about getting serious until someone at the Blair home left a real ripe little melon on the couch the Sunday Bill came calling, and Bill sat on the thing. (Could Flossie have framed the fellow?)

Now the melon burst, but that did the trick. Bill was so overcome with the delightful smell that he proposed and they were soon married.

Leonard Abney, another bachelor has learned the melon's value "romance wise" and plans to put some in a large flowerpot on his porch. Leonard knows the melons will cause pretty girls to stop and talk about them while he is on the porch.

Elmer and Edith Hale of Roundstone are interested in a new crop, so I'm sending them some of the seeds. Rather, we exchanged products since Elmer gave me a stalk of red, hot peppers to bring to John.

"And I mean they're hot," Elmer said. "You better stand by with a bucket of water when he puts these peppers in his food."

Sam Broadus of Owsley Fork and Brenda Powell of Conway are throwing their hats in the melon ring. Since they both work for Berea Farm Store, they probably plan to sell them there.

I will now close out on this

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shell proudly display one of the many quilts that Mr. Shell is famous for. Mr. Shell is a native of Rockcastle County and since his retirement from Generators Motors 1 and a half years ago he has completed 27 of these such quilts. Mr. Shell was in Mt. Vernon recently visiting his brother-in-law Oliver Abney. He also gave a talk and displayed his quilts at the Senior Citizen's Center in Mt. Vernon. Mr. and Mrs. Shell now live in Hamilton Ohio and Mr. Shell has made quilting his number one hobby since his retirement. Mr. Shell says that one of his quilts usually sell for over 125 and that he says is cheap. His wife helps him out by putting the bedding on the quilts.

Johnson Grass Control

By: Tom Mills
County Extension Agent for Agriculture

Johnsongrass has been known as one of the most difficult grasses to control in field corn for years. However, new chemicals and production techniques are allowing farmers to bring this weed under control.

In 1983, John Laswell and farm manager, Calvin Morgan, participated in a Noxious Weed Control Demonstration sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and Cooperating Extension Service. Land heavily infested with Johnsongrass was being left fallow for participation in the PIK program. During August, this 6 acre plot was sprayed with Round Up at 2 quarts per acre. Round Up at this rate gave an excellent herbicide kill of existing foliage and rhizomes in the soil. Occasional discing is sufficient to destroy seedlings which emerge from spraying time until frost.

1984's Corn crop was delayed until late May to allow the soil to dry and warm up for better results of incorporated herbicides. Existing farm equipment was rigged with spray equipment to incorporate all corn herbicides in front of the disc and mixed by a drag chain harrow. Incorporated chemicals included Eradicane Extra and Atrazine at recommended rates. The picture below shows the results. Calvin Morgan poses at the dividing line in the field where behind him in Continuous Corn with incorporated chemical and to the left is Incorporated Chemical plus previous year's treatment with Round Up. ASCS measured yields to show the difference between the two plots. The Round Up treated land yielded 110 bushel/acre compared to 69 bushel/acre from the adjacent plot. A 41 bushel difference with an estimated 95 1/2 kill rate on Johnsongrass shows that this weed can be controlled. Once high weed populations are lowered, two to three years of incorporated chemicals will help keep this field from becoming re-established with Johnsongrass.

An investment of approximately $40 per acre returned 41 bushel of corn or approximately 3 fold return to money invested. The year's loss will more than be regained by additional yield in coming years.

Correction

In a story about hoarding assistance in last week's Signal, the local Department for Social Insurance was referred to as the Welfare office. This was wrong. Also the office is open from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and not 5:00 p.m. 544 disabled persons applied for help and 388 low income people also applied. The numbers were switched last week. Also the limit on income for a home with 2 persons is $560 and not $500.

subject, but before I do, I make this offer, purely in hopes of helping the economy of our country. For a stamped, self-addressed envelope mailed to me at this address: 405 Center St., Berea, Ky., 40403, I will mail three seeds to anyone who would like to get a start on raising them next year. Remember, one vine can have 6-157 seeds on it so the next year you will really make hay. Till them: (3rd Verse)

When it comes to health care, there's no place like... home.

There's no place like home. This is especially true if you're sick, elderly, disabled or recuperating from an accident or operation. You'd rather be home than in a hospital, nursing home or other institution and the home care professionals of the Rockcastle County Health Center can probably help. Now, home care is not for everyone but, it may be ideal for an elderly person living alone, a recovering heart attack victim or a dying cancer patient. Home Health Care is tailored to the patient's condition and the family situation. You may need a home health aide to help you with personal care services like bathing, or a registered nurse to help you with medications or dressing a wound. You may need physical therapy, speech therapy or medical social services. Whatever your health needs, call the Rockcastle County Health Center at 256-2242. We are ready to care.

