Cancer Society's Jail & Bail is May 31-June 1

The American Cancer Society of Rockcastle County will be having their 3rd Annual Jail & Bail on May 31 and June 1. The event will take place on the grounds of the Rockcastle Courthouse. Our goal this year is $5,000 and this money will go to our unit here in Rockcastle County to help out with surgical dressings, wigs, Ensure, transportation costs, and help with chemo, in most cases. Please let me know if you know of someone that we may be able to help, or if you are interested in knowing more about cancer. You may reach me at 758-4088. Please help us meet our goal. If you are arrested you only have to serve a short while in jail while you try to raise your bail. You may contact anyone to help get you out, but we ask that donations be no less than $5 per person due to the expenses involved in mailing, phone calls, etc. that are involved. The date is May 31, and June 1, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The place is the front yard on Rockcastle County Courthouse. If you want to have someone arrested there is a $10 arrest fee. It is a lot of fun for a very worthy cause. We had 60 deaths last year in Rockcastle County from cancer. That is too many.

Nodding Thistle: Rockcastle County's most noxious weed

By: Tom Mills
Extension Agent for Agriculture

Nodding thistle is fast becoming Rockcastle Counties most noxious weed, even worse than johnsongrass and multiflora roses. During May, the large purple flower head can be seen towering above hay crops, lining fence rows and especially in uncultivated cropland like roadsides. Soon seeds will be mature and the small feather-like parachutes will be carried by wind transporting seed to next years growing site. Seeds germinate and go through a 2-year cycle before plants produce the next crop of seeds.

Recently State Highway employees were busy spraying thistle along 1-75 right-of-ways. Keeping thistle out of pastures is hard, but controlling their growth on steep banks and edges gives an ever greater challenge to highway employees. The use of chemicals like 2-4D and Banvel are the most successful ways in controlling thistle. Mowing can help, but in most cases, after the seed head is visible, enough nutrients exist in the stalk to complete seed growth.

Farmers should plan their attack on this problem weed. Controlling seed production is the key factor in getting this weed eradicated. Mowing or grubbing can be effective on scattered plants when seed heads are destroyed. The best method is identifying fields infested by thistle and planning a fall or spring chemical spray. For those property owners who have right-of-ways with thistle adjoining their farm, contact the highway department for assistance.

Looking for vote fraud Attorney General's office to monitor Primary Election

To discourage and prevent vote fraud, teams from the Attorney General's Office will visit polling places throughout Kentucky during the May 29 primary election.

"We believe that the election day monitoring program, combined with the toll-free election fraud hotline, has been effective in fighting election fraud," Attorney General Fred Cowan says.

Investigative teams from the Attorney General's Office will make stops at courthouses and precincts in a number of counties statewide. As in the past, Cowan says the identity of the counties the teams will be in and the exact size of the monitoring force will not be publicized to keep potential violators guessing and thus increase the deterrent effect.

Cowan says the weeks leading up to the May 29 primary have been comparatively quiet and there have been fewer calls of concern about possible voting violations on election day.

Board of Education gets $3,487 program grant

The Rockcastle County Board of Education will receive an Institutional Conservation Program grant of $3,486 from the U.S. Department of Energy for a technical assistance study in the Rockcastle County High School building. The school board will provide $3,487, for a total project cost of $6,973.

The technical assistance study, performed by professional engineers, will provide the school with a detailed cost benefit analysis of potential energy saving capital investments, as well as low-or-no-cost maintenance and operation changes.

The heating, cooling and lighting systems and the building envelope will be carefully studied to find proper methods of reducing the energy used in each building.

The Institutional Conservation Program is administered by the Division of Energy in the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. Cabinet Secretary Carl Bradley says, "The study will be an excellent source of information for reducing current and future utility costs."

Boat taxes due when registered under '88 law

The Revenue Cabinet reminds boat owners that property taxes are due when boats are registered under a 1988 law.

Last month, the Cabinet announced an extension until July 2 before late payment penalties on delinquent property taxes will be assessed.

The due date for boat registration was April 30 but the Revenue Cabinet will not impose property tax penalties if boats are registered and property taxes paid during May and June. The Cabinet emphasized that the property tax penalty extension did not extend the boat registration deadline of April 30.

Rash of burglaries reported by police

A rash of burglaries has Rockcastle residents worried that a burglarizing may be operating in the county.

It appeared that may have been the case, since reports show that at least six of 11 burglaries in the county, occurred on May 16. Mt. Vernon police, the sheriff's department, and Kentucky State Police investigated one or more of the break-ins.

In one case, one man was arrested, with more arrests possible in the next few days in the same incident.

Doug Shields, 20, of Mt. Vernon, is charged with burglary in the first degree for breaking into the home of Edd Rigby at Orlando on May 17.

Taken in the burglary, according to Mrs. Rigby, were two pistols, silver coins, pocket watch, shotgun shells and a variety of other items. Other arrests may be forthcoming. Shields is due in court on June 6.

As often is the case, guns seem to attract burglars. Raymond McGuire of Mt. Vernon lost about 11 guns in a break-in at his home on May 15, a loss of several hundred dollars.

Nineteen guns taken were four 12 gauge shotguns, one 16-gauge shotgun, two 20-gauge shotguns, two pistols and two other guns.

On May 10, burglars entered the home of Randy McCracken at Brush Creek and took a television, VCR, Nintendo system and jewelry, all valued at about $1,800. Entrance was gained by forcing open a back door. The burglary occurred in daytime.

Boots and a banjo were the only items taken in a break-in through a patio door at the home of Thomas Berry of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon May 16.

A break-in on May 16 was discovered by Mrs. Wanda Anderkin when she opened the Family Care on Main Street in Mt. Vernon.

Taken in the burglary were a microwave oven, two radio cassette players, $250 in cigarettes and tobacco, all frozen food that was carried out of the building in pots and pans from the kitchen, and $25. Entrance to the restaurant was through a back window and door.

May 19, burglars raided the garage at the home of Guy C. Martin in Mt. Vernon. Taken were a lawn mower, weed eater, chain saw, metal detector, $600 in tools, garden tools and jumper cables.

A lawnmower and weed eater were stolen from John McQueary of Mt. Vernon May 16. Theives broke the hinges off a double door to an out-building to get to the items.

A boat motor, gas tank, and hoses were stolen on May 16 at the home of Edward Baker on old U.S. 25 north in Mt. Vernon. The items were outside. Roy Daugherty, who lives on U.S. 25 south, Mt. Vernon, lost a jigsaw, satellite control box and a weed eater from a storage shed on May 16.

Ed Wesley owner of KOA campground, reported a break-in at Ye Ole Opry House at Renfro Valley, formerly the Renfro Valley Seafarmer House, on May 11. Burglars forced a door open and took candy, potato chips, popcorn, sugar, chewing gum and $300 in cassette tapes owned by Jim Waggoner of Knoxville, who operates the country music shop in the building.

Bentley Allen of Burr didn't miss anything, but his barn was broken into several days ago. Entrance was gained by breaking a lock.

Mrs. Allen said there was so much in the barn they weren't sure what, if anything, was stolen.

Three injured at Conway

Three youngsters from Berea were treated for injuries received when their football collided with a car on Conway Road about 6 p.m. Saturday.

Jackie Bullock, 12, the driver of the vehicle was treated at Rockcastle Hospital. His passengers, Christopher Neely, 9, and William Lewis, 10, were treated at Berea Hospital according to a report by Kentucky State Police.

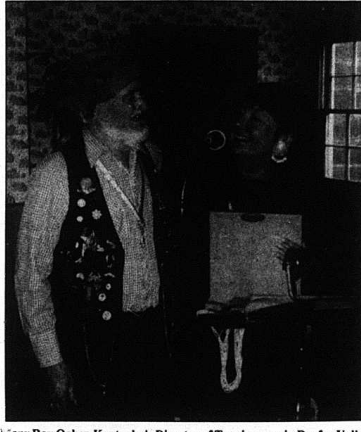

Driver of the car, Clay Harold, 55, of Berea, was not injured. The youngsters came over a hill on a dirt road and started to cross Conway Road. When they saw the car approaching they were unable to stop, police reported.

State Trooper Craig Sutton investigated the accident. Jessie Mink, 66, of Mt. Vernon, was treated and released from Rockcastle Hospital following an auto accident May 16 on U.S. 150 three miles west of Mt. Vernon. She was a passenger in a car driven by Thurman Mink, 38, of Mt. Vernon.

A car driver by Pamela Roberts, 31, of Elon College, N.C., was struck from the rear by the Mink car, according to state police.

Mrs. Roberts was stopped in traffic when the accident occurred. Both she and her passenger, Dorothy Shaw, Cont. to A-3

Ruling nixes CSX right of way sale

By: Ray McClure

Property owners in Rockcastle County who live along the CSX Railroad Sinks-to-Lebanon line are becoming watchful of the railroad company's right-of-way activities.

CSX, which has abandoned the old L & N connector between Sinks and Lebanon, is beginning to sell railroad right of way back to the property owners, a practice many oppose.

Tracks have been taken up between Stanford and Lebanon, and the company only uses the tracks between Sinks and the Rockcastle Industrial Park. Apparently that section will continue to be used, but for how long no one seems to know.

Help seems to be in the offing for property owners. Kentucky Attorney General Fred Cowan ruled this week that CSX has no right to sell the landowners the abandoned right of way.

Cowan said a "right of way obtained by a railroad reverts back to landowners of the original property if the railroad abandons its use of the land."

