Johnny Blackburn dies in Chestnut Ridge wreck

A single vehicle accident on Chestnut Ridge road, Saturday, has claimed the life of a Chestnut Ridge man.

Johnny Blackburn, 31, died after he was thrown from the truck he was driving, rolled over on its side, crushing his chest, according to Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell, who said that Blackburn was dead on arrival at the Rockcastle Hospital.

According to police, Blackburn apparently lost control of his 1980 GMC in a curve about two miles from where Chestnut Ridge road connects with U.S. 25. After going out of control, the truck flipped over twice before coming to rest. Blackburn was partially ejected from the truck.

Two of the other four passengers in the vehicle were also slightly injured. Larry Hubbard, 11, and Raymond Blackburn, 10, were both released from the Rockcastle Hospital after treatment. Blackburn's twin brother, Jackie and his 10-year-old son, Johnathon were not injured. (A complete obituary appears on page A-6)

House Bill 115 would allow alcohol sales by precinct

One of the last pieces of legislation to pass the House floor in Frankfort Friday, would allow a governing body such as a fiscal court or city council to hold a wet-dry election in a particular precinct.

Before House Bill 115, it took a certain number of signatures from any precinct to force the wet-dry question onto the ballot. But now it will be much easier to get the question before the voting public.

State Representative Danny Ford, who was against the bill, said Monday that representatives from Jefferson County and Floor Leader Don Blandford were in favor of the bill. "They tucked it in to a retirement bill for state alcohol beverage control officers at the last minute," Ford said. "It actually passed without any discussion on the house floor," he said.

The annual Brodhead Alumni Banquet will be held on April 14th in the Brodhead gymnasium. The classes of 1920, 1930, 1940, 1950, 1960 and 1970 will be honored.

All graduates and husbands, wives and guests are invited to this annual gathering of all Brodhead alumni.

For reservations visit: Brodhead School at P.O. Box 98, Brodhead, Kentucky 40409 or call Blanche Baldwin at (606) 758-8512. Tickets are $7.00 each and reservations should be made as soon as possible.

Eddie Cash resigns from Brodhead City Council

Eddie Cash, who been on the Brodhead City Council for several terms, has resigned.

Cash, who was re-elected last November, told the council in a letter, that changes at the Bluegrass Army Depot where he is employed, have resulted in four or five meetings each day and he was finding it difficult to fulfill his duties on the council.

He said it would be in the best interests of the council that he resign. The council will choose a new councilman who will serve until the November election at which time voters will choose a councilman. If the council does not choose a councilman within 30 days Gov. Wallace Wilkinson will name the choice.

Persons wishing to file for a seat on the council should do so by August 30, according to Council County Clerk Norma Houk.

House Bill 14 will save Rockcastle County $5,672

The passage of House Bill 14 by the Kentucky General Assembly will save Rockcastle County $5,672 in the initial expenses necessary to conduct a separate presidential preference election, according to State Auditor Bob Babbage.

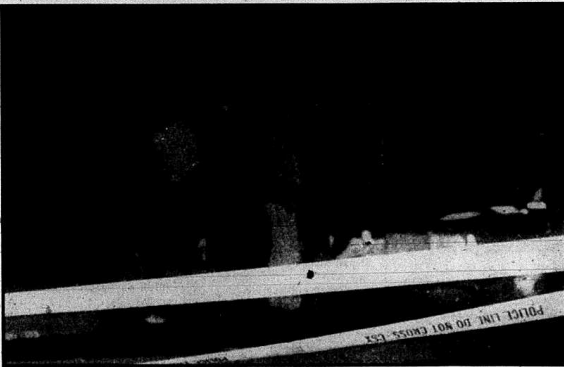

The legislation would allow the state executive committee of each political party the option of determining their delegate votes by either a party caucus or a presidential preference primary election or a combination of the two methods.

Any election would be incorporated with the existing May primary election. The 1988 Super Tuesday presidential primary cost Kentucky $3.2 million; and only 23 percent of our voters cast their ballots," Babbage noted.

Persons having problems with any government agency should contact the representative who will answer questions.

Police were called to the scene of another murder in Rockcastle County. Donnie Clemmons died last Wednesday night. Marty Morgan is charged with murder.

911 emergency number scrapped by council

By: Ray McClure

There'll be no answer for residents who dial a 911 emergency number anytime in the near future.

The Mt. Vernon City Council, on recommendation of Mayor Gary R. Cromer, scrapped the attempt to set up 911 as a countywide emergency number at a meeting of the council Monday night.

Mayor Cromer told the council the county "evidently is not interested in the 911 system," in which case the city will pursue its own emergency number.

The mayor reported the cost of 911 for the city acting alone would be prohibitive.

"The council agreed to look into other methods, made necessary because Jailer Billy Kirby no longer wants to dispatch calls from the jail."

"We'd be better off to do our own dispatching," the mayor declared. "We're responsible for the city and not the county, so we'll take care of the city and go on from there."

He left the council to think over the problem and discuss it further at a called meeting of the council at 7 p.m., April 23.

The county was notified of the city's intention to discuss the 911 system with Contel and did so at a called meeting in March. But no officials from Brodhead, Livingston or the county attended. County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins called to say he was ill and unable to attend.

No one came to the Monday meeting to discuss the proposed system. According to Contel official, Wallace Black, the 911 number must be countywide and approved first by the county fiscal court.

A possible solution to the problem would be to use present employees of the city during the day to answer yet to be determined number, and to add two employees for night. Mayor Cromer asked the council to think it over and present ideas at the April 23 called meeting.

Dispatching would basically be only to police and fire departments. The Rockcastle Hospital answers ambulance calls.

In other action, the council voted to contribute $525 a year to the Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center in Mt. Vernon.

The city had contributed annually until about two years ago when funds became short for the city.

Mayor Cromer told the council the center has many on-going programs and suggested the council visit the center for a tour.

What is left of the trees along the sidewalk on Main Street are to be replaced by small shrubs. The council agreed the trees that are left are taking up too much room and making it difficult to walk on the sidewalk.

In another action, the council voted to rotate gasoline purchases for city vehicles on a 60-day basis beginning May 1 for those self-service stations that want to participate.

The council will apply for a grant to construct an addition to the fire department building. Under the plan, the front of the fire station would be extended 10 feet and a room for meetings added as a second story.

City council's attention focuses on health hazards

That old broken-down, rat-infested, vacant building, or that lot next door with all the trash and litter, may soon be a thing of the past in Mt. Vernon.

The city council directed City Attorney John Clontz Monday night to come up with a nuisance ordinance, or some other legal route, to get rid of health hazards in the city.

Mayor Gary R. Cromer said he had been approached by residents on occasion complaining about trash and litter and dangerous areas that can cause health hazards and that something needs to be done about it.

