Thought For The Day
If you are a friend to your neighbor, tell him so don't wait until he is gone, then send a rose. For then it's too late for him to know.

His eyes are closed, he cannot hear, his ears are deaf, he cannot hear, the words are only heard by those alive.

Don't wait too late to give your flowers. A kind smile is worth more than all the flowers you give after he is gone.

"Fiscal Court"

The court voted to support the formation of a public transportation system for the county.

Shirley Cummins, who is active in the Senior Citizens program, told the court the program will be expanded to allow all citizens to use the transportation system.

She related the system would be available to persons in all areas of the county, not just the towns. She said a charge would be made for those who ride, but that it would be "small," with the fee to be set by the board of directors. She stressed that all persons could ride the vehicles, not just senior citizens.

The transportation system would not cost the county. The court voted to hire Delmas Bullock to work in the county road department at "whatever fee to be done."

"Money set aside for school"

only $287,000 in their general fund. It cost them to. School systems that got in on the first round of funding by the state got 45 percent of their schools paid for by the state.

Cummins presented a chart to the board which showed the school system with an excess balance on June 30 of this year of $876,127 in the general fund. Cummins explained that to participate in the state's building program the board must commit their excess money, minus 10 percent of the general fund.

Last year the school board had over a $5 million budget. "The state says you must keep 10 percent of that to show you don't put yourself in a financial bind," Cummins told the board.

The excess, after the 10 percent was $372,768. The board then must commit all of the capitol outlay money they have on hand at the present time. That is money sent from the state each year to be used on buildings and grounds. The school system uses a large amount of that money to pay on the bonds for the new high school. It is scheduled to be paid off in 1995. Capitol outlay money is also used for repairs throughout the system as well as any additions to schools.

A total of $155,000 is left in the capitol outlay fund at the present time. But since the school was supposed to have their account for the new school opened by July 1 of this year they must pay interest on both the capitol outlay money and the general fund money. That amounts to $3,432. State officials told Towery and Cummins that if they act now they can still participate in the building program.

Cummins also explained to the board that the new tax increase last year generated $158,375 for the local system. Cummins said that the state will allow the local system to put that money into an escrow capitol outlay fund to be used on one-time expenses this year. What is left of that must go into the special funding fund.

And each year after the systems begins to participate in the school facilities construction program the new tax money, which next year will be about $163,000, will have to go into the account.

The finance officer said that the state must approve any money spent from the new tax money this year and it can only be a one-time expense. "Nothing recurring such as a teacher's salary," he said.

"By doing all of this tonight you realize we are committing ourselves," Board Chairman George Poynter said. "But it is something that this community wants and we need to do," he said.

Cummins told the board that by committing themselves to the state program they would have to practice good management in spending their money. After opening the building escrow account Wednesday the board went from having a balance of almost $900,000 to a balance of $342,561 in the general fund.

"The state recommends, that we have a $450,000 balance in our budget, so you see we are going to be short about $107,000," Cummins said. "But with good management I don't think it will pose any problem for us," he reiterated.

Architects on the project, Johnson-Romaniwitz from Lexington have done some preliminary work on the school and now say it will cost over $4 million to build the 68,400 square foot facility.

Indications before were that the project would cost approximately $3.5 million.

Man drowns Monday

Escaping the heat resulted in the drowning of a Berea man late Monday afternoon near Wildie. Dwight Douglas Long, 23, of Rt. 4, Berea, went swimming with several others in Clear Creek, at a popular swimming hole.

According to Coroner Bill Dowell, Long reportedly dived or jumped into the shallow stream. When he stood up, witnesses said he looked strange. When they went to help him, he shook them off and fell back into the muddy water.

Dowell said that an autopsy Tuesday revealed that Long died from a broken neck which led to his drowning. Dowell said that Long probably would not have lived even if he had not fallen back into the water.

Rockcastle County Ambulance Service personnel recovered Long's body and he was pronounced dead at the Rockcastle County Hospital.

It was the first drowning in the county in over two years.

Services for Long will be conducted at the Crestview Holy Sanctuary in Berea, Thursday morning.

Elderly couple robbery victims

Two men are still at large following a theft of money from an elderly Pine Hill couple Monday.

According to Kentucky State Police at London, two white men went to the home of Bill and Julie Taylor at about 6 p.m. trying to sell the couple some rugs.

"Apparently the couple weren't interested in the rugs and the two men asked if they could use the bathroom," a State Police dispatcher said.

While one of the men was using the bathroom the other man found Mrs. Taylor's purse and took an undisclosed amount of money from it, according to the dispatcher.

The dispatcher would not say how much money was taken, but indications are that about $1,700 was taken by the two men.

The Taylors did not realize the money was missing until about 30 minutes after the two men left. State Trooper Jimmy Silvers is investigating the case.

Half million set aside for school

By: Richard Anderkin

The Rockcastle County Board of Education took a major step Tuesday night toward the building of a new Mt. Vernon Elementary School.

