State terms Renfro dam high hazard

Lake Linville dam at Renfro Valley is one of 60 dams in Eastern Kentucky that is considered "high hazard" by the Kentucky Division of Water Resources.

High hazard dams are those whose failure could cause loss of life or serious damage to property, public utilities, major highways and railroads.

Even though the Renfro Dam, which is the road bed for I-75 and is among those listed, it does not mean the dam is substandard or is threatened by collapse.

In nearby Laurel County, listed as high hazard are Wood Creek Dam and London reservoir. In Pulaski County, the East Kentucky Power Company dam is listed.

Listed as "moderate hazard" are Dorthea Dam, Corbin reservoir, Freeman and Vance Mills No. 8, Eagles Nest Dam in Pulaski is on the "moderate" list. There are none in Rockcastle County on the moderate list.

According to the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet plan, more frequent inspection of dams and better protection for underground water is needed. More than 30 percent of drinking water in Kentucky comes from underground sources.

Money for the increased inspection, estimated at $22 million for the state, would come from the Clean Water Act that is expected to clear Congress this week, despite the veto of the bill by President Reagan. Congress is expected to override the veto.

The state plan calls for annual inspection of high hazard dams, and every other year inspection of moderate hazard dams.

The plan lists a high hazard dam as being at least 25 feet tall and impounds 50 acre-feet or more of water that would endanger the area. The moderate dam is the same except there would be no loss of life.

The plan also calls for an investigation of Kentucky's underground water resources by giving local communities help in protection.

Board hears from parents

By: Richard Anderkin

Students athletics being treated differently at Rockcastle County High School, an art and music teacher for Brodhead Elementary School, and the hiring of an architect for the new Mt. Vernon Elementary School, highlighted Tuesday night's regular monthly meeting of the Rockcastle County Board of Education.

Elizabeth Senters, of Livingston, who has a daughter playing on the girl's varsity basketball team was upset by the fact that girls were only purchased canvas shoes to play ball in while both the B-team and varsity players on the boys' teams were furnished with leather shoes.

"The girls had to pay quite a bit extra when they traded their canvas shoes for leather ones and I don't think it is fair to treat them differently from the boys," Ms. Senters said.

She said that she had talked with Principal Cleton Saylor at the high school about the shoe incident and that he did not know that a difference was being made.

Garbage was everywhere Tuesday at this dumpster on U.S. 25 at the top of Sigmom Hill. Area residents complain that their property is covered by papers and other trash that blows around. All dumpsters will be removed when the county's garbage plan goes into effect.

State employees settle suit

By: Richard Anderkin

A $600,000 federal law suit brought by three Rockcastle County women, who have worked for or are working for the Kentucky Cabinet of Human Resources, is being settled, according to the plaintiff's lawyer.

Joyce Lark, Shirley Wallin and Rosalind Philbeck said in their suit, which was filed against Mike

Bryant their supervisor in the local office of Social Services, and his supervisor Jim Wood of London, that from August of 1983 to July 1984 the two men "conspired to harass and intimidate them."

Part of the settlement includes job reinstatement for two of the workers and a public apology from the two supervisors. It does not include the $200,000 each in compensatory and punitive damages the women had asked from the supervisors, when they filed their suit in late 1985 in U.S. District Court in London.

Joyce Lark said Tuesday that she did not want to settle the suit but that her lawyer insisted that the three workers would be better off settling now. "I never had any doubts we would win, we really wanted to go all the way," she said.

Lark, who quit over the alleged incidents in the Mt. Vernon office will go back to work for the state soon, as part of the settlement Shirley Wallin is already back at work in the same office and Rosalind Philbeck has been granted another hearing before the state personnel board, in which she plans to tell her side of the story again.

She said, Tuesday that she wanted her job back, and back pay for all of the time she has been off. She also said that she was dropping a separate civil suit in Franklin Circuit Court against Bryant as part of the settlement.

The women's lawyer, David Murrell of Louisville, said that while nobody is ever completely happy with a settlement his clients proved that "they can't be treated just any way and lose all their rights."

The settlement came four days into the trial which was moved to Lexington federal court from London.

Lark said that while she will go back to work soon that it will not be in the same office, but that it will be comparable to her old job.

Gunman robs service station

A service station attendant was robbed of over $1,000 at gunpoint and tied up about 4:30 a.m. Monday at the Chevron Service Station at Burr.

Danny Reams, 19, told police a man with a stocking mask and gloves came into the station with a gun and demanded money from the cash register. Reams said he did not see the man until he was in the station. He described him as a white male about six-foot-four inches tall.

Reams was forced into the back room where he was tied up. He worked his hand loose after about 15 minutes and called police.

The owner of the station is reported to be Oscar Hornsby. Trooper Jack Lawless, who investigated the robbery, said there are no suspects.

First major cutbacks made

By: Ray McClure

The first major cutbacks, caused by the "garbage money crunch," hit the Rockcastle Fiscal Court full force at its monthly meeting Tuesday.

Result: Personnel lay-offs and a major cut in contributions to the Rockcastle Ambulance Service. First to go was the $17,000 ambulance yearly contribution. $1,500 monthly service will continue. The court was told, but not with county money.

Next were the lay-offs, hopefully temporary, for Lela Swames, a courthouse worker, George Bowles, garbage collector in the Climax area Juanita Medley, homebound service aid at the Livingston Senior Citizens center and Mary Ann Croner, home bound service aid at the Brodhead Senior Citizens center.

Robert Ramsey, who was hired last month to help keep the garbage dumpsters cleaned up was "laid off." Replacing him at the same salary of $600 a month was M.B. Kinser.

The court also approved using a backhoe to press garbage in the dumpsters to allow for more bags and to save some money.

Magistrate Glen Ellison asked County Judge/Executive Hubert Thacker to terminate the employment of deputy county judge Joe Clark, who receives $50 a month.

"How can we lay off these people and you keep him (Clark) on the payroll?" Magistrate Doug Bishop asked the judge. "What does he do?"

The judge replied "Nothing, but I'll talk with him this week about it."

Bishop reminded the judge the other employees and ambulance workers had not been notified in advance of cut-offs. The judge reiterated that he will talk with Clark this week.

The deputy judge is hired by the county, judge executive and not by the magistrates. It is Judge Thacker's responsibility to terminate the deputy judge's employment.

Bishop reminded the court that the problem with money has been increasing day by day for quite awhile, and now "has caught up with us."

"We just don't have any more money," Bishop said. "There is no money! There is nothing we can do but cut back on expenses. We can't continue to spend over $8,000 a month to have garbage transported out of the county and still have money to do anything else."

Bishop continued "It all boils down to a lack of cooperation, too much outside interference in county matters, too many stalls, cancelled meetings, refusing to carry out the wishes of the court."

When asked if there was someone that he had in mind, Bishop stated "The county judge and county attorney."

County Attorney James H. Lambert reminded the court he was not a member of the fiscal court.

