London woman killed on 75

A London woman was killed instantly Monday in a one-car accident on I-75 near the Rockcastle-Madison counties line. Jeanette Webb, 59, was pronounced dead at the scene by Rockcastle Coroner Billy Dowell. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Rockcastle Coroner Billy Dowell.

Three indictments released

The last three May indictments have been released by Circuit Clerk Donver Miller's office. Billy L. Bradley of Mt. Vernon, is charged with criminal possession of a forged instrument in the second degree. According to the charges, Bradley on May 31, committed the offense by possessing a forged check for $350 drawn on the United States Treasury with the forged signature of Eva Shafran.

Supreme Court upholds Franklin Circuit Court ruling for schools

By: Jim Griesch
State Representative Danny Ford, the Mt. Vernon Republican who has Rockcastle in his district, says he doesn't know where the money will come from. That's the money the Legislature will need in 1990 to fund a completely new state education system, as mandated by the Kentucky Supreme Court last week.

He said he had expected one late last week, but now hears that time to put together plans for a new education system would not be available before the next legislative session. Another idea that has been given some shape is the input of Property Valuation Administrators in Kentucky. At least one news story has suggested the position be done away with, or taken out of the electoral process.

31.07 inches of rain here

A total of 31.07 inches of rain has fallen to date in 1989, according to records at the Cox Funeral Home weather station. That amount through Wednesday morning is only about 10 inches short of the usual amount recorded for the entire year.

Building projects not affected

By: Jim Griesch
Rockcastle County Schools Superintendent Bige Towery says that last week's Kentucky Supreme Court ruling on schools will not affect two current building projects. Whatever happens within the next few years to completely redo the state's schools, the now-building Mt. Vernon Elementary School is still ticketed to open in 1990, and a proposed four classroom, two lab addition at Roundstone will still be built.

Chase ends in shooting

A chase that started in Mt. Vernon ended in a shooting incident near Mullins Station, Tuesday night. According to Mt. Vernon Police, Edward McGuire, 23, of Orlando was charged with D.U.I., fleeing police and resisting arrest. A juvenile in the vehicle apparently shot about eight times at police officer Larry Thompson, after McGuire wrecked his vehicle on the Mullins station road.

Bullen injured near Wildie

Wittie Bullen, 83, of Clear Creek, was treated and released at the Rockcastle Hospital for head injuries and lacerations Monday morning following an auto accident at Wildie.

Post office by November, officials say

By: Ray McClure
If the Postal Service keeps to its present schedule, a new Post Office at Mt. Vernon should be under construction on Richmond Street by November, a Postal Service representative reported this week.

Fire destroys home

A fire of unknown origin destroyed the home of Ted Siedl in north Mt. Vernon about 7:30 a.m. Saturday. Steel was not home at the time, firemen said. It was the second time in three weeks firemen had been called to the residence.

Wreck near Town & Country

Mrs. Ida Cain of Conway was chained and released at Rockcastle Hospital Monday following a vehicle accident on U.S. 25 near Carter's Market.

Nine indicted for vote buying

Buying votes is illegal in Kentucky and nine residents of Jackson County have been indicted on charges of buying and/or selling votes. Jackson County Grand Jurors indicted Willie Eddie, Eddie and David Horn for bribery; and Louise Horn for influencing a voter. Five were charged with selling their votes, including Berwin and Rebecca Bowler, Tommy Hampton, Steve Ingram and Howard King Jr.

Father's Day
 June 18

Dear Editor,

Beef is back. That's good news to those of us who enjoy eating beef, whether it's a lean, tender steak; a convenient, flavorful roast; or a burger with all the trimmings. It's also good news to those of us who raise cattle.

Beef is big business. The beef industry is the single largest segment of American agriculture with sales of cattle and calves accounting for about 22 percent of total receipts from farm marketings. In Kentucky cash receipts from cattle and calves total $538 million in 1988. And every dollar cattle sales generates an additional $5 to $6 of business activity in the farm supply and food businesses.

That's an important reason why beef is back. Beef producers became part of a new era in the beef industry on October 1, 1986, when the national beef checkoff program began. Through the checkoff, beef producers invest one dollar per head of cattle sales in a program which funds beef promotion, education and research at both the national and state level. June 27, 1989, marks the 1000th day of the national checkoff program -- 1,000 days of solid progress for us in the beef industry. The result is a better, more nutritious and enjoyable product for consumers and improved profitability for the biggest single sector of the agricultural economy.

Sincerely,
 Dale Lovell
 President,
 Kentucky Beef
 Cattle Association

Dear Editor,

On Friday night, June 2nd at the Rockcastle County High School, the Jubilee Echoes and Different Way presented gospel music for a benefit with all proceeds going to Cystic Fibrosis.

The singing was very beautiful and very uplifting. Both groups did a fantastic job.

Danny Ford was MC for the event and as always did a wonderful job. It was enjoyed by all who attended.

