Fall fire season now underway

The official Fall Fire Hazard Season begins Oct. 1 and runs through Dec. 15, according to Marvin Stone, Rockcastle Forest Ranger.

The danger of forest fires during this period is tremendously greater than during the summer months.

For this reason, it is against the law to burn anything within 150 feet of any woods or brushland before 4:30 p.m. during Fire Season.

Other laws require that the burning area be carefully cleared around "before" lighting the fire, and that someone be with the fire at all times until it is completely extinguished.

One common material burned in the autumn is fallen leaves. Forestry officials encourage people to dispose of leaves by methods other than by burning.

Other possible methods, depending on the amount of leaves, would include composting, shredding with a mulching type mower, or simply scattering the leaves among other leaves in the woods.

If a person must burn leaves or other materials, the Division of Forestry urges that a few safety measures be followed. First, be sure to know and obey the fire laws and check to be sure that the burning does not violate Air Pollution laws or local ordinances. Next, do not burn when it is extremely dry or when there is any wind and wait as late in the day as possible. If a large amount of material is to be burned, do not try to burn it all at once. Instead, burn only small amounts at a time so the fire is manageable and can be quickly extinguished if necessary. Finally, be sure to have enough water, tools and people on hand to control the fire.

By knowing and obeying a few simple fire laws, people can avoid having to go to court for violating these laws and possibly paying a heavy fine. In addition, by obeying the laws and following a few simple safety measures people can avoid causing a wildfire which will damage our natural resources and possibly threaten other property or even lives.

Over ten thousand people were in Renfro Valley this past weekend for the annual Lasses Makin' and Country Music Festival. Larry Townsend sold thousands of gallons of homemade sorghum which was made right on the festival grounds. The next special event at Renfro Valley is October 20-21.

Renfro Gospel Quartet Convention Oct. 20-21

Outstanding gospel concerts, a talent search, and a unique candlelight sing-a-long are scheduled for Renfro Valley's Quartet Convention, October 20-21.

The Quartet Convention talent search beginning Saturday 10 a.m. will kick off this special weekend of gospel music. Participating gospel groups and soloists will perform in Renfro Valley's Old Barn before a resident scout from Renfro Valley as well as representatives from recording studios and radio stations. The winner of the talent search will perform on the 4 p.m. Mountain Gospel Jubilee, Renfro Valley's weekly gospel music show. Many prizes will be awarded. Registration fee is $50 for a group and $25 for a soloist. General admission to the talent search is $3 for adults, half-price for children 12 and under.

The Quartet Convention will feature a 1 p.m. concert on Saturday by The Remmers and The Isaacs. These groups will present gospel music ranging in styles from bluegrass gospel to light contemporary. Both groups are families and are known nationally for their outstanding musical talents and uplifting concerts. Tickets for this concert are $8 for adults, half-price for children 12 and under.

At 4 p.m. convention guests are invited to attend Renfro Valley's Mountain Gospel Jubilee to not only see the winner of the talent search but to also enjoy gospel music by well-known artists such as David Marshall,

Talent search will be held

formerly of the Marshall Family, and Dale Ann Bradley, a lady with a voice that is unforgettable.

The convention will continue at 11:30 p.m. on Saturday night with "Candles at Midnight," a very unique and inspiring candlelight sing-a-long with only the flames of guests-candles illuminating Renfro Village. A quartet will lead old-fashioned hymns accapella style from Freedom Church in Renfro Village. A prayer for peace will be offered. This special service will create an unmistakable bond between all who participate. No admission will be charged to this event but all guests are encouraged to bring a candle or they can purchase one from the Candle Shop in Renfro Village.

Renfro Valley's Quartet Convention will present an exciting concert Sunday at 3 p.m. in the New Barn featuring the world's most popular gospel quartet, the Kingsmen. For over 33 years, the Kingsmen have been setting the standard for excellence in southern gospel music with their energetic stage presence, heart-warming songs and powerful message. The Kingsmen have won numerous Dove Awards from the Gospel Music Association and have received honors from the Singing News fan awards in every possible category.

With the Renfro Valley Gospel Quartet singing prior to the Kingsmen, this 3 p.m. concert is one all will enjoy. Tickets for this concert are $10 for adults and half-price for children 12 and under.

A pass for Saturday's events is $17 for adults, a weekend pass including all events related to Renfro Valley's Quartet Convention is $25 for adults.

Burley sales begin Nov. 19

Opening day for burley sales has been set for Nov. 19, according to the Burley Sales and Marketing Committee.

It will be the last time the committee will set the date for 150 tobacco warehouses in the eight-state burley belt.

A 39-member Federal Marketing Committee will set sales next year. This year tobacco warehouses will begin selling three days before Thanksgiving on Nov. 19. Markets will close on Thanksgiving and reopen Nov. 26.

Nov. 9 will be the first official day farmers can weigh their burley at warehouses, said George Lee, chairman of the Burley Sales and Marketing Committee.

After Thanksgiving, the markets will operate Monday through Thursday until the Christmas break begins at the close of Business Dec. 13. Sales will resume on Jan. 7 for four days each week and continue until the 1990 crop is sold.

Danny McKinney, executive secretary of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, said markets would be closed Jan. 21 for the holiday to honor Martin Luther King Jr.

Representatives on the Burley Sales and Marketing Committee yesterday gave the 1990 crop -- estimated at 568 million pounds and worth $1 billion -- good marks for quality.

In other action, the committee passed a resolution asking that the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association shoulder the cost of cuts in the federal price-support program.

To run the program, the Burley Co-op borrows money from the federal government. With that money, the co-op buys tobacco that companies fail to buy at the support price.

Tobacco that goes to the Burley Co-op this season will be subject to a 14 percent reduction in price because of the burgeoning federal budget deficit, McKinney said.