"I have no role to play in any county measures that come before the court," according to the law, Lambert said. "I'm merely a legal advisor to the court and I do not attempt to tell the court the best way to handle a situation. I'm not permitted by law to do that. I think most people understand that."

Once again, Bishop told the court that garbage has been the big problem for the county and that "there have been too many, stumbling blocks."

"All we've done is meet and talk and meet and talk," Bishop said. "We're ready to go to work, at least I am. If not, we may as well go home. On garbage, we're

Fiscal court calls police

Kentucky State Police have been asked to investigate the "potential loss" of county property at the Rockcastle County highway garage.

The Rockcastle Fiscal Court made the request and asked County Attorney James H. Lambert to contact state police. The court voted unanimously to call in police.

"We are not accusing anyone of theft," Magistrate Doug Bishop said, "but we do want our property returned."

"Missing" were a chain saw, two log chains, six tires, a kerosene heater, two "come-alongs", new grade battery, fuel oil stove, truck battery, two claw hammers and oil.

Cummins files for Circuit Clerk

Money Ed Cummins announced this week he is a candidate for Rockcastle Circuit Court Clerk.

Cummins served three terms as circuit court clerk, one term as county judge and one term as state representative.

A Republican and a member of the Flat Rock Baptist Church, he is married to the former Bernice McNew Holcomb.

The son of Nell Mink Cummins and the late Money T. Cummins, he is a member of Dave Jackson Masonic Lodge 731 at Livingston. He is a farmer and at one time worked for the railroad.

"Having been a circuit court clerk, state representative and county judge, I believe I am well qualified for the office," he said. "If elected, I will serve to the best of my ability."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor: We, the members of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court wish to answer recent letters in your paper concerning county employees.

We believe these people were not properly informed on who does most of the work for the Rockcastle County Road Department. We feel also, according to a few remarks about one certain employee, Luster Bullock, that the record needs to be set straight.

Luster Bullock was first employed according to our records, in 1972. Other than a one year lay off, he has worked for the county ever since. We believe that with 14 years, he is probably the oldest employee in the county. He lacks less than 1 1/2 years until he could retire. How big would you feel to fire a person at that age just for no reason?

Mr. Bullock was born and raised in Rockcastle County. He has spent most of his life here. Just before retirement, why all the worry about where he lives? Sounds like politics to us. Why wasn't that talked about in 1972. Mr. Bullock also informed us he spends part of his time residing in Rockcastle County. We would like for you to know that the previous court employed this man for four years, and now some on previous courts are criticizing us.

We would like to leave you with one thought: What if Berea, Somerset, Danville, Richmond, Lexington and all these other cities, plus other states, refused to let our people hold down a job? How many of your families would?

Authority: Eddie Lamar Whiddon, $25 and costs.

No Special Permit to Exceed Width: Eddie Lamar Whiddon, $25.

Pulling Over Dimension Trailway on Non-designated Highway: LeVine Reed, $20 and costs.

No Valid Ky. Vehicle ID Card: Robert Olehford, $20 and costs.

Thank you for reading this. Sincerely, Doug Bishop, Amos Burdette, Jack Bradley, Glen Ellison, Donald Blount.

Dear Editor: I'm not a Christian, never have claimed to be, but I do attend Roundstone Missionary Baptist Church occasionally where my wife, daughters, son and son-in-law have been members for eight years or so. The church has prospered and grown tremendously, and many needed repairs and improvements have been made to the building during that period. As my wife says - God has blessed.

The church has been in a turmoil for weeks now. When the former pastor resigned because of the distance involved in driving from Williamsburg, the church was in unity and love. No problems were visible. He felt God could use him elsewhere and is now pastoring a church close to his home. After much consideration and a trial period, a new pastor was hired six or seven months ago. In that short time, the fellowship has been broken and many hearts have been hurt.

There have been many rumors and much gossip as to the cause of the problem. On a Sunday morning in church, in the latter part of December, a deacons meeting was held on the subject of bringing the church books up to date financially. Out of that meeting came many different versions of what took place. The treasurer stated he had found some mistakes, but no one was offended in the meeting.

Evidently, there was some questions about the pastor's Christmas gift of $200, since the church had voted in the past to give the pastors $100 for a Christmas gift. The only question was, if the amount was to be changed, it should have been brought before the church and voted on. That night at the closing of the service, the preacher made some statements concerning the gift. He told the people they didn't know what he had went through in that back room. He thanked the ones who wanted him to have it in love and then informed them that some of the people were opposed to him having it. He then walked back to the treasurer and gave back the $200. No one was opposed to him keeping the gift and no one demanded he return any of it. In fact, he told one of the deacons on the porch steps before the service what he intended to do and the deacon begged him not to return the gift, but to keep his money. The deacon told him that no one cared for him having it.

I think the real issue is the preacher's lack of respect for the office of the deacons or the authority of the church body. I don't exactly know what he meant by his statements, but I know what he made it sound like. In my opinion, his tactic was to divide and conquer, for there was no one who even suggested he give back the gift. That same night, a deacon of over 45 years shook his hand at the door as he was leaving and said, "Brother, I will not tie you like some will. For the last three months, you've been driving a wedge down the middle of this church. I have no further use for you." That deacon has not been back since, but a week or so later was excluded from the church book because he had quit saying amen to the preacher's sermons and for talking "bad" to the preacher.

My daughter and son-in-law, along with seven other people, including one other deacon, song leaders, teachers, the piano players, ushers and assistants to various positions, resigned due to the fact that the fellowship in the church was broken. On the hope the church could get together and work things out, a meeting was set up, supposedly a fellowship meeting. Nine people, including my daughter and son-in-law, and everyone who resigned their positions, were excluded. It has been told that these people asked to have their names removed from the church book. This is not true. It was also told they were organizing a drive to throw the pastor out. This is also untrue. Not one of the ten excluded have ever mentioned throwing the pastor out. One member was even told that one of the deacons demanded the pastor give back $100 of the Christmas gift. That was a lie.

Some people may wonder why I'm writing this. This is my family and friends and I know these people. Christians may not realize it, but I think their actions are scrutinized more by non-Christians than by Christians. What is a Christian? A Christian is Christ-Like. If all these people that have been running up and down the roads and working to get inactive members in to vote these people out, and those members and deacons that have hashed it out in public places have been Christ-Like about it all and have always told the truth, then they're in fine shape. If not, however, they need us get forgiveness, not only from these people but from God.

Over the years, pastors, evangelists, and those members who were excluded have visited my home and witnessed to me. They have encouraged me to attend

Investing After Tax Reform

Major changes in your life should be followed by a review of your financial situation and your investment program. That includes marriage, children, divorce, retirement and major tax law changes such as the Tax Reform Act of 1986. As you review your specific investments, there are several general concepts to keep in mind.

First, the best investment program for your is one that usually matches specific types of investment with your financial goals. Don't let tax law changes or other receipts with short-lived consequences weigh too heavily on the choices you make. Aim for a sound strategy that weathers the ups and downs well and carries you to your financial goal.

