Rockcastle Community Land Trust holds meeting

The monthly board meeting of Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress was called to order by Faye Baker. Present were Faye Baker, Dennis Conner, Becky Bullock, Jimmy Taylor, Moira Ambrose and Tammy Garver. Also present were Sara Gould and Laura Bush from the Ms. Foundation in N.Y.

Golden Kentucky Opportunities for Women, a project of LEAP which is employing and training local women while they develop a worker-owned food production business, has applied for funding from Ms. Foundation. Sarah and Laura's visit is part of the funding process, and we all enjoyed their visit.

After introductions, Becky Bullock gave a presentation of plans for developing a day care center in Livingston. Plans were made to get more information on state regulations and to do a survey of area residents to see how many are interested.

Moira Ambrose was present in her new position as branch coordinator for the Central Appalachian People's Federal Credit Union. LEAP has now established a branch of the credit union. The credit union will be able to offer financial services, such as savings, loans, insurance, financial counseling and IRA's to all members of LEAP and their families. The Central Appalachian People's Federal Credit Union serves the financial needs of members and employees of community organizations and businesses in eastern Kentucky and Tennessee. It was decided to keep our excess funds in the credit union to show our support.

Notices concerning restructuring changes to our articles of incorporation were approved and will be formally voted on at the annual meeting. The date for the annual meeting was set for April 20. Faye gave a review of the discussion by the planning committee concerning the future directions of LEAP activities. A major possibility for future action is the promotion of a community center.

Tammy summarized the evaluation forms filed out by the Board. It was decided that this was a useful process for reviewing our purpose and programs. It was also decided to put emphasis on hiring a local person during the summer months to free up staff time for more development tasks.

The next meeting was set for the 13th Monday in March at 7 p.m. The meeting was adjourned with the feeling that much had been accomplished.

Sadly Missed by Wife and Children SAFELY HOME

I am home in Heaven, dear ones; Oh, so happy and so bright! There is perfect joy and beauty in this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief is over, Every restless tossing passed; I am now at peace forever, Safely home in Heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly Trod the valley of the shade? Oh! but Jesus' love illumined Every dark and fearful glade.

And He came Himself to meet me In that way so hard to tread; And with Jesus' arm to lean on, Could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sore, For I love you dearly still; Try to look beyond earth's shadows, Pray to trust our Father's Will.

There is work still waiting for you, So you must not idly stand; Do it now, while life remaineth— You shall rest in Jesus' land!

When that work is all completed, He will gently call you home; Oh, the nature of that meeting, Oh, the joy to see you come!

Moving? Give New Address to IRS And Post Office
Taxpayers who move after filing their federal income tax returns should notify the post office serving the old address, the Internal Revenue says. This is especially important if the taxpayer is expecting a tax refund.

In addition, the IRS service center where the return was filed should be notified of the address change. This will help IRS to forward the refund check to the new address as soon as possible. When advising IRS of the address change, the taxpayer's Social Security number should be included in the correspondence.

STATEMENT OF NONDISCRIMINATION

Continental Telephone Company of Kentucky has filed with the Federal Government a Compliance Assurance in which it assures the Rural Electrification Administration that it will comply fully with all requirements of Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Rules and Regulations of the Department of Agriculture issued thereunder to the end that no person in the United States shall, on the ground of race, color, or national origin, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be otherwise subjected to discrimination in the conduct of its program and the operation of its facilities. Under this Assurance, this organization is committed not to discriminate against any person on the ground of race, color or national origin in its policies and practices relating to applications for service or any other policies and practices relating to treatment of beneficiaries and participants including rates, conditions and extension of service, use of any of its facilities, attendance at and participation in any meetings of beneficiaries and participants or the exercise of any rights of such beneficiaries and participants in the conduct of the operations of this organization.

Any person who believes himself, or any specific class of individuals, to be subjected by this organization to discrimination prohibited by Title VI of the Act and the Rules and Regulations issued thereunder may, by himself or a representative, file with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, or this organization, oral, a written complaint. Such complaint must be filed later than 180 days after the alleged practices, but no later than such date that the Secretary of Agriculture of the Rural Electrification Administration extends the time for filing. Identity of complainant will be kept confidential except to the extent necessary to carry out the purposes of the Rules and Regulations.

TIPS TO CONTROL FIRE BLIGHT IN KENTUCKY FRUIT ORCHARDS

By Tom Mills
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

This may be a good year to control fire blight. Donald E. Herberman, Extension plant pathologist at the University of Kentucky, says the rate for severe blight years to occur back to back items should be true. 1987 should be a year when proper measures will greatly reduce fire blight.

Fire blight is a bacterial disease which causes apple and pear trees to have brown wilted or "scald" branch tips. Leaves on the tips of branches look as if scorched by fire.

Here are some tips:
• Prune trees properly to reduce their susceptibility to fire blight. In addition, while the trees are dormant, trim blighted twigs about 4 inches below the infected areas. Destroy the twigs to eliminate a potential source of inoculum for subsequent infections.

Removal and destruction of blighted twigs and branches are very important in young orchards. A late use of a hardier canker desiccant could easily result in tree loss.

Black, infected trees should be removed along with cut and destroyed pear trees, which also can be a source of inoculum.

When trees are dormant, spray a systemic sulfate at 4 to 5 pounds per 100 gallons of water to twigs and branches to help reduce overwintering bacterial inoculum. This spray also will help reduce black rot, blotch and other canker diseases. Copper sulfate is corrosive so be sure to wash the spray tank after use.

Spray with streptomycin 50-100 ppm solution 4 oz of 21 percent streptomycin sulfate/100 gal water at 4-5 day intervals during bloom and again at weekly intervals during the post bloom period as long as shoots continue to elongate. In light fire blight years, streptomycin sprays often can be stopped at petal fall. But, continue as long as twig strikes are detected up to 50 days before harvest. In most years, shoot elongation (and the disease) will have stopped well before the 50 days before harvest. In most years, shoot elongation (and the disease) will have stopped well before the 50 days before harvest restriction is reached.

Streptomycin is effective only as a means of preventing inoculum buildup. When bacterial populations are very high, streptomycin is of only limited value.

Streptomycin is best applied by itself either early or late in the day when the air is still and rapid breakdown due to light intensity is unlikely.

These practices help absorption of streptomycin into plant tissues and increase its effectiveness.

Avoid excess fertilization, abnormally low fruit loads, and poor pruning techniques. These conditions greatly increase a tree's susceptibility to fire blight.

Inspect the orchard frequently during the growing season and remove infected spurs and terminals by breaking them out. If pruning tools are used, sterilize them between cuts using 70 percent alcohol or 10 percent sodium hypochlorite bleach diluted with water. Prune or break out twigs at least 12 inches below the active fire blight strike.

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE

Dear Friends,

At this time, I want to express my heartfelt appreciation to you for permitting me to serve you as your County Attorney during 1986. Continuing to believe, as I always have, that the office belongs to you — the people — and that you have simply chosen me to operate it for you and on your behalf, I now submit to you my 1986 year-end report.

During 1986, approximately 2,000 cases have come before the District Court where I work for you. Of these, about 89% resulted in a conviction. This means that nearly 9 out of 10 persons charged with an offense in Rockcastle County during 1986 were convicted, either by pleading guilty or being found guilty by a Rockcastle County jury. I believe this is a record that we can all take pride in.

The county with the highest conviction rate statewide in 1986 was Grant County in northern Kentucky with 97%; the lowest was Harlan County with 35%. Our 89% conviction rate is comparable or slightly higher than most of the counties which surround us. For your comparison, I have shown the percentages of convictions for Rockcastle and all counties bordering Rockcastle during the past year.

PERCENT OF CONVICTIONS

COUNTY	1986
Rockcastle	89%
Lincoln	88%
Garrard	85%
Madison	91%
Jackson	62%
Laurel	67%
Pulaski	86%

The figures shown in this report are from state law enforcement officials in Frankfort.

In addition to serving you in District Court, I have counseled with many of you about your problems and concerns. On many days, this consumes a significant amount of time, but I am glad to be of assistance whenever I can.

As your County Attorney, I write a large number of the warrants that are written in Rockcastle County. As crime frequently happens after normal working hours and often after midnight, I am regularly called upon to write warrants at those times.

In the past year, I have consulted numerous times with state officials concerning county problems, and I always stand ready to meet with them for the betterment of our county.

During 1986, I have investigated three examples of attempted consumer fraud in Rockcastle County. One of these involved two men from Lexington who harassed and intimidated an elderly couple into buying overpriced and inferior type storm windows. I was able to get the couple's money back for them and the contract voided they had signed. Another attempted fraud involved the painting of a barn. Instead of real paint on the barn, the workman used whitewash and charged an outrageous bill. The third example involved a Rockcastle citizen being overcharged for inferior blacktop by a man from Richmond. This case was also satisfactorily concluded for our citizen.

During 1986, I have worked closely with state and local officials to help a local factory secure funding which will be used to create several new jobs for Rockcastle County citizens.

During the past year, I have had the honor of speaking to certain groups of young people in our county on the importance of being honest, law-abiding citizens. I am always glad to speak to them.

Ladies and gentlemen, I appreciate the opportunity you have given me to serve you during 1986, and please know that during 1987 I will continue to treat you with courtesy, dignity and respect as we all work together to make Rockcastle an even better county for ourselves and our children.