The effect would be a cut of about 2 cents a pound in prices paid to farmers whose tobacco goes into the Burley Co-op pool, McKinney said. The Burley Sales and Marketing Committee want the cooperative to pay the full support price rather than allow the farmer to get less.

"We will decide on Wednesday whether or not to do that," McKinney said. "Everybody has to take a cut under Gramm-Rudman."

Meanwhile, nominations are being submitted to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter for slots on the Federal Marketing Committee for Burley. The committee will represent 21 growers, 10 warehouse representatives and eight members from tobacco companies.

Because Kentucky ranks as the nation's top producer, officials have said that most of the committee's members will come from the state and that its meetings probably will be in Lexington.

$596,529 from federal office

U.S. Senator Wendell Ford (D-KY) announced today that 73 Kentucky counties will receive a total of $596,529 distributed by the Bureau of Land Management, including Rockcastle.

Ford said the funds will come from BLM Payments in Lieu of Taxes program. The program is designed to help sparsely populated local governments offset the loss of tax revenues as a result of having tax-exempt Federal lands within their jurisdictions.

"I am confident these payments will help those affected local governments provide vital services to the residents in their areas," Ford said.

Rockcastle will receive $12,336.

Dr. Nunnelley elected president of KMA

Doctor Nunnelley is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University, received his medical degree at the University of Kentucky, and served his residency at the UK College of Medicine. He is a diplomat of the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology and a Fellow of the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

A past president of the Fayette County Medical Society, Dr. Nunnelley is also a member and past president of the Kentucky Obstetrical and Gynecological Society. ## Hwy. 150 scaled down considerably

State highway officials told Stanford officials last week they will drop one section of proposed improvements to U.S. 150 for the immediate future so the portion that will make Cedar Creek Lake possible will be finished first.

Milo Bryant, secretary of the state Transportation Cabinet, said his agency is still (U)ing the order of what was to be a phased relocation of U.S. 150 to get the lake portion finished first.

The Stanford Interior Journal reported Bryant said the change was made at the request of local citizens and because the state doesn't have the money to do more.

The entire project - 26 miles from Stanford to Mount Vernon will cost an estimated $40 million - fails to qualify for federal assistance because there is insufficient traffic at 3,000 to 5,000 cars a day over most of the road, Bryant said.

"You folks came to us and said this lake section is more important than the first section in Stanford, or the second section," Bryant told an informal group that has been meeting at the Cedar Creek Task Force.

The first section was a proposed $6.5-million relocation of U.S. 150 from U.S. 27 in Stanford to Præschersville Road. That section, under a five-year road plan approved by the legislature earlier this year, would have been built in the state's fiscal year that begins July 1, 1991.

The second section Bryant referred to is the second leg of the road from Præschersville Road to Cedar Ridge Road. It was scheduled for right of way acquisition at the same time the first section was under construction.

After the General Assembly approved those two phases as part of the state's six-year road plan, the highway department said in July it was substituting the portion of the road that would allow a date to be built across Cedar Creek, which was to be the third phase at some later date, up to second on its list, to be built at the same time as the first section. That would leave a portion of the existing road, from Præschersville Road to Cedar Ridge Road, in use between the two new sections.

It also would allow Gov. Wallace Wilkinson to deliver on his promise to get the road to the point when he leaves office that the next governor will have to finish it.

But Tuesday, Bryant said that the only portion that would be built during Wilkinson's term is the portion that includes the dam.

Bryant hinted that if Martha Wilkinson's bid to succeed her husband in the governor's office is successful, more of the project would be assured. "We might have another term to work on this," he said.

Former police chief still at large

By Bill Estep

Lexington Herald-Leader

MOUNT VERNON — Federal authorities hope a reward will generate some tips to help catch Wallace V. McDaniel, a convicted bank robber who escaped from the Rockcastle County Jail six weeks ago.

The U.S. Marshall's Service is offering a reward for information on McDaniel's whereabouts, said Deputy U.S. Marshall David Hines.

McDaniel was last seen Aug. 31 in the Sand Hill area of Rockcastle County. Leads have dwindled since then, Hines said.

McDaniel has an advantage: most escaped convicts do not. He was a police officer and police chief in Manchester from 1973 to 1979, Hines said.

"He knows what we're doing to find him, Hines said. "It may take longer to get him, but somewhere, sometime, somebody's going to get him."

McDaniel, 57, escaped from the jail Aug. 19 after someone slipped him a gun. He threatened two deputy jailers, locked them in a cell and escaped on foot.

The Marshall's Service and state police have investigated how McDaniel got the gun, Hines said. McDaniel got the gun, but so far they say they don't know. The Marshall's Service is offering a reward for information on how McDaniel got the gun, Hines said.

The size of the rewards will depend in part on the information offered.

After the escape, several people in the Sand Hill area of southeastern Rockcastle County told police they had seen a man matching McDaniel's description.

One witness gave the man a drink of water, and another gave him biscuits and jelly after the man barged into his tiny trailer. Witnesses said it appeared the man had been in the woods for some time, Hines said.

McDaniel and Sonny James Jones of Clay County were convicted in 1988 of the Aug. 23, 1988, robbery of the Peoples Exchange Bank in Beattyville, during which the robbers shot at local citizens who chased them as they escaped.

A bullet recovered from the truck the robbers shot into later helped convict McDaniel and Jones.

McDaniel, the son James W. McDaniel, and Charles W. Jones, commonwealth's attorney for Jackson, Clay and Leslie counties, to stand trial on the Jackson County marijuana charges.

McDaniel is 5 feet, 11 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds. He has blue eyes and salt and pepper hair. Hines said anyone with information on McDaniel's whereabouts can call the U.S. Marshall's Service in Lexington at (606)233-2513 or (606)864-6993 in London; state police in London at (606)878-6622, or local police in their county or city.

Elementary girls' basketball teams short players

Inexperienced with a shortage of players could be the description for most of the girls elementary basketball teams this year.