At the recommendation of Superintendent Bige Towery and finance officer, Garlan Cummins, the board voted unanimously to transfer over a half-million dollars into a building fund escrow account for the new school.

Towery and Cummins explained to the board that they must do several things, including the transfer before they can participate in the state's school facilities construction fund.

The superintendent and finance officer told board members that they had met with state officials for several hours concerning a new school and that the state was very optimistic about the school system's chances for a new building.

"You soon realize that something has got to be done over there,"

Bob Spillman, the director of the school facilities construction commission told Towery and Cummins not to expect anymore than 20 percent state money for the project.

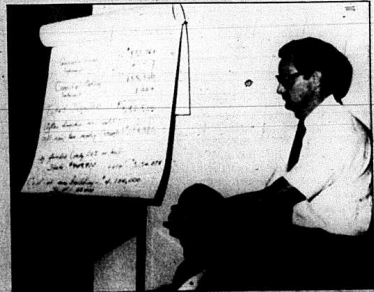

"We may not get anything from the state, but we shouldn't just throw our hands up in the air. With the right management and consultation with experts about this matter, I think we can do it," Cummins told the board. "Too many districts have been very patient with the board while all the other work was going on at the other schools and I think this is something we can and need to do."

Superintendent Towery told the board that even if the building of the school came to a phase program something had to be done at the present school.

"Working with the principals at the school this summer for staffing purposes and so on, you soon realize that something has got to be done over there," Towery said.

When Governor Collins introduced the building program two years ago the local school was not financially able to participate. They had a balance of Local school finance officer Garlan Cummins presented the Rockcastle Board of Education with a graph showing their financial situation, Tuesday night.

Opinions

Reader thinks rates too high

Dear Editor,
 Your subscription price is really high for those of us who live away from the county and are not interested in all those advertisements, which I know mean a lot to you but nothing to us. I wish you would please find someone to write the Personal News in Mt. Vernon who knows the people and could make it more interesting like it used to be when other people owned the Signal.

Being born and brought up in Rockcastle and having relatives in Mt. Vernon and all over the county, I am interested in the personal news from all sections.

Yours truly,

Don't forget other projects

Dear Editor,
 Thank you all so much for your page of "pleasant memories" in last week's issue. Perhaps you would be able to do another such page using scenes from other plays, so many local people have been involved over the past five years.

Certainly not to be forgotten or omitted was the Arts Council's first endeavor, "Bye Bye" directed by Brian Holman in the summer of '83; audience and cast alike almost melted in the Red Barn! Allen Pensol joined the county effort the following year, directing "Once Upon A Mattress" with what seemed like "a cast of thousands" at the time.

In addition to the fall Dinner Theatres, there has been a spring Children's Theatre the past three years; namely, "Hairy-Man", "Arkansaw Bear" (sic), and "Rumpelstiltskin."

The vast array of people who have contributed to and supported the council's productions through these years should be proud of their participation in a community effort we can all be proud of!

Sincerely,
 Norma Eversole

Want a bridge built across river

Dear Editor,
 The concerned citizens of Livingston are interested in getting a bridge built across Rockcastle River to the Wildcat Mountain area.

The bridge would be helpful in the expansion of Livingston. It would be safer for children going to school, more land would be available for housing and it would save lives. It would also give us better access to the cemetery.

If you have relatives or friends buried in the cemetery, or if you are interested in the project, please write to Tammy Gardner, P.O. Box 246, Livingston, Ky. 40445.

Ready to help local council

Dear Editor:
 Last night our area was entertained again by a play presented by the Rockcastle Council for the Arts under the direction of Allen Pensol. To be willing to present a classical musical play such as "Oliver" involving a cast and crew of about thirty people is an ambitious undertaking for any theater, but it was especially thrilling to see this production in our own community. Opening night is such a thrill and a treat for those of us who are avid followers that we never consider waiting until the second or third performance. In fact, we had been anticipating this performance since the first announcement was made that the theater company had begun to practice a new play. It is a gift to sit in the audience and feel the childlike innocence of Nicole Larkey, a charming eight-year-old girl, who sings every note perfectly, proclaiming that she is indeed Oliver; to allow David Phillips to show us the dark side of Fagin and then his light side and realize that he has revealed both extremes of his character in a humorous way and to have Lewis Tagliaboschi let us feel the dimension of his acting ability by portraying Bill Sikes with such seriousness and intensity that we forget many brilliant comedy roles that he has shared with us before. It is a real joy to experience the superb performances of veterans, Norma Eversole, Carol Kirby and Patti Feawery as well as those of newcomers, Perlina Anderkin, Arleta Norton, Chuck Mink and Bob Bailey. The only complaint for these people who have sacrificed many hours of their summer to practice is their fulfillment from stretching their imaginations to the limit so that they can live inside their characters and feel their emotions and send those same emotions back to us.

For five years, we have been privileged to have the directing genius of Allen Pensol in our area. Our appreciation of his efforts and those of the Arts Council can only be shown by our attendance at each new production. Our lack of participation can only be construed as indifference and rejection of those efforts and because we have taken them for granted, this quality family entertainment could become just another thing of the past. The people of our community should realize how fortunate we are and make every effort to support the Rockcastle Council for the Arts. You can be sure that my family and I will be there.

