

Tiger Pause - From B4

with 4-H. They stayed after school and made a variety of wearing apparel. You can see them model their clothes at Roundstone School on April 26 at 7 p.m. These children need our support and encouragement.

Mrs. Patsy Morgan's class has had several guests recently. Dr. Larry Daugherty made a presentation on dental hygiene and gave each student a dental care kit. Mr. Harold Woodall taught the students how to take their pulse and how to count their reaction time. Mrs. Marion Cable has been working with them in science, planting seeds in the outdoor classroom and doing experiments. You are welcome to visit our school and perhaps teach our students something special. Contact the office if you are interested. Remember we move our clocks ahead one hour on April 1, and that's no April Fool. The turning of our break will help us to adjust to the new time.

We are pleased to feature our junior high teachers this week. Our seventh-grade teachers are a mother-daughter team. Mrs. Mary N. Cash received her fifth-year degree from EKU. Mrs. Caroline Graves recently completed her internship and received her degree from EKU. Our eighth-grade teachers are Mrs. Kathryn Bradley and Mrs. Pamela Martin. Mrs. Martin has a B.A. in elementary education from Berea College and received her MA from EKU. Mrs. Bradley has her Rank III from EKU.

MVES PTA Calendar of Events

On March 22, there will be an Abuse Awareness Workshop Grade 5, from 1:40 to 2:40 in the library. March 24 is Old Fashioned Fair Day at Pizza Hut from 12 to 5. March 26 the high school chorus will perform from 1:15 to 2:30 in the gym. On March 29, everyone is welcome to help set up for the Spring Festival. March 30 is the PTA Spring fmg and photographer.

A great opportunity has come to my attention. Charlie Anderson, who specializes in school photography has offered a Mt. Vernon PTA a fund-raising idea. He will take pictures of parents, grandparents, couples preschool children, infants or school children on March 30. On April 13, you can view the proofs to make your selections. At this time you will pay for the package of your choice. The photos will be back in approximately 6 weeks. You will receive them before school is out for the summer. Here's a great opportunity to have your little darlings pictures made. You will have a choice of several backgrounds. Remember March 30 in the school library from 9 to 1. For more information call me at 256-2953 or Old Fashioned Fair Day will be March 24 at Pizza Hut from 12 noon to 5 p.m., for candidates to earn extra money. Lots of items for sale, raffle items to take chances on. Balloons, baked goods, everyone welcome.

The Mt. Vernon PTA is helping promote Jif Peanut Butter. The Jif Children's Education Fund is giving away $4,000,000.00 to the elementary schools that are registered for this program. The Mt. Vernon Elementary School has registered for this program and working on a bonus plan. If you want to help and support your Mt. Vernon PTA here is what you can do. When you purchase Jif peanut butter place the cash register receipt in the boxes in the grocery stores or send the receipts to school with your children for the teachers to keep. We receive 1 cent per ounce of Jif bought. Jif peanut butter unopened will keep up to one year, so stock up on a great product now to help us earn extra money. The Mt. Vernon PTA's goal is to be able to purchase computers for our new school.

Recreation lands to be open April 3

All Developed Recreation Areas on the Daniel Boone National Forest will be open for use by April 13.

Forest personnel are busy preparing the areas for visitors who wish to start camping and picnicking early as well.

Holly Bay Campground, located on Laurel River Lake, will have some sites open for campers on Friday, March 30. The lake is popular for its outstanding trout fishing.

Twin Knobs Recreation Area, on Cave Run Lake, will also open for camping beginning Friday March 30. Spring sailing is especially good on Cave Run Lake and attracts sailors from Kentucky as well as nearby states.

To provide for early spring users, Koomer Ridge Campground, near the Red River Geologica Area, will open April 6.

Rockcastle Campground and picnic ground will open April 13, along with most other areas in the London District.

A user fee is charged at some of the developed recreation areas on the Forest, but many of them are free of charge.

Alfalfa Weevils Less of a Problem in 1990
By: Tom Mills
Co. Ext. Agent for Agriculture

Alfalfa weevils likely will not be as great a problem this year as they were in 1989, but producers still should be on the lookout for them, according to an entomologist in the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky.

Gary Allen of the Rockcastle County Young Farmers recently won the State Sheep Production contest. The award is judged on efficiency.

Samples collected from fields in five counties indicate fewer alfalfa weevil eggs were laid this year, according to Extension entomologist, Lee Townsend.

In addition, Townsend reports a lower percentage of the eggs that were laid actually hatched.

The collections were taken in Fayette, Hart, Nelson, Owen and Warren counties in January.

The collections showed a 45 percent decline in the number of eggs laid this year compared to 1989. One site in Hart County had 556 eggs per square foot, compared to 1,373 eggs last year.

Another striking result is the low percentage of eggs that hatched. Normally about 75 to 80 percent of the eggs would be expected to hatch. But this year an average 24 percent of the eggs hatched.

Townsend attributes weather conditions to the decrease in the number of eggs laid and percentage that hatched.

The warm weather during Fall 1989 allowed alfalfa weevil adults to lay eggs. Then, the weather turned bitterly cold in December. This not only put a stop to egg laying, but also caused the death of many eggs that had been deposited in alfalfa stems during the earlier weevil activity.

The percentage of eggs hatching was lowest in fields that did not have an insulating snow cover during the cold weather. But, even with the general decline in the number of eggs laid and lower hatching percentage, there could be some fields in which an insecticide treatment will be needed. Farmers should begin checking fields now for signs of alfalfa weevil feeding damage.

Alfalfa weevil activity should peak later this year than it did in 1989, according to Townsend. Last year, infestations peaked on April 28th, which is abnormally early. Normally, larval numbers reach the highest level during the second or third week of May.

In Memory of Jane Lawson

Who passed away March 25, 1989. Mon, on the 23rd day of March, 1989 I was so happy. My wife, sitting there at the hospital with you. For they said you could go home the next day, And I would go along with you.

You asked me that night to never leave And I promised you I wouldn't. The next morning we both went home And that night I slept with you. How little did I know, That the next day the Lord would call for you.

I stood and held onto you Until the very end. No one knew the pain I felt As I watched you leave me.

And now each night when I lay down, I miss you're smiling face. When you would look at me and say, "Are you O.K.?"

I'd tell you, "Yes, I'm just fine", And kiss you goodnight. But now I have no one to turn to When I turn out the light.

But Mom, I hope to meet you, For you prayed for me each day. I know you ask God for me to follow you, And be in Heaven someday.

But Mom, my prayer is to meet you up in Heaven some sweet day. Where we can be together never more to part. And I can hold onto your hand. As we walk the golden shore.

So rest in peace, dear Mother. I know you're happy there. If it's God's will, Someday the Gloryland We'll share. Sadly Missed by daughter,
Geraldine Allison

Special meeting to discuss RCHS basketball programs

Rockcastle County School Board Chairman George Poynter has called a special board meeting to discuss the Rockcastle County High School basketball programs.

The meeting will be held at the high school in Mt. Vernon on Tuesday, March 27, at 7 p.m.

Superintendent Bige Towery Jr., said Tuesday the meeting will allow individuals wishing to address the board an opportunity to voice any opinions they may have about the current program at RCHS.

Rumors have been rampant about the current status of both David Perkins and Judy Bullock, but Towery said Tuesday that he had made no decision what-so-ever in the case and that no decision would be made until after the meeting. He did say that he received many pro and con phone calls and visits from concerned parents and fans.

"The meeting will be conducted in a positive constructive manner and will avoid debate and personal attacks," Towery said. "We are simply going to discuss the development of the very best program for the boys and girls of our district," he said.

Since taking over the head jobs at RCHS, neither Perkins or Bullock have had a winning season.

Singleton and Associates purchase Norton Insurance

One Rockcastle County Independent insurance agency has purchased another local independent agency.

Donnie Singleton of Singleton and Associates Insurance in Mt. Vernon announced this week that he had purchased Norton Insurance Agency, also in Mt. Vernon, which is owned by Bill and Arletta Norton.

Singleton, who has been in the insurance business in Rockcastle County since 1974, said Tuesday that no changes would occur when the purchase is completed.

"All policy holders with both agencies will keep the same coverages with the same companies," Singleton said. "The only thing different will be that Singleton and Associates will be the only name used," he said.

As well as the insurance business Singleton also purchased the building where Norton's is now located. He will move from his location on U.S. 25 in Mt. Vernon to Norton's building, the former PCA building, on Main Street across from the Rockcastle County Courthouse.

The offices in the Norton building will be closed Thursday and Friday, March 22 and 23 and re-open as Singleton & Associates on Monday, March 26 at 8:30 a.m. For information call 256-2611 or 256-2148.

Grand Jury indicts three for Mt. Vernon break-in A March 4th break-in has resulted in the indictment of three local men.

