Brodhead Willing Workers Homemakers Club

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

The Willing Workers Club met at Carol Riddle's home with Ella Mae Martin as co-hostess, July 27th at 7:30 p.m.

The cooler breeze around 6 p.m. seemed to have put everyone in a happy mood as each and everyone's greetings were extra cheerful.

First, Patricia Fletcher passed a card around for us to sign our names to welcome Katherine Flynn back to Brodhead. Since she was a member of our club before, we hope she will be able to join us again.

Lorraine Newlands devotion covered Bible readings from the creation to Revelations, ending with "Be still and know that I am God". Patricia reminded us to take our Floral hall Exhibits to Brodhead Fair at 10 a.m., Tuesday, Aug. 1.

She passed around the Ladies' Auxiliary Club's Cook Book for us to see. It will be on sale at the fair. We decided to choose things to sell from Sylvia White's ale book in our September meeting at Margie Brock's home. Several members suggested meeting with our town's council soon to get things cleaned in town. The recent flash flood left debris that clogs the rain's flow.

After these discussions it was time for Carol's Bingo Game. (Maybe this stalk must have both a wound and water to grow and multiply. Nesmith said, "Therefore, control of the disease starts with preventing wounds that retain water. Farmers should top tobacco early while buds and flowers are tender so a smooth, even wound is made. Topping late can cause increased stem damage, allowing water to be retained in the wound." Farmers may need to make several trips into fields to top in order to get plants when they're ready, he said.

is why everyone seemed so cheerful) They knew about this! She piled gifts in the middle of her living room floor to choose when we went to a game. Talk about silence - we were quiet enough to hear a pin drop! We did not want to miss a number that Carol called out loud and clear. When we all won a prize, we played a cover-all for the special prize. Lucky Loraine won it. But all of us were happy with the one we had won! Well, almost everyone!

'Onions Wanted' Cont. from B-6

There are problems though. The restaurant chain insists on a uniform flavor for its onions used at all restaurants. The company is looking for big, round, mild onions, said John Strang, UK Extension vegetable specialist.

Onions grown in Kentucky tend to be stronger flavored than the mild type that the restaurant chain insists upon.

"We also have a problem with rain," Strang said. Under the arid conditions of the western U.S. onions are windrowed and dried in the field. In Kentucky, chances of mid-summer rains and heavy morning dews make field drying less desirable. So Roberts and Strang have worked for several years with field tests of numerous varieties of onions to find which ones might grow best in Kentucky and still meet the stringent demands of the company.

"The onions are seeded in UK's greenhouses," Roberts said. "We then transplant them to our test plots. We look at yield and quality as well as mildness." At the end of the season, Roberts then hauls the best of them to Louisville where Campiano's Fresh Pack Operation tests them for taste, mildness and other requirements.

Strang said progress is being made, but the field trials will continue over several more growing seasons. More than 30 cultivars were tested last year, and that's been screened down to a more manageable number.

"We haven't decided which variety is the best," Strang said. "When we get to the point where we can recommend the top varieties with confidence, raising onions commercially could be a profitable enterprise."

Two students participate in Governor's Scholar at Centre

Two students from the Mt. Vernon area are participating in the Governor's Scholars Program (GSP) at Centre College.

Cecil Linville II, son of Joy and Cecil Linville of Berea, attends Rockcastle County High School, where he qualified for Who's Who Among American High School Students. At GSP, he majors in physical science and minors in "Technology as Jekke and Hyde," which looks at the positive and negative effects of technological increases. While there, Linville was impressed by "the fact that everyone is very open-minded to everyone else's opinion."

Angela McKinney, daughter of Betty Jo and Danny McKinney of Brodhead, attends Rockcastle County High School, where she is a member of Murray State University's Golden 100. At GSP, she majors in literature and minors in "Meselush in a Spaceship: Einstein's Universe," which studies the theories of Albert Einstein. McKinney calls GSP "the opportunity of a lifetime!"

GSP is being conducted June 25-July 29 at Centre College. More than 324 of Kentucky's most promising rising high school seniors are given the opportunity to take a major and a minor in a variety of scholarly disciplines. In addition to classes, the program includes visits by noted authors, scientists, musicians, athletes, and businessmen; a celebration honoring the Bastille Day bicentennial; a march protesting recent actions of the Chinese government; and many other events designed to stimulate a broadening of awareness and interest in the participants. A similar number of Governor's Scholars are studying at Murray State University. This is the sixth year that Centre has hosted GSP.

Summer Reading Program

The Rockcastle County Library and the bookmobile ending the Paddington Bear summer reading program last Thursday with a pizza party at the library. There were 38 children present also parents and guests. Everyone had all the pizza they wanted and each child was given a small gift.

Three children in the library and three on the bookmobile were given Paddington Bear dolls as a reward for reading the most books during the program. The top readers in the library were William Baker, Kami Lovell, Joann Lakes, Eric Lakes and Sabrina Bowles. Jessica Harrison read the most on the bookmobile.

We would like to thank the following sponsors for their donations: Druthers, Foodland of Brodhead, Hiatts 5 & 10, General Dollar Store and Pizza Hut. Also thanks to Joy Davis for bringing in her small pets for the children to play with, Sharon Lovell for the videos, and all the mothers who gave donations of their money and their time to help clean up after the pizza party.

We are looking forward to another summer reading program next year and we hope all the parents will make plans to allow their children to join us again.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

One of the most misunderstood subjects in our religious world today, is the subject of miracles. Many of the various sects make claims of God working miracles among them. Mormons give their "testimonies" of miracles, should I then believe them and mormon doctrine? Catholics give their "testimonies" of miracles, should I then believe them and Catholic doctrine? The "Jesus Only" people give "testimonies" of miracles among them, should I believe what they claim and accept the "Jesus only" doctrine? The Pentacostal groups today claim to work miracles. Should I believe their "testimonies" and become a Pentacostal?

Let me say that I fully believe in the miracles of Bible, both Old and New Testament. I have no doubt that Moses parted the Red Sea or that Elisha healed Naaman the Leper. I would not question for a minute that Jesus walked on the water or raised Lazarus from the dead or that the apostles all spoke in tongues (ie. other languages Ac 2:4-8) on the Day of Pentecost. And I don't question one iota that God still has the power to work miracles. But what I do question, yea, I deny that miracles are being worked today. Why? Because God said in the Bible that they would stop!

Paul in I Cor. 12:14-14 deals with the miraculous spiritual gifts of the Spirit. Ch. 12 shows the diversity of gifts, yet the same Spirit. Ch. 13 deals with the more excellent way, the way of love, for the gifts will fade, cease and vanish away. Ch. 14 deals with the proper use of these gifts while they lasted. "Charity never faileth but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away." I Cor. 13:8. Now does that sound like these gifts would continue on? Then in verse 10, Paul said "But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away." The perfect is in contrast to the part. These spiritual gifts only revealed a part of the mind of God at a time, until all the mind of God was revealed and then recorded in scripture. Thus all generations could know God's will. The perfect law of liberty (Jm. 1:25) has been revealed and recorded, II Tim. 3:16-17, II Pet. 1:3. And this gospel has been fully confirmed by miracles, Mk. 16:17-20, II Cor. 12:12, Heb. 2:3-4. There is no need for any further revelations from God, for he has given us ALL Truth!

We challenge our charismatic friends to accept the truth of God and leave their falsehoods.

What Marymount can tell you about pumps and valves could save you from heart disease.

No one knows the importance of preventive maintenance and up-to-date technology better than a mechanic. Marymount's a pro as both. An experienced cardiology team uses the latest expertise to detect heart disease before it becomes disabling.

Investigating the symptoms of heart problems doesn't have to be traumatic. That's why there's a new cardiac certification lab at Marymount -- the only facility of its kind between Lexington and Knoxville. Here, invasive cardiologists* can diagnose and explain the problem in a professional environment that's close to home.

We take your needs to heart.

The cardiologists at Marymount are expert in using the appropriate techniques to assess heart size, rhythm, blood flow and muscle function. They use echocardiography, stress thalliums and holter monitors with equal precision. And, if necessary, they perform cardiac catheterization, an invasive radiologic procedure. It's the most definitive non-surgical method of determining the extent of blockage in a patient's coronary arteries.

More new services, so we don't miss a beat.

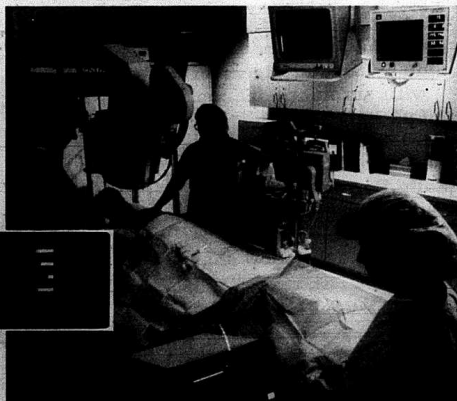

A new wing at Marymount has allowed us to expand our radiology laboratory, surgery, obstetric, intensive cardiac care, therapy and nursing services. And our emergency department is fully equipped and staffed with a physician* 24 hours a day.

