Willing Workers

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

The Brodhead Willing Workers Homemakers Club met March 28 at 7:30 p.m.

Eleven members and one guest, Cheryl Witt, were present although several members were ill.

Everyone was happy to hear that Ruth Bussell had returned home from the hospital.

Cheryl Witt presented the lesson on the old but always important lesson, "Dairy Food Guide."

The food groups we learned in elementary school, but tend to gradually put in the background and eat "What we would, instead of eating what we should."

Vitamin A is supplied to our bodies by the vegetable and fruit groups. We need five servings of these each day.

Food and bread group include all products with whole grains or enriched flour or meal. Choose whole grain products often.

Our body needs two to four servings of the milk and cheese group daily.

Don't forget the need of meat, poultry, fish and beans group. Protein, phosphorus, iron, zinc Vitamin B and other minerals are found in this group.

When it is time to cut back foods in "The Other Group" is the first to go. It's fats, sweets and alcohol.

Carol Riddle, the 1991 president, asked the homemakers to vote on giving $25 to Project Graduation.

The vote was unanimous in favor of this project gift. She announced that May 5th was National Homemakers Week.

She was glad to report that some of Brodhead Willing Worker Homemakers are working on quilt blocks for the Bicentennial Quilt.

Carol Riddle as the night's hostess served delicious refreshments. Jean Albright will be April 25th hostess.

Renfro Valley holds several Easter oriented events

The past weekend, Renfro Valley folks played host to an Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday to the surrounding Mt. Vernon and Renfro Valley communities.

The day began with fresh fallen snow, bright blue skies, and a clear, crisp breeze. Regardless of the coolness of the day, crowds turned out for this first time event.

Children and parents congregated in the New Barn for the Easter Bonnet Parade. The children lined up in their festively decorated hats as the Easter Bunny led them through the streets of Renfro Valley, prancing to Easter tunes. The Chicken Man entertained and involved the large group in songs and dances. Additional entertainment was provided for the children and parents by members of the Renfro Valley staff. However, the day was not flawless with such an event as this. With all the excitement of the unexpected snow disappearing to allow this event to happen, and considering all the excitement and cheer that the children expressed, the Easter Egg hunt became to reality a few minutes earlier than scheduled. Upon realizing that the mistake had been made, the staff at Renfro Valley proceeded to hide additional eggs and prepared hundreds of bags of candy for the children who anxiously awaited the second hunt.

The second Easter Egg Hunt started within 30 minutes of the first. Hundreds of children left Renfro Valley that day with full baskets and bright smiles on their faces.

The folks at Renfro Valley would like to thank Foodtown of Mt. Vernon and Foodtown of Berea for their support in the Easter Egg Hunt.

The Renfro folks would like to thank Key-Jack Brown and Key Eddie Hammonds for participating in the Sunrise Service that was held at Renfro Valley on Easter Morning.

The Freedom Church was full of spirit as old time hymns were sang and the service was delivered by Renfro Valley's own Michael Bryant.

Spring Turkey Season Opens in April

Kentucky turkey hunters can look forward to improved hunting opportunities as the April 17 season opening day approaches.

Turkey hunting popularity is growing rapidly. It's an intensely challenging sport which requires exceptional calling and marksmanship skills as well as a considerable amount of advance scouting and preparation.

The wild turkey has made a dramatic comeback in Kentucky over the past decade. Thanks to the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources' (KDFWR) wild turkey restoration program, turkeys can now be found in 118 counties where suitable habitat is abundant. Fayette and Bourbon are the only counties where turkeys have not been reintroduced, due to lack of proper habitat.

Kentucky's current wild turkey population numbers more than 25,000 and that figure is expected to climb steadily over the next 20 years. As populations have taken hold, regulations have been developed to allow the carefully controlled harvest of wild turkeys where populations can support it.

"Right now, our success rate is about 20 percent. This means that for every 100 turkey hunters in the field, 20 will get a quality bird," says George Wright, KDFWR's turkey program coordinator. "Eventually, we'd like to generate a 30-33 percent success rate."

All hunters born on or after Jan. 1, 1975, (except those under age 10) must have a valid hunter education course completion card in their possession while hunting in Kentucky and a turkey hunter under age 18 must be accompanied by an adult capable of maintaining reasonable control over the young hunter at all times. The spring season limit is two turkeys and only birds with visible beards may be taken.

Shooting hours during the spring gobbler season are one-half hour before sunrise to 1 p.m.

Turkey hunters must possess a valid Kentucky hunting license (unless legally exempted) and a valid turkey permit.

Hunters must tag their turkey immediately after harvest and the bird must be checked on the same day at the nearest open check station. Turkeys may not be hunted on any baited area. A baited area is any place where feed, grains or other substances capable of luring wild turkeys have been placed. Remember, an area is considered baited for 10 days following the complete removal of all bait.

Although it's not a legal requirement, wearing hunter orange is strongly recommended for turkey hunters - especially when they're changing locations in the field or carrying a harvested bird.

Turkey hunters should obtain a copy of the "1991 Kentucky Turkey Hunting Guide" and read it carefully for complete season information. The free booklet is attached to the turkey permit and is also available at most locations where hunting and fishing licenses are sold and from the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Information and Education, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone (502) 564-4336.

In hearings before the commission, Contel officials estimated the modernization would cost $34.5 million. The commission said it was skeptical that the cost would be so high, but that Contel could apply for a rate increase to cover the cost.

Contel, purchased last month by GTE Corp., operates 42 telephone exchanges in Kentucky. In the 14 exchanges that offer combinations of one-, two- and four-party lines, there are 7,911 four-party lines, one-party service is not available to all customers.

Sixth-graders have vaccinations

Rockcastle is among only seven counties in the state with all six graders having had a second vaccination for measles and rubella.

The second shot rule went into effect this year after measles returned to the state in 1988 after several years in which no cases were reported.

Under the regulation, sixth graders are not allowed to attend school without evidence that they have received a second vaccination.

Seven counties -- Hickman, Jackson, Nicholas, Rockcastle,

Simpson, Trimble and Washington -- reported that all sixth graders had been vaccinated.

Most of the other counties reported that more than 70 percent of sixth graders had been vaccinated. But only 48 percent had received the required second shot in one county, which Palmer refused to identify.

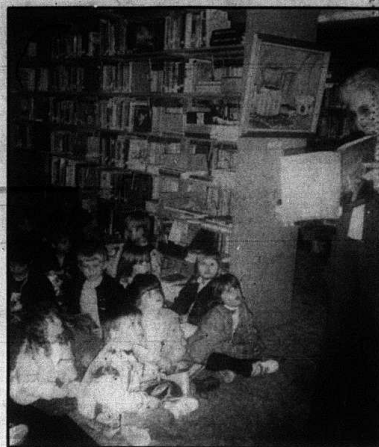

The second vaccine is necessary because the initial shot, given at 15 months of age, is effective in only about 95 percent of recipients, he said.

Woody the Owl and Smokey the Bear came to visit Roundstone Preschool to talk about fire safety and pollution. Those present in the morning class were left to right; Josh McFerron, Derrick Hensley, Chris Prickett, Tommy Dees, Jessica Lewis, Amanda Rogers, Samantha Dees, Sheena Stewart, Brandon Thomas and Jeffery Ramey.

Tracy Gabbard's Reading Class has recently completed studying fables. The class read three fables, The Country Mouse and The City Mouse, The Sick Lion, and Belling the Cat and presented plays from them. The plays were performed in preschool - 5th grades.

In Charles Reppert Case

Reward offered for information

A $1,000 reward is being offered for information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who conspired to murder and rob a Madison County businessman in January.

According to Sgt. Raleigh Pate, of the State Police Post at Richmond and coordinator with Bluegrass Crime Stoppers, a reward is being offered to try and solve the murder of Charles Reppert.

Reppert, 40, formerly of

Charles Reppert

Rockcastle County was murdered at his Big Hill home sometime between Jan. 9 and Jan. 11 of this year.

According to police, Reppert was alone in his trailer and there was a knock at the door. As Reppert approached the door, a gunshot struck him in the head. Police said that several shots were fired from outside of the trailer and that a .22-caliber was apparently used in the brutal slaying.

Of course the case remains unsolved, and a segment involving the case began airing on Wednesday, April 3, on Channel 27. The Lexington based television station will carry the re-creation of the crime for about four days, according to Crime Stopper authorities.

