Central are gone, with Pineville, Nicholas County and Mt. Olivet Deming added.

That Nicholas County-Deming combo is a January 5-6 overnight trip, the first since Bullock's been connected with the program.

That will spice up the season to some extent.

Lincoln County, two games with usually good Garrard County, and a home-and-home series with Estill County are other key games.

The Lady Rockets play three games against other 49th District foes.

They open the season hosting Oneida Baptist on Nov. 30, then meet with Jackson County at home on Jan. 25, and at Jackson County on Feb. 8.

The girls also have two games scheduled as the front half of boy-girl doubleheaders with Pineville.

The first comes on Dec. 18, the last game for 18 days and the last before the overnight trip. The second clash is Jan. 16, in Pineville.

They aren't tall. They aren't coming off a super year.

They haven't yet developed a deep tradition.

What will help the Lady Rockets win?

"We are a hard working team," said Bullock. "And, they are close knit. That helps a lot."

Four seniors -- Harper, Senters, Northern and Pigg -- have the opportunity to start "tradition."

This year.

Christian cage league begins play on Dec. 4

The Christian Athletic Fellowship Basketball League will begin play on Monday, Dec. 4., at 9:30 p.m.

Players planning to compete this year need to contact Bro. Eddie Hammond as soon as possible.

A fee of $20 will be charged to each player, and checks can be made out to First Christian Church, earmarked CAF.

January 15 is the deadline for adding names to each team's official roster.

Each team will practice where, and when it can.

The next practice for the host church, First Christian, is at 7 p.m., Monday, Nov. 27, at Mt. Vernon School.

mores William Bullens, Scott Parkey and Clark Mullins, and freshmen Scotty Bullens and Jason Kirby.

But, Perkins warns that no starting job is "safe" from a challenge.

Any player out there can win or lose a starting position, he explained.

"We're going to try to find the most consistent people, who will play as a team," he stressed. "It's not hard to find five individuals.

Waiting somewhere in the wings is the only player in the program over 6-2 right now.

That's skinny (only 169 pounds) 6-5 freshman Mike Steve Albright.

But, he's suffered a hip injury, and probably won't play at any level until at or close to Christmas.

"He's out three to six weeks," said the coach. "But, with his size, he could possibly help. He is practicing with the first group now, but there's a lot of work ahead."

There are 27 players in the program right now.

With anywhere from 10-12 figuring to help the varsity at some point this year, Perkins will have a lot of choices to make as the season progresses.

If the "flex" can add some punch to the offense, Perkins feels the team can begin to think about topping last year's mark.

Defense isn't so clear cut.

"We'll try anything that works," said the coach. "We will play a lot of "jump" defenses, and we do trap half-court out of a 1-2-2. The tandem defense is good until other teams catch on."

If there is a "key" for a successful 1989-90 season, Perkins says it is in thinking "BIG, because we are not big. We'll have to over-achieve. With our lack of size, we have to compensate with hustle and aggressiveness, and by playing smart."

Those good traits may help mask another potential problem.

"Even with our lack of size," explained Perkins, "we're not very fast."

The question for the moment: "Is it fast enough, big enough, smart enough, willing to hustle enough, and mentally tough enough to break into a winning record, and make an appearance in the regional tournament?"

The answer is due in March.

Mt. Vernon accepting donations for this season's Santa Claus

The City of Mt. Vernon will accept donations for anyone wishing to contribute to the 1989 Santa Claus.

Last year, the city made contact with various businesses and individuals who made donations through the contacts. No contacts will be made this year, said city clerk Kay Rader.

Santa Claus will work for about a month between Thanksgiving and Christmas, during the annual parade and at other functions, bringing gifts and joy to those in need.

'Trooper Teddy' available through KSP for kids injured in accidents

A gray-and-white teddy bear, "Trooper Teddy," is available through the Kentucky State Police as a Christmas gift this year, says London Post information officer Gil Acciaro.

The bear comes complete with a trooper's hat, and will be carried by patrolling officers in their cruisers.

They are specifically for children who have been injured or traumatized in traffic accidents, or seriously ill, or a victim of a crime.

The KSP offers the bears in hopes that the cuddly toy will help ease the pain of their problems, and provide warmth and security to the child.

Debra Lambert, Supreme Court justice's wife, begins law practice

Debra Hembree Lambert, a 1989 graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Law, has established her law practice in Mt. Vernon. Following law school graduation in May and successful completion of the Kentucky Bar Examination, Mrs. Lambert was sworn in as a member of the Kentucky Bar on November 3, 1989.

Commenting on her immediate plans, Mrs. Lambert said, "I am delighted to be able to practice law in Mt. Vernon. This is what I have worked for throughout law school and I am happy to have an opportunity to live and work here." Her law office is located in the Lambert Building on Church Street in Mt. Vernon.

For her law practice, she expressed a strong interest in family law, real estate, personal injury, business law and other areas of general law practice.

Mrs. Lambert is the wife of Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Lambert, and they have one child, Joseph Patrick Lambert, who is in Kindergarten at Mt. Vernon Elementary School.

Two killed in Friday night accident on I-75 at mile marker 82 on I-75.

Two Indianapolis, Ind., residents were killed last Friday night in a multiple vehicle accident on I-75 at mile marker 82. They were in the southbound lane.

Cecilia Bender, 19, and Michael Bender, 20, were killed when a motor home in which they were riding ran off the roadway, hit the embankment, and served back onto I-75 and into the path of a wrecker.

Four others in the motor home were injured. Judy Logsdon, 39, was treated and dismissed from Berea Hospital. Larry Logsdon, 38, was admitted to the University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center. Jennifer and Michael Logsdon, children of the Judy and Larry, were also treated and released from Berea Hospital.

Bobby Brothers, 46, of Lexington, the driver of the wrecker, was not injured.

That wreck caused a second wreck as a van swerved to avoid the motor home and wreck, and ran off the road and flipped over.

Jerry and Carol Hollon, both 31, of Beattyville, was admitted to Pattie A. Clay Hospital in Richmond. Jesse Hollon, 3, was treated and released, while Jerome Hollon, age 8 months, was not injured.

The accident backed up traffic for at least 12 miles at one point, and had to be redirected off I-75 onto other roads.

Some local residents reported needing four to six hours to reach homes in Rockcastle.

State's latest instant lottery game, Kentucky Cash, is available in stores

Kentucky Cash, a daily computerized game, is now available in Rockcastle County and the rest of the state.

It is available at Peg's Food Mart and the Convenient Food Mart on Richmond St.

A $1 ticket can win from $80 to $500. It is a "Pick 3" game, and joins the Lotto Kentucky contest, which began Oct. 28, as a computer game. Players can choose any three numbers from 0-9.

The daily numbers can be seen at 7:28 each day locally over WKYT-TV, Channel 27 in Lexington.

The three numbers selected can be placed in a six-way box wager which wins if the player's three numbers are drawn in any of six combinations. The odds of winning are six in 1,000.

A three-way box wager will pay $160 for a $1 ticket. The odds of winning are three in 1,000.

A straight wager wins if the three winning numbers are drawn in the order in which they were selected on the sheet. A winning $1 ticket then would pay $500. The odds are one in 1,000.

First day burley sales: $1.67

by Ray McClure

The long process of growing and preparing tobacco for the market came to an end for many country farmers this week as burley markets opened sales across the state Monday.

Growers are hopeful for a strong market because of a higher price support and an extending export business.

The 1989 price support for all grades averages $1.53 a pound. In 1988, the support was $1.50 a pound.

Harold Ballinger, county executive director of ASCS, said Rockcastle has a "good, usable crop," and he expects 75 to 85 percent of that crop to be sold before Christmas.

The Rockcastle quota for 1989 is 3,060,555 pounds with 3 percent allowed over that. Last year the quota was 2,500,000 pounds with county growers selling 2,471,711 pounds for an average of $1.63 a pound. The county has 1,712 farms on which tobacco is grown.

Growers are hoping this year for their crop to sell for $1.70 a pound, but some analysts say it will more likely be about $1.65 a pound, or thereabouts.

Even though the local burley crop grew fast and has less weight, Ballinger believes the crop will still bring a good price.

He added that the increased demand from foreign buyers for both processed cigarettes and raw burley will help boost tobacco generally.

Regardless, it is estimated that sales this year will be about $650 million for Kentucky growers and $890 million for all the burley belt.

According to Danny McKinney, executive secretary of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, the foreign market offers the brightest future for Kentucky tobacco growers.

He explained that his organization wanted changes in the support price this year to help sales of quality tobacco. The cooperative recommended lower support prices on mixed tobacco and lesser grades, and increased prices for top grades. Those adjustments were approved by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"We made major changes, more than in many other years," he stated. "We wanted growers to get more money for the best tobacco and discourage farmers from selling tobacco that is not usable and to stop mixing the crop into one grade since overseas buyers don't like mixed tobacco."

McKinney again stressed the potential for export of tobacco.

Cigarette exports were at a record

Monday Sales

Tobacco sales started off Monday with London leading the way in price per pound.

But the price did not reach the hoped for $1.70 a pound that some growers had expected.

At London, 640,434 pounds sold for $167.34 per 100 pounds.

At Danville, 648,725 pounds sold for $166.79 per 100 pounds.

At Somerset, 455,327 pounds were sold for $166.91 per 100 pounds.

At Lexington, 3,386,072 pounds sold for $166.56 per 100 pounds.

There was no report from Richmond.

Statewide, 16,981,708 pounds were sold Monday for $166.67 per 100 pounds.

ABC-TV here for news film

By: Jim Griesch

ABC-TV's Evening News has come to Rockcastle County, looking for answers to the problems facing education in America.

Producer David Guilbault, correspondent Bill Blakemore, cameraman Erik Prentnicks and soundman John Bryn spent last Friday asking questions of county educators, school kids, political leaders, judges and the man on the street.

What they filmed and what they heard will be part of the 6:30 p.m. news sometime next week, in a segment of "The American Agenda."

Guilbault and Blakemore have filmed people and schools in both California and Kentucky, and by Blakemore's own estimate "have physically been in at least 14 states," looking at how various communities are gearing up for the 21st century.

Kentucky's situation was an obvious one.

Both Guilbault and Blakemore talked about how special, how unique a situation Kentucky has found itself, given this past summer's state Supreme Court ruling which declared the whole educational system unconstitutional.

Rockcastle's "day" came at the end of a week's visit by the four in the Bluegrass State.

They talked to Gov. Wallace Wilk-

Cameraman Erik Prentnicks gets in close as Brandon Collins and Jimmy Phenis eat lunch at Livingston School last Friday. Prentnicks was one of four ABC-TV men in Rockcastle working on a story on education which is scheduled for next week in a segment of "The American Agenda" at the 6:30 p.m. news.

inson, state schools superintendent John Brock, and state House leader Eck Rouse, among others, getting an overview on what progress has been made in the court's mandate to the legislature to completely rebuild an equitable funding system for each school child in Kentucky.

Brock suggested they compare Rockcastle and Woodford counties.

Woodford is considered one of the "haves," a system that can -- and does -- provide its children with every known advantage.

Rockcastle was one of the original 66 districts that brought suit two years ago against the state educational system because those districts lacked the money to keep up with richer, or more progressive districts.

The ABC focus here was on a county that has specific plans for improvements, but one that needs financial help to do so.

The ABC quartet visited both Mt. Vernon and Livingston elementary schools.