Wren-Bullock vows said at Fairview Baptist

Jeri Laine Wren of Mt. Vernon and Dannie D. Bullock of Brodhead were married at Fairview Baptist Church in August. Rev. Harvey Pensol performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, chose for her gown, white satin with fitted bodice overlaid with lace. The sleeves were of lace, long and fitted with a row of pearl buttons at the wrist. The fingertip veil was attached to a crown of white satin with a cluster of seed pearls.

Her bouquet was a mix of pink and burgundy silk roses, lilies of the valley and baby's breath.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Benita S. Jordison, who wore a pink off-the-shoulder floor length dress trimmed with lace and a pink satin sash. She carried a spray of long stemmed pink silk roses.

Candle lighters were Tracy Bullock and Melora Rae Wren.

They wore identical rose-colored street length dresses.

Serving as best man was Royce Killon. Ushers were Lloyd Jordison and Billy D. Powell. Aunts of the bride, Chrystal Powell and Daphne Baird of Berea assisted with the serving at the reception which was held in the Church basement following the wedding. Attending the guest register was Terry Ray Gibbons.

Music was provided by Mrs. Loretta Hunt of Berea. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wren of Mt. Vernon. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lonzo Bullock of Brodhead. Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hundley of Berea.

Jeri Laine is an employee of Stewart's Farm Service in Mt. Vernon, and Dannie is a self-employed farmer. They are living at Rt. 1, Brodhead.

Attendance was good for Thursday's night Town Forum on education at Rockcastle County High School, held in conjunction with other meetings across the state. Several parents and school personnel expressed their opinions on the topic "What I Think our Schools Should Do," during the meeting. Among those in attendance were, from left: Mt. Vernon Mayor Roland Mullins; Laura Durham, librarian at RCHS; Juanita Stanley, retired MVES teacher; Eddie Cash, Mary Neville Cash, BES teacher and Katherine Bradley, BES teacher.

"Plead Guilty"

he reportedly stole a pickup truck which belonged to R. V. Brock of Mt. Vernon.

Another guilty plea in Circuit Court got a local man a one year sentence and two years on probation.

Michael Eversole of Livingston, pled guilty to facilitation to commit theft over $100 on November 8th, and was sentenced to his probation on November 12th.

Two other men that were involved with the same case as Eversole were found guilty in Circuit Court on November 8th also.

James L. Morris and David Wayne Mahaffey were found guilty of receiving property valued over $100. Both men will be sentenced to 12 months in jail on December 14th.

Both the plea and two guilty verdicts were the result of an incident earlier this year when three men tried to sell some stolen copper wire to A. B. Thomson of Mt. Vernon. The wire had been stolen from a power plant in northern Kentucky.

Earl Overbey, 18, of Livingston was found guilty last Wednesday to theft by unlawful taking of over $100. Overbey, who was also arrested earlier this year in connection with a rash of break-ins in the county, will be sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary on December 14th.

support from parents and the administration in their disciplining. "The system, as it is now, deters discipline," he said.

Delores Albright, a parent and social worker, expressed concern over the dropout rate and suggested it might be improved by lowering the student/teacher ratio. She also said there's a need for more central office staff, such as counselors and a child psychologist.

"I feel a strong, working relationship with the district court system is needed for parents to be told what will happen to their children if they don't go to school," said Mrs. Albright.

Parent Brenda Merritt said it's important for parents to take an interest in their children's homework.

Earl Butler said that drug abuse among students caused a higher dropout rate and lower grades. He suggested the problem might be helped if students received more information about the consequences of drug abuse.

Diana Taylor, a parent, said she would like to see parent volunteers take over some of the paperwork for teachers. She also said that there needs to be rewards for students at all levels of performance.

John Wells said children must be convinced that school is the most important thing in their lives.

NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE
Pursuant to Application No. 502-0047

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.055, notice is hereby given that Ikerd-Bandy Co., Inc., P. O. Box 246, Ferguson, Kentucky 40023, intend to file an amendment to existing Application No. 502-0047 for the surface disturbance mining of approximately 25 additional acres located 1/2 mile southeast of Pongo community in Rockcastle County. The proposed operation is approximately 1/8 mile east of Ky. 1249's junction with Eagle Creek and located 1/2 mile east of Buffalo Baptist Church.