Crime Stoppers simply want the information, not your name. Anyone with information should call Crime Stoppers at (606) 253-2020, weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Reppert's brother, Gary, found his body on Jan. 11, after family members became concerned when they did not hear from him for a few days.

Police think robbery was the motive for the murder.

Mary Lawson, 43, of Louisville, was traveling southbound on I-75, Friday morning at 10:30 a.m., when she lost control of her 1982 Volvo station wagon about four and one-half miles north of Mt. Vernon. The vehicle flipped twice and went airborne before it struck an embankment and became stationary. Lawson, along with her son Paul, 16 and daughter Susan, 8, suffered class three injuries and were taken to the Rockcastle County Hospital. Two other sons, Matt, 16 and Ken, 14, were treated for minor injuries. The accident blocked I-75 for about 15 minutes causing major delays for traffic between Lexington and Knoxville Friday evening.

Courthouse bonds sold

Revenue bonds totalling $1,955,000 for a courthouse annex were approved by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at a called meeting Friday.

Low bidder was Ross, Sinclair & Associates of Lexington at a 7.17 percent annual net interest cost over 20 years.

The sale is within the total cost of the annex and includes cost of construction, architect fees, land purchase, legal fees and debt service revenue.

There was only one other bidder, Morgan, Keegan and Company of Memphis, Tenn. bid 7.28 percent.

Purchasers of $800,000 of the bonds were the Bank of Mt. Vernon and Citizens Bank of Brodhead. Each took about $400,000 each, according to Terrell Ross, chairman of the investment banking firm.

The cost of the annex project was originally estimated at about $1,565,000, but when all figures were added the cost increased to $1,955,000.

The annex is the project of the state court system and the bonds will be paid off through a lease agreement from the State Administrative Office of the Court.

The annex is expected to get under way as soon as approval is received, possibly during April. Completion should take about 14 months. Low bidder and general contractor is CB & S Construction Co., of Somerset.

The annex will be attached to the present courthouse to the east. Offices will include circuit and district courts, offices of Supreme Court Justice Joseph Lambert, circuit court clerk Denver Miller and property valuation administrator Elmer Hale.

City council approves change in loan for new Days Inn

By: Ray McClure

The owners of Days Inn, now under construction at the Renfro Valley Interchange, asked the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night to refinance the loan the city made for the project by changing the interest rate and repayment schedule.

The council agreed. CB & R Investments, the motel developer, earlier asked, and got, a $100,000 loan from the city's Economic Development Fund, a fund that was made available to the city when Mt. Vernon Plastics sold to Reynolds Metals.

The problem: The Small Business Administration reduced the amount the SBA would approve for the project from $750,000 to $631,600, a change that required the owners to contribute $89,500 more to the $2,545,000 project.

Basically, the loan is now amortized at 6 percent for 10 years. The annual payment to the city will be $13,256. Under the original terms, the city would have received $10,000. Owners of the motel are Dale

Three new bridges for Rockcastle

Three bridges will be constructed in the city this year, it was revealed at the regular meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Tuesday.

Magistrate Donald Bullock sat in for County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins who is on vacation through Thursdays (today).

Mrs. Verla Scott brought an estimate from the state Transportation Cabinet approving $51,269 for reconstruction of a low water ford and bridge and approaches on Otis Miracle Road about .1 of a mile from U.S. 25 in the Snyder area.

Mrs. Scott said she got the money but the county will have to do the work. The magistrates approved the project.

Mrs. Neureul Miracle spoke briefly emphasizing the need for the bridge.

Two other bridges are planned by the Transportation cabinet.

One is on Singleton Valley Road over Crooked Creek estimated at $67,200, and the other on Anglin Falls Road over Clear Creek at $43,000.

The state pays 80 percent and the county 20 percent of the cost of the bridges.

Still on the matter of roads and bridges, four roads were added to the county road program. They are: Hickory Hollow Drive, Spring Hill Lane, Murphy Martin Road Extension and right fork of Murphy Martin Road.

The Mareburg-Spiro Road also came up for discussion. Clarence Carter and several residents along the road asked the court to widen the road and have property owners move their property lines back and out of county right-of-way.

The magistrates agreed the project is needed but decided to wait until Judge Mullins returned before making a decision.

Mrs. Betty Lucksinger presented her final financial statement to the court which approved it pending an audit. Mrs. Lucksinger recently resigned.

Coffey of Burnside and Dennis Reynolds and Carter Blevins of Somerset.

The change assists the city by shortening the payback time and allows the city to have funds available for other economic development projects. The money can only be spent for economic development projects. Unable to attend the meeting were councilmen Arthur "Oot" Bond and Clark Mullins.

In other business, the council asked City Attorney John Clontz to prepare a lease for the successful bidder on the city boat dock at Lake Linville.

The bid package may be picked up after Thursday (today) at city hall. Bids will be opened at 7 p.m. April 22

Senior Charles Mink receives Otis A. Singletary Scholarship

Charles Mink, son of Bill and Louise Payne Mink, of Mt. Vernon, has received the prestigious Otis A. Singletary Scholarship from the University of Kentucky.

It was the first Singletary Scholarship to go to a Rockcastle student. In a letter to Charles, Kate Johnson, director of merit scholarship programs at U.K., said the University is pleased he will attend.

Charles, 18, will graduate from Rockcastle County High school this term. He has a 4.0 scholastic standing. At the university he plans to major in mathematical engineering. The monetary value of the scholarship covers the cost of room, board, books and tuition and a stipend.

High school principal Ronnie Cash said Charles' scholarship also speaks well of the high school and elementary school.

"It shows we have a good school system, both elementary and high school and we are especially proud of Charles. He is an excellent student," Cash said.

He added that several scholarships are awarded each year, and at city hall. The boat dock was put up for bids by the council after Jimmy Hale, present operator, apparently failed to notify the city he wanted to continue to operate the dock for another year, according to city officials.

Police Chief Bill Mink gave the council his report for March. It shows 236 complaints, 36 arrests, 7 motorist assists, 9 traffic accidents investigated, 3 public services rendered, one domestic violence incident, 4 cases opened, 2 Mt. Vernon fire runs, one Mt. Vernon rescue run, 3 false alarms, one fire assist and 3 transient reports.

Livingston Fire Department had 2 fire runs and 6 Firestry Service assists.

to continue in that position."

The court voted to name Joseph Clontz, certified public accountant, to replace Ms. Lucksinger as treasurer.

"scholarships make our school system shine."

He also noted that the new teachers now coming into state schools are better trained and that in turn adds to the academic excellence in both elementary and high school including Rockcastle.

Dear Editor,
Rockcastle County dairy farmers are in the midst of a financial crisis! Over the past three months milk prices have dropped more than 25 percent. According to the University of Kentucky the cost of producing 100 pounds of milk varies from $13 to $17. Farmers are now receiving from $11 to $12 per hundred weight. If the present trend is not reversed, dairy farmers in Kentucky and across the nation will have to "call it quits."
The recent price drop means $906 million in lost income to the state of Kentucky. Although farmers are getting less for their milk, the retail price for milk rose 9 percent during late 1990.

Farmers are uniting in Kentucky asking for a floor price of $17 to allow them to stay in business. In Canada the floor price for manufacturing milk is $18.41 -- in U.S. dollars. Milk processors and co-ops could put a floor under their pay price and Congress could reopen the dairy program and raise the floor price from the present $10.10 which is far below the cost of production.

I urge every dairy farmer in Rockcastle County to call your fieldman and co-op or processor president and to call your federal representative and your two Senators (Ford and McConnell) and tell them the facts.

Thank you,

Dear Editor,
Concerning the seventh and eighth grade banquet:

I will start by saying that I am an eighth grade student at Brookhead Elementary School. While I agree that some parents spend too much on formal clothing, I must also state that attire is not the reason for attending the banquet. I feel certain that when I went to the banquet last year, none of my friends were standing in the corner pondering over the cost of my dress, which by the way came to the outlandish price of $34. I was complimented on my appearance as much as anyone who spent their life savings on it. If you are attending and don't have a lot of money on your child, don't let it will not affect the good time that he/she has.

I will admit that there is pressure put on someone who will soon attend the banquet, but the pressure I am referring to is the uncertainty of whether that special someone will be your escort.