They also read on some of the more isolated roads in the county, to

Gabbard lauds county's future

By: Richard Anderkin

"Let's make Rockcastle County a thriving showplace with a bright economic future," Ralph Gabbard, president of Renfro Valley Folks Inc., told about 300 who attended the Farmers-Business Banquet Friday night at Rockcastle County High school.

Gabbard who was the featured speaker at the banquet was there to especially discuss the future of Renfro Valley and its relation to the county.

Gabbard, who is from Rockcastle County, told his audience Renfro Valley is by far the most exciting thing he ever involved with.

"The potential is enormous for developing Kentucky's most prominent tourist attraction," he said. "But we must all work together to make this a reality."

He continued: "You know I've been a dreamer all of my life," he continued. "I believe with the good Lord's help, you can do anything you set your mind on achieving. Glenn Pennington, Warren Rosenthal and I have set our minds to building a first class family entertainment center at Renfro Valley."

Dear Editor,
With your permission I would like to thank the people who have donated money to the Negro Creek Cemetery Fund. Some have increased their donation, which is deeply appreciated.

To those who miss their name on the list for this year it is because I haven't received it yet. If you mailed it in, please check to see if the check has been cashed.

Our hope is to get enough money so in the future there will be an income to take care of the up-keep when we are all gone. A few dollars from each one who has relatives buried in the cemetery will take care of it. Remember it is our people and our cemetery.

All the help you can give is needed and appreciated.

Send contribution to Negro Creek Cemetery Fund, Lewis F. Bowling, 9666 Monroe Ave. Cincinnati, Ohio 45242.

Any money given before January 1, 1990 can be deducted on your income tax return as the fund is a tax exempt corporation.

Those contributing were: Jon Brock, $300; Ernest Brock, $200; Edgar Bowling, $100; Anonymous, $300; Virgie Spoonamore, $100; Allie Neal, $100; Oscar Neal, $100; Curtis Helton, $100; Matilda Profit, $50; Mary McKinney, $50; Dee and Mary Bussell, $50; Shirley Burton, $50; Viola Sebree, $40; Sude Profit, $25; Jewel Hampton, $25; Roscoe Webb, $25; Brown Profit, $20; Worth and Mary Brock family, $20; Johnny Bengge, $20; Daniel Brock, $10; Orbin Brock, $10; Austin Brock, $10; Sherman Brummett, $10 and Eta Mae Vanhook, $5.

Benjamin Franklin didn't like eagles. I can't remember his exact words but I recall reading an account that he made against the eagle becoming our national bird in which he described the raptor as a violent tempered predator that didn't have any respect for other life forms. Mr. Franklin lobbied long and hard to have the wild turkey named the national bird.

I am of the opinion that Mr. Franklin never laid eyes on an eagle, or at least that he never spent enough time watching one to really know what he was talking about. Because I spent most of the day last Saturday watching a pair of bald eagles along the river just below the dam at Lake Cumberland and I am more firmly convinced than ever that our founding fathers made a sound decision when they gave these majestic creatures such status.

I didn't drive all the way to Jamestown to watch eagles. In fact I didn't even know they were there. Brown and rainbow trout seem to bite better in cold weather and they thrive in the cold waters for several miles downstream below Wolfe Creek Dam. I convinced a couple of boys from the Teen Program I manage, a new friend just in from Oregon and a neighbor that we probably wouldn't be able to haul home all the fish we would catch if we made the trip which takes a bit over two hours from Palm Lick.

When we arrived at the river we discovered it in flood stage and actually up into the timber along its banks. It was probably twenty feet deeper than normal and several hundred yards wide. But we had stopped at a bait store and spent over fifty dollars on bait and tackle fit only for using in fishing for trout. Before the day was out we lost most of that bait and tackle to submerged trees but that's beside the point.

Shortly after getting settled in for our marathon worm drowning session, we noticed the eagles perched high in a tree overlooking the river on the opposite bank. Once in a while sunlight would gladden off their wings as they preened a crown that flew too close. But if they were angry or even annoyed at the attacking crows they didn't show it by fighting back and soon the crows lost interest. So did we for a couple of hours as we littered the river bottom with hooks, heavy leasers and pieces of fishing line.

Then one of the boys yelled that the eagles were flying. They swooped and glided up and down the river quick unperturbed at our presence. Often they flew within a hundred feet or closer to where we sat. Finally one of them folded its wings back and extended its talons to begin a graceful slow motion dive directly into the water. Its legs snapped into the water as it latched onto a fish just below the surface and it hung suspended as its wings flapped for several seconds. We could see the fish struggling to get away as the giant bird finally got it airborne and hauled it back to a perch.

I had seen this on television many times before and was convinced that special effects had been added to the camera work. But this was the real thing and I discovered that my heart was literally pounding inside my chest. I've spent a lot of my life in the woods and lakes of this country and weeks at a time in Canada. I've witnessed a red fox catching a rabbit and a bobcat catch a quail. I've seen beaver fell trees and been chased by an angry moose. But nothing that I've ever witnessed in nature has ever come close to stirring my emotions as watching the eagle catch that fish. My friend in Oregon wasn't too impressed with the eagles. He is a logger in the Pacific Northwest and he sees eagles all the time, but this is Kentucky folks. And the ranger says the eagle will be there until February. I'm going back with a camera and a telephoto lens. No fishing pole. The way my luck runs everybody else will be catching lots of trout and the eagles will just sit there. Or be in Oregon.

Time has changed many things in the last fifty years. When Mat and I moved to Buffalo, Cedarville it was called then, we had to cut a trail from highway 80 to our property on the ridge before we could get a truck in with our belongings in it.

Mat had already been in contact with the road administration and had been promised a road from Mt. Vernon to highway 80 by way of Buffalo, would be built in the near future.

Now we began in earnest to get that road. All we were asking for was a farm to market road. We didn't care who built it, county or state as long as it was a road so the people down here could get out by way of car or truck.

Now why didn't we think of adopting one? We believed a road had to be built with hard work and labor, and you had to be connected with the right political party. How naive can one be?

Now I learn that my very good friends and neighbors, Dean and Calvin Mize had adopted a road, just like that! The road they have adopted is the very one Mat and I worked so hard to get. Be good to it Calvin it took us eight months to thirty years to get it.

Seriously now, I hope every one in the county has read the article about Calvin Mize adopting a three mile stretch of road. In case you didn't read about it this is a way for people to participate in getting our roadways cleaned up without heavy cost.

Other states have been using this method to keep their main highways clean for some time now. I first noticed it in Texas. Signs along the road would announce, "The next 10 miles have been adopted by Jaycoos or the Rotary Club" or by one of the businesses of the city we just passed. There the roadways were quite clean.

When an organization, group of citizens or a family adopt a section of road it is an agreement with the road department to clean up and keep clean that particular section of road for a specified time.

One can do the job themselves or like Calvin and Dean have done and allow the youth or children in the community to participate. I want to take time right now to not only thank Calvin and Dean but thank Crystal Cromer, Nickie Cromer, Becky Dykes, Sarah Renner and Matthew Renner for doing such a good job cleaning up another person's litter. It's a pleasure now to drive the couple of miles down to 1956 on a litter free road. It's a joy to have neighbors like these. You kids are great too.

As I said at the beginning, this section of road they have adopted goes right through my property so I am getting the full benefits of the first adoptive road in Rockcastle. It is a part of the road it took 16 years to even get started.

Those 16 years were spent by us attending almost every fiscal court meeting to ask them for a road. Mat and Roscoe Norton attended every meeting they heard of in Frankfort or anywhere else that road officials or politicians who could influence road officials met, asking for this road to be built. Mat walked every step of the way from highway 80 to Mt. Vernon many times seeking the shortest and easiest way to get a road through the hills. He was a good surveyor and wanted to be ready to help in any way he could when the road engineers were ready to start.

While other farmers worked and saved their money Mat used his to attend road meetings and etc. or walked another trail for a possibly better route to Mt. Vernon.

Jubilee was at our house when the letter finally arrived in the early fifties asking him to meet the engineers at Mrs. Cooper's store. A part of his work had been in vain. These engineers didn't want a local resident telling them anything, much less where to build a road. So they followed mostly the old dirt roads or trails without Mat's many years of research and experience. They don't know what they missed. He was a good road builder.

Anyway, our road which is now 1249 but should be called the "Mat Graves" road was started in the early fifties. If my memory serves me right it was completed in the early 70's.

Once built past our house Mat was so proud of it he tried to keep all the trash that careless people tossed out, picked up. He constantly walked the road picking up pop bottles and trash. He knew some of the people dumping trash on our roadways but never approached them. Just cleaned up there mess and put it on our dump site.

His respect for a road made him want to keep it clean so people would

ABC crew had firm grasp of state's problem

By: Jim Griesch

Rockcastle schools superintendent Bige Towery probably spent more time with the four ABC News men last Friday than anyone else in the county.

He was with them almost continuously from about 7:30 a.m. until sometime after 8:30 p.m.

He was impressed with how firmly both producer David Guilbault and correspondent Bill Blakemore seemed to have picked up on what is really important to education in Kentucky.

"Blakemore kept stressing the uniqueness of (Kentucky's) opportunity to do something with improving, with reform," he said.

"I have a feeling it's going to be a trend throughout (the ABC report)," he added. "But, I don't think he's as sure as we would be on how that ruling has evolved since July."

Towery said, "(Blakemore) kept saying, 'Kentucky's in a position to be the model for the whole country.'" Towery said he thought Rockcastle was chosen by state superintendent Bill Brock for one of ABC's visits for a number of reasons.

For one, Brock knows Towery well, and the two have a healthy mutual respect for each other.

For another, Brock understands Rockcastle's position on many of the issues facing school reform over the next few years, because of that close working history with Towery.

And, Rockcastle was reasonably close from Frankfort, and Woodford County, the other county in which video tape was taken, making access easier.

"(Blakemore) came here to be able to visit a district that wants reform, but needs fiscal assistance to do it," Towery said.

Towery said he also thinks that most of the people ABC met here have a real sense of wanting to do something to improve the state of education in Kentucky.

"They got that here," said Towery. "[I] did sense that everyone seems to be interested in improving education in Kentucky. I think they had sensed that in Woodford and Rockcastle, both."

Towery also helped point out several places they could find some county people outside of the education community with whom to take a sample of public opinion.

In the afternoon, after checking the facilities at both Mt. Vernon and Livingston schools, the crew drove down KY 460, toward Lamer.

That particular stretch of road gets isolated in a hurry, and Towery thought that trip would give the four a sense of how isolated some of the children who attend Rockcastle schools really are.

At the same time, the road is easy enough to travel without getting off paved roads and onto the dirt and gravel roads that are the only way in and out of some residential areas.

Before anyone filmed anything more than school buses on the road, though, the four sat with Towery for about an hour, delving into what makes Rockcastle tick, and what Rockcastle needs.

Towery listed needs that have become familiar with most county people keeping an eye on education.

Towery told ABC that the state found, two years ago, about $13 million in facilities would be needed to bring the system up to par with some of the richer districts around the state.

The superintendent pointed out that all of the elementary need renovations or a new building.

He also said, "The high school opened in 1972, and the science lab is already outdated."

When asked what the district doesn't have, because of a lack of money, Towery said:

1. "We have a high percent of 'at risk' students," he said, or those who show signs of being more likely to drop out before earning a high school diploma for a number of factors.

"We need more support services, social workers, programs, guidance counselors..."

2. "Technology... We're very deficient in equipment and knowledge. Last year, we did implement a Kindergarten and first grade Writing to Read program."