Latitude 37 degrees 12' 29", longitude 84 degrees 18' 39". The surface of the area to be mined is owned by Lula Mize, Ronald Mink, Gene Cromer, and Lonzo Mize. A brief description of the kind of mining activity proposed is contour mining. The application for the proposed operation is on file at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, London Regional Office, State Office Building, London, Kentucky 40741.

Notice is hereby provided pursuant to 30 CFR 715.13 (d) (10) and KRD 350 that the proposed post mining land use of hayland and pasture constitutes a change from the undeveloped pre-mining land use. Interested citizens and local, State, and Federal Agencies are invited to review and comment, to the address listed above, on the proposed land use.

Persons wishing to file written objections and/or request a formal administrative hearing in regard to the above described surface mine should notify the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection within 30 days of the date of this notice. The written objection must have attached a copy of the newspaper clipping, and reference the above application number. Such objection or request must be in accordance with KRS 224.081 (2) and must be forwarded to the Director of Permits, Bureau of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. 16x3 instead of looking at education as an obstacle. "He added that a parent counselor would help parents know what their children need to succeed."

Parent Gertha Mink said she was concerned about the children not getting their hands on computers. She said she'd like to see some of the school system's money be used to buy computers and finance other programs, such as in creative arts. "I'd like to see some of the interest money in the bank utilized," she said.

Jamette Butler said remedial classes and class segregation should be discontinued because remedial students are behind when they graduate from high school.

Roland Mullins, mayor of Mt. Vernon, also drew applause when he said, "One thing schools should do is recognize we've taken on community problems." He cited drug abuse, child abuse and hunger (providing students with breakfast) as a few of the problems educators have to cope with. He said these should be "put away from schools and let the schools do what they're set up to do."

Karen King, the recorder and coordinator for the forum, wrote down the opinions the 15 speakers gave during the session and posted them on large sheets of paper on the cafeteria walls.

Wayne Stewart then led the audience in voting on the proposals so that suggestions could be set on which priorities were most important. The opinions were rated from one to five, with one being the most priority.

The audience found it hard to discriminate between the suggestions and a majority of them received top priority. Only two proposals received a number three and one proposal got a number five.

Before the meeting adjourned, Stewart took nominations from the floor to elect a liaison to deliver information between the county and the Pritchard Committee for Academic Excellence. Elizabeth Baker, a junior high special education teacher at the Mt. Vernon Elementary School, was chosen.

Stewart closed the forum by saying, "This has been one of the best meetings I've ever been in - this has been such a pleasant surprise. Out of the meeting have come things valuable for teachers, parents and the community."

The proposals gathered at the forum will be compiled and sent to Frankfort. The state will then publish the results from all of the districts in the state and the information will be made available to the public.

Elizabeth Baker, the liaison, later said about the meeting: "The forum was a great success as everyone present had the opportunity to state their opinion on what our schools need in order to improve education and to rank those opinions in order of priorities."

"The meeting was conducted in a very professional manner and everyone felt free to discuss their ideas. We are to meet again in January and the decision will be made at that time concerning the future direction of the forum."

"I think we headed in the right direction," said Danny Ford, parent and state representative for Kentucky's 80th district. "At least we have parents, administrators and teachers sitting down and discussing the problems. I don't think the children here in Kentucky are less capable than in any other state and I think we just need to develop that potential."

Brodhead PTA Chili Supper and Variety Show set for November 30

Brodhead PTA's Chili Supper and Variety Show will be held on the 18th August term of Circuit Court, was also set down for trial during the November term, but a complication with her lawyer has postponed her trial to a later date. Ms. Jones' other trial ended in a hung jury.

Farley Newcomb, 45, of Rt. 2, Livingston, was also set down for the November term of Circuit Court, but his trial has been postponed until February 11th of next year.

Newcomb will be tried for the April 29th murder of Ernest Humphrey Singleton of Lamer; Newcomb's trial was postponed because he had to hire a new lawyer.

Brad Brown, 17, formerly of Mt. Vernon, who was certified as an adult, was to have been tried on November 12th for the January 22nd armed robbery of Convenience Food Mart in Mt. Vernon. According to the Circuit Clerk's office, Brown is presently in jail in Virginia, and his trial on the robbery charge has been postponed.

Friday, November 30, from 5:00 to 8:30. The chili supper will be served in the cafeteria from 5:00 to 6:30. Special entertainment will be provided by the Rockcastle County Arts Council in the cafeteria from 6:00 to 6:15 and in the gymnasium from 6:30 to 7:00 p.m.

The variety show, featuring your "stars" from grades K-8, will begin at 7:00 in the gym. The theme of this show is "Careers on Parade - Shoot for the Stars." Each grade will perform, and this promises to be an exciting program, comparable to last year's.

