market rates according to how much stockpiled grass will be needed. To calculate how much nitrogen to apply, figure that a pound of nitrogen will produce approximately enough dry matter to feed a mature 1,000 pound cow for one day.

The maximum fertilizer rate should be around 60 pounds of nitrogen per acre on bluegrass and 90 pounds per acre on fescue.

Stockpiled grasses can provide adequate nutrition. The quality of tall fescue and Kentucky bluegrass is better in the fall and early winter than at any other time of the year. Although the nutritive value and protein content of stockpiled grasses go down during the winter, the grasses retain acceptable feed value for mature, dry, pregnant beef cows.

Farmers should graze grass-legume fields immediately after the first frost, before the quality deteriorates. After these fields are eaten off, cattle should be turned in to graze stockpiled fields.

To make most efficient use of the stockpiled material, use a temporary fence to open up a new strip every week or so. Some farmers prefer to ration-graze stockpiled growth by limiting the cattle to two or three hours in the field each day.

It is very important to efficiently use the stockpiled fields or nitrogen costs may not be recovered.

MANAGE ALFALFA FOR WINTER SURVIVAL

What would happen to your calves if you didn't feed them during the entire winter? Obviously they would die. What would happen if you fed them less than necessary to maintain their body weight? They would lose weight, those which go into the winter in poorest condition would die first, some later, and some might even survive.

The same thing happens to plants. Have you ever had a good stand of alfalfa in the fall and very little stand the following spring? Alfalfa doesn't make top growth during the winter in Kentucky, but the roots and crowns must stay alive over winter if you are to have a stand next spring. Those plants which go into winter weak may not survive until spring. Several things cause plants to be weakened: (1) low carbohydrates in the roots; (2) low phosphorus; and (3) low potassium. You can manage to avoid these conditions.

Keep root carbohydrates high in alfalfa to supply energy needed for plant metabolism during periods when there is little or no top growth. In order for root carbohydrates to be going into winter, plants need about 45 days between time of the last fall harvest and the first hard freeze (24 degrees F or lower). After this freeze occurs, removal of tops will not weaken plants. In fact, this accumulated growth should be utilized if at all possible. It is hard to make hay at that time of year, so put it into the silo or graze it. Removal of stems will also reduce the alfalfa weevil problem next spring.

Provide adequate phosphorus (P). If you have adequate phosphorus in the soil there should be adequate phosphorus in plants to permit winter survival. Phosphorus benefits alfalfa, but is beneficial where plants have been subjected to harsh management during the growing season.

Potassium (K) is extremely important - you may think of potassium (or potash) as "antifreeze" in alfalfa. Research established many years ago, shows that alfalfa winter survival is closely related to the amount of potassium in plants. Non-hardy varieties are benefited even more than hardy varieties. Most varieties in use now contain genetic material from both hardy and non-hardy types. High potassium levels also appear to be of even greater benefit to plants which have been abused or stressed during the growing season. Almost all alfalfa has been stressed this year.

If your soil test and fertilization history show need, put on the recommended phosphorus and potassium as soon as you remove your last cutting and it should get into plants in time to help them survive the winter.

Many other nutrients are needed by alfalfa. Most can be obtained from Kentucky soils

Health Focus

YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH By: Dr. John Payne

Halloween is coming up soon and once again we must think about safety for our youngsters. No longer can we turn them loose to walk through the neighborhood wearing witches costumes and knowing they will be welcomed with candy and popcorn balls. In our "advanced" society we must worry about poisoned candy, razor blades or glass in treats, child molesters, getting run over by trucks and neighbors who won't open their doors for fear of being mugged. It's a great holiday. They should have it every three months, along with quarterly tax due dates.

However, if you can't leave town and celebrate in Florida, here are a few tips to remember. First of all, try to enjoy the event. Take pictures of the children in their costumes and share in their joys. Childhood has no replays and they are too old to trick or treat too soon. Remember, masks impede vision and this can be a hazard, especially in the dark. Consider using face paints instead. They are readily available. Long dresses hinder walking and may cause falls. Reflective tape is very important to help make children more visible. Children should carry a flashlight if they are going on dark streets. An adult to go along in the background is a good idea especially for help in crossing streets.

Children may prefer a community or church sponsored party to doing the trick or treat routine.

Consider giving out "healthy" snacks such as raisins or carrot sticks. It will set a good example and may cost less than candy because you will get around and soon goblins will avoid your house like the plague in favor of your neighbors who are candy passer-outs.

THE MEDICINE CHEST By: Tina Cain Hasty, RPh

Should I take this medicine on an empty stomach, or should I eat something when I take it? These are questions many of us have asked. Getting the answers can help in getting the best possible effects from medicines. A class of drugs used to treat infections, should be taken on an empty stomach. Examples of these are penicillin and ampicillin. Food in the stomach hinders the absorption of these drugs into the bloodstream. One example is the effectiveness of the drugs. Some antibiotics are not affected by food and others should be taken with food.

Some drugs may injure the stomach lining if they are taken on an empty stomach. One example is probably the most common drug, aspirin. Drugs of this nature should be taken with food or milk to protect the stomach.

Some drugs can interact with specific foods. For example, tetracycline, a common antibiotic, will bind with calcium forming a complex that will not be as effective. Therefore, tetracycline should not be taken simultaneously with dairy products.

These are just a few of the many drugs that should or should not be taken with food. If you aren't sure about your prescriptions, ask your doctor or pharmacist and get the most from your medicines.

of serious widespread bacterial disease in the United States. It is the most common cause of bacterial meningitis, accounting for 12,000 cases annually primarily among children under 5 years of age. In addition to bacterial meningitis, Hib is responsible for other invasive diseases including epiglottitis, sepsis, cellulitis, septic arthritis, osteomyelitis, pericarditis, and pneumonia. Five percent of the children die and there is damage to the central nervous system in up to 35% of the survivors. In the United States, approximately one of every 1,000 children under 5 years of age develops Hib disease each year and the risk of developing this disease at some time during the first 5 years of life is about one in 200.

Possible Side Effects and Adverse Reactions to Vaccine

This vaccine has been recognized as one of the safest of all vaccine products. High fever has been reported in fewer than 1% of these children who receive the vaccine. A mild fever may occur within 24 hours and rapidly subside.

A Poem

HALLOWEEN
By: Juanita Fordyce

A night of fear, dark and gloom
Witch on broom sails past the moon.

A screeching, howling night of fear
Ghosts and monsters everywhere.

The poor dog has hidden for the night,
He can't face the hideous sight.
With fiery eyes and tail held high
The black cat squalls up at the sky.

While pumpkin man on porch and post
Light the way for the frightful host
As they come in sheet and mask
I stand trembling at the cast.

So goes the show as the curtains rise
Up streets and across the sky
In every garb and shape they come
From pumpkin man to witch on broom.

Here comes a clown to join the fun
To watch them all scare everyone
He jumps and dances with such glee
When he sees how frightful they can be.

Is there anyone I should know
Devils, skeleton or scarecrow?
An angel! I can't believe my eyes
This night is filled with such surprise.