Your County Attorney and friend,

Jim Lambert

PEARLIE STEWART

PLAINTIFF

V. NOTICE OF SALE

DEFENDANT

By virtue of an execution directed to me and issued from the Rockcastle Circuit Court Clerk's office in this matter in favor of Pearlise Stewart against Boyd Stewart, I will on Thursday, March 5, 1987, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock a.m. at the Rockcastle County Courthouse door in Mt. Vernon, Kentucky expose to public sale to the highest bidder the following described personal property to satisfy said execution and the costs thereon, to wit:

A 10 foot Satellite Dish and Receiver made by Automation Technologies Inc., Model Number GLR500, Serial Number 12763501T and a 1976 Ford Pinto, Serial Number F6710Y19241F

This property shall be sold to the highest bidder for cash or upon terms of twenty (20%) per cent of the purchase price in cash at time of sale and the balance payable in three (3) weeks. If sold on time, the purchaser will be required to execute bond with surety approved by the Sheriff to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price. This bond will bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) per cent per annum until paid and shall have the effect of a judgment. The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying said bond before maturity with interest to date of payment.

The purchaser shall have possession of the property upon payment of sale price.

If the purchaser should default on said bond, the Sheriff may resell the property under the original terms and conditions.

If plaintiff is the purchaser, no cash deposit will be required and the property will be delivered upon payment of the costs of sale plus any amount by which the purchase price exceeds these costs and the amount of plaintiff's judgement, interest and costs.

The amount of debt, interest and costs to be raised on date of sale is one thousand three hundred sixty dollars ($1,360.00) plus interest at the rate of twelve per cent (12%) per annum from the 19th of September, 1985.

Faced with budget 'busting,' county removes dumpsters

By: Ray McClure

Greenboxes, a nasty and frustrating garbage problem that has plagued the Rockcastle Fiscal Court, was partially solved Monday night when the court voted to remove the boxes by next Monday.

With costs to transport the garbage to a Laurel County landfill between $7,000 and $9,000 a month, and a dwindling supply of boxes, the magistrates agreed they had no alternative but to remove the boxes. County Judge/Executive Hubert Thacker voted "no."

"We have to balance the county budget," Magistrate Doug Bishop told the court. "We can't go over our budget. It's against the law. We have no choice. We're going to balance the budget if we have to cut off all our salaries."

The court listed temporary areas where garbage can be taken, but it will cost a fee. Included is an area owned by William K. Bullen on U.S. 25 near KOA campground just west of Renfro Valley. Bee Garbage in Mt. Vernon has a collection area at Burr. There is also an area owned by Larry Renner on Jones Creek Road near Sand Springs. Magistrates will contact someone in Brodhead to serve residents in that area of the county.

The court also amended the county's illegal dumping ordinance making it a $25 to $500 fine to put garbage in illegal dumps. The same figures will be included in the ordinance that will be part of the county's new garbage plan when it goes into effect, possibly within a month.

The court warned householders not to dump in areas where dumping is not permitted, and that means almost anywhere.

Livingston will not be involved in the county program for at least a year. Livingston has had mandatory garbage collection for several years. As one resident said at a recent meeting: "We all pay."

When the court looked at its finances last Friday for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30, it found only $65,000 will be available to run the county, not including the road fund which is a separate fund.

If the spending for garbage continues until July and at the same rate the county would be nearly $50,000 over its budget. In the case of Estill County, the state has sued the county for over spending. The first two weeks of February, the cost of transporting garbage in Rockcastle has totaled nearly $2,500, and February is ordinarily a light garbage month.

State officials have already warned the county about its possible budget busting, and has pointed out that garbage is obviously the problem. Rockcastle is the only county in the 21 county district that pays for garbage collection. The residents in other counties usually pay individually for the service.

The court is expected to give first reading to its garbage plan ordinance at 7 p.m. Friday.

Vandalism strikes at Quail Park

Once again vandals have hit the Quail Community Park. This time 200 feet of four-foot chain link fence was taken as well as 20 foot steel tie-ons.

"This isn't the first time vandalism has happened at the Park," Don Thompson said. Thompson helped install the fence around the park so that vandals would be kept out.

A commode was taken out of the women's restroom, an attempt was made to steal some wiring that had been buried in a ditch line, and two American flags have been stolen since the park opened.

"The park was used last year during the summer just about every weekend and people in this area really get a lot of use from it," Thompson said.

Thompson's wife Norita is a member of the Quail Home-makers, who built the park.

"Police have investigated some of the vandalism in the park and Kentucky State Trooper Jack Lawless said that he would ask fellow officers to make a concerted effort to watch the park," Thompson said.

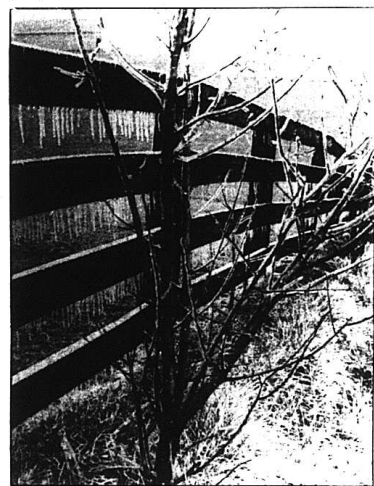

The park is located on Ky. 70 at Quail

Commodities

President Reagan has changed his mind and signed a bill that restored money for commodity distribution.

Judy Lawless, assistant director for administration for the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, said funding will be back at the same level as it was before Reagan deferred more than half of the funds last month.

"There will be no interruption in commodity distribution," Mrs. Lawless said. "It makes life easier for us."

Cummins resigns as director

By: Richard Anderkin

On the heels of the resignation of Earl Cummins, director of the Rockcastle County Ambulance service, the local ambulance board hired Vernon Sowder to take over that post effective Feb. 28, during a special called meeting of the board Tuesday.

During February's Rockcastle County Fiscal Court meeting, magistrates and Judge/Executive Hubert Thacker voted to stop paying $1,500 a month to the ambulance service because of financial difficulties plaguing the county.

According to David Pensol, vice-chairman of the ambulance board, Cummins resigned during the meeting after a discussion on how the board could continue to operate their service without the county's help.

"Our expenses are hard to cut, salaries are about the only place," Pensol said. "We talked to Earl about taking over as a full-time driver as well as director, but he said he wasn't interested, that he was too busy."

Cummins recommended Sowder, who is one of four full-time drivers, for the job. The board also laid-off Cummins's wife Norma, the book-keeper, and gave that job to Sowder as well.

"We don't feel we can keep operating without financial help from the county for very long," Pensol said. "We know the county is in a bad financial situation at the present time and will be until their new budget goes into effect July 1, but we will try to work with the county any way we can," Pensol said. "But, we simply can't keep robbing Peter to pay Paul, that is all we are doing right now."

We are making every effort to keep our service running on it's own funds until the fiscal court is able to help us again," the vice-chairman said.

"One way for certain would be if the county could reimburse the four months of funding they have cut, when they are financially able."

"The main problem, the ambulance service faces is the fact that we operate on a very tight budget. A two week's notice that we will be losing a $1,500 stipend was not enough time to adjust our budget," Pensol said during a Tuesday interview.

Local firefighting has gone from bucket brigades to fancy trucks

By: Ray McClure

FIRE! a frightening cry in the night; a word in the English language that spells dread for young and old alike.

It often means the end of things precious, mementos of family and friends; the accumulation of a lifetime.

So it has been over the years locally, as fires have destroyed property as well as hundreds of acres of forest land.

In the past few weeks, several fires have been destructive. One such was Saturday night when a fire burned a clothing store and bus stop on north Richmond Street.

That building had originally been a filling station and a small store owned by the late Green Carpenter.

Last month, a fire burned a building that was once a restaurant belonging to Ed Winstead, and later, a grocery operated by the McGuire family U.S. 25 south of Mt. Vernon. A nearby house also burned.

In Signal's first 100 years

The county has had several fires in recent months, and many have been homes that burned to the ground before firemen arrived, too far gone before the call was placed.

Currently, the county has three fire stations with dedicated firemen to quickly answer a call. But often firemen face defeat when the fires are in the outer areas of the county hampered by distance to travel and late alarms.

Come to think of it, there was a time when a fire in the county was never reported for days, or until someone came to town to sadly tell about it. All that was left, they usually related, were ashes and a lonely chimney.

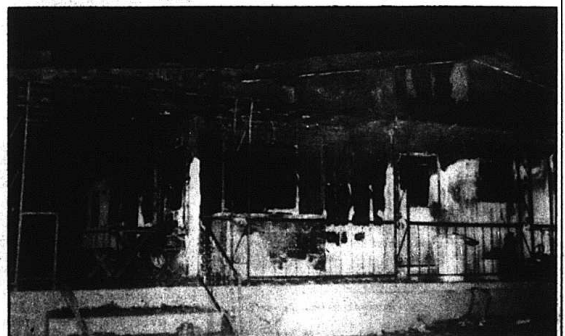

The late Ralph Griffin remembered fires in Mt. Vernon during the days he wrote about county history. He recalled,

"Back in the early days our fires were almost always destructive. Unless they were discovered in their very early stages, it was impossible to put them out with a bucket brigade, although Mt. Vernon always did have a splendid force of firefighters. Many times buildings adjoining the actual fire were saved by what seemed to be almost a miracle."

