

Blue mold disease strikes central Kentucky tobacco fields

University of Kentucky Plant Pathologist has confirmed active infections of blue mold fungus in tobacco fields in Jessamine, Woodford, Fayette, Mercer, Bourbon and Scott counties in Central Kentucky.

The first confirmed cases of blue mold in cultivated Kentucky tobacco this growing season were discovered southwest of Nicholasville in Jessamine County. Scattered lesions were present on about 5 percent of the plants.

In the Jessamine County field, moderate spore production was occurring from the newest lesions. Lesions of three ages were present.

Blue mold's appearance in the heart of the production area is not common, so somewhere out there we should find some beds loaded with very active disease. I suspect that some growers have transplanted infected plants to the field, as well.

The plant pathologist said that the outbreak is likely widespread because weather conditions have been favorable and use of control measures by growers has been low.

Estimates are that less than 40 percent of fields have been protected against the disease.

Growers should destroy all plant beds. Any crops that have not been transplanted should be treated with Ridomil at no less than two quarts per acre soil directed. Crops that were treated earlier with low levels of Ridomil, and which have not yet reached layby, can be treated with another quart per acre soil directed at layby.

Growers who have transplanted crops already and not used any Ridomil preplant have no label control options available. Currently, no fungicide is labeled for foliar applications on tobacco. State labels have expired and none was renewed because of concerns about residue on cured leaf.

Farmers who find blue mold on tobacco are asked to contact the County Extension Office at 256-2403. If you need assistance in identification, bring plants by the office.

"WATER WOES"

Kentucky Division of Water from Frankfort, but it was cancelled.

Jim Spross, with the division of water in London, said that the meeting was cancelled because Mayor Cromer would not cooperate with the division.

The division had requested that each water district and the city do a survey of their water systems to see where the water shortage problem lies so that it can be corrected. All of the districts agreed to do the survey, except for the city.

Mayor Cromer told the city council last week that he felt such a survey was not a good idea at this time because it may delay a $1.8 million water project that he was working on for the city through the Cumberland Valley Area Development District.

That grant would go for an additional filter at the city's treatment plant, an additional storage tank and to enhance feeder lines too outlying areas of the city system. That would not include Western, Northern and Brodhead districts.

Mayor Cromer said Wednesday that he was not aware that the meeting was cancelled until about 30 minutes before it was to take place.

"I had a proposal worked up to present at the meeting, but since there was no meeting the state did not get to hear what I had to say," Cromer said.

No other meeting date has been scheduled.

much for it. I heard it said different times, "Every year it gets better."

So now we look forward to June 9, 1991. Hope we can all meet again at that time. Until then may God keep you in His care. Live for the Lord and love one another and always remember I love you all.

Aids Testing here

The state Department for Health Services has expanded AIDS counseling and testing services to local health departments in all 120 Kentucky counties.

Five years ago, there was only one such site in Kentucky.

Dr. Carlos Hernandez, the department's commissioner, said it would no longer be necessary for some Kentuckians to travel across several counties to be tested for exposure to the human immunodeficiency virus and to receive counseling.

However, those wishing to go to a different county for reasons of anonymity may do so, Hernandez said.

Kentucky's first public HIV counseling and testing site opened in Lexington in 1985. Others soon were added in Louisville, Pineville, Owensboro and Bowling Green.

Fourteen sites offered the services by 1987, 57 by 1988, and 75 last year. The remaining counties were added this year.

"Head Start" (Cont. From Front) funds are being sought to run the program, including similar programs in Clay and Jackson counties.

She said the exact amount has not been determined, but it will be "substantial."

The program will be in operation in three centers in Rockcastle with 120 children in Mt. Vernon, 40 in Livingston and 40 in Brodhead.

Higher property taxes likely in wake of education reform

By: Richard Anderkin

In order to obtain over a million dollars more funding from the state, the local school system will have to raise an additional $370,000 in new revenue.

That additional revenue can be raised in a couple of different ways, Rockcastle County School Superintendent Bigge Towery Jr., told the local board last week.

By law the board can raise property taxes and/or place a tax on utilities, without placing the question on the ballot.

If the board opts to just raise property taxes, school assessments in Rockcastle County could go from the current 29.9 cents to about 60 cents.

However, at last week's board meeting, members seemed reluctant to raise property taxes that high and the general consensus was to place a tax on utilities.

The board must make a decision by Aug. 15, if they are going ahead with the additional tax.

Headstart program

A Head Start program to be operated through the Daniel Boone Development Council, got the blessing of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court during a called meeting July 3.

Police arrest

Brodhead man

Nine cases of beer and 16 bottles of whiskey were confiscated from the apartment of Dean Bussell at Castle Village in Brodhead Tuesday. Bussell, 51, was charged with illegal possession of alcoholic beverages in a local option territory. He posted 10 percent of a $2,000 bond.

Making the arrest on a warrant were Sheriff Shirley Smith, deputies Darrell Doan and Philip Chesnut, and State Trooper Jack Lawless.

Little's World Fair July 28 - August 4

Once again, the Little World's Fair has been scheduled, but with a difference. There'll be no horse show for the first time in many years when it gets under way July 28 and continues through August 4.

The county fair, first in Mt. Vernon then in Brodhead, has always had horses as a part of the activities. But only in the past 40 years or so has organized horsemanship competition been scheduled.

One resident said he remembered when there was just horse and mule races at the fair with some folks betting a little on the side on their horse.

"Then the horse show as we know it came along and has been the same until now," he related. "I don't remember how many years exactly, but it's been a long time."

The fair operators, 4-B Company, did not report the reason for not scheduling a horse show this year, but it was likely that the cost of having horse owners stay two or three days at the fair was too high, as well as the ability of large fairs with large purses to draw horse owners.

The county owns the fairgrounds and leases it to 4-B.

Highlights of the fair this year will be a rodeo at 8 p.m. Aug. 1 and 2.

Superintendent Towery told board members that they did not have to raise the extra revenue, but that if they did not, the school system would lose out on over $800,000 in additional money from the state.

"Tier I is a new program, which was part of the recent Education Reform Act, the school system does not have to participate, but I think we should," Towery said in an interview Tuesday afternoon.

"We have so many building needs that it would not be wise, not to participate in Tier I," the superintendent said.

However, Towery said that the final decision would be left up to the board.

Towery stressed that Tier I was totally separate from the initial funding provided by the education reform act. Under the new law Rockcastle will receive about $1.5 million in new money.

However, none of the new money can be used to pay a debt service on a building project and Towery thinks that additional and renovated facilities is one of the major keys to improving education in Rockcastle. Besides the new Mt. Vernon Elementary School which will open this fall, the state says that Rockcastle County needs about $8 million in new construction.

And, Towery said that he had asked the state department for a new facility survey, so that all of the building needs in the county can be addressed by the board. That should come by the first of the year.

Towery said Tuesday that the Education Reform Act will greatly impact the already limited facilities in the county and the board of education must address these concerns in the very near future.

Areas where the new money cannot be spent, but that must be addressed, will include the mandated early childhood education program in 1991-92, the reduction in class sizes, facilities and instruction for computer training, expanded special education programs, youth and family resource centers, expanded fine arts program, which will call for more rooms for music and art, more lab facilities for math and science at the junior high level and additional support services.

The board will make a decision on the new taxes at the August board meeting.

In other business the board voted to approve G.E.D. certificates for Arlene Anderkin and Lisa A. Price.

The board heard the football coaching staff at RCHS. They include head coach Tom Larkey, first assistant Tony Saylor and assistants, Jerry Pensol, Chris Cornelius, Jamie Harris and Chris Larkey.

Western officials say water problem is Mt. Vernon's

By: Richard Anderkin

Officials at Western Rockcastle Water Association are not cutting water off in the Brodhead Ridge area of Rockcastle County.

According to a statement released Monday, Western is not and has not been cutting off water to their customers at any time.

Numerous complaints about no water spurred the release from water association President Denver Burton, who said that the problem was in the amount of water received in the area from the city of Mt. Vernon.

"We simply are not getting any water from the city in that area," Burton said.

"A few weeks ago it was the Spiro area where we could not get any water from the city and now it is Brindle Ridge," Burton said.

"At times the pumping station at Menifee has only 20 pounds pressure," he said. "The water simply is not coming from the city."