Indictments against Daniel Singleton, 22, of Orlando, Bobby Hunt, 30, of Mt. Vernon and Donnie Barnett, 22, also of Mt. Vernon have been released. They are charged with a break-in at Mary Bower's home on West Main Street in Mt. Vernon.

According to police, the trio apparently gained entrance by breaking a window in the back door. Taken in the break-in were a VCR, tapes, stereo and other items. Much of the stuff was later recovered by police.

The three men are free on bond until a March 23 arraignment before Circuit Judge Dan Venters.

Trailer on Burnt Ridge Road sustains only minor damage

Members of the Mt. Vernon and Sand Gap Fire Departments were able to control a fire on Burnt Ridge Road near the Jackson County line Monday morning.

According to Gary Hinsel of the Mt. Vernon department, a trailer belonging to Luster Chasteen sustained damage to only one corner by firefighters brought it under control, around 8:45 a.m.

Other small fires, mostly of the grass type were also worked by the fire department in the past week.

Snowfall ushers in Spring, mercury drops to twenty-two

The calendar said Tuesday was Spring. But Spring took a brief holiday Monday when 1.5 inches of snow arrived to celebrate the last day of winter.

Sunshine Tuesday melted most of the snow, but winter coats were still the order of the day as temperatures struggled to get into the low 30s.

Wednesday was better with the temperature back in the 50s again and were predicted to be in the 60s by Friday.

The snow was not all that unusual for March, or April, for that matter. There was snow on the ground the entire month in March 1960. It had even snowed in May in Kentucky. The most was on May 1894 when six inches was on the ground. The last frost of the season usually has an April date. So take precautions and cover up whatever has been planted.

To date during March, 2.36 inches of precipitation has fallen at Cox Funeral Home weather station. All has been rain except the Monday snowfall.

The highest temperature to date this month was 82 on March 14. The coldest was 22 on March 4, 20 and 21.

County moves step closer to million dollar bond issue for county roads

By: Ray McClure

A Public Properties Corporation ordinance through which the county will finance a $1,055,000 road bond issue had a second reading at a called meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Wednesday.

The previous properties corporation expired in 1986 and was not renewed.

Following a public hearing by the county scheduled for 3 p.m. March 26, the bonds will be sold, unless the court should have second thoughts.

Of the amount, $907,300 will be deposited in a county construction fund, so the county can have money readily available for road construction and not have to wait until quarterly money comes from the state for road work.

No report has been made on which county roads will be worked first. A report will probably be made between now and when the bonds are sold.

A breakdown of the money as reported by the investment banking firm of Ross, Sinclair and Associates, Inc., shows the underwriters discount for the project totals $21,000; the cost of issuing the bonds, $21,100 and debt service revenue $105,500 (escrow account.)

Money to support the debt service will come from the county's road fund which is in the $600,000 range annually.

The debt service will not exceed 12 years, and would not exceed 10 percent of the eligible fund.

Before bonds are issued they must be approved by the Kentucky Department of Local Government, which has estimated the county would have enough money to pay about $129,000 annually in debt service on the bonds.

The court can use the Public Properties Corporation for any other project that may be needed by the county.

During the meeting, the court opened a bid on a new roof for the courthouse. There was only one bid.

Council considers emergency number

The first step in obtaining a 911 telephone number that residents dial in case of an emergency was discussed at length at a meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night.

Making the presentation for Contel of Kentucky was Wallace Black, coordinator of network sales.

About 25 persons were on hand to hear the presentation, but no Brodhead or Livingston City Councilman were on hand. County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins was unable to attend.

However, Judge Mullins when contacted said he was "interested and eager to participate," once the financial feasibility of the project is determined.

Following the presentation Mayor Gary R. Cromer and the council agreed they would make another effort to talk with other city and county officials at the council's meeting on April 2.

Black explained to the council that

Cummins is dog warden

Joe Cummins of Mt. Vernon was chosen dog warden at a meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Wednesday.

The vote was unanimous in a secret ballot.

Cummins works in the family sawmill business.

He replaces Glyn Bullock who retired recently.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins said 12 good people indicated an interest in the $425 a month job.

911 is a number that when dialed will reach a central location that will operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

From that operational center police and fire departments and ambulance service can be obtained.

Black called 911 a "hot item" these days since many elderly and handicapped persons, as well as others, have found it much easier to obtain help quickly.

He stressed that the project must be countywide and the fiscal court must pass an ordinance setting up 911 in the county. He added, in some instances, it can be placed on the ballot.

The cost? Black reported it would depend on the area to be served and the type of service level that various groups would want. He did not give a figure.

The usual, is a monthly payment to the telephone company who also would charge three percent of the gross bill for billing and other services provided by the company.

He said the county/cities could charge an amount that would be put on the customer's telephone bill. They said it would be up to the county/cities to decide on a cost.

Most frequent charge is about 65 cents a month added to the customer's bill for the service, but again, that would have to be determined after the total cost is determined.

Any money over the base charge would be returned to the county and cities.

Black reported, Contel has about 4,200 customers in Rockcastle with 97 percent on private lines.

Chamber to tackle county's garbage problem

By: Richard Anderkin

Garbage seems to be on the mind of just about everyone in Rockcastle County these days and the Rockcastle County Chamber of Commerce is certainly no exception.

At a special called meeting of the chamber Tuesday night at the Red Top Restaurant in Mt. Vernon, members discussed ways they could help to clean up a "trashy Rockcastle County."

Cleaning up Rockcastle County should be the number one priority of everyone," said vice president Jim Tillery.

Tillery explained that a recent survey of educators, business people and community leaders revealed that the county's trash problem was foremost in everyone's mind and that to attract new industry and provide more jobs the county must be cleaned up.

Chamber members had discussed holding some type of contest in county schools where winners would be awarded with nice prizes including a possible free trip to King's Island, a dance with a live band and/or a picnic.

Superintendent of local schools Bige Towery, told the group that the school system was very interested in helping with such a program if the program was run properly and students were well supervised.

"We are willing to coordinate with all community groups to do what we can to help clean up the county," Towery said.

The biggest problem facing the chamber is the extreme cost involved in administering the project.

Chamber members had earlier discussed the possibility of placing dumpsters at each school so students would have a central location to bring garbage. But the cost of such a move is extremely high. Chamber members decided to look for alternatives to the dumpsters.

Other members, including Jim Vanhose voiced extreme concern over illegal dumping in the county.

"It won't do any good to clean up all the trash, if we don't get some people prosecuted when they dump their garbage illegally," Vanhose said. "It will get back in the same shape in a hurry if people don't have to worry about paying a stiff fine for dumping their garbage along the roadside," he said.

Rockcastle County attorney James H. Lambert is responsible for prosecuting such cases, but has not done so in many years.

Chamber members agreed that any type of program they did initiate they would do so in conjunction with other clean-up programs in the county.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:

This is in regard to the Education Reform Bill, HB940. This bill contains several controversial and expensive proposals which do not relate to traditional education standards. A 900-page bill which will restructure all of Kentucky's public education system and have a profound effect on our children's minds deserves a "special session." This will allow much more attention than it could possibly receive during the final weeks of a busy regular session.

The author of this bill is former Maryland School Superintendent, David Hornbeck. Former Baltimore Mayor, Clarence Burmes is quoted in the March 11th edition of the Louisville Courier Journal as saying, "He (Hornbeck) never made sense to me. I hope Kentucky has some luck with him, we didn't have any." The article also stated, "It's somewhat ironic that, after only about six months work, his ideas may be more fully adopted in Kentucky than during the 12 years he was Maryland's school superintendent."

Critics say that proposals are far beyond what the Kentucky Supreme Court had in mind and there is too much emphasis on non-academic skills at the expense of academic achievement. Legislators are considering approval of this bill although there is no evidence that it or its components have been proven successful. Do we want our children to be participants in experimental proposals that have not been proven successful?

With passage of this bill, our schools will assume responsibility for a social service system which is already in existence. This duplication of services will be delivered at the expense of Kentucky taxpayers.

If you feel the 900-page Education Reform Bill deserves more time for review, call toll-free 1-800-372-7181 and leave a message for your representative and senator to request a "special session" for this bill. Our children deserve much more than a hasty passage of this lengthy and controversial bill.

Sincerely,
Sandra Smith,
Glaskow, Ky.

Dear Editor:
This is Linda McWhorter again. I want the people that are harassing me about my garbage service to know, that if it does not stop, then I will file suit against them.

You are harassing me and my friends and I want it to stop. As I said in my last letter, I have been told I can put the dumpsters on my own property. And I fully intend to do so. I do plan to put a wood fence around them.

