

Road clearing priorities listed for Rockcastle

The state Transportation Cabinet road crew are in place to deal with winter conditions so the roads will be cleared quickly and efficiently. "It is absolutely essential that we clear the roads of snow or ice so motorists will be able to travel Kentucky safely during the winter months," said Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson.

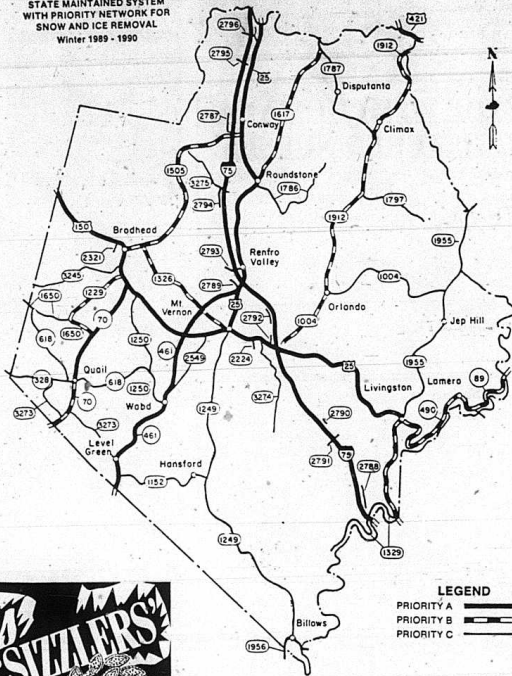

In order to accommodate Rockcastle public travelers' winter driving, the Transportation Cabinet has announced that the Kentucky Department of Highways crew will clear I-75, U.S. 150 and Ky. 461 first. The next roads to be cleared will be priority B and then priority C, as shown on the attached map.

Work begins as soon as precipitation becomes significant. Crews will salt or plow the top priority roads first. The priority system is based on the amount of traffic carried by the road.

Priority A roads include interstates, parkways, urban expressways and other state roads with exceptionally large volumes of traffic. Priority B roads are state primary roads, bypasses and roads with slightly less traffic than Priority A roads. State secondary roads, rural secondary roads and other routes with equal traffic fall into Priority C category. Remaining state roads are cleared after these categories have been treated.

Motorists can plan their trip more safely by using Priority A roads whenever possible during bad weather.

attacking. At the end of the war, he was a crewman on one of the small, "jeep" carriers used extensively in the latter stages of the war. The day before the war ended, the carrier went to sea from the same mooring quays used by the Detroit almost five years before.

"If we had stayed one more day, I'd have ended the war at exactly the same spot it began," he thought aloud. His reaction to the attack at Pearl? "That must have been what hell is like," he said simply and straightforwardly.

During the commemorative last week, a film was shown at the beginning of the afternoon session. It was about the attack, and the beginning of the film was timed so that when the first bombs dropped in the film, it was 12:55 p.m., the exact Eastern Standard Time that the attack began on Dec. 7, 1941.

Swit presents many of the Christmas customs and traditions found in various regions of Germany. She looks at the history of the Christmas tree and the origins of the Advent wreath, the gingerbread house, and the character of Saint Nicholas. Christmas delicacies, including gingerbread and marzipan, whet the appetite.

Open-air Christmas markets from Nuremberg to Munich also are on her itinerary. The program takes her from Berlin in the north to the Alps in the south, from Aachen to Stuttgart, and even to the birthplace of "Silent Night," one of the world's most beloved carols.

Over 500 here queued for heating help

A total of 511 low-income Rockcastle residents can expect to receive checks within the next two weeks to pay winter heating bills to utility companies and other suppliers.

The checks average about $95 with the largest about $113 for electricity. Other payments are for fuel oil, wood and coal.

The bills will be mailed to 50,000 households from the Cabinet for Human Resources. The payments are by two-party checks, made out to the utility or supplier and cannot be cashed by individuals.

The payments $5.2 million statewide are being made under the federally funded Home Energy Assistance Program.

Local residents had two weeks to apply for the funds, mostly for the aged, blind and disabled.

The local office ran out of allocated funds Wednesday before the Friday deadline, so applications were stopped two days earlier.

Albright added to ASCS state committee

Members of Rockcastle ASCS have elected D.G. (Alex) Albright to the ASCS Committee.

Albright received 234 votes. He will serve Shirl Brown and Richard Lawrence on the committee.

Others receiving votes were Herbert Lear, 128; Cecil Northern, 125 and Billy Lawrence, 104. Only one is elected.

Lear will serve as first alternate, if needed, and Northern, second alternate.

Albright, who lives on Carl Brown Road, Ottawa, is a tobacco grower.

Stove fire ruins home in Brush Creek

A fire believed caused by a stove, destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sanders at Brush Creek about 4:30 p.m. Saturday.

Fire Capt. Gary Hanel said the one-story wooden house was fully involved when Mt. Vernon firemen arrived.

Mrs. Sanders was at home at the time. She told firemen the house was not insured.

Five injured in accident in Boone Co.

Five members of a Mt. Vernon family were injured Saturday when their auto was hit broadside by a van in Boone County.

Hospitalized with a broken pelvis, back, and severe facial injuries is Michael Kerns, 27, an employee of the Mt. Vernon Water Department.

Treated and released were his wife, Barbara, 24, and son Jonathan, 4, with a broken jaw. Still hospitalized are Heather, 20 months, who has a broken leg, and Anna Kerns, 61, of Cincinnati, mother of Michael, who is listed in fair condition.

Two other Kern children, Michael Jr., 10, and Christopher, 7, were not with the family.

According to friends, Michael took the wrong turnoff of I-75 at Erlanger. He turned around in a school parking lot and when he pulled back on the street his auto was hit by the van, according to Boone County Patrolman Bob Keckel.

Kerns said the van, owned by Howard Johnson, had no lights. It was 6:30 p.m. when the accident occurred.

All the injured were treated at St. Luke's Hospital, West, in the Florence area. Continued on Page A-3

About 250 people turned out for the first annual Vigil of Remembrance and Hope, sponsored by the local chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers, Sunday night. The event was held at the courthouse in honor of many people that were killed by drunk drivers. Those honored were: Julian Baker, Cindy Burke, David Lee Burke, Pamela Burke, Billy Joe Hamm, Larry Howard, Vincenta French Howard, Lloyd B. Pickle and Evelyn Sargent. Mrs. Lou Vanhosen, chapter president, welcomed the crowd.

Rockcastle man escapes from jail while on leave

A controversy erupted this week over the release of a Rockcastle County man who is serving a life sentence for murder.

John Harvey Taylor, 50, formerly of Livingston, was released from Marion Adjustment Center on a 48-hour furlough last Friday and did not return at his scheduled time Sunday.

Taylor was sentenced in Rockcastle Circuit Court Aug. 10, 1983 for the murder of Bentley "Mut" Furman at Taylor's home on Piney Branch.

Furman was shot six times with a .25 caliber pistol. He was shot four times in the head, once in the hand and once in the chest while he lay on the couch. When police arrived, Taylor was sitting on a couch across the room from Furman. He still had the pistol in his hand. Ambulance attendants took the pistol from Taylor who offered no resistance.

As of Tuesday, Taylor was still at large, and reports persisted that he had been seen several times in the Livingston area. State and local police have been on the lookout for him.

Taylor was released at 4 p.m. Friday on a two-day pass to visit his wife, Fannie Taylor, who lives in the Gaudley Branch area of the county. He was due back at 4 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Taylor has failed to report to work at Mt. Vernon Plastics all week long.

Taylor was the 22nd inmate to escape from Marion this year. Five are still at large.

State Sen. Ed O Daniel who represents Marion County, said he plans to talk with center officials to determine why a "violent offender" was being held in a minimum security prison and allowed a 48-hour pass.

Historically, murderers are some of your best inmates in terms of staying at an institution, working there and having the best success rates, when they go back out in the country," said Michael Bradley, a spokesman for the Corrections Cabinet.

Taylor was first sent to the State Reformatory at LaGrange in 1984. Later that same year, he was transferred to the minimum security North-point Training Center in Mercer County. In 1988, he was sent to the Roederer Farm Center in LaGrange, a minimum security center, and then to Marion in February.

Kirby wants to be free of radio dispatch duties

By: Richard Anderkin

When Roland Mullins takes office on January 1, he will be faced with more problems than just poor road conditions, lack of money and no garbage plan.

He may also be looking for ways to fund a central dispatch unit for the county.

If Rockcastle County Jailer Billy Kirby has his way, the cities of Mt. Vernon, Livingston, Brodhead and the local Sheriff's department will be looking for a new radio dispatcher.

"I was elected to run this jail," said two time Rockcastle County Jailer Billy Kirby.

Kirby's gripe is that he nor his staff has time to properly dispatch all of the radio calls generated by the police officers in the three cities and the sheriff's department.

