This example should make it obvious that you can get adequate dietary fiber with good food and without supplements.

However, if you are considering some of the latest high-fiber items you've been reading about, these tips will help you understand what's what.

 Rice Bran - The part of brown rice that is removed during the making of white rice. Food companies have been promoting it as having blood cholesterol-lowering properties which scientists have shown to be true. This effect is similar to the effect other fiber-rich foods, such as oat bran and legumes, have on blood cholesterol.

 Barley - A grain with very high levels of cholesterol-lowering fiber spread throughout the whole kernel, not just in the bran.

 Dried Apple Fiber - A by-product of apple juice production. It has high amounts of fiber, but its effects have not been well studied.

 Psyllium - A fiber from psyllium seeds that is a component of many over-the-counter laxatives. It lowers blood cholesterol, but may cause consumer dependence on the product for regularity.

The bottom line of the fiber furor is that scientists don't know all the long-term effects of eating single sources of fiber. (A good example of single-source eating is eating one to two cups of oat bran daily for 10 years).

The tried and true sources of fiber, including fruits and vegetables, whole grains, and beans, peas and lentils, still are your best choices.

Eat a variety of fiber-rich foods each day and Enjoy the Taste of Eating Right!

Brodhead News

By: Mary McWhorter.

Mr. and Mrs. George Adams and Virginia were in Lexington last week for Bernice's check up and got a good report for the first time since her bout with cancer. We are happy for her and George and their sweet daughters and their families.

Mrs. Bernice Adams visited Mae Doan Sunday at her home, Mae is on the sick list. They also visited Walter at the nursing home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Adams visited Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Sargent and sons, Danny Bruce and Dennis, in Berea recently.

Mrs. Velma Pingleton visited her mother Mrs. Cuba Croley a few days and took her for her doctors check up in Lexington. She got a good report for a ninety year old.

Velma also visited me and my daughter Pat which we always enjoy very much. Velma visited Pingletons in Berea, her sister-in-law Gladys Cullers and son and her step-mother, Hazel Pingleton.

Recent visitors of Elva Mobby were Mr. and Mrs. Wade Thomas, Willie and Mabel Taylor.

Recent visitors of Roy and Esther Hubbard were Mrs. Nora Perry and Harold Harold and their grandson Danny Derring of Lexington spent two days last week with them and also Hubbard of Crab Orchard visited with them.

Last week visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Long were Fern Caldwell and daughter Carol Harris and grand daughter.

It was so good to see Mrs. Julia Daily and Mrs. Hazel Burdette at the Sewder Nursing Home. They were visiting Hazel's mother, Mrs. Bertha Burdette, who has been a patient there for so long. She and her late husband Leonard were fine people. They rented rooms in my house on Main Street when my children and I were so grieved over losing our husband and father Herman Singleton. The Burdettes helped us out so much I worked in their grocery store for quite awhile. They were like family to me.

I had dinner and a good visit with my sister and brother-in-law Willjo and Mabel Taylor one day last week. We are happy. Mabel was able to be back in church Sunday after having a lengthy illness. She is doing well. We hope Willie and Mabel will continue to do well.

Other visitors of Kevin Robbins were Fern Caldwell and daughter, Carol Harris and granddaughter, Clarence Fletcher of Tipp City, Ohio is visiting his mother and sister, Maggie and Audrey Fletcher and also visited his brother Charles and wife Patsy in Brodhead and his niece Mr. and Mrs. Ed Alcorn and daughters, Tricia and Lindsay in Berea Sunday afternoon.

Homemakers at Renfro Valley

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

Rockcastle County members of several homemakers clubs took advantage of the lower rates offered to them by The Renfro Valley Folks, Inc. to see Saturday, Mar. 3rd, early show at 7:30 p.m.

All of us should have clapped or yelled louder, so we could let the crowd know were there when our club was mentioned.

Since several other organizations were offered the same "deal", the old barn seemed filled by Rockcastle folks.

Rockcastle Hospital employees were well represented with 50 present.

Brodhead Willing Workers Club had more members present than other clubs from Rockcastle County.

Even the Citizen Bank group president, Bobby Proctor, was present. Also the owner, E.J. Taylor, came to represent Taylor's Produce.

A lot of the nights program was made up of people that live in Rockcastle County. What talent our county has in playing musical instruments, singing and comedy!

Ol' Joe Clark kept us laughing and so did the "Chicken" with his flapping wings and chicken sounds.

Some of us had forgotten that we don't have good entertainment in Rockcastle County. It's really worth a trip to Renfro Valley for an entertaining and "clean" show.

Fairview news

By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend, Sunday School attendance was one hundred and thirty nine and we thank the good Lord for each one.

Sympathy is extended to the families of George Mullins, formerly of Chmax and Bill Baker of Roundstone and others who have recently lost loved ones. They have our love and prayers during this time of sorrow.

Well, as the days are getting longer, the temperatures are climbing, the sun is warmer and so bright, the skies are so blue, the trees are budding, the grass is so green, flowers are blooming, birds are singing and the beautiful sound of frogs in the late evening, doesn't it make you so thankful to be alive? The good Lord has been so good to us down through the years and I'm sure we all appreciate it and praise Him for every blessing of life.

Guests of Mrs. Mary Cope over the weekend were her son and family Mr. and Mrs. William Cope and son Rocky of Dayton, Ohio.

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander Friday were a neighbor Mrs. Ray Isaacs on Friday afternoon and Mrs. Eva Blair of Fairview and Ann Baker of Richmond on Friday evening.

I recently enjoyed phone calls from two of my sisters Mary Jane Sorah and Myrtle Wilson, both of Ohio.

Mary Jane and husband Earl had just returned from Florida where they spent eleven days with their daughter Joan Williams, Mr. Williams and family. They enjoyed their stay so much. Mary Jane celebrated her birthday while there, which made the occasion doubly enjoyable.

Luther and Nancy Isaacs and two daughters Jennifer and Carol of Conway hosted a winter roast at their home Saturday afternoon and evening. Attending were Nancy's sister Kitty, husband Ken and sons Bailey, Cory and Kevin; and her brothers Kenny, Michael and wife Sherri and Gary and wife Angie. A large bonfire was enjoyed by all, adults as well as children. I'm sure this was a lovely sight and a wonderful evening together. I'm so glad they had this time together. The Pickle family has always been so close, loving and caring for each other.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander have recently visited her uncle Bill Gabbard and also Mrs. Nora Viars at the Berea Hospital; Mrs. Lula Alexander of Macedonia, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ingram and Mrs. May Gabbard of Berea.

On Wednesday night Mrs. Alexander and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Irene Alexander, visited at the home of Mrs. Bill Baker of Roundstone.

Hubert and I certainly enjoyed our overnight guess this past Thursday, my niece Carol Ruth Knapp of Wellington, Ohio and her daughter Tracy who is a student at Georgetown College. Bless their hearts they love coming here and we love having them. Carol has always been so close to us, almost like one of our children, and we love her and her family so much.

Others visiting in our home recently have been our son and wife Wayne and Carolyn and our daughter Joyce Seals and family. Our grandson Ricky Adams and my nephew Kenneth Alexander, our other daughters Janet and Dorleen and their families are in and out often.

Please try to be in church somewhere on Sunday. Let's not forget to pray for our neighbors and friends, we all need the prayers of one another. God bless all you young people everywhere, there are many temptations in front of you, but be strong and stand up for what is right. Live close to the Lord and He will help you. He is a loving and caring Father. Remember too, you have relatives and friends who love you.

God bless everyone who reads this. You have my love and prayers.

"School Board"

(Con't from second front)

Principal Ronnie Cash told the board that he was in favor of entering into the agreement with White because, for one thing, the school needed the extra equipment and the news program would be beneficial to the entire student body.

Cash told board members that he would screen the program each morning and if anything on the program was in anyway out of line he would not show the program that day.

He said the program would be shown during homeroom, so it would not interfere with other instructional time.

Although State School Superintendent John Brock has endorsed the program, the National Education Association has said it is a bad idea.

The contract between the school system and White will run for three years and, as part of the contract, the 12 minute program will have to be shown 95% of the time to 92% of the student body.

The commercials that will air during the broadcast will include such topics as blue jeans, candy, acne medicine and soft drinks.

No commercials on alcohol, cigarettes or birth control devices will be aired.

The program will be picked up via a satellite dish that will also be provided by White.

As part of the board's visit to Roundstone principal Bill Jack Parsons gave a profile of the school to the board.

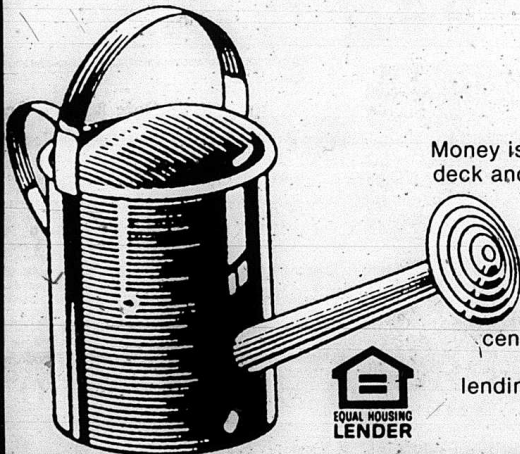

The majority of Parson's presentation dealt with a trip last Fall that Roundstone 7th and 8th grade students took to Pine Mountain Settlement School. All 7th and 8th grade students were taken on the three day trip which included class work as well as outdoor field trips.

In other business the board voted to hire Natalie Pybas and Troy Taylor as substitute teachers and Mike Lovell as a substitute bus driver.