If any of you wish to sue them then go ahead. But sue me, Linda McWhorter, not my husband. He has nothing to do with this. The garbage service is mine and mine alone. Stop harassing William K. Bullens, I only rent his lot. The dumpsters I rent from HSI. Be sure of one thing if you sue me, I can and will cover the cost of the ones that sue me. It's a sorry day when you can't sue who you want to do on your own property. I don't tell anyone what they can or can't do on the property they own so why should they try to tell me. I put a fence around your yard to keep my dogs from harassing people. And I still have to put up with other people's dogs chasing my cattle.

Then when one of my dogs did get into her was shot and killed. And then I've got a back yard you could just about swim in in the water drainage area. I keep my dogs from harassing people. And I still have to put up with other people's dogs chasing my cattle. The campground has a dumpster, are you going to harass them too.

I am moving the dumpsters away from 25 to help Renfro look better, and to keep it convenient for the ones who need it.

Sincerely,
Linda McWhorter
Renfro Valley, Ky.

Dear Editor:

House Bill 357 concerning fetal viability and alternatives to abortion is a bill that would strengthen the rights of unborn children in two ways.

First, it would require a physician to test a fetus of 20 or more weeks to determine if the baby could live outside the mother's womb before an abortion could be performed.

Second, it would provide funding for organizations that seek to help women by offering them alternatives to abortion such as adoption.

This bill is being held in committee by Rep. Tom Burch, Committee Chairman, and could die there unless pro-life Kentuckians act now. If you are for the killing of innocent babies who are able to live outside their mother's womb, you need to do nothing. As Edmund Burke stated, "All that is required for evil to triumph, is for good men to do nothing."

If you support this bill, call and leave a message for Rep. Tom Burch and your district representative to please get HB357 out of committee and on to the House Floor. The toll-free message line number is 1-800-372-7181.

Sincerely,
H.H. Barlow III
Cave City, Ky.

Dear Editor:

As we have been reading of the school board's intention of bringing new reforms to the school system, we were surprised by their mission statement that they expect full cooperation and a total commitment from all the parents and community. Although we don't know just what the new reforms are going to bring forth; we know that a lot of attention is being directed at human development, self image, self esteem and development of character, etc. and certainly to develop, but I don't think they should expect the parents in the county to instruct their children to swallow whatever theology of ideology that is presented to them without question. Some people may want their children's character developed by a different set of standards based on different principals and priorities.

There used to be a TV program called Different Strokes. Their theme song was "All The World Don't Move to the Beat of Just One Drum." There are some people who don't want to be a part of mainstream society. They don't want their children programmed with its humanistic concepts of progress and development.

A few miles to our north across the Ohio River live some people who refuse to be a part of mainstream society but have chosen to live in a separate society of their own and are minding their own business and bothering nobody. There are better known people, the Mennonites and the Amish. Except for their economic input since they do use our economy, and are very successful farmers with their old world ways and horsedrawn equipment, they make very little contribution to our society otherwise.

So I thought since these people don't seem to want to march to the beat of our music and are slowing down the wheels of progress and development, why don't we just march onto their farms and straighten those people out? Why don't we say to them, "hey" you people don't know how to live. You need an attitude adjustment. You don't know what's good for you. We're going to put automobiles in your barns and electricity in your houses, whether you like it or not. We're going to give you TVs, computers, microwaves and VCR's. You've been depriving your children of these basic necessities, their under developed, they're being taught anti-social behavior. We're going to put them in our public schools and give them some courses in human development and teach them some good humanistic values and principals, build their confidence and self-esteem so they can be productive members of our society.

The point is that people have a right to live in this country without being forced by the tax system to embrace a certain way of life as the socially acceptable way to think and live.

We don't have any Amish people in this country that I know of but we have people that are concerned about protecting their children from humanistic influence that is trickling down through the school system.

In the past I've asked people, why don't we have a Christian school in the county, why hasn't some of the churches established their own school. Most other places have alternatives to public school. The answer always was, we don't think we need one just yet. Things are not that bad yet.

Building one confidence, self esteem and self worth is alright in its proper context, but when they take God out of the picture, that is no value, it's worthless. Sure we want our children to have the basic life skills to be successful, productive members of society, but it all goes back to that very basic scripture, "What does it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his soul."

The gospel according to self-esteem says, I am me, I am okay. All that I am I owe it all to myself. Those words sound like the ones spoken by King Nebuchadnezzar of Ancient Babylon when he said, "Is not this great Babylon that I have built for the house of the Kingdom by the might of my power and for the honor of my Majesty?" While the word was in the King's mouth there came a voice from Heaven saying, "O King Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken, the Kingdom is departed from thee."

Christianity and humanism don't mix. I suggest that the Churches begin to think seriously about establishing a Christian school as an alternative to public schools.

Ralph King and I ordered nearly fifty dollars worth of snow pea seed over the weekend. Believe it or not, that information is of keen interest to some people. People have been calling to see if we have any extra seed so they can try em and we ain't even ordered yet. Some people are even getting worried that we're running out of time. It's already too late to even be thinking about planting peas," according to Paul Caudill.

Paul called from "real close to Brookville, Indiana where Kinley Adams used to live." He swore he was kin to me and he rattled off a bunch of names of people I've heard my parents talk about. He explained the family tree enough that I figured out he knew what he was talking about. He also sounded like he'd been around a lot longer than I have, and I learned a lot later than I wish I had that older folks generally are much smarter than I am. And this is not the first time I've been mistaken for my Uncle Ike.

If Paul says we're cousins, I'd bet anything he's right. I'm tied into the Caudills three or four different ways. No kin to Harry though, as far as I know. At least he ain't bragging about it.

Anyway, Paul said he did not believe it when I told him that me and Ralph didn't plant peas last year till after the middle of April and we let more peas rot than most people grow in a lifetime. We grew an acre last year and found out the hard way that there aren't very many people in Madison County who will pick peas for eight dollars an hour. We didn't have any luck trying to import migrant workers so we're scaling back to half an acre this year.

Paul said he didn't believe it.

Said he'd have to see it first. So I told him to come on down Easter weekend and he could stay with me till it dried up enough to work the ground, cause I want him to plant these peas. He says he is coming.

Last year we ordered the seed in February and I started writing about it nearly every week in my column. Ralph and I would sit around and talk about it and I'd report on our conversation in the paper the next week. We talked about how late it was getting for seven weeks before we dropped a seed. Ralph and I talk about things a lot better than we do 'em, but most of the time we don't put it in the paper every week.

Last year we planted an acre of snow peas largely because we'd pretty well spread it all over the state that we intended to. I had people from U.K. calling to check on the pea patch. We sold thirty bushel before we plowed the field. Last year meant Ralph had to grow snow peas. This year all I brought was the matter is that we did order the seed and Ralph has limed the field but we're not ready to start taking orders yet.

Last year gave a friend about half a pint of seed the day they came in. She planted them that night. Came in bringing a pint the next day. Along about the middle of March she commenced telling me that she'd be picking her peas before I got mine planted. Hers were already up three or four inches.

To make a long story short, both of us started picking peas the very same day. She swore hers bore better. Said she had bigger vines with more peas on em. And she may have because I never got to go look at em. She'd planted half a pint. Me and

Rep. Danny Ford, of Mt. Vernon, recently conferred with a colleague in the House Chamber. Ford serves on the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee, the House Business Organizations and Professions Committee, and the House State Government Committee.

Perspective

By: Rep. Danny Ford

With each passing day, it looks increasingly as though we will be sending our children to a school next fall that will be governed differently, that will teach a revised curriculum, and that will require additional Kentucky dollars to perform its mission. Education reform is steamrolling through the General Assembly like a train in search of tracks and an engineer. House democrat leadership wants the 900 page bill enacted by March 29 even though committee consideration did not begin until March 13.

I'll review the major provisions of the bill after it has been amended and passed both houses, but to summarize the major points of this initiative, it will combine Kindergarten through fourth grade in an upgraded block, establish site-based management, shift administrative decisions to Frankfort and vest them in a newly-appointed Commissioner of Education, and reduce the effects of nepotism. As controversial as these measures may seem, the uproar they will cause will pale in comparison to the "revenue revitalization" section which, as written, will raise over a billion in new dollars through a scheme of income tax changes and a one cent increase in the sales tax. In addition, residents in 74 of the states 177 school districts will be required to pay more money through higher property taxes.

Despite the growing cries for a special session that would allow the General Assembly to focus solely on education reform, democrat leadership seems intent on finalizing this program by the close of the current regular session. My colleagues and I are spending many sleepless nights scrutinizing this package and I can assure you that I will analyze pending legislative action on this measure before voting in the best interest of you and your neighbors.

As I have said many times before, education is not the only topic of debate on the hallowed floor of the House chamber. For example, we unanimously passed a bill Tuesday that I believe indicates the genuine will of the legislature to make bold policy statements. House Bill 464, authored by my Republican colleague from Louisville, Lindy Caschier, creates the crime of vehicular homicide, punishable by 10 to 20 years in prison. This will lead to tougher and more consistent sentences for drunk drivers.

