

"BOB WATKINS"

will come Wednesday when Alabama's Buck Johnson and Bobby Lee Hart will turn their ball and chains to Lexington.

"Kenny's taking a lot of punishment, also," Troy McKinley, his teammate said wincing. "It's unbelievable, but it makes him play even harder. Kenny still scores 35. He's just a great player."

A skywalker.
It was 10:39 in the second half and UK was leading Ole Miss 41-33 when Walker took a pass in the key area. When he turned for a move to the hoop Don Royster clothes-lined him across the face sending UK's franchise sprawling onto the blood drenched holding his face, writhing in pain. Royster stroled away.

UK trainer Walt McCombs and an aid rushed to the floor followed by a scowling Coach Joe B. Hall. As McCombs bent over Walker, Hall clutched his rolled up program in both hands and stalked referee Charlie Vacca, gave the official a piece of his mind. "They beat him to death all night long and you damned guys stand around and watch."

Vacca listened, then walked away. Hall snarled.
Walker got up, toweled his brow and swished a couple more foul shots, two of 13 of 18 for the night.

What more can the officials do to protect Kentucky's franchise?
Nothing short of blowing the whistle every time Walker posts up or gets the basketball in his hands.

Because even skywalkers must come down to earth sometimes where four...five would be wing clippers and shoes. That is how it must be for mythological talents.
Skywalker.
"Kenny is a special player," Ole Miss Coach Lee Hunt said. "In my opinion he is the premier forward in the country. We were dropping three, sometimes four players in around him and he still gets the ball, gets it better than anybody I've seen in my years in basketball."

"They're just rendered his mesmerizing view of skywalking."
"Kenny goes up and gets the ball better than anybody I've ever seen...comes down in traffic, gets his balance somehow, and has an uncanny ability to go back up and shoot off balance."

And Swick, Kentucky fans go bonkers then shake their heads and wonder "Did I really see that happen?"
Kenny Walker is such a pleasure to watch. Seeing him go up and hang there way he basketball players have done in our dreams is like seeing an Eagle soar and glide and float. It is as if he might never come down.

But also, because of the laws of gravity and nature UK's Skywalker does come down, because he is human after all. A franchise then. No less than that.

And the mortals know he is waiting for me and they are waiting for him.

That's too bad.
Festuing up.
Confestions, they say, are good for the soul. So, here comes one. Well a "semi" confession anyway.

Near the outset of this college basketball season I put forth the less-than-cosmic query: "Who will be the best college team in Kentucky this season...Kentucky, Louisville or Western Kentucky?"

The answer? Three months later, appears to be Murray State.

I missed it, right?
Well maybe.

Coach Ron Greene's racers (17-2 at this writing), are undeniably talented, but my confession demands a footnote and here it is: Compared to UK, U of L, and even Western Kentucky, Murray has built its gaudy record against a flyweight schedule. While UK and Louisville were playing Indiana, N.C. State, Cincinnati, DePaul, Memphis State and Louisiana Tech, the Racers were whipping up on West Virginia Tech, Lincoln Memorial and Lewis College.

And so, record-wise Murray looks to be the Commonwealth's best, but I'll stick with this pecking order—Louisville, UK, Western and then Murray.

Also early this season I suggested college fans ought to go out and bet the farm on the success this season of three dark horses.
They were Georgia Tech (17-4, ranked 10th), Notre Dame (11-5, unranked) and Western 11-5, a disappointment.)

College basketball...great fun isn't it?
Roundball (TV heaven).
A marriage made in (basketball) heaven, that's television and college basketball. Consider the 700 million of TV revenue realized from its 58-team tournament last season—$20,137,980.

Just to play one game in the journey a school received a check for $162,158. Projections for this year's 64-team tourney are $29-plus million.

And then some fans wonder why college coaches and directors of athletics allow television timeouts whenever a network wants to sell something.

Perhaps President Ronald Reagan would consult the NCAA about helping with the budget deficit.

Whatever, on the plus side college basketball as entertainment and television as a way of getting it to us are a perfect match. But there is always room for improvement, right?

Right. Turn down (off) the audio.
The game is being over-analyzed, beat to death by experts—former coaches, former players, former referees.

Joe Dean (Lorimer) can be forgiven since we all understand that he is a sneaky salesman first and foremost. But Al McGuire (NBC) and Billy Packer (CBS) are something else again. One wonders when Al or Billy will have a go at explaining why this player or that one wears jockey shorts instead of the other kind.

On Sunday, Feb. 3 even NBC's Dick Enberg could not resist a laugh-up-the-sleeve when, during the Notre Dame-UCLA game, McGuire gushed over Irish freshman David Rivers "...he's a Mieschlange. This kid's an Einstein."

For heaven's sake, Al—Give us a break!

And Billy Packer has long since put himself in coach John Thompson's pocket. After a Packer blitz of accolades over Georgetown, one might be persuaded that an opponent of the Hoyas is really just so much meat thrown on the floor.

And yet, a college fan not given to television burn-out, can a snappy and enjoy first rate entertainment.

How can it be improved?
Turn down the audio.

Letters

■ Ralph Parton writes from Central City with two inquiries:
Question: First, why does St. John's guard Chris Mullin wear a tee-shirt beneath his game jersey?
Answer: "Because he likes it," Katha-Quinn, sports information director at St. John's University said last week. "He wore it the first time when he played at Pittsburgh. (Jan. 14) because it was so cold in there."

■ Question: Second, why did William Burse (from Hopkinsville and drafted by San Diego of the USFL) transfer from UK to Kentucky State?

Answer: Unofficially, Burse—who was signed by Fran Curci—left UK because he wanted more playing time. And, coach Jerry Claiborne wanted the 65, 240-pounder to lose some weight.

■ Comment: Burse felt his football future was better somewhere else. Indications are he was right.

■ Jimmy Luker writes from Alton to ask "Was (UK's) James Blackmon Mr. Basketball in Indiana?" And "Was Troy McKinley Mr. Basketball in Kentucky?"

Answer: No and no. It was controversial at the time, but Steve Alford beat out Blackmon in 1983. Kentucky's 1981 Mr. Basketball was Phil Cox (Vandy) after Manuel Forrest (U of L) turned it down to play in an all-star game.

Newcomers

Chuck Mackoch, head basketball coach at Central Florida University in Orlando had a couple of interesting views in the January edition of the Basketball Times.

■ First, some advice for fledgling (high school or JUCO) coaches who harbor aspirations to move up the Division I one day. Mackoch says, "I think that you have to have realistic goals. If you never played the game, and to a certain extent don't look the part, you are not likely to advance very far in college coaching."

■ Comment: Look like what? Piffle. If that idea held up then what would these guys be doing to make a living. Rolfe Massimino (Villanova), Dale Brown (LSU), Lee Hunt (Ole Miss) and Ned Fowler (Tulane). Certainly none of them is a candidate for the Mr. America contest.

■ But, Mackoch adds, "You have to work at the game and at meeting people. You have to be a self-starter."

■ Comment: Meet people is another way of saying politics.

■ Mackoch was asked to name the best newcomers to Division I coaching.

■ Tony Yates at Cincinnati. "He knows how to recruit and he has rallied the community behind him."

Joey Meyer who "is in a great situation at DePaul. He has some tradition, is very personable, and is a very hard worker."

■ Kevin Mackoch at Cleveland State. "He seems to be making real good decisions on the types of kids he is trying to recruit."

Mackoch's list made me think of a few who belong on the "unsung college coaches list"—Mike Polo (Kentucky Wesleyan), Dana Kirk (Memphis State), Ron Greene (Murray State) and Dave Ellis at SMU.

