School Health Program Receives Commendation

The Rockcastle County School Health Program received a commendation for excellence during the 1989 Accreditation. The system is proud to have been recognized as having one of the most competent and comprehensive school health programs in the state of Kentucky.

The Rockcastle County School Health Program began in the spring of 1966 as a component of ESEA, Title I. The school health program far exceeds the minimum requirements as specified in state statutes and regulations. The program has developed and expanded over the years because of a belief and commitment that the health of a child is directly correlated to his/her academic performance and social functioning. We believe that supporting the physical and emotional needs of children is an obligation of the school and as a result in Rockcastle County we have worked diligently since 1966 to maintain a total school health program which responds to those needs. We do not necessarily view the health program as a support service per se, but as a variable, integral component of the total school program.

The administration, along with strong encouragement from teachers and community, has developed an awareness of the importance of health services and how these services contribute to better school attendance, greater academic success and improved self-esteem.

Although immunization records, medical examinations, and test for tuberculosis are required for students, Rockcastle County takes pride in maintaining 100%, or near 100% compliance, at any given time for grades K-12.

The program staffs one registered nurse for the district who works in all the schools, and a nurse aide in each elementary school. Nurse aides receive initial training from the district's registered nurse and receive related inservice training each year. In addition the aides maintain certification by the American Red Cross First-Aid Course.

The health and well-being of children is important to us and we want parents to maintain a sense of security knowing that health care is being addressed when their children are in school.

Success in Schools

When the U.S. Department of Education recently analyzed research on student success-or failure-in school, it noted, "The family is critical to success in school." That holds true regardless of family income or parents' level of education.

Over and over again, the researchers found that the home environment was critical in helping high-performing individuals achieve excellence. The families shared a number of characteristics:

- *They were hardworking.
- *They believed in doing one's best whatever the task.
- *They emphasized self-discipline.
- What can you do to help your child succeed in school?
 - *Provide books and a place for studying.
 - *Observe routines for homework, meals and bedtime.
 - *Limit the hours for after-school jobs.
 - *Help students meet deadlines.

MAKING TIME COUNT

Use 80/20 Rule to Help Find Time to Spend with Children

Experts tell us it's important to spend time with our children. If you're worn out between your job, your kids, and your chores at home, here's a way to find that valuable time:

Businesses often use something called the "80/20 rule." Simply stated, it means that 80 percent of the results of any job come from just 20 percent of the effort.

You can use the 80/20 rule as you think about how you spend your time. Is the extra hour you spend on housework the best use of your time? (Or could you use that hour to do something with your kids?)

Could you order a pizza instead of spending two hours shopping, cooking, and cleaning up? (What could you and your kids do with two hours of time together?)

Consider changing your attitudes toward some jobs. You may believe you always have to "do things right." Instead, think about "doing the right things right."

Five years from now, your kids won't remember the night you left the dishes in the sink. But they'll treasure the memory of a walk you took to look at the night sky.

Forward In The Fifth Bring Visitors from Costa Rica

Mr. William J. Parsons and staff were honored to host a school tour for JoAnne James, Chariman of Forward in the Fifth, Dr. Frank Taylor, President of MACED and their guests from Costa Rica. Conversation was conducted through a Spanish interpreter for our Costa Rica visitors.

This particular group was especially interested in observing students actively involved with learning to operate computers. While visiting in the "Writing To Read Lab," Mrs. Darlene Holt (lab attendant), Mrs. Nell Craig and her first grade class were on site to answer questions.

Mrs. Vickie Scott's kindergarten class gave their explanations as to why we celebrate Halloween. Through their interpreter, the visitors learned about goblins, ghosts, witches and trick or treat.

Parent Involvement

As a parent your involvement with the school is a key to your child's performance. Here are just some of the ways you can increase your involvement in and impact on your child's education.

*Help with a project in or out of the classroom by lending a hand in the library, setting up a computer, building a book shelf, or producing a school newsletter.

*Become a member of your school's parent-teacher organization.

*Visit a class to talk about your career.

*Invite a class to visit your work place.

*Attend a school-sponsored play, performance, or athletic event. (Contact your child's teacher or principal to find other ways you can help.)

Like many parents Sherry Upton picks her 6-year-old son Bo up at Mt. Vernon Elementary School every afternoon. Bo is in kindergarten.

Livingston Elementary Profile

Livingston School began in 1927 as an independent School and remained as such until 1948, serving grades 11-12. In 1949 Livingston joined the county school system and served students in grades one through twelve until 1972. In 1973, Livingston became an elementary school, serving grades one through eight. In 1978, the county added kindergarten to the system whereby Livingston became a K-8 elementary and remains as such today.

The present enrollment is 257 students. Livingston Elementary has had the best overall attendance in the county for the past nine years.

As a component of our instructional improvement commitment this year, we have set a goal to earn a Flag of Progress. We plan to receive this award by having 95% attendance or better and raising our achievement scores by 5% in grades 3, 5, and 7.

Focus On Student Performance

The Writing To Read Lab serves kindergarten and first grade. The students spend 60 minutes a day in the lab with their teacher and a lab assistant. This no risk environment promotes the idea that anything the students can write they can also read.

The 3rd grade classes have been utilizing additional reading and listening resources and materials. Mr. Roark's class is shown working on a reading assignment.

Ms. Arnold and Mr. Webb give instruction on basic reference skills. Also computers are used to strengthen reading and language arts skills.

Ms. Ward's 4th grade spelling class find that writing and reading skills correlate with all subject areas.

Carolyn King, killed in Crab Orchard accident

An automobile accident in the city limits of Crab Orchard last Wednesday afternoon claimed the life of a Rockcastle County woman.

Carolyn King, 42 of Gum Sulphur died around 4:30 p.m. at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

According to police reports, Mrs. King was traveling west on Hwy. 150 around 1:30 p.m., when she apparently lost control of her Ford Mercury and ran off the right shoulder of the road.

When Mrs. King got her car back onto the road she apparently over compensated and veered into the path of an oncoming tractor trailer truck, according to police.

Mrs. King was trapped in her automobile following the wreck, which occurred only about 500 yards from the Crab Orchard Scrap Yard, a business that she owned and operated with her husband Cecil.

The East End Ambulance service used the Jaws of Life apparatus, to free Mrs. King from the wreckage. She was taken to the Stanford Hospital and then flown by helicopter to U.K., where she later died.

Shanda Durham moved to Cardinal Hill; improving

A 14-year-old Rockcastle County high school student who was involved in a traffic accident in Laurel County that claimed the life of her 16-year-old sister has been transferred to the Cardinal Hill Hospital in Lexington for about two weeks of rehabilitation.

Miss Shanda Durham of Brodhead was in very critical condition at the University of Kentucky Medical Center following the accident, which occurred October 29 in London.

According to a hospital spokesperson, Miss Durham's condition has improved steadily for the past ten days.

As a result of the accident, murder charges have been filed against a 17-year-old Laurel County boy, who is accused of drag racing with another vehicle and hitting Durham's car at a high rate of speed.

Lincoln County murder trial delayed until December 18

The murder trial of Kenneth Wayne Robinson, of Mt. Vernon, has been postponed until December 18 so a Lincoln County judge will have time to consider a change of venue motion on November 16.

Robinson, 18, is accused of robbing and killing Alma Jean Brown, at her Dogwalk store on Ky. 39, in 1988.

Steven Dale Robinson, Kenneth's older brother who is also charged with the crime will be tried at a later date in a separate trial.

Mrs. Brown was shot five times while she worked alone at her family grocery store.

Academic teams end with low marks; TV team loses

The Rockcastle County High academic teams both wound up on the losing side of the ladder in Lake Cumberland Academic League competition this fall.

Despite winning two of three last Wednesday at home, but dropping two of three last Thursday, the varsity finished at 9-15.

The junior varsity, which also split last week, finished at 7-17.

In matches at Rockcastle last Wednesday, Rockcastle beat Casey County 18-14 and Russell County 27-14, but lost to Wayne County 23-16.

Thursday, the varsity beat Monticello 17-10 but lost to Wayne County 26-12 and Garrard County 23-15.

The JV's beat Casey County 14-13 and Wayne County 17-16, but lost to Russell County 19-15 Wednesday, then beat Monticello 15-10, but lost to Wayne County and Rockcastle County and identical 27-10 counts.

The team of Angela McKinney, Chuck Mink and Kevin Rowe lost 250-150 to Frankfort Western Hills in a taped match at WLEX-TV, Channel 18, Saturday.

The match, a second-round contest in the station's "In The Know" academic quiz bowl competition, will air at 12:30 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 30, said coach Janet Wells.

"We were behind all the way," she said. The scores at the various commercial breaks were 70-30, 140-90, 220-90 and 250-150.

"We made a big comeback, but it was too late. We didn't score at all in the third part of the match."

The conference tournament will be at 5:30 p.m. this Thursday, at Clinton County High.

A computer contest, "Knowledge Masters Open," will be held Dec. 5, and the Governor's Cup District Tournament will be Feb. 9-10 at Madison Southern High, Wells said.

Change of deadline because of Thanksgiving

The deadline for news items for next week's issue of the Signal is Monday, Nov. 20.

News items, photo items, and ads need to be in a day early because the paper will go to press on Thursday, not Wednesday, due to the Thanksgiving holiday. The Signal will be closed Thursday, open on Friday, November 24, from 9 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Anthony Stargell of Russell Springs is on stilts to put in acoustical tile in a construction project at Roundstone School. He said he's been using the stilts for only two or three weeks, new on his job with a Russell County carpet company.

REAP offices will have regular, daily hours

The Rockcastle Emergency Assistance Program will be renewed with extra vigor, regular hours and a solid referral system.

Those are the key items from last Thursday's meeting of REAP officials and volunteers.

The program had dwindled in recent months, both in the numbers of people seeking help and in the amount of food available to help those who have real, short-term emergency needs.

Plans now call for volunteers to man REAP offices, adjacent to the pool hall in the Signal office building at Main and Richmond Sts. from 4:30-5 p.m., beginning with the Monday after Thanksgiving, Nov. 27.

If more hours per day are needed, they will be added.

In order to receive food from REAP, people needing emergency help must be referred through one of four agencies.

Those agencies are the Christian Appalachian Project's Outreach program, the Red Cross, Community Action, or the Food Stamp Office.

The idea behind REAP is not to be a continuing social service, but to provide short-term food services to someone in real need. People who run out of food, and don't have money for more food, through accident, overdue food stamps, and the like.

Additional funding will be sought from previously untapped sources.

An effort to find food purchasing money through the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

Audit shows Hasty owes county money...

The audit of Sheriff Clarence Hasty and County Clerk Norma Houk for the 1988 calendar year has been released by State Auditor Bob Babbage.

The report shows Clerk Houk earned $1,561 in interest income for her office and paid $269 in excess fees to the fiscal court, overpaying the court by $7. Sheriff Hasty earned $3,293 in interest for his office.

The report recommends that the sheriff use personal funds to repay a deficit total of $8,211. The report states that the Sheriff owes the county $7,907 in excess fees for 1986 and owes the Rockcastle Board of Education a total of $1,108 for interest earned on 1985 and 1986 school tax collections.

The audit report shows that the Sheriff owes the fiscal court $2,001 in excess fees for calendar year 1988.

The report also recommends the Sheriff file and publish annual settlements with the fiscal court in a more timely manner.

Babbage encouraged county officials to maximize their financial resources in every possible way. In vesting funds to earn interest and the collection of excess fees are two good ways to accomplish this goal, he said.

The loss of Federal Revenue Sharing funds has had a "dramatic impact" on local governments, Babbage said.

Many local governments are struggling to meet their budgets and provide services for the citizens they serve, Babbage observed.

Increased public awareness of the well publicized needs of government has raised calls to the Auditor's KY ALERT line by over 600 percent, Babbage explained.

The KY-ALERT program offers a toll-free phone line for citizens to use if they suspect waste, mismanagement.

...new sheriff asks fiscal court for funding

by Ray McClure

Sherrif-elect Shirley Smith visited the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Wednesday to quiz the magistrates on the financial responsibilities of the court to the sheriff's office.