In the wake of the Carrolton bus crash trial, I feel this legislation is a much-needed response to the outcry for positive measures to ensure public safety. I was proud to have joined 94 of my colleagues in passing this measure.

Under current law, voters are allowed the opportunity every two years to vote on up to four amendments to the Kentucky Constitution, but the legislature has never placed that many amendments on the November ballot. It appears as though new ground will be broken as four measures seem to be destined for your vote this fall.

The two that originated from the House will allow the General Assembly to call itself into special session and to veto executive branch regulations. As is an unwritten custom, the Senate will be the chamber of origination for an equal number of amendments as the House. Therefore, the two Senate amendments will exempt from property taxes all church property except that which does not use and will expand the authority of cities.

Please call 1-800-372-7181 between 7 a.m. and 11 a.m. to share with me your thoughts about these or any other issues. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Your Child's Health
By: Dr. John Payne

Most medicine in liquid form for children is prescribed in teaspoons. Whether or not they are used for sipping tea, everyone has a spoon in the kitchen they call a teaspoon. In standard pharmacy measures, this implies a spoon which holds 5.0 cubic centimeters or milliliters. If all spoons were of this size, and they were filled exactly full and the parent or child never spilled any of the medicine, and if none was spit out, then the child would always get the correct dosage.

However, as you might expect there are many different size spoons. In a recent study it was found that such spoons used to give fever medicine ranged from 1.5 to 5 cc in volume, and it is also known that spoons as large as 9cc have been used as "teaspoons." The message is obvious. Either significant overdosing or underdosing is very likely.

Insist that your pharmacist provide you with a measuring spoon, or purchase one. The besting is probably a syringe which can be used not only to measure the medicine, but can also be used to insert fairly far into the mouth of an unwilling baby so that he will be sure to swallow the medicine.

One final point is to always shake the bottle well if directed to do so. Large errors in dosing can occur with medicines which separate when standing.

Sweet & Sour

by
Zi Graves

Today I went a hunting. Spring sunshine, warm breezes, budding trees and daffodils popping up do strange things to people's emotions. At least it gave me some strange urges today.

Most people will think of spring urges as those of cleaning houses, making a garden or helping with plans of weddings. But not me. This goal goes in for hunting. Those things are too boring and ordinary. I found my prey in strange places and instead of killing them before taking them back to the house, I revived them from their dormant stags and fondled each in turn, then tucked them back away securely. I know no one else can find them and wouldn't want them if they could. I don't think I will ever need to find these again for I know where I can find plenty more.

You see, I went hunting for memories. And no one in the world would have a use for my old memories.

The desire to go hunting was triggered by the smell of wood smoke coming from a pile of debris being burned in the plowed garden spot. That's where I used to burn my lettuce beds. The soft pungent odor of burning branches and twigs fallen from the trees brought back memories of burning tobacco beds in early spring. There is no other smell that can compare with it. It does not smell like a forest fire. There is a softness to the smell of burning, well cured slabs or old tree branches that have been cured for months just for this purpose that is different from the smell of a raging forest fire.

I loved burning tobacco beds. It was hard, dirty work but there was something special about the warmth of the fire from a tobacco bed being burned in late February or early March. Everyone usually burned them at night and the glow of beds burning on the hillsides could be seen for miles. And the air was filled with the soft smell of wood burning smoke.

We know now the damage that was done to our atmosphere by that was done to our atmosphere by all this smoke. We also know about the damage that was done to our atmosphere by all this smoke. We also know about the damage done to our bodies by the by product of tobacco, cigarettes. But at that time most of us were innocent of wrong doing and now they are just pleasant memories.

It was memories I went hunting for today and I found them in plentiful supply.

One was of the fun we had burning those beds. We usually had winners to roast over the glowing coals and while we were chinking up the fire and waiting for it to burn down there was always story telling and light talk going on. I remember one night when we were almost ready to wind up the job Mat's nephew, Steve, drove in. He had a habit of doing this when he was driving through our area and it was always a bright spot of cheer when he did. This night he was as surprised at what we were doing at midnight as we were at him coming in at midnight. While he helped Mat with the final covering of live coals with ashes, I went to the house to fix a snack. The snack was a hot chocolate fudge sundae to go with the pot of coffee kept hot by the fire at the tobacco bed. Steve's comment was, "I really love to come here for I never know what to expect. Where else but here would I be served a chocolate sundae at two o'clock in the morning."

So now, my little trash fire being all burned out and my thoughts being turned backward, I drifted toward the old barn. There should be, and was, good hunting there.

Climbing the fence even sparked memories of the old fence I could jump over with very little effort. I seem to be able to remember also being much younger, much slimmer and very much more agile. Maybe that's why the fence seemed so much higher today. It must have taken me five minutes to climb over a three panel plank fence.

My first stop was the harness room. This is the room for a man's memories. I never had to harness the mule and plow but I do remember Mat and Rod doing it. There was the print of the old tools, long gone now, still in the dirt and on the walls. That spot is where the old turning plow used to sit and next to it was the lay off plow. I remember well when Rod was 13 or 14 and Mat turned him loose to plow all by himself. That's when the muscles in his back and shoulders developed and rippled like cords across his back as he go'd and haw'd behind that big plow and team of mules. It was hard work but he seemed to love it and it made a strong man of him.

Rats and moles have made tunnels in the dirt floor and have eaten anything that was chewable. Only some old remnants of gummy socks remain on the walls and some shreds of an old saddle.

The stall next to this was where my pretty little cow was milked. It's been demolished with later herds of cattle kicking and pushing. In fact only one more stall is still intact. That's the mules stall across the driveway. When I stepped in here I had to pause a minute. The old manger and feeding trough still had shreds of hay in them and I could almost feel the presence of that big old mule. We had to put special buttons on their doors so old Dick couldn't open them. He learned how to push an ordinary door button down so he could let himself and Jim out when they wanted to take a run in the fields.

The rest of my exploring had to be done in the loft. Of course there are enough memories here along to write a book about. Old barns were used for everything. It was a place to milk the cows and keep the mules. It was a place to mend harness and repair plows. It was a maternity ward for the cows and sheep. And a chicken house for the stubborn chickens that would rather roost high up over the than in the chicken house.

The barn was a place for kids to play, especially on rainy days. It was a storage place for hay, corn and any old castaways.

We hung tobacco in it in late summer and graded it in the big driveway in late fall. Now if anyone can use a barn like this for fifty years and not have a book full of memories something is wrong with his memory machine.

Just standing at the top of the rickety stairs flooded my brain and heart. That's where we loaded hay into the barn. At first it was forked in. That was before we had a crane. The whole loft would be crammed full of loose hay except for one corner for the corn. The years after we began raising tobacco we had to rearrange our storage of hay. At the top of the stairs stood the old corn sheller. We would use that to shell the corn for meal. Then take the shelled corn to the grist mill. We preferred 8 row white for our meal.

After we got an old hay baler it changed things a bit in the loft. We had more room for the tobacco and more room for the junk that kept accumulating. There was an old homemade table, the remains of the first couch we owned, a broken down chair and the framework of the bathinette I used for Judy. My Sunday School class in Cincinnati had given me this beautiful fancy bathinette with dressing table attached at my baby shower. At that time Judy was the only baby I knew with her own private bath tub and she loved splashing around in it.

Looking past this I saw a red table leg. Polly wanted to help do something when she was quite small and before we knew it she had painted one leg to the old table with red barn

Reppert earns service degree

Lonnie Reppert, of Reppert Funeral Home, received a Degree of Associate in Applied Funeral Service from Mid-America College of Funeral Service in Jeffersonville, Ind., on Feb. 23.

The degree required completion of a specialized curriculum in funeral service education designed to meet the educational prerequisite of all states, and is accredited by the American Board of Funeral Service Education, which requires the completion of 90 semester hours of credit.

Reppert also received the Scholastic Achievement Award, which is given in recognition of scholastic proficiency, for maintaining an overall academic average of 90 percent or above. He also received certification for completing a course of study in funeral service computer application, which was in addition to the normal curriculum.

Reppert was honored by the Pi Sigma Eta fraternity with the Outstanding Service Award for the 1989-90 school year.

Reppert says he has continued his education for the purpose of being able to serve the Berea area to a greater degree, and because of his love and concern for the people here.

Reppert received his bachelor of science degree from Berea College in 1975, has done post-graduate study in the field of community health care at Eastern Kentucky University, is a licensed life insurance agent, and certified as a Qualified Mortuary Disaster Coordinator with the Federal Emergency Management Agency and the National Funeral Directors Association.