The Livingston Blue Devils have no seventh and eighth grade ball players, the Brodhead Tigers have three eighth-graders but no seventh grade players, the Roundstone Eagles have only two eighth graders playing for their first time and the Mt. Vernon Red Devils may very well see their third consecutive county championship unfold this year.

With basically the most experienced team of the four, the Red Devils have made their mark early by going undefeated within the county, 4-0, and sporting a 2-1 count outside the Rockcastle limits, two wins against Berea and one loss to Jackson County Middle School.

But of course the season is young and anything can happen in the world of sports.

And speaking of the season, the Mt. Vernon Red Devils A team defeated the (3-1) Roundstone Eagles A team 25-16 Monday night at Mt. Vernon in a battle that went six minutes into the first quarter before the first basket of the game was scored. Becky Osborne led the Red Devils with eight points as did Janice Cummins for the Eagles with eight also.

In the first game the Eagles B team evened their season mark to 2-2 with a 29-16 win over the Red Devils B

Kentucky joins four states in fisheries agreement for the Ohio River

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources recently signed an agreement with Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia to better manage Ohio River fisheries, according to Don R. McCormick, commissioner of the fish and wildlife department.

"We looked forward to this move for a long time," said McCormick, "because sharing knowledge and management information can only help the fisheries resource. This approach is a vast improvement over each state managing its portion of the river."

Plans call for developing shared fisheries management objectives through an Ohio River Fisheries Management team, coordinating regulatory responsibilities, conducting joint management programs and exchanging technical information among the states and with other governmental, public and private interests.

Fisheries biologists and administrators from the five cooperating states will comprise the management team.

All five states border the Ohio River which flows nearly 1,000 miles from Pittsburgh to its confluence with the Mississippi River near Cairo, Ky. The mighty Ohio, which serves as a major water supply and provides important commercial and recreational benefits, is one of the nation's major fisheries resources.

And in action at Brodhead Monday night, the Brodhead Tigers A team moved their record to 3-1 with a 38-6 victory over the Livingston Blue Devils A team, which is actually their B team since they have no seventh and eighth grade players. Donna Cash led the Tigers with a good night with 11 points. Leading the Blue Devils was Amy Parker with four points.

October 7-13 is "Earthquake Prevention Week" in Kentucky

Predictions have abounded in the past months that about the first week in December there could be a major earthquake along the New Madrid, Mo., seismic zone near the Kentucky state line.

Of course, no one knows for sure, but should one happen in that area, Rockcastle could feel a shake that could crack plaster, shake house foundations and send household items off shelves.

For the reason that a quake could occur sometime, Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson has declared the week of Oct. 7 - 13, 1990, "Earthquake Preparedness Week" in the state.

Citing the fact that "scientific experts believe future earthquakes which could endanger lives and property are virtually certain, especially along the New Madrid seismic zone," Gov. Wilkinson's proclamation calls on the people of the state to participate in the week's activities and take steps to prepare themselves for earthquakes.

The Preparedness Week has become a yearly observance to remind Kentuckians that an earthquake is inevitable in this region but that they can do something to prepare for it. The state has been working for several years on earthquake preparations.

Kentucky has adopted a building code which includes earthquake standards for certain new buildings in the western part of the state near the New Madrid Fault. The Governor's Earthquake Hazards and Safety Technical Advisory Panel has advised the Governor on other steps the state should take to prepare. Kentucky belongs to the central U.S. Earthquake Consortium -- a group of seven states sharing information and working together to get ready for major earthquakes. And Kentucky has employed a full-time earthquake program coordinator to oversee the various preparedness efforts.

Through the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services and local DES organizations, families, schools and businesses will be urged to learn more about the threat of earthquakes in the state during the Preparedness week. School children across Kentucky can participate in earthquake poster and essay contests. Printed materials and videotapes for school students as well as teachers and administrators will be available through the state and local DES organizations.

DES Director in Rockcastle is Gary Asher at the Rockcastle Hotel, 256-2195.

Businesses and industries will be urged to make contingency plans to alleviate injuries among workers and damage to their property. Various publications to help them are available through the DES agencies, as well.

The week will end with the annual two-day earthquake conference in Louisville sponsored by Kentucky Disaster and Emergency Services and the American Red Cross. The Oct. 12-13 conference is scheduled to be held on the Shelby Campus of the University of Louisville. Its second day will include "tracks" for emergency responders, utility lifelines, business and industry and the medical profession.

For more information about Earthquake Preparedness Week in Kentucky and general information about quakes and Kentucky, contact your local disaster and emergency services office or the Earthquake Program Coordinator, Ky. Disaster and Emergency Services, Boone Center, Frankfort KY 40601-6168, or call (502) 564-8628.

Staying Home Alone

PREPARING CHILDREN TO STAY ALONE
 By: Bart Ashley
 Child Development Specialist

At some point during the school years, parents consider having the children care for themselves before or after school rather than being cared for by others. Self-care can be a rewarding experience for children who are ready for it. It can help them develop independence and responsibility and can give them confidence in their own abilities. However, if the child is not ready, self-care can be a frightening and potentially dangerous situation.

HOW CAN YOU TELL IF YOUR CHILD IS READY?

Unfortunately, there is no magic age at which children develop the maturity and good sense needed to stay alone. However, there are some signs that show your child may be ready. First, your child should indicate a desire and willingness to stay alone. Children who are easily frightened or who express an unwillingness to stay alone are probably not ready for this responsibility. In addition, your child should be showing signs of accepting responsibility and being aware of the needs of others and should be able to consider alternatives and make decisions independently. Children who are able to get ready for school on time, solve problems on their own, complete homework and household chores with a minimum of supervision, and remember to tell you where they are going and when they will be back are demonstrating some of the skills they need to care for themselves. For many children these abilities begin to appear between 10-12 years of age. Other youngsters, however, may need a few more years to develop the skills and sense of responsibility they'll need to stay alone. Finally, your child should be able to talk easily with you about interests and concerns. Good parent-child communication is needed to ensure that any fears or problems that arise because of staying alone can be quickly discussed and dealt with.

