4-H National Dairy Conference
in Madison, Wisconsin

By: Larissa Hayes

I recently attended the 4-H Dairy Conference in Madison, Wisconsin. It is an honor to be able to represent your state at this conference. I was chosen to attend because I submitted a State 4-H Dairy Record Book. I traveled with three other delegates and our chaperone, Tom Stevenson. While I was there, I attended many interesting workshops. They ranged from discussions on job opportunities to the new advanced technology in the dairy industry. During one seminar we were asked to taste unusual varieties of cheese. I really enjoyed the skill-a-thon contest that was held.

Each day we went on an interesting tour. Our first tour was of the American Breeders Service Farm. Next, we toured the Hoard's Dairyman. It was a very interesting tour for me because their farm has Guernseys which is the breed I show. Then we toured NASCO. They are a large mail order company which sells dairy related items. Finally on the last day we toured the World Dairy Expo. It was very exciting to see all the top animals from across the national competing.

During the week we also heard many inspirational speakers. The one that stays in my mind as well as everyone else's was Dan Clark. He had an interesting and amusing speech while he taught us something in his stories. I was very glad to have had the chance to meet and talk with him. The National Dairy Conference is a very interesting and fun trip. You can meet many new friends while learning about the dairy industry. I believe anyone interested in the dairy industry should try to attend this conference.

that she was going to have a large group at the meeting Thursday night in Crab Orchard and that she had hopes of the road being started soon. Good luck Mrs. Scott we need it. A subject that has been kicked around a lot lately is what Mrs. Scott has planned for the lot that she recently purchased on West Main Street in Mt. Vernon. Mrs. Scott wouldn't say Tuesday when I asked her. She just said that she too had heard a lot of talk about it and that people had told of several different things that it would be. One note about the Presidential race, that I thought was pretty interesting. It seems that Lloyd Bentsen, Dukakis's running mate was watching television one day and saw a McDonald's commercial advertising a Big Mac. Bentsen had to ask his aides what a Big Mac was. So that he would know what a Big Mac was, Bentsen was taken to McDonald's so that he could relate to the what most Americans eat. It is pretty hard when you are so far out of the main stream of working America that you don't know what a Big Mac is. This incident only tells me that Bentsen, who is very wealthy doesn't eat many lunches at fast food restaurants with us common folk.

The Senate has passed a bill which will authorize a new bankruptcy judgship for the Eastern District of Kentucky according to an announcement by Kentucky Senators Wendell Ford and Mitch McConnell.

"A lot of us have worked a long time to change this situation, and I am pleased that our efforts, together with Congressman Mazzoli's work in getting this bill through the

Have delivered a new bankruptcy judgship for Eastern Kentucky.

A new judge has not been named. "With the changes that have evolved in the bankruptcy courts during the last few years, especially relating to the alternatives provided in 1986 for family farmers under chapter 12, the consistent application of our bankruptcy statutes has become more important than ever before," Ford said. "This additional judgship will assure that adequate resources are available to address the caseload in Eastern Kentucky."

In 1987, several senators, including McConnell offered an amendment to an end-of-the-year budget bill, which would have created additional bankruptcy judgships in states facing an overload of filings. The amendment met with resistance, however, because the judgships had not officially been approved by the Administration. The amendment was withdrawn after a commitment was made that the Administration would review the situation in Eastern Kentucky immediately.

This year, the Judicial Conference for the Sixth Circuit in Kentucky reported that the number of filings in Eastern Kentucky would soon approach twice the recommended average for a single judge. This finding helped to get the new bankruptcy judge bill cleared through the Senate this week, after the House had acted on it.

New Arson Investigator for KSP

London State Police Post 11 has a new arson investigator. He is William S. Faulconer, 29, of London.

Faulconer replaces Gilbert Acciarid Sr., who recently retired from the Kentucky State Police.

Previously, Faulconer had been a senior dispatcher for five years at the post, and was a drivers license examiner in southwestern Kentucky for five years.

He is a Laurel County High School graduate and attended St. Bernett College and Eastern Kentucky University. He and his wife, Kimberly, and son, Stephen Cody, reside in London.

His new duties will be to investigate suspicious fires and arson fires in the seven-county Post 11 district that includes Rockcastle.

Steve Dixon

Pvt. Steven T. Dixon, son of Nell M. and Jackie N. Dixon of Route 1, Mt. Vernon, has completed training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

During the course, students received training which qualified them as light weapons infantrymen and as indirect-fire crewmen in a rifle or mortar squad. Instruction included weapons qualifications, tactics, patrolling, land mine warfare, field communications and combat operations.

He is a 1988 graduate of Rockcastle County High School.

had never lost four in a row. The offense, other than the tumblers played exceptional. The ground game of the Rockets was virtually unstoppable. The Rockets picked up over 315 yards on the ground. Kevin Rowe had his best effort of the season with 196 yards in 19 carries, 1 touchdown and 1 extra point run. He was followed by Dane Cox with 96 yards on 23 carries. Mike Spires had 26 yards on 2 carries. Quarterback Chad Barette was 1 of 2 passing with 1, 13 yard touchdown pass to Adam Coleman and one interception.

One bright spot for the Rockets next season will be the returning backfield combination of Cox and Rowe, both are juniors this year. According to Coach Larkey, "If these two kids had more speed they would be the two best backs in the state in the same backfield."

The Rockets now have an opportunity to finish the season 8-3 if they defeat the Whitley County Colonels in their final game of the season this Friday night. The final game will also be senior/parent night.

The seniors along with their parents will be recognized at the half. Whitley County, which had been an easy team earlier in the season, has been much improved of late with wins in each of their last three contests. Their latest effort was a 20 point win over Casey County. According to Coach Larkey, "Whitley county will be no pushover, we will have to play a good, sound football game."

All Creatures Great and Small

When James Herriot decided to write a book about his experiences during 1930s as a veterinarian in backcountry Britain, he was turned down by two publishers before being accepted by third. Several years and 12 million books later, Herriot still tops American book lists.

Demand for All Creatures Great and Small, the television series based on Herriot's books, has been almost as great, says KET Director of Public Programming Services Donna Moore. That's one of the reasons KET will air 51 episodes -- including 1-new programs -- beginning Thursday, Nov. 10 at 8 p.m.

Brodhead PTA Report

The Brodhead PTA met Thursday, Sept. 8 in the BES lunchroom. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Peggy French, president, for the 1988-89 school year.

Mrs. Leslie Camie's kindergarten class received the pledge of allegiance and sang, "The Wheels on the Bus" for our meeting. We would like to thank the class for an outstanding performance.