"There is no estimate of the number of parcels of land that would be affected by the sell-off, but a good estimate for Rockcastle would be between 200 and 250. There are about 200 in Marion County.

William K. Bullen, Rockcastle Farm Bureau agent, said he had been contacted by a Lebanon group who want their land back without cost.

"I'm sure there are many in this county of the same opinion," Bullen stated. "The Lebanon group wanted to make sure Farm Bureau members along the route are aware of the railroad's intentions to sell the property the railroad apparently doesn't own."

Cowan has asked CSX Transportation to produce real estate records under a Cont. to A-3

Indictments

Two persons have been indicted by a Rockcastle Grand Jury.

Roy Lee Roberts, Jr., of Berea is charged with second degree burglary by entering the home of William Harpes.

His arraignment is set for May 25 in Rockcastle Circuit court.

Anthony (Tony) David Fredrick, 28, of Lexington is charged with flagrant non-support. He is accused of failing to support his minor children in an amount greater than $12,000.

His arraignment is set for May 25 in Circuit Court.

Garbage recycling coming to county

By: Ray McClure

An application for a $95,000 block grant to finance three garbage recycling centers in the county was approved by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at a called meeting Tuesday.

If approved, and it likely will be, three sites will be leased to develop the centers, one in Mt. Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston areas.

Jim Cass, a representative of Cumberland Valley Area Development District, told the court, although water line extensions would be a preferable project, the state ban on extensions makes that impossible. He said there is little possibility the ban will be lifted soon since Mt. Vernon's water plant is running at capacity.

"We decided to go for the environment," Cass said. "It would be easier than any other project, except water."

CVADD would receive a $3,000 fee to process the paper work on the application to go to the state for the Community Development Block Grant.

Under the plan, the county would lease the sites, construct a shed to house the necessary dumpsters for the recycling process, separating various products such as glass, aluminum and others. The sheds would be constructed for easy truck pickup. Also built would be a semi-portable building for storage and other uses. The centers would be open and manned 24 hours a day.

"If this should get funded," Cass continued, "the county would work out a plan with private collectors to operate the facilities. The county is not in the garbage business."

Garbage collection in the cities of Mt. Vernon and Livingston would continue as it is now where private collectors are in business.

"We will have to convince the state we're setting up recycling centers that can be used as a model for the entire state."

In a progress report to the magistrates, County Judge/Executive Ronald Mullins, reported over 100 tons of garbage has been picked up along roadsides in the county and from illegal dumps. An active committee has conducted an advertising campaign and is actively recruiting individuals and groups to adopt the remainder of county roads. The Chamber of Commerce, schools, news media, and U.S. Forestry Service have been actively involved.

The judge reported planning is underway to get all roads served with haulers to house pick-up by requiring haulers to offer services to each family in the county. Goals are as follows: To insure that each citizen has a handy, safe, environmentally acceptable and legal method of disposing of solid waste; to insure that the disposal cost is held to an absolute minimum. To prevent illegal dumps;

To preserve the environment recognizing that we are merely "borrowing this county from our children and grandchildren."

Also to enhance economic development by presenting an image acceptable to investors; to promote recycling thus reducing the waste of resources; to allow elderly and low income families to be catalogued with family members/neighbor to dispose of their waste (family member/neighbor, in turn, lists family with operator/collection site); to allow each family to negotiate their own agreement and price relative to disposal; to require the offering of pickup by operators to each family on each road in the county.

In keeping with the garbage campaign the judge recommended, and the magistrate approved, to help the Forestry Service by paying two men for 10 days at $4 an hour in its clean-

Hal Rogers here May 30

U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers has scheduled his annual town meeting in Mt. Vernon at the Rockcastle County Courthouse on 10 a.m. Wednesday, May 30 to meet with southern Kentuckians, hear concerns with the federal government, and assist people who need help with federal agencies.

"Every year, I look forward to meeting people in Mt. Vernon on my annual Fifth Congressional District town meeting tour," Congressman Rogers said. "These personal visits give me a lot of new ideas about how to tackle the challenges that face southern Kentucky and the nation."

Rogers will also discuss his work as southern Kentucky's representatives in Congress, and his views on various national and international events that may provide new economic opportunities for southern Kentucky.

Several members of Congressman Rogers' staff will accompany him in Mt. Vernon to help constituents cut through the bureaucratic "red tape" that sometimes hinders people from receiving the federal benefits or assistance due them.

Courier-Journal turns state spotlight on Scott Building

By: Ray McClure

The public got its first official look at the new and impressive Rockcastle County office of the Cabinet for Human Resources Department of Social Services, on West Main Street in Mt. Vernon Tuesday.

Named the Scott Building and located across from the First Christian Church on West Main Street, the building became one of the focal points for a Courier-Journal story which revealed, what the newspaper itself was special treatment by the state in approving the lease.

The building is owned by Verla Scott, who was Rockcastle chairwoman for Gov. Wallace Wilkinson, and who is now Democrat County Chairman.

Mrs. Scott joined with cabinet officials in denying favoritism in receiving a lease from the state.

Her was not the only building that was pointed out in the story. Others were a building owned by Billy Joe Anderson in Monroe County and T.T. Colley in Pike County.

Mrs. Scott told the newspaper she planned to construct a building for several years.

The newspaper reported the following:

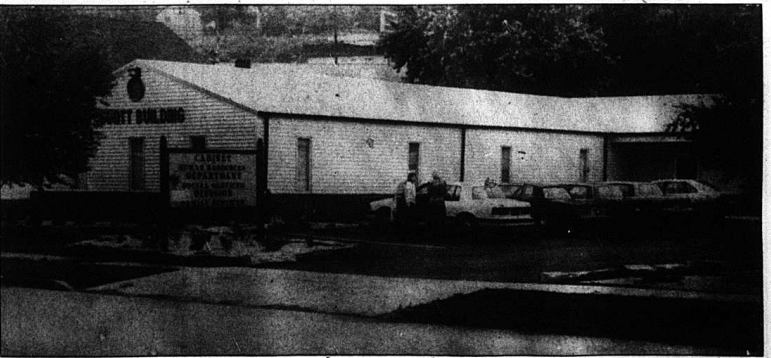

"By December 1989 the state Cabinet for Human Resources had decided to almost double the amount of office space it leases in Rockcastle County -- and Scott had become a landlord to the cabinet's Social Service field office.

"Scott -- who acknowledges her closeness to Wilkinson -- Ann Tasker, an aide -- said she received no 'inside track' in securing the $23,400-a-year lease.

"I had to put my bids in just like everybody else," she said. State leasing officials agreed.

"She was not assured when she built her building that she would get a state lease," Shearer said. "Absolutely not."

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

I am also someone with a troubled mind and a heavy heart, concerning the MVES mascot. I do not understand why the school is not allowed to have any type of prayer or why the Ten Commandments are not allowed to be hung on the wall and yet we can have a symbolic picture of the devil placed throughout the school. A mascot for a school is supposed to be an inspiration and a leader to our school children. Have one child now attending MVES and two more starting in August. I do not want to have to try and explain why the devil emblem is representing their school. In my opinion, if MVES mascot throughout the years had been a symbolic form of God, it would surely have been changed many years ago, because the devils workers and unbelievers get out and do their work. I am very proud of our new school and feel like our children have enough trouble in this life without being taught the devil is a good thing and only causing confusion in them. Well Christians and true believers, I think it is time for us to wake up and stand up for our rights. If anyone has any knowledge as of what we can do, please drop me a letter. Prayer is the first step.

Thank you up of garbage dumps in the county. Forestry Service officials said the two men have worked with the service in the past and were familiar with the methods used by the service. Judge Mullins also had more reports on various county projects and business. Included were the following:

COURTHOUSE

The courthouse facility has been cleaned. The roof has been replaced. The entire facility is to be painted during the next few weeks, total cost will be $32,000 funded by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

ANNEX

Funds will be available in this biennium budget to build a facility to house the court program — district circuit, supreme court judge. Meetings are being held with the Administrative Office of the Courts to complete preliminary planning. The project is estimated to cost something over $500,000.

WATER

A corporation has been established to apply for funds for water expansion — Slaty Branch, Bryant Ridge, Little Clear Creek, Clear Creek, Climax, Three Links, Brush Creek, Red Hill, Lamer, Sand Hill, Pongo-Sand Springs. A needs survey is nearly complete to determine number of households in each area that are not served. To date we have counted 394 households. The next step is to get Public Service Commission approval.

INDUSTRIAL PARK

An application has been filed for approximately $30,000 to do a site plan on the new industrial park. Plans have been approved and funds are available through Highlands Investment to place footers for a building on the industrial park near Mt. Vernon.

non Plastics. With this project a complete building can be available within 90 days should an industry be recruited. An access road for Renfro Valley has been bid and the bid awarded — $60,000 — funded by the State.

ROADS

Plans are under way to upgrade county roads. One hundred eighty-six miles of county roads are still gravel surface. Bonds are being sold for $1,065,000 to provide funds for the project. Local and state hearings have been held. The bonds should be sold and the money available after July 1, 1990.

HOUSING

Preliminary discussions have been held with Kentucky Housing officials, consultants regarding FHA, HUD, and planners relative to federal CDBG funding. A midsummer conference bringing all these groups together with developers and interested parties is planned.

JOBS

Two potential industries to be developed by local individuals have been connected with appropriate financial groups. No progress with these two developed. An early summer conference bringing financial interests together with potential local entrepreneurs is planned.