Dear Editor,
First of all, we would like to say thank you to the Mt. Vernon City Police Department. They have always been good to us since we moved to Mt. Vernon, even though we live just outside of the city limits. They have come when we called them and they couldn't get an answer when we called the sheriff's office.

January 15, 1991, around 1:30 in the afternoon, we drove into my aunt and uncle's yard. A drunk came in behind us, jumped my husband, kicked him in the leg, bit him in the mouth. We tried calling the sheriff's office, no answer. I finally called the city police, they said honey, the sheriff is on his way. We kept waiting and looking with the drunk threatening to kill us, finally the city police came. Some time later the sheriff came. By that time the drunk was gone. It seems some people can get the sheriff and the whole department to come any time within minutes. I don't understand this. I was always taught the law was supposed to protect all the people, not just their friends and relations. I must have been taught wrong. What I can't understand if the law won't protect its citizens, what do we need with them. About the drunk, my husband went up the same afternoon got a warrant for him because he kept screaming he was going to kill us all.

We were worried he might try something. We called the sheriff's department asking if he had been picked up yet. We did this for days, every time the answer was no, not yet. We didn't see him so we finally gave up. We stopped calling until two or three weeks later when we called again and were told yes, he came in a couple days ago.

The voters who put the law in effect, can just as easy vote them out. I hope they know that.

Dear Editor,
How many of us understand that God did not create the church through which to save the world? Jesus called twelve disciples to teach them how to preach and give the good news to the people and help them to know what they need to do to be saved. How careful must we be about whom we should place our faith. After we've heard our favorite preacher, should we check our scriptures to see how accurate he is?

When Jesus selected the twelve disciples, did he deliberately select Judas? Jesus said, "None is perfect except the Father which is in heaven."

When God gave Adam the throne to rule the world, he committed a sin. God threw him out of the Garden of Eden. So Lucifer took over.

Now Saddam Hussein, together with Lucifer are having a jolly old time. They have guided the world into a master piece of puzzlement of evil doings that no President, Czar, Emir, General, King and no one else can ever set right, except the Lord Jesus Christ, when he comes down to stop all of this Tom Foolery.

For thirty years I have not been able to go out in the evening to walk in the lovely moon light.

Thank you sincerely,
Margaret Dyechose

Watershed event promises cure

Before the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation was founded in 1955, parents of children with cystic fibrosis were told not to expect to see any major medical breakthrough in their lifetime. In 1989, scientists funded by the Foundation isolated the gene which causes cystic fibrosis and identified the protein that the gene creates.

Cystic fibrosis is a complicated disease, one in which an errant gene leads to abnormal secretions in the lungs, the pancreas and the sweat glands. The identification of the gene was a watershed event.

If you've ever gotten in on our great seed catalogue scam, you have, by now, discovered that catalogues aren't all you suddenly start getting in the mail. Seed catalogue companies share their mailing lists with a great number of other enterprises which do their transacting via the postal system, so you also hear from them.

Hardly a day goes by at our place, for instance, that we do not get offers for life insurance at unbelievable rates left in our mail box. Window companies write us weekly as do folks who deal in fake diamonds that "not even your jeweler will be able to distinguish from the real thing".

In fact, I've been thinking about sending off for one of those diamonds because Loretta has a birthday coming up. I figure if a jeweler can't recognize it as a fake, my wife won't either so what the heck. Loretta could look well-heeled for $6.95 plus postage and handling. The first trouble is, the diamonds are always something like 13 carats—big as a paper weight. And Loretta knows that I can't afford anything large enough to see with the naked eye. So, if I bought her one, she'd know right off that it wasn't real.

The second trouble is, I can't even afford one of those little 1/64 carat jobs either if we're talking about the real thing, so I've written to see what kind of a deal they are going on shares that have fallen off the big fakes. If the 13 carat jobs are going for seven bucks, I figure something like a 1/3 carat ought to be worth around 39 cents. And I'd just about bet that Loretta would fall for that if I took it over to the jewelry store and had it mounted in a real ring. I figure 27 bucks and I could have her thinking I blew $200. She'd be tickled to death.

And the Troybilt company buys every single mailing list from every company in the world that sells anything remotely related to gardening. This year we sent the seed catalogue takers off to 43 companies. That means you should hear from Troybilt tillers 172 times in the next 90 days. Their style is to send out a thick red and green brochure in which they have their machine priced in the same range as an XKE Jaguar sports car.

In a week or two, they'll be back in touch to let you know that the price has come down. I know from experience that their fourth offer is the best you're gonna get.

We measure our Troybilt mail by the pine. In other words, three pine trees have been required to make the paper that they have mailed to our address this year. I'm not the only one who gets it. It comes to Loretta, three kids and four other people who have also lived here at some time in this century.

If you're an honest fisherman and you've been had by Bassin on the same scam, please get in touch with me. If a few of us pool our disgust we may be able to afford a visit with a lawyer. There may be grounds for a suit here because these scoundrels are giving fishing a bad name. I want to check into it. The very least we might accomplish is to bring enough stink that the good people in Oklahoma will run this bunch back to the hole they sneaked out of.

laugh each time I recall the scene or think of the trip I made to Florida with Judy.

Westward—HO—
Quite a different kind of scene impressed me as I was traveling with Ish on our way to Arizona.

We were drowsy driving through the desert of Western Texas or maybe N. Mexico, watching the far away mountains slowly ease a bit closer when suddenly something rolled a cross the road in front of us. Ish kept calmly driving paying no attention to it which caused me to take a closer look. It was then I realized I was seeing tumbleweeds frolicking along this nice smooth highway. Here would be a very little clump of weeds suddenly joined by another and another until a big ball would be bouncing along. Then another change could be seen as little bits would drop off the flat parent ball and join with others and here it would go again usually ending up in the desert where it would grow to great proportions and skip off into the distance. Of course I didn't get to see the whole process at one time but as we traveled a hundred miles or so I'm sure I saw the whole process of a tumbleweed in its making. They are so carefree and dance along so happily as they gain size then lose it just as quickly. It's as if they are dancing to the tune of the wind, as they conceive and deliver babies all along the roadside then tumble on into the desert to continue their frolicking.

The wild and woolly west we have all read about has cause for its title if Tombstone, Az. is a sample of all the west when it was being settled.

Many things in this little town with the famous name are the same as when Wyatt Epp, Doc Holiday and the Younger Brothers fought it out at the battle of the O.K. Corral. It was one of the bloodiest battles fought between law and outlaw on record. (I think they were all outlaws if their bits and pieces of history I have read are true).

That was the day the street literally ran red with human blood, or so the record said. The door ways and trees on the street have signs on them telling the names of those killed at that very spot.

The gallows in the court yard is evidence of what they called justice for the outlaw. The names of those hung publicly are listed beside the door.

The fun of traveling is mostly made up of things we see and do that are unusual or outstanding enough to make them stand out in our memory long after the trip is over. That is what makes traveling fun.

I'd like to reclaim a few of my memories of such things and share them with you.

The trip I made to Florida with Judy will be a good place to start. We were cruising along enjoying the long stretches of road that would look great white ribbons through Georgia's fields of grain and occasional pecan groves when I spied a huge tractor trailer parked on the shoulder of the road. Naturally I thought the driver must be having trouble so I took a closer look to see what kind it was. When I laughed out loud at the problem he was having Judy slowed down a bit so she could also see what had made me laugh. She was a bit too late to see what had triggered my funny bone so I had to tell her what I had seen.

Out in this big field of stubble was a huge man whom I was sure was the driver of the rig. He just look like a big truck driver. He was walking very slowly with what looked like a leash in his hand. Sure enough on the other end of this leash was a very small white dog. It looked like a miniature poodle or Pekingsie but regardless of breed it was a funny sight to see such a big man, evidently the driver of the big rig, waiting for this tiny bit of fluff to take care of its needs. The memory will bring a smile to my face or a good belly

Crab Orchard man charged

Writing up the charges on a motorist arrested in Drubher's parking lot last week took more than the usual time.

Deputy Sheriff Ronnie Roark charged Dennis Killian of Rt. 1 Crab Orchard, with trafficking in marijuana less than eight ounces (43 bags), driving under the influence of alcohol (third offense), no registration plates, use of drug paraphernalia, carrying a concealed weapon, operating a motor vehicle on a suspended license and no insurance.