The monthly meeting was a kick-off for our Book Fair. Mrs. Nancy Parkerson, librarian at BES, spoke briefly on the library program and made a request for parents to volunteer their time for putting information in the library computer.

Mrs. Shirley Martin gave us an update on our membership drive. We now have 202 members. The Membership drive is over but anyone can join PTA throughout the school year.

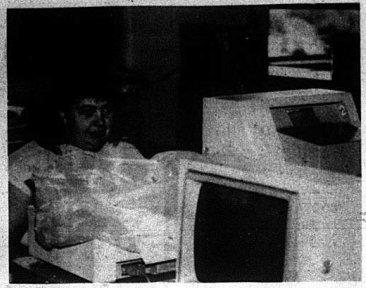

Mrs. Delores Albright reported that our local PTA will be hosting the Fall Regional Conference Oct. 26, 1988 at the Rockcastle Steak House. We will have more information at a later date.

Our fund raiser began Sept. 14. Bill Grimes, a representative from Cherrydale Farms, attended our meeting. He displayed various items that would be available in the brochures for the fund raise.

PTA meeting are the second Thursday of every month. We hope to hear your ideas at the next meeting.

Mrs. Leslie Camie and her kindergarten class performed for the September meeting of the Brodhead PTA. Those participating were: Benjamin Barron, Tara Burton, Derrick Bussell, Chaz Cable, April Day, Greg Harper, Robert Lear, Jodi Mays, Tom Mills, Jr., Jeremy Neeley, David Nicely, Keaton Pittman, Jessical Bullock and Kevin Todd.

Mrs. Joy Todd is shown putting the information into the library's computer.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

A lot of talk has been generated recently about gambling in view of the possibility of a state-run lottery. How should we feel about gambling? Is it wrong? Let us look to God's Word for the answer.

First the word "gambling" is not found in the Bible, but neither are the words, incest, rape, abortion, etc., yet we shouldn't conclude that any of these things are OK.

God recognizes 5 legitimate means of gain:

1. The Law of Labour, whereby one works to earn money, or something of value, Lk. 10:7.
2. The Law of Exchange, where we buy, sell or trade and make gain, Jn. 4:13.
3. The Law of giving, of my own will I choose to give another something, Ac. 20:35.
4. The Law of Inheritance, that by family descent I receive goods of a dead relative, Lk. 12:13.
5. The Law of Renting, where one receives gain from renting one's house, car, farm, money, etc. Ac. 23:30, Mt. 25:27.

Now as we study gambling, it does not fall under any of these 5 means of gain. It is not working, or it's not "horse trading" or receiving a gift, nor could we call it an inheritance, nor is it rent money received. Where then ought we to classify it?

Actually, gambling is stealing by consent. Based on some element of chance, one wagers, or puts up a certain stake, against another man's wager or stake, and whatever the outcome of this element of chance determines who gets the other man's money. You see, God teaches, "Thou shalt not steal," Rm. 13:9. Though it is done with consent, it still does not make it right. Dueling is murder by consent. An unmarried couple may mutually consent to have sex, yet it still is fornication. Consent does not justify the action.

Covetousness is generally the root motive for gambling. The Bible is very plain in its condemnation of the Covetous spirit, Lk. 12:15, Col. 3:5.

Friends, your best bet is not to make one!

The Book Fair was very successful this year. Students from kindergarten thru eighth grade were able to purchase books, puzzles, activity books, posters, pencils, crayons and folders during their library period. PTA members volunteered their time to run the Book Fair. Brenda Evans and April Poynter, eighth graders at BES, are shown looking through the Book Fair merchandise.

Clayton and Debbie Cash and their two sons, Andrew and Aaron

Dear Citizens of the 2nd Division,

I want to take this opportunity to inform the people of the 2nd Division that I firmly support the progressive efforts of our present school administration and that I respect the dedication and ability of our Superintendent of Schools.

I was a student at Brodhead High School when Mr. Towery was the principal. His standards were high then just as they are now. He was a very firm, but fair principal. He was always planning and pushing to improve things and he gained the support and respect of students, staff and community.

I plan to be a cooperative and contributing member of a team that will continue to bring growth and progress to our school system.

I ask for your support in this effort and will appreciate your vote on November 8th.

Brown recluse spiders spotted here

Brown recluse spiders have been seen in the Bluegrass recently, including several sightings in Louisville, a UK Entomologist said.

The brown recluse is a relatively new spider to come to Kentucky, said Chris Christensen, Extension entomologist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. It has spread from its first sighting in the far western end of Kentucky into all the counties in the western half of the state.

"The recent sightings in Louisville means the spider is migrating eastward now," said Christensen. "It is a greatly feared spider because of the awful effects of its bite."

The brown recluse's bite will cause an ugly, slow-healing ulcer that is extremely painful, he said. The sore may take up to a month to heal and could leave a deep scar.

What does the spider look like? "The spiders can be light brown, flesh-colored, or dark brown and are around 1/2-inch long," said Christensen. "The best identifying characteristic is the dark, violin-shaped mark on their backs that's right behind the eyes. This is why they are commonly called 'fiddle backs' or

"violin spiders."

When does the brown recluse bite? The recluse bites if its nest is disturbed and it can't get away. It is a night hunter and sometimes they travel through people's beds during their hunts. If the unsuspecting person brushes at the spider or rolls onto it while asleep, the spider could bite. Also, old clothes that sit around may house a recluse and it may bite if the clothes are put on by an unknowing person.

They can also take refuge in attics, stacks of old papers, behind baseboards or outside under rocks and in barns, he added.

"Thoroughly cleaning attics, closets and other cluttered areas where things accumulate is the best way to control the spiders," he said. "Some residual pesticides are effective in removing or reducing their numbers."

What should someone do if they get bitten?

Immediate medical attention can reduce the amount of swelling and ulceration of the bite, as well as any other complications that may occur, suggested Christensen. There is an antivenom serum for brown recluse bites now.

Meeting to discuss hay at Eastern

Plans for a statewide hay marketing system and the new brucellosis control regulations will be the chief topics of discussion at a meeting Wednesday, Nov. 2, at the Perkins Conference Center on the Eastern Kentucky University campus in Richmond.

The meeting is one of nine regional seminars being conducted this year by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture. The seminars will give department officials and other agricultural specialists an opportunity to discuss new state programs and other pressing issues with farm interests throughout the state.

The agenda will include presentations by Agriculture Commissioner Ward "Butch" Burnette, State Veterinarian Dr. Donald Notter and various specialists in agricultural production, marketing and economics.