In Eph. 6:1-3, we read "Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father and mother, which is the first commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest live long on the earth." Let's look at responsibilities that children have toward their parents, and the promise given for obedience.

First children are obligated to obey their parents "in the Lord" i.e. in view of what is right. Children should not obey their parents if they are asked to do something morally or spiritually wrong. If your parents wanted you to shoplift and steal, you must refuse to do so. If your parents wanted you to disobey God, you should do the right thing and obey the Lord. He must come first, Mt. 10:37. Obedience is the right thing to do. It is "well pleasing" to God. Col. 3:20.

Next, Paul said to Honor your father and mother which, of course, is done when we obey our parents. Yet, in time, we grow up and leave father and mother and are no longer under their rule and authority. But, Jesus shows us that honoring our parents involves taking care of them when they get old and infirm. Mt. 15:3-9. Paul uses the phrase "Respect your parents" in 1 Tim. 5:4 in describing this responsibility. The word require means to "repay" our parents by taking care of them when they get old and cannot care for themselves. A failure to take care of our own family (including parents), one is described as "denying the faith and is worse than an infidel," 1 Tim 5:8.

Finally, children have the general promise that things will be well with them and that they may live long on the earth. Children who learn to obey their parents' authority, will get along well at school, for they understand respect for authority. Even so, "in society they get along by obeying government and ultimately this lesson of obedience leads them to obey and serve God. Thus serving God, one avoids the "health hazards" of sin, like V.D., drunkenness, crime, drug consumption, envy, etc. Yes, beloved, it pays to serve God both now and the world to come.

17-year-old charged in death of newborn child

By: Richard Anderkin

An infant boy was buried in private services in Buffalo Saturday, only a short distance from where state police found his body last Wednesday afternoon.

The child was abandoned about four miles from the house where it was born, but its 17-year-old mother sometime Tuesday afternoon.

The mother, a senior at Rockcastle County high school, apparently had the child alone at home sometime Tuesday, then wrapped the child in a quilt, put it in a plastic trash bag and drove it to the spot along Ky. 1249 in Buffalo where she left it.

The eight pound infant was apparently alive at birth, according to Rockcastle County coroner Bill Dowell, who said an autopsy in Frankfort revealed the infant died from suffocation. "The child was apparently healthy at birth and the trash bag probably caused the suffocation," Dowell said.

State police and members of the local Sheriff's office searched the area for most of 20 hours before the mother and her attorney led them to the proper location.

The 17-year-old had concealed her pregnancy from her parents because she was afraid it might cause her father to have a heart attack, according to neighbors, who told the Lexington Herald-Leader that many people and some of the mother's friends knew she was pregnant, but that she had asked everyone not to tell her parents.

Police were first notified about the incident around 7 p.m. last Tuesday when the girl went to the Rockcastle Hospital with complications from the birth.

The girl first told police that the baby had been left in a wooded area near the Humana Hospital in Somerset.

State police using dogs and assisted by Somerset police searched near the hospital for several hours, but found nothing. At that time they interviewed the mother again, who had been transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

Police said the mother told them the baby was near her home in Buffalo around 3 a.m. Wednesday morning, but it was not until over 12 hours later that the mother finally led police to the baby's whereabouts.

Although District Judge Walter McGuire has told everyone involved not to talk about the case, police at London said Wednesday that murder charges had been filed against the mother and she is scheduled to appear in Rockcastle juvenile court March 21.

Public defender Jimi Cox of Somerset has been appointed to represent the mother.

Rumors have been rampant throughout the county about the incidence, but many of those rumors are untrue.

Apparently, the 17-year-old had the child sometime Tuesday morning at home by herself.

After the child was born, some friends of the mother called her from school and found out what was going on. They then drove to her home where they found the baby, which was reportedly alive.

Coroner Dowell said the autopsy could not show how long the child actually lived.

However when the mother arrived at the Rockcastle Hospital she did not have the child. That was about 7 p.m.

Police were called in and for the next several hours they searched frantically for the baby, but to no avail.

It wasn't until the mother and other family members arrived in Buffalo around 3 p.m. Wednesday that the child was located over a 40 foot embankment along the Buffalo road.

Grand jury indicts Margaret Alcorn

By: Richard Anderkin

A Mt. Vernon woman will face murder charges in connection with the shooting death of a six-year-old Mt. Vernon girl on February 1.

Margaret Alcorn, 28, was indicted Monday by a Rockcastle Grand Jury for the shooting death of Elvina June Curry.

The child died almost instantly after being shot in the back, while she sat in the back seat of a car at Cox's trailer park in Mt. Vernon.

At the time of the shooting police also charged a 17-year-old Pulaski County boy, Kevin R. McCoy with murder.

Police are not clear now whether the murder charge will continue against the youth. He is due back in Juvenile court on March 21.

It took hours for the Grand Jury to hear testimony from the nine witnesses, however Mrs. Alcorn was not allowed to testify as she had asked.

Alcorn will remain in jail, under the same bond until a March 23 arraignment before Circuit Judge Dan Venters.

Alcorn's husband Fred Alcorn of Mt. Vernon was also indicted by the grand jury on different charges.

Alcorn, 30, was indicted for tampering with physical evidence in connection with the shooting.

According to the indictment, Alcorn is charged with washing the hands of Kevin McCoy and cleaning the barrel of the gun used in the shooting. He is free on bond until his March 23 appearance in Circuit Court.

The shooting took place at the trailer of Ed Deborde in Cox's trailer park.

park. Police said that Elvina's mother Lana Curry and the Alcorns and Deborde had been "feuding" several days over money and the shooting occurred when Curry, her two children and two other people went to Deborde's trailer to try and collect some money.

Anticipation alumni band members

Robert Pybas, director of bands in the county schools, has had a desire for several years to gather graduating band alumni (from all schools) together for one more performance. He has several ideas about how it might be accomplished, and hopes that it would develop into an annual event in conjunction with the usual spring concert. Eventual success of his goal will depend naturally on response of the band alumni to this article and other efforts to gain information from all those graduating from the bands of the past. Mr. Pybas urges all these alumni to respond, even though they may not be willing to attempt performing with an alumni band. Family members or friends of alumni who may not have the opportunity to read this article can help greatly by passing this information on as soon as possible.

Alumni should respond by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the attention of Mr. Pybas: Alumni Band, RCHS, P.O. Box 247, Mt. Vernon 40456. This will then be used to forward information and a questionnaire about the band to all those who respond. It is imperative that alumni respond by March 23rd.

Mt. Vernon gets tentative approval of sewer project

By: Ray McClure

A sewer project extending from High Street in Mt. Vernon to the Norma Mullins project at Green Fish Hill, is "pretty much on the move."

So reported Mayor Gary R. Cromer at a called meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday morning.

Mayor Cromer told the council "tentative" approval has been made by the state for financing the estimated $580,000 project. He stressed the figures are tentative "but close."

The mayor said final approval of the financing could be concluded in about three weeks, and he estimated construction time at 60 days once bids are opened and awarded.

The money for the project will come from a $250,000 grant from a Community Development Block Grant and an estimated $320,000 loan at 3.2 percent interest rate for 15 years from the Kentucky Infrastructure Revolving Loan Fund.

The mayor said the payback years were moved up from 10 to 15 to make it easier on customers in the new area.

He related that all businesses in the new area will pay a surcharge.

If new businesses come to the area the surcharge will be adjusted quarterly.

On hand at the meeting was Mark Williams, public administrative specialist for the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, who along with the mayor discussed the project. Both Williams and the mayor were in Frankfort last week to discuss the project with state officials.

The mayor predicted steady growth for the Renfro Valley area that would benefit greatly from the new sewer. Renfro Valley folks, the enter-ment complex, is already doing well over several million dollars in new construction and re-construction. The sewer system is a must for the complex.

The mayor said several companies have indicated an interest in the Renfro area, but are awaiting a sewer system before deciding to locate.

He said a 60-unit motel is on the list along with restaurants and a second motel.

"All this will generate revenue for the city," the mayor declared, "it will also create jobs."

Also, past Lake Linville Road/Hummel Road on U.S. 25 Joe Allen has constructed a building for a record shop and souvenirs. Across from Allen, Willard Collingsworth is constructing a building for a country store, craft shop and Sue's Fashions.

Reportedly, a mini-mall will be constructed in the area to the north of Allen's record shop, but no official notice has been made. One report has the builders as BVA Management Co., of Nicholasville, but officials of that company were not available for comment.

Lawsuit over school milk bids

Attorney General Fred Cowan has filed a federal lawsuit on behalf of 119 county and independent school districts in Kentucky against 15 suppliers of dairy products.

The lawsuit, filed in U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky, alleges that at least as early as 1979 and continuing through at least 1988, the defendants and others conspired to rig bids on contracts to supply milk to county and city school districts throughout Kentucky, including Rockcastle.

The school systems collectively spend over $13 million annually to purchase milk and the lawsuit alleges that the defendants' illegal activities have resulted in overcharges in the millions of dollars.

In Rockcastle, the school system in 1988-89 year purchased 530,683 half-pints of milk for a total of $84,938 from Southern Belle of Somerset.

The Southern Belle bid in Rockcastle was $17.72 less than the total bid of Flav-O-Rich of Louisville and London. Both companies are in a list of 15 companies in Kentucky, Indiana and Tennessee charged by the Attorney General.

Cowan says he is bringing the lawsuit on behalf of the schools and children of Kentucky. "Bid rigging of this type is a corrupt business practice which, in this case, has dealt a severe financial blow to many of Kentucky's school systems."

Arrest made in booze case, thieves arrested in Brodhead

Break-ins, booze and vandalism kept police on the run over the weekend.