On the average 50 prisoners are held in the local jail and Kirby says that it is difficult enough to properly take care of them without having to dispatch calls for the police.

Kirby, who was elected to his third term in May, noted that none of the surrounding counties have radios in the jail because it is a hindrance to the jailers and their staffs.

This week Kirby said that he would not leave the police department without a way to dispatch, but that he certainly wanted to work out a solution as soon as possible.

Kirby is under no obligation to operate the radios because there is no

Fiscal Court to pay Joe Clark

By Ray McClure

As expected, the Rockcastle Fiscal Court gave in and paid former magistrate Joe Clark $1,450 Clark claimed the court had failed to pay him for the last 29 months for service as county judge pro tem.

The magistrate didn't have much of a choice, as one magistrate put it, since, "we're bound by the written word," meaning minutes of the meetings.

The vote was unanimous to pay Clark for 29 months at $50 a month, and it took the court about 10 minutes to conclude that business and terminate Clark's position as judge pro tem. Payment was through November, 1989.

Magistrate Amos Burdette said he thought the court had stopped Clark's employment, or that County Judge/Executive Hubert Thacker had planned to talk with Clark about it.

The magistrates searched through the minutes of prior court sessions following last week's called meeting. "Clark's name had not been fired on Jan. 6, 1986, but nothing was found where he had been paid after July 1987."

Renfro breaks soil for new auditorium

By: Richard Anderkin

About 50 persons attended groundbreaking ceremonies Monday for a new auditorium at Renfro Valley.

The new 1,500-seat, $1.5 million auditorium will be constructed behind the Old Barn and is expected to be completed next spring in time for the summer tourist season.

Mary Ray Oaken, Kentucky Secretary of Tourism, lauded the efforts of Renfro officials to expand and develop Renfro Valley into a major tourist attraction, calling it a boon for the Fifth Congressional District.

Bob Mitchell brought greetings from U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers. Also speaking was Ralph Gabbard, president and owners of Renfro Valley Folks, and Gary Cromer, Mt. Vernon mayor.

Taking part in turning the first dirt for the new auditorium were two other owners of Renfro Valley, Warren Rosenthal and Glenn Pennington, as well as County Judge/Executive Hubert Thacker, State Rep. Danny Ford, Tom Bennett, Jason Gabbard and Jimmy Tillery.

The auditorium is considered the centerpiece of the Renfro development. Continued on Page A-8

KENTUCKY PROJECTS FARED WELL IN 1989

Constructive investments in the future of Kentucky have become more important than ever in view of the budget and trade problems facing this nation. I have long been convinced that we will solve our national problems only through growth and progress at the grassroots level.

As we cut the federal deficit, we have to make increasingly wise choices about the use of scarce federal funds to encourage this critical grassroots development. I believe that we must make such choices with regard to Kentucky during the first year of the 101st Congress.

Toward the end of this recently ended session, I was able to help secure another $227,000 to help rebuild our long troubled farm economy through the work of our International Trade Development Center at the University of Kentucky.

This was our third year of federal support for this center, which is providing much needed information and services to farmers trying to expand agricultural exports from the Ohio Valley, Appalachian and Southeastern regions of the United States.

Our Kentucky delegation also was able to make use of our agricultural appropriations bill to provide $183,333 for a Kentucky project to demonstrate the best ways of restoring prime farmland after strip mining. This same bill includes $225,000 for a Kentucky demonstration project to encourage child-care providers to offer nutritious meals to children in low-income and rural areas.

Our delegation also made great progress toward ensuring that Kentucky installations continue to be a vital part of a modern and efficient defense program for our nation.

I was pleased to play a part in obtaining several million dollars for some needed projects at Fort Knox and Fort Campbell while helping to back misguided efforts to move the 194th Armored Brigade from Fort Knox to California. Our $2.5 million Army National Guard armory construction project in Ashland represents another important step in the right direction.

In a year marked by a series of tragic natural disasters, I also was pleased to be part of a successful effort to contribute to the long-term feasibility of a serious earthquake study along a major fault crossing the western edge of our state. In an amendment to our recent California earthquake relief bill, we authorized $4 million for an expanded study that should lead to better preparations for any similar disaster along the New Madrid fault.

During this first year of the 101st Congress, we made sure that Kentucky continues to hold its own in a variety of public works projects that can lead to economic progress.

Our funding of design work for an Ohio River bridge project at Owensboro is one very good example. Others include our Green and Barren River navigation studies and an impressive list of transportation, flood control, lake-development and other highly important projects across Kentucky.

As Kentuckians, it is up to us to forge our own economic progress at the state and local levels. But our federal government still has a role as an honest partner in that all-important effort, and I believe that we have done much to advance that partnership during 1989.

Dear Editor:

It does my heart a happy fulfillment to send you some kind of reading matter for Christmas. I would like to make a comment on my impression of the folk lore of Santa Claus. There are those who think Santa has a religious connotation, or they think certain religions revere Santa as a spiritual being.

Santa is just another fantasy, including how he rode over the snow in his sleigh, drawn by his reindeer, on Christmas Eve to give surprise gifts to his children. A lovely act of charity, but purely imaginary, in the same way that nursery rhymes were created to delight the very young.

As a very young child I was delighted by the stories of Santa Claus, and the Pied-Piper or Humpty-Dumpty. The Cow that Jumped Over the Moon, The Cat and the Fiddle, etc., as I grew up I began to accept the bare facts about Jesus and how he came into the world to teach us the difference between right and wrong. The ironic truth about how he had to be crucified to save the faithful from eternal suffering.

These are facts to be determined by adult minds. The young children should be kept healthy, happy and innocent as long as possible, and allowed to learn as they grow.

I thank God for all his little children and wish they could all be happy and mature into adulthood to thank God every day for Jesus so we could enjoy eternal happiness in paradise.

May I wish every one in Rockcastle County a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Charting Rockcastle

By: Richard Anderkin

It seems that many people are upset that John Harvey Taylor did not report back to prison when he was supposed to Sunday afternoon.

It has also given the daily papers something to jump on. While it is bad that Mr. Taylor decided that he would rather spend his Christmas holidays somewhere besides the Marion Adjustment Center, it is equally as bad that parole boards let convicted murderers out for good behavior after only a few years. They walk the streets, uninhibited except for a few days a year when they have to report to a parole officer.

We have such criminals right here in our back yard.

Not only do we have folks that have killed once out on the street we have some that have killed twice and

I often wonder what good our criminal justice system does.

I certainly think that everyone is entitled to a trial by jury and that they should be innocent until proven guilty.

The loophole occurs when after the prosecutor, judge and jury have done their jobs -- When a jury has heard enough evidence to send a person to the penitentiary, -- and in this county believe me the evidence has to be overwhelming, -- that another crime probably worse than the one the person was convicted of, occurs.

That is when members of a parole board, who have been unaffected or will ever be directly affected by that person's crime, decide that he or she should go home because of good behavior.

That is ridiculous and that is all it will ever be.

I realize that prisoners are turned out often because the state needs the space, because of a lack money to house more prisoners.

Fact is that parole or furloughs for convicted murderers should not be allowed, no matter how good their behavior is.

I certainly act better when I am put in a no win situation, where I can gain the most by being a good fellow and these prisoners are no different. As long as someone is keeping a watchful eye, butter wouldn't melt in their mouths, they are so good, but when they know that no one is watching, they'll eat the butter everytime.

If money is actually the reason that murderers are put back into society it looks to me like Governor Wallace Wilkinson could use some of millions of dollars he has raised through the Lottery to build new area. Persons wishing to contribute money to help the family should contact Bobby Bailey or stop by Cox Funeral Home.

prisons. Or maybe he could just sell the inmates tickets.

While we are on the subject of Governor Wilkinson, we might mention that he sobessed with being allowed to run for a second term. His wife Martha has said that she will spend every waking moment trying to get a succession amendment through the next General Assembly.

If Wilkinson can get that done, maybe then we will get the new road from Stanford to Mt. Vernon he has promised us.

But, if he has promised everyone a new road and done so little toward building them as he has 150, then chances are he can get a succession amendment passed and still go home a loser in the next Governor's race.

We've already seen Wilkinson running for a second term since his election two years ago. We'd have preferred he concentrate his efforts on his first term.

Many politicians have told me that Wilkinson's administration is the most political to ever govern in our state. That is hard to believe with some of the Governors that have held office in the Commonwealth, but one thing is for certain, four years of "Wally World" is probably all the state of Ky. wants.

It was made obvious to me when John Y. Brown Jr., was Governor that the electorate of this state does not care whether a Governor does a good job or not, because his efforts for a succession amendment were soundly defeated.

Going by that, unless Wally can come up with Casino gambling or give away enough houses, he too will be defeated, soundly.