The Richmond meeting begins at 9 a.m. local time and will adjourn around noon.

The one-day seminar will focus on a $469,000 hay grading system enacted by the 2988 General Assembly, plus major changes in the state's livestock disease control regulations.

"We will have a very active and comprehensive agenda at these seminars; they should be very beneficial to the various farm interests," said Burnette. "Farmers throughout the state will have the opportunity to learn what we're planning to do with the hay grading system and how we intend to wipe out brucellosis."

Drought caused problems for trees

The 1988 drought has created many problems for tree farmers because of the damages it inflicted on trees and their seedlings, said a UK forestry specialist.

Many tree farmers have described this year's drought as "The worst we've seen since the Dustbowl of the thirties," said Deborah Hill, Extension forest management specialist for the UK College of Agriculture. Forest fires are the greatest danger that tree farmers face during the extremely dry seasons, Hill said. The areas in greatest danger are the forests in the Eastern part of Kentucky. The Kentucky Division of Forestry said the fire season for the state begins in October and runs through December.

The drought caused many tree seedling losses—anywhere from 40 percent on up, said Hill. Some tree farmers lost everything they'd planted in the past two years. The government will reimburse them for part of the loss, but the damage is still severe.

"The nation's wood supply may be in danger, as well," she said. "Trees that were weakened by the drought will be more susceptible to disease and insect attack. Also, trees may take longer to grow back in the drier arcas."

"A positive perspective is that the percentage of tree loss in a forest doesn't necessarily mean that that exact percentage must be replaced," she said. "If the damage is distributed throughout the forest relatively evenly, then it can be considered as part of a natural thinning process."

Tree farmers should expect some seedling shortages this year because certain nurseries were severely affected by the drought and will not have the normal supply of seedlings, Hill said.

"If we do not see similar drought conditions next year, most nurseries should be able to regenerate their seedling supplies," she added.

Allan Tension a survivor of the Carrallton bus crash was the featured speaker at the Future Homemakers meeting at the Rockcastle County High School, Wednesday. A complete story will appear in next week's issue.

A Weekly Report from Fifth District Congressman Hal Rogers

100th Congress Has Accomplished Much For America

As the final days of the 100th Congress wind down, I believe that the last two years have brought important and positive legislative action by the House and Senate. Thanks to the leadership of President Reagan and bipartisan leadership in the Congress, we have achieved a number of important accomplishments.

Here are just some of the major issues we tackled:

FISCAL RESTRAINT—Perhaps the best fiscal news of these past two years was the important budget agreement between the White House and Congress. Thanks to that action, we have made a significant dent in our effort to reduce the deficit. This agreement led to all 13 appropriations bills being passed before the October 1 deadline and is a strong argument for Congress going permanently to a two-year budget cycle every Congress.

TRADE—The trade bill signed by President Reagan will help us enormously as we attempt to level the playing field with other nations. This legislation will help us enforce our quotas, force open foreign markets and lead to more fair trade between us and our trading partners. It will also help us retain workers who have lost jobs due to imports.

CATASTROPHIC HEALTH CARE—I was pleased to support the final version of this landmark legislation, which will place limits on the out-of-pocket expenses which our elderly must pay when they suffer prolonged illness or injury. Again, a bipartisan effort led by President Reagan pushed this important legislation through Congress.

EDUCATION—The 100th Congress renewed vital programs to aid our elementary and secondary education. While the state governments and local school districts take primary responsibility for education, the federal role can be important, particularly in targeting extra assistance to areas that need it.

WELFARE REFORM—Our welfare system has become so complex and such a hodgepodge that we are giving people an incentive not to work to help support themselves. Under this landmark bill, we have made some overdue reforms of the welfare system and put some strong incentives in place to help get people off the welfare rolls and into productive jobs.

FUNDING FOR KEY PROJECTS—This Congress saw us continue our work to push ahead with important projects in the Fifth District. We saw continued funding for flood control along the Upper Cumberland River at Barbourville, Pineville and Harlan, and full funding for construction of the Cumberland Gap Tunnel at Middlesboro. We also helped fund agriculture diversity efforts in our district and began funding for the proposed Southern Kentucky Rural Economic Development Center.

These are just some of the accomplishments of the 100th Congress. I was proud to support all of these efforts, which I believe will help our nation and our region in the months and years ahead. When the 101st Congress meets in January, we will face many challenges under a new President, but we will also have the past two years to build on as we tackle these issues.

Cub Scout Pack 263

Pack 263 held their monthly Pack meeting Monday night, Oct. 18. We opened with the Pledge of Allegiance and the Pack Promise.

We have started our popcorn sales to raise money for art projects and to purchase supplies for the pack. Anyone wishing to help by buying popcorn, may do so by contacting any member of the pack. During the meeting, pack members decorated Halloween masks made from paper bags and there were sure some scary ones too.

Refreshments were served and, as promised, we have some pictures of the Camp-Out held Oct. 7 and 8 at the Blue Grass Army Depot at Richmond.

Your Child's Health

By: Dr. John Payne

Part of growing up for all children is getting an occasional hard lick on the head. Most of these are not serious and require no medical attention. However, how do you decide when to take your child to the emergency room or to the doctor's office?

Don't panic if a large lump develops on the forehead or scalp after a fall or lick to the head. This is normal. This part of the body has lots of blood vessels and any blow is likely to cause bruising and swelling. Also, don't panic if the child screams bloody murder for several minutes. This is also normal. He may also get a bit drowsy for a few minutes and/or vomit once. Watch him for a few minutes and let him rest. Don't force him to eat anything. If he doesn't seem better in about a half hour, he may need to be seen by the Doctor.

If any of the following happen you should be concerned: Loss of consciousness; several episodes of vomiting; a seizure (convulsion); loss of memory; blurred vision or difficulty walking or talking.

Most head injuries do not need X-rays. X-rays show only fractures of the skull, which usually don't happen. Very serious injuries can happen without skull fractures. Other more sophisticated tests may be needed, such as a CT or cat scan if the injury appears to be serious.

You should watch your child at home if none of the above are present. Offer only clear liquids to help prevent vomiting. Wake him up every couple of hours at night if the accident happened late in the day. Make sure he knows his name and where he is. If symptoms get worse or don't improve in 24 hours, contact your doctor.

Your Child and Food Allergies

Do you know what your child is eating all the time; or yourself for that matter? The average food product in this country has an awful lot of stuff in it besides the food. There may be color additives, preservatives, insecticides, antibiotics the animal has been fed in the case of meat, spices, fertilizer residues in the case of plants, and even insect parts or other debris.