They keep coming on my door to beat
Screaming, yelling, "Trick or treat..."

I dare not turn on one away
For fear on me the tricks they'll play.

And if I ask you are you
They only answer with a booo!
So, for hours I watch this scene
Because you see, it's Halloween.

A Somerset man died Saturday in an auto accident on hwy. 461. Above passing motorists and ambulance attendants attempt to remove David Phelps from his 1977 Oldsmobile. Both lanes of traffic were blocked for more than two hours by the wreck. Photos and story by Richard Anderkin.

Pulaski man killed on 461

A Somerset man is the fifth person to lose his life on Rockcastle County highways. Kenneth David Phelps, 27, of 126 Ashurst St., died Saturday enroute to the Rockcastle County Hospital after he reportedly drove his 1977 Oldsmobile Cutlass into the path of a transfer truck, about 8.2 miles west of Mt. Vernon on Ky. 461, according to police. Rockcastle County Coroner Billy Dowell, who pronounced Phelps dead at 10 a.m., said he died from massive internal injuries caused by the impact of the crash. The accident, which occurred at 8:05 a.m., blocked the busy highway for over two hours. Traffic could not pass in either direction because of the wrecked transfer truck, which was driven by Donald E. Robinson of Science Hill. The truck came to rest in the middle of the road after it collided with the Phelps vehicle. State Police did not arrive at the scene for well over an hour after the accident occurred and Robinson would not allow his truck to be moved until a trooper got to the scene. Phelps, who is survived by his wife, Rebecca Phelps, was trapped in his car for almost 45 minutes before ambulance attendants and some motorists stopped in traffic could get him out. The Rockcastle County Rescue Squad was called to the scene when it looked as if Phelps could not be freed, but when some of the members arrived, Phelps was removed from his car. Police said the accident occurred after Phelps apparently

Limited access proposed

Highway 461 change topic of local hearing

By: Ray McClure

A public hearing has been scheduled for Nov. 21 by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet, Department of Highways, to get input on a proposed change in "access control" along a section of new Ky. 461 that will soon be opened between U.S. 150 and Wadd.

The area is on the newly constructed section from near the Bullock property to the Wadd connection with old Ky. 461, according to highway officials.

The section is now "open" access with unlimited entrances along the section. The highway department wants to change the section to "partial control" the same as the remainder of the new section, meaning there can be access to the new road only every "so many" feet. The actual distance will be revealed at the public hearing at the Rockcastle County High School cafeteria at 7 p.m.

The access regulation was apparently overlooked by highway engineers when the road design was finally approved.

Incidentally, the section between Red Top Restaurant and U.S. 150 is already designated partial control, with access only at the designated distances. Even with partial control, the property owner would have to meet certain criteria to get an access.

"What the department wants to do is to have access control over all of 461 between RED Top Restaurant and Ky. 80," Leroy Brown, District 8 engineer, said. "This one section, which is the reason for the hearing, was not covered in the plans. We are required to hold a public hearing when changes are made."

That "awkward and confusing" interchange, as someone termed it, at U.S. 150 and new Ky. 461, which has an access at the crest of the hill, is getting permanent traffic signals, Brown confirmed.

The signals are now being installed and will be in operation just as soon as they are workable.

The engineer said he did not believe there would be any major change in the interchange even with the completion of the bypass.

Concerning the bypass, no visible construction is under way along the route, except some clearing. The contract date to begin work was Oct. 10.

Brown said he visited the area

City council hires engineer

Crawford & Crawford Engineers, Inc. and Associates of Burnsides were chosen engineers for the next project at the city water plant scheduled for 1986.

The project, estimated at about $200,000, includes new and larger water lines, a change of filter on a well, a possible added water tank on Town Hill and improvements on the pumping station at the Rockcastle Industrial Park.

The new project is the fourth year of a five-year expansion and improvement plan for the water system.

"Crawford & Crawford has been engineers for the city water system since it was changed in the late 1960s.

357 Rockcastle residents apply for heating bill help

A total of 357 elderly and disabled Rockcastle Countians applied for money to pay their heating bills during the first day of sign-ups Monday at the Rockcastle County office, according to Mrs. Juanita Robinson, supervisor. A spokesman for the Cabinet for Human Resources said there were no unusually large crowds at any of the locations in the 120 counties. A figure on the number who signed up the first day last year at the local office was not immediately available. Monday was the beginning of the initial round of sign-ups for grants targeted at the low-income elderly and disabled. A second round will be in November for all low income people, and a final one in January for households that have lost utility service or face disconnection. The state has $21.3 million available through the Home Energy Assistance Program (HEAP) this year, enough to serve about 153,000 households. Last year, HEAP provided $19.3 million for 131,324 households. Opening-day numbers were

Roundstone school hit by illness

Chicken pox seems to have been the "in thing" at Roundstone School for the past few days.

A total of 40 students were absent from school Wednesday with an estimated 30 to 35 with chicken pox, according to Bige Towery.

He reported the disease apparently peaked last week when 47 were absent on one day.

"Roundstone appears to be the only school in the district that has a real problem," Towery said. "It's affecting all grades, even through the eighth."

Roundstone has an enrollment of 402.

Dear Editor:

On faith, I had the Brodhead Christian Church Cemetery trimmed and made much neater by having dead trees, brush, etc. removed around the markers, etc. last week.

This ground for this cemetery was given to the people for burial in 1890 by Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Woodard. Their last resting place is directly behind the Christian Church building.

In the '40s a pastor of this church dug it out of a wilderness and made it possible to keep it mowed. E. C. Watson donated a push mower for him to use.

When this minister left Brodhead, my husband, F. Earl Mullins, and I kept it mowed by getting donations from folk who had loved ones buried in this cemetery.

In 1973, when my husband passed away, I asked friends and relatives to give donations for the upkeep of this cemetery instead of floral tributes. We had decided to do this at each of our deaths. Five hundred dollars was given in his memory. To this, I added $1,500 donated by interested parties, to start a $2,000 Trust Fund.

With this plus a $500 fund left by the Woodwards' daughter, Mrs. Cherry, I have kept this cemetery mowed with the interest plus a few yearly donations.

Inspect this cemetery! See how pretty it is! Maybe you will want to give a donation for this last special clean-up. It surely would be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth F. Mullins, treasurer

Fighting back against terrorism

All of us felt a great sense of pride and satisfaction recently when American Navy jets, under the command of President Reagan, successfully intercepted an Egyptian airliner containing the four men accused of hijacking the Italian ocean liner. These same four men are now being held in Italian prisons while awaiting trial on charges of kidnaping the ship and of killing one of the American passengers.

As the vortex of world violence has escalated in recent years, Americans overseas have increasingly become targets for Libya, the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), Islamic radicals, and communist sympathizers. Americans were held for 444 days by Iranian extremists... American Marines were killed in terrorist attacks in Beirut... and American off-duty soldiers were machete-gunned at a sidewalk cafe in El Salvador.

Each time we have vowed revenge, with only limited success. But this time, our objective of achieving justice was doable, and we did it!