To our growing staff of 25 physicians, we've added state-of-the-art technology such as a mammography unit, nuclear medicine equipment and a CT scanner. And now, with outpatient surgery offered at Marymount or East Bernstadt, we give patients two convenient options.

Marymount's care can make a critical difference.

It all comes down to this: Marymount is growing to provide comprehensive healthcare -- from CT scanning to cardiac care. So don't leave town for healthcare. Depend on the skilled hands, close at hand, at Marymount Hospital. Call Marymount for information on specific services of interest to you.

Kendrick family takes a turn as LABO host

By: Jim Griesch

So far, Reiko Yamamoto has been swimming at Cedar Rapids, shopped in Lexington and Richmond, visited the Eastern Kentucky University campus, eaten pizza and other American fast foods, played putt-putt golf, attended a Rockcastle County High cheerleading practice, and is currently attending a Baptist church camp in Bagdad, in Shelby County.

That's not bad for someone who has been in the United States for barely a week. Reiko is the 1989 LABO visitor in Mt. Vernon, a guest of April Kendrick and her parents, Bobby and Alma, in the annual LABO-4-H student exchange program.

Reiko's stay will last long enough that April is planning to take Reiko to school with her later this month, to give her a feel for an American high school.

Reiko is 15, and a student at an all-girls school in her hometown of Matsusaka, on the Pacific Coast of Honshu, the "big island" in Japan. The next big city is Nagoya.

Reiko is a little older than the last visitor, 13-year-old Yukari Kusachi, who visited Cindy Gregory two years ago.

She has a little better grasp of English, since she has studied the language for four years. Reiko can read fairly well, and for the best communications, a written question will receive a written answer. She is just beginning to learn to speak English with a little fluency will be enhanced by four weeks here on earth.

April's parents said they had

The Kendrick family -- Bobby, Alma, April and cousin Christian -- surround Reiko Yamamoto, who is visiting from Japan this month. The visit is part of a 4-H exchange program which brings students each August. Reiko is 15, and a student at an all-girls high school.

thought about participating in the exchange program two years ago.

They decided to host a student sometime in December or January, and began to plan then.

This is actually the second time April has played host to someone through a 4-H program. Several years ago, she hosted Christy Kuel, an other 4-H'er from Des Moines, Iowa.

But, the element of hosting a Japanese girl appeared to her, April said,

"So far (with Reiko) it is hard to communicate," April said. "But, it's getting easier to understand. You just have to be patient."

Actually, things were moving pretty well Friday night.

Reiko was showing April, her mother, and Georgia cousin Christian how to make paper hats and balloons.

They got through the confusing parts of hands-on training with simple head shakes, questioning looks, and animated hand gestures.

Like other LABO members, Reiko found out she was coming to the United States in June.

Students attend weekend camps in that month to prepare for the trip. Students are selected for the trip after them. At the same time, their parents receive a final orientation for their children. They find out where they will stay, and the type clothes and items to bring.

The LABO kids spend about six months going to monthly district meetings in which each child sets up personal goals, puts together a self-introduction album, studies the United States (or whatever other country they may be visiting), and learn to put together a story to tell the host family about themselves.

The students are then flown to their host country, and then on into specific areas.

This summer, there are 28 students visiting Kentucky, with others in Madison, Garrard, and Laurel counties near-by.

Adult supervisors and chaperones are also housed with exchange families, and that puts them within a telephone call of a serious problem.

Each visitor has a different experience, because the host families are left to entertain the child on their own.

Most of the students see as many area sites and sights as the host family can work into its own routine of work and household duties.

For Reiko, attending the summer camp will be somewhat unique for her. And, she may be one of the few who will get a chance to see an American high school football game. She is expected to see the 1989 opener

Cindy Gregory still hears from her 1987 LABO visitor

By: Jim Griesch

Two years ago, Cindy Gregory, then 13, was a host to a 12-year-old girl, Yukari Kusachi, from Shizuoka, Japan.

The whole Gregory family still has a lot of fond memories of those four weeks in 1987.

Cindy, now nearing her 16th birthday, said that the lack of a common language was no real problem. "We had it down to an art," she explained. "After the first week, we didn't need to have to talk to each other. We did it with hand movements, gestures, and eye contact."

The two girls found they had a lot in common. They were about the same age, both played the piano, and both decided to have fun.

Because of that reward, the family has reaped many favors. Yukari still writes Cindy, and the two exchange cards, some gifts and the like. Cindy also has an open invitation to visit Yukari in Japan.

Whatever Yukari may have thought about her visit here, it wasn't dull. The Gregory family took her on a short vacation, which included Washington, D.C., Virginia and the Atlantic Ocean, Franklin, Ft. Boonesboro, and the state fair in Louisville.

They made all the normal tourist places in the capitol, and swimming in the Atlantic was a first for Yukari, since Japan offers both the Pacific Ocean and the Sea of Japan on its coasts.

During the trip to Ft. Boonesboro, they showed her the statue of Daniel Boone, and with so much at the fort about the famous frontiersman, she was left to ask them "What is Daniel Boone?"

She was more familiar with another area landmark. On a trip to Corbin, the family and their guest ate at the first Kentucky Fried Chicken outlet, on US 25. She knew all about that, and had her picture taken to prove to her parents that she had been there.

And, the trip to the state fair carried an extra bonus. She got to meet with several other Japanese students on the same exchange program.

The group got together to sing some songs, to talk among countrymen, and to compare notes about their stays with their respective host families.

Cindy explained, "She was the only girl in this part of the state," and she really liked it at the fair.

The exchange program itself is unique. The 4-H Club of America has a reciprocal agreement with a similar organization in Japan, called LABO.

The two groups have similar values and goals. During the late summer, youths from each country are matched with families in the other, boys with boys, girls with girls, and as close as possible to similar backgrounds. A family can request kids with certain characteristics. For instance, a Garrard family last year wanted someone from a farm. They lived on a small farm. They got a very big, husky boy, who fished and waded, even worked in hay with the host family children.

In Cindy's case, Yukari was also from a small town, but with interests outside of farming.

The two girls wound up teaching each other various games, and customs from the two countries.

For instances, Yukari bought lots of foods with her, and showed Cindy how to cook certain Japanese dishes. "The family still has some of the items, and others they have bought since, complete with the Japanese kanji on them instead of English."

The visitor brought many gifts for the family with her.

Cindy remembers, "She had a huge suitcase. When she got here she opened one side up to get her clothes. The other side, she had gifts for us. A kimono each for Cindy, and her mother, Mary, were big items. There were also dolls, games, cards, and many small items."

Besides the trip to KFC and out of state, the Americanization of Yukari included a slumber party and other opportunities to meet Cindy's friends and sample other American food.

The slumber party was part of an annual thing. Cindy and some of her friends have August birthdays, so they get together for a slumber party instead of a series of parties.

Yukari seemed to fit right in with a half dozen or so of the neighborhood girls.

Two trips to restaurants still bring smiles to the Gregorays. When Yukari first arrived, they took her to a Japa-

Father Bill even had a visit from the girl's father in 1988

By: Jim Griesch

Bill Gregory thinks Aki Kusachi may be the only person to fly around the world to visit him in Rockcastle County.

Kusachi is the father of Yukari Kusachi, who visited Gregory's daughter, Cindy, for four weeks in 1987, as part of the 4-H LABO exchange program.

Over a year later, after another daughter had visited a Kansas family, Kusachi flew from Tokyo to Seoul to New York to Cincinnati and to Lexington, where the Gregorays picked him up.

He stayed three or four days with the Gregorays, then went home through Atlanta, Los Angeles and Honolulu.

That means that Kusachi actually flew the way around the world, and one of his stops was to the Gregory home.

Gregory still remembers his introduction to Kusachi with a smile.

"I picked up the phone, and he said,

"Bill, I'm in United States," said Gregory last week. He called from New York.

Apparently Kusachi simply wanted to meet the people who became friends with his daughter. She still sends occasional letters and notes to Cindy Gregory, and the two families keep in touch.

Kusachi owns a store in Shizuoka, Japan. The Gregorays say that his wife ran the store in the weeks he was flying around the world.

They were impressed with him. He was a "first class" man, said Gregory. He apparently has some money, too. Gregory said the man flew "first class" all the way, and the ticket may have cost as much as $9,000.

"The father also knew how to travel in style, and in familiar surroundings. Gregory said he had arranged his trip so that he could fly on Japanese-owned planes, and stay at Japanese-owned hotels and motels as much as possible.

While in Rockcastle, the Gregory family showed him their home and the city.

Like most orientals, he was impressed with the amount of room people here live in. Because space is at a premium in all countries in Asia, Kusachi had trouble believing that as few people as are found in one family live on the amount of ground most Americans take for granted.

Gregory admitted that he wondered how he would entertain his guest. "Someone told me that Japanese like guns," he said. "Shotguns are supposed to be the only guns Japanese are allowed to own."

The two men spent some time shooting at targets, and that seemed to hold a special fascination for Kusachi, said Gregory.

And, saying good-bye to their original guest was made easier through a Japanese woman who arranged to meet them at Bluegrass Airport in Lexington.