Most of these things are present in minute amounts and, may cause no harm for most people.

However, some people are affected, though the illness may be vague or mild. They may say they are allergic to a certain product, when in fact they are reacting to an additive or contaminant. They may not be allergic to the food in its pure form. Headaches after eating certain Chinese foods may be a reaction to the MSG or monosodium glutamate used to enhance flavor. Rashes and diarrhea

Earthquake Preparedness Week

Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson has proclaimed November 14-20 as Earthquake Preparedness Week in Kentucky. KET has joined with the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services and county DES organizations across the Commonwealth to sponsor the week.

As part of weeklong efforts to generate awareness about what safety precautions to take during an earthquake, KET will air an afternoon of shows designed to help viewers prepare for the earthquake scientists predict will occur before the 21st century.

Kentuckians will have the opportunity to question a panel of experts about preparing for an earthquake on the November 14 edition of This Is Kentucky. Join host Dick Brown for this hourlong audience participation program at 9 p.m.

A series of three specials will be shown on KET Sunday afternoon, November 13 beginning at 1 p.m. Included will be a five-minute animated cartoon featuring Yogi Bear talking about preparing for an earthquake. According to Tim Tassie, KET Agency Director for Broadcast Services, this program is designed for classroom use, but contains information which will be of general interest to Kentuckians.

The second special is the short film Earthquake Risk to the Central United States. It is intended for viewing by high school students through adults. Produced by the central United States Earthquake Consortium, it focuses on the New Madrid Fault and presents a general discussion on earthquake safety.

The third special in the series, Silent Quake, was produced especially for the hearing-impaired and presents basic, detailed earthquake safety information. Approximately 40 minutes long, it is both "signed" and open-captioned to explain earthquake facts.

in infants after drinking certain juices may be from intolerance to certain sugars and chemicals rather than true allergy.

True food allergies are most common from fish, shellfish, corn, wheat, soy, peanuts, nuts, eggs and cows milk in about that order. As you see, this list contains most of our common foods. The problem is sorting out what is a true allergy and what is caused by a contaminant or additive.

It is necessary to eliminate a food from the diet for at least 7 to 10 days to see an improvement in symptoms. It is hard to eliminate many items because so many foods are mixtures. For example, corn syrup is used in many items which must be eliminated if corn is to be eliminated. Non fat dry milk is also used as a filler in many items. Soy protein is also widely used.

An attempt at an allergy elimination diet is no easy task. If you think your child is having "food allergies" you should probably see your doctor. However, you must be prepared for many questions and for a good bit of detective work to find the source of the child's problems.

Transy to host Fall Open House Nov. 12

Officials at Transylvania University will host the annual Fall Open House for prospective students and their parents on Saturday, November 12, 1988 from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

According to Pat Bain, Director of Admissions, the open house provides a very good opportunity for both parents and students to take a close look at living and learning at Transylvania.

"The Open House is an ideal time to talk to professors, meet the president and members of the administrative staff and learn of the student groups and activities that are available. We also set aside considerable time to explore the campus, visit the residence halls, eat in the dining room and talk with current students," she said.

Scheduled activities include presentations on scholarships and financial aid.

For further information on the Fall Open House, contact the admissions office, Transylvania University, Lexington, Kentucky 40508 (606) 233-8242.

Science Day is Nov. 10 at Transy

High school students from across the state are invited to Transylvania University's Science Day on November 10 at the university's campus in Lexington.

Science Day is for students, particularly juniors and seniors, interested in science careers such as medicine, dentistry, computer science, biology, chemistry, engineering, physics and mathematics. Participants will attend presentations and will take part in laboratory experiments and demonstrations. Transylvania faculty members will be available for discussion of individual interests.

The guest speaker will be John P. Chandler, director of the electron microscopy recharge center at the University of Utah's Veterans Administration Medical Center. He is also clinical assistant professor in the University's department of pathology.

For more information, contact the Division of Natural Sciences and Mathematics, 606/233-8228.

Why I Say No to Drugs

By: Sharon Rose Hensley

Do you take drugs, wine, beer or anything like that including cigarettes? Cigarettes are harmful, too. They can cause cancer or diseases of the lungs. If you are not used to cigarettes you could cough, sneeze or get chkd. If there's no one around to help you, you could not get any help.

Why do you take drugs? Is it harming you? I would say it is. For all the money you spend on drugs and cigarettes you could save it up and buy a new house or a car. You need to keep all poisons out of the reach of small children. Children are not like us. They don't know that poisons are dangerous. Wine, beer and whiskey are also drugs. They are very harmful. They have alcohol in them. Alcohol is dangerous and very harmful. They make you drunk or sick. They could even kill you. People who think drugs are cool are very wrong. Drugs are not cool. They will kill you. You may think they won't but they will. Drugs aren't to play around with and try to be cool. They will kill you.

Drugs aren't funny either. They are bad. If you take them you will find out. They will hurt you, harm you or make you sick. Cigarettes cause cancer and even if you don't smoke and you are just around people that do, the smoke can still harm you. It's not as bad, but you will still be hurt. If you do smoke, you could still get black spots on your lungs and heart, just not as bad. I will give you a couple tips about things you can do to stay healthy.

1. Stay away from smoke as much as you can. If you smoke, you need to stop smoking if possible.

2. If you drink beer, wine or whiskey, you should know that they have alcohol in them. Alcohol will harm you or even kill you. I don't think you would want to die from drinking, would you?

3. Chewing tobacco is put right into your mouth either in your jaw or right under your lip. It may cause cancer of the mouth and if it spreads very far into your mouth the doctors may have to cut out the diseased part.

I don't think you want to have that happen. Do you?

Cigarettes, is a bad habit. Once you start, it's hard to quit. You get addicted. This is like when you want to quit but you just keep craving for it. It's like a child craving chocolate and when he eats part of it, he gets sick.

Some people may think drugs are a funny thing but it really isn't. If you do take drugs you need to stop. Beer, wine, whiskey, cigarettes or drugs are bad. If you take drugs, STOP!

S-T-O-P! You need to stop now if you know what's best for you. But it is not my decision. You can keep smoking, drinking or whatever, but you do need to make the right choice. Drugs are dangerous. They are harmful and they will hurt you.

My essay may be long but it makes sense to me. I hope it will encourage you to stop drugs or to not even start drugs. This may sound wierd but even paint can be a drug. Some people go out and buy spray paint and sniff the fumes from it. Glue is done the same way. They are very dangerous. Like I said, this may sound wierd but it is a sad fact.