Porting spot

Kentucky basketball coach Joe B. Hall's reaction to the last 35 of his team's overtime victory at Auburn. "They (Auburn) came down and got a shot, got the rebound, fumbled it, got it back in the cone, stopped to milk the cows and then got another shot. The horn never did go off."

NEXT WEEK:

A look at the NCAA tourney and All-American possibilities.

If you have a point of view you'd like to share, write to Bob Wolfkins, Route 1, Glendale, Ky. 42740.

Kentucky Treasures

Some of the most valuable paper coming into the Kentucky Treasury is hanging on its walls.

The State Treasury displays works by Kentucky artists in its reception room in the Capitol Annex in Frankfort. On display during February and March are works by twelve members of the Lexington Art League.

Previous shows featured works by Michael Finnell, who is known for his paintings of horses and Kentuckians; and Nellie Meadows, who is known for landscapes and flowers.

Kentucky Treasurer Frances Jones Mills said the art shows bring Kentucky treasures into the State Treasury. Shows generally run for two months. They are free and open to the public from 8:00 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The show by the Lexington Art League includes watercolor, pastel still life, photography, acrylic painting, wire-screen print, drawing, and intaglio original print.

Man is fatally injured in head-on collision on Big Hill

A Jackson County man was fatally injured in a head-on collision Tuesday caused by the "extremely slick road conditions" on Big Hill, according to state police Richmond Post.

James Bruner, 49, of Morrill, was pronounced dead on the scene by Madison County Coroner Emery Curry.

A 1979, Chevy 4-wheel drive pick-up, heading downhill, collided with Bruner's uphill bound 1981

Chevy in the center of the road about 4:30 p.m. Bruner was killed from the impact, said Trooper Paul Hays.

'84 had about 50% less forest fires

This past year Kentucky had fewer forest fires than at any time in the past ten years.

During 1984, 1,423 forest fires burned over 17,283 acres of forest land, only 52 percent of the ten-year average, attributed to very favorable weather conditions and increased fire prevention and law enforcement efforts.

the cases, and a number are still pending. Even small fires can damage or kill the bark at the base of trees, and that damaged bark allows insects and decay to enter the wood. In time, these organisms can reduce the tree to a worthless cull. This loss in value occurs over the life of the tree and can result in a future loss of over $2,000 per acre.

The world record for hamburger consumption was set back in 1979 when Alan Peterson of Longview, Washington in half an hour, he managed to wolf down 29.34 hamburgers, weighing 3-1/2 ounces each, for a total of 4-1/2 pounds of meat plus buns.

Elect Albert YORK 5th District MAGISTRATE

Subject to May Republican Primary

The office of Magistrate is an important office. It is important for you, the voters, to elect an honest, qualified person who will voice your suggestions and your complaints. I am an honest, qualified, hard working person who is not afraid to be your voice in Fiscal Court.

I was born and raised on a farm, am a graduate of Rockcastle County High School, attended Berea College and am a life-long Republican. I am aware of the needs of the people in the 5th District. It is important that you, the voter, know what each candidate is for and against:

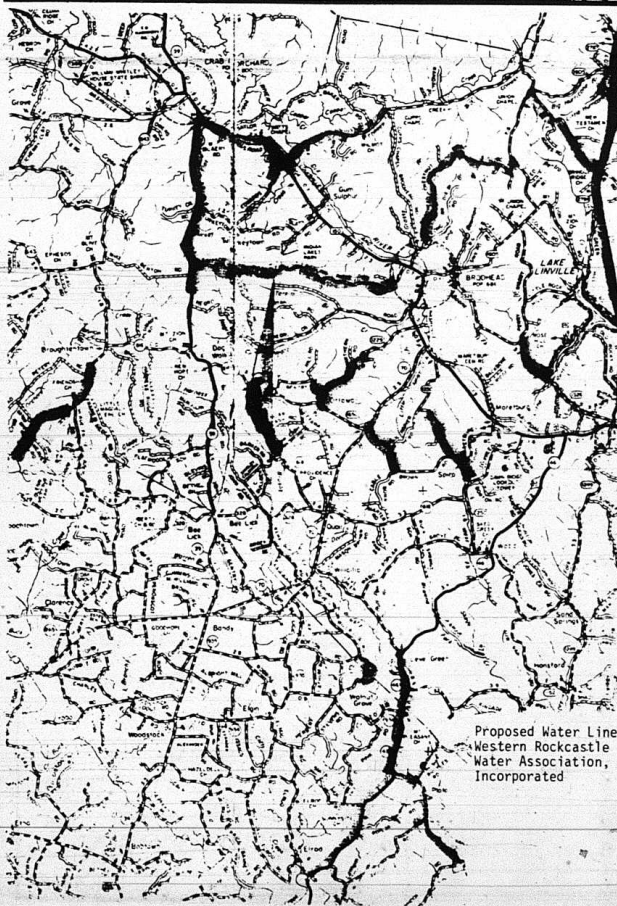

- (1) I am against any misuse of county materials and funds.
- (2) I am for equal and fair maintenance of all county roads.
- (3) I will work with any judge and all magistrates to get grants from HUD, CVADD, state grants and federal government grants, as they become available for housing, recreation, industrial and for the road program.
- (4) I will work for the betterment of all senior citizens programs.
- (5) I will work to put some kind of juvenile facility in Rockcastle Co.
- (6) I am for spending the county's money wisely to upgrade Rockcastle Co.
- (7) I am for finding ways to deal with our county trash problems.
- (8) To create new jobs so that our people don't have to leave the county to work.
- (9) I will work for everyone in the district not to better myself but for the betterment of the county. I feel that the magistrates should do more than go to fiscal court once a month. They should get out and find out the needs of the communities and act upon them.

Now that you know exactly what I am for an against, your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

Thank you, Your Friend
Albert York

Ruin Sohn, representing

Warren Realty Co. told the council at the public hearing, that results of a survey, conducted by the company, indicated a need for 74 moderate income units in Rockcastle County. 24 units are slated for construction.

Also at the public hearing, Trial Commissioner Robert E. Robinson, who lives in the area, presented the Council with a petition against the project, containing over-100 signatures, and he questioned the need for the 74 units.

• Councilman Jack Renner, seconded Councilman Joe Martin's motion, said Tuesday that, in his opinion, the council really didn't have a decision to make.

"Without planning and zoning laws, you really can't decide anything like that," Renner said.

Mr. Thomson further stated the company had invested $2,013,000 in additional cable plant and digital switching in the Mt. Vernon exchange and the expenditures in the Brodhead and Livingston exchanges amounted to $1,471,000.

At the present time, all four party customers pay $12.21 base rate and each customer who switches to the private line would pay only $15.73, Thomson said.

The Public Affairs manager said that ConTel had recently spent over 3 million dollars on negotiations in Rockcastle and the switching to private lines was part of the project.

He said at the present time, there is a total of 1,624 customers on four party lines in Rockcastle.

Thomson said that ConTel would have to have at least 80 percent of its four-party customers switch over.

The survey forms are scheduled to be distributed to four-party customers in about a week, according to Thomson.

chances when they took their tobacco to market.

As far as land values go, Ballinger thinks that the bottom would drop out. "I'd say it would cut them in half," Ballinger said.

The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, February 14, 1985 P-19

"much of the property in Rockcastle County brings a higher price because of the amount of tobacco base it has on it. Without the base, it would be worth much less."

Ballinger also said the tobacco program would not be directly affected by this year's farm bill.

"Just about all areas of farming are included in the bill, and in each case, the situation is less money for the farmer." The director further said that, in his opinion, the milk support price, which is just over $10 per 100 pounds, could be "dropped completely. Action like this is not new to dairy farmers, who have seen cuts in their program several times. He said that the milk support price has been as high as over $12 per 100 pounds in the past.

Most dairy farmers already have contracts with the milk companies and don't think they would be that greatly affected," Ballinger said.