Second, your own lifestyle and personality should be considered in your choice of investments. Understand your own risk-tolerance level, and invest to get the highest yields within your comfort zone.

Third, think long-term. Too many investors lose money, not because they make a poor investment choice, but because they don't stick with an investment long enough to maximize return. Long-term investing can be very profitable. Short-term investing is difficult because of day-to-day market fluctuations.

Fourth, don't expect miracles from your investment program. The investor who looks for the one big opportunity to make a killing is likely to expose himself to excessive risk and to be disappointed in the end. Reasonable goals, with a selection of sensible investments to reach those goals, are far more likely to give you the return and financial security you want from an investment program.

Finally, don't overlook the simple things. The financial world is full of complicated investments and trying to choose among them can be dizzying. Never invest in anything you don't understand, and don't overlook good, solid investments. For example, right now two of the best investments you can have are probably an IRA or other similar tax-deferred investment program and your personal residence.

church; they have got down on their knees and had prayer for me and my soul. I am sure there are a lot more people throughout the community who can say the same thing. For these people have traveled many miles on visitation and witnessing and encouraging inactive members to come back to church. The majority of those excluded were young adults. How often do you see young people take a sincere active roll in church? I don't mean organizing ball teams and recreational activities. I mean witnessing to lost people and friends and getting on their knees and praying for them and leading them to Christ. I cannot understand how Christian people can consider themselves Christ-Like when a 13 year old boy comes home from church in tears after a verbal attack by a lady, or after voting to exclude ten members (which I think is a seriously sad thing) to cheer, applaud and holler like they were at a sporting event. People -- I heard the tapes. It's all on tape.

As I said, I am not a Christian. But neither am I a fornicator, adulterer, drunkard, liar or a hypocrite or any of those excluded.

Dear Editor,

I'm writing in regard to what Mr. Jimmy Taylor had to say about the Pine Hill Pentecostal Church putting snow on his fence.

I think the people of this church are class "A" people. I know almost everyone that goes to church there and if they did put snow on the fence, I'm sure there was no harm meant.

I think Mr. Taylor, you just want to be outspoken. By the way, anyone with common sense knows a little snow is not going to tear down a barbwire fence unless you hit it with a scraper.

Jimmy, the next time you go to church there, I'd suggest you pray. I'm sure the good people there are praying for you.

Dear Editor,

I read an article written by State Representative Jim Maggard that has really impressed me.

He stated the tax payers in Kentucky are subject to too many elections. He feels these elections are a contributing factor to voter apathy. He talked about how expensive these elections are and how they cause financial burdens on our fiscal court budgets.

Mr. Maggard said, "on the average Kentucky has an election every (6) six months." He feels we need to conduct our elections in even numbered years. This would be a savings of 1.2 million dollars every four years.

This day and age, with monies needed for our senior citizens, the handicapped, road and bridges, I feel the money saved from these elections could help make a difference in these areas.

Mr. Maggard said if he is elected Secretary of State he will lobby the Legislature to bring about this much needed change.

I, for one, will certainly back Mr. Maggard. I would hope Kentuckians across the state will get behind this young man and elect him to the office of Secretary of State. Kentucky needs Jim Maggard.

School Board hears complaints from parents

But she said that the boy's head coach David Perkins reported that the boys' were bought leather shoes.

"When you get involved in Title IX, there can be some real problems," she said.

Title IX refers to women's educational rights as set forth in educational amendments of 1972.

She also presented the board with a petition from many of the girl students at RCHS requesting the board to form a girls softball team.

Board Chairman, Dr. Rudolph Burdette, said that he did not see any problem with the softball team, and that he would certainly have the shoe incident looked into.

"This is something that we can settle here without a lot of problem," he said.

Ms. Senter said what bothered her the most about the shoe incident was the fact that the boys were told not to tell anyone they were given free shoes.

Steve Trebalo, Phyllis Holbrook and Delores Albright were at the meeting representing the Brohead PTA. Trebalo thanked the board for keeping the school system in the black with all of the demands on them, and he also gave them a brief summary of the P.T.A.'s plans for new playground equipment at the school.

Mrs. Albright questioned the board as to why they had not hired another music teacher for the grade schools when Teresa Parrett resigned last year and why there was not an art teacher in any of the grade schools.

Superintendent Charles B. Parsons told Mrs. Albright that a budget crunch at the time Miss Parrett resigned was the reason a replacement was not hired.

Mrs. Albright said that she felt like there might be other alternatives as far as funding for an art and music teacher and she would like the board to look into it.

Parsons told Mrs. Albright that it would be looked into. In other business the board voted to allow John Eaton Jr. to work on the public address system at the high school, because, according to Parsons, it has never worked right since it was installed.

The board also voted to approve G.E.D. certificates for Wanda K. McFerron, Larry J. McFerron, Darlene Smith, Gerald K. Holman, Gina A. Felner, Larry D. Creech, Roy G. Smith, Ralph L. Thomas, Angela M. Miller, Linda L. Martin and Bettu K. Pountner.

A Weekly Report from Fifth District Congressman Hal Rogers

Tobacco Attacks Brewing in the New Congress

As work continues in the 100th Congress, it is apparent that the opponents of tobacco are again mounting their forces for another round of attacks on our state's key cash crop.

Last year, as you will recall, we fought battles over a number of tobacco-related issues. The most important fight was over the reform package for the federal tobacco program. The success of that effort has meant a more solid future for our tobacco growers and more help from the cigarette companies in maintaining our tobacco economy. We still have a problem with imports, but we have greatly reduced our no-net-cost fees and are getting rid of the huge surplus of domestic burley.

But there were other battles as well which we also fought successfully. And many of those fights will get an "instant replay" during the New Congress.

One issue which I helped fight was a complete ban on all advertising of tobacco products, including billboards, newspapers, and sponsorship of events. Along with several other tobacco leaders, I testified before a key House subcommittee against this proposal, arguing that such a ban is unconstitutional. I also pointed out that advertising does not create smoking, any more than soap advertising causes bathing. We were able to derail this legislation last session, but it will be re-introduced this year and another battle is shaping up.

Another issue which came up last year was legislation to severely ban smoking in most public buildings. I opposed this legislation at another hearing, and also conveyed my feelings directly to the head of the General Services Administration, the agency which controls thousands of federal buildings nationally. While G.S.A. eventually did issue regulations on smoking, they were dramatically less stringent than the original legislation. The fact that the government is intruding into the personal habits of its employees in this way is grossly unfair. Most disputes over smoking in an office can be dealt with by the employees themselves, without "big brother" spending thousands of dollars to paste "no smoking" signs all over federal buildings.

There will also be an attempt to totally ban smoking on all commercial airline flights. We fought this one before as well, and I am prepared to do so again. The current system which the airlines use of having separate seating for smokers works fine.

The fact is that all of these anti-smoker laws are really anti-tobacco laws in disguise. Since tobacco's opponents know that they cannot outlaw smoking, they resort to back-door tactics like these in order to make smokers into "outlaws."