The town has experienced some very destructive fires over the years. There was the Rockcastle County Courthouse that burned all the county records in 1873, and again in 1876. The Miller Hotel, now the Signal Building; the Krueger and Baker buildings on the north side of Main Street; Cox's Hardware Store in 1908; the wooden Dixie Boone Hotel on Richmond Street in the 1920s; a lively stable located near the depot in which several horses were lost; a large stock barn just east of Jasper's produce, and the Bethurum house where

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Scaff, above, near the recently burned Hilltop Market was destroyed by fire Feb. 12. A fire also heavily damaged a clothing store the Now Shop, owned by Joyce Kirby on north Richmond Street Saturday night. The rear section of the building was saved, firemen reported. In both cases, the fires may have started by heaters. No one was home when the fires started.

A Weekly Report from Fifth District Congressman Hal Rogers

Spending Our Tax Dollars Wisely

As the new Vice Chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee for the Departments of State, Commerce, and Justice, my role is to make sure that when we spend taxpayers' money, we spend it only on things we really need.

This week, as we began gearing up for our upcoming hearings with the various federal agencies we fund, I held intensive briefings with officials from State, Commerce and Justice. In getting a complete overview of each department, I began zeroing in on areas where we need to do a better job of spending our money more wisely.

When I met with Justice Department officials, for example, I got an update on the status of 6,000 Cubans still being held in American prisons following the Mariel boat lift of 1979. Most of these were prisoners in Castro's jails who were let out to come to America. We discovered their backgrounds and have kept them off our streets, but the cost of housing these people has increased. Unless we can get Castro to take these people back, we could spend up to $100 million next year alone to hold these criminals in our jails. I told the Justice Department that we must put increased diplomatic pressure on Castro to take these unwanted Cubans back, and I promised to work with our State Department to do just that.

Another issue which I discussed with our State Department officials was the enormous funding requests they have made to upgrade many of our embassies around the world. I support improvements to our embassies for security reasons, but I am concerned that the State Department is not using its funding as efficiently as it can. A number of these embassy construction projects have had huge cost overruns, costing taxpayers hundreds of millions of dollars in recent years. I told the diplomatic officials that I will continue to insist on better use of embassy funds if they want my support for their programs in the appropriations process.

With the Commerce Department, our major trade and business agency, I discussed a new system of promoting American exports, like coal. In the past, Commerce has taken requests from American businesses looking for export markets and tried to link them with foreign buyers. Now, a new system is being developed whereby businesses can be automatically contacted by the Commerce Department when potential buyers for their products are found. Using a new computer matching program, Commerce can hopefully do a much better job of finding new markets for American-made products. We need to drastically increase exports of all commodities, and I urged the Commerce officials to move ahead in this area as quickly as possible.

Each of these issues is national or international in scope. Yet each also has a direct bearing on all of us who pay taxes. We want and need to have our budget deficit reduced while we still go about the business of solving problems. My work on this Appropriations subcommittee is geared around one major principle—to make sure that we spend tax dollars wisely or not at all.

Report to Kentucky

SENATOR WENDELL FORD

U.S. Senator, Washington, D.C. 20515

SURPLUS FOOD SHOULD REACH HUNGRY

Several weeks ago commodity food distribution centers in Kentucky began putting out the word. If more money is not found by the state or local governments, surplus cheese, rice, powdered milk and flour will no longer be available to Kentuckians who cannot afford to buy such essentials.

The reason given was that the Reagan Administration, without warning, had decided to defer the $28 million appropriated to pay the cost of distributing the surplus commodities within the state.

In Owensboro, the local distributing centers announced that they were sponsoring their "last cheese line." As a result, around one center, area residents were reported lining up at 1 a.m. in 24 degree cold. When 300 people show up on a single freezing winter day for such an event, it is clear that they are hungry. Other distribution programs in the state also announced that they were shutting down the program when the food runs out.

I cannot begin to express how wrong I believe it is for the Administration to defer these funds. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is still buying up food surpluses; it is still paying to store them; it is still paying to have the surpluses shipped to its own centers in the states; and it is still paying personnel to oversee this process. However, by no longer funding the final leg of the distribution, the USDA is lessening the chance that the food will reach America's hungry citizens as intended.

It is dead wrong for the Administration—rather than carrying out the food program as Congress intended—to get it through this action. Like many moves made in the bureaucracy, there remains a question about whether it is legal for the USDA to stop these funds. A related case is before the courts here in Washington. At this writing the Justice Department has not yet decided whether to appeal a judgement against this type of action.

While the legal process grinds on, other efforts are being made to continue funding the final distribution process. Senator McCoin and I have written to Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng, asking him to continue funding the surplus food distribution.

Furthermore, I urged Senator Quentin Burdick, who chairs the Senate Appropriations Committee's Subcommittee on Agriculture, to take any steps necessary to stop this USDA deferral. In response he introduced legislation expressing the Senate's disapproval of the Administration's proposed action.

Congress provided the USDA funds for the specific purpose of distributing these surpluses to the people who need them in every state. The program was approved because there is excess food in America and it should be moved to feed the mouths of our fellow citizens who need it. I intend to continue to do my part to hold the nation's budget on the backs of the people who most need the surplus

Severe storms awareness week will be March 2 - 6

Severe Storms Awareness Week will take place across the state of Kentucky March 2-6 sponsored by the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services in cooperation with the National Weather Service.

Gov. Martha Layne Collins has issued a proclamation calling for Kentuckians to take various steps to become better prepared for weather-related disasters.

How to react when storm watches and warnings are issued, and a knowledge of the dangers that severe weather can pose will be part of the aims of the event.

"We will be conducting a statewide severe weather drill on Tuesday, March 3," said James H. "Mike" Molloy, executive director of the state division. "This drill will take place sometime between the hours of 9 a.m. and noon EST," Molloy explained.

During the statewide severe weather test, Molloy said, the drill will involve state and local government agencies and many local school systems in Kentucky. The success of the test will be measured in both timing and completed actions.

On March 3 at a designated time, the warning message will be transmitted statewide over three systems: Emergency Broadcast EBS, National Warning NAWAS and NOAA weather radio.

The EBS transmits its message over designated Kentucky radio stations to their listeners. NAWAS connects with Kentucky State Police posts and NOAA weather radio activates weather radios throughout the state.

Nearly all counties in Kentucky have a 24-hour warning point which will be reached by one or more of the warning systems. Molloy said in an actual emergency the warning would be further directed to county residents by local public officials.

The National Weather Service reports that 66 persons have been killed in Kentucky by the lightning associated with severe thunderstorms between the years of 1959 and 1986.

Across the United States each year thunderstorms will kill more than 100 persons and injure about 250, most of them casualties from lightning. Property losses from severe storms nationwide are estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

To focus public attention on the dangers of severe storms, Kentuckians are being asked to observe a Severe Storms Awareness Week this year March 2-6.

Throughout the year, several government agencies including the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services work with local schools and civic organizations to bring attention to ways deaths, injuries and property damage can be avoided.

Part of the educational program rests on an understanding of what causes severe weather and what such storms are all about. The National Weather Service, working through its offices in Kentucky, is constantly striving to inform the public of the dangers of severe storms.

Here is how severe thunder storms are generated.

Temperature imbalances in the atmosphere cause violent air currents. Warming of an air layer near the earth's surface and/or cooling of the air layer above places warmer, lighter air layers below colder, denser layers.

The difference in air temperature between layers sets up convection currents in the air that become very strong. These are accompanied by the creation of certain very dense cloud formations called cumulonimbus, or thunderstorm clouds.

In their final stages of growth, thunderstorm clouds may be several miles across at their bases. They often tower to altitudes of 40,000 feet or more, sometimes visible as lonely giants. At other times while moving several abreast, they occur as what is called a squall line.

Storm cells are formed within the clouds and most last for only about 20 minutes before dying out, but when new ones are formed and the storm may possibly continue for several hours, moving along a path and reforming itself.

Below and in front of storm cells strong gusts of cold wind from the downdrafts of air, or heavy precipitation in the form of rain or hail, often occur at ground level. Lightning always accompanies a thunderstorm.

CHRISTIAN EXCELLENCE

"Mediocrity has come to characterize the behavior of most people in most of our institutions. People grow up in homes with mediocre parents, receive a mediocre education, become mediocre in their productivity in industries that seek of mediocrity. They live out their Christian commitment in a mediocre fashion within the context of churches that have mediocre programs. It is not surprising that Jon Johnston, speaking as one committed to the holiness tradition of Christianity, should find mediocrity to be intolerable. He refuses to allow the admonition of Christ to be "perfect" to be viewed as an unattainable goal that no one is expected to achieve, although nice to have for motivational purposes. Johnston makes it clear that excellence is a requirement of the Christian. To him, holiness is excellence. Love is excellence and being Christian is excellence."

Some good news for Ky. farmers

Good news may be at hand for farmers.

"The worst of the financial decline in agriculture may be past and net farm income may increase 10 percent in the coming year," according to a University of Kentucky Extension agricultural economist.

Lower interest rates, bolstering our of land price declines and increased exports of U.S. farm products are among the signs of hope for farmers, said Larry Jones, chairman of the Agricultural Economics Department at the University of Kentucky.

In addition, he said, the debt-to-asset ratio for agriculture—that is, the relationship between how much farmers owe and how much they own—has declined for the past two years, following a steep rise after 1982.

"This decline suggests that the debt situation in agriculture is more in line with the value of land and other assets, making it easier for farmers to show a profit even in the face of low commodity prices," Jones said.

Cash expenses in agriculture have declined for two consecutive years—the first time since the 1920's. Instead of spending more to produce their crops, farmers are spending less, he said.

The 1985 farm bill effectively devalued the price of many U.S. agricultural products, making them cheaper for foreign buyers to purchase. In response, export volume last year improved even though the total value remained relatively constant due to the fact that the commodities were sold at a cheaper price, Jones said.