State promises KY 80 by-pass for Rockcastle into Somerset

Rockcastle County citizens who travel to and through Somerset from Ky. 80 will have a bypass as soon as possible, Kentucky Transportation Cabinet officials report.

But it will be 1991 before the $23 million, seven-mile bypass to the east of the city is even started. The bypass will run from just south of Somerset Mall on U.S. 27 to the industrial park. The bypass, most agree, will funnel Lake Cumberland traffic around the city and away from busy U.S. 27.

Escapee

Taylor was scheduled to appear before the parole board in August, 1991.

The Marion facility averages 15 to 20 furloughs a week among the 450 prisoners.

The publicity surrounding Taylor's failure to return is because of his murder conviction and life sentence, according to Jan Fuson, Marion's warden. "If this guy was in for burglary, who would care? We're not talking about a serial killer here."

Taylor is described as white, 5-foot-7, about 180 pounds, gray hair, blue eyes and tattoos on both arms, legs, hands and fingers.

Persons living in the area of the prison were especially upset since they understood no violent offenders would be housed at the facility.

Persons serving life sentences or terms for murder are eligible under Kentucky law to be released on furlough or work programs. Prisoners serving life sentences can be released only if they have earned one year. Their furlough must be approved by four officials.

ment program, which will also include a crafts village, country music museum, campground and theme park.

The new auditorium, which will house Renfro Valley's long-running Saturday Night Barn Dance, will contain state-of-the-art lighting and sound equipment and a recording studio. It will be located adjacent to the Old Barn, which has been the site of the Barn Dance since its inception in 1939 by the late John Lar.

The Old Barn is currently being renovated, including the installation of insulation and central air conditioning and heating, and will continue to host Renfro Valley shows, including the Saturday Night Jamboree beginning next spring.

Construction is scheduled to begin shortly on Renfro Village, an old fashioned style town that will contain a variety of craft shops, along with an old grain mill, farm house, church, city hall and the Red Bud Schoolhouse, the log structure that was the local school and community meeting center for more than a century.

The large log and stone building that currently houses the administrative offices will be converted into a museum, with the Red Barn show barn being changed into offices.

Construction is also expected to start next year on the theme park, which will be built around a crafts and music theme.

Renfro Valley's development is seen as a major component of efforts to improve the economy of the 5th Congressional District.

The Southern Kentucky Tourism Development Association, which is composed of the 27 counties in the 5th District, has identified Renfro Valley as the core attraction to pull traffic into the region off the heavily traveled Interstate 25.

The Renfro Village and the restaurant renovation are scheduled to be completed by the spring of 1990.

Your Child's Health By Dr. John Payne

To powder or not to powder, that is the question. A recent study showed that about two thirds of parents routinely apply baby powder to babies bottoms when changing diapers. Reasons for powdering include keeping baby dry, preventing rashes and making baby smell nice.

Baby powder may be either corn starch or talc. Use of either one, especially talc has some potential medical problems. Talc is a finely ground dust from a soft rock. If a powder is sprinkled on it makes a fine spray of dust which can be inhaled into the lungs causing all sorts of serious health problems. It can produce pneumonia, or even death from inhaling too large quantity. There have been reports of deaths caused by leaving a can of powder where an infant can knock it over, spill the contents, and breathe in a large amount of powder.

If powder is to be used it should be sprinkled on the adult's hand and then rubbed onto the infant. It is probably better to not use powder and rely on frequent diaper changes and ointments.

Jay and Myrtle Brown and I enjoyed a delicious dinner with Mrs. Fannie B. Albright on Dec. 6th which was my birthday. I sure was glad to see Jay and Myrtle. Later in the evening, Fannie and I visited at the home of Mrs. Florence Albright and Mrs. Bertie Taylor. We were taking advantage of the sunny day which the Lord had blessed us with. Sunday morning I was shocked and saddened to hear of the death of Bertie Taylor. My sympathy goes to all her family, I'll B. and I were in school together at Quail, I'll never forget those happy days.

Bryan Hayes of Somerset sent a weekend receipt with James, Brenda and Stephanie Bradley. Deloris and Fannie B. Albright enjoyed a very delicious lunch and visit with Mrs. Mabel Burdette at Renfro Valley Friday. Afterwards they enjoyed making Christmas stockings.

Mrs. Mae Doan spent a few days with the boys, Larry and Jerry Doan and families in Ohio. Larry returned home with her for a short visit with her and his dad, Walter at the nursing home.

Mrs. Marie Cromer and daughter Shirley Taylor and husband were Sunday visitors of Walter Doan at the nursing home and Mae. Walter remains the same.

Glady's Roberts and Sue Cox visited Lawiece Monk at the Berea Hospital Sunday afternoon. She has improved some and knows her folks and talks but is still paralyzed. Our prayers are for her. Also they visited Zella Cromer who is doing well. Our prayers are for them and all who are in rest homes, hospitals, etc.

Sunday visitors of Cam and Mary Halcomb were Johnny and Wilma and Jean Henson of Stanford and their daughter Adrian and husband Bobby King of Stanford.

Mrs. Steve Albright and Fannie Albright were in Danville Monday for Fannie's check-up with her doctor.

"Aristocat" to be feature of local blood drive Dec. 19

Central Kentucky Blood Center has spotted a new breed of cat here in Wildcat country. It is the "Aristocat", believed to be an elite species found only at CKBC Donor Centers and blood drives in Central and Eastern Kentucky. The "Aristocat" is characterized by the great pride it takes in giving "blue blood" for the Bluegrass. Central Kentucky Blood Center invites all "true blue fans" to share the wealth by giving "blue blood" this winter. The cold winter months often cause colds, flu, and other illnesses which prevent people from donating. It becomes increasingly difficult to maintain an adequate blood supply for patients in area hospitals.

As a special thank you to those cold weather donors, CKBC will be giving away a free long sleeved "Aristocat" T-shirts. The Rockcastle County Homemakers will sponsor a drive on Tuesday, December 19 from 12 to 7 at the Agricultural Service Center. For more information about the "Aristocat" contact Cheryl Witt at 256-2403.

Take out the garbage that can be recycled

Recycling is only one part of solid waste management, but it's the area where you can be of greatest help. Recycling is sorting out and collecting items that can be reused or reclaimed before they go into the garbage. The materials saved - metal, glass, paper, cardboard, plastic and used motor oil - can then be reused as the raw materials to make new products.

Anyone who throws away garbage can recycle: Homes, offices, restaurants, schools, churches, community groups, cities and counties can separate and collect their recyclable wastes for reuse.

Many businesses and schools have lowered their garbage bills by recycling. Religious and community organizations often collect and sell recyclable materials to raise funds.

The 3 to 4 million tons of garbage thrown away each year in Kentucky is rapidly filling up the state's landfills. In fact, many will run out of space in the next five years. Garbage is everybody's business. It makes sense to recycle.

Home Slick

by Carol Ann Coffey

The hills are beautiful, yes they are. And the change of seasons are surely a treat. But the both of these can be beat by far. By sitting on the beach in the Florida heat.

The snow is pretty and ever so bright. But the wind is cold and nothing stays calm. I can see the sand so warm and so white. And what I wouldn't give to see the leaf of a palm.

Your glasses fog up and your battery goes dead. The streets get icy and you slip and slide.

So I wanna get started and southward I'll head, And go straight to the end and watch the tide.

You can't walk for fear you'll slip, Your nose gets red and you can't feel your ears.

So I'm headin' for the Gulf and take me a dip, And you all won't see me for many more years.

You catch a cold and think you're gonna freeze, And there ain't no medicine that will take it away.

So I'm gonna go back to that warm ocean breeze, And this time my friends I think I'm gonna stay.

So you can take this area and I can tell you where to put it, Cause I'm gonna go to Florida even if I have to foot it.

And if I ever want to come back I'll think about it twice, As all I have to do is remember the cold snow and ice.

Farm Bureau adopts policies on tobacco, animals at meeting

New tobacco and animal rights policies, as well as an ambitious legislative package, were adopted yesterday by delegates at the Kentucky Farm Bureau's 70th convention.

The tobacco policy changes would eliminate quotas for producers who don't grow or lease their crops for two consecutive years and would increase each farmer's annual over marketing allowance from 3 percent of their allotment to 10 percent, the bureau said.

The bureau said the new policies, designed to increase burley production, were adopted in response to industry complaints that growers consistently have been underproducing their quotas when manufacturing demand has been booming to meet increases in export business.

On animal rights, the delegates proposed that an aggressive educational program covering animal and poultry production be presented to the public to head off animal rights activists who want to curtail meat consumption.

A separate policy provision opposes giving public agencies or animal rights groups any voice in setting standards for the care and raising of livestock, the bureau said.

To cook lower calorie foods for the holidays, use artificial sweeteners as substitutes for part of the sugar in recipes, says a food and nutrition specialist.