Killian posted 10 percent of a $10,000 bond for his disappearance April 15 in District Court.

town, called boot hill fascinated me. Not because of the names of all the famous or infamous lawmakers and lawbreakers on them, but because of the names of some of those outstanding citizens with fitting epitaphs in detail on their headstones or a plaque beside the stone.

One was of the negro living there at that time and his epitaph of his dedication to humanity and how he was loved by all who knew him.

Another with an old rusty iron fence around it was of a Chinese citizen that spent a life time trying to make Tombstone a better place in which to live. His epitaph gave in detail many of the good works he had done.

Then down in the corner of the cemetery I saw another fenced in section which I had to investigate. In the center of this section was a very small ornate Jewish Synagogue. The graves surrounding it all had Jewish sounding names on them.

What a pleasant surprise to me to find this variety of people laid to their eternal rest in such a neat orderly way without thought of social standing, race, creed or color, way back when our country was being settled and we were stretching our way westward.

Other memories of special times and scenes come crowding back and one is an especially pleasing one. It happened on the trip Mat and I took not long before we discovered his traveling days were about over and he had cancer.

We had toured the west, a dream he had always cherished. We had visited his kin folk and mine scattered through out the states we drove through.

Our last visit was with my nephew in Houston, Tx. and it was he that told us of the bridge across Lake Puchanchain in Louisiana. At first it was just another scenic place being described then it became a place we wanted to see. After we got through the traffic of Baton Rouge, La. Mat said, "Let's go see it." So I drove like the Kentucky hot rodder I had the reputation of being so we could arrive in New Orleans before sunset and cross the bridge in daylight. This is a 27 mile long bridge over the lake and takes awhile to cross. We began our drive across just as the sun was going down. The sight was awesome. The setting sun glinting on the little wavelets looked like diamonds glittering on black velvet. Traffic passed us by as we stopped repeatedly at the pull offs just so we could drink in this beauty. Suddenly I realized we were looking at water that was lighted with moonbeams and knew it had turned dark before we were half way across.

Shifting into driving gear we headed for shore and a motel. The first one we found with an empty room was forty miles up the highway toward home.

The excitement of what we had seen kept us awake late. None the less we were up early the next morning and were ready to take off for Kentucky when Mat asked how I was feeling. Puzzled by his sudden concern, I said, "fine" and climbed in the car. It was then he wanted to know if I felt up to driving back to New Orleans so we could cross the bridge again and this time in full day light.

Since I had been wanting to do the same thing my answer was, "Yes go."

This time we entered the toll gate as the sun was rising and drove toward the bustling city of New Orleans, the sky line clear against a cloudless sky. Again we took our time and traveled in the slow lane so we could see every boat large and small that was scattered over that huge blue lake. Close to the end of the bridge we turned around in the space provided for it and finally and happily headed for home with a very precious memory tucked away in our memory bank.

Rainbows
A person never knows what he or she will encounter between the loading up of his/her car and his/her destination when a long trip is in the making.

It may be an unusual scene will pop up or the radio will bring back the music of yesterday that will flood the soul with joy. It could be the traffic which awakens memories of a time when there was less need for concentration and more time for browsing along. It can be the weather which changes constantly as the miles fly by that can cause us to see things and have emotions that would otherwise go unnoticed?

Such was the case when I made my first trip alone after Mat had been gone for about a month.

I was in the depths of despair. I felt alone and deserted. The world was all black as if the sun had gone out of my life once and for all. I didn't know which way to turn nor to whom I should turn. It was then Judy asked me to visit with her for awhile. That's all I needed, just an invitation to go anywhere was gladly accepted and from July it was an answer to my prayer.

So one morning I left the bleak house behind me and headed north to Michigan. Since this was the first trip I had taken as a widow the loneliness soaked into every fiber of my being. I could feel Mats presence in the seat beside me. That was the seat he had sat in when we made all those trips to the doctor and hospital. Often I would turn my head to ask a question of him or see how he was faring. Then the tears would well and almost blind me when I saw the empty seat, slightly inclined, where he always sat. He always liked for me to do the driving. He said he felt safe and secure with me at the wheel.

I had been driving through a misty, cold rain all the way through Kentucky and Ohio which had not helped my dark mood and the gloom in the car one bit.

Then just as I entered Michigan the sun popped out and lo and behold a bright rainbow appeared. It curved up and over the road beginning in a field of stubble on my left and sinking to rest in a field of stubble on my right.

This gorgeous bright rainbow, the sign of hope and the omen of brighter days ahead, stayed over me like a shadowy wing of love the rest of my way to Flint, some fifty or sixty miles. It was as if Mat had drawn a bright handkerchief from his pocket and said, "Now Zi, thats about enough of those tears wipe them away and smile again."

He always was one to use pretty handkerchiefs.

Kentucky Housing has $10 million to loan

Kentucky Housing Corporation has $10 million in home loan financing for KHC-eligible homebuyers at interest rates ranging from 8.00 percent to 8.45 percent fixed. The home loans will have a term of 25 or 30 years and will be available on a first-come, first-served basis through participating financial institutions across the state.

Home loans are made to finance the purchase of existing properties (single-family dwellings that have been previously occupied) that cost $60,000 or less and new properties

FHA program will help local farmers

Farmers Home Administration is launching a new program to help local farmers obtain credit from local lenders, according to Mary Ann Baron, FmHA State Director for Kentucky.

Known as the Interest Assistance Program, it provides strong incentives for commercial lenders to make loans to farmers who otherwise would not qualify.

Under the new program, FmHA will pay up to 4 percentage points of interest for farmers to help them qualify for FmHA guaranteed loans. "If a creditworthy farmer cannot obtain cash flow with a bank loan at regular interest rates, we can pay part of that interest for him until he can," Ms. Baron said.

The percentage of interest FmHA will pay depends on the financial condition of the farmer. FmHA will pay only the number of points necessary to help the farmer cash flow with a small reserve.

A FmHA guaranteed loan is made by a bank, Farm Credit services, or other lenders with an agreement from FmHA that if the loan goes bad, FmHA will compensate the lender for up to 90 percent of its loss. "That guarantee plus the new interest assistance," Ms. Baron said, "should greatly increase availability of farm credit through the private sector."

"The program was created as a part of the 1990 Farm Bill and was put on a fast track, so as to assist farmers in time for the 1991 planting season," Ms. Baron added.

According to Ms. Baron, the level of interest assistance will be adjusted each year, based on a review of the borrower's need for continued assistance. In addition, a borrower must be able to project a positive cash flow, including a 10 percent debt-service reserve to qualify for assistance. This is the same rule for guaranteed farm loans not receiving interest assistance.

Additional details about the Interest Assistance Program can be obtained from any FmHA county or district office or from the FmHA state office at 333 Waller Avenue, Lexington, KY 40504.

Rogers wants witness fees for prisoners stopped

Following up on an earlier victory, U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers introduced legislation Friday that would prohibit the payment of witness fees to federal, state and local prisoners.

"Every day, we spend $28 million to enforce this nation's federal laws, to bring justice to justice and to put criminals behind bars," said Rogers. "Protecting the rights and the safety of our citizens is an expensive and necessary obligation."

"However, it is not an obligation which requires the taxpayer to foot the bill for dubious expenses," he added.

On Jan. 8, 1991, the Supreme Court ruled that state prisoners were entitled to fact witness fees for their appearance at federal trials. The opinion reversed a longstanding practice on the part of the Justice Department which argued that prisoners should not be paid as witnesses.

Earlier this month, Congress approved stopgap legislation offered by Rogers which prohibited "such payments from federal funds appropriated in the current or previous fiscal years. The bill he introduced Friday would amend the U.S. Code, permanently making prisoners ineligible for the fees.

"The Justice Department estimates its cost at up to $11 million this year alone to pay inmates for testifying in court about the facts of a case," Rogers said. "This is money the Department did not expect to pay -- to a class of individuals who do not deserve to be paid."

"This is a ridiculous policy," he added. "If not changed, it will cost taxpayers millions of dollars each year, money that could be put to far better and more appropriate uses."

(single-family dwellings that have not been previously occupied) that cost $63,000 or less. All loans will carry either Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance or Veterans Administration guarantee and will require down payments of less than 5 percent.

These funds will allow more than 200 individuals and/or families to achieve homeownership, according to John G. Martinez, KHC executive director. "Homeownership is not only wanted, but needed by most Kentuckians. These funds are yet another example of KHC's sustained commission's desire to assist individuals and families in becoming homeowners."