Burton also said that the claim made by Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary R. Comer, that Western does not have enough storage capabilities simply isn't true. "We have 300,000 gallons of storage and the public service commission says that is adequate for one day's supply and meets their guidelines," Burton said.

Making reference to a story in last week's Signal, Burton said that Western has no contract with the city of Mt. Vernon on the amount of water the district was allowed.

"They have made a couple of attempts to get us to sign a contract, but we have a letter from 1987 that says the city will supply us with all of the water we need, so we do not think there is a need to sign a contract," Burton said.

"Our customers have been complaining to the public service commission, to us and to just about anyone that will listen, and the problem is not ours," he said. "If you don't get water from your supplier you can't get it to your customers. It is that simple," Burton said.

Western is not the only Mt. Vernon water customer experiencing pressure problems.

Brodhead water superintendent

Dealva Bussell said Wednesday that he was getting only about 180 gallons of water a minute from the six inch line that comes from Mt. Vernon. "It is supposed to be 1,000 gallons a minute but it hasn't been what it is supposed to be for over a year," he said.

Bussell said that he has to pull on the line constantly to keep his tanks at a reasonable level so that water customers in Brodhead will not experience a shortage. "When I pull on the line, the people behind it along 150 are without water," he said.

And, some of those customers are upset. Danny Ford who lives along U.S. 150 said Monday that he was without water several times each day and that when he had water the pressure was very low. "I don't know where the problem is, but it sure is frustrating to go without water. I hope the problem, wherever it is, can be solved," he said.

A meeting was scheduled for Monday between all of the water districts in the county, the city and the

Brodhead approves budget

A budget of $76,619 to run the city during the 1990-91 fiscal year has been approved by the Brodhead City Council.

The budget is only $8,373 over the 1989-90 budget.

Also approved was $119,070 for the waterworks operations. That budget is $10,373 less than the 1989-90 budget.

In the general fund, the city has $79,834 available to be appropriated with estimated appropriations at $48,199 leaving an estimated fund balance of $31,715 at the end of the fiscal year.

The fund has a balance carried over into the next year estimated at $30,343.

Largest appropriation in the general fund is $12,410 for police salaries, $10,000 for general operational expense and $10,000 operational expense for the police and fire department.

In the Municipal Aid Road Fund the city has $27,301 available for use, and estimates it will spend $15,000 out of the fund for street repairs leaving a balance of $12,301. Carried over in the fund from last year's fiscal year was $17,969.

In the Coal and Mineral Severance Fund, the city has a total of $4,251 and plans to spend $3,000 for street repairs, leaving a balance at year's end of $1,251.

In the rent account, the city has $10,541 available to appropriate and has earmarked $4,000 to spend leaving $6,541 at the end of the fiscal year.

In the water and sewer revenue account, the city has available for appropriation $376,298 and plans to spend $141,905, leaving a fiscal year balance of $234,392. Carried over from last year in the fund was $38,298.

In the water and sewer bond interest fund, the city has a total of $26,812 available to spend and plans to use $19,793.

The city's Urban Development Action Grant account has $23,062 with $20,000 to be spent on improvements to the sewer system.

The water operation account has $122,522 available to spend and has appropriated $119,070. Largest of the expenditures, $32,000, is for water from Mt. Vernon, and $38,250 for employee salaries.

Pulaski man beaten to death near home

A Pulaski County man with close ties to Rockcastle was found dead in a field near his home on Upper Line Creek.

He was 80-year-old William Ray Bullock, who in past years was frequent visitor to the Mt. Vernon area, and where he still has a brother, nieces and a nephew.

Bullock, who lived alone with no electricity, telephone or running water, was beaten to death with a blunt instrument, according to Pulaski County Sheriff Sam Catron.

He said Bullock had been dead about 24 hours after the beating and may have lived 24 to 48 hours when the body was discovered Sunday afternoon. He was probably beaten in his house and walked out into a field where he was found after deputies followed a trail of blood.

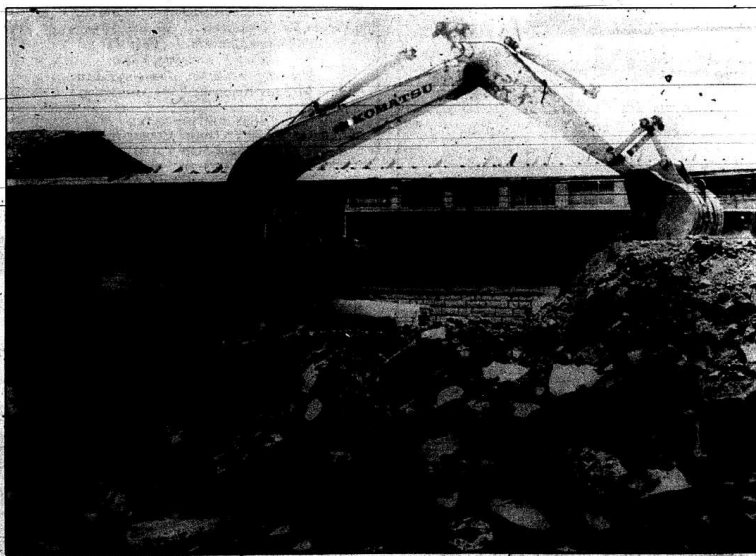

The sheriff said items were stolen from Bullock's home and that there are two suspects, who may not have been familiar with him.

Bullock had lived in the hollow since he returned from World War II. He and his brother, now deceased, rarely left the hollow.

Sheriff Catron said the house would have been easy to get into, and that Bullock owned antiques.

Among survivors in the county area a brother, Berkeley Bullock of Mt. Vernon Manor; a nephew, Larry Bullock of Pine Hill; and three nieces, Gwendolyn Flannery, and Geraldine Burdette, both of Roundstone, and Linda Burdette of Quail.

Services were held July 11 in Science Hill.

Workers are moving in a fever pace to try and demolish the old Mt. Vernon grade school by July 16th. Superintendent Bigge Towery said this week that school would be ready to open this fall, but that some landscaping may have to be done after school starts. An Open House will be scheduled for early this fall.

Clarification

In last week's District Court News, three persons were listed as attending state traffic school for various traffic offenses. However, these offenses occurred some months ago and were on the docket only to make sure the school had been completed and should not have been printed again. I listed were: Jason W. Carter, Jonathan R. Saylor and Angela L. Trivillion.

Dear Editor,

For many years, really since the 30's, the family of (as most called him) Uncle John, the Smith Family, has had a homecoming day once a year. This was a time when the families and friends could come together and enjoy the fellowship of each other and renew old friendships and all that good old-time cooking. But, people have changed so much it seems in the past few years and so many of the Smith family has gone on to be with the Lord. It makes us think how many people born in Jackson County as well as Rockcastle County would like to live on the Old State Road and the Pokey Boy Jones family of Eglen, Ky. near Pine Grove in Jackson County that would like to have a part in this Smith and Jones homecoming this year at the Family Life Center off Old U.S. 25 north of Reclin Valley on Sunday, August 19th, the third Sunday of the month, from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m. If you sing, come and sing, play music, games, horse-oshes or just stand talk. Anyone that's related to these families that would like to come, please call or write to the address I will give you later.
 All our times are running out. The cemeteries are getting a little fuller all the time. No matter where you live, we want you to come. There will be dinner on the ground and everyone that would like to bring a covered dish or whatever you like would be fine. Don't miss this opportunity and let us know as soon as you can. Please call 256-8240 or write Albert Smith, Rt. 4, Box 64, Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456.

Dear Rockcastle Citizens,

This is to let you know about a man who has served in World War II. He has been having trouble since he was 64 years old. He is now 64 and will be 65 on November 7, 1990. His troubles are the Veterans Administration who has cut off his pension and his bills will go unpaid. Why? He does not have money to pay them. He has a sister, Lula, who is 91 years old and she has had her bad times too. And his brother has a bad tumor on his brain. They have had no contact with him for a long time. Maybe will all die when the times come and rest in peace. If you know this man, Emmett Walden, then you can be of some help. Try to be his friend. He will appreciate it.

Yours Truly,

"IMPORTED OIL DEPENDENCY DAY" COULD BE A NATIONAL WAKE-UP CALL

I have been trying for a long time to call attention to the most deceptively dangerous problem now facing Kentucky and the nation - our rising dependence on foreign oil.

