Postal News

New contract moves postal automation effort forward

The Postal Service took another step forward with its plan to automate all letter-sorting when it was competitively awarded a contract to ElectroCom Automation, Inc., on March 27, 1989. Valued at $187,938,004, the contract provides for the purchase and installation of 622 advanced facer-canceler systems with deliveries beginning in 1990.

A facer-canceler system processes mail gathered from collection boxes.

It separates mail that is too large to process on automation equipment, faces all of the mail in the same direction, and postmarks and cancels each stamp.

The new systems will perform these functions more quickly, more accurately, and at a lower cost than existing equipment. In addition, they will sort mail in three categories: pre-cancel bar codes, and addresses that can or cannot be read by an optical character reader. These separations allow the mail to be taken directly to the appropriate automated, mechanized, or manual operation where it is sorted for delivery to the addressee.

The advanced facer-cancelers will be manufactured in the United States. Among the first cities to receive the equipment will be Chicago, Los Angeles, Houston, Dallas, New York, Cleveland, and Pittsburgh.

In 1988, the Postal Service processed 160.5 billion pieces of mail and sorted one-third of all letter mail with automated equipment. That figure will increase annually until all letter mail is processed mechanically, accurately and economically through the use of automation.

Electronic Mail Service begins with Soviet Union

A new communications link that will bridge the eight time zones between Washington, D.C. and Moscow in less than a minute was announced today by the U.S. Postal Service and the postal administration of the Soviet Union.

The U.S.S.R. has joined the Postal Service's INTELPOST network, an international facsimile transmission system that connects participating countries via electronic transmission telephone lines. The facsimile messages are delivered to recipients as fast as the same day by postal carriers.

The service makes it possible for businesses as well as individual customers to transmit copies of letters, business documents, blue prints and other material between the U.S. and the city of Moscow for the same day or next day delivery. The cost is $10 for the first page and $6 for each additional page.

The inauguration of INTELPOST service with the Soviet Union furthers the growing spirit of cooperation and mutually beneficial exchange between our two countries," said Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank.

The Soviet Union becomes the 37th country to join the INTELPOST network. Any document capable of being photocopied can be transmitted to foreign post offices in participating countries. In less than a minute, a high-quality black and white duplicate can be ready for delivery or pickup.

In the U.S., INTELPOST dual-in service is available nationwide, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, to customers with their own facsimile equipment and an established INTELPOST account. In addition, INTELPOST walk-in service is available at more than 300 post offices in 24 cities.

Nancy man saved from fiery car wreck on 461

Had it not been for quick action by some local citizens, a Nancy man would most likely have died in a car wreck Saturday night.

According to State Police at the London Post, Burrell Coffey, 38, of Nancy was traveling south on 461 when he lost control of his Pontiac Sunbird and hit a culvert.

After striking the culvert, Coffey's car overturned and Coffey was thrown from the car, which ended up on top of him.

After a few minutes on it's top, the car ignited. Motorists who came upon the accident, including Junior Bullens and Sam Ford, pulled Coffey away from the car.

Ford said that four or five men lifted the car up enough to allow Coffey to be pulled the wreck.

Coffey was taken to the Rockcastle Hospital where he was treated for head trauma. He was later transferred to the Humana Hospital in Somerset and charged with driving under the influence.

The Mt. Vernon Fire Department extinguished the blaze.

Kirby found guilty of fourth degree assault

Last week, a Rockcastle Circuit Court jury recommended a sentence of six months in the county jail for a local man after they found him guilty of assault.

Kirby was accused of stabbing Lewis Cox, 24, of Mt. Vernon, with a switch blade knife at the residence of Tammy Shepherd.

Kirby will be sentenced April 28th.

Three adults and three Boy Scouts from Ohio were rescued from a Pine Hill cave Saturday night.

According to Gary Hanks of the Mt. Vernon fire department, the six individuals rappelled into a hole about 120 feet deep and were unable to come back the way they went in.

Hanks said that three other cave explorers rescued the six through another passage in the cave around 11 p.m. Saturday night.

Lewis Bowling and Melberta McBe, members of the Brodhead graduating class of 1929 were honored at the recent banquet, along with graduates of 1939, 1949, 1959 and 1969. Those pictures will appear next week.

Mt. Vernon commits to $200,000 factory loan

By: Richard Anderkin
Managing Editor

The Mt. Vernon City Council took a major step Tuesday night in an effort to attract a new industry to Rockcastle County.

At the request of Rockcastle County Industrial president John Clontz, the council voted unanimously to commit $200,000 to the new industry that has plans to locate in the county in two different locations.

The money will come from an Urban Development Grant that the city has on hand because of repayment of a loan to Mt. Vernon Plastics.

The local attorney would not identify the owners of the new plant or tell where they were from. He said that announcement would come later.

The $200,000 would be used to buy a two acre plot and build a building in the present Rockcastle Industrial Park.

That building would be a 60 x 200 structure. Clontz also said that the company plans to rent the former Clayton Hammonds grocery store building for another business.

The operation at the Industrial Park would be comprised mostly of a high quality metal stamping plant and the operation at Hammonds' building would be some sort of assembly plant, which would make parts for car seats.

Clontz said that initially about 25 people would be employed at the metal stamping plant and about 20 at the assembly business.

Salaries will range from $8.00 to $14.00 per hour at the metal stamping plant and we are not sure what the salaries will be at the assembly plant," Clontz said.

"But, we feel that the plans we have been presented are very viable, we think that these two businesses will fill a void and we certainly think they will have a good effect on the local economy," he said.

Clontz was accompanied at the special called meeting by local realtor Sam Ford, who is Improvement Council president and Industrial Authority board members, Gatliff Craig, Judge Hubert Thacker, Doug Brock and Willard Whitaker.

"We think these people are better prepared than the folks that started Mt. Vernon Plastics. We think they have made a much better study into want to do and we feel they are very sincere in wanting to locate

Two new factories may locate in Rockcastle County very soon

here," Clontz said.

"We feel like they have better plans than Plastics had when they started, and we all know what kind of success story "Plastics" has been," Clontz said.

Political posters being taken down

You may think it was your opponent or maybe a farmer, that just doesn't like you, but it is probably either state road department workers or the city of Mt. Vernon police officers.

Both groups have been taking down political posters, taking them down and throwing them away.

There is a state statute that prohibits the posting of the signs on state right-of-ways that has been on the law books for several years.

The city of Mt. Vernon adopted an ordinance in 1981 that strictly prohibits people from placing advertising of any kind on any tree, utility pole or other structure within the right-of-way of public streets and highways within the city limits of Mt. Vernon.

The ordinance carries a fine of $25.00 for each offense.

But, Kevin Pleisher, Public Affairs Officer for the city, said Tuesday that no citations have been issued as of yet and that none probably will be. He did say, however, that police officers were removing the illegal posters from the right-of-ways.

Pleisher said that it was illegal to put up signs on private property, with owner's permission, and he suggested that candidates do that.

The state highway department has also been removing signs on the owner's right-of-way since April 10 and will continue to do so until the election.

John Clontz said that he was not aware of any citations in three weeks since April 10 and will continue to do so until the election.

State asks and Fiscal Court answers questions

The state wants to know what the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court intends to do about the deficiencies in their 1986 Solid Waste Management Plan.

Actually they wanted to know about a year ago. But, during the fiscal court's April meeting Tim Schwendeman of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District met with the court to help them answer those deficiencies that were noted by the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet during an April 1988 inspection.

During that inspection the state noted that the county had not initiated any steps to enter the Kentucky Clean Community Program, nor were they encouraging recycling.

The county had 45 days from May 3, 1988 for answer the state's questions in writing, but until April 5, 1989 the county had not responded. Their continued delay would have resulted in enforcement action by the state and would have jeopardized future federal and state grant applications.

In their response to the state's request, the county said they would direct Lester Bullock, the county's garbage co-ordinator to contact the Keep America Beautiful program in an effort to solicit assistance in establishing a locally based education program.

The court said that they would also direct Bullock to contact the Division of Waste Management in an effort to establish county-wide recycling programs.

Although the original garbage plan called for a franchised door-to-door pickup, the fiscal court now intends to change the collection system to a permit system because they think it will be more effective and help to reduce the financial burden on fixed income families.

To do that the county has to amend their original plan, which they indicated to the state that they intend to do.

Residents circulate petition against new site for office building

By: Richard Anderkin

A petition is being circulated in protest of the possible location of the state's office building on West Main Street in Mt. Vernon.

Several residents of that area including Mrs. Pat Midkiff are upset because they think the state is preparing to move the Human Resources office to a building recently built by Ted and Verla Scott.

Mrs. Scott is the county Democratic chairperson.

Mrs. Midkiff and four other individuals have been circulating a petition against the location of the offices. They have 104 signatures to date.

Mrs. Midkiff said Tuesday that her efforts and the efforts of the others involved were not politically motivated and that there was nothing personal against the Scotts.

The petition has been sent to the state department and Mrs. Midkiff has received written confirmation that the petition has been received.

"West Main Street is a residential area and we feel that the proposed site will be potentially dangerous to the lives of our children," Mrs. Midkiff said.

The eleven-year resident of West Main has written the state department before concerning the matter and each time she has received letters back, but the wheels seem to keep turning toward moving the offices to West Main.

"Our protests probably won't do any good, but at least they will know that we are not happy about it," Mrs. Midkiff said. "We think that besides being dangerous for our children the increased traffic flow would cause the value of our homes to drop and make parking for us an even greater problem" she said.

"West Main is a residential area and no place for a state office building," she said.

The Finance and Administration Cabinet placed an ad in the Signal on March 16 asking for 5,500 square feet of office space with 28 parking spaces in Mt. Vernon. They want to occupy their new offices by June 1.

Dear Editor,
My classroom would like to thank Mrs. Carolyn Hinton for coming and talking to our class about Africa. We also want to thank our fellow student, her daughter, Monnie Hinton, for asking her to come and talk to us.