Thanks to crack American intelligence and the effective use of American firepower, we were able to intercept the plane which was attempting to sneak the four hijackers from Egypt to Tunisia. We then brought the plane down in Sicily, and turned the Arab fanatics over to Italian authorities for prosecution and punishment.

This mission was not without risk. But thanks to the ability of our Armed Forces and the strength and courage of the president, we pulled it off.

The only unfortunate part of this entire episode came later, when the Italians, for as yet still unexplained reasons, allowed another passenger of the Egyptian plane to leave. American information later showed that this man, Abu Abbas, was in fact the ringleader of entire hijacking incident, has a terrorist record a mile long, and works closely with Yasser Arafat, head of the PLO. How the Italians could have let this international criminal go free is unbelievable!

Regardless, though, I know all of us share in the good feeling of finally bringing to public justice the perpetrators of this latest terrorist violence. The killing of Leon Klinghoffer, a disabled American tourist, is nothing short of barbaric, and the animals who committed this act must be punished.

When Egypt's president asked President Reagan to apologize for intercepting the Egyptian plane, the president shot back: "Never!" To those who advocate caving in to terrorism against America, I offer the same response: "Never!"

Because the calendar was changed during George Washington's lifetime, his birthday was originally on February 11, 1732.

WIC program actually saves

A recent congressional study shows that a federal food program for children, pregnant women, and new mothers saves $3 in short-term costs nationwide for every $1 spent.

More importantly, these groups of people in Kentucky are healthier because of the Special Supplemental Feeding Program for Women, Infants and Children (WIC), says Peggy Kidd, director of WIC in Kentucky's Department for Health Services.

The WIC program, funded entirely with federal dollars, provides nutrition education and specific foods high in protein, iron and vitamin C to low-income pregnant women, new mothers, infants, and children through age four. With vouchers from local health departments, women can buy iron-fortified cereal, juice, milk, cheese, eggs, beans and peas. For infants, they can buy iron-fortified formula, juice and cereal.

"The program's goal is to improve the health of children in their formative years through proper nutrition," said Kidd. "To qualify, participants must be income-eligible and determined by a physician, nutritionist or nurse to be at nutritional risk, meaning they have health problems that can be improved through better nutrition."

"Our studies show that participants in the program—even after as short a time as six months—become healthier," said Kidd. "I believe that these facts, coupled with the federal study showing cost-effectiveness, prove that WIC is a worthwhile expenditure of tax dollars."

For example, a marked drop in the rate of anemic children occurs after a few months in the program, she said. "It is significant since physicians have observed that anemic children tend to be more susceptible to infections, appear lethargic and are often poor learners in school," said Kidd.

Good nutrition during pregnancy can help prevent low birth weight babies and can improve the survival chances of those who are born too small, said Kidd.

Families in WIC tend to stay in the health-care system because of realizing that preventive measures can improve health, Kidd said. Because of involvement in WIC "women are coming in earlier and more frequently for prenatal care and nutritional counseling," she said.

"However, the success of the program should not be construed to mean that we are doing all that we can do," Kidd pointed out. "In Kentucky, we serve 62,000 women, infants and children every month. There are 161,000 people eligible for the program. We cannot serve these people because of limited funds.

"So we end up serving only those in the high-priority categories, such as women with high-risk pregnancies, teenage mothers, low birth-weight babies, and breastfeeding mothers with nutritional related problems.

"We just now have started serving high-risk post-partum women. These are women who definitely need to be served, but if we continue serving them, we may have to cut some children off the program."

The congressional study by the House Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families supports these conclusions. Only a third of the nine million eligible women in the nation participated in WIC last spring, the report said.

In upholding the 1976 Gregg v. Georgia decision, the U. S. Supreme Court determined that if certain statutory prerequisites are met, the death penalty is not unconstitutional. Since Kentucky revised its own death penalty requirements during the same year, a growing number of prosecutors have sought the death penalty in applicable criminal cases, including, among others, the commission of multiple murders, killing a state or local public official, police officer, sheriff or deputy who is actively engaged in the lawful performance of official duty, commission of murder or kidnapping during a first degree robbery, burglary, or rape, or killing for hire.

DAR meets at Brown home

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR met at the home of Mrs. Ronnie Brown on the evening of Oct. 8. The regent, Mrs. Roscoe Adams, presided with Mrs. Joe Henderson, Mrs. Wallace Williams and Mrs. Jeffrey Owens taking part in the ritual. Mrs. Gary Cromer gave the National Defense news.

The program was given by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Phillip Bonham and Mrs. Shirley Cummins. They told of their project of recording cemetery records of every cemetery in Rockcastle County. This information will be published in book form which will go to press in December. This will be a most valuable help in genealogical, research. Mrs. Brown showed photographs they had taken on many of their trips, many of which were through rugged but beautiful territory. Mrs. Cummins showed her notebooks and photographs taken on the trips.

Mrs. Bonham told of the magnitude of the project of recording all the tombstone records in Elmwood Cemetery and taking the records of many other church and family cemeteries located in the county. A few of the many areas visited were Sand Hill, Cut Gap, Chestnut Ridge, Blue Springs, Gaines' Creek, Pittman Hill and Level Green. They had traveled on rough and sometimes almost impassable roads but had met many wonderful people who were glad to help them in any way they could. While recording these records was sometimes tedious and exhausting, the three ladies had enjoyed doing it.

They are most grateful to Miss Janie Ramsey who several years ago led the Rockcastle Chapter in starting to record Elmwood Cemetery records; and who has been the inspiration for the whole project. They also spoke of their appreciation for the work of Mr. John Hart of Greenwood, Ind., who has assisted with the typing. They also expressed their gratitude for the many others who have helped locate cemeteries, copied records, acted as guides or helped locate cemeteries.

Chapter members spoke of their appreciation for Mrs. Bonham, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Cummins and all who helped them for saving and making available for the present and future generations this valuable genealogical information.

Following the program the group enjoyed a most pleasant social hour. Guests for the evening were Mrs. Cummins, Mrs. Bonham, Mrs. Paul Hamer, Mrs. Mrs. Kathy Taylor.

MULLINS for Affordable Progress

To the Voters of Mt. Vernon:

While serving as your Mayor, I have pushed for steady, affordable progress:

- Housing
- Street Maintenance
- New Sidewalks
- Downtown Improvements
- Police Cruiser
- Recreation
- Municipal Parking
- Jobs in the Industrial Park
- Water and Sewer Service Expansion

The strides in these areas during the past four years are not matched in any town of our size, to my knowledge. With good management and lots of cooperation and assistance, these advancements have been made without increasing taxes or service fees.

Walter "Duke" Riddle re-

Some apples are really lemons.

When it comes to something as important as your health care coverage, you should compare apples to apples. But take a close look at some of the insurance plans compared to Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky, and you'll find some real lemons. With several of these plans you give up your freedom to choose your own doctor or hospital. Others don't offer the same amount of coverage for your dollars. None of them negotiate with doctors and hospitals on your behalf the way we do.

So go ahead and compare. You'll discover what 14 million Kentuckians already know.

When it comes to quality health care benefits at affordable prices, the others just don't compare to Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Kentucky.

The best "lemony" today, tomorrow.