We must find the most effective way to put out a national wake-up call on this fast-growing threat to our economic future. The best idea that I have heard so far is to designate each July 1 as "Imported Oil Dependence Day" until this critical problem is brought under control.

This very important and well conceived proposal has yet to work its way through the Congress. But I am strongly supporting the idea of an "Imported Oil Dependence Day" as one way to make sure that we don't begin to take for granted the great legacy of independence celebrated by all Americans every Fourth of July.

We must convey the critical message that imported oil now has risen to more than 50 percent of U.S. oil consumption. As now has seen it, we used up our annual volume of domestic oil around July 1. For at least one half of the year, we are completely dependent on imports from OPEC and elsewhere.

With imports still soaring, we could be forced to designate an even earlier date as "Imported Oil Dependence Day." But I hope we can start moving very quickly to reverse this dangerous trend for the sake of our Kentucky economy and the economic and national security of this nation.

Oil imports now cost our nation more than $50 billion a year. This accounts for more than half of a staggering trade deficit, which has made us the world's leading debtor nation. Other dangers of this excessive oil dependency have been plain to see in the Persian Gulf and elsewhere.

As a top coal-producing state, Kentucky could be an increasingly important part of the answer to this problem if given half a chance. We need Kentucky coal to give us a balanced supply of domestic energy and help reduce our unhealthy reliance on foreign oil.

This is why I have been fighting for provisions in the Clean Air Act to help us implement clean-coal technologies to improve the environment while allowing greater use of Kentucky coal in our national energy mix. This is why I am opposing a carbon tax on coal, petroleum and natural gas, and the ever-increasing else in my power to promote a sound energy policy for this nation.

We need to remind ourselves that we are far more dependent on foreign oil now than we were during the dark days of the OPEC oil embargo in the early 1970s. It is easy to grow complacent during times of ample gasoline and other petroleum supplies. Yet Middle Eastern nations still have the power to raise prices and cut supplies. They still have the power to create a new U.S. energy crisis at almost any time.

All Americans should be made fully aware of this glaring vulnerability. Each of us can play a vital role in conserving energy and making the most efficient use of all domestic energy sources. Our proposed "Imported Oil Dependence Day" can be an important step in this direction.

To the patients of William F. Stewart, M.D.:

We are pleased to announce that we will be moving our practice to Berea, Kentucky. The new office will be located in the basement of Berea Hospital, Monday, July 9, 1990 has been selected as the opening date.

We feel the move to Berea Hospital affords our patients many advantages. We hope that each of you will permit us to continue to provide assistance in your health care needs.

The pea patch is bush-hogged. Ralph's talking late sweet corn. Corn that will come in about six weeks after everybody else. Planted right where the peas were. Corn that will have to be hood twice in August. But by golly it ought to sell like ten dollar Cadillac if he can pull it off.

Notice I said "he." If "he" can pull it off. I'm not yet sure how much effort I'm going to put into this venture. I figure we made about thirty seven cents an hour when the accounting is done on snow peas. And one cash crop is all I can afford to grow in a year. I'll probably help out some, but my back is still in bad shape from picking peas and it's hard for me to get excited about big scale gardening again this soon.

Besides, I have June's and Gil's Troybilt in my care this summer and I have been exercising it regularly in my back yard. A little row of summer squash, have a dozen cucumber vines, bell and banana peppers, egg-plant, onions, four different kinds of beans in four different rows, two rows of sweet corn and forty tomato plants representing eight different varieties. In the space of about our living room.

One of the neighbors stopped by the other day to check out my mulch-in technique. (I use grass clippings about a foot deep around everything.) "Man alive!" he said. "You've got a littlebit of everything growing in your mater patch, don't you?"

Gil's and June's "Horse" hadn't been used in awhile so Ralph agreed to give it a going over. He spent an entire week-end finding filters and gaskets, fuel lines and needle valves and separated the Troybilt into a vast array of head bolts and carburetor parts, cleaned them all with fine steel wool and W-D-40 and then put them all back together with not a single piece left over. I'd have had a coal bucket full.

When we finally fired her up behind the pea patch and took off across the field, I was tickled as I've been in years. Ralph had it running smoother than an Elgin watch. As I marveled, Ralph grumped. He wasn't impressed. He wanted one that has like five tillers mounted on a frame to pull behind his tractor. I don't want nothing but a Troybilt. So I brought it home and you've already heard the rest of the story.

I'm addicted. I'll find a used one

Dear Editor,
Thank you for publishing my letter in your last issue announcing the family reunion of the late Bob and Eva McKinney. Everything was correct in the letter except the most important part -- the date!

I failed to check the calendar, as in the past we had met on the third Sunday in July. Seldom were there five Sundays in the month. This year, that happens to be the case. So, would you be so kind as to make this correction for me? We will gather around noon at Sharon Woods, Sharonville, Ohio on the fourth Sunday, which is July 22nd.

Hope no one was inconvenienced by my error.

Dear Editor,
May I express my appreciation for your publication of your letters.

I believe the Signal does more good for the people than you realize. It serves as reunions of "long ago" classmates. Or, as a street, where old friends meet. As to bridge a gap of long ago acquaintances and renews old friendships. It enlightens friends of a death of someone they knew, that they might otherwise not ever know about.

Only a couple of weeks ago, my sister and I were going "down memory lane." I asked her if she knew whatever became of Bill Cass. I reminded her of the time I saw him at the Broadhead Fair. He played with the Military Band. The first time I ever heard of John Phillip Sousa. That music was brand new. I was so infatuated with it, I stood there and gawked at the band. Now I see the announcement of his expiration in the Signal.

I receive phone messages from people, out of the in-states, expressing appreciation of my letters to you.

I thank you cordially.

way cheaper than $1,600. I'll run it through my mater patch and twist the handles around so that I can guide it without having to walk on the soil I just worked up. Then I can drive the neighbors crazy trying to figure out how I got my garden looking like that without leaving any footprints in it. I'll tell them that I get in front of the tiller and pull it around.

I got a mighty late start but the point is that I do have a garden. I didn't really get started on it until the first of June but I have a vegetable patch that I can deal with on my own terms. And it gives me immense satisfaction.

It's not a mood garden. Half my beans didn't come up. Blackbirds took up my sweet corn to the point that I may just set the tiller loose on it and see what some late cabbage or broccoli, Brussel sprouts will still make it from seed.

The rows are crooked. But there's not a weed in it.

I swear to you that I'm not getting paid to advertise Troybilt tillers. Hell will freeze over ever good to skate on before I'll ever pay $1,600 to do for one and that is what they cost brand new. For $1,600 it ought to have a steering wheel and an air conditioned cab. And four wheel drive. You ought to be able to garden with it, ride it to work and put it on the lake when you wanted to go fishing.

Course most of what you're paying for is advertising. As far as I can tell, the company that makes them sends every American and Canadian taxpayer born since 1850 three or four letters every spring trying to get folks to buy one. Too much of that I make the tiller work any better.

The one I'm using is called "The Horse." Now you can go over to the stock yards in Lancaster and buy a horse for two or three hundred dollars. One that you can break to plow after a lesson or two. If all you want with a horse is to plow with it; they don't cost all that much and you get a family pet, something for the kids to ride on and a personality thrown into the bargain.

These people at Troybilt have confused their tiller with a race horse. And you don't plow with a thoroughbred. A man was plowing up a flower bed with the only Troybilt I've seen at Kceeland.

But when you take money out of the equation, the Troybilt Horse is a fine, fine gardening implement. You sort of start it up, give it gas, and follow it around. It leaves behind the ultimate in soil preparation. It does not knock your teeth out if it hits a root and it requires no heaving and lurching. It's a good tiller to get. But there's no such thing as a tiller worth $1,600.

Poet's Corner

HOME COMING

By Vickie Petrey

Someday God's people will come home to Him,
We'll sit at Jesus' feet.
But for now, we'll gather on this earth,
Yes, this is where we'll meet.

For now we long and wait
To feel Christ's loving embrace.
But someday His warm hug we'll feel,
We'll see His wonderful face.

Someday we'll reach that happy place,
We'll stand on Heaven's shore.
Our last and final homecoming,
We'll long and wait no more.