"We expect that exports of U.S. farm product will continue to pick up throughout the year, but continued lower prices will tend to constrain total export value," Jones said.

Ky.'s Sheep and Lamb inventory

Kentucky's sheep and lamb inventory is at its highest since 1976, according to the Kentucky Agricultural Statistics Service.

The Jan. 1, 1987 inventory stood at 32,000 head, up 19 percent from last year. The sheep and lamb inventory was valued at $2,400,000, an increase of 26 percent from the previous year.

Ewes one year old and older totaled 24,000 head, an increase of 2,000 ewes from 1986. The 1986 lamb crop totaled 23,000 head. The average value of sheep and lambs on Kentucky farms was placed at $75 per head, up $4.50 from last year.

The number of sheep operations in Kentucky was up 100 farms from last year, to 1,000 operations.

"These numbers show increased interest in sheep production in Kentucky, but they are small compared to the number of sheep operations which used to exist here," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

In 1959 there were 596,000 head. The record high was 1,080,000 head in 1935.

Kentucky cattle inventory low

Kentucky now has its lowest cattle inventory since 1966 when it numbered 2,445 million head, according to the Kentucky Agricultural Statistics Service.

Kentucky's cattle inventory as of Jan. 1 totaled 2,45 million head.

"Cattle numbers peaked a bout 1975 and have tended to go downward since then," said Agriculture Commissioner David E. Boswell.

The total cow and calf inventory puts Kentucky 12th among the states.

Cows and heifers that calved on Kentucky farms, at 1,222 million head, were up 1 percent from Jan. 1, 1986. Beef cow inventory was up 2 percent from last year, while milk cows at 223,000 head, were down 5 percent.

This the lowest inventory of milk cows on Kentucky farms since 1969 when there were 224,000 head.

Beef replacement heifers, on Jan. 1, were up 5 percent, milk heifers were down 9 percent. Total heifer inventory was fractionally lower than a year earlier.

The 1986 calf crop in Kentucky totaled 1.16 million head, up 5 percent from 1986. Cattle on grain feed for slaughter were estimated at 25,000 head on Jan. 1, down 5,000 head from a year ago.

State says Rockcastle tax assessment 98.3

The 1987 property tax assessment/sales ratio study for each Kentucky county has been completed by the Revenue Cabinet.

The Department of Property Taxation computes the individual ratio for each class of property—residential, farm and commercial—then proportional weight is determined according to its percentage of the county's total assessment.

Rockcastle is listed at 98.3 percent.

The ratio is the best available measure of assessment based on the market, however, care should be used in interpreting the table. When interpreting the table, these points should be considered:

The actual sales of property in a county during one year may not be entirely representative of the values of all other unsold property in that county. This is especially true in small counties and in other counties where few sales were reported in one or more classes of property.

The countywide ratios cannot be applied to the assessments on individual parcels. For example, if the assessment ratio is 95 percent, that does not mean that each individual's property is assessed at 95 percent of its fair cash value. It simply means that the typical, countywide assessment is 95 percent of indicated market value.

The International Association of Assessing Officers recently suggested that the median assessment to sales ratio may be acceptable if it falls within 10 percent, plus or minus, of market value. In other words, on the average, any given assessment/sales ratio may be 90 percent or 110 percent of real value and still be considered to be acceptable as an indication of market value.

Filers May Extend Filing Deadline But Not Payment Of Tax

Preparing an income tax return can require a multitude of information papers such as cancelled checks, receipts, and proof of earnings and expenses. Sometimes copies of certain information papers must be obtained and are not received on time to prepare the return and meet the filing deadline. Form 1040 or 1040A filers can request an automatic 4-month extension of time to file their tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service says. However, the IRS adds that this is not an extension to pay taxes owed.

Taxpayers filing Form 1040EZ or those requesting the IRS to compute their tax are not eligible for an automatic extension.

To obtain the 4-month extension beyond April 15, 1987, a taxpayer must complete Form 4868, Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File.

U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, and forward it to the service center processing tax returns for his or her state. Form 4868 must be filed on or before April 15, 1987, the IRS says.

On Form 4868, one must make a tentative estimate of the year's taxes and submit any balance due with the form. Upon filing the tax return, if the unpaid tax is more than 10 percent, there is a penalty for late payment unless the taxpayer can show reasonable cause for not paying the tax when due. The penalty is one-half of one percent per month of the unpaid balance, up to a maximum of 25 percent. Interest is also assessed on any unpaid balance, the IRS says.

Civil engineers should apply now for 4-year senior engineering scholarships

Kentucky high school seniors who are interested in a career in civil engineering should apply now for four-year scholarships.

applications, contact the College of Engineering, Department of Civil Engineering, 606-257-4859.

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet has given scholarships to Kentucky students to attend the University of Kentucky civil engineering department since 1948.

The scholarships are valued at approximately $16,000 to qualified students and include a monthly stipend plus summer work assignments. Upon graduation, scholarship recipients will be given a full-time job with the cabinet.

To qualify for the scholarship, a student must graduate from an accredited Kentucky high school and meet both the admission requirements of UK and the UK engineering college. The student should have a high school grade-point average of at least a 2.5, on a 4.0 system, an ACT composite score of at or above 60 percent, and an ACT mathematics score of at least 70 percent.

"Severe Storm Awareness Week"

To complicate matters further, a thunderstorm system also may be associated with tornadoes. Straight line winds, downbursts, hail, and flash floods also are produced by thunderstorms and any or all can be brought on by just one storm. All of these occur in all parts of Kentucky.

commonwealth is a longer one than in many parts of the country, usually beginning about April and sometimes lasting through September.

Kentuckians are reminded to keep a close eye to the sky and monitor daily the possibilities of such a system in their area.

Hailstones are lumps of ice that form during some thunderstorms. They range from pea size to possibly the size of a grapefruit. They are usually round, but may also be conical, or irregular in shape. Hail is most devastating to crops but can also cause damage to aircraft, automobiles, roofs and windows.

"Flash floods" can result from the locally heavy rain associated with thunderstorms. In 1985 in several locations in western Kentucky, flash flooding caused problems that had not happened in memory. However, the eastern region of the state is particularly affected by flash floods.

Along the leading edge of the thunderstorm system, sometimes there are damaging "straight line" winds that may seem to have been caused by a tornado. This is because such winds can be just as great as a strong tornado, and may come with a roaring sound similar to tornado noises.

Downbursts may be of varying sizes, but they occur when the entire thundercloud drops from its towering height, and impacts on one place. If the downburst is a large one, it is called a "macro" downburst, while smaller ones are called "micro" downbursts.

The very real threat of death, injury and destruction makes it imperative that severe thunderstorms be taken just as seriously as tornadoes.

In the average year, tornadoes in the United States can claim about 100 lives and cause millions of dollars in damage. However, although there were 762 tornadoes counted in the United States last year, the 15 deaths nationwide caused by tornadoes is the lowest death figure since 1916.

From 1916 through last year, Kentucky experienced 322 tornadoes. In the same span, the state recorded 101 tornado deaths. In 1986 alone there were 10 tornadoes in the commonwealth, while no one was killed, the injured numbered 28 statewide.

The worst tornado damage last year occurred March 10 in southeast Lexington and Fayette County. The same day brought a series of damaging downbursts in the counties of northern Kentucky.

The typical path of a tornado is about 50 yards wide and a few miles long. The destructive winds of the tornado can exceed 200 miles an hour.

Lightning always is a greater threat to loss of life and personal injury than tornadoes. From 1959 through 1986, the National Weather Service recorded 66 deaths from lightning, with 159 other injuries, with two deaths and eight injuries from lightning coming in 1986 alone.

D.A.R. meeting

By: Mary Gay Walker

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR

met on the evening of February 10, 1987 at the home of Mrs. Ed Hunt. Miss Mary Alice Hunt and Miss Virginia Hunt, Mrs. Stephen Owens, Regent, presided with Miss Virginia Hunt at the piano for the National Anthem. Miss Mary Alice Hunt gave the National Defense news, an article concerning the problem of bilingual language in the schools with the coming of many immigrants to America. The writer came to the conclusion that English, the national language of America, should be the language spoken in the schools and should be taught to all the pupils who do not speak English.

The program was also given by Miss Hunt, the National Defense chairman of the chapter. She told of her visit of West Point, N.Y. the location of the United States Military Academy. She told of her seeing Trophy Point from which, during the Revolutionary War, a heavy iron chain was placed beneath the surface of the River to a point on the opposite side to prevent the British from advancing up the river. She said that today we can be a chain of people held together by a common bond of working for the good of our country. She said that we could come to grips with a current disturbing problem by refusing to buy foreign imports and insisting on the purchase of American made merchandise. Otherwise the balance of trade will be upset and the American product and the American work force will suffer.

The chapter welcomed three prospective members: Mrs. Laura McHare, Miss Mollie Hamm and Mrs. Sara Fay Hamann.

A most pleasant social hour followed the program.

EXTENSION HOME ECONOMICS

HOW TO SELECT FOODS LOW IN SUGAR

By: Cheryl Witt County Extension Agent for Home Economics

Cutting down on something that tastes good is never easy. But for health's sake, some people must avoid too much sugar.

One way to cut down on sugar is to know which foods contain large amounts and then avoid them. To do this you must become a label reader.