Gregory said they had been told of

Painting is on display

A painting by Mark McFerron, formerly of Mt. Vernon, depicting the Civil War Battle of Wildcat Mountain near Livingston, is on display at the Bank of Mt. Vernon.

The painting is four feet by five feet and shows Union soldiers from Ohio and Indiana in trenches in the area of Wildcat Mountain where they skirmished with Southern forces on Oct. 21, 1861.

It is the largest painting to date by McFerron and will eventually be in Northern Kentucky University's Historical Archives, which are open to the public.

McFerron said he "recreated the battle as realistic as possible with the actual landscape and portraits of commanding officers". McFerron will also write a 200-word description of the battle for a new version of the Kentucky Encyclopedia to commemorate the 200th year of Kentucky statehood to be published in 1992.

Funding for the encyclopedia was provided by the Bingham Foundation of Louisville, a foundation set up by Mary and Barry Bingham Sr.

The encyclopedia will include more than 2,000 entries. The articles will range from broad topics such as slavery, banking, transportation and agriculture to more specific entries including counties, town and biographical sketches.

against Lynn Camp on August 18. And, the experience of trying new foods is always an exciting part of any stay.

So far, Reiko has eaten at Pizza Hut, McDonald's, and a number of other fast food places. She has already found out she likes macaroni and cheese, Oreos cookies and Cheetos.

Mrs. Kendrick said that other plans call for possible visits to the Kentucky Horse Park and/or Kings Island.

Almost all of those experiences will be a first for Reiko.

However, there is evidence of some Americanization in Matuskaka.

Her introductory album has one picture of the latest in Kentucky Fried Chicken franchises there.

Reiko plays the piano, but says she is not a good cook.

She has studied Aikido, and had earned a blue belt. But, she says she doesn't study it actively now.

Her father owns a store, and the family lives above it, not uncommon in Japan.

Like most visitors in the program, Reiko has already presented the Kendricks with several gifts, some made, some bought.

Other expectations for Reiko should include the annual birthday slumber party that several county girls hold in August because of the short time between dates. They hold the one party instead of several. And, a trip to the state fair could be in the works.

At the fair, Reiko could get an opportunity to meet with many of the other Japanese youths who are visiting.

That will be their first opportunity to compare notes to see who did what, who saw what, and who liked what.

But, because each family is different, almost no two of the visitors will have that many similar experiences.

Maybe that's the real drama, the most fun, the hidden charm, for everybody involved with the program.

nese restaurant in Lexington. Their waitress was a Japanese native, and she wound up feeding Yukari on the house.

Another time, they were out, and Yukari made it clear that she wanted to eat "American" food, not Japanese. They took her out for prime rib.

Mrs. Gregory said she was amazed at the size of the portion of meat.

In fact, Cindy's even mastered one of the fine arts of the Japanese. She knows how to eat, politely, with chopsticks.

And, some of the United States rubbed off on Yukari. Cindy explained that the girl was very neat and quiet when she first arrived. Everything was just so.

"After three weeks," Cindy laughed, "she was as sloppy as I am. She let her things around just like I do."

Because of the timing of the stay, Yukari even got to go to the first day of classes with Cindy, an eighth grader at Mt. Vernon.

Capt. D.E. Asher said the solicitation of advertisement in the magazine "does not represent the Kentucky State Police Post."

Yukari's schooling is much longer than here. She is gone from 6 a.m. until 8 p.m., and even takes some private lessons, such as in English, and will often have tutors over after 8 p.m., say the Gregorys.

Cindy noticed that she would study for at least a few minutes every day, often for an hour or more.

And, Cindy even helped her with some of the English. They got out one book she was to use in the forthcoming school year, and Cindy taped the answers to all of it for her.

a Japanese-American who worked at a day school in Lexington. They asked her to help see him off. She did, and helped smooth everything out, and to help Kasachi through the confusion of arranging for several plane changes and international flying.

It is not uncommon for American families to host a Japanese child more than once, but it is unusual for the parents of their guests to arrange a visit later.

That might put the Gregory family amongst a very few people who have ever done that.

This week's Poet's Corner

Reflections From the Great Beyond. . . .
By: Christine Harper
McKlincy

I'd meant to do more than just "give it a try" -- tomorrow;
No one would be kinder, more thoughtful than I -- tomorrow.
Some friends who were ailing and troubled I knew
Would be glad for a visit and a kind word or two;
On them I would call and see what I could do -- tomorrow.

Each day I'd envision all the letters I'd write -- tomorrow,

And think of the souls I would fill with delight -- tomorrow!
It was too bad I was busy today and had not a moment to stop on the way;
"More time I will have for others," I'd say -- "tomorrow."

The greatest of workers I'd surely have been -- tomorrow;
And the world would have known me had I ever seen -- tomorrow;
But the fact is I did and faded from view
And the only thing left when my living was through
Was a list of the good I'd intended to do -- tomorrow!

Lunsford, Richards injured as several occur last week

John Lunsford, 29, of Broadhead, is in good condition at St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington, following a one-car accident about 1:30 a.m. Friday, one of three accidents in the past few days.

Lunsford was traveling west on U.S. 150 when his auto dropped off the pavement according to State Police. When he tried to steer the car back on the road he lost control and the car skidded into an embankment. Lunsford was thrown from the vehicle.

Main street vandalism

Someone used a BB gun to shoot windows in two downtown businesses sometime Saturday night.

A large plate glass window was shattered with one shot at Mt. Vernon Printing, owned by Henry Hines on east Main Street.

A window was also shot in the Gregory Building next door. That window did not shatter. It was shot seven times.

Police are investigating the shooting.

Seniors discount

A change in the city water/sewer base rate for senior citizens is reflected for the first time in this month's bill.

The base rate for persons over 65 using up to 6,000 gallons of water a month is $11.46, down $2.02 from the past $13.48 bill.

Persons eligible for the discount must show proof of age at the water department at city hall.

The council voted to reduce the bill for seniors since some are on limited income and find it difficult to pay the bill.

McConnell chair is Henry Owens

Sen. Mitch McConnell today announced that Henry Owens of Mt. Vernon will serve as finance chairman for Rockcastle County during McConnell's 1990 campaign.

"The position of finance chairman is one of the most important in any political campaign and I am honored that Henry has volunteered to chair my finance committee in Rockcastle County," McConnell said.

"I anticipate a tough challenge and Henry will play a critical role in helping me win this race by soliciting donations from the thousands of Democrats and Republicans who are actively supporting my candidacy," he said.

McConnell's last Federal Election Commission report filed at the end of 1988 disclosed that he had raised well over $1.4 million dollars for his reelection campaign.

Blood drive is August 10

Good health seems to be an issue of importance to everyone these days. As a whole, Americans are taking better care of themselves through healthy habits such as diets, exercise, and stress reduction. Donating blood is another healthy habit. When you donate blood at Central Kentucky Blood Center, you receive a check of blood pressure, temperature, and iron level. It's an excellent mini-physical.

During the month of August, CKBC will also perform a free cholesterol test on each unit of blood donated with results sent to the donor. We need healthy donors to provide a safe blood supply for the community. Central Kentucky Blood Center is offering this free cholesterol test as a service to make sure our donors stay healthy.

So join the Rockcastle County Homemakers at their blood drive on Aug. 10 from 12 noon to 7 p.m. at the Agricultural Services Center, and get into the habit of donating blood to save lives. No other habit you develop will affect so many people in such a personal and positive way.

For more information about the blood drive, contact Cheryl Witt at 256-2403.

According to State Police, Teddy Holman, 17, of Brodhead rounded a curve and struck a vehicle driven by Marshall Brown, 18, of Orlando. Miss Richards was a passenger in the Fiscal petition to change Negro Creek name

By: Ray McClure

A petition containing 71 names of residents living along Negro Creek Road to change the name of the road to Oak Valley Road was presented to the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at a meeting Tuesday.

Jenny McPherson, who lives along the road, presented the petition. The petition states: "We feel that this (name) is highly significant because of the many embarrassments and insults on both blacks and whites, and that more of such will follow and even worse."

Phillip Payne, who also lives along the road, told the court the road has been Negro Creek Road for a long time and he was opposed to the change.

Magistrate Ricky Kirby, in whose district the road is located, told those present he does not like to see names changed that have been in existence for years, but told Payne to bring in a petition opposing the change at the Sept. 5 meeting and he would abide by the petition with the most names.

Mrs. McPherson said her petition has 71 names. However, all names on petitions must be checked to make sure the names are authentic. She said there are 40 homes and 70 families living along the road.

The road is state-maintained but Kirby said the highway department in Frankfort passed the name change back to the fiscal court.

Mrs. Martha Harrison asked the court to keep county equipment off the road leading through her property located just off Conway-Chestnut Ridge Road near Broadhead. She said the road department makes "mess" when it went through her property to repair the road beyond her property belong to John Baker. Baker has a right-of-way leading through the Harrison property.

The court voted to stay off the road until some kind of agreement could be worked out.