Rock Springs School

By Walter C. Marler

I went to visit my old school today. I found it in a sad state of disrepair and filled with bales of hay. The leaves are full green on the trees of this old school yard so dear, I can imagine the children playing and my childhood seems so near.

I can almost hear the recess bell ring and see everyone rush for the door, but gone are all the happy faces and the laughter, is no more.

I remember my classmates, my pals and my friends, but when I think of my sweethearts that's when the sadness begins. I can remember when there was joy everywhere, boys in their bib overalls, girls in their pretty dresses and ribbons in their hair.

The neighbors were a bit annoyed at the noise we made as we played our games and yelled and carried on, but I wonder how they liked the silence after we were gone.

Fourth of July Celebration

Friends and relatives of all ages helped the Albright, Parrett and Graves families celebrate July 4th on West Street in Brodhead.

At 7 p.m., the guests were told to fill their plates from a variety of food placed on a long table. It was hard to make a choice the first time around, so a second trip was made by a majority of those present.

Greetings of delight could be heard as latecomers came after they attended church.

Bunting from the huge trees carried the colors of our U.S.A. flag and joined a flag flying. Even the basketball net on Parrett's garage was red, white and blue.

The two adjoining backyards of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Parrett and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Albright made it a perfect place for the more than 100 people roaming around.

At 9 p.m., the kitty-kars stopped, that the little ones kept rolling. The young people and adults picked up their chairs and walked from Albright's yard to Parrett's to place them in rows to watch the fireworks.

The rockets, whirlers, poppers, etc. were at the far end of the yard set up like city fireworks. But would they look like fireworks in Lexington? They did!

Spew, bang, and then showers of rainbow colored stars erupted from several points. They reminded me of dancing Christmas trees. Some shot high, high and seemed to be part of the moon when it flared out in all directions in golden stars.

Several came over toward the crowd and screams could be heard. Maybe they were screams of delight instead of fear.

A tree fog was disturbed and let us know by crocking long and loud.

The display of fireworks lasted over an hour! Now that takes a lot of "firecracker."

Thanks to Nelson Graves, Everett Albright, Preston Parrett and some members of the fire department this display of fireworks was possible.

These men's wives managed the rest of this 4th of July yearly get together.

I surely was glad they invited me this year!

Louisville Orchestra to perform Beethoven's 9th onKET July 17th

The beautiful strains of Beethoven's Symphony No. 9 in D minor, Op. 125 resounded from the stage when KET sponsors Kentucky Center Presents The Louisville Orchestra in Concert at 9 a.m. Tuesday, July 17.

Sweet & Sour by Zi Graves

Today is July 4, 1990. There are so many things I never expected to live long enough to see and I certainly never expected nor wanted to still be around in the nineties but here I am anyway. There is quite a difference in the way we celebrate July 4th now and the way I celebrated it 70 years ago. Then it was an honor to stand by the wayside and watch a parade go by with our nation's flag held high with drums and bugles being the focal part of the band.

I remember when I was very small being one of these parades. It may have been the parade celebrating the ending of WWI or it may have been the 4th of July following it but mom took her brood to see it. As the beautiful flag passed by with drums and bugles close behind I remember how quiet we all got and my two oldest brothers who were mere children immediately stood at attention with hats in one hand and the other in a salute to the flag. All around us people commented on those two little boys standing at attention while the flag passed by. You see, we were taught our flag was to be honored. I've always thought it was the proudest thing in the world. Far prouder than any painting I've ever seen. A tiny little flag I could hold in my hand has always given me a thrill and even now when I see a flag flying high and waving in the breezes that blow over the land of the free, I get tears in my eyes.

All through my school years we repeated daily our pledge of allegiance to our flag and there was a flag hanging in every school room. When I was an aide in the first headbar class in our county one of the first things I taught those tiny tots was the pledge of allegiance and I hope I taught it well enough for them to still remember it.

Today my flag is lying here on a chair beside me in its neat fold for I can't hang it by myself but I can still see it and remember what it stands for, freedom!

My forefathers fought in the Revolutionary War for freedom from tyranny and it was there during the birth pangs of a nation that our flag was also brought forth as a symbol of this freedom. The first one was made by Betsy Ross in 1777 and had 13 stars to represent the 13 states involved in the fight for freedom and 13 stripes. It was hand sewn with white stars on dark blue background in the upper left corner and 7 red alternating with 6 white stripes filling out the rest of the rectangle. I'm quite sure nary a one of those cold bedraggled soldiers ever once thought of using this piece of cloth as a covering for their almost naked bodies nor to burn it to warm their frozen fingers with. Their inspiration to fight was on when they could still see their colors flying high. When Francis Scott Key was a prisoner in the bowels of a ship at Ft. Henry on the Potomac River, he listened all night to the bombardment of

Hysinger at Joseph Baldwin Academy

Lee Hysinger of Mt. Vernon is one of 221 specially selected junior high students nationwide participating in the sixth Joseph Baldwin Academy for Eminent Young Scholars at Northeast Missouri State University, Kirksville.

The Joseph Baldwin Academy is designed to enrich the learning process of young gifted and talented students by challenging them with a college curriculum. Students who are completing the seventh or eighth grade by June, 1990, score in the top three percent on a nationally normed achievement test and are nominated by their school's principal or counselor are eligible. Lee, the son of Mary Jane Hysinger and the late Lee Earl Hysinger, was chosen from more than 3,000 nominees on the basis of his/her formal application, school transcripts and score on an additional qualifying standardized examination.

During the three-week sessions of the Academy, June 16-July 6, or July 14-August 3, Lee will study in one of 13 intensive courses offered.

Eaton at Laurel Vo-Tech School

John Gilbert Eaton III enrolled in June in Drafting, Laurel County State Vocational Technical School. He is a recent graduate of Rockcastle County High School and chose the vocational school setting rather than college. He says he has especially enjoyed the computer aided drafting. The CAD system enables the student to execute the drawing on the computer which in turn does a print-out.

After a month's break in July, John will re-enroll July 27 for the 1990-91 school year. He is undecided whether he will concentrate on architectural or mechanical drafting.

Williams passes engineering exam

Troy K. Williams, son of Wendell and Linda Williams of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon, has passed the Engineering in Training Exam. The exam is given once a year by the State Board for Professional Engineers and Land Surveyors and is the first step in becoming a registered professional engineer.

Williams is currently employed as a civil engineer with the Soil Conservation Service in Johnson City, Tennessee, member of the Tennessee National Guard and attending graduate school at East Tennessee

State University.

Harms graduates from Orlando training center

Cynthia Leona Alcorn Harms graduated recently from the Orlando Vocational Training Center in Orlando, Florida.

Ms. Harms completed the surgical technology program and is currently employed at Florida Hospital where she assists the surgeon in the operating room during surgical procedures.

In addition, she passed the national certification test on March 10 and is now a certified surgical technologist.

Congratulations, Cynthia.

Five RCHS students at Foster Music Camp

Five Rockcastle County students were among 400 young people attending the 54th season of Eastern Kentucky University's Stephen Collins Foster Music Camps.

Local students attending Rockcastle County High School studying voice with Joanna Ward, who took part in the Foster Vocal Music Camp, include:

Matt Bryant, the son of Mike and Carol Bryant of Mt. Vernon; Shawn Burdette, the son of Glenn and Audrey Burdette of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; Theresa Lee Burdette, the daughter of Gary and Linda Burdette of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; April Kendrick, the daughter of Bobby and Alma Kendrick of Mt. Vernon and David Whit, the son of Lawson and Linda Whit of Route 1, Brodhead.

While attending the vocal music portion of the camp, students participated in a recital of solos and duets, participated in the Gala Concert of Friday, June 29, and attended daily vocal production sessions.

Students could participate in concert choir and to combine choreography and singing in the show choir section of the camp.

The Vocal Music Camp is one of four camping options offered each year as part of the Stephen Collins Foster Music Camp at EKVU.

The Middle School Instrumental Camp ran from June 10-15; the Piano Camp ran from June 17-23, and the High School Instrumental Camp ran from June 17-29.

More than 80 students took part in this year's Vocal portion of the camp. Eastern Kentucky University serves more than 14,200 students on its 350-acre Richmond campus, throughout its 22-county extended service region and beyond.