Reppert is married to Geraldine Rader and they have one daughter, Allis, who is a student at Berea Community School.

point. Since we didn't want a table with red legs it was sent to the barn. It was about in this area there used to be a hole to feed the cattle through in the stalls below. And it was through this hole I escaped from a very mean old ram. He would butt anything that moved or that he thought was alive. I was deathly afraid of him and I avoided him when I could. This day he caught me in the driveway and I dove for the first stall and closed the door. He knew I was in there and he had plenty of time to wait and wasn't about to go back out to pasture when there would be more fun when I came out. Finally I noticed this hole and by climbing up onto the stall dividers I could reach it. After pulling myself to safety I called for help and got the attention of a girl staying with me. She tempted him into another stall and after an hour or so as his hostage I was free. Soon after this we had plenty of mutton stew. After Mat slaughtered him and he was still, Judy, my little two year old, bravely marched up to him and kicked his head as she said, "Now, that is your old man part."

To get on the other side of the loft I had to dodge baling twine tied to the frame work. That's the way Mat always took care of the twine around the bales. They were never thrown down to get entangled with mowers or machinery. Sometimes it would look like we had curtains up they would be so thick. There on the other side of the hall were a few bales of hay left so I automatically began looking for a hens nest. Then suddenly I realized I no longer had chickens, no cows, nor mules, nor sheep, nothing is left but memorics and a mess. Those nice smooth little nests in the hay must be the beds of Cally Cat, Marmalade and Big Pappa.

As I turned to leave the barn, the last memory of the day and perhaps the most treasured was sparked by the remnants of an old ladder. It had been used to help build the barn some 49 years ago. It reached all the way to the top, perhaps 40 feet. It was home-made and sturdy. We used it to carry things in the loft before we had the stairs built. At this time Rodney was the baby. Or so we called him for he was the youngest and was only about two years old. He was an exceptionally active child and also a curious one. He loved to climb anything that took him upwards. He got his arms and legs caught get him out of a play pen in a flash. It was just grasp the top, swing up and over he would go. His curiosity didn't lead him to destroy, he would just examine. This memory of which I'm speaking has to do with this curious, climbing little boy and the ladder.

Mat had taken him to the barn ahead of me to get the tables and chairs ready to work. In a few minutes Judy and I went. Those few minutes were all it took for Rod to disappear. My first question, when I didn't see him under his dad's feet was, "Where's Rodney?" Then a flash caught my eye from high up under the roof. My gasp brought Mat's attention and when he saw my white face, then saw where Rod was he very calmly said, "Don't say a word, you may frighten him, I'll get him down."

I couldn't have screamed if I'd wanted to. My breath was in my stomach. Then in Mat's calm voice he began talking about something of interest he had seemingly found in the tobacco. He asked Rod without looking directly up he would like to see it. Out of the corners of our eyes we watch this little top head begin his descent. He'd hold on to a rung with his strong little hands and dangle his feet till they touched the next rung, then slide his hands down the uprights to the rung he was standing on and repeat it. I've never yet figured how he did it but it was only two or three minutes till he was saying "Let me see it, daddy." (It seemed like hours.) And they looked at a bug or something such thing to make the trip back down the ladder seem worthwhile.

This was enough game for one day so I safely tucked my memories away and blew a kiss to them for all the joys they had brought back into my life.

There are more out there somewhere that I'll find one day.

Most red blooded Americans fear court proceedings, especially when they are on trial.

Recent jail terms handed down because students won't attend school is evident of that. School administrators say that nothing works like a little time in the "pokie."

So why not for illegal dumping. We all know it would help our garbage situation tremendously. It would make people think twice before just simply dumping their garbage onto other people's property or onto state and county rights-of-ways.

At Tuesday night's Chamber of Commerce meeting many members voiced concern that even if the county were cleaned up, it would probably get back in the same shape because there is a certain element of people that simply do not care what the county looks like or whose property they are in effect, destroying.

Most agreed that with some prosecution by county attorney James Lambert, illegal dumpers would think twice before discarding their trash in the wrong place.

For years, county health inspector Steve Midkiff has asked that people be prosecuted, but he has gotten no such action from the county attorney.

Since taking over the first of the year County Judge Roland Mullins has made numerous requests that Lambert consider prosecuting violators.

And, Mullins said this week that he thought the county attorney may indeed begin to prosecute the trashy people in this county who will continue to dump their garbage illegally until they are faced with court action.

Many clubs and organizations are working very hard to clean up the county, but without some legal help, they are wasting their time.

I hope the county judge is right about his presumption.

Poet's Corner

"My Wings"

By: Karen Nee

Up in the air I find my wings and wonders I can perform
I find courage to speak my peace
When things are going wrong.

Contemplating, my mind's at peace with things that I can do
Only when I'm weightless can I measure up to you.

You have the power to unman me or make me tough and strong
To handle any situation or turn tears into a song.

I'm tempted for the moment
To exceed the boundary and go
Where there is no time and essence
Only calmness I will know.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins recently signed a proclamation setting aside the month of March as Red Cross month in Rockcastle County, in conjunction with the national observance. Looking on at the signing were local Red Cross volunteers Lued Nelson, Betty Carter and Mary Falin. During the month, Vernon Sowler, Rockcastle County ambulance service director and a licensed Red Cross instructor, conducted a standard first aid course and CPR training for over 30 employees at Mt. Vernon Plastics. The local chapter operates under the auspices of the Madison County Red Cross Chapter.

The first practical battery was probably developed by Count Alessandro Volta, an Italian scientist, in the late 1790s. Volta's invention became known as a voltaic pile. It consisted of stacked pairs of silver and zinc disks.

Ladies Aid Missionary Society meets

With Loraine Newland as hostess, the Ladies Aid Missionary Society met at Dix Point Restaurant for Mar. 13 meeting.

After Ella Mae Martin called the meeting to order, Elizabeth Mullins gave the lesson.

The lesson was titled "God, World Creator." She gave a modern day parable about a watch. Did all the levers, springs and jewels in a watch just happen. No, there must be a watchmaker.

So our world is more accurate than a watch. Spring, summer, autumn and winter come back in unvarying succession; where the planets never leave their course. So we surely have a World Maker - God!

The ancient Psalmist saw that years ago when he said: "The Heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament shows His handwork."

Lou Payne closed this lesson with prayer.

Everyone read the thank you notes from Louise Monk's family and from N.C. Red Cross for the groups $100 donation for Hugo victims.

Betty Machal read our Disken's Mission plans for the coming year.

Barbara Watson read the Easter Card Prayer and then each Sowder Nursing resident's tray on Eastern a.m.

She, also, read the letter from the Sowder Nursing Home. A survey of the home had each worker take a test, as well as inspections of each room, etc.

We put our names on eleven March Birthday cards for Ella Mae to deliver to Jean Gentry to present to a resident on their birthday.

We discussed July 15th, Brodhead Christian Church's 100th birthday in the present building. Old pictures are needed for display.

A new "Prayer Circle List" is needed. Elizabeth Francisco, Deborah Newland and Judy Petrey will meet to do this needed job. Bro. Steve Ritter has several to add to the list.

Delicious refreshments were served by Loraine Newland after Betty Machal gave the blessing.

Willie Lawrence is hostess in April, Barbara Watson will have the lesson.

A Cry From the Womb

By: Christine McKinney

I'd like to see the light of day if only for awhile;

I'd like to feel a warm embrace and see a loving smile.

To know that someone cared for me would mean so very much!

I'd really like to live awhile to feel a mother's touch.

I'd like to smell a rosebud, all fresh with morning dew.

But, Mommie, most of all, I'd like to spend some time with you!

I'd like to have you hold me close and sing a lullaby...

Oh, how I'd like to live a bit before I have to die.

I'd like to see a rainbow just once before I go;

Perhaps to plant a flower and live to watch it grow;

I'd like to see a snowfall and hear a summer rain

Beating ever gently against my window pane.

I'd like to see a twinkling star, the moon up in the sky,

I'd like to watch the cotton clouds as they drift slowly by;

I'd like to hear the birds sing and chase a butterfly...

So many things I'd like to do before I have to die.

I'd like to hear you tell this man you've changed your mind, and so,

You'd like your clothes; we're leaving, and then get up and go!

I'd like to blame this all on him; to think you never knew

Just what this doctor planned for me and what he'd put me through.

I'd like to think such suffering will never come to you;

That God will treat you kindly and see you safely through...

I'd like to think we'll meet again beyond this pain and woe

And that you'll ever hold me close and never let me go!

I'd like to thank the many friends who labor night and day

To over-turn this awful law that took my rights away! But now I really have to go, it's time to say goodbye. Still wishing I had lived awhile before I had to...

About Rockcastle Countians

Michael and Derotha Bradley celebrated their 12th wedding anniversary Sunday March 18th. They have three children, Michael, 11, Angela, 7 and Stevie, 8.