If your child has demonstrated some or all of the skills listed above you may have decided your child can handle self-care. However, a few other factors need to be considered in your decision. First, how safe is the neighborhood in which you live? A high risk neighborhood naturally increases parents' concern for their child's safety. Second, the availability of neighbors nearby. Is there an adult nearby that you can depend on to respond to your child's needs? If there are no adults nearby to call in an emergency, or if your child must remain alone for a very long time, it may be best to continue to use some form of child care even if your child seems ready to stay alone.

PREPARING YOUR CHILD TO STAY ALONE

If you and your child agree that self-care is appropriate, the next step is providing your child with the knowledge and training needed for this new responsibility. Children who stay alone need to know:
 *How to react in situations such as being locked out

CF Bike-A-Thon makes $5,050.48

Aren't our children -- and adults great? $5,050.48 has been sent to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation through the Brothead Bike-A-Thon.

All of us who are committed to finding a cure for Cystic Fibrosis are very grateful to all of you for your interest and help in the battle against CF. Thank you for caring enough to donate your time and money to help raise the much-needed funds for researching this always fatal disease. Our goal is a cure.

The six winners this year are Bobby Daniels, Leslie Gibbons, Suzanne Brown, Amanda Ott, Kristy Lovell, and Paul Ritter. A big tip of the hat to them and all the riders; the ones who took up a collection, and those who worked the road block.

These people are Brandi Adams, Heather Allen, Tanner Allen, Britteny Asher, Bobby Barron, Brandon Bishop, Chris Bishop, Jamica Bradshaw, Justin Bradshaw, Colby Brown, Nathan Brummett, Kristy Bullock, Curtis Bullock, Heather Bussell, Chaz Cable, Blake Calhoun, Lora Campbell, Jimmy Campbell, Andrew Carrera, Stephan Carrera, Elizabeth Clay, Alice Cloud, Shawn Cloud, Nathan DeLeon, Amanda Gibson, Billy Graves, Delon Graves, Devin Graves, Suzanne Graves, Greg Harper, Ashlee Hopkins, Kelly Jones, Misty Jones, Erica Kirby, Joshua Lovell, Jason Moore, Scotty Moore, Jeremy Neely, Adam Proctor, Jason Proctor, Kyle Proctor, Mark Proctor, Martha Proctor, Steve Proctor, Stephanie Ritter, Mickey Rouse, Whitney Sexton, Natalie Taylor, Neisha Taylor, Leslie Woodson, Nicole Adams, Mickie Pruitt, Amber Clay, Mitzi Calhoun, Tony Baker, Angie Ellison, Pat Pruitt, Sandy Woodson and Louise Graves. ## Water Meeting

cently on similar projects in Clay and Pulaski counties.

Whereas the PSC representative suggested the water come from one supplier, Crawford disagreed, saying some of it could come from other systems, meaning Livingston and Jackson County. Water for Northern and Western Associations and Brothead comes from Mt. Vernon.

Crawford also pointed out that the use of any 3-inch water lines were not considered in the PSC cost estimate. The PSC also considered use of cast iron pipe which is much higher than plastic.

Crawford said the proposed association "could and most likely would be developed in several separate projects, probably beginning with all or part of the east section of the county where the water supply would be purchased from Livingston and Jackson County at least until the ban on expansion from the water systems related to the Mt. Vernon water system is lifted."

The engineer also noted in his report to the PSC that the monthly water bill for 4,200 gallons would be about $30 a month instead of $53 a month for that many gallons. The PSC report had estimated the monthly cost as high as $84 a month.

Crawford in his report to the PSC said "you will probably have other points of argument that you will point out. All figures (made by me) are based on very preliminary information and are subject to change."

He added that the PSC report states that the "population within the area surveyed is in need of treated water," and he considers the project feasible based on his projected costs.

The proposed system area consists of 44 square miles with an estimated population of 1,860. Included are the communities of Lamero, Three Links, Climax, Jep Hill, Sand Springs, Cedarville, Pongo, Sand Hill, Wabd, Flat Gap, Clear Creek, Brush Creek and Spiro.

According to FMHA guidelines which the PSC uses, the association would use 104,809 gallons a day or 3,144,284 gallons a month. The system would require four pumping stations, five water storage tanks, and five hydro-mechanical stations.

Estimated operation and maintenance expenses the first year are $169,900. The PSC estimates the cost as $20 per 1,000 gallons. Crawford's estimate is $12 for the first 2,000 gallons.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins, who has been deeply involved in the project, said he had no idea how the PSC would rule on the project. He added if the PSC takes the figures presented by Crawford to make its ruling, the PSC will likely approve the project.

"I have no idea if they will approve it," Judge Mullins stated. "I repeat, it is possible they will if they take the figure presented by Crawford."

Attorney Carl Clontz came to the same general conclusion, saying he too had no idea as to how the PSC will rule.

The Ceramic Horse was the prize chosen by Leslie Gibbons, daughter of William and Nita Gibbons, a 6th grade student at BES.

Notice to Parents, Teachers, and Employees of the Rockcastle County Board of Education

On October 22, 1986, President Reagan signed into law the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA, Public Law 99-519). The law required EPA to develop regulations which provide a comprehensive framework for addressing asbestos problems in public and private elementary and secondary schools. On October 30, 1987, EPA published the Asbestos-Containing Materials in School Rule (40 CFR Part 763 Subpart E). This Rule requires all public and private elementary and secondary schools to inspect for friable and non-friable asbestos, develop asbestos management plans that address asbestos hazards in school buildings, and implement response actions in a timely fashion.