1984 deer harvest is up

Kentucky's deer hunters are on their way to setting another new harvest record for the Bluegrass state, according to a preliminary check with Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources regional law enforcement supervisors across the state.

During the statewide gun hunting season, which opened Nov. 3 and ran for 10 days in most counties in Kentucky, conservation officers checked 18,035 deer hunters in the commonwealth's 114 open counties.

Statewide, 21,237 deer were checked through check stations or were checked by conservation officers. This number does not include deer taken during the first phase of the archery season (Oct. 1-Nov. 1) or those harvested from wildlife management area special hunts.

Last year, 15,046 hunters were checked and 15,676 deer taken, according to a similar survey. This year's harvest represents a 35.5 percent increase over the 1983 season and should mean a new record harvest for Kentucky.

Harvest figures have set new yearly records since 1976, reflecting the continued rapid growth of Kentucky's deer herd. The highest harvest was in the Second Wildlife District, in West-Central Kentucky, where 6,073 deer were taken.

The first District (far Western Kentucky) and the fifth (the North-Central part of the state) tied for second, each with 3,639 deer, followed by the sixth district (the Bluegrass) with 2,150. All districts reported an increase in harvest except the ninth, in Southeastern Kentucky.

The state's conservation officers made 483 arrests during the gun deer season and recorded at least 265 illegally taken deer. Most of these illegal deer were done taken in bucks-only areas.

The bow hunting season resumed Nov. 14 and will continue through Dec. 31. Deer Program submitting it to area competition, (2) being an officer in the club who won the area community pride contest last year, or (3) being the top two in the county award of excellence contest.

The trip was sponsored in part by the Area 4-H Council. In the past, the Area Council has sponsored a banquet for these outstanding 4-H'ers. This year a recognition trip was planned to encourage more youth to complete their project records. With this year's overwhelming positive response, it is most likely that the recognition trip will permanently replace the recognition banquet as a way of rewarding project work.

Projects entered in Area competition and the results were: Hamilton, Agriculture--Blue Champion; Chris Bullock, Bicycle, White; Cindy Witt, Breed, Blue; and Clothing, Blue Champion; Kathy Howard, Careers, White; Jennifer Clark, Clothing, Red; and Vet Science, Red; Larissa Hayes, Dairy, Blue Champion; James D. Jones, Dog, Red; April Kendrick, Foods, Blue Champion; and Photography, Blue Champion; Sonia Morgan, Health, Red; Audrey Parrett, Home Management, White; Rita Lewis, Horticulture, Blue Champion; Anita Sowder, Crochet, White; Corey Craig, Petroleum Power, White; Lori Mink, Photography, White; Alison Sowder--Wood Science, Blue Champion; Cheryl Clark, Secretary Record Book, Red; Tracy Clark, Secretary Record Book, Blue Champion; Participating in the trip for their outstanding work in Community Pride were Beverly McClure, Jenny DeBoard, Serra Poynter, Alison Sowder, and Sherya McClure, leader.

The winners in the Award of Excellence contest were Jenny DeBoard and Beverly McClure in the junior category and Rita Lewis and Tracy Clark in the senior category.

Don't let the "bad guys" known as food illness spoil your holiday. Follow these precautions:

1. Defrost your turkey (or any holiday meat) in the refrigerator.
2. Keep the food hot (at least 140 degrees F) until ready to serve.
3. Keep-cold food cold at 40 degrees F or refrigerated until ready to serve.
4. Remove food from table and refrigerate immediately after the meal--especially gravy, dressings, stuffing, custard, and egg dishes. The time limit for food to be safely eaten at room temperature is two hours.
5. Reheat left-over food to be served at next meal in oven or microwave.

Nursing Facility receives 'Superior' rating from Human Resources Cabinet

A long term care facility in Rockcastle County has been rated "Superior" for individual levels of resident care under Kentucky's nursing home reform legislation. The "Superior" rating was made for the skilled nursing level of care provided by the Rockcastle Hospital in Mt. Vernon. The designation is made by the Cabinet for Human Resources' Division of Licensing and Regulations and is prepared for each long-term care facility in the state during the facility's annual recertification survey by the cabinet's staff. Human Resources Secretary cont. to Page B-2

8 from here receive scholarships

Eight Rockcastle County residents have been awarded J. C. McFerron Scholarships at Berea College.

The McFerron Student Assistance Fund was established in 1978 upon McFerron's death in 1978.

The fund is used to provide financial assistance for Berea College students from Rockcastle County where McFerron worked as a schoolteacher, principal and superintendent.