He also said that if the farm bill was passed into law, his office would also feel the blow. He said that, in his opinion, he thinks staff would be cut from three full time employees to one full time and a part-time clerk.

According to the ASCS director, several local farmers have written letters to their congressman, lobbying against passage of the farm bill. "I don't know how many letters have been written, but I hope it does some good."

"We should know something about the future of the program in about 30 days," Ballinger said, "but for now the only change in the program for 1985 is that there will be a 10 percent cut in bases."

Phasing out of tobacco program would be devastating

By Richard Anderkin

If the United States Congress cuts out the tobacco support program, Rockcastle County is in trouble, according to local ASCS director Harold Ballinger.

Ballinger said Tuesday that if the support program is cut out, the effect would be devastating.

"It would mean a reduction of 37 million dollar in cash flow in Rockcastle County," Ballinger said.

"The last two years, over 3 million pounds of tobacco has been grown from 1710 bases in the county," he said. "The price support was $1.75 for the two years and the figures that we came up with, when you tabulate the number of times money from the sell of tobacco turns over, you have a $37 million dollar loss."

"If the program were cut out, it would virtually phase out the small tobacco farmer," Ballinger said.

The ASCS director also said that every four years, someone has tried to phase out the tobacco program through the passage of the farm bill. "I don't think the program will be eliminated," Ballinger said. "In my opinion, the tobacco program will be taken from the farm bill and treated separately."

The Rockcastle County director said that there would be only a few farmers in the county growing tobacco if the support was cut out. "Some of your bigger farmers would probably get contracts with the tobacco companies and if any of the smaller farmers want to grow tobacco, they will just have to take the chance." He added that farmers without contracts would not have any guarantees and would just have to take their

ConTel offers private lines to four party customers

Continental Telephone Company of Kentucky is in the process of conducting a survey of the customers with four-party service who may be interested in upgrading to one-party service in Rockcastle County, if mileage charges are eliminated.

Currently, one party service in the rural areas includes mileage charges of $1.25 for each quarter mile beyond the base rate areas. The survey is part of the company's long range plan to replace the old type mechanical switching equipment with the state of the art digital switching equipment and to construct cable plant designed for providing one party service.

Council grants water and sewer to controversial housing project

While in at least one area of town, the decision is probably not popular, it has been made.

The Mt. Vernon City Council voted 5-0 Monday night to grant water and sewer service to a highly-controversial housing project. Councilman Ernie Tolle abstained on the vote.

A public hearing concerning the project was held last week at City Hall and, at that time, the discussion became very heated at times. However, Monday night, nothing was said about the project before the council voted, although some residents of the area of the proposed site were present.

The site for the project is a farm, owned by Rockcastle County School Superintendent Charles B. Parsons, off Maple Drive in Mt.

Warren Realty Company of Shepherdsville will be constructing the project, which is slated to house moderate-income families.

Lambert to seek re-election

County Attorney James H. Lambert has announced that he plans to seek re-election to the office of County Attorney in the May, 1985 Republican Primary.

Lambert, 42, has served as county attorney since 1982, when he defeated another local attorney William D. Gregory by less than 100 votes.

A native of Rockcastle County and a life-long Republican, Lambert has practiced law in Mt. Vernon for about 10 years.

He is a member of the Rockcastle County Improvement Council and a member of both the Kentucky Bar Association and the Rockcastle County Bar Association.

The County Attorney is the son of James W. and Ruth H. Lambert and is married to the former Brenda Holt. His wife, who is a teacher, is the daughter of the late Losco Holt and a niece of former Rockcastle County School Superintendent, Mrs. Neureul Mirrae.

He has a daughter, Lora Lee Lambert, age 17.

Lambert's father, James W., is a former county attorney himself.

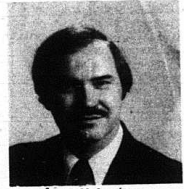

Hale, Hinton file in 5th

Two more candidates have filed their papers for the May Republican Primary in the hope of winning a seat on the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court.

Danny Hinton, age 31, of Livingston, a former member of the Southeastern Rockcastle Concerned Citizens, who resigned from that group recently because of his political aspirations, is making his first attempt at county office.

Hinton joins William "Bill" Hale in announcing their candidacy for the 5th District Magistrate's seat.

The cabinet-maker by trade, Hinton was very outspoken at times during the several public meetings concerning a proposed landfill which citizens of Livingston felt could affect their water supply. Hinton was against the James E. "Rooster" Mason of Rt. 5, Livingston and Jack Bradley of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon, threw their hats into the race last week.

Mason, a life-long Republican, is making his first attempt for a political office. He is a farmer and logger and is married to the former Grace Deaf and they have two children, James Earl, age 13 and Regina; 11 Mason and his Hinton is married to the former Carolyn Stallworth and they have three children, Tammy, age 16, Richard, age 13, and Minnie, age 8. He is the son of Phillip and Wanda Hinton and his father was pastor at the Livingston Baptist Church from 1964 to 1965.

Bill Hale, who lives at Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon, is also making his first bid to gain a seat on the county's Fiscal Court.

A retired high voltage electrician from the Bluegrass Army Depot, Hale is married to the former Justine Bussell and they have two daughters, Williametta Crumer, age 27, and Pamela, age 19.

Hale, who lives in the city limits of Mt. Vernon, is registered to vote in the East Mt. Vernon precinct.

8 foot drifts in places

Blizzard-like weather strikes Rockcastle

It is being called the worse snow storm of the decade and Rockcastle County certainly got its share.

"The roads are in worse shape today (Wednesday) than I've ever seen them," said Rockcastle County Road Supervisor Paul Hansel, who has been with the county since 1978.

Hansel said that most rural roads were completely impassable and that in some places, snow drifts reached a height of eight feet. He said that the Chestnut Grove Road, near Brodhead, and the Brindle Ridge Road, were two of the worse.

"We can't use salt on county roads because it will cause them to break up," Hansel said. "We are just using our two snow plows and our grader and doing the best we can."

"We worked all night Tuesday night and we will probably be here all night tonight (Wednesday) if we can stand it," Hansel said.

However, the county was without the services of the grader and one of the snow plows Tuesday when they were stuck in a huge snow drift on the Chestnut Grove Road for several hours Tuesday night.

On the subject of salt, a spokesman for the State Highway Garage said that they were out of salt at the present time. He said that more was ordered but that it was his understanding that the garage it was on was stuck in ice on the Ohio River.

"We have been working as hard as we can ever since the snow hit," the spokesman said. "We have been plowing roads and most of the main roads are passable."

He also said that the unusually bad weather had caused the salt shortage.

For the second time this winter, mail did not go out on the rural routes Wednesday morning and, after being back at school Monday for the first time in a long time, students missed their 22nd and 23rd days of the school year Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Bible: God's Final Revelation

The Bible is God's complete and final revelation of God to man (2 Tim. 3:16-17).

In more recent times the public has been flooded with claims of later revelations from God. Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy has given us "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." Joseph Smith has presented the world with the "Book of Mormon," and Jehovah's Witnesses offer the "New World Translation of the Holy Scriptures," etc. etc. But these professed prophets contradict themselves and each other, and the Bible! A careful examination of their writings will prove ALL of them to be deceptions, therefore false prophets.

What about the Bible? How strong is the evidence to support its claims? Jesus promised His disciples: "Howbeit when he the Spirit of truth is come, he will guide you into all truth" (John 16:13). Guided by the Holy Spirit, the apostles and prophets of the New Testament revealed, recorded, and confirmed the will of Christ. The result is the New Testament. If the apostles were guided in ALL truth, that leaves nothing for later so-called prophets.

Let us speak where the Bible speaks and be silent where the Bible is silent! We need all the Bible, but nothing more than the Bible.

not true; and if it is true, it is not new!