"CSX RULING"

and other materials relevant to the review. Cowan is also asking CSX to justify its policies relating to the disposal of abandoned railroad line property.

Cowan says the abandonment of rail lines is a growing trend in Kentucky and throughout the nation and the sale or transfer of any land involved should be carefully scrutinized.

"We certainly need to guard against any abuse of the legitimate rights of property owners in these cases," he added.

According to the opinion, the only way CSX could claim ownership to abandoned rail property is if the deed conveying the land has been "worded as a general, unconditional conveyance without any conditions, qualifications or restrictions as to the use of the property."

The opinion says that, although it is unlikely that such deeds would have been issued in this present situation, it is possible. Therefore, the opinion advises affected landowners to check the legal records for any property in question to determine exactly how the property was conveyed by the landowner to the railroad.

Lloyd Lewis, a spokesman for CSX Transportation at the headquarters in Jacksonville, Fla., said no one at the company has seen Cowan's ruling. The ruling is not legally binding, but has been thoroughly researched by Cowan's staff.

The Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) approved CSX's application for abandonment in February 1989, and the company began taking up the tracks.

In 1985, CSX held hearings — one in Mt. Vernon — on plans to abandon the link, but received so much criticism that the railroad company finally agreed to let the line remain open if railroad business could be increased. It didn't happen.

When the announcement came from the ICC approving abandonment, there was no further attempts in towns along the route to prevent it.

"I think by then no one cared, or they were handing out the wool," one Mt. Vernon resident said. "I think the railroad may regret taking up the tracks. One of these days traffic will be so bad that no one will want to drive and will look for alternatives."

At one time, residents in Mt. Vernon could get on an early morning train and ride to Louisville.

"SCOTT BUILDING"

"In fact, Patricia Midkiff, a Mt. Vernon resident, wrote to state Finance Secretary Rogers Wells on Oct. 10, 1988, to complain about the relocation of the office. "Midkiff opposed the move to Scott's building, fearing it would worsen traffic-safety problems on the residential street. The state responded that there were no official plans to move the office.

"But five months later, the state did advertise for new space, Brad Hughes, a cabinet spokesman, said it was done in an effort to find lower rental rates.

"Tasker acknowledged that Scott had spoken to her about the lease, but said they did not discuss it before it was advertised. Scott wouldn't comment on whether she discussed the lease with Tasker before it was advertised.

"However, state records indicate that several Rockcastle County residents believed as early as October 1988 that the social services department would move into Scott's building — long before the state advertised for the space in March 1989.

"After the advertisements were published, Midkiff wrote another letter to the state — this time calling for an investigation.

"My neighbors and I are highly suspicious of this whole situation," the letter says. No investigation was begun.

"The state advertised for space in Rockcastle County twice.

"The initial public advertisement had sought about 5,700 square feet of space — about the same amount that the cabinet had rented in Rockcastle County, for several years.

"But in June 1989, cabinet officials decided to add more staff members in the county, Hughes said. Officials also determined that they would need a 400-square-foot conference room in the county.

"State leasing officials canceled the first round of advertisements and instead advertised for either a much larger building or two buildings — one with about 5,700 square feet and the other with about 4,000 square feet.

"Scott, whose building has about 4,000 square feet, won the smaller lease, and — though it's not yet final — the state has tentatively decided to keep the old space, at an annual cost of about $19,000."

Local Bank Awarded Top Five-Star Rating
Bank of Mt. Vernon
Mt. Vernon, Kentucky

has been awarded a five-star rating, an indication that this institution is one of the safest, credit-worthy banks in the United States.

The award is based on a zero to five-star rating assigned by BFR based on its analysis of the December 31, 1989 financial data as filed with federal regulators.

A five-star rating, for the safest banks in the country, indicates that the bank's tangible capital exceeds 9.0% of tangible assets, that there are no excessive delinquencies or repossessed assets and that the bank is profitable. "Historically," notes Paul A. Bauer, President, "the five-star rating has been awarded to traditional banks, institutions that serve the local community and watch their bottom line."

Fairview

By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend with Sunday School attendance one hundred and eleven. Vacations and other things take their toll on worship services when warm weather arrives. Maybe the rain on Sunday morning kept some people home, but we are thankful for the ones we had.

Around in our county we are receiving so much rain, and as we see everything growing and so beautiful, we just give God the praise and thanks for it all. He gives us so much and what do we do for Him? If we sit down and took inventory of our lives what would we find? Everyone wants to eat at God's table but not many people want to work in His fields. We have seen come to the place today where we don't see much love in the world and it is so sad. God is love and because He loves us we should love one another and be forgiving people.

Our deepest heartfelt sympathy goes out to all those who have lost loved ones recently including the families of Mrs. Nora Viars of Berea, E.C. Hill of Florida and Charles Hamm, formerly of Brodhead. I've known Mrs. Viars for many years, she was a good friend. And E.C. Hill and I attended High School together in Valley View years ago. He was always such a good man and well thought of and loved by all who knew him. I'm sure his family will miss him as well as the members of these other families. Please remember them when you pray.

Also our sick people need our prayers, we all probably have someone very dear to us, Rev. Ballard Rader, Mrs. Della Bullens and Mrs. Charlene Hall are among these. God bless them.

Visiting at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Cape over the weekend were William Cope and Rodney Cermeno of Dayton, Ohio. Her daughters Helen Powell and Christine Barnett of Berea visited her on Wednesday.

Ricky Adams visited his mother Janet Ridgell and family Sunday evening.

Ronnie Reppert was Sunday dinner guests of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Trip Reppert and Melody.

Congratulations to all you graduates of 1990. You and your parents have worked and sacrificed to get your education so whatever field you go into or whatever work you go into we wish you the best. You have the love and prayers of many people. May God bless you always.

Please remember church and Sunday School. Be a very good example for others to follow. Love and care for one another and always remember to pray. God bless you.

Sweet & Sour by Zi Graves

This week began as a perfect Mother's Day. Of course I believe that all mothers have 365 days a year of being a mother and each day should be her day. But somewhere along the way a special day has been set aside in her honor. It's a nice custom and I'm always pleased to share in the prime bestowed on Mothers that day.

When I was a child the part of the country I lived in celebrated Children's Day. Much the same way, we do today. Our families went to church to share in little plays designed for children and listen to songs sung in our praise. Then when Mother's Day came a few weeks later we were primed and ready to return the praise and honor to Mother. Then last there was Father's Day. No one in the family was left out.

But last Sunday was my day. I was pleased to sit next to my daughter, Polly, the mother of my grandson, Chad, throughout a very good church service. I thoroughly enjoyed a good sermon, good singing and the fellowship of good people.

Then, after a short lunch hour we went to the school gym for the long awaited, Baccalaureate, the beginning of Chad's week of graduation exercises. Chad is my third grandchild. I've shared this honor with and I'm very proud of them. I have one to go. Birch is a sophomore now so I get a two year breathing period between each one. My special thrill of this occasion was when we were asked to bow our heads for the invocation. Since I hadn't yet looked at the program I had no idea who it would be so when I heard a familiar voice say, "let us pray," I just had to take a peek, and yes, it was Chad. "I was startled and rolled down my cheeks, here was the grandson I had watched grow up from babyhood, it seems only yesterday he was licking cake bowls in my kitchen, taking a role in the ceremony I thought was reserved for seasoned ministers. "A little child will lead them," came quickly to mind as he prayed for God's blessing to be bestowed upon his school, the faculty and his classmates. And asked for strength and the Lord's blessing to face the future.

What a gift for Polly and me, for Mother's Day. That alone was enough to make this a perfect day.

But that wasn't all that was in store for me. After receiving the "Always Welcome" hanging pot of flowers from Polly and Chuck, we went to the restaurant of my choice for dinner, then on to his mother's house. From there we went to her church as a whole family group and enjoyed the beautiful singing service conducted by the Jubilee Echoes. Wow what voices I heard and what a way to end my celebration of Mother's Day.

I think maybe the joy's of the week was the food to give me strength for the week to follow. My plans for the week was to relax, plant flowers and attend awards night and graduation night. All to be done in a spirit of love and appreciation to see a young man we were still supporting his efforts and accomplishments.

Somewhere a wise man once said, "the best laid plans of mice and men often go astray." What wise words these are. How often do we make plans to do things for our pleasure and find there are different plans made by the creator of all things.

The first thing Monday morning I received a call from my brother in Cincinnati that his daughter, a very dear niece of mine, was near death. That put a cloud over my rainbow. I wanted to be in Cincinnati to give moral support to my brother but I also wanted to share in Chad's joy of receiving his awards for twelve years of school work.

Since I could not help Rita, whose life was fading and could only furnish a shoulder for my brother to lean on I chose to attend the awards ceremony. But the light heartedness of it was gone.

I was gone. I was the only grandma there proudly but quietly singing the praises of our offspring you see, we have more than a grandchild to be proud of. We are the mothers of the parents of these fine young people and must give credit to them for doing such a good job. We also know that we contributed to their abilities by handing down the genes from our fore parents that has made them what they are. As I've often said before some of our greatest leaders and statesmen have come from the stock of people seen in Kentucky. And there is more to come by the looks of the 1990 graduation class.