Along with saccharin, a product that has been on the market for many years, two other sweeteners are available --- aspartame and acesulfame-K. The two sweeteners are about 200 times sweeter than table sugar (sucrose). Saccharin, which is 800 times sweeter than table sugar, may leave a bitter aftertaste.

Aspartame (sold as NutraSweet in products or Equal as a separate item) is not the best for food preparation because it loses sweetness when heated. But the manufacturer does not provide special recipes.

The newest of the sweeteners is acesulfame-K (sold as Sunette or Sweet One). It was approved by the Food and Drug Administration in 1988 for use in dry beverage mixes, instant coffee and tea, gelatin, puddings, chewing gums, non-dairy whitener, and tabletop sweeteners.

Because it is stable when heated, acesulfame-K can be used in cooking. To keep product quality high, replace only up to one-half of the sugar called for in the recipe with one of the sweeteners.

For instance, to cut calories in a recipe that uses one cup of sugar, use one-half cup sugar and one-half cup sweetener equivalent. Read your sweetener package to determine equivalent. Here are some numbers to keep in mind:

- 1 teaspoon sugar = 15 calories
- 1 teaspoon equivalent acesulfame-K = 2 calories
- saccharin = 2 calories
- aspartame = 4 calories

1989 season is 375th
for tobacco sales in U.S.

The opening of tobacco markets this season in Kentucky marks more than 375 years of organized tobacco sales in this country.

Native Americans were growing and using tobacco long before Columbus arrived in the New World in the late 15th century. It was in 1613, however, when the first shipment of tobacco was sent to England, according to James Smiley, University of Kentucky Extension tobacco specialist.

Today, tobacco is Kentucky's largest cash crop, with more than 151,000 allotment holders growing burley, 6,300 growing fire-cured, and 14,000 growing dark air-cured tobacco, he said. One out of every four pounds of tobacco produced in the U.S. is Kentucky grown, Smiley said.

Burley tobacco, the most widely grown type in Kentucky, was discovered during the Civil War on a farm in Southern Ohio. The seed from which that tobacco was grown, however, came from a farm in Bracken County. That variety, called Little Burley, was probably a Maryland-type tobacco, Smiley said.

At first the new tobacco was called White Burley; later it became known simply as burley, he said.

Today, he said, burley is grown in 14 states and is the most widely grown single type of tobacco in the U.S. About 90 percent of it goes into blend cigarettes and the rest into pipes and chewing tobacco products, the specialist said.

Tobacco's influence on Kentucky's economy is large, with burley sales alone estimated at $530 million in 1988. A recent study by Chase Econometrics estimated that one in every 20 jobs in Kentucky exists directly or indirectly because of tobacco.

Systematic research into improving tobacco began in Kentucky before the turn of the century. The more successful efforts began in the early 1900s, Smiley said, with the coupling of the UK College of Agriculture's Experiment Station and Extension Service.

The release in 1935 of Ky. 16 variety developed by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture is said to have brought enough tobacco profits to Kentucky farmers to pay for running the Experiment Station through the rest of the century," Smiley said.

Both the Experiment Station and the Extension Service continue to provide technological improvements for Kentucky tobacco farmers, Smiley said.

University of Kentucky agriculturalists have released more than 20 varieties, including Ky 14 and Ky 10, two which have shown outstanding traits.

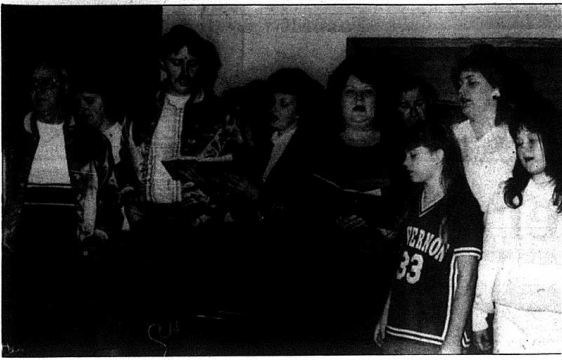

Other techniques developed or advocated by University of Kentucky College of Agriculture researchers and Extension workers include: fertilizing tobacco fields based on soil analysis; improvements in the management of diseases and pests; and improvements in marketing techniques, such as baling, Smiley said.

Members of Grace Baptist Church Choir sang at the MADD Candlelight Vigil of Remembrance and Hope at the Rockcastle Co. Courthouse Sunday night. About 250 people turned out for the event which was held in remembrance of victims of drunken driving accidents.

Ben and Geraldine French were among those who lit candles in remembrance of lost loved ones. The French's daughter, Vincenta, and son-in-law, Larry Howard, were killed in a boating accident several years ago. The person causing the accident was drunk. Other victims remembered were Julian Baker, Cindy Burke, David Lee Burke, Pamela Burke, Billy Joe Hamm, Lloyd B. Pickle and Evelyn Sargent.

contract between the jail and the police departments.

For their efforts the jail receives only about $225 a month.

But, Kirby said Tuesday that money was not the issue. "We don't want to be paid more to dispatch, we simply do not have the time to do it and run this jail to state specifications," he said.

The jailer said that he could not keep deputy jailers because of the radios. "The first question they ask is if they will have to work with those radios and that runs most of them off," he said.

Kirby said that his problems are further compounded by state regulations that demand him or his staff to observe prisoners in the drunk tank every 10 to 15 minutes.

The brunt of Kirby's work with the radios comes from the Mt. Vernon police department which has five full-time officers.

Kirby said that he had tried to talk with Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary Cromer about the problem, but that so far he had gotten little or no cooperation from the Mayor.

"He (Cromer) indicated to me that we had plenty of money and could continue to operate the dispatch. But money simply is not the problem, we don't have time to dispatch the call and something has to be done," Kirby said.

Cromer said Wednesday that the city of Mt. Vernon certainly could not afford to bear the cost of a dispatch system. "It would mean hiring extra people and buying more equipment, I simply don't think the city can afford that kind of expenditure at the present time, but I am working on it," he said.

Cromer said that it would take at least four people to run the dispatch properly and they would have to have training.

"It is just going to take time, and I told Billy (Kirby) that I would bring it up at the next council meeting," the Mayor said.

Admiral's son trying to clear father's name

By: Jim Griesch
The Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, made an indelible mark on history and the American people.
Perhaps no other family has felt the harshness of the day as has the Kimmel family.
Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, a native of Henderson, was Commander of the Pacific Fleet, based at Pearl that fateful day.
He was relieved of duty, forced into retirement, and subsequently accused of being solely responsible for the disaster at Pearl, along with Gen. Walter C. Short, commander of the Army's forces in Hawaii, charged with the protection of the harbor itself.
If "Pearl Harbor never dies," for the American public, as has been written, it is severely so for the two surviving sons of Kimmel.
Edward R. Kimmel, now 68, a retired Navy officer and attorney, has spent the last several years trying to clear his father's name, restore his official retirement rank to full Admiral (from Rear Admiral), and place the blame on others.

He may have a strong case.
Last Thursday, he made a strong case for his father in a speech to the first Pearl Harbor Commemorative Association's meeting in Lexington.
Sitting three feet from him as he spoke was J. Daniel Howard, the Under Secretary of the Navy.
In his speech, "Ned" Kimmel said, "There is no question today but that blaming him was unjust. A Naval Court of Inquiry which subsequently investigated the disaster found Admiral Kimmel blameless and approved Edward's disposition of forces in light of the information available to him. Washington's errors and omissions in processing, analyzing and disseminating intelligence to him as well as the failures of Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Harold R. Stark, and Army Chief of Staff, George C. Marshall, to exercise 'superior judgment' are now well documented."

Edward Kimmel

Admiral Husband E. Kimmel

Kimmel described a high-level cover-up, saying that Pearl Harbor ranks above Watergate and the Iran-Contra affairs as cover-ups.
Edward Kimmel, who died in 1968, forced post-World War II hearings and investigations by Navy administrators and Congress.

Kimmel pointed out that the original investigation, done by Supreme Court Justice, Owen J. Roberts, was a shoddy, unjust investigation which did not take recorded testimony, and refused Kimmel access to the testimony until 1943 and 1944, and denied Kimmel counsel.

The investigation found Kimmel guilty of dereliction of duty.
Instead, Edward Kimmel says that there are many unanswered questions about what really happened in Washington and other places.
He says new evidence has been uncovered through British sources that show that England was reading Japan's JN 25 Navy codes as early as 1939, and that a steady stream of information was spied to Washington.
A television show seen over the Arts & Entertainment network on Monday, Dec. 4, supported this contention.
Kimmel, and the show, say that when British Prime Minister Winston Churchill's secret papers are made public sometime before 2025, those papers will show that President Franklin D. Roosevelt and others high in the administration and military knew of Japan's plans to strike Pearl Harbor in advance of the attack.