He also complained about a road. He got a tentative answer on the road, but very little encouragement when it came to finances in the sheriff's office.

The sherrif-elect began by complaining that a deputy sheriff told him recently he (the deputy) could not lead a funeral procession because of a lack of gasoline for his police car, and Smith wondered aloud if problems like these would exist when he took office in January.

Smith also asked the magistrates if he would be saddled with old worn and battered police cars and indicated he'd like to have new cars, or a reasonable facsimile, along with uniforms for his deputies that look presentable.

The court had little to tell Smith except cars are purchased by the sheriff, along with uniforms and gasoline for the police cars. At one time, the court allocated the sheriff $600 to help him with gasoline until he could receive tax payments that usually begin in October. The sheriff collects taxes and shares them in part.

Smith also wondered how he could make ends meet with so little help.

from the court, noting that he was told there are about 300 subpoena remaining to be served that he and his deputies would have to serve. The sheriff gets $10 for serving a subpoena.

The statement by Smith on his possible lack of money in the sheriff's office brought Jailer Billy Kirby into the discussion. Kirby is a former sheriff.

Kirby told the court and Smith that money can be made by the sheriff, saying it was a matter of efficient management.

He also said state police have use police cars that can be purchased at reasonable cost.

Someone else also noted that there is always several candidates for sheriff at each election, and that the present sheriff, Clarence Hasty, was a candidate for re-election. So he questioned why would anyone run for the office if there was no money to be made.

SETTING IT STRAIGHT

A Signal story was in error on one point last week when it reported that Gary Scott lost to Ricky Kirby for the remaining time left on Magistrate Doug Bishop's term in last November's election. Bishop resigned earlier.

Let's set it straight. After Bishop resigned, Governor Wilkinson appointed Gary Scott to fill magistrate Bishop's seat until the November 1988 election.

During that interval, the County Republican Executive Committee appointed Ricky Kirby to be the GOI candidate for the remaining year of Bishop's term and the Democrat Executive Committee appointed Gilbert D. Burton to oppose Kirby. Kirby won and will remain District magistrate until January when Clin Brown takes over from Kirby. Brown defeated Scott in the November 7 election.

On another point, County Judge Executive Hubert Thacker served three terms as judge, but on two different occasions. He served two consecutive terms and then was re-elected for a third term defeat Democrat Bob Jasper.

Christmas parade is 'Go'

By: Jim Griesch
The annual Mt. Vernon Christmas parade is ON.

Steve Singleton, president of the Rockcastle Region Rodgers car club said that some $600 has been received from area businesses to go toward float prize money, which will enable the club to put on the parade again this year.

The theme for the parade will be "An Old Fashioned Christmas."

Singleton said that plans call for the parade to be held at 10 a.m., Saturday, Dec. 2, keeping the traditional first Saturday in December date.

The parade will begin forming at Mt. Vernon Elementary School at 9 a.m. The route will continue to be the same.

That means the parade will leave the school, roll down Williams St. to W. Main, turn left and go east on Main until it breaks off in the McK-innety Tire area.

Mt. Vernon mayor Gary Cromer said Tuesday that the city will help get the parade route ready, and will offer police escort assistance for the parade, as required.

Our readers write

Dear Editor,

New York in a heavy snow-storm, Jim Bakker, hand cuffed, heavy leg irons, head bent low, moving slowly between two policemen, toward a military vehicle, where he was being moved to a different prison. He was already slated to do kitchen work for twenty cents per hour.

Christians know that Hegave no right to judge others. Jesus said, if any of us are without sin, let him cast the first stone. I would guess that nine-tenths of us are guilty of something.

Since Mr. Bakker seemingly rated himself as one of the greatest teachers in the country, I should think he would have more respect for his family, than to state publicly, he was afraid his wife had another lover, he wanted to make her jealous, so he had his affair with the pretty young girl. Am I wrong to write that my opinion is, that the infamous preacher, should know that every one of us will reap exactly what we sow, sooner or later.

Jim Bakker's latest harvest of his sins, should have cause for a new awareness in all of us to avoid, to avoid a creeping new love of money. More than our love for our neighbors.

Apparently Mr. Bakker had no love for his congregation, both in the Church and television audience, when he exploited them for the millions of dollars and posed for photographers and laughing whole heartedly about the millions of senior citizens he cheated of their life time savings and lived in luxury, drove luxurious automobiles that he never could earn in forty life times. The outcome of the fate of Mr. Bakker, should teach every human being in the world, that we will be served a fate equal to the measure of our crime.

Love to all,
and happy holidays,
I remain as ever,
Margaret Dyehouse

Dear Editor,

The Madison County Hospice, Inc. that will be serving Rockcastle County, will have its organizational meeting November 27 at Rockcastle County High School at 7 p.m. in the library. The date had to be changed due to a conflict with other activities at the high school.

The word hospice dates from medieval Europe. It originally meant an inn, a place of refuge for weary travelers.

Today, hospice means helping people with terminal illness live actively and well until they die.

Recognizing that the dying and those close to them have special psychological, physical, social and spiritual needs, the hospice team provides skilled medical, nursing, counseling and practical home care.

There are hospice programs starting all over the United States. Hospice is truly an idea whose time has come, stated LuEd Nielsen, contact person for the hospice program in Rockcastle County.

If you would like any information concerning the hospice program, you may call Janet Brandenburg, RN, M.A. Administrator at 623-4486. LuEd Nielsen

126 in Rockcastle are eligible for vets bonus

Rockcastle County has an estimated 126 eligible veterans who can still apply for their Vietnam Era Bonus between now and Feb. 28, 1990.

The economic impact that this bonus can have on Rockcastle County is amazing. The average bonus payable on applications processed to date is $375. When you multiply this by the number of eligible veterans in the county 280 you get a whopping $105,000, according to Jason LeMay of the Vietnam Veterans Bonus Branch. "When you consider the fact that every dollar circulates an average of four times in the local economy before leaving, then the economic impact on the local economy increases to $420,000. This could be quite a boost to Rockcastle, or for that matter the economy of any county", he added.

To date nearly 50,000 of Kentucky's veterans have applied with more than 6,000 of these applications coming from out of state.

"I don't understand the apparent lack of interest," said Bonus Branch Chief Ed Gill. "I never imagined that giving away money would be a problem. Nearly every veteran who entered the service from Kentucky and had over ninety days active duty between August 5, 1964 and May 15, 1975 is eligible, he continued. Application forms are available at every County Clerk's office in the state as well as National Guard Armories and unemployment offices. All the veteran needs is a copy of his or her DD Form 214 and a copy of the application form. The form is very easy to fill out and can be completed in about ten minutes."

Larry Arnett, Director of the Division of Veterans Affairs, is equally puzzled at the slower than expected response rate. "The numbers we are seeing are definitely surprising," said

Arnett. You would think that at least 75 percent of the veterans or their beneficiaries would have applied for the bonus by now. I can't decide if the problem results from lack of information about the bonus or is the veteran is just putting off making application until "tomorrow". We are taking every step we can to change this he continued, but I am still concerned.

The Bonus Branch toll free hot line (1-800-223-0713) is operational from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Fairview News
by Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend, and one hundred and thirty four were present for Sunday School. Thank the good Lord.

Our average Sunday School attendance for the month of October was one hundred and thirty. The average attendance of the children's church was thirty two. I thank God for parents who bring their children up in the hopes of the Lord. My father and mother (bless their hearts) kept us in Sunday School and Church in our childhood and growing up years. I feel so blessed to have been brought up in a Christian home. Years ago people had big families, in our family was thirteen children, seven girls and six boys, the older ones helped take care of the younger ones. There were many things that we needed but didn't have, so we learned to make out on what we had. We worked hard and with the good Lord's help we made it. We saw and experienced more love and concern for each other than we see today. But we still have many good dedicated Christians in the world and I thank God for every one of them. So let's keep on serving the Lord and loving each other more and more.

A baptismal service was conducted at our church on Sunday evening, Nov. 5th. My God continued to bless his young man and his family. We were saddened to hear of the death of Mrs. Barbara (Thomas) Cruse of Fairfield, Ohio who was buried in Winchester, Ky. on Tuesday, Nov. 7th. She was the daughter of Mrs. Ann Thomas of Winchester and the late Mr. Tom Thomas. Visiting at the funeral home on Monday night were Mrs. Edith Mullins of Lucile Snider and daughters, Mrs. Lucille (Cont. to Page 1)

Points East

By: Ike Adams

My wife's car is a late model Mercury station wagon. We've had it for a couple of years and experienced no major maintenance problems. Normally when it needs something she takes it to a service station and gets it back for a reasonable amount of money without asking my advice.

The car that I drove was made sometime back in the seventies. It's a little Mustang that the Ford folks can feel justifiably proud of producing. 200,000 miles plus and still runs like a top. However, it has rarely seen the inside of a service station. I buy stuff to maintain it at the discount stores and actually enjoy changing oil and putting in spark plugs. When my car gets a miss in the engine, I change the plugs. When it overheats I put in a new thermostat. It's simple and easy. One cold morning last week-end I took Loretta's car to town to buy parts for mine. Sometime last summer I had taken the thermostat out without replacing it and explains what I was doing and what my wife's car. But it had a miss. It sputtered and jerked all the way to Berea. "Needs plugs," I said to myself, and decided to buy some while I was at Wal-Mart.

I looked her car up in the parts book, found out the spark plug number and bought em. The car missed and staggered back home. I asked Loretta when she had changed spark plugs in her car and she didn't even know what I was talking about. "I leave all that stuff up to folks who make their living working on cars," she said to me. "Is that why it's running a little?"

"It's not running a little rough," I said to her. It's lurching and I intend to fix it right now.

"Brent said he had to order a part for the fuel injector and it would be here in a day or two," she said, referring to my landlord who owns a garage in Paint Lick. "Well," I told her, "it needs plugs too."

"Go ahead then, Loggerhead," says Loretta. You probably can't do anything to it that Brent can't fix."

I decided to fix her car first because I was so anxious to show her that I could make it run smoothly again. I lifted the hood and spent the next fifteen minutes trying to find the motor. There are three different colors of hoses running like the lines on a jigsaw puzzle immediately under the hood of this car. There are funneled connections. There are square things and round things with wires running out of them. There are six or eight pulleys that are all different sizes and have one big fan belt thin zig-zagging back and forth between them in a complicated, geometric pattern. If that's not believe breaks while we're out on the road folks, we're in a world of trouble. You'd have to have a blue print, and I still bet it would take half a day to put one back on.

Now I'm not coming right out and saying that Loretta's car doesn't have spark plugs. They may be under there somewhere, but I never actually saw one or touched anything that felt like one. I do know that I took the engine size and year model right out of the service manual that came with the car and the parts book said they made a plug for it. And that's all I have to go on.

I don't even know what a fuel injector looks like. I suppose it was that round thing that was sitting approximately where the carburetor is on my car. But no wonder it was missing. I don't see how a contraption like that runs at all. The only things I saw under the hood of that car that looked familiar was the battery and a couple of dipsticks and none of them were where they should have been.

Under the hood of my car it's a different story. The spark plugs are obvious and easy to take out. There used to be one hose that ran into the breather, but it fell off and the car kept running so I threw it away several years ago. You can see ninety percent of the engine. The fan belt makes a simple circle around three pulleys. When something needs fixing you can get it on or off in ten minutes. I replaced the thermostat complete with new gaskets in less than half an hour.

I'm a firm believer in the old adage, "If it ain't broke don't fix it." Why do they have to complicate things so much that it's like dealing with something from another planet when they make cars these days? Certainly not to make them last longer or keep from tearing up because they do. And certainly not to make them any cheaper. Have you priced any new cars lately. A mobile home is cheaper.

What's the magic in all these *4 hoses and pulleys and pipes? My car just had one hose to start with and I've put over a hundred thousand miles on it with no hose at all. On top of that I can fix my car myself most of the time. (I don't do brakes.)

Now I'm worried. My old car won't last much longer. When I buy a later model I'm going to be lost and I don't have the time or energy to learn what all these new unwanted gadgets do or where all the hoses go. I fear the uncertainties I will feel when the new car starts missing and I have no idea what's wrong. Why didn't the car companies leave well enough alone?