Recipients of the scholarships for the 1984-85 academic year are: David Burdine, Rt. 3, Brodhead, a sophomore and son of Luther and Frances Burdine; Dana Clifford, Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon, a sophomore elementary education major and daughter of William and Anna Clifford; Mark Lovell, Rt. 2, Mt. Vernon, a sophomore chemistry major and son of Dorothy Lovell; Robert A. Noe, Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon, a senior chemistry and German major and son of Robert and Dorothy Noe; Lisa Parsons, Rt. 1, Brodhead, a Senior home economics and dietetics major and daughter of James and Lillie Parsons; Craig White, Rt. 3, Brodhead, a sophomore and son of Elvin White; Sandra Wren; P. O. Box 13, Brodhead, a junior English major and daughter of Hazel Wren; and Rodney Wright, Rt. 1, Brodhead, a freshman and son of Vall and Doris Wright.

Ky. public schools are not finished with 'Asbestos' problem

Kentucky public schools are about a fourth of the way along in resolving their asbestos problems, a survey by the state Department of Education shows.

But schools in 121 local school districts still face asbestos abatement costs of about $15 million, department officials say. Some may find help in meeting those costs through a new federal asbestos program or through two legal actions involving asbestos manufacturers.

The 170 local districts responding to the survey reported that they had spent nearly $4.4 million on asbestos abatement as of last spring. Superintendent of Public Instruction Alice McDonald

Donations for Foster children

Christmas season is here and donations are again sought to assure that foster children in Rockcastle County have a joyful Christmas.

We currently have 21 foster children in Rockcastle County and may have more by Christmas.

"Christmas '84" is a time for sharing and giving, and there is no better feeling than helping a foster child with your donations.

Send donations to the Department for Social Services, P. O. Box 704, Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456, c/o Gordon Pope, Foster Care Worker.

If more information about "Christmas Donations for Foster Children" is needed, please call Debbie Carpenter at 256-2010 or Gordon Pope at 256-2138.

Listen to radio for school closing announcements

As the snow season approaches, the administrative staff for Rockcastle County Schools is making plans in dealing with such inclement weather.

Although the Rockcastle County Board of Education hopes schools will be open every day, student safety will be given primary consideration before any plan is implemented.

In the event of inclement weather, the superintendent and his staff will evaluate weather and road conditions before 6:00 a.m. as is possible. The stations are WRVK (1460) in Renfro Valley and (WHAS) in Louisville.

Parents and students should not call the radio stations or school staff members. Such calls tie up telephone lines and delay broadcast messages.

David Bales attends Fall clerk's meeting

Chief Deputy David R. Bales of the Rockcastle County Clerk's office attended the fall meeting of the Kentucky County Clerks' Association November 11-14 at the Holiday Inn North in Lexington.

During the convention, the clerks were instructed by the Department of Insurance on how to handle the new Proof of Insurance law which will become effective January 1, 1985.

Secretary of State Drexell Davis was on hand to inform the clerks of some changes in filing requirements and procedures for candidates in future elections. Also discussed by the Secretary, and of particular interest to most of the members, were the laws and specific problems concerning the certification of election results.

For some Rockcastle Counties, one of the most important items on the agenda was a seminar for the clerks conducted by representatives of the Department of Transportation. The classes dealt with the newly reformed "Extended Coal Weight" license regulation now available to truck owners. This law, which became public to get some idea of the type of service being provided under state regulations.

Skilled Nursing rated Superior

Levels of resident care not attaining "Superior" status are designated either "Unrated," which indicates that the service is in compliance with at least the minimum standards, or "Conditional Rating," which means that this particular level of care in that facility is in non-compliance with the standards.

Director Sara Pratt of the Licensing and Regulation Division said, "It's important for the public to understand that each separate level of service is rated individual."

Many facilities today offer two and sometimes three levels of residential care and each has its own rating. Levels of care at long-term care facilities include personal care, intermediate care, intermediate care/mental retardation-developmentally disabled, nursing home and skilled nursing.

In order to achieve a "Superior" rating, a facility must meet two requirements for the level of care involved. "First, it must be in compliance with the minimum standards for licensing in each of 11 areas," said Ms. Pratt. "Then, the facility must exceed those minimum standards in at least six of 11 areas of its operation."

Those 11 areas are administration, nursing services, dietary and nutritional services, life safety code, physical environment, physical and restorative therapies, services and activities, drugs and biologicals, medical services, patient rights and record keeping.

Ms. Pratt concluded, "To believe this process provides a real incentive to the long-term care facilities in Kentucky to achieve the highest possible rating."