The Bible is the standard by which we are to walk religiously, and by which we shall be judged. Paul admonished, "Let us walk by the same RULE" (Phil. 3:16). Peter instructs us to "Speak as the oracles of God" (1 Pet. 4:11). Thus the Bible is the ONE standard by which we are to walk, and the only source from which we are to speak. Jesus warns, "He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words hath one that judgeth him; the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day" (John 12:48). Also see Rev. 20:12, 15.

The Bible has stood the test of time. These other books are new in the world. A careful study and proper understanding of the Bible will establish the fact that there can be NO LATER REVELATIONS FROM GOD! Thus the Bible properly understood will destroy these current deceptions and any others that might be presented. Let us speak where the Bible speaks and be silent where the Bible is silent! We need all the Bible, but nothing more than the Bible.

Report to Kentucky

SENATOR WENDELL FORD

U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510

IRS MUST LIFT VEHICLE LOG BURDEN

An item that was slipped into the Tax Reform Act of 1984 has businesspeople across the nation angry, and justifiably so. A provision in the new law requires taxpayers to keep up a log of records of business vehicle use.

The provision requires "contemporaneous records" - itemized travel logs - of business use of certain assets, including vehicles. The requirement was added to the bill during a House-Senate conference, without adequate review by Congress.

In recent weeks, my office has received hundreds of letters on this matter from Kentuckians in all types of businesses, including physicians, farmers and salespeople. They complained that the new law causes them senseless paperwork because it requires that a continuous log of trips be maintained. Under previous law, business use of an automobile was deductible as long as the taxpayer maintained adequate records or sufficient evidence to support the claim.

Most everyone agrees that the Internal Revenue Service needs adequate enforcement tools to prevent tax evasion. But this bill goes too far in burdening all people in business just to catch a few who stretch the law.

Because of this problem, I have cosponsored a bill which would result in total repeal of the new provision, returning the former system for business vehicle deductions. In case this bill meets roadblocks, I have introduced another measure which would exempt those who use their vehicle entirely for business from the requirement. This includes an exemption for those who, for certain reasons, use their automobiles in travel to and from work.

If Treasury Department officials oppose these alternatives, they can come up with their own. But it is clear that taxpayers must be relieved of this unnecessary, time-consuming paperwork burden.

Congressman Hal Rogers

5th District, Kentucky

Rogers Introducing Bill To Cut Tobacco Imports

Fifth District Congressman Harold Rogers is introducing legislation which would drastically reduce foreign tobacco imports into the United States.

Rogers' bill, known as the "Tobacco Import Relief Act of 1985," will place quotas on imported tobacco of 50 percent of the average amount imported between the years 1975-1984. This is the same proposal which the American and Kentucky Farm Bureaus made to the International Trade Commission recently, but which was rejected.

"Our tobacco growers have seen huge increases in tobacco imports in recent years continue to erode their U.S. market," said Rogers. "These imports must be reduced if we are to make our tobacco program function as it was intended."

Rogers pointed to recent increases in growers' fees as another negative impact on this increase in imported leaf.

"My bill would help bring down this amount of imported tobacco and allow for us to begin to reduce our huge surplus of tobacco stocks, a surplus which threatens the entire tobacco allotment program," Rogers said. "The International Trade Commission's decision not to recommend quotas was wrong, and hopefully this bill will correct that mistake."

Rogers said he is also looking at other legislative remedies to help tobacco growers in their fight to keep the tobacco program alive.

The Tobacco War is on

You may have thought that tobacco was under siege in years past, but 1985 is presenting us with the biggest assault on the tobacco program in its history. We are fighting this battle on several fronts, and it will be a long and hard struggle.

THE PRICE SUPPORT PROGRAM. The Reagan Administration has proposed major changes in all farm programs. But the most glaring proposal of all was a phase-out of the tobacco program over a five-year period.

This proposal is absolutely ridiculous, given the problems our growers are already facing. The biggest problem is the huge and growing surplus of unsold domestic stocks. This surplus is caused by unlimited imports of tobacco, which are being subsidized, if you will, by our own growers' no-net-cost fees. These grower fees will continue to escalate unless we can turn this situation around.

This week, Secretary of Agriculture John Block announced that tobacco would be dealt with separately from other farm programs in this year's farm bill. While this may buy us some time, it does not signal any victory yet. It will also force us to work even harder to help keep the farm coalition together here in Washington if we are to keep the program alive.

I am continuing to work with Kentucky burley growers, the Farm Bureau, other tobacco-state congressmen and growers to do everything possible to block this attempt to end a program which 40,000 allotment holders in my district absolutely depend on.

IRS Vehicle Recordkeeping Regs to be Released Soon

The IRS has announced that the temporary and proposed regulations that it expects to issue this week will modify the adequate contemporaneous recordkeeping requirement for automobiles and certain other vehicles. The regulations will modify the recordkeeping necessary to satisfy Code Sec. 2764(d) and will also provide four special rules when patterns of use justify eliminating or substantially reducing the recordkeeping requirement. The IRS noted that, under the new regulations, taxpayers may satisfy the adequate contemporaneous record requirement by single entries for periods of uninterrupted business use. For example, a person who makes a series of deliveries, returns to the office, and then makes multiple deliveries may account for such use with a single entry in a log or "other record" similarly, a "step-away" from home on a business trip may make a single log entry for the entire trip.

The new regulations will provide four special rules denoting circumstances when the recordkeeping requirement will be eliminated or substantially reduced. Farm Vehicles - Taxpayers can satisfy the recordkeeping requirement in two ways for a vehicle regularly used directly in the business of farming, such as a truck. Farmers may either keep records of personal use of a vehicle, or keep no records and treat 80 percent of the use of a vehicle as business use and 20 percent as personal use. These rules are available to farmers who receive more than 70 percent of their gross income from the sale of agricultural products, or from farming. Even though these rules do not apply to automobiles used by farmers, such automobiles may be excluded by the special rule for sales and service automobiles described below.

No Personal Use - Taxpayers who use a vehicle in a trade or business need not keep a log if the vehicle is kept at the employer's business premises during nonbusiness hours and the vehicle is not used for personal purposes, other than de minimis personal use, such as a stop for lunch. Commoning - Taxpayers who use a vehicle for business purposes, other than as a business vehicle for commoning are generally not subject to the recordkeeping requirement of the following categories are satisfied. First, the employer allows no other personal use of the vehicle by employees, other than de minimis personal use. Second, the employer accounts for the commuting use by including an amount in the employee's income for each day the vehicle is used for commoning.

Sales and Service - Taxpayers who spend most of a normal business day using a vehicle for example, to call on customers or clients, to deliver goods, or visit job sites) may satisfy the recordkeeping requirement in one of two ways. First, they may keep records of personal use of a vehicle. Alternatively, they may keep no records and either treat 70 percent of the use of the vehicle as business use and 30 percent as personal use, or treat 80 percent of the use of the vehicle as business use and 20 percent as personal use if it is a truck or other vehicle designed primarily for commercial use. Note, however, that these rules are not available to taxpayers who customarily spend most of their normal business day in an office or similar setting. A farmer may be able to use the rule for an automobile used to make several stops during a normal business day directly in connection with the business of farming.

ALL STATE CHORAL HONOR The RCHS Choral Department had two students chosen to participate in the All State Chorus in Louisville on Feb. 6, 7, 8 and 9. Bobby Bishop, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Bishop of Brodhead and Greg Bullock, right, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bullock, were chosen to sing with the group which performed "Mass in C, Op. 48" by Franz Schubert. The All-State Chorus was under the direction of William Ramsey, Stanford University, Stanford, Calif. This is the most outstanding accomplishment a choral student can achieve at the state level. The students were accompanied to Louisville by Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Wilcox. Mrs. Wilcox is choral director at RCHS. Bobby is a sophomore at RCHS and Greg is a junior.