In America there are so many people taking drugs. Even in our state of Kentucky cigarettes are not against the law. Drinking is not against the law in some areas. But marijuana is against th law. People are trying to get this legalized though. This does not change the fact that it is a drug. Marijuana is grown like crops in gardens. But you don't just go out and pick it. It has to be dried before you smoke it. Do you take marijuana? If you do, you are harming yourself. Hopefully this essay will encourage you to stop. After you start taking drugs it is very difficult to stop them. Drugs also go into your brain and you lose control of your thoughts. Smoke gets in your lungs and fills them with the black smoke. Remember, if you don't take drugs, you are smart.

I don't think you want to have that happen. Do you? Hopefully these tips will encourage you to say "No" to drugs. If they don't, I don't know what will. Some drugs contain nicotine. Nicotine is also harmful and it will hurt you seriously. You may be thinking that I'm putting you on or joking, but I'll tell you right now that I'm not. I'm very serious. I don't think this is a funny joke, do you?

Drugs make you unhealthy. Do you take drugs? Do you think they're cool? Do you think they taste good? There are a lot of people in America that take drugs. I don't because I think they stink and I hate them. If you take drugs I would like for you to try to stop. If you could, try it if possible. If you can't stop smoking on your own, try some Cigarettes or other things that are made to help you stop. If that doesn't work you can go to a doctor and get a prescription for medicine to help you stop smoking. If that doesn't work I surely don't know what will.

Medicine is a drug too. If small children get into a medicine cabinet and get out poisons, tablets or pills, you may not know it and they could get choked or even die. You need to keep all medicines out of reach of small children. Adults who are drunks or have other problems could also get into medicines. They may even do it deliberately just to be doing it or to punish someone else. They could be hurt or even get killed. Drugs are as harmful as drinking and smoking and snuff.

Smoking is harmful. It will hurt you. If you quit smoking right now it would take seven years to get the effects out of your system. Cocaine kills too. You sniff it up your nose and you might get killed. Drugs aren't funny. Drugs are poisons to your body. There are other poisons in your house. The cleaners in your bathroom and kitchen are poisons. So is bleach. So you do need to keep these up where small children cannot get hold of them.

Drinking will kill you. If someone came and said he did not have any money to buy some beer and wanted you to lend him the money, you should not let them have it. Just say "No."

Nicotine contains poison and poi-

Congress, private sector must join battle against illiteracy in the South

By Harold Rogers

The author

U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers is a Republican from Somerset.

There is no slight more heart-breaking or more ironic than a father or mother, husband or wife, who wants to work to support himself or herself or family, but cannot because of a lack of literacy.

I know firsthand, because the 1980 Census showed my Fifth Congressional District as having the fewest high school graduates above the age of 25 of any congressional district in the country. (Kentucky, incidentally, leads the nation.) It was a splash of cold water, and it helped spur efforts we are now making to reverse this trend. Thanks to Forward in the Fifth, our districtwide, volunteer, non-profit effort to put more resources and people into our education programs, we are seeing higher attendance, improved graduation rates and an attitude that makes education a top priority.

Now the Sanket Institute, a regional research group which studies problems and issues in Southern and Southwestern states, has issued a major report showing how severe this problem is throughout the South. As vice president of the Institute and as co-chairman of its Task Force on Literacy, I want to share this information with you. When our institute decided to initiate this study, we asked MDC, Inc., a North Carolina research group with 20 years of experience, how serious the problem of illiteracy was in the South, how our programs to fight illiteracy were working, and what we as congressmen from the Southern states could do to strengthen our efforts.

Last week, that report, "Workforce Literacy in the South," was through a high school diploma or a GED degree. We need a broad-based effort to reach other millions being left behind.

The quality of adult education programs is lacking. The report stresses that the solution is not more money, but better instruction, materials, follow-up and accountability. Our current system does not require programs to measure their success. Consequently, some experts believe that half the adults who begin literacy or adult education programs leave without improving their skills significantly.

Without federal leadership, success in solving the South's illiteracy problems is unlikely. Congress must reshape its role and set more specific goals for literacy programs.

While much of the report is negative, it does point out several good projects under way. Kentucky receives good marks for its effort, along with the KET network, in getting thousands of people their GED degree through TV programming. The state's skills corporation, which provides seed money and technical assistance for employer-based training programs, is also praised.

Also singled out is Kentucky's PACE (Parent and Child Education) program, which provides special instruction for children while their parents receive adult basic education and child-rearing training.

The report also mentions the fine work done by Mid-South Industries in Annville, where the company has trained dozens of workers in basic literacy. I was pleased to speak to the graduation ceremony for these and others who received their GED degrees in Jackson County last year.

I also believe the work of Forward in the Fifth, our volunteer program in the Fifth District can be a blueprint for other rural areas of the South.

I believe we in the Congress must take the reins if we want to deal with this complex problem effectively.

We need to increase awareness of the problem, and to target funding at areas in most need, particularly the rural South. More teachers are needed, and we can possibly use funding from the Job Training Partnership Act to help train additional teachers to increase literacy rates.

We need more businesses to "adopt" schools and provide financial and technical support. We need also to give states more incentive to increase their work by increasing the funds they must provide to match federal dollars they receive. Perhaps we need tax incentives to businesses who create adult education programs for their employees.

We need to integrate high technology in teaching more people the skills they need to function in our modern world.

It is a big job, but unless we tackle it now, our Southern states, including Kentucky, will end up with millions of workers without work, families turning to welfare and dependence, and an inability to compete with other regions of the country.

A lightning bolt can generate more heat than the surface of the sun.

Counties receiving fee monies

Governor Wallace Wilkinson announced this week that a total of 45 Kentucky counties are receiving a share of $1,008,145 from permit and acreage fees collected from mining operations during fiscal year 1987-88.

Rockcastle will receive only $250.

The Kentucky Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet collects the fees for the state and returns a portion to the coal-producing counties for purposes listed by the fiscal courts.

The fee for each mining permit application is $375, and there is a $75 acreage fee on each acre to be mined.

One third of the total fees paid from each county is returned to that county. In fiscal year 1986-87, the total of $957,720 was divided among the coal-producing counties.

U.S. SENATOR FOR KENTUCKY

Mitch McConnell

TAX LEGISLATION
HOLDS GOOD NEWS FOR KENTUCKY FARMERS

In the flurry to adjourn before the elections on November 8, the Senate has passed a major piece of legislation, the Technical Corrections Act (TCA), which will be of great benefit to Kentucky farmers because of its impact on tax deductions for certain cattle and the elimination of a diesel tax for off-highway vehicles. Although this bill must be approved by a House-Senate Conference Committee, the end result will be to give farmers some relief on their tax bills.