The next time you go to the grocery, take time to read a few labels. Do you see the word "sugar" on the label? Most often, sugar will be listed as one of the following: sucrose, glucose, dextrose, sorbitol, fructose, maltose and lactose. A label that lists corn syrup, molasses or maple syrup also indicates that the product contains sugar.

If you find any of these words listed in the first three ingredients or if several of the words are listed, give that food a minus; it won't help you limit sugar because it is probably high in sugar.

Other ways to reduce your sugar intake:

• Buy fresh fruits or fruits packed in water, juice or light syrup instead of heavy syrup.

• Buy fewer prepared foods that are high in sugar such as baked goods, candies and sweet desserts.

• Reduce the amount of sugar used in preparing food. Try recipes using less sugar or adjust your own. Gradually reduce the sugar until you have reduced it by 1/2 or more.

• Use spices to enhance the flavor of food. Try cinnamon, cardamom, coriander, nutmeg, ginger and mace.

• Use home-prepared items with less sugar instead of commercially prepared products that may be high in sugar.

• Add less sugar to coffee, tea, cereal or fruit. Gradually reduce the amount.

"Drink fewer soft drinks and fruit-flavored punches. Try fruit juices that are labeled unsweetened. Be sure the label says fruit juice and not fruit drink. Also try a combination of fruit juice and club soda, skim or low-fat milk or club soda served over ice with a lemon slice. Don't forget water. It has no calories and is the best thirst quencher."

"Conversation is something that is lost behind the television set."

"Diet Coke Baptism"

Many preachers teach that baptism is unimportant, or that one baptism is just as good as another. For example, a television preacher related his exasperation with a woman who came to him insisting that she be baptized without delay. Failing to discourage her persistence, the preacher said that he "baptized" her with the Diet Coke he happened to be drinking during the conversation.

Apparently, his audience was amused. We are sure that many would find such behavior insensitive, disgusting and even blasphemous. However, "Diet Coke baptism" is just as effective as most "baptisms" being practiced today. For example:

If one is going to be "sprinkled," it might as well be with Diet Coke as with water. Inasmuch as there is not a word in the Bible authorizing sprinkling for baptism, one is no worse than the other. Bible baptism is a burial - Rom. 6:3-4; Acts 8:36-39.

If it is one's desire to join a denomination, there is no reason why Diet Coke could not do the job as well as immersion in water. It would certainly make no difference to the Lord, since He established no denomination and gave no instruction on how to become a member of one. The Bible does teach that there is one church [Matt. 16:18; Eph. 4:4], and that one is baptized into the one body of Christ - I Cor. 12:13.

If someone thinks he has been forgiven of sin already, and just wants to be baptized as "an outward sign of an inward grace," he is just as well off to be baptized in Diet Coke as in water because Bible baptism is not "because of" remission of sins, but UNTO remission of sins; to WASH AWAY sins - Acts 2:38; 22:16.

The fact of the matter is that many people who have been "baptized" in water are still just as much in need of real Bible baptism as the poor, unsuspecting woman who was "baptized" with Diet Coke by an insensitive, irreverent television preacher! One cannot be taught wrong and baptized right [Acts 19:3-5], nor can one be baptized wrong and worship right [Matt. 15:9]. Think about it.

EASY!
 I like dealing with an establishment that has experience.

You've no doubt heard this line.
 "We've been doing it longer, that's why we do it better!"
 This is true, especially when talking about banks.

Banks have been around long before department stores, investment houses and other so-called financial centers began offering financial services. We've been providing every needed banking service for you, your family and area businesses for numerous years.

Now that finances are getting more complex every day, every year, it is important you choose a bank like us that has the experience and knowledge in the financial field.

Too, when banking with us, you have the protection of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation against loss, not every financial center can make that claim.

Whether your account is large or small, you can always count on us for personal banking service with FDIC protection. We're here to serve all area folks with the finest of financial services, as we want your business for a lifetime.

National FFA week recognized February 21-28

More than 430,000 FFA members will promote FFA, high school agriculture and the food and fiber industry during National FFA Week, Feb. 21-28.

FFA members in 8,000 chapters across the U.S., the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands will organize events and activities to create awareness of and support for high school agriculture and the FFA.

FFA activities and programs will be promoted by FFA members and through public service announcements on the local, state and national levels. This year's theme is "FFA—Leaders for the New Fields of Agriculture," with emphasis on "Excellence Made in the FFA."

High school agriculture classes stress hands-on practice in many diverse areas of agriculture, and FFA activities provide leadership development, communication training and award incentives for these young people.

Kevin Eblen, national FFA president from Creston, Iowa, said FFA Week is the chance for members and communities to recognize the achievements and activities available through FFA and high school agriculture.

"We're proud of this commitment to young people and agriculture. As FFA members, and students in agriculture classes, we are receiving the business, science and leadership skills we need to prepare for the diverse and challenging careers in agriculture," Eblen said.

Each year FFA Week is held during the week of George Washington's birthday to recognize his leadership and commitment to American agriculture. The National FFA Center is located on part of the old Washington estate near Alexandria, Virginia.

Ky. Crop values lowest since '75

At $1.2 billion, Kentucky crop values for 1986 were the lowest since 1975, when crops were valued at $1.02 billion. The total crop value is down 27 percent from 1985.

Kentucky's 1986 crop value ranks 18th among the states, dredweight in 1985.

Corn for grain ranked second to tobacco in crop value with a total of $238 million, compared with $393 million in 1985. Price per bushel for the 1986 crop is expected to average $1.70 for the marketing year of Sept. 1, 1986 to Aug. 31, 1987.

Hay ranked third, with a value of $233 million, followed by soybeans at $183 million.

Grain sorghum value registered the biggest decline, falling 74 percent from the 1985 value.

New Bill To Ease Sodbuster Rules for Tobacco Farmers

Occasionally, even the most non-controversial legislative proposal will create havoc for average citizens once it actually becomes law. This is particularly true for agriculture legislation which is always complex. A perfect example is the Conservation Title of last year's farm bill.

This provision, commonly called "sodbuster legislation," was the only part of the 1986 Farm Bill which enjoyed anything close to unanimous approval by Congress. But it's since become a source of consternation and confusion of many of our farmers.

Sodbuster legislation requires every farmer to have an approved farm conservation plan in place by 1990 to maintain eligibility for price supports for all program crops. This farm conservation plan is designed to be a working guide so farmers will execute conservation practices and reduce harmful soil erosion on their farms. The legislation went on to mandate that any farmer who "breaks out" new ground in 1987 which hasn't been planted since 1981 must have his farm conservation plan approved before he plants his 1987 crops.

This is a good conservation tool in theory, but what Congress failed to recognize last year is the unnecessary hardship it puts on small tobacco farmers. This law was designed with feed grain farmers in mind who plant the same crop in the same field year after year, not farmers who plant small acreages of tobacco and who often choose to plant different land each year. A strict interpretation of the legislation would require the Soil Conservation Service to write a farm plan for every tobacco farmer who might break out new land in 1987 in order for the farmer to receive price support for his tobacco.

I have introduced "The Sodbuster Clarification Act of 1987" which will simplify the required reporting process to make it easier for farmers to meet the new conservation requirements. Under my proposal, tobacco farmers will only have to certify their planting and conservation intentions for 1987 and beyond and have it approved by SCS and Chairman of the local Soil and Conservation District. This certification will suffice as the "Farm Conservation Plan" required by the original legislation for most of Kentucky's tobacco farmers.

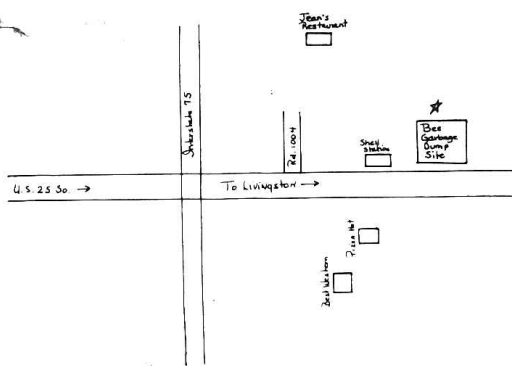

This simple clarification of the 1986 Farm Bill will prevent a lot of aggravation for tobacco farmers and will save the taxpayers thousands of dollars in workload for ASCS and SCS. Most importantly, my bill will guarantee that farmers will remain eligible for price supports on their 1987 tobacco crop.

Lady Rocket rally falls short 55-44

By: Willie Hiatt

What was once a 19-point mountain early in the second half last Thursday night crumbled to just eight with six minutes left. Eight points and the Lady Rockets would topple powerful Jackson County.

The story here, however, isn't that the upset never developed. Almost as expected, Jackson's press collected eight straight points to clinch a 55-44 win. What's bigger is that these same Lady Rockets who lost by 55 three weeks ago were actually in a position to win.

"I didn't realize it until it was back up to 12," senior point guard Cindy Fain said of the Rockets comeback. "They got two quick baskets and that seemed to be it."

What remains to be seen, though, is how this game will effect the March 4 meeting between these two teams in the 49th District Tournament.

"We would just have to play tremendous defense," RCHS coach Preston Parrett said of that game. "We've got the worst habit. We don't watch the weak side. People cut to the weakside wide open."

Senior Sandy Hunter led the Rockets, who dropped to 5-11, with 15 points. Lori Mink, who suffered a slight concussion late in the game and was taken to the hospital, scored 14 and Rhonda Cobb finished with nine. Jackson County, one of the top five teams in the 13th Region, improved to 8-9 this season.

"We were a little more patient," Parrett said. "When we pass the ball six or seven times we can usually make a basket. What kills us is when we go down and bomb it up with one pass."