What was that thing that Brent ordered for your car? I asked Loretta when I went back in the house.

"I think he said it was a fangetted rotary modulator or something like that," she answered.

"That'll probably fix it," I told her. "The plugs are just fine."

Tw's Just a Dream-Thankfully
by Christine Harper McKinney

"Tw's just a dream about Thanksgiving but my, it was so real With kinfolk thero from miles around to share this scrumptious meal; Aunt Jane and Uncle Johnny and all their lively brood.

Along with fourteen neighbors all waiting for the food. They laughed and talked and hugged and kissed and told some corny jokes. And every time the doorbell rang there stood more hungry folks!

The house was dressed in elegance, the table set with care; The feast was almost ready and the fragrance filled the air. I noticed how they gazed at me and oohed and aahed and sighed... I must admit I felt a surge of happiness and pride.

For everyone kept saying, "What a lovely, gorgeous creature!" But, being somewhat modest, it seemed difficult to feature.

Now everyone was seated and the carving set was passed; The host would do the honors-it was time to eat at last.

And all the while I'm wondering 'bout the fondness shown for me... Alas! the light is dawning on this wretched mystery. My thoughts are now quite lucid (no longer dim and murky) 'Ye gads, this dream's a nightmare 'cause it's plain that I'm the turkey!

Something New At The Country Peddler's Store
By: Mayzell Ries

All you folks come on down. The country peddler has something new. Fresh flowers for all occasions. Anniversaries and birthdays too.

I stopped by the other day For a visit, and what before my eye Went fresh flowers of all kinds It really was a surprise

If you're needing flowers As fresh as can be Come on down to the Country Peddler Fresh flowers is what you'll see.

Some cut flowers Come in a pot Come on down And see what Juanita's got

You won't be disappointed The flowers are all so new I'm sure Juanita Can find something for you

This poem was written for Dr. and Mrs. Bill Frank Stewart before the birth of their first child.

To Mom and Dad
by Mayzell Ries

I wonder what you will say, When I arrive on that special day. Will you wait so long, for me to be here. Will you stand up, and give me a cheer?

I wonder what you will think, When I arrive all adorable and pink. Will you ooh and aah all over me? I guess I'll just have to wait and see.

I wonder if I'll be a girl or boy, Will it matter to you, which one brings you joy?

A girl would be nice, all dressed in pink. With ribbons and curls, what do you think? But a boy can be handsome too, When he's dressed in adorable blue:

We'll just have to wait and see, Which one I'm really gonna be. Mom, will you sing and play with me, And tell me how it's gonna be?

And dad will you help me with each passing day, Will you teach the about God, and how to pray. I know I'll like you a lot Cause you're the only parents I got.

If Not For You
by Karen Noe

If not for you the sun wouldn't shine
The moon would lose its glow
The stars would wink, then disappear
Into futures yet untold

If not for you, the grass would be
All dingy, brittle and brown
Then dust would follow in its wake
When you stepped upon the ground.

If not for you my eyes wouldn't see
That there's beauty in this world
To capture this within my hands
And let pleasantness unfurl.

RES project is "ahead of schedule"

The four classroom-addition at Roundstone Elementary School is actually "ahead of schedule," according to Rockcastle schools superintendent Bige Towery and Branscum Construction vice president Fred Tarter.

During a preliminary tour of the addition last Friday, Tarter said, "There have been no Maalox moments," since the project began in late summer. "In another week, we'll be out of here. But, there is some casework (cabinets) due in December. We'll be back to put those in."

Towery, along with Richard Bray and Larry Hammond from the board offices and inspector Richard Klink went with Tarter.

"I'm pleased," said Towery. "It has the usual number of minor (flaws) but I know of no construction job without some imperfections."

Klink had four pages of "nicker and dime" items to take care of before the job could be considered complete.

Those items included fixing a door knob, putting thermostat covers on, putting lock switches on some lights, cleaning, fixing a couple of scratches.

But, neither Towery nor Tarter found anything that would keep children out of the classroom by the start of the second semester.

In fact, Towery is already thinking in terms of holding the January meeting of the school board in one of the four new rooms at Roundstone. Tarter was able to pinpoint good weather as one reason for the early finish on the project.

Although there was a lot of rain this fall, it was of little consequence once the roof was on.

Tarter pointed out that rain caused drastic delays in the construction of the new Mt. Vernon Elementary School building, but those delays came very early in the work.

Those delays included such things as mud too deep to effectively work in to level sites, and to pour foundation concrete.

Once the foundations were down, walls and other essentials went fairly quickly.

Branscum Construction vice president Fred Tarter, left, Supt. Bige Towery and state inspector Richard Klink look over the addition to Roundstone Elementary which is expected to be ready for occupancy the second semester.

As citizens of Buffalo community have

Adopt a highway

Citizens of the Buffalo community due to the initiative of Calvin Mize have adopted three miles of Highway 1249 from 1956 intersection for the first three miles.

Citizens or groups can adopt two to five mile sections of any state highway. The state highway department provides orange safety vests and orange trash bags for the collection of litter and pick up the collected litter at a central location. The state places a sign on the road with the groups name. The initial cleanup is time consuming, muscle stretching task but once the highway is litter free a few hours per week can keep it beautiful.

We, in Rockcastle, have some of the most beautiful natural scenery in the state but much of that beauty is marred by litter of careless people.

Sixty five bags of litter have been picked up to date. This litter consisted of bottles, cans, fast food containers, etc. Calvin Mize says there is at least 40 more bags to fill before complete clean-up is accomplished.

Everyone wants a clean environment but generally they want someone to do it for them such as our highway department or our local government. Our newly elected officials are very concerned about the litter in our county. Every citizen has an obligation and every citizen can assist by first, not throwing anything out of a car that is not edible. Secondly, if thoughtless people do litter, then a good citizen can take a few minutes of time to pick up and keep our county beautiful.

These youngsters have undertaken to adopt three miles of highway 1249 from 1956 intersection to remove litter. They are from left to right, Matthew Renner, Becky Dykes, Nicki Cromer, Sarah Renner and back row, Crystal Cromer. Call the Highway Department if you would like to adopt a highway.

Junior Mike Kirby, sophomore Robyn Shivel and senior Tabetha Clark recently took part in an awards ceremony at Frankfort which honored RCHS for their improved attendance. The three have improved their individual attendance records amazingly this year and the adjacent story tells some of the reasons why.

Kentucky Faces an "Arresting" Problem in its Prisons

By State Rep. Danny Ford

You've heard plenty of news about how education tops the agendas of many state legislators, but the Kentucky Supreme Court has told the General Assembly that it must also deal with another pressing dilemma—the increase in the prison population. The Court ruled that the Corrections Cabinet must take responsibility for over 900 state prisoners now being held in local jails due to lack of state prison space. In fact, the Supreme Court slapped the Corrections Cabinet with millions of dollars in fines for keeping the prisoners in the local facilities.

Kentucky's prison woes are not unique—the nation's prison population has doubled in the last decade. Estimates claim that 1800 new beds per week would be required to keep pace with the increase of prisoners entering the penal system. Forty-one other states are operating their corrections facilities under some type of a court order.

How will Kentucky react? John Wiggington, the Secretary of the Corrections Cabinet, recently told a legislative committee that his cabinet will seek an additional 3000 prison beds from the 1990 legislature. That figure includes the construction of the first new women's prison since 1938.

The current overcrowding situation may ease slightly later this year when 500 new beds are opened at the East Kentucky Correctional Complex. By the end of next year, the prison will accommodate up to 1000 prisoners. The system was already eased when the LaGrange facility began double-bunking inmates earlier this year.

As George Bush proved last year, responding to crime is a priority for Americans, and the General Assembly must do its share. The Supreme Court has required us to react effectively, and I can promise you that I will do what I can to ensure that the solution we arrive at is in the best interest of tax-paying and law-abiding Kentuckians.

Jerry Allen of Rt. 1 Brodhead killed an eleven point buck in Pendleton County Saturday, Nov. 11. It weighed 175 pounds.

Sonny Northern, 17, of Brodhead killed an 8 point buck on November 11, 1989 at Casey Co.

Jerry Mink killed a 14 pt. buck non-typical rack on Line Creek on Nov. 11, 1989.

The Brodhead Senior Citizens had a Halloween Party on October 27th. They had a real good time and the Adult Day Care fixed the Senior Citizens a Trick-or-Treat bag and had a costume judging contest. Prizes were given to the prettiest and ugliest. In the contest Jean Jones, Myrtle Helton, Dempsey Brummett and Alifair Burkhardt were the ones in the contest.

Three students help attendance

By: Jim Griesch
When Rockcastle County Schools received their award in Frankfort last Thursday as one of the 20 most improved districts in the state as far as student attendance is concerned, several students who have had dramatic improvement individually got to go along.

Two -- senior Tabetha Clark and sophomore Robyn Shivel -- get to walk on stage to help receive district awards. But, what are the motivations for simply going to school, as students are supposed to, as opposed to simply staying home, playing hooky?

There have to be changes, either in the student, or the system. Rockcastle's awards are probably due to both type changes. For one thing, the system has taken a tougher stance on having students in school.

The system is putting more pressure on parents to send their children to school daily, except where real illness, injury or legitimate family business would prohibit attending class.

Then, too, students simply learn to like school. Sometimes, students decided they want, or need, to go to school. Sometimes it's social. It may be a class that a student really likes. It may be that a teacher has reached a student where someone else failed to do so before.

Talking to Clark, Shivel and Junior Mike Kirby, all of those reasons seeped through during a conversation.

Clark, who missed 28 days last year but just four this year, says that "High school principal Ronnie Cash has more to offer this year. He gives us more things this year."

Clark went on stage in Frankfort to receive an award just for the high school. Cash and Clark both remember Cash telling her at the time: "Here, you hold it (the plaque), because you earned it."

And, Clark also said she really likes Janice Miller's English class. A third reason Clark has been attending school, she said, is that she knows she will graduate, if she continues to attend school and make the proper grades.

Besides, she says, "My parents are proud of me for getting to go to Frankfort."

With Clark, alone, there are four different motivations for wanting to go to school.

1. Enjoyment. Finding that both adults and classes can provide something she likes, and can use.
2. Self determination. She wants to graduate.
3. Family approval. She has made her parents proud, and happy.

Shivel's story is a little different, but with some similar motivations.

Last year, she incurred the wrath of several other, mostly older, students for an incident outside of school. She was afraid of physical violence because of the incident, and Clark was one who was mad at her.

The two sat side-by-side during an interview. "I just didn't like school last year," Shivel says flatly. "I like school a lot more this year, and I really like biology." Her teacher is Bill Cameron.

Shivel missed "maybe more than 20 days," in 1988-89, she admits. "But, I've missed just two days this year, and that was for dental appointments."

She also has a different boyfriend at the moment. He isn't in school, but she says she doesn't feel she has to, or wants to, play hooky just to be with him.

Shivel also says she has been making better grades.

Her motivations?

1. The elimination of fear of her peer group.
2. Which helps her feel more relaxed at school.
3. Better grades, and a class she likes.

Kirby's motivations are much different. This year, he says he's missed two days with a leg injury suffered when he jumped out of a barn while hanging tobacco. He missed another day when he was sick.

He says he is in Miller's English class, too, and likes it. But, he wasn't as effusive in his praise of the class as Clark.

Kirby is also looking ahead to his senior year, and pointed out that he is on track to graduate, if he continues to keep his grades up.

The easiest way to keep up is to simply attend class, and stay on top of whatever lessons are at hand.

When asked before the interview what he thought students would give as reasons for improved attendance, Cash said he didn't know, but would be interested in hearing the responses.

When told later that self-determination and finding a class they liked were common, he said that often happens.

Miller's background may help the two students, and may help others this year and in future years.

She has a background in working with "at risk" students, and was hired from Leslie County as a Job Training Partnership Act teacher.

She has special abilities in helping students who seem less enthusiastic, less energetic, about going to school.

