Hamilton is chosen as Academic All-American

The National Secondary Education Council announced today that Michael Hamilton has been named an Academic All-American.

The NSEC has established the Academic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to superior students who excel in the Academic disciplines. The Academic All-American Scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average. Only Scholars selected by a secondary school instructor, counselor, or other qualified sponsor are accepted. These scholars are also eligible for other awards given by the NSEC. These are awarded few students can ever hope to attain.

Michael, who attends Rockcastle County, was nominated for this National Award by Tom Lankey, Football Coach. Michael will appear in the Academic All-American Scholar Directory, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in American history. Certainly, winners of the Academic All-American Awards should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the National Secondary Education Council.

The Council selects Academic All-American Scholars upon the exclusive recommendations of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors. Once awarded, these students may be recognized by the NSEC for other honors.

Michael is the son of James and Brenda Hamilton. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Chestnut of Berea and Charley Hamilton of Berea.

Faye Baker, Tammy Gardner, Juanita and Dougie Medley, and Joyce Rogers recently traveled to Fulmar, Retreat Center in Corapolis, Pennsylvania. There we spent two days and met with a group of church representatives from the Commission on Religion in Appalachia. Our purpose was to present to them our projects and what we're doing in our organization, Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress (LEAP). We feel they were greatly impressed with our progress.

Also while there, we visited an old rail station, known as Old Station Square in Pithsburgh, Pennsylvania, and we had a great time. Anyone that would like to see LEAP and share with us in the

Vote For Wallace Wilkinson Democrat For Governor

"For A Better Future . . . A Better Way"

- Lottery - The first year proceeds from the lottery will be divided between education, senior citizens programs and a one time bonus for Viet Nam Veterans.
- Schools - We need to create a learning environment in our schools and evaluate their improvement every year.
- Gun Control - Wallace Wilkinson is against gun control.
- Prayer in School - Wallace Wilkinson believes that children should be allowed to pray in school.

Wilkinson points out . . .

"Most of our counties are left out in Frankfort. Their jobs are drying up. Small and medium business - the businesses that account for 80% of the new jobs are struggling while our state government chases a few hundred jobs."

"It's time we put excellence back into our schools. We're sending our kids out of the classrooms and put discipline back in them."

"Kentucky can't solve the problems of tomorrow with the people who created them today. It's the same tired old faces, the same tired old solutions, playing the same political tune they've played for the past twenty years."

"We need a Governor who knows how to fight the battles we know that it is like to have to make a payroll because a budget, who knows down and pros. None of the other candidates have any idea how much a bushel of corn or a ton of coal sells for."

"We need jobs in every county in Kentucky. We need regional economic stability."

Wallace Wilkinson is the man that can do this for Kentucky.

"Kentuckians are winners. The people here can do anything, but the leaders have failed them. We can't continue to watch our kids leave for better opportunities. We owe them more than that. On our worst day, we're better than they are on their best."

Mammography: Lifesaving Technology

New Mammography Room

Rockcastle Hospital is proud to announce the addition of a dedicated low-dose breast X-ray to their facility.

Our new and safe Mammography x-ray

Low dose means exactly that. Using only 20% of the amount of some older x-ray units, in combination with a very sensitive, high speed film from Kodak, it produces the finest images ever. The amount of x-ray received by the patient is about half that used on a lower back x-ray. Very safe. Very simple.

How is the Mammography X-Ray program administered?

1. The patient deals directly with Janice Mullins, certified X-Ray Technologist.
2. Janice will talk with you about the procedure, and about breast cancer detection.
3. A doctor's order is not necessary.
4. X-Ray will be read by Dr. W.A. Heinz, Certified Radiologist.
5. A base line study should be made between the ages of 35-40. After 40, the recommendation is every 2 years and after 50 every year.

Citywide zoning next on local council project agenda

By: Ray McClure

A comprehensive plan leading to zoning throughout the city will be drawn up for action by the Mt. Vernon City Council.

The initial steps leading to the zoning plan were approved by the council at its Monday meeting.

Under zoning, areas of the city will be designated for specific development and usage.

The council instructed Mayor Elizabeth Baker to contact Cumberland Valley Area Development District at London for information and guidance.

Zoning only needs council action to be put into effect.

Using other areas where zoning is in effect as an example, a business could not be built or operated in an area zoned residential. Mobile homes are usually allowed only in mobile home parks. There is usually a designated area for heavy and light industry. Some areas are designated for agriculture only. The council did not discuss any specific regulations for Mt. Vernon.

A discussion of zoning came up briefly in the council last year when the council drew up a list of projects that the city should consider. That list also included annexation of three areas around Mt. Vernon, among others.

Mrs. Steven Midkiff asked the council to consider zoning to protect property owners from undesirable developments near their property.

Mrs. Midkiff said her neighbor plans to build an apartment house next door to her on West Main Street near Continental Telephone exchange.

She said an apartment house in that area would cause additional parking problems in the already congested area.