Wednesday was a beautiful day and the prospect of a happy graduation day was there. Then another message came of a worsening condition in Cincinnati. What was I to do? I couldn't help there except to comfort the family so again I decided to continue with my plans and let phone calls take the place of my presence. But my heart was heavy. About midnight I went to bed with a prayer on my lips for the comforting presence of the Holy Spirit to be Rita's bedside. I had hardly closed my eyes when something aroused me. It was a thunder storm that had brewed up and my first thought was to unplug the T.V. Then I discovered the power was out. I stumbled into the living room with my emergency light, got the T.V. unplugged and groped my way back to bed. By now I knew it was a very severe storm with lots of wind. I've never really been afraid of storms so I simply cuddled into my covers and said reverently, "God you know I need sleep more than I need to watch a storm so please let me go to sleep and not listen to it." The last thing I heard after that was crashing and banging and it sounded like trees losing my roof. Then I knew nothing till I awoke about 8 a.m. The first thing I did was get my coffee and turned the T.V. on to see if it said anything about damage from the storm. I still hadn't looked outside. My T.V. wouldn't come on so after trying several times I looked outside to see if something was wrong. There was something wrong alright! My roof antenna was no longer on the roof but was dangling over my front window. So, that's what I heard, I thought. And went onto the front porch to examine it closer. There were wires drooping everywhere. And my drive was blocked by the top of my big maple tree that had been torn out. There was debris everywhere. Wow! what a storm so I went a bit

September 16, 1939, the son of Mrs. Alta Mosley Houts of Ky. 39 south, Crab Orchard, and the late Daniel C. Houts. He was retired form I.B.M., a member of the Watts Chapel Baptist Church and a Vietnam veteran.

Survivors in addition to his mother are his wife, Linda Howard Houts of Crab Orchard, a son, Anthony Houts of Crab Orchard, a daughter, Miss Angie Houts of Crab Orchard, a brother, Arastus Houts of Crab Orchard; three sisters, Mrs. Laurel Playford of Lancaster, Mrs. Margie Wardlaw of Dearborn Heights, Mich. and Hazel Quinton of Indianapolis, Ind.

Services were held May 20, at the Watson Funeral Home Chapel with Dr. David Calhoun officiating. Burial was in Crab Orchard Cemetery.

Mize

Alonzo "Jay" Mize, 70, of Springdale, Ohio, and formerly of Rockcastle County died May 17, 1990 at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio.

He was born Oct. 2, 1919 in Rockcastle County, the son of the late Hamp and Alice Jones Mize. He was a former employee of Cincinnati Industries.

Survivors are: his wife, Nola Pennington Mize; a son, Denver Mize of Mt. Vernon; six step children; two brothers, Emmett Mize of Reading, Ohio and Shelby Mize of Mt. Vernon; four grandchildren and six step grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his first wife, Betty Renner Mize, a brother, Reese Mize, and a sister, Lucy Mize Hubbard. Services were held May 20 at Cox Funeral Home with Dr. Zald McClure officiating. Burial was in Mize Cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Denny Mize, Calvin Mize, Conley Mize, David Mize, Danny Mize and Albert Hubbard.

further in the yard and saw what looked like a tree growing where my T.V. antenna had been. Sure enough it was a tree. A huge oak shade tree in my back yard had been twisted and wrung away from its roots and by across a small building and bridged itself over onto my housetop. A small tornado or a twister had followed a path up the hollow in back of my house and had cleared itself a path by twisting anything in its path. Huge old oaks and pines are all twisted together almost to our door. And I slept through it all. If I hadn't slept through it I would have been frightened into hysterics and who can afford to be hysterical alone. I'm so glad God does answer prayers.

Now this was the day I was going to rest and be all fixed up for graduation night. Guess what I did? I called insurance companies and T.V. repair people and tree trimming companies.

I walked the floor, I paced the yard then I made more phone calls. Dean Mize and daughter, Lori Beth came out and helped with the phone calls. Then Pauline and Ish came out with fixings for lunch and stayed until I got my tattered nerves put back together.

The fallen tree was bearing down heavy on my electric lines so the electric people were called. I use RECC from Somerset and it takes a while to get here and I was conscious of time flying by and the hour to leave not far off. But this had to be taken care of. Rick and Cindy came down with cameras but had the wrong ones for this job.

In the midst of all this turmoil I saw a figure go darning around my house.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

I have a friend in New York who worked and went to school in Pikeville for a few years back in the early seventies. He spent his week-ends running around Eastern Kentucky shaking hands with people and just getting the lay of the land. He's a low key sort of fellow. He didn't want his name put in the paper when I told him I was going to write this piece, and since he's one of those people that I need to keep on my side, I have concluded that his anonymity won't hurt the story. A good reporter probably wouldn't do that, but I'm not a good reporter so what the heck.

Anyway, my friend would take off to Whitesburg or Hindman or Grundy or Big Stone Gap or some other Appalachian county seat and he'd figure out how to meet someone who lived way out in the country and then he'd go home with 'em. He'd then go to a grocery store parking lot, watch people come and go until he saw somebody who looked likeable, and then he'd just approach 'em.

He'd go up and tell whoever he saw that looked interesting who he was. "I'm a college student from New York. Lived in the city all my life. I'm not writing a book or magazine article. I don't work for a newspaper or television network or the government or the Church. I'm just curious about how people live down here and I can't afford a motel room. If you'll put me up for the week-end, I'll do whatever work you've been putting off to pay you for it."

He swears he met 75 families that way and never got turned down once. In fact I met him when I was visiting with some folks who had brought him home from the A & P. They'd told him that they planned to kill chickens all day on Saturday and if he wanted to help out he was welcome.

They had ordered two hundred white leghorn chickens in the mail and 199 of them had been roosters. The chickens were grown and they had eaten on them for a couple of weeks. One of those deals where you eat chicken three times a day for two weeks until you get real tired of it and you still have 150 fryers that are eating two sacks of feed a day. So they had decided to butcher the whole flock at one time and put 'em in the deep freeze.

Butchering that many chickens is a big undertaking and they did, in fact, need all the help they could get. I was there to help out, with the understanding that I was going to be paid off in dressed chicken.

The guy from New York had never seen a chicken killed, but he jumped right in. He turned purple and I thought he was going to vomit when I demonstrated how to wring a fryer's neck, but he gritted his teeth and gave it a try. He had to sit down after he wrung too hard and the roosters' head came off in his hand. Blood all over him. He was pale as a corpse. But he recovered. And he tried three or four more times with the same result before he got the hang of breaking their necks without making a mess.

He frowned and wrinkled his nose when we put him to picking feathers. He scowled and turned his head several times but he learned how to gut and cut up fryers. By the end of the day he was an good as an old hand. When we had fried chicken for supper, he turned pale again but his appetite overcame any lingering revulsion. After he managed to bite into the first piece, he ate five or six drumsticks and on Sunday he took a big poke full of fryers back to Pikeville.

He learned about hog killing and canning by helping do it. I laugh to him to hunt squirrels in the woods around Dowsy Lake. But along about the middle of 1973, he took back off to New York and went to work for a law firm. He's been back to Kentucky a couple of times to stay a week, and we get in touch once or twice a year. But good news has come along. I do have people to do the work once it quits raining.

Graduating? Oh yes Rod and I went and enjoyed every bit of it. We not only enjoyed seeing Chad march up and receive his diploma we enjoyed the rest of the ceremony, guest speaker, music, comments from Mr. Towery and Mr. Cash and even enjoyed the Co-Valedictorians, Chad and Cynthia and salutatorian Kimberly. Now these young pups deserved every award and honor they received for they had sacrificed many hours of home activities and pleasure to attend to their school work. It takes much study and concentration to maintain their level of grades. So, hats off to you kids, and may God bless with you on your pursuits of more education and bless your every endeavor.

Now, I'm doffing my hat to the other members of the graduating class that took that long march with the aisle with heads held high and eyes moist with unshed tears. For many of them they are the first of their families to ever, complete four years of high school. This in itself is worthy of an award. And I think I'm safe in saying more than half of this class did prayer had been answered, it was Rodney. I had tried to call him earlier but got no response, the reason was because he was already on his way home to go to the graduation, never dreaming of the trouble I was in. It so good to have a man around the house especially when one is so needed at a time like this. I think he heard my silent call and answered.

Well, the crew crew came. And after a couple of hours of tedious work cleared the tree from the electric line. And while they were working I got a quick cleanup of myself and was ready to leave. But before I left I took the crew some refreshments of fresh baked chocolate cake and lemonade. Then Rod and I were off to enjoy an evening of watching Chad and the rest of his classmates receive the reward of their toils. I'm sure Rodney was remembering when he was Valedictorian of his class. He went to Shoptville.

Another thing had happened during this day of problems to add yet another cloud to our spirits a phone call had come in mid-morning telling of the death of a very dear friend of our family. Have you had enough of my problems? If not you may want to help me solve some of them. The tree is still on my wash house. The tree top is still piled all over my back yard. The antenna is piled in my front yard. But good news has come along. I do have people to do the work once it quits raining.

Graduating? Oh yes Rod and I went and enjoyed every bit of it. We not only enjoyed seeing Chad march up and receive his diploma we enjoyed the rest of the ceremony, guest speaker, music, comments from Mr. Towery and Mr. Cash and even enjoyed the Co-Valedictorians, Chad and Cynthia and salutatorian Kimberly. And I think I'm safe in saying more than half of this class did not have the support and encouragement of their families to even go this far much less reaching college. Many parents are just now waking up to the importance of a higher and higher education. Many are still holding on to the old adage "what was good enough for paw is good enough for me and mine." But times have changed and the more diplomas one can show the more doors are opened to him/her. And more and more of our people are realizing what a treasure trove their child's mind is so they are putting them on that big old "yaller" bus and sending them off to school.