EKVU will hold registration/information meetings locally

Eastern Kentucky University will hold a registration/information session at 7-8:00 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 16, in Mt. Vernon to share information about EKVU academic programs, answer students' questions and register students for fall semester extended

Rockcastle's new classroom

Reporter: Danny Sutton
Did you know Rockcastle County Schools have a new classroom. It is in the Rockcastle County Hospital.

We have had school at the hospital for a long time, but this is the first year we have our own classroom.

There are six students who go to school in the new class. They oldest is seventeen and the youngest is five. We have our own teacher and a speech teacher too. We take field trips and have gone to the zoo, airport, farm store, florist, library and shopping. We had a science fair and over eighty people attended. I am learning to ask questions and write about people after I interview them. I wrote my own autobiography too. We are looking forward to the next school year.

Interview

By Danny Sutton
Did you know there is a speech therapist at the hospital? Her name is Linda Peavie and she has a master's degree in communications disorders. She graduated from Eastern Ky. University. Ms. Peavie loves her job and likes to help other people communicate better. She has helped me to talk more to other people, ask questions and be more assertive. She does a good job.

My Autobiography

Danny Sutton
My name is Danny Sutton. I am 17 years old. I live in a respiratory care center. I have been on a ventilator for eleven years. I love school a lot. I can do stuff that other people can't do like paints with my mouth. I like helping people and doing odd jobs. I also like going outside and reading about animals and nature. I would like to know more about space and airplanes. I would really like to ride in airplanes someday. I like flowers too. I would like to drive an eighteen wheeler. I like the way Mexico looks. I also like the way the police work hard to clean up crime all over the world. One day, I would like to be a computer whiz.

Destination Graduation Summer students take exciting EKU fieldtrip

On June 27, 1990, the students of Destination Graduation at RCHS traveled to EKU. The English students heard from Dr. William Sutton, head of the English Dept. at EKU. Dr. Sutton grew up in Laurel County and has relatives in Rockcastle County. While we were there, Dr. Sutton emphasized how important reading and writing are. He said that if things are worth remembering, they are worth writing about. We talked about how writing lets us relive experiences. Dr. Sutton read parts from several of his stories and told us the background of the stories, such as how finding his great grandmother's grave encouraged him to write a story. The math and science students went

MSU Hosts Soar Program

More than 360 new students and their parents attended a recent session of Morehead State University's Summer Orientation, Advising and Registration (SOAR) program. The session is designed to assist new students in registering for classes and to provide information about the many services available at MSU. Vivian, left, and Angela Mullins of Mt. Vernon, received directions from Dennis McKay and Ruth Ann Harney, residence hall directors. Two other SOAR sessions are planned for July 14 and 21. Students considering MSU this fall are encouraged to call MSU's Admissions Office at 606-783-2000. (MSU photo by Eric Shindelbower) the shops where at twilight the American flag was flying high so at the break of day he was peering out of a port hole to see if he could see through the smoke of battle if that flag was still flying high. That's when the legend of Star Spangled Banner was written with the first agonizing words being "Oh, say can you see," I won't repeat the whole song but he wrote of the proud hailing of the flag. That was in the War of 1812 I think. At that time our flag had only 12 stars to its collection. As each new state is accepted into the union, a new star is added. If memory serves me right Kentucky was the fifteenth star.

So much for a little synopsis of American history.

Now it wasn't only a fancy piece of cloth with pretty colors that Betsy Ross so painstakingly sewed together and Francis Scott Key looked for at the break of day, it was the American flag, the symbol of the freedom being fought for. It was to be looked up to not down on. It was designed to wave proudly over head and not to be trampled underfoot. When our sons and daughters are asked to fight for our country our flag always accompanies them and when a new strong hold is captured, the flag flying high above the battle field is the first sign of victory. How many of our treasured sons lost their lives while repeatedly charging the hill in two days during WWII to raise our country's flag on top so the rest of the force could see it and be encouraged, will never accurately be known.

I wonder if the dissidents of today had been there through all that agony if they would be looking upward to see the flag raised or would be using another one of them to sop the blood from their feet.

I also wonder as I sit quietly in my croquet corner half heartedly watching the tv program of fireworks displays if these people participating know the significance of all that noise and the red, white and blue colors exploding in the sky. I wonder if they ever think of that noise as being the same kind of frightening sounds heard at Breed and Bunker Hills as our patriots watched the Red Coats come marching up the hill holding rifles with fixed bayonets and cannons firing in the background to clear their way. At that time in history there was no red white and blue flag flying over them but the courage to fight for freedom was in each heart.

I am an descendant of one of those patriots and would be honored to carry the flag that has waved so gloriously between earth and sky over my country for more than two hundred years as a demonstration to our law makers as enforcers that this beautiful masterpiece of red white and blue cloth was not designed for a floor mat nor for kindling.

I deeply resent the implication it is only a piece of cloth and anyone has a right to do as they please with it. If this be so then my forefather has fought in vain. For to me freedom is not to destroy but to build.

If 10,000 of us who love our country would march into Washington D.C. with our flags held high our weak law makers and enforcers may be awakened to what our country and flag really stands for freedom for the honorable as well as those without honor.

The old adage of "the squeaking wheel gets the grease" has been proven true repeatedly and it seems in the past several years the squeaking of the dissidents have gotten all the grease. Now it is time for the wheels of honor to get the attention.

The fourth of July is now over for me and I've gotten a few of my gripes out in the open. Rod, Helen and Birch arrived in time for my tall grandson to hang my flag on my porch where it rippled softly in the breeze the rest of the day. It was also a topic of conversation and we all agreed it was a symbol of honor and was at its prettiest when it was waving over a peaceful countryside.

The meeting will be held at the Rockcastle County High School.

During the first two weeks in August, EKU will hold similar information meetings in 29 Kentucky communities across the region.

Fall semester extended campus classes begin Thursday, August 23—the same day regular day and evening classes start at EKU.

In addition to answering questions about courses that Eastern plans to deliver throughout its service area, Eastern's representatives will be listening to suggestions for future classes that may be offered.

"Faculty representatives will be at each session to help students who may have questions," said Dr. Marion Odgen, director of the EKU Division of Extended Programs.

"And we'll also be set up to register students quickly and easily for fall semester extended campus classes," he said.

This fall, Eastern will offer more than 150 courses at 30 off-campus locations, ranging from Fort Knox to Pineville.

Communities scheduled for registration/information sessions include: Beattyville, Berea, Booneville, Corbin, Cumberland, Danville, Frankfort, Harlan, Harrodsburg, Harlan, Hazard, Hyden, Irvine, Jackson, Lancaster, Liberty, London, McKee, Manchester, Middlesboro, Monticello, Mount Vernon, Pineville, Somerset, Stanford, Stanton, Whitley City, Williamsburg and Winchester.

Eastern Kentucky University serves more than 14,200 students on its 350-acre Richmond campus, throughout its 22-county extended service area, and beyond.

students who were nominated by Mr. Pybas. The selection is made by those who will be in charge of the Lions Band, based on tech needed instrumentation. The primary function of the band is to represent Kentucky at the International Lions Convention held this year in St. Louis.

Kathy met with other Lionsband members at Murray State University on July 7th for pre-trip rehearsals. On July 10th, the band, along with its directors and consultant chaperones departed in chartered buses for St. Louis. In St. Louis, the band will attend a Connecticut Lions sponsored teenage party. Wednesday was devoted to convention activities and marching in the convention parade. While in St. Louis, the band will tour and participate in major attractions of St. Louis, including zoological gardens, Grant's Farm, the Zoo, the top of the arch, Union Station, and Six Flags over Mid-America. The band will depart St. Louis very early on July 11th, arriving back at Murray State that afternoon.

The fun, inspiration and educational experiences gained by these band members will be long lasting, and our Mt. Vernon Lions should be commended for their efforts in sponsoring youth from our county in such an outstanding activity.

to the computer lab where they played educational computer games. Dr. Peele told them about the planetarium they would visit in the afternoon.

All of the students then toured The Richmond Register, where they saw a newspaper being put together and printed, the group's picture and an article will appear in The Richmond Register soon.

Finally, the group went to the Hummel Planetarium, the second largest planetarium in the world, for a showing of the stars and planet. There we felt we were outside gazing at the stars; sometime it was as if we were flying through space.