There were lots of door prizes given away. Listed below are the prizes and names of people who won them.

If everyone who came this year would come back next year and bring someone with them our crowd would double and so would our contributions that goes to help researchers find a cure for Cystic Fibrosis to be able to help those who suffer from this dreadful disease.

We promise to make it bigger and better next year. If you would like to make a donation and was not able to before, you can send them to Louise Graves, Box 593, Mt. Vernon and Louise will see that it is sent to the Kentucky/West Virginia Chapter.

There has been great success in the research in the last few years and researchers say they are closer than ever to finding a cure for Cystic Fibrosis.

Thanks to all of you who have helped us in any way over the years. Door prizes included: Pastbook Shavings - Citizens Bank Broadhead - Shirley Cromer, Dinner from Druher's of Mt. Vernon - Bobby Machal; Rina McGuire; Mrs. Carol Blanton; Suzanne Graves; Two chicken planks - Dinner - Snack Shack - Elizabeth Proctor; 12 pk. pepsi - Convenient Mt. Vernon - Johnna Ward; Micha Wyatt; Large Garden Pizza - Mt. Vernon Dairy Freeze - Tuck Baker; Large any type pizza - Pizza Hut - Pam Burdette; Silk arrangement - Spark's Flower Shop - Kevin Colander; Silk arrangement - Cox Flower Shop - Burke Bedyette; Flomer Garden Arrangement - Mt. Vernon Florist - Hazel Dowd; Silk arrangement - Gail's Florist - Michelle Bailey

There was $735 collected for this foundation as a result of the benefit.

Thanks,
 Louise Graves

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank the staff of the Mt. Vernon Signal for all the coverage you gave the high school this past year. I feel it is so important for us to keep the community informed of what our schools are doing and by communicating through your paper, we can achieve this.

I would also like to express my appreciation to WRVK for the weekly radio show it makes possible. Both served dual purposes as they kept the public aware of happenings in the school and provided valuable experience in writing and broadcasting.

I felt the year passed rather quickly and now as we prepare for the 1989-90 school year, I would like to invite each of you who may have a question or concern to stop by the high school and talk with us.

Respectfully,
 Ronnie Cash
 Principal

Rockcastle County High principal Ronnie Cash, has released the 1989 Rockets football schedule.

Coach Tom Larkey has just two seniors back from his 8-3 and 9-2 teams of the last two seasons. He has already said that he will be rebuilding this season.

The schedule may help. Four of the first six games are at home, while four of the last five will be on the road. Those early home games will help a young team gain confidence.

However, the Rockets catch perennial district favorites Bell County and Cawood back-to-back on the road, with only an open date on October 6 between them.

Back on the schedule is Russell County, New to the Rockets is Harlan. Rockcastle ends the season with back-to-back trips to Whitley County and Williamsburg.

District games are Knox Central, Bell County, Cawood and Whitley County.

Rockcastle Fishing Report

Renfro Valley Boat Deck: The state's free fishing weekend June 9-11 brought out "the biggest crowd of the summer, especially along the banks," said dock manager Jim Hale.

"Although there were more boaters over the Memorial Day weekend, the fishing from the banks was almost elbow-to-elbow at times.

Hale says those large numbers of fishermen caught "all kinds of bluegill, more on wax worms and crickets than anything else."

He also said that catfish are still a good catch on chicken livers, and that white bass are still the top catch at night, on minnows.

Hale also said that black bass catches are still on the way up, leading him to believe that blacks are coming off their nests.

Upper Cumberland: Walleye were hitting minnows, nightcrawlers, crankbaits and spoons 5-20 feet deep off rocky points at night; striped bass were hitting live shad and top water lures from the surface to 25 feet deep in open water, clear, stable at one foot above summer pool and 76 degrees.

Lower Cumberland (above dam): Striped bass were hitting live bait and jigs 1-25 feet deep in open water, smallmouth bass, white bass and walleye were hitting spinnerbaits, buzzbaits and crankbaits 5-10 feet deep off rocky points and along the shoreline; clear, stable at one foot above summer pool and 74 degrees.

Dale Hollow: Largemouth bass were hitting plastic worms and spinnerbaits 5-10 feet deep along stump rows and over submerged trees; bluegill were hitting red worms and crickets 10-15 feet deep over stump rows and drop-offs; clear, falling, one foot above summer pool and 74 degrees.

Laurel: Rainbow trout were hitting nightcrawlers at night 20-25 feet deep in open water; bluegill were hitting red worms and crickets 1-10 feet deep along the shoreline; white bass were taking small spinners 15-20 feet deep in open water; clear to murky, stable at summer pool and 78 degrees.