Down 36-19 at the half, the Rockets opened the second half with a 15 footer by Mink. Jackson's Tanya Parrett and Lisa Harris each scored to go up 40-21 with under seven minutes left.

But over the last six minutes of the third quarter and the first Lady Rocket Rhonda Cobb fights for a rebound in their 55-44 loss to Jackson County last Thursday night at home.

two of the fourth, Hunter scored nine points as the Rockets worked their patient offense. They put together a 14 run that cut the lead to 45-37 with less than seven minutes left.

"We started pressing a little," Fain said, "and working the ball more patiently."

The Jackson press, however, took over from there. In the next minute and a half, Sandy Kilburn scored six points on a 8-0 spurt to put the game out of reach at 53-37. "I thought we had a shot," Parrett said, "but things went a little haywire."

The Lady Rockets lost 34-24 in the B-team game. Stephanie Northern led with 11 points. Angie Dowell had eight and Regina McClure finished with four points.

Rockets fizzle out at Laurel 92-34

By: Willie Hiatt

If Rockcastle's game with Laurel County last Friday night had been televised on a delayed basis, chances are nobody would have stayed up and watched it.

The 92-34 Rocket loss certainly wouldn't have been a ratings coup, much less a game worth recording on the VCR. About the only redeeming feature of the game from a Rockcastle slant was the play of sophomores Kris Ponder and Chuck Shields.

Ponder, who scored 20 points in the B-team's 51-41 loss, also led the varsity Rockets with 13 points. Although Shields scored only two points, he and Ponder were an encouraging preview of the high school's basketball future.

"I thought the sophomores played well," said RCHS coach David Perkins. "With the exception of a few bad shots, we didn't do anything we hadn't planned on doing."

Junior Jon Bullens scored six points and senior Johnny Kirby had four for the Rockets, who dropped to 7-12 this season. Senior Doug Cox didn't play because of a strained muscle in his back.

The 20th-ranked Cardinals, 20-3 stop the 12th Region, found balanced scoring in Kevin Elza, Tim Hill and Craig McFadden, each finishing with 18 points.

Besides the Rockets' sophomores, the only interesting twist to the game came afterwards, when Perkins and Laurel coach Chuck Broughton indirectly exchanged barbs about each other's coaching strategy.

The Rockets had executed a patient offense most of the game. But with 2:30 left and Laurel still building its 90-32 lead, Perkins called for a four corner freeze to prevent the Cardinals from reaching 100 points.

Broughton had shuttled his starters in and out the whole game, and didn't remove David Gibson and Robert Tesague until there were only 40 seconds left.

"Our attitude is when we're behind we're going to try to win," said Broughton, alluding to the Rocket stall.

Perkins, however, apparently took a dim view of Broughton allowing his team to light up the scoreboard. "I felt like that was about as bad as he could beat us," Perkins said.

Perkins added, "I don't go out and recruit basketball players, either," charging that Laurel's Hill played for Whitley County last season.

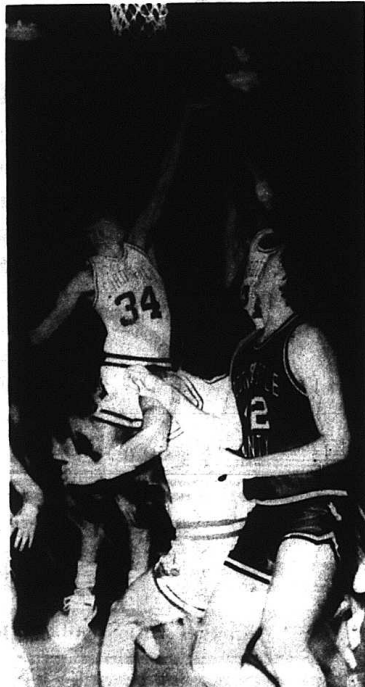

Perkins, who softened his remarks by saying that he wasn't criticizing Broughton, said Laurel was the most talented team he has seen this season. He even went as far as saying that "if they don't win the state tournament, something is wrong."

When reminded that Henry Clay beat Laurel by more than 20 points on its home court two weeks ago, Perkins qualified his statement by saying that the Cardinals would be at least win the 12th Region.

Make no mistake, however, that this is the most talented Laurel team since the Cardinals captured the 1982 state tournament. Besides losing to Henry Clay, Laurel's only other losses came against Monticello and Madison Central.

"It's hard to compare teams," Broughton said, when asked to compare this team with the 1982 club. "(This is) a little slower team, a little bigger team. We don't have the quickness, but with the exception of a game or two, we're a better rebounding team."

Also in the B-team game, Shields finished with seven points, Darren Allen six, Adam Coleman four and David Owens two.

Junior Tim Hodges gets a shot off over two Laurel County players in the Rockets 92-34 loss last Friday.

NAPA maintains 1st

NAPA maintained their first place position in the Thursday night Rockcastle Mixed League at Maroon Lanes in Richmond with 50½ wins and 33½ losses. The Pin Busters are in second at 47½ and 36½ and the Top Guns are third at 45½ and 38½.

High team series for the week went to the Top Guns with a 2422. The Misfits were second with a 2264 and the Pin Busters third at 2309. The Top Guns also took high team game with an 869. The Misfits had an 835 and the High Rollers an 815.

Henry Vanzant had high men's series with a 581, Jim Cromer was second at 557 and Perry Noe, third, at 555, Jim Cromer took high men's game with a 209. Perry Noe had a 203 and Henry Vanzant a 198.

Jamie Bryant had high women's series with a 581, Tammy Wilson was second with a 488 and Evelyn Mullins, third, with a 480. Jamie Bryant also had first and second high women's games with a 210 and 190 and Annette Faulkner was third with a 188.

Bill Reynolds still holds high men's average with a 182. Jack Noe is second with a 177 and Jim Cromer, third, with a 172. Debbie Burg has high women's average at 163; Evelyn Mullins is second with a 162 and Alice Faulkner, third, at 151.

Brodhead Intramural Tournament Saturday morning

The opening round of Brodhead Elementary School's first intramural basketball tournament will be played Saturday beginning at 10 a.m.

The tournament field includes four teams in the 3rd- and 4th-grade bracket and eight teams in the 5th- and 6th-grade bracket. The semi-final and championship games will be played on Feb. 28.

In its second year of existence, Brodhead's intramural schedule coincided with the county's grade school season. All age groups, kindergarten through 6th grade, played on Saturdays and some games were scheduled the same night as grade school games.

"The advantage is that at this age a kid who might not be able to bounce a basketball might be a starter in a few years," said Randall Adams, a coach of Brodhead's '1 team.

In the 3rd- and 4th-grade bracket, Broughtontown plays Brodhead (9 a.m.); and Tyner plays Brodhead (10 a.m.). In the 5th- and 6th-grade bracket, Broughtontown meets Brodhead #1 (11 a.m.); Tyner plays Brodhead

#2 (12 p.m.); Tyner plays McKinney (1 p.m.); and Brodhead #3 will play East Bernstadt (2 p.m.).

The coaches in the intramural program include Adams, Dale Scoggins, Gordon Pope, Nelson Graves, Clinton Graves and Larry Lafavers.

Admission for the tournament is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children. All proceeds to back into the intramural program.

the Bank of Mt. Vernon now stands. "Strangely enough, there has not been a major fire on the south side of Main Street where the building burned to the ground. How did folks know about a fire in the early days? Ralph Griffin recalled:

"Talk about excitement: the old fire alarms surely did supply it. If one happened to be awake, or a light sleeper, the first alarm heard would be a distant cry of FIRE! Next, there would be a shot, or maybe a half-dozen, then a couple of explosions from another direction, and finally all Hades broke loose! It was an opportunity to see how the old firearms were working."

"Every male citizen in Mt. Vernon who was big enough to pull a trigger was out in the front yard blazing away skyward with a old blunderbuss while the women and children carried out the smaller firearms and more ammunition. Unless the fire was unusually destructive, the cost of ammunition expended was greater than the fire loss."

"Then the church bells and courthouse bell began to ring, and if that happened to be a train standing on the track, its whistle was heard down. Bedlam reigned supreme, but in spite of the general alarm, there was surprisingly little time lost in getting to the fire. If it wasn't too far away.

"The citizens turned out en masse with tubs, buckets, stew kettles and even pint sized tin cups, if nothing else was available."

"When the fire had any degree of headway, the bucket brigade concentrated upon extinguishing the contents and the adjoining building."

"Some of the more venturesome firefighters seemed to glory in taking chances, and would almost engage the fire in bodily combat before retreating. And if the water supply held out, they would make a last but not an impression upon the biggest, hottest fire."

"Usually the building was doomed, and when everything humanly possible had been done, and as many items of clothing, furniture and mementos were carried out, shouts would be heard to: 'Come out of there, the roof is going to fall!'"

"And fall it did, with the last of the volunteer firefighters escaping by an eyelash, and it smaged."

"Yes, Mt. Vernon has always developed and excellent breed of firemen. I think they could have put out the fires that destroyed Rome and Chicago," Griffin concluded.

Years later, came the town siren atop the city hall building to call firemen, but that also gave way to radios and telephones. The siren is only fired up at noon. These days, almost all the firemen in the three county towns are hooked to beepers and hand-held radios that call the firemen into action.