I saw so much evidence of this last Thursday night. Parents were just bursting with pride as they were having their pictures made with that son or daughter or grandchild, in that big long robe with the funny hat on. I also saw, felt and heard the difference in the attending audience. Order was so good I could hardly believe I was attending graduation exercises in Rockcastle County. Of course there is always a little disturbance at any big gathering of people. But in time those people causing it will realize there is a time and place for all things and churches, funerals and graduation aren't the place to allow babies to cry and fight, nor the place for older youngsters to run about not the place for them to talk to their neighbors in loud voices.

Someday maybe there will be a place of entertainment for those people to attend where they won't disturb anyone.

A tum about has happened for the betterment of Rockcastle County schools and all its functions are showing it.

If this article sounds all mixed up I guess it is living up to the state of mind I'm in. After such an unplanned week I've ended up with my arthritis worse than ever, my headaches and to top it all off I've had the "Belly ache" all week.

5-Year-Old Kentuckian Writes Life Story

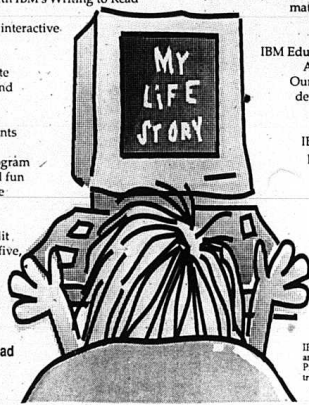

This story has many happy endings.

That's because 5-year-olds are writing all kinds of stories in Kentucky classrooms where teachers are teaching with IBM's Writing to Read programs.

It's a self-paced interactive program that teaches kindergarteners and first graders how to write anything they can say and read anything they can write.

And once students learn to write, IBM's Primary Editor Plus program gives them a simple and fun way to actually learn the fundamentals of word processing. So the skills they use to write and edit their own life stories at five will be with them at 25.

Writing to Read and Primary Editor Plus are just two of the many high-quality programs created by IBM's Educational System division.

Many Kentucky schools are teaching English, math, physics, chemistry, foreign languages and much more with IBM Educational Courseware. And with good reason. Our courseware has been developed with the help of over 200 active teachers nationwide. IBM makes courseware programs for students from kindergarten through high school. In Kentucky, and the nation, we're working to help teachers teach and students learn.

INDEPENDENT AUDITOR'S REPORT

GARSTKA, LAWTON & CLONTZ CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

To the Honorable Billy B. Russell, Mayor and the City Council
 Town of Brodhead, Kentucky

We have audited the accompanying general purpose financial statements of the Town of Brodhead, Kentucky as of and for the year ended June 30, 1988, as listed in the table of contents. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Town's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

Except as discussed in the following paragraphs, we conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

The general purpose financial statements referred to above do not include the financial activities of the Volunteer Fire Department which maintains separate records.

The general purpose financial statements referred to above do not include the General Fixed Assets Group of Accounts, which should be included to conform with generally accepted accounting principles. The amount that should be recorded in this account group is not known.

In our opinion, except for the effects of such adjustments, if any as might have been determined to be necessary had we audited the financial statements of the Volunteer Fire Department and the General Fixed Assets Group of Accounts referred to in the preceding paragraphs, the general purpose financial statements referred to in the first paragraph present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Town of Brodhead, Kentucky, as of June 30, 1988, and the results of its operations and the statement of cash flow of its proprietary fund types for the year then ended in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

A Weekly Report from Fifth District Congressman Hal Rogers

No One Died for the Right To Burn Old Glory

"And the rockets' red glare, the bombs bursting in air Gave proof through the night that our flag was still there, O say, does that star-spangled banner yet wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave?"

—Francis Scott Key, September 13-14, 1814
"The Star Spangled Banner"

Ours is a nation borne of extraordinary sacrifice. The freedom we cherish in America—the liberation of mind and man that has swept over the world—has been won with the blood of hundreds—if not thousands of heroes who died defending the United States. And we honor every one of them on Memorial Day, the last Monday in May, by flying the Stars and Stripes at home and at their graves.

But because the Supreme Court last year ruled that the Constitution protects anti-American extremists who desecrate, burn flag and mock the Americans who died in defense of their country, we in Congress last year gave Old Glory the protection of law.

In spite of this law, Old Glory is still not safe this Memorial Day. The United States Supreme Court will soon decide whether our flag protection law overwhelmingly approved by Congress violates the free speech rights of flag-burners.

If you wonder what this nation is coming to, you are not alone. And if you have any doubt about whether our flag is a unique national treasure that deserves the protection of the law, then read again the words from our National Anthem.

Francis Scott Key wrote them as the fury of the British Navy was closing in on Fort M'Henry, near Baltimore, Maryland. All night long, British cannon fire rained from the sky, searing through the Stars and Stripes high on the mast at the sea shore. Fires and explosions burned so brightly that Key—and the American Navy—never lost sight of the flag which inspired their valiant defense of the fort.

Francis Scott Key and the men of the U.S. Navy did not sit still when Old Glory was under assault. Likewise, American heroes fighting for freedom all over the world, in the First and Second World Wars, at Korea, Vietnam, Grenada, Libya, Lebanon, and Panama, have put their lives on the line for Old Glory and the freedom she represents.

The American people will not sit silent while malcontents deliberately desecrate the Stars and Stripes.

Nevertheless, the Supreme Court may yet throw out our federal flag protection law, and assert the misguided "right" of anti-American extremists to burn the American flag.

If a law passed by Congress is not enough to protect the American flag held high by the American heroes remembered on Memorial Day, I say that our nation's Constitution itself needs to offer that protection. And I support a Constitutional amendment to make desecration of Old Glory a federal crime.

The heroes we honor on Memorial Day died to keep America free, and to liberate people from tyranny all over the world. They died for the principles and rights espoused in our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution. They did not die so that the people they fought to protect could burn our American flag.

This Memorial Day, may Old Glory fly free, and may we never forget the price of our freedom.

self, and I'm here to tell you that my mom couldn't have done much better.

The New Yorkers were polite about the meal. Lots of cholesterol comments. "You mean it's not seasoned or anything?" they inquired of the pork chops.

I ate more taters than all of them put together. New Yorkers tend to shudder when they hear the word "lard". They don't want any thing to do with something fried in it. And even the soup beans had three or four ham hocks floating around in them. "Is that chicken fried in lard too?" they queried.

It took me a minute or two to figure out what was different until I discovered that it was me talking about the food—explaining what it was and how prepared. It was me pigging out at dinner in New York with no doubt in my mind about what I was eating and I had never done that before.

And it was one of the nicest things that anybody anywhere has ever done for me. My friend had wanted me to feel at home. While he was in Kentucky he learned how to do that.

And for some reason that seems important to me.

In recognition for the high performance in the month of February, Appalachian Computer Services recognizes Ramona Stewart as the Employee of the Month in the Berea office.

Former Missionary to Zambia to speak at First Christian

Dean Davis was born October 3, 1935 at Mendon, Illinois. He became a Christian at the Loraine Christian Church, Loraine, Illinois in 1953. Soon after this he graduated from Unity High School and that same year entered Johnson Bible College, Knoxville, Tenn. In 1955 Dean was married to Judy Mitchell of Mt. Sterling, Illinois. Judy became a Christian in 1951 and was a member of the First Christian Church of Mt. Sterling. Following their marriage Judy also attended Johnson Bible College. They have three children and four grandchildren. After graduation from Johnson Bible College and ministries in Kentucky, including Wildie Christian Church from 1957-60, Tennessee and North Carolina, the Davises made the decision in 1966 to go to Zambia, Africa to do evangelistic work. The Davises were in Zambia 22 years where they pioneered the establishing of Christian Churches/Churches of Christ in two areas. Their primary ministry in Zambia was planting churches and training a national leadership so those churches would be completely self-supporting. Dean also served on the Zambia radio/Television Advisory Board for Religious Broadcasting and the Zambia Bible Society Committee. He has also preached and had leadership seminars in Malawi, Uganda, Zimbabwe, Kenya and South Africa. Dean is now Coordinator of Church Relations at Johnson Bible College encouraging churches and individuals toward involvement in world evangelism and recruiting for the mission field.

Revival at Mt. Vernon Pentecostal

Evangelists Reverend and Mrs. Danny R. Hudson of Tulsa, Oklahoma, will be ministering in revival services at the Mount Vernon Pentecostal Church beginning May 28th through June 3rd. Services will begin at 7 p.m. each evening. Reverend Hudson has been in full-time evangelistic work for 20 years. He is a frequent speaker at conventions, youth camps and camp meetings in the U.S.A. He also holds a Bachelor of Bible Theology Degree. Reverend Buford Parkerson, pastor of the Mount Vernon Pentecostal Church, and the congregation extend a hearty invitation to everyone to join them in the services.