To carry out the above activities involving inspections, management plans, and response actions the Rockcastle County Board of Education has utilized accredited personnel. On April 30, 1987, EPA published the Model Accreditation Plan (40 CFR Part 763 Appendix C to Subpart E) required by AHERA, which specifies training, examination, and other requirements for persons who inspect, develop management plans, and design or conduct response actions in schools. The Model Plan became effective on June 1, 1987.

In 1988, the Rockcastle County Board of Education retained Barry W. Cooper, P.E. who completed an initial inspection to locate all asbestos-containing building materials (ACBM) and developed and submitted to the State of Kentucky an asbestos Management Plan that includes the results of the inspections. In December of 1988, the Rockcastle County Board of Education began to implement this management plan.

Copies of the management plan are available for review for those interested persons at the Administration Office at Rt. 5, Box 69, Mt. Vernon, Ky. any time during normal office hours.

Copies are available for duplication at a cost of 25 cents for each 8-1/2 x 11 page of the Management Plan.

"SCHOOL BOARD"

attended, board members voted to place a three percent utility tax on all Rockcastle County utilities and they set the property and motor vehicle tax for the coming year.

School property tax increased from 29.9 cents per $100 assessed value to 44.7 and motor vehicle or tangible tax increased from 11.2 cents to 44.7.

Board members were in favor of raising the motor vehicle tax to coincide with the property tax because they felt that it was more fair that everyone pay part of the new taxes and not just the property owner. That was also the main reason they opted for the utility tax.

Forexample, a Rockcastle County property owner will pay $14.80 more school tax this year on $10,000 of property than they did a year ago, and persons licensing cars this year will see an even larger increase.

A individual licensing a $10,000 car will pay $30 more in school tax this year than they did a year ago.

Of the $11.2 million budget only $989,000 will be generated locally. However that is up from $487,000 a year ago. The rest of the money will come from state and federal programs.

The total actual school tax rate next year will be 58.6. That is actually higher than the set rate because Rockcastle's rate of tax collection is only 94 percent. Most of the six percent not collected is on property needed to stay alone, set up a trial period of self care to see how your child adjusts to the situation. Initially presenting it as a temporary arrangement lets children know they can choose not to continue if they are uncomfortable staying alone and also allows parents to more easily end the arrangement if they feel the child is unable to handle the situation.

"Staying Home Alone"

Throughout the trial period, and afterwards if you continue the arrangement, talk frequently with your child about his or her feelings. This allows you to deal with problems quickly and helps you remain close to your child. Also, periodically review house rules and safety information with your child. Children forget easily - especially if the information is seldom used. However, this infrequently used knowledge - such as what to do in case of a fire or other emergency - may one day be critical to your child's safety.

Children who are mentally and emotionally ready to stay alone, who have been taught the skills and knowledge needed to deal with this new responsibility, and who are able to talk easily with their parents about fears or concerns that may arise, can gain much from the opportunity to care for themselves.

Mount Vernon Signal

Mount Vernon, Kentucky 40456

Volume 102 - Number 51

Thursday October 11, 1990

Edward Deborde, Ricky and Ronnie Barnett work on the roof of the old building that was once the clothing store of Mary Ida Jones. The area will become a parking lot for Bank of Mt. Vernon employees.

Here today, gone tomorrow

Old buildings keep disappearing

By: Ray McClure

Someone remarked the other day that another old building in Mt. Vernon has "bit the dust."

Indeed it did, and it nearly cost John Bullock serious injury.

The old building that once was the clothing store of Mary Ida Jones on Parrett Street, was being torn down by Bullock. When workers were knocking down the 2 by 4 supports the entire roof section fell pinning Bullock underneath. Only the foundation prevented the roof from crushing him. Luckily, he escaped with scratches and bruises.

The old building will be replaced by a parking lot for owner, the Bank of Mt. Vernon.

The building is thought to have been constructed about 1910. No one seems to remember. It has been, off and on, a grocery, storage room, maybe a restaurant, and a blackberry and strawberry collection station operated by the late "Doctor" Ray Gout.

The same someone who was interested in Mt. Vernon's old buildings also remarked, it seems as time goes by more and more old buildings that are standing on a given day are gone by the next.

It may look that way, and it's probably true, some do. But many old buildings, both business and residential, still remain.

On the north side of Main Street most of the old buildings are still here, including the Signal, Mama's Country Cooking Restaurant, Sam's Music Store, Bryants, Mt. Vernon Florist and Balloon, Cox Hardware, Mt. Vernon Printing and Appalachian Medical Supply, all here for at least 75 years.

On the south side of Main Street most of the buildings have all been here for at least 75 years, except Mullins surveyors, the Dollar General Store building, and Dr. John Parsons building. Most of the buildings along Church Street, south of Main, have been here for 80 years or longer, except the Lambert Building.

The town still has its share of very old homes. To name a few, the Casper Williams house at the corner of Main and Richmond Street; the home of Ruth Leach on the southeast corner of U.S. 150 and Richmond Street; the old school building across from the Leach property on Richmond Street/Sand Springs Road; the old John Brown house at the corner of Williams and West Main Street; the present Cox and Dowell & Martin Funeral Homes, once the Sparks family residences, and several others.

Renfro Valley investor

Warren Rosenthal is a major investor in Rockcastle County. As a part owner of Renfro Valley Folks Inc., he and his partners have invested an estimated $10 million upgrading facilities at Renfro. The following story, reprinted from the Lexington Herald-Leader, concerns his decision to sell Jerrico Inc. of Lexington.

When Jerrico was sold, the person who made the most money was Warren Rosenthal.

Rosenthal, 67, along with his wife and Rosenthal-related trusts, cashed in stock worth $57.4 million. In addition, as chairman of Jerrico's board of directors, he received an executive severance payment of $1.275 million.