Mrs. Graves's classroom has been studying about Africa for about two weeks and we have enjoyed it very, very much.

Mrs. Hinton showed us slides about Africa and items from Africa. We learned a lot about Africa. We learned the kinds of things they did like carry things on their heads. Some Africans are afraid of cameras - they are afraid the camera will capture their souls! They even carry cases of pop bottle on their heads for five or six miles. We thought it was really neat! So thank you, Mrs. Hinton!

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the eighth grade students and faculty of Livingston Elementary School, I would like to express our appreciation to The Bank of Mt. Vernon and The Citizens Bank for matching funds along with Ashland Oil Company, that enabled us to participate in the program "A Day On Campus" offered by The Council on Higher Education.

The goal of this program is acquainting students with college life, building their interest and motivation for going to college, and giving them a deeper appreciation of what education should mean to them.

Our tour included a visit to the planetarium, art gallery and a tour of the campus.

Thank you for affording us the opportunity to participate in this educational and enlightening experience.

Sincerely,
Mary B. Hamm

Dear Editor,
Years ago in "The Mother Earth News" magazine, they had articles on how you could build a small still for a few hundred dollars and legally distill, with a government permit, say six gallons of wood or methyl alcohol per day. In a 100 proof, out of fast growing, hybrid poplar trees at about half the cost of gasoline, to be used as a fuel for gasoline type motors and how perhaps by just adding an extra manifold and extra carburetor, you could operate a motor vehicle on just alcohol fuel.

In the Mar/Apr 1989 issue of that magazine, in the classified, they have where you can send to buy perhaps uprooted cuttings of hybrid poplar trees for as little as 12 cents each in quantity, which in four years growth, are supposed to grow a tree 4 to 5 inches in diameter or about five cords per acre of popular firewood. By planting say 1/4 of those fast growing hybrid trees per year, in four years you could harvest one-quarter of the number of acres planted of marginal, non crop producing property each year, in continuous replanting and harvesting of trees as a crop.

On marginal non crop producing property, without that other the planting and harvesting, I can think of little trouble involved with growing trees, except perhaps running rotary till through that boundary every so often to knock down the competing vegetation such as weeds, though perhaps some fertilizer added each year could improve the growth of these trees.

By planting some marginal property in these trees, with a still and the conversion a farmer could grow enough trees to produce enough alcohol, to operate all of his gasoline powered equipment on alcohol as a fuel, at maybe half the cost per gallon as gasoline and failing to do that, in four years, he would be able to harvest say five cords of firewood, per planted acre of these fast growing hybrid trees.

With the oil spillage in Alaska and the increasing price of oil, it may be time for the American public to look at Domestically produced alcohol, as a lower cost driving fuel. The time involved would perhaps be the major cost involved, as other than the cost of planting and harvesting these fast growing trees, perhaps spread out over four years time, it shouldn't cost too much to run wood troughs still, to distill say six gallons of wood or methyl alcohol per day to be used as a fuel.

These fast growing trees perhaps would provide enough oxygen to the air to help, if planted by the National Forest Service nationwide, to the oxygen taken from the air, by burning of the rain forests in the country of Brazil and as these fast growing trees grow roots, it may help some, from top soil being washed away by the recent floods in Kentucky.

Dear Editor,
As you know in our schools and homes people tell their children to say no to drugs and I live and believe in that. But I feel the lawyers and judges don't really go along with that. And I feel that if they can be paid off we need better lawyers and judges in the courtrooms. When they let someone off for giving drugs to a S.E. student then I feel sorry for the word they call law. If that's the law I don't want no part of the law and this unfair county.

When I was employed at Kentucky Highlands Investment Corporation during the seventies and early eighties an hour never passed in the office during which the word "risk" was not used a dozen or more times. Six or eight people made excellent livings trying to fit entrepreneurs and their ideas into an intellectual apparatus that was called a "risk profile". The long and short, (mostly long) of the exercise was to figure out what kind of chance was being taken before the company invested any cash in a business.

I personally have never had any cash that I could afford to take much risk. I have never lost a nickel in the Stock Market though and not a single business has ever gone belly up to cause me financial ruin. When I worry about money it generally has to do with the rent and the juice bill. Still, I have been intrigued with this whole notion of risk taking and I have been trying to apply the principles of risk profile gauging to a personal situation that has me in a bit of a quandry just now.

For several years I lived on a gravel road that wasn't traveled all that much and I only had one close neighbor. During warm weather I got into the habit of running out to the edge of the road every morning at dawn to fetch my daily paper dressed only in my undies. I would look in both directions to make sure no traffic was coming, check to make sure that my neighbor was not peering out the window and then make my dash which required no more than ten or twelve seconds. There wasn't much chance of getting caught but still the exercise seemed risky and daring.

Now we live right beside Hwy 52, its 75 yards to the paper box and five neighbors can see my front lawn. My family has informed me that if I go back to my old paper retrieving habit and get caught they will disassociate themselves from my kinship and acquaintance. In short, the odds have gone up considerably. The risk profile has changed dramatically and the time has come to see just how much of a gambler I really am.

I don't think there is any law against going to get the paper in my underwear, however, the highway is frequently traveled by the State Police and I can't come up with one benefit

Hello to everyone. Hope you are well and happy.

As I sit here at my dining room table writing this, I'm also thinking of the bright sunshine and the lovely day. Springtime is such a beautiful time of the year when Mother Nature decks out in all her brighter colors. So let's enjoy each day to the fullest and always remember to thank God for all the wonderful blessings we receive.

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend and one hundred and thirty seven were present for Sunday School. Thank the good Lord for each one.

Our church is blessed with so many young people and we are fortunate to have them and just thank God that they love the Lord enough that they want to assemble in His House.

Congratulations to Brad Proctor of Snider whose story was featured on the front page of last week's edition of the Signal. Bad news gets the spotlight in today's world but rarely do we hear or read of good news. We are proud of Brad for standing up for what he believes in. He is to be commended and praised for his action.

And while I'm on this subject, I'd like to say that out there in the world we have many good decent, honest, respectable God fearing people. People that we love and trust, so don't ever think our world today is all bad. Just remember God is in control of all things and still rules the universe.

In the absence of our pastor Rev. Hayes Personel, fitting in for him was Rev. Roy Boatright of Louisville last Wednesday night. We enjoyed him so much. And he will be with us this coming Wednesday night again as our pastor will be in revival services at the Roundstone Baptist Church. We pray that their revival will be successful and also pray that souls will be saved in other revivals also.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Malone and Cletus Peters attended the "Woods-men of the World" Insurance Convention in Owensboro March 31 - April 2. Had a very enjoyable time.

Robert Chasteen of Berea visited with us on Sunday afternoon, he had also visited his mother Mrs. Annie Chasteen near Macedonia.

Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Ridgell and daughter Sherry were Sunday guests of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ridgell of Corbin.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Anderkin of Snider on Sunday afternoon, in celebration of his birthday, were Herbert Anderkin of Berea, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Gabbard and Gail Lee of Snider, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Seiber and family of Scaffold Cane and Mr. and Mrs. Preston Anderkin, Cletus Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Malone and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Anderkin and family of the Fairview area. Ice cream and cake were served and they all had a good time. Edgar, we wish for you many more years of good health and happiness.

Visiting his mother Mrs. Mary Cope over the weekend were her son William and wife Joyce and their family of Dayton, Ohio.

The Fairview softball team is having a yard sale plus bake sale at Brad's store - Snider - U.S. 25 - mile 22nd, starting at 9 o'clock. All donations will be appreciated. We hope to see you there for this worthy cause. Thank you.

Please remember church and Sunday School. Pray for the unsaved people that you know, and for the many who are ill, lonely, mistreated and heart broken. They need our prayers, love and support. God bless you all.

Your Child's Health

By: Dr. John Payne

What is the worst symptom possible in illness? The pain of a kidney stone? The pain of childbirth? The pain of a bad burn? There are many different answers. For children as well as many adults, nausea or the feeling just before you vomit, is close to the top of the list of yuckness. Terms like "Death warmed over," or "You have to get better to die" may come to mind. The physiology of nausea, when the normal peristalsis, or movement of the intestinal tract, gets reversed, is complicated.

Usually we think of the changes in the normal bodily function we call nausea and vomiting to be due to gastroenteritis, or "a stomach virus." Frequently viral infections of the GI tract can be because. However, there can be many other reasons, especially in children.

Around Brodhead

By: Mary McWhorter

Let us all remember Brodhead Homecoming May 26 and 27th. Lots of activities such as flea market, ballgames, gospel singing, beauty queen, parade and much more.

Johnny and Betty Cooper of Dearborn, Michigan were visitors of Johnny's aunt, Mrs. Mary McCullah of Mt. Vernon. They also visited Bob and Mary Adams in Brodhead.

Grant and Hazel Petry visited her sister, Mrs. Ada Lawson at Pipeville last Saturday night.

Mrs. Bonnie Martin and her mother Mrs. Bertie Taylor and I enjoyed a short visit Sunday evening in my driveway, as Bertie didn't feel up to coming in the house. She is sure enjoying being out in the car and we hope and pray she will keep improving, we really miss her at church.

Mrs. Mabel Burdette was Tuesday visitor of Mrs. Fannie B. Albright, also Mrs. Elizabeth Houston was Wednesday supper guest of Fannie B.

We were so happy to have all our visitors from each and every congregation, at our meeting with Bro. Robert Jackson, this past week. I would mention all the places but afraid of leaving some out. We sure must all profit from so many good plain lessons from the Word of God. Bro. Danny McKibben also does a fine job of presenting the gospel to us in its fullness. Let's all try harder to live closer each day to our Lord.

Mrs. Lula Bussell has returned to her home after spending some time in the Rockcastle County Hospital, we hope she continues to improve.