Still, a major problem remains. Many fires are discovered too late to extinguish. But fire chiefs, John Cox at Mt. Vernon, Brian Bussell at Brodhead, and

Your Child's Health

By Dr. John Payne

Parents frequently say "My child caught his cold at the day care". They always blame some other child for what their child caught, usually not mentioning that "catching stuff" goes both ways. Now there has been a recent project that confirms this, feeling that kids catch more stuff if they are in day care.

In a study based in Atlanta 449 mothers were questioned about illnesses in the preceding two weeks in their children. 24% reported a cough or cold and 6% an ear infection. Ear infections are not "caught" as such but do result from colds which are picked up from others. The study showed that children in day care are at a considerably increased risk for having more upper respiratory infections than those who stay home. According to fancy statistical analysis one third of coughs and one half and two thirds of ear infections were due to day care attendance.

They also found that children in homes where the parents smoked had a considerably increased risk of respiratory infection whether or not they attended day care.

All this of course does not mean you should keep your child home from day care. My mother deplored such service to allow them to work. The children learn a great deal in a good day care program and progress better when they get to kindergarten. Our society could hardly function without daycare. You should keep your child home if he or she is ill to avoid spreading germs. You should not send them to any daycare or sitter where the caretaker smokes, and should of course not smoke in your own home. Viruses they can't avoid entirely, the extra risk from being exposed to smoke is another matter.

After this social half hour or so "tune up" began and the evening was off to a couple of hours of entertainment one only expects to get from Nashville.

This group of music makers meet weekly to practice and have fun. It is a mixed group of young and old, women and men.

They brought new life to old banjos with their guitars, mandolins, fiddles and group songs. We were invited to join in on a sing-a-long.

They played church hymns and mountain ballads and foot stomping mountain music.

They have been invited to return soon, and accepted the invitation. Everyone is invited to attend our a.r.p. meeting.

Civil Action, File No. 86-CI-121

The Bank of Mt. Vernon Plaintiff

v. NOTICE OF SALE

Kim C. Moses and wife,
Mary E. Moses Defendants

By virtue of an execution fieri facias directed to me and issued from the Rockcastle Circuit Court Clerk's office in this matter in favor of The Bank of Mt. Vernon against Kim C. Moses and wife, Mary E. Moses, I will on Friday, February 13, 1987, at the hour of 11:00 o'clock a.m. at the Rockcastle County Courthouse, Courtroom 100, in the City of Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, expose to public sale to the highest bidder the following described real property to satisfy said execution and the costs thereon, to wit:

Located in Rockcastle County, Kentucky on the west side of U.S. Highway No. 25 and more particularly bounded and described as follows:

Beginning at a rock corner in Smith's line running southeast by a walnut tree about 25 feet from corner 300 feet to a rock corner; thence a straight line to Highway No. 25; thence with Highway No. 25 right of way to a culvert; thence a straight line to the beginning and containing one (1) acre, more or less.

Defendants obtained title to said real property by deed dated July 24, 1986, executed by Tessie Childers in record Deed Book 125, page 582, being recorded in the office of the Rockcastle County Court, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky.

This property shall be sold to the highest bidder for cash or upon terms of twenty (20%) per cent of the purchase price in cash at time of sale and the balance payable in three (3) months. If sold on time, the purchaser will be required to execute bond with surety approved by the Commissioner to secure the unpaid ratio of twelve (12%) per cent per annum until paid and shall have the effect of a judgment. The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying said bond before maturity with interest to date of payment.

The purchaser shall have possession of the premises upon complying with the terms of sale and risk of loss of improvements shall thereafter be on the purchaser.

Unpaid taxes and liens of record as of 1986 shall be paid out of the proceeds of sale.

If the purchaser should default on said bond, the Sheriff may resell the property under the original terms and conditions.

If plaintiff is the purchaser, no cash deposit will be required and a deed will be delivered upon payment of the costs of sale, taxes, etc., plus any amount by which the purchase price exceeds these costs and the amount of plaintiff's judgment, interest and costs.

The amount of debt, interest and costs to be raised on date of sale is ten thousand one hundred forty-seven dollars and thirty cents ($10,147.30).

CLARENCE HASTY, Jr.
Rockcastle County Sheriff

inches of rain and no snow of consequence. In February, 1986, there was 4.74 inches of rain/melted snow. There was one 14 inch snowfall last February.

The high temperature in February, 1986, was 68 and the low was two below zero. In February, 1987, to date, the high has been 58 and the low 13.

Considering that last year was a dry year, and February, 1986 was very wet, precipitation will be well below last year unless it is made up during the remainder of February.

Total rain to date this year is 4.10 inches, compared to 5.90 inches last year.

Crappie and Sauger Fishing excellent LENT

Some excellent winter fishing for crappie and sauger is being reported by district fishery biologists with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

Kentucky Barkley and Barren River lakes are producing the best catches of crappie, while Ohio River fishermen have been catching in good stringers and several limits of sauger below dams. Good populations of sauger are also present in the Kentucky River system.

The recent warmer weather during the last two weeks has provided many opportunities for fishermen to pursue fish which can be effectively caught from cold waters. Crappie fishing peaks during early spring, but many anglers have found this species can be taken during the winter as well. Most fishermen use jigs to reach depths of sometimes over 40 feet where crappie school during the colder months.

Warmer weather will bring these fish to shallower water, which should allow anglers to connect with more consistency. Kentucky, Barkley and Barren River lakes have been the three crappie lakes in the state for several years, according to the biologists.

These reservoirs often produce large numbers of above-average crappie during the latter part of February and early March.

March is also the month when sauger and walleye become active. These closely related species travel upstream to spawn, usually when the water temperature reaches about 45 degrees. Sauger are found in many rivers (and several impoundments), where they congregate below dams which block their migration. Anglers fishing tailwaters below the dams on the Ohio and Kentucky rivers boat good numbers of sauger every year during February and March.

Walleye, the larger of the two species, are making a comeback in several lakes after a decline in the 1970s. White Lake, Cumberland and the most notable for walleye fishing, this species is also found in Nolin Lake, Carr Fork Lake and Kentucky's newest reservoir, Paintsville Lake.

Popular lures for sauger and walleye are jigs, slab spoons, crankbaits and spinner/live bait combinations. These fish can generally be found in headwater tributaries along riffles, shoals and sometimes against low-water dams. Creek run-ins and points or flats along river channels are other good spots to fish for walleye and sauger.

These three species, along with trout, provide the first quality fishing opportunities for Kentucky anglers during the year. Other fish can be caught when the water is cold, but most anglers find that crappie, sauger and walleye will bite with much more consistency than warm-water fishes in February and March.

It is not more surprising when other hits Kentucky in the next month or so, the start of the spring fishing season should come a little earlier than usual. Many anglers will take advantage of the warmer days to prepare boats and fishing tackle for the oncoming spring season, but if you're looking for some early action, crappie and sauger are the fish to pursue.

Turkeys now stocked in Ky.

Almost 100 wild turkeys were stocked in Kentucky in 1986, according to the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. The birds were stocked in Carroll, Henry, Gallatin, Cumberland, Taylor, and Hart counties and on the Harrison-Pendleton county line.

These stockings are part of the fish and wildlife department's state wide wild turkey restoration effort. Stocked counties will remain closed to hunting for at least five years to allow turkey populations to grow to huntable numbers.

Additional counties will be stocked in the winter and early spring of 1987.

Heads of Household Must List Children

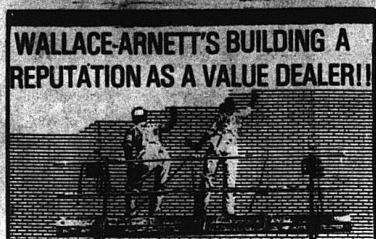

Many taxpayers filing as heads of households have unfortunately been needlessly delaying their tax refunds by forgetting to list the names of qualifying dependents or children, the Internal Revenue Service says.

To file as a head of household, a taxpayer must be unmarried or qualify to file as unmarried, and provide more than half the cost of keeping up a home that is the principal home of the taxpayer and the taxpayer's unmarried child (who may be either a dependent or not), or a married child who must be the taxpayer's dependent.

Other qualifying relatives such as uncle, sister, niece, son-in-law, etc., must be the taxpayer's dependents, and must actually live with the taxpayer the entire year. The taxpayer's dependent parents, however, may qualify even though they do not live with the taxpayer. The taxpayer must have paid more than half the cost of keeping up their home in order to qualify for head of household filing status.

To be considered unmarried, the IRS says, one must be single, legally separated, divorced, married but living apart for at least the last six months of the tax year or widowed. Without a child or qualifying dependent, the IRS stressed, unmarried taxpayers are not eligible to file as head of the household, and if they do not qualify as surviving widow or widower with a dependent child, they must file under the single status.

Named to "Who's Who" among high school students

Johnny and Donna Harris, twins of Junior and Preda Harris and Barry Bussell, son of Dee and Mary Bussell of Brodhead have been accepted in "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Only 67% of all junior and senior students from our nation's high schools are recognized and honored. These students are to be commended for their achievement.

Merry Poynter PETITIONER
VS: NOTICE OF SALE
John Delmas Poynter RESPONDENT

Pursuant to judgment entered in this action on December 16, 1986 and for the purpose of division of marital property, I will offer for sale at public auction the hereinafter described real personal property.

ON THE PREMISES, LOCATED ON KENTUCKY 461 9 MILES SOUTH OF MT. VERNON FRIDAY, THE 27TH DAY OF FEBRUARY, 1987 COMMENCING AT THE HOUR OF 10:00 A.M.

said real and personal property being described as follows:
Located in Rockcastle County, Kentucky, on the waters of Skaggs Creek, and on Highway No. 461 approximately four and one-half (4 1/2) miles west of U.S. Highway No. 150, and being all of Tract No. 1 of the Loma McMullins Survey as shown on plat of record in Plat Book 1, page 65, in the office of the clerk of the Rockcastle County Court, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, containing 124.33 acres.