Councilman Tom Welch said zoning has been discussed in the city for years and that the council should start the process as soon as possible.

"Someone could put a hog pen next to your house and you couldn't do a thing about it," Welch said. "I'd say we needed zoning 30 years ago."

Prior to the council meeting, engineers for the city's sewer project reported the most recent date for completion of the sewer plant is July 8, but that Titus Construction, the contractor, probably would not meet that date.

The contractor is now $12,800 behind his contract which is from a $300 a day fee in liquidation damages.

The council was also told the state is now considering requiring sewer plants to de-chlorinate the chlorine that is used in the plant to treat effluent emptying into streams.

If the Mt. Vernon plant should be required to treat the chlorine it would cost the city about $20,000 to install necessary equipment.

The council also received a

Renfro barn scene for Smith sale

The stage of the old barn at Renfro Valley will be the scene May 28-29 for an auction of one of the largest antique collections in the state.

On those days, Ford Realty and Auction Co., will auction over 1,500 antiques collected by Mr. and Mrs. Alpha Smith, former owners and Renfro Valley Lodge and Restaurant.

According to Sammy Ford, about 900 items will be sold on the first day, one item every 40 seconds. Customers from several states have indicated they will attend.

Twenty-four years ago, when Mr. and Mrs. Smith became owners of Renfro Valley Lodge and Restaurant, their first order of business was for a more rustic look.

So they began their search for interesting and suitable tools, glassware and mementos to attach inside and outside the building.

The search went for their appetites for antique collecting that continued until their deaths. At that time the collection was known throughout the state, not only for the tools that decorated the walls, but for the hundreds of other antiques that range from a piano to china.

"My father and mother wanted something for the tourists to look at and admire when they came to Renfro Valley," son Gary Smith recalled recently. "They went to collecting all these things with a lot of interest and care."

When the antique collection is auctioned in the old barn at Renfro Valley, there will be about 1,500 items to choose from.

To name a few, there will be crystal, carnival glass, chests, tables, chairs, pictures, rocking

Cicadas coming, but not here

By: Ray McClure

Those noisy, aggravating, buzzing little bugs that come out of the ground and cover trees every 13 or 17 years are scheduled to pay a visit to Kentucky this summer, but not to Rockcastle, according to Rockcastle Extension Agent Tom Mills.

But, come 1991, Brood 14 of cicadas will probably pay a call on Rockcastle as well as many other counties in Kentucky.

About 76 of the state's 120 counties will hear the cicadas singing their mating song this summer, but unless the wind blows strong enough, which is unlikely, the cicadas will enjoy a green meal somewhere other than Rockcastle.

Folks should be glad to hear that. The little insects can disturb sleep, picnics, church services, or any other kind of outdoor gathering.

But especially trees must bear the chewing cicada, often mistaken for 17-year locusts. However, the two are not related. Locusts are a type of grasshopper.

After 13 or 17 years living off root juices of trees, the cicadas undergo a mating ritual that will guarantee they'll be around to visit again in the year 2000 or 2004.

While living outside the shrill "love call" resounds across the landscape.

The 1987 crop of cicadas termed Brood 10 is the largest of six that appear hereabouts in 13 or 17 years. In 1970, the little wormlike cicadas destroyed 35 acres of apple trees in an orchard in Northern Kentucky.

"It's something you can't believe until you see it," said one

Only GOP voters in mayor race

If you're a Democrat and have a favorite candidate to vote for in the Mt. Vernon mayoral election May 26, forget it.

Only voters living in the city limits and registered Republican can vote in the mayor's race.

According to County Clerk Norma Houk, the city failed to pass a non-partisan election ordinance effective 23 days prior to the candidate filing deadline, therefore the election is partisan and both candidates for mayor are Republicans, incumbent Mayor Elizabeth Baker and Councilman Jackie Renner.

Since no Democrat has filed for mayor, the winner Tuesday is assured of election.

According to Clerk Houk, voting locations for this May 26 Primary Election are as follows:

Firm tells city council natural gas possible soon

A Louisville firm plans to drill four test wells in the immediate vicinity of Mt. Vernon to determine if there is enough natural gas to supply the Rockcastle Industrial Park and the City of Mt. Vernon.

Benny Brewer of Trisway Enterprises of Louisville, a firm in the natural gas business, did not pinpoint where the wells are to be drilled, but presumably west of the city.

He reported one well will be 4000 feet and two others, 2200 feet deep.

He said infrared testing showed a high energy potential for the area, but he could not specify if the energy were natural gas or crude oil. He did estimate area reserves could be as much as 22 billion cubic feet and said that amount is better than Clay County where his firm supplies Manchesters.

If the reserves are there as we think they are, then it would save the factories in your industrial park considerable money, Brewer stated.

He said having natural gas available would also be an incentive for other factories to locate in the local industrial park.

Under the plan and if enough gas is available, the company would bring its lines to the city's gates, where the city would pick up and distribute the gas to customers.

The "gas company" would be

Councilman still in doubt

Selection of a councilman to take the seat held by Les Harris was delayed until a called meeting at 7 p.m. May 19 by the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night.