Thanks to the people attending

Dear Editor,
 The Rockcastle Council for the Arts would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who attended the performances of "Oliver". A special "thank you" goes to the people from Laurel and Madison County for their continued support.

We also would like to express our sincere appreciation for the extraordinary assistance and cooperation from Mr. Ronnie Cash, principal of RCHS, and Mr. Charles "Tuck" Baker, assistant principal, the RCHS staff and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Anderkin.

Last but not least our heartfelt thanks to the cast and all the people who worked so diligently behind the curtains, and who made it all possible and a success.

U.S. SENATOR FOR KENTUCKY

Mitch McConnell

S. 2 AND CAMPAIGN FINANCE REFORM

These days, a lot of people are complaining about the "high cost of campaigns"—especially politicians who have to raise the money. The Kentucky press is calling the amount of spending in our recent gubernatorial primaries a "scandal", and there are efforts underway in Congress to restrict individual contributions and shift the cost of campaigns onto the taxpayers.

All of this grumbling misses the point behind our system of campaign financing through limited, disclosed, individual contributions: to provide an opportunity for citizens to get involved in politics, register their views, and help pay the costs of political discussion and activity.

What happened in Kentucky this year? In the Democratic primary, citizens gave more because they cared more, about good candidates and important issues. What they gave enabled the candidates to spend $8.50 on every registered Democrat in the Commonwealth. While not all of this was wisely spent, most of it was aimed at stimulating and educating the voters. As a result, 45% of all registered Democrats went to the polls. By comparison, the Republicans spent about 13 cents per voter, and primary turnout was a low 16%.

Unfortunately, our current system gives special interests and wealthy candidates too big an advantage in campaign financing. That's why I introduced legislation to prohibit special interest contributions to candidates, crack down on other special interest political spending, and stop wealthy candidates from literally buying political office. These measures would return elections to the people, through their volunteer time, votes, and small, individual contributions.

But Kentucky and the country should be wary about proposals to curb overall spending, at the expense of individual contributions and participation. One bill in the Senate, S. 2, would hand taxpayer-financed subsidies to politicians and slash an individual's right to contribute. This is what we used to call taxation without representation.

It's also a threat to our freedom because real democracy relies on citizens being active and involved in politics. Today, our leaders are elected by one fourth of the nation's eligible voters.

In 1900, the legal age for marriage in nearly half the states was fourteen for males, twelve for females.

Scenes from "Oliver"

"Oliver" is a story about a group of orphans forced into being pick-pockets and thieves in order to exist in Victorian England of one of them in particular, Oliver. These roles were aptly filled by these youngsters, shown with their leader, "Fagin," played superbly by David Phillips of London. In the photo are, from left: Nicole Larkey [Oliver]; Cluck Mink [Artful Dodger]; Tracey Moore; Matthew Chaliff; Chris Kirby and Emily Stone. Not shown: Margie Woods and Mickey McClure.

In the opening scene, Oliver has the audacity to ask for more [food] and brings down the wrath of Mr. Bumble and Widow Corney [Norma Eversole], "patrons" of the poor. Others in the scene were Matthew Chaliff and Tracy Burdett.

Linda Stone of Berea, as Mrs. Bedwin, comforts Oliver.

Play was very entertaining...

By: Richard Anderkin

Play critics we are not, but each time we attend a production of the local Art's Council we are thoroughly entertained.

Sunday afternoon was no exception. The latest production of the Council, the musical "Oliver" was very entertaining.

Director Allen Pensol, who has been the brain trust behind most of the council's plays, did an excellent job once again in casting his actors in their respective rolls.

Nine-year-old Nicole Larkey, a Laurel County fourth grader, had the lead roll of Oliver. It was her first performance for the art's council and we thought she was excellent. She had the major role singing as well as acting, and of course, in London, England, where the play was set, "Oliver" was a little boy pick-pocket. Not a girl. But, Nicole was convincing in her role as a little boy.

David Phillips, also from Laurel County, had the other major role in the play, Fagin, the leader of the pick-pocket gang, who has been in other productions for the council, showed his versatility in both acting and singing. We thought he was excellent.

The council's latest production, as all of the others, showcased local talent above all the rest. Of course that is the purpose of the council to provide entertainment with local talent. They are good at that and this past performance enhanced the fact that local talent is, although somewhat inexperienced, it is abundant.

The age range of the actors clearly shows that Pensol is good with whomever he works with. Very young actors, and not so young actors, made up the cast of 23.

It was nice to see the audience, at least on Sunday, so responsive to the cast. There was an air of appreciation and that was nice.

Since the council's first production five years ago, audiences have come to expect a great deal from cast members and of course the director.

We can certainly say that we have not been disappointed. A lot of hard work goes into the production of the many plays the council produces, and the cast members, director and members of the local art's council should be applauded for their efforts.