"In less than one year, they (the children) have really turned on to the computer."

"We have to look for grants, for revenue. The money is just not there in Rockcastle County."

Guilbault asked Towery about parental involvement, saying that parents interest in school there seems to be a real key in getting things done.

Towery said, "It is difficult to get that kind of support here. But, we have PTAs or PTOs organized now, and we are trying to keep before the parents how important it is to get involved and stay involved."

When Towery was asked about such things as fine arts programs and other educational tools, he said he wanted those things.

"We want fine arts programs, music, arts, and enrichment," he told them. "We don't have many of them."

One aspect of reform that has confused the ABC men is the recent attention to the lowering of standards for students within poorer districts.

Towery said that stories about lowering standards have been confusing.

Guilbault and Blakemore both said it looks as if the state is willing to lower the standards of learning for students from disadvantaged districts.

The subject of teachers salaries also came up.

Towery quickly said, "That's a HAVE to be in Kentucky."

By that, Towery meant that higher salaries are a must if the state is to attract better qualified teachers in future years.

Blakemore hammered at a familiar theme, saying that rote memory education will have to become a thing of the past.

Rockcastle's needs will be seen nationally

By: Jim Griesch

Kentucky's unique situation has drawn the attention of the rest of the country.

ABC-TV visited the state last week to look at what has happened since the state Supreme Court issued a directive to the legislature to implement an equitable system of education in which every child in the state will get an equal opportunity to learn.

Apparently, such an ultimatum from a court to its own legislators has never happened before.

"What we are trying to do," said segment producer Dave Guilbault last Friday, "is talk about the whole nation. All across the nation, the way we fund education has been challenged by the courts."

He added, "Nowhere had more sweeping decisions than Kentucky. The whole system was ruled inequitable. We've met the governor, and certain members of the task force (on education). We've been to rich schools and poor schools, and we're intrigued that it is court-driven and not legislation-driven here in Kentucky."

"Here in Kentucky, we wanted to see what you don't have that the courts are talking about."

Rockcastle is the one system that ABC looked at that doesn't "have."

At Livingston, principal Jerry Mink answered questions about the age of the school, its size, and about the economic base, or lack of one, in the county.

All Mink could do was talk about how a majority of the county's work force travels to London, Somerset, Berea, Richmond, Danville or Lexington each working day.

"They commute to different places. There is no major employer here."

Because of the extended driving for good paying jobs, the schools here are saddled with an extra responsibility.

Transportation.

While every system in the state provides some sort of busing to and from homes at some point in the day, the number of children who HAVE to ride school buses increases.

Parents simply cannot take their children to school, or pick them up afterwards.

Mink pointed out that some of his students ride a bus as much as 22 miles a day.

"Transportation is the major concern," Mink told correspondent Bill Blakemore. "Parents depend on us to get them home in the afternoon."

Mink also told him, "Some students are in here by 8 a.m., and some of the kids have been on a bus one hour by then. It's almost a 10-hour day for them. They are on a bus at 7 a.m., and they don't get home until 4:30 or so."

Mink was also asked about the impact of the media on the population in Livingston.

Blakemore was thinking that TV and other media have simply made some citizens more aware of what is needed to succeed, to survive.

Mink noted after the interview session, "We didn't have TV 10 years ago in Livingston for a lot of people." Mink said he feels that "parents are more aware of what the needs are because they know they don't have those skills, and they want more for their children."

Mink was also asked questions about adult education and GEDs.

At Mt. Vernon, John Hale was posed several questions about on-going programs, and the needs those programs serve.

ABC got a close-up look at a Writing to Read class, a regular class, and the outmoded dining facility there.

One aspect of Mt. Vernon that amazed the ABC people was the positioning of many classrooms around the upper rim of the gymnasium, which is a pit in the floor, with classrooms actually facing out onto what is a balcony around the lower-level gym.

The noise that could interfere with listening and learning drew the attention of both camera and sound men.

Blakemore put it all into perspective in a discussion at noon.

"With American Agenda," he explained, "the idea is to develop a network perspective for our viewers."

He continued, "(Producer) David (Guilbault) and I pick up all kinds of stuff all over the country... everywhere, property tax funding is something we're aware of. It's the bottom line."

"America, in one sense, is a private school system because of property tax system because of property tax."

get an idea of how far kids have to travel to get to and from school.

They also interviewed state Supreme Court Justice Joe Lambert, in his office last Friday.

Several others were interviewed on the streets and in their businesses around the county.

At Mt. Vernon, the four actually shot film in Jerri Lynn Smith's first grade classroom, and in the Writing to Read computerized class.

They also interviewed principal John Hale, and were impressed with his grasp of the mathematics of the situation.

At Livingston, they interviewed seventh grade teacher Ken Abney, and shot at length in his classroom. His room had been a science lab, but now, most of the lab equipment is being used in the high school.

They also talked to principal Jerry Mink, asking about the problems of busing in kids from long distances, and why parents are more concerned about making sure their children get better educations than they did.

The ABC quartet also went to the annual businessmen-farmers dinner at the high school, and interviewed some others.

ABC sent an experienced crew

The ABC crew which visited Rockcastle County last week was not a bunch of rookies.

Producer David Guilbault has been in television since 1971, he said. He began producing shows and news in 1976, and was named a full time producer in 1978.

Correspondent Bill Blakemore, who will actually appear on-camera in the "American Agenda" segment next week, is a veteran newsmen who has only recently been assigned the "Agenda" beat.

Before that, he spent 20 years overseas, and was in Beirut for 10 years.

He was one of those covering Ayatollah Khomeini's capture of the 53 workers at the American embassy in Tehran in 1979.

He covered some of the 444-day imprisonment of those people from the streets and government offices of Tehran.

"It is obvious that the United States helped put Khomeini in power," he said when asked about those tumultuous days.

"We currently have sites on our property and good relationships with other property owners for land to build four motels. We have 80 additional acres committed for future growth which are independent of our own property. We visualize at least two major restaurants in addition to several smaller establishments.

"The current facilities have been in pretty bad repair. Our first priority is to resolve this by getting these buildings in first class shape. We've already begun some work on the motel. We will completely remodel the 13 little cottages. The current office building will be restored and turned into a first class tourist museum. The old barn show will remain the home of our Jamboree Show. All of the buildings will be insulated, sprinkled for fire protection and receive central heat and air conditioning. The Renfro Village Lodge Restaurant will be restored to its original look with a complete remodeling to accommodate seating for 350 people. A brand new state-of-the-art kitchen will be added to handle the best foods of the area.

"Mayor Gary Cromer and the entire leadership of the City of Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle County have been working hard to help us in every way including finding a way to handle the sewer problem. As soon as this is resolved, and we believe that it will be shortly, we will break ground for our new 1500 seat auditorium. It is our goal to have this innovative facility open next May which will also include a first-rate recording studio. Now keep in mind that we fully recognize the importance of keeping Renfro's tradition strong and healthy. We will keep this idea in mind in everything we do with both the look and the sound.

"We will soon begin construction on a 200-500 unit campground offering tourists a beautiful setting with electricity, water and sewer.

"There will be a functioning farm where tourists can see tobacco raised, cows milked, butter churned, and the wonderful values of farm life. There will also be petting animals for the children.

"And I am very happy to announce tonight that we have received the go ahead to construct Renfro Village which will be located on a quaint and beautiful street leading off U.S. 25 in front of the Lair homestead and leading back to the new auditorium. The village will have a city hall with a fire truck and a security office. An old fashioned water wheel grist mill with the aroma of fresh baked goodies inside. There will be lots of crafts being made in various stores including looms and quilting, wood carving, glass blowing, gunsmiths, candy making, candles, leather crafters, blacksmiths and much, much more.

"The village would also have a couple of pretty ponds with gold fish to feed, a small park with a gazebo for outdoor entertainment, a fully furnished Early American home, an Early American church, also fully furnished and hopefully a congregation conducting services on a regular basis. The Red Bud School House will be restored to its original 1800's condition. Renfro Village is going to be an exciting new addition to Renfro Valley.

"As you may know, in 1988 the Kentucky Legislature passed a resolution to have the "Kentucky Country Music Hall of Fame" located in Renfro Valley. This Hall of fame will be a 20,000 square foot facility with the latest audio and visual technology to honor those great pioneers and stars of Kentucky country music, both past and present. This project is in the very capable hands of Representative Danny Ford, who is also working hard to make Renfro a success.

"Currently we have an entire staff of "Imaginizers" at work designing a multi-million dollar crafts and music theme park to be located at Renfro. Mr. and Mrs. Rosenbalm, my wife and I have just returned from Atlanta where we spent four days attending the International Theme Park Convention. There were hundreds of exhibitors with everything you could ever imagine in a park. We truly learned a lot and got very excited about our project.

"We have also visited several theme parks such as Dollywood, Silver Dollar City and Opryland in order to develop some ideas. Our park will contain numerous crafts made by some of the best craftsmen in the area. Our music will be everywhere with several daily outdoor shows around the park. There will be a train, several rides and lots of water, but the main attraction will be the music and the crafts. Wonderful foods will be available throughout the park.

"We don't know just how big Renfro Valley will be, but we'll dream. Let me challenge Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle leadership to help us plan for the future by making sure we have good fire and police protection and good planning for future growth which is sure to happen. Let's make Rockcastle County a thriving showplace with a bright economic future. We need support from each one of you.

"I'd like to see each owner of a motel, a restaurant... any retail business insist that his or her employees greet tourists with smiles and great Kentucky hospitality. I'd like to see our school system develop a class to teach young people motel, restaurant, and tourist type work. We will exceed 400 full time employees and 400 part time when at full peak with our complex. We'll need teens and seniors in addition to the regular work force. If we dream and work hard all our dreams for Renfro will come true," he concluded.

Blakemore said that awareness is everywhere, and that lots of courts are making decisions on the inequities of funding in their own states.

In place, students will have to learn how to think through problems, putting a higher emphasis on learning to solve problems.

Science and math are both subject areas where teaching students the ability to think through tough problems is vital. Ironically, both science and math are subject areas with the greatest shortages in qualified teachers.

Students who learn these lessons best, apparently, will be the leaders in the America of tomorrow.

level in 1988, mostly going to Japan, Hong Kong, South Korea and Taiwan. Those countries buy about 80 percent of the annual American cigarette consumption, up from zero three years ago.

Some note has been made this year that some local crops have been damaged by "houseburn," a condition in which moisture causes rotting and resulting in less weight and less money for the grower.

Some companies, however, do not appear concerned about houseburn unless the stem has rotted which makes the tobacco hard to handle.

Generally speaking, warehouse owners say when selling is finally concluded the new price support should get the growers more money this year, plus the added overseas demand, and the overall shortage of burley.

A Danville warehouse owner said he was looking forward to having a good amrk and seeing the growers more satisfied than in the past.

California and Kentucky are being compared in the newscast because of similarities and differences.

In the 1970s, the people in California voted in an equalization measure, based on property taxes. It took effect 10 years ago.

It is still the only state with such legislation on the books.

"1990 is the year of Kentucky," he said. "Kentucky is being forced to do by its own Supreme Court what the whole country is being told to do by the president."

He added, "The country has had factory model education, but now, employers want people capable of thinking, even on the shop floor. Kentucky, for us, is a very exciting story."

"The United States knew he'd be unfriendly," he said, but added that American officials considered him the lesser of some evils, including Communist leaders.

"I don't think anyone thought he'd be as bad as he was," Blakemore said.