Mrs. Edna Hicks Lightly of Sun City Center, Fla. and her daughter Barbara Shaffer Hixles of Lexington were in Brodhead recently, Apr. 14, visiting friends and checking on their family burial plots in the Piney grove Cemetery.

RCBL holds banquet; gives awards

The 1988/89 RCBL drew to a close Monday night with an awards dinner at the Family Life Center recreation building in Renfro Valley. Several of the ten churches involved in this year's league attended. Teams participating in the 1988/89 season include Bible Baptist, Broadhead Baptist, Grace Baptist, First Baptist, First Christian Northside Baptist, Ottawa Baptist (2 teams), Roundstone Baptist, Scaffold Cane Baptist and Wildie Christian Churches.

This is the league's second year in existence and the league grew from 6 teams to 10 teams. More are expected next year when the league begins its third year. Plans are already underway and discussion is being held as to how to accommodate more teams. If your church is interested in playing next year you need to contact one of the following people: Doug Mullins (256-4336) or Eddie Hammond (256-2876). The 1989/90 league plans to begin earlier in November.

At the awards dinner the following awards were presented:
First Place League - First Christian

Church
Second Place League - Grace Baptist Church
Third Place League - Broadhead Baptist Church
Tournament Champion - Bible Baptist Church
Tournament Runner-Up - Ottawa #1

Players on the tournament winners also received individual trophies. Two other awards were handed out as well. The Outstanding Christian Athlete, nominated by his teammates and selected by league directors honors the player who not only demonstrated superior athletic ability, but also demonstrated a Christian character on the court. The Philipians 2:5 ("Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus.") honors the player who both on and off the court demonstrated in his life the mind and attitude of Christ. The winners were:
Outstanding Christian Athlete - Dennis Harris (Ottawa)
Philipians 2:5 Award - Doug Mullins (Ottawa) The participating churches and their families that attended the awards dinner were given an opportunity to express their appreciation and share positive experiences from being a part of the 1988/89 RCBL. Several commented on how their lives had been enriched in the fellowship. Others commented on that fact that the league had brought Christians together and some commented on how the league had influenced some to become Christians. The evening concluded with several churches joining hands in prayer and singing, "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love, the fellowship of kindred minds is like that above."

A special thanks goes to Jerry Pensol for faithfully opening and closing the gym so that we could play, to John Hale and the Mt. Vernon Elementary School for the use of the building and standing behind the league in every way. To Doug Mullins and David Pensol who saw to it that things were done properly.

Already plans are being made to continue the fellowship that has to be gained by calling myself to the attention of any law enforcement officers. Nor would I want word to get out in the community that I was seen standing beside the road in a pair of red striped skivvies explaining something to a highway patrolman. The neighbors are already speculating as to why I sometimes keep a light on till 2 a.m. in the room that contains my office.

There's enough material in a single pair of my drawers to make all three of my daughters swim suit similar in design, if not color, to the ones they parade around in with no apparent embarrassment. Yet they say they would be mortified if one of their friends saw me in my underwear! Carol says that she would have to move out of the county and start all over.

Ron Peterson who works with me in Mt. Vernon has suggested that I simply announce in the paper the exact date and time that I intend to make my risqué paper run and invite everybody who wants to watch to line up and observe. Frankly I wouldn't be much embarrassed to do that but it would defeat my whole purpose. The challenge here is to do it without getting caught. And, of course, to determine exactly where I fit on the risk profile.

GARDENING TIP
Lloyd Huff of Mt. Vernon wrote to suggest that dried chicken manure, straight from the hen house, be sprinkled liberally around your onion bulbs on top of the ground after the onions are well sprouted. Lloyd says he's not sure what the manure contains, but that it will make your onions grow bigger and taste sweeter.

Mrs. Harold Davis of Vico suggests that cucumber vines be cropped after they reach three feet long. She says the plant wilts just as much fruit on the shortened vine and that the growth that normally would have gone into the vine will go into the fruit. She says this is also a good way to keep your cucumber vines from taking over the whole garden and that is also worth well for watermelons and cantaloupes.

Remember, send your tips to Ike Adams, Rt. 2 Box 50, Paint Lick, Ky. 40461. We'll put em in the paper so that everybody can have a better garden.

This week's Poetry

"WHY?"

Why was there a Vietnam War?
What was the meaning, what was it for?
Why did we fight in the Vietnam War?
That wasted so many lives, a forgotten war.

My husband Billy, he was there,
Our government used him and now they don't care.
Vietnam robbed him of a normal life.
I happened to know, I was his wife.

His fate was sealed when he stepped into Vietnam,
Afterward, his life wasn't easy, he never was calm.
He had PTSD, at least that's what it's called,
For his country, his life, he gave his all.

He never did receive compensation for his PTSD,
It is unjust, unfair, or so it seems to me.
We've fought a long hard battle, so far we haven't won,
But I'll keep fighting VA, until nothing can be done.

Billy Died July 24, 1988 and now he's gone.

He left behind a grieving family, especially his wife and two sons, So I still ask the question "Why was there a Vietnam War?"

What was the meaning, what was it for?

Mama

By: Virginia P. Holt

M is for Mama the most wonderful Mama in the world

I want to do more for her each day
As is for always. She is always there anytime, anywhere and for anyone who needs her

M is for the many things she has done for me. I'm thankful for all she's done, but could never thank her enough

As is for April. The 21st is her birthday. Wishing her many more happy ones, and good health. God bless you always.

The Wall

By: Karen Noe

I'm on the verge of being All I need to be
But, I need to break down the walls That keep me from being free.

I'm guilty of the obsession Of the bad things of life
Instead of seeing happiness I see loneliness and surfeit.

I need someone to break these walls That has me burdened down
Stone by stone they have to go Then myself can be found.

Don't be afraid to tell me All the things I need to do
To help me be myself again To do what I must do.

In Memory of Coit Brock Dedicated to David Brock

By: Mayzell Ries

Daddy, why did you have to go?
Why did you leave?
I loved you so,
Didn't you know I'd grieve?

I remember when you walked to town
Everybody loved you,
And now they miss you because you aren't around

I know someday I'll see you and
mama
When God calls me home
To that beautiful place called Heaven
No more will I be alone

'Diary of an Unborn Child'

By: Ada Bullock

Sept. 1st I'm such a tiny thing small as a seed

But alive just the same just living and waiting

To enter the world

I know mommy will be proud of her little girl

For she has given me a safe place to grow

And I'll make her happy for I'll love her so

And there's my daddy I'll bring him such joy

He'll love me as much as he would a boy

Oct. 1st oh I can hardly wait my legs and arms

Are beginning to shape and before long

Tiny fingers will start then will come

The beat of my heart

I wonder if yet they've picked a name?

Something like Lisa Betty or Jane

I'm getting impatient for I'll be awhile

Before I can see my mommy's sweet smile

BLUE GRASS STOCKYARDS

Price is Reliable

You can count on consistency in at least one important thing at Blue Grass Stockyards: better prices for your livestock. Prices are consistently higher at Blue Grass than at any other market in Kentucky.

That's because Blue Grass draws more buyers than any other yard in the region. So, price competition among buyers is always working in your favor. And, experienced graders at Blue Grass Stockyards know animals — and they know how to treat you, too.

Blue Grass is one of the largest markets in the United States, and has been for a lot of years. That means you always receive top dollar for your livestock.

At Blue Grass, good prices are something you can bank on.

Rockcastle

To the People of Rockcastle County:

Opponents: The May 23rd Judge Executive primary will determine who of four candidates will carry the banner in the fall election. Whoever wins the primary I am hopeful that each of the other three will support. Further, during the campaign it is my desire and plan to say nothing worse about any candidate than the following: One is a trusted colleague. One was an excellent neighbor for ten years. One is my well-liked former teacher.

Candidates: I have made a commitment to each of the candidates for various offices that I will not "meddle" in their races. This commitment will be kept and hopefully will result in a united court house this fall.

Enemies: The enemies of man include war, pestilence, and famine. Rockcastle has enemies, also. Unemployment, under-employment, lack of public water, roads that need upgrading, trashed landscape, people left out of the governing process, to mention a few. All of us working together can fight these real enemies.

Progress: The small business person employing 1-10 individuals is vitally important. The large industry employing up to 300+ individuals is vitally important. Both have needs in common—supportive, informed government leaders. For example, money is available through the CVAD board at approximately 5% interest for job expansion. Kentucky Highlands Investment Corporation, London has expansion money. Farmers Home Administration has business and industry development money for job creation. The Southern Kentucky Economic Development Organization can provide assistance. These are just four of the programs established to help us help ourselves. I will work with employers large and small including those currently in Rockcastle County and those yet to be recruited.

Approach: My approach to county government will be to work hard, to ask the right questions, to take good advice, and to extend good treatment to all.

Ladies Aid Missionary Society

By: Mrs. Elizabeth F. Mullins

On April 11, at 7 p.m., the ladies missionary group of Brodhead Christian Church met at Betty Mach's home in Mt. Vernon.

Barbara Watson presented the lesson on Walter Scott. He left Scotland to come to the new world to teach. He attended Church at Pittsburgh, Pa. This unusual congregation caused Scott to engage in a detailed study of the Bible. Scot met Alexander Campbell for the first time during the winter of 1821-22. His mutual respect for the scriptures caused them to become lifelong friends.

The group's president Ella Mae Martin asked for minutes to be read and donations given for missions.

She also gave each of our eight cards to sign our names, etc. that took almost an hour. These birthday and Mother's Day cards will be given to patients at Sowder Nursing Home.

Reports were made on the Ladies Retreat, June 2 and 3.

We all rejoiced over the news that our Christian Church was building a new parsonage on the lot next door to the church. This lot was bought for this purpose years ago.

After a blessing, we were invited to sit around the Mach's dining table to partake of refreshments.