All in all, the trip was educational yet entertaining, and the students enjoyed it very much. Appreciation is given to the U.S. Dept. of Education and the BellSouth Foundation for funding of Destination Graduation.

Thousands of people attended the annual Old Joe Clark Festival in Renfro Valley this weekend. The large crowd was entertained by the likes of The Lewis Family, Bill Sky Family, Jim and Jesse. Among the visitors were Chief Little Horse, great grandson of Chief Crazy Horse, one of the three chiefs at the Battle of the Little Big Horn. He and his wife Judy are shown with Renfro Valley Folk employee Renee Wray.

Two pot patches found, destroyed

Two plots of marijuana were found and destroyed by Sheriff Shirley Smith and deputies the past few days. A small amount of "pot" was found on Old Conway road in the Scaffold Cane area and destroyed. A total of 76 plants were found and destroyed in the Sand Hill section of the county, Sheriff Smith said. Charges are pending.

Charges are pending on a county man when a small amount of marijuana was found inside his house. Charges await grand jury action.

Florida woman dies in I-75 wreck; 5th since June 10th

A Florida woman was killed and her passenger was injured Sunday morning when the woman lost control of the 1988 Ford Escort she was driving and it overturned, Kentucky State Police at London said.

Yvonne Lascher, 20, of Argyle, Florida was pronounced dead at 2:05 a.m. at Rockcastle Hospital by Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell, who said that Miss Lascher, died from massive internal bleeding.

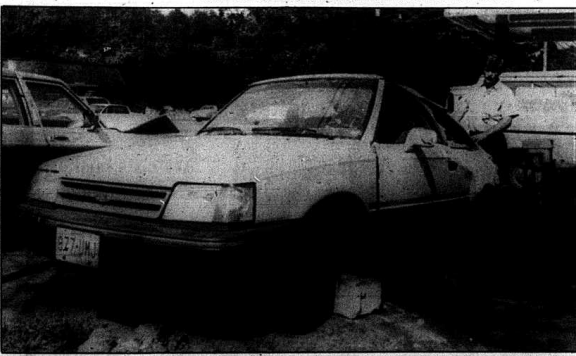

Her passenger, Ron Garza, 20, also of Argyle, who was Miss Lascher's fiance, was treated for a broken collarbone and later he released.

Police said Garza was wearing a seat belt, but that they could not determine whether Miss Lascher had her's on or not.

Miss Lascher was the fifth person to die since June 10th on Interstate 75, all of the deaths occurred within a two mile radius of each other. Police said the accident occurred at 12:05 a.m. about 8 miles south of Mount Vernon. The car was southbound when it ran off the east side of the road. Ms. Lascher apparently tried to steer back onto the road but lost control of the vehicle, and it flipped. The car came to rest on the median.

Miss Lacher's body was thrown into the fast lane of the northbound lane after she was ejected through the rear window of the car.

A Florida woman died in a single car accident on I-75 Sunday morning. It was the fifth fatality in Rockcastle County on south 75 since June 10th. Marvin Mink of Town and Country Chevrolet looks at the damaged sustained in the 1988 Ford Escort.

Five deputy judges chosen

There will no longer be a single deputy county judge/executive in Rockcastle County.

At a called meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court July 3, County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins paralled out the position to five countymen who will serve one month each on a rotating basis beginning this month.

The July judge will be Bobby Wilson of Livingston, who was chosen to start since he drives a school bus and would not always be available after school starts, according to Judge Mullins.

The remaining four will be set in order to check their availability.

The other four are: Billy Riddle of Brothead, Joe Adams of Mt. Vernon and Teddy Brock and Alonzo McCollum, who will represent the magistrates.

The deputy judge will receive $100 a month when they serve.

The court postponed until the next meeting a decision on the purchase of new voting machines for the county. Probable suppliers will be the Kentuckiana Election Service Co., which sells DRE voting machines.

The units will cost $3,000 each, and the court will delay a decision until it is determined if it is better to buy a few and the remainder later, or to a rent-to-buy contract.

The court must change voting machines because a federal law now mandates that all machines be accessible to the handicapped. Rockcastle's are not.

The county will need 14 for the precincts and one for backup should a machine become inoperable during an election.

Just a rumour

A rumor going around that half of the state's new 6 percent sales tax will expire at the end of the year is just wishful thinking, so says a state official.

Gilmore Dutton of the Legislative Research Commission said the rumor got started several weeks ago after the appearance of a letter in the Lexington Herald-Leader.

The letter referred to the 3-cent sales tax enacted in 1961 to pay a 30-year bond issue for a bonus to veterans of World War I, World War II and Korea.

Now that the 30 years are up and the bonds have been paid, the tax should expire, the letter said. But Dutton said it was not that easy.

"Nothing in the law deals with a time limit on sales tax," he said. "There is no sunset provision."

Medicaid pay up

Kentucky doctors and dentists who treat Medicaid patients will receive their first fee increase in a decade.

The 1990 General Assembly allotted an extra $18 million for physician reimbursements and $3 million more for dentists in the fiscal year that began Sunday.

Funding was $99.5 million for physician reimbursements and $12.2 million for the dental program in the last fiscal year.

The extra funds may prompt more doctors and dentists to treat the poor and handicapped, particularly children, covered by Medicaid, according to the state Department for Medicaid Services.

Birthday party at Wildie

Ballard Parsons turns 50

By: Dr. John Parsons

For me, Wildie was a wonderful place to grow up. Many things there made it so, but, one of the best parts was, and still is, Ballard Parsons and his store.

As a boy, I went to Ballard's store every day except Sunday when it was closed. More often than not, I was there when it closed at 6 or 7 o'clock.

Some of my favorite memories are the discussions about the Cincinnati Reds in the summer or the Kentucky Wildcats in the winter. We were all fans and we were always optimistic, but, more often than not, we were disappointed. At the store, you could also hear about the weather, about tobacco from the condition of the crop to its selling price, about cattle-hogs-politics, and just gossip. On Saturday, you could always see somebody you knew who had moved away to Ohio for work and had come back home for the week end. They always stopped by Ballard's store for a little while. Now it seems like most of them have moved back here to live.

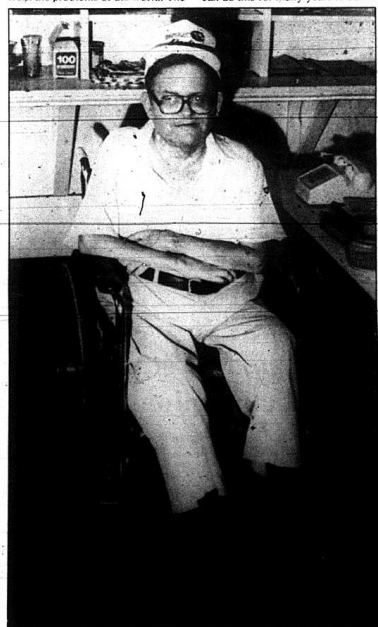

This summer, Ballard became 50 years old and we gave him a birthday party in Wildie. No one has ever deserved a birthday party more. Ballard has been a friend and adviser to four generations of people from Wildie. I fall somewhere in the middle of this. His advice on farming is sought by everyone down there and used when given. He knows when to cut hay, when to set tobacco and when to sell livestock. He somehow knows all of this without ever leaving his store, and he is rarely wrong.

Ballard became ill with polio 38 years ago and was left confined to a wheelchair. He was not left disabled though. Soon after his year in the hospital, his Dad bought the grocery store and Ballard began running it. He graduated from high school with the aid of a homebound teacher and, if he had so chosen, he could have attended and done well at any college in the country. He can do math in his head quicker and with more accuracy than anyone I have ever known. He's the best checker player I have ever seen and he's a pretty fair Rook player. But, one thing is for sure, he can't sing a lick! I know this for a fact because I've heard him sing before.

If at all possible, I go to Ballard's store every Saturday. For a while, my wife didn't understand why I just liked to go and sit there and loaf. But, lately, she has begun to understand that Ballard's store is a constant in my life. It is something that has been there for as long as I can remember and it is reassuring to know that I can go there and pretty much get away from the problems of the world. The world looks better out of Ballard's front door than anywhere else I have ever been.