Besides Beirut, Blakemore also covered the world for ABC from London and Rome more recently.

Cameraman Erik Prenticks and John Bryn both hail from Minneapolis, and work as free lancers. Prenticks said he formerly worked for another network, and he said he's spent the last seven years working out of Washington, D.C.

To conclude valley's 50th anniversary

"Christmas in the Valley" begins Friday

Santa Claus will roll into Renfro Valley on horse drawn wagon Friday to kick-off of three-week-long "Christmas in the Valley" celebration that concludes the valley's 50th anniversary as a music center.

Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary R. Crook will throw the switch at 5:30 p.m. to light up the entire valley, including the official Christmas tree in front of the Renfro Valley office.

In addition to several large Christmas trees, all other trees and buildings in Renfro Valley will be strung with bright Christmas lights during the Christmas in the Valley Festival Nov. 24 through Dec. 17 which will also feature musical entertainment, crafts and special events.

The opening ceremonies will feature old-fashioned Christmas caroling by the Wildlife Christian Church Youth Choir. Soloist for the event will be Becky Harper of the Bible Baptist Church and valley performers.

Santa will pass out fruit and candy to children and will officially open his Renfro Valley Branch Workshop in the Renfro Valley Lodge where he will be available to talk to children all weekend and have his picture taken with children through Dec. 17.

Renfro is also sponsoring a Christmas tree decorating competition among local civic organizations. The clubs will decorate several trees around the complex in theme of an old fashion, 1930s Christmas with the winner announced at the opening ceremonies.

The opening ceremonies will be followed by the regular Friday night band parade in the Old Barn.

In addition to Santa's Workshop, the Renfro Valley Lodge will also feature a crafts village where local artisans and crafts people will have their wares for holiday sale. The craft and gift shops along Renfro Valley's Old Main Street will also be open for special Christmas hours during the festival, including a special open house throughout the day on Nov. 25, when special prizes will be given away.

There will also be demonstrations of saw wood carving throughout the festival and a living nativity scene on the Renfro Valley grounds.

A special afternoon show for kids featuring children's Christmas songs and storytelling will be held Saturday, Dec. 2. The show, at 3:30 p.m. in the Old Barn, will be free.

Campbell Soup Company is sponsoring the regular Renfro Valley Saturday Night Barn Dance on Dec. 9, with all proceeds from the show going to the Christian Appalachian Project to help with its programs in eastern Kentucky.

CAP is a nationally recognized private, interfaith charitable organization which provides wide ranging social, economic and spiritual services in the Appalachian area. Donations of canned food will also be accepted at the show for CAP's Christmas Food Basket Program.

Christmas in the Valley will conclude with a Christmas Gospelfest on Dec. 16 featuring several local gospel groups, including the New Government Quartet of Somerset, Gospel Troops of Richmond and Jubilee Echoes of Mt. Vernon. The show will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the Old Barn. A new Friday Night December

Charges dismissed against Pennington

All charges were dismissed last week against a Rockcastle County man who was indicted a year ago by a Pulaski County Grand Jury for cultivating and trafficking in marijuana.

Gary Allen Pennington, 37 of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon had been indicted last November after a Pulaski County Grand Jury heard testimony from Jeff Absher a Pulaski County Sheriff's deputy.

Absher had told the grand jury that 49 plants of marijuana were found growing on Pennington's land and

Tobacco stolen

John Harding of Disputanta will have less tobacco to take to market this year.

Thieves visited his barn early last Wednesday and took three bales of tobacco. They returned early Thursday and took three more.

Deputy sheriffs Ken Holt and Phillip Chesnut investigated.

Those visiting Bob and Clara Proctor this past weekend were Elizabeth Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. Derrell Proctor, Adam, Kyle and Steven, Louise, Billy and Suzanne Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Allen, Heather and Tanner, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Proctor, Jason and Mark. Suzanne had a special time all her own celebrating her sixth birthday Sunday. Derrell celebrated his birthday Saturday, so we've had a lot of fun.

Mrs. Lillian Collett was in Berea Sunday afternoon visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Rick and Charlotte Collett. They also had dinner and went shopping.

Mrs. Mae Doan returned home Monday from the Rockcastle County Hospital after several days illness. She is much improved for which we are thankful. She received good treatment from Dr. Guiterrez and staff.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Doan of Ohio visited their mother Mae at the hospital and Walter at the nursing home. They are both improving.

Mae Doan returned home from the hospital Monday.

Clara Proctor and daughter Elizabeth and Mrs. Derrell Proctor visited me a few minutes Sunday night. Sure was good to see Elizabeth and Darlene.

Frolic show will begin Dec. 1 in the Old Barn and run throughout the month, while the regular Saturday Night Barn Dance at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Barn and the Saturday Night Jamboree at 9:30 p.m. in the Red Barn will continue throughout the festival and the remainder of the winter.

But, last Wednesday Rockcastle Circuit Judge Dan Venters saw things a little differently. After Commonwealth's attorney Benny Ham presented his case, defense attorney Jerry Cox made a motion that the charges against Pennington be dismissed for lack of evidence. Venters agreed.

All charges against Pennington were dismissed by Venters.

Shooting accident

Paul W. Senters, 24, of Livingston, accidentally shot himself in the leg Saturday while walking in the woods, according to a report by State Police.

Trooper Craig Sutton reported Senters was walking with his brother when he fell and the pistol he was carrying accidentally discharged hitting him in the leg.

He was treated at Rockcastle Hospital and sent to UK Medical Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Henry of Ashville, N.C. visited Jay and Nellie Colson on their fifty second wedding anniversary Nov. 1. It was also their son David and Gayle's third anniversary. They all enjoyed a good dinner and visited together at Boone Tavern in Berea. Henry spent several days with the Colsons. We wish them many more happy anniversaries.

Mrs. Brenda Bradley and daughter Stephanie were Saturday afternoon visitors of my daughter Pat Truitt and mine.

Mrs. Ethylene Cass visited her sister Mrs. Elizabeth Haft at the home of her son, Billy and wife, Monday morning. She also says she is looking forward to her granddaughter Nancy Cass coming home for Thanksgiving. We wish Mr. Cass and Ethylene a happy Thanksgiving as he is in poor health and not able to be out very much.

Mrs. Josephine Burdette of Richmond, Ind. spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Bertie Taylor. Mrs. Taylor is up and around, outside some and says she is doing very well for which we are all thankful.

Mrs. Katie Doyle has been on the sick list and spent some time in Berea with her daughter and husband Rose and Charles Bullock.

Mrs. Alene Parrott was a visitor of Maggie and Audrey Fletcher Sunday.

Mrs. Katie Doyle visited her sister Mrs. Ella Roberts at the Sower Nursing Home Monday and reports her doing well.

Miss Dora Cox and Mae Jones spent some time in Louisville with their sister Jewell and husband Richie and did Christmas shopping while there. Jewell and Richie accompanied them home.

Recent visitors of Maggie and Audrey Fletcher were Mrs. Alene Parrott, Mrs. Clara Proctor and grandchildren and Mary McWhorter.

"Sweet and Sour" (From A3) not be distracted from driving by seeing ditches full of trash. He realized, as we all should that disease and mosquitoes and bugs thrive in cans and trash.

He also abhorred going into his beloved woods and finding trash left by a camper, hunters or timber cutters. He felt strongly that it was a crime against nature to leave plastic cups, plastic bags, tin cans and pop bottles in the woods. He usually carried a bag to pick up what he could easily carry out. We always felt like a thing needed to be done right the first time then it wouldn't have to be remedied. If cans aren't thrown out they don't have to be picked up.

If Matt were here I'm sure he would be working side by side with Calvin and Dean.

I'm not helping with the actual clean up but if I can spread the word and in that way inspire someone else to adopt a road in their area I will have helped.

Some day I would like to see all of 1249 adopted. Then all the county, then all the whole state. I dream on, but it could happen.

Adopt-a-Highway Contagious

The residents of the southern end of 1249 are excited and enthusiastic about cleaning up our highway. After the article about the Adopt-a-Highway program appeared in the Signal, other residents who shared the feeling of Calvin, Geraldine and Bill Mize were anxious to contribute their time and hard work to make our highway the "scenic beauty" it has the right to be.

Sherman and Anna Mize of Pongo have made application to adopt the next 2 miles of 1249 and their daughter Joanne and her family have applied to adopt from the 5 mile to the 8 mile marker.

There is a horrendous dump between the 7 and 8 mile marker which has been a source of contention to Joanne for some time now. She and her family specifically requested their area include this dump. We encourage other residents to give assistance, particularly in the clean up of the dump area.

One-half of the 16 mile highway has now been adopted. Come on residents of 1249, lets make our highway the most beautiful road in Rockcastle County.

Other concerned citizens or groups can adopt sections of a highway by contacting Douglas Gooch at the Dept. of Highway, Somerset, Ky. 678-8111.

Honor Rolls and Poet's Corner will appear in next week's Signal

Scaffold Cane Homecoming

They came on horseback, they came in horse and buggy and they also came in Cadillacs.

The occasion was the Scaffold Cane Homecoming and Old Fashioned Day. Visitors and everyone got a very friendly welcome from old friends. Bro. Damon Jones delivered a wonderful sermon. He had held a revival the previous week. Bro. Wayne Harding is the pastor of Scaffold Cane Baptist Church. There was much reminiscing and laughter as the group enjoyed the lunch eh ladies of the church had prepared. Most of those present had, at one time, attended the two-room school at Scaffold Cane and wherever our lives have taken them they said they would always consider Scaffold Cane as home to them.

55 alive. The drivers renewal course for people 50 years or older again was a success.

This is the second time the local chapter of AARP 3215 and the Rise and Shine Homemakers Club have sponsored the course. It has to be taken every three years to be effective on having our car insurance payments reduced.

It is taught by Arthur Buttery of the Corbin Club. He has been teaching it for years and makes a very interesting class out of it.

It is simply a reminder to us of the rules of the road and that we lose some of our skills as we age. We learn how to compensate for the partial loss of hearing and what to be brought up to date on any new rules and signs. It is a fun course with no tests of any kind. We watch films and listen to him lecture. It is well worth the $7.01 fee. This fee pays for our supplies. Mr. Buttery volunteers his time.

If any one in the county would like to get at least 15 people together who are 50 years or older we will be glad to set it up for you. We feel like there are 15 of us who took the course much better drivers at least morally.

Your Child's Health by Dr. John Payne

About 10% of children under a year of age have sleep problems consisting of difficulty in falling asleep and repeated waking episodes. Some children up to about age 4 years also have such troubles.

Over the past two years 146 children were referred to a sleep disorders clinic and underwent lots of tests. In 12% no cause could be found. For these children a special study was undertaken to see if eliminating milk from their diet might affect them. In 15 or 17 children the episodes of sleeplessness disappeared or was cut down greatly. Total sleep in 24 hours increased from 5.5 to 13 hours.

These children were then given cows milk back in their diet without the parents knowing whether they received it or a substitute. In all but one of these children the symptoms returned.

These results were dramatic. Does this mean that any child who cannot sleep should be put on a milk free diet? It should be remembered that this study represented only 12% of the children with sleep problems. For the others some cause was found such as an ear infection or other problem. The vast majority responded to treatment of the underlying problem or to behavior modification or change in sleep routines. Only the worst cases, for whom no cause could be found were included in the milk removal study.

Still, these facts provoke thought. If your child has a serious sleeping problem with not sleeping, see your doctor first, before you try an elimination diet.