It all started in Mt. Vernon about 5 a.m. when Policeman Jack Fortner was called to Foodtown on U.S. 150. Someone had thrown a brick through one of the door glasses. The building was not entered.

About 6 a.m. Fortner discovered a burglary at Cox Hardware on Main Street. Upon investigation with owner John Cox, it was determined thieves took two shotguns, two .22 caliber rifles, one over and under shotgun, several pocket knives and an undetermined amount of money.

At 8 a.m., a broken glass was found at Food Fair on Williams Street. Someone had pushed an outside soft drink machine into the window.

At 8:25 a.m., a window was discovered broken at Franklin's Used Cars in Westgate Shopping center. According to Cowan, the bid rigging has had a direct impact on the prices Kentucky school districts pay.

Cars in Westgate Shopping center.

At 9:15 a.m. Charles V. Falin reported to police that three speakers were taken from his truck on Newcomb Ave., along with six cassette tapes and a hunting knife.

At 10 a.m. Junior Blanton reported a stereo was taken from one of his cars and a set of speakers from another vehicle at his home on Perciful Street.

At Brodhead, Policeman Joe Bussell had his problems early Monday when he was alerted that someone had broken into Foodland supermarket through a back door.

Bussell hurried to the store and followed the thieves on foot to Castle Village. There he surprised two men in a car which Bussell said was littered with money, including change and bills, food stamps, rings and necklaces.

He arrested Randy Graves, 26, of Lexington, formerly of Mt. Vernon, and Mike Denny, 22, of Rt. 5, Mt. Vernon. The car was impounded. It was a late model rental car from Lexington.

Both men were indicted by a grand jury for third degree burglary and theft by unlawfully taking over $100. They remain in jail under $15,000 cash or property bond.

It was the fourth time Foodland had been broken in.

Sheriff deputies Phillip Chesnut and Darrell Doan, and State Trooper Jimmy Silvers, had to do some work when they made their arrest.

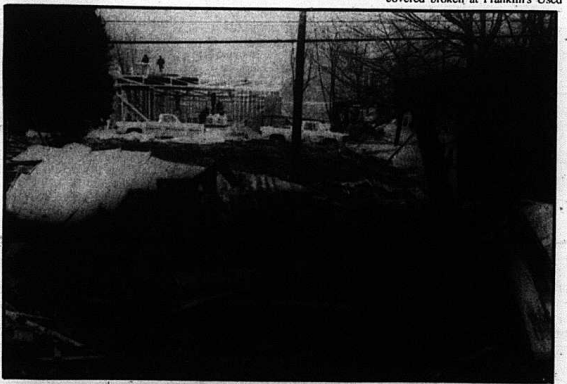

The trio was manning a traffic check on Ky. 461 about 10:30 p.m. Saturday south of U.S. 150 when a van was stopped with a case of beer showing through a window.

Officers arrested James B. Alexander of Rt. 2, Orlando, when they discovered (and counted) 66 cases of beer and 35 bottles of whiskey and vodka in the van.

He was charged with illegal transportation of alcoholic beverages for the purpose of resale. He posted 10 percent of a $4,000 bond for his appearance in district court March 26.

Deputy Sheriff Phillip Chesnut display beer and liquor confiscated from a van Saturday night at a traffic check also manned by Darrell Doan and State trooper, Jimmy Silvers. Details are in accompanying story.

Work crews were busy last week demolishing Old Main Street at Renfro Valley to make room for the new Renfro Village which is scheduled to open May 1. Nine specialty shops and the old Red Bud Schoolhouse will be included in the village which is just a part of the million-dollar dairy expansion project going on at Renfro Valley.

Our Readers Write

Recently I discovered another trash dump in Rockcastle County. There were food cans and bottles, old appliances such as washers and dryers, one kitchen sink and what looked like a bulk pesticide bottle.

All of this garbage was over a hillside. Some of it was in a creek that every wind blows in Livingston, near their water supply.

Some people call this "solid waste". It isn't, really. All of us produce this waste. Every time I drink a carton of milk or drink a soft drink, that package has to go somewhere.

"Solid Waste" goes to the landfill. Trash and garbage go over the hill, out in the back yard or in the sink-hole. Some of it is tossed out on our roads or in parking lots.

Our society has gotten away from blaming people for their actions. Those who do wrong are misjudged or were abused when they were children.

Some people claim that those who throw trash in our rivers and over the hill are too poor to take it to a collection site. Well, I'll agree with that. They are pretty poor examples of humanity.

A few weeks ago, I saw an attractive woman in a nice car pull into a parking space at a food market. As she got out of her car, she dropped a soft drink cup and kicked it under her car.

When I saw that, I knew there were two kinds of trash there. One was the discarded cup. The other trash was the woman who put it there.

There is an old tradition in eastern Kentucky that says, "It's my land and I can do what I want." Sometimes this is true and sometimes not. Would anyone claim that he could shoot a gun on his own land and not have to worry where the bullet went?

Each time someone dumps garbage into a sinkhole, he helps destroy the groundwater for his neighbors. Every time the wind blows over the trash dump behind the house, it blows some of that trash onto the people next door.

When I see a house with a burned pile of rusty food cans beside the barn, I know that those people are considerate enough to cook food for the rats.

Every time I see where someone has thrown garbage out the car window or over the hill, I know the rat trash has been there, the human trash.

Even if that trash pile behind the house isn't obviously hurting someone else, I lose some respect for the residents when I see it. After all, if those people are sorry enough to foul their own homes, who knows what other nasty habits they might have?

Fortunately, there is a cure for this type of trash. If people just cared enough about their self respect to take care of their own trash, we would all feel better about our county.

Dear Editor:
Being how this paper reaches so many people and everyone wants to hear both sides of the story, which was being told, I'd forgive all the stoner and deal with the trash.

Truth is there are only three factories in Rockcastle County. Together they employ about 589 people. There are about 9100 people in Rockcastle County eligible for work.

Truth is MVP makes a difference in this area a difference of approximately 374 jobs in this county that could have been 374 jobs out of this county, had not MVP decided to build here.

Truth is this county needs industry, needs jobs, and MVP has created jobs for individuals in the county who want and need to work.

Truth is MVP promotes people from within. People who started working for the plant as janitors are now working for the plant as supervisors, local people. Their policy on promotions simple. Promote people from within the company whenever possible.

Truth is MVP has given a lot of opportunities to people in this county who may not have had that opportunity, elsewhere.

Truth is, I can't tell you about Unions. I don't know much about them. Last time I heard any big news about Unions was on my TV at home.

2500 people were out of work. That doesn't sound like job security to me.

Truth is MVP has never been a better place to work. Never better jobs, never better opportunities, never a better way for this county to keep people working in the county.

Truth is I'll vote for a local, my local MVP.

Now, I challenge the Union Organizing Committee to write the truth about the Union they have put their trust in. I should know I've been there since day one.

Your issue of 3-1-90 was nothing short of a blessing. It showed the "No Hope" School of way back in 1920's. I was 10 years old then, also it showed my sister Dorothy, my brother Aster, my name is spelled wrong, it is Naomi not Norma Durand. But how happy it made me to receive this issue.

Dear Editor:
Even though my high school basketball career has been over now for 2 years, my interest in the high school program has not.

It has come to my attention that some people in this county think that it is time for a coaching change. These people obviously don't realize what a drastic mistake this would be.

I was a sophomore the first year that coach Perkins coached at our high school.

(Con't to A-3)

With less than a month left in this year's session, the pace of the General Assembly is building up to a fever pitch. The legislature has considered and acted on many important and vital pieces of legislation that will benefit all of Kentucky but we also have a long way to go. We have yet to address the most important issue of the session: the rebuilding of our entire public school system.

The Task Force on Education Reform issued its report this week and the committees are hard at work analyzing and amending it. I want to assure you that my efforts regarding this legislation will be to ensure an outstanding educational system for our children and to make sure that funding it will be accomplished in a fair manner. I am not yet convinced that the package on the table will achieve this to my satisfaction, and I promise I will not support it if it does not. I hope to be able to tell you more about this landmark legislation next week after committee scrutinization begins.

On the floor of the House this week, we dealt with the most controversial measure of the 1990 Session to date. Known as the Humana Bill, Senate Bill 68 exempts Jefferson County from state regulation of healthcare facilities. In essence, this measure was intended to allow Humana hospitals to build a premium health-care facility in Louisville.

After squeaking through a House committee, this measure came to the floor for the first time on Wednesday and generated the longest debate of the session. After 90 minutes of deliberation, the House defeated the measure by a vote of 46-47. But a procedural maneuver allowed the initiative to return to the floor two days later where it was passed.

As we reach the last working days of the session, I hope that any person who wishes to express an opinion on a subject a bill will let me know, particularly as we begin discussions on the education reform. As always, you can leave a message for me by dialing 1-800-372-7181 and help me achieve the best possible results for the people of this state.

Have you ever gotten behind an automobile and the license tag read, "HOUSE"? That means the car belongs to one of our State Representatives. No kidding. They passed a law sometime back that allows them to have a special license tag so the state cops would know just who it was they were about to pull over before the hit, the blue light switch.

"HOUSE", the tag announces, and then it's got the number of his district on it.

Sometimes you'll get behind a car that has an "X" on the license plate. That's supposed to mean the car belongs to an automobile dealer.

"Dealer's axe", I've heard it called like "X". Car dealers can purchase a special license that enables them to drive anything on the lot with that one tag without having to run back and forth to the courthouse all the time. If there's an "X" on the license tag, the car is supposed to be for sale, as I understand it. Normally it hasn't had any taxes paid on it in a long while.