Kimmel's speech also detailed how he and brother Tom, another retired Navy officer, had forwarded from the Secretary of the navy's office to the Secretary of Defense to appeal their father's retirement standing in 1988.
That request was sent to the Secretary of Defense of Dec. 7, 1988.
The request asked that the paper be sent to President George Bush, the only man who could restore Kimmel's rank, but the papers were not forwarded.
Kimmel said a Department of Defense memorandum said the information merited consideration, but that the brothers had not provided sufficiently compelling grounds to support the conclusion that Admiral Kimmel's being on the retired list in the grade of rear admiral constitutes an injustice.
Kimmel says the real reason the McCollum named president in 1990 of Commemorative

By: Jim Griesch
Rockcastle native Ellis McCollum chaired the first-ever Pearl Harbor Commemorative Association Committee, and was elected president for 1990 at last Thursday's business meeting between sessions of the Commemoration-at the Radisson Hotel in Lexington.
McCollum was 12 at the time of the attack. He enlisted at age 15 in time for the end of the war, but was mustered out of the Army until 1947, when he turned 17. He spent five years in the Army, and has not lived in Rockcastle since.
He said he heard of the attack on radio in his Stafford Cane home that afternoon.
He has lived in Lexington since 1960, and works at IBM Corp. there.
Ellis O'Neal of Carrollton is the current Kentucky chairman of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.
There was a PFC stationed at Eva Field, a Marine Corps Air Station that is now Barbers Point Naval Air Station, just southwest of Pearl.
He said that there are currently 82 Kentuckians who are members of the association, and there are still 10,000 members nationally, but that number is down from 60,000 at the beginning of the association.

pilots that day, they flew so low, so close to the ships they struck.
Ebner said there were four men on the signal bridge when the attack began, and that they ran into the conning tower above the bridge for protection.
"We heard the machine guns, and I went to find a friend..." he said.
Later, he talked about pulling people out from below deck areas. The West Virginia sank, but upright, thanks to counterflooding by damage control people.
The scene made a lasting impression on Ebner. "The men, some floating, some dead. All that oil..." he remembered.
He said he went to the submarine base across the harbor from Battleship Row after the first attack, then stood watch aboard the Tennessee that night.
Tennessee was relatively little damaged because it was more or less protected by West Virginia.
But, Tennessee was wedged between West Virginia and the mooring quays. It did suffer damage from shrapnel and flaming debris from the Arizona, as well as the horror of body parts falling on her decks from that ship.
Ebner later saw duty in the Pacific aboard four destroyers, from the Solomon to Leyte Gulf, and a destroyer where the last ship, Newcomb, was hit by five Kamikaze planes.
He also participated in the 1946 Bikini Atoll Atomic Bomb test.
Edward Denzer, another Kentuckian present last week, was aboard the USS Charles F. Hughes, a destroyer on convoy duty in the late summer-early fall of 1941. They were escorting a convoy off Newfoundland when the Reuben James, another U.S. destroyer, was hit by a torpedo from a German sub, and sunk. That action came before the attack on Pearl Harbor.
The next Commemorative will be next year, in Indianapolis.
The Commemorative will hold its 1991 meeting in Washington, D.C. That meeting will mark the 50th anniversary of the attack.
The Pearl Harbor Survivors Association has regional and national meetings every year.
Several of those at last week's meetings say they have been to at least one of the national meetings, and some say they want to be at Pearl Harbor in 1991.
Some members say they haven't been back to Hawaii since the end of the war.
One survivor had an interesting anecdote.
Charles McGehee of Calhoun, who was aboard the cruiser Detroit on the morning of the attack, almost began and ended the war at the same spot.
The Detroit was tied up to mooring quays on the other side of Pearl Harbor almost exactly opposite the Arizona.
The Detroit suffered only machine gun holes in its stack from the planes

Clark gets court okay to seek area graves

Wayne Clark of Louisville has been given the go ahead to dig at a Clima field for the graves of at least 14 people.
The graves date back to Revolutionary War days. The go ahead was gained through a Rockcastle Circuit Court Civil Suit, filed in December, 1988.
The field is on a farm inherited by Fred Mullins, Jr. from his father.
Clark visited that field in October, and had a grave marker obtained from the Daughters of the American Revolution for Revolutionary War soldier William Abney, who was in the Continental Army and present at Yorktown, Va., when the British surrendered, ending the war.
He says that Abney, his wife Judd Clark Abney, William and Charity Ballinger, Andy and Mandie Abney Ballinger, Sarah Ann Clark, Chastice, James Chastice, Hiram McGuire, James A. and E. McGuire, and at least four others are buried in a portion of the Mullins field.
That field was in tobacco last summer.
In an affidavit filed in support of the suit, Clark says he "remembers seeing tombstones and fieldstones bearing the names and initials of deceased persons on tombstones and fieldstones located in an alleged cemetery."
Clark had brought the suit to stop what he claimed was the desecration of graves caused by the working of the field.

Renfro Valley "Christmas Gospel Fest" will be held at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16 in the Old Barn at Renfro Valley. Three of Kentucky's finest Gospel groups perform a special holiday program.

Thousands of Kentuckians traveled "over the rivers and through the woods" to Lexington Monday night to participate in the 2nd Annual Kentucky Christmas Chorus at Rupp Arena. In celebration of the holiday season, the group sang traditional Christmas carols and enjoyed solo performances by Melissa Baber, Othello Pamphrey and The Lexington Singers. Members of the Mt. School board approves audit for FY 89; adds pick-up date

The Fiscal Year 1989 Rockcastle County Schools audit report was accepted as written by the firm of Garstka, Lawton & Clontz last Thursday night by the board of education.
The report detailed expenses and income in the $8.8 million budget.
Of that, some $7.6 million was in the general budget, with another $1.2 million added for capitol outlay and grants.
Superintendent Bige Towery said he expects the general budget to still be under $8 million for Fiscal Year 1990, despite a five percent increase for teachers' salaries in effect this year.
The audit was presented by Joe Clontz.
In other business in the 105-minute long session, the board:
• Redesignated Carl Clontz as the board's attorney for the 1990 calendar year. This is at least the 12th year he has been so retained. He will be paid $3,600, to be paid in two equal increments.
• Hired as substitute teachers: Trina Bustle, Cynthia Fields, Betty Luck-singer, William Reynolds, Sherry Upton, and Cheryl Welch. That brings to about 40 the number of authorized teaching staffs for the system.
• Decided to add a third weekly garbage pick-up of two dumpsters at Mt. Vernon School.
Towery said that with the number of students, and the amount of refuse generated, require an extra pick-up day. The cost will be an extra $78,400 per month.
• Approved school trips on Dec. 8, Dec. 11, and Dec. 18, for various classes and schools.
• Approved a fund raising project for Broodhead School which will go toward funding a spring trip.

• Approved participation in the Kentucky School Board Insurance Trust workers' compensation program for the 1990 calendar year. The premium will remain the same as this year.
• Approved the low bid purchase of food service supplies.
• Approved GED certificates for Kimberly A. Badger, Gary M. Kerns, Robert M. McFerron, Anna M. Mullins, Robert F. Ramsey and Janice A. Young.
• Approved the payment of bills, and the minute of the Nov. 7 and Nov. 16 meetings.

Christmas for a corresponding number of days equal to the number of days missed this month.
The way the schedule had been organized, students would have taken end-of-six-weeks tests over two days (separated by a weekend) then take the end-of-semester tests over two days just before heading out for the holiday break.
Cash said he would like to give those tests at the end of a week upon return, but dates will be established later, determined by the number of days missed this month, due to inclement weather.

Winter weather means changes

In a semi-related matter, Towery said Monday that three days have already been added to the end of the current school year, because of lost days due to weather.
School was originally scheduled to end May 8, but that the end date had been set back to May 11.
Other days missed, such as Tuesday's day out because of snow, will similarly affect the closing date of the 1989-90 school term.
An official end-of-school announcement will probably come later this school year, after the winter-weather season is over.
Additionally, high school students will see the traditional end-of-semester tests delayed until after students return from the Christmas holidays.
Cash said Tuesday that the tests would be delayed into the return from

What do you think about these items...?

Reality for the University of Kentucky's basketball team was more like a nightmare for a guy who had eaten an anchovy and onion pizza just before bedtime.

Kansas obliterated Kentucky 150-95. That's the worst defeat for a Kentucky team since long before Adolph Rupp became coach. In fact, Rupp was still in school the last time something like it happened to a UK team.

In years past, there would be a lot of teeth gnashing and vows to get even with Kansas for running up the score. Which coach Roy Williams did to some degree.

He put three starters back into the game with about eight minutes left and clinging to a 40 point lead. He did that after Pitino refused to discontinue pressing Kansas.