Harris resigned as of May 1 after he moved outside of the city. The council has until May 30 to choose a councilman or the governor will appoint one.

Councilman Jackie Renner asked that a councilman be named at the Monday meeting. Mayor Elizabeth Baker then asked each councilman to submit three names for the council seat and said she would make a recommendation at the May 19 meeting.

When a vote was taken, all councilmen approved the method of choosing Councilman Renner said there was no use opposing the process, that the council would do it anyway.

The council also voted during the meeting to publish delinquent city taxpayers in the Signal. It was estimated there are about 500

Wildie Rockies 1951' team last in an era of local baseball teams

By: Willie Hiatt

When the Wildie Rockies took the field in their baggy wool uniforms to open the 1951 season, the players never dreamed they were writing the last page of a glorious era.

Not only were the Rockies the county's last adult baseball team, which disbanded the next season when players left for the Korean War, they were the fitting culmination of a rich Wildie tradition.

It wasn't just the day of Yogi Berra, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1951. It was also the heyday of the Tobacco League, a loop formed in 1949 composed of teams from Berea, Richmond, Lexington, College Hill, Ford, Waco, Karienville, Ravenna and Bearsville.

Wildie, an original member of the league, proved in its last three seasons that it could more than hold its own in a perennially strong baseball region.

After struggling to an 11-11 record in 1949, the Rockies captured the regular-season championship and the playoffs with a 24-8 record in 1950. Wildie successfully defended its regular-season title in 1951, the last season of play, but fell to the Central Societies of Richmond in the league playoffs.

Never again would fans crowd behind the chicken-wire backdrop to razz the visiting team, or players relive Sunday's game in their conversations the next week, or boys wear their uniforms to Sunday School when they had to leave church early for an away game.

"The game's not over till it's over," Betra was once quoted as saying. But in Wildie, a game which had survived two World Wars and the Great Depression was over, and with it a colorful chapter in the county's history.

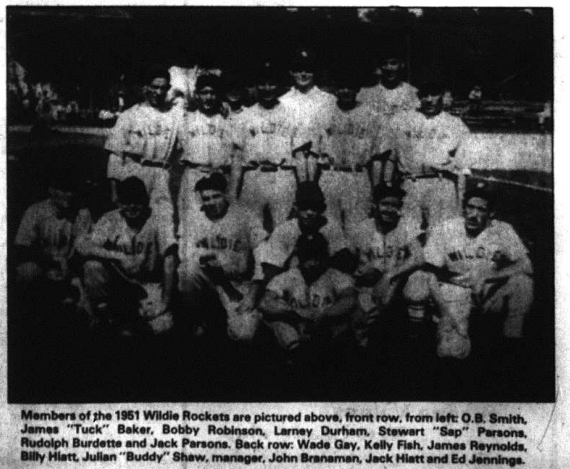

There is no documentation of what Wildieen took the first swing at a baseball, or when Alfred Wood, a Wildie native who made his fortune with Procter & Gamble and in Texas oil, played on the Wildie Kid Team shortly after the turn of the century.

The Kid Team, whose roster was filled with boys around the age of 10, was organized and coached by Mose McNew more than 30 years before Little League baseball began. The team sported uniforms and played in front of the old Wildie depot.

Wood, 91, recalls trying to show off his pitching prowess when a passenger train came through Wildie, only to have the better knock his pitch for a home run.

"We tried to put on a good show," said Wood, who was P & G's division manager for the Southwest section of the United

Railroad Commissioner candidate has unusual idea

Of all the candidates running for political office in May 26, 1987 primary election the most unusual campaign is being conducted by J.E. Combs of Hazard, who is a candidate for railroad commissioner in the 3rd District which consists of 44 counties located mostly in Eastern and Northern Kentucky. J.E. Combs' platform is to abolish the Office of Railroad Commissioner. According to Combs the Office of Railroad Commissioner is outdated. The Office was created by the 1896 Constitution to help curb the power of the railroads; but, according to Combs, federal regulations of railroads has now made the office obsolete. Now although the Office of Railroad Commissioner has no duties or power, the salaries and expenses of Kentucky's three member Railroad Commission is approximately $100,000 per year. This money, according to J.E. Combs could be spent on our school systems and roads. To abolish the Office of Railroad Commissioner, the voters would have to pass a Constitutional Amendment to the State.

orchard owner who entertained them in 1970. "It looks like a big sheet of something or other descending into an orchard."

The adult cicadas do not eat during their short journey that usually takes place in late summer.

The female adult cicada borrows into a tree branch and lays eggs. The cuts weaken the branches and causes them to break or bend.

"They can do real damage," said Rudy Scheibner, an entomologist at the University of Kentucky. "It looks like someone took a stick and went around beating the trees."

The damage doesn't stop with the death of the egg-laying female. When the eggs hatch, the nymphs drop to the ground and burrow into the soil where they grab on to the tree roots and drink the tree juices. Sometimes it reduces fruit production.