Betty should be an interior decorator. Her arrangement of furniture, picture grouping, etc. is always different and beautiful! And so was her refreshments of cake, cheese ball, sausage slices and crackers.

We departed feeling happy with accomplishment, Christian fellowship, plans and looking forward to meeting in May with Jenney Gilpin in London with Arlene Marshall presenting the lesson.

Enjoy Asparagus this spring

By: Cheryl Witt
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Chances are you and your family are already enjoying one of the spring season's delicious treats - fresh asparagus. A member of the lily of the valley family, asparagus is the first vegetable that comes up in the spring. Asparagus is a luxury vegetable at other times of the year because the cost is high for the frozen or canned product.

While easily grown in the home garden, asparagus takes time to get the roots established. If you don't find a gardenful, you should be able to find plentiful supplies at the market from March to July. Look for straight stalks with closed compact tips, and good green color almost the entire length.

This bright green vegetable is an excellent source of vitamin A, and also has a good amount of vitamins B and C and the mineral iron.

Fresh asparagus may be stored in the refrigerator crispier or wrapped in plastic and placed in the refrigerator for two or three days. To prepare, snap off the tough lower part of the stalk by holding the vegetable with both hands and bending gently to find the place where the tough section ends. Snap the stalk first and then if you want the stalks all the same length, place tips together and cut the ends even. Use these small, tender ends in a stir-fry dish.

Thoroughly wash the trimmed asparagus under running cold water. Dirt often accumulates in the small scales. When you clean asparagus ahead of time, wrap the washed stalks in absorbent paper and refrigerate in the vegetable crisper until ready-to-use - no longer than a couple of hours.

For the best flavor and quality, as well as to retain the most nutrients, boil the stalks or crispier or wrapped in plastic and place in the refrigerator for two or three days. To prepare, snap off the tough lower part of the stalk by holding the vegetable with both hands and bending gently to find the place where the tough section ends. Snap the stalk first and then if you want the stalks all the same length, place tips together and cut the ends even. Use these small, tender ends in a stir-fry dish.

Get Conservation plan first

Farmers and ranchers who do not yet have the conservation plans they need to comply with the 1985 Farm Bill must be aware of the Dec. 31, 1989 deadline. The deadline is less than a year away and those individuals needing a conservation plan to remain in compliance to receive certain fits should act now to avoid any long lines or delays as the deadline approaches.

David G. Edwards, a Rockcastle District Conservationist says that farmers needing conservation plans are being scheduled to visit the local Soil Conservation Service Office to complete the necessary plans. The plans are flexible in such a way that farmers are given a choice of economically feasible, soil saving conservation practices to use on their highly erodible lands.

Edwards also stated a lot of farmers have already been using conservation practices such as contouring, crop rotation, cover crop and conservation tillage. In many cases these practices are all that are needed to apply a conservation plan to remain in compliance.

As a farmer, producer or other participant in USDA programs - FmHA loans, Federal Crop Insurance, etc., you are reminded to obtain a conservation plan on your highly erodible fields that you plan to use for crop production. Persons receiving USDA benefits must have an approved conservation plan on their highly erodible fields by Dec. 31, 1989 to remain in compliance.

Landowners needing a conservation plan on their highly erodible fields should contact the local Soil Conservation Service at 256-2541.

Local Angus Breeder recognized nationally

Lonnie Gene Cash, Broadhead, has been recognized nationally by the American Angus Association for having one registered Angus cow included in the American Angus Association's 1989 Pathfinder Report.

Only 885 of the more than 24,000 members of the American Angus Association are represented in this year's report, according to Richard Spader, executive vice president of the American Angus Association with headquarters in St. Joseph, Missouri.

The Pathfinder Program identifies superior Angus cows based upon recorded performance traits that are economically important to efficient beef production. These traits include regular calving and heavy weaning weights, reports John Couch, director of performance programs for the American Angus Association. All registered Angus cows that meet the strict Pathfinder standards are listed, along with their owners, in the Pathfinder Report which is published annually by the American Angus Association.

The 1989 Pathfinder Report lists 3,438 individual cows. It is published in the May issue of the Angus Journal and extra copies are available from the American Angus Association. The largest number of Pathfinder cows from a single herd this year is 100, and several hundred breeders have a single cow that qualifies for the exclusive listing.

KET airs American Playhouse Special "Big Time"

"Big Time," a 90-minute television adaptation of Keith Redin's stage drama about the lifestyles and social values of today's yuppie generation, premieres on KET at 9 p.m. Wednesday, May 3.

This presentation focuses on the fast-paced, unfulfilled lives of three young professionals: Fran (Mia Sara), a fashion model who regards modeling as an empty profession and yearns to become a serious actress; Michael (Dennis Boutsikaris), a successful investment banker and the man who supports Fran; and Paul (Adrian Pasdar), a commercial cameraman/photographer who is Michael's friend and Fran's lover.

"Big Time" uses strong visual images and minimalist dialogue to emphasize and accentuate the emptiness of these three unfulfilled lives. As the drama unfolds, the viewer becomes increasingly conscious of the materialism and sense of futility that pervades the world in which these three live.

Gradually, Fran realizes she is existing in an artificial world and takes steps to improve her situation. Through Fran's enlightenment, "Big Time" makes the point that all beauty

Safer - Better Roads

The Reason I Have No Caps

I intend to treat all people equal before and after the election, which has not been done in the past. In traveling over the roads, I have seen a lot of misused tax dollars - your money. Such as putting blacktop down on frozen roads and on top of snow, patching potholes full of water with blacktop, grading the roads when frozen or so wet the gravel would wash into the ditches, trying to cut a ditch line with the grader, putting gravel on a road that comes to a dead end and no one using it regular.

Now, when it comes the proper time to repair roads, there will be no money and you will have to wait another 3 years to get the same thing. If elected, I will not do this. I will travel the roads and check their condition and work them at the proper time so you can receive more for your tax dollars.

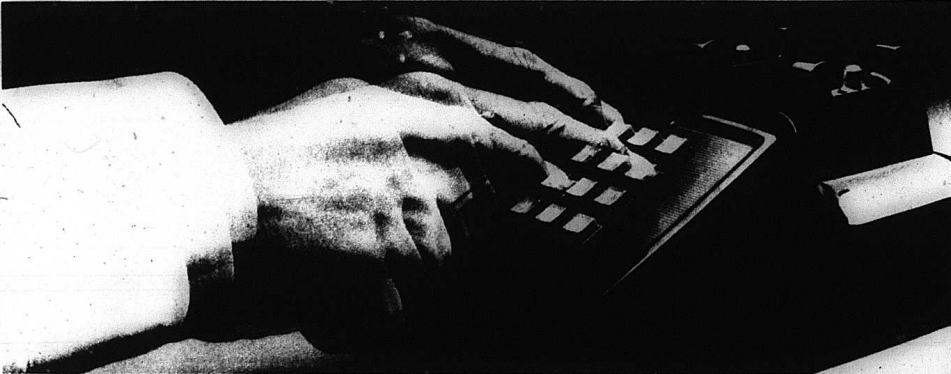

One reason I will travel the roads is to make sure they are as safe as possible for the safety of your children riding school buses. This is the most important thing. The break off around culverts and around curves is too dangerous. If a bus or car hit one, it could be a serious thing. This is more important than putting gravel that just goes in the ditches. I checked one road with 9 breaks around culverts. I drove a school bus 2 years and I know first hand how it looks from the driver's seat. I have also built roads under state contract and also private roads. I know first hand about the safety plus the maintenance and costs of roads to see that you are not getting any of them. Also, check some of the bridges and see what the school buses go over with their children.

Nov. 1st my I'm growing fast
I bet mommy will notice
The pounds she adds
of course she won't mind
To be overweight
for in a short time
Again she'll look great and having me there
To cuddle and love
will make her so happy
She'll thank God above
and I can just see
My daddy's big smile
as he reaches for me
To hold for awhile

Dec. 1st that "voice" I haven't heard before
A doctor is saying
come through this door
And I have a feeling
something is wrong
For mommy keeps saying
it'll take long!
No says the doctor
very soon you can smile
You wouldn't be here
had you wanted this child
Now I'm afraid
mommy please let me live
Oh they just killed me
can God forgive?

My Old Chevrolet
By: Ada Bullock

My old Chevrolet
will take me anywhere

She's not an eyecatcher
but to me she's a dear

Out on the highway
she purrs like a kitten
And many miles per gallon of gas I'm gettin'
There's no monthly payments
for which I'm so proud
Though she's not appealing to the new car crowd

But when I visit dealers and look new ones over
The price on the stickers makes me love her more

High interest rates
I had to consider
To replace old faithful with style and glitter

So I'll be content
and thankful each day
And keep on driving
my old Chevrolet

The Lottery
By: Mayzell Ries

I can't believe Kentucky
Would let the lottery in
It takes food from the children
It hopes their parents might win

People are so foolish
To think they'll win
In my book, all the lottery is doing
Is leading the people to sin

They'd rather buy tickets

Than buy the food they need
They are money hungry
And also full of greed

People on welfare and food stamps
Are buying them too
In hope it will make them rich
They'll lose their money, and cry,
boo hoo

People playing poker
And sometimes shooting craps
The police raid them
And bring them in for raps

What's the difference with the lottery
'That is gambling too
People risk their money
And then what will they do

Crying for more welfare and food stamps
To carry them through
And when the first of the month rolls around
They'll blow it again, it's true

I will not buy those foolish tickets
No money will they get from me
I'll save the money that I get
For something I really need

Fast Food Chains
By: Vickie Petrey

My family likes to go there,
We eat there quite a lot.
If we get there early,
The food we're served is hot.

The atmosphere is friendly,
Poor service will not be had.
With bright smiles they cover
How the food is really bad.

The personnel is helpful,
They are cheerful all day long.
And they do their best
To get your order wrong.