Attorney Clontz said one method is already a Kentucky Statute which allows cities to give owners of hazardous areas 30 days to clean up the mess or the city will clean it up and charge the property owner for the work. If not paid, then the city can place a lien on the property and sell it.

Clontz said the health hazard law had already been declared Constitutional. He added the law had been on the books for many years. The Brodhead City Council used the law successfully about two years ago when an area that was an eyesore and a health hazard was declared a nuisance and ordered the owner to clean it up. The owner did.

"I don't mean for the council to go down the street see a yard that needs mowing, or a house with the wrong color of paint, and declare it a nuisance," the mayor said. "But there are areas of the city that can use a clean up."

Attorney Clontz told the council he could draw up an ordinance prescribing a heavy fine, but that kind of ordinance has not been tested in the city.

He added he would check further and give the council additional advice at its next meeting.

New solid waste bill passes Kentucky Senate

A bill to encourage local governments to enact universal garbage collection has passed the Kentucky Senate by a 24-1 vote.

The bill sets up Wilkinson's proposed Solid Waste Financing Authority which would be allowed to issue $16 million in bonds to provide loans to help local governments build solid waste disposal facilities.

The bill would also make $4 million in matching grant money available to local governments that begin mandatory garbage collection.

The money could be used to buy garbage trucks or hire personnel, but not to pay landfill costs.

Wilkinson proposed requiring all counties to set up mandatory garbage collection programs by 1992, but a bill that would have done that did not get out of a House committee.

Seven Kentucky counties and many cities have ordinances that require citizens to pay for garbage disposal. Mandatory, or universal, collection is seen as a way to stem illegal dumping and create a more predictable waste stream for landfills.

The governor could, if he so desired, mandate house to house garbage collection by decree.

Rockcastle has a garbage plant that was drawn up and approved by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court about three years ago, but was put on the shelf.

Breakdown of major changes in schools

There'll be some major changes in schools in the future if a new education reform bill lives up to its billing. Below is a compilation of changes in the schools as passed by the Legislature from the Lexington Herald-Leader.

The reforms were put together by legislative leaders, along with Wilkinson and his staff, over nine months.

The tax package was a compromise reached last month between the governor and leaders of the House and the Senate.

Here is a look at the major provisions of the reform and tax bill:

Murder charges against Morgan

By: Richard Anderkin

The streets of Mt. Vernon turned bloody once again Wednesday night as yet another Rockcastle County man was shot to death.

Donnie Clemmons, 28, of Berea died at around 11:30 p.m. during surgery at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

Charged with his murder is Marty Morgan, 33, of Mt. Vernon. Morgan turned himself in at the Rockcastle County Jail on Thursday morning. He is free on a $30,000 property bond until a preliminary hearing in Rockcastle District Court on April 11.

Morgan's bond had been set at $100,000 cash by local Trial Commissioner Robert Robinson, but District Judge William Cain lowered the bond to $30,000 cash or property, at the request of Morgan's attorney Jerry Cox.

Clemmons, who was flown to the Medical Center by U.K. emergency helicopter, died as the result of a single penetrating gunshot wound to the chest. A spokesperson for the Fayette County Coroner's office said the shot was fired from a handgun at very close range.

An eyewitness, who asked not to be identified, said that Morgan shot Clemmons, while Clemmons stood outside a truck, where Morgan was hitting with two other men, Kevin Holt and Ricky Madden.

The shooting took place in the city parking lot on Main Street in Mt. Vernon across from the Rockcastle County Courthouse.

The shot was heard as far away as the Rockcastle County jail.

There have been many conflicting reports about the shooting, however the eyewitness said that, while Clemmons did have a gun in his possession when he first approached Morgan's truck, he did not have one in his possession when Morgan shot him.

But police, who declined comment, apparently found a handgun next to Clemmons' body when they arrived.

The witness said that at the time of the shooting, Clemmons' gun was in the front seat of his car.

Mt. Vernon police chief Joe Howard, would not confirm any of the witness's statements and said only that the case was still under investigation by City Police Detective Larry Thompson.

Friends of the two men said that they had had several confrontations in the past several months.

Clemmons' death marked the fourth such homicide in Rockcastle County this year alone.

Funeral services for Clemmons were held in Berea. (A complete obituary appears on page A-6)

Raises the sales tax from 5 cents on the dollar to 6 cents. This would bring in $402.3 million over the next two years.

Raises the corporate income tax rate by one percentage point. This would bring in $75.1 million.

Confirms the Kentucky tax code to the federal tax code, which eliminates deductions. This would bring in $251.9 million.

Eliminates deduction granted to Kentucky taxpayers for federal taxes paid. This would bring in $529.9 million.

Dear Editor,
I was visiting in Mt. Vernon and happened to pass the city park downtown. I couldn't help but notice the despair of the United States flag which flew there.

The flag is a disgrace - totally unsightly.

With all the controversy over the flag in the last few years, the city should make the effort to display a proper flag and under the guidelines of the law - weather proof, taken in during rainy days, and well lighted at night.

What I saw was a pure disgrace. I've heard of the county clean-up program. Replacing this flag would be step one!

Thanks,

Our Readers Write

Dear Dr. Parsons,
I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your input on our survey concerning the school mascot. In reply to the things you mentioned in your letter, I would like to explain why we are conducting the survey.

Each year I have had parents voice objections to the Red Devil mascot. I had to remove a Red Devil emblem with a menacing scowl because it upset some younger students. Many people don't feel the mascot is appropriate for an elementary school.

In response to these concerns, I have stated that if the mascot is ever to be changed, now is the time. If it isn't changed now, I don't think it would be appropriate to change later.

The new building offers us an opportunity to address many areas of concern we have about our school program. There have been no suggestions to change the school colors and the new gym is already being decorated in white with red accents.

We welcome your input on this but disagree with your suggestion that we should consult with some "key alumni." This is a matter for the Mt. Vernon Elementary School community to decide. We welcome the input of everyone in our community. At this time, the majority of responses have been in favor of allowing the students to select a new mascot.

A letter to the Editor and Concerned Citizens of Rockcastle County:

The last few years it seems that we've got the name, Mt. Vernon, on TV and radio and it's not commending us for anything that we have done toward the betterment of our community but is bringing disgrace to our county. I wonder when will we get settled down again and shootings stop happening.

Some few years ago my nephew worked at the Ordinance at Richmond. Occasionally he and a colored man from Lexington would meet in the restaurant for lunch. One morning they met and the colored man finished reading the paper. He looked over at my nephew and said there had been another shooting accident at Mt. Vernon. What's going on down there?