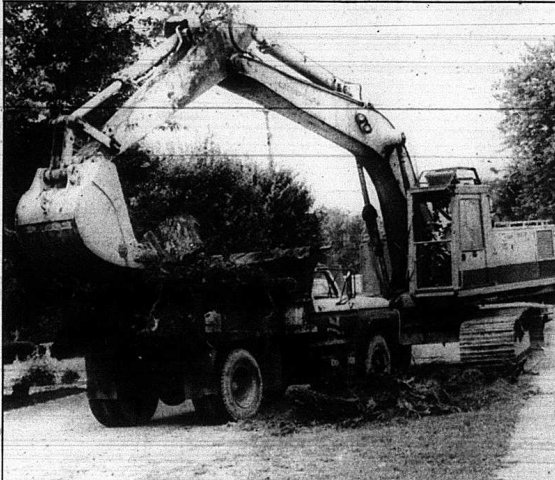

Magistrate Glen Ellison said he was sure the road was a county road and had been for many years. Other magistrates agreed. Mrs. Harrison discussed on the county road designation. After the vote she asked the court if they were going to leave all the mess along her property. The magistrates did not reply.

The court voted to add 2.3 miles of Curt Kitchell Road to the county road program.

Also voted by the court was the purchase of a new carburetor and four tires for the county fire truck stationed at Mt. Vernon.

Other roads in surrounding areas include $11 million for six miles of southeastern bypass at Somerset; a new $69 million bridge on I-75 at Clay's ferry; $1.2 million for a bypass around a section of Corbin; and $58 million to rebuild the remaining four lanes of U.S. 25E east of Barbourville to Pineville.

Other roads in surrounding areas include $11 million for six miles of southeastern bypass at Somerset; a new $69 million bridge on I-75 at Clay's ferry; $1.2 million for a bypass around a section of Corbin; and $58 million to rebuild the remaining four lanes of U.S. 25E east of Barbourville to Pineville.

Work is underway on putting in a curbed sidewalk and paved parking area at Broadhead Elementary on the side road off Silver St. The first step was tearing out a number of stumps in the area involved. The street will also be made one-way to help with a heavy traffic problem at the beginning and end of each school day. More pictures can be found on Page B-1 in this week's edition.

Sex ed classes ready to start

By: Jim Griesch

A sex education program has been adopted by Rockcastle County's board of education for 1999-2000.

Superintendent Bige Twogey said actual instruction should begin the second semester, with the fall semester devoted to acquiring books and teaching aids.

The program, which has been announced publicly and available for viewing at the board's offices on Richmond St. for weeks, carries several changes from a model program offered by the state.

Those changes include segregating students by sex for classes in grades five through sixth, to stress abstinence before marriage, and to focus on sex within the context of marriage, and to eliminate explicit language in some instances for early-grade students.

The plan calls for students in grades Kindergarten through five to receive

Never let it be said Kentucky State Trooper Gary Lane doesn't get his man -- in this case, six men.

Trooper Lane, who is stationed in Rockcastle, was returning to Mt. Vernon from the London Post Saturday on I-75 when he spotted a suspected drunk driver.

Lane pulled over a van with Indiana license plates about two miles north of London, according to trooper Gilbert Acciaro, London Post public affairs officer.

Lane arrested driver, Terry Wallace, 44, of Penn. Ind., on charges of driving under the influence, no operator's license, no insurance and improper registration.

After putting Wallace in his cruiser, the five other passengers became verbally abusive, threatening him with harm should he try to arrest them.

Lane had called for backup, and when Sgt. Paul Hayes arrived, he found the men on their knees on the ground, with their legs crossed, hands behind their heads and Lane with his shotgun leveled at the men.

Arrested and charged with alcohol intoxication were Donnie Wayne Hall, 37, of Denver, Colo.; Stephen Reiff, 39, of Palm Beach, Fla.; Ronald L. Bishop, 38, Steven Wayne Lawson, 30, and Kenneth C. Hill, 42, all of Lexington.

All were lodged in the Laurel County Jail.

Trp. Lane arrests six on I-75

Never let it be said Kentucky State Trooper Gary Lane doesn't get his man -- in this case, six men.

Trooper Lane, who is stationed in Rockcastle, was returning to Mt. Vernon from the London Post Saturday on I-75 when he spotted a suspected drunk driver.

Lane pulled over a van with Indiana license plates about two miles north of London, according to trooper Gilbert Acciaro, London Post public affairs officer.

Lane arrested driver, Terry Wallace, 44, of Penn. Ind., on charges of driving under the influence, no operator's license, no insurance and improper registration.

After putting Wallace in his cruiser, the five other passengers became verbally abusive, threatening him with harm should he try to arrest them.

Lane had called for backup, and when Sgt. Paul Hayes arrived, he found the men on their knees on the ground, with their legs crossed, hands behind their heads and Lane with his shotgun leveled at the men.

Arrested and charged with alcohol intoxication were Donnie Wayne Hall, 37, of Denver, Colo.; Stephen Reiff, 39, of Palm Beach, Fla.; Ronald L. Bishop, 38, Steven Wayne Lawson, 30, and Kenneth C. Hill, 42, all of Lexington.

All were lodged in the Laurel County Jail.

Request for money to develop Derby City

By: Ray McClure

Owners of Oran's Truck Plaza at Eubank in Pulaski County asked the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night to help them finance the purchase and development of Derby City South truck stop at Renfro Valley.

Kenneth Smallwood of Eubank and Charles Cruson of Louisville told the council they have a contract with Evelyn Mitchell of Louisville, Derby City owner, but will need more money for development and improvements.

He asked the city for between $250,000 and $300,000. Smallwood said the purchase and development will total about $1.4 million. He said plans are for changes in the building to make it similar to Cracker Barrel Restaurants, gasoline pumps, more diesel pumps, a new canopy, additional lanes, concrete parking lot, a gymnasium, showers, a travel store and a redecorated restaurant. He said the name will be Renfro Valley Travel Plaza and they hope to have the project completed by the end of the year.

Smallwood said the project will add from 24 to 30 new jobs and agreed that most personnel would be from the area.

He also noted that the Bank of Mt. Vernon and Citizens Faculty of Lexington have made commitments, but he did not disclose the commitments.

The truck stop has been in operation for about four years. The land is leased from Bill and Arletta Norton and others. Smallwood said a 40-year lease is available to them.

The council discussed the request but let it to City Attorney John Cloutz to come up with a reasonable proposal to be made to the mayor when they return at a called meeting of the council for 6 p.m. Aug. 14.

The council earlier was told about $300,000 remains for industrial and business development by the city from a payback of a loan of Mt. Vernon Plastics, and that a previous commitment of $200,000 to help finance a metal stamping factory in the area is no longer being considered by the end of the year.

Hospital gets $385,000 UDAG expansion grant

By: Ray McClure

A $385,194 Urban Development Action Grant will help finance construction of an addition to Rockcastle Hospital has been approved by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to a joint announcement by Sens. Mitch McConnell, Wendell Ford, and Rep. Harold Rogers.

The money goes toward construction of the $3.5 million hospital addition, but is specifically earmarked for a special unit in the hospital dedicated to the care of respiratory dependent patients.

According to Wayne Stewart, hospital board member and former hospital administrator, Livingston is the "lead city" in obtaining the grant and will share equally with Mt. Vernon and Broadhead in the payback of the money.

One-half of the money is an outright grant. The remaining will be paid back equally to the three cities. Currently, the hospital project has an additional $100,000 from the Appalachian Regional Commission and $100,000 borrowed from Cumberland Valley Area Development District's revolving loan fund.

The remaining $2.9 million needed for the project will come from Caduces Capital Corporation of Georgia, an agency of the State of Kentucky for financing bonds at a low six percent interest rate.

The 23,788 square-foot addition to the hospital will add 28 more skilled long-term care beds for its respiratory patients.

Stewart said at the present time this is the only unit of its kind in Kentucky.

Two marijuana raids in Rockcastle County during the past week netted law enforcement officials nearly 2,000 plants.

The first raid in southern Rockcastle netted 717 plants that were destroyed by State Police and Conservation officers.

A total of 1,262 plants were found in 10 plots on Daniel Boone National Forest land six miles north of Livingston.

During the same raids, 13 plots were found in the forest in Laurel County 10 miles west of London where a total of 417 plants were destroyed.

State Police estimate the average mature plant produces $1,000 worth of marijuana, which would make the marijuana destroyed worth $539,600.

54 years at the Little World's Fair

By: Richard Anderkine

Chances are that if you have attended the Little World's Fair and Horse Show in the past five decades you have met Danny Sargent.

The elderly gentleman has worked at the fair for 54 consecutive years and hasn't missed a day.

When Danny was 18-years-old he started at the fair for then owners, Doc Phillips and W. A. Yodden. That was 1935 and his first job was to try and keep people from enjoying the fair without paying admission. Danny guarded the fence.

"Back then the fence wasn't too good and several of us had to try to keep the no-pays from jumping the fence," he said. "I think you can see how the fence was pretty good pay at that time."

A few years later Danny parked cars and then he took up ticket duty at that.

But as long as Danny can remember he has worked the fence, gate and ticket duty for the Little World's Fair.

bers a night when about 14,000 people came to the fair, primarily he said, to try and win the new car that was raffled off.

Danny still enjoys his job very much, but since he's 72-years-old now he doesn't spend as much time there as in the past.