"We cut out for ourselves a very, very tough niche in this industry -- as time proved it to be -- when you're dealing with fish," Rosenthal said. "By the very nature of our size, we became our worst enemy. It's one thing to buy fish for 500 units, or 50 units. But when you're buying fish for 1,500 units, it becomes an incredibly harder row to manage."

There are those that have bit the dust over the years by accident or design. To name a few...

The old county courthouse; the Langford house on East Main Street; the old school building on Richmond Street; the Mt. Vernon Elementary School; the MacKenzie House on Richmond Street; the old post office on Main Street; the Auri Matt Bethurum house on main Street, the old stock barn on Spring Street, and last but not least, the old McCFerron house on U.S. 150 back of the courthouse.

That house when torn down in the early 1960s was thought to have been the oldest house west of the Allegheny Mountains.

Attorney James W. Lambert stirred up memories of the town this week remembering some of the places and incidents that are a part of Mt. Vernon's history. Incidentally, Attorney Lambert owns a desk that was used by the late Attorney Casper Williams who died Dec. 28, 1939.

How far back can Attorney Lambert remember? He recalled the time when Main Street had logs across it to keep from sinking into the mud on rainy days. That's far back!

Rosenthal explains Jerrico sell-out and die by the sword of their own perseverance.

"We didn't tolerate inadequate management on the part of senior officers at any step along our growth," he said.

For instance, Jerrico had a succession of marketing vice presidents. Rosenthal is unapologetic.

"If a marketing director was an excellent individual, he was on demand and would be picked off," he said. "We lost two marketing directors to companies who took them as presidents of companies."

"Another had a heart attack. Others simply didn't accomplish what was expected of them."

my mail, or something about that important, since I left," he said. "No one has seen fit -- and probably very wisely -- to have come and ask me for counsel or judgment since I left the place."

Looking on from the outside, Rosenthal sees Jerrico troubled by some of the problems that afflicted it in years past, such as the supply and price of fish.

Today, it has other challenges as well, he said, mostly "the enormous interest it must pay on debts from the buy-out."

Rosenthal would not speculate about Jerrico's chances of success or the performance of its management, but he indicated that, in retrospect, his departure from Jerrico had been bitter-sweet.

It was Rosenthal who, beginning in the late 1940s, had built the company from a few Lexington hamburger stands into a multinational corporation.

For him, though, the business had ceased to be fun.

"I frankly was very happy to step out," he said.

School tax rates much higher New school budget exceeds $11 million

By: Richard Anderkin
Higher taxes need more money, and in turn, more money means better schools.

Computer laboratories, increased salaries, abundant teaching supplies and needed construction are just a few of the items that the Rockcastle County Board of Education is spending new monies on.

At their regular monthly meeting last week, the board approved an $11.2 million budget for this school year.

That's up from $9.2 million a year ago and is a direct result of the sweeping education reform act that is pumping millions of new dollars into Kentucky Education.

Included in this year's budget is $250,000 for teaching supplies and staff development, $250,000 for new computer labs in each school as well as computers in the science and math departments at the high school, $250,000 for building and equipment improvements throughout the school system, which will include new roofs for Broadhead elementary and RCHS, $1,035 million for salary increases for certified employees and $65,000 for a modular unit at Broadhead school, which will house the pre-school program there.

There is also money included in the budget for a new bus lift at the bus garage. The old lift will not raise the 70 passenger buses that the school system must now purchase. In the wake of the Carrollton bus crash in 1988 new state law says all buses must have three exits. Therefore in order to have the same capacity as a 64 passenger bus, 70 passenger buses have to be purchased.

Tax Increase
Of course the new monies are not generated without taxpayers bearing the burden.

Besides the sales tax increase and the changes in the state income tax code which will generate millions of dollars for education, the state expected local districts to do their part in raising extra money.

On September 27 the local board did just that.

After a short public hearing in which only David Cash of Broadhead

Fourteen attend water meeting in Frankfort

By: Ray McClure

About 14 persons from Rockcastle County appeared before the Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) to stress the need for another water association in Rockcastle County at a public hearing Monday in Frankfort.

After listening to testimony disagreeing with a gloomy report made by staff member Robert Arnett, the PSC took the testimony under advisement without comment and will make a decision at a later date.

A public hearing by the PSC is mandated by Kentucky Statutes.

Contrary to Arnett's report that estimated the cost of the water project at $7 million and that it will take substantial grant money and low interest loan money in order to make the project feasible, Jack Crawford of Crawford & Crawford, engineers of Burnside, and the county's engineer on the proposed project, had another view.

Crawford estimated the cost to serve 608 customers over 107 miles of waterlines would be considerably less than $7 million. He estimated the cost at $3.6 million, basing that figure on bids that have been made recently.

Charting Rockcastle

By: Richard Anderkin
Managing Editor

Last week I got a call from U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell who asked that the Signal support him in his bid for re-election.

Of course, we are not going to do that because of various reasons, but I did appreciate his efforts and the personal contact.

He is trying to line-up as much public support from newspapers across the state as he can before the election and I'd say that he will get the majority of them to support him.

If for one had not been much of a fan of Senator McConnell, but come November it would no doubt serve the people of Kentucky better if he were re-elected.

I know I said the Signal would not publicly support him and the Signal is not, this is just my own personal feelings.

We all know that to get anything done in any branch of government you have to play both ends against the middle and so on and so forth.

It would not be wise for Kentucky to send two Democratic senators to Washington. We need a player on each team or on both sides of the aisle, as one person put it.

We still have a Republican President and while Bush has not made some of the wisest decisions in his presidency he will probably be re-elected. A Republican president and two Democratic senators from Kentucky won't mix well.

We still have a Republican President and while Bush has not made some of the wisest decisions in his presidency he will probably be re-elected. A Republican president and two Democratic senators from Kentucky won't mix well.