My apologies to food chains,
Your food is really great.
But my poetry might be better
If at your shops I had not ate.

'Report Cards in Heaven'
By: Thomas Dooley

Will there be report cards in heaven?
Will grades be given?
Could it then there be an 'A' for me,
In place of the usual 'C' or 'D'.

Will I fume and fret and hear my mom say
Did you get your report card today?

Oh! yes I agree to make good grades is up to me.
Could it be I got off to a
'bad start, or am I just not very smart?

It does seem rather absurd to be 25, in high school and be Called a "Nerd".

Will my grades be transferred to the sky?
Because my mom says I'll be a junior till I die.

Jesus, Will Change You
By: Anna L. Clifford

Since I've come to know the Saviour
I've experienced such a change
I see different, hear different and I sure don't feel the same

My life is all new now
heaven I'm going to gain
Someone came and died for me
'Christ Jesus is His name

I go through life wearing a smile
nothing is the same
I've put off the old, put on the new
I'm so thankful for the change

When I see someone who looks so down
and on their face a frown
I think, if you knew my Jesus
He sure could turn that frown around

'My Eternal Flower'
By: Ada Bullock

While traveling along life's highway
so many flowers we see
Sometimes we stop and pick them
without thinking seriously

And when they fade and wither
their petals soon decay
We know we picked the wrong one that bloomed along the way

I watched while they were budding and prayed that I would find
One that would bloom forever to share this world of mine

When I say you darling
so different from the rest
I knew my search had ended
for I had found the best

Now we have a heaven
just made for you and me
And as the years are passing you bloom more beautifully

You're like a ray of sunshine that clouds can never hide
And every time I need you

you're right here by my side

When you say "I love you"
and tell me o'er and o'er
I thank God in heaven
and ask for nothing more

What else is there to offer?
The world he's given me
My flower he created to bloom eternally

Basketball at Its Best
By: John Holbrook

When UK played Ole Miss,
It was nip and tuck all night long
The Cats were playing on guts and soul
But Ole Miss. continued strong

The Cats had scratched all night long
And were two points in the hole
So what they needed most
Was any kind of a three point goal

There were only seconds left but the cats did have the ball
When they crossed mid-court line
The last time out, they did call

They gathered around Coach Sutton
As they worked out the final play
Whether they would win or lose
He's had his final say

The ball came in with eleven seconds left
And was passed around a bit
Richey Farmer shot the ball
And the three point goal was hit

When it went into the air
It was a pretty thing
Then it went through the hoop
And hit nothing but the string

There was joy in Rupp Arena
And the fans let out a roar
The players surrounded Richey
Farmer
And they all fell to the floor

The game was finally over
And this close one was a win
I'm so glad Richey Farmer
You were the one that put it in

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY
AUDITOR
OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

125 CAPITOL ANNEX
FRANKFORT 40601

BOB BARBAGE

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Wallace E. Wilkinson, Governor
Honorable Hubert Thacker, County Judge/Executive
Members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court

We have examined the statement of assets, liabilities, and fund balances arising from cash transactions of Rockcastle County, Kentucky, as of June 30, 1988, and the related statement of cash receipts, cash disbursements, and changes in cash balances for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards, the Single Audit Act of 1984, the provisions of OMB Circular A-128, Audits of State and Local Governments, and the Audit Guide for County Governments issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

As recommended by the State Office of Finance, pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 68.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. This cash basis system does not require the maintenance of a general fixed asset group or general long-term debt group of accounts. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly the assets, liabilities, and fund balances arising from cash transactions of Rockcastle County as of June 30, 1988, and the related statement of cash receipts, cash disbursements, and changes in cash balances for the year then ended, in conformity with the accounting system described above, applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The accompanying additional information, provided on Schedules A through D, including the schedule of federal financial assistance programs, is not necessary for a fair presentation of the financial statements, but is presented as additional analytical data. This information has been subjected to tests and other audit procedures applied in the examination of the financial statements mentioned above and, in our opinion, is fairly stated in all material respects in relation to the financial statements taken as a whole.

COMMENTS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

As required by the Single Audit Act of 1984, we have reported on the county's financial statements (page 1), its system of internal accounting and administrative controls (page 22), and the county's compliance with laws and regulations (page 25). The following comments and recommendations were disclosed during our examination of the financial statements and our study and evaluation of the county's system of internal controls and its compliance with laws and regulations.

Prior Year Comments and Recommendations

In the prior year audit report, we reported several areas of non-compliance. Those that have not been corrected are commented on in the current year audit findings. The noncorrected findings are as follows:

- 1) An administrative code was not adopted.
- 2) The county did not invest General Fund surplus moneys.

Current Year Comments and Recommendations

Internal Accounting and Administrative Controls of All County Programs:

- 1) The Fiscal Court Should Adopt an Administrative Code
The county does not operate under an administrative code. KRS 67.710 requires the County Judge/Executive to prepare and submit an administrative code to the fiscal court, and KRS 68.005 requires the fiscal court to adopt an administrative code. We again recommend compliance with these statutes.
- 2) The County Should Invest General Fund Surplus Moneys
The county did not invest General Fund surplus moneys during the fiscal year 1988. We again recommend the county invest surplus funds in interest-bearing checking accounts or certificates of deposit.

We are confident the above findings and recommendations will be useful to you in managing the operations of the county in a manner consistent with effective accounting and compliance controls.

Sincerely,
Bob Barbage
Bob Barbage
Auditor of Public Accounts

Audit fieldwork completed -

The above transmittal letter accompanied the audit report presented to fiscal court and is published pursuant to KRS 43.090(2).

An inside view of the political power game airs on KET

KET gives viewers an insider's look at how the political game is played in the new four-part series The Power Game. Installation one, "The Congress," airs on KET at 10 p.m. Thursday, May 4.

The Power Game features interviews with Democrats and Republicans, White House staff and members of Congress, bureaucrats and lobbyists the show horses and work horses of Capitol Hill. The series also offers discussions with media members who cover, or once covered, the Washington beat.

According to Smith, host and correspondent for the series, a "power earthquake" shook the American political system in the early '70s, reshaping Washington in ways not completely understood by many Americans.

Smith provides a fresh analysis of the "new" Washington by taking viewers behind the scenes to show who really has power, what games politicians play to get power, and how they often misuse the power they acquire. This series points to the new breed of politician playing with modern style of rules in a wide-open arena.

The Power Game is a co-production of Philip Burton Productions, Inc. and Maryland Public Television.

Sanctions and Apartheid in South Africa on KET during Firing Line Special

Five prominent South Africans speak directly to United States citizens on the subject of U.S. and world sanctions against South Africa when Sanctions and Apartheid: A Firing Line Special from South Africa airs on KET at 3 p.m., Sunday, April 30.

Host William F. Buckley Jr. offers his guests an opportunity to discuss recent events in their country and voice their opinions about American policy in the area.

The guests represent a diverse spectrum of thought: Helen Suzman, member of Parliament and a founding member of South Africa's liberal Progressive Federal Party, is an advocate for blacks; P. W. Botha is the foreign minister of the National Party, which has been in power in South Africa for more than 40 years; Koos Vander Merwe is a member of Parliament and director of information for South Africa's Conservative Party, the party of the far right.

Dr. Oscar Dumisani Dhlomo is minister of education and culture for the homeland area of KwaZulu, home to most of the 7 million Zulus, South Africa's largest tribal group; and James Ngcoya, secretary of the 75,000-member South African Bus Tax and Bus Association, an association of blacks striving for greater economic participation in South Africa.

All five guests are widely known in their own right and in their positions as spokespersons for a significant constituency. Each will be given the chance to make a statement as well as engage in free debate. Firing Line plans to present a series of three additional programs devoted to understanding South Africa.

Firing Line is produced by the Southern Educational Communications Association (SECA); Warren Steibel, producer/director.

Voices of Memory on KET

From the legends of Star Wars movies to urban rapping, oral history is alive and well, according to a new KET production, Voices of Memory—one-hour special, airing on KET at 9 p.m. Monday, May 8, traces the roots of cultures in the southeastern United States that have preserved their histories through the oral tradition, enriching the lives of all Americans.

The Cherokee Nation
Today, atop the Southern Highlands in western North Carolina, surviving traditions continue as members of the Cherokee nation record for posterity events and aspects of Cherokee life. Their stories include recollections of actions in 1838 that led to a forced march of the Cherokee and Choctaw Indians from the Southeastern U.S. to the Oklahoma area, a tragic trip referred to by the tribes as the Trail of Tears.

In Voices of Memory, the viewer meets Lois Calonehuskie, codirector of the Fading Voices Project, poet Marilyn Awika, and native American Richard Crowe who continue to preserve Cherokee traditions and practices. It is through the spiritual meanings and lessons found in Cherokee legends, Crowe says, that love for humanity is installed in the minds of young people.

Appalachia
Isolated from seaboard populations and Piedmont settlements, the Europeans who settled in Appalachia relied on storytelling for amusement, as well as historical purposes. Voices of Memory introduces viewers to storytellers Stanley and Ray Hicks of Stone Mountain, N.C., known throughout the area for their Jack tales. Viewers also meet Dr. William Lightfoot, folklorist and professor of English at Appalachian State University who explains the historical model for the Jack tale used throughout European and American history.

"The Star Wars trilogy is essentially a Jack tale with a galactic setting," says Lightfoot commenting on the endurance of the Jack tale in oral tradition.

African-American Storytelling
According to storyteller Gloria Bivens of Louisville (known as MaMa Yaa), there has been a renewed interest in recent years in the origins of African-American storytelling. In Voices of Memory, MaMa Yaa tells the story of the trickster spider, Aunt Nancy, to children at the Presbyterian Day Care Center in Louisville. The story is a teaching tool to help listeners learn ways to solve personal problems, she says.