If accumulating funds for the required down payment and closing costs associated with obtaining the loan are a problem, KHC offers a mortgage assistance program called EPIC - Equity Partners Investing in the Commonwealth. Under the closing costs (up to $3,000) at a 6 percent interest rate for a term of 7 years.

For more information on home loan financing or EPIC, please call KHC's homeownership department at (502)564-7630, (800)633-8896 (Kentucky only) or (800)247-2510 (for hearing impaired only).

World Health Day helps increase awareness

April 7 is World Health Day, the day adopted by the World Health Organization in 1950 to increase public awareness of worldwide health problems and what can be done to prevent them. Its objective and goal of WHO is 'Healthy for All by the Year 2000.'

Nature on KET travels to wilds of Minnesota to meet black bears

Minnesota black bears have a trusted friend in Lynn Rogers, a naturalist who studies bears and is featured in "Nature" Black Bear of the North, premiering on KET at 7 p.m. Sunday, April 7.

Rogers has dedicated more than 20 years of his life to studying the black bear and has proved that its reputation as one of the most ferocious and destructive North American creatures is false.

Mrs. Lucksinger and her husband live in Broadhead. She was appointed solid waste clerk and executive secretary to County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins Oct. 1. Later, she switched jobs with Lillie Lawhorn, who was treasurer.

The treasurer job pays $785 a month.

Also resigning was county road supervisor Elmo Andorfin. He was replaced by Chester C. Lakes of Mt. Vernon.

Andorfin resigned because of health problems. However, he said he would be available to help out if needed. The job pays $5 an hour.
Lakes, 55, and a native of Rockcastle, has been on call for the road department for several months. He has been a real estate broker, heavy equipment operator, production control supervisor, forklift operator, and has worked for the Internal Revenue Service.

He is a graduate of the Air Force Non-commissioned Officer Academy. He and his wife have three children.

Judge Mullins told the court there will be another change in the road department. Three employees within the department will be named crew leaders.

One leader will handle preparing county roads for blacktop, including ditching. Another will have general duties such as looking at various roads to determine needs. The third will oversee emergency needs of roads, and the money appropriated for emergency needs.

Rogers backs no one

The minority leader in the State Senate says he hasn't thrown his support behind either Congressman Larry Hopkins or Lexington attorney Larry Forgy, the contenders for the GOP nomination in the 1991 race for governor, and he isn't certain he ever will, according to a report in Paluski Week newspaper.

As the ranking Republican in the state legislature's upper house, Sen. John Rogers of Somerset said Tuesday it "might be best for the party if I take a neutral position."

Rogers says he has trouble understanding some recent decisions made by Hopkins, specifically citing the Congressman's choice of Sen. David Williams of Burkesville as his campaign manager. Williams was the chief challenger of Rogers in last month's party election of legislative leaders and dissented from the party line by voting in favor of the Kentucky Education Reform Act and its $1 million-plus tax package last spring.

While Rogers wouldn't go so far as to say Williams' management of the Hopkins' campaign would cause him to lean toward Forgy, "it definitely straightened what hearing I had toward Mr. Hopkins," he said.

Teen Center Perspectives

Teen Center Perspectives

This is a commercial. The promoted product is not a tangible one. The product is not a whole thing. It is something like a share of stock in a company that makes small components for medical apparatus or space shuttles that we somehow perceive as promising or valuable to our economy and well-being.

The ultimate product, in this case, is confident, knowledgeable, self-sufficient, contributing young adults to sustain and improve upon the American system in which we all share. Schools and youth programs, along with families, shape the small components which are vital to the whole. The CAP Teen Center has twenty-eight young people working weekly on preparation and learning to get the most out of a ten day trip to the nation's capital and the territory of the Pilgrims and the American Revolution. They must each contribute $100 to their expenses, and many are finding it difficult to sell their sponsorship tickets at $5 a piece. These deserving teens need sponsors. Contributions of even $1 will be welcome. If you choose to buy a $5 sponsorship ticket you may have it deposited in a drawing to win 4100. Any contributions by individuals and organizations will be gratefully accepted at the Teen Center (Box 117 Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon). This will be distributed equally among the travelers, or you may personally contribute to one of them.

If you believe in the value of travel for young people, you may wish to support one segment of the trip, such as the boat ride to George Washington's Mount Vernon ($250), or a tour of the Mayflower and Plymouth plantation ($125), or perhaps you would like to donate the wreath to be placed on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. A reminder to teens who plan to sell tickets at Krogers in Richmond this Thursday: the van will leave the Teen Center promptly at 12 noon and pick up Conway teens at Brad's store at about 12:15. This will take the place of the regular trip group meeting.

A special production, "Whatever Happened to Joe?", will be performed by youth from the Lighthouse Assembly of God, during Teen Challenge time at 6 p.m., Thursday. Teens selling tickets will be back in time for this program. All teens and other interested members of the community are invited to attend.

Week's Schedule

Controlling nodding thistle in grass pastures and hayfields

By: Tom Mills
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Early to mid-spring is a good time to take steps to control nodding thistle.

Nodding thistle is becoming one of the most common weed problems in grass pastures and hayfields in Rockcastle County. It not only reduces pasture productivity, it also discourages livestock from grazing close because of its spiny nature.

The only way nodding thistle spreads is by producing seed. A mature plant can produce up to 400,000 to 500,000 seeds. More than 4,000 of these seeds can become new plants the following year. The seed are easily scattered to other locations by the wind, contaminated hay, or farm equipment.

The primary control step is to prevent new seed from being produced. In March and April, chemical control is a farmer's best weapon against this noxious weed.

Timing the herbicide application is one of the most important aspects of effective chemical control. So, spray in March and early April when plants are actively growing and in the rosette stage. This is when they are more susceptible to a herbicide treatment. When a herbicide is applied after flower stalks elongate, control is inconsistent and less effective.

2,4-D and Banvel are two herbicides that can be used to control nodding thistle rosettes in grass pastures and non-cropland areas. For best results with a herbicide, the air temperature should be above 55 degrees Fahrenheit for two to three days before application. It also is important to cover the plants com-

Extension Home Economics

Start with a nutritious breakfast

A good way to bite into a healthy lifestyle is to start each day with a nutritious breakfast.

Our grandfathers usually had a hearty breakfast of meat, eggs, biscuits and gravy to provide energy for a hard day's work. Today, most people do not require as many calories, nor do they need the high amounts of fat and cholesterol in the "lumberjack" breakfast. So, make a "lumberjack" breakfast an occasional treat rather than a daily habit.

Foods in the bread and cereal group are an important part of a nutritious breakfast. The recommended number of servings was increased recently to six or more a day, up from four.

Another problem fitting some foods into a nutritious breakfast is the differences in ingredients and sizes of homemade versus commercial products, as well as variations among commercial products.

The fat content of French toast increases greatly when it is deep-fried, as is often done in fast-food establishments.

A Tufts University study of commercially prepared muffins found they contained a range of 7 to 25 grams of fat and 200 to 692 calories. They ranged from 2.5 to 4.4 ounces in size.

Because waffles, doughnuts, French toast, biscuits and muffins generally have a higher fat and caloric content and variations in ingredients and sizes, they should be eaten only occasionally for breakfast.

A healthy breakfast should include an item from at least three basic food groups -- vegetable and fruit, bread and cereal, milk and cheese. Including a serving from the meat, poultry, fish and beans groups is fine, too, especially for people who need extra protein, calories and iron.

Wise choices in the bread and cereal group in one-serving equivalents are a slice of whole-grain bread; one ounce of ready-to-eat cereal, with a whole grain listed as the first or second ingredient; one-half to three-fourths cup of cooked cereal; and one-half bagel or English muffin. Each of these foods is about equal nutritionally. They provide at least two grams of protein, one-half to two milligrams of iron, and adequate B vitamins, including thiamine, riboflavin and niacin. An added bonus is that each contains only about one gram of fat and under 200 calories.

Although pancakes are similar nutritionally to other foods in the bread and cereal group, they are higher in fat, containing two to three grams on average. Avoid smothering them with high-calorie, high-fat toppings. Some foods in the bread and cereal group are better choices than others because they contain more fiber.