In years gone by Danny would show up for work around 8 a.m. and stay until closing, which some nights was 2 a.m.

He still puts in many hours at what he calls his vacation spot from the fair, and enjoys the people he meets more than any other part of his job.

Danny who served as manager from 1960 to 1990 said that in the 30's and 40's people would come all around to what was then the Broadhead Fair. They would come in covered wagons and buggies 10 and 12 of them at a time and stay until the morning light," he said.

Danny Sargent is a familiar face at the Little World's Fair. He's worked at it for 54 years. Here, he takes a break from a young lady.

Dear Editor,

[This is for my mama and papa, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bullock]

It's been nine years now since papa past away, July 3, 1980, and God bless mama's soul, she's a real tough lady. For I know these nine years have really been hard for her but she's still holding on. She's a true Christian so she's got alot to hold on to and for. And mama I just want to say I can be with you as often as I'd like but I think of you everyday. And every year when July 3rd comes around I think of papa and how sad and lonely these times he had to be for you. But we know that papa is in God's hands now. And some day we'll see him again but still we all miss you papa. Moma writes songs about you quite often. Most all the time I find her off by herself playing her guitar and singing beautiful songs just of you and mama with her life eyes filled with tears and heart filled with glory for she knows you're in heaven. I just wish you could hear her songs. And mama I just want you to know I wish I could be with you every day and I love you very much. I miss papa very much

Rockcastle MFG's Quality Awareness Committee

Dear Editor,
 Last Thursday I went by at the Rockcastle School Board office to look over the Parenting/Family Life/Sex Education curriculum. After looking it all over, those who served on the committee certainly need to be consoled for the good job they have done.

In a society where teenage pregnancy is high, and venereal disease is rampant, then assuredly the approach outlined in the school curriculum will help. This curriculum promotes premarital abstinence as the most viable lifestyle for young people relative to sexual involvement. Because premarital sexual involvement is not believed to be in the best interest of young people, this curriculum promotes the "three R's," Restraint, Respect, and Responsibility.

Making the subject of sex a taboo that you're not supposed to talk about is both foolish and unbiblical. God was the one who created sex when he made the first couple. He has told us that sexual activity outside of marriage is wrong. I like how the school curriculum will teach about pregnancy and birth control in the context of marriage. The curriculum calls for teaching the older grades the "advantages of Premarital Abstinence" and the consequences of "sexual activity."

When children are given information of both sides of the picture they will be able to make the better choice. You know the devil always wants us to see the pleasure side of sin, and not the bitter consequences of wrong doing.

Family Life and Sex Education is "First and Foremost, a function of the home," and we as parents have the responsibility to teach our children these subjects. And for those children who miss out at home in receiving teaching along this line, the school has outlined some sound help along these lines.

Again thanks for the hard work to give our children of Rockcastle County a good Parenting/Family Life/Sex Education Curriculum.

CAP 25th Anniversary

Former volunteers come home

Former volunteers working on home repair projects will be one of the highlights of the Christian Appalachian Project's 25th anniversary observance during the weekend of Aug. 4-6 near Renfro Valley.

Other activities will include a picnic for employees and former volunteers, bluegrass and country music, the launching of a hot air balloon, and outdoor ecumenical services.

More than 55 former volunteers will team up with other former volunteers, who are project employees, present volunteers, and employees on the fourth to work on approximately 10 home repair projects in Rockcastle and Madison counties.

They will build and replace roofs, replace floors, paint, and add handi-camp ramps as well as begin and finish additions to houses of low income families.

The home-repair activities are part of the homecoming of former volunteers who have worked in Appalachia under Rev. Ralph Beiting since the 1950s, when he began his ministry in the area.

The former volunteers will also participate in a picnic for project employees at the Christian Appalachian Project's Family Life Center near Renfro Valley. After the picnic volunteers and employees will enjoy two hours of bluegrass and country music at the "Old Barn Building" of Renfro Valley Barn Dance. It will be here that Rev. Beiting and Mike McLaughlin, president of the Christian Appalachian Project, will lead in formal activities recognizing the project's 25 years of service in eastern Kentucky.

The weekend of activities will end with the launching of a hot air balloon near the "Old Barn" and with outdoor worship services for Catholic and Protestants back at the project's Family Life Center.

One guilty, another acquitted

The last two bits of action for July in the special docket DUI trials found one defendant pleading guilty instead of standing trial, and the first acquittal.

On July 26, Ricky Miller pleaded guilty at the last second, was fined $200 and costs, plus a $150 service fee, and loss of license, for at least 30 days.

Mauricette Allen was acquitted by a directed verdict. In this case, Judge Donald L. Smalley directed the jury to find her not guilty because the prosecution was unable to prove part of the evidence needed for prosecution.

In this case, the state was unable to prove she was driving the auto in this 1988 case.

An attorney explained that in DUI cases, the prosecution must prove she had been drinking, was under the influence, and actually driving.

That temporarily brings to a halt the special docket proceedings until August 21.

So far, there have been two trials, with one guilty verdict and one acquittal, and about 18 pleas or dismissals.

There are about 60 more cases that still await a final verdict.

The entire special docket is being heard by Jefferson County district judges. So far, Smalley has heard all of them.

The cases are being prosecuted by Jim Capillo, an assistant to Fayette County Attorney Norrie Wake, who was named special prosecutor for the docket during or following a meeting of lawyers, attorneys, county officials and Kentucky Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert L. Stephens on May 31.

The entire docket was created by a backlog of cases in Rockcastle District Court that had been continued for one reason or another from as long ago as July, 1986.

MADD chartered

Lou VanHoose, president of the Rockcastle chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, has announced that the local group has been officially chartered by the national organization.

In a letter dated July 19, local chapter officials received official notice from Linda Johnson in Hurst, Texas, the national field director for MADD.

MADD is a national, non-profit, tax-exempt corporation. Kentucky granted that status to MADD on August 12, 1986.

The Rockcastle chapter has at least 90 members who have paid dues.

Other officers are first vice president Wendy French, second vice president Louise Mink, secretary Cindy Aenderkin, and treasurer Lillie Lawhorn.

Board makes final moves for beginning of school

By: Jim Griesch

The Rockcastle County Board of Education made its final preparations for beginning the 1989-90 school year Tuesday, but the system still needs a special education teacher for a trainable, mentally handicapped class at Mt. Vernon Elementary.

A teacher had verbally agreed to teach in June, but backed out several days later to teach in Madison County. That prospective teacher lives in Richmond, and had not signed a contract with Rockcastle.

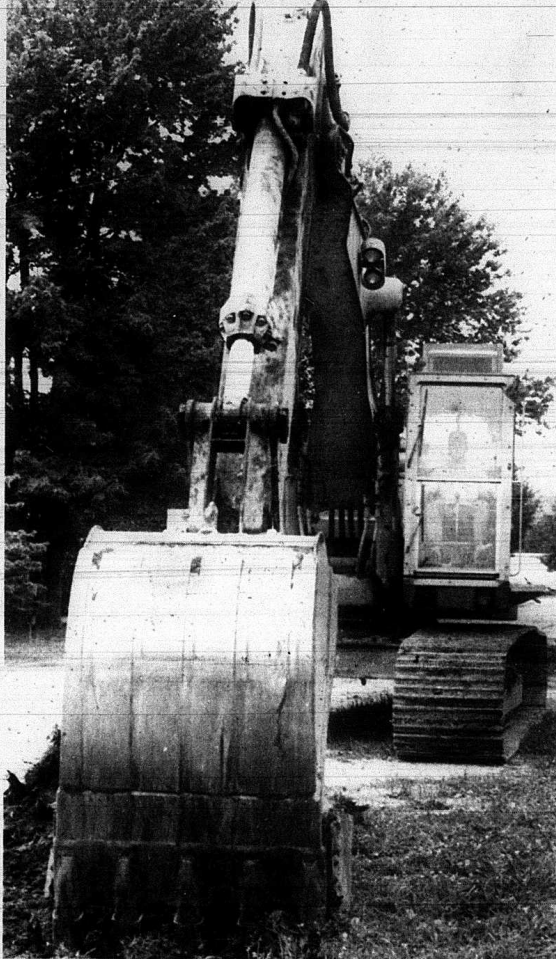

Two teachers who do hold special education certificates were hired.

Tamara French will handle a new early childhood education program, which will prepare handicapped children ages 3-5 for school. Diana Waddell has been hired for one year to teach special ed at the high school.

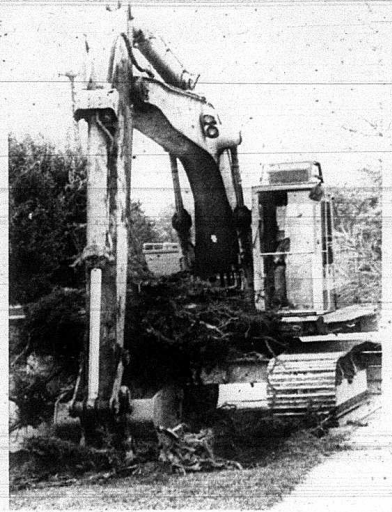

In several other personnel moves, the board hired substitute teachers, bus drivers, substitute bus drivers, aides for each school, food service employees, contract haulers, coaches, and other support personnel.