Brodhead Tiger Pause

If there is truth in Sophocles' saying, "Knowledge must come through action..." then BES is on the road to educational growth. Our school is overflowing with educational activities.

Social Studies-Mrs. Sharon McKinney's sixth grade class has just finished a unit on the Middle Ages. As a culminating activity, they did report, made posters, and built a medieval castle using sugar cubes. The castle was complete with a moat, a dragon and plastic figures of Knights and horses in battle.

Speeches Many of our classes are preparing for participation in the 4-H Talk Meet and designing conservation posters for the Jim Claypool Poster Contest. Junior High Students are writing essays purporting water conservation.

Base Club sponsored a Harvest Food Collection recently. Mrs. Patsy Morgan's 4th grade class brought in 121 cans of food, Mrs. Margie Bishop's, 1st grade, 61 cans and Mrs. Pam Martin's 8th grade, 58 cans, over 500 cans of food were collected and distributed to local needy families before Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving was suitably observed by Mrs. Kelly Penco's students, Wednesday, when each wore pilgrim hats to lunch. They later attended a play entitled, Feast of Thanksgiving performed by Mrs. Regina Burton's third grade.

Field Trip-November 28th, our three second grade classes will go to Lexington to see Dinosaur Alive. Dinosaurs, a high interest subject to all children, as a part of our social studies curriculum, junior high teachers, Caroline Graves, Mary Cash, Katherine Bradley and Pam Martin, are planning a trip to see The Nutcracker at Arts Place in Lexington. Only students with good attendance will be invited.

Dramatic Literature is the current focus of seventh and eighth grade enrichment class. They will be presenting a 30-minute drama, "Welcome Home For the Holidays" soon. Performers are Shanna Stevens, Eric McKinney, J.D. Bussell, Jessica Todd, Rachel Trebello, Jamie Lovins, Chris Robbins and Angie Moore. The production of Haley the Enforcer introduced our students to Jesse Stuart. Some teachers and students are continuing the literary study of his life and works.

Science-Mrs. Bullock's 4th and 5th grade enjoyed a concert which enhanced their understanding of a science chapter about musical sounds. Mrs. Davis Wright, Mr. Junior Anglin and Mr. Greg Bullock demonstrated their accomplishments of the piano, bass guitar, banjo, harmonica and violin.

We are glad to hear good reports concerning Mrs. Sue Hamm, our assistant principal. She is home from a Louisville hospital after having leg surgery. Hurry back to school, Mrs. Hamm, we miss you!

Open House at Log Cabin Crafts in Renfro Valley
Everyone is cordially invited to our annual Christmas Open House at Log Cabin Crafts in Renfro Valley on Saturday, Nov. 25 from 10 a.m. until 7 p.m. Beautiful, useful handmade crafts in solid hardwoods - from quilt racks to peg shelves, towel holders to lamp stands, doll cradles to rockers - and many more will be featured. We have handmade dolls and teddy bears, quilts and Christmas decorations, knives of various descriptions as well as antiques and collectibles. Every item in the shop will be discounted 10%. An oak shaker shelf will be given away as a door prize and the grand prize winner will receive a quilt rack. Enjoy free coffee and snacks while you shop. See you Saturday!
*Respectfully,
Fay Mobley*

Public Notification of the Public of Possible Impact to an Important Land Resource
City of Livingston
The U.S. Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is considering a preapplication for financial assistance sponsored by the City of Livingston. SAI #KY881010-0879. The specific elements of this proposed action are the construction of approximately 29,000 feet of 6-inch water transmission main; 11,900 feet of 4 and 6-inch waterlines; a new 25,000 gallon water storage tank; and replacement of approximately 11,600 feet of 3, 4 and 6-inch waterlines within the City of Livingston.
If implemented, the proposed action would impact the floodplains of Rockcastle River and Roundstone Creek. The purpose of this notice is to inform the public of this possible result and to request comments concerning (1) the impacts of the proposed location on the floodplain, (2) alternative sites or actions that would avoid these impacts, and (3) methods that could be used to reduce these impacts.
The proposed action is available for review at the FmHA District Office, 1501-P South Main Street, London, Ky. 40341.
Any person interested in commenting on the proposed action may do so by sending such comments within thirty (30) days following the date of this publication to Ms. Mary Ann Barron, State Director, Farmers Home Administration, 333 Waller Avenue, Lexington, Kentucky 40504.

Two RCHS girls featured in series on Ky. education

By: Jim Griesch

Two Rockcastle County High students stay after school two and three times a week.

No, they aren't being punished. In fact, they are being recognized for their special efforts in studying Advanced Placement French as part of a series on students statewide who are involved in special or extra-effort educational curriculum.

The series is to be run by The Courier-Journal in Louisville. Angie Bussell and Angie McKinney are both taking what amounts to a fourth year of French under new-to-Rockcastle teacher Pam Powell.

Since they are the only two who wanted to take the fourth year in the language, school officials decided not to allow the class during the regular teaching day.

Instead, both girls and Powell agreed to the after-school class.

Both girls were in a third-year class in French last year. But, of the four who are now seniors, two decided to take other subjects. That left Bussell and McKinney out in the cold, as far as a class.

The two girls said of their teacher, "She should get the credit for working with us."

They called her an "educational motivator," and a "task master."

At present, the girls are working on a script of a radio show, written in French. They are into conversational French at their level, but McKinney isn't sure how conversational they really are.

She made the trip through France and into Italy and Switzerland last summer.

She said she found out that most French speaking people had trouble understanding her, and she them, unless they spoke very slowly to her.

Powell accepts the extra work required to help the two advance in their chosen second language.

She admits it is more work, preparing a lesson plan for them, staying late, and then traveling to and from her home in Richmond.

But, she also sees some good from the work.

She says the two Angies "can be pushed harder, to learn more." And, with just two students in class, they have a "closer relationship than (you'd find) in a normal classroom" with 20 or more students in it.

Powell calls it "taxing, but I'm trying to give them three times what I had in high school."

Why such a load? Powell wants, both Bussell and McKinney to try to "test out" of several hours in French when they enter college.

By "testing out," students are given credit for so many classes, so many hours, without having to take them.

There are more than one way to "test out."

Some colleges use a standardized test, some use their own.

Powell said that the standard tests have stages, from one to five.

"If you score a 3," she said, "most colleges give credit for nine to 15 hours of french. There are many possibilities."

The girls are pointing toward "testing out" in the spring. The test will include listening, speaking and writing French.

Actually, the girls have already sat in on a French 101 class at Berea College, and instantly recognized that they are far ahead of where that particular class was that day.

Powell said she's had one student who went for the test, and earned 12 hours upon entering the University of Kentucky.

Powell doesn't plan to let up on her two charges before the test. She plans to keep putting them through their paces. "They will have an assignment over Christmas break," she said.

But, Powell probably isn't any harder on the two girls than she is on Angie Bussell (left) and Angie McKinney (above) study French two or three days a week after school. They are the only two taking Advanced Placement French this year, and a full school hour could not be spent on a class for two. They volunteered to stay late, as did teacher Pam Powell (at right, preparing for a class). Because of that extra incentive, the three will be part of a special feature on extra-curricular studies statewide by The Courier-Journal in Louisville. The series is expected to be run in the near future.

She's at school by 7 a.m., most days. She teaches in three separate languages, English, French and Spanish. She's the only teacher in the school teaching in three separate subject areas.

Working with the girls is also her first experience with Advanced Placement studies, and calls it "rewarding but a lot of work."

She added, "We're using things I had years ago, but hadn't used before. It has refreshed my memory."

As for the radio script...

AG's office will audit election in county

By Ray McClure

Representatives from the office of the Kentucky Attorney General will be in Rockcastle County in the next two weeks to investigate voting in the past general election.

County Clerk Norma Houk said she knew at some point the state would get around to checking voting practices in Rockcastle, but until she received official notice she had no idea when it would be.

Rockcastle was not singled out for a check. All counties are put in a pool and drawn out. Several other counties will be included in this year's check.

A check with the clerk in Laurel County, which has had two voting investigations, shows the state representatives will check absentee ballots particularly to see if signatures on voting applications are the same as on registration cards.

Also to be checked will be the precinct sheriff's report. The precinct sheriff monitors voting in each precinct. The report notes any problems that may have occurred during voting hours, such as persons who may not have stayed 500 feet from the polls, or other indiscretions, that are contrary to state law.

Two of the representatives stayed in Laurel County on two mornings, the Laurel clerk reported. One other representative came later and stayed about an hour.

Mrs. Houk said she did not know what day they would be here at the courthouse.

"When they do, I will have all the necessary documents ready for them to examine," she stated.

She said she believed this past election was one of the quietest that she could remember.

"As far as I know, we didn't have anything go wrong," she said. "Not Boys find 8,000-year-old relic on trip...

By: Jim Griesch

Greg Bowman and Billy Fowler, two Roundstone eighth graders, found an arrowhead earlier this month that is believed to be about 8,000 years old.

"They found it while digging in an old Indian cave while on a school trip to Pine Mountain Settlement School. Fowler described the arrowhead as "about two-and-a-half inches long, an inch wide and about one-quarter to three-eighths inches thick."

"A woman (their guide) told us to dig around the edges of a cave and the cliff because nobody had dug there yet (from the RES groups on the trip)."

The cave was dug into the side of a gently sloping cliff, just under an overhang.

"We got it on the second scoop," said Bowman.

"It was almost on the surface, no more than six inches deep," said Fowler.

Their "find" came on the second day of the three-day trip, Thursday, Nov. 2.

The two found some bone and flint chips. Pine Mountain officials kept the arrowhead, which was in "mint condition said the boys, but allowed them to bring home the bone and flint chips.

James Smith, who was digging in another group, found another arrowhead almost as perfect as the first.

Smith said his arrowhead had the notch which would have fit into the end of an arrow or spear chipped off. His was of about the same age and value.

He said two other finds were made later that day.

The two separate arrowheads were found in the same cave, but in different areas.

Bowman and Fowler said they were digging into a shallow tunnel which went back toward the edge of the cliff.

Smith said he was digging in the bottom of the cave farther back, toward the rear.

He was with several others, and two others found a piece of clay, and had taken their find to the guide when Smith hit on his arrowhead.

Surprisingly, Bowman and Fowler found their arrowhead by breaking tradition at the camp.

They did not paint their faces in Indian style, as guides at Pine Mountain tell everyone to do.

... and RES principal plans to return

By: Jim Griesch

Roundstone principal Bill Jack Parsons is already planning to take the 1990-91 seventh grade to Pine Mountain Settlement next fall.

He liked the trip, and the experiences taught there, that much.

"We want to go back the first week of October next year, instead of the first week in November," he said.

"We want to go early because of the foliage that will be available."

He said the three days of 85 eligible junior high students spent at Pine Mountain were exciting, educational, and different.

Pine Mountain was originally a boarding grade school, then high school, then as a hospital before being turned into an environmental science center.

While there, students are exposed to five areas of study - Indian lore (which is where students dig for relics), land and water, early settlers (history), streams (where students caught crawdads and water dogs), plants (where students taste 'yellow roof') and trees.

But, outside of classes, which were designed to keep students as busy as possible, there was a sense of adventure.

"They made corn shuck dolls at night," Parsons said. "There was no TV, no cokes, no appliances. They even made wood shingles with a cross cut saw."

At the same time, everything was neatly coordinated.