Before the 1986 Tax Reform Act was passed, livestock producers could deduct from their income the expenses incurred in the production of horses, heifers, and beef cattle for up to two years before breeding. This important deduction gave farmers a financial "cushion" until the animal was ready to produce offspring or become a source of income to the farmer. In addition, farmers were exempt from paying the 15-cents-per-gallon tax on diesel fuel.

The Tax Reform Act repealed this deduction for animals, and required that farmers pay the tax on diesel fuel and then file for a refund from the IRS. The effect of this pay-then-file procedure amounted to farmers making a no-interest loan to the government. It also forced overburdened farmers to fill out additional bureaucratic forms.

The passage of the TCA will restore the deduction farmers enjoyed for dairy and beef cattle as well as horses to the pre-1986 levels. The Act will exempt farmers using diesel fuel in equipment for farming purposes, state and local governments, and users of off-highway vehicles from the 15-cents-per-gallon diesel tax. This provision will also help coal operators because most of their equipment is for off-highway use.

Although the TCA will benefit farmers, its main objective is to fine-tune the massive tax reform legislation enacted in 1986 and clamp down on big corporate and special-interest tax loopholes. It will also clear up "gray areas" in tax law.

Over the years our farmers have faced considerable adversity. The farming industry was just beginning to climb out of a recession when this year's devastating drought struck. The repeal of both these taxes will save Kentucky farmers approximately $95 per heifer and dairy producers $150 per animal. This adds up to $14 million in additional income that farmers can put back in their pocket each year. Final passage of the TCA is critically important in helping the agriculture industry get back on its feet.

Redskins win league title in 7th-8th football Win last four games to go 5 and 2

By: Angie Carl

The Roundstone Redskins defeated the Mt. Vernon Wildcats and claimed the Rockcastle County 7th and 8th grade title on October 11.

The Redskins played one of their best defensive games of the season and never let the Wildcats score. The team gave up only one first down throughout the game and went on to win 18-0.

During the first quarter, Tommy Poynter scored two touchdowns for the Redskins. With only seconds left in the first quarter, Poynter scored on a sweep play for the second touchdown of the game.

The next touchdown of the game came in the middle of the third quarter by Shane Thacker. The ball was handed off by Witt again and thicker's 10 yard run was the final score of the game.

Although the Redskins gave up their only first down in the fourth quarter, they held the Wildcats back, ending the game without a score by the Wildcats.

John Witt, head coach of the Redskins, said that the defense of the team is the reason for their winning season. The Redskins finished off their season with a record of 5-2. They lost only to the Bengals and Wildcats.

There are six eighth graders on the Redskins' football team who are anxiously waiting to play high school football. They are Tommy Poynter, Ray Poynter, Ronald Brown, Jason Blair, Anthony Carpenter and Tommy Rank. Assistant coaches are Ronnie Owens and Bill Fowler.

After their big win over the Wildcats, the Redskins traveled to Berea on October 22 where they gained their final victory of the season.

The powerful defense of the Redskins held up again and kept Berea from scoring. The final score was 31-0.

The Redskins had three touchdowns in the first quarter. Tommy Poynter ran 85 yards on the second play of the game to score the first touchdown of the game. Shane Thacker then ran in two more touchdowns before the end of the quarter.

Greg Bowman highlighted the second quarter by scoring the fourth touchdown of the game. Bowman then kicked in the extra point and raised the score to 25-0 at half-time.

Tommy Poynter took charge in the third quarter to score his second touchdown of the game. Poynter ran 175 yards during the course of the game and insured a win for the Redskins with the final score of the game.

Despite Berea's size and ability, the Redskins kept the team from scoring and ended the game with a final score of 31-0 and ending the Redskins' season with a record of 5-2.

RCHS running back Kevin Rowe rambles down the sideline for extra yardage during Friday's 22-6 win over Knox Central. The Rocketers, 7-3 on the season, close out the year this Friday night with a home game against Whitley County.

Rockets beat Central 22-6

It's not often that five turnovers in one game equal a 22-6 win, but that is exactly what happened last Friday night when the Rockets defeated the Knox Central Panthers for their seventh victory in 10 tries.

After two long runs, on their first possession by Dane Cox and Kevin Rowe, the Rockets appeared headed for a score, that is until the first of four fumbles turned the ball over to the Knox Central Panthers with 9:30 left in the first quarter.

On their second possession the Rockets reached the 7 yard line before a holding penalty by Bobby Hayes, followed by an interception thwarted that drive.

With 10:41 left, the second Rocket fumble gave the Panthers good field position and eventually resulted in the first and only score of the game for the home team. The extra point attempt was no good and the Panthers took a 6-0 lead.

The third possession for the Rockets ended the same way the first two had, with a fumble. However, the Knox Central team must have been feeling generous because they, too, became victims of their own misdeeds with a fumble of their own.

The Rockets got the ball back with a 3:04 remaining and promptly marched down the field and gained their first score of the game on a 13 yard touchdown pass from Chad Burdette to Adam Coleman.

The extra point run was good by Kevin Rowe and the Rockets took an 8-6 lead into the dressing room.

As Coach Tom Larkey noted before the game "We are now playing on pride." He was referring to the Rockets' playoff hopes which had fallen by the wayside with district losses to Bell County and Casow.

Pride must have been something the Rockets discussed at the half Friday night because the second half was one of their better efforts of the season.

A 23 yard interception was returned by Chad Burdette for a touchdown with 5:16 left in third. The ensuing extra point kick was good by Chuck Napier and gave the Rockets a 15-6 lead.

The weather conditions must have had something to do with all of the turnovers in the game. With 9:34 left in the game the Rockets fumbled once again only to get the ball back with 6:22 remaining on a fumble by Knox Central.

The hard running of the dynamic duo of Cox and Rowe resulted in another score and the final margin of 22-6.

"The offensive line deserves a great deal of praise," said Coach Larkey. "These kids could all be offensive line coaches because they really know their assignments, they don't always execute properly but they do know how to block. They seldom get confused about their assignments," added Larkey.

One of the better defensive efforts of the season was spearheaded by Chad Hodges' 14 tackles and 1 quarterback sack. Hodges was followed by Chuck Napier with 10 tackles and 1 quarterback sack, Chad Merritt had 9 tackles, Scotty Hines 8 tackles, Bobby Hayes 6, Dane Cox, Kevin Rowe and Les Seaf 5 tackles each, Adam Coleman 3, Chuck Shields 3 tackles and 1 fumble recovery, Mike Spires 1 tackle, Chad Burdette 1 interception returned for a touchdown.