Arletta Norton, in her acting debut as Mrs. Sowerberry, looks Oliver over after he is offered for sale by the workhouse. Playing Mr. Sowerberry was another newcomer Bob Bailey.

25 participate in FLC's summer tutoring program

Jubilation '87 was the theme of the award ceremony honoring 25 youngsters who participated in the summer tutoring program of the Family Life Center School. The summer program was the second annual attempt by the Christian Appalachian Project to provide free tutoring for students in the area of reading, writing, and arithmetic. Students in both elementary and high school had an opportunity to combine summer fun and learning in a unique educational experience that provided a small-group and one-on-one learning situation. Teachers, parents, relatives and friends gathered Thursday morning for the brief jubilation ceremony to see the students receive certificates of participation and achievement. Roy McCollum and Sonya Chastain received special recognition with perfect attendance awards.

EXTENSION HOME ECONOMICS

WATER QUALITY FACTOR IN LAUNDRY RESULTS
By: Cheryl Witt
County Extension Agent for Home Economics

Your laundry detergent plus the correct water temperature unfortunately don't always add up to great laundry results. Many times water quality is a key factor not taken into account.

Hard water, which contains a lot of minerals is a common water quality problem that adversely affects the laundry.

In hard water much of the detergent added goes to soften the water instead of clean the clothes. Over time, clothes washed in hard water may become dingy or yellowed, develop a build-up of soil, have a stiff or harsh feel, or show white or gray streaks on colored fabrics.

Compensate for hard water, to some extent, by using adequate amounts of low-sudsing phosphate detergent and water as hot as recommended for the fabric. The harder the water, the more phosphate detergent you will need to use. Non-phosphate detergent and soap do not perform well in hard water, she added.

A water softener also can be added to the wash load. These softeners, or non-precipitating water conditioners, are sold in powder form in the detergent section of grocery stores.

To treat all sources of hard water in your home, including cooking and drinking water, install a water softener system to your home's water supply lines. Persons on sodium-restricted diets should consult their physician before installing such a system as it increases the water's sodium content.

Problems with poor water quality also may account for some mystery spots or stains found on freshly laundered clothing.

Are you in need of Genetic services?

Genetic services was limited in Kentucky in 1981, but at present the team comes to the rural areas. The goal of the program is to explore and plan for unmet genetic needs and to educate the public and professionals in order to increase their understanding of genetics.

The concept of genetic counseling is not new. History tells of a case in which the sons of three sisters died during circumcision. A rabbi advised a fourth sister not to have her son circumcised.

It has been estimated that 25 percent of medical problems in the United States can be traced in part to genetic factors. Genetic counseling is a vital part of family planning counseling. They can help determine the risks of occurrence of a particular trait. Some of the genetic disorders, if given medical attention early, will prevent mental retardation.

People who would benefit from genetic services are as follows:

1. Individuals concerned about the possibility that a genetic or familial problem exists, did exist or may exist in themselves, their offspring or relatives.
2. Individuals (and/or their normal family members) with chromosome disorders (Down syndrome).

Yellow, red or brown stains, for example, can come from iron in the water supply or from rusty metal parts in the well or water heater. Using chlorine bleach in water that contains dissolved iron causes the iron to deposit on clothing.

Commercial rust removers are available for treating stains on white and colorfast washable fabrics. Or, sprinkle salt on the spot and dampen with lemon juice. Dry the garment in the sun and then rinse. Be sure to spot-test either form of rust removal on a hidden part of the garment since the process may cause color change. Non-colorfast fabrics

3. Individuals (and/or their normal family members) with neurological or metabolic disorders (mental retardation, hydrocephalus, muscular dystrophy, PKU).
4. Individuals (and/or their normal family members) with blood disorders, kidney disorders, eye problems or deafness, skin disorders.
5. Individuals (and/or their normal family members) with congenital birth defects (spina bifida).

6. Disproportionately short individuals; bone disorders.

7. Women considering pregnancy or already pregnant who have any of the above disorders or have had previous offspring with any of the above, or who are 35 years or older at time of conception.

8. Individuals exposed to drugs, radiation or chemical agents before or during their pregnancies (particularly women, but men also).

9. Couples having had multiple unexplained spontaneous abortions or stillbirths.

10. Couples related before marriage or incest matings.

If in need of services, call the Rockcastle County Health Center 256-2242.

should be treated professionally. Red, reddish-brown, green or blue stains on clothing often are caused by acidic water due to the corrosive action of the water on the pipes. The type of metal in the pipes determines the color of the stain.

Red or reddish-brown stains may be treated as rust stains. Blue or green stains may respond to bleach if it is safe for the fabric. Again, spot-test before treating the stain.

For information having your water tested or on treating specific stains, contact your local Extension Office.

David Owens of Mt. Vernon was selected as Berea American Legion Post 50 Player of the Week July 19-25th. During that time, Owens hit .457, including two doubles and scored seven times. "David has been a pleasant surprise to the team," said Legion coach Jim McAlister. Owens has played all the outfield positions this year for Berea. Post 50 began district tournament play Monday in Richmond. The tournament will conclude Friday with the winner going to sectional play in Ashland.