With 41,000 tobacco growers living in the Fifth District, tobacco remains our major agricultural commodity. We are working to diversify farmers into additional crops, but tobacco will be with us for a long time.

As your congressman, I intend to keep fighting for our tobacco growers. And these legislative wars in Congress will keep us busy throughout the coming session.

Federal Suit settled out of court

Wallin and Lark, who worked as support services aides, alleged in the suit that the harassment included job suspensions after they were charged with falsifying travel vouchers.
They say that when they were cleared of the allegations and ordered reinstated, they didn't receive their back pay for a year because Bryant refused to sign the vouchers.
The same charges were reinstated twice against them after they were cleared the first time, they say. According to state records, the women were cleared of the charges all three times.
Philbeck, a secretary, says

PCA interest to drop soon

Farm Credit Services announced today that many Production Credit Association (PCA) borrowers will soon see an almost one percent drop in their interest rates.

Effective Monday, Feb. 2, borrowers on the Individual Loan Pricing Program will automatically receive the rate reduction. The average rate to borrowers on the program is 9.9 percent with a best rate of 8.6 percent.
Borrowers or others not already on the program can apply for the lower rates through the local Farm Credit Services office at 1106 South Main Street, London, Ky. 40341.

Last week Farm Credit Services announced further interest rate decreases for borrowers on the Federal Land Bank (FLBA) Individual Loan Pricing Program.
This program serves long-term credit needs for farmers and was introduced in September, 1986. Since that time, Farm Credit Services has reduced the rates for over 70 percent of its borrowers by 2.5 percent.

Individual Loan Pricing was developed by Farm Credit Services to help its membership through hard times in the agricultural economy. The program, she was ordered by Bryant to investigate the charges that the other two falsified vouchers, though there is an agency that investigates such charges.

She says she was given a written reprimand when she objected to investigating Lark and Wallin; however, Philbeck said she did give in and conduct the investigation.

The three women say that they were subjected to such harassment as being forbidden to be in a room with a closed door, to talk with other workers in the office, to receive personal phone calls at work, and they say they were required to take personal leave when they were out of the office on business purposes.

Philbeck also charged that her desk was moved into the employees' break room where she had no access to the telephone or files, which prevented her from performing her duties as office secretary.

The women say that they were vindicated in hearings before the Kentucky State Personnel Board, but the alleged harassment continued when they went back to work.

All three women left their jobs in 1984.

Commodities questionable

and Ford asked Lyng for "a quick and positive solution to this senseless and insensitive act."

"If the Secretary does not act in the next day or so I fully expect a resolution to be introduced in the Senate" which will block this judicial policy, I look forward to playing a part in such an appropriate action," McConnell said.

"We have thousands of tons of surplus commodities in this country, and no shortages of people in desperate need of nourishment. Yet, the Administration proposes to halt distribution - in the middle of the winter, no less. It is utterly heartless," Ford said.

McConnell and Ford told Lyng that a number of Kentucky agencies have already suspended food distribution because of local treasurers cannot afford the additional transportation costs.

County having large financial problems

at least 12 months behind schedule to get this program started so we can save some money. I just hope it's not too late."

"I think we're too late," Magistrate Amos Burdette added.
Next came Jailer Billy Kirby who complained that nothing is being done about remodeling the county jail despite state Corrections Cabinet warnings that it must be done or the jail closed and prisoners transported. Additionally, the State Department of Local Government has told the county it should delay borrowing $61,000 to do the work until the county is in a better financial condition, indicating the court is "between a rock and a hard place."

The court voted to borrow the money but has not done so. The court awarded a contract to J.C. Newland Construction Co., of Brodhead to do the work at a low bid of $79,910. The county has a $30,000 grant from the state to help with the work and the Cabinet has warned the county to use it or lose it.

"Here's another example of doing nothing," Bishop said.

"These people in Frankfort come down here and tell us we have to do this and that, and we have to find the money to do it. We should run our own affairs. As I said, when we can't run our own affairs we may as well go home."

Jailer Kirby told the court if the jail has to be closed and prisoners housed in another county it would cost the county far more in the long run than if the court went ahead with borrowing the money and remodeled the jail to meet state standards.

In other action, the court approved changes in the Senior Citizens Building at Brodhead to accommodate the handicapped. Money for the changes will come from a recent $42,000 grant from the Kentucky Division for Aging Services for an adult day care program. That money cannot be used for salaries in other senior citizen programs.

Burley quotas cut six percent for 1987 crop

State burley tobacco growers had more bad news this week when their tobacco maximum level quotas were cut for the fifth year by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The department reported a six percent cut in the basic production quota for the 1987 crop.

The total figure for the eight states in which tobacco is grown is 463.9 million pounds.

As the same time, the effective quota (the amount farmers can sell) was upped by six percent to 520 million pounds. The increase was the result of dry weather that prevented many farmers from harvesting their quota for the 1986 crop.

Even though the base production level was reduced, the 1987 crop could be larger than the 463.9 million pounds, because growers did not reach their sales quota last year and are allowed to make up the difference.

The department left intact the average price support level of $1.48 a pound.

The department explained that farmers are allowed to carry over quota amounts from one year to the next.

For example, a farmer's basic

Farm deaths decline in 1986

Accidental farm deaths in Kentucky were down more than 20 per cent during 1986, a survey by the Kentucky Farm Bureau Safety Department has found.

Despite the improved farm safety record, however, 44 Kentuckians lost their lives in farm-related accidents during the year. The 1985 survey recorded 56 victims across the state.

Farm Bureau Safety Director David Finney, who coordinates the survey, said the '86 total was the lowest for 12 months since the farm death rate in Kentucky was first surveyed in 1983.

"The reduction is welcome news," Finney noted. "But the figures continue to bear out the obvious—that farm work is very dangerous and farmers are constantly at risk of a serious accident."

Finney said he has no clear explanation for the falloff in fatalities. He speculated that the improvement may simply be the result of reduced numbers of farmers performing less overall farm work.

Tractors continue as the chief cause of farm deaths. Over the past two years, farm tractors contributed directly to 63 of the 100 recorded farm fatalities in the state. Of the 28 tractor-related deaths in 1986, seven were operating on public highways at the time of the accident, while eight victims were killed while mowing.

July showed up as the most dangerous month during 1986, when 10 fatalities were recorded. May and August claimed second and third-place on the danger scale, when six and five deaths each occurred.

The five-month period from April through August saw two-thirds, or 29, of this year's fatalities. The autumn months when harvest was at full-swing were statistically safer than were the spring planting period and the mid-summer months, when such activities as mowing and hay harvest are more commonplace.

Better than two-thirds of the victims last year were age 45 or older, reflecting the large number of older farmers.

Drowning continues to be a major threat to safety on farms. A total of seven victims met their death this way, including five during July, the summer's hottest month.