Rockcastle Baptist celebrating Associational Emphasis

The Missionary Baptist Churches of Rockcastle Missionary Baptist Association are observing their annual Associational Emphasis Week May 21-27. Emphasis Week provides opportunity for Rockcastle Missionary Baptists to strengthen their commitment to their denominational work. It specifically focuses on the history of the formation of associations and offers challenges for strength through mutual assistance and cooperation and commitment. In a statement released to the Signal by Bro. Jack Bruce, Director of Missions for Rockcastle Baptist Association, he highlighted the history of Baptist Associations. According to Bro. Bruce a group of Baptist churches in Philadelphia, Pa. formed the first Baptist Association in 1707. This was 69 years before the signing of the Declaration of Independence and 138 years before the formation of the Northern Baptist Convention. In 1750 the second association began in Charleston, S.C. These associations, among other reasons, came into being out of the churches need for fellowship, preservation of doctrine and protection from Charlatans seeking personal gain at the expense of local churches. Today the association has been defined as churches in fellowship sharing a common faith and on mission in their setting. It provides our first level of cooperation beyond the local church. It enables our churches to do things together they cannot do separately. There are 78 associations such as Rockcastle Association in the state of Kentucky, and over 1200 in the United States, Puerto Rico and Canada. Rockcastle Missionary Baptist Association is composed of 22 churches with a combined membership of 5,199 as of August 31, 1989. The theme for Emphasis Week is "Churches Giving Hope Through the Baptist Association." We have been doing this since Rockcastle Association was formed 120 years ago. Open House is being observed Sunday, May 27, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Associational Office, located in the basement of the Agriculture Building in Mt. Vernon.

Maple Grove Baptist Church News
Maple Grove Baptist Church sends up balloons every Easter Sunday advertising our Spring Revival. We have heard in past years from people as far away as New York. We had a even better surprise this year. A gentleman from Saul, Ky. found the remains of one of our balloons. Curtis, Mildred and Katina Berger attended a Wednesday night service. Saul, is 30 miles from Manchester. They also made another trip to a revival service and brought a gentleman with them that blessed us with a beautiful song. Our pastor Bro. Lester Arnold, who is recovering from a heart attack, always enjoys the balloons going up and hearing from people who have found them. Bro. Arnold: we are sorry you missed this event. We love and hope you will soon be back with us. Thanks for everyone's prayers for Bro. Arnold and our church. Remember Vacation Bible School will be June 18th-22nd.

Rockcastle teachers to participate in Teachers Institute

Teachers Charlotte Bullock, Martha Eversole and Norma Eversole have been selected to participate in the 1990-91 Commonwealth Institute for Teachers (CIT) to be held July 29 to Aug. 3 at Western Kentucky University.

With the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990 mandating sweeping changes in the state's public school system, now, more than ever, school professionals need the kind of training offered in CIT's workshops.

According to Rosemary Weddington, director of special events and recognition, because of the interest in the Kentucky Education Reform Act, there was an unusually large number of applicants. We were gratified by the statewide response to CIT and thank you for encouraging applications from the teachers in the Rockcastle district, Weddington stated.

It was an "ill wind" and it certainly didn't blow Mrs. Zl Graves any good as it went on a rampage Wednesday night at her home at Buffalo and uprooted trees, tore her antenna off the house and just generally made a nuisance of itself. In the photo above, Mrs. Graves, and her daughter, Polly Abney, survey the damage done by a big oak tree which fell onto an old building behind her home. The shed saved Mrs. Graves' home from serious damage.

talked with were far removed from the politics of the situation. It did not matter to them that the Courier-Journal ran a story about local Democrat Chairman Verla Scott last week and the possibility that she may have obtained a state lease because she is a close ally of the Governor. What did matter to these people was that, as they put it, they have to move from one crisis situation to another several times daily, at night and on the weekends. I asked the question, "If the general public knew what really went on in our homes today, would they be horrified," the answer was yes. I know that these people are often criticized, but I also know that they have a tough job that very few people are willing to do. And it doesn't matter to them where their offices are located, they have a job to do. We are running a story about the Courier-Journal story this week, and I hope these people don't get the wrong impression. We are obligated to our readers to give them as much information about what is going on as possible. What they do, and nobody except them will ever really know just how much, is to be commended. Sure the situation, especially concerning children, is bad but it would be a lot worse without these people and their efforts.

Speaking of politics, it is not our policy to endorse candidates, but there are exceptions and Danny Ford is a exception. Since going to Frankfort several years ago, I think Danny has had the best interests of the county at heart. He has often voted for bills or against bills that he has been criticized for. He voted against the Lottery and he was right. Although the Governor promised the Lottery would keep the Legislature from raising taxes, I think Ford knew better, and guess what, he was right. He also voted against the latest tax increase and he was right on that account as well. If you don't think so wait until it comes time to pay your state income taxes not to mention the increased sales tax. Education reform was needed, but not at the price we are going to pay.

Help keep our country clean -- it's everyone's duty!

"What Saith the Scriptures"

We continue our study on the church that Jesus built (Mt. 16:18). Our text Matt. 16 and vs. 19 points out some very important lessons about Christ's church. First, the Kingdom of Heaven in vs. 19 involves the church in vs. 18. The Kingdom of God sometimes has reference to the church, as in this passage. The Colossian brethren had been translated into the kingdom Col. 1:13, or they were in the body or church of Christ, as Col. 1:19 teaches us. Christ has rule and reign over heaven and earth as Mt. 28:18 teaches. To those who submit to his rule, they are in his church. Those who think that the church is some sort of "make-shift" substitute for the kingdom are just wrong. Jesus promised to give Peter "keys" to the kingdom and that he would "bind and loose." Keys signify power or authority; entrance into. All the Apostles were promised this same power in Mt. 18:18. The Apostles by inspiration of the Holy Spirit would reveal what men and women would have to do to be translated into the kingdom or to become members of Christ's church. The Apostles tell us through the inspired word the things that God has commanded and bound upon men. And they have revealed the things that have been loosed by God also. The Apostles have "bound" things like, the plan of Salvation, 5 acts of true worship, the platform for unity, the pattern for the Lord's church, the High Priesthood of Christ, etc. We must look to the inspired word of God, that the Apostles and prophets have given us, to guide us in everything in religion, Col. 3:17 "whatsoever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus." As we shall continue to study about the church Jesus built in these series of articles, we shall seek only those things that have been bound and loosed by the Apostles not what men and tradition bind and loose.

Voices in the Valley May 25

To celebrate Kentucky and Appalachian storytelling, Renfro Valley Folks, Inc. are presenting "Voices in the Valley." This three day storytelling weekend will begin Friday, May 25 and continue until Sunday afternoon, May 27.

This special event will begin at 4:30 p.m. on Friday, May 25, when we listen to such story tellers as Bob Thompson, Don Boklage, Tom Spencer, Robert Mae Brown, Barbara Greenleaf, Beverly Sexton and John Ferguson. At 11:00 p.m. this same evening, a program entitled "Graveyard Tales" will add something entirely different to prepare everyone for bedtime.

"This story-telling weekend, 'Voices in the Valley,' will be a perfect way for your entire family to celebrate Memorial Day Weekend," said Jim Tillery, General Manager. "For both entertainment and education, visitors will find some of the best storytelling in Kentucky and all over Appalachia right here at Renfro Valley."

Among the story tellers is Randy Wilson who recently returned from a stint in Rome, Italy, as a part of Appalshop's touring company. Another highly acclaimed guest, Andrena Belcher, was described by Studs Terkel, Chicago's famed novelist and oral historian, as "one of our secret national treasures. More than ever is her gift as a storyteller needed today."

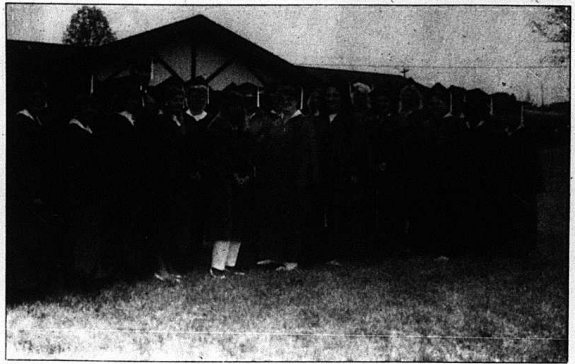

The storytelling activities are wrapped around the scheduled country music shows at Renfro Valley. On Friday, the 7:30 Barn Dance and 9:30 Jamboree will appear in the New Barn.

On Saturday, May 26, "Voices in the Valley" begins at 9:30 a.m., and continues through 3:30 when the last program of the day begins. Regularly scheduled shows begin with the 4:00 p.m. Mt. Gospel Jubilee who will appear in the Old Barn. At 7:30 p.m. the Barn Dance and at 9:30 p.m. the Jamboree will be held in the New Barn.

After the Sunday Morning Gathering at 8:30 a.m., the "Stories of the Heart and Spirit" will continue this event which will end during mid-afternoon on Sunday, May 27.

For more information or to purchase tickets for "Voices in the Valley" contact: Renfro Valley Folks, Inc. by calling 1-800-765-SING or (606) 256-2638.

For Friday's show, Renfro Valley Folks, Inc. are inviting local children, 12 and under, to the storytelling concert. (See ad on page A5 for details).

8,110 eligible for May's Primary

With 8,110 eligible to vote in Tuesday's primary election on Rockcastle, speculation is that many will not bother to cast ballots.

Locally, incumbent State Rep. Danny Ford is opposed by Douglas Griffin of Conway, both Republicans.

In the District 1 Constable race, incumbent and appointed, Constable Johnny Jones is opposed by Dale Johnson and Ronnie Roark on the Republican ticket.

In the U.S. Senate primary, incumbent Senator Mitch McConnell is opposed by Tommy Klein. Both are Republicans.