High School Students

The 1987-88 school year will soon begin as students start classes on Tuesday, August 18, 1987. The administration and staff at Rockcastle County High School are looking forward to a successful year for the students. Following are some guidelines to provide both parents and students assistance in helping make this a great year at R.C.H.S.

- In some classes, a fee may be charged to help pay the expenses; below is a list of those fees:
Industrial Arts $5.00 per semester
Agriculture $4.00 per year and $6.00 for Future Farmers of America
Chorus $5.00 per year and uniform
Guitar $12.00 per year and good guitar
Art $12.00 per year
Home Ec $7.00 per year
Biology $2.50 per year
Typing $7.50 per semester
Computers $10.00 per semester
- Lockers are provided for students at a cost of $5.00 per year locks furnished by school. Only brothers or sisters may share lockers. Lockers will be sold the first day.
- School insurance is available, but is optional. Athletes, physical education students and those in shop classes are encouraged to purchase the policy. The cost is $6.00 per year for coverage at school and $32.00 for 24 hour coverage and the dental policy for an additional $3.00 to $5.00.
- Textbooks are rented for $4.00 per year or $2.00 per semester. Free textbooks are provided to those students who meet federal and state guidelines for free or reduced lunches. All students are to pay for lost or damaged books.
- Students must dress modestly. Avoid wearing mesh shirts, short shorts (any pants must cover knee), bare midriffs, tank tops and shirts promoting illegal substances. Students will be asked to change clothes or be sent home if dress is thought to be inappropriate.
- Student drivers must register their vehicles in the office - the cost is $2.50 per vehicle for parking permit. Parents are responsible for the manner in which their children drive on school property.
- Student drivers must have parental permission to leave school. Parents should call the principal's office before 10:00 a.m. to grant permission to leave. If a student plans to leave with another student or a person other than a parent, the parent must also call to give permission stating who will pick up the child.
- A parent picking up a child does not automatically insure an excused absence for the child. Criteria for excused absences are specific and can be found in the student handbook.
- Parents are asked to pick up their children between class periods to limit classroom interruptions. The most appropriate times are 8:30, 10:30, 11:30, 1:00 and 2:00. The student must attend at least thirty minutes of a class period in order to be counted present for that class period.
- Students are responsible for any damage they do to school property.
- Students may not bring visitors of any age to school.
- Students should be at school for homeroom by 8:20. Excessive tardiness is subject to disciplinary action.
- Knives are not allowed on school grounds.

More detailed information on the activities, policies, etc., for Rockcastle County High School is provided to each student in a handbook at the beginning of the school year. Parents are encouraged to read this important booklet. Hopefully, this information will be of help to you, the parents of our student body. If we all cooperate and work together, we can make the school year not only educational, but also very enjoyable for the students. Please feel free to come by school or call 256-4816 if you have any questions.

Don Stevens of Mareburg, grandson of Xenothion Emerick, is shown pointing out the raised cement joint, which was a trademark of his grandfather. The stone cellar was built in 1912.

A front-view of the old stone cellar, built by Xenothion Emerick in 1912. The cellar is located on the old Emerick farm at Mareburg now owned by Xenothion's grandson, Don Stevens and his wife, Katherine. Ronald Mullins, a stone mason, did some touch-up work on the cellar recently in an effort to preserve the building.

Stevens trying to preserve some of his family history

By: Richard Anderkin

When Xenothion Emerick built his stone cellar in 1912 little did he know that his grandson Don Stevens would have parts of it restored some 75 years later.

Last week, Ronald Mullins, a 22-year-old stone mason from Wildie did some touch up work on Steven's stone cellar at his farm near Mareburg.

Zen, short for Xenothion, who was 22 at the time, and his wife Loa, bought the Mareburg farm in 1882. The farm, where Don and his wife Katherine retired about two years ago, has been in the Emerick family ever since.

You won't see the Emerick name in the telephone book because both Zen and Loa's two sons are dead, but a lot of older people around the county still remember Zen.

Don said that he had his grandfather's cellar restored because it, along with a Spring house on his farm, are the only two pieces of stone work remaining on Zen and Loa's old home place.

"You see, Zen was a stone mason," Don said. "He built the cellar to store fruits and vegetables and a little home brew."

Zen was a farmer, but according to Don, who was living with him when he died at the ripe old age of 92, his first love was stone work.

Zen did a lot of work throughout the county including laying the foundation on what is now the Mt. Vernon Signal Building, formerly the Rockcas-tle Hotel building which was built in 1913 a year after Zen built his own cellar.

Ronald Mullins, a young man trying to get started in the stone masonry business, fixed the old cellar for Don.

"Granddad would ride a horse back and forth to Crab Orchard where he did an extra lot of stone work," Don said.

Don, retired from the railroad a few years back and moved to the old homeplace which was left to him by his grandfather.

Don says that if you are wondering if Zen might have done a little work for you, all you have to do is check out the stone.