There is much more to Ballard than his store, though. He is my cousin, and my friend. I'm passing this friendship down to my daughters because they too enjoy going to see Ballard on Saturday and sometimes just loafing with him. I truly hope we can do this for many years to come.

About 150 people attended Ballard Parsons 50th birthday party in Wildie on June 30th. Danny Ford presented Ballard with a pewter cup from Rep. Harold Rogers, a Ky. Colonel from Gov. Wallace Wilkinson, and a letter from him. Ballard also received an autographed picture of Rick Pitino, a card from Rick Pitino, an autographed picture of the 1990 Ky. Wildcat basketball team, a card from Marge Schott and an honorary contract from the Cincinnati Reds.

13-year-old all stars shine; gain berth in district championship; other all stars lose

Out of the three Rockcastle County all-star teams that took the field Monday evening, only one came out a winner.

The Rockcastle 13-year-olds, coached by Tony Todd and Gary Scott, demolished the visiting Clay County all-stars 36-5 at Thacker Field in Brodhead.

The win will allow the Rockcastle 13-year-olds to advance out of their Area 3 Tournament and take on Area 5 Monday July 16 at 8 p.m. in Barbourville. Rockcastle will play the winner of the Middlesboro and Knox County game scheduled for this week.

But for the Rockcastle 11-and-12-year-olds, they were not so fortunate.

The Rockcastle 11-and-12-year-old all-stars, coached by Keith Saylor and Glen Gentry, traveled to Clay County Monday and were handily defeated by Clay County by a score of 14-1.

But the elimination from the tournament worked in Rockcastle's favor. It now allows Rockcastle to compete in their own 11-and-12-year-old invitational tournament to be held at Thacker Field starting tonight at 5:30. See story in this week's Signal for more information.

The Rockcastle 14-and-15-year-olds were also in Clay County Monday and they, like the 11-and-12-year-olds, also fell short in a 5-0 loss to the Clay County all-stars. Coached by Paul Kirby and James "Bear" Bradley, the Rockcastle 14-and-15-year-old all-stars managed only four hits during the ballgame.

Gating the hits for Rockcastle were Curtis Cotton with two, Mikhail Shaffer with one and Gregg Bowman with the other.

Pitching for Clay County was Jason Stewart who also defeated the Rockcastle County High School baseball team earlier this year.

But again it was the Rockcastle 13-year-old all-stars that came out the only winner in Monday's opener of all-star action.

The 13 year olds fired up the basepaths early by knocking in eight runs in the first inning and then with a grand slam homerun by Jason Payne, pushed in eight more runs in the second inning.

And Clay County knew it was going to be a long day when Rockcastle came back with nine more runs in the third inning.

A lead-off homerun by Eric McKinney in the fourth inning started another rally which led to six more runs.

And yet more in the fifth inning

Invitational

For the first time in county history, the Rockcastle County Little League Program will be sponsoring a baseball invitational tournament this weekend at Thacker Field.

The tournament will consist of 11-and-12-year-olds from Rockcastle, London, Somerset and Corbin. Sponsors say as many as 8 teams could be playing in the tournament. The pairings have not been announced.

The tournament will begin at 5:30 on Thursday and run through Saturday. Admission will be $1 per person.

Basketball physicals set for July 21

Any girl or boy basketball player in high school that plans on playing basketball next year will be getting their physicals on July 21.

The bus will leave the high school at 8:45 a.m. for the UK Sports Medicine Clinic in Lexington. Anyone who misses must pay for their own.

If you have any questions, call David Perkins.

Girls' basketball team events season at 2 and 2

The Rockcastle County girls basketball team evened their mark at two and two for the year with a loss last Tuesday in Lexington.

Rockcastle, who has four games remaining in the summer league, lost to Nicholas County by a score of 31-21.

Scoring for Rockcastle were April Burton with the high of 10; Cindy McCauley, 4; Karla Bullock, 3 and Beth Amyx and Jennifer Thacker both with 2.

Rockcastle County High School head football coach Tom Larkey is shown leading exercises with some of the youngsters that attended the youth league football camp this past week. During the week, Larkey and his staff instructed the youths on the fundamentals of football. The camp ended Wednesday.

Joseph Ray Wagers, 4, of Livingston, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kirby and Dona Mae Wagers, won his first archery trophy Sunday, July 1 at Indian Creek Bowhunters Club. He placed 3rd and Ray placed 1st in their divisions.

"13-Year-Olds Win"

talled the scoreboard to read 36 runs for Rockcastle which could have easily been mistaken as a football score.

Give credit to the Rockcastle 13-year-olds hitting but also give credit to their pitching.

Scotty Cotton held the mound for Rockcastle and put in a good day's work by pitching the full five innings and only giving up five runs to get the win.

So once again, the Rockcastle County 13-year-old all-stars will advance and play Monday, July 16 at 8 p.m. in Barbourville.

The 9-and-10-year-olds and 10-year-olds of Rockcastle played at Science Hill Wednesday night. Look for their photos and results of their play in next week's Signal.

Cards of Thanks

Card of Thanks

The family of William Lewis Coffey wishes to thank everyone for their prayers and support during our loss. Thanks for the food, the visits and comforting words that were spoken. We would like to thank the ambulance service, the staff at the Rockcastle Hospital, Bros. Ron Roberts and Fountain Jones, the singers, the pallbearers, the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home, and anyone else who helped in anyway. May God bless you.

Card of Thanks

The family of Aris Caudill wishes to express our gratitude and deep appreciation for the kindnesses and condolences that were shown to our family during the illness and death of our loved one. We thank everyone for their prayers, flowers, cards, visits and food. We extend special thanks to Watson Funeral Home for their concern and efficient service, as well as to Bro. Danny Grider for his comforting words and support, and to Bro. Don Thompson and the Fairview Church of Christingers for their beautiful songs. We also thank the Hospice Organization, the third-floor nursing staff at the Ephrussi-McDowell Regional Medical Center in Danville and Drs. Finley Hendrickson and Colin R. Raitiere. During the extended illness it was a blessing to know that the best of care was given. Once again, our heartfelt thanks. The thoughtfulness in our time of loss will always be lovingly remembered.

From Thelma Childress family

We would like to thank each and everyone who helped us during mom's ordeal, especially the emergency room staff, the nurses, doctors, x-ray, lab, respiratory department, Rockcastle Ambulance Service and special thanks to Vernon and Larry and SteyCare, who flew mom to St. Joseph, and the support of the emergency room clerk and switchboard operators. We would have never gotten through this without the help and support from everyone.

Thanks from Kate and Willis and family

Mom's doing real good now, she's in Lexington and wanting to get moved closer to home more everyday. She has asked me to have her address put in the paper where she is at so all of her friends will know where to send her a card or letter. She is always asking about everybody she knows. She still needs everyone's prayers.

Word has it that there is still opposition to the mascot name at Mt. Vernon Elementary School.

There is in fact, a petition circulating requesting that the Red Devil mascot be changed.

To me this is one of those classic cases of, the more people make something out of it, the worse it is going to get.

It is absolutely ridiculous to think that the Red Devil mascot causes any harm. The only harm caused is the hoopla raised by parents when they start objecting to something that has been in place for years and years.

I can understand, to a certain extent, why Christian people may not want the Red Devil as a mascot, but I also don't believe that anyone has come out of Mt. Vernon school worshipping the Devil because of the mascot and I seriously doubt if students even thought about the significance of the mascot until some people, mainly adults, became opposed to it.

Let's face it folks, you can read something into everything and the more fuss made about the mascot will only encourage children to wonder what it is that makes the Red Devil something that people would even talk about.

I mean for years it was never discussed and my parents had five graduates from Mt. Vernon and still a couple more to get through and the subject was never discussed at my house. Not once.

I never thought about it, my parents never thought about it and my four sisters never thought about it as something other than a name. So it is not as though it had a overwhelming significance, but I'm sure that if there had been a big fuss raised about it, it would have become an issue to us and to most the students and parents at the school.

This is one situation that would be best just left alone. It is not worth, the trouble that some folks are going to. Not by a long shot. There are too many other problems in our minds that should have priority in our minds—you know the homeless, world hunger, the increase in crime, etc. just to name a few piddling problems.

A friend of mine helped put it in perspective when they suggested that if the mascot name were changed, then the principal of the school should also have to change his name -- the principal is John Hale.