Do you all shoot each other for past time? My nephew told him it was not that bad but the colored man said it looked that way. If he thought that then, it is no wonder what he thinks now. My nephew told the man if he thought it was so bad why didn't he come down and see first hand. He said no, sir, you all are not getting me down there. You all would shoot me before I could get out of my car. As far as I know he had never been to Mt. Vernon. Parsons never will.

I think we have one of the best law enforcements in our state but they can't keep these gun carriers from

New Diet Product Passes Pharmacist's Test

WASHINGTON - Before offering a revolutionary new diet product to his customers, a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist put the product to his own test. In a documented statement, the pharmacist said "after using the product FOOD SOURCE ONE I did not have the desire to nibble. I took FOOD SOURCE ONE in the morning and at lunch and did not get hungry. In the evening I ate my meal and as a result I lost 14 pounds in 15 days."

"In a separate report, after fighting a weight battle for twelve years, a Daytona Beach, Florida woman, on the recommendation of her physician used the product and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "not only have I lost thirty pounds, but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes that have not fit me in two years which I can now wear. This product is very easy to take and I feel good. I now have one daughter and two sons-in-laws who also decided to go with the plan. Thank you for a product that in my opinion is a real aid to dieters."

Developed by National Dietary Research, FOOD SOURCE ONE packs the balanced nutrition of a meal into a compact tablet. FS-1 makes you feel full like you just got up from the dinner table, but without the calories. FS-1 works by mimicking the food assimilation process, due in part to the special mechanism by which FS-1 works to decrease body weight called nutri-bonding.

FOOD SOURCE ONE is unlike any other product on the market and is available only through physicians and pharmacists. FS-1 is not a drug and contains only natural ingredients known to be safe. Physicians and pharmacists are praising FOOD SOURCE ONE as a natural, drug free alternative for the treatment of obesity.

 trying their markmanship once in awhile and unfortunately it is on mankind.

If this colored man from Lexington has the opinion as I have stated, I wonder what people throughout the state think of Mt. Vernon. If this notoriety keeps up or perhaps increases I wonder if it will have any bearing on the success of upcoming Renfro Valley Enterprises. I suppose it could work anyway. Some might be afraid to visit us. Others might come just to see what the people here in Rockcastle County look like.

Despite the fact we have had some bad notoriety I believe things are looking up. First we have the best Judge/Executive in Roland Mullins that we have ever had and he has five magistrates that I think will go along with him in his plans. Our courthouse has taken a different look since Mr. Mullins took over and I'm sure as time goes on things in the courthouse will continue to improve.

Now we as law abiding citizens need to work and pray that our name will not be shown on TV every week.

Sincerely,
 Archie L. French

Dear Editor,

Once again we are nearing the end of another school year. On May 17 seniors at Rockcastle County High School will have their graduation exercises. This is a very exciting time for these young people as they look ahead to the future, and back at their years here at RCHS.

It's an exciting time for parents also. They have watched their child grow over the years both physically and emotionally and now the BIG DAY is near.

This year will be the third year to provide an all night, chemical free graduation party for the seniors. All of us are aware of the possibilities for tragedy to occur on this night. Many teenagers do not survive their graduation night due to alcohol or other drug related accidents. We do not want our children to be a "statistic" from this night.

You can help by serving on one of the committees, helping with and/or donating to the May 5th rummage sale, supporting the May 5th bake sale and car wash, preparing some songs for the night of graduation, unteering to work during the party anytime from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m. and donating a cash donation of $10. This contribution will help with the expenses of the prizes, gifts and entertainment for this memorable occasion. Any or all of the above contributions will be greatly appreciated. The $10 donation can be sent to:

Dear Editor,

Upon a time, about two thousand three hundred years ago, there lived a "Giant". While it may be true that he was not the first to say "Let there be light", he did give man the lamp and the fuel to feed that light.

The lamp, he called reason, and the fuel he named logic. It was the light of truth and reality.

This giant asked the questions, what is knowledge, what do we know, and how do we know it? And then he gave us the answer to those questions. No one in the history of man has been a greater benefactor to man, nor been less understood, or less appreciated.

He tutored men like Alexander the Great, and taught them that the only true and moral government was a government that provided protection for all its citizens, but interfered as little as possible in economic affairs. He taught that the moral justification of government was; man's right to exist for his own sake, neither sacrificing himself to others, nor sacrificing others to himself, and recognizing that man -- every man -- is an end in himself, not a means to the ends of others, not a sacrificial animal serving anyone's need.

There may be but few men left on this earth that know the name of that type of government. The name is Capitalism. The name of that giant is Aristotle.

That lamp which Aristotle lit, went out and the period of history that followed is known as the Dark Ages. It was not until the 14th century that a glimmer of light was seen, and it took three more centuries for the movement known as the Renaissance to be considered complete. How many men today know that the Renaissance means rebirth, a rebirth of reason.

Aristotle referred to Capitalism as a moral government, and by moral he meant having a code of values to guide man's choices and actions -- the choices which determine the purpose and course of his life. It is a code by means of which he judges what is right or wrong, good or evil.

So long as men hold altruism as their moral ideal, they will have to regard Capitalism as immoral; Capitalism certainly does not, and can not work on the principle of selfless service.

I will conclude with this definition from the Random House Dictionary. Socialism is a theory or system of social organization that advocates the ownership and control of industry, capital, land, etc., it is the stage following Capitalism in the transition to a society to Communism.

Dear Editor,

We, the concerned citizens of Laurel County, have been reading the newspapers for some time. We read many stories about many different things. We read a very interesting story a few weeks back. Many questions were asked concerning incidents involving children as to who is responsible for them being hurt or killed. The question was asked who is responsible? Social workers, judges or who?

As they said, someone isn't doing their job, but who is it? Men trying to make an honest living being hurt or killed. The question was asked who is responsible? Social workers, judges or who? Nine years ago, when I began writing this column at the invitation of Charles House, then editor of the Sentinel Echo (London), I had visions of it being my ticket to the big leagues. Charles gave me a good spot in the paper and said "go for it." I wrote about stuff like going to the clubhouse after dark and getting bumped in January when they had to break the ice out of the creek. Not me. But I'd watched it happen so someone else and felt qualified to write about it. I got baptised in a big fiberglass tub inside the church. The preacher bumped my head on the side of it. Loreta said this reason that religion didn't take on me.

Anyway, I figured the big shots at the Courier Journal and The Lexington Herald-Leader would see my column and it would just be a matter of time before I was cutting a deal with the one that made the best offer. I'd cut out my good stuff and send it to the editors along with a personal note that included my address and three telephone numbers where somebody could get a message to me in ten minutes. "Call anytime I can help you out," I'd tell them.