"If granddad did it, it will have a raised cement joint," Don said. "That was his mark."

EULOGY TO A NEIGHBOR

Many are the people that go through life with the unspoken desire to be remembered not so much for some great deed, but with the hope posterity will recognize their greatness that is within them. They are constantly aware of their own importance and given the opportunity to tell of their many admirable qualities, can expound upon it for hours.

This is not the kind of man I am writing about. A man of quite dignity that would be embarrassed for someone to hear praise upon him. Who never felt he deserved praise except for only those who have achieved greatness. A man who lived his life in such a way that his character and friendliness made a favorable impression on everyone he met. A man who left a clear-cut example to follow for those who are aspiring to greatness. A man, upon his death, can fill a country church to over-flowing with friends grieving at his passing. If each of us could live our life in such a way, maybe this is the ultimate legacy.

Such a man was Clarence J. Brown

REPERT REUNION

The Seventh Annual Reperpt Reunion was held at the Berea Memorial Park, Berea, on Sunday June 28th.

Six of the seven living children of the late Eugene and Liddie (Mullins) Reperpt were present for the occasion. They were Anna Lee Chasteen, Tip Reperpt, Ruth Cantler, Mary Jane Sorah, Myrtle Wilson and Dorothy Pogorec.

Attending church services on Sunday Morning at Fairview Baptist were Mrs. Dorothy Pogorec and Mrs. Carol Knapp and two daughters Johnene and Traci. Dorothy always enjoys coming back to her home church at Fairview to see and visit friends of long ago.

Several of our relatives were unable to be with us this year, but hope to see them next year, God willing.

It's always so good to see everyone again. This is about the only time we can all get together now that Dad and Mom are gone. We are so thankful that we were raised in a Christian home by good Godly parents and taught to love each other.

The good Lord smiled on us again and gave us a beautiful day for our reunion for which we are thankful. We enjoyed the day, the fellowship and the delicious food. (As I've said before there are some good cooks in the Reperpt family). The one thing we need more of is time, we never get to visit' long enough with everyone. The day goes by so quickly.

The prayer of thanks for our food was given by our sister Mary Jane. (It was given by our sister Dorothy last year). This is always an emotional time, a time of remembering our family as it used to be and as it is now with so many gone on to be with the Lord.

For this event we had relatives from four states, Indiana, Ohio Tennessee and Kentucky. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Croucher of Berea, Mrs. Beverly Brooks and children Brian and Tara of Indian Hills, Paint Lick; Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Hill of Lexington. Also from Berea were Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Reperpt and son Brian, Miss Belinda Reperpt and Mrs. Wanda Wren and daughter Debra and Wanda's grandson Bill Wren, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy McCall and son Phillip and Phillip's girl friend Diana Siegel of Springboro, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carey and Kim and her boy friend James Watten Barger of Crossville, Tenn., Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander of Brodhead and J.B. Alexander of Orlando.

Mr. and Mrs. James Seals and daughter Kim, Indian Hills, Paint Lick, Mr. and Mrs. David Wayne Chasteen of Richmond and Mr. and Mrs. Junior Chasteen and son Rodney of Berea.

Mr. and Mrs. Steve Albright and family Rebecca, Mike and Jessica of Brodhead, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Reperpt, Emily and Marcus of Mt. Vernon and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Burdette of Renfro Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Tip Reperpt and Melody of Scaffold Cane, Allis Reperpt of Berea and Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Reperpt and son Ronnie Dale of Conway.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Gault of Rochester, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Bob Heckathorn and sons Josh and Griffin, Mishawaka, Ind. and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Stoner and daughter Angie, Amy and Allison of Ashland, Ohio.

Mrs. Mary Jane Sorah of Elyria, Ohio and Mrs. Carol Knapp and daughters Johnene and Traci and a friend Jim Harwood of Wellington, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Reperpt of Junior and daughters Jenny, Beth and April, also Lydia Reperpt and friend William Smith all of Crossville, Tenn.

Mrs. Myrtle Wilson and granddaughter Cindy Lacoek of Amherst, Ohio and Mrs. Dorothy Pogorec of New London, Ohio.

From the Fairview area: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander and son Kenneth, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alexander, Courtney and Cody; Mrs. Jewell Davidson and children Jenia and Jeremy; Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Ridgell, Sherry and Connie; Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Abney, Tammy and Tonya; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chasteen and son Darrin; also Darrin's girl friend Michelle Moses of Berea; Cletus Peters and grandsons Michael and Chad Peters; and Hubert and Anna Lee Chasteen.