I have a friend who swears he saw an 80 model station wagon advertised that way in one of these used car dealer circulars that he'd paid over a dollar for. "Mint condition," the ad said. "You know a car dealer well enough, a new law they've just passed will allow him to keep you behind the wheel of an used automobile and you'll never have to pay a nickel of sales and tax on the car you drive. For $12.50, the dealer can put a license tag on the car and sort of loan it to you. If you can't afford that trip to the courthouse and still make a down payment, maybe you can work something out. All you'll have to be willing to do is drive a car that's got a "Dealer's Axe" on the license tag.

This new law will cost you seven hundred dollars in lost revenue if it is followed to the letter and all car dealers get right with the Lord. Not a single State Representative voted against the bill that will create the new law. Only 5 Senators voted against it. Guess who threw one $50 bill of a reception for members of the General Assembly just a night or two before the vote came up. The Kentucky Automobile Dealer's Association.

Don't you wish you'd been right there beside your legislator at that one? Talk about a party. I'd give ten dollars to know what they were serving at that one. Talk about your job time-snoozing.

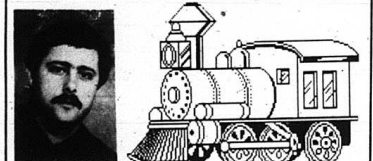

"And yet they're down there trying to convince us that they're really serious about education reform. They're putting pieces in the paper telling us worried citizens what a good job they're doing and how much they despise special interests just like the Governor does and then pull one like this."

My goodness, they must think education is in much worse shape than I think it is. The General Assembly must in fact think that we stupid. Glasses won't help anyone who can't see what's going on here.

Kentucky without a single thing to improve its education system as long as we sit by and let crap like this happen. This is an abject example of what is wrong with political decision making in this state. Why don't you call the Kentucky Automobile Dealer's Association to draft up an education reform bill? They seem to be able to get anything else they want passed without all this arguing. Just call her up and raise your hand so we can get out of here.

Only the Governor's veto can prevent the new Dealer's Tax law from going into effect. You should write and encourage him to do so. You should also write your Senator and your State Representative and tell them that if they do not vote to sustain the veto, they shouldn't even bother coming back to town.

I'm serious about writing the Governor. He says he's going to veto the law, but let's stay on him before he starts thinking about it. Let's face it, the man is going to be out of a job in less than two years. He may start thinking about getting into the automobile business himself. I can just see him driving through Liberty in a new Caddy and his special license plate on the back.

Several years ago a country music singer wrote a song entitled, "Attitude Adjustment," or something along that line. And it is quite obvious to a lot of folks that many Kentuckians need just that.

The Kentucky General Assembly will probably make many of the Task Force on Education recommendations law in a few weeks, but unless many, many people decide they want a better education for their children, most, if not all, of the changes they want to see implemented, none will take place.

It is sort of like the old cliché, "you can drive a horse to water, but you can't make him drink."

Teachers and administrators can make a concerted effort to provide better education for Kentucky's students, but unless parents decide they are going to make their children attend school, do their homework and take a vested interest in their education, all of the education reform in the world will not help.

I think education reform to a certain extent will occur. I think better qualified teachers will be placed in the classrooms and I think the good teachers, and there are many of them now, will accept any changes and work toward making their classrooms places where all students have the opportunity to get a quality education.

But, you see opportunity is the key word. In my mind students who have wanted to excel have always had the opportunity to prepare themselves for whatever they wanted to do. But I'm afraid that for many, things will remain the same.

They will continue to care less whether their children get a good education or not and will care less of the gold at Fort Knox will not make the majority of our students do better and learn more in public schools. It simply will not happen. Education reform must begin at home.

As I drove around the county with my family Sunday afternoon, I noticed that the terrible trash dumps that we have in Rockcastle County are still there. I also noticed that some headway has been made by folks who have committed themselves to cleaning up the county. And I wondered why anyone would willfully discard their garbage on someone else's property and help create a nasty, pungent stink. It reminded me that until people began caring what the county looks like, we will always have a garbage problem of some kind.

It can all be cleaned up, but until people decide to stop breaking the law, it will not be cleaned up.

Of course, the past couple of fiscal years can be blamed to a certain extent. The state told them repeatedly to implement a county-wide garbage plan and to stay out of trouble with the state court but members simply did as little as they could and called it a garbage plan. The whole time they got away with it, telling how long it will take and how much money it will cost to clean these dumps up, once county workers begin that task later this Spring.

County Health Inspector Steve McNeil summed it up pretty good this week in a letter to the editor, when he wrote that there is no kind of trash. The actual garbage and the people who dump it illegally.

We are carrying the tragic story of a mother's abandonment of her newborn child in this week's paper.

Although we have known the mother's name from the outset we have elected not to print it. Legally we could, but it was our feeling that because she hasn't been charged with anything, she is still a mixed up child who may need any more anguish.

And if you are wondering why we did not have any more on the story last week, we simply were not notified by police who apparently wanted to see themselves on television or their picture in the Herald-Leader.

Of course the next time they want a picture of their third grade D.A.R.E. program we'll have to see how interested the Herald-Leader is about that.

The first month of the season was a disaster. We were way below .500 and were beaten soundly in 3 games at Estill County's Christmas Tourney. But coach Perkins wasn't about to give up. He made a lineup change which included inserting 2 sophomores into the starting lineup. (Neither of which were me.) This was frowned upon by some juniors and seniors and they quit the team. Most coaches would have begged them back and feared that it being his first year as coach would get the county against them right off the bat. But not coach Perkins, he just told us that he only wanted people that were willing to accept their role and only people that wanted to play. From that point on I respected him and I guess I always.

Anyone who knows him knows that being a coach isn't only a way to make some extra income to him but in his fact his life. It is not an exaggeration to say that he works 365 days a year trying to produce a winner.

When I read in the paper that he had chest pains that were diagnosed to be caused by stress it was to no surprise to me. He hurts inside when his team loses.

I must agree wholeheartedly with people who think that we need a change. But firing coach Perkins is not the answer. Maybe if everyone tried backing what the coach feels is right and respecting his decisions would help immensely. I can guarantee any member of the committee that hires and fires our coaches, any parent who wants the best for his child or anyone who wants our county to succeed that coach Perkins will put the best 5 players on the court and will make the decision that is best for the team.

He is a person who doesn't care if you have a dime in your pocket or if you can't afford to buy your gym shoes, if you're worthy of playing time you'll get it, if you're worthy of a compliment, you'll get it and if you're worthy of a chewing out, you'll get it.

Let's don't forget that there are only 16 teams that make the state tournament each year and only one state champion.

There is definitely more to playing high school basketball. Such as discipline, hardwork, leadership and self-esteem. And it is safe to say that anyone who has the guts to stick it out four years will grow not only as a basketball player but as a person under coach P.

About 10 years ago, Larry Woods came into the county and started little league football and baseball. Within the last couple of years our high school programs are starting to show the results.

Coach Perkins started the little league basketball when he got here and the 8th grade class of 89-90 is really the first group to benefit from it. Now that these kids are going to high school, we are going to get rid of the coach who is already responsible for their being able to have the chance to be at the level they are? No, I don't think so. Let's give him a chance to prove himself before we add him to the ever growing list of former RCHS coaches.

Dear Editor,

This is Linda McWhorter, this letter is to the people that bring garbage into my lot at Roadford. As you may have heard, I am moving my dumpster. However, one of my neighbors has taken upon themselves to see a lawyer in Somerset to stop me from moving them to my own property. They couldn't come to me and talk to me about it, they had to see a lawyer and have him do the talking for them.

I also talked to my lawyer and he and the judge told me I could put the dumpsters on my property.

When I move them I intend to have a fence around them and have caps on them. I called my so called neighbor and told him this. I was told they just didn't want them there. Well I don't really want them for neighbors, but I've got them.

We have to have garbage service.

One service is not enough and I fully intend to keep mine. I was told the smell might be bad. Well I can't be as bad as the sewer smell coming from the Life Center above us. They tried to tell me the wind blows from my way and it might become a nuisance. If it would be a nuisance to anyone it would be to me. I'm the one who has to take care of the people who bring in the garbage. If it's not a nuisance to me then why should it be to him.

I pay my property taxes as well as everyone else. I run the garbage service to help others, not to hurt them. The service has been here for over four years. Now what I want to know is, do you, the people, want this service or not? Do you want to drive out of your way like to Bar Hill or Conaway with your garbage? Please let me know, be it with an answer in the paper or see me at the lot. Talk to the judge tell him if you want to keep my service or not.

Thank you,
Linda McWhorter

Dear Editor:

On February 23rd, the fifth graders at Mt. Vernon Elementary had an experience they will never forget. They traveled to EKU's Hummel Planetarium to view the star show and a film. Next on their agenda was lunch at Berea's Boone Tavern. It was "very fancy" and "not like our lunchroom." The meal was sarged in courses and was a delicious experience. Last on their trip was a quick stop at McDonald's for dessert. They ended their day singing all the way back to school.

We would like to thank Forward in the Fifth, Rockcastle Board of Education, our bus drivers Floyd Bradley and Larry Travis, and our principal, Mr. John Hale, for making this trip possible.

Our students are extremely fortunate to have organizations and individuals who work to enrich their education. These fifth graders will cherish the memory of their "Rolling Classroom" trip.

Dear Editor,

Somebody's child is still being put in adult jails in Kentucky. Somebody's child, who has no criminal charges against him or her, continues to be slapped in the slammer with no chance for an alternative placement.

This is more barbaric and unjust than cockfighting. Can Kentuckians be any less outraged over their children than they recently were over their chickens.

House Bill 756 will help to achieve the deinstitutionalization and the jail removal of Kentucky children.

Some kids need secure detention. Most kids do not. None of them deserve to be put in adult jails.