County to receive funds for ice and snow removal

Governor Martha Layne Collins has announced that 59 Kentucky counties participating in the Cooperative Agreement Program with the Transportation Cabinet will each receive $3,500 to clear county roads of ice and snow.

"It is vital that these county roads be cleared for the safety of our people and so that businesses and schools can resume normal activity," said Governor Collins.

Legislation was passed during the 1984 General Assembly that allows a cooperative agreement through which the state and county work together to meet county road needs. The program is optional to any Kentucky county willing to contribute three per cent of their total anticipated revenue into a state-wide emergency fund. For fiscal year 1984-85, 59 counties have opted to participate in the program.

"The paperwork has been processed and the participating counties will be receiving their checks in the immediate future," said State Transportation Secretary Floyd G. Poore. Secretary Poore added that while $3,500 would not cover the total cost of snow and ice removal, "it will assist in partial payment."

Participating counties that will be receiving checks are Ballard, Calloway, Fulton, Graves, Hickman, McCracken, Marshall, Hancock, Henderson, McLean, Union, Webster, Allen, Barren, Edmonson, Simpson, Todd, Marion, Meade, Nelson, Washington,

DAR plans special Valentine for Statue of Liberty

The National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution has proclaimed Thursday, February 14, 1985, as LIBERTY LOVE DAY. On this day, all 211,000 members will participate in a one-day nationally coordinated effort to raise funds for the restoration of the Statue of Liberty. Locally the Rockcastle Chapter is sponsoring this effort, with each member making her own contribution and contacting at least five non-members for donations.

The Statue of Liberty will be 100 years old in 1986 and a major undertaking is in progress to restore this majestic monument. The ravages of time, salt air and pollution have taken serious toll. Work is being done on the skeletal structure as well as the outside to insure the preservation of this great symbol of Freedom. It will take over two years to complete the restoration and cost a total of $45 million, according to the Statue of Liberty/Ellis Island Foundation. The rededication is scheduled for the Statue's birthday - October 28, 1986.

Both the Statue, built in France, and its pedestal, built in the United States, were funded by private citizens. The total restoration is being paid for in the same way. The DAR has chosen Valentine's Day as an appropriate time for an outpouring of love and support for Lady Liberty. Over 200,000 Daughters united to help another damsel in distress.

Due to local weather conditions, Liberty Love Day, February 14, may have to be changed locally to Liberty Love Week. If you would like to contribute to this historic venture, please contact any member of the Rockcastle Chapter.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. Tommy Ard and family due to the death of his father, Mr. Lincoln Ard, of Faubush.

Wade Hysinger is a patient in the Rockcastle County Hospital. Hope he's soon feeling better.

Sympathy is extended to the families of Abbie Cash, Mrs. Martha Helton, Jimmy Burton, Charley B. Renner and Mrs. Ella Rash in their time of sorrow.

SUNSHINE HOMEMAKERS

Although I've not had an article in the paper in the last few months, the Sunshine Homemakers are still going strong. So far the weather has cooperated with our club. We've not had to change any meeting dates.

At our November meeting, we received two new members, Jean Towery and Debbie McQueen. Also at the November meeting, we made plans to help some of our needy families in our community.

We followed through by collecting enough canned food to help two needy families. We plan to make this project not just a Christmas project but to try and help others all year through when the opportunity presents itself. We also finalized the plans on our part in the Homemakers Bazaar. We all enjoyed the bazaar and are looking forward to it next year. If you missed it, you missed a treat.

Our December meeting was a time of exchanging gifts and enjoying a feast provided to us by Brenda and Blanche Powell. The room was decorated in a festive atmosphere with Christmas music filling the air. We always look forward to our December meeting. It really puts us in the Christmas spirit. Our January meeting brought us a new year with new ideas and new plans for our club. Our meeting was opened by our president, Sandi Thomas, secretary-treasurer report read by Brenda Powell, devotional given by Rachel Lake, and prayer by Linda Williams. We had a total of 10 members attending our first meeting of 1985. Our lesson was on "Watch Control" and was taught by Peggy Bishop. After the holidays, this lesson was very appropriate. Our refreshments were provided by Toni Reams. During our business portion of the meeting, we reviewed our old business and then proceeded to plan new projects including attending the Rockcastle County Homemakers International Dinner on Feb. 14th at the Rockcastle County Library Community Room.

To attend you need only to bring a covered dish which represents another country. Each person is asked to dress in a costume which represents the country their dish is from. Costume is not required, but it adds to the fun and atmosphere of the dinner.

As you can see, the Rockcastle County Homemakers are very active and have lots of fun. You miss a lot by not getting involved in a club.

A Homemakers Club represents good fellowship, good fun, good experiences, a good outlook on life, and good opportunities to serve your community. After all, behind every good county are good Homemakers Clubs.

EXTENSION HOME ECONOMICS

By: Cheryl Witt
County Extension Agent

RECORD KEEPING IMPORTANT IN HOUSEHOLD FINANCE

Every household should have a simple record-keeping system to avoid wasted hours searching for vital papers at income tax time.

and since so many people are thinking about taxes now, it's a good time to overhaul that record-keeping system to make things easier next year.

Families not only can reduce and eliminate worries and extra hours wasted in searching for papers, they can also reduce many dollars which are lost due to careless or no filing systems.

Decide now, when the tax struggle is a headache, to improve the system.

The first thing is to select a specific place where all important papers are kept. It can be a room or a corner of the kitchen, bedroom or hallway. What's important is that it is convenient. Regardless of where it is, a person must be able to get at it with ease.

Inexpensive metal or cardboard files can be purchased at drug or variety stores or a person can make his own storage containers from cardboard boxes. A convenient way to make a home office desk is to use two sturdy two-drawer filing cabinets and stretch a wooden slab across them.

It is recommended to maintain three types of storage files. These are an active file for material which will be needed during the year, an inactive file for such things as earlier years tax records, and a safe deposit box for valuable documents which can't be replaced.

There are two dangers to watch out for in most home record-keeping systems. One is the tendency to have too few folders—the temptation to file everything under a broad category is Money or Documents. This makes the papers as hard to find as if they weren't filed at all. The other danger is the opposite tendency to have a separate category and folder for every single item. This tendency will soon have the filing cabinet so stuffed it will be useless.

The home filing system should be worked out as an individual system, experimenting until groupings are worked out that are most convenient for each person. However, basic file folders in the active file should include: (1) unpaid bills, (2) paid bill receipts; (3) current year's bank statements; (4) current year's cancelled checks; (5) current year's monthly charge statements such as Visa, Master Charge (Cont to 9)

Renovating Grass Fields

Why renovate grass fields? There are several reasons why pasture and hay fields which have a good stand of grass should be renovated. The primary ground cover on most of Kentucky's acreage are cool season grasses, such as tall fescue, orchard grass, bluegrass and timothy. By adding legumes to grasses, there is an increase in the quality of feed produced. Legumes increase the summer production and legumes take nitrogen from the air.

In Kentucky, productive alfalfa stands can fix 200 to 300 pounds of nitrogen per acre each year. Red clover can fix 100-200 pounds, ladino clover 100-150 pounds, vetch, Korean lespedeza and other annual forage legumes can fix 75-150 pounds of nitrogen per acre each year. This is possible because of bacteria on properly inoculated seed which infests the roots of legume plants, supply energy to the bacteria, and they use this energy to change the form of nitrogen taken from the air to one which the legume plants can use. Legumes improve quality by their positive effect on palatability, intake, digestibility, protein and mineral content. A beneficial effect is also found on companion grasses which increase their yield by taking advantage of the nitrogen produced by legumes. We also find that most growth of cool season grasses occur during the first one-third of the growing season. Since legumes make more growth during the summer months, legume grass mixtures improve the seasonal distribution of pasture and hay crop production over that of grass alone.