There is excepted from Tract No. 1, approximately one (1) acre of ground and a right of way to the county road as set forth in deed of record in Deed Book 55, page 327, in the office of the clerk of the Rockcastle County Court, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky.
And being property which John D. Poynter and Mary R. Poynter, obtained by deed dated October 29, 1977, recorded in the office of the clerk of the Rockcastle County Court in Deed Book 106, pages 344-346.

And Personal Property As Follows:
1978 Dodge Truck
1975 Vega Automobile
1974 GMC Truck
1965 International Truck
Various items of farm machinery
Various items of household furniture

The property will be sold upon the following terms and conditions:
1. The personal property will be sold on the terms of cash on the day of sale.
2. The real property shall be sold to the highest bidder(s) for cash or for a deposit of ten (10) per cent of the purchase price in cash at the time of sale and balance payable in ninety (90) days. The purchaser shall be required to execute bond with surety thereon, to be approved by the Master Commissioner, for the balance of the purchase price. The bond shall bear interest at the rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum from date until paid, and to remain in full force and effect until the property is fully paid.
3. The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all of the purchase price in cash or paying the bond before maturity by paying the principal amount thereof together with all interest accrued thereon to the date of said payment.
4. Purchaser(s) shall be responsible for the 1987 property taxes.
5. Purchaser(s) shall have possession of the premises upon complying with the terms of sale and risk of loss of improvements shall thereafter be on the purchaser(s).
6. This sale shall be made subject to all easements, set back lines, restrictions or covenants of record or otherwise.

Robert E. Robinson
Master Commissioner
Rockcastle Circuit Court

NOTICE OF HEARING

To all interested persons, on the 20th day of February, 1987, in the Rockcastle County Courthouse in Mt. Vernon, Ky. at 7 p.m., the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court will hold a hearing and have the first reading of a proposed ordinance regulating solid waste management.

The proposed ordinance pertains to public health, safety and welfare: Regulating storage, collection, transportation, processing and disposal of solid waste; providing for collection and disposal of solid waste; providing a penalty for violation of the provisions of this ordinance and repealing all ordinances in conflict herewith.

The proposed ordinance further establishes the procedure for granting of an "exclusive" franchise to the highest and best bidder for the before-said purposes.

The full text of the proposed ordinance is available for inspection at the county judge/executive's office in the Rockcastle County Courthouse between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

CRCC
Board of Directors

Members of the Cedar Rapids Country Club held their annual meeting last Thursday night and elected their board of directors for 1987. Elected President was John Clontz, Doug Brock was elected Vice President and Rick Anderkin was elected Treasurer. During their meeting the board decided to leave all membership dues for 1987 the same as 1986. Above the directors are pictured from left, Larry Travis, Ronnie Brown, John Clontz, Doug Brock, Tommy Parsons, David Pensol, Billy George Griffith, Rick Anderkin and standing behind is Mike Hansel.

Local DAR Chapter met Feb. 10

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR met on the evening of Feb 10 at the home of Mrs. Ed Hunt. Miss Mary Alice Hunt and Miss Virginia Hunt. Mrs. Stephen Owens, Regent, presided with Miss Virginia Hunt at the piano for the National Anthem. Miss Mary Alice Hunt gave the National Defense news, an article concerning the problem of bilingual language in the schools with the coming of many immigrants to America. The writer came to the conclusion that English, the national language should be taught to all the language spoken in the schools and should be taught to all the pupils who do not speak English.

The program was also given by Miss Hunt, the National Defense chairman of the chapter. She told of her visit of West Point, N.Y., the location of the United States Military Academy. She told of her seeing Trophy Point from which, during the Revolutionary War a heavy iron chain was placed beneath the surface of the River to a point on the opposite side to prevent the British from advancing up the river. She said that today we can be a chain of people held together by a common bond of working for the good of our country. She said that we could come to grips with a current disturbing problem by refusing to buy foreign imports and insisting on the purchase of American made merchandise. Otherwise the balance of trade will be upset and the American product and the American work force will suffer.

The chapter welcomed three prospective members. Mrs. Laura McHargue, Miss Mollie Hamm and Mrs. Sara Fay Hamm. A most pleasant social hour followed the program.

Caffeine reaches its peak stimulant effect two to four hours after it is consumed and may continue to exert its influence for seven hours.

EIDL funds available for small businesses in county

Small businesses in 33 Kentucky counties including Rockcastle have been declared eligible for Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDL) from the Small Business Administration.

The disaster loans will provide low interest working capital for non-farm, agri-related businesses which are substantially hurt by the 1986 drought.

The loans are designed to help businesses meet current financial obligations, costs incurred by the drought and to pay operating expenses which the business would be able to pay had the drought not occurred.

The loans may also include funds necessary to keep businesses operating until the business returns to normal but the loan may not exceed $500,000.

Kentucky was hit hard by the summer drought and the effects were felt far beyond the grain and tobacco fields. Many small businesses in Kentucky rely on the health of the agricultural community for their livelihood. These loans should help ease some of the additional financial burden brought on by the drought," McConnell said.

Many of these counties are the same ones which were declared disaster counties by the U.S. Department of Agriculture last fall.

Deadline for applications is July 20, 1987 for Allen, Barren, Caldwell, Calloway, Casey, Christian, Clinton, Cumberland, Garrard, Graves, Green, Harrison, Laurel, Lincoln, Logan, Madison, McCreary, Metcalfe, Monroe, Russell, Simpson, Todd, Trigg, Warren and Wayne counties. Deadline for application is Sept. 8, 1987 for Bourbon, Hart, Livingston, Nicholas and Rockcastle Counties.

Reward offered for bat killings

A $500 reward for information leading to the conviction of the person or persons responsible for killing 100 bats in a Bullitt County Cave is being offered by the American Cave Conservation Association.

Among the slain bats were 66 Indiana bats, which are on the federal endangered species list. The bats were killed in Thornhill Cave (also called Wind Cave) sometime before Jan. 9 of this year. The cave is located about a mile west of Big Spring.

The American Cave Conservation Association offers a standing reward in cases of cave depredation, according to Executive Director Jerry Thornton, Horse Cave.

Anyone with information should contact the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources at 1-800-25-ALERT or the Louisville office of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at (502) 582-5989.

Christmas trees have become fish attractors

Ever wonder what happens to leftover Christmas trees? At three lakes in Kentucky, unsold trees are now serving as condominiums for fish.

Approximately 250 trees, donated by Hazard High School, were placed in Carr Fork Lake by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources as fish attractors. Crappie and most other game fish are attracted to underwater brush piles and an ongoing program of the fish and wildlife department's Division of Fisheries is to collect attractor sites in the state's lakes.

At Clear Creek Lake in Bath County and at Cave Run Lake, District Fisheries Biologist Lew Korman and the U.S. Forest Service cooperated in establishing fish attractors from leftover Christmas trees donated by Jerry Coell of Winchester Plant and Flower.

Fish attractors have also recently been placed in Buckhorn and Dewey lakes, according to Eastern Fisheries District Biologist Ed Carroll who will begin working in the near future with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to cut shelves in the steep banks at Fishtrap Lake where discarded wood, equipment trees will be placed as fish attractors. In addition, Rough River Lake is currently being mapped and marked for the placement of 25 attractor sites.

To locate a Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources fish attractor at your favorite lake, look for buoys showing a symbol of a fish approaching a hook. These buoys mark the outer boundaries of the attractor site.

Tips Received Are Income and Must Be Reported

There are a number of jobs in which workers are compensated with tip-tending bar, waiting tables, hair styling and playing music in a band, to name a few. Workers who receive tips must report this money as income on their tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Those who receive less than $20 a month in tips must keep their own records and include the total amount of tip income received during the year on their Form 1040, 1040A, or 1040EZ income tax return. It is very important to keep accurate daily records of tips received.

According to IRS, acceptable documentation includes a daily record of tips, copies of restaurant bills and credit charges which contain amounts added by customers as tips. The Internal Revenue Service provides free Publication 1244 which contains Form 4070A, Employee's Daily Record of Tips, making tip recording easy.

Workers who earn $20 or more a month in tips while working for one employer must report the total amount of these tips each month to their employer by the 10th day of the following month. Some employers may require these written reports more than once a month.

The monthly tip report must contain the employee's name, address and social security number. The employer's name and address, the period covered and the total amount of tips must also be in the report, which must be signed and dated by the employee. Free Publication 1244 also contains Form 4070, Employee's Report of Tips to Employer, to be used for this purpose. If the employee keeps a daily tip record, it will be that much easier to prepare the monthly report.

Employers are responsible for withholding social security or railroad retirement tax and income tax, the IRS explained. Food and beverage establishments where tipping is customary, and that normally employ more than 10 employees, are required to file an annual report with the IRS. These reports will be used to determine whether employees have been accurately reporting tip incomes.

Free Publication 1244 containing the forms needed for maintaining a daily tip record and preparing monthly reports, and Publication 531, Reporting Income From Tips, are available by writing or calling the IRS.

In the 17th Century, Emperor Jehangir owned a total of 2,226,000 carats of pearls, 831,000 carats of emeralds, 376,000 carats of rubies and 276,450 carats of diamonds.