Substitute teachers: New, Melissa Benson and Susan VanWinkle; old, Elнора Burke, Willene Buswell, Laura Durham, Geraldine French, Sue French, Geraldine Holbrook, Juanita Norris, Barbara Rader, Dollie Roberts, and Juanita Stanley.

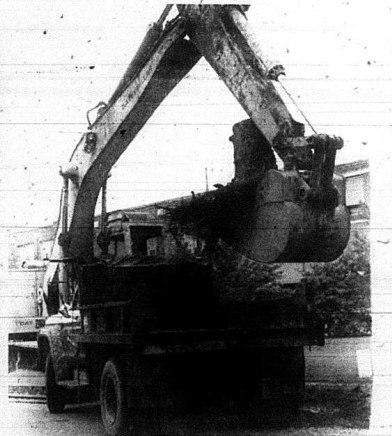

Aides: Brodhead -- Goldie Blanton, Mabel Cash, Jane McClure, Judy Peirey, and Doris Wright; Livingston -- Charlene Cole, Linda Durham, Virginia Nicely, and Lyla B. Powell; Mt. Vernon -- Patricia Allen, Audrey Carpenter, Janice Dooley, Carolyn Griffin, Barbara Hubbard, Sherri Hansel, Mildred Kindred, and Kay Singleton; Roundstone -- Josephine Adams, Helen Darlene Holt, Lucille Owens, June Parsons, Cathy Reed, Faye Rucker and Cathy Short; High School -- Rebecca Buswell, Charlene Goforth, Patsy Hopkins, Jean Shoemaker.

(Below) Dennis Warren's 42-ton Cat 235-B was five feet off the ground at the back of the track trying to pull up the last of seven stumps at Brodhead School. Warren used an alternating push and pull with the shovel on each stump to loosen each enough to pull it out by the roots. (Above) The Cat's shovel is a large-sized scoop

Up rooted!

Dennis Warren of Barbourville, working for a London coal company, pulled up four above-ground stumps and three cut-at-ground-level stumps from the parking area in front of Brodhead School last Thursday. Principal Tom Payne said that the City of Brodhead, working with the school system, would eventually put in a curbed sidewalk in front of the building, and make the road one-way from Silver St. or to Silver St, to help alleviate heavy traffic problems before and after school. Phelps' equipment, a 235-B Caterpillar, weighs 42 tons and costs over $250,000 new. The work and time was donated. Gene Phelps, driving for Newland Construction, hauled the stumps to a dump area.

Singleton's got the hottest car in Rockcastle

By: Jim Griesch

There are hot cars, and there are hot cars. Steve Singleton owns one of the real hot ones both in Rockcastle County, and nationally.

Within the past four weeks, his 1967 Chevy Camaro Super Sport has placed second in the Mile Modified Class at the United States Camaro Club's Grand Nationals in Dayton, Ohio, and first in the Street Machine Class at Super Chevy Sunday at Raceway Park, Indianapolis, Ind.

The car is pretty basic, except for a flame red paint job, some cam and intake modifications in the engine, plus lots of chrome on the engine, oil pan, transmission pan and rear end plate.

The interior is a basic factory deluxe one, with white highlight striping. The dash, floors, and seats are all basic black, as are the door panels.

Singleton's Camaro will get lots of attention nationally as a result of his successes.

He says that All Chevy Magazine will feature his car "sometime within the next few months" as a result of the Dayton show. All Chevy Magazine will have his car in a forth-coming edition, also.

Singleton, 29, has owned the car since May, 1983, when he bought it from Hilltop Auto Sales. Mike Mink owned it, and was partners with the company.

He estimates that he's put in $15,000 in work on the car since 1983, including a complete "frame off" restoration.

But, he said he has no estimate on the number of man hours he's put in on the car doing the work. Instead, he merely says "on and off, for three years."

London body shop man David Chancy did the paint work for him.

The two have belonged to the same car club for several years.

Singleton won't let the two national prizes rest on their own laurels this summer. He has been showing locally and regionally all summer, and still has several shows he plans to make.

He figures he goes to 15 to 20 shows a year, somewhere. But, this summer, he's done the best of any previous summers.

The Camaro won at the White Hall Show in Richmond, he said, and was Best-in-Show in Berea. He also regularly shows in Lexington, Boonesboro, Somerset, London, Corbin and Harrodsburg most years.

He also made a benefit show in Corbin in June. He may show in the NIBROC later this month, and plans to make the Greasers Show in Ft. Boonesboro, too.

Such fame hasn't gone unnoticed. He says a Tennessee dealer has made an offer for the car, but that it simply "isn't for sale" right now.

One of the reasons for the good showing this year is experience for Singleton. He's learned what judges look for at the various shows.

That's why the car has an inordinate amount of chrome on engine parts, as well as underneath the car.

He mused, "I got beat once in the last two years, and I did some more work on the car. I put in more chrome and did lots of detail work on the engine."

What he really did was "spend some more money."

But, the extra work underneath, with all of the broad surface areas shining with chrome, or the gas tank coated with polyurethane coating to make it shine as if it had a chrome coat, too, have added up to a show-worthy car.

Steve Singleton stands next to his flame-red Camaro, which has swept first and second honors at a pair of national car shows this summer.

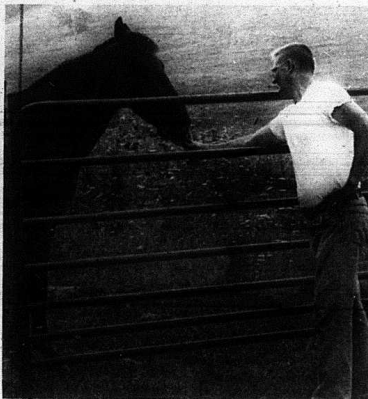

Singleton has demanded so much of himself and his car that he spent hours scraping off the original factory undercoating, then cleaning it with fine steel wool and buffing and polished to a high shine.

The engine is a basic 327-cubic inch V-8, but with a four-barrel carb and oversized cams in it to give it about 300 horse power instead of the factory-rated 275.

Even the trunk has received that extra attention that makes winning show cars out of the factory model. He's installed a basic rubber mat, a factory reproduction hoodstoph pattern, with matching tire cover. The colors are, again, black with gray.

He's shown other Chevys before, including blue and black ones. But, he's decided red is his favorite color. He even hauls the Camaro to shows in a red pick-up.

Keith Singleton has some home-grown horse power of his own, eight-year-old Red, who gets a snack of clover through a gate on the Singleton farm.

The Camaro has a jaunty look from head on, and Steve Singleton uses that approach in showing off his car at shows regularly.

Steve Singleton is ready to roll in his award-winning Camaro, which he enters in shows locally, regionally, and nationally.

Miller adds up winnings

By: Jim Griesch

These are days of heady stuff for Disputanta Farms.

This past Saturday, a second two-year-old filly, MyName'sCaroline; finished second in her maiden race at River Downs.

She was beaten by a length by Heavenly Girl, who won the five-and-half furlong sprint in 1:07 4/5, a fifth of a second faster than MyName's-Caroline.

That news was tempered somewhat by Tuesday's seventh-place finish by Miss Ann Elise at Ellis.

In her last race there, two weeks ago, she had posted the farm's first-ever win.

Farm owner Hoyle Miller said Monday that he was extremely pleased with his filly's effort, and said he thinks "Caroline" went off of a stakes winner.

"Caroline" went off at 11-1, and paid $20.00 for place and $13.60 for show.

Heavenly Girl paid $21.40, $10.20 and $7.20. Nagger was third and paid $6.40.

Miller also thinks Caroline was missing a lot of the work the other horses had. He pointed out that she had had just three full-gallop workouts the week before the race, because she had been recovering from an injury.

And, he said, she had never worked past five furlongs before he thinks Heavenly Girl may have had as many as 20 full workouts.

Those workout numbers are much of the buoyancy for Miller's expectations for Caroline now.

Caroline will run in a $12,000 maiden allowance race at Ellis Park in Henderson on August 8. She will go six furlongs, if she shows no wear and tear from her first race.

Miller said her jockey, Tony Rice, was a plus in her first race. Miller says that Rice was the leading jockey at River Downs in 1988.

Miller and the farm also picked up some cash from Caroline's run. Second was worth $1,240 or so. That puts the Farm's first summer of racing's winnings at over $12,000 so far.

Disputanta has done well. According to Hoyle, the farm is now seven for 12. That's seven finishes in the money in 12 races.

Miss Ann Elise is still being targeted for the bassinet Stakes trilogy, at River Downs this month.

But, now, Miller is starting to think in bigger terms. He says he is normalizing both Caroline and Ann Elise for a $300,000 added stakes race at Laurel in Maryland in October.

He isn't sure if they will have the credentials by then, because the field will be limited to the highest money winners who want to race by the entry deadline, but he is nominating them to be in position to race, if possible.

Girls end summer at 4 - 6

By: Jim Griesch

The Rockcastle County Lady Rockets limped out of the Lexington dirt bowl league with a 4-6 record by dropping their final four games.