On the Democratic ticket G. Harvey Sloane is opposed by John Brock.

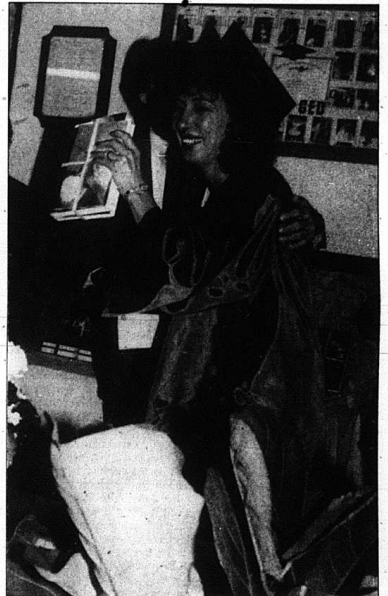

Rockcastle escaped storms that brought damage to counties

Rockcastle was lucky. The county escaped the tornados that swept across adjacent counties Monday night.

There was very little rain at Cox Funeral Home which recorded only half an inch of rain Monday and Tuesday.

To date this month a total of 3.54 inches of rain has fallen this month. There was 5.18 inches in May 1988 with still eight days to go in the month.

The highest temperature so far in May was 84 on May 16. Lowest was 38 on May 11.

Wanda Isaacs of the Clear Creek area is shown receiving a gift given to the graduates by the Family Life Center School following recent graduation exercises.

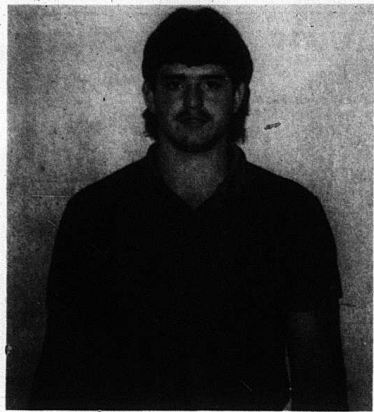

The weather got a little rough in Rockcastle County last Wednesday night as is evident by the top photo. Two huge trees on the Lance Adam's property near Quail were completely uprooted by the wind. School in adjacent Lincoln County was called off and many homes in Rockcastle County were without electricity for 13 hours.

Hines to compete in state finals in shot put and discus

By Spencer Bengé

If you have any doubt about how successful the Rockcastle County High School Track and Field team has been this year then maybe you should travel to UK this Saturday and watch one of its members compete in the Kentucky State Finals.

RCHS junior Scotty Hines will be competing against the top eight athletes in the state in hopes of becoming the best at what he does in the state of Kentucky.

The six foot three inch, 240 pound Hines was the shot-put champion during the sectionals last week at UK with a 47' 1" throw and also the second place finisher in the discus with a 136'9" throw.

The throw automatically qualified Hines for the Kentucky State Finals, in both events.

"I think I can do alright," said Hines this past week. "It is my first year but I seem to improve with each meet," he added.

Hines, who's largest throw is 47' 1" this year, is focusing directly on the shot-put event.

"It is my best chance for a state title," he said. "I'm only looking for maybe a fourth place finish in the discus."

Hines is also a talented offensive tackle and defensive end, for the Rockets football team and is highly regarded by Rockets head football and track and field coach Tom Larkey as a top athlete.

"I feel like this is a pretty big deal," Larkey said. "I hope he does his best and places as high as he can," he added.

Larkey went on to say that several colleges throughout the state have already inquired on Hines' abilities."

But right now Hines has his attention on this Saturday in hopes of becoming a state champion.

Of course there's going to be some tough competition Saturday but Hines has put that in perspective. "It's just who comes out prepared and in this sport, anyone can have an off day."

Hines will compete in the shot-put event at 9 a.m. Saturday morning and the discus event at 1:30 p.m. at the University of Kentucky track.

The Rockcastle track and field results for the sectional finals at UK last week are as follows: Scotty Hines, first place in the shot-put and second place in the discus; Jay Brown, fifth place in the 100m; Dane Cox, Billy Todd, William Bullens and Jay Brown, fourth place in the 400m relay; Jeff Navarre, Billy Todd, William Hellard and Jay Brown, third place in the 1600m relay and the only girl member Karla Bullock, fourth place in the discus.

As a team the Rockcastle girls team placed 12 out of 17 teams during the sectionals while the boys placed 7 out of 18.

Middlesboro defeats Rockets 6-2 in regional tourney

By Spencer Bengé

The Rockcastle County High School baseball season has come to a close in a very positive way this year.

Although the Rockets lost to the Middlesboro Yellow Jackets, 6-2, they did however, put a great showing while representing the 48th District in the 13th Regional Tournament at Barbourville, Tuesday night.

It marked the progress that the young Rockets have made since the beginning of the season when they only looked like a bunch of inexperienced players that were just playing the game.

But not now. The Rockets have been competitive and have shown potential through the latter portion of this year's season while letting everyone know that they will be around for the next couple of years.

"I was proud," said Rocket's head coach Ryan Riddle. "We've come such a long way since the start of the season."

Riddle put the same lineup on the field against Middlesboro that he had when they almost defeated Clay County for the championship of the district county which would have been the first district title for an RCHS baseball team since the school was established. The Rockets lost to Clay, 6-5. And once again the Rockets were in a ballgame forcing Middlesboro to use their best if they hoped to advance in regional play.

The Rockets who finished the year 6 and 17, took Middlesboro to the sixth inning in a very close ballgame.

"My Spins pitched a great ball game for us," said Riddle and Middlesboro never really hit the ball well."

However, Middlesboro did manage to score first with two runs in the second inning.

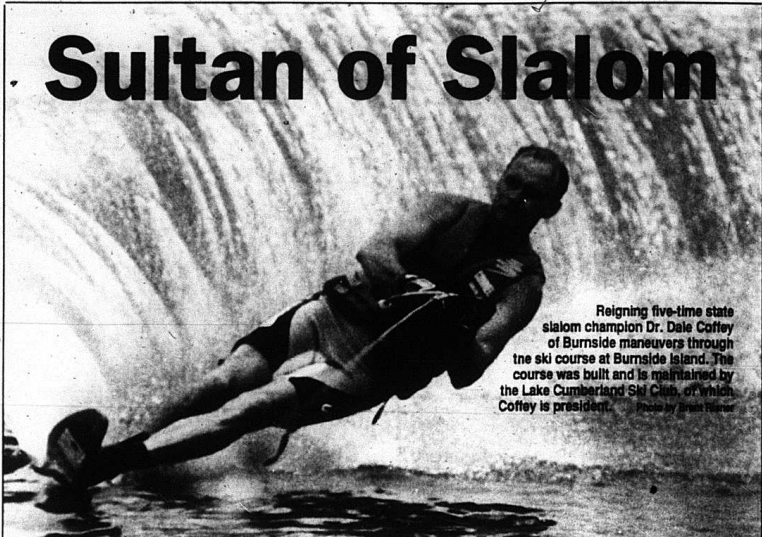

But with a couple of RBI singles by Mike Dyer and Mike Lopez, also in the second inning, the Rockets tied the score, which stood at a deadlock until the fifth inning.

"We didn't make one error during the game," Riddle said. "It was just a couple of hits at the right time that put Middlesboro on top."

Middlesboro squeaked a base hit on the left side with a runner on in the fifth inning to break the tie and give them a 3-2 lead over the Rockets.

But it was the sixth inning that proved to be the key for Middlesboro. They started with a base hit, then stole second and with a couple of base on balls by the Rocket's pitcher, moved three runs across the plate

Reigning five-time state slalom champion Dr. Dale Coffey of Burnside maneuvers through the ski course at Burnside Island. The course was built and is maintained by the Lake Cumberland Ski Club, of which Coffey is president. Photo by Brian Turner

Dr. Dale Coffey skis his way into the record book

By Brent Risner

ANYTHING THEY CAN DO, I can do better. Or at least as well. That is the thought that crossed the mind of a local dentist in 1982 while watching a national water skiing event in Illinois.

Now, eight years later, Dr. Dale Coffey of Burnside is the reigning five-time state slalom champion in the sport and looking to claim top honors again come July in Paducah.

His main pursuit must be to supplement his income, you think. To the contrary, Coffey only gets to supplement his trophy case.

"It's totally personal satisfaction," he says inside his spacious, two-story home on Lakeshore Drive facing Lake Cumberland. Coffey, 36, a Rockcastle County native and a practicing dentist in Somerset for 11 years, doesn't boast of his achievements on the water, just acknowledges them. He also realizes his limitations, something some athletes choose not to contemplate or admit.

"There's three kinds of events—slalom, trick and jump," he explains. "I do trick on a recreational basis. I don't jump on any basis. "When I go to ski a course, I have a goal out there," he says. "I want to get to a certain buoy. If it gets to that, I'm satisfied. If everybody else I ski against does better than that, that's great."

Lake Cumberland has become Coffey's training and practice field. He gave this interview immediately after making a few runs through a ski course set up by the Lake Cumberland Ski Club just below the entrance to Gen. Burnside Island State Park. It doesn't take long to figure out Coffey is very goal-oriented, and, so far, he's met most of his own performance standards.

"Once I became a state champion (in 1985), I wanted to compete in a regional tourney," he said.

He accomplished that the following year, and then set his sights on the 1987 national water skiing championship, where he would challenge many of the world's finest.