That's the category that school language uses when they refer to "at risk" students.

Superintendent Big Towery says that such children may "have a fear for teachers who have a better understanding of their problems."

Miller, along with Glen VanWinkle, were hired especially, through the JTPA grant.

Towery also thinks that personal resolve and determination is a "normal response when children are 16-17 years old."

Towery said he sat in the back of the bus with several students on the trip to Frankfort.

One idea that many of the students mentioned, he said, is the idea of attending summer school to catch up on missed work, rather than sitting with students two and three years younger, working on lower level classes.

Towery said the kids know why older students are relating classes, or working at a lower level than they may need to.

Partly because of that, Towery said, he will begin to explore the possibilities of a summer session here in the county.

In that light, Towery said he plans to ask Nancy Thames, an Eastern Kentucky University faculty member who helps in Project Graduation, for some help.

Towery wants to see if there is some grant money out there, somewhere, to help start a summer school program.

Towery said if he could start a successful pilot summer program, he'd approach the board with a plan for a full-scale summer school program at some point in the future.

Christmas parade

Singleton and Cromer were scheduled to meet to finalize plans soon. Those items that need to be organized include finding a "Santa."
Singleton said that money will continue to be accepted until the parade date. He also said that the club is prepared to handle other expenses for the parade, such as purchasing signs for the sides of cars in which the Rockcastle County Homecoming Queen and her court may ride.
"There will be no fee for any floats, riding or marching groups."
Last-minute decisions will be put into the parade order simply by showing up at 9 a.m., at MVES, on the day of the parade.
But, Singleton said that those who decide early to participate can help with the organization by letting him know as early as possible.
For those who decide to go in the parade, need more information, or who want to donate money, he can be reached at Bank of Mt. Vernon, at 256-5141.

He said he plans to invade Bob Pybas and the Rockcastle County High marching band to participate, as well as some Shriners who may have a mounted or motorcycle unit to parade.
Rockcastle Region Rodgers spent about $700 in prize money last year, but Singleton had said several weeks ago that the club could not put that much money into the parade this year, because it short-circuited too many other plans.
He had asked, through a previous story, for area businesses to step forward and help with prize money for first, second and third place prizes for floats.
Seven businesses have done so. They include Bank of Mount Vernon, Appalachian Medical Supply, Mt. Vernon Printing, Citizens Bank, Appliance Service Center, Dowell-Martin Funeral Home, and Renfro Valley Folks, Inc.

Two weeks remain before the parade, which should give most area groups time to decide to participate or not.
Audit shows
agement or fraud in the use of their tax dollars, Babbage explained.
Citizens also call to make positive suggestions for improvements in government, he noted.
Babbage explained that his office's major cases of official misconduct await legal action.
The Auditor said the assignment to audit the games and transactions of the Kentucky Lottery and the management study of Kentucky schools has kept his office's activities at a record high.
Additionally, the 1988 General Assembly passed a law requiring the Auditor to audit Kentucky's 120 Property Valuation Administrators. Babbage also said he had been working with the legislature on ways to improve the state's purchasing practices.
"The public demands accountability from their elected officials and for the use of their tax dollars. One of the major assignments of the Auditor's office is to review, report and do all in our power to ensure that Kentucky taxpayers' funds are used wisely and honestly," Babbage said.
Based on the large number of calls our KY-ALERT Line gets about education, we can easily conclude that a majority of Kentucky taxpayers want increased accountability for tax dollars spent on education," Babbage commented.
Since governments traditionally use their audits to create budgets and to obtain financial assistance for their infrastructure projects, Babbage has instituted a program to bring local government audits to current year status by early 1990.

Smith asks
Most of the sheriff's income comes from taxes. He is allowed $36,393 and some office expenses. In 1986, he had excess fees of $7,907 and owed the Rockcastle Board of Education $1,108. There was no excess in 1987, but $2,001 in 1988, according to the state audit. (See adjacent story.)
Sheriff Hasty disputed the 1986 and 1988 amounts.
Dan Tuttle, of the Division of County and Municipal Accounts, Department of Local Government, said the sheriff does have a maximum salary but can use fees from his office to pay expenses such as telephone bills.

Hasty said he paid his telephone bill, along with insurance, uniforms, cars, and gasoline, except the one-time $600 help at the beginning of this term.
County Judge office records show at least one of the sheriff's telephone bills is being paid by the court.
The magistrates did not comment at length on Smith's inquiry, apparently leaving it to the next fiscal court and County Judge-elect Roland Mullins to discuss the problem after January. Incidentally, three of the current magistrates will return in January, Donald Bullock, Amos Burdette and Jack Bradley.

Smith complained to the court about problems with Green Pond Ridge Road that he claimed is being damaged by log trucks. The court agreed to determine ownership of the road and have it repaired if it is a county road.
William K. Vanzant asked the court to maintain a section of road known as the Orlando Post Office Road located off Ky-1004. The court will check.
Also to be checked is a section of road off Maple Grove Road at the request of a property owner who is listed as Leonard Scarborough.
Two bids on construction of a bleacher roof at the Brodhead Fair-ground were opened. M & D Excavation Service of Barbourville bid $29,989, and N & N Contractors of Mt. Vernon bid $38,800.
The county received a grant for $21,250 for the roof with both bids far in excess of the available amount. Architect fee is $2,300. The court decided to postpone the bid award for further information and discussion.
The court laid off six county road workers. They are L.D. Bond, Billy Adams, Gene Ruppe, Everett Vanzant, Carlos McClure and Lee Earl Adams.

will be made.
Local efforts to restock shelves at REAP are already underway.
Students may have already brought notes from home that all county schools will be collecting canned or non-perishable food items through Dec. 20.
The new structure for REAP can be found in a number of other programs in near-by counties.
The Food Pantry in Lancaster has been successful for more than a year. One of its keys is regularly scheduled hours.
Other programs in Pulaski County have found lots of help from emergency agencies, and the United Way.
The change in organization is being accomplished with little turnover in personnel among those who have been part of the REAP organization before.

Kizzie Owens will continue as chairperson.
Eddie Hammon will act as liaison between REAP and county ministers, and will work toward all fund raising and food drives.
Mable Herrin will be the purchasing agent, and will be in charge of ordering and delivery.
Sarah Adams will coordinate schedules for volunteers who will work at the office.
Tom Schaper of CAP will work with Owens on finding grant money.
Perlina Anderkin, editor of The Signal, will continue to act as publicity chairman.
Cindy Anderkin will be in charge of shelf inventory.
Several others will serve as volunteers, manning the store at prescribed times.
Another meeting of REAP officials has been scheduled for 5 p.m., Monday, Nov. 20. Final plans will be made at the meeting, and people and groups charged with specific tasks will report on progress or lack thereof.

Former Brodhead cafe destroyed in a blaze

A relic of Brodhead's past was destroyed in a spectacular fire early Sunday.
The vacant building located east of the railroad tracks in downtown Brodhead, once served as Clark's Restaurant. In the 1920s and 30s, restaurant employees and others served box lunches to passengers on the trains that stopped there.
At that time, two other nearby restaurants alternated with Mrs. Clark in serving the trains. They were Mrs. Lela Murphy and Mrs. Emma Fritch.
The lunches were served in paper boxes. One resident remembered a quarter of a pie was 10 cents.
Fire Chief David Ott said the building was nearly engulfed when firemen arrived about 1 a.m. Firemen fought and saved the building next door, about 10 feet away and were successful despite the intense heat.

Chief Ott said the property belongs to Russell Bullock. Ott said he did not know how the fire started since there was no electric hookup. He guessed it probably was set by some of the men seen going into the building from time to time.

'90 tax interest rate put at 11%

The 1990 tax interest rate charged on unpaid and delinquent taxes has been set at 11%. Revenue Secretary C. Emmett Calvert announced today. This rate becomes effective Jan. 1 and is based on the prime interest rate charged by Kentucky banks during October, 1989.
Calvert said the rate on income tax refunds (withholding or declarations) will also be 11%. The rate to be paid on other tax refunds is 75% of the tax interest rate, or 8.25%.
The current tax interest rate is 10%. A recent survey of Kentucky banks showed that the average prime interest rate in effect during October was 10.83%, which the law requires to be rounded to the nearest whole percent (11%). The Revenue secretary is required by 1982 law to set the tax interest rate by Nov. 15 for the year beginning Jan. 1.

Competing for industry is often frustrating

by Ray McClure

Wooing a factory to locate in a community is an intense, complicated and often frustrating effort that doesn't always pay off. Usually it's a matter of money.

That was the case back in July and August when an Ohio biscuit company dangled a cookie-making factory over the heads of Rockcastle Industrial Park officials.

For days, local business people were agog with great expectations over the prospect of obtaining a biscuit plant and all its related goods, including a 260,000 square foot, $10 million plant on county-owned property on old Ky. 461 west of Mt. Vernon.

No one can say for sure if Consolidated Biscuit Company of McComb, Ohio, ever seriously considered locating in Mt. Vernon. Some locals said the city was only used to encourage the other two finalists, Pikeville and Corbin, to make the company a better financial concession. Corbin actually was not in the running.

Pikeville won after three failures, and another potential industry for Rockcastle County "bit the dust," so to speak. Now, the Consolidated plant is under way in Pikeville, situated between two coal mine tipples, in a county more coal minded than cookie conscious.

Some say it was Pike County Judge Executive Paul Patton who wouldn't give up, no matter what, that made all the difference. But he was not alone. He had the prospect of cheap natural gas to offer, the Kentucky Rural Economic Development Authority to help and an estimated 15,000 women who were ready with rolling pins to bake those cookies at $5.50 to $6.00 an hour.

Paul Prather of the Lexington Herald-Leader visited Pikeville to see what made its economic effort finally click. It reads in part like a textbook on "how to," get what you want.

Prather found that three Pikeville banks put aside their fiercely competitive ways to work together, figuring "we'll all get our fair share" of the business eventually, said Jonathan W. Hiers, executive vice president of the First National Bank of Pikeville.

The three banks—including Pikeville National Corp. and the Citizens Bank—helped arrange financing for the plant, sharing with the state $750,000 in low-interest loans.

Also crucial to landing the plant was highway transportation.

Although Pikeville is far from an interstate, Pike officials emphasized that U.S. 23 through Pikeville has four lanes from Canada to Florida except for a few gaps between Paintsville and Prestonsburg, said Jerry Vaughn, president of the Pikeville-Pike County Industrial Development and Economic Authority.

The Mountain Parkway is also nearby. Pike County officials persuaded company executives to drive the roads themselves.

Pike County offered Consolidated Biscuit $7 million from the Kentucky Rural Economic Development Authority.

The authority, created by the General Assembly in 1988 to help counties with high unemployment, exempts companies from state corporate income tax so they can use that money instead to pay off their debt on land and buildings.

It also allows companies to deduct up to 6 percent from employee's paychecks and use that money to pay down the company's debts.

Employees can get back two-thirds of the 6 percent through write-offs on their state income taxes. They can get back the other 2 percent through exemptions from local employment taxes, if their communities have them.

The gas deal was a major selling point because natural gas is a huge expense for Consolidated—about $1 million a year at its Ohio plant, Vaughn said.

The Pike industrial authority had arranged to get the gas rights at the proposed plant site from Pike County Coal Corp., which had sold the industrial authority six acres of land and donated 11 more acres for the plant. The industrial authority had bought 15 more acres from a neighbor.

The development officials then worked out a deal for Consolidated to drill its own natural gas wells on 180 acres nearby, with the cost qualifying for Kentucky Rural Economic Development aid as a plant utility.

That would reduce the company's cost for gas to one-eighth the usual wholesale price, if it decided to drill the wells.

In addition, the federal government would allow the company an ongoing tax credit of 80 cents a unit on wells drilled before the end of 1990—meaning Consolidated could actually make a profit on its gas.

When Consolidated officials heard about the natural gas deal and still waived, harried Pike officials placed a last minute call to Royalty, the Kentucky Rural Economic Development Secretary.

After listening to their problems, Royalty called them back within an hour and promised a state grant of $500,000 for the plant site, and a loan of $300,000 for a sewer system.