CELEBRATE NATIONAL APPLE MONTH

October is National Apple Month. It began as National Apple Day just after the turn of the century in 1905. It began—perhaps the first of its kind—as a tribute to the incomparable, adaptable apple. While apples were not indigenous to America, the early explorers and then the first colonists brought them over from Europe early in the sixteenth century and apples and America have literally grown up together from the very beginning of our nation.

How Much and How Many: Helpful Apple Arithmetic

•One pound (1/2 kilogram) of apples generally consists of: 4 small apples, 3 medium apples, 2 large apples.

•Two medium apples are needed to yield one cup grated apple.

•Allow two pounds of apples for one nine-inch apple pie.

•A peck of apples weighs 10.5 pounds.

•Use one pound of apples to yield 3 cups diced apples. Use one pound of apples to yield 2 3/4 cups pared and sliced apples.

•One bushel of apples weighs about 42 pounds and will yield 18-20 quarts of canned or frozen apple slices.

Quickie Apple Snacks and Desserts

If you have plenty of apples during this harvest season but too little time to cook, try these "Quickie Apple Snack and Desserts." They take only minutes to prepare, but taste as though you've spent hours.

Dessert Suggestion: For a delightful dessert for two or plentiful, serve crisp fall apples accompanied by cream cheese peanut balls. To make the latter, roll cream cheese into balls about 1 inch in diameter, then roll them in chopped peanuts. Provide fruit knives with whole apples, or served pre-sliced apple wedges sprinkled with a brownling retardant.

Apple Gingersnack: Core unpeeled fresh crisp apples; cut crosswise in 1/4-inch slices. Spread slices with whipped cream cheese; top each with a gingersnap. Serve with mugs of cool milk for an afterschool snack. Apple peanut butter wedges is a popular alternative to whipped cream cheese on apples.

Applesauce a la Mode: Chill canned applesauce. Spoon into individual serving dishes; sprinkle with nutmeg. Top with scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Apple Cream: Fold together equal quantities applesauce and whipped cream. Top with chopped walnuts.

Cider Apples: Poach apple wedges in cider and season with nutmeg for a perfect fall dessert.

District Judge

Pulaski & Rockcastle Counties

A Judge You Can Depend On

A Man You Can Talk To

Pol. Judge Maguire Comm. Wm. Clancy, CPA-Treas.

New Army recruiter selected for Rockcastle Co.

The Department of the Army Recruiter Selection Board recently named Staff Sergeant Francis M. Lamkin to the position of local Army Recruiting representative at the Richmond Army Recruiting Station located at 636A University Shopping Center.

His principal responsibility will be working with the people from Rockcastle County who are interested in joining the United States Army. Staff Sgt. Lamkin is also responsible for assisting students from Rockcastle County High School with enlistment in the Army.

Lamkin said of his new assignment, "It is my responsibility now as an Army Recruiter to make people aware of the enlistment incentives currently being offered by the Army and to assist them in choosing a career job skill in the Army that matches their qualifications and interests."

He continued, "The Army pays you while you are learning a skill and offers a cash enlistment bonus of up to $8,000 for some of those job skills. The Army also offers an excellent education assistance incentive to young people who enlist up to $25,200 to pay for college tuition."

Lamkin said right now the Army is better than ever with greater benefits, more sophisticated equipment, and a better trained, more specialized soldier.

Staff Sgt. Lamkin has been in the Army since June 1974 and has served three years at Schweinfurt, Free Republic of Germany, and seven years at Fort Bragg, N.C.

He is the recipient of the Meritorious Service Medal, Army Commendation Medal (2d Award), Army Achievement Medal, Humanitarian Service Medal, Expert Infantryman Badge, Master Parachutist Badge, and the Army Recruiting Badge.

Lamkin is a graduate of the Advanced Non-Commissioned Officer Course in Infantry Mortar instruction, the Basic Non-Commissioned Officer Course in Combat Arms, Parachute Jump Master School, Infantry Mortar Platoon Leaders Course, Airborne Air Assault Recon School, Air Movement Operations Course, and the Armor School.

Staff Sgt. Lamkin is a native of Raywick, Marion County, Ky., married to the former Sharon Jones of Lumberton, N.C. They have one daughter, Francesca Ann, age two. The Lamkins are making their home at the University Trailer Park in Richmond while on recruiting duty.

Advice from the American Animal Hospital Association on Flea Care.

Q. My dog wears a flea collar, but still scratches and bites herself. Is the collar working?

A. Flea collars are of limited value in the battle with fleas. Spending only a short period of time on your pet, fleas live and lay eggs in different parts of the house. A flea bath, given by your veterinarian is the best way to be sure your pet's flea-free. He can also offer tips to treat your home, as well as your dog, for flea infestation.

Thanks to her doctor, Munchkin has won her battle with fleas.

Q. Since the children went back to school, my cat appears restless and agitated. Is he lonely or bored?

A. Felix may be suffering from boredom, but more than likely his restless behavior is weather related. As it gets cooler, cats become more active and energetic. Unfortunately, this change in behavior is often accompanied by an increase in traffic-related injuries. Keep your cat indoors and take him outside only on a harness, under your supervision.

Children and car seats

The body of a child is different from the adult in a number of ways. The skull is softer and much larger in proportion to the rest of the body. The rib cage is thinner and more elastic. The young child's prominent abdomen provides only limited protection to the large internal organs.

Unlike the adult, the child has a pelvis with broad gentle contours. The prominent crests which can provide an anchor point and contact area for the lap belt do not develop until approximately age 10. These factors make it important that special consideration be given to providing crash protection for the infant and child.

The small child's heavy head and fragile skull make him very likely to suffer serious head injuries even in low-speed accidents. Also, children are often allowed to ride in positions in the car which greatly increase their chances of injury.

If there is a crash or a sudden stop a youngster standing on a seat becomes a missile striking some part of the vehicle's interior, a child leaning out a window will be wholly or partially ejected and a baby sitting on an adult's lap can be crushed against the dashboard or seat back.

Infants weighing less than 20 pounds need the protection provided by rear-facing seats which are anchored by the adult lap belt.

In this seat the infant faces the rear of the car and the deceleration forces are spread over a very large proportion of the infant's body.

As a general rule, children should always ride in the rear seat of a car. However, the rear-facing infant seat does provide protection which enables it to be used in the front seat.

Children weighing between 20 and 40 pounds should use properly installed restraints which have been tested and proven.

Project exhibits on the proposed access change will be on display for the public at the District 8 office on U.S. 27 in Somerset from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and after 6 p.m. on the day of the hearing.

Persons planning to write statements should mail them to District 8 Chief District Engineer, P.O. Box 780, Somerset, Ky. 42501, and until 10 days after the public hearing.

protection. In providing crash protection. There are two basic designs for children of this size.

The five-point safety harness, an integral part of the seat with harness design, spreads the forces of the impact over the strongest parts of the child's body. The crotch strip, or lowest point of the harness, keeps the webbing down on the pelvic bones, preventing it from riding up over the tummy and putting pressure on the abdominal organs.