Senator McConnell abuses the franking privileges offered by Congress. That is evident by his mass mailings that have cost the taxpayer over a million dollars during his six-year term. But the mass mailings are well within the law and stamped with Congress' blessing, because so many of its members abuse it as well. Congress should address that situation and it would be an excellent place to cut federal spending.

But, when McConnell went into office in 1984 the tobacco program was hurting. There was even some fear that a federal support program might be cut all together. Well McConnell worked hard. He got his colleagues to pass a farm bill that everyone, including the tobacco farmer, could live with.

He then found foreign markets for Kentucky's legal cash crop. He made trips to Taiwan, Japan and Korea which resulted in the sale of more Kentucky tobacco to those countries. Today the tobacco program is in pretty good shape and McConnell is probably the main reason. Senator McConnell was also very instrumental in helping to obtain a $385,000 federal grant, which will be used to help fund an expansion project at the Rockcastle Hospital. Once that 3.5 million dollar project is complete another 85 people will be employed. Without the grant the project would have been in danger of not being completed.

Come November there are several reasons that I'll probably vote for McConnell, none of which are the fact that I am registered Republican. I never was a straight party man.

A good friend of mine that runs the Interior Journal in Stanford, Tom Moore, wrote an editorial last week about the incredible shrinking road. Of course what he was referring to, was the construction or lack thereof, on a new Hwy. 150 between Mt. Vernon and Stanford.

You remember that road project, it is the one that Governor Wilkinson and all of his cronies promised you. It would widen a dangerous 150 from Stanford to Mt. Vernon to four lanes. Oh we were sure to get it during Wilkinson's administration, because he was a good ole boy from the fifth district and he wanted to help the poor people of Lincoln County get a lake for Stanford's drinking water.

It was a great idea, but unless I've missed something, nothing has been done on the project.

And last week in Lincoln County Transportation Secretary Mike Byrnes announced that only a 2 mile stretch of the road would be built during Wilkinson's administration. The two-mile stretch is in Lincoln County and would involve the construction of a lake for Stanford's drinking water.

This is a far cry from the reconstruction of 150 from Stanford to Mt. Vernon. And I'm sure that it doesn't sit too well with local Wilkinson supporters who believed that the Governor would indeed work hard to build the new road.

I wonder if promises for a new road will surface in the next election, as my friend noted, none of the construction on even the two mile part will begin until after the primary. I think Wilkinson's wife Martha is going to run. She won the Pulitzer Prize or something, didn't she.

ramblings

by: perlina m. anderkin

I really do enjoy fishing and the occasion that I get to doesn't present itself often. Allison, our almost five-year-old is a little young to appreciate the finer points of the sport (such as sitting in one position for hours and not catching anything) and Travis, 10, won't even talk to us about it if you can't do it with a ball and bat, basketball or football. So, we have to make provisions for them and by the time we get everyone situated it's usually easier for me to stay at home and let Jim go - often more than once if you count the number of fish we usually catch.

But, the occasion did present itself last week and it was a memorable one - Jim and I started fishing at 7:30 Sunday morning (I know, I know, we should have been in Sunday School, but, you see, these fish were calling...) and by 11:30 we had our limit. I have never run into such a gathering of hungry fish in one place in a lake. They were so anxious they were actually biting all three baits we had on our line with regularity. Our luck would not have been so good, I am sure, without the help of Donald McClure, originally from Mt. Vernon and now living in White Pine, Tenn. But White Pine is within a few miles of Douglas Lake and Donald wets a line every now and then so he put us right on them Sunday and I mean right on them.

He and his brother showed up at their spot after we had been there a couple of hours but, being nice guys and probably fearing for their lives, they elected to sit and still fish while Jim and I continued our trolling and catching. But, the fish were biting so well they pulled in a nice catch just overboard.

You know, Jim is the most forebearing of husbands, most of the time, and this forbearance extends to fishing and taking care of me during the process.

When we are fishing with minnows, he will bait my hook and take my fish off. I find it goes to where I can bait my hook if I position the hook over the minnow's eyes and then shut mine and run the hook through. Jim insists that you have to do it this way so that the minnow, blinded, will head for the bottom when you throw the line over.

Personally, if left to my own devices, I would hook the poor little things in the tail and take my chances. As to taking fish off the hook, if they would all cooperate and die quietly as you brought them onboard, I might be able to remove the hook but they don't do that. Oh, no, they have to flop around and fight the inevitable.

Sunday morning, I felt badly early because Jim was having to do double duty by taking my fish off also. So, I decided that if I laid the fish on top of the cooler lid I might be able to work the hook out without having to touch the slimy little critter. Don't try it folks, it doesn't work as I decided several minutes later while trying to

Learning, Leading and Serving

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

Juanita Norris learned some crafts as a Rockcastle County-Wide Extension Homemakers. This was the beginning of a hobby that turned into a business.

Her desire for painting grew so much she took a bedroom and turned it into a painting room. Her whole house was soon filled with crafts. So she started peddling her finished products.

That is when Mrs. Norris decided she needed a separate building to hold her paintings and crafts to use as a work place.

On Jan. 16, 1988 she opened her shop that was built behind her home. She named it "The Country Peddler".

A lot of her crafts were made to have a country look, so you see. She peddled her work to other shops. Some businesses still buy items from her.

Next, Juanita added fresh flowers to serve Broadhead residents for funerals (tributes, holiday gifts as well as any special occasions).

This service has grown to serve county wide occupants.

By this time she needed more room. Her husband, Charlie Norris, and a carpenter, added a second room to her shop. Two antiques grace each of the two rooms.

These make a good place to display the seasonal wreaths that Juanita makes from "scratch".

Her ceramic pieces can be displayed on the mantel's shelf.

Odes and poems have been written about harvest moths ever since man has taken to the pen to express himself. Every nook and corner of the world has its own version of the beautiful harvest moon.