The fiber content depends upon the type of flour used. Whole-grain breads and cereals provide about two grams of dietary fiber, while foods made with enriched flour have less than one gram. The fiber content of ready-to-eat cereals ranges from less than one gram to 14 grams per serving. Most hot cereals provide at least two grams of fiber.

Consumers are advised to check the side panels of cereal boxes for the amount of dietary fiber the product contains, rather than depending on wording such as "extra fiber" or "a good source of fiber" on the front of the box. To increase the fiber content of cereals, add fruits such as apple or

IN MEMORY OF

Happy Birthday to our mom. Though God has called you home the ones you left behind still have you in our hearts. You were such a wonderful mother, wife, grandmother, and mother-in-law, that we have a hard time letting you go. You got such pleasure from simple things that now we too appreciate them. The first bloom of spring brought such a smile to your face, as did baby kittens and little chicks. All the little things you noticed and loved we do too. That's one way to keep you with us forever. You still touch our lives every day.

Happy Birth day to Sylvia Easter McGuire

Late death notice!

The Attic

By: Mayzell Ries

I went up to the attic, the other day
And found a box of memories
That had been put away.

There was a baseball cap,
And some tiny clothes,
Where is that little boy,
Who wore all of those?

That little boy of long ago,
Isn't little any more,
And I miss him so.

He's all grown up,
And now he's a man,
And sometimes I wish,
My son was little again.

Oh, Daffodil
Your face is open to the sky.
You nod with pleasure
As the wind passes by,
You smile so divinely,
As the sun shines through.
You shed tears of beauty,
As the dew soaks you through.
You bow your head,
As you wait for the sunrise anew.
You are an earthly treasure,
Bringing news of spring's embrace.
Oh, Daffodil,
What a pleasure
To see you endure
The storms of March.
Spring is truly here!

Many out-of-state potato seed suppliers and local retailers are unaware of a quarantine on some Canadian seed potato lots. Due to this, some quarantined potatoes are entering the state and being offered for sale. Home gardeners are urged to check the certification tag for state of origin. Any potatoes from Canada should have their lot number compared to a list posted at the Agriculture Service Center. Those on the list are cleared for planting in Kentucky. Others should be returned!!!

The reason for the quarantine is to avoid possible introduction of a potato Y virus (PVY-N). This virus could be an enormous problem to tobacco producers. Most tobacco virus' lower tobacco yields and have no treatments available. Prevention is the best way in avoiding the introduction of an uncontrollable disease which could cost tobacco farmers millions of dollars.

Soybean Yield

If through new technology soybean yields could be dramatically increased in good years -- and no abnormal losses were likely in bad years -- would Kentucky farmers opt for the new techniques?

Stay tuned over the next several years to see, because that's exactly what research at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture is seeking to determine.

"We're working on experiments in growing soybeans in very narrow rows where each plant is equally spaced from its neighbor," said Dennis Egli, a UK research agronomist. "Basically, we know we have data that show when we go to very narrow rows we get higher yields."

He added, "We think this occurs mostly when overall yields are high. But in bad years, narrow rows and conventional rows appear to produce about the same."

Egli's hypothesis proves true as the experiments continue -- the implications are that farmers would be better off using the narrow rows, Egli said. They won't do any worse, and in good years they could do significantly better.

Egli will explain the UK experiments to those attending this year's Agronomy Field Day on July 18 at Spindletop in Lexington. That field day also will feature results of UK research in other areas such as corn, tobacco, forages and agricultural biotechnology. Egli explained that UK's research has concentrated on soybean rows spaced seven inches apart compared with the conventional 30-inch spread. Those attending the field day will have an opportunity to look at demonstrations of soybeans grown at both distances.

"Some farmers already are growing soybeans with more narrow rows," Egli said. "The general trend is in that direction. We're looking for answers to why we get higher yields with narrow rows in good years. In bad years, the yield in both narrow and traditional 30-inch rows were about the same."

The UK research is now in its second year and will continue another season to determine the why to that question.

Plant Protector

Watchdogs notify home owners when a potentially dangerous intruder arrives. Greenhouse growers must also beware of intruders, especially viruses that hurt plants. Their best defense: petunias.

Kentucky greenhouse growers can use petunias to detect tomato spotted wilt virus, which can infect all plants normally grown in a greenhouse, said John Hartman, a plant pathologist at the University of Kentucky.

"Petunia plants are so susceptible to the virus that they will show symptoms early," said Hartman. Placing yellow (non-sticky) boards adjacent to the petunias will attract the virus-carrying insects.

The infested insects are the western flower thrips, which are less than two millimeters long. "Recently, wilting, stem death, poor flowering and ring spots on leaves have been detected in Kentucky greenhouse crops," Hartman said. The tomato spotted wilt virus also can cause stunting, yellowing, sunken spots and etching.

Hartman, also an Extension specialist at the UK College of Agriculture, said that TSWV is commonly thought of by growers as unavoidable and uncontrollable. "However, growers who aggressively attack the problem can avoid crop losses by controlling thrips."

Other methods of effective disease management Hartman said include:

- Inspecting all incoming plants for TSWV symptoms and destroying infested plants.
- If in doubt, throw plants out -- infested plants cannot be cured.

through the propagation even without the thrips.

Many diseases and plant problems can cause symptoms similar to TSWV. "Unfortunately, the symptoms are not very specific or consistent, and merely tell the grower that something is wrong with the plant," said Hartman.

Positive diagnosis can be made at a disease clinic. "Greenhouse floral and bedding crops like impatiens, gloxinias, and begonias are affected. Tobacco and solanaceous vegetables are also susceptible," said Hartman. "Almost all plants in the greenhouse are susceptible to this virus."

pletely with the spray. As with any herbicide, read the label and understand instructions for proper use and precautionary statements.

The following guidelines are given for using 2,4-D or Banvel:

• Do not spray near crops that are sensitive to these herbicides, such as tobacco and home gardens.

• Avoid spray drift by using low spray pressures and by not spraying on windy days or days with extremely high temperature and high humidity.

To assist farmers in controlling this noxious weed, the Department of Agriculture will be spraying 10 acre demonstration plots during late April -- to register for assistance, contact Tom Mills at the County Extension Office at 256-2403 by April 15th.

Fifteen cultivating arrests in Rockcastle

In a 1988 report released by the Kentucky Criminal Justice Cabinet, arrests for marijuana cultivation were made in 68 counties, with Rockcastle having the highest number of cultivation arrests at 15.

However, the county reported no marijuana trafficking citations were issued.

The 1989, 1990 season is predicted to show a marked increase over 1988. Drug statistics always lag behind in reporting, due in part to difficulties in compiling them on the local level. Several thousand plants were found in the county last summer and destroyed by State Police and Sheriff's deputies.

The 1988 report showed that Larue, Elliott and Rockcastle also had a strikingly high incidence of felony marijuana activities.

The report points out that marijuana cultivation is "spreading across the entire state. Also, cultivation is moving more and more onto public lands."

Marijuana cultivators have initiated more careful and precise growing techniques drastically increasing the quality of their product. The marijuana industry in Kentucky has been developing higher and more complex levels of organization.

In fact, State Police intelligence reports have asserted that in recent years marijuana growers and processors have formed a cartel which "combines cash, machinery, knowledge, and manpower to process and distribute multi-ton quantities of the drug to at least 12 other states."

A January 1988 Drug Enforcement Agency report confirmed this view, noting the cartel as "the largest organized marijuana operation in the U.S."

The report also points out that "the attractiveness of marijuana cultivation and trafficking in Kentucky is going to increase with the obvious downward trend in the tobacco industry."

"As the tobacco industry declines we can expect more and more tobacco beds to be turned into marijuana plots," the report notes. "Legitimate farmers are beginning to turn to marijuana cultivation as they increasingly are facing financial difficulties."

The report also goes into the distribution of cocaine, of which 10 percent of the drug were reported in the county.

A few other points: drug offenders are far more likely to be male than female. Offenders are overwhelmingly white (93.7 percent) to 6.4 percent for minority groups.

Remember to set clocks ahead Sunday at 2 a.m.

Employees of the Rockcastle County Adult Day Center at Brodhead sponsored an Easter Egg Hunt last Thursday for 18 preschoolers from Brodhead Elementary.

Party-lines may be coming to an end in county

A decision yesterday by the Kentucky Public Service Commission could mark the beginning of the end of party-line telephone service in the state.