I've never heard a word. The only people I've talked to at the big city papers are looking for news. In fact I've had more than half a dozen good friends - good people who made their living digging up the real news - pass through my life while they were working at one of the big city papers. If you watch closely you'll see that many good reporters come and go a lot. Most of the time they don't have much to do with hiring and firing anyone else.

I remember asking one reporter to see if he could get me into see-and-so. The Head Honcho.

"You don't want me getting you in to see him," my friend told me. "The blinky blinky sign gonna fire me when he finds out that I've spent the day chasing a lead that you gave me and reached a dead end." Reporters don't talk exactly that way, but that's what he meant. I never did ask anyone else for help.

I've written letters to the top office on numerous occasions. Never heard a word. A time or two someone has called and asked if I was me. They'd want to know if I'd written a letter to the editor. All I got to say was "Yeah," twice, and they'd hang up. Next day my letter would be in the paper. But I haven't had a chance to discuss my position with anyone who has "edited" included somewhere in his or her title.

I did sit four games behind Creed Black at a U.K. rams time. Creed didn't think he was in any mood to talk business. One of Joe B. Hall's teams was taking a beating. And that's as close as I've been able to get.

I've finally quit writing letters altogether. If they ain't going to write back, I don't want 'em putting it in the paper any more. From now on, if they publish me they're gonna have to strike a deal that involves some cash coming my way. Spendable income. Not I care none whatever for these deals where payment comes in the form of a free subscription. "Here's your money. We're so grateful for what we think you ought to have a copy on."

I want on the payroll before I'm gonna flog 'em with 'em anymore."

Besides that, I love writing for my little weekly newspapers whose editors were a bit skeptical at first, but have stuck with me since they signed me on. And do give me free subscriptions as a major portion of the compensation package. I couldn't afford to live on it if I had my column in every paper in the state at current rates but sometimes I think it's worth trying.

If Loreta would just take some time to write some new papers and do a little basic marketing, we could probably sign up several more papers. But she's ashamed to get on the phone and tell people that she's married to me.

And I don't know how to go about pricing it. Right now I just take whatever they give me and even at that I often feel overpaid. If Loreta would do the selling though, she'd squeeze every single nickel out of 'em. This was just get fired up and do it. See I need an agent and I think Loreta would be a good one.

I'll haggle for weeks over the price of a word pick-up, but for some reason I don't feel comfortable asking editors to pay me for writing a column. Too many other writers do it for the sheer pleasure of writing. Publishation of their work is pay enough. Thank God they have that attitude because I have been around enough weekly newspapers to know that they can't afford to pay their writers very much. And there are some excellent writers in the weekly papers.

When I have a bone to pick with the editor I can get on the phone and go straight to the top. So can anybody else who needs to speak with her or him. I hardly ever do it, but I know I can and that makes me feel good about the company I'm keeping.

If one of the big city dailies calls up next week to let me know what a mistake they've been making, all these years, I ain't gonna go unless they let me keep my column wherever it started, as part of the bargain.

are never alone nor lonely for there is always someone needing their advice or companionship.

One such person as the above mentioned was Mat. His advice was sought on everything from fixing cars to doing intricate surveying problems. He could quote the Bible or Shakespeare or sit for hours in a squatting position talking about logging, sawing or building roads. He was a leader of men.

Alice Mize was a different type leader. When we first moved to the Buffalo community in 1936 she was the postmaster of the Cedarville Post Office. It was kept in a corner of her home. She also ran a small country store to supply her neighbors with their pinto beans, meal, flour and stick candy. Of course there was other things too but I remember these because that's what I bought most of.

Besides tending the store and post office she kept house, made a garden and canned the produce. She milked her cow twice a day and cooked for her family of husband, four sons, a daughter and later two grandsons. She also had a blind brother living with them. And also boarded many a school teacher.

She cooked on a coal kitchen range and lighted her house with coal oil lamps. She washed on a clothesboard and hung her clothes to dry on a line. Then ironed every piece with flat irons heated on the cook stove. If some unfortunate man was found drunk by the roadside she always had him brought to the house and filled him with plenty of hot coffee before sending him on his way, after he sobered up.

Her table at noon time was always a place for her late store customers to get a free meal. No, she was not a saint. She was just a born leader of people or at least always had people about her.

In the evenings we often went to Alice's for games and fun. Even after she got older she would play outside games like Blindman's Bluff or Jacob and Rachel, with all the young people gathered at her place.

She could chew her quid of tobacco and squirt the juice as far as anyone. But she was so discreet about it very few people ever knew she chewed.

After all her children were gone

Sweet & Sour by Zi Graves

Finally there is evidence of some real leadership being developed in Rockcastle County.

It makes me hope for the future when I see such organizations as the "Chamber of Commerce" being revitalized. And not only so the members will have a meeting to go to every month. At the meeting I attended everyone was enthused over plans to improve the image of the county and the direction it will take from here. I was impressed by the quality of people attending and their interest in the projects. Right now it is to clean up the county side.

New faces, new projects, and new problems all seem to have appeared when the new administration took office. It's funny how a change in anything can spark new interests. That's one of the reasons I have always believed in strong two party system. We need the changes brought about by other view points and administrations. We seem to get in a rut which finally becomes a gutter when the same party or person stays in office too long. That goes for the president of the United States or a county magistrate, a school board member or the superintendent of the state school system. Progress is brought about by change and thank goodness we are seeing it happen.

For several we watched people come and go in their power roles. Sometimes I've been glad to see them come and just as often I've been pleased to see them go. I've watched what is often spoken of as the little people, meaning those with less education and material things, take leadership roles and grow in stature as they helped others along the way.

I've also seen those with education and more material things fall by the wayside. It isn't always what we know but how we use it that develops leadership. It isn't always the best speaker before a crowd of people that is the best leader. Leadership can be the simple act of listening to the problems of friends and neighbors while you are going about your daily chores or sitting quietly on your porch.

The talent of drawing people to you is one kind of leadership. Helping others to understand and deal with their problems is old fashioned community leadership.

Some of the least recognized leaders we've had has been some gentle old person sitting on their porch listening to a neighbor's tale of woe. Then sending them on their way with peace of mind after a bit of good advice given.

Or a skilled old gentleman attracting the younger men to him for his advice on how to fix an old car or truck the right way. Or just because they liked to hear him talk about the past in ways they had never heard of it talked about. There is community welding in these acts. People like this

Homemaker's News

Willing Workers

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

Meeting at Blanche Johnson's home was a treat for the Broodhead Willing Workers Homemakers, Mar. 22, at 7:30 p.m. We have met at a public place lately.

Patricia Fleicher, our president, asked Barbara Watson to present the lesson "Light Microwave Desserts". She told us by reducing fat and sugar in desserts, we could become more healthy.