25th Anniversary

Jimmy and Ina Taylor of Pine Hill celebrated their silver wedding anniversary Monday, March 19 at their home with family.

Homemakers' International dinner

When the Rockcastle County Homemakers entered the A.S.C. Meeting Room, at 6:30 p.m. March 15, we knew we would hear about China that night.

How? Dragons, kites, place mats and other hangings were proof enough. But oriental music was heard, also.

Several were dressed as long ago, as well as modern Chinese women. I wore a Chinese jacket that I purchased in Hong Kong store in 1974. This store faced the bay that separates Hong Kong from the mainland of China. The coast line could be seen from Hong Kong at this point.

This is the closest I've been to China, but Dyche and Margaret Ponder visited China just before the uprising last Spring. They spent three weeks there.

So after enjoying Chinese food prepared by each homemaker present, we heard Dyche and Margaret inform us "how and what" about this large nation.

First, they told us about the history of China, and then showed us pictures they had made and had put on slides.

When the lights were turned off, we enjoyed seeing large scenes on the wall, used as a screen.

They told us about each picture as it appeared. They were gates built in memory of their great men, carved figures of people, dragons, animals leading on each side of driveways leading to homes for protection. Summer palaces and homes that look like our public buildings.

Artificial Gardens, parts of Shanghai, old temple built on layers of square cut logs with colorful tile roofs dating back to the 1440's, when built were seen.

Also the Forbidden City, fabulous modern hotels (that charged $250 for one night's lodging), an ox as a beast of burden, bicycles galore, a kindergarten class, high-rise apartments with clothes hanging to dry on their balconies and they even stretched clothes lines across the roads.

The most scenic views were of the Yangtze River that mirrored the tall mountains on each side, as well as fisherman and tourist boats, rich farmland, orchards could be seen from boats, also. And a boat made of marble. It surely took a deep river to hold that up.

The Great Wall that goes up and down over hills and mountains as made long ago to keep intruders out of China. Dyche said Margaret had to help him up some of the steps that were 22" high. Oh my, someone would have to drag me up steps that steep.

The government says "Only two children are allowed to one married couple."

How? Don't ask me. Dyche continued, "This is hard to check on far away condensed farm families so maybe they have more than two children." (Good for them.) Of course, this law was made to try to control China's population, but has not.

Busy Bee Homemakers

On Tuesday, March 13, the Busy Bee Homemakers gathered together for their monthly meeting. With St. Patrick's Day only four days away, the Busy Bees decided to become Irish for the evening. The meeting was called to order by Vickie O'Tyler and the minutes of the February meeting were read by Wynona O'Shaue. After playing an exciting game of Irish bingo, the business portion of the meeting began. The room was buzzing with enthusiasm as we discussed the upcoming quilt show at Sue Bennett College in April and the quilt and craft show in May. Effie O'Anglin presented a mini-craft lesson. Edith O'Lamb and Wynona O'Shaue presented the lesson on light microwave desserts. The fruit pizza was low-calorie as well as delicious. Other upcoming events are the State Homemakers meeting in May, the blood drive in April, and the Cape Cod Tour in August. The next meeting of the Busy Bee Homemakers will be Tuesday, April 10 at the home of Irene Winstead. All Busy Bees are encouraged to attend this meeting and visitors are certainly welcome. The lesson will be "Health Fraud."

Spring Lawn Care

Early spring weather has allowed lawns in Kentucky to green up early. Homeowners, however, need to take steps to ensure a lovely lawn the rest of the season.

Mowing is the most important part of lawn maintenance. Since 50 percent of the growth on lawns occurs in spring, mowing is very important, said A.J. Powell, University of Kentucky Extension turf specialist.

"Homeowners should mow early, as soon as grass starts growing to help even it up as it grows and to rid it of dead and older leaves," he said. "This causes the lawn to look better quicker."

Lawns should be mown two inches to two and a half inches high but may be mown closer in the spring.

Weeds also may be prevented by treating the lawn with herbicides.

Dandelions can be controlled by using herbicides that control growing weeds. Crabgrass can be prevented with pre-emergence herbicides in the spring. Herbicides for growing weeds may be applied any time during the spring before April 15.

Powell does not recommend that homeowners fertilize in the spring because it increases the growth rate.

"Points East" (Con't. from A-2)

Ralph planted four five gallon buckets full. When picking time came last year I proved to a bunch of people that I can work around the clock when I have to. But I didn't have time to go look at someone else's pea patch.

The point being that you still have plenty of time to plant your own peas and they'll be just as good and come in about the same time as they would have if you had planted them back in February. I don't aim to fool with em till Cousin Paul gets down here to help me and he says Easter is the earliest he can get away.

He says it'll be a waste of time, but if I'm fool enough to plant 'em that late he wanted to witness it.

I told him we didn't need anymore witnesses. Had all kinds of them last year. Told him unemployment didn't seem to be a big problem down here as some people thought though, and I'd pay him to come down and help me. He said it sounded like we needed help in more ways than fooling with peas.

But he says he's coming down to help plant. If he's as hard a worker as he says he is, maybe I'll be able to talk him into coming back down to help pick the S#@! things.

That's when you can really see something. If we grow peas this year I aim to see if we can't get U.K.'s Medical School to come down and observe. We learned all we need to know from the Agriculture people last year. I'd like to see the medical staff start trying to find a cure for white eye. It breaks out about every thirty minutes around an acre of snow peas.

Report to Kentucky SENATOR WENDELL FORD

FOSTERING THE "WE GENERATION"

I am pleased to report that the Senate has taken action to encourage a much needed shift from the "me generation" to the "we generation" in the decade of the 1990s.

The Senate has passed the National and Community Service Act to enable a growing number of individuals to continue to a promising new spirit of voluntary service in Kentucky and across the nation.

We know that diverse groups of Kentuckians -- from students to retirees, from teachers to bankers -- already are taking part in highly impressive volunteer programs. We know that more volunteers every day are bringing hope to disadvantaged children, the homeless and many others who are struggling to enter the productive mainstream of our national life.

But we also know that this effort must be expanded even further to meet our problems in a continuing period of scarce federal resources. Our federal government must reduce the very dangerous budget deficits created by a short-sighted binge of borrowing and spending in the 1980s. And it must work with Americans in all walks of life to make critical investments in the future of our nation.

I believe that selfish philosophies of recent years are being rejected. Kentuckians and other Americans are striving for a renewal of traditional values of hard work, responsibility and service to others. We are ready once again to heed the words of former President John F. Kennedy, who urged us some 25 years ago to "ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country."

Our National and Community Service Act can be an important vehicle for the resurgence of the spirit evoked by those words. Our Senate bill focuses on some highly promising yet relatively modest pilot programs of voluntary service. This approach will help us to identify our most effective programs, which can be expanded to include increasing numbers of Americans in the years ahead.

Under our bill, young people and adult volunteers would take part in community-service programs operated by schools and community groups. Young people would participate in youth-service and conservation programs. Volunteers over the age of 16 would work in such fields as education, human services, public safety and the environment.

Our bill provides for education, housing and small business vouchers of $5,000 a year for a maximum of two years of full-time service or $2,000 a year for part-time service. It offers expanded deferrals of student-loan payments in return for service in the Peace Corps, VISTA or similar groups. And it initiates or expands other programs to allow Americans in a wide variety of circumstances to help themselves by helping their country.

This nation serves as a model of freedom and human values in a changing world. We look forward to a "peace dividend" of military savings as world hostilities diminish. But our dividend also could include a renewed commitment of human resources to domestic challenges that have been too often neglected in recent years.

The Congress should move quickly to enact voluntary service legislation as a much needed step in this direction.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins suggested the court take the bid under advisement since it was over the $24,000 estimate. The court approved.

The schedule temporarily replaces a judge pro tem at least until after July 1 when money for a judge pro tem will be available.

Many Renfro Valley residents are upset by the condition of Linda McWhorter's trash service at Renfro Valley and they have asked that something be done. Mrs. McWhorter says however, that people are harassing her and that a suit will be filed if the harassment does not stop. The dumpsters are owned by H.S.I. of Gray Ky. Mrs. McWhorter has written two letters to the editor about the situation. The second letter appears this week.

Clean-up month

April has been designated Clean-Up Month in Rockcastle County by County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins.

During the month-long clean up, county road trucks will be used to haul away large discarded items of all kinds that residents will be able to place outside on a designated pick-up day.

Judge Mullins stressed the pick up is not regular household garbage, but items such as refrigerators, washers and other large items.

Kick-off day is scheduled for March 26 at the courthouse. Magistrate Charles Holbrook will bring a truck load of items to the courthouse to highlight the kick-off and to illustrate items to be picked up.

During the month, Green Thumb workers will solicit residents to adopt a road for trash pick up. They will also go with county workers and jail inmates to clean up garbage dumps scattered around the county. No dumping signs will be posted.