The commission ordered Contel of Kentucky to eliminate four-party telephone lines by July 1994 and to abolish a monthly mileage charge for some customers in party-line areas. The order also announced the commission's intent to investigate the elimination of four- and eight-party line services in Kentucky's western and Brodhead, 37.

A check with Contel shows that the Mt. Vernon area has 54 on four-party lines.

Livingston has 7 four-party lines and 37 one-party lines.

A Contel spokesman stressed that the Rockcastle system has been upgraded. He said persons now with four-party service chose that service.

"Four-party service is their choice," he noted. "We could furnish them private line service if they wanted it."

There are 3,144 Contel customers in Mt. Vernon, 1,196 in Brodhead and 376 in Livingston.

According to a story in the Lexington Herald-Leader, the commission's order gives Contel 90 days to present detailed plans for modernizing 14 telephone exchanges that have

LEAP members meet partners

Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress Inc. manager, Ina Taylor and Betty Sowder, president, spent March 16 through March 25 in Florida with the Central Florida Presbytery. L.E.A.P. Inc. is the Presbytery's new 2 cent per meal Appalachian partner from which LEAP receives monthly funding.

The 2 cent per meal program raises thousands of dollars yearly for needy families throughout the world. Presbyterian families set a can on the kitchen table and every time they have lunch persons donate 2 cents.

Betty and Ina presented a slide show of LEAP Inc.'s Opportunity for Women, Heifer Project International, garden seed and sorghum projects at the seventh Annual Celebration of central Florida Presbyterian Churches and Wekiva, Southminster and Rockledge Churches.

While there, Betty and Ina toured the Second Harvest Food Bank, John F. Kennedy Space Center, Disneyland, also attended Port Canaveral Seafood Festival, and visited Cocoa and Daytona beaches.

Once a marine, always a marine...

The recent war in the Persian Gulf has stirred many emotions for former American soldiers and Ebb Allen of Orlando is no exception.

Allen recently recounted his days when he served his country as a U.S. Marine.

"Once a marine always a marine," said Allen who has a vast knowledge and amazing memory of many Rockcastle Countians who have served in the U.S. Marine Corp throughout the years.

"The men and women in today's military forces were magnificent in the Persian Gulf War," Allen said. "They helped to raise America's stock all over the world by 200 percent," he said.

Allen said that he did not think the average person really understands what it takes to be a soldier, to be away from home, away from family and friends, "We really owe these people

Three members of the Fighting Third Marine Corp are shown above as they take a group of Japanese orphans to dinner on Christmas Day in 1954. The three soldiers are from left, Blueback, Cpl. Ebb Hen Allen of Rockcastle County and Cpl. Sam Cordeur of Crab Orchard.

Others serving in the Marine Corp included, James O. Smith, Joe Allen, Joe Clark, Clayton Ponder, Birchell Clark, Denzil Allen, Edward Pace, Howard Pace, Bobby Mullins, Glen Burdette and Eugene Collins. "These are just a few marines that have served their country with pride," Allen said.

Here's hoping for a better place in what is supposed to be the best.....

We received notice this week that the powers to be were re-working Rockcastle's Emergency Assistance Program.

The food bank will be moved to a larger building and will expand its services.

Once in full operation the program will provide a nutrition program, and services for senior citizens and a prenatal program as well as providing personal items that cannot be purchased with food stamps. REAP will be operated in conjunction with a clothing bank and will carry such needed items as kerosene heaters.

One thing about the notice we received that bothered me, was the statement that it has to be a real emergency now to receive food.

I wonder if somewhere down the line someone or maybe a whole bunch of someones have missed the point of REAP entirely. I wonder how accurately those in charge of the program will be able to judge whether it is a real emergency. To me if someone is hungry, especially children, it is an emergency.

There is no doubt that the program has been abused by some and it will be abused in the future, no matter how strict the guidelines are or who administers the program.

Several months ago REAP was new and out, but because of many generous donations and the efforts of many local people and a food drive by John McQueary and his 4-her's the program has continued to provide food for those who need it.

We certainly hope the program, the best in which ever direction it goes, but we also hope that it doesn't become so bogged down by red tape and bureaucratic procedures that people who really need the program are somehow passed over. One hungry child is one too many.

On the subject of being hungry, a story in the Lexington Herald-Leader last week revealed that as many as one in every eight children in the United States are probably hungry.

That is almost unbelievable and certainly unacceptable. We supposedly live in the greatest country in the world, yet our governments waste billions and billions of dollars each year on senseless unneeded state and federal programs.

If the report is true, and I'm inclined to think it probably is, it is time for a change. It is time to elect more humanitarian leaders who will take steps to feed the hungry and find housing for the homeless. We don't see it here in Rockcastle County, but homelessness is a real problem in this country and it is getting worse.

CHARTING ROCKCASTLE

By Richard Anderlkin Managing Editor

I know that it is the American way to work hard and to improve your economic situation, but every now and then some of us need a helping hand.

Last week my family and I were visiting relatives in Florida when I picked up a Miami Herald and began to flip through it. What I found was tragically, almost unbelievable that it could happen in the U.S.

The story did not concern Florida, but it was an AP report or special to the Herald. It seems that during the last days of winter in a northern Atlantic coast city, two small children froze to death as they layed on the street.

The children, two and four, a boy and a girl, were abandoned by their parents who had lost everything they had because of drugs. Apparently the family had been living on the street for several months, living by whatever means they could. According to the story, the parents of these two innocent children either forgot them, or decided it was too much trouble to drag them along as they tried to fill their craving for drugs and alcohol.

To make a long story short, the two had been found lying side by side, hand in hand, on the street, with only thin jackets on their small bodies. They had froze to death, but according to the coroner's report, it would have only been a matter of time, before they would have probably died from malnutrition, if their situation had not changed.

Sure we need to work hard to improve our situation and should have little sympathy for these adults unwilling to work, but what about the small victims that can do nothing about their situation. What about the two and four year old children dying in the street.

Ninety-nine percent of all politicians are always telling you what they have done for you or what they are going to do for you. Well, chances are you are a registered voter who has the resources to donate to their campaign. What I want to know, is what are they going to do to get innocent victims off the street.

I know I have written about it many, many times, but it doesn't take a genius to figure out that this country can do without all the mail sent out by U.S. Congressmen and Senators.

Saddle Club

The Saddle Club Banquet was held March 23rd. There were numerous plaques and trophies awarded to officers and riders. Roger Bullock won the GE Camcorder that was given away by drawing.

The regular monthly business meeting was held, Mon., April 1 at 7 p.m. at the Saddle Club building where we discussed the scheduled rides that will start April 7th. The first ride will be at Gene Greys farm at 2 p.m. April 7th. Everyone is welcomed to join and ride with us. We'd be glad to have you.

Attend school

Deputy sheriffs Ronnie Roark and Phillip Chestnut attended a one-week training course at the Federal Law Enforcement Training Center at Glyneo, Ga.

The course is sponsored by the Forest Service, Kentucky State Police, Drug Enforcement Administration, National Guard, Park Service Police and the U.S. Attorney General's office.

Correction

The wrong figures in the wrong place in the Signal resulted in the wrong time for the new sewer system through Renfro Valley to be completed.

The new sewer extension is expected to be in use by June, not December, as reported last week. The original completion date was last December, but the state gave the contractor a 180-day extension.

Cellular service coming soon

Cellular telephone service should be available in Rockcastle County by mid-June, according to Richard E. Sayers, president of United Bluegrass Cellular Telephone Company, which is based in Richmond.

Sayers said this week that two towers will be constructed in remote areas of Rockcastle County because of the mountainous topography, and that anyone interested in obtaining cellular service should contact the Richmond office at 1-800-695-2835.

The company was approved by the Kentucky Public Service Commission a few months ago and is already operational in the Richmond area.

Professional athletes earn big bucks

Baseball fields are green 'diamonds' in the big leagues

How sweet it must feel to be blessed with a God given talent such as throwing a baseball 90 miles per hour or hitting one 400 feet. Regardless, it has to be a better feeling to know you can earn over $5 million a year for doing it.

I would at least venture to say that's what New York Mets' pitcher Dwight Gooden and Boston Red Sox's pitcher Roger Clemens are feeling right now, pure sweetness. Of course, they could also be laughing all the way to the bank.

If you didn't catch it, the recent release of contracts revealed Clemens receiving $5,380,250 annually and Gooden a mere $5,150,000. And all for just throwing a baseball 60 feet.