Oral tradition as a necessity for African-Americans. Forbidden to read or write by slave owners, African-American oral tradition has survived the decades and exists today, says Kinchlow. She points to double-dutch jump rope games and street rapping as modern day examples.

Rural South Central Kentucky
The oral tradition also has been maintained in the agricultural areas of the country. Dr. Lynwood Montell, professor of Folk Studies at Western Kentucky University, has been collecting ghost stories, local anecdotes, and civil war legends in the rural areas of South Central Kentucky for the past 25 years.

High school graduates rise, dropouts fall in 1988 in state

Kentucky's high school graduation rate reached a record high in 1988, and the number of high school dropouts fell to a record low, Superintendent of Public Instruction John Brock announced today.

"All of our statistics point to a steady decline in the number of youngsters leaving school before graduation," Brock said. "The additional money spent for dropout prevention in recent years has been effective, but it hasn't been enough to solve the problem."

Brock has proposed a dropout prevention strategy that includes:

- Extending Kentucky's compulsory attendance age to 18.
- Revocation of driver's licenses for 16- and 17-year-olds without diplomas and not in school.
- Alternative programs for students having difficulty with the standard curriculum; and
- Expansion of early childhood efforts.

Kentucky's prevention programs will be highlighted in Louisville April 24-26 at the annual dropout prevention conference, which will feature speeches by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, author of "The Power of Positive Thinking," and Eliot Wiggin, creator of the Foxfire project.

Kentucky's shopping centers will also support local dropout prevention efforts through Project Care during Dropout Prevention week, May 1-7.

"However you interpret the numbers, we have 20 percent to a third of our teenagers leaving school unprepared for work or additional training," Brock said. "That's a huge burden for their families and for our social service system."

In 1988, the percentage of 9th graders graduating four years later reached 67.6 percent, a jump of 2.2 percentage points over 1987. The previous record of 67.3 percent was set in 1985.

The number of recorded dropouts fell to 9,300 from 9,600 the previous year and from 16,700 in 1981.

The average dropout rate for grades 7-12 dropped slightly to 3.3 percent, down from 3.4 percent in 1981. While Kentucky's dropout measures accurately reflect long-term trends, none is precise, Brock noted.

For example, the graduation rate does not reflect the impact of students moving into or out of the state. The count of dropouts does not include students who complete a school year in the spring and then do not enroll in the fall. State officials estimate about 3,000 of these "summer dropouts" annually.

About 600 educators are expected to attend the annual dropout prevention conference at Louisville's Executive West Hotel. Wiggin, a teacher who gained national acclaim for directing Appalachian Georgia students in the production of the best-selling Foxfire books, will speak at 10 a.m. Monday, April 24. Peale will speak at a banquet at 6:30 p.m.

Presentations describing strategies used in Kentucky's most effective dropout prevention programs will be made Tuesday and Wednesday morning.

Project Care is a joint project of the Kentucky Department of Education's Unit for Dropout Prevention and Center Services Inc., a Louisville-based shopping center management firm.

During that week, shopping centers throughout Kentucky will feature dropout prevention displays and will offer special career exploration programs for students.

Last year Brock drafted legislation which would raise the current compulsory attendance of 16 to age 18 over a two-year period. Seven other states, including Ohio, now require attendance to age 18, and 11 states, including Virginia and Tennessee, require attendance until age 17.

Five contestants in the running for $1 million dollars

The first four drawings for the Kentucky Derby DreamStakes was televised on Wednesday April 12 at 7:28 p.m. on WHAS-TV 11 in Louisville. Lottery president Frank O. Keener drew the names of the five contestants who are in contention for winning the $1 million prize. Overseeing the drawing was State Auditor Bob Babbage, John Cole of the auditing firm of Coopers and Lybrand, and members of the Lottery Security Department.

The winners were: Melissa D. Duggins of Danville, Wanda L. Clymer, Christopher P. Villier, Marty R. Huelsman, and Deborah Perry, all from Louisville. The winners will be the guests of the Lottery for Derby weekend in Louisville and will attend the Kentucky Derby. They are also in the running for a $1 million grand prize with the winning Derby horse to determine the grand prize winner. The person holding the second place horse will win $50,000 with the third place horse determining the winner of $25,000. The eligible winners will draw their horses in the Derby as the horses are on the track.

Two of the 36 eligible winners, Christopher P. Villier and Deborah Perry, were in the studio audience that included 26 hopeful Kentucky Derby DreamStakes winners. Christopher Villier, joined by his tear-eyed wife, Teri, caught the mood when she said, "I'm happy I won. But even if I didn't, it's a lot of fun." Others shared the sentiment and looked forward to the next drawing when once again they will have a chance at being selected.

Deborah Perry was the last entry validated in time for the drawing and require attendance until age 17. West Virginia, the only state to revoke driver's licenses of teenage dropouts, began the program this year. To serve students who would be kept in school by extending the attendance age and by revoking driver's licenses, Brock is advocating additional money for special programs in high schools and a new emphasis on vocational education.

the last name picked. Deborah will be going to the Derby for the first time with her mother who helped her scratch off the winning ticket. With a seven-year-old daughter and another child due in July, Deborah knows how some of her winning money will be spent. A student at Jefferson Community College, Deborah usually spends all Derby Day in the kitchen cooking for friends and relatives but this year will be different. Deborah is looking forward to her day at the races and a chance at the $1 million. "So far I've been lucky," she said, "I hope this will be a lucky baby."

Wanda L. Clymer, Louisville, says "These must be my lucky numbers." Her winning ticket was the third of five she uncovered and her name was the third picked. Wanda, married and mother of four, works at Methodist Hospital in Central Supply. Wanda already has plans to buy a new car with her winnings and says her 16-year-old son keeps trying to help her spend her windfall.

Christopher Villier, Louisville, an estimator for Florida Steel Company, has made plans if he wins $1 million. "I'd invest. Retire in ten years. Retire at forty and play golf," he said. "It is his second trip to the Derby. I look forward to a better vantage point since my first trip was to the infield," he said.

Melissa D. Duggins, Danville, didn't know she had won a chance at the big prize. Melissa who is married with two children was already enjoying her good luck. Before the drawing, she left for a vacation at Disney World in Florida. She will return in time for her first trip to The Kentucky Derby.

Marty Huelsman, a personnel manager at DJ Incorporated, was in his car with his three children at SuperAmerica on Poplar Level Road, Louisville, when he discovered his lucky ticket. Although Marty drove immediately to the Lottery regional office to cash in the ticket, it was under protest; his children tried to hijack the car to the nearest toy store. When asked if he would change if he won $1 million, he said people would call him, "Marty the Millionaire." As to how he would spend it says Marty, "The game is called DreamStakes. I'd use it to fulfill my dreams."

Three more drawings will take place with five names to be drawn on April 19 and April 26 and 10 names to be drawn on May 3. All will be televised at 7:28 p.m. (EDT) on WHAS-TV, Louisville; WPST-TV, Paducah; WTVQ-TV, Lexington;

"YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH" (Cont. From 4)

One of the most common causes in children is middle ear infections. The body resists "all over" to such an illness, not just with pain in the ear. Sinus or throat infections, chest infections, asthma, stomach ulcers and emotional distress are among the many causes a doctor must consider when dealing with a patient with nausea or vomiting.

The point is, don't be surprised if your doctor does not immediately assume your child has a "virus" when you call with a complaint of nausea. Like most of life, the story may be much more complicated.

My decision for running for magistrate is for the needs of our county, now and for the future. I am asking for your vote in striving to meet the needs of everyone concerned in Rockcastle County.

It's time to take steps in making improvements and repairs to our courthouse. We need to think of the difficulties the elderly and handicapped residents have trying to get up and down stairs. The number one priority on this problem should be the installation of an elevator to aide the elderly and handicapped. Let's show the respect and care they deserve.

So, if I am nominated as your magistrate of the 3rd district, and if elected, I will devote my time sincerely and I need your support to see to it that Rockcastle County will hold a better future for our community.

From 6:00 p.m.-7:00 p.m., any evening I will be willing to discuss any matters concerning the improvements of Rockcastle County. Call 758-9261.

Death Penalty Case Argued

Kentucky Attorney General Fred Cowan has told the United States Supreme Court that states should be allowed to impose the death penalty on criminals under the age of eighteen years when warranted. Cowan represented the state in oral arguments before the nation's highest court on March 27th in the case of Kevin N. Stanford of Louisville. Stanford was seventeen when he raped, sodomized and murdered, execution-style, a young woman, Barbara Poore, who was working alone at a Louisville gas station on the night of January 7, 1981.

Stanford was convicted of crimes in 1982 and sentenced to death. His attorneys appealed to the United States Supreme Court contending that execution of criminals who were under eighteen years of age when they committed their murder would violate the ban against cruel and unusual punishment contained in the Constitution.

With members of the victim's family in attendance, Cowan made a 26-minute presentation to the nine Justices of the United States Supreme Court. He began by noting that the Court had said in previous cases that death penalty decisions should be made on an individual basis. He urged the court not to draw an "artificial line" automatically exempting "an entire group of people based on one single factor -- their age." Cowan said that to accept the argument of Stanford's attorneys would be to accept the notion that individuals at age eighteen suddenly became mature enough and sophisticated enough to be responsible for their crimes. Common sense tells that there are seventeen-year olds who also should be held accountable for heinous murders.

The Stanford case is easily one of the most significant death penalty cases to be heard by the United States Supreme Court during the 1980's, according to Cowan. The Court's ruling is expected by June 30. Cowan said it would be presumptuous to try and predict how the court would rule, but said it seemed obvious that the Justices were anxious to resolve the juvenile death penalty issue.

Cowan is the first Kentucky Attorney General to personally argue a case before the United States Supreme Court in many years. "I think it signals to the court that this is a very significant issue when the Commonwealth's top law enforcement official personally argues a case," said Cowan.