Of the 38 Kentucky counties where farm fatalities were recorded last year, only Morgan County had three deaths. Four reported two deaths each, Henderson, Hopkins, Kenton and Casey Counties with one fatality included Fulton, McCracken, Graves, Christian, Todd, McLean, Butler, Breckinridge, Hardin, LaRue, Nelson, Marion, Cumberland and Lincoln, Pulaski, Jessamine, Fayette, Scott, Shelby, Oldham, Henry, Gallatin, Boone, Pendleton, Harrison, Bracken, Nicholas, Mason, Fleming, Lewis, Bath, Powell and Carter.

In a summary sheet issued with the survey results, Finney noted that 95 counties have experienced at least one farm

First ACP sign-up period ends February 15, locally

The Rockcastle County ASCS Office has announced the first 1987 ACP sign-up period as being January 1 through February 15, according to Benton Bullock, Chairman of the Rockcastle County ASCS Committee.

Bullock stated that practices available to the farmers of this county include seedings, water conservation and forestry practices. A more detailed list of the practices available for this period is available in the county office.

Seeding practices, both new seedings and renovations must first have a current soil sample in the County Extension Office before signing for Cost-Sharing.

Bullock further stated that since Rockcastle County is under new variable cost-sharing method, all requests will be evaluated at the end of the sign-up period and only those practices which obtain the most conservation such as to the saving of soil will be as high as 75 percent of the actual cost of the practice under this new variable cost-sharing method.

All requests must be filed and approved by the ASCS Committee prior to the starting of work pertaining to the practice.

Participants receiving approvals of ACP-245's are urged to carefully read the ACP-245 request form and to do the work according to the instructions contained therein. Special attention should be given to the extent approved block of the approved ACP-245 as this could differ from the extent requested.

Bullock urges Rockcastle County farmers interested in applying for ACP cost-sharing practices to bring their soil samples to the county agent's office as soon as possible. A soil sample must be turned in to the county agent's office before signing up for a cost-share practice. Remember February 15 is the deadline!

CRP program ends Feb. 27

The fourth sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve Program is being held Feb. 9 through Feb. 27 at the Rockcastle County ASCS Office.

Farmers who want to bid to enter their highly erodible cropland into USDA's 10 year Conservation Reserve Program may do so during the fourth sign-up period.

The fourth CRP sign-up has a one-time, one-year "bonus" for the 1987 crop, to be paid in the form of an increased annual rental payment. The bonus payment will be equal to $2 times the farm program payment yield for corn, times the number of acres of corn base designated for enrollment in the CRP. This "bonus" will be payable in the form of generic commodity certificates when the 1987 Conservation Reserve Program contract is accepted. In subsequent years, the annual rental payment will be only that

Forest Service threatens prosecution of tree spikers

The Forest Service will prosecute anyone suspected of spiking trees in the Daniel Boone National Forest, John Vandy, director of the London District, said this week.

He reported forest workers will try to get more information about where the spiking took place, using metal detectors if necessary. The charge would be vandalism and possibly damaging public property.

Reportedly, environmentalists are driving nails into trees to keep loggers and others from cutting them down.

Spiking has been reported to have occurred in Rockcastle, Laurel, Jackson and McCreary counties.

The spikes can break chainsaw blades and large blades at sawmills. Loggers can hit the nails throwing them about and endangering them and other workers.

Yancy reported he had not received any complaints about the spikes. The Forest Service is authorized by Congress to conduct timber management operations (clear cutting) in the forest, including selling timber where feasible. Environmentalists particularly oppose clear cutting, claiming too much of it is being done.

According to a story by Bill Espeg in the Lexington Herald Leader, a man from Laurel County reported he took part in spiking, driving four-inch nails in trees being careful not to damage the bark and about three feet off of the ground.

He said friends told him eight areas in Rockcastle, Laurel and Jackson counties had been spiked. The most recent in northeastern Rockcastle.

Al Fritsch, director of Appalachia-Science in the Public Interest at Livingston, said "direct action" to protect the environment will continue to grow in Kentucky.

"The legal approach is simply not working," Fritsch said.

The report to the Forest Service on spiking was made by John Rohrscher, director of the Sand Hill Community Land Trust, because he and Fritsch were concerned about the safety of loggers, who might hit the nails with their saws.

In 1945, Americans ate an average of 402 eggs a year; by 1985 that was down to 255 eggs.

CHRISTIAN EXCELLENCE

"Mediocrity has come to characterize the behavior of most people in most of our institutions. People grow up in homes with mediocre parents, receive a mediocre education, become mediocre in their productivity in industries that reek of mediocrity. They live out their Christian commitment in a mediocre fashion within the context of churches that have mediocre programs. It is not surprising that Jon Johnston, speaking as one committed to the holiness tradition of Christianity, should find mediocrity to be intolerable. He refuses to allow the admonition of Christ to be "perfect" to be viewed as an unattainable goal that no one is expected to achieve, although nice to have for motivational purposes. Johnston makes it clear that excellence is a requirement of the Christian. To him, holiness is excellence. Love is excellence and being Christian is excellence."

Respect For Authority

In every system, there is a basic principle that determines the spirit and operation of the whole. In God's plan for man, the basic principle is respect for and obedience to appropriate authority. Ours is a time in which authority is being repudiated and mocked at every level. There is a desperate need for the importance of authority to be re-emphasized, lest civilization be reduced to complete chaos.

GOD'S AUTHORITY IS ULTIMATE. By His power, He created the universe, sustains it and will finally destroy it [Rev. 4:1; Acts 17:28; 2 Pet. 3:10-11]. God presently rules and reigns over all things through Christ [Acts 2:34-36; I Cor. 15:24-26]. From the beginning of man's existence, God has required obedience and has warned that anything short of obedience is "sin" [I John 3:4; 5:17]. God exercises His authority over man in this age through His inspired word [2 Tim. 3:16-17; John 12:48].

GOD'S AUTHORITY MUST BE RESPECTED IN HIS CHURCH. The New Testament is a written record of the oral teachings of the inspired apostles and preachers of the first century. The repeated warnings against departing from the teaching of the gospel are a clear call to respect His authority and to keep the church as God wants it [Gal. 1:6-9; Rev. 22:18-19]. He has delegated authority in the local church to pastors or elders who are shepherds and overseers of our souls to help us live within His authority [Acts 20:28].

GOD TEACHES RESPECT FOR CIVIL AUTHORITY. Human government is ordained of God and must be obeyed [Rom. 13:1-2; I Tim. 2:1-2; 1 Pet. 2:13-14]. The one exception is where the law of God conflicts with civil authority. Then we ought to obey God rather than man [Acts 5:29].

GOD TEACHES RESPECT FOR AUTHORITY IN THE HOME. He made man the head of woman as Christ is the head of the church [I Cor. 11:3; Eph. 6:22-23]. It is right for children to respect and obey their parents [Eph. 6:1-2]. Respect for authority must FIRST be learned during a child's formative years in the home.

GOD TEACHES RESPECT FOR AUTHORITY AT WORK. The servant [employee] must be obedient to his or her master [employer], not merely with eye-service [while the boss is watching]. [Eph. 6:5-6].