Senior's Fishing Day

A group of 21 from the Rockcastle County Senior Citizens Center went fishing last Wednesday. Twelve of the 21 were seniors, with staffers and some of their children completing the group. Action was furious both morning and afternoon, broken by lunch at midday. Clockwise, from top left, here is a sample of their day. Johnny North, 78, was all smiles as he reeled in a bluegill early in the afternoon. Admiring his catch was Eric Smith, who, top right, had a string of bluegill all his own. Eric, 7, was among the youngest in the group. Below, left, 100-year-old Bessie Chestnut stayed warm and had one of the better views of the lake from her chair. Below, right, Ed Jones (who at 92 was one of the oldest to fish) and a fisherman since before World War I) and Rosemary Wilson sat side-by-side as they waited for a fish to bite.

Mrs. Boston said the Postal Service has the request under consideration. She reported it is not a major move and she saw no problem. The present post office building at Renfro may be renovated, or torn down by the present owners at a later date.

In Memory of Our Mother
 Dear Momma,
 It has been so long, since you went away and left us so lonely. You sweet smile and presence are still with us. We miss you so badly. Our family circle has been broken, but now we will all begin again sometime. You left three daughters to mourn you. The Lord came and took the beautiful rose bud from us. But, we know you are happy up in Heaven. Your oldest daughter has done met you. We are waiting to meet you, then our family will be complete again. We loved you so much.
 Your Two Daughters,

#1 DAD
 You knew how to make me smile, on rainy days you brought me sun. You always went the extra mile. As my friend, Dad, you were #1.

You were always there to listen and advise, And say "Honey do you need anything. Please be careful and take care of yourself!"

You were always gentle, always "Honey" when we needed you. Daddy you worked so hard for your family and were so good to us. Now your work days are over and no more worries or pain.

I miss you so much and want you to look down on me. As I still need you to watch over me so very badly. I want you to know how much I love you.

Happy Father's Day for my #1 Dad!

NEW POST OFFICE

sites in Mt. Vernon for the new facility before choosing the Henderson property.

Even then, the site did not have the backing of many residents of Mt. Vernon. Some called it too far away from other county and city offices.

But others said it was a good location and would alleviate traffic congestion on Main Street.

Merchants on Main Street passed a petition asking for a change of location back to Main Street. One suggestion was a site at the corner of Main and First Streets adjacent to the courthouse and owned by Henry Hines.

The other site was the former Mt. Vernon Hotel on Main Street now a restaurant, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Anderkin.

The Postal Service rejected that site in June 1988 and so further effort was made to make a change.

It will be the third time the Mt. Vernon Post office has been moved in the past 52 years.

The present office was opened in October 1957 moving from across the street from the old Peoples Bank Building. Prior to that time, it was in the wooden structure on the site now occupied by Young's Pharmacy.

During the 52 years, the Postmasters there have been Mrs. Mattie Robinson, Mrs. Kate Mullins and James O. Smith, the present postmaster.

Lynette Boston, of the Lexington office of the Postal Service, said Tuesday she saw no problems with the present choice.

She also confirmed a request has been made by the Renfro Valley Folks Inc., to change the present Post office from a small building adjacent to the Renfro Gift Shop to a

This Week's Poetry

Happy Father's Day

By: Anna L. Clifford
(Dedicated to my step dad, Harvey McFerran)
I haven't known you many years but I'm proud to say

This is a note of gratitude and love that comes your way

Mom, was so lonely
'I could see it in her eyes
You've taken away the sadness placed there when daddy died

I don't believe God wants us to be alone
And it seems to take two people to make a house a home

I'm not one,
to say that shouldn't be You're not only a good step dad but also a friend to me!

We Love You,
William E.
By: Anna L. Clifford

I'll have to say you've been the best none other could compare
We thank you for the happy life
you've taken time to share

You've been a father and a mother
whenever I was away
That's why I want to tell you, how thankful we are for you
On this Father's Day

We hope that you're as proud of us as we are of you
And realize how much we care
by the little things we do

So today is your day, we want you to know, how special we think you are

You're not only our hero,
but also our super star

So now you know we love you and just how much we care
In our hearts you'll always be
Father of the Year!

GOD'S LOVE DELIGHTS US WITH THE JOYS OF SUMMER

When springtime blossoms disappear
 And temperatures will climb,
 Then recreation time is here
 And earth is in its prime;
 The season to suspend the rules,
 Neglecting household chores,
 In favor of the swimming pools
 And living out of doors.
 However, when our main concern
 Is picnics at the beach,
 It also is the time to learn
 What nature has to teach.
 So study every living thing
 You'll find so close at hand;
 Revealing what God's love will bring
 When summer warms the land.

Roundstone bids $50,000 over budget

By: Jim Griesch
Bids for the new four classroom addition to Roundstone School were opened Tuesday, and the project is between $50,000 and $60,000 over-budget, said school officials.
The total of all of the low bids was $304,000. Those low bids will be recommended by Branscom Construction Co., acting as construction manager for the project.
The Rockcastle Board of Education will meet at 5:30 p.m. Thursday to review the bids, and to decide if the board can find the extra money to fund the addition.