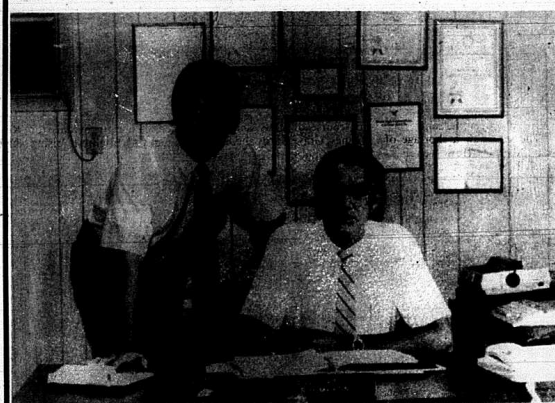

Friends visiting were Michelle Adams of Brinkley Ridge, Edmund Todd of Berea and Richard and Sarah Anne (Kirby) Harris of Indianapolis, Ind.

Thank the good Lord for the wonderful day we had together. We missed the ones who weren't there, but hoping to see them next time.

So now as this Reunion Day

Approved Bible Students

I would like to call your attention to some qualifications of the successful Bible student. Certainly there are such as the question of mental health. He must be a "two-legged man that needeth not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth," the following things are necessary.

1. We must love the truth. We are most frequently found doing the things we love to do. I am persuaded that those who do not attend Bible study, and those who do not study at home as often as they should do not love the truth. Paul said some perish because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved [2 Thess. 2:10]. Because the truth makes us free from sins [John 8:32], we must "buy the truth and sell it not" [Prov. 23:23].

2. We must remember that God is the speaker. All of the Bible is inspired of God [2 Tim. 3:16-17; 2 Pet. 1:21]. It matters not what man says concerning religion because he is subject to mistakes. However, God is true and cannot lie [Rom. 3:4]. In this age, we are to observe what Jesus has commanded in the New Testament [Heb. 1:1-2]. The Old Testament was nailed to the cross [Col. 2:14] and is not, therefore, to be kept as our law today. A very solemn warning is sounded out regarding the addition to or subtraction from God's word [Rev. 22:18-19]. The standard of judgment will be God's word [John 12:48], not our opinions. Therefore, when we speak, let us speak as the oracles [utterances] of God [1 Pet. 4:11].

3. Deal honestly with the Bible. Many people, even some Christians, corrupt the Bible by their insincerity [2 Cor. 2:17]. One who would purposely pervert God's word and harden his heart deserveth [2 Cor. 4:2] not only to lose his own soul but he will cause others to be led astray also. It is common for people to begin some practice and then mis-use the Bible to try to justify such practices. We must first find the practice authorized in the New Testament, then practice it; not vice-versa.

4. Obey what the Bible teaches. It seems incredible that intelligent people can look at the blessings promised to the obedient and still refuse to do what the Bible teaches. The parable of the two builders [Matt. 7:24-27] clearly shows that those who hear the word and reject it are building upon the sand, having made an unwise decision to continue in sin. Then there are those who have once walked the strait and narrow way but have turned aside to serve Satan. As Peter said, "The latter end is worse with them than the beginning" [2 Pet. 2:20].

All these things are required of Bible students approved of God. Will you resolve to be a better workman by a more diligent study?

Bradley, Noe at Eastern

Two teachers from Rockcastle County are among 25 graduate students at Eastern Kentucky University taking part in a state-sponsored Learning and Behavior Disorder Institute. The local teachers are Judy Bradley and Debbie Noe.

The institute speeds up the process of getting certified teachers ready to teach special education in Kentucky schools, Institute spokesmen said this week.

"The state Office of Education for Exceptional Children awarded us a $31,000 grant to run the Institute," said Dr. Roy Meckler, a professor in ECU's Department of Special Education. He and Gloria T. Carr, an assistant professor in Special Education, are teaching the course.

A similar institute was funded at Western Kentucky University at Bowling Green, he said. "The state saw a shortage of special education teachers especially in eastern and south-central Kentucky," Meckler said. Hence the interest in funding a special summer program to help certify new teachers in that area.

"Our program at ECU began during intersession and will run through fall semester," he said. At the end of that period, a student may have earned between 15 and 18 credit hours. For many graduate students this will put them "about half way in their certification program," he said.

"Ultimately the state would like to reduce or eliminate the number of special education teachers out there who are teaching on emergency cer-

Hayes, Burdett at Centre for Governor Scholars program of study

Randall Hayes of Crab Orchard and Tracy Burdett of Mt. Vernon, are two of 325 students who participated in the Governor's Scholars Program at Centre College in Danville.

An additional 300 students are participating in the program at the University of Kentucky in Lexington. The five-week program began June 21 and will conclude July 24.

Hayes chose biology as his major course of study and "Mind Games, Grave Yards and Stream-of-Consciousness Ice Cream", a class that focuses on flexible thinking and creative problem solving, as his minor. Hayes said that he especially enjoys the diversity among Governor's Scholars students.

Hayes is a student at Rockcas-te County High School. Many teachers in the field are given emergency certificates on as little as six hours in special education training, he said.

Some 80 students with learning or behavior disorders have taken part in a four-week portion of the Institute—coming to Model Laboratory School for two hours a day for special instruction.

Burdett chose political and social theory as his major course of study and "The Play of the Thing", a class in which students explore their creative potential as playwrights, as his minor.

Burdett, a student at Rockcastle County High School, received the National English Merit Award.