"People sat in the same seat and at the same table all week," he said. "One table a day volunteered to clean all the tables and things like that. There was always a table ready to volunteer."

He said that the students even had an indoor camp fire the last night there.

Everyone slept in what amounts to a large dormitory.

The boys slept in one area, the girls in another, and adults in between.

Students were grouped into rooms of four to eight per room.

Parsons says he thinks his school's trip is the first one by any school from the county, and he is certain it is the first made by Roundstone.

"I would like to do it every year, if I can," he said.

The cost came to about $50 per student, he said, and area people and businesses donated a total of $3,100 for the trip.

He said that by reducing the number of students going to just the seventh grade will reduce the cost of the trip, but that he would like to send the seventh grade every year.

Pine Mountain Settle School is located in Bell County. It is open all during the school for school groups that want to sample its environmental sciences, natural approach to both history and archaeology.

The school also accepts non-school groups for tours and longer stays.

Roughing it, but having fun

Jason Smith, Mike and Bret Poynter (three in front, top picture) were among 61 Roundstone Elementary seventh and eighth graders who got to dig for arrowheads and other relics at Pine Mountain Settlement School earlier this month. Two others, Greg Bowman and Billy Fowler, found one estimated at 8,000-years-old. James Smith found another arrowhead, but with a chip in it. (At right) Bret Poynter takes a turn at chopping out wooden shingles in another class at Pine Mountain. Principal Bill Jack Parsons says he is already planning to take next year's seventh graders to Pine Mountain in early October, 1990.

MVES wins both girls tournaments

'A' squad wins wild match 57-48

By: Jim Griesch

Mt. Vernon won the girls "A" team tournament at Rockcastle High Monday night, and kept alive a two-year streak of not losing to another in-county team.

But, Brodhead came ever so close to ending the streak and winning the tournament for itself.

Although the final score was 57-48, Mt. Vernon, Brodhead led for about half the game, and was up 40-39, entering the final quarter.

Mt. Vernon didn't take the lead for good until the 4:59 mark of the final quarter.

That was when Hope Carmack took a looping pass from Becky Osborne and stuck in a two-foot shot in the lane. Mt. Vernon was up 41-40.

Twenty-seven seconds later, Osborne took a tip out during a rebound under the Brodhead basket, set sail for her own basket and drilled a running shot in the lane. Now, it was 43-40.

After a free throw by Brodhead's Tonya Callahan cut it to 45-41, Amy Robinson cut it to 45-43 on a steal and driving shot with 3:20 to go.

Osborne then became a hero. The seventh grader hit four straight foul shots on two trips and sandwiched around a pair of Cindy McCauley foul shots.

Osborne's first two came with 3:16 left, the second two at 2:38.

Each time, she expanded a two point lead to four.

Perhaps the play that finally broke open the game was a two-handed, blind, over the head desperation pass from Mt. Vernon's Tabatha Bell, who was trapped in backcourt, with the 10-second count winding down to zero.

She simply lobbed the ball, two handed, over her head, toward front court.

The ball was coming down about the top of the key when Brandy Chasteen bumped into a Brodhead defender backing up for the catch.

Chasteen's chin bumped the back of the Brodhead girl's head. When the Tiger grabbed her head, Chasteen grabbed the ball out of the air, turned and crushed down the lane for a gimme crisp shot.

The score came with 2:01 left, and gave Mt. Vernon an eight point lead at 53-45.

From there, the rest of the game belonged to Osborne.

With about 1:40 left, she stole the ball in front of the Brodhead bench, drove down the sidelines and around two defenders, up the baseline, and drilled a shot in the lane. It was 55-45.

With 13 seconds to go, she hit Bell with another lobbed pass into the lane. Two more points. It was 57-45.

A free throw by Brodhead's Robinson and a rebound basket cut it to 57-48 before the end of the game.

But, Brodhead had made it a thrilling game.

Mt. Vernon, which trailed the Tigers by six points in a regular season game a few weeks ago, led 10-4 in the first quarter.

The Tigers tied it at 10-10 at the end of the frame.

Brodhead went up 13-12, then by 17-12 on a steal and drive by McCauley, who led all scorers with 25 points.

She scored a total of seven in the quarter, leading her team to a 27-23 halftime lead.

Mt. Vernon retired the game at 27-41 on a Kristi Doan steal and basket at the 5:46 mark of the third quarter.

The two teams traded back and forth until McCauley hit three baskets in a row over a two-minute stretch late in the quarter.

It was 53-34. Mt. Vernon, when McCauley stole a pass and went in for a lay-up.

She recovered a loose ball on the left side, and drilled another shot.

Finally, with 24 seconds left in the quarter, she gave Brodhead its last three-point lead with two foul shots.

The Mt. Vernon "B" team Red Devils take what is the human equivalent to a trophy dash, as they charged across the floor to receive their championship trophy for winning the county-wide girls "B" team tournament last Friday night in their own gym. They beat Roundstone 36-19 for the title.

'B' team coasts past Roundstone

Mt. Vernon's "B" team captured the county-wide tournament at Mt. Vernon last Friday night, topping Roundstone 36-19 in the championship game.

Melinda Smith led all scorers in the title game, netting 13. She was followed by Melinda Alcorn with 10. Mt. Vernon jumped out early, and had a 13-2 lead at the end of the first five minute quarter. They stretched the margin to 17, at 21-4 at the half.

Roundstone never could close the gap from there, as Mt. Vernon continued to stretch the lead until it was 34-9 at the end of three periods.

Roundstone was able to close the margin to 15 with a 10-2 effort in the final frame.

Ginger Mink led Roundstone with nine points.

The tournament was sponsored by the Mt. Vernon Lions Club. The officials donated their pay checks to the club, which has a year-long effort toward treating the blind, or those with severe vision problems.

That's part of the state's Lions organization's long-going philanthropic endeavors.

In preliminary games last Tuesday, Mt. Vernon topped Brodhead 35-17 and Roundstone beat Livingston 30-22.

Brodhead wound up as the leading scorer in the entire tournament, notching 27 in two games.

Jamca Cummins had 19 in the two games for Roundstone, and teammate Mink had 16.

Amy Robinson of Brodhead also had 19.

Rosemary Parker of Livingston had 18.

In the consolation game, Brodhead edged Livingston 27-20, with a 10-6 run in the third quarter the key.

Brodhead had led only 13-10 at the half.

Jessica Albright had 12 points for the Tigers, leading all scorers. Parker had eight for Livingston, which got all 20 points from three players.

Amanda Collins and Teresa Brewer each scored six.

Robinson had nine to be Albright's chief support for Brodhead.

Mt. Vernon's "B" team finished its season with just one loss, at home to Lancaster. The young Lady Devils did not lose to another county team all fall.

Questions and answers for, from hunters

With 450,000 deer statewide, Kentucky offers hunters excellent opportunities to be successful. However, deer hunting regulations (designed to sustain a healthy herd as well as provide huntable numbers) have become a bit complicated.

Therefore, hunters need to read the current deer hunting guide booklet and be familiar with season guidelines.

Hunters automatically receive a copy of complete deer hunting information with their deer permit. Even so, it seems there are always a few questions that come up each year that need a little more clarification. Here are a few of them.

I'm confused about the hunter orange requirement. What is legal attire? This year, anyone hunting deer whose firearms are allowed must wear at least 500 total square inches of solid hunter orange color on the

Brodhead boys win at Paint Lick

Brodhead's boys won their second tournament title in a week on Friday, capturing the crown in the Paint Lick Invitational with a 45-19 win over Tyner.

Earlier in the week, the boys had won the county's pre-season tourney at Rockcastle County High.

Leading the way for the Tigers was Michael Shaffer with 12, followed by Jason Scoggins with 10. They both made the all-tournament team, as did forward John Kirk. Kirk had eight points in the title game.

Brodhead jumped out to a 17-4 lead after only one quarter, and advanced the margin to 19, at 25-6, at the half.

From there, Brodhead cruised to a 13-6 cushion in the third quarter alone, and led 38-12 after 18 minutes of play.

Putting Holes in Sand Gap
 Brodhead 5 13 15 19 - 52
 Sand Gap 7 4 7 19 - 37

Brodhead: J.D. Bussell 4, Michael Shaffer 9, Jason Scoggins 10, Aaron Cox 2, John Kirk 9, Shannon York 2, Freddie Pruitt 10, Chris Albright 2.

Sand Gap: T. Morris 4, G. Lunstford 13, A. Sowder 3, T. Harrison 14, J. Bales 3.

In the first round game on Wednesday, Brodhead smothered Sand Gap 52-37, after falling behind 7-5 in a ragged first quarter.

A 13-4 run over the length of the second period put the Tigers up 18-11, and a 15-7 push in the third quarter tipped the margin to 33-18 after three periods.

Scoggins had 14, Shaffer and Kirk 9. But, Freddie Pruitt came off the bench to score 10 points, providing some momentum for the win.

After two Sand Gap players pooled 27 of their team's 37 in the opener, no Tyner player got into double figures against Brodhead in the finals.

Daniel Lake got seven to lead Tyner.

After the first week of play, Gary Scott's team was 4-0, with two tourney trophies to show for their work.

Basketball featured in section

A special section in this week's edition of the Signal features a look at the prospects for both the Rockcastle County Rockets and Lady Rockets, plus an overall look at the 49th District and 13th Region.

You'll also find pictures of both teams, pictures of both cheerleading squads, and pictures of all of the junior high basketball teams and cheerleading squads from the four elementary schools -- Brodhead, Livingston, Mt. Vernon and Roundstone.

The girls' junior high season ends Monday, but the boys are just now beginning their playing year.

Trophy time for Rockcastle's deer hunters

Dennis Chaney (top) killed what he thinks is a state reBrd doe for weight (157 1/2 lb.) in a field in southern Rockcastle County. The weight is field dressed, and he killed the 8-pt. doe with a 357 magnum pistol. Brent Boone (left) of Brodhead killed this 10-pt. buck on Xmas Creek in Pulaski County.

See the next page for more pictures of deer kills by county hunters.

Tony Mahaffey (top) of Green Hill, killed this 7-pt. buck last Friday in Jackson County. Johnny Loudermilk (right) got this 4-pt. buck on Nov. 18 in the Cut Gap section of Rockcastle County.

Donnie Robbins of Mt. Vernon got a 12-pt. buck in Rockcastle on Nov. 17. The picture is not of print quality.

Chris Bishop of Brodhead killed this 204-lb., 9-pt. buck in Lincoln last Thursday. The weight is field dressed.

Questions

head, chest and back. A two-foot square panel of solid hunter orange color worn on the front of the upper body and on the back, in addition to a hat or cap satisfies the requirement. If your hunting jacket or vest has only portions of the required color, make sure the solid orange meets this definition.

Requiring solid hunter orange means camouflage hunter orange is illegal. The idea behind wearing the brilliant, easily-identified color is to identify the human body, to set it apart from anything else in the woods. The design on orange camouflage tends to break the body's outline, making the wearer more difficult to distinguish by other hunters.

In reference to poaching, what's being done about a new spotlighting law? "Poaching" means taking game illegally, and "spotlighting" is a practice deer poachers use to take deer at night. Spotlighting involves shining the rays of a bright light in the eyes of deer which temporarily blinds and disorients the animals, making deer easier to take. Currently, there is no law prohibiting spotlighting except that hunting deer at night is illegal.

A "no-shine" bill has been drafted for consideration during the next state legislative session, which, if passed into law, will make it illegal to shine any artificial light into an area where wildlife or domestic livestock may reasonably be expected to be. Normal landowner activities, roadway traffic and law enforcement activities would be excluded.