This type of seat is anchored to the car in two places. Around or through the center by the adult lap belt and from the top back by a top anchor strap. It is essential that both of these two anchor points be utilized to prevent both the upper and lower portions of the seat from flying forward carrying the child with them.

Installation of these seats and anchor points should be strictly in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions. In some cars, station wagons, and pick-up trucks, installation of the top anchor strap may be difficult or impossible. When this is the case, an approved seat that does not require a top anchor strap might be available.

The seat with protective shields allows the forces of a collision to be distributed over a very large area of the body, thus greatly reducing the chance of injury. A restraint of this type may have the advantage of not requiring a top anchor strip - it is anchored solely by the lap belt. This makes it convenient to use and adaptable to a variety of vehicles. This type of seat gives maximum protection when used in the center of the seat.

Children over the age of five, or weighing over 40 pounds, can wear a regular lap belt. However, until age 10 a child's pelvis has not yet developed the prominent bony structure which readily holds the lap belt in place. Care must therefore be taken to prevent the lap belt from moving up off the pelvic bones and applying pressure to the abdomen. When this happens under impact it is called "submarining" and can cause serious bruising of internal organs.

Be sure that the lap belt is snug and low over the hips - it should never be worn over the tummy.

Pillows and cushions between child and belt, or between child and seat can also be "submarining" and should be avoided with one possible exception. A firm support can be used under a child to raise him or her a few inches if the following precautions are observed.

The support must be of very firm, nonflammable material - the lighter it is, the easier it is to anchor.

The support must be anchored to the seat to prevent it from flying out from under the child during a crash. A properly fitted shoulder belt may be worn, along with the lap belt, by older children.

Children, like adults, often resist using a restraint system when they are first introduced to it. Youngsters, however, very quickly come to develop a feeling of comfort and security in a child restraint. To achieve this, the restraint must be used every time the child rides in the system when they are first introduced to it. What the restraint does and how it works often helps.

Report to Kentucky

SENATOR WENDELL FORD

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME EXTENSION: A BAD IDEA

Bills to extend Daylight-Savings Time are being considered again in Congress. Many Kentuckians, especially farmers, believe such a move would be a mistake. I do too.

Daylight-Savings Time (DST) currently begins when the clocks are moved ahead an hour on the last Sunday in April and ends when clocks are turned back an hour on the last Sunday in October. There are two proposals for beginning DST weeks earlier and having it last longer than the current 26-week period.

One plan, introduced in both House and Senate bills, would begin the time change on the third Sunday in March and end it on the first Sunday in November. The second plan would begin DST on the first Sunday in April and end it on the first Sunday in November. This bill has been reported out of a House Committee and is now on the House calendar.

An extension of DST would interfere with the work of farmers. They must work on a schedule stubbornly laid down by their animals and the sun. Because evening community meetings and events would be held earlier, farmers would be unable to participate. Their work lasts until sundown, regardless of the time of day dictated by Washington.

Also, especially in the current farm crisis, many family members must commute out of financial necessity - hold several jobs off the farm. The time change would leave them an hour less for doing morning chores before leaving for work.

Even more disturbing to me is the fact that an extension would threaten the safety of our school children. They would be forced, on some days in March and April, to wait for buses along colder, darker, and more dangerous roads. This hazard to children's safety makes any reasons for supporting the change seem frivolous.

Chief supporters of extending DST are businesspeople whose goods might sell better due to more hours of sunlight during the spring. They include makers of barbecue grills and equipment, convenience stores, gardening stores and sporting-goods manufacturers, and manufacturers of sugar products.

Daylight-Savings Time was first advocated by Benjamin Franklin in 1784 because he believed it would save millions of candles in the evening hours. The United States did not adopt it nationally until World War I when it was temporarily imposed to save petroleum by reducing evening electricity consumption. It was revived during World War II.

Passage of the Uniform Time Act in 1966 required states to shift their clocks at the same time. The current time-shifting schedule, which was departed from only during 1974 because of the oil shortage, has worked well. No evidence has been presented thus far that would convince me that the clocks should be tampered with. The Senate Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation, will consider these proposals in an Oct. 31 hearing. As a member of this committee, I am looking forward to hearing why bill supporters believe otherwise.

Freshman down Whitley County 8-0 Monday

The Rockcastle Freshman and Eighth grade team are 6 and 1 on the year. Their most recent win came Monday night at home against Whitley County 8 to 0.

Under the direction of David Riddle and Jerry Pensol the rockets took their sixth win by shutting out the Colonels.

Quarterback Rodney Kirby scored the only touchdown of the game when he took the ball from scrimmage and rambled forty yards for the score late in the second period. Glen Smith added the extra two points on a run up the middle.

The Rockets played an excellent game on defense as they have all year long. They will play their final game of the season next week against Knox Central.

year. So, the pressure is on, right? Yep. But it isn't all on the 6-8 all-purpose senior. It says here that Ed Davendar (outside) and Winston Bennett (inside) will have a lot to do with whether or not

Walker gets the award. And college player of the year is not just a symbol for bragging rights either. It means big money in next spring's NBA draft.

The Low Rollers are in first place of the Rockcastle County Mixed League with 14 wins and 10 losses. There is a four-way tie for second place between the Born Losers, High Rollers, A-Team and Rebels with 13 wins and 11 losses.

High Team Series this week goes to the Born Losers who had a 2,409. Wildcats had second high with a 2,395, and third high went to the Rebels, who had a 2,308.

Born Losers also had High Team Game with an 831. Rebels had second high with an 830 and Wildcats third high with an 828.

Tim Reynolds took High Men's Series this week with a 596. Jack Noe had second high with a 587 and Jim Cromer had a 573 for third high series.

Recruiting Rex Chapman may be the player most on the minds of roundball fans in Kentucky these days. But the 6-5 player from Owensboro isn't the only hot talent on UK's shopping list.

It's only a hunch, but I believe, after Chapman and Terry Mills, the hot names on UK's list are these:

Kevin Pritchard, a 6-3, 160-pound guard from Tulsa; 6-3, 180-pound Michael Christian of Denver, Colo.; 6-5, 180-pound Ron Huery from Memphis; 6-6 Ricky Jones of Pendleton, S.C.; and 6-6 Derrick Miller of Savannah, Ga.

Anything look familiar? How about Eddie Sutton's style—speed, quickness, finesse and (Sidney Moncrief) size over bulk and power.

[Late] recruiting notes Chapman, who says he has changed his mind about waiting till spring and will pick a college next month (Nov. 13-20 is early signing window), got a visit recently from a fellow who rarely hits the recruiting trail, Dean Smith.

Too, Chapman is reported to have received a (courtesy) telephone call last week from his basketball idol, Michael Jordan.

Comment: Little wonder it is so difficult for an 18-year-old kid to pick a college these days. Must be like being in a room full of adoring Dallas Cowboy cheerleaders and trying to pick, ah, just one, please.

On Terry Mills of Romulus, Mich., University of Michigan coach Bill Frieder is reported to have said recently that Kentucky and other schools wooing the 6-10 player can "feel good" all they want for now. But when pressure is brought to bear to keep a blue chip Michigan kid at home, Ann Arbor is where he winds up.