Money for the additions is coming from local sources, from surpluses in the general fund which were committed a year ago, with the state paying nothing on the expansion.
Schools Superintendent Bige Towery said that the bids were "a bit above what we were projecting. They go beyond the project's financial arrangement."

At the same time, Towery felt the project was not in immediate danger of being scrapped.
Richard Bray, the school finance officer, said the task ahead is "a matter of seeing what we can do; evaluate a little financing."
Branscom Construction was the only bidder for the general contracting package. That bid was $43,800 on the base bid, and another $36,400 on alternatives, which call for a planned storage area beneath the new classrooms.

Branscom also won the painting bid, with a base of $6,643, and another $257 alternative.
Granite Corp. won a three-way battle for the masonry bid, with a base price of $51,644, and another $3,750 on alternatives.

Davis-Plomin won the combined electrical and plumbing bid, with a total of $73,100 base, $2,300 alternatives.
Overbey Electric of Corbin won electrical bid, $33,799.43 on the base work, and $8,153 and $953.03 on two alternative jobs.

Lexington Steel won two bids, one to supply steel at $14,574 base, $4,338 alternative; and a package price of $17,320 for steel supply and erecting, plus another $5,450 on the alternative job.

C & W Equipment won a blacktopping bid on two alternative jobs, one for $1,000 and another for $4,780.
Gumbrer Roofing was the only bid for membrane roofing, with a bid of $18,300.

Atlas Metal Products had the low bid for two items. The first was for hollow metal doors and frames, with a base bid of $8,040 and another $980 for alternative work. The second was for wood doors, $1,596.
Atlas also had the only bid for combined wood and metal doors, a base bid of $9,489, and an alternative of $980.

The bid for aluminum windows was won by Central Kentucky Glass in a four-way battle. The low bid was $10,453.
Bennett Carpets won three bids. They had a base bid of $3,500 for ceramic tile, and $3,650 for vinyl tile, and were the only bidder on acoustical ceiling tile, for $3,850.
U.S. Specialties outbid Atlas Metals for carpet and tack boards and for toilet compartments, parts and accessories.

What will 'new' schools mean

By: Jim Griesch

The Supreme Court ruling last week that wiped out the entire scope of the Kentucky educational system has been hailed as a much needed step.
Right now, educators, politicians and those interested in education are dealing with philosophical concepts, not the human element.

Ultimately, that will be the most important area in any sweeping reorganization of the state's schools.
It will really mean that each student attending McCreaty, Metcalfe, Ohio or Elliott schools will have the same opportunities for education as those on Fayette, Jefferson, Daviess, or another wealthy school district?

Will the decision really mean that more money will go toward instruction, and not administration, trinkets, or to outside interests?
Rockcastle Superintendent Bige Towery says that whatever happens, there will be "a great deal of accountability, and administration will be held very accountable. I think we'll have to prove we're managing the money."

What Towery does see as possible for students is to bring the poorer districts closer to the rich.
He thinks children in Rockcastle could see an expanded curriculum, more work on expanding and rebuilding facilities.

He thinks teachers may see more time to teach, less time spent on administrative duties.
In that same vein, he says he hopes to make in-service more viable time for teachers.

Towery also sees an opportunity for teachers to become more involved in decisions on instruction, extra days for themselves to prepare, and revising curriculum.

He acknowledges a need for more assistance for teachers, whether in the form of aides, a secretary, more personal workroom space, even an office or filing space.

Another on-going social phenomena could help in the "new" school system.

Towery sees more and more interest in schools by parents and communities, and how their children are doing in school.

He thinks that is a by-product of the effort over the past five or six years to make Kentuckians more aware of the importance of education.

Towery thinks that even parents without high school diplomas are now pushing their own children to finish school.

He notes that he sees more adult interest, too, in education through the GED and other adult programs offered in the area.

He considers the public's reaction to the "new" schools system as an important measure in its ultimate success.

He points out that without sincere interest in education all around, even the best facilities, teachers and curriculum will be wasted.

State statistics reveal

Rockcastle seems in middle of area

By: Jim Griesch

What do the numbers on the two charts mean?

Rockcastle schools, under the "old" system, seemed to be in the middle of the systems in the immediate area.
But, schools in the area seemed to generally be in the bottom half of systems in Kentucky in a number of areas used to analyze the state's schools.

For instance, Rockcastle spends almost $400 less than the state average per pupil, and teachers earn $22,849, some $1,402 less than the state average.

Those are significant deficits, and Rockcastle Schools Superintendent Bige Towery doesn't alibi for them.
Additionally, Rockcastle's local revenue to schools is just 9.7 percent of its budget, 13.7 percent under the state norm, which is at the bottom of the area ladder. And, the county's 25.1 cents tax assessment per $100 property value assessment is tied for the eighth lowest in the state.