The contracts are, of course, the top two in Major League Baseball today. There are other hefty salaries being passed around but none that high. Oakland Athletics' outfielder Jose Canseco is the closest with an annual paycheck of $4,700,000.

Just think about it, $5 million is a whole lot of money, especially handed over to you in one year.

But to be truthful, I don't blame the players receiving the big bucks one bit. It's not their fault because they're just going with the flow, so to speak. To say bluntly, if someone is ready and willing to pay out that kind of money, I would be the first in line, and that's for sure.

I think the players and their agents are doing what they have to do (there are some exceptions). For example, if a team is willing to fork over $5 million for one certain player, and another player thinks he is just as good, I don't see why the other shouldn't fight for his raise.

But realistically, it has been out of hand for years, and it's definitely going in the wrong direction. I foresee a day when things are going to have to come to a halt, a screeching halt.

But let us get to the bottom of the problem. The true fault lies with the team, franchise, company or whatever they liked to be called today. There is absolutely no reason why a lid can't be put on the top of this large money container.

Former St. Louis Cardinals' pitcher and Hall of Famer Bob Gibson said it years ago. He said that professional athletes should get paid by their statistics or, in other words, if you get the job done, you get the paycheck. Those are definitely words of wisdom because professional athletes should perform before they are paid, and that's the bottom line.

To give a man a paycheck before the job is done is absurd. It seems to me that a lot of the big name players today can have one booming year and then set their standard of income for the remainder of the career. Believe me, it happens.

How hard would it be for every owner of a Major League baseball team to get together and organize a cut-off that does not allow any player to receive over a certain amount of money. Not too hard, I would think, but there probably are some catches or rules these owners have to play by. But I still think it could be accomplished.

The way it's set now, owners have to meet certain negotiations, or they will lose some very good ball players to other teams that are willing to pay the price. But if salaries were set at a certain maximum, where would they go. They couldn't make any more money anywhere else.

Sure, some greedy players would probably escape to another country to play ball at a better price but if the salary were set at a reasonable and comfortable grade here, I think most would stay.

Still, I agree with what Gibson said about paying players for their statistics. To be honest, if it were set up right, I don't think any player could max-out the pay scale just with statistics, no player is perfect. But I will tell you one thing, players would sure give it their best to earn what's coming to them.

I know that many of the best-ever played about 25 years ago and did so for almost nothing. It's just so sickening to see the game get blown out of proportion so much in recent times. And I also know that had the pay been based on the play of the individual back then that there would be whole lot more of rich baseball players than there would be today.

Of course, baseball is, by far, not the only sport guilty of overpaying their players, there are many others.

I guess what has made me think so much about this subject was the cartoon, in last week's Signal which depicted an American soldier who risked his life in the recent war against Iraq for around $12,000, compared to a ball player who plays a game for around $5 million. Something just doesn't pan-out here.

Think about it.

Hitting and pitching earns Rockets two wins

The Rockcastle County High School Rockets' baseball team raked in a decee this past week with relatively easy wins over Whitely County and Monticello to up their record to two wins and one loss for the season.

Junior Chris Ponder was the winning pitcher in Thursday's ball game against Whitely, 9-3, at Roundstone while freshman Michael Shaffer chalked up the victory in Monday's game at Monticello, 8-4. Both Ponder and Shaffer went the distance in their respective games.

The Rockets also had one game called off before an official five innings of play was reached. Wednesday's Estill County game was called in the third inning, due to rain, to score the game as unofficial. And of course, Saturday's scheduled varsity and junior varsity games against Pulaski County were called due to snow.

However, it wasn't raining or snowing Thursday when the Rockets sent Whitely home stunned.

"I think that Whitely came in here believing they could beat us in five," head coach Ryan Riddle said after the game.

Very possible. Whitely did have their ace on the mound and had just defeated Barbourville with their number one pitcher the day before (Wednesday).

But a very determined Rockets team, backed by solid pitching and hitting, turned the tables and did so quickly.

While Ponder, who walked only three and struck out eight, was pitching his game, the Rockets' sticks went to work in the bottom of the fifth inning. Jason Payne started the inning with a hard-hit single into left field and was followed by Rockets team captain David Sargent, who was hit by a pitch (third time in two games). Consecutive singles by Micah Parkerson and Scott Parkey sent the first three runs in before Jonathon Saylor sent the icing over the center field fence for a two-run shot and a five run inning.

Although Whitely did manage three runs on scattered hits, Ponder's 103 pitches threw prevailed as the Rockets scamped in four more before the game concluded for the easy 9-3 win.

There was no precipitation falling Monday either, except for several baseballs falling in between the Monticello defense which accounted for eight runs by the Rockets.

The Rockets, behind a solid pitching performance by Shaffer in his second appearance in the rotation, sent four runs across the plate in the top of the first inning.

Parkerson, who started the sprint with a single, scored on a Saylor double. Jason Kirby followed with a blow single over first base to score Saylor. The final two runs of the inning came when Chris Newland, who was hit by a pitch, crossed the plate with Cotton, who singled, on a solid base hit into right field by catcher Scott Parkey.

Monticello did regroup for three runs of their own in the bottom of the first but never threatened the Rockets afterward.

However, the Rockets continued their production from the plate. Sargent sent a solo homerun, and the only run scored, over the fence in the second inning to give the Rockets a 5-3 lead.

Lady Rockets' softball team claims first win at Williamsburg

The Rockcastle County High School Lady Rockets' softball team split a two game series last Thursday at Williamsburg. In their first win, they of the young 1991 softball season.

"The first game went 'nip and tuck' as the Lady Rockets, who are one and four thus far, fell short by two runs, 11-6. However, in the second game, the Lady Rockets punched in early to avenge the first game in an 8-5 win over Williamsburg.

For head coach Debbie Cash's Lady Rockets, which casts only four upperclassmen, the first inning of the first ball game brought an early start. Shortstop Kristi Sargent reached the base path first on a walk and was moved around on a single by Christy Coleman and eventually scored after a Cindy McCauley single.

And the Lady Rockets were able to tack a couple of more runs on their 1-0 lead in the top of the second inning. Janet Collins, who claimed first base on a walk, crossed the plate on a Rhonda Collins double for the first run of the inning. And Rhonda Collins followed as lead-off hitter Melanie Leece forced her in on a single to give the Lady Rockets a 3-0 lead.

And after a one run inning by Williamsburg in the bottom of the second, the Lady Rockets brought two more players into home in the third. Consecutive doubles by McCauley and Karla Bullock followed by a Donna Cash walk and another double by Rhonda Collins set the inning and the score at 5-1.

But play turned sour for the Lady Rockets in the bottom of the third inning. Stemming from four singles, a triple, a base-on-balls, a fielders choice and an error, Williamsburg snatched five runs in the inning to establish their first lead, 6-5, in the ball game and one they would never relinquish.

Williamsburg went on to score another five, the Lady Rockets four, to win by two, 11-9.

However, the Lady Rockets carried another productive night from the plate into the second game with eight runs highlighted by a two-run shot over the left field fence by Bullock in the seventh inning to even the series.

In fact, unlike the first game, the second was never really close. The Lady Rockets boasted their bats with a very good display of glove work in the field.

Coleman, who reached on a single, scored the first run on a McCauley single. Another single by Cash sent McCauley across the plate to set an early pace and lead of 2-1.

Although Williamsburg managed a run in the bottom of the third inning on three singles, their bats were held silent until their four run rally in the seventh to close the game.

On the other hand, the Lady Rockets cushioned their lead at 4-1 with back to back doubles by Sargent and Kim Kirby in the top of the fifth inning.

The Lady Rockets topped the night off in the seventh with a Sargent single, Coleman triple, McCauley single and Bullock homer for four more runs to counter the Williamsburg four run rally in the bottom of the inning.

Leading hitters on the night for the Lady Rockets in the first game were: Cindy McCauley, Kim Kirby and Jennifer Frith, 1,000; Karla Bullock, 750; Melanie Leece, 666; Rhonda Collins, 500; Kristi Sargent, 333 and Christy Coleman and Janet Collins, 250.

Second game leaders for the Lady Rockets were: Cindy McCauley, 750; Kristi Sargent, Christy Coleman, Amy Sears and Beth Anya, 500 and Kim Kirby, Karla Bullock and Donna Cash, 250.