Moisture and temperature are two important factors in establishing legumes in old grass sods. In the long run, early spring clover seedlings (mid-February through March) are more likely to be successful than late spring or late summer seedlings. Some keys to a successful renovation are:

—Grazing or mow the grass close prior to renovating. This will let tillage tools tear into the sod more easily. Don't plant legume seed into tall grass. The grass shades legume seedlings and reduces their growth.

Test the soil and apply needed lime, phosphate and potash.

Disturb 40 to 60 percent of the grass for seeding clover, 80 to 100 percent for alfalfa. This tillage helps control grass growth and opens the sod so that legumes will have a better chance to germinate and live.

A disk, field cultivator, or field tiller will do a good job. A one-over renovation seeder can be used to eliminate the need for tillage which disturbs the sod. Broadcast seedings of lespedeza, white clover or red clover made on top of the ground will often result in good legume stands if seedlings are made in late winter, the grass is grazed extremely short, and proper fertility is supplied.

Soil certified seed of adapted legumes at the rates recommended for seeding along. Just before sowing, inoculate seed with the proper nitrogen-fixing bacteria. Be sure that each inoculum is stuck to all seeds.

Renovated fields should be grazed short until the livestock begin biting off the young legumes. At that time remove the livestock and allow clover (4-6 weeks) and alfalfa (8-10 weeks) to become established. Thereafter, mow and/or graze the field to best suit the particular legume that was planted.

If a once-over renovator is used to till, plant the legume seed and press the seed into firm soil, special attention must be given to grass management. After planting legumes, the grass should be kept grazed or mowed very closely to control grass competition. When the animals begin grazing the legumes, remove them and permit the legumes to become established. If the newly seeded field cannot be properly grazed or clipped, Paraquat may be used to aid in grass suppression. Apply Paraquat at the rate of 0.5 lbs. of active ingredient per acre in bands over the seeded row, leaving about 50% of land surface untreated. This assures a good grass stand will remain in the renovated field. Even with Paraquat, grass growth should be controlled by a combination of grazing and clipping. Follow label instructions as to when grazing can be started after use of the chemical.

Seeding rates, in pounds per acre, for renovating are: white clover, 1-3; red clover, 8-12; annual lespedeza, 20-25; alfalfa, 12-20, in combinations with clover, 1-2; and red clover, 4-6; alfalfa, 8-10; and Ladina white clover, 8-10.

Applications are now being accepted for ACP funds to assist farmers with making renovations and new seedings. If you plan to improve existing grass fields, now is the time to make an application with the ASCS office and get your soil sample to the County Extension Office located on the second floor of the Courthouse.

For more information on renovation and its value to beef farmers, attend the second Beef Shortcourse meeting, Tuesday night, February 19th at the Bank of Mt. Vernon at 7 p.m. Contact the County Extension Office for more information.

Should Neighbor Pay for Water Line?

Q. We own a five-acre piece of property. The man next door owns a nine-acre piece of property. He wants us to give him an easement across our property so he can run a water line. Should we let him do it? Should he pay us something for running that water line across our property even though it's at the far end and really out of the way?

A. You have two questions that might or might not be the same. It would seem reasonable to let him run the water line across your property if by his having water to his property would, in some way, increase the value of your property.

You have to take into consideration that you will never be able to build on the property to which you have granted him an easement. If something were to go wrong with the water line, it would seem that he would have the right to tear down whatever you built in order to have access to repair the line.

Setting this type of dispute might require attorneys and might even have to go to court. It might be costly!

In any case, you would have to have your property surveyed and the easement located on the plat. In addition, you would probably want to give him a deed of easement which would be prepared by an attorney. As you would need an attorney to draw the deed of easement, it would be in your best interest to consult an attorney early in this whole process to understand your rights and obligations.

It would seem reasonable that the person to whom you are granting a deed of easement would pay for the survey, the deed, and any other legal fees involved. You might also negotiate a fee for the easement itself. The two of you could do it together or you alone could employ a real estate appraiser to assist you in determining the value of the easement.

The Kentucky Real Estate Center is funded by the Kentucky Real Estate Commission to be of assistance to people in the real estate profession and to the general public. That means it can help you, to answer your questions about real estate.

If you have a real estate question, write the Kentucky Real Estate Commission, 222 South First Street, Suite 300, Louisville, Kentucky 40202; or phone (502) 588-4462.

Tree seedlings available from Division of Forestry.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry will again be selling seedlings to the public this spring. The purpose for making the seedlings available is for reforestation, erosion control, windbreaks where needed, and for wildlife habitat improvement.

It is estimated that there are 1 million acres in Kentucky in need of reforestation. These are lands abandoned from farming, understocked, and existing stands containing defective or undesirable trees. The Division of Forestry makes seedlings available to landowners at a nominal cost to help get these lands back into production of timber.

Besides the desired benefit of timber production, trees also provide erosion control, noise abatement, air filtration, and improvement of water quality.

Another very important reason for planting trees near homes is for energy savings. Deciduous trees (trees that lose their leaves in the fall) planted along the south exposure of a house will make it considerably cooler during the hot summer. In the fall, after the leaves fall off, warm winter sunlight on sunny days will be permitted to radiate through exterior home walls helping to reduce inside heating costs.

Coniferous trees (pine trees) planted along the north-northwest side of a house will serve as a windbreak reducing the cold air wind velocity and help keep it from penetrating exterior and interior walls and windows. This will reduce the amount of cold air that can enter the house.

So this spring do yourself, your family, and your country's energy supply a favor and plant some trees.

Seedlings available include loblolly pine, shortleaf pine, white pine, Scotch pine, black locust, cottonwood, sycamore, Chinese Chestnut, Autumn Olive, and black walnut. They can be ordered in bundles of 100, 500, and 1,000. For more information, contact the Kentucky Division of Forestry's London Ranger Station at P.O. Box 57, London, Ky. 40741, phone 864-9396 or your local forestry representative Steve Bullen, phone 256-2957.

Lower-income taxpayers can get special tax credit

The Earned Income Credit is a refundable tax credit available to certain working taxpayers who earned less than $10,000 in 1984. The Internal Revenue Service said:

The credit will be paid to taxpayers who qualify even if it exceeds tax liability or the taxpayer owes no taxes. Some taxpayers could receive a credit of as much as $500, according to the IRS.

To be eligible for the Earned Income Credit, taxpayers must:

- (1) Have both an Adjusted Gross Income and Earned Income (including those of the spouse, unless the taxpayer qualifies as an unmarried head of household) of less than $10,000; and
- (2) File as married filing jointly, head of household, or qualifying widow or widower; and
- (3) Not have excluded any income earned in a foreign country or a U.S. possession, or claimed a deduction for a foreign housing amount; and
- (4) Live in a home with a dependent child for the whole year. If the taxpayer qualifies as head of household because of an unmarried child, that child must live with the taxpayer, but does not have to be claimed as a dependent.

Taxpayers may elect to receive their credit in one of two ways. If they are eligible, they can receive it when they file their return, or they may choose to have their employer include advance payments in their paychecks throughout the year. The IRS noted additional information on the Earned Income Credit and advance payments is available in the free IRS Publication 596, Earned Income Credit, or you may call IRS toll free at 1-800-424-1040.

County Correspondents

Disputanta

By: Hilda Payne Gabbard

Hello from Clear Creek!
Here I sit, my tongue worn out from putting stamps on 5,207 (latest count) valentines to all our readers. The Good Book says to love your neighbor and that's what I'm gonna do this Valentine's Day—show my love by sending valentines through the Signal.