"We try to respond as quickly as possible," Royalty said.

Pike got the plant. In addition to the state incentives, the local authority also gave the company $250,000 for land and development.

Attorney John Clontz, who is chairman of the Rockcastle Industrial Authority, concedes Pikeville probably came up with a more complete package for the company than Rockcastle.

"We did all we could to get the company here," Clontz said. "We gave them a break on the property if they would agree to maintain 400 to 500 employees for a 10 year period. (Note: Pikeville did not have that restriction.) We promised sewer, water and a road. We approved a bottom rate on the natural gas scale. But obviously more was needed."

Clontz said he was not pleased with the boost Pikeville received from Gene Royalty, Kentucky Economic Development Secretary.

"I keep feeling we did not have the necessary help from the state to put our package together," he said. "What disturbs me is that an official in a county can pick up a phone and get a state guarantee of a $500,000 grant and a $300,000 loan. Can all counties do it?"

Probably not, but what state official would want to challenge 15,000 ladies with rolling pins.

Orlando Bound! TV too?

Rockcastle County High cheerleaders pose with their Midwest Regional first runners-up trophy they earned Saturday in Bloomington, Ind. The trophy symbolizes a trip to Orlando, Fla., for an appearance in the Universal Cheerleaders Association national finals. That comes in February. Shown with co-sponsors Tracy Gabbard and Becky Perkins, top, are: Gina Martin, Donisha Mullins, Amy Sears, Amy Jo McClure, Cindy Gregory, Dawn Lewis, Michelle Hamm, April Kendrick, Jennifer Noe and Teresa Burdette. Sherry Jones and Kristy Sargent, who also participated, are not shown.

Cheerleaders win trip to UCA national finals

By: Jim Griesch

The Rockcastle County High cheerleaders are headed to Orlando, Fla., in February to compete in the national finals of the United Cheerleading Association.

They earned the national spot with a first-run-up effort at the Midwest Regional competition in Bloomington, Ind., over the weekend.

They finished second among 10 squads in the varsity squad contest.

This is the first time Rockcastle has ever qualified for the nationals.

Co-sponsor Becky Perkins and senior co-captain Gina Martin both said that the girls — Martin, Sherry Jones, Kristy Sargeant, Donisha Mullins, Amy Sears, Amy Jo McClure, Cindy Gregory, Dawn Lewis, Michelle Hamm, April Kendrick, Jennifer Noe and Teresa Burdette — found out immediately after the contest.

Still, for the Rocket ladies, that wait constituted almost an hour's wait. Rockcastle had to go first after drawing for positions.

Each squad had about 2:30 to do all of its routine, which included mounts, cheers, stunts and a dance routine.

With the time used for each of the other routines, and the moments of troping on and off the performing area, it was almost an hour before they found out.

The judges announced their decisions about 15 minutes after the last team performed.

Tracy Gabbard, the other sponsor, said he felt good about the team's chances as he watched each of the other schools perform.

"I knew we would go (to Florida)," he said Monday afternoon. "I just didn't know where we would finish, but I knew we would place."

Russell County won the Grand Champions prize, and Scott High from Covington was third.

All three squads advance to Orlando.

Perkins said there were 10 varsity squads, seven junior high squads and one junior varsity squad in the competition, 18 in all.

Perkins said that each performing squad was limited to no more than 15 on the floor at once.

All of the school's cheerleaders were there. Yelling for the performers were Chad Abney, Chris Thompson, Missy Livesay, Kim Livesay, Jackie Burdette, Michele Stevens and Lois Ann Cromer.

At Orlando, if Rockcastle makes it to the finals of their division — probably all girls, varsity — then they are guaranteed a spot on television.

Over the past several years, ESPN, the 24-hour sports channel seen in Rockcastle on cable channel 22, has carried the finals competition of the UCA contest.

Neither Perkins nor Gabbard is certain of what the team score was. The score sheets are supposed to be Continued on Page B-12

Remembering Rockcastle's veterans

Tom Miller (above) raises the American flag from half-mast to full-mast during ceremonies in front of the courthouse last Saturday, November 11, Veterans Day. Miller, an officer with VFW Post 5908, is a Navy vet. (Below) Verla Scott, VFW Commander Floyd Baker, and VFW Ladies Auxiliary officers Judy McFerron and Glenda McFerron presented wreaths in front of the War Memorial on the courthouse lawn. Scott's wreath was in honor of her brother, Clyde DeBorbe.

Larissa Hayes 15th in national judging

Larissa Hayes

Larissa Hayes has added another achievement to her list of accomplishments.

She finished 15th overall in the North American International Dairy Judging Contest in Louisville Nov. 3-5. These were the "B" level national championships in 4-H contests.

Her score of 159 for judging five different breeds of dairy livestock was only 29 points behind the national champion, Kinda Rott, of Minnesota. Some 75 individuals were eligible for the title.

Hayes, a junior at Rockcastle County High, made the team based on her performance in dairy judging at the Kentucky State Fair in August. She started a place on the three-girl team with the Sisters of Calloway County and Gina Lin Barlow of Barren County.

The Streetwise Kid, winning for the first time, in a recent River Downs race. His win, in 1:47 1/5 over a mile and 70 yards, was the second for owners Hoyle and Jane Miller, Disputanta Farm, in Rockcastle County. The Streetwise Kid's early splits were on a par with those in the breeders Cup, run on another track, that same day.

Disputanta gets its 2nd win of year

By: Jim Griesch
 The Streetwise Kid has added a second win to Disputanta Farm's first racing season.

The two-year-old gelding won a $6,000 maiden allowance mile and one furlong race at River Downs on Nov. 5 by one and a half lengths in a time of 1:47 3/5.

The Kid paid $6, $3.20 and $2.80. His jockey was Lynnlee Smith, and he beat Le Fabulous Song and Patsy's Last Hope.

The farm's first win came in late July, when Miss AnnElise won at Ellis Park.

The farm hadn't seen much racing action since late August due to some injuries to its horses.

Miss AnnElise ran two weeks ago in the latter stages of the Keeneland fall meet, but finished back in the pack in a 12-horse race.

Farm owner Hoyle Miller pointed out that the splits for The Streetwise Kid were faster than those in the Breeders Cup races run the same weekend.

The Kid's quarter-mile split was :23 1/5, as fast as Cup races. His half-mile split was :46 1/3, faster than Cup races.

Miller also said the track at River Downs is "deeper" than at Gulfstream Park in Florida, where the Breeders Cup was run this year.

Deeper means that the track has a softer running surface, and is generally slower than a track like Churchill Downs, which has a shallower base.

The win for The Kid was especially impressive.

Aren't red cheaters the same as blue ones, yellow writers?

It has now been eight days (this column was written Monday afternoon) since University of Louisville basketball coach Denny Crum had an illegal meeting with Louisville Central High School basketball coach Ralph Johnson and Charlotte Morton, the mother of Central forward Dwayne Morton, considered one of the best high school players in the nation.

So far, The Courier-Journal, Louisville's only daily newspaper has refused to comment on the episode in the way of a column by a qualified sports writer, or on its editorial pages.

Sports columnist Rick Bozich is too tough not to tackle, honestly, the situation.

Was he told not to write about it? The story about the meeting was broken by WLKY-TV, Channel 32 in Louisville. WLKY is not part of the inner circle surrounding U of L in Louisville, just as WLEX and WTVQ are not considered "insiders" in Lexington.

Instead, two days after the fact, the Courier wrote a story based solely on comments by Crum; his boss, U of L athletics director Bill Olson; and others involved in the meeting. Crum said he did not know the meeting was illegal.

Here's what supposedly happened: Johnson and Mrs. Morton went to Crum's on-campus office about 5 p.m., last Monday.

They were uninvited. Such contact between parents and a coach 48 hours before a national signing date (last Wednesday) is prohibited by the NCAA.

Instead of explaining that to them, and pleasantly escorting them out, Crum talked with the two for some time, then showed a film on drug abuse prevention. After that, the three, and Robbie Valentine, a former U of L player, went to dinner together.

Valentine has been called an assistant coach at U of L, but he is not listed in the 1989-90 U of L media guide.

Crum admitted he broke the rule, but unintentionally.

Background:
 • Crum has six years left on a contractual agreement that says he will get a $1 million bonus -- money put up by U of L boosters -- if he doesn't violate any rules.
 • Crum has a high success rate for recruiting players from Louisville high schools.

• U of L stands to gain the services of one of America's best high school players for four years, since Morton subsequently signed with Louisville.
 • U of L stands to earn about $1.2 million per year if it reaches the Final Four in each of Morton's four years at Louisville. That's a total of about $4.8 million.

• U of L has its own, private, television package with WHAS-TV, all of the three major national networks, and private agreements with certain cable companies. It also has a private radio package with WHAS radio in Louisville. The school has not even been a part of the Metro Conference TV package in recent years.

The school refuses to share its TV revenue with the other conference schools, which refuse to form a football conference.

U of L will make somewhere around $10 million from TV and radio while Morton is at Louisville.

The point of all this? Money talks. And, nobody has been greedier in recent years than Louisville.

Why would Crum take a chance on being caught breaking a rule? Most people say publicity that is a hard one to figure.

Not so. Crum has -- at least -- heavily shaded the rules in recruiting before.

Several years ago, U of L was found to have broken several rules in recruiting Georgia phenom Cedric Henderson. No penalties were offered.

Questions have come up in recent years about the high school transcript of current senior forward Tony Kimbro. The Courier wrote a story quoting various teachers at his old high school, Seneca in Louisville, about not being qualified, and about having his grades changed.

Those quoted immediately recanted their stories, and Kimbro threatened a suit.

Retraction city. Then, all quiet. Questions of impropriety have come up in the recruiting of just departed forward Kenny Payne.

U of L coaches had contact with him in a dressing room after Payne played in the Derby Classic, in April following his senior year.

Crum tried to revoke Valentine's scholarship his senior year.

Crum claimed an injury to Valentine made it impossible for him to continue as a player at U of L.

That was the same summer that U of L intentionally overstaffed its stocking, signing there the allowed 15 players to bring in aide.

That same summer, Valentine averaged 33 points a game in a Louisville summer league in which all U of L players participated. He led the league in scoring.

Over the years, rumors have circulated around the state about other U of L dealings.

A rumor is an unconfirmed report.

Brodhead wins boys' tournament

Brodhead ran, pressed and crashed his way to the championship of the Rockcastle Boys Junior High Basketball Tournament Monday night.

Brodhead pushed past Roundstone 51-30 in the final game, overwhelming the Eagles on the boards and suffocating them with a full court press.

The Tigers' Mikhail Shaffer led all scorers with 16 points, scoring from all over the floor. He got 12-point support from forward John Kirk.

Marvin McCollum led Roundstone with 10.

The Tigers broke fast out of the gate, and piled up a quick lead. By the end of the first quarter, they were up 13-6, then outscored Roundstone three baskets to one down the stretch of the first half to build the halftime lead to 28-12.

It took us about a half to realize we could play with them, "veteran Roundstone coach Harry Holland said after the game. "By then, it was too late."

Roundstone held Brodhead to a 23-18 advantage in the second half.

Jason Scoggins, the biggest player to see action in the tournament, was held to three points for Brodhead, but his presence inside helped Brodhead control the boards.

Brodhead also shot better. Roundstone could run with the Tigers, but had trouble finishing off a lot of breaks.

Fouls played a part in the game. Both Kirk and Scoggins were in fairly early foul trouble, and point guard

Coach Jason Coguer shows the tension of the boys' county junior high tournament at the high school. His team, Livingstone, was playing Mt. Vernon in Monday's consolation game, but Coguer still wanted to win. The Blue Devils lost, however. Some of the players are also following the action, closely.

J.D. Russell wound up fouling out midway through the final quarter.

MVES took consolation

Mt. Vernon took third place with a 57-20 win over Livingston.

An early first-quarter run was,

again, an important part of the outcome.

The Red Devils were up 13-2 at the end of the frame, and led 26-8 at the half.

Mickey McClure led all scorers, getting 13 for the Red team, followed by Jason Fletcher with 12.