"To get in the nationals, you have to have made it around the fifth buoy at 35 feet off the (75-foot long) rope at maximum boat speed," he said.

By virtue of qualifying for the national event, Coffey obtained the sponsorship of the Connelly Co., a water ski equipment retailer.

"He hoped to finish in the top 15 nationally in 1989 and came in 12th, but he believes he can do better after slipping on his skis in Sacramento, Calif., Aug. 17-20.

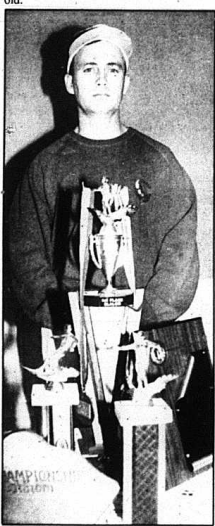

"My goal for this year is I want to be in the top 10," he says.

Introduced to water skiing in the eight grade, testing the waters of Lake Linville and Lake Cumberland as a teenager. He went on to dental school at the University of Louisville, but that didn't detain him.

"If I had a weekend off, we'd run to Lake Cumberland and ski," he recalls. "When I got out of dental school, of course, one of the first places I looked at was a city on Lake Cumberland."

Becoming a competitive slalom skier in 1984, Coffey has his own specially designed water ski boat with a 265 horsepower engine and a driver he has tremendous confidence in—his wife, Phyllis, the mother of his two children, Morgan, 2, and Austin, 5 months old.

Dr. Dale Coffey with some of the championship trophies he's won over the past few years in slalom ski events. Photo by Brent Risner

"When you're in short-line skiing, the driver must have the ability to set up for the courses and be able to adjust the speed of the boat according to the skier," he says. "The last thing you want is to be on a buoy, and then have an inexperienced driver throttling the gas on that boat."

Next week, Coffey travels to Leesburg, Fla., on the Atlantic coast, for water ski school, where some of the best in the business will critique his technique.

"It's not for the faint-hearted. It's only for the true competitive skiers," he says. "You get to set in the boat and watch these guys who are the best in the world do it flawlessly. You can picture in your mind how you're supposed to do it."

Coffey does have some bragging rights, too, holding state records in two separate divisions, passing 50 consecutive buoys without error among men ages 25 to 35 and 53 buoys in the group that includes 36 to 45 year olds.

He's also president of the Lake Cumberland Ski Club, which was formed in 1983 with about 15 charter members whom Coffey had become acquainted with since moving to Pulaski County. They built and maintain the ski course at Burnside Island and have, in the past, worked to draw major water ski tournaments including a pro tour event as recently as 1985.

Because so much work goes into planning and preparation, the Lake Cumberland skiers, now numbering about 20, probably won't organize a competition this summer, Coffey says. But with some help from the local tourist commission and the state, he thinks they could bring one of the two pro circuits here.

Gib Gosser, executive director of the Somerset-Pulaski County Tourist Commission, isn't so sure, however, after recalling the success, or lack thereof, with the pro tournament sponsored by Coors five years ago.

"It has since gotten so big we have no hope of getting it back," Gosser said.

Tournament promoters of most water sporting events, not just skiing, are looking first at more metropolitan areas as hosts, where they have greater access to the media and have a better chance of making money, according to Gosser.

"More people would turn out on a rainy day in Indianapolis than they would here in the best of weather simply because of the population base," he said. "Even if we put our entire budget into it, I don't think we would be able to get it."

Gosser said the tourist commission hasn't and doesn't plan on actively recruiting water sporting events but would lend support to others who have good commitments and are organizing them.

"We're very fortunate to have the Lake Cumberland skiers headquartered in this area because they've put together eight or 10 state and regional tournaments, and those are a big help to the local economy," he added.

But no matter whether you're talking about skiing competitively or strictly for the fun of it, Coffey sees and believes how his activity, unlike some others, can involve the entire family, and he hopes that includes his own. "I'm going to encourage my kids to ski because it's a great sport," he said.

Local school grew space tomatoes

Budding student scientist in the 8th grade at Livingston Elementary School, planted gardens to experiment with tomato seeds from space. During the spring semester students grew and monitored space exposed seeds and earthbound seeds, searching for differences caused by long-term exposure to cosmic radiation. Results gathered by the students were forwarded to NASA for a final report.

The Space Exposed Experiment—Developed for students (SEEDS) was one of 57 experiments housed on the recently recovered 11-ton Long Duration facility Satellite. After a nearly six year voyage in space, the 12.5 million tomato seeds were rescued by the crew of the Space Shuttle Columbia on January 12, 1990.

Seeds were provided through a Space-Science Workshop attended by teacher, Mrs. Janie Grigsby.

Poet's Corner

The Bag Lady
By: Mayzell Ries

Pushing her cart before her
She walked down the lonely street
Rooting in garbage cans
For just a morsel of something to eat

Her hair uncombed
Her face wrinkled and worn
Her coat ragged
And torn

A park bench or a box
Is where she'll lay her weary head
She doesn't have a home or a nice bed

Some people make fun
And some throw stones
But she doesn't care
As she gnaws on some bones

The wind sends a chill
And she shivers and hovers against a wall
The rains come

And she steps into a hall

The building is empty
And falling down
She'll sleep here tonight
But not in a fancy gown

The morning comes
She's wide awake
She reaches in her bag
Pulls out a piece of dirty cake

It's all she has
To eat that day
She eats and then
She's on her way

She hasn't washed
In no toilet when
So off to the park pond
And she dips a rag in

Then off she goes
On her long wily way
But don't make fun
It could happen to you someday

Special Summer Program

ings in the future," he said.
Destination Graduation, funded by the Bell South Foundation and the U.S. Department of Education, is a tutoring program designed to help at-risk high school students in the 5th and 7th Congressional District. The program helps students improve and maintain their grades with graduation from high school as the ultimate goal.

As administered by EKU's College of Education, Destination Graduation recruits successful EKU students who are natives of Rockcastle County to tutor at-risk students at Rockcastle County High School.

Ronnie Cash, principal of Rockcastle County High School, said he believes Destination Graduation gives his at-risk students an opportunity to catch up and a reason to remain in school.

"I believe this summer school program will be of benefit to all grade levels.

The pilot summer school will be conducted at Rockcastle County School from June 11-July 27.

Math and English classes will be offered to 9th and 10th graders while math, science and English will be available to 11th and 12th graders.

EKU's College of Education staff will work in coordination with the Rockcastle County summer school teachers to develop an enrichment experience in computer math and creative writing. The enrichment experience will bring Rockcastle County High School teachers, students, and Destination graduation tutors to EKU's campus once a week.

While there, EKU's education majors will work closely with small groups of Rockcastle County students under the supervision of the county's teachers and EKU faculty.

These weekly trips to EKU will be combined with enrichment field trips to Fort Boonesborough State Park, Shakerstown, EKU's Hummel Planetarium, WKYT-TV Channel 27, The Lexington Herald-Leader Co., and the state capitol in Frankfort.

A new cooperative learning strategy will be used in all classes of the summer school.

Summer school teachers and Destination Graduation tutors will participate in a two-day training session to learn the new "Student Team Learning" strategies.

Dr. Kenneth Henson, dean of EKU's College of Education, said Destination Graduation is an example of a cooperative partnership program that pulls together teachers, parents, administrators, and college students to achieve a common goal.

"The effective schools research clearly shows that maximum academic success in the public schools requires the cooperation of the family and the school working together to help the student," Henson said.

"Destination Graduation is an excellent example of such a cooperative spirit. It provides all parties and opportunity to give," he said.

State program administrators agree. "Destination Graduation is fortunate to have the partnership of EKU's College of Education and the Rockcastle County School System," said Mark Pittman, executive director of Destination Graduation of the Council on Higher Education.

"This innovative program could not have been started without the cooperation and collaboration of EKU and the Rockcastle County Schools," Pittman said.

Sunshine Homemakers

By: Sandi Thomas

The Sunshine Homemakers met May 31st at Conway Church for their regular monthly meeting. The meeting was called to order by Linda Williams, president. Brenda Powell read our thought for today and led in prayer. Debbie McQueen, secretary and treasurer, read the secretary report and treasurer report. We discussed the Homemakers Craft Show coming up and what we would be entering. We were all excited about Brenda Powell's shirt she made for her mom, with the picture of the grandchildren on it. We came up with some ideas on what we want to make for ourselves, and whose pictures we wanted on it. We voted to send $25 to the Project Graduation. It's a worthwhile project whether we have children graduating or not.

Our annual bake sale will be held June 2nd in Mt. Vernon on Main Street.

Brenda taught the lesson on 'Gratitude Attitude'. The bottom line is that a strong positive attitude is basic to success and good mental health.

Brenda Powell was the hostess and we had some delicious refreshments.

Our next meeting will be June 2nd at Conway Baptist Church at 7 p.m. The lesson is on 'Wallcoverings Home Furnishings Update'. Bring a friend and come join us.

"Side by Side"

Come sit here awhile beside me - the sun sinks low in the west. This is the hour of the twilight - the time we always liked best. When the toil of the day was over - dull cares intrusion denied We shared those hours together - you and I - side by side.

Side by side together since that day so long ago When hand and hand before God and man those vows were spoken low. God has been kind and granted us a long and pleasant life.

Oh - the sun did not always shine - we encountered some foul weather. But we tried and side by side we pulled through those storms together.

This golden hour is waning - our day will soon be gone - But, God willing, on the morrow we will greet another dawn.