The $209 per pupil from county sources is also the 19th lowest in the state (out of 177 school districts).

All of those figures are lower than most of the school districts in the immediate area. The only county system which borders Rockcastle is consistently lower in all categories is the Jackson County system.

Despite that, Towery can point with pride to an 82.17 percent graduation rate of 1985 freshmen in the class of 1988 (the last year the state department of education has complete analysis available).

Unlike some districts, Rockcastle isn't overloaded with top-end administrative costs. The county's cost-per-pupil for administration is $49.67, or $26.7 below the state average.

Perhaps the most telling stat of all is the 61.3 percent of children within the county system who come from families who qualify as economically deprived.
The state average is 39.3 percent, making Rockcastle 22 percent higher than the norm.
Towery also looks at the $209 local funding per pupil and says, "It is a low statistic, but even if we raise it to as realistic (highest possible) level as we could do here, it wouldn't solve all our problems. Even though, we're not talking about equality in this court ruling."

Denny found guilty of cultivating marijuana

Former Rockcastle County second district magistrate Tom Denny was found guilty of cultivating marijuana in Rockcastle Circuit Court jury trial Tuesday.

He was given five years and a $5,000 fine. Formal sentencing will be June 30.

Denny was indicted by a Grand Jury Oct. 28, 1988. He had been charged following a Kentucky State Police helicopter sweep on Rockcastle Hill on July 14, 1988.

KSP Lt. Ronald Sears said that a marijuana patch was found on Denny's property on Chestnut Ridge, near exactly his home that a garden hose was hooked up from his house to the patch, with a sprinkler attachment.

Denny and his attorney, Jim Cox, will have the right to appeal the sentencing.

Denny was defeated in a magistrate race four years ago by current magistrate Jack Bradley.

Denny ran again in the May primary, but lost in his bid to reclaim the Fiscal Court position.

Shafer is county's first $5,000 winner

By: Jim Griesch

Samantha Shafer is Rockcastle's first known $5,000 winner in the two-month-old state Lottery.

She won her money by buying a ticket where she works, Rose's One Stop Market in Brodhead.
The winning ticket is one a customer turned down, she said.
The lucky purchase came about 4:30 p.m. June 8.

Samantha said that a customer she knew, Chuckie Woodall, had been in the store, buying $1 Lottery tickets. She said she asked if he wanted to buy a $2 ticket, but he refused.

"The only reason I bought a ticket," she said, "is because I had $4 in my (work) apron. I bought a $2 ticket and two $1 tickets."

hand side game, with the lucky numbers in the second and third spot in the left hand column and in the third spot in the right hand column.

She said she bought the tickets while Woodall was still in the store, but didn't scratch them off until he left.

"I don't play that much now, but when (the Lottery) first came out, I played a lot. I guess I was playing every other day."

Her biggest previous winner had been a $20.
"I was in shock for a few minutes. Then I almost jumped the counter and the one-in-back, to-see Avis Benge, to see if that was the ticket, said."

After that, she was too excited to work. "I called somebody - Lisa Saylor and Leslie Corder - to come work for me."

As Samantha left work, she saw a relative pull up at a restaurant across US 150. He and his bride were just coming back from their honeymoon.

They and mechanics at a garage next door were among the firsts to tell about her winnings.

She's already spent a lot of her winnings. "I used about $4,000 to pay off a trailer and some land (two acres plus) in Bowling Ridge. And, I have about $1,000 left."

Samantha will be able to find uses for the rest. She's just recently bought a new car. And, she's now a junior majoring in medical records administration at Eastern Kentucky University.

"I don't know what I'll do with the rest," she says. "But, I want to spend it on myself."

She wasted little time in getting her money from the Lottery.

She explained that the Lottery office in Lexington opened at 9 a.m. the next day, June 9.

"I was there about 9:05," she remembered.
Tuesday, she also donated another of her prizes, a hot pink Lottery tee-shirt.

"I had my choice of a hat or a shirt," she explained.
She is the daughter of Joyce and Eddie Shafer of Brodhead.

The store is owned by Lutter and Bonnie Rose.
Lutter said the store has had a number of winners since the Lottery began April 4.
He remembers three of the four $50 winners, several $100s, a $500, one

Get control of classrooms; use common sense about studies

By Harry M. Caudill

Many proposals have been touted for reforming America's public schools. That America is in decline can be argued strongly, and also that the decline began with the undermining of effective education in all parts of the union.

Over the past six or eight months, devastating reports have been published. In one, we learned about a college graduate who had a university degree but had never learned to read or write. Another told that British National Airlines had told Boeing Aircraft Corp. that every airplane it had purchased from Boeing was found to have major defects. The cause of these life-threatening shortcomings was imputed by the British to the fact "that Boeing workers are generally inadequately trained and possess a low basic level of working skills." Still, Boeing workers probably are the cream of the crop in America.