Our world would be almost perfect if all men honored duly constituted authority. How do YOU respect the authority of God?

Boys fall to Whitley, Williamsburg for 4th straight loss

2nd half rally falls short, 59-41

By: Willie Hiatt

How long does it take the Rockcastle County Rockets to shake off a 54-point loss? Try 24 hours and 16 minutes.

The Rockets were ambushed by Middlesboro, 88-34, last Thursday night and had just 24 hours to regroup for the Whitley County Colonels on Friday. Trouble is, it took 16 more minutes against Whitley — the length of the first half — to snap the Rockets out of their stupor.

By then, however, it was too little too late.

With a swarming man-to-man defense, the Colonels jumped out to a 21-4 lead early in the second quarter before the Rockets rose from the dead in the third. They pulled to within nine points twice, but lost 59-41.

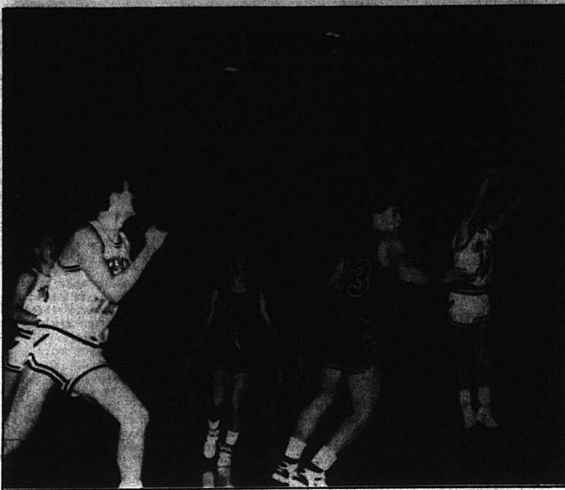

The Rockets shot a frosty 26 percent from the floor to drop to 67.7 in the season. The Colonels, who cooled in the third quarter to shoot 38 percent for the game, improved their record to 5-9.

"We played 15 minutes of good, hard basketball," said RCHS coach David Perkins. "But the first quarter we were kind of laid back. I believe we felt some of the loss from Thursday."

The loss to Middlesboro was the worst ever for Perkins, both as a player and as a coach. It didn't help that Middlesboro was one of the best teams in this part of the state or that the Rockets hadn't played for nine days.

"You just have to put (the Middlesboro loss) behind you," said junior Anthony Lewis, who finished with eight points against Whitley. This was a whole new half game.

As for the half, though, it looked like an extension of the Middlesboro fiasco. The Rockets were credited with 13 first-half turnovers, all looked like more against the hacking Whitley defense, while scoring only three field goals. The Colonels led 31-15 at the half.

Only in the opening minutes of the third quarter did the Rockets begin to show life. With an aggressive defense of their own the Rockets put together a 12-4 scoring drive to pull within striking distance.

"Rockcastle was a much better team than they were in the first half," said Whitley coach Bill Perkins. "We knew they would make a run at us. I don't think it was as much a letdown for us as it was Rockcastle hitting their shots."

Senior Johnny Kirby opened the half with a steal and a layup, followed by two buckets by Lewis and a turnaround in the paint by junior Shannon Burton.

By the time Kirby scored again off the break and nailed a 15-footer from the wing, the Rockets had pulled to within 37-27 with 2:51 left in the third quarter.

"We thought we had better start playing," said Kirby, who finished with a team-high 10 points. "We started putting pressure on them and they started turning it over."

Twice the Rockets cut the gap to nine points early in the fourth quarter. The first came on a baseline shot by junior guard Tim Hodges, the second on a layup by junior Jon Bullens, his first basket of the night.

The Rockets never pulled closer than 10 points after that. Hodges and Bullens finished the game with six points each, while Burton added four points.

In the B Team game, back-to-back layups by sophomore Chuck Shields in the fourth quarter broke open a tight game and the Rockets went on to a 53-47 win.

Sophomore Kris Ponder led the Rockets with 19 points, Shields finished with 13 and Darren Allen had 12.

Lady Rockets lose to Red Hounds

By: Willie Hiatt

If nothing else, the Rockcastle County Lady Rockets can find consolation in the power ratings.

As bad as the Rockets' last two losses appear — 83-28 at Jackson County last Thursday and 61-38 to Corbin here Monday — the girls' basketball ratings compiled for the Lexington Herald Leader at least soften the impact.

When offensive and defensive strength, schedules and records are factored in, Corbin is the third-ranked team in the 13th Region. The Lady Red Hounds' power rating of 73 places them in the top 30 teams in the state. Similarly, Jackson County is ranked fifth in the region with a rating of 67.9.

Maybe that explains why Rocket coach Preston Parrett, whose team is 3-9 this season with a rating of 42.9, was surprisingly upbeat after Monday night's loss.

"I think we had more hustle (Monday night) than we did at Jackson," Parrett said. "I thought the kids fought real hard. They didn't quit. They just kept coming at them."

Sandy Hunter scored 10 points for the Rockets, and Cindy Fain and Rhonda Cobb had eight each. The Red Hounds' offense was geared around three quick, sharp-shooting players: Anna Mills, Leann Schrader and Tonya Taylor went for 16 each on the night, the points coming on an array of jump shots and penetration moves.

But if two Corbin scoring drives were tossed out, the Rockets might have been in a position for an upset. The Red Hounds went up 12-0 in the first five minutes of the game, and after the Rockets closed to within 11 early in the fourth quarter, Corbin reeled off 14 straight points.

"We can't play at the same level every game," Fain said.

"We can't play at the same level every game" Senior Cindy Fain

"We play in streaks"

The Rockets, however, didn't collapse after being shut out during the first five minutes. They pulled to 18-8 on Hunter's layup at the end of the first quarter and were down 32-16 at the half.

Parrett said that after the humbling loss to Jackson, the Rockets had two good practices and were mentally up for the Corbin game. But wasn't the Red Hound drive early a psychological blow to the Rockets?

"I thought it would be," Fain said, "but it really wasn't."

Fain had four points in the run that got the Rockets back into the game. She and Hunter each hit two free throws to end the third quarter behind 43-28. Fain then hit a break-away layup and Lori Mink hit a shot on the baseline to close the gap to 43-32 by 6:45 left.

That's when the Red Hound trio buried the Rockets. Mills got a steal and a layup, Taylor scored on a drive and a jump shot and Schrader picked up six straight points to end a 14-0 spurt.

"That's a little bit unusual," Parrett said. "You hardly ever see girls who can penetrate and jump and shoot it like boys."

The Rockets play Clay County, 17-0 and ranked 10th in the state. Thursday night away. They play a make-up game with Oneida here Monday night and travel to Lynn Camp Tuesday.

In the B-Team game, the Lady Rockets were down only 17-12 at the half, but were out-scored 19-5 in the second half to lose, 36-17. Donna Kirby scored five points, Carla Kirby and Regina McClure four each, and Angie Dowell and Stephanie Norther had two.