Most recently, the girls lost the regular-season finale 46-25 to state power Henry Clay, then bounced out of the first round of the tournament Monday with a 44-40 loss to Bryan Station.

In that game, Rockcastle got to Castlewood Park a half hour late after getting stuck in construction traffic between Berea and Richmond on I-75, but were allowed to play.

They led with five minutes to go when summer leading scorer Stephanie Northern picked up her fifth foul (six were allowed in league play).

She was back in two minutes later, but Bryan Station was rallying ahead by then.

Northern had 15 points, six rebounds in the game. She had eight in the loss to Henry Clay.

That four-game skein took some of the gloss off a once 4-2 mark and a tie for third in the nine-team league.

Northern scored 114 points in the 10-game season, for an average of 11.4. Jennifer Thacker scored 71 points for an average of 7.1, followed

Joel Ray Kirby wins silver medal in archery at Games

Six Rockcastle men won silver medals in this past weekend's Blue Grass State Games in Lexington and Frankfort.

The only individual winner was Joel Ray Kirby of Lexington, who took a second in men's 18-and-over Bowhunter's freestyle unlimited in archery.

Helping the Waterdogs to a silver in men's Class B softball were Jeff Taylor, Ryan Riddle, David Riddle, Anthony Asher and David Burdine.

The 'Dogs played six games in Frankfort Saturday and Sunday, came sooooo close to gold medals.

Kirby lost to Steve Gresham of Jefferson County by just a point, 268-267, in their flight.

Kirby isn't sure there was any one shot in the series of three shots at targets staggered from 20 yards to 65 yards during the target shooting on the UK baseball field Saturday.

He said he had concentrated on shooting at the stand-up targets, and it earned him his first-ever medal in the games, although he had competed last year.

Two other members of the Rockcastle Archery Club, Alvin Ray Pigg and Rodney Hastly, also competed, but didn't take a medal.

The three competed in two events, the target shooting event, and an animal-target shoot Sunday.

Kirby, who has been shooting various bows for years, said the compound bow used in this competition is still fairly new to him. He has more experience in recurve and cross bow competition.

Kirby has won a variety of national and international shots before. In 1978 and 1980, he won international crossbow titles in Michigan and in Mt. Vernon.

He won national titles in 1978, 1980, 1982 and 1986. The first two national titles were automatically lumped with the international championships.

His next big meet will be the Kentucky Archery Association Bowhunter's state meet at Chickasaw Archery Range on the Bullitt-Jefferson County line, Sunday, September 3.

The Waterdogs beat everybody in their tournament except the winners, Ken's Sport Shop of Louisville.

The Waterdogs won their opener 15-6, then lost to Ken's 16-12 when Ken's came up with eight runs in the seventh inning.

Dropped into the losers bracket, the Waterdogs quickly vanquished Quick's Run, 14-3, in a game called after five innings on the 10-run rule.

That was their last action Saturday. Sunday, the Waterdogs pulled off their biggest win of the tourney, topping powerful Fraley's of Lexington 13-4, with Mark Mounce hitting two Joel Ray Kirby shows off his silver medal in archery, while holding his compound bow Monday. He is Rockcastle's only individual medal winner in the 1989 Blue Grass State Games.

Glen Campbell causes football date change

Glen Campbell has forced a scheduling change for the Rockcastle County High football team. The second game of the year, at Russell County, has been kick-off moved from 8 p.m., Friday, August 25, to 8 p.m., Saturday, August 26, because the singer is appearing in Russell Springs on the 25th. He's appearing at the Russell County fair grounds.

The game will be played on the football field behind the old high school, which is right next to the new building, according to coach Lynn Taylor.

The easiest way to get to the game is to take the Cumberland Parkway to the Jamestown-Russell Springs exit, turn south onto US 127, and the school is a mile south of the exit.

Lady Rockets

(Continued from Page B-2) by Angie McClure with 52 points in nine games, an average of 5.8, and Donna Harper with 49 in 10 games, an average of 4.9.

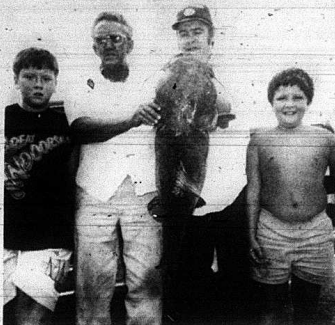

Northern and Thacker also played with an adult team from the county in another summer league.

They were members of Cool Fire, which finished 6-6. Assistant coach

Darla Reams was also a member, as were Pam Reams, Glenna Denney, Donna Pigg, and Regina Parrett, as well as three out-of-county women.

Reams said the six wins included some forfeits, but none of the six losses were forfeits.

She also said that several current and former college stars played in the league.

Eastern sets club goal at 1,000 paying members

A goal of 1,000 members for Eastern Kentucky University's Colonel Club was set this week as the 1989-90 membership drive for the EKV athletic booster organization was kicked off.

Club president Phil Ruchka said the goal of 1,000 Colonel Club members this year is a "very realistic" possibility. The club's membership last year reached 860, an all-time high in the 11-year history of the organization.

In addition to announcing the kick-off for this year's drive, Ruchka also introduced the other new officers for 1989-90. Serving as president-elect will be Larry Sherman; vice president, Neil Parke; and secretary, Marilyn Williams.

"In large measure to the funds generated by the Colonel Club, EKV's athletic program has developed into one of the strongest of any regional university in the nation and it is also the class of the Ohio Valley Conference," said Ruchka as he reviewed the number of team and individual honors that the sports of football, basketball, baseball, women's volleyball, golf, and women's cross country and track have received during the years of the Colonel Club's existence.

"The Colonel Club is certainly the team behind the teams," he said. Funds raised through the booster club provide additional support for athletic scholarships and recruiting funds.

During the coming weeks, members of the Colonel Club Membership Drive Committee will be visiting and calling businesses and individuals in the Madison County and Central Kentucky area. The membership fee for individuals is $100 and for businesses, $300. In addition to those basic levels, persons may join the two higher levels for $500

(Maroon and White) and $1,000 (Coaches Circle). There is also a level of membership for children of club members known as the Junior Colonel level. The dues for Junior Colonels is $25 per child 18 years old and younger.

In addition to the satisfaction of supporting EKV's intercollegiate athletics program and the membership benefits, several social functions are planned each year including a golf scramble, barbecue/fish fry, and tennis tournament.

Bullock wins LL Contest

Jason Bullock, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bullock of Renfro Valley, is the winner of the Signal's Little League Contest.

He got all but three questions completely right, and he missed only parts of two.

Here is a summary of the questions in the contest:

1. Joey Jay was the first ex-Little Leaguer to make it to the major leagues; with the old Milwaukee Braves in 1953.
2. Carney Lansford, Jim Barbiere, Boog Powell and Rick Wise are the four major leaguers who have played in both the World Series and Little League World Series. (Jason had both Barbiere and Powell, but not Lansford and Wise.)
3. Carl Stutz was the founder of the Little League. (Jason added two names.)
4. US Rubber Co. is the first company with a contract to make Little League shoes. (which were Pro

Keds.

5. Williamsport, Pa. is the permanent home of the Little League World Series.

6. The Far East, particularly teams from Taiwan, have dominated the Little League World Series for about the last ten years.

7. Angel Macia is the ambidextrous Mexican pitcher who earned a brief fling with the Houston Astros.

8. The first Little League World Series was played in 1947. (Jason had 1939, but the series didn't begin until eight years after founding Little League.)

9. Girls were allowed to play for the first time in 1974.

10. Carl Yastrzemski, who was inducted just a few days ago, is the first Little Leaguer to reach the Hall of Fame.

The Bullocks will be the guests of the Signal at a Cincinnati Reds game this season.

Joel Kirby

Mounce had a grand slam in the Braves' bracket finals Sunday as the Waterdogs thundered past Thunderbolt 17-11.

But, in the championship game, Kirby grabbed the lead early. Waterdogs never led, and lost eventually 16-9.

Team sponsor Cleston Saylor said his team was initially scheduled to play in a Berea tournament this past weekend, but entered the Blue Grass Games as a last-minute entry when the Berea tournament didn't get off the ground.

The week before, the team had captured the Mountain Classic in Manchester, and this weekend is to play in the men's Class A state tourney in Owensboro. They had no qualifying district or regional play, since only 18 to 20 teams are in Class A in Kentucky this summer.

$3 million milestone hit

The Kentucky Grain Insurance Fund met a milestone last month when its holdings reached $3 million.

That means the one-half-cent-per-bushel check-off which has been assessed on grain sales in Kentucky since July 1984 has been suspended. Licensed storage, grain warehouses and licensed grain dealers will no longer deduct the assessment from checks paid to producers as they sell their grain.