The insects don't travel very far during their life in the open.

They prefer to inhabit the same area for many generations. They especially like oak, hickory, apple, pear, peach and grape vines. In some cases where there are annual blackberry or raspberry growth, the cicadas will feed on those roots.

"They're unusual little critters," said one farmer who had felt their wrath. "It seemed like the more we tried to control them, the worse they got. They finally just disappeared."

Cicadas can be stopped from laying eggs on trees by tying potato and onion sacks around the base of the trees, or covering the trees in mesh. Farmers who have many acres of fruit trees can use insecticide for control.

Entomologists say Kentucky can expect three more major outbreaks before the century is over. Brood 23 will appear in Lincoln County in 1990 and in about 30 counties in 1989. In 1991, at noted, they will be in almost all Kentucky counties.

to the sale area, on property of Philbeck and his wife, Alta, some items that had been advertised for sale were missing.

Venters ruled Friday that Philbeck was in contempt of court for preventing the sale of a wrecker and a horse drawn wagon, and for closing out a bank account that was half his and half his former wife.

The judge ruled that Philbeck should pay his wife $2,500 for preventing the sale of the wrecker, $300 for the horse drawn wagon, $950 for closing out the bank account and $800 for her attorney fees.

He was released from jail Sunday, and has 60 days in which to pay the fines.

The last two of seven indictments returned by the Rockcastle County Grand Jury last month were served on Phyllis Anne Beeher of London and James Saylor of Berea.

Saylor, 25, was indicted on three counts stemming from a March 10, encounter with state police.

Police arrested Saylor after they searched his 1985 Renault and found three bags of marijuana, less than 8 ounces, and a substance on a mirror believed to be cocaine.

Saylor was indicted for possession of marijuana, possession of cocaine and driving under the influence.

city owned. With a possible 500 households using 3 million cubic feet a month, the city could realize about $32,000 a month.

However, the city would be required to install the distribution lines throughout the city. Brewer did not estimate the cost of installation of lines, but said some financing could be obtained.

Natural gas for the area has been before the council on at least two occasions in recent years but got nowhere, primarily because the council did not pursue the matter.

After Brewer left, it was learned that a second natural gas company might visit the area soon. That company is based in Cincinnati, Ohio, it was revealed.

Smith said the largest item is probably the piano, and the smallest, crystal salt cells. Incidentally, salt cells came before salt shakers.

In recent months, Smith has sold the lodge and now has no available space to display the antiques.

"We'll keep a few for the den in our house, but that's all," Smith related. "We didn't want to give them up because my parents collected them, but we can't keep them all."

Rise & Shine Homemakers news...

By Regina McGuire
The Homemakers Rise & Shine Club gathered Tuesday for their May meeting at Beale St. Clair's. The co-hostesses were Alta Bullock and Irene Bahar.
After the reading of the minutes, old and new business was discussed. Our yard sale and the quilt we raffled off was a decided success for our club.
We then took action planning our trip in June to the Derby theatre in Clarksville, Indiana. Lil'

Abrast will be showing and the club members tickets will be purchased by the club.

Cheryl Witt conducted an informative study concerning dressing to compliment your figure. We were shown slides as visual aids.

Everyone enjoyed Cheryl's slides and the fellowship continued as we enjoyed a sumptuous potluck dinner.

New members are encouraged.

Jerry D. Ham - Benny Ham

I have observed my brother, Benny Ham, as he has worked hard and made the bold decisions on the criminal cases that have come before him as your Commonwealth Attorney the last 5 1/2 years and as Asst. Commonwealth Attorney to Congressman Harold Rogers for two years.

My family, wife Dorothy, son Jeff and daughter Paula, have been reared in Rockcastle County and I ask each of our friends to help my brother, Benny Ham, in his campaign for re-election as he is the only candidate born and raised in either of the two counties.

He has the experience and has performed the job faithfully.

Benny Ham has always treated each case on its own merit and given each case individual attention and will continue to do so as your Commonwealth Attorney. A man you can talk to.

Many young ladies turned out for the Wildie Rocketts' baseball games during the 49-50 and 51 season. Some of the ladies are pictured above. In no certain order: Lucille Burdette Owens and her daughter, Beverly, Helen Shelton Robinson, Myrtle Burdette Smith, Lavena Coffey Powell, Jerri Mullins Shaw, Lois Reynolds Albright, Nancy Mullins Smith, Trina Burdette Reinhart, Libby Carter McNew, Betty Hiatt Shelton, Ione Carter Parsons and son, Roger, and Jean Hiatt Murphy.

Stewart "Sap" Parsons rips a single on opening day in 1961.

Julian "Buddy" Shaw was the catalyst behind the 1950-51 team.

"Wildie Rocketts"

States, now living in Dallas. Bill Stewart, who was born in 1899 and boasts of being the fourth-oldest person in Wildie played on the Kid Team with Wood. He remembers "pig-tailing" for lost baseballs as a boy, when players traveled to games on horseback, trains and wagons.