Williams didn't empty his bench until he built the lead to 60 with over three minutes to play.

Williams said the margin of victory was Pitino's fault. It was. To a degree.

Pitino drew two technicals for hopping on three Big Eight Conference (Kansas's affiliation) for homering UK. They did. But, Kansas would have won anyway.

I haven't seen any of the Kansas papers' stories or columns. But, I wonder if there was any reference to UK humiliating Kansas several times in the past.

There are scores like 72-38 in 1951 when UK held the dedicatory game in Memorial Coliseum.

There was a 115-85 blowout in the Dan Issel years.

Add in a 100-63 pasting.

I wonder if any of the columnists wrote about getting even.

Nobody did in Kentucky.

Even when the announcer on Pitino's TV coach's show tried to draw him into comment about "wait 'til next year (Kansas pays another visit to Rupp Arena), Pitino demurred.

All he said was something to the effect that people shouldn't make idle comments like that, especially when Kansas will have 6-9 forward Mark Randall back for his senior year.

Pitino, instead, publicly accepted the blame for the loss. Much of the margin of the defeat can be directly traced to his decision to continue pressing long after the issue was settled, which led to many easy baskets for Kansas.

Instead, Pitino simply talked about getting ready for Furman on Dec. 19, and hinted that the Kansas series is probably dead after the 1990-91 season.

It will be dead not because Kansas beat UK unmercifully. It will not be dead because Pitino doesn't, deep down, want to repay Williams.

Pitino wants to recruit in New York, New England, along the east coast, in Chicago, Detroit, and other urban areas.

Look for Kentucky to play at least one or two games every year in New York or Chicago, maybe in Washington, D.C.

Look for Pitino to recruit urban players who can run and jump. Look for Pitino to find bigger, stronger players than he has now who can play full court all day.

Look for Pitino to recruit in Louisville.

What all of this is, really, is healthy.

Pitino isn't wasting nervous energy worrying about Kansas and laying plans to murder the Jayhawks in Rupp next year.

He's simply laying the foundation for UK to reappear in the 1992 NCAA tournament. That's when UK will be eligible again.

That's healthy.

His cool demeanor is healthy. Pitino doesn't look like the guy who will have a heart attack worrying about something he can no longer do anything about. Kansas 150, Kentucky 95.

What Pitino has done is taken up an offensive approach to defending UK's status as a top-flight basketball program.

Instead of worrying about North Carolina replacing UK as the winningest college program of all time, Pitino is simply getting UK ready to win 25-30 games a year again.

People who think it will take four, five, six or seven years to return UK to a national championship position are wrong. In basketball, because of the need for only three or four players, it won't take UK more than three to be a team that can reach the Final 16.

If Pitino stays at UK into the 21st Century, watch for UK to resume its stance on top of the college basketball world.

Getting Pitino to stay at UK for 10, 20, 25 or 30 years may be the toughest trick of all.

Here's what's different about the slick New Yorker.

1. He's a positive approach type guy. He never publicly addresses a situation from a negative point of view. That's refreshing.

2. He isn't worried about what happened 30, 40 or 50 years ago. He isn't into defending that. He's into building from the point he arrived in June. That's healthy. He's not carrying any emotional garbage into his years at UK.

3. That doesn't mean he doesn't respect that tradition. He's just trying to use what's best for him. That's healthy.

4. While the situation could change at any time, Pitino refuses to engage some of the petty writers around the UK program in stupid stories. He doesn't let himself be boxed in by silly scenarios by silly reporters. That's healthy and refreshing, too.

5. What has been enjoyable is to see the crowd in Rupp have FUN. Coaches who used to root-like more the home court advantage Rupp provided over the years haven't been anything yet. Watching the fun for the fans is fun. It is refreshing. It is healthy.

6. He won't let writers who keep referring to him as a "New Yawhawk" get in the way of his objectives. Rupp was from Kansas by way of Illinois. In the way he won, he was a Kentuckian. After all, an admitted cheater coaching at another school in Kentucky is from California. That coach hasn't had to defend that anytime recently, or ever.

Kentucky fans don't care where a guy is from ... as long as he wins.

Kentucky fans don't care if he has a perm (which Pitino doesn't but his predecessor did), or wear nicely tailored clothes (which Pitino does), or talk with an accent (which Pitino does, but so did Sutton and Rupp).

Pitino seems to be addressing the only two things that count in college basketball today.

Win lots of games. Make lots of money.

If Pitino does the first, he'll accomplish the second.

No yo-yo writer in Kentucky could rip Pitino for either, unless he spins the guy from California.

Won't happen. One writer may try. Pitino is above that silly game.

But, he's not above winning, and making it fun for the fans.

That's refreshing.

Wounded warrior's return lets Lincolin edge by Lady Rockets

"It was the best game we've played all year," mused coach Judy Bullock this week, after her Rockcastle County Lady Rockets dropped a 57-52 decision at home to Lincoln County.

Lincolin had a weapon of its own, 6-0 senior center Maggie Cox, who poured in 28 points in just three quarters of play.

She made the difference. Cox, who reportedly wasn't due to play until January, following a knee injury in practice this fall, came off the bench last Thursday to score all her points after the Lady Rockets had roared out to an 11-6 lead after a quarter, and had upped it slightly to 18-11 minutes into the second frame.

Lincolin took the lead at 22-21 for the first time and the two teams played leagrop with the lead the rest of the way. The five-point margin, said Bullock, was Lincolin's biggest lead.

She said that Lincolin had a four point lead late in the game before Angie Senters hit a three-pointer to cut it to one.

With seven seconds left, the Lady Rockets had the ball after a missed foul shot, but turned it over on a walk.

The Lady Rockets dropped to 1-2 on the year, and are off until this Thursday's game with McCreary Central at home.

After the McCreary game, they have just a home game with Pineville on Dec. 19 left before the Christmas holidays.

The Lady Rockets need to win both games to hold a winning record going into the 1990 portion of the schedule. Cox, easily led all scorers in the Lincolin game.

She got a lot of help from senior guard Jackie Duff, who had 13. Between the two, they scored all but 16 of the Lady Patriots' points.

Stephanie Northern's 13 points tied Duff, and led the Lady Rockets.

The only other Rockcastle player in double figures was junior guard Angie McClure, who scored 10. There were some bright spots for the Lady Rockets.

Donna Harper had eight points, her best outing of the year. She also led the team with 46 rebounds.

April Burton also scored eight points inside, and had seven rebounds. Senters had six rebounds, and the team had a total of 46.

The Lady Rockets also had just seven turnovers, especially good, following a passing-catching nightmare at Williamsburg the previous Monday.

But, Cox was a major surprise to Bullock. She said Lincolin coach John Kolassa said she had been given a

Corbin loss puts frosh at 0-3 mark for season

Corbin's freshman team proved Monday that Goliath can beat David. The young Roundbuds stopped Rockcastle County 51-41 in a 5:30 p.m. game played at Rockcastle County High. The Rockets are now 0-3 on the year.

The taller Corbin players simply dominated inside the paint, both in scoring and rebounding. And, they used that size advantage to close off passing lanes on a sometime stifling press.

They led 15-8, then 25-19 at the half.

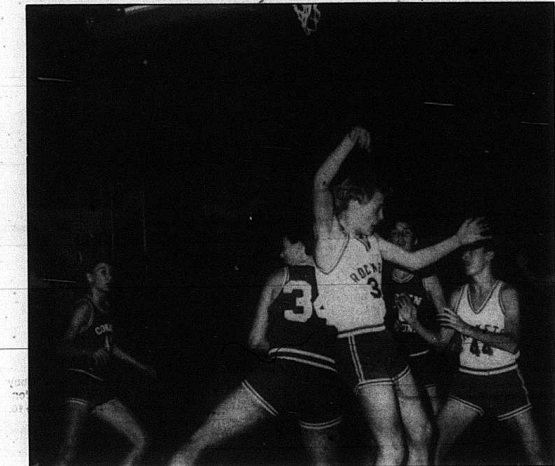

They took complete command of the game with a 12-7 run in the third quarter.

Mark Mims, the tallest player on the floor, had 14 points, both from outside jumpers and easy shots off high passes inside. Jason Estep and Toby Curry each had 10.

Diminutive Sean Mullins, easily the smallest player on the floor, sparked Rockcastle with eight, including two three-point bombs.

Doug Smith also had eight, and Jason Kirby and Michael Steve Al-

Homecoming rescheduled

The Rockcastle County basketball Homecoming has been rescheduled for Saturday, Jan. 6, barring more snow, freezing rain or other inclement winter weather.

A junior varsity game will be played at 5 p.m., with the varsity game to start about 6:30.

The opponent is the same Rose Hill Academy of Ashland. The game was postponed from Friday, Dec. 8, due to the snow which fell on the county that morning.

The queen will be crowned at the half of the varsity game.