Several roads have already been adopted by residents who live along them, or by clubs and other groups. Green Thumb workers are Wade Thomas, Dennis Amyx, Leslie B. Fletcher and Henry Dixon. The workers will report to a nine-member advisory committee.

Throwing trash along roads and in other public areas can bring a fine up to $500. County Attorney James H. Lambert said he would prosecute those who litter if there is adequate proof and someone signs a complaint.

"We hope the cities and all residents in the county will join us in this effort," Judge Mullins said. "It will make our county a much better place in which to live."

Doug Brock donates money to Forward in the Fifth program

Doug Brock, nationally recognized photographer and owner of Brock Studio in Broadhead, is donating $5.00 of each entry fee received in the Tiny Tots Photography Contest that is running through April 30, 1990, to Forward in the Fifth. The check was presented in the lobby of the Bank of Mt. Vernon where entries from last year's contest are currently on exhibit.

"I've always had an interest in education and am proud of what Forward in the Fifth is doing. I want to support them and what they are doing in the fifth district," Doug said. This evidently is the feeling from many local businesses and community members. During the past few months, over 80 new members (parents, teachers and local community members) have joined the organization and approximately 15 business organizations have donated over $1,500 to provide funds for a matching grant that will provide $3,000 for the affiliates projects.

During the past three years, Forward in the Fifth has provided funding for numerous projects including, Writing to Read, the Learning Skills Project, the Science and Math Program, Teacher Mini-Grants, and the rolling classroom experience that provides field trips for students to various places like Berea's Boone Tavern, Shakertown, The Appalachian Museum, and the Hummel Planetarium.

Local businesses contributing to the matching funds grant include: Appliance Service Center, Brock's Photography Studio; Burr Hill Food Mart; The Citizens Bank; Cox Funeral Home; Ford Realty; Farm Bureau Insurance; Hatt's 5 & 10; Norma Houk; J & L Equipment; Jean's Restaurant; Karish Construction; Kastle Inn Motel; Mt. Vernon Drive-Thru Pharmacy; Mt. Vernon Oil and Tire and Singleton and Associates Insurance Co.

The purpose of Rockcastle Forward in the Fifth, according to Superintendent Bigge W. Towery, Jr., is to improve the quality of education and promote education opportunities for students along with increasing community involvement and support for the Rockcastle school system by encouraging open communication and confidence between the community and school personnel.

Doug Brock presents Gary G. Eldridge, president of Rockcastle Forward in the Fifth affiliate, and board members Mike Bryant, Pam Chalif, and Superintendent Bigge W. Towery, Jr., with a check to help meet matching funds grant.

Pam Chalif, secretary for Forward in the Fifth presents Superintendent Bigge W. Towery, Jr., with a check for $1,500 to match locally raised funds.

Road fund balance $292 million

State general fund receipts for February totaled more than $292 million, 7.8 percent greater than the same time period during 1989.

Finance Secretary L. Rogers Wells Jr. said the fund's year-to-date growth has been at the 5.9 percent level. Revenue projections, revised in January, estimated a 5.5 percent growth rate in the general fund for the fiscal year.

Wells said most of the fund's major revenue sources experienced an increase during the month. Regular sales and use tax receipts were up by 21 percent and individual income tax receipts by 6.1 percent. Property taxes rose by 33.4 percent and regular coal severance tax receipts by 10.6 percent.

Corporation income tax collections declined 49.7 percent for the month.

Road fund receipts for February totaled $61.6 million which is an increase of 8.7 percent when compared to February, 1989, most of the rise in receipts was due to growth in the motor fuels and motor vehicle usage categories.

Tournament continues

When the scores were tallied up in Monday night's action of the Rockcastle Christian Basketball Tournament, only six teams remained.

After 26 years

Nortons sell insurance agency

By: Ray McClure

After nearly 26 years of filling out insurance forms, Arletta Norton is going to let someone else do it in the future.

"I'm retiring," Arletta said this week, "and Bill and I are going to travel a little and enjoy ourselves."

In short, the Nortons have sold their agency to Donnie Singleton and are setting their sights on other activities.

However, Bill was quick to say he was not retiring from farming, something he has done most of his adult life.

"They'll still call home the farm at Ottawa, and there they'll welcome their three children, Charles, who lives in Clark County; Michael, who lives in Elizabethtown, and daughter Mrs. Mike (Bonita) Lay, who lives in Somerset, seven grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Arletta and Bill are not the only ones getting out of the insurance business. Daughter, Bonita, who has been the agency for 18 years is also leaving. She plans to work at a Somerset agency after taking some time off.

Arletta, a native of Clay County, and Bill, from Lawrence County, Tennessee, met at Berea College where Arletta was into home economics and Bill was getting a degree in agriculture.

In 1946 after they married they came to Mt. Vernon where Bill taught agriculture. In 1956, Arletta joined the Signal where she said she was in "different jobs in different years." She worked at the Signal for a total of eight years and was editor under then owner, Elmo Anderkin.

Arletta said she will miss all the people who have been their customers over the years.

She also said she regrets not being able to please all her customers all of the time.

"Sometimes we were unable to get the customer the policy they wanted and they would be unhappy," she said. "But we have to follow the regulations of the company we represent."

One problem she pointed out was the sudden changes in policies made by the companies.

"But we always tried to adjust and do what we could to help the customer," she said.

She recalled with a smile one man who came to the office to complain on behalf of a policy holder.

"He was not even one of our policy holders," she said. "He was there on behalf of a friend who had a policy and was unhappy with it. He really bawled us out."

What was to eventually be the Norton Insurance Agency was in the beginning owned by Attorney James W. Lambert and operated by Mrs. Mattie B. Robinson. When Mrs. Robinson left, it was operated by Mrs. Clara Mae Jones. Later, Lambert sold the agency to Ralph and Jeanette Dean of Berea.

"The agency is a combination of the Mattie B. Robinson agency, R.C. Anderson agency of Broadhead and Cox and Henson of Mt. Vernon. Added now is the Singleton agency."

"We would like to thank all those who have been our customers over the years," Arletta said. "It has been a pleasure to have served them."

Rockcastle County basketball; the winners and losers

By: Spencer T. Bengé

With exceptional teams and poor teams, basketball season has come to a close in Rockcastle County this year.

Out of 21 teams that represented our schools this year, 10 of those teams proved winning records and it stood that basketball can be a successful program in our county.

Let's take a look at some of those teams that came out on top with good talent, coaching and a winning record.

The Broadhead Tigers heads the cast with an exceptional year (and were only one game shy of being a 20 game winner).

Their 19-3 record stands alone and coached by head coach Gary Scott, this year's Tigers was one of the best teams he has ever had the pleasure of coaching.

I would have to agree. The Tigers performed well against a competitive schedule and they did it as a team. And as the old saying goes "a team that plays together, stays together."

The Tigers season was highlighted when they were crowned champions of the 1990 Broadhead Invitational Tournament.

Tigers this year with 385 points, the highest in the county, for a 17.5 per game average.

Shaffer, along with the rest of the team, all eight graders, will not be with the Tigers next year, but will suit up for the RCHS freshman squad.

So next year, look for a young team to enter the Broadhead gymnasium for the Tigers, but also look for that same team, with a year's experience under their belt, to be the same high caliber team as this year's team in the 91-92 season.

The next team, actually two teams, that deserve recognition are the girls A and B-team squads of Mt. Vernon. Both teams went into county tournaments and both teams are coached by Judy Bullock.

The A-team Red Devils finished the season on a 13-2 note, the most wins of any girls squad. They also carry a two year winning streak, by not losing a game in the county girls A-team tournament, into next year.

The B-team Red Devils also put up an impressive 10 and 1 mark this year. They too, carry a winning streak into next year, theirs was not losing to another team team all fall.

The A-team will lose four players to RCHS next year, but with such a talented B-team coach Bullock should have little difficulty finding players to take on the new roles.

So, I'm surprised if the A-team Red Devils make it three in a row and the B-team Red Devils make it two in a row in the girls county tournament next year.

Next on the list with a deserving performance this year, the Rockcastle County junior varsity Rockets.

The young Rockets, under head coach Jerry Reynolds, put up a 12 and 8 record which was the only winning record at RCHS this year.

Coach Reynolds told me many times this year he had a bunch of talented young men and indeed he did.

The majority of his team, sophomores, dressed out for the varsity squad and the majority received playing time. This could only mean one thing.

With a couple of more years of experience, these young men should have the maturity to be competitive with other varsity squads and post the winning year that the varsity Rockets so badly need.

As of this year for the junior varsity, William Bullens led the scoring attack with a 12 point per game average, a total of 235 points for the year. Chris Newland followed up with 166 of his own and Micah Parkerson had a close 160.

With a couple more teams with a good year were the A and B-team Red Devils of Mt. Vernon, under head coach Jerry Pensel.