Two-minute lapse spoils Rockets' upset

By: Willie Hiatt

It took only two minutes Tuesday night for the Rockcastle County Rockets to squander 24 minutes of hustle, enthusiasm and solid basketball.

The Rockets, who were on top of their game in the first half here against Williamsburg, saw a 42-39 lead early in the fourth quarter transformed into a 50-42 deficit in only two sloppy minutes.

Those two minutes of careless ball handling against pressure defense robbed the Rockets of a golden opportunity to knock off Williamsburg, the 13th Region's seventh-ranked team, which went on to a 62-54 victory.

"We played about 27 minutes," said RCHS guard Tim Hodges, whose six points came in the first half. "We didn't play a full 32."

Junior Jon Bullens scored 14 points, Pat Hansel 10, Johnny Kirby nine, Shannon Burton eight and Anthony Lewis seven. It was the fourth straight loss for the Rockets, who dropped to 6-8 this season.

The final numbers, however, don't tell the real story. The Rockets took advantage of cool Williamsburg shooting to take a 21-12 first-quarter lead. They hit jump shots, beat the Williamsburg press with ease and scrambled for loose balls and rebounds.

Had it not been for Williamsburg forward Tim Cornett scoring 12 points, the Rockets might have put the game away in the first half. They led 30-24 at the half.

"It's probably about the best we've played," said RCHS coach David Perkins about the first half. "We've been working on (enthusiastic play)."

The Rockets played so well in the first half that a rebound seemed inevitable. Williamsburg, on the other hand, appeared ready to break out of its first-half slump.

Both happened early. Cornett scored the opening bucket of the half, followed by a layup by Den Miller and a 16-footer by Donnie Patrick, which tied the game at 30.

"It's probably the best we've played, we have been working on enthusiastic play" Coach David Perkins

The Rockets' first basket of the half didn't come until Kirby put back a rebound with 4:03 left in the third quarter.

"When you're the 7th team in the region, you had better come out and play," said Perkins about Williamsburg's strong third-quarter. "We came out and kind of stood and waited for somebody to take over the first few minutes of the third quarter."

The Rockets recovered enough to take what seemed a commanding lead when Burton scored inside to put the Rockets up 42-39 with just under seven minutes left. They didn't score again until 11 Williamsburg points later.

"People quit breaking to the ball and looking for the open man," said Hodges about the Rockets' breakdown.

The Rockets did make a run, however. They pulled to within one point twice, the last coming when Bullens scored down low with 2:25 left in the game.

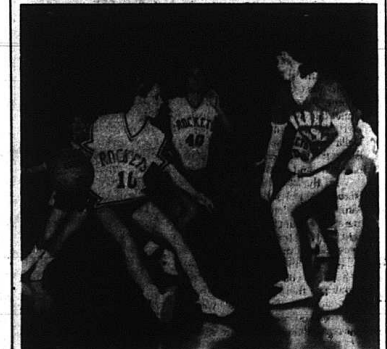

Miller took over for Williamsburg, scoring 13 of his game-high 23 points in the fourth quarter and the last eight Williamsburg points. Cornett finished with 16.

In the B Team game, the Rockets were down down 40-35 with less than five minutes left in the game when Williamsburg scored 11 straight points. The Rockets lost, 60-44.

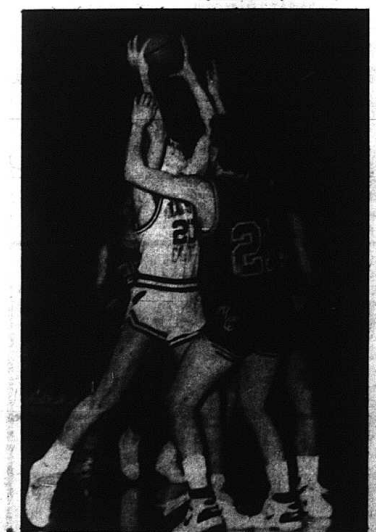

Chuck Shields scored 17 for the Rockets. Darren Allen nine, Kris Ponder eight and David Owens and Mike Barron four each.

The Rockets play defending state champion Bulaski County here Thursday night, Berea away Saturday night and Lynn Camp away Tuesday night.

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the week-end with an attendance in Sunday School of 124. Some of us had to miss services Jan. 25 due to snow and slippery roads. Our Sunday School attendance for that day was 90. But regardless of what happens in our lives (good or bad) God is to be praised. He has been so good to us down through the years.
We ask you to still remember our sick and shut-ins (some are not ill but just not able to get out) George Wren, Willie Cope, Mrs. Anne Linville, Mrs. Della Lambert, Mrs. Ruth Center, Mrs. Della Bullens and Willard Todd. Bless their hearts they are very precious and we all love them.
In the absence of our pastor Harvey Pensol on Sunday morning Jan. 25th, James Poynter, a member of our church, gave a very spiritual and inspiring talk, urging parents and grandparents to give all the help and encouragement we can to our young people -- we all know that there's people out there who want to destroy our youth. But we know too that God is more powerful than Satan. So let's work with our young people and love them, and be proud of them. They are very special. (James' talk was enjoyed by all).

Writer's time seems to be a very dismal, sad time as we have so many dark days and have to stay indoors so much. We have a lot of time to think and meditate and remember our loved ones who have gone on to be with the Lord. My niece Gustava Peters died Dec. 28, 1985--my mother Liddie Reppert passed away Feb. 6, 1975 and my sister Bertha Laughrind died on her birthday, Jan. 27, 1980. I have many memories of them and of all our others who have gone on. Bless their hearts I loved them so much and miss them so much. But I have that glorious promise that one day I will see them again, where we will all be with the Lord forever more. My mom and dad raised 13 children and my prayer is, that one day all 13 of us will join mom and dad in that Heavenly home.

We all send our love and get-well wishes to Virgil Tinch who is hospitalized in Ohio. Virgie, you have our prayers. Get-well soon.
Hubert and I enjoyed a very pleasant evening at the home of my brother Tip Reppert and Mrs. Reppert recently.
Recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cope have been their children, Mr. and Mrs. William Cope of Dayton, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Hayes of Winchester, Mrs. Helen Powell and Mrs. Christine Barnett of Berea and Sylvester Cope (Willie's brother) of Berea. Willie has been confined to his home for the past few months due to illness. We miss him and Mary so much at church, they have always been such devoted and faithful members. They have many friends who love them.

Eugene Alexander and granddaughter Jenia Davidson were Sunday afternoon guests of Mrs. Lela Alexander and son and Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen.
Please remember church and Sunday School, also to pray for one another. God bless you.
Wherever life takes you, may happiness follow-By: Flavia.

LET YOUR CATTLE RANGE YOUR PASTURES

By: Tom Mills
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Cattle producers who let their herds harvest their pastures can increase their profits greatly and at the same time keep their long-term capital investment to a minimum.