How do personnel not required to have a deer permit shoot that their deer was legally taken before the deer is checked in? Kentucky resident landowners and resident hunters age 65 or over are not required to purchase a deer permit. However, hunters who are license exempt must attach a piece of paper containing their name, address, date taken and location to the deer before moving the carcass. Then the deer must be checked in at the nearest official check station or by a state conservation officer.

How do I retrieve my deer from another's property? First, you must have permission from the landowner before entering any privately owned land. This also holds true when hunters need to retrieve their deer from any privately owned land. If you can't find the owner, seek assistance from the nearest conservation officer.

Remember that the landowner may not grant permission, and the owner has the legal right to keep the deer. When will the 1990 season be? Traditionally, Kentucky's 10-day gun deer season opens in most zones on the second Saturday in November, a good guideline to remember for those who take vacations to coincide with deer season.

TURKEY SHOOT

The annual turkey shoot, sponsored by Field & Stream Magazine, will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday on U.S. 25 at Calloway, according to Jerry Mink.

The event is a national shoot and prizes will be awarded by drawing. There is a $1 shot charge.

Underage shooters must be accompanied or have the permission or their parents to participate. No drinking will be allowed on the premises.

Kentucky's waterfowl

Kentucky waterfowl hunters can expect goose populations to remain high this season, but fewer ducks than last year.

Large numbers of giant Canada geese are expected to travel southward along the Mississippi Flyway this season, providing hunters ample opportunities to be successful.

Duck numbers, however, continue to suffer from loss of habitat in their northern breeding grounds where several successive years of drought were experienced in the '80s. Although some areas produced more ducks last spring, overall, duck numbers are down this year.

In light of the fact that the nation's duck populations are struggling to make a comeback, hunters are reminded to respect and obey all waterfowl regulations.

Kentucky waterfowl hunters will have the opportunity to harvest ducks during the Thanksgiving holidays with the first segment of the statewide duck season slated for November 23-26.

The second phase of duck season runs December 13 through January 7, 1990.

Hunting for all goose species also opens Nov. 23 in the Eastern Zone and continues through January 31.

Amy Robinson had 10 in the finals, 27 in the tourney. She is a fifth grader, and has three more years of junior high ball left.

In fact, Brodhead loses only McCauley from this year's team. Mt. Vernon loses Bell, Doan, Carmack and Kim Kirby.

In the consolation, Roundstone downed Livingston 24-16 as Jeannie Proctor scored 14. Rosemary Parker had 10 for Livingston.

In first round games late last week, Mt. Vernon topped Livingston 36-14 as Bell had 13, and Brodhead stopped Roundstone 46-34 as Robinson had 17, Proctor 10 for the Eagles. Proctor wound up with 24 points in the tournament.

The boys said they were told that only people who paint their faces find things.

Dowman and Fowler said they were the only two in their group not to paint their faces.

The two boys said they were told that skulls and other bones were found in the cave as early as 1914.

The three-day trip was set up by Roundstone principal Bill Jack Parsons for both the seventh and eighth grades.

Both Fowler and Dowman said each group climbs a 2,750-foot high mountain, which is a three-and-a-half hour trip up and down. "We climbed up in 55 minutes," Fowler said. "We were told we were the fastest to climb it."

even a breakdown of voting machines. She said she did not know if there were poll watchers from the state in the county during the election.

"They could have been here and no one would have known it," she related. "You can't always tell if there are any around. They don't tell you."

Making Fabric Gifts for the Holidays by Cheryl Witt

Finding just the right holiday gift for that special someone can sometimes be frustrating. Often you know what you want, but you just can't seem to find it. Tap into your own creative energies to make a gift that expresses how much you care.

Making fabric gifts is a fun, rewarding experience. You can personalize each gift to suit the recipient's needs, personality and taste. Some gift projects require simple sewing skills, but many can be completed using fusible webbing, glue or a staple gun. Browse through the extension publication Fabric Gifts for All Occasions as well as commercial magazines for ideas. Select projects that fit your time and skill limitations.

One easy gift idea that's sure to be appreciated are embellished bath and hand towels designed to coordinate with the recipient's bathroom colors. In stores, embellished towels can be very expensive and you may not be able to customize colors like you can if you make them yourself.

To do so, select towels and machine washable trims (decorative braid, lace, ribbon, appliques) to match or complement the window curtains, shower curtain or other decorative features in the bathroom. Pin the trims along one or both ends of the towel, folding under one-half inch at each end. Topstitch or use a small zigzag stitch around all edges. Do not stretch the towels or trims while you are sewing.

Other easy-to-make gift ideas: covered storage boxes, place mats and napkins, folding chair covers, table cloths and table runners, shoe bags and lingerie bags, hot pads and oven gloves, or aromatic herb bags.

Turkey Roasting Guide

Thawing a Turkey
Refrigerator thawing: Place the frozen bird in its original wrap on a tray. Refrigerate 3 to 4 days (24 hours for each 5 lbs.).

Cold-water thawing: Place the frozen turkey in its original wrap in a sink filled with cold water. Change water every 30 minutes. Allow 30 minutes thawing time for each pound of turkey.

Two girls

She expects both groups of students to get something from both parts of the trip, but the French students should appreciate New Orleans more, and San Antonio should present on-the-spot learning for the Spanish students.

"It is tentatively set up as a seven-day, six-night trip in early June.

"I'm learning, too. We're learning together.

Powell has already put together a preliminary plan for an annual trip, something she inherited from the previous languages teacher.

The trip to France last year was a treat.

This year, Powell will arrange a trip to both New Orleans and San Antonio, which will accommodate both her French and Spanish students.

Before roasting

After thawing: Unwrap, free legs and tail, then remove giblets and neck pieces from the cavity. Thoroughly rinse turkey; pat dry. Don't stuff bird until you cook it.

Roasting directions

To prepare turkey for roasting, place bird, breast side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Brush with oil.

Winter Hair Care

by Paula Sexton

Once again, fall is nearing its end and winter is approaching us. As temperatures rise and fall and seasons change, so does your hair. It can become limp and lifeless if not treated correctly. Hair needs protection from the cold air to stay healthy, shiny and beautiful. Partly time is upon us and no one wants a case of winter hair blues.

Winter wind and cold air have a draining effect on your hair as do rising thermostats. Rising thermostats drain hair of moisture. Dry indoor heat takes away hair's natural oils which create moisture and add luster. Try using a shampoo that gently cleans and moisturizes at the same time. It provides clean hair without stripping natural oils that are produced from the scalp.

Using a humidifier in your home or office will add moisture to the air. Your hair will be able to absorb that moisture. Also, try using an intensive conditioning treatment that penetrates the hair. Both these will help to protect your hair.

Static electricity really runs through dry hair in the winter. This makes styling difficult. While hair comes alive, static can still be tamed.

Mist your hair and brush with a light hair spray before styling. This will help combat static that builds up in air. Use a mouse that is alcohol free. A product that contains alcohol absorbs moisture.

Conditioners can be a plus in controlling static. A leave-in conditioner is a good choice. This treatment doesn't weigh the hair down and adds lasting moisture.

Holiday hair should be quick and easy. Turn an office style into an evening with a sleek pulled back look. Achieve this using an alcohol free styling gel.

Remember, as the temperatures get colder, don't forget to moisturize.

ing oil. Insert meat thermometer in center of inside thigh muscle, so the bulb does not touch a bone.

Open roasting pan: Prepare as directed. Cover turkey loosely with foil "cap" that barely touches bird. Press foil lightly at ends of drumsticks and neck. Roast in 325 degree oven. Baste occasionally with foil to prevent overbrowning. Roast until thermometer inserted in breast muscle registers 170 degrees (do not overcook). Let turkey stand 10 minutes.

Banking class being offered at BMV

The Off-Campus Program of Somerset Community College will offer BE 171-82, Principles of Bank Operations for the Spring semester. The class, taught by Charles "Kip" Burdine, will meet on Wednesdays from 5 until 7:30 p.m. at the Bank of Mt. Vernon.

Registration will be held the first night of class; however to ensure a slot in the class, it is suggested that you register during regular registration on the campus of Somerset Community College.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

Does a child of God need to assemble with the saints to worship God? Can an individual just stay home and worship God? Can an individual just go out in the woods somewhere and worship God in an acceptable way? Does God require us to "go to church" to be pleasing to Him? The answer to all these questions is Yes!

Yes, an individual can worship God in the woods or at home by himself. Jms. 5:16 "Is any among you afflicted? Let him pray. Is any merry? Let him sing psalms." A child of God can and should pray alone to the God of Heaven. The individual will also sing God's praise even when no one else is around because such a one loves God. An individual will study and meditate upon the word of God and feed his soul. II Tim. 2:15, I Pet. 2:2. Personal piety and worship can and should be a part of a Christian's service unto God.

Yes, and God requires us to assemble with other Christians to worship him. Heb. 10:25 "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is, but exhorting one another and so much the more as ye see the day approaching." Some made a "custom" ASY of not assembling together, but the writer reproves them for such action. People need to make a "custom" or "habit" of assembling with God's people to worship the Lord. The Corinthians gathered into one place for worship. "When ye come together therefore into one place, this is not to eat the Lord's supper." II Cor. 11:20. God has ordained that his people assemble together for worship. If the Lord's Supper is to be eaten (not to satisfy hunger I Cor. 11:34) when we assemble together, God has ordained that we give when we assemble. I Cor. 16:1-2. Teaching one another in spiritual songs requires us to assemble; Eph. 5:19, Col. 3:16. The church in AC 4:23-31 had assembled together and prayed. Paul preached to the disciples who had assembled in Ac. 20:7. Thus we see that God has shown us in the Bible that we must assemble together to worship the Lord. Now certainly someone who is not physically able to assemble is not responsible; for responsibility comes from one's ability plus opportunity. Don't be deceived into thinking I can just stay at home and worship God when I have the ability and the opportunity to assemble together with God's people to worship. We will give an account of our deeds.

Specialized care for women

A new alternative

Excessive (menstrual) bleeding, the reason for over 30% of hysterectomies, can now be treated with a procedure called endometrial ablation.

Beyond the emotional distress of a hysterectomy, the risks of complications and infection are significant. Endometrial ablation, a fairly uncomplicated, minor operation is usually performed under light anesthetic and requires no incision. Using a YAG laser, the uterine lining is destroyed, eliminating the source of the bleeding (and the possibility of pregnancy).

At the Women's Health Care Center, we believe women should have access to the latest technology and treatments. And, we're committed to providing compassionate care that meets the needs of the whole person.

Ladies Aid
By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

Ladies Aid Missionary Society's hostess Loraine Newland hosted the meeting Nov. 14 at Dix Point Restaurant. Eleven members braved the rain. They were welcomed by Sherry McClure, a new member.

Emily Glovak gave an excellent lesson, "Patience", reading Ps. 23 and Romans 8:28. She told us that God is able to work through whatever comes into our lives for our own good according to His purpose. Patience is hard to keep. We sometimes put our hand to the plow, but look back.

After Marjorie Shivel read a monthly letter about Sowder Nursing Home, nine birthday cards were passed around for all members to sign. Ella Mae Martin showed us the Thanksgiving card she was putting on each tray on Thanksgiving Day, for each patient in the home. The Baptist Church invited us to hear their Christmas Cantata, directed by Margie Wilcox, Dec. 17 or Dec. 21st.