Then, we learned that, in 1987, nearly 47 percent of U.S. patents were registered by foreigners. Most devastating of all is a study that concludes that the nation will face a shortfall of 500,000 scientists and engineers by 2010. The real reason for this shortfall is that college students are loading up with soft courses in "social studies" and are neglecting such hard fields as chemistry, physics, mathematics, engineering, literature, history and languages. So few Americans entered graduate schools of engineering that 40 percent of the enrollees in engineering are foreigners.

At most state universities, students of both sexes are now housed together in high-rise dormitories with Coke and condom dispensers at the end of the hall. Under such conditions, few virile young Americans will give much thought to the Punic Wars or nuclear fusion. Most devote the energy not expended on amour to ballgames and other athletic activities that educationists assert strengthen academics.

There are serious proposals that should be considered if we genuinely want good schooling in America. I will discuss two of them, neither of which is in any sense radical. The first thing to acknowledge is that the Europeans are right and have acted wisely in dividing students into two categories or tiers. After six or eight years in the general schools (the approximate equivalent of our grade schools), their students are separated according to aptitudes.

Through the high school levels and subsequently, they form two distinct groups. One is educated in general academics, with emphasis on foreign languages, literature, history, economics, mathematics, chemistry, physics, biology, the arts and sciences.

The second group is enrolled in highly effective schools organized around the skilled use of hands and minds, and are sometimes called trade schools. Students learn such skills as tool and die making, masonry, mechanics, carpentry, plumbing, basic engineering, scientific farming and numerous other essential callings that appeal to their aptitudes and interests. It must be emphasized that this division is not based upon difference in intelligence levels, but rather is based on differing inclinations, aptitudes and preferences.

West Germany is the world's foremost exporter of manufactured goods, and this accomplishment is fueled by the "awesome flows" of highly talented and trained industrial workers who annually graduate from the national trade schools. Our present system has failed generations of students. For example, Thomas Edison was "mankind's greatest benefactor" and the holder of 1,065 patents. Yet, he was expelled from school because, in general academics, he was a non-learner. He would have gloriied in an effective trade school, where he could have put his hands and mind to work on inventions.

By contrast, poet Edna St. Vincent Millay bubbled with verse and imagery. It is hardly reasonable that a Millay and an Edison could have been educated in the same classrooms. Their natural interests and capacities were totally divergent from one another.

I am reminded of two brothers of the full blood. Each is successful in every respect, one as a lawyer and the other as a builder. The first could hardly drive a nail, and the other would be bored to tears by legal briefs.

If America is serious about its ignorant young people, it will study the models prevailing in Germany, France, Switzerland, the Low Countries, Iceland, Great Britain and Scandinavia. Their two-tier schools are effective. Our single-tier system is a failure for most. The federal Department of Education should take the lead in bringing European school people to America as consultants on how best to devise and operate a successful school system in the United States.

Incidentally, the most contented students there is likely to see in a Kentucky school building are in the vocational schools. A visit to one of them discloses groups of intent young people watching demonstrations, asking questions or actually performing newly learned techniques and skills. In them, one sees no horsplay and hears no reports of hallway fights.

This brings us to the second factor that must be confronted. I refer to discipline and effective control over classrooms by teachers and principals. In a more or less typical school and within the current term, a teacher told me that within a week, he intervened in six knock-down, drag-out fights between young student women. In every instance, they were battling over the favors of one of the male students.

When asked what he would remember longest about his year as a visiting exchange student, a foreign high school enrollee on an

Eastern Kentucky campus said, "The student fights."

At present, no one has real control over the public schools. Rowdy and disruptive students cannot be thrashed for infraction of rules, as was once routinely done; nor can they be expelled or otherwise effectively punished. Counseling them is a puny joke. In countless classrooms, rule and undisciplined behavior and lack of parental concern are the major drawback to teaching and learning.

If our graduates are to know something about their culture, their world, their history and their prospects, they must be set to work under the controlled and disciplined direction of no-nonsense administrators. Students cannot learn amid fistfights and general disorder. And one way or the other we must learn that we cannot have education by lawsuit and must get the judges out of the hallways.

Here, we have the two foundations for returning quality to American public schools. The schools need other things also, but the imperative need for these essential requirements has been demonstrated over and over in prospering societies around the world. It is those foreign, two-tier school systems with their strict discipline that are filling U.S. graduate schools with the men and women who will be the Nobel Prize winners of the future.

The sweeping Kentucky Supreme Court decision gives us an opportunity to make our schools places of real learning in which the quest is for something more important than simply more money and the pretended expertise of the past 40 years that has eminated in such giant flows from the solemn "doctors of education."

Children get summer exposure to folklore

An Appalachian Cultural Experience
By: Joyce Hannan

Thirty children in Kentucky this summer will have a unique experience, perhaps one they will long remember.