The Rockets, under Coach Larkey,

Quail's resident artist

Thelma Bullock enjoys her work

Donald Ray "Duck" Bullock

By: Jeff Hammond

Autumn in Kentucky is a time when the sheer beauty of God's creation is overwhelming.

The ability to capture this beauty through something we create is longed for by many aspiring artists.

For Thelma Bullock of Quail, however, it is reality instead of a dream. Thelma first started drawing as a child and later had her first and only art lesson, until recently, in Mrs. Barbara Owens' art class at Brodhead High School.

Thelma, a native Rockcastle Countian, started back into her drawing full time about a year ago. Since then, she has taken some art classes through the mail, "But I never got very far because I always want to do other things such as the art that I want to draw," said Mrs. Bullock.

Portraits, landscapes, old home-places, cars, even semi's are some of the subjects that she has drawn. Oil paintings, watercolors and pencil drawings are the primary works of Mrs. Bullock.

She and her husband, Donald Ray, or "Duck" as he is better known, go out together in search of possible subjects. The couple take photographs of the scene Mrs. Bullock would like to draw and she works from these photos.

"It is easier for me to work from photographs because I like to put a lot of detail into my works," she explained. "I can't get that (detail) from just sitting out."

Mrs. Bullock is a member of the Lake Cumberland Art League and has shown her work at several festivals at Renfro Valley. She mainly operates on works that individuals commission her to do. Lately, she has been doing a lot of portraits.

"If I'm doing landscapes, then I'm totally into that. If I'm doing portraits, I'm totally into them. So whatever I'm doing at the time is what I prefer," Mrs. Bullock said. "My whole family does some type of art such as knitting or crochet," she related.

Mrs. Bullock is the daughter of Elmer and Lucille Ponder and has two daughters of her own, Tana, 15, a sophomore at RCHS and Donna, 9, a fourth grader at Brodhead Elementary. "They like to draw and I encourage them every chance I get," Mrs. Bullock said.

Mrs. Bullock prefers to work from black and white photographs and said, "I can really get the color contrasts better from black and white than I can from color, however, I enjoy working from both."

"Capturing expression is what I enjoy doing. The expressions on faces and from landscapes really bring out the detail in my work," she went on to say.

The expressions are evident in two of the works that Mrs. Bullock is holding in the picture.

One is a picture of her husband as a young boy and the second is a picture of her. "I chose these two because the expressions were so

Stone age idea — Space age technology

Everyone knows that the earth holds tremendous potential for heating and cooling. That's why earth/man sought out caves for shelter. But until recently, it was difficult to harness energy the earth had to offer. The ground-coupled heat pump has changed all that!

A ground-coupled heat pump consists of a compressor, heat exchanger and a loop of plastic pipe filled with antifreeze. In winter, heat from the earth is absorbed by the antifreeze in the pipe and transferred into the house. The liquid is then cycled back underground where the action is repeated.

In summer, the ground-coupled heat pump provides whole-house cooling by reversing the process. Heat from the house is absorbed by the liquid and given off underground.

And by taking advantage of the constant temperature of the earth (about 52°), the ground-coupled system's efficiency is improved for beyond conventional heat pumps, which draw heat from the air and its wide swings in temperature. Year-round comfort. Year-round savings.

YES! Please send me more information about the ground-coupled heat pump & the cooperative incentive program.

Thelma Bullock displays some of the paintings of herself and her husband "Duck" and a landscape portrait she has done.

"Thelma Bullock enjoys her art"

Artists usually become wrapped up in their art and Bullock is no exception to this fact. One portrait that she is working on is "difficult to do because the couple lost the child that I am drawing," she explained. The emotional aspect of her art is probably what makes it so appealing. But who critiques her work? According to Mrs. Bullock, her husband is her critic in addition to being her best friend, husband and father of their two daughters. "He can tell me what is wrong with the paintings, after so long I can't tell what I'm doing wrong."

Mrs. Bullock hopes that this exposure will bring in more commissions for her. "Art is something that I enjoy doing and I enjoy doing it for others," she said. If anyone is interested in having a portrait, landscape or some other work done, contact Mrs. Bullock at 606-256-2389. Rates will vary according to the work.

Poet's Corner

Learning to Smoke
By: John Holbrook

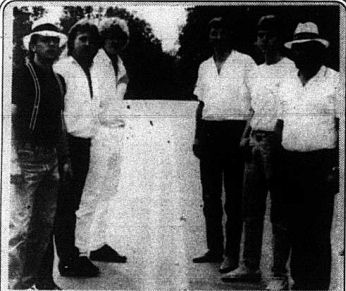

Many years were spent, learning how to smoke
We tried leaves, rabbit tobacco and Bull Durham in a pipe
Smoke Vine, coffee or just a dried up stick
And any of these I'm telling you can get you mighty sick
We'd find us an old corn cob and get ourselves a need
And make us a pipe to the nicotine weed.
There was corn silk, cigarette butts, sometimes an old cigar
We tried to float to heaven but never got that far.
We learned very early the chair turned round and round
White of face, to sick to die lying there on the ground
We tried whole made tobacco and it really had the kick
Not only would we feel real bad, we'd get puking sick
One time I had a fever, I knew it was not flu.
Up came an emergency so I puked in my brother's shoe
We ponder about these experiences and all the fun we had
But it would end real quickly hearing footprints from room or dad
We started very early puffing when we could
But I don't think we really learned to hold a cigarette like we should It's no fun smoking alone or by yourself.
Even when I stole a real cigarette, off the cupboard shelf.
We tried them brought cigarette papers but was never good enough to brag.
But we could do a dandy job with a piece of paper bag
After they were lighted, they sometimes caught afar.
But this never, never happen with a brought on large cigar.
I guess we burnt a foot off of each our eye brow
To light a cigarette took years but we finally did learn how Many times we lied about the hair that we did singe
But our parents really knew we had been on a smoking binge
I remember being whipped and how they were mad
But something that hurt as much was the loud and threatening shout
We smoke just about anywhere even hiding in the barn

It is just a wonder but we really caused no harm
When we bought the makins we'd smoke them all that day
And it just a wonder we didn't set afar the hay
Many times we learned our lesson and swore we'd never smoke
But that only lasted until we got some Buffalo in a pipe
We smoked a lot of things but never became a man
Until we bought our tobacco in a red Prince Albert can Remember the Half and Half tobacco that came in an unusual tin
It could be made just half as big as when you first began
Some dads bought cigarettes and bought them by the carton Stealing them was easy but rear

ends soon was smartin
Most of the fun in smoking was when we had to hide
Knowing if we were caught they'd really tan our hide
Now when I get down and out and feeling mighty blue
Again I get to grinning, remembering, puking in that shoe

Wigwagging is a method of signaling with one flag. The three motions really tan our hide and the end of a word or paragraph.