Nellie Colson asked if anyone had anything to add to the Disker's box that she was mailing to missionaries we help support. Give to her at once. Elizabeth Mullins made a motion and it was seconded for our missionary group to donate $10 every two weeks, to clean Evelyn Walden's Castle Village apartment.

Barbara Watson reported that Steve Ritter, Eugene McBe, Mike

Everyone present wrote a short note to send the Diskens.
Nita Ritter gave the blessing before we partook of the delicious refreshments for Loraine Newland, our hostess, before adjournment at 9 p.m.
On Dec. 19th each lady will take a dish to go with turkey and dressing that hostess Marjorie Shivel prepares. Secret Pals will be revealed with opening of their Christmas gift. Ella Mae will present the lesson.

The fight to the state tournaments begins at home, in the 49th District

By: Jim Griesch

Basketball, a sport that has at times been likened to a religion in Kentucky, or at least a magic time in a Magic Kingdom, is about to begin.

Locally, two teams that are trying to rise from five-win seasons take the court at home next week.

Within their own district (49th) and region (13th) the tasks ahead for both the Rockcastle County High Rockets and Lady Rockets are ominous.

Fellow district foe Clay County won the girls' state title. It marked the second time since 1985 that a 13th Region team had won. Whitley County pulled off the trick in 1985.

For the Rockets, stopping Clay County's Tigers is the obvious job.

Richie Farmer and Russ Farmer have gone. Both are in college.

But, Bobby Keith's teams will have incentive enough this season.

If Keith's club can march back to the state tourney -- in Freedom Hall on the Kentucky State Fairgrounds in Louisville this time -- he will match St. Xavier's record of seven straight trips to the state tourney.

The St. X brand of Tigers went every year from 1937-43.

Several teams have been six times in a row, and Clay County is just another one of them.

But, neither Clay County team seems to be favored to even win the regional title this year.

Knox Central, with recent Auburn signee Kim Mays back for one more year, might have enough to unseat the Lady Tigers.

Corbin or Knox Central seem stronger on paper as the season is about to begin, than does Clay County.

Corbin has Tommy Stewart and Bo Roaden, while Knox has 6-8 wing jumper Tony Patterson, and another in a long line of Mills. This year, the Mills name belongs to Darrin.

And, the late-summer move of Dave Prewitt from Williamsburg to Knox as coach could have a real effect on the region.

Elsewhere, tough Don Elliott is back to lead Bell County.

Never ones to let things stand pat -- especially when not winning -- both Rockcastle coaches, Judy Bullock and Dave Perkins -- have shaken things up just enough that they hope the results bring a better record, and trips to the regional tourney.

Rockcastle County girls, at least in Bullock's tenure.

Lexington Christian and Rose Hill Academy are both new teams for the Rockets.

Lexington Christian replaces Western Anderson, a school that was closed at the end of last term and combined with Anderson County High.

Rose Hill was added as part of an overnight trip into the Ashland area in February for the boys.

They will be matched on the trip with Greenup County, the high school home of former Kentucky center Mike Scott.

Jellico, Tenn., also replaces Madison Southern. Perkins said he and Southern's coach couldn't come up with mutual dates this year.

Rockcastle's centerpiece, however, comes just after Christmas, playing 12th Region champion Wayne County in the first round of the eight-team Druthers Classic.

University Heights Academy in Hopkinsville is also entered, and features 6-9 Sergio Luyk, who hails from Spain, and is the product of the marriage between an American who coaches El Real Madrid and has taken Spanish citizenship, and the 1967 Miss Europe.

Luyk can also play basketball well. He hasn't signed, but will be the subject of an intense race for his signature in April.

Luyk is joined by black British citizen Mike Defoe, 6-6, and strong. Defoe signed last week with Tennessee Tech.

Wayne County lost most of its state runners-up team, including Julius Green and Jimmy John Owens.

Teams from all over the state will play in the tourney, and it will be a good opportunity to look at some different styles of play, and make comparisons.

Because basketball is played in the winter, weather and nature often cause havoc with schedules and teams.

Knowledgeable fans in the state know that within the next three months, they will travel some icy roads to see games, play against hot teams in cold gyms, big teams in tiny gyms, or any combination of variances that will lead to great moments or sad times.

The season is here.
On to Louisville.
On to Bowling Green.

Parents/Seniors-Grade School Night for the boys is the final game of the year, against Redbird on Feb. 23, with all of the traditional farewell salutes and presentations scheduled that night.

County before tournament time. Bullock said that an incident where a bus had some seats cut up led to dropping the regular season matches with Clay.

Knox Central is off, and the one-game contract with Cawood ended without being renewed.

In their place are home-and-home boy-girl doubleheaders with Pineville, plus an overnight trip for the girls in early January to Nicholas County and Mt. Olivet Deming in Robertson County.

Good Luck Rockets

Lady Rockets want to push the ball and the opponents up the floor faster

By: Jim Griesch

Coach Judy Bullock thinks she has the nucleus of a team that can be better than the 5-17 Lady Rockets of 1988-89.

And, most of the faces in that nucleus are the same as the faces that started during last year's district tournament.

Bullock starts with point guard Stephanie Northern and wing guard Jennifer Thacker.

Northern, a senior, is the key player. She led the Lady Rockets in summer league play with 11 per game.

At one time, the Lady Rockets were 4-2 at the Sportscenter in Lexington, but finished with losses to some of the 11th Region's best, and wound up 4-6.

With Northern and Thacker outside, Bullock is working in four girls inside.

Donna Harper and April Burton played well during the summer, also, as did Karla Bullock.

Angie Senters is something of a question at the moment for Bullock.

Senters injured a knee in Berea early in the summer, and has been going through a rehab program after an operation.

So far, the 5-6 senior has been limited to stand-and-shoot practices and jogging. She hasn't been able to scrimmage yet.

Stephanie Northern has her eye on a regional tournament berth this year. She's one of four seniors on the Lady Rockets who are trying to reach for the stars in their last high school try. She's back for another year as point guard in coach Judy Bullock's offense.

That limited practice has given Karla Bullock, 5-7 senior Clara Pigg and Burton the opportunity to move into the starting line-up. Another who will help is 5-6 junior guard Angie "Pooh" McClure, who figures in as a wing shooter.

Karla Bullock is one player who may sympathize with Senters more than some others.

She lost ground and playing time last year with torn ligaments in an ankle.

She's healthy, Senters isn't yet. "When we get Senters back," said coach Bullock, "we'll have nine players battling for starting jobs."

Trying to make a move into the playing time-starting picture is 5-6 junior guard Tiffany Carter, who is being groomed as a point guard.

Four younger girls are trying to work their way into the varsity picture, too, but may still need more junior varsity experience first.

Among this group are sophomore Christina Silmon and freshmen Beth Amyx, Christy Coleman, and Danetta Ford.

None offers a whole lot of size. Amy and Coleman are both 5-8.

Amyx did something last year that Bullock hopes several others will want to do this year.

That's to move up to the freshman-JV team as eighth graders, after the current junior high season is done.

Among those who could make the jump are three of Bullock's own Mt. Vernon team -- Kim

Good Luck Rockets

Rockets hope to 'flex' muscles and show the way to win games in '89-90

By: Jim Griesch

A fast start is essential to Rockcastle County High boys coach Dave Perkins for several reasons.

Reason No. 1: He wants to win early to establish a higher Litratings mark, which will help at seeding time for the 49th District Tournament.

Perkins knows that early season wins or losses slide teams into high, low or middle ratings, and that teams vary little either way the rest of the year.

Perkins wants to make sure that the Rockets are seeded away from six-time regional champion Clay County in the first round.

A win over either Oneida Baptist or Jackson County would put the Rockets into the regional tourney, no matter what the outcome of the district championship game.

Reason No. 2: Winning early will help establish confidence in what shapes up as a young team.

By winning early, Perkins hopes to get the team into a winning mode, lifting the Rockets well past 1988-89's 5-17 mark.

Such drastic turnarounds are not unheard of.

Just last year, Dave McDaniel took the remnants of a team that had been 5-20 and 2-23 the previous two years and turned them into a 20-10 squad at Garrard County.

That tied a school record for wins in a season at Garrard.

Steve Clark takes aim at post-season success in his senior year of Rockcastle County High basketball. Coach Dave Perkins is juggling the schedule slightly in an effort to build up a better Litrating, the final factor in tournament seeding in the 49th District.

McDaniel's team appears twice on the Rockets schedule this year. But, his 1988-89 group was much like the 1989-90 Rockets. Unproven.

No confidence.

No respect from opponents.

No real size.

Reason No. 3: Perkins is tired of losing records. He wants to build a winner.

In doing that, he has to replace 23 points per game he got last year from three-point-field goal whiz Kris Ponder.

He also has to find replacements for Adam Coleman, Mike Barron, David Owens and Kevin Parrett.

But, Perkins does have five players returning who all started at least a handful of games at one time or another last season.

Count among them seniors Steve Clark and Robby Phillips; juniors David Sargent, Billy Todd and David Eaton.

Mix in senior Darren Smith, who played a lot of minutes but never drew a starting nod.

Last Thursday, Perkins said, "If I started tonight, it would be Sargent and Phillips at guard, Darren Smith at center, and Clark and either Todd, Tim Cottrell or Eaton at the other forward."

He added, "Eaton would be down on the blocks in our of-

The 1989-90 Rockcastle Girls' Varsity Cheerleaders

Cheering for the Lady Rockets this basketball season will be Chris Thompson, Missi Livesay, Kim Livesay, Jackie Burdette, Michele Stevens and Lois Ann Cromer. The girls, all underclassmen, will cheer only for the girls, splitting away from the boys' varsity after combining efforts during the football season. Their sponsor will be Cheryl Yocum, who has been a sponsor in another teaching assignment.

Even without a lot of height, Bullock thinks her team will be able to pplay an up-tempo game, featuring as much running as possible.

"We'll push the ball down the floor," said Bullock. "We want to have an inside-outside attack."

That means that "Northern and Thacker will have the green light to go to the baskets, Senters and Harper will have the green light to shoot three pointers," and "I'm depending on Bullock, Pigg, McClure and Burton to be my Burton averaged 9.5 last trip around.

The break is what Bullock wants.

"Harper, McClure and Burton fill the lanes extremely well on the break," Bullock promises.

If the break isn't there, look for a 1-2-2 offense, with two players down on the blocks all the time."

That will put Northern at the point, with Carter behind her.

Senters, Thacker and Harper are on the wings, and Bullock, McClure, Burton and Pigg will be those people on the blocks.

The schedule isn't varied a whole lot from last year.

If Smith and Eaton do wind up starting with Clark, that would give Perkins players 6-2, 6-2 and 5-11 along the front line, and guards who would be 5-8 and 5-10.

There isn't much size there, by modern standards. But, if Perkins can fine tune a new "flex" offense, he may be able to minimize the lack of size.

The "flex" will have players cutting to the basket and screening across the lane all night long.

The motion is designed to shake someone free for relatively high percentage shots.

"It's a good offense," Perkins said. "Every man has to pass, move

If Perkins can't find the right combination from that first group of seven, he may turn to a pair of 6-0 sophomores for added help.

He said he thinks that both Micah Parkerson and Chris Newland will help this year.

He said of that group of players, "With about nine or ten, there isn't a whole lot of difference."

Actually, Perkins has spent the last couple of weeks re-evaluating his squad.

"I thought I knew pretty much what we had until the football players came out (after the season ended Nov. 3)."