Rockcastle Co. Health Care Facility receives highest rating

The Cabinet for Human Resources has awarded a Rockcastle County health care facility the state's highest rating for a level of patient care provided to residents of the long-term care facility.

The "Superior" rating was made for the intermediate care unit of the Sowder Nursing Home in Brookhead. Kentucky nursing homes are rated for each level of care offered following the annual inspections by the Cabinet's Division of licensing and Regulation.

Woodrow Dunn, Licensing and Regulation director, said, "Kentucky's nursing home reform law established the rating system for individual levels of care, so the public could get an idea of the quality of service provided by a facility."

An "Unrated" status indicates that the service is in compliance with the minimum standards. A "Conditional" rating means that deficiencies have been found which must be corrected before that level of care will be in compliance.

Dunn said, "It's important for people to realize that each level of care is rated individually. Facilities offering more than one level of residential care have separate ratings for each unit."

A facility level of care earning a "Superior" rating is in compliance with the minimum standards for licensing and has exceeded those standards in at least six of the 11 areas inspected. Those 11 areas are administration, drugs and biologicals, dietary and nutrition services, life safety code, nursing services, physical environment, physical and restorative therapy, social services and activities, medical services, patients' rights and record keeping.

Dunn said, "The real incentive for nursing homes to achieve a 'Superior' rating is in the message it gives the public about the home's quality of care."

about 25 workers at the stamping plant as many as 150 could be employed in three years.

The Industrial Authority president said that the primary owners of the new plant were not looking for a hand out and understood that they would have to pay interest on the money they borrowed.

Ford also told the council that he was sure the owners would not be opposed to any future annexation by the city. "These people have been very up front about everything and they have some very good plans," Ford said.

"I don't see how we can be against it," council member Clarice Kirby said. "We have enough trouble just getting one to consider us," she said.

Council member Tommy Bussell asked if all the people hired would be local and he was told that as many as possible would be hired, but that the company could not guarantee that everyone hired would be from the county.

Mayor Gary Cromer said that he felt it was a good project and that the city should approve it with restrictions.

All the council members in attendance, Bill, Sweeney, Kirby, Bussell, Earl Nichols and Bill Dean seemed very eager to approve the funding. "I think it is great that we have this opportunity to get more jobs for the county," Sweeney said.

SECTION 89 AND THE CASE AGAINST MORE GOVERNMENT

One of the greatest American writers of all time, Henry David Thoreau, once stated that the government that governs best is the one that governs least. What Thoreau wrote in 1849 still holds true today. I am a firm believer that government bureaucracy and regulations can be stifling to free enterprise. Often, laws are passed with the best of intentions, but force unreasonable amounts of work and best upon businesses and turn out to be a detriment instead of an instrument for progress. This is exactly the case with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations for Section 89.

This law, passed in 1986 and scheduled for implementation this year, attempts to increase health insurance coverage among the working poor and eliminate discrimination in benefits between upper-level employees and other workers. The goals of Section 89 are notable, however, the regulations to enact this legislation will ultimately force businesses to spend millions of dollars just to comply with the reporting procedures. There is considerable doubt that it would actually help improve health care coverage. In fact, I have received many letters from Kentucky businesses that indicate they may have to drop their employee benefit plans.

In order to enforce the provisions contained in Section 89, the IRS will require businesses to comply with confusing and complex rules and regulations. If any business fails to do so, the IRS can come down hard by imposing tough penalties that can include the loss of tax deductible status for some insurance plans, and increase taxes on upper-level employees.

This year, I have joined Senators Symms of Idaho and Lott of Mississippi requesting the House of Representatives to adopt and send to the Senate a bill to address the problems presented by these regulations.

Discrimination should be stamped out wherever it raises its ugly head. I do not condone discrimination of any kind, but I believe it is unreasonable to expect businesses to comply with these complex new rules in such a short period of time. These regulations could bury thousands of small businesses, the backbone of Kentucky's employment, by underneath a mountain of red tape that will waste millions of dollars. When the Senate begins debate on this issue, I will play an active role in modifying this law to get the government off the back of small business.

Fellow Citizens of the 3rd District

I've chosen to run as Magistrate because of my convictions of what our district and our county should be doing -- money is certainly not the reason.

If I'm elected, I'll be available for you seven days a week to listen to your problems and concerns. I'll work with the fiscal court and county judge to address problems such as garbage and road maintenance and I'll look for ways to bring in new businesses to offer more jobs for our community.

I've been actively employed in Rockcastle County for 27 years and have been in business at DeBoard Oil Company for the past 10 years. I've traveled the roads in the third district daily. I know a better job can be done and I hope you'll give me the opportunity to speak up - speak out and address the needs of our district and our county.

I was 97 years of age Jan. 24, 1989. I loved to teach little children how to read and write until I retired at the age of 70. I substituted as a teacher for a few years after I retired.

When I finished normal school in Berea in 1914, I was sent to Richardson, N. D., to teach in a four room school.

Arrangements were made for a place for me to stay in this northern state.

A young man named Brad met me at the rail, and station. He guided me to the house and I was taken to the room.

The two horses pulled the sled through deep snow and across ice covered creeks. I was certainly glad to have a fur lined coat that day.

I taught there until I was called home for my mother's funeral. Her name was Miranda Jane Tate Phillips, my father's name was Bogie Phillips. They lived on a large farm in Wilde.

Earl was their first child and I was second. Afterward Morris Phillips, Edith Phillips Allen, Ann Phillips Gill and Bernice Phillips Leigh were born. We all attended Wilde Grads School. Later we went to Berea for higher learning.

I taught in Mt. Vernon before I married George Payne. I taught at Langdon Memorial School.

We moved to Brodhead where George practiced dentistry for 33 years.

George would take me to teach school at Negro Creek. When he came to take me home, when school was out at 4 p.m., children would get in the car to ride to their home on the way from the schoolhouse.

I remember coaching all grades (and some outsiders) for a program. We had to open up the wall between the lower grade rooms and the higher

UNDERSTANDING SOCIAL SECURITY AND MEDICARE

CHOOSING WHEN TO RETIRE

When choosing a time to retire, remember that the age at which you retire has a major effect on the Social Security benefits you will receive.

Average earnings and the number of years you have spent in the work force also affect benefits.

When May You Retire

Workers drawing Social Security benefits based on their own earnings records and spouses of retired or disabled workers may retire at age 62. Widows or widowers of a worker eligible for Social Security may receive benefits as early as age 60 (50 if disabled). But early retirement means smaller benefits.

Early Retirement Reduction

There is no early retirement reduction in benefits for disabled workers or adult disabled children receiving benefit on the earnings record of a retired or deceased parent. Everyone else who retires early—including disabled widowers—receives reduced benefits if they begin receiving checks before they reach age 65. Each month a retiree is closer to age 65 before benefits begin means a smaller reduction from the full benefits which would be payable at age 65. At age 60, or younger if disabled, widower) benefits are 71.5 percent of the benefits which would be paid at age 65. Workers retiring at age 62 receive 80 percent of the amount they would receive if they waited until age 65. Spouses retiring at age 62 receive 75 percent of the spouse benefits which would be payable at age 65.

Delayed Retirement Credit

Just as retiring early means reduced benefits, retiring later means increased benefits. Under current law, benefits are increased three percent for each year after age 65 and before age 70 that a worker delays receiving benefits. If a worker waits until age 67 to retire, for example, benefits would be 115 percent of age 65 benefits; until age 70, 115 percent.

Years of Earning Counted

Workers who have spent less than a full worklife in the paid work force may find that delaying retirement will result in greatly increased benefits. This is particularly important for women who may have spent years as homemakers or caregivers, but whose own worker benefits will equal or exceed their spouse benefits.

Monthly Social Security benefits are based on lifetime average earnings. For a worker retiring age 62 in 1988, Social Security will average lifetime earnings over 32 years. One additional year will be added each year until all workers reaching age 62 in 1991 or later will have their monthly Social Security retirement benefits based on 35 years of earnings. Workers with less than the required number of years of earnings will have to include zero earnings years in averaging lifetime earnings. Thus a worker with less than the required number of years of earnings will benefit twice by delaying retirement. The early retirement reduction will be less and each additional year of earnings will replace a year with zero earnings.

Older Americans can learn more about Social Security and Medicare by joining the National Committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare. You can get a free brochure about the organization or a copy of its official newspaper if you write to the National Committee, 2000 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Cholesterol and You

Doctors and health experts say that, if you have high cholesterol, you can reduce your risk of having a heart attack or stroke by lowering your blood cholesterol level.

Studies indicate high blood cholesterol can be lowered. The first step is a diet change. If diet fails, your doctor may also prescribe a cholesterol-lowering medication. This can be especially important if you have heart disease or a family history of heart disease.

Take your time in changing to a diet lower in fat and cholesterol. Get comfortable with one change at a time. Try to make a permanent change that will improve your eating habits. Work out your own best way to do it and if you slip once or twice, get right back on track!

In addition to diet and exercise, your doctor may prescribe a drug to reduce blood levels of cholesterol. His choice will depend on his evaluation of your health.

You can get a copy of a booklet on cholesterol and your health from Citizens for Public Action on Cholesterol at P.O. Box 66408, Washington, D.C. 20066. Made possible by a grant from Moore Sharp & Dohme.

Honesty. It's always an important characteristic. It's a trait we expect from our friends and neighbors, and a trait we should require from our elected officials. This is especially true of our sheriff. We have an opportunity to elect someone, who along with the deputies they select, will be responsible for enforcing our laws and collecting our taxes. The honest, law-abiding citizens of this county must vote for someone in whose honesty and integrity we can have complete confidence.

Shirley Smith is that man. At times in the past, the sheriff has rejected the expectations of those who put him in office by not living up to the ethical code of the voting public. Voting for Shirley Smith will assure you that your vote will not be wasted in this way.