While Stewart's memory of early Wildie baseball is a bit cloudy, he and his contemporaries are very clear about Albert Reynolds. The late John French went to his grave showing off his swollen fingers - a result he claimed, of catching Reynolds' heated fast ball. French, who said that Reynolds could "bury it in a haystack" would signal every pitch in Reynolds' repertoire but his fastball.

Some believe Reynolds could have played in the majors, had he not died of tuberculosis in 1912 at the age of 22.

His name would have been in the books, buddy, if he had kept his health," said Albert's brother, "Walk" Reynolds.

No one seems to understand who baseball was so popular in Wildie, why it was traditional for boys to toss to each other in front of the depot. It was just something that became synonymous with Wildie.

You'd go into Wildie and there would be somebody out there pitching a ball," said Stewart, 87. "Oh, it just seemed like everybody liked it."

Wrote John Lair in the Oct. 10, 1974 Signal: "Both Mt. Vernon and Brodhead always managed to have a good team, with Wildie the other member of the triumvirate rather than Livingston. In fact, little Wildie, especially during the time of the Phillips and Fish boys, often kept the teams from the two bigger communities pretty much on the run."

Apparently Wildie baseball was faddish in for a few years, out for a few more. But during these highs and lows, the game evolved into a more sophisticated pastime. The teams in the 1920s played a schedule which included teams from Mt. Vernon, Burr, Ottawa and Brodhead.

"Nobody had jobs or anything," said Walter McNew, Mose McNew's grandson, who played before and after World War II. "Everything was at a standstill, and there was nothing to do. Back then nobody went any place, (unless they went) to Mt. Vernon on a Saturday night, maybe to see a movie or get a bag of popcorn or Cracker Jacks or something."

"That was the central thing in Wildie, the church and the ball team," said James Reynolds, who acted as manager and driver for the teams in the late '40s. "There wasn't much else to do."

Maybe there was something more romantic about Wildie baseball than boys simply having nothing else to do. Maybe people living from meal to meal during the Depression found a sort of stability, or at least an outlet, in an unchangeable game.

The game, nonetheless, thrived in the absence of other forms of entertainment. But even though teams in the '30s were the best that had played in Wildie, the game still had room for refinement.

When a foul ball landed in the branch behind home plate, it was usually rubbed off and put back into play, waterlogged or not, while Claude Ford took up a collection for a new one. Limping in those days was probably as lopsided as some of the balls. Before protective equipment, plate umpires called balls and strikes behind the pitcher's mound.

Once when a player hit a home run off of Walter McNew, Bill Jones, a Wildie doctor, whispered to him, "Call that ball back to first. Call that ball back to first."

When McNew appealed to first Jones called the runner out for missing the bag.

Wildie baseball before World War II, however, unquestionably set the stage for the game in the late '40s.

The 1949 team struggled under a lack of direction. With no designated manager filling out the lineup card, the Rockies lost six straight games at one point that season, including forfeiting a double header to a new entry from Lexington.

That season drove, part of the team around all the way to Berea in Wayne Stewart's jeep before deciding to turn back.

Julian Shaw, John Branaman, Wayne Stewart and O.B. Smith worked hard to build the bleachers at the Wildie field.

"We were just fearful of getting beat, I guess," said Billy Hiatt, a shortstop on the team.

The Rockies finished fourth that season, but it wasn't until 1960, when Julian "Buddy" Shaw took over as manager, that Wildie became a league contender.

Shaw, then a teacher at Kingston High School, had married Jerry Mullins, a Wildie girl, in 1947. He became friends with Hiatt and other members of the Rockies during his visits to Wildie. Shaw had played baseball in high school and later on a service team in Manila, but he contributed more to the Rockies in organizational ability than base ball savvy. Working closely with Hiatt, Shaw arranged practices and road trips and served as the team's representative with the league.

(Wildie) needed a little catalyst to bring them together," said Shaw, a retired assistant superintendent of Polk County Schools in Florida. "Fortunately, I was able to spend full time at doing that."

While earlier ballfields were located at distant sites up and down the Wildie bottom land, the Rockies played in W.L. Hiatt's cow pasture across the railroad from the present location of the Wildie Christian Church.

The late Red Gutierrez was in charge of admission -- 25 cents for adults, 15 cents for children -- dropping the money into a cigar box at a gate leading to the diamond. Several hundred people turned out for the games, and the Mt. Vernon High School band played on opening day the last two seasons.

"I tell you, those were exciting times," said Ione Parsons, whose husband, Jack, played before and after the war. "You haven't lived until you've lived through a (Wildie) baseball game."

Mrs. Parsons remembers the time she had her face pressed up against the backstop and was hit in the nose with a ball. How old was she then? "Old enough to know better," she said.

The Wildieans in the Rockies' starting lineup were three base men Stewart "Sap" Parsons, catcher Kelly Fish, first baseman John Branaman, shortstop Billy Hiatt and pitchers George Robinson and Walter McNew.