Our old recipes ingredients can be lowered by decreasing amounts of fat, sugar and salt. If a recipe calls for 1/4 cup fat, it can be lowered by one tablespoon and you have lowered the calories by 100 calories. Then lower the sugar by two tablespoons and calories have decreased by 96.

She gave us some lower calorie recipes.

Clara Proctor read the minutes and the treasurer's report was given. Our devotion was about thanking God for the passing of winter and the coming of spring, etc., read by Loraine Newland.

Patricia Fleicher announced Cape Cod Dairylicious Recipe Contest, consisting of three dairy products, including milk, cream, butter, etc. and add at least one can frozen or canned vegetable.

The blood drive is on April 7th and April 25th is the Extravaganza at Union College in Barbourville and May 10th is Quilt and Craft Show. Enter your entries from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. View entries afterwards from 4 to 8 p.m., the same day.

In 1992, the 100th birthday of Kentucky, we want to make a square to represent Rockcastle County. Do you have any ideas about this? If you do call the Home Economic Extension office.

Flags, costing $9 each, are needed for Broodhead's Homecoming, Saturday before Memorial Day, May 8 - V.E. Day, Mother's Day, June 14, Flag Day July 4, Independence Day, Labor Day, Sept. 14, anniversary of the writing of Star Spangled Banner.

on Presidential Day, Nov. 11 -- Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day. Well, might as well fly them everyday!

What about garbage found in houses Fork River behind Frith Estates-homes? According to Nina Cash it is an awful sight as well as a nasty smell.

Our club will help in any way to get this out of the river and find out how we can keep it out, hopefully.

After a blessing by Elizabeth F. Mullins, we partook of delicious refreshments prepared by Blanche. The April hostesses are Clara Proctor and Jean Albright.

"Sweet and Sour" (Cont. From A4)

from home she still looked extra biscuits in the mornings so the neighbors kids coming past her house after school could stop by for a snack of cold biscuit and jelly. Polly will always remember this.

Alice was a staunch republican and supported her party. She was the republican committee woman and was an election officer. She planned the republican political speaking at the Buffalo School. She and former Judge Charlie Carter were big buddies. Of course husband Hamp was too. But Alice attracted people like honey does flies.

I'm telling you all about Alice because it seems her grandson, Calvin has inherited the ability to deal with people. He has her charisma and makes people feel at ease.

Their leadership roles of course are different. Hers was of a time when the isolated community was pulled together by her ability and energy to serve the people by operating a store and post office.

His time is now when a whole area and eventually the whole county will be pulled together by his efforts.

So far he and his wife Dean have organized the people living alongside 1249 into clean-up crews to clean-up and keep clean the road right-of-ways. At one time I would have sworn this could not be done.

But true to form the people have rallied around him. Since he began at the intersection of old 80 and 1249 about six months ago others have joined him until now they have better than fifty miles of roads in Rockcastle County adopted.

Their interest is not only in a cleaner county it is for a better county all around. Both of them are especially interested in the better education programs being developed and have offered to help in any way they can. Dean is a retired teacher and librarian from the Ohio school system so understands the educators problems. She took the literacy training course so she could better help others learn to read.

It is people like the Mizzes who give of their time and experiences freely that makes their world a better place to live in.

I'm glad they are my friends and neighbors. It's easy to write in a few words about accomplishments. It's a long tiresome heart breaking job to do the accomplishing.

Rise and Shine Homemakers

The regular monthly meeting of the Rise and Shine Homemakers met on 13th March at the home of Bessie St. Clair with Jack St. Clair co-host. There were five members present and three guests, Cheryl Witt, Mollie Bryant and Isabell Jones.

The president, Alta Bullock, presided over the meeting. The devotional was given by Suzanne Thomas.

We were reminded of the blood drive that will be on April 7th at the ASC building. Also discussed was the county quilt that is to be made for the Kentucky Bicentennial in 1992. Samples of crafts to make and further plans were made for a booth at the Mollasses Festival at Renfro Valley in the fall.

The lesson was on "Using Microwave Ovens" and recipes on "Light Microwave Desserts". Slides on wild flowers of Kentucky, also Historic and Scenic places in Kentucky, were shown by Cheryl Witt.

The games by Bea Hensley were relative to St. Patrick's Day, with a lot of green answers to the questions.

After adjournment, Mollie Bryant asked the blessing, which was followed by our regular pot luck luncheon.

"Poet's Corner"

"Mommy Dearest" By: Ada Bullock

Lately I've been troubled About the conversation You had with a doctor While seeking information.

You said you were sure You'd made the right decision For laws in effect Had given you permission.

To terminate the pregnancy You also felt was right Since you wasn't ready To cope with a child.

I can't comprehend Something that were said But I have a feeling Very soon I'll be dead

So mommy would you explain A few things to me?

Just what is abortion How does it apply to me?

Does it mean my life will end And I will never see The beauty God intended For little ones like me?

If you didn't want me Why let life begin? You could have prevented This torture I am in.

I'll miss so many things That little children do Like riding in a bus On my first day of school.

I'd have so many friends Oh how we could rejoice If only man made laws Hadn't taken away our choice.

I want to be a part Of God's beautiful creation His love for us children Is beyond all expectation.

But you say it's your body And you should have control What about my rights? I want to live and grow.

But since I can't change You've already made plans What about daddy Does he understand?

Oh mommy think seriously Before this appointment you fill And remember "God's Words" 'Thou shalt not kill'.

But if my life is taken And a birthday I'll never see Each year pick a flower In remembrance of me.

Tell daddy I love him And mommy don't cry We're in the butcher's office now So I'll say goodbye.

Tomorrow By: Clay G. Parks

These words I write I can't explain It's a feeling of joy and a feeling of pain You are all I think of as time goes by Sometimes it's hard not to lay down and cry

Our love is our bond, so do not fear There's a kiss for every heartache And there's two for every tear Why, because for you I care

You are the light in my darkness, like a distant sun One day we'll look back and know we have won We'll live our lives from day to day Loving each other in our own special way

Flowers are the beauty that come with spring You are the beauty that tomorrow will bring We will walk together side by side We will sing together in the sweet byc and bye

So with a kiss for every tear I send to you my dear And a kiss for every heartache I send with no mistake

Yes, this is for "You" my dear Why, because for you I care Yes, Tammy I wish I was there Why, because Tammy for you I care.

Child Abuse Prevention highlighted during April

Kentucky's reported cases of child abuse and neglect have increased nine of the last 10 years. Last year, there were 27,712 cases involving 44,170 children. Investigators substantiated 19,457 child victims.

While these numbers are alarming, many more cases go unreported, according to Gary Hansen, sociology specialist with the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service.

April is Child Abuse Prevention Month. Kentuckians should take time to consider how abuse and neglect affect the Commonwealth's children. They should think of ways they and their community can help abused children and prevent others from being abused.