Fletcher chosen for Kentucky Governor's School for the Arts

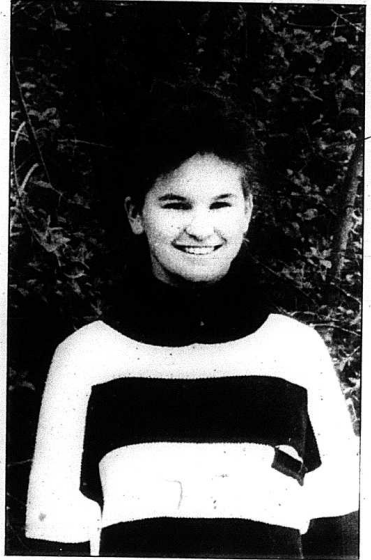

Kristy Fletcher, daughter of Kevin and Ginger Fletcher of Mt. Vernon and a junior at RCHS, has been selected as a participant in the 1989 Governor's School for the Arts.

Kristy, an accomplished pianist, worked her way through regional and state auditions to be selected to study in this year's program at Bellarmine College July 2-22.

The Governor's School for the Arts is a three-week program for 150 of Kentucky's most talented youth to study with outstanding artists and teachers. Students participate in a wide variety of classes, lectures and performances that are not normally a part of their high school curriculum.

They also have the opportunity to attend performances by guest artists at the Kentucky Center for the Arts. The last event of the program is a showcase performance and festival by the students at the Kentucky Center.

Kristy Fletcher, a junior at RCHS, will be participating in the Governor's School for the Arts (GSA) at Bellarmine College this summer. To achieve this honor, Kristy was subjected to rigorous regional and state auditions and is one of only 150 across the state chosen.

A CAP COUNSELOR at the Family Life Abuse Center in the county, works with a client.

Spouse abuse; the quiet problem

It's hard to imagine just how many women suffer from spouse abuse, says Zayda Hurd, a case worker with the Christian Appalachian Project's Family Life Abuse Center in Rockcastle County. The children in these homes live in turmoil as well.

"Looking around our newly reconstructed office," says Zayda, "I see the fresh paint, new shelves and counters, and I think how wonderful it would be if these families could change like the walls of this office, and make their lives bright again."

There's a knock on the door. A nice lady who's been married for 35 years wants to talk. She tells Zayda how she has been hiding the bruises for years from her children. This time they could not be hidden. Her eyes are black, her face, arms and legs are bruised from the beating.

"I want to help," says Zayda, "but all I can do is listen."

She tells Zayda how they have worked and raised their family together, and how proud she is of her children and grandchildren. Why was this beating so much worse?

"I desperately want to help her," Zayda says.

Zayda leaves for home, and thinks about her all evening. When she returns the next day, Zayda hears only more bad news. This family won't have the opportunity to make their lives brighter. He is dead from an exchange of gunfire. His daughter could not make him understand why her mother left. This nice lady can go home now, but why did it have to end this way?

Each day Zayda goes to work, it seems there are so many people to help. She wants to do more but there are only so many hours that she can spend there.

"I start out the day by taking a couple of the ladies to Social Insurance," says Zayda. "They have no income, and will be living on AFDC and food stamps for awhile."

"Next, one lady will be going for counseling with our counselor, Tom Connor."

"Another lady needs medical attention, so off to the doctor we go. Oh, no? There's one down on the floor - she's real sick and has a bad back - don't move her. Someone calls an ambulance and she's on her way to the hospital."

"The phone is ringing. Great! One of our ladies just got an apartment and can move in on the first."

"I just have enough time," says Zayda, "to transport another lady to the Health Department, but I'll have to leave her there to get her WIC vouchers because it's time to pick up the lady I left with the counselor."

"There's another lady at the Family Life Center School working on her G.E.D. She will be home soon because her four children will be back from school in about 15 minutes."

"Social Services is on the phone. Hey, this is John Holbrook. I need to come out and talk to so and so." Well, John she'll be back in about 30 minutes - guess you'll have to work late again!"

"It's been another busy day," Zayda concludes.

The Child Care Worker at the Family Abuse Center is preparing for an activity with the children. They are excited! She's brought T-shirts, and they are going to paint them.

The Outreach Worker has returned, missing all the excitement of the day. She's been in the community speaking to people about domestic violence.

Domestic violence is a serious problem, one we cannot solve alone. We need your help. Let's all work and pray together, and help our community become a less violent, healthier place to live.

Family Life Counseling Services

The primary focus of the Family Life Counseling Service is to provide counseling for people in programs of the Christian Appalachian Project.

The counseling service is gradually emphasizing education, training and prevention. It helps family members to communicate better; people resolve discipline problems and redirect anger into more constructive channels.

The counseling takes place with individuals or in classes. Classes.

CTBS/4 BENCHMARK

For approximately 2,900 school children in Rockcastle County, CTBS/4 signals the end of the year achievement testing. Our students will begin on May 8th and test through May 12th. The test make-up dates are May 15-17.

The law requires we test students between the 160-170 instructional days. Students in grades K-11 will be tested this year.

The Kentucky Department of Education director for the Division of Evaluation, Scott Trimble, has cautioned that Kentucky students may rank slightly lower on the CTBS/4 than they did on the KEST mostly due to the norming dates. The CTBS/4 will have current 1988 norms. The KEST used 1981 norms.

The Board of Education in Rockcastle County purchased learning materials which are presently being used in the elementary grades to help teachers and students become better prepared for the CTBS/4

Basic Tips for Testing Include:

1. Parental support of testing
2. Students being in school and on time for class
3. Students rested and well nourished
4. Classrooms with a relaxed but well-controlled climate

Caution
Achievement test scores represent a one-time picture of a student's performance. Test scores should be used in conjunction with other factors such as grades, other tests, teacher evaluation, etc.

Educational services offered at FLC

The Family Life Center School offers help to elementary and high school students who are having difficulty with their studies, to students who want to perform well on the American College Testing and military entrance exams, and to those who dropped out of school and want a High School Equivalency certificate.

A paid staff and volunteers tutor and instruct people who want to improve themselves. They offer themselves at the school one mile north of Renfro Valley, or they will go where the student is.

Since 1984 more than 200 people have received their High School Equivalency certificates with the instructional help of the Family Life Center School. There currently about 210 students enrolled in the G.E.D. tests preparation program in Rockcastle County.

A school on Wheels was started in 1985 for people who had difficulty getting to the school because of no transportation, child care responsibilities, financial restraints, or other barriers. In this program the teacher takes the instruction into the individual's home, and the individual works at his or her own pace. Classes are also offered in communities.

The School on Wheels program expanded into neighboring Lincoln County in 1987. Approximately 60 students are now enrolled with nearly 80 students that attend classes in the communities of McKinney and Broughtontown.

This year the Lincoln County School on Wheels began offering extension services in Garrard County with the support and active cooperation of the Garrard County Co-operative Parish and the Garrard County School Board. Extension classes are being offered in Paint Lick and Camp Dick Robinson. There are 136 students enrolled in the Garrard County program.

The staff and volunteers of the Family Life Center School invite all Rockcastle Countians to see them on Open House Day, April 25.

Brown named to EKU honor society

Teresa Brown of Brodhead, a dietetics major at Eastern Kentucky University, has been inducted into Phi Upsilon Omicron, a national honor society for home economics majors.

She was among eight new members inducted during ceremonies held at EKU March 2.

To be selected for membership, students must have earned at least 45 credit hours, have a 3.0 grade point average on a 4.0-scale, and be active in campus activities.

Phi Upsilon Omicron has 72 collegiate and 36 alumni chapters nationwide.

The EKU chapter was installed in March 1973. EKU's Department of Home Economics offers degree programs in Child and Family studies, Clothing Construction and Design, General Dietetics, Fashion Merchandising, General Home Economics, Home Economics Education, Interior Design, and Foodservice Administration—all at the bachelor's level. At the two-year, associate degree level, programs are offered in child care, nutrition care, and interior design.

Eastern Kentucky University at Richmond serves more than 13,000 students through programs offered by its nine colleges and the graduate school.

Mrs. Sexton gets Berea outstanding student award

such as Systematic Training for Effective Parenting, Theory of Helping, and child development, are presently being offered for community interest, CAP staff training, and other professional staffs.

Project programs which are served by Family Life Counseling Services include Family Life Services, Mutual Care Home, Project Turning Point, and both project abuse shelters in Rockcastle County and Somerset.

The counseling service began almost three years ago with one counselor. Now there are four, all of whom have graduate degrees in counseling and represent a wide variety of experience before joining the Christian Appalachian Project's program.

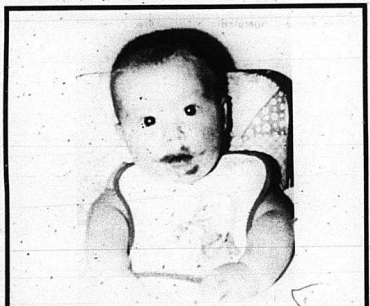

Offices are maintained in Rockcastle, Pulaski, Garrard, and Jackson counties.

In the coming fiscal year, the training program will be enlarged to include more of an emphasis on prevention with education rather than crisis intervention.

Elect Charles D. Holbrook MAGISTRATE DISTRICT # 1

VOTE CONCERNED

Concerning the garbage problem in Rockcastle County, I believe it is the right, and in my opinion, the duty of each resident of the county to complain about these conditions if the Fiscal Court seems to be neglectful in performing their elected duties. These dumps have raised the following questions:

1. When it rains, where does the waste run-off go?
2. How do these dumps effect the value of the property they are on and the neighboring properties?
3. Could this waste run-off contaminate the water supply for both people and animals and how far might the contamination spread?
4. Last but definitely not least, could this be a health hazard?

I think so and being a concerned resident of the 2nd District, where several dumps are located, I would like to see some improvements made in this district. This is the reason I ask for your vote and support in the May primary.