The other starters drawn from surrounding areas, included center fielder Larry Durham of Mt. Vernon, right fielder O.B. Smith, originally from Mt. Vernon then living in Lexington, second baseman Ed Jennings and pitcher Wade Gay of Berea, and left fielder Rudolph Burdette of Rentro Valley.

The rest of the roster was fleshed out by Jack Parsons, William Henry Branaman, Wayne Stewart and Jack Hiatt of Wildie, James "Tuck" Baker and Paul Cummins of Mt. Vernon, and Pat Wilson of Berea.

Led by John Branaman's .403 average, the Rockies' team batting average was .340 in 1950. The team averaged 7.5 runs per game and only gave up 3.3 runs a game to its opponents.

The Rockies captured the 1950 Tobacco League Championship on a play made famous by Mickey Owens, the catcher who once dropped a third strike and then threw away the ball, and a league reunion near EKU's campus, and Wildie reportedly had the largest number of players present.

Three of the players from the 1951 team -- Fish, Dugham and William Henry Brannan -- are no longer living.

Since that last game against Central, the Wildie valley hasn't heard the crack of the bat or the roar of the crowd. The field where the Rockies played is now just a cow pasture, devoid of any hint that baseball was once played there.

But it was, just ask the living members of the Wildie Kid Team and the 1951 Rockies, the beginning and end of a tradition.

Mt. Vernon High School band members: Bobby Lay, Barbara Helton Hiett, Carol Jean Purcell Middle, Jack Lyons, Sue Lyons and Evelyn Hiett Dewell played during opening day ceremonies of the 1981 season.

Mt. Vernon city council recreation committee members Bill Doan, John Hedge and William "Red" Swinney were busy Monday night erecting the "Small Town Hospitality" signs recently purchased by Hiett and individual donations. The three placed signs on U.S. 25 north and south and Hwy. 150. In the picture are, from left: Mr. Doan, Mr. Hedge and Andy Hedge.

ultimately the World Series, at first base.

Leading Central by a game in the best-of-three series, Wildie trailed 3-1 going into the bottom of the ninth inning. With two outs, Durham singled in Sap Parsons to close the gap to 3-2.

On a play that should have ended the game and forced a third meeting, Brannan went down swinging, but the Central catcher dropped the third strike. The throw got by the first baseman and Durham scooted home with the tying run.

The Rockies went on to win the game in the bottom of the 10th inning.

"We had played better games," said Hiett, "but that would have been the one we remembered because it was in the playoffs and we won it."

Wildie repeated as the regular season champion in 1951, but Central avenged the earlier loss by knocking the Rockies out of the playoffs.

That fall, Shaw had already accepted a position in Florida, the pitcher-catcher combination of Fish and Robinson left Wildie for the Korean War, and Burdette went to veterinarian school at Auburn University. The team never reorganized.

Play continued in the Tobacco League in 1952, but it eventually folded in 1953. In 1970, there was

Brodhead school takes fight against drugs to streets, Friday

The first annual walk against drugs was held last Friday afternoon by the student body at Brodhead Elementary School.

Many parents joined their children in the "Just Say No" activities. The parade was led by a police cruiser, two fire engines and principal Tom Payne in William Bentley's antique truck. The School's Special Olympics team were the first walking unit and carried the "Just Say No" banner.

Following the athletes were the cheerleaders who led the group in chanting "Just Say No" throughout the parade route.

Each class had created banners and most of the student body plus faculty and parents wore their tee-shirts with the official "Just Say No" logo. Many area residents and local business people lined the parade route to show their support of the school's efforts.

Once downtown, the group assembled on the parking lot adjacent to Citizens Bank for a short rally. Mrs. Sue Hamm, chairman of the school's guidance committee introduced speakers and thanked parents, teachers and businesses for their support throughout the year.

Guest speakers were Dr. Charles Hedrick who serves on the Governor's drug council, Judge Dan Veners, and Don Girdler, Somerset. Girdler serves on the staff of U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers.

Those in attendance were reminded by Hedrick that 1 in every 3 students in public schools have tried drugs so it is not something the public can ignore. Veners told the students they were to be commended for their efforts and their lives would be richer if they remembered to say "no" to drugs and alcohol. Girdler expressed his admiration to the student body for the tremendous turnout and the fact they were not reluctant to face the problem and that they were receiving support from teachers, parents and the community.

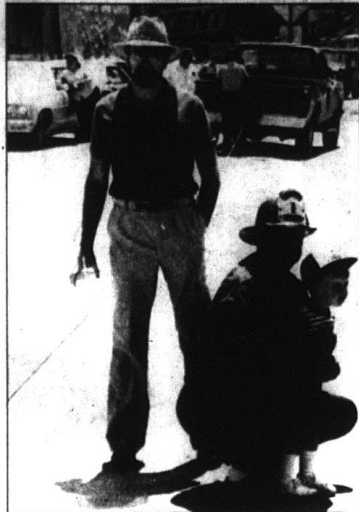

He mentioned Somerset will be holding a similar rally May 16, but stated it would be hard to top Brodhead's enthusiasm.