They will take part in an Appalachian cultural experience program of six week duration in which the children will listen to folklorists, mold clay into objects, use a tape recorder to listen to the reminiscences of their parents and grandparents, visit some museums, learn a little about organic gardening and hum tunes they learned at the school.

"We've never done anything quite like this before," said Gary Eldridge, who is directing the six week pilot program. "I'm really excited about this experience because it will not only be fun for the children but it will be informative as well," Eldridge said.

Many people, both artists and CAP volunteers and staff of the Family Life Center/School on Wheels in Mt. Vernon, will be involved in this cultural experience.

The six-week program will begin with registration at the Family Life Center in Mt. Vernon on June 19 and will continue through July 28. On Tuesday through Thursdays during that period, classes will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until noon. During the rest of the week staff of the school will have inservice training in several of the areas that the children have experienced. The program is open to children from fourth grade through seventh grade and is limited to 30 children. It will be a free cultural program.

The Appalachian Celebration as the program is called will be videotaped.

Eldridge indicated that from this six week experience a booklet will be put together authored by the children, and later, a booklet will be given to each of the participants.

Eldridge and Kathryn Bailey, a teacher with the Family Life Center/School on Wheels, along with members of the staff, are initiating the unique summer program.

Eldridge is director of the Family Life Center/School on Wheels in Mt. Vernon where adults are tutored in preparation for GED certification. The center also provides tutorial services for school children who are having difficulty with learning some of their school subjects.

For the last two years school children have been tutored in summer school, but this year Eldridge wanted to make the learning experience a little more fun. To refine their mathematical skills, the children under the tutelage of Lenore Rivers, Cindy Taylor and Linda Argenta, made a quilt in which they had to measure and compute how much material and thread they would need and other techniques involving mathematics computation. This year the children will be learning many kinds of things yet having fun at the same time.

Sixteen volunteers from many states will be helping the staff with the program.

Eldridge is using Elliot Wigginston's approach to learning in his six week summer program. Wigginston is a teacher in Rabun Gap, Ga., and is famous for authoring, with the help of his students, the Foxfire series of books in which students in his classes explored the Appalachian culture by actually taking part and by interviewing people about how to make molasses, build log cabins, collecting folklore and collecting Appalachian recipes that were handed down from generation to generation in families. These are only a few of the many ways they learned about their cultural folkways and traditions.

"I want the children to learn about their rich Appalachian culture and be proud of it," said Eldridge. Eldridge himself was born, reared and educated in Morehead, where he attended Morehead University majoring in the teaching of English and theater. Later he taught at Danville High School. He had an internship in Community theater directing plays there for a number of years. He attended the University of Mississippi receiving a Masters degree in theater, radio and television.

He put his film making experience and writing into good use in East Africa where he captured the culture of the country on film and in drama. Coming back to the United States he taught at the University of Texas satellite college in the Permian Basin where he worked in radio writing and public relations. Still later, he taught classes and directed play production at MacMurray University in Abilene, Texas. While in Abilene, Eldridge created videotapes at the Hendrick Medical Center for use in the nursing department and for other employees of the center filming surgical operations, as well as training aids for disease and germ control. He was instrumental in setting up a GED program for many of the employees who did not finish high school.

When Eldridge learned of his father's illness he came back to Morehead and then took the job at the Family Life Center/School on Wheels where he could be closer to his family living in Morehead.

Under Eldridge leadership the tutorial program for both young and adults has grown from 110 students 2 1/2 years ago when he came to Mt. Vernon to approximately 700 students from Rockcastle, Lincoln and Garrard counties, and it is still growing as the increasing demand for adults who want to receive the GED certification.

The oldest student was 78 years old, with many students who are in their sixties. Some of the adults come to the center to work towards their GED because their children are being tutored there.

I come to the center so that I can learn and help my son with his homework," said one middle aged man. Some come because they want to improve their job status, and others come, because they want to learn to read the Bible or the local newspaper. People come to the center for a variety of reasons and they invariably meet encouragement and friendliness of the staff.

The six-week program for youth will be an encouraging start for them to learn still more about their roots and take pride in their own rich heritage. Eldridge praises the work of the Superintendent of Rockcastle schools Bige Towery who encourages the parents and the community to come into the schools along with the work of the Forward in the Fifth way location in Kentucky.

Some of the many artists and craftsmen who will be teaching and creating in the summer youth program at Mt. Vernon will include Don Boklage, a folklorist from Harrodsburg; Harriet Farr from Paducah, who will talk about her experience in working with the elderly in reminiscing techniques; andlemaking with Al

MISS JACKSON COUNTY RECC

1989 40th Consecutive Year

The Jackson County RECC to hold annual meeting

Jackson County Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation cordially invites its members to its 51st Annual Meeting and Business Session to be held on Tuesday, June 27, at the RECC Farm, located six and one-half miles south of McKee and two and one-half miles north of Annetville on Kentucky Highway 290. Registration will begin at 6 p.m., with the program getting underway at 7 p.m.