The Governor's Scholars Program is a residential, educational enrichment program for Kentucky's brightest rising high school seniors. The program stresses the development of creativity, flexibility and critical thinking. Applicants to the program ranked in the 96th percentile or better in the statewide Kentucky Essential Skills Test.

Leslie Ann Norton of Rockcastle County is preparing for the future by learning to deal with ethical and academic problems this summer in Lexington as a Governor's Scholar.

The Rockcastle County High School senior is one of 304 Governor's Scholars lived on the University of Kentucky campus June 20 - July 23. An additional 300 scholars studied at Centre College in Danville.

The daughter of Joyce and Edward Norton of Mt. Vernon, she chose political and social theory as her major field of study and Kentucky history from 1800 to 1865 as her minor.

"I would like to major in political science and eventually go to law school," she said. "This has been a great opportunity. We've been role playing as lawyers in my political social theory class."

Taught by J. Kent Juett, a social studies teacher at Newport High School, the class takes actual court cases and reads the arguments on both sides. They then decide a verdict and sentence. "Then we learn what actually happened," she said.

The group also visited the Federal Reserve in Cincinnati. "They gave us shredded money," she said. "I tried to piece it back together, but it didn't work."

Norton's minor field of study deals with the Kentucky state constitution. "We've discussed how the constitution has created the images that other people have of our state," she said.

The best part about being a Governor's Scholar for Norton is the opportunity to "meet a lot of new people." She continued, "The teachers are great. They have different views and different ways of teaching. They allow us to express our own thoughts."

After class, Norton has found time to experiment with new sports. "I've tried tennis and racquet ball," she said. "And the other day we were in Seaton gym and saw Kenny Walker and some of the UK basketball players."

A typical day for the scholars after breakfast is morning sessions with their major professors, lunch, and afternoon sessions with their minor professors. Students also are scheduled to meet with noted speakers, attend special concerts, films, and seminars or engage in supervised athletic events during the afternoon and early evening hours.

Guest speakers during the five-week program include famed

Kentuckians and UK graduates --Nobel Laureate Dr. William Lipscomb, astronaut Story Musgrave, author Bobbie Ann Mason, and Naomi Tuttle-Scavers, daughter of the Nobel Peace Prize winner Bishop Desmond Tutu.

The theme for the 1987 Governor's Scholars Program is "Striking the Balance: The Individual in Society."

Ford tells farmers they should try to diversify the types of crops they grow

U.S. Sen. Wendell Ford's advice to Kentucky tobacco farmers is to try to diversify their crops. "You have to have other crops, other ways of making money as it relates to the farm," he said.

His advice comes amid increasingly strict anti-smoking regulations and a decline in tobacco consumption. According to the June 1987 issue of the Tobacco Situation and Report, "For the year ending June 30, Americans will likely consume 2 percent fewer cigarettes than a year earlier." Total U.S. tobacco consumption has declined from 589 billion pounds in 1986 to an estimated 579 billion pounds for the year ending June 30, 1987.

Tobacco has been Ford's major agricultural problem since he arrived in Washington, D.C., 12 years ago. To adapt to the changes in tobacco consumption, he stressed that farmers need to look for other crops who can provide additional income, but won't necessarily interfere with their tobacco crops.

Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner David Boswell has long advocated alternate crops as some supplements for Kentucky farmers. "There's little that won't grow in Kentucky's climate, soil and terrain," Boswell says. "And Kentucky's tobacco farmers, using essentially the same techniques and equipment, can certainly broaden their operations and income with quality vegetable crops."

Studies are being conducted in the research department at the University of Kentucky's College of Agriculture to find crops which can provide that supplemental income some Kentucky tobacco farmers need. So far, the researchers have listed numerous possibilities which include items many Kentucky farmers may never have considered. One such option is eggplant. According to the Bush Crop article in the series called "Options for Kentucky Farmers: An Introduction," nationwide eggplant production decreased during 1979-1984. The time of marketing time for Kentucky producers would probably be during July and August, when the plant usually brings around $8.34 per bushel. As a rule, the price for eggplant peaks during the first week of August.

"Another option is spinach. According to the Cole Crops and Greens article in the same series, "The 1971-84 average price data shows relatively stable prices with a slight upward trend throughout the marketing period." The peak price level has occurred during the first week in July. The average price for the years 1980-84 has been from $4.55 per bushel in June to the peak average price of $5.60 per bushel during the first week of July.

Asparagus, broccoli, okra, rhubarb and sweet corn are the stalk crops mentioned as possible options for Kentucky farmers. The bush crops mentioned are bell peppers, eggplant, green beans, squash, tomatoes and cherry tomatoes. Cole crops and greens include cauliflower, green cabbage, green leaf lettuce and spinach. Numerous other options for Kentucky farmers are also noted in the series.

For more information on alternate crops, farmers should contact their county extension agent and ask for the series called "Options for Kentucky Farmers: An Introduction." For more detailed budgets and a fuller economic analysis, ask for "Prospects for Kentucky Agriculture: A Resource Document."