Will the Universites of Kentucky and Louisville renew their contract to play a regular season basketball series when the pact comes up for renewal following the 1986-87 season?

It's only a hunch, but I don't think so.

Since the two agreed to a 5-year contract in 1982 some of the dew has gone off the rose.

"It isn't the same," one Louisville Cardinals devotee said this week. "I'd just as soon they didn't play in regular season and then met occasionally in the NCAA Tournament. A regular season

Jack Noe had a 212 for High Men's Game. Tim Reynolds had a 205 for second and Dale Noe took third with a 204.

Carol McGuire had High Women's Series with a 470 and High Women's Game with a 178. Laverne Winstead had second High Women's Series with a 458 and second High Women's Game with a 166. Evelyn Mullins had third High Women's Series with a 457 and third High Women's Game with a 165.

Bill Reynolds holds High Men's Average with a 184 and Jack Noe has a 178 average for second.

Carol McGuire has High Women's Average with a 161 and Evelyn Mullins has second high with a 157.

game just doesn't come up to the atmosphere like the one in Knoxville at the NCAA Midwest Regional (so-called Dream Game, 1982). "Besides," the fan added, "UK doesn't need Louisville and Louisville doesn't need UK."

Good reasoning it seems to me. What do you think?

Ex-Kentucky coach Joe B. Hall has remained adamant against a UK-UofL game as well. In fact, he told a Lexington reporter two weeks ago that he advocates changing the University of Kentucky Invitational (UKIT) to exclude out-of-state "ducks" from years past (Portland State, Alaska, Wyoming), and include in-state schools—Eastern, Western, Murray, Morehead—and perhaps Louisville.

Certainly a UKIT formatted as mentioned would sell out Rupp

Arena. And the money would remain in the state.

Kentucky football

Four autumns ago some doomsayers posed the rhetorical question: "Can Jerry Claiborne... can anybody 'win' consistently at the University of Kentucky?"

Discounting Claiborne's first UK team that finished 0-10-1, the Wildcats are 19-10-2 including two bowl trips through the LSU game Saturday. Moreover, UK's image in the annual recruiting sweepstakes is markedly better than it once was as evidenced by good crops, the last two seasons, with prospects being good for this year as well although the in-state talent pool is down.

"There are maybe three blue chippers in the state, kids who could play in the Southeastern Conference," a UK assistant coach said last week.

He would not identify the three of course because of NCAA rules, but they are believed to be running back Al Baker of Trigg County, defensive end/tackle Donnie Gardner of Louisville Trinity and one of the following Steve Curry, "linebacker" from Jeffersonstown, Paul McDowell, quarterback from Ballard, or defensive tackle Ravonne Effinger of Pleasure Ridge Park.

The talent level being down is "nothing against the communities in Kentucky," UK assistant Rodney Stiles added. "It's simply the population isn't there."

Stiles said that five UK coaches are working Florida this season, because, "Last year that state had 150 kids who went to Division I schools."

Stiles, who works with UK's offensive backs made some other observations.

"Coach Claiborne likes to play mind games with the players," Stiles said. "Before the season he sends each player a book to read called 'Psychic Cybernetics.' Also, during the season he asks them to lie down for about 20 minutes every Thursday night and think about the game coming up, think about making a big play, scoring the winning touchdown, something like that."

He said the players participate in a hypnosis session on Thursdays to help prepare them mentally for Saturday's game.

"So far it's been working," he said. "They believe in it."

Bill Ransdell's collapsed lung in the Clemson game is totally healed. But the broken rib continues to cause severe pain at times when it touches nerve

The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, October 24, 1985 P-A15 teammates really respect him for it too. "But if Bill has surgery he's out for the season. He's told the coaches that he's willing to play with the pain to avoid that for now," Bill's one tough customer. And his

"We expect Bill to be back for the East Tennessee game (Nov. 2)," he said.

More exciting than going to Red China than the opportunity of going to Red China," Dr. Oris Blackwell said of the workshop on preventive health that was held on Oct. 4 at Eastern Kentucky University.

Blackwell, who is chairman of the Environmental Health Science Department at EKV, is leading a delegation of health professionals to Red China next spring for a three-week study of public health in that country. But the potential for improving health in homes through preventive measures in Eastern Kentucky through the cooperation of EKV, the Christian Appalachian Project and Red Bird Mission in long term effects is more exciting than visiting another country. Blackwell told a group of 29 volunteers, employees and faculty members.

After a morning of introductions and setting the agenda, the gathering divided into three groups to discuss water and sewage disposal, housing, and maternal and child health and rehab therapy. The groups discussed the topics in relation to programs C.A.P. and Red Bird Mission operate—elderly care, youth, pre-natal and post natal, emergency assistance, small farm, home repair, spouse abuse, medical clinic, and handicapped. The group then reconvened to summarize the discussions.

"The workshop was very productive," Blackwell said. "We accomplished what I envisioned. We had a chance to get acquainted. We arrived at some specifics. And we expressed some common needs."

Five goals were established at the workshop: (1) to develop an intern program for seniors in health care at EKV with C.A.P. and Red Bird Mission; (2) to provide consultative services to C.A.P. and Red Bird workers when difficult problems arise in the field; (3) to develop a program of education so Eastern Kentuckians can improve their health through preventive measures; (4) to develop base line information from which programs can be developed; and (5) to hold workshops on specific areas for C.A.P. and Red Bird workers.

Rev. Ralph Betting, president of C.A.P., said the workshop was a good beginning.

Seven receive McFerron scholarships

Seven Rockcastle County residents have received J.D. McFerron scholarships at Berea College.

The J.D. McFerron Student Assistance Fund was established at his death in 1978. Annual income from the fund is used to help provide educational funds and student assistance for deserving Berea College students from Rockcastle County where Mr. McFerron worked as a school teacher, principal and superintendent.

Recipients of these scholarships for the 1985-86 academic year are: Mark Lovell, a junior chemistry major, son of Dorothy Lovell of Rt. 2, Mt. Vernon; Therese Matthis, a junior sociology major, daughter of Edna Matthis of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon; Greta McClure, a senior nursing major, daughter of Kathryn Sandlin of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon; Charles S. McKinney, a senior elementary education and religion major, son of Charles and Carolyn McKinney of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon; Melinda McKinney, a freshman math major, daughter of Cecil and Joyce McKinney of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon; Freddie Noe, Jr., a junior biology major, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Noe, Sr., Mt. Local student at EKU now student teaching Emmie Daugherty of Mt. Vernon, a student at Eastern Kentucky University, is currently student teaching in the area of business education at Paluski County High School in Somerset.

Nearly 100 EKU students are gaining practical classroom teaching experience during the 1985 fall semester, university officials said.

EKU's College of Education places its student teachers in classrooms for the last 10 weeks of the semester following six weeks of on-campus instruction in teaching fundamentals.

To become student teachers, students must be seniors with overall grade point averages of 2.5 (based on a 4.0 scale). They are placed in public schools to teach for one semester with the guidance of a public school teacher and a supervisor, said Dr. David Rush, who directs EKU's student teaching services.