In addition to physical injuries, abuse and neglect can lead to a variety of developmental problems. Speech and language inadequacy are common. Victims also tend to exhibit poor self-esteem, learning problems, sadness or depression, apathy and withdrawal, an inability to give or receive affection, lack of trust, and a limited ability to relate to adults and peers.

Emotionally abused children display high levels of aggression and anxiety as well as other characteristics which can contribute to antisocial behavior later in life. Child victims need help.

The best way to help a child you believe is being abused or neglected is to report what you know.

In fact, state law requires you to report if you have reasonable cause to believe that a child is being abused or neglected.

Call the 24-hour child protection hotline at 1-800-752-6200 or your county Department for Social Services office. If the child is in imminent danger and in need of immediate protection, call your local police department.

Anyone making a report should be prepared to provide as much of the following information as possible:

- The child's name.
- The name of any person believed to be responsible for the abuse or neglect.

• The nature and extent of the abuse or neglect.

• Where the child can be found.

• The name and address of a reporter, if the reporter so chooses.

People should not be afraid to report what they suspect. Anyone who honestly suspects abuse or neglect need not fear legal ramifications when he makes a report. Both civil and criminal immunity from prosecution is given to any person making a report so long as that person is acting in good faith. A reporter also needs to know that, except under very special circumstances, his identity is protected.

Families, as well as children, often benefit when reports of suspected abuse and neglect are made. While the first priority of those who investigate such reports is to protect the children, they also strive to provide services which help parents alleviate the problems that may have been responsible for the maltreatment. Hopefully, parents will gain the knowledge and skills needed to provide adequate care for their children.

While reporting is the first step in helping an abused child and his family, it is stressed that prevention is the ultimate goal of efforts to address Kentucky's child abuse problem. Reasons to prevent abuse, components of effective community prevention efforts and parental alternatives to lashing out at their children will be covered in other articles of this four-part series.

Girls beat Williamsburg twice for first wins of season

With five homers as a foundation, the Rockcastle County girls softball team chalked up their first two wins and are now 2 and 6 on the season.

The Rockets were on the road last Wednesday when they gave Williamsburg a 14-1 thumping in the first game and a 11-2 thrashing in the second game.

The Rockets played extremely well according to head coach Debbie Cash and their stats back her up.

Cindy McCauley, Karla Bullock and Jennifer Thacker all combined for homers with Shonda Renner adding two of her own for a total of five.

And six players hit over .400 for the night which made for a hitting festival for the Rockets. Pitcher Shonda Renner led the Rockets with a perfect night at the plate. Renner had 7 plate appearances and received 5 walks along with her 2 homers. Senior leadoff hitter Gina Martin put up a close second with a triple and three singles for a .670 night.

As a team the Rockets hit .310 in the first game and .380 in the second "V.R. Dowell" (Cont. From A-6) for a .340 combined hitting percentage. And that's not shabby.

Although the Rockets lost to Pulaski, 11-9 and 11-1, Thursday, they are taking Wednesday night's games as a beginning and with most players receiving playing time and experience, Cash expects her team to progress through the season.

The Rockets are taking a break now but will continue their season April 9th at 5 p.m. when they take on host Somerset.

Line-up changes is format for baseball team this season

With so many young players to choose from, Rocket's head coach Ryan Riddle is mixing up the starting lineup to find a consistent eight players to take on the starting jobs for the duration of the season.

"It's not an easy job," Riddle said, "everyone is still very tight, but everyone is going to get a chance to play until I find eight players that click."

Most of Riddle's players have at least two more years at RCHS and some with three, four and even five, so patience is the guideline for Riddle right now as his decisions will affect the Rockets over the next few years.

The Rockets traveled to Berea last Wednesday where they fell 10-0 in six innings to Madison Southern.

Although a loss, Riddle was pleased with their performance. "We played well and our fielding was good," Riddle said. "We're going to take our lumps this year but we're also going to come together down the stretch," he added.

The Rockets have indeed improved since two games ago when they committed eight fielding errors against Corbin. Only three unearned runs crossed the plate against Southern Wednesday and three errors were recorded which made for a successful day in the field for the Rockets.

But the Rockets bats are lacking and with just one hit against Southern by sophomore Micah Parkerson, Riddle is concerned. "All we did Monday was take hitting practice," Riddle said and, according to Riddle, they did show signs of improvement, but like everything else, it's going to take time and experience.

Although it wasn't on the baseball field, an injury has already plagued the Rockets this year. Freshman pitcher Toby Mobley, who has a lot of potential, took a spill this past week in a basketball game and cut his pitching hand. Riddle said the cut required eight stitches and will result in the loss of Mobley for the year.

Thursday's and Friday's games were cancelled due to rain so the Rockets' next game will be April 9th when they take on host Laurel County at 5 p.m.

Still time to return census questionnaire to government

Failure to return your census questionnaire to the government could result in a $100 fine, according to a spokesperson for the census bureau in Lexington.

Although the deadline to return the form was April 1, census workers say it is not too late. "If people have not returned their questionnaire yet, they can still do so, without any concern that they may be fined," said a census spokesperson. "But if they continue to refuse to fill out the form and return it, a fine is inevitable," she said.

The spokesperson also said that anyone receiving a questionnaire on it with the wrong name, should simply erase the name on the questionnaire and put the right one in.

And those that did not receive a questionnaire should call the census hot line 1-800-999-1990 and request one. Questionnaires can also be sent to the Census Bureau at 101 East Vine Street, Suite 700, Lexington Kentucky 40507.

Tiger Pause

PTA sponsored a reception last Friday at 2:30 in the school cafeteria for all students who participated in this year's "Reflections" competition. The students enjoyed Pepsi, cookies, and chips.

We have just finished our fifth six-week's grading period, and reports cards will go out next Tues., April 10. Be sure to read the letter to parents enclosed in the report cards.

Attendance is improving somewhat; however, this is an area in which we must always strive to improve. We're still trying for that "perfect" day when no one is absent.

A special day for us will be on Thursday, April 12. Students in grades 5-8 from all four schools will come to Brodhead to see "MacBeth", a play presented by Lexington performers. This is one of two such programs. The other program will be "Town Mouse, Country Mouse" presented for grades K-4 on Thursday, April 26.

We have no featured faculty or staff this week. We hope that all of them are getting a much-needed and well-deserved rest during this break.

Our wish is that everyone at BES will have had a wonderful week and will be eager to return for a grand finish to a good year!

One-Week Science/Math Workshop offered

Eastern Kentucky University will offer a series of one-week workshops this summer in science and mathematics for teachers.

The workshops, offered by EKY's College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences, are for elementary, middle grade, and secondary teachers.