The traditional Homecoming Dance will be held after the varsity game.

Rowe, Hines make all-state team in paper

More post-season honors roll in for Rockcastle County High football.

This past Sunday, in a vote of the state's coaches, fullback Kevin Rowe and offensive tackle Scotty Hines earned honorable mention status.

The all-state team was announced by The Courier-Journal in Louisville, the annual team posted by the paper.

Rowe missed making the squad in a vote of the state's Associated Press writers and radio/TV people, but Hines earned defensive tackle recognition on that team.

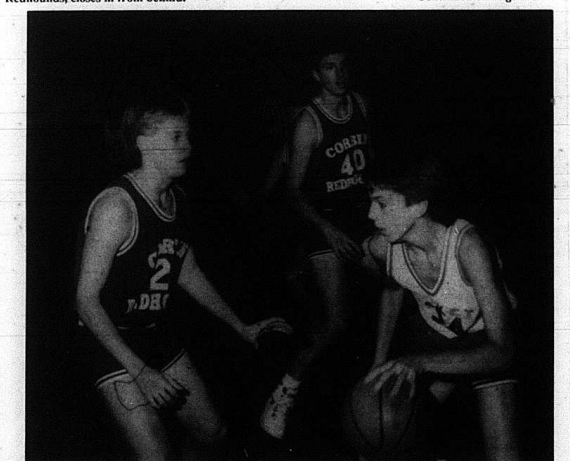

Rowe is the leading career rushing in coach Tom Larkey's era at RCHS, gaining 2,109 yards in four years. The fullback had 905 yards this season, 916 as a junior. He also holds or tied records for touchdowns from scrimmage in a season, and for tackles as a linebacker.

Hines set a record with six sacks on defense. Offensively, he was the man the Rockets ran behind at will, especially late in the season. He was outstanding enough that backs consistently gained yardage even when he flip-flopped from right to left tackle.

That was a giveaway to other defenses, but the plays still made yardage.

Mt. Vernon nips Roundstone

In junior high action last week, Mt. Vernon took a highly competitive 55-49 win over Roundstone in an "A" game, overcoming a 25-24 halftime deficit with an 18-12 workout in the third quarter.

Jason Fletcher had a county season-wide high of 29 points to lead the way. No other Red Devil scored in double figures.

That was enough to overcome the 14-point trifecta posted by Roundstone's Marvin McCollum, Shawn and Shane Thacker.

In the "B" game, momentum switched back and forth wildly.

Roundstone outscored Mt. Vernon 14-5 in the third quarter, but Mt. Vernon posted 15-3 and 12-4 advantages in the second and fourth periods, respectively.

That was good enough for a 45-30 win over the Eagles. Kenash Hopkins had 18 for Mt. Vernon. Jamie Linville had seven, to lead a balanced Roundstone effort.

A Mt. Vernon player accidentally hit a basket for Roundstone during the game, adding to the wild nature of the contest.

The Broadhead Tigers rolled to a 9-0 record on the season with a 65-19 demolition of Livingston last Thursday.

Monday's game kicked off a string of four straight games.
Barring snow, the frosh Rockets were scheduled to play Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, all on the road. They were to have played a Bera Tuesday, at Richmond Model Wednesday, and at Lincoln County Thursday. Next Monday, the frosh play Northern Pulaski to close out the pre-Christmas portion of the schedule.

The action marked the first game of the year for the 6-5 Albright, who suffered a hip injury in pre-season work.

All-state honors

Larkey said last week that to make honorable mention, a player needed a mention by at least two coaches.

Rowe is a senior and has completed his high school eligibility. Hines is a junior who will be back for the 1990 season.

Thomas Jefferson was the first president to wear long trousers instead of knee-breeches.

Mikahel Shaffer scored 17 to lead the way. Jason Scoggins added 16, and John Kirk had 10.
No Livingston player had more than four points.

The game was over early, as Brodhead almost doubled the score by the end of the first quarter, 17-9. The margin jumped to 24, at 35-11, by the half, to ensure the win.

The Tigers also won the "B" game, outscoring Livingston 46-29. Devin Graves had 16 for the young Tigers. Jason Northern had nine, Jamie Medley eight for the Blue Devils.
Snow wiped out all of the games scheduled for Monday and Tuesday of this week.

As of press time, coach Gary Scott of Brodhead had rescheduled his Tigers' Monday game at Stanford for Monday, Jan. 15.

Tuesday's round-robin county schedule which had Brodhead hosting Mt. Vernon and Roundstone at Livingston, will be rescheduled shortly.

Admiral's son request was not granted was stated elsewhere in the memorandum.

It said: "This case will continue to attract attention, arouse emotions, and coalesce individuals around the different approaches to individual responsibility and institutional responsibility."

That memorandum was written toward the end of the Reagan administration.

So far, the Navy nor the Department of Defense have done nothing more to forward the request to Bush, said Kimmel.

The present Secretary of the Navy, H. Lawrence Garrett III told the Kimmels that it would be inappropriate to resubmit the request to the Secretary of Defense.

Kimmel calls that a simple run around.

He also said the Navy tried to have the Frederick R. Harris engineering firm fire Kimmel, for whom he worked during and immediately after the war.

Harris had been awarded a contract from the Navy to rebuild Guam after the war, Kimmel said, but the Navy said it would cancel the contract if Kimmel had anything to do with the project.

Kimmel would have headed the work effort by the Harris firm on Guam.

Howard, when asked specific questions about Kimmel's status, refused to address the matter. He said he thought that the total tragedy should be addressed, and not the travails on a single person.

He also said he did not know that Kimmel was to speak just before him.

Gen. Short's son, Walter Dean Short, now 69, also spoke to the commemorative.

He's still bitter about what happened to his father, but he's assumed a much less active role in his father's behalf than have the Kimmels.

Gen. Short died in 1949, and Dean Short says his early death was brought on, at least in part, by the frustrations of being hung out to dry by the Army.

Kimmel said in his speech that over 100 books have been written about the attack on Pearl Harbor.

Some recent books have taken up the argument about responsibility, and who knew what.

Authors John Toland, John Costello, and Roger Pehau have strongly suggested that Roosevelt knew of the Japanese plans, and deliberately let the attack happen in order to put the United States into an active role in the war.

They point to missing pages in the files of formerly top secret military records that were opened to public scrutiny in the late 1970s.

They point to changed testimony by officers in a position to have information and knowledge during the various investigations.

They point to reports of Japanese radio transmissions picked up by listening posts in the United States.

There is the now famous "east winds rain" message, which supposedly was sent by the Japanese in the days just ahead of the attack.

Radio analysts have insisted the message, code for an attack on the United States at Pearl and in the Philippines, was sent. However, no record exists in any of the opened files.

One message that is on file is the "bomb plot" message translated and read in September, 1941, which divided Pearl Harbor into areas on a grid that military people say could only mean an aerial attack.

Kimmel also spoke of a "new" story, one in which journalist Joe Lee told him of a meeting with Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Lee supposedly wrote a story in which Hull told him, several days before the attack, that the Japanese would attack Pearl on Dec. 7.

Only one paper, Kimmel said, the Honolulu Advertiser, picked it up and ran it. Kimmel said that even Navy intelligence experts could not believe the story.

With authors now fighting among each other over who is right, it may take well into the 21st Century, and the release of the Churchill papers, to prove their points.

If that happens, odds are that both Kimmel brothers will be long dead before they can possibly clear their father's name.

There was a third Kimmel son, Manning, who went down with the submarine Rohalo, which is believed sunk by a mine in July, 1944.

Admiral Kimmel grew up in Henderson. He lived in a house at 512 N. Green St. The house no longer exists. It is now the site of a Buick dealership, Kimmel said.

The most positive word for the restoration of dignity to Admiral Kimmel and General Short came in 1986, from the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

At an annual meeting, PHSA members voted unanimously to absolve either commander from blame for the disastrous attack.

Mt. Vernon native Roy Northern helps Scott County student Hirohisa Fukuda place an axle on a model car during the November 29 dedication ceremony of Phase I of the Power Train plant at Toyota Motor Manufacturing, U.S.A., Inc. in Georgetown.

Mt. Vernon native participates in Toyota Dedication ceremony

Mt. Vernon native Roy Northern participated in Toyota Motor Manufacturing U.S.A., Inc.'s dedication ceremony on Nov. 29. The ceremony officially recognized the completion of Phase I of its Power Train facility in Georgetown. Northern is a team leader at the Power Train facility, adjacent to the Camry assembly plant here.

The dedication ceremony represents the first of two production phases at the Power Train Plant. Phase I, which officially began operations on one shift in November includes assembly of the four cylinder engine. A second shift will be added in Summer, 1990.

Phase II is scheduled to begin in Fall, 1990. Phase II will add machining of major engine, axle and steering components. Once complete, the Power Train facility will produce 300,000 engines annually.