Ruth Gallif of Rochester, Ind.: John and Esther Hill, Lexington; Kenneth and Anna Carey, Crossville, Tenn. and Charles and Anna Noland and daughter, Teresa Schoberg and daughter, Cayla, from Independence, Ky.

From Berea were: Bill and Beverly Brock, Brian and Tara; Mrs. Barbara Croucher; Curtis and Margaret Reppert and son, Brian; Belinda Reppert; Wanda Wren and grandson, Bill Wren; Allis Reppert; Darryl and Kristie Chasteen; Rickie Adams; Joyce Seals and Kim; Wayne and Carolyn Chasteen.

Also attending were Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph Burdette of Reno Valley and Steve and Delores Albright, Rebecca, Mike and Jessica, of Brodhead, Ronnie, Helen and Ronnie Dale, Reppert of Conway; Tip, Florence and Melody Reppert, Hubert and Anna Lee Chasteen Janet and Sherry Ridgell and Darlene Abney and daughter, Tammy Church, all of Scafield; C. J. and Sue Alexander and twin daughter, Jody and Jamie of Brush Creek.

From the Fairview vicinity were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander and Kenneth; Gerald and Irene Alexander, Cody and Courtney; Rex and Jewel Davidson, Jenia and Jeremy; Cletus Peters, Mike Peters and son, Chris.

Visitors were our precious Aunt, Edith Mullins of Snider and her daughter, Lucille Ponder and granddaughter, Glennys Pundling of Lambert Road and Elizabeth Smith (a friend of Melody Reppert) of Lancaster.

Our reunion day was also Curtis and Mrs. Reppert's birthday so we sang "Happy Birthday" to him. We wish him many happy returns of the day.

New recommendations for canning jams and jellies are now available

Fruits and berries now in season can be made into a variety of sweet spreads to be enjoyed later in the year.

New instructions for making jams, jellies, preserves, conserves, marmalades and fruit butters are available from the County Extension Service. The instructions offer canning guidelines and recipes based on recent research conducted by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Some of the best news is that making these products at home is no longer an all-day chore. Commercial pectin products in liquid or powder form may be used, reducing the cooking time to minutes.

Even those trying to restrict calories or sugar in their diets can enjoy sweet spreads. Jellies and jams that contain modified pectin, gelatin or gums may be made with non-caloric sweeteners.

The new guidelines caution against the use of paraffin or wax seals. Even though sugar helps preserve jellies and jams, molds still can grow on the surface of these products. Research now indicates that this mold which people usually just scrape off the surface may be more harmful than once thought. Some jars of jelly having surface mold growth have been found to contain mycotoxins. Mycotoxins are known to cause cancer in animals, and their effects on humans still are being researched.

Because of possible mold contamination, paraffin or wax seals are no longer recommended for any sweet spread including jellies.

To prevent growth of molds and loss of good flavor or color, all jams and jellies should be processed in a boiling-water canner for 10 minutes. This process is safe for all elevations in Kentucky. However, if you know that your elevation is less than 1,000 feet, a five-minute processing time may be used. If a five-minute process is used, the jars must be sterilized by boiling for 10 minutes before they are filled.

Some instructions from commercial sources recommend a 1/8th inch headspace and no process, instead calling for inverting the hot jar for five minutes to achieve a vacuum seal. Inverting the jars, however, is not a reliable way to seal them.

A 1/4 inch headspace should be used and jars should be processed. If mold forms on your jams and jellies, the entire contents of the jars should be discarded.

Reppert Reunion

The tenth annual Reppert reunion was held on Sunday, June 10 at the Berea Memorial Park.

Members of the late Eugene and Liddie Catherine (Mullins) Reppert enjoyed a lovely day of fellowship together. Since Dad and Mom are gone, we don't get to see each other as often as we used to. But we sure do enjoy ourselves when we do get together.

The day was beautiful, sunny with a cool breeze, just perfect for the occasion. We made lots of pictures and did a lot of hugging, talking and laughing.

Table grace was given by Earl Sorah, such a wonderful prayer of thanks and love. The food, always, was delicious. We are blessed with good cooks.

Six of the Reppert children attended this year: Anna Lee, Tip, Ruth, Mary Jane, Myrtle and Dorothy. We all certainly miss Everett and his two wonderful brothers who really loved the reunions. Ira, bless his heart, would say to me, "I just can't hardly wait until June." While they were living, they tried to get everyone they could to attend church service on Sunday morning. This year, two sisters attended, Myrtle and Dorothy, and Dorothy's son, Michael, and Mary Jane's daughter, Esther Belcher and daughter, Amanda. They all certainly do love the Fairview church. They enjoy seeing everyone.

Visitors from Ohio were: Myrtle Wilson of Amberly; Earl and Mary Jane Sorah, Elyria; Dorothy Pogorelec and son, Michael Greer, New London; Jim and Johane Harwood and infant son, Wiley, and Carol Knapp and daughter Traci, Wellington; Esther Belcher and daughter, Amanda, Elyria and Jim and Georgia McCall, Springboro.

Also attending were: Philip and Shown above is the present home of the Renfro Valley Post Office that will be vacated next week and relocated into the Renfro Village Complex. The post office has been in existence since 1940 and has seen five postmasters.

New home for Renfro Valley Post Office

The Renfro Valley Post Office is going to have a new home.

The post office will be moved to the newly-constructed Renfro Village.

According to the current postmaster, Norma Mullins, the Renfro Valley Post Office first opened for business in 1940.

At that time, it was located in a corner of the Renfro Valley Lodge and the first postmaster (or postmistress as it was called then) was Virginia Crawford Lair (Mrs. John Lair). This was the first of many important positions she was to occupy in the growth and development of the then brand new Renfro Valley Settlement, Mrs. Mullins reported.

Mrs. Lair's assistant was Miss Lida Cook, a cousin of the Lair family. From the beginning, the post office did a landslide business, thanks to the many friends and fans of the Renfro Valley shows.

Across its counters passed millions of issues of the "Renfro Valley Bugle," thousands of hymn books, keepsake albums, almanacs and other souvenir booklets, as well as records and tapes of the Renfro Valley radio shows and performers.

The "Renfro Valley, Ky." postmark, stamped on untold letters, postcards and business correspondence was a treasured souvenir in its own right.

But that was just the out-going mail. Coming in by the truckloads were hundreds of mail bags containing letters from listeners requesting tickets, information, photos and Bugle subscriptions.

The letters and contributions received for the annual Mountain Children's Christmas Party alone could have filled a whole fleet of mail trucks. The party is no longer held.

"But, most valued of all perhaps, were the letters from satisfied listeners and visitors who had found in Renfro Valley the truth, the music, and the images that recalled for them their own happy days of home and childhood," Mrs. Mullins stated. To know that the simple sincerity of all Renfro Valley endeavors was enjoyed and appreciated by millions of loyal fans was, and continues to be, the greatest satisfaction and our real reason for being," she added.

There have been only 4 postmasters in all those years and each one has served efficiently and courteously. They were, in addition to Mrs. Lair, Dorothy Mullins Kelsey (1951-1976); Betty Van Winkle (1977-1983) and Mrs. Mullins.

Bowles/Howard Homecoming

The Bowles/Howard Homecoming was held Sunday July 1 at the home of Charles and Darlena Bowles. The day was spent relaxing. There was a horseshoe game going, a volleyball game, children playing in the creek and a great delicious meal was served. The 52 people in attendance were as follows:

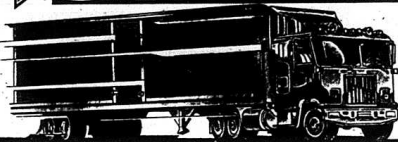

George and Della Bowles; Harold Bowles; Shirley Bowles and son, Brian; Charles and Darlena Bowles land daughter, Sabrina; Clarence and Martha Owens and daughter, Crissy; James and Delina Bowles and children, Renea and J.J.; Henry and Sandra Bowles and daughter, Ashlee; Debbie Bowles; Troy and Janet Sexton; Lula Mae Anderson and niece, Michelle, all of Orlando, Larry and Deloris Warren and daughter, Christina and her friend, Melinda, all of Nelsonville, Ohio, Earl and Mae Howard and grandsons, Tim and Linda Robinson, and son, Clifford (Cont. to B8)