"These will be hands-on workshops," said Dr. Donald L. Batch, dean of the College of Natural and Mathematical Sciences at EKY.

"We hope these participants will be able to take back materials, methods, and ideas that can be incorporated into their classes."

Public comment during previous science workshops has been used in designing these courses, he said.

"We've had numerous requests from teachers for this kind of one-week course that will give them more teaching skills, but won't tie up their entire summer."

He said efforts have been going on

On March 19th, the seventh grade students of Mt. Vernon Elementary took a tour of our State Capital in Frankfort. While at the Capital, the students met with Rep. Danny Ford. Rep. Ford showed the students where the legislative process takes place. The trip was interesting for the children to learn about how laws are made in session. The tour took us all around the Capital. Then the students were taken to a selection of places for lunch. Everyone had a very nice time.

all semester to get the course offerings ready.

"We're heading over backwards to make these workshop offerings match what the teachers across the commonwealth and in our service region have told us they wanted."

Batch emphasized the deadline for registration is April 6.

"So interested teachers should get together with their coordinators and get back in touch with us as soon as possible," he said.

A tentative list of workshops include astronomy, biology, chemistry, earth science, mathematics, physics and general science.

Topics under astronomy, for example, include "The Nakat-Eye-Sky," for elementary and middle school teachers; "The Nighttime Sky," for middle school and secondary teachers; and "Daytime Astronomy for Elementary School Students," for elementary and middle school teachers.

Topics under earth science include: "Earthquake Awareness" for all three divisions, "Rock and Mineral Identification," for elementary and middle school teachers, and "Meteorology in the Elementary School," for elementary and middle school teachers.

Each workshop will be scheduled to provide one semester hour of credit and can be applied toward a graduate degree.

School systems may permit the time spent in these workshops to count toward in-service training/experience, Batch said.

Also, registration and tuition costs for the workshops may be available from Dwight D. Eisenhower Mathematics and Science Education Act funds allocated to individual school systems.

Batch said the workshops are part of an EKU effort to provide increased quality of instruction to all levels of education.

Eastern Kentucky University is the largest provider of classroom teachers in the state.

Ramblings

by: Perlina M. Anderkin

It has been a hard week, it's always hard to give up a parent.

Mother died Sunday night, following an embolism last Wednesday from which she at first seemed to rally. She was 85 and had been in declining health for several months.

At the time of my initial grieving, my husband told me that I would not remember her as she was then but rather as she was when I was a child -- when she was healthy, very alert and active.

July Carter of Mt. Vernon and a member of the First Baptist Church, was the winner of the Rockcastle Baptist Association Contest in junior memory work.

Mrs. Ruth Fain of Pine Hill took over the Coffey Florist Shop at Mt. Vernon. She renamed the shop the Mt. Vernon Florist.

There were 8.58 inches of rain that fell in March of 1965.

Mother was 37 when I was born and there was 7 years difference in me and my brother. I can remember when I was in grade school and my friends mothers were young. To me they didn't come off as quite authentic (I only hope Allison's thinking runs along the same line).

After we moved to Mt. Vernon in 1966, Mother was mad at us for quite a while. We had both left good jobs to venture out on our own; we had left our new home in the same subdivision Mother, Dad and my brother lived in; but, primarily we had dared to take her grandchildren with us.

When Rick was born, both Mother and Dad decided right on the spot that he was the most beautiful and smartest baby that had ever been born and he returned their affection immediately. Since I am now a grandparent, I realize more fully what a wrench it was for them to give up the daily involvement in Rick and Jamie's lives.

Mother was always a very forthright person who didn't hesitate to speak her mind (remind you of anyone?) and that put us -- as loggerheads many times as I was growing up. But, that was also one of the hardest adjustments I had to make, over the last few years, when she became very docile, very submissive.

During visitation at the funeral home in Versailles Tuesday night, many memories of my childhood surfaced as I spoke to people who had known me as a child. All the memories were pleasant and that was comforting.

But, the days of being someone's daughter are over and, I don't mean to get maudlin, but those of you who have lost both parents will know what I mean.

April proclaimed as 'Keep America Beautiful Month'

Gov/Wallace Wilkinson has proclaimed the month of April as Keep America Beautiful Month in the Commonwealth. In the proclamation, the governor urges all citizens to work with local volunteer groups such as the Clean Community Programs to assure a cleaner, healthier environment for all Kentuckians. "Kentucky's scenic resources rank it as one of the most beautiful states in the nation; but this natural beauty is often hidden beneath litter and trash dumps," said the governor. "I commend the hundreds of local volunteers throughout the state for their efforts in restoring and maintaining our natural heritage for all to enjoy."

A more beautiful Kentucky enhances attractions for new industry and more tourists. It also benefits every citizen in the enjoyment of clean and beautiful highways, cities, towns, parks and all places used by the public.

All citizens, individually and collectively, can participate in environmental awareness activities such as cleanup and beautification events. Local involvement can include municipalities, schools, religious groups, civic and environmental organizations and communication media -- press, radio and television.

"Keeping Kentucky beautiful is the responsibility of all who live and work in the Commonwealth," said the governor. "It is also a reflection of pride that develops the respect of our youth for beauty and cleanliness.

VA Pensions Increase for Veterans

More than 700,000 veterans and dependents will receive up to a 4.7 percent increase in department of Veterans Affairs (VA) Improved Pension checks payable Dec. 31, 1989.

VA Secretary Edward J. Derwinski said he hopes to announce a similar increase in disability compensation rates for disabled veterans before the year is out.

The increase is paid to wartime veterans totally and permanently disabled from circumstances unrelated to their military service, and to newly survivors of wartime veterans.

The pension increase applies to 436,505 veterans of wartime service and 260,008 surviving spouses and children. Payment increases will also go to 31,311 parents of deceased veterans receiving Dependency and Indemnity Compensation (DIC) benefits.

The increase in monthly payments is automatic and requires no action by recipients. Pension benefits range from annual maximums of $6,767 for a veteran without dependents to $15,222 for a veteran with three dependents who is in need of regular aid and attendance.

Unlike compensation benefits paid to veterans disabled by illness or injuries related to military service, pensions are affected by income from other sources, so the exact amount of the increase varies.

Increases in Improved Pension to wartime veterans and their dependents and DIC payments to deceased veterans' parents are set by law at the same rate and date as Social Security increases.

VA pensions other than the Improved Pension remain fixed at the rates in effect in 1978. The income limits that control eligibility for these programs, however, also are increased by 4.7 percent, effective Dec. 1.

Recipients of these pensions may request transfer to the Improved Pension plan at any time. The VA reviews each request to advise beneficiaries which program would be most advantageous.