To All Voters of the 3rd District:

Dear Voters:
The election, as you know, is a little less than 2 weeks away. I would like to take this opportunity to let the people know more about me and my family. My parents are Ray and Lucille Kirby of Mt. Vernon and my wife, Patty, is the daughter of E.J. and Roberta Taylor of Brodhead. We have a daughter Erica, 7, and are expecting another child in January, 1989. I have been employed by Taylor Produce for the past 14 years. I graduated from Rockcastle County High School in May 1974.
I'm again asking for the support of all registered voters, both Democrat and Republican. To the voters I have not seen, I want to assure you that you have not been forgotten. To all voters I will work hard in the 3rd district to see that we have the things that we need or need improving. Local students at Eku are student teaching

Five Rockcastle County students at Eastern Kentucky University are among more than 200 teacher education students gaining practical classroom experience during the 1988 fall semester.

They are: Gerald Alexander of Mt. Vernon, student teaching at Roundstone Elementary; Shannon Bales of Mt. Vernon, student teaching at Roundstone Elementary; Caroline Graves of Brodhead, student teaching at Roundstone Elementary; Lisa Moore of Mt. Vernon, student teaching at Jeffersonstown Elementary; Jeffersonstown Elementary; Michelle Parkerson of Brodhead, student teaching at Daniel Boone Elementary, Richmond.

EKU's College of Education places its student teachers in classrooms for the last 12 to 13 weeks of the semester, according to Dr. David Rush, director of Eku's professional laboratory experiences office.

The practical experience follows three to four weeks of on-campus instruction in teaching fundamentals.

"Student teaching experience is required in Kentucky before a college graduate may be certified," Rush said.

"At Eku, we've designed our program to ensure that our students are well prepared for this experience."

Students preparing for teaching careers at Eku may also gain practical classroom experience at Model Laboratory School before student teaching. Model is the only university-operated laboratory school in Kentucky. It is designed to provide educational experiences for future teachers that might be otherwise unavailable.

"As one of the state's largest producers of teachers, we feel a special obligation to our students and to the Commonwealth to provide as many educational experiences as possible," Rush said.

This fall, 37 Eku students are student teaching at the secondary level, 108 are teaching in elementary classrooms and 59 are assigned to practicum arrangements, he said.

Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond serves nearly 14,000 students through a variety of programs in its nine colleges and the graduate school.

EKU in partnership with Rockcastle Co. schools concerning drop-outs

The following are the obligations accepted by Rockcastle County Schools and Eastern Kentucky University relative to the services provided through the Dropout Prevention Partnership Proposal.

Eastern Kentucky University students will be placed in Rockcastle County High School as supplement-tary tutors for at risk ninth grade students in the areas of mathematics, English and study skills. Tutors will also be available to work during the summer with Rockcastle County High School students 9-12 who are in need of additional make-up credits to maintain progress toward graduation. This summer program will make use of Eku correspondence courses. Tutors, as well as a one-quarter release time Eku program director, will be paid from grant funds. Rockcastle County will provide space and materials as an in-kind contribution and will provide faculty time to provide guidance for the tutors. Rockcastle County will also identify and recruit the ninth grade students to participate in the program.

CTBS/4

No, this is not a new broadcasting station in our area. CTBS/4 Benchmark Series is the name of our recently adopted state testing instrument to be administered in the spring of 1989 in Kentucky School children.

Plans are being made to meet with the four county guidance counselors in order to get Rockcastle County teachers and principals updated and familiar with the characteristics of the test.

Let's remember that Achievement test scores represent a one-time picture of a student's performance. Test scores should be used in conjunction with other factors such as grades, other tests, teacher evaluation, etc.

Look for further "testing particulars."

During the Middle Ages, the year began at various dates in different times and places. In England it was not until 1751 that January was restored to its place as first month, as it had been during the Roman era.

Fire Safety Attitude

Fire has been with us in varying degrees since 400,000 B.C. Peking man used it to heat and cook with. For the last 401,988 years, man has tried to prevent the spread of fire.

Over the centuries, fire prevention emerged from the ashes into what it is today. The present fire prevention codes cover everything including hazardous materials, structures, vehicles, electricity, appliances, etc. However, nothing can outweigh the importance of a fire safety attitude.

A fire, as an accident/incident, is the result of something: improper wiring, poor housekeeping, improper use of hazardous materials, etc. The majority of actual fire causes are seen but nothing is done to correct the problem, thus a fire is born.

You can prevent fires. Correctly, hazard you have. Call your fire department if you have specific questions.

An ounce of prevention is worth...

This N' That

By:
Richard Anderkin

Had a long chat with Mrs. Verla Scott, Tuesday. Actually it was a period of her complaining about yours truly.

Mrs. Scott, who is the Democrat County Co-Chairman said that the Signal was biased when it came to presenting both sides of the presidential race.

The case in point was a letter that Mrs. Scott brought in last week supporting Mike Dukakis. The letter was not printed because Mrs. Scott is the Democrat County Co-Chairman and then to make matters worse I mis-placed the letter when she came to pick it up. The letter would have been printed if it had been a paid ad. We did the same thing when it came to putting articles of support in the paper for George Bush by the Republicans. We love to work up here, but you have to draw the line somewhere and charge for certain things and that is one of them. The letter was political and it was from the county co-chairman. Mrs. Scott seemed to think that the Signal should be named the Mt. Vernon Republican.

Mrs. Scott, who definitely has the Governor's ear these days has done a lot for the county no doubt, and she is still upset with me over a story that appeared in this publication a few months back about the new sewer project at Brodhead. Mrs. Scott said that we gave credit for the project to State Representative Danny Ford when in all truth she was responsible for getting the project approved. Mrs. Scott said that she was so upset by the story that she almost had the Governor cancel it, but later decided that the project was for the good of Brodhead and the town certainly needed it.

Mrs. Scott is now working hard on the improvement of Hwy. 150. She said Tuesday that the Governor had promised to four-lane the extremely dangerous road. She said

Much speculation has been made about what is going to be built on this lot on West Main Street in Mt. Vernon which is owned by County Democrat Co-Chairman Mrs. Verla Scott and her husband Ted. Mrs. Scott declined comment Tuesday on what was actually going to be built on the site.