Joe Spoonmoore led Livingston's Blue Devils with five.

Both teams ran, almost as much as

Centre players celebrate last Saturday's 13-10 come-from-behind win over Rhodes College, which gave the Colonels a College Athletic Conference title, but wasn't enough to get them into the NCAA's Division III playoffs.

Centre stages comeback but still misses on playoffs

By: Jim Griesch

Despite one of its greatest comebacks in recent football history, Centre College is staying home from the NCAA Division III playoffs again this fall.

Centre HAD to win Saturday at home against Rhodes College of Memphis to have a chance at the playoffs.

Centre won 13-10, scoring twice in the final 4:47, to battle into the playoff picture.

But, Sunday, the selection committee decided even a win over what had been the No. 1 team in the South Region wasn't enough.

Centre had been 7-0 before being upset at Oberlin the week before. Before the loss, Centre had been ranked as high as No. 3 in the South Region, but had dipped to No. 8, going into the Rhodes game.

With the win over Rhodes, Centre jumped to No. 6, while Rhodes dipped to No. 8, and neither team made the playoffs.

Centre coach Joe McDaniel was disappointed at the near-miss. He told some media people that he had been told by the NCAA selection people that Centre would be among the teams considered.

Basically, the playoff system picks the top four teams from each region.

He feels now that the selection committee, weighted heavily by representatives of schools in the east, especially Pennsylvania, simply did not pay either Centre or Rhodes much respect.

Rhodes had been No. 1 in the south most of the season. But, Rhodes' schedule supposedly had been questioned by selection committees.

Centre has been close to making the playoffs three times in the past

MVES to face RES in girls 'B' finals

Mt. Vernon and Roundstone have won the right to play for the championship in the county's junior high girls' "B" team basketball tournament Friday night.

Mt. Vernon topped Brodhead 35-17 and Roundstone beat Livingston 30-22 in first-round matches at Mt. Vernon Elementary Tuesday night.

The Red Devils were led by Melinda Smith, who got 14 points. Becky Osborne added eight, Brandy Chastan seven, and Cassie Mullines six. The four got all of MVES's points.

Amy Robinson had 10 for Brodhead.

Head Bullock of MVES said the game was close into the second quarter, when the Lady Tigers' Donna Cash injured an ankle, and could not play the rest of the way. She had two points when she went out.

Jamica Cummins poured in 18 points for Roundstone, just missing her season high. She had 19 in a previous game.

Ginger Mink was her chief companion, with seven.

But, Livingston was up 14-10 at the half, before slumping to just eight points in the second half, while cially pleasing to trainer Raymond Ginter, Miller pointed out, since it came on Ginter's birthday.

The Kid is on something of a roll. He has finished out of the money just once in four races and has first, second and a fourth to his credit. The second came about 10 days before his win.

"He's never been worse than fifth," Miller noted.

The Kid was tentatively scheduled for races either this Thursday at Churchill Downs in a one-mile track race, or Sunday in a one-mile turf race at River Downs.

Miss AnnElise is set to run a six-furlong allowance race for two-year-olds Saturday at Churchill Downs.

They are the only two of 10 horses that Miller now owns.

Seven are in training now, and four live on the farm in Disputanta. He said he is training one horse for another owner.

The Kid has now won about $5,000 for the farm, while Miss AnnElise has won the most, $13,000.

Disputanta has developed one trait among horsemen. The horses are always out of the gate quickly.

"I don't think we've been beaten out of the gate, yet," Miller explained. "We may get beat in the second or third step, but never out of the gate."

He credits exercise jockey Steve Faust, who is also a licensed trainer, for that.

"He is very good at getting them out of the gate fast. Our horses are always down, ready to push out with their hind legs," Miller pointed out.

Miller plans to race both the Kid and AnnElise the rest of this year.

But, he has four yearling colts in training right now, and he hopes to have all of them ready for the spring meet at Keeneland.

The four are Noble Haywood, by Noble Nashua out of the Disputanta mare Miss Streetwise, who also foaled The Streetwise Kid; Senator Bouchard; Judge Swinford; and Padel Packing Pete.

In keeping with a Miller trademark, Noble Haywood, Senator

Bouchard, and Judge Swinford are named after family members.

Noble Haywood is named after Miller's son. Senator Bouchard is named after a son-in-law. Judge Swinford is named for his wife's, Jane, father, Judge Ronald Swinford, who now lives in Berea. And, Miller has recently bought a filly, named Miss Rockcastle, which should be racing this time next year, barring injuries or illness.

Spatter

Those rumors centered on all kinds of wild stuff.

Such as:

• a player on a Pell Grant who bought a car with cash.

• star players undergoing drug rehab programs at the school's expense.

• the "whys" behind decisions by Valentine, Bardstown's James Brewer and Ft. Knox's Troy Smith to change their minds and renege on verbal commitments to Western Kentucky and Kentucky. Smith's within 24 hours.

If these kinds of rumors had been flying about UK's program, herds of investigative reporters would have been hard at work, 24 hours a day, to get to the bottom of all of it.

Not at U of L. Not by the Courier. The paper that bills itself as a Pulitzer Prize winner, and the guardian of the public's right to know looks stupid covering this case.

To bad the state's newspaper doesn't have the courage to look hard for the truth in this matter. That's cowardice in the face of the friendly. And, let's not have any explanations about equal coverage.

Often, the executive sports editor has to explain that the Courier gives almost the same number of inches, number of stories, and number of pictures to both UK and U of L.

But, 2,000 inches of harsh comment and negative-based reporting on one shouldn't be made up for with 2,000 inches of foot kissing and toe licking for the other.

Olsen has said he doesn't see Crum's admission of an infraction as cause to take away the coach's $1 million bonus. He's not qualified to talk about honesty.

Olsen was reprimanded, but allowed to keep his job, when he and other U of L athletics department employees kept money made from a Metro Conference tournament hosted by Louisville earlier this decade.

That could be classified as a felony in a court of law.

What should be done?

Bar Morton from U of L? Maybe. Or, keep U of L off TV for his four years at U of L, and keep them from post-season play. That way, Morton isn't kept from playing for the team.

Better yet, fire Crum.

He cheated. He gained from it. Call for his head, just as did both the Courier and Lexington Herald-Leader on a daily basis for almost a year in the case of UK's Eddie Sutton.

After all, Eddie said he didn't know what was going on, either.

Maybe Bozich's column this past weekend in a special basketball preview section, on how Crum, Kentucky's Rick Pitino, and Indiana University's paragon of virtue, Bob Knight, are making money hand over fist doing endorsements says a lot about Crum.

Bozich quoted one media pro as saying that Crum is a great actor, almost good enough to step in ahead of some pro doing commercials and other work now.

Maybe that's what it is about Crum that allows him to get away with whatever it is he wants.

Maybe he's being covered by people too dumb to see through his ability to act out his visions of his stories.

If that's true, then smarter reporters -- guys worthy of $35,000-45,000 a year -- should cover him.

If that's not true, but those who cover him on a regular basis know he's an actor, but fail to react to perceived cover ups, then that is conspiracy to defraud the public's right to know.

Whatever, the Courier's lack of effort in covering the deeper areas, the darker areas of U of L's program demand an outcry from the state's sports fans.

Crum has become so arrogant over the last 17 years at U of L, no one will take him to task.

Why should he worry about breaking a rule? Who would report him?

What's good for the school that was goosed by "ethics" ought to be good enough for the turkey about to be defathered by its own arrogance.

After all, Governor Wally The Weasel is more popular in most parts of Kentucky than is Denny The Crumb.

Yellow journalism used to stand for sensationalism. Overblown stories.

At the Courier, it now seems to stand for cowardice.

At best, it stands for stupidity.

Mt. Vernon had lost to Brodhead in the first round last Thursday, Livingston to Roundstone.

Livingston is easily the smallest team in the county this year, lacking both the size and numbers of the other three teams.

Small numbers have become a constant for the Blue Devils in recent years, since it is the smallest school in the county.

last years. Centre was 6-1, but lost its last two to finish at 6-3 and limped home without going to the playoffs. In 1986, Centre was 8-1, but finished second in the College Athletic Conference to Rose-Hulman of Indiana.

Rose-Hulman was part of the North Region. Centre was ranked third in the south, but could not go because the CAC hadn't requested a waiver for any team other than the conference champion to go to the playoffs. But, Saturday afternoon was something else.

Two Rockcastle County High grads played a part in the upset win. Starting defensive tackle Doug Cox, playing on a gimpy knee and ankle, went head up with Rhodes' Tim Kutas, listed at 6-4, 255.

Cox found his way to two unassisted tackles and four assists. He also came close to blocking a couple of punts.

But, he was held without a sack, and no tackles for losses. Still, Cox's defense could have had some help from the officials.

Rhodes was up 10-0, going deep into the last quarter.

A 15-yard taunting penalty against Centre set up an early touchdown.

Against Rhodes, he saw little action, but did wear No. 85 and play tight end on two early drives.

After the game-winning TD, he kicked off and made a smashing tackle at the Rhodes 28, which kept Rhodes from getting any field position for a possible last-second comeback.

Even without the playoff bid, Cox and Hamilton and the other Colonels can find solace in winning the school's first CAC title in four years.

Hamilton thought the team had a chance to be undefeated, too. In the Oterbein game, he explained that the game wasn't decided until Oterbein intercepted a pass after the Colonels had driven to the three yard line.

Hamilton was also on one of the craziest plays of the game, maybe the year in college football.

In the second quarter, Centre punted to Rhodes.

The receiver gathered under the Doug Cox (left) celebrated with fellow defensive linemen David Elder (65) and Jerry Purvis (72). They start for Centre, and held South Region No. 1 Rhodes to one touchdown, set up in part by taunting penalty, early in a game that was just enough to allow the Colonels to slip away with a last-minute win for the conference title.

Mike Hamilton, RCHS's other Centre contribution, again proved to be a man of all positions.

He'd played both tackles and center on offense several weeks ago in another game, and he kicked off.

Against Rhodes, he saw little action, but did wear No. 85 and play tight end on two early drives.

ball at about his own 45.

Just before he caught it, an official blew his whistle.

The ball was sailing right for the receiver, but was still ten feet in the air, about five feet over his head.

Sure enough, The Rhodes Lynx dropped the ball. In the wild melee that resulted in trying to recover the loose ball, Hamilton was stepped on.

"Yeah," he said. "I saw the ball, and dove for it. It got away, and when I reached for it again, someone stepped on my arm. It (the ball) rolled away."

After all of the confusion, the officials decided to replay the entire down.

also reach double figures. He had 12.

Roundstone rolled to a 12-0 start against Livingston, led by 20-2 at the end of a quarter, and won 51-19. Shane Thacker led all scorers in the game with 10, but Greg Bowman had nine, McCollum and Shawn Thacker eight each, and Kent Mullins six.

Jamie Medley led Livingston with six.

Brodhead is the only team to see action the rest of this week, and no one else plays again until next Tuesday, among the county's junior high programs.

The People of Rockcastle:

An Open Letter With Heartfelt Thanks and Appreciation.

A campaign for any office means lots of hard work and long hours. My campaign for District Judge was no exception, but as you can see, it wasn't all toil and sweat.

Overall it was an enjoyable and even satisfying experience. Meeting the people of Pulaski and Rockcastle counties was certainly informative and enlightening. I would hope these citizens feel the tempered satisfaction that I feel knowing that issues which needed discussion were raised and opinions and ideas were expressed.

I want to extend my heartfelt thanks to all those who helped with my campaign and of course to everyone throughout the district who supported me.

Finally, my sincere congratulations to Walter Maguire on his victory on November 7th.

Thank you,
Paul Henderson

Carloftis' cookbook is also guide to 240 country inns throughout North America

If dining in historic old country inns is your cup of tea, Lucille Bowling Carloftis has the perfect book for you. "Favorite Recipes from a Treasury of Country Inns and Lodges," her guidebook to 240 inns throughout North America, will be featured Nov. 4 at Buckeye Book Fair.