Curtis Absher, an Extension beef specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, said a controlled grazing program to keep the density of cattle per acre at a proper level for maximum utilization of pasture land is the heart of the university's Graze More Beef program.

By subdividing grazing land into very small parcels, called paddocks, and carefully rotating the herd from one parcel to another every few days, farmers can increase the number of cattle per acre dramatically.

The results are more pounds of live weight gain per acre and more efficient use of the pasture. A controlled grazing program can be managed so that stock density is maintained at a level where spot grazing is minimized.

Spot grazing is the tendency of cattle to concentrate in certain lush areas of a large pasture while ignoring other areas.

With spot grazing, productivity for both animals and pasture suffers because the grazed spots become over-grazed and the under-grazed spots get progressively higher in fiber and lower in digestibility.

Under the Graze More Beef program, the cattle can't spot graze because they are concentrated in very small areas for several days. In addition, sufficient rest periods between grazing allows the pasture grass an opportunity to renew itself before receiving bite damage which retards growth.

For example, in a typical 1986 experiment, one farmer partitioned 22 acres into six grazing strips. After rotating his 60 head of cattle through each strip for five days, a strip was allowed about 25 days to recover before the cattle returned.

In an even more dramatic demonstration, another farmer divided his 115 acre farm into 26 paddocks of about four acres. He then rotated 275 cattle, or almost 68 cattle per acre, through each paddock. Absher said these cattle remained in each paddock for only one day each and thrived.

In all, the University of Kentucky conducted 13 demonstrations of the Graze More Beef project. Live weight gain per acre ranged from 335 to 889 pounds. This compares with about 125 to 150 pounds of live weight gain per acre produced by the typical Kentucky pasture. Three different demonstrations produced more than 800 pounds per acre.

For more information on Beef Cattle production, farmers are encouraged to attend the annual beef cattle short course on Tuesday, February 17, Thursday, February 19th and Tuesday, February 24th at 7 p.m. in the Agricultural Service Center Meeting Room.

GET HEART SMART
By: Cheryl Witt
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Coronary heart disease kills over half a million Americans each year, making it the leading cause of death in the United States. Yet heart disease can go unnoticed by those who have it until it's too late and a heart attack results.

It begins early in life—even in children as young as three years old. It progresses as fatty deposits slowly clog the arteries to the heart, eventually choking the blood supply to this vital organ.

The very fact that heart disease begins when we're young has prompted experts to insist that the time to begin taking steps to prevent it is when we're young. And one of the first places to start is with your diet.

YOU ARE WHAT YOU EAT

Whether or not you develop coronary heart disease depends on a number of factors. Certain factors cannot be controlled. For instance, having immediate family members with heart disease often puts you at increased risk. So does having diabetes.

Other factors are largely a matter of lifestyle that can be changed. Cigarette smokers, for example, are at increased risk. Obviously, the easiest way to decrease this risk is to quit smoking.

Another risk factor you can influence is your blood cholesterol level. Elevated blood cholesterol is one of the major controllable causes of heart disease. By controlling what you eat and how much you eat, your blood cholesterol level can be lowered and your risk of heart disease reduced.

No only is eating too much cholesterol and saturated fat a problem, eating too much in general is not wise. Exceeding your ideal weight may increase your chance of having a high blood cholesterol count.

Further damage to the arteries can be caused by high blood pressure, a condition exacerbated by consuming too much sodium and by being overweight.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

With all this evidence, more people are becoming aware that one of the best ways to reduce the risk of heart disease starts in the kitchen. For a healthful diet, experts advise the following:

Only 30 percent of calories should come from fat -- and only one-third of that (10 percent of calories) from saturated fat.

Daily cholesterol intake should not exceed 300 milligrams.

Daily calories should be adequate to maintain ideal body weight.

Make changes gradually until you and your family become accustomed to new tastes and new ways to prepare meals. And think of your diet on a long-term basis. If you have taken care to consistently reduce fat, cholesterol, calories and sodium, you can occasionally indulge in that tempting hot fudge sundae without guilt.

quota for the 1986 crop might have been 1,000 pounds. But, because of the weather, the farmer was able to raise and sell only 900 pounds. Under yesterday's cut-back, the farmer's new basic quota would be 6 percent -- or 60 pounds -- on a total of 940 pounds. But because he raised only 900 pounds in 1986, his effective quota would be higher to make up for last year's shortage.

If the farmer's 1986 crop had yielded more than his 1,000-pound basic quota, his effective quota would also have allowed him to sell 3 percent more tobacco, but he would have to deduct the additional tobacco from his 1987 quota.

amount specified in the CRP contract.

This offer is limited to new CRP contracts effective beginning with the 1987 crop year. It is not retroactive for corn base acreage under CRP contracts already signed. This additional rental payment will be made at the time new 1987 contracts are accepted.

During the sign-up period, producers will be given the option to enter into a CRP contract beginning with either the 1987 or 1988 crop year.

The CRP is one of the new conservation initiatives contained in the Food Security Act of 1985 designed to reduce soil erosion. Under the CRP, owners and operators of highly erodible cropland agree to cease production on the highly erodible land for a 10 year period and to devote this land to conservation uses.

Under provisions of a recent amendment to the legislation authorized the CRP alfalfa and other multi-year grasses and legumes in rotation during the years 1984-1985, as approved by the Secretary, will be considered to be "agricultural commodities" for the purpose of determining eligibility of land to be placed in the CRP.

USDA will establish maximum acceptable rental rates after sign-up and bid data is evaluated.

MID WINTER TRIP
A CULTURAL EXCHANGE

A mid winter trip to Sinks Grove, W. Va., turned into more than a beautiful holiday with my son, Rodney and his wife Helen and son Birch.

Christmas Day was spent opening gifts, eating, showing off and trying on new clothes, reading excerpts from new books and playing with the new computer.

Christmas dinner was a family affair at the home of Helen's sister, Ruth and husband, Bill

Sturgill

The "fried oyster" feast has been a Christmas tradition of the family for many years and was truly enjoyed by all. After stuffing on all that, more gift exchanges were made and much laughter and merry making ended a perfect day.

The beginning of the New Year was celebrated with a 3 day tour of historic Jamestown and Williamsburg, Va.

All the beautiful natural wreaths and trims still decorated the homes and yards. I was surprised at all the various fruits used in them and brought back a couple of books on them.

The generous mansion was resplendent in its winter finery. On my return to Sinks Grove I was invited to attend the Pickaway homemakers club meeting, by Helen's mother, Virginia Campbell. She was the organizer of this and other homemakers clubs 49 years ago while she was county home demonstration agent.

Our lesson for the month was on "our club image in our community". That brought out an exchange of ideas on how to improve our community with our work and improve our clubs with the activities. One segment of their club was their "Golden Girls". Women who had passed a decided upon age. I think theirs was 75, and still belonged to the club. I met two of them, both in their nineties and still very active and alert. We are using this idea in our Rise and Shine Club now, but our age limit will be lower, and pretty pin will be worn by the eligible members. I also visited our former home