Veterans and dependents with questions about pensions should contact the nearest VA Regional Office

Veterans Reminded Of Burial Benefits

As Veterans Day approaches, veterans and their spouses should know that one Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) benefit to which nearly all former armed services members are entitled is burial in a national cemetery.

VA's National Cemetery System exists to provide burials to nearly 60,000 veterans and their family members this year. But a VA survey found that only about one-third of veterans are aware that they, their spouses and dependent children may be buried in a national cemetery.

other 47 -- considered "closed" -- an eligible family member may be buried in a previous family member interment has occurred. Most of the closed national cemeteries can accept cremation burials.

Other burial benefits are available to vet but may not choose national cemetery interment. VA will furnish a headstone or grave marker for a veteran's unmarked grave anywhere in the world and a memorial marker to recognize a veteran whose remains were not recovered or for other reasons were not buried. As an alternative, VA will reimburse up to $80 of the cost to purchase a marker privately. Dependents' graves may receive a government marker only in a national or state veterans' cemetery.

Veterans' families also may receive an American flag for covering a casket and a memorial certificate, bearing the signature of the President, expressing the nation's recognition of the deceased veteran's service.

Information on VA burial benefits is available from most funeral directors, national cemetery offices and VA regional offices, which are listed in the U.S. Government's section of telephone directories.

Feed Grain program sign-up underway at ASCS office until Friday April 13, 1990

The Rockcastle County ASCS Office will be having the annual Feed Grain Program sign-up through April 13.

Corn, grain, sorghum, barley, and oats are considered as program crops for the Feed Grain Program.

Feed grain producers are eligible to earn deficiency payments on the actual acreage planted, within their permitted acreage.

Advance payments will be equal to 40 percent of the projected commodity deficiency payment rate, payable in cash as soon as possible after the application has been approved.

Feed grain producers have the option of participating in an optional acreage diversion in which they may underplant their permitted feed grain acres and fill, under some conditions, receive deficiency payments on the underplanted acreage. Known as the "092" provision, the option allows feed grain producers to devote all or a portion of their permitted acreage to other uses (CU) and receive deficiency payments on the acreage. The maximum CU acreage for deficiency payments under this provision is the difference between the planted and 92 percent of the permitted acreage. The deficiency payment rate on the CU acreage will not be less than the projected deficiency payment for the crop. The production of alternate crops on the CU acreage will not be permitted.

Corn, grain sorghum and barley producers participating in the basic acreage reduction may receive a legible cropland equal to 11.11 percent of the farm's 1989 acres for payment to the ACR. Acres for payment will include those devoted to corn, grain sorghum and barley, plus CU designated to these crops under the 092 provision.

The ACR acreage must be produced from wind and water erosion throughout the year. Production of alternate crops on ACR land is not permitted. Haying and grazing of ACR will not be permitted during the designated seven month period, which is June 1 through Oct. 31. Haying and grazing will be permitted up until June 1 and after Oct. 31.

This program or activity will be conducted on a nondiscriminatory basis without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, marital status or handicap.

Cold temps damage wheat crop

Kentucky wheat farmers may have suffered damage to their crop due to cold temperatures the morning of March 20, according to an agronomist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

The cold snap warns up in Kentucky this year meant that plants in many wheat fields were starting stem elongation in anticipation of the growing season. If those stems had grown more than three or four inches already, they may have been damaged by the cold weather," said Jim Herbek, an Extension agronomist at the College of Agriculture's West Kentucky Research and Education Center near Princeton.

Herkbek explained that damage to the growing plants depends on how far along in growth the plant was, as well as the severity and duration of the cold temperatures. Fields in any location with temperatures below 24 or 25 degrees for two hours or more may have sustained damage.

"He said that farmers who see damage to wheat plant leaves should not be overly alarmed unless the plants had started to joint.

Jointing, he said, is when the plant prepares for heading out by sending up a stem that contains the immature developing seed head. It is tender seed head that continues growing for a time to be produced.

The location of that immature seed head can be found by moving your fingers up the stem until the last bump can be felt."

Leaves of the plants can be burned pretty badly by cold weather and the plant simply responds by replacing them. However, if the immature seed head were the plant won't produce much grain, he said.

Herkbek expects that most of the damage will be in the southern part of the state, where the crop was farther along at the time of the cold snap. And that damage can't be assessed for several weeks.

Farmers whose fields already had jointed can check for damage then by selecting a representative sample of plants from throughout the field and then cutting stems lengthwise to see the condition of the developing seed head.

"If the seed head is pale white or tan, limp, and not developing in size, damage has occurred," he said.

Herkbek said that farmers may find spots in their fields where damage has occurred, so it is important to take samples from all over the field.

"If more than half of the plants examined show damage to the seed head, farmers may want to consider planting the field to another crop," Herbek said.

Herkbek said that since barley fields are more susceptible to cold damage than wheat and were farther along in growth farmers need to assess their barley fields for damage, too.

Peaches hurt too

Cold temperatures the morning of March 20 may have inflicted substantial damage to the state's peach crop.

"Low temperatures of around 20 degrees may have damaged what peach buds still remained after December's record low temperatures," said Jerry Brown, Extension horticulturist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Brown said that the arctic blast in December hurt many peach buds in the state, but damage ranged from none to a nearly complete kill of buds. The latest temperature dip likely killed even more, since many of the state's peach trees were in full bloom or close to bloom.

Brown cautioned orchardists and homeowners to wait a week or so before they attempt to assess the damage.

Good Bugs and Bad Bugs

Not all insects are bad. Many are quite beneficial around the garden, helping control destructive ones.

Identification of these insects can help homeowners get the most out of beneficial species working in the garden.

"Lady beetles are the most recognized helpful insects around the home and are seen frequently on plants infested with aphids," said Lee Townsend, Extension entomologist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Lady beetles have orange and black marked convex bodies. The immature stage, however, is different and often is mistaken for a pest.

"The immature lady beetle resembles a small alligator in shape," he said. "Their rough bodies are blue-black and spotted with orange or yellow."

Lacewings, fragile-looking insects with thin clear wings, also feed on soft-bodied pests such as aphids and small caterpillars.

Many beneficial insects, such as the praying mantis, have a pair of grasping front legs to catch and hold their prey, he said. Another sign of a beneficial insect is a stout tube-like mouthpart which is used to pierce the outer insect skeleton to feed.

Beneficial insects will not keep a garden pest-free. However, they will keep pest numbers below damaging levels. Townsend does not recommend purchasing extra beneficials to plant in the garden because there is no guarantee they will stay.

"The best strategy is to conserve good insects naturally present by limiting insecticidal treatments for pests and following good gardening practices," he said. "Insecticides are toxic to most beneficials, and some are not even effective against pests such as aphids."