Among the many inns which Carloftis describes are Buckeye attractions including The Golden Lamb, The Cider Mill, The Blackfork Inn, The Heritage House, Welshfield Inn and The Loder House. The latter overlooks the Ohio River in historic Petersburg, Ky., but serves the Cincinnati area.

in her book is Mohonk Mountain House in New York, which is an eighth of a mile long and has seven stories of polished woodwork. It was built by twin Quaker school teachers at a retreat. Then there's the Abbey in Cape May, N.J., which served as the summer White House for several presidents.

Some of the recipes featured in the book are never before published, old family recipes handed down from generation to generation. Carloftis says that in addition to the recipes themselves, the book is meant "for those who simply enjoy sitting down to read."

HINTON GRADUATES

Airman Richard W. Hinton has graduated from the U.S. Air Force course for information systems specialist at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

Graduates of the course learned how to operate and maintain electronic data processing equipment, and earned credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force.

Hinton is the son of Danny W. and Carolyn S. Hinton of Livingston. The airman is a 1989 graduate of Rockcastle County High School, Mt. Vernon.

(Editor's Note: The following on Alicia Machal and Virginia Hunt's weddings were inadvertently omitted from the November 9 issue of the Signal.)

HUNT-DARST WEDDING

The mother of the groom chose a street length peach chiffon. At the round neck was an embroidery inset. Three-quarter length sleeves attached to a bodice which ended with a cummerbund attached to a pleated skirt. She chose white shoes to complete her look. She wore a corsage of two purple Cateleya Orchids.

MACHAL-HARMON WEDDING

The groom's bestman Steve Martin was attired in a black Pierre Cardin tuxedo with tails with a lavender bow tie and cummerbund, he wore a silk purple rose boutonniere.

Alicia Harmon and Virginia Hunt, the couple will reside in Mt. Vernon.

Deadline for next week's paper is noon Monday (Because of the Thanksgiving Holiday)

Mrs. Carloftis was recently the only non-Ohioan selected to present her book to the Buckeye Book Fair held in Wooster, Ohio, on Nov. 18th she will be at the Kentucky Book Fair in Frankfort at the Kentucky Dept. of Libraries and Archives.

Lucille Carloftis teaches reading at Livingston Elementary. The book can be purchased at Boone Tavern and area bookstores.

Carloftis' guide is divided into six United States regions, plus Canada. As a resident of Livingston, Ky., she has found many special places in the Bluegrass State, including the Boone Tavern Hotel in Berea, the Old Talbot Tavern in Bardonia, the Beaumont Inn at Harrodsburg and Dudley's Restaurant in Lexington, to name a few.

Says Carloftis, who is Elderhostel Professor at Sue Bennett College in London, "I decided to write the book because I enjoy unusual places. Most of these places are old, and I love old architecture. Also, I think it is nice that you get personal attention if you want it in the inns."

Her book contains both photographs and sketches of the featured inns, which are as diverse as their locations, from baronial mansions to rustic cabins and elegant inner-city hotels.

"Sweet and Sow" (Cont. from B8)

was enjoyed at a sidewalk cafe. East Lansing, Mich. is the home of Michigan State University where I visited with my grandson. It's a huge and beautiful university that would take days to cover. So I settle for an afternoon with Judy, Geoff and Deno just yakking.

Since the rain all through Ohio and Michigan had spoiled my search for color I decided to try another country and see how they treated their fall colors. This turned out to be the highlight of my trip. Really I was going across Canada to visit my friends Lainy and Jon Kay in Canton, N.Y. Canada Amtrak is the easiest and cheapest way to get there and by far the most interesting.

So while my car rested at Judy's she took me to Sarin, Canada just across from Port Huron, Mich. and put me on a train at 7 a.m. for N.Y. Eight hours away. That was one of the most interesting experiences I've had. They served breakfast immediately so with a full stomach and a good book I settled back in their comfortable lounge seats. That didn't last long. I began to get seat mates and the Canadian people surely must be the friendliest people on earth. They quickly found out I was from the states and welcomed me to Canada. Then conversation took over. Each seat mate I had was very knowledgeable about the U.S.A. They had questions to ask that surprised me. One that was asked at least two was how in the world did an actor get elected to the presidency by the people of such a great country as America. There was also good and bad comments about other political happenings. This was all said very friendly and showed me how much more knowledge they had of America than we do of Canada. One of them, an elderly lady from Nova Scotia mentioned President Bush's meeting with their prime minister concerning political problems. She felt this was a step forward from the last administrator.

She was such an interesting person and we had so much in common we exchanged addresses with promises of me sending her more information about "body recall" and she will send me material on the research of the damage aluminum foil is doing. This research is being done at one of their universities. She told me about her gardening in Nova Scotia and how she does it for winter use. Of course I had to tell her about my middle patch, that's what I call my garden now.

She also asked about Jimmy Carter. She was a great admirer of his and thought he got a dirty deal. Can you imagine a 76 year old woman knowing this much about our country when she has lived a life time in Nova Scotia. Look it up on your map.

The country side we were traveling through was beautiful. The train meandered through the country side and through the cities like Toronto. So we not only got to see the farm country and beautiful towns that road tourists see, we had a chance to see the back doors of their cities and towns. The place where one normally expects to see fish piled up. Well there was clutter but it was quite well managed. Of course it was not to compare with their landscapes.

After several hours of passing the beautiful lakes and finding out about the culture of the Canadians. I was met in Brockville, Canada by Lainy. She took me to her home by the scenic route. And I must say it was scenic. We drove for a stretch up the Hudson River and passed some of the exclusive homes bordering it. Then across the huge bridge into the U.S.A. Of all that beautiful wild expand of water it did not give me the thrill the Ohio River does when I cross it into Cincinnati.

My relationship with Lainy and Jon goes back away. During the war on poverty days, Lainy was a student worker in our county. She boarded her mare at our place.

Jon Kay, medical intern from New York hospital. Volunteered his service for health fair work. And we had the first health fair in Rockcastle County directed by Dr. Jon Kay. This health fair vehicle happened to be in our front yard with neighborhood people attending it when Lainy came bounding in to ride her mare. She and Jon met. The love bug bit. Now I'm a guest in their home.

While I was wandering the fields and woods on their farm looking for colorful trees and such. Lainy was riding or giving lessons on one of their herd of horses. There coral is full of some beauties. That is the first love of her life. I think. While I stared to the beaver pond and watched for one of their shiny little bodies to show, which they never did, she would be feeding and grooming her horses. The beaver pond was interesting. You could see the evidence of their work by the grey dead trees protruding from the surface of the block water.

There was still a bit of color left. Enough at least to have made a scene that could never be captured by a camera. The Aspen tree has very pale buttery colored leaves at this time of year. And I saw several of them scattered on a knoll above a stream of water meandering around a curve. Mixed with them and especially directly above them were northern pines with their stately look and very dark green needles showing like a fringe. Now directly below this and close to the water there were groups of thin birch trees almost like sprouts, the bark on these birch are stark white. Now I had a picture of a whole area that could only be captured by the human eye.

While Lainy attended on of her volunteer duties the two boys, Taylor and Tim took me to their grandmas, Mary Grossnickle, where they were to teach the lesson for the homemakers club that evening. I enjoyed that too. It was a lesson on folding paper to make ornaments. Three days go fast. Now I was on my way back to Flint. Another seat mate of extreme interest was my companion. She was a student at Toronto University and was majoring in elementary ed. You can only imagine all we had to talk about. She also knew much more about America's way of life than we do of Canada. She was lovely and sparkling with enthusiasm. It was she that informed me about the lunch program they have. It includes breakfast, lunch and supper if there is a need. It's all furnished by the school system. She said their research had proven that children who are well fed learn better and do better all through life. We also know that but do nothing about it. She also told me it is easier to get into a school of higher learning in Canada than it is in the states because they do not have athletic scholarships. Just scholarships for academics.

Her statement was, "we go to school to learn, not play." The writing of this sounds like she was harsh. No such thing, she was pretty, soft spoken, sparkling with enthusiasm and was bursting with friendliness. She was traveled in Kentucky and loves it.

Really if I had not been worn out from so much friendliness and participation in the exchange of cultural ideas from two countries I would like to go all the way to the west coast on that train, maybe a little later.

Back to Flint and my rested car was the way Judy and Geoff took me.

My car was rested and taring to get home. So here I am again right back in my corner.

ready to hang the animal for cooling or take it to the locker plant since it will help keep dirt off the carcass.

Tips for Preparation
Handle game with care when thawing and cooking. Venison has very little fat on the exterior and can easily be dried out too much. All meats should be thawed in the refrigerator and kept well-covered to prevent drying. If the age of the game is unknown, then it should be cooked by braising or other moist heat methods. Avoid broiling and roasting unless the game is young and tender.

When the hunters in your family provide game for the freezer, you may want to try these suggestions.

Food Safety
Good quality game in the freezer means care in the field before it reaches home and the freezer. Bacteria may cause a meat spoilage problem in the field, a food safety hazard in the kitchen, and it is wise to dress and chill the game as soon as possible.

Warm, freshly dressed game is an ideal place for salmonella and other bacteria responsible for food poisoning and spoilage to grow. Chilling the meat stops the growth. With small game, such as quail or doves, you can carry a cooler in the car and place the dressed birds in the cooler as soon as possible. When the weather is 35 degrees F, and below there is very little problem with the meat, unless driving long distances in hot vehicles.

Larger game such as venison present more problems in the field. It is essential to bleed and eviscerate the animal as soon as possible. Hair should be removed next to exposed flesh. Some hunters believe that it is best to leave the skin or until you get

Dr. Long to present research results at national reading conference

Dr. Shirley Long, assistant professor of education at Transylvania University, will present the results of a research project at the 1989-90 National Reading Conference in Austin, Texas, Nov. 28 through Dec. 2.

Dr. Long, who lives in the Wilhaila community of the county will be leading a discussion concerning the follow-up study on her dissertation entitled, "An Exploration of Imagery Reports During and After Reading: Imagery Modalities and Elements of Prior Knowledge," which was selected by the International Reading Association as one of the ten finalists in the 1986 "Dissertation of the Year" competition.

"I am now (in the follow-up) doing a qualitative study. I'm looking in depth at the findings of my dissertation and trying to find out more about imagery in reading and if it depends on a student's background," said Dr. Long.

"My theory is that mental imagery is an important part of a reader's interaction with information in the text using his background knowledge as he constructs a meaning from that," said Dr. Long.

By attending the conference Dr. Long will have the opportunity to confer with other professors and researchers in the field of reading.

"I will see what new things are being done on the cutting edge of research," said Dr. Long.

In 1988 Dr. Long was a contributing author to the Discover: Skills for Life series of elementary textbooks. Her work included writing student lessons dealing with imagery, lesson plans and teaching background information on imagery processes, and supplementary classroom materials.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY AUDITOR OF PUBLIC ACCOUNTS

BOB BABARGE

125 CAPITOL ANNEX FRANKFORT 40601

To the People of Kentucky
Honorable Wallace G. Wilkinson, Governor
Honorable Hubert Thacker, County Judge/Executive
Members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court

Independent Auditor's Report

We have audited the statements of receipts, disbursements, and excess fees of the County Clerk and Sheriff of Rockcastle County for the year ended December 31, 1988. These financial statements are the responsibility of the County Clerk and Sheriff. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted government auditing standards and the Audit Guide for County Fee Officials issued by the Auditor of Public Accounts, Commonwealth of Kentucky. These standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

We did not conduct a study and evaluation of internal accounting control as we concluded that the audit could be performed more efficiently by expanding substantive audit tests. Therefore, we placed very little reliance on the internal accounting control system.

As recommended by the State Local Finance Officer, pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 69.210, the accompanying financial statements are prepared on a cash basis. Consequently, certain revenues and the related assets are recognized when received rather than when earned, and certain expenses are recognized when paid rather than when a liability is incurred. Accordingly, the accompanying financial statements are not intended to present financial position and results of operations in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the receipts, disbursements, and excess fees of the County Clerk and Sheriff for the year ended December 31, 1988, in conformity with the cash accounting system described above.