The business meeting will be the first item on the agenda. Cooperative members and their families will hear reports on current activities and conditions of their cooperative. Also, a review of activities from last year, as well as plans for the coming year will be presented.

President and General Manager Lee Roy Cole, said, "The Board of Directors of Jackson County RECC would like to invite every member to attend this year's annual meeting. There are a number of important matters to report to the membership. We want our members to know how successful their cooperative is today and what our plans are for the coming year. Also, we are fortunate to have some very good entertainment for the whole family to enjoy."

The Nelsons, one of Gospel music's top groups, will be the featured entertainment of the evening's program. The Nelsons can trace their beginnings to one of Gospel's all time great groups, The LeFevres. Rex Nelson sang bass for The LeFevres as he was just starting his singing career. Today, The Nelsons are a group that sing these songs of inspiration as well as other can. Their song variety and music harmony is really second to none. Their current hit, "I'll Talk to the Father" is still high on the Gospel charts after its release some eight months ago.

Also, circus stars Danny and Randu Caray will, thrill and amaze those in attendance with their variety show. Their abilities are truly showcased in this outstanding juggling and balancing performance.

In addition, a new Miss Jackson County RECC will be crowned. This year several young ladies will vie for that title, which is currently held by Miss Dana Michelle Thomas of Irvine. She will crown her successor, who will then compete in the Miss Kentucky Rural Electric Beauty Pageant on August 3rd in Louisville.

Mr. Cole personally invites all members of Jackson County RECC to their annual meeting. He adds that attendance has been increasing in recent years and hopes that many more people will come this year. Mr. Cole also stated that the general public is invited to attend so that they may also enjoy this fine entertainment.

Jackson County RECC provides electricity to over 35,000 members covering most all of the counties of Jackson, Laurel, Clay, Rockcastle, Estill, Lee and Owsley, along with parts of Madison, Powell, Breathitt, Leslie, Garrard, Knox, Lincoln and Pulaski counties.

Anyone needing further information should contact the co-op main office in McKee, at 287-7161 or Toll Free 1-800-262-7480.

The Gospel groups Different Way (above) and Jubilee Echoes (below) performed at the Cystic Fibrosis benefit at Rockcastle County High recently. The two groups had about 100 attend, which raised over $700 for the charity. And, CF officials are still collecting locally. This was the second year for the benefit. In 1989 found about twice as many people attending, and may more dollars collected. Singing for Different Way this year are George Griffith, Anthony Machal, David Craig, Jim Cox, Jim Ward and Johnna Ward. Performing with Jubilee Echoes are Bill Swower, Terri Swower, Rodney Wright, Greg Bullock, Mary Jo Brown, and Doris Wright.

Corbin woman selected to 'outstanding women'

The Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Women of America awards program announced today that Sherry Ann Harper of Corbin was selected for inclusion in the 1988 edition of Outstanding Young Women of America.

Now in its 24th year, the OYWA program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in many fields of endeavor, such as service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business advancement, cultural accomplishments, and civic and political participation. Achievements in these areas are the result of dedication, responsibility, and a drive for excellence - qualities which deserve to be recognized and remembered.

The women listed along with other Outstanding Young Women throughout North America, were selected after 115,000 nominations were received from political leaders, university and college officials, clergymen, business leaders, as well as from various civic groups and community organizations. Each young woman will be represented by her biographical entry in this prestigious annual awards publication.

Our Board of Advisors and other salaried all those honored as Outstanding Young Women of America. We take great pride in bringing their accomplishments to the attention of the American public.

Juanita Witt honored by Republican women

Juanita Witt will be among those chosen to be honored at a "Tribute to Women" awards banquet June 24 in Lexington.

Sponsored by the Kentucky Federation of Republican Women, the banquet will "pay tribute to those special women who have given so much toward the advancement of women in politics, the Republican Party, its ideals and values," according to Mae Hoover, president of the federation.

The Rockcastle County Republican Women's Club chose Mrs. Witt for the honor.

The banquet will be held at 7 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency Hotel, preceded by a reception at 6 p.m.

In choosing Mrs. Witt, the local club noted Mrs. Witt's service at all levels of Republican politics made her a fitting honoree for the special evening.

Mrs. Hoover said the choice of Mrs. Witt underlines "dedication to an effort which offers long hours, pay-less duties, occasional criticism, yet, its reward is knowing that she is contributing to a democratic society which needs a strong and active two-party system in order to insure a free America for future generations."

Mrs. Hoover encouraged all interested persons to attend the dinner and share in this recognition of the important role women play in Republican politics in Kentucky.

Dinner tickets are $50 and reservations must be made by June 17. Further information may be obtained by telephoning Pat Merritt, chairman of the tribute committee, at (606) 269-6164.