I know I love to talk about its beauty while viewing it from some lonely hillside. I wonder if they really see it? The very solemn, vivid brightness of that huge clear balloon hanging in the sky so often sprinkled by stars around it is enough to make the heart swell with feelings which can often be mistaken for the emotions of human love. The vast greatness of the sky and brilliance that flows from that moon can simply take common sense away and make one want to stand or sit in complete silence and gaze in awe while these strange feelings of being in one with God and nature overflows all other feelings.

People of long ago used this unusual light and the energy drawn from it to do much of their harvesting in the fall when there wasn't enough daylight hours to get it all done.

Many is the time we old folks used it on our holiday for light to walk to and from church or some community activity instead of with lantern light. It could be a perfect light to show up every rock or rill in a road and every one in the crowd that would be along could see clearly where he/she was walking. The light shed from its disc hanging there could light up an area around an old barn where a dance was being held much better than the modern outdoor lights of today supplied by the electric company. The shadows cast behind a haystack or large trees or the barn was soft and romantic, and eerie at times. The cattle in the fields were ghost-like as they grazed contentedly with their soft lowing and crunching sounds being the only ones heard.

Messages from a preacher in a little country church tucked away in a hollow seemed to be clearer and had more meaning after walking two, three or maybe even five miles through this beautiful semi-darkness to listen to him. I have a tendency to believe many people, influenced by this strange phenomenon of light, felt the presence of God a little stronger and many of them became church members because of it.

I heard of an incident once when after a group of young people had been to a revival meeting at such a time, that on their way home they decided to change their life style and had a beautiful baptismal service in a creek. Another incident told about the same time was of a similar group on their way home discussing the service and they stopped by the roadside and knelt in prayer while a young man prayed through to his victory, wonder. God works in mysterious ways His wonders to perform.

last night my aloneness was perfect. I needed it to simply absorb the beauty, allow it to sink into my heart and soul without interruption of a human voice or presence. I wanted to slow down at times and take my eyes off the road and concentrate them on the beauty in the sky. For you folks that live in the lights of a town or city and never see or feel this awesome beauty sunk into the innermost part of your being you won't know what you are missing or what I am talking about.

As I left the weak little lights of Mt. Vernon and headed up the hill the first thing I saw was this big bright iridescent balloon hanging there to my left. I felt immediately like it was there for one purpose -- to guide me safely home and give me some of its strength and calm. I needed both. There was a slight strata of drifting clouds around it and just ahead one lonely bright star that seemed to be saying "Keep your eyes ever upward". A feeling of awe enveloped me. From there on, the road was one of magic. The trees beside it took on new shape. They were taller and more majestic. Their trunks were a peculiar grey white. Their foliage was muted with soft greens and browns and mauves. The weeds beside the roads were no longer a dark color of the greens of a summer night but took on a sheen like they had been sprayed with magic touches of strange hues. They were really for the moon had sprayed them with its special moon beams. The road itself looked different. The pavement was clear with edges defined before the trimming beside it began. The centerline was clear and bright. The curves ahead could be seen without straining to see them. Often I would be driving between these dark tall trees without benefit of moon light as it would rest its brilliance behind some drifting clouds. Then suddenly I'd approach a hill or gap in the trees and here it was staying close by in its orbit. Sometimes without a cloud but very often it had its own decorations accompanying it. White clouds would be floating or scurrying close by and always there were a few brilliant stars speckling its perimeter. Just like little sparks had been chipped off and was settling into the velvet surrounding the world.

Another scene which really sunk deep into my mind and soul was one where I'd just topped the hill and there to my left hanging over a valley full of trees with many a modern light to be seen was this moon in multiple view. It was in a series of darker clouds stretched outward in thin lines. They looked somewhat like ocean waves with white caps occasionally tipping some and the moon was behind them giving them a glow of pinks and gold then it seemed to reflect itself in the depths of the clouds and here was a smaller darker moon on its very fringe. WOW! I wanted to stop dead still and gaze, but had I done that I may have missed the next scene coming over my own hill with my house and surrounding grounds and two barns all washed in moonlight. I slid into my driveway quietly work the hook out from under my thumbail where it had become lodged when the fish took offense to my removing the hook without an authoritative hand on his (her?) person. My squeal of horror startled Jim and he proceeded to bury a hook in his finger after which he hastened to assure me that it wasn't necessary for me to perform this task which was obviously revolting to me (and dangerous for him).

"RAMBLINGS"

Later in the day, after Donald and his brother had joined us, while sitting patiently waiting for Jim to get to me and remove my fish so I could return to the important task of throwing a line out and bringing them in, I decided that if I ever got used to touching them while they were alive, I might eventually be able to hang onto one and subdue it while removing the hook. Donald and his brother noticed my tentative jabs at the fish with a forefinger and I heard Donald's brother say, "Why, she won't even take her own fish off her hook." I don't think Jim heard the remark but if he had, I was ready for him. I was going to tell him it was a poor man who couldn't take care of one woman fishing. And, besides I managed not to foul my line during the entire trip and that was an accomplishment for me.

It was a fun day. The weather was gorgeous, the temperature perfect and, when we got home, Jim did an excellent job cleaning the catch (I don't do that either).

and turned the motor off so I could glory in the wonders surrounding me. I needed no artificial light to enter my house. It had been provided for me by hands that know how to create more than light, they create light in our being as well and we should use this light to let it shine that the world can see it.

Try these drives sometime--see the wonders of creation.

When we think about the qualities that make a man a good husband and father, we always think of you, because you were a strong man - in your faith and conviction, because you were a gentle man - in your wisdom and understanding, because you were a honest man - in your words and deeds, these things that were so much a part of you made you what he intended you to be, an example of God's goodness and a witness to his love.

Missed by his wife, Berie Kelley children, Harold, Pauline, Billy and Janet grandchildren