A message to the people of Rockcastle County:

With the upcoming November General Election drawing near, we, a few concerned citizens of this county, feel that we have picked up on a growing idea that is beginning to surface in our county -- that being a number of persons with the desire to elect William Taylor as Sheriff of Rockcastle County in this upcoming election. One might ask, "How can this be done?"

Well, according to election laws in this and many other states; a voter can "WRITE-IN" a person's name for any particular office. The practice of writing-in a person's name on the ballot is not common at every election but has been successful in many other places and has been successful in this county in recent years.

Concerning write-in voting, KRS 117.145(3) requires the county clerk to equip all voting machines with necessary supplies for the purpose of receiving write-in votes. KRS 117.265 governing write-in voting reads as follows:

"(1) A voter may, at any general or special election, cast a write-in vote for any person whose name does not appear upon the ballot label as a candidate, by writing the name of his choice upon the appropriate device for the office being voted on provided on the voting machine as required by KRS 117.125. An absentee voter may write in a vote for any person whose name does not appear upon the special ballot, by writing the name of his choice under the office.

"(2) Two (2) election officers of opposing parties shall upon the request of any voter instruct such voter on how to cast a write-in vote.

The winner in this year's May primary in the Sheriff's race received only approximately 19% of the total votes cast in the election. According to Kentucky election law, that was sufficient to win. But, in many other states, a percentage that low would have prompted a run-off in the General Election.

This WRITE-IN campaign can be successful, but we need your help and commitment. A write-in candidate cannot personally conduct a house-to-house campaign. He can only accept the support and nomination of the voters in a General Election.

We have known William Taylor all our lives -- he has lived and worked here and we feel he has done an excellent job as Sheriff of Rockcastle County. But, again, we must come forth and express our support to him, to our friends and to our neighbors in order to WRITE-IN and ELECT WILLIAM TAYLOR so he can continue to serve us as Sheriff of Rockcastle County.

Thank you,

Concerned Citizens to Write-In
William Taylor as Sheriff

Fun and food were two things to enjoy when Castle Village in Brodhead celebrated with a fall festival last week. In top photo, Bob Machal, left, resident manager, and Wayne Driver, property supervisor for Wallick Properties of Columbus, Ohio, discuss the events to be held during the festival. At lower left, Jessie Mays and Kayla Marie Hayes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Hayes, help in their own small way. At

Castle Village residents enjoy day of festivities

About 150 persons, mostly residents, enjoyed a fall festival at Castle Village Apartments in Brodhead Oct. 16.

There was music by the Gospel Goodtimers, Country Charlie provided music and song for the occasion. The Clohoppers from Berea performed.

According to Bob Machal, resident manager, the evening was a success. "I think everyone who attended had a real good time. Many of our residents worked a long time to make it a success."

It was the first fall festival at the apartment complex, and many of the residents cooperated to decorate the area. There were free hot dogs and other items furnished by local merchants.

"We all worked together to make the evening an enjoyable one," Machal stated. "The response was very good."

Committee for the festival included: Roxann Caldwell, June Brewer, Flossie Hensley, Anna Faye Thompson, Nannie Johnson, Donna Clontz, Anna Gibson, Valerie Williams, Mattie Mink, Jean Ennis, Arnold Gibson, Phillip Payne, Rickly Clontz and Leroy Williams. Furnishing the wagons for the festival were James Wren, Bill Bishop and Bob Brummett.

The complex was all decked out for the festival, and led Machal to call it the "nicest complex in Kentucky."

Making a special trip to Brodhead to take part in the festival was Wayne Driver, property supervisor for Wallick Properties in Columbus, Ohio.

The $2.5 million, nine-acre complex was opened March 23, 1983. It contains 70 units. Of those, 24 are one-bedroom for the elderly; 30 two-bedroom townhouses; 10 three-bedroom apartments and six one-bedroom. The apartments have central air and heating and wall-to-wall carpeting. Appliances are furnished. There is a centrally located laundromat. Rent is based on 30 percent of the residents' adjusted income.

Machal reported the apartments stay 90 percent occupied and there is a short waiting list, except the three-bedroom apartments which have a one-year waiting list. Least occupied are the apartments in the section for the elderly.

Currently, there are 144 residents in Castle Village, Machal related.

He said there are not many major problems at the complex.

"Sometimes, but not often, a resident will fail to take care of his apartment and we have to ask them to leave," he continued. "We make sure the units are taken care of. We can inspect them by giving a 24-hour notice. We have not had a problem here that we have not remedied."

Office hours at Castle Village is 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday, or by appointment. The telephone is 758-4111.

Residence check by city police now available

Going on a vacation? Spending the winter in Florida? If so, the Mt. Vernon Police Department will keep an eye on your property, if you ask.

The department will be available to check your home periodically while you're away, according to a suggestion made to the city council at its last meeting. The council approved the proposal made by Police Chief Joe Howard.

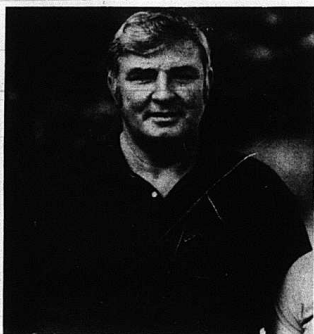

The department will furnish a form to be filled out if the homeowner comes to city hall to make a request.

Also, the department has an engraver that can be used to mark household items with identification numbers. There is no charge.

Dr. Nichols to speak at Farmers-Business banquet

Dr. Michael R. Nichols, acting director for the University of Kentucky Counseling and Testing Center, will be the principal speaker for the 26th annual Farmers-Business Banquet at 6:30 p.m., Nov. 8 at the Rockcastle County High School.

The banquet is sponsored by the Mt. Vernon Lions Club. A native of Natchez, Miss., Dr. Nichols has lived in Kentucky since he was three. He received his public school education in Louisville and came to Lexington in 1964 as a freshman at Transylvania College. He received his A.B. degree in English and Philosophy in 1968 and worked for a while as a newspaper writer and photographer.

His Alma Mater called him back in 1969 to serve as an academic counselor and residence hall director, and he has worked in academics ever since. He received his M.A. in community counseling at the University of Kentucky before serving two years as Assistant Dean at Hanover College in Indiana.

He came back to UK in 1972 as Assistant to the Dean of Undergraduate Studies and has served at UK in various other capacities such as Associate Director of the Office of Instructional Resources and a faculty member in the Department of Educational Psychology and Counseling where he currently has the rank of Adjunct Assistant Professor. He received a Doctor of Philosophy degree in counseling psychology from UK and trained at the University's Counseling and Testing Center and at Eastern State Hospital. His Ph.D. dissertation was on alcoholism treatment.

Dr. Nichols also has served as the first Director of the Faculty Development Project based at the University of Kentucky. This program sought to provide workshops, seminars, and fellowship grants to faculty members to small colleges throughout the Appalachian Region. Dr. Nichols has also been a member of the Psychology Service of Eastern State Hospital in Lexington where he was chairman of the Research Committee and the Hospital Life Committee and co-chair of the Quality Assurance Committee and Accreditation Steering Committee. He worked on chronic and acute wards within the hospital.