Sincerely,
Mildred Aukerman

Dear Editor:

Alcohol is a drug you can get hooked on but it's produced, taxed and available. Yes, those driving while intoxicated - wrecking automobiles and killing innocent individuals - go to prison; but it's on the market for legal and illegal consumption.

At the same time, cultivation and distribution of marijuana results in a five year prison sentence for a Bourbon County man who must forfeit his farm, valued at more than $200,000.

KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY

Sweet & Sour

by
Zi Graves

The trip through the mountains of eastern Kentucky and into the valleys and hills of Virginia and finally into West Virginia was made through the rain and the road spray. Sometimes the rain became quite heavy but it was a fun trip anyway.

Bessie was along and as I've said before we can find beauty (faults too) in places that many people would pass by. You see, beauty is truly in the eye of the beholder. I love to see mist rising from the valley and disappearing in the mountains. I like to see a storm cloud hovering over a mountain or the sun just peeking over it.

This trip was made not only to visit Rod and Helen but to help Birch, my "littles" grandson celebrate his sixteenth birthday. That "littles" part is a joke between us. He is a six footer with broad square shoulders to match his height and not an ounce of fat anywhere. I call him my littles one because he is the youngest and therefore the smallest for years. He doesn't mind anymore for he knows, how much love goes with that phrase and accepts it with a grin and a hug.

This sixteenth birthday is always special for a teenager. They are just turning the corner into adulthood and are being recognized by law as being old enough to drive if the tests can be passed. More responsibility is placed on these young shoulders than they can sometimes handle. All the hormones in their bodies are calling for attention as well as their stomach, which seems to be always empty. The boys seem to shoot straight up out of their clothes and the girls burst them at the seams. I'm telling you this is a trying time in their lives. It's a fun time too.

So Bessie and I were there to help him enjoy this big birthday. And a big one it was.

The last time Bessie and I visited them we went to 4-H camp at Jackson Mills with them where he showed his prize cow. And afterwards took the same cow to the state fair at Lewisburg. The local 4-H club in his county competes in a fun exhibition of dressing a cow up in a costume and showing her in the exhibition ring. Bessie and I helped Birch dress his young heifer in a cheerleader. Bobby socks on her big old feet, pink crepe paper ruffled skirted around her belly, and pig tails made from braided baler twine tied over her ears with a big pink crepe paper bow on her head. He was dressed as a football player and led his cheerleader around the ring to a standing ovation.

This visit we went to Charleston to the high school band competition state wide. Greenbrier Est High school of Fairlea W. Va. has a band of which he is a member that is rated as one of the best in the country. He plays the saxophone in all three segments of it, concert, jazz and marching.

I listened to all the bands as they played from an adjoining room but when Greenbrier was announced I joined the crowd watching. I'm glad I did for when that tall handsome young man stepped forth from the saxophone section and put the sax to lips and with knees half bent and eyes squinted shut, let to with music that only a sax can make, I wanted to stand up and yell, "that's my grandson".

That's what grandmas are for any way. Cheer them when they do well, encourage them when they falter and lift them up if they fall. And above all do each of these with love and understanding. If they make mistakes remember we weren't perfect either. And the kids of today have many more pressures on them than we did.

I'm having to do a lot of changing of my ideas to be able to accept and tolerate the standards of today's youth. But they will make it just as we did.

Birch's birthday didn't stop with this performance, it continued on to the next day. His other grandparents and Aunt Lue close by and they all got together for a big dinner. He is not only my "Littles" one he is their only one. You would think a kid like

The problem's solution is to tax and control hemp as both a medicine and fiber crop, using the new tax dollars to attack the hard-drug market and provide needed service and income to our farmers. Yeah, getting our priorities straight.

this would be spoiled with all the attention he gets but he isn't. Love and attention doesn't spoil. It's the lack of sufficient love to discipline and train a child that causes them to do the things we call spoiled. At least this is what I believe.

Since his dad was Air Force officer and moved about from assignment to assignment Birch could have been called an "Air Force brat" but was never a brat. (A brat is the kid of an associate). He was taught early to care for and love animals. Siberian Huskies were raised as a hobby and he did his share of showing them and caring for them. He was as playful as a puppy himself and could keep us in stitches with his jokes and pranks.

Once after I had sprinkled all the grandchildren down with the hose on a hot August day he played one of his pranks on me. I had sent them to play while I scrubbed my porch. Suddenly a stream of water hit my backside and when I whirled around to see where it was coming from I saw this giggling little curly headed boy fleeing around the corner of the house. When I finally caught him and between fits of laughter from both of us he explained his action. He said, "I was squirting you down like you did us. He was only 3 or 4 so I explained the difference in sprinkling down hot and sweaty little boys and drenching a grandma. Of course he knew what he was doing and had fun doing it. And of course I had fun chasing him down and pretending I didn't know he knew. He has always been a special joy to have around.

I'm sure you folks that read my column and don't like to hear about my grandchildren, will be glad to know I only have two more to go. Their time will come sooner or later.

My grandchildren are a very important part of my life and I only write about important things.

Please have all news items in the Signal by noon Tuesday.

Awards Banquet
By: John Holbrook

For the teams annual awards banquet
Twenty thousand people hung around
And each one took part in an up lifting sound

They had supported this team all all year long
I can never remember when love was so strong

Couch Piino was responsible so give credit to him
When no 20,000 fans
he brought the banquet to them --

Along with Carwood Ledford and the help of a few friends
Couch Piino presented the players with trophies not pigs

There was Happy Chandler out on the court --
He's in his nineties
and still quite a sport

To him was presented
"Fan of the year"
With joy in his heart
he shed a tear

To Reggie Hanson he presented the "Chandler Leadership" award
Reggie in his own right is quite a card

To Piino's assistant coaches for
"Best Defense player" were cited
Between Billy, Herb, Tubby and Ralph, it'll be divided

"Outstanding Senior" was really a tough call
But Derrick Miller
was the best one of all

To John Pelphrey and Reggie Hanson
the "Mr. Deflection" award came Cause when they were counted they came out with the same

Also upon Pelphrey "Best Playmaker" was bestowed
He thinks pass before shoot, and it showed

Hanson getting the "Most Valuable Player Award" was no surprise
Then 20,000 cheering fans from their seats did arise

But Deron Feldhaus really cleaned up by receiving three.
"Mr. Hustle" "Most Improved" and
"Fewest Turnovers," not to see

Then there was Richie Farmer from the county of Clay
And he's the "Best Free-throw shooter" any old day.

Hanson's name is called and he comes around
He blocked out and got the
"Most Rebounds."

Pelphrey won the best
"Student Athlete Award"
And this only comes from studying hard

Then Coach Piino got a high when presented a photograph of Kentucky with his sons forming the "Y"

The twenty thousand banquet was just a twist
But I consider it to be the very best

Almost Spring
By: Mayzell Ries

Spring is just around the corner
The birds are starting to sing

Wake up, wake up you sleepy heads
It's almost Spring.

The buds are starting to emerge
From the branches on the trees
Pretty soon the leaves
Will be waving in the breeze.

I can hardly wait
For the flowers to bloom

So I can pick a bouquet
To put in my room.

The raindrops will come
To make the gardens grow
And we'll pick all the vegetables
Before the winters snow.

Local residents got quite a shock Thursday night when it looked as though everything at Renfro was burning down. But, as those who inspired found out, it was a controlled burn by the Mt. Endless Destiny

By: Karen Noe

The Road that I'm traveling
Winds endlessly in time
No path or direction
Just an endless game of mind.

So many people traveling
No destiny they hold
Trying to find the road that leads
To that happiness untold.

Til the path is clear and free
Find the Light that tells you
The path that sets you free.

president.
Twenty-five were present at this meeting and many of the regulars were either on vacation or were home sick. When they all get back in the spring we may have to put stretchers on the room. But that's o.k., the more the merrier. New faces mean new ideas and we need both. So come on out and join in the fun.
Our speaker for this month was Lynette Fortney, nurse, nutritionist, for the health department. She did an excellent job of explaining the dietary problems especially of the elderly. Many questions were asked and were answered in a way we could understand clearly.
Several people had birthdays and gave their donation to the cancer fund of a penny for each year old they were while we sang happy birthday to them. Our voices may be weak but our birthday wishes are strong.

Local communities benefit from Forest Service timber program

The Forest Service has analyzed the value of the timber sales program for 1989 and has produced the results in the Timber Sales Information and Reporting System. This report consists of three parts and evaluates the direct timber program income and costs, benefits to wildlife and recreation, and benefits to local economies as well as future investments.

According to Daniel Boone National Forest Supervisor Richard H. Wengert, "The greatest immediate benefits are found in local communities where the timber program provided the equivalent of about 648 year-round jobs which resulted in $1,366,849 of income. Counties with National Forest lands received about $283,542 in payments directly from timber sale receipts. These funds are for education and roads."

Mr. Wengert also stressed that over 33.2 million board feet of timber was harvested, providing products which ranged from high quality veneer for furniture and musical instruments to framing materials for homes and firewood for heating.

According to Mr. Wengert, "Some of the National Forest users are concerned that we spend more on producing timber sales than is gained in immediate financial returns. The Forest Service has similar concerns. All of the timber sales sold for over $1,166,849. It cost $2,331,158 to prepare and administer the sales and to reforest the sale areas. The result was that it cost $1,164,309 more than the dollar value of the sales. In addition," continued Mr. Wengert, "the income is reduced by 25 percent to return money to the counties, which contain National Forest land, for education and roads."

Supervisor Wengert stressed the fact that because of the past forestry practices, before the Daniel Boone National Forest was created, that the Forest Service must invest in the forest now to restore the vigor of the lands which were exposed to past exploitative logging and wildfire. "If an investment is made now, the Daniel Boone National Forest has the potential to grow some of the finest oak, hickory, poplar and pine in the country," according to Supervisor Wengert.