We also conducted tests of compliance with state laws and regulations, and unless otherwise noted below, the tested items were in compliance with applicable state laws and regulations. During our examination, nothing came to our attention to cause us to believe that the untested items were not in compliance.

FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Our comments are intended to be constructive. The purpose of each is to point out areas for improvement. Accordingly, we offer the accompanying comments and recommendations:

Prior Year

In the prior year audit report, we reported several areas of noncompliance. Those that have not been corrected are commented on in the current year audit findings.

- 1) The Sheriff did not eliminate the $6,339 deficit in his official bank account.
- 2) The Sheriff did not pay 1986 excess fees of $7,907 to the county.
- 3) The Sheriff did not pay the Board of Education $1,108 of additional interest for 1985 and 1986 taxes.
- 4) An annual fee settlement was not filed with the fiscal court and published in a local newspaper.

Current Year

- 1) The Sheriff should eliminate the deficit in his official bank account.

Based on available records, there was a deficit of $8,211 in the Sheriff's official account at December 31, 1988. This resulted in failure to pay the following obligations and transferring interest from the county account to fee account.

1986 Excess Fees	$ 7,907
School Interest for 1985 and 1986 Taxes	1,108
1988 Excess Fees	2,001
Less: Funds Available	(2,895)
	$ 8,211

We recommend the Sheriff eliminate this deficit by using personal funds of $8,211 to help pay the above obligations.

- 2) The Sheriff should pay 1986 Excess Fees.

The 1986 fee audit report showed $7,907 in excess fees due the county. As of December 31, 1988, these excess fees remained unpaid. We recommend the fiscal court take action under KRS 64.820 to collect this money.

- 3) The Sheriff shall pay Board of Education Its Proper Share of Interest Earned On Investment Of School Taxes.

Pursuant to KRS 134.140(3), the Sheriff shall pay to the Board of Education the proper share of interest earned on investment of school tax collections. The Sheriff owes the Board of Education $1,108 for interest earned on 1985 and 1986 school tax collections. We recommend this payment be made promptly.

- 4) Annual Settlements Should Be Filed With The Fiscal Court And Published.

The Sheriff did not file an annual settlement with the fiscal court as required by KRS 134.310, or publish an annual settlement as required by KRS 424.220. We recommend in the future the annual settlement be filed with the fiscal court and published in a timely manner.

- 5) The Sheriff Should Pay 1988 Excess Fees.

The 1988 fee audit report showed $2,001 in excess fees due the county. As of June 30, 1988, these excess fees remained unpaid. We recommend the fiscal court take action under KRS 64.820 to collect this money.

We are confident the above findings and recommendations will be useful to the Sheriff in improving the operation of his office in a manner consistent with effective accounting and compliance controls.

As in prior years, we found the County Clerk's accounting procedures and compliance policies in good order. We wish to commend her for her effort and urge that similar efforts be made in the future.

Sincerely,
Bob Babarge

mailed to the school, probably next week.

The two sponsors say there were no major breakdowns in any part of the routine.

But, over the years, scoring has gotten very narrow. When they take off for such things as poor height on lifts, poor flips or cartwheels, out-of-synch movement, even to such details as poorly formed arms and legs in stunts and lifts.

Perkins said that one problem, not counted during the scoring, came when two girls were unable to do a series of back springs because two (of three) Indiana University male cheerleaders, used as spotters throughout the competition (to catch someone falling from a high mount or stunt) could not get out of the way during the routine.

Perkins, Gabbard and school officials are as well as just building to form plans to raise the money needed to make the trip.

Scholarship prizes await the winners in Orlando, as well as a chance to appear on television, spokesmen for UCA in Memphis said Monday. Johnson & Johnson's personal products division has about $32,000 in scholarship money available.

That money will be divided among squads and individuals among the top five squads in each of two varsity divisions, all-girl and co-ed squads.

The spokesmen also said that 75 teams competed in the all-girl varsity division last year, and that a similar number are expected again.

Squads are to arrive in Orlando on

Feb. 9, then compete in preliminaries on Saturday, Feb. 10.

The five finalists then compete for the national championships on Sunday, Feb. 11. It is then that filming is done for ESPN.

Monday, Feb. 12, all first two days are scheduled to spend the entire day at Disney World. The last two days, teams are free to tour Sea World before or after competition.

But, a variety of activities are scheduled so that "most hours of each day" are planned for each girl.

This is the 11th year that the finals will be on TV. ESPN has been doing them for about nine years.

Johnson & Johnson is in its eighth year as sponsor. The company pays expenses at the regional meets, and pay for the filming by ESPN as well as putting up the scholarship money. Dr. Ray to the Rescue: Orthopedic specialist Dr. Michael Ray, who runs the University of Kentucky's Sports Medicine Clinic, and who has helped keep Rocket football players going for the past several years, earned a hand for the cheerleaders' success.

Senior Sherry Jones had an automobile accident on US 150 last Wednesday, two days before the girls left for Bloomington.

She skidded on wet pavement and hit a tree on the side of the road.

Sherry was late getting to school, which worried Mrs. Perkins. When Sherry got there, she had some injuries. Perkins arranged to send her to see Dr. Ray.

Army Private Steven W. Howard has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and traditions.

He is the son of Otis and Mary Howard of Livingston.

Larissa Hayes

As a team, the three placed 18th out of 25 teams.

Here's how Hayes did in the five individual breed competitions:

- Ayrshires: 36th overall, 87 points.
- Brown Swiss: 20th overall, 87 points.

Guernseys: 48th overall, 118 points.

- Holsteins: 4th overall, 138 points.
- Jerseys: 48th overall, 132 points.

In scoring, she finished 36th in addition for her reasons for her points assignments, earning a total of 112 more points.

As a team, Kentucky finished 19th in both the Ayrshires and Brown Swiss judging, 22nd in Guernseys, 12th in Holsteins, and 15th in Jerseys. They were 16th in reasons.

Hayes has a chance to return next year, and compete at the "A" team level.

If she wins there, she could earn a trip to Europe as a reward, competing in an international championship.

Hayes said she finished third at the state fair, but went with the "B" squad to protect a chance on the "A" team.

Once winning at that level, an individual contestant can't compete the following year.

A total of 10 Kentuckians went to competitions in Madison, Wis., Hershey, Pa., and Louisville this year.

Hayes has become a frequent winner beyond the local level.

She has also participated in the state 4-H fashion revue contest, and the state 4-H demonstration contest. She's already been to Madison for the national competition based on her state record book contest performance.

She also competed in the 4-H Junior Guernsey Show at the state fair this year, and said, "It's the first time I'd been to that in a while."

Hayes has been a constant winner in county 4-H shows, and at local and district dairy shows.

She is the daughter of Henry and Rita Hayes, Mt. Vernon.

Leadership with a purpose

A Message from the Superintendent

Superintendent Bige Towery, Jr

1989-90 remains a year dedicated to instructional growth and improvement. All staff members have been responsive to this challenge. I am convinced that our teachers, our community, and our students all want to develop a quality educational program. We want our students to have the best we are capable of offering and to have them leave our schools with skills that equip them to achieve as they pursue their various aspirations. We must believe that all children can learn; we must respect every child; we must teach every child.

The administrators on my staff recognize the responsibility that we have to provide the leadership required to build effective schools and I believe we have accepted that challenge with enthusiasm and with a positive attitude.

Teachers remain the key to successful academic programs. Teachers must be free to teach; they must know that instructional time will be guarded and protected; they must know that their ideas will be heard and that they will help make decisions which govern their profession.

The community must know that its voice will be heard and that school personnel will be open and receptive to input and advice from parents and citizens.

All of the characteristics I have mentioned require effective leadership - leadership with a purpose. Our leadership team must work to inspire all members of the school community to work together in efforts to provide a quality educational program.

It has been said that successful school leaders have an "overarching vision" of the kind of schools they want to help create, and they formulate their daily activities and interactions with teachers, students and communities with that vision in mind. Communicating the purpose and mission of the school, through both words and actions, is one of the most important tasks of a school leader.

I believe that school leaders have tremendous impact on schools and that it very much matters what school leaders do. Our administrative staff has strong influence over what happens in schools and we must be dedicated to providing our children the very best.

We continue to ask for the support of parents and community. Our efforts are enhanced when you are interested and informed about school matters. It is important that all of us raise our expectation levels. We ask that you support our efforts to raise attendance and to improve our instructional program.

All of us must realize that today's children will have to be more skilled - and in different areas - in order to function in the work force (or even in society) in the 21st century. Do you realize that we are already educating the graduates of the 21st century? The second graders in our classrooms today will be the first graduates of the 21st century.

We are reminded that the skills today's students must master in order to successfully perform in the work force are different from the skills required for previous students. Students must now master skills in the areas of critical thinking/reasoning, problem solving, communication and technology.

In conclusion, let me say that we feel very serious about the theme of American Education Week.

Learning and Liberty: Our Roots, Our Future

At times we are discouraged by the criticisms and negative attitudes directed toward public education, but it is so important that we reestablish pride and confidence in our schools and realize that education has helped make America great and that there remains a strong relationship between Learning and Liberty.

Respectfully,

Instructional Growth

Dr. Steve Henderson and Kay Freeland lend a helping hand

By now almost everyone knows that Rockcastle County has declared school year 89-90 as the "year of instructional growth." A great deal of work and planning is being done to insure that this idea becomes reality.

On October 25th, the Associate Superintendent for Instruction, Dr. Stephen Henderson and Kay Freeland, who is also from the office of instruction, visited Rockcastle County. They came to help our system become aware of the need for a well-written and well-defined curriculum for our school system.

The meeting involved the principals and other members of Rockcastle County staff that are interested and who help supervise the implementation of the curriculum.

The people in attendance heard Dr. Henderson and Ms. Freeland stress that good schools and good instructional programs in those schools must have a goal they want to achieve and have a plan to help them achieve that goal.

We then heard the leaders talk about the need for effective curriculum guides. These guides will help our teachers consistently teach across the county the concepts and skills that our students need in order to be successful in our country.

The people who attended this meeting have decided that our county needs to clearly define what needs to be taught and help our teachers to successfully teach the students of Rockcastle County.

Dr. Steve Henderson talks with teachers and principals about good planning for instructional growth.

Basic Arts Committee busy planning

The Rockcastle County Basic Arts Committee has been busy planning an effective Basic Arts Curriculum. We have met several times and feel positive about our progress toward integrating the Basic Arts into our total curriculum.

Mr. Dennis Horn, coordinator for Basic Arts through Kentucky Alliance for Arts Education, and Mr. Lou DeLuca, unit director for Arts and Humanities, have been on hand each step of the way to give encouragement and support.

On October 26, 1989 Dr. Steve Kay, Executive Director of KCA-(Kentucky Citizens for the Arts) met with our committee and shared an Eight Step Guide for planning a Basic

Arts program. The committee will meet again in December to finalize specific plans for the appropriate grade divisions.

The Basic Arts Committee has been busy planning an effective Curriculum.

Dr. Peg Taylor has been big help to students/teachers

Rockcastle County Schools are very happy to have Dr. Peg Taylor coming to work with our teachers and students this school year.

Dr. Taylor is an instructor from the University of Kentucky where she teaches learning skills. Recently she has taken a leave from the university to work with Forward in the Fifth in the 5th Congressional District. On October 10, 11 and 12 and November 7, 8 and 9, Dr. Taylor visited all our schools and helped our teachers and students with a note taking system. Teachers were very receptive of the new ideas that were brought to us.

Dr. Taylor will again be in our system February 6, 7 and 8. She will be helping our students and teachers with speed reading, textbook reading skills and taking notes using information maps. Rockcastle County is very appreciative of all the assistance Forward in the Fifth is giving to our schools.

BOARD OF EDUCATION: The Rockcastle County Board of Education met in special session on September 19 to discuss the district's instructional programs. The Board is very supportive of instructional program development and has promoted effective utilization of instruction time for the 1989-90 school term. Central office supervisory staff made presentations to the Board at this meeting. Bige W. Towery, Jr., superintendent; George Poynter, chairman; Kenneth Adams, vice chairman; Clayton Cash, Earl Cummins, Debra Whitehead.