I guess my first one will go to Editor Rick and his pretty wife, Cindy's, new boy, Aaron Taylor Anderkien. They say Rick doesn't just pass out one cigar but does it up right by giving away two or a time for he is so proud of the new boy baby.

You've already read "Ramblings" last week where the writer alluded to Rick and Cindy will never, never have to look for a baby-sitter. Why, anyone knows the parents have a "built-in" one right there in the family. So, congratulations to the whole family even down to Travis who will have a playmate of one of these days.

Blanche Payne and a Certain Fellow couldn't take the "cabin fever" of the past weeks and dropped in to see us. I thought at first they had heard of the fresh meat that we had been given.

Anyway, they settled for some cracklings to go in on tomorrow.

Among the many pictures of candidates in the Signal who are running for a public office in the county, I see a nice looking fellow whose slogan says he is honest, young and willing to work for the people of Rockcastle County. He wants to be their next county attorney. By George, if it's left up to his cutewife, Lisa Lewis Clontz, who is doing a bang up job of electoreering for him, not only in the county but out of it as well, John Clontz need look no further for a campaign manager to help him be a "champ" in '78 for the race.

One pretty day last fall I stopped to make Robert Smith's picture at his home on Anglin Falls Road, and we were walking down to the gate when I saw a small car coming down the road. "That's some kid who's making the wheels do time out of here," I remarked to Robert.

He laughed. "No that's Jennifer Sawyer. She's going to work and probably is late."

The Sawyers are from the city who came to the hills for a peace they hadn't found elsewhere. I had heard of this young couple, good friends of Cam

FOLKS LIVING ON CLEAR CREEK BRANCHES

Bernice Northern and son, John, let me make their picture on Hammond's Fork Road. Their home has been remodelled from the once Hammond Schoolhouse. Charles would not take time to be in the picture, but I can catch him when the sun is hot and he takes a nap under a tree.

Bert Eva Clark stands by her dinner bell on Anglin Falls Road. She said that she takes care of the place while husband, Cecil and sons work in Lexington. Of course George, the youngest boy, is her assistant.

Barrett, and hoped to meet them. The car slid to a stop with a rush of dust and gravel upon Robert's waving her to halt as I had asked him. Jenny Sawyer was a lovely young woman with an eager looking face and masses of blonde hair which surrounded her features. I told her my name and that I had plans to visit up in the hollow where they lived.

Her conversation was lively and interesting as Jenny told me she had a job out of the hills which she drove to each work day. Then she talked of reading the Signal and asked if I had gotten her fan letter. When I told her that I hadn't, she asked why she'd written. Jenny, as she is called by neighbors, said, "I was sorry you came up here and hadn't been able to get to anyone's home on time to eat something so I wrote if you would visit me. I would cook you anything you wanted for I enjoy reading your column so well."

My first thoughts were of what a nice little person Jenny Sawyer was in putting to work those words in offering to cook me anything you wanted for I enjoy reading your column so well. My first thoughts were of what a nice little person Jenny Sawyer was in offering to cook me anything you wanted for I enjoy reading your column so well.

some of the nicest folks up that way who had urged me to "break bread" but I never had time to tarry long. I've had fun joking with Dick and Marie Venable (cousins) also Laura Clark, who was once a pupil of mine, about their not riding a dinner bell when I come on the road about noon. The truth of the matter is that I take my lunch and eat out there in the hills where it is so peaceful for a picnic. But if I told the Venables that, they would likely eat with me!

So shoo the raccoons off the porch. Jenny, up at that peaceful, wild country and I'll make it in, come spring.

Men in Rockcastle are said to be close (another word for saving) with their money, but Conley Saylor, a transplant to Berea, beats all I've ever heard. It seems his pretty wife, Christina, wanted a fur coat come Christmas and in order to get out of buying her the coat she offered to go hunting, his words, and get several rabbit skins! Saylor took sick. To carry the thing further, he even went to the hospital while after Christmas. I'd heard. But Conley is better now and back at the store with his mother, "Moonlight Madness Sale" last week. Now as hard as I looked, I didn't see any moonlight that night but I did see folks getting mad!

The post office department says Feb. 17th is the deadline for two cents more to be added to 20 cent stamps on our letters. See why I rushed around getting out my valentines to you readers.

Tammy Russell, one of Disputanta's teenage girls, visited her Aunt Irene Stanley over in Berea while school was closed. I thought once of dropping in at Irene's home when I heard they were making molasses popcorn balls.

Bro. Ira Dean, Dixie Park Baptist Church preacher, spilled the beans on me at his 9:00 radio broadcast on a Sunday in January. He wished me a happy birthday, and dedicated a song to me and some others. Now that was fine, but he had to go and spoil it by saying my age could be found if you started at 100 and counted backward for you would reach it more quickly than if you started at one and counted forward. I'll declare, my mother always taught me to respect a preacher and I was going to call Bro. Dean a smart-aleck until I remembered he was just getting even with me for saying his age in lighted candles at a church birthday party almost set the church on fire!

Hubert who was raised on Lower Clear Creek, was joking of course, to let me know he was reading the Signal. I wondered if he was thinking of the eight women on the Town Council who had caused Mayor Bullen to back down on the festival last fall.

"Remember me?"

"I'm Waggie, and I had my picture in the paper not long ago when my owners, Greg and Susan Rayer, told you about our heat pump.

"Nobody asked me what I thought that time, so I asked for equal time to 'speak'.

"I think our heat pump's great, because I live on the floor — well, most of the time — and it's comfortable down here, year 'round. Susan and Greg say that's because our heat pump provides 'gentle', even temperatures from the floor to the ceiling, and I like that — a lot.

"Even better, our heat pump's operating costs are reasonable, which allows more money in our budget for important things like doggie treats and bones.

"If your family doesn't have a heat pump, you ought to consider one. At our house, it's man's second best friend."

1984 tax assessment-sales ratio completed by county

The Department of Property Taxation has completed the 1984 property tax assessment-sales ratio study for each county, according to the state Revenue Cabinet. Carried out under provisions of state law (KRS 133.250), this information reflects a comparison of the certified property-tax assessments for last year with actual sale prices.

The Kentucky Constitution requires that all property in Kentucky be assessed for purposes at its full fair cash value. The assessment-sales ratio is the best available measure of the extent to which real property assessments meet the Constitutional standard. The department computes the ratio for each class of property — residential, farm, and commercial. After the individual ratio is calculated for each class of property, an overall ratio is calculated giving each of the three classes its proportional weight according to its percentage of the county's total assessment.

Care should be used in interpreting the table. While the ratio is the best available measure of assessment based on the market, it is not perfect. The actual sales of property in a county during one year may not be entirely representative of the values of all other sold property in that county. This is especially true in small counties and other areas where few sales were reported in one or more classes of property.

The countywide ratios cannot be applied to the assessments on individual parcels. For example, if the assessment ratio is 95 percent, that does not mean that each individual's property is assessed at 95 percent of its fair cash value. It simply means that the typical countywide assessment is 95 percent of indicated market value.

Assessing property is not an exact science. The International Association of Assessing Officers suggested that the median assessment to sales ratio may be acceptable if it falls within 10 percent, plus or minus, of market value. In other words, on the average any given assessment-sales ratio may be 90 percent or 110 percent of real value and still be considered to be acceptable as an indication of market value.

Rockcastle County's assessment-sales ratio is 91.9 percent.

RESTRICTING IMPORTS

On February 1st, the International Trade Commission, ignoring the facts, decided not to recommend any action against imported leaf. The Commission based this decision on the assumption that tobacco's problems are so pervasive that reducing imports would not solve the problem.

But the fact remains that imports are the leading cause of the problems facing the program. As I mentioned, our growers are restricted in how much tobacco they can grow. But foreign growers, often subsidized by our own tobacco companies, are not so restricted. They can steal our own markets from us with this cheap imported leaf.