In addition, the Power Train facility includes major machining equipment from U.S. manufacturers, which represents Toyota's effort to procure U.S. machinery, as well as parts and materials.

Toyota Motor Manufacturing, U.S.A., Inc. currently employs 3,000 and of those 3,000, 95 percent are Kentuckians. Toyota has hired employees from 109 of Kentucky's 120 counties. The Georgetown manufacturing facility is now producing 200,000 Camrys annually. As previously announced, in 1992 a total of 40,000 right-hand-drive vehicles and 100,000 engines have been targeted for export to Japan.

Rockcastle Transit recognized as Outstanding Section 18 Grantee

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet-Division of Mass Transportation and Kentucky Public Transit Association (KPTA) jointly conducted their public transportation conference on October 10-12 at the Galt House in Louisville.

At the closing session of the three day conference, KPTA recognized drivers, dispatchers and volunteers who had provided special services throughout the year. The Division of Mass Transportation presented an award to a transit system of each region for outstanding transit service. Among those recognized was Rural Transit Enterprises Coordinated (RTEC) as the "Outstanding Section 18 Grantee" for Eastern Kentucky.

Division Coordinators Ann Estes and Flora Parker presented an award to Shirley Cummins, Director of RTEC. Rural Transit Enterprises Coordinated was recognized for its management qualities, efforts in coordination and increased ridership and revenue miles.

The job pays $5.50 an hour, and census workers are reimbursed 24 cents per mile for vehicle expenses. Persons must be 18, although younger persons with a high school diploma may be considered.

Great Performances on KET presents Nureyev's Cinderella

As part of its holiday programming, KET will air Great Performances' "Nureyev's Cinderella" at 10 p.m. Friday, December 29.

The two-and-one-half hour Cinderella production by the Paris Opera Ballet has Rudolf Nureyev both as choreographer and a very different kind of Fairy Godmother. Sylvie Guillem dances the title role to Prokofiev's score; Charles Jude is the dashing prince, transformed for this version into a handsome movie star in 1930s Hollywood.

Images of former Hollywood stars and Hollywood speculators are evoked in this opulent production costumed by Japanese couturier Hanae Mori. However, "Nureyev's Cinderella" is still the story of a young girl, ridiculed by her stepisters and stepmother, who longs to leave her cinders and ashes for a better life.

Hayes celebrate 30th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Hayes of Mt. Vernon celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary this past week. Linda also celebrated her birthday. Their children surprised them with a supper at Berea. Mr. and Mrs. Hayes were married in Jellico, Tenn. Dec. 2, 1959. They have been blessed with three lovely children. Sharon Rae Bishop married to Robbin Bishop of Brodhead; Loyde Alvin Hayes married to Loretta Howard Hayes and Brenda Faye Hayes who resides at home. They have one beautiful granddaughter Jessica Shantel Hayes. The Hayes would just like to say that they thank God for their family, and for all the many years they have had together and hope to have many more happy years together.

An Old-Fashioned Christmas

A speech given by Billy Hiett at the Main Street Tree-Lighting Ceremony December 1969

The theme for our program tonight is an old-fashioned Christmas, but I don't have time to elaborate on that. We must get this program under way; there are only 20 more shopping days left.

Tonight marks the beginning of our Christmas season in Mt. Vernon. I am here to welcome you.

Two years ago, as you may recall, the schoolchildren had an extended Christmas vacation because of snow and ice. A boy came into the store after it was all over and said, "You can say one thing. We sure had a big Halloween." Small wonder. We have rushed the seasons so much that the poor boy did not know when one season started and another ended.

Christmas is many things to each of us. To me, Christmas is the rustle of shoppers' feet, the clanging of cash registers, apprehending shoplifters, promoting sales and searching for lost layaways, keeping Santa supplied with candy.

It means tired legs and weary feet, long hours and short tempers, hustle and bustle, staying in late on the 24th, too tired to enjoy the 25th and opening again on the 26th to a wrecked store.

That's what the younger generation calls "doing your thing." That's what the older generation calls commercialization.

Then there is the customer. She comes in the first of November and says: "Where are your Christmas cards? Don't you have your wrapping paper out yet? Where are Dancercina and Swings?"

She says as she departs: "They have all their Christmas out in Lexington—and Richmond—and Berea, Conway, Roundstone and Wildie." Perhaps she is the one that later gets caught in the mad, mad rush, hurrying and worrying, pushing here and rushing there, seeking frantically for last-minute gifts, shopping more and enjoying it less, crowding every second with attention, minding the kids, wishing they were back in school and wishing her husband was back at the office.

She's busy attending social activities, visiting the family, decorating trees and wrapping gifts, all in the short span of a few hurried days.

That might have been her son that came into the store after it was all over and said, "You can say one thing. We sure had a big Halloween."

And I reply, "Just wait until next

Thomases to celebrate 50th anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Dewey Thomas invite their friends and family to share in the celebration of their fiftieth wedding anniversary. An open house, hosted by their daughter and grandchildren, will be held at their home on Lambert Road in Rockcastle Co. on Friday, Dec. 22 from 6 to 9 p.m.

You have just heard a description of a maxi Christmas in a mod, mod world. But, "Virginia," we might say, "There is a real Christmas, an old-fashioned Christmas."

An old-fashioned Christmas was a composite of many things, but the most noticeable was the absence of hurry.

If you were born before the '40s, if you lived in the '30s or the '20s, you have experienced an old-fashioned Christmas. The most bountiful thing that they had besides apples and oranges was time. There was plenty of it. No money to worry about, no place to go. People took time out to give and to share themselves with others. They gave a portion of themselves. Perhaps we can capture a little of that spirit by the following story.

This is best exemplified by a too-successful businessman who became aware of his selfishness. That Christmas he decided to give his son a different type of present. He sat down and wrote him a letter and placed it under the tree. The next morning when his son opened it, this is what it said:

Dear Son,

I hope you aren't too disappointed, but for Christmas this year, I am giving you all the things I have never given you before. I am going to give you my time. This year we will take those long walks in the woods we have talked about. We will go fishing together and I will go down to the ballpark with you. We will put up that basketball goal that I have neglected. And we will even take a vacation. This year, son, we are going to spend a lot of time together.

Merry Christmas.

Your dad.

The little boy read the letter, rushed up to his father with tears in his eyes, hugged him, and said, "Daddy, that is the best Christmas present I have ever had."

That is what I would like to welcome you to tonight—an old-fashioned Christmas. There is still time to catch that spirit. It is not too late. Merry Christmas to all.

Holiday customs from Germany told on KET in A Christmas Calendar with Loretta Swit

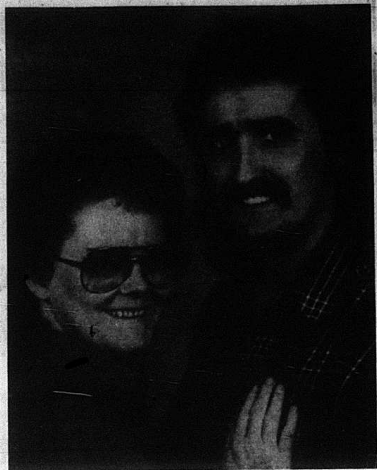

A German Christmas is a family celebration, and one of the children's favorite holiday customs in Germany is the Christmas calendar. This special calendar begins December 1 and has 25 little doors, one for each day of the Advent season.

A Christmas Calendar, airing on KET at 4:00 p.m. Thursday, December 21, is a family-oriented special hosted by Loretta Swit (M*A*S*H), who opens the doors of the Advent calendar just for viewers.

LET US PRAY FOR THOSE WHO CANNOT SHARE IN OUR JOY

There is something that we all need to remember during this holiday season. Throughout history there have always been those who are not able to share in the joy and freedom that are such a normal part of our lives at any time of the year. Those unfortunate souls may live in the country in which they are denied their human rights by the current regime, or at times they have been hostages from another country, kidnapped and imprisoned for no reason. However, we need not feel completely helpless. We can tell our elected officials what we want them to do about it. Above all, we can pray for those people, wherever they may be. At your House of Worship, pray that one day all mankind will be able to enjoy our blessings of liberty. Then we'll truly have peace on earth.

GOD'S LOVE FROSTED THE SPARKLING BEAUTY OF WINTER

The frost descending in the night, Dispersing autumn's glowing light, Has left the trees with branches bare, And chilling winds will fill the air. Then one day soon, without a sound, The snow will spiral to the ground, In tiny flakes like lace so fine, With each one different in design. The evergreens will be aglow When weighted down with clumps of snow, And colder weather from the storm Will freeze the lakes, so ice will form. Your House of Worship has extolled God's love that shows, despite the cold, His promise of a new rebirth From winter's whiteness on the earth.