Through the Timber Sales Information and Reporting System, cost centers are identified and analyzed to identify areas where costs can be reduced. The second part of the report also identifies the value of future effects (positive or negative) to other resources and future costs associated with the program.

The Daniel Boone National Forest will produce this report annually for analysis and in order to keep the public informed about the benefits and costs of the timber sale program.

The full report is available to the public at the Forest Supervisor's Office, 100 Vaughn Road, Winchester, Kentucky 40391, (606) 745-3100.

"Severe Storm Awareness Week" (Con't from A-4)

During the approach of a tornado you should stay away from windows, doors, and outside walls. Always protect your head and chest.

In homes and small buildings, go to the basement or to an interior room on the lowest level, closets, bathrooms, or interior halls. Get under something sturdy.

In schools and nursing homes, hospitals, factories and shopping centers, go to predesignated shelter areas. Interior hallways on the lowest floor are usually best.

In high rise buildings, go to interior small rooms or hallways.

In mobile homes or vehicles, leave and go to a substantial structure. If there is no shelter nearby, lie flat in the nearest ditch, ravine, or culvert with your hands shielding your head.

Remember tornado watch means that tornadoes and severe thunderstorms are possible.

A tornado warning means that a tornado has been spotted or detected by radar and you should take shelter immediately.

Here's Hope. Jesus cares for you.

--WELCOME--

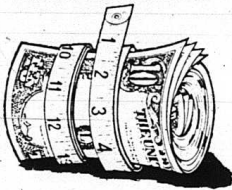

"Fields named coordinator" (Con't from A-4)

year is dedicated to Ellen Marie Haynes, a six-year-old solid tumor patient at St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

Ellen developed a malignant tumor in her abdomen which was diagnosed in June 1986. After treatment at St. Jude Hospital, which consisted of surgery, radiation and chemotherapy, Ellen Marie was taken off all therapy in January 1987. Although she isn't cured of her cancer yet, as long as she has people helping her through the Bike-A-Thon program, there is always hope. Ellen Marie is a living example of the research, patient care and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

We sincerely appreciate the concern that Lynnell Fields has for our work to help children like Ellen Marie, and we hope the citizens of Mt. Vernon will support the Bike-A-Thon this spring to help provide the funds needed to preserve the world's greatest asset...our children.

Several from here attend Gifted Education conference

The tenth annual conference of the Kentucky Association for Gifted Education met March 2-3, at the Executive Inn in Owensboro.

The Kentucky Association for Gifted Education (KAGE) strongly supports the goals of the General Assembly's Task Force on Educational Reform. We believe an improved educational system for all children is our state's highest priority. Many of the proposed reforms coincide with the objectives endorsed by this organization for the past ten years.

We believe the site-based management component of the reform package must mandate necessary and appropriate services for gifted children. Local school districts must not be allowed to determine if these pupils are to receive services, but how they will be served.

As the reforms will be implemented through continued funding of the current gifted education programs along with full funding for all children who need these services but who currently are not being served. Categorical funding for gifted students is critical if Kentucky is to assure that its most talented youth can be educated to achieve national and international recognition in their chosen fields. These students' development must not be merely an option at the local school level.

Further, the current debate on reform must recognize that the parents and children concerned about gifted education in this state represent not a special interest, but a special need. Their special need requires teachers with specific expertise in serving highly able children. This expertise includes goals adopted by the task force's Curriculum Committee, such as developing student abilities to think and solve problems, to connect and integrate experiences, and to develop self-sufficient individuals.

KAGE's 4000 members statewide -- parents, educators and concerned citizens -- are willing to support wholeheartedly reform efforts that guarantee an appropriate education for all students.

We also strive for greater acceptance by the general public and by our legislators that these students require an appropriate education, one that can enhance Kentucky's needs while allowing gifted and talented youth the same encouragement as other students to develop fully.

Those attending from Rockcastle County were: Betty Jo McKinney, 5th District Representative for the State Board of Directors, Carolyn Bryant, Gifted Ed. Coordinator and teacher, Debbie Cummins, Gifted Ed. teacher, Suzanne Thomas, Rockcastle KAGE Chapter President Elect.

"Lawsuit"

for their milk. Indirectly, it increases the price that Kentucky school children pay. He says that in some county school districts where milk contracts were awarded through true competitive bidding, the price of a half pint of milk has averaged under 12 cents.

"However, in other counties of similar size, school districts have been paying up to 17 cents for those same half pints of milk. The only explanation for the different prices in these counties is the lack of competition due to the rigging of bids," according to Cowan.

Cowan says the lawsuit could result in a substantial amount of money being returned to the school districts. "It is our contention that damages from March 1986 to the present total five to seven million dollars. We have not calculated the damages as far back as 1979, but obviously we're talking about a lot of money." Additionally, under antitrust laws, damages are automatically tripled. The lawsuit also seeks a permanent injunction preventing the defendants from engaging in any further illegal activity. Cowan says the way the bid rigging scheme works is that milk suppliers get together and decide who will win the contract for a particular school district.

"The winner decides what his price will be and notifies the other companies, who submit bids above that. All the school officials see is three different bids, which they understandably assume were competitive when they really weren't," according to Cowan.

Hire the Older Worker Week Proclaimed for March 11-17

Judge Roland D. Mullins has proclaimed the week of March 11-17 as Hire the Older Worker Week in recognition of the ability of older workers.

Green Thumb, a national employment and training program for older adults that operates in 46 counties, Kentucky sponsored by the National Farmers Union, joins Judge Mullins in commending the older adult employee to the business community. "Some local businesses who have hired Green Thumb enrollees have found that their older employees are productive, stable and loyal," said Green Thumb State Director, Deloris B. Kash.

According to U.S. Department of Health and Human Services studies, employees 55 years of age and older are as productive as their younger counterparts and further, employers who hire older adults report that they bring stability to the workplace and often serve as role models for younger workers. "The predicted shortages of younger workers beginning in the 1990's may well put older workers at an advantage that they have not previously had in the workforce," said Deloris B. Kash. "Employers are beginning to offer all their employees part-time work, shared job assignments and flexible schedules which are especially suitable for older workers. Green Thumb can match employees with potential older employees and can even prove some financial assistance with associated training costs."

The Kentucky Green Thumb program currently has 500 enrollees who are placed in subsidized jobs in governmental or nonprofit agencies. About 20 percent are transitioned to unsponsored jobs in the public or private sector every year.

For more information about hiring an older adult call Green Thumb at 606-464-3675.

Proclamation

By the year 2000, it is estimated that our country will have the largest and oldest labor force in its history.

In order to meet the future employment needs, America's employers must begin to more readily recognize and benefit from the experience and skills brought to the labor market by older workers.

Through organizations such as Green Thumb, Inc., older workers have the opportunity to demonstrate their unquestionable value as productive members of today's workforce. The experience, ability, and wisdom of our older workers must be maintained and supported by justifiable employment opportunities.

The 1990 Census-- a matter of trust

The Census Bureau is gearing up to take the biggest census ever on April 1, 1990, when it expects to count more than 250 million people and 106 million housing units across the nation.

Despite the size of the job and the massive amount of data collected, the bureau is pledged to protect the confidentiality of every individual's responses.

The success of the census is dependent upon many things - complete and accurate mailing lists, the ability to hire, staff and train about 480,000 temporary employees - but nothing is as important as the trust people must have that the data they provide will be kept confidential.

It's the law. Title 13 of the United States Code requires that census data can be used exclusively for statistical purposes and can be published only in a form that prevents identification of individuals. Only sworn Census Bureau employees are allowed to review census records.

Violation of the law can bring up to five years imprisonment and a fine up to $5,000.

The greatest concern to respondents is whether census data identifying individuals are shared with other federal agencies, the courts, police, or the military. The Census Bureau's reply is a resounding "No! We do not provide data identifying individuals to anyone". And this principle was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1982 when the confidentiality of census records was tested.

Title 13 does allow for the needs of the individual providing the census data. This means that an individual respondent or a legally authorized representative or beneficiary providing proof of identity can contact the Census Bureau's Pittsburg, Kansas office to obtain information from their own census records for purposes of age proof, residency, or other information on the forms.

Beyond this, census records remain sealed for 72 years, after which the National Archives and Records Administration opens them to genealogists and others studying America's roots and their own family histories.

All this adds up to a clear commitment by the bureau to uphold the public's confidence in a two hundred year old American tradition.

FmHA accepting preapplications for rehabilitation funds

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will accept preapplication packages from qualified public and private nonprofit organizations. These grant funds may be used to help repair and rehabilitate homes for very-low income and low income rural homeowners, FmHA State Director Mary Ann Baron said today.

Applications will be accepted until April 16, 1990, for these grants. The final approval and awarding of the grants is to be completed by the end of August 1990.

Ms. Baron said applicants must demonstrate a need for home repair and rehabilitation in the area to be served; an acceptable plan for selecting the individual recipients and assuring the quality of work performed; support for the program by the local government of the area to be served; and sources of other funds for additional support, to supplement the funds received from FmHA.

Ms. Baron said the HPG funds are awarded to applicants who are able to receive the highest total number of points, which is based on the information supplied to FmHA in the preapplication packages.

The State of Kentucky has been allocated $578,000 for the FY 1990-91 program. If there are enough eligible applicants who score very high with their ratings, then the state may be able to get some additional funds from the National Office reserve.

For additional information about the Housing Preservation Grant Program, prospective applicants should contact the FmHA District Office which serves the area where their repair and rehabilitation program is to be utilized.