Other activities included the official presentation of the school's "Just Say No" flag to Payne and the entire group reciting the "Just Say No" pledge led by Ms. Molly Hamm. Mrs. Burton's sixth grade presented a special song for the occasion and the cheerleaders did a cheer to culminate the activities.

On Thursday the students were urged to wear red to signify putting a stop to the abuse of drugs. During the week four students served as principal for one hour each. This was the prize for designing the best poster for the event.

Those holding the office were Jamaica Bradshaw - primary level, Jon Eric Martin - intermediate, Stephanie Pope - junior high and Thomas Shafer - resource room.

Shafer stated the most fun was "just getting out of class". Pope took her job more seriously, however. "I replaced some of the Rare lamp brings $1,850 at auction

This rare lamp was sold at public auction Saturday, May 2 at Pittsburg, Ky. The lamp was a Pairpoint lamp patented July 9, 1887. It was sold for $1,850 to Ed Malakoff of River Edge, N.J. Malakoff said this brought his collection to over 100 of fine lamps. Malakoff flew from New Jersey to the auction specifically to buy the lamp. The previous owners of the lamp were Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Adams of Pittsburg.

Mrs. Adams has collected and dealt in antiques for over 20 years and she said this was the first Pairpoint lamp she had seen. She purchased the lamp out of some-thing smokehouse a few years ago for $1250.

This was one of the highlights of the auction conducted for Mr. and Mrs. Adams which lasted for over 10 hours of non-stop selling. There was a total of over 1000 items sold. The auction was conducted by the Ford/Klooby & Auction Company of Mt. Vernon and Somerset.

Kentucky Housing Corp. offering low-interest loans

Homebuyers stunned by the recent steep climb in interest rates may have a reprieve from the Kentucky Housing Corporation (KHC).

KHC announced Friday that it will make available approximately $60 million dollars to KHC qualified homebuyers.

The money has some very attractive features, according to L. Lynn Eason, executive director of KHC. First, the rate is a 7.8 percent which is very attractive in light of what is happening in the market. Second, the loans are fixed rate for twenty five years and lenders can charge only 1 percent for originating the loans.

Eason added that 740 homes could be financed with the available funds.

KHC financing is available through local participating lenders for homebuyers whose annual income does not exceed KHC guidelines.

Maximum income limits are as follows: One person - $25,000; Married couple - $26,500; Person couple with one child - $28,000; Person couple with two children - $29,500; Person couple with three children - $31,000.

An additional $2,500 can be added to the income for households purchasing in the following Eastern Kentucky counties: Boone, Breathitt, Carter, Clay, Clinton, Cumberland, Elliott, Floyd, Floyd, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Lawrence, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Magoffin, Martin, McCreary, Menifee, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Pike, Powell, Put-land, Rockcastle, Warren, Whitley and Wolfe.

Interested homebuyers can call the toll-free Home Line 1-800-633-8886 for more information.

Agnew works on display at Bank of Mt. Vernon

Beginning this week the paintings of John Agnew are on exhibit at the Bank of Mt. Vernon. Mr. Agnew comes to Rockcastle County after extensive experience with various museums and zoos in the eastern United States. He is a self-described naturalist, becoming interested in this area due to his hobby of speleology, or exploring and studying caves. He and his wife, Patricia, purchased and built his studio. It is a "really beautiful place, which is the main reason we came. It's a great place for me to work because of the inspiration in my backyard."

It is no surprise that Mr. Agnew became an artist, since both his parents are artists. With a college background in not only painting, but biology, geology, paleontology, and archeology as well, he began his career as a curator at the actor's museum in Pasadena, Calif. He had search of Mayan Ruins. These travels are reflected in some of his current works.

His project with the Cincinnati Zoo was a series of 17 murals for the zoo's multi-million dollar house for the Big Coia. It provides an artificial environment for live cats reproduced to look like their native habitat. This project was done in collaboration with his mother. Mr. Agnew has also done work for the St. Louis Zoo and has two murals in the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia depicting dinosaurs in their natural habitat.

His current project is with the new Cincinnati Museum of natural history. He will design his 8000 square foot artificial cave which will be complete with waterfalls, underground streams, stalagmites and even live bats. Mr. Agnew will act as consultant to the actual construction of this three year project. He has the distinction of being among only about a dozen in America that can design and work. He was chosen for his experience in exhibit design and because he is a "caver".

Until this begins Mr. Agnew is busy painting. He uses acrylics mainly, because of the convenience it affords. He does some drawing and sculpting as well.

In terms of his subject matter, Mr. Agnew says, "I'm very much the scientist in the sense that my work is very liberal, very exact and realistic, and that's how I like to portray things." He is described by Sandy Speagle, close friend and colleague as "Outstanding."