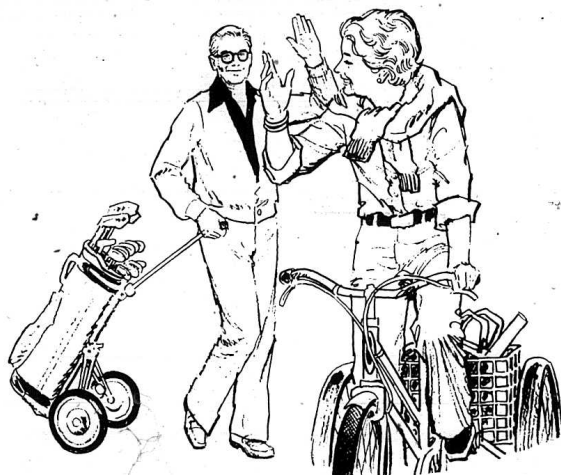

The Kentucky Grain Insurance Fund was established by the 1984 Legislature to protect producers from the failure of licensed storage warehouses and dealers. The half-cent assessment to producers was placed into the fund to compensate farmers in the event of bankruptcy or other insolvencies of a warehouse or dealer. According to the statute, the check-off was to be suspended when the fund reached $3 million.

"It's taken Kentucky a while to meet the $3 million mark," said Agriculture Commissioner Ward "Butch" Burnett, who is a sponsor of the legislation while serving as state representative from West Kentucky. "But we can be proud to be the first and only state to successfully implement a self-sustaining grain insurance fund."

Although the check-off is no longer being assessed, farmers can still be compensated by the fund. All farmers who did not ask for refunds prior to July 1, 1989, are protected by the fund against failure if they deal with licensed grain warehouses/dealers.

Approximately $400,000 has been paid out to 208 farmers who had losses with failed grain storage facilities since the fund started five years ago.

FAITH CALLS THE FAMILY THE BASIS OF OUR CIVILIZATION

Since the dawn of civilization, the family unit has always been the framework of our society; from cave dwelling and other simple lifestyles to our complex world of today. The family has lasted through the ages, although it now takes some strange forms. There are marriages and remarriages, children, step-children and adopted children. Many a couple, even with children of their own, have opened their homes and their hearts to others who may be handicapped, of different ethnic origin or that ultimate tragedy, the war orphans. At your House of Worship you will learn how the family structure has carried out the will of God, as the explicit instructions throughout the Bible would attest. A harmonious home is a haven to which family members return with joy in their hearts and meaning and security in their lives. It is our center of happiness here on earth.

A happy family is an earlier heaven,
- Sir John Bowring

"...as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

Cooling jars

By: Cheryl Witt
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Cool the jars at room temperature for 12 to 24 hours. Jars may be cooled on racks or towels to minimize heat damage to counters. The food level and liquid volume of raw-packed jars will be noticeably lower after cooling because air is exhausted during processing and food shrinks. If a jar loses excessive liquid during processing, do not open it to add more liquid. As long as the seal is good, the product is still usable.

Testing Jars
After cooling jars for 12 to 24 hours, remove the screw bands and test seals with one of the following methods:
Method 1: Press the middle of the lid with a finger or thumb. If the lid springs up when you release your finger, the lid is unsealed and reprocessing will be necessary.
Method 2: Tap the lid with the bottom of a teaspoon. If it makes a "dull sound, the lid is not sealed. If it is in contact with the underside of the lid, it will also cause a dull sound. If the jar lid is sealed correctly, it will make a ringing, high-pitched sound.

Method 3: Hold the jar at eye level and look across the lid. The lid should be concave (concave down slightly in the center). If center of the lid is either flat or bulging, it may not be sealed.
Reprocessing Unsealed Jars
If a jar fails to seal, remove the lid and check the jar sealing surface for tiny nicks. If necessary, change the jar, add a new, properly prepared lid, and reprocess within 24 hours using the same processing time.

Another option is to adjust headspace in unsealed jars to 1/2 inch in freeze jars and contents instead of reprocessing. However, make sure jars have straight sides. Freezing may crack jars with "shoulders."

Storing Canned Foods
If lids are tightly vacuum-sealed on cooled jars, remove screw bands, wash the lid and jar to remove food residue, then rinse and dry jars. Label and date the jars and store them in a clean, cool, dark, dry place. Do not store jars at temperatures above 95 degrees F or near hot pipes, a range, a furnace, in an uninsulated attic or in direct sunlight. Under these conditions, food will lose quality in a few weeks or months and may spoil. Dampness may corrode metal lids, break seals, and allow recontamination and spoilage.

Accidental Freezing of Canned Foods
If jars become unsealed and recontaminated. However, freezing and thawing may soften food. If jars must be stored where they may freeze, wrap them in newspapers, place them in heavy cartons, and cover them with more newspapers and blankets.
Identifying and Handling Spoiled Canned Food
Growth of spoilage bacteria and other products which pressurizes the food, swells, lids and breaks jar seals. As each stored jar is selected for use, examine its lid for tightness and vacuum. Lids with concave centers have good seals.

Next, while holding the jar upright at eye level, rotate the jar and examine its outside surface for streaks of dried food originating at the top of the jar. Look at the contents for rising air bubbles and unnatural color.

When opening the jar, smell for unnatural odors and look for spurting liquid and odorlike mold growth (white, blue, black or green) on the top of food surface and underside of lid. Do not taste food from a stored jar you discover to have an unusual lid or that otherwise shows signs of spoilage.

All suspect containers of spoiled low-acid foods, including tomatoes, should be treated as having produced botulinum toxin and should be handled carefully in one of two ways.
* If the suspect glass jars are still sealed, place them in a heavy garbage bag. Close the bag and place it in a regular trash container or bury in a nearby landfill.
* If the suspect glass jars are unsealed, open for leaking, they should be detoxified before disposal.

Detoxification Process
Carefully place the suspect containers and lids on their sides in an 8 quart volume or larger stock pot, pan or boiling-water canner. Wash your hands thoroughly. Carefully add water to the pot. The water should completely cover the containers with a minimum of a 1-inch water level above the containers. Avoid splashing the water. Place a lid on the pot and heat the water to boiling. Boil 30 minutes to ensure detoxifying the food and all container components. Cool and discard the containers, their lids, and food in the trash or bury in the soil.

Thoroughly clean all counters, containers and equipment including can opener, clothing and hands that may have come in contact with the food or the containers. Discard any plastic wash cloths or towels used in the cleanup. Place them in a plastic bag and discard in the trash.

Onions wanted

WANTED: ONIONS!
University of Kentucky researchers are working to find a market that exists now, but the product doesn't - yet.

"They're trying to find an onion variety that grows well in this state. "Currently there are no commercial onion growers in Kentucky," said Dick Roberts, Extension Horticulturist with UK's College of Agriculture. "But there's a company in Louisville that wants to buy five or six truckloads a week, and they'd like to buy them from Kentucky."

"That company, campisano's Fresh Pack Operation, supplies a major fast food restaurant chain with onions and other vegetables. It now buys its onions from southwestern U.S. where air and weather conditions permit uniform field drying. If it could buy them locally, it could save expensive transportation costs and at the same

Ky. Farm accidents claim 22

Twenty-two Kentuckians lost their lives in farm-related accidents during the first six months of 1989, according to Kentucky Farm Bureau's latest farm fatality survey report.

Fourteen of the twenty-two fell victim to tractors or other farm machinery, while four others drowned in farm ponds. Wood cutting, lighting and livestock accounting for the remainder.
The six-month total of 22 was higher than the same period last year, when 19 Kentuckians died in farm activity. But according to David Finney, Farm Bureau safety director, the 1989 figure is equal to the average fatality rate for that period over the past seven years.

Finney said Farm Bureau conducts the fatality survey in an effort to educate farmers about hazards on the farm. Last year, he noted, agriculture was rated by the National Safety Council as the nation's most dangerous occupation.

Compounding the tragic nature of the recent accidents is the trend toward victims who have been very young and elderly. So far this year, five victims have been age seven or younger, while nine were 65 or older. In the first six months of 1988, there were no deaths among the under-14 age category, and only 2 victims who were 65 or above.

Three of the five children who have died this year were drowned, and two died after falling off moving tractors. Among the older victims, five were killed by tractors, two in truck accidents, one drowned and one was killed

Stalk disease

Bacterial hollow stalk disease is expected to have increased activity because of the irregular tobacco crop and above normal rainfall levels this season.

Bacterial hollow stalk is prevalent in late July and August, often starting injuries caused by topping and removing suckers, said Bill Nemesith, Extension plant pathologist for the UK College of Agriculture.

Suckers are removed by cutting which allows water to accumulate in the wound and harbor bacteria. Tobacco leaves show signs of the disease when they begin to droop or turn yellow and brown. Nemesith said, "A soft rot develops at the base of the leaves and the central pith of the stalk is destroyed, leaving a hollow shell. Leaves later drop off the stalk completely as the disease moves down."

The bacteria that cause the disease also can continue to develop after tobacco is hung in the barn and it can cause a soft rot of lower leaves during rainy weather, he said.

by a horse.
Finney said tractor accidents involving children are among the most common, and most preventable, mishaps on the farm. Many occur when youngsters who are riding on a rear fender fall off and are run over by the tractor or by a trailing implement. "Children can be very persuasive when they beg Dad to let them ride on his tractor," Finney noted. "But when I talk to young farmer classes, I say 'Tell them they can't ride and they'll live to complain about how mean you are.'"
Adair County was the only county to experience two farm fatalities between January and June.