A Weekly Report from Fifth District Congressman Hal Rogers

The Census: Snapshot of Today, Roadmap for Tomorrow

For the sake of every citizen of our Commonwealth, it is vital that every Southern Kentuckian answer the Census.

Not only does the Census help us identify and measure the problems we need to correct, it also helps us attract the necessary grants and loans that the government provides based on population and factors found in the Census. This 21st Census of the United States, on April 1, 1990, permits us to gauge where we have been, and point to where we must go.

For Southern Kentucky in particular, the 1980 Census was a watershed. In the Fifth Congressional District, the 1980 Census found America's slowest percentage of adult high school graduates (37 percent), and the fourth-lowest annual income per person ($4,470).

But rather than dwelling on our misfortunes, Southern Kentuckians used the 1980 Census to begin solving our problems of undereducation and poverty. For example, Forward in the Fifth was created to build grass-roots support for our schools, motivate our children to finish school, and assist our teachers in giving our children the best education we can afford. We are seeing results. Attendance is up, the dropout rate is down, and test scores are climbing.

Southern Kentucky Economic Development Corporation (SKED) was created to recruit industry and attract better-paying jobs to our region. SKED has helped recruit more than 7,000 jobs in three years.

Southern Kentucky Tourism Development Association (SKTD) was created to take advantage of our beautiful region's attractions to secure more jobs from tourism and promotions. Again, it is working. Jobs and revenues are up.

To help diversify our agricultural base, Southern Kentucky Agriculture Development Association (SKAD) was created. With SKAD, our farmers are seeking ways to double Southern Kentucky's agriculture income to a billion dollars annually by the year 2000.

Armed with information from the 1980 Census, we learned to face our problems and united across county lines to tackle them. Now, ten years later, Southern Kentuckians must once again join the whole nation in completing the Census.

Will our region show improvement? I believe so. When the 1980 Census requested information about education, one question asked whether a person finished high school. People who earned the equivalent of a high school diploma - a GED - were not considered to have finished high school. From my position on the committee that funds the Census, I asked for and succeeded in changing the question so that it considers a GED and a high school diploma equally. Since the last Census, thousands of Southern Kentuckians have earned their GEDs, and our 1990 Census statistics will indicate the level of our success.

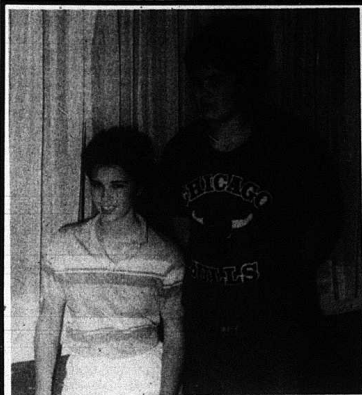

But no one will see any improvement, and no one will know which path to take, unless everyone in every town and hollow in Southern Kentucky completes and returns his or her Census form. Some people have told me they are afraid that the IRS or some other agency might use their Census answers against them. The truth is that the Census Bureau counts, then destroys every Census form they receive. Any Census Bureau employee who discloses private Census information will pay heavy fines and go to jail. Your answers are safe with the Census.

So, answer the Census as soon as you receive the form. Your response will help govern where we build our schools and our roads, how we care for the elderly, and how we shape a better life for our children. For a region with as much opportunity for growth as Southern Kentucky, your participation is crucial to our success.

Traffic accident sends one to hospital, one to jail

Police charged a Calloway man with driving under the influence following a two car accident on Main Street in Mt. Vernon Tuesday afternoon.

According to police, Brian Miller, 21, pulled his car into the path of Jamie Cox of Mt. Vernon as he attempted to turn left in front of the Rockcastle Courthouse.

Miss Cox, who was not wearing a seatbelt, was slightly injured when she broke the windshield of her 1987 Buick Somerset with her head.

Miller was not injured and is due in Rockcastle District Court March 28.

Jury finds Stewart guilty

A Rockcastle District Court jury returned a guilty verdict against a Orlando man following a trial Tuesday.

Timothy Stewart, 25 of Orlando was found guilty of D.U.I., and attempting to elude a police officer. A charge of escape was dismissed.

The jury recommended a total fine of $500 for both offenses. He is due back in court May 14.

McGuire sends Mt. Vernon woman to jail for 5 days

Rockcastle District Judge Walter McGuire sent a Mt. Vernon woman to jail for five days last week because her 14-year-old daughter would not attend classes at Mt. Vernon Elementary School on a regular basis.

Anne Forester, 34, of Mt. Vernon served her five days in the Laurel County jail because the Rockcastle County jail is not equipped to hold women prisoners any length of time.

McGuire also placed the 14-year-old child in the custody of the Kentucky Department of Human Resources, who later placed the 14-year-old in a foster home at Livingston.

Days Inn, Dairy Queen in operation this summer

Local dentist Dr. Dale Coffey announced this week that an investment group from Somerset, headed by Coffey, had reached agreement with the Days Inn Corporation on a new motel for Renfro Valley.

Coffey said that a 60-unit motel would be built on the four acre site his group purchased in January near the Renfro interchange of I-75. That project is expected to be completed sometime in August.

As part of the group's multi-million dollar project, a Dairy Queen restaurant is being built on the same site. The restaurant is expected to open in June.

Once in operation both facilities will employ about 50 people.

Guy C. Martin was busy Tuesday working on the area where a new Days Inn and Dairy Queen restaurant will open this summer.

Spring is here

Jim Perrin of Mt. Vernon got an early start on the mowing season last Tuesday as he cut the grass at a local housing complex. Perrin is one of many that do commercial yard work in the county and the recent warm temperatures have allowed most of them to get started on their summer's work.

Livingston gets money for water project

A loan and grant of $461,000 to the City of Livingston to extend the city's water system has been confirmed by U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers.

The new money will help build a water system to meet Livingston's water needs, Rogers said. "People in parts of the Livingston area will have clean, safe reliable water for the first time ever," Rogers added.

The Farmers Home administration (FmHA) is granting the city $181,000 and providing a long-term, low interest loan of $280,000.

Rogers said the FmHA funds will enable Livingston to serve 35 additional customers and when the community water system is completed it

Attention alumni band members

Robert Pybas, director of bands in the county schools, has had a desire for several years to gather graduating band alumni (from all schools) together for one more performance. He has several ideas about how it might be accomplished, and hopes that it would develop into an annual event in conjunction with the usual spring concert. Eventual success of his goal will depend naturally on response of the band alumni to this article and other efforts to gain information from all those graduating from these alumni to respond, even though they may not be willing to attempt performing with an alumni band. Family members or friends of alumni who may not have the opportunity to read this article can help greatly by passing this information on as soon as possible.

Alumni should respond by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the attention of Mr. Pybas: Alumni Band; RCHS, P.O. Box 247, Mt. Vernon 40456. This will then be used to forward information and a questionnaire about the band to all those who respond. It is imperative that alumni respond by March 23rd.

director of the ambulance service, the entire county will benefit from the program by having an improved appearance, eliminating a health hazard and breeding ground for snakes, rats and insects.

Through locally hired drivers the program will expend over $5,000 a month locally.

Persons donating vehicles to the program will benefit by having an eyesore removed from the property and a possible tax reduction. Anyone wanting a junk car or farm machinery removed from their property can stop by the ambulance service or telephone 256-3575 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Cash named outstanding administrator

Ronnie D. Cash has been named Outstanding Administrator by the Kentucky Association of Future Homemakers of America. Cash is principal of the Rockcastle County High School.

Each FHA chapter in the state was invited to recommend a person to be considered for the award, according to June Stevens, a home economics teacher and the FHA adviser at RCHS. "We're very pleased the Kentucky FHA chose Mr. Cash as this year's Outstanding Administrator," said Stevens.

In the application for the award, Cash was commended for being an innovative and dynamic force in promoting RCHS's Future-Home-makers of America.

Stevens said, "His confidence in our FHA gives students the self-esteem they need to carry out activities in the school and community. Because of Mr. Cash's support our FHA has been able to complete several in-depth projects."

She explained that the club recently attended the National Cluster Meeting of teen leadership in New Mexico with Cash acting as planner, guide and chaperone. He made it possible for the FHA to sponsor RCHS's first intramural track meet, which promoted the school's formation of its first track team.

Cash also supported the FHA's "Adopt a Grandparent" program in conjunction with the local nursing home and its county-wide literacy program with students serving as tutors.

In addition, Cash frequently asks the FHAers to host school and community functions.

Stevens said, "Our FHA recently named him an honorary member to recognize his invaluable support. But the highest compliment we can give him is that his involvement with our FHA gives students the confidence to be a positive influence in the school and community. He plays a vital and essential role by helping them carry

School board adopts mission statement

By: Richard Anderkin

With the new addition of the Roundstone Elementary schools as the back drop, the Rockcastle County Board of Education adopted a mission statement prepared by the school system's strategic planning committee, at their regular monthly meeting last week.

Committee Chairman John Clontz asked board members to adopt the statement, which states, "The mission of the Rockcastle County School is to develop students who have the knowledge and basic life skills to lead productive, fulfilling lives; therefore, we must create a positive educational environment which requires a well-defined curriculum, appropriate facilities and a total commitment from school personnel, students, parents and community."

The committee which was formed earlier this year was the brain child of Superintendent Bige Towery Jr., who placed local business people, teachers, administrators and board members on the committee.

Clontz told board members that the main purpose of the committee was to work closely with the board to help reach a long range plan for the school system. That of course will entail gaining as much public input as possible.

Board members were very receptive to Clontz's remarks. Clayton Cash told Clontz that he welcomed the committee's input and thought it was a positive step toward improving education in Rockcastle County.