On Sept. 1, 1984, Dr. Nichols returned to the University of Kentucky as Associate Director of the University's Counseling and Testing Center. He continues to teach courses in human development, counseling, psychology of religion and other topics in psychology. Since May 1, 1985, he has served as Acting Director of the Center.

Dr. Nichols is a member of Kentucky Psychological Association, American Psychological Association, the Society for Behavioral Medicine, the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion, as well as other professional organizations. He is a licensed psychologist and the author of several articles, monographs and three films. He is the past-editor of "The Kentucky Psychologist" and is past-president of the Transylvania College Alumni Executive Board. He is a member of Phi Delta Kappa Honorary Fraternity for Educators and Psi Chi, the Honorary Psychology Fraternity.

Tickets may be purchased for the banquet from the following: Bobby Proctor, Herbert Coffey, Elmer Hale, Bobby Wilson, Wildie General Store, Floyd Owens; David Stripes, Donald Rowe, Tom Mills, Harold Ballinger, Robert Robinson, Bill Dowell, Ron Cain, Glenn Miller, Lee "Buddy" Gabbard, Robert "Buddy" Cox" and Ed Hunt, president of the Lions Club.

Tickets are $6 each.

thought about the security of your home and your neighborhood," the chief said.

"So you can help keep yourself safe from burglars by taking security measures in and around your home, by being concerned about what happens in your neighborhood, and by cooperating with law enforcement agencies in your community you can reduce your chances of being burglarized," he added.

He suggested the following steps that can be taken before a resident leaves for an extended period of time:

Stop all deliveries or have someone pick up deliveries daily. Close blinds, pull shades down, do other things that advertise that the house is empty.

Use a clock-timer or a photo-electric relay to turn lights on and off at certain times, giving the house an occupied look. Added protection can be achieved if you have your neighbor re-arrange the time controlled lights to present a different pattern for part of your absence. If you don't have a timer, have a neighbor turn the lights on for you.

Move valuables so they can't be seen from porch windows. Don't leave large sums of cash or valuable jewelry in your house at any time.

Make arrangements to have your lawn mowed and yard work kept up. In winter, sidewalks should be kept shoveled of snow.

Put things away, including lawn furniture, bicycles, and yard items. Things left outside can be stolen.

A check with Chief Howard shows in the past three months of June, July and August, there was 150 percent more police activity in the city, such as traffic citations, parking violations, and other, than in 1984. During the three months in 1984 there were 27 major crimes such as burglary, thefts, and car thefts. In the same months in 1985 there were 12.

The apparent reason for the downward turn was better patrolling by officers and the activity of the Police Commission and police chief, even though the police force is 40 percent undermanned because of illnesses. The city has five officers.

ATTENTION 3rd District Voters

As election time draws near, I wish to once again ask for your vote and support in my race for 3rd District Magistrate.

As I have said before, I have the qualifications and experience for this office and the desire to see our county progress over the next four years. Having been a member of the court when the first industry came into our county, I am familiar with what is needed to obtain more industry.

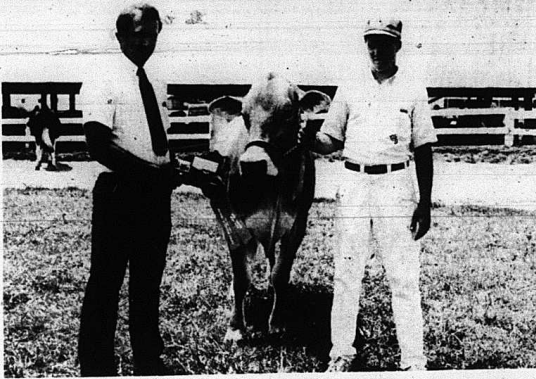

Please remember me on Election Day and I will not forget you for the next four years.

Steve Trebolo

Trebolo grows 154 bushel of corn with only nitrogen

Corn farmers are facing the lowest prices in many years as they harvest this year's crop. Not only does this bring concern, but the fact that production cost continues to rise makes the low price even more unbearable.

During times as this, to hear of someone producing 154 bu/acre with only nitrogen fertilizer is hard to believe. Steve Trebolo has done just that on his entry in the 1985 UK Corn Contest. Not that all corn can be grown with only nitrogen, but to apply only the fertilizer needed to produce the crop according to soils test is worth noting.

Soil testing is the only way to gauge the application of fertilizer to meet a crop's needs. Prior to starting his farming in Rockcastle County, Steve worked three years in Ohio in a soils lab. His experiences have built his faith in measuring the soil's fertility and applying only those nutrients which will be deficient. One must have a considerable belief in soil test recommendations if you follow through and plant with no fertilizer, especially when the field will be entered in a contest.

On 66 acres, Steve produced over 7,000 bushels of corn to be used in his swine operation. On those 66 acres, 12 samples were taken for soils test recommendations. The bottom line in why his contest field received no phosphorus or potash is that test results placed the phosphorus at 177 which is very high, potash placed at 277 which is also very high. The fertilizing had been built up from over fertilization of other crops years ago.

To take advantage of this build-up, Steve has incorporated strip cropping, which allows each strip to be rotated with corn and grass. Grass can utilize any excess of P and K as well as provide residual nitrogen from legumes for corn.

His production practices and enthusiasm for farming were among the criteria that Wilderness Trail Agriculture Alumni considered when selecting Steve as their Outstanding Young Agriculture Alumni for 1985.

County Agent Notes

County Extension Agent
For Agriculture

During the five to six months of winter when pastures produce very little or no growth, cattle producers must have an adequate supply of feed in storage. One storage method more are using is stockpiling.

Stockpiling of forages is an economical method of feeding your cattle over the winter months, according to Extension forage specialist at University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Stockpiling is accumulating the field growth which occurs from August to November and using it for additional grazing during the fall and winter. This method has become more popular with producers because it reduces labor. You don't rake, bale, store or feed the forage; the grazing cattle do all the work.

Mid-August to fall is the time to begin stockpiling for the coming winter. Producers should remove cattle from the field to be stockpiled, apply the needed fertilizer and allow grass to accumulate growth until November or December.

Not all plants are good for stockpiling. Tall fescue and bluegrass are best because they are somewhat resistant to low temperatures, retain green color into the winter and form good sods. Timothy and orchardgrass work well, too. It is good management to select for stockpiling the fields where legume stands are almost lost.

Producers should fertilize fields according to how much feed it needed. Take a soil test to determine lime, phosphorus, and potassium needs. Determine nit-

Mt. Vernon gets grant for new city police cruiser

Governor Martha Layne Collins has announced an award of $7,000 from the Area Development Fund to the City of Mt. Vernon toward purchase of a police cruiser.

The Cumberland Valley Area Development District Board recommended the project for ADF funding.

The new cruiser will allow the Mt. Vernon police force to increase its community coverage and improve its ability to provide adequate protection for residents, according to local officials.

The Area Development Fund is a capital project's program administered by the Department of Local Government in the Office of the Governor.

The state's 15 area development districts make recommendations to the department on the basis of state law and policy on project funding.