I have called on President Reagan to ignore this recommendation and initiate quotas on tobacco imports. I will also be introducing legislation to place quotas on imported tobacco. We must also continue to pressure the tobacco companies to reduce their purchases of foreign leaf.

The battle over tobacco is being fought daily. This past week, I met twice with Secretary Block and urged him to reject these proposals to phase out the tobacco program. I also joined the rest of our Kentucky delegation in a major meeting with burley growers, warehousemen, the Farm Bureau and others to mold our strategy for dealing with the crisis in tobacco.

While much of this battle is being played out in public, most of the work must continue behind the scenes. I am totally committed to doing whatever it takes, publicly or privately, to save the tobacco program and to reduce these imports.

Severe winter weather stressful to wildlife

Winter is especially a hard time for wildlife, especially when conditions are severe. Snow cover and sub-zero temperatures add added stress on an already difficult situation.

Snow cover deprives most wildlife of their food supplies or makes foraging extremely difficult because the cycle of freezing, thawing and re-freezing can coat seeds, grasses and berries with ice or crusted snow. Cold winds drain away the animal's body heat and increase the demand for food at a time when supplies are dwindling.

Starvation and malnutrition which lead to massive die-offs are generally associated with deer herds in the northeastern states. These "winter kills" are rare in Kentucky but do occur in isolated instances when wildlife populations grossly exceed the carrying capacity of the habitat.

But there's no question that snow and cold put a strain on all wildlife, except those species which spend the winter hibernating in warm underground nests of burrows, Songbirds, quail and other upland game, and mammals such as raccoons, rabbits and deer, fall victim to the winter's "hungry" when the will to survive sharply increases competition for food and cover. While some predators benefit from hard times, they too can, and often do, go hungry, sometimes creating problems for man.

In Kentucky, small game populations are often the hardest hit by prolonged periods of unseasonably cold weather. Remember how the bad winter of 1978 affected our rabbit and quail populations statewide?

In such a situation, the cold weather, ice and snow became an "added mortality" factor. The decline in game populations, evident the following summer, was directly traced to the fact that there were fewer than normal individuals left when the spring breeding season arrived.

In rabbits, for example, in any given year the so-called "normal mortality" is 50 to 80 percent of the population with predators, disease, pressure, and road kills all taking their toll. The weather becomes an "added mortality" factor when it directly causes the demise of individuals who would have beat the odds and survived to raise their young the following spring.

Then are there ways, such as supplemental feeding, that will help wildlife make it through unseasonable weather periods in January and February that could bring on "added mortality"?

While the question of supplemental feeding is open to debate, wildlife biologists generally acknowledge that it has numerous shortcomings. First of all, on a large scale, supplemental feeding isn't often economically feasible in view of the tremendous cost of grain, transportation, fuel and manpower. But secondly, and most importantly, it does not address the real problem—more numbers of animals than the winter habitat can support.

Supplemental feeding only compounds the problem since an abnormally high number of animals will survive to breed the following spring. That means there will be an increased competition for food among the survivors and their offspring, possible over-browsing of the habitat (common when there's an overpopulation of deer), and even a more drastic situation when the cold weather returns and food supplies dwindle.

Supplemental feeding only serves to support the population at an artificially high level that's bound to come crashing down with disastrous results—starvation and mass die-offs. One notable exception is an emergency situation when large numbers of animals (who are not suffering from advanced stages of starvation) are concentrated and food sources are exhausted, and there's a good possibility that a huge winter kill will occur unless supplemental feeding is initiated.

Two effective ways to insure that winter kills don't occur are: 1) Keep game populations in line with the habitat's carrying capacity, and 2) Manipulate the habitat so that it provides the best possible types of cover and sources of food for desired species.

The earliest known contract for fire insurance was signed by 101 people in Hamburg, Germany, in 1591. There were no premiums, but the signers promised to pay up to 10 thalers to any fellow member who suffered fire damage.

Frog opening date to change

Although the middle of winter is a strange time to be thinking about the sport of frog giggering, a change in Kentucky's frogging regulations, recently approved by the Fish and Wildlife Commission, will be of interest come next spring.

At its Dec. 14 quarterly meeting, the commission approved changing the opening date of frog season from midnight, May 15 to noon on the third Friday of May. While this may not be an earth-shaking change, it is one that beary-eyed frog giggers should welcome.

Since frog chasing takes place at night, the Friday opening will benefit those who don't work on Saturdays. Under the old season framework, the 15th of May could fall on any day of the week, meaning that dedicated frog hunters usually showed up for work a little worse for wear when the season opened in the middle of the week.

And the noon opening will mean that frogging can start as soon as it gets dark. Under the old regulations, hunters had to wait until midnight before they could start giggering.

The closing date for frog season will remain Oct. 31, and the limits will stay at 15 daily (noon until noon) and 30 in possession after two or more days of hunting.

But to get back to more seasonal pursuits, remember that both the squirrel season and the deer bow season close Dec. 31. Rabbit hunting will continue through Jan. 31, quail through Feb. 10 and grouse through Feb. 28.

Trapping and hunting seasons for furbears will close Jan. 31. But just because these seasons extend into 1985, don't forget that your hunting, fishing or combination licenses expire Dec. 31—New licenses are available now at county court clerks and at most sporting goods stores or sports counters at department stores.

The Rockcastle varsity girls got their revenge last Thursday night against district-foe Jackson County when they came out on the long-end of a barn-burner 38-37. The girls had lost earlier by several points at Jackson Co. and, after having a 12-point, 14-2 lead Thursday night, saw the Lady Generals pull out to a 6 point lead with very few minutes to go in the fourth quarter. However, the girls came back and junior forward Caroline Machal, No. 50 fighting for a rebound in the above photo, put in the winning field goal from about 20 feet out with less than a minute on the clock. Machal scored 8 points in the game, her season high. Also in the photo is senior forward Betty Milburn, who scored a team high 14 points for the Rockets. Also in the photo is freshman guard, Tonya Parrett, No. 30. The girls met 6th ranked Somerset the next night and came out on the short end of the contest 56-34. Milburn was again high-scoring for the Rockets with 15, followed by sophomore center Sandy Hunter with 9. The girls are scheduled to play their last home game this Saturday night.

Junior guard Paige Anderkin, No. 24, pulls off a rebound during Thursday night's action against the Jackson County Generals. The girls played exceptionally well the first half of the game but the Lady Generals' full-court press was effective the second half and the girls had to turn on the after-burners to pull the one-point victory out.

Franchise Even in a prone position Kenny Walker is imposing. And Mississippi's basketball team wishes it could have kept him that way Saturday night in Rupp Arena. HELP ELECT
Joe CLARK
County Judge Executive

Subject to the May Republican Primary

As most of you know, I have announced my candidacy for the office of County Judge/Executive of Rockcastle County. I have already talked to a large number of the citizens of our county and their support and encouragement has been well received. Many of these people have expressed their desire to see an experienced, capable individual as their County Judge/Executive and have noted that, as the only two-term incumbent Magistrate, I have that experience.

If elected, I will serve as County Judge/Executive to all the people in all areas of our county, and represent them in a fair and honest manner. The door to my office will always be open to discuss any of the issues that face us as a county.

I do not intend to make page after page of promises that cannot be kept. If elected, I will CONTINUE to address the issues of the elderly, our county road system, industry for our county, and do so in a responsible manner within the means that we as a county have.

I realize there are numerous other candidates for the office of County Judge/Executive, many of them my friends and all fine men. However, I bring the most experience on the current fiscal matter and other items that face us as a county.

With these things in mind, I ask that you join with me and my supporters in this effort to become your County Judge/Executive.

Your Vote, Support and Influence is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,
Joe Clark