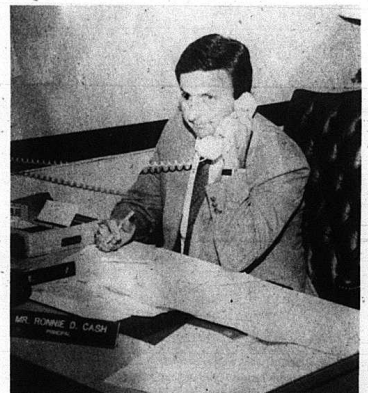

Other members of the committee include: David Parsons, co-owner of Parsons Gas, Richard Bray, finance officer, Becky Fain, Livingston teacher, Ona Kay Owens, Brodhead teacher, Perina Anderkin, co-owner of the Mt. Vernon Signal, John Hale Mt. Vernon principal, Norma Eversole, Roundstone teacher, Iris Young, RCHS teacher, Superintendent Towery and board chairman George Poynter.

Following a decision by the board Tuesday night, Rockcastle County High School will be getting 23 new television sets and two video cassette recorders.

The equipment will come free of charge from Whittle Communications, a Knoxville based communications company that produces channels.

However, to get the free equipment students at the high school will have to watch a 12-minute news program daily that has two minutes of commercials.

Church league tournament results

The league tournament for the Rockcastle County Christian Basketball League continued last Monday night with one close game and one upset.

First game action saw favored Grace Baptist edge out Wildie/Mareburg, 53-48, after a good third quarter. Wildie/Mareburg led 19-14, in the first quarter and only trailed by 2 at the half behind Benny Blanton's 26 points. But Grace came up with the defense in the third period and held Wildie/Mareburg to only 5 points and that defense combined with Danny Offutt's big night of 33 points put Grace over the top for the win.

In the second game, First Baptist was upset, 56-42, when they found Ottawa Baptist's balanced scoring attack just too much to overcome. Just as in the first game, First Baptist led in the first period but fell short in the last three. Harold Haddix led First Baptist with 17 in their losing effort while 7 players got into the scoring column for Ottawa with Steve Phelps leading the way with 13.

It was the regular season champs that took the third game by a landslide. First Christian got revenge as they dominated all four periods of play and handed Scaffold Cane and Crew a 64-38 loss. Scaffold Cane, the only team to defeat First Christian through the regular season, came out slow and never got their momentum up to stay with First Christian.

On the other hand, First Christian came out with eyes on the basket and jumped out to a 17 point lead in the second period which only increased through the second half. Kenny Graves was high man for Scaffold Cane with 23 points while Anthony Asher led First Christian with 23 of his own.

Northside Baptist took the final game Monday night when they defeated Bible Baptist #1, 69-54. With only a 1 point spread in the first period, Northside found the range in the second period and ran the tally to 30-20, over Bible Baptist #1. Northside easily nursed their 10 point lead through the second half with 4 players in double figures. Mike Dixon pumped in 22 for the Northside winners while John Ford had 19 for Bible Baptist #1.

In first round action of the tournament, played Monday March 5, Broadhead Baptist slipped by First Baptist 50-42. Wildie/Mareburg rolled over Bible Baptist #1 by a score of 69-48, Bible Baptist #2 edged out favored Ottawa Baptist 47-44 and Scaffold Cane won a close one over Northside Baptist, 63-59.

Thus far, four teams remain undefeated through tournament play while four teams stand with one loss. First Baptist and Bible Baptist #1 are the only teams eliminated from the tournament.

Coch Denny's Danville team won 22 games and lost 5 this year. They were rated the number two team in the 12th Region and this is Danville's first trip to the "Sweet 16" in 15 years. Danville defeated Lincoln County in the finals of the 12th Region tournament which was held at Lincoln County High school.

Coch Denny's Danville team will take on 13 Region winner Clay County in the first round of the state tournament on Thursday, March 22nd at 7:30 p.m. at Louisville's Freedom Hall.

Coch Denny coached the boys basketball team at Rockcastle County High School for three years from 1980 until 1983 at which time he was not rehired as coach.

Coch Denny was also an assistant coach at Pulaski County High school when they won the state high school tournament in 1985. Since departing Rockcastle County, Coach Denny has been very successful.

Coch Denny has lots of friends and some family in Rockcastle County that congratulate him and wish him the best!

Chris Cornelius adds two with a 10 footer to help First Christian in their 64-38 win against Scaffold Cane Monday night. Teammates Cletis Ray Brown and Anthony Asher look on.

Wilderness Trail Area Variety Show

By: John McQuerey
County Extension Agent for 4-H

Three 4-H acts from Rockcastle County participated in the Wilderness Trail Area 4-H Variety Show last Saturday at Cumberland College. Rockcastle 4-H'ers competed against seven other counties in our area. Our acts were fantastic.

Senior Specialty Act, "The Right Stuff" received 1st place champion. Members were Natalie Albright, Johnna Riddle and Paula Morgan.

These girls earned the right to participate in the Kentucky State Fair in August. Congratulations to them!! Junior Specialty Act, Josh Buany and The Master Mixers by Josh Bray received a Blue ribbon and knocked the crowd out with his drum performance.

Mrs. Carolyn Graves' Club Act, "Zaha King" from Brodhead Elementary received a Blue ribbon runner-up in the Club Act Division. This Club Act did a great job and should be commended on their performance. Good Job!!

Many thanks goes to all the leaders and 4-H'ers who helped with the Variety Show. Thanks so much for your dedication to the youths in Rockcastle County.

Eating a variety of foods is best way to get fiber

As fiber mania sweeps the country, remember that plain old foods still are your most reliable and tasty sources of dietary fiber.

To "Enjoy the Taste of Eating Right," according to the theme of National Nutrition Month, add fiber-rich foods to your diet.

Lots of foods provide natural dietary fiber -- the part of the plant cells not digested by enzymes in your digestive juices. These foods include grains, nuts, legumes, fruits and vegetables. Animal source foods, such as meat and milk, do not contain fiber.

For good health, experts recommend eating 20 to 35 grams of fiber each day. Most consumers eat under 20 grams of fiber a day. How can you tell if you're getting enough? The following rules of thumb can be used to estimate the amount of dietary fiber in foods.

* Fruits and Vegetables -- 1 serving (1/2 cup) = 2 grams dietary fiber. Fruits with edible skins or seeds, such as plums, strawberries and apples, are good choices. Eat the skin and seeds of vegetables when possible.

* Legumes -- 1 serving (1/2 cup cooked) = 8 grams dietary fiber. Legumes include dried beans, peas and lentils.

* Whole-grain bread -- 1 serving = 2 grams dietary fiber.

The last category is difficult to put a value on since cereals vary from zero to about 14 grams dietary fiber per serving. If you're using cereal as a good source of fiber in your diet, choose one that has at least four to five grams dietary fiber per serving. This information is listed on the side panel of the box.

How does fiber fit into your daily food plan? The following menu shows how you can easily meet your daily fiber need.

- FOOD
Breakfast
Bran cereal with raisins (2/3 cup) - 4 grams dietary fiber
Low fat milk - none
Whole wheat toast (1 slice) - 2 grams dietary fiber
1/2 grapefruit - 1.5 grams dietary fiber
Snack - none

Tiger Pause

Spring is in the air! Spring pictures will be made at school on Friday, March 23. Every child's picture will be taken; however, there is no obligation to purchase. Outsiders are welcome to have pictures taken and come to school before noon.

Our T-shirts will be at school on Monday, March 19. We are excited about them and think they will be worn with pride as a demonstration of that great Tiger Spirit.

Miss Molly Hamm, our counselor, coordinated a visit for our 8th graders this past Tuesday to Berea College, where they experienced "A Day on Campus." This is part of a drop-out prevention program, sponsored by Ashland Oil along with our local sponsors, Bank of Mt. Vernon and Citizens Bank. We appreciate our banks for sponsoring us!

We are so very proud of all our winners at the recent district level of the "Reflections" contest. These students are pictured elsewhere in this edition. We wish much luck to our nine winners going to the state competition!

Eric McKinney represented us well in this past Monday's Governor's Cup at Louisville. He and his sister, Angela, were the only two winners Rockcastle County had this year. We're proud of both these students and like to feel that BES helped them to be successful.

Our 7th and 8th graders will be going to Frankfort tomorrow and will be touring at Pizza Hut because they had perfect attendance for 20 consecutive days. Congratulations to this class! They are "on a roll" and it will be exciting to see how many consecutive days of perfect attendance they will be able to accumulate.

PTA will sponsor finger printing for grades K-2 and any new students (and pre-school children if you want to bring them) on March 20, 21, and 22, at 12:30.

We will be having bus drills on Jessica Todd was the only student from BES to participate in the Drama category of the "Reflections" contest. Jessica took 2nd place in Somerset last month during district competition.

Friday, March 23. The students will be arriving home approximately 30 minutes earlier.

Thanks to Shelby Reynolds, supervisor of Instruction, for speaking to our PTA last Thursday. He discussed the new "Parenting and Family Life Skills" curriculum and made some general comments about testing. Those in attendance received some good, positive information.

We wish a speedy recovery to Ms. Melissa Paul, our 7th/8th Resource teacher, who recently underwent surgery. We miss her!!!

Featured Teachers

Our sixth-grade teachers are featured this week. Ms. Lisa Johnson is new to us and is finishing her internship. She is a graduate of EKU, where she received her B.S. in education. Nelson Graves is in his second year at BES, having transferred from Livingston last year; he graduated from Sue Bennett Jr. College and received his B.S. in education from EKU. Mrs. Sharon McKinney has taught kindergarten, 1st grade and 4th/5th grade; she has her Rank 1 from EKU. We appreciate these teachers!