Among the 3 or 4 best in this particular type of work. He is invited to view samples of his work in the lobby of the Bank of Mt. Vernon. Several acrylic paintings are displayed as well as some very precisely detailed shell drawings. Among the paintings is a particularly lovely Rockcastle River scene and some of his Maian-inspired paintings too. A reception in Mr. Agnew's honor will be held Thursday, May 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Bank of Mt. Vernon. The exhibit and reception is sponsored by the Rockcastle Council For the Arts and The Bank of Mt. Vernon.

A Record of Proven Progress

In his two terms as county judge/executive, Paul Patton has made a measurable difference in the lives of the people he serves. Among his accomplishments as chief administrator of the geographically largest, and perhaps most complex, Kentucky county are:

- developing the state's most comprehensive rural solid waste program,
- improving the condition of roads and bridges, nearly doubling the miles of blacktopped roads;
- expanding the senior citizens meals program by 100 percent;
- increasing the county's fire protection facilities more than twofold;
- reducing administrative costs by 47 percent while raising employee hourly wages and
- increasing public water supplies to rural residents by 500 percent.

That's what we mean when we say Paul Patton has a record of proven progress!

SORGHUM GROWERS WANT TO MAKE MORE OF A GOOD THING

A growing number of small farmers in Kentucky are expected to expand production this year of a lesser known, but very profitable crop. The crop is sweet sorghum which is used for syrup production. Kentucky is the top producer of sorghum in the United States, according to Dr. Morris Bitzer, an Extension specialist in grain crops at the University of Kentucky.

Most of the syrup is processed and sold directly off the farm. Each year, many producers indicate they could sell two or three times as much as they are able to produce. Many have expressed an interest in expanding their production, estimated at 1,200 acres in the state. That's an understandable interest since this enterprise has the potential of returning more than $1,500 net per acre.

Those planning to produce sweet sorghum for syrup this year should consider several recommendations as they get ready for planting. The No. 1 consideration should be selection of the proper variety. According to the specialist, Dale is the best adapted variety. Developed and released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture research facility at Meridian, Miss. Dale has been used for nine years in Kentucky. The variety produces excellent quality syrup and it has a yield potential of more than 200 gallons per acre. It has been tested several years at UK's Robinson Substation Quick sand.

Soil selection and preparation are another top concern for sorghum growers. Select a sandy loam soil that is well drained but had a good moisture holding capacity. Don't plant on soils with extremely high fertility or on soils high in organic matter. Optimum planting time is May 1-15 when soils are thoroughly warm. Break and thoroughly disc the soil as soon as possible so that all plant residue will decay before planting time. Delayed planting may result in plants not reaching maturity before the first killing frost.

Planting rate is another important consideration. The planter should be calibrated to drop 3-4 seeds per foot of row. Initial stands may appear very thin on the land, but an ideal stand looks thin when plants are small. An ideal stand will have 20-25 plants uniformly distributed on each 10 foot area.

Good weed control is essential for a productive profitable sorghum crop, and cultivation provides the best control. The crop should be cultivated when plants are 3-4 inches tall and 6-8 inches tall. A cultivation when plants are 12-15 inches tall should include a riddging to soil up against the plant. For chemical weed use, paraquat sold as Milogard 80W, applied at two pounds per acre on a broadcast basis.

The basic fertilization recommendation on a soil that has a medium fertility level is to supply approximately 40 pounds of nitrogen, 40 pounds of phosphate and 40 pounds of potash or 400 pounds of a 10-10-10 fertilizer. Sandy soils will require slightly more fertilizer and heavy soils may require less. Heavy application of manure just before planting should be avoided as a poor quality of syrup may be produced.

Anyone interested in growing sorghum should make arrangements for processing before planting the crop. With used mills being hard to find, most mill owners have a backlog of producers waiting to get their crop processed. For those who wish out the processing details, and need seeds, contact the Extension Office for a list of certified seeds.

LIGHT AND EASY MICROWAVING

Spring arrives and our thoughts turn to losing weight and getting in shape for the warm weather and outdoor activities ahead. Rather than going on a "starvation diet" to shed pounds, why not strive to healthfully modify eating habits by planning menus featuring lighter foods.

Light foods are a phenomena of the 80's. Television advertisements promote them. Many restaurants specialize in serving them. And, we find an abundance of lower calorie products on the shelves and in freezer cases at the supermarket. Often, these products are helpful, but it's also possible, and in fact, very easy to create your own lean and tasty cuisine at home where you have control over the ingredients. Commercially-prepared products, for instance, can be quite high in sodium even though calories are reduced.

We suggest you begin by trying the recipes here. If you like this lighter type of food, then take your own favorite recipes and try cutting down on sugar and fat. Replace extra salt with herbs and spices. Remove skin from poultry and trim excess fat from meat. Substitute low-fat milk, cheese, butter and cream for higher-calorie counterparts. Incorporate fruits and vegetables into recipes and meals whenever possible. Lighten heavy sauces and dressings by reducing eggs, cream and oil. You'll be surprised at how flavorful foods remain even with minor changes that are so beneficial to your health. You and your family won't feel as though you're being deprived of a thing!