The A-team closed with a 9 and 5 year and were led by the county's leading average of 21 points per game by eighth grader Jason Fletcher.

Coach Pensel's B-team also ended on an excellent note with a 6 and 1 record. With only one loss, the Red Devils have a lot to be proud of and deserve a pat on the back for a job well done.

With a fine group of young boys for coach Pensel to choose from, you can look to the Red Devils to finish well next year.

Winning 8 and losing 6, the girls of Broadhead also wound up with a good year.

Coach Debbie Cash's team played well all year and were just edged out by the Mt. Vernon Red Devils in the girls county tourney last fall.

Sports Commentary

Cindy McCauley led the Tigers with 267 points and her 19 point average led all girls this year. McCauley had a dual role as she not only played for the Tigers, but also started for the junior varsity Lady Rockets.

Two more teams that came out on top this year were the A and B-team squads of Roundstone.

The A-team Eagles, under head coach Harry Holland, are always competitive and this year was no exception. The Eagles, led by Shawn Thacker, finished the year with an 8-2 record. Thacker poured in 208 points to give himself a 14 point average this season.

The B-team Eagles were also winners this year and head coach Jim Ward directing the way, put up a 7 and 5 record.

Eddie Todd led the young Eagles with 123 points and a 10 point average.

The final team of our 10 team cast that put more wins in the column than losses is also Roundstone.

With another talented young team, the B-team girls of Roundstone, coached by Kathy Short, put up 7 wins and 5 losses.

Jamica Cummins led the Eagles with 132 points and also had 21 points in A and B-team games combined to lead all scorers.

There's our lineup of winning teams this year. They have a lot of potential and with the proper guidance, will make basketball an all-round successful program in our county.

Let's take a look at the 11 teams that had the potential but were just not fortunate enough to post a winning year.

First up is the B-team of Broadhead under head coach Nelson Graves.

The Tigers, 7-9, had some disappointing losses through the year but came back in the end to win the championship of the Lions Club Tourney.

Leading rebounder Chad Severance took high scoring honors for the Tigers this year with 116 points.

Another disappointed team was the girls A-team of Roundstone, who ended the season with a 4-9 mark.

But head coach Cathy Short has little to frown about as she will see most of her girls return next year. Jeannie Proctor led the Eagles with 122 points and a 9 point per game average.

The Broadhead Tiger's B-team also deserve some credit for their efforts this year.

Coach Debbie Cash's young girls gave it their best shot but fell short with a 4 and 10 record this season.

High scorer for the Tigers was Amy Robinson with 107 points and 7.6 average.

The next four teams are all from Livingston and they probably played with more heart than any other team in the county.

As unfortunate as it may be, the boys A-team went that extra mile this year but still came out winless, 0-11.

Coach Kenwood Abney's team, like many other grade school teams, consists of a lot of young players.

And like so many other grade school teams, it wasn't that they didn't have a good team, it was just that most players were playing for their first year while others only had maybe a year or two of experience. We must always keep this in mind when judging the performance of these young teams.

Jamie Medley was the high scorer for the A-team this year with 61 points.

The same rules apply to coach Jason Cogger's B-team Blue Devils. The B-team managed 1 win out of 9 games but that, one win was like winning the NCAA championship, according to coach Cogger.

Coach Cogger, a young coach in his own right, just needs a little time and support and with that in mind will do wonders for the young Blue Devils.

The leading scorer for the B-team was Jason Northern with 113 points and a 12 point average.

The girls A and B-team of Livingston, coached by Darla Reams, also struggled through this year with disappointing losses.

The A-team finished 0-7 and the B-team put up a 3-6 year. Both teams put forth good efforts and they should be recognized for that.

Rosemary Parker was the leading scorer for both the A and B-teams with 111 points which made for a 7 point per game average.

Although not the best of years, our next team should be applauded for their performance on the basketball court.

The junior varsity Lady Rockets, who struggled through half of their season by not having enough players, closed their season with the second best record at RCHS.

With 17 seventh graders, 1 eighth grader and just an all round bunch of young girls, the Lady Rocket JV posted a 7 and 12 year. It's in fact, a season that head coach Darla Reams should be proud of.

Losing several games that went to the wire this year forced the boys varsity Rockets to have anything but a good season.

The Rockets, coached by David Perkins, come out with 8 wins and 17 losses when their season ended.

A combination of things such as too many fouls, poor free throw shooting and a lack of size haunted the Rockets during the majority of their games this year.

But it was an experience the Rockets should be able to use to their advantage next year. Besides three seniors that graduate this year, the Rockets should be in good shape, as far as players with experience is concerned.

So by learning from their mistakes, let's look and hope for the Rockets to be more successful next year.

Junior Billy Todd led the Rocket's offense with a 13 point average and senior Steve Clark followed close behind with a 12 point average.

Judy Bullock's Lady Rockets were also edged out in the closing seconds of several games.

The Lady Rockets were much better than their 6 and 17 record showed. They had good shooting, average size and some quickness but they just failed to put it all together. But those things happen to the best of teams.

The Lady Rockets will lose four seniors this year but like the boys varsity, they too should learn from experience and they too should have a better performance next year.

Stephanie Northern led the Lady Rockets in her last year at RCHS with 276 points and a 12 point average.

The final team of our 21 team field is the freshman squad at RCHS with a 2 and 13 year.

It was a frustrating season for coach Jeff Burdette and team this year but if anything it was at least a learning experience.

Like the girls varsity, the freshman squad was a better ballclub than their record showed. It was their first year in playing together instead of playing against each other and hopefully they have learned each others abilities and will put that together next year on the boys JV squad.

Scotty Bullens led the scoring for the freshmen with 90 points while Jason Kirby came in a close second with 89.

That completes our 21 team field for the 89-90 basketball season and overall I would have to say we did just below average.

It wasn't that we didn't have the players because we have a lot of good young talent out there. It's just that there's a combination of things that sometimes stand in the way.

Many people have their own viewpoints on why a team loses and it has brought a lot of controversy on the basketball program this year.

Some say it's bad coaching, others say we don't have the players and still others insist we just have a bad attitude about the program in general. Which one it is, I don't know but there is one thing for certain, our basketball program needs some assistance.

Running Start By: John Holbrook

The Pitino Era has begun. It's been work, but it's been fun.

It is off to a running start. It may have been luck, but it was smart.

So we can call it the wonder year. With lots of happiness and maybe a tear.

They had to get tough, to run and gun it became a miraculous season of celebration hope and fun.

This team has a place in each fan's heart. And it did right from the start.

Let hold up another "3" as they go. For Derrick Miller don't you know fans.

Thanks to Pitino, who is the man that help make us such delightful fans.

Let's sing one more song for our Kentucky home boys. It was Hanson, Feldhaus, Pelphrey and Farmer who increased our joys.

They could not have made it, don't you know. Without Woods, Davis and Brassow.

Thanks to the walk ons Braddy, McGowan, Parks and Cooper. Each of them was a very good hooper.

The season has ended, but we are believers. In this delightful bunch of overachievers.

Tiger Pause

Our "Spring Thing!" will be next Thursday, March 29. We will begin with an old-fashioned "soup bean supper" at 5:30, followed by a variety show in the gym at 7:00. You won't want to miss this program because each grade will perform. If you've attended these programs in the past, you know what a treat to expect. If you haven't you will be pleasantly surprised. So, come on out and join in the fun. Help us to bring some sunshine to BES through our "Spring Thing."

Spring break is getting closer, and it's the general consensus that we all need a break. It's difficult to realize that we have not missed one day of school because of inclement weather since Christmas break. That must be some kind of record. Our students and staff are making plans for the week of April 2-6. These plans surely include some rest and relaxation in order to refurbish our energy for the last few important weeks of school. Don't forget "picture day" tomorrow (Friday). We will have three different backgrounds, one for each of three grade groups. If you are not a student and want your picture taken, please come to school by 12:30.

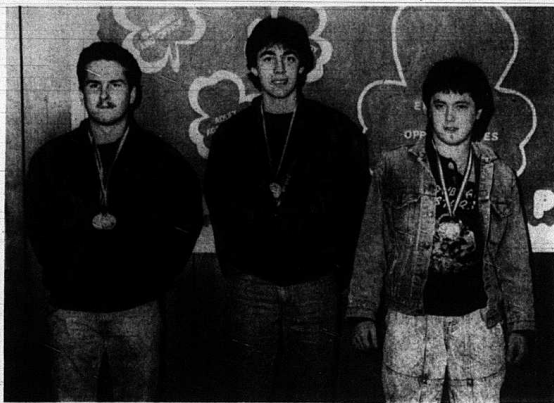

Mrs. Dyehouse's class brought in 10,000 Campbell Soup labels and won the annual contest. Congratulations to these students and their teacher.
