Library News

By Geraldine Robbins We have two new western novels ready to be checked out. 1. Sudden Country by Loren D. Estleman.

An afterward note by Beau L'Amour, Louis's son, explains how Louis came to write four Hopalong Cassidy novels and shares the history of both the character and his creator.

Two other new novels are 1. Woman Without A Past by Phyllis Whitney. This is her thirty-fifth novel of psychological suspense.

Successful young mystery novelist, Molly Hunt, raised by adoptive parents on Long Island, is stunned when a chance encounter leads to a startling revelation.

Vividly imagined and unforgettable haunting, Woman Without A Past is a riveting novel of family bonds and the legacy of lies told for love.

2. The Seventh Commandment by Lawrence Sanders. When Hartford insurance agent Dora Conti comes to New York to investigate the violent street murder of a jewelry magnate, she discovers a "Sodom on the Hudson," where intimacy is measured in carats and kilos.

We'd like for you to come and visit our library and take advantage of the many services we have to offer.

The summer reading program "Summer Splash" is underway at the library. Several children are already enrolled and we're hoping that those of you who have children that haven't enrolled yet, will please do so.

"BILL DOWELL"

and the coffee is gone, he has breakfast. "I guess this sounds boring," he said, grinning awkwardly, "but I enjoy the mornings. I like to go outside and look at the sky, listen to the birds, and just go off before I go to work."

Work includes reading and attending to the mail; if there is a body in the home, it is taken care of. Arrangements must be discussed with family members. Frequently, townspeople come in to talk to Dowell or Martin about general topics.

"The actual work isn't that time-consuming," Dowell explained. "But either Roy or I must be available all the time. This can be rather confining."

Sometimes, it works out that a funeral will be scheduled at a time when either one or the other, or both, have had little rest the night before.

Dowell recalled a time when he had been an all night before a funeral was scheduled. "I was staggered, tired, de-sensitized. The funeral was in a church that had a floor which slanted toward the pulpit. When the pallbearers lifted the casket, I reached out to grasp the church truck, a foldable metal support on which the casket is placed during the service. When I pushed up his steves. Together, the stragglers, Billy, and I filled up that chasm."

Dowell's friend laughed. "Something, that doesn't sound like a man who is very dependable."

At home, in the large, old-fashioned house he shares with his family, Dowell settles his tall frame into a comfortable position on a huge couch that suddenly looks small.

Almost shyly, he expresses feelings that those who don't look beyond his professional image would expect. "I'd like to see people and nations get along better," he said. "And I'd like for everyone to have enough to eat and a roof over their heads."

Sentiments not unlike those felt by many, to be sure, but one gets the feeling that if Dowell could make it happen, he would do everything in his power to make it so.

Dowell is a man who has learned to laugh at himself when it's called for, but he also knows what is important. If the people of Rockcastle County feel richer by having him as one of its citizens, the feelings still cannot be compared to those Dowell has for Rockcastle County.

"I love it," he said quietly. "I'd rather be a pauper here than a millionaire in New York."

Mt. Vernon budget gets first reading at council

By: Ray McClure

A General Fund budget of $252,113 to run the city for fiscal 1991-92 had a first reading at a meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night.

The new budget is up $38,987 over the 1990-91 budget. Last year's general fund budget was $213,626.

The figures do not reflect a final budget since the present budget could be amended during the year.

In the Water Department estimated revenues and appropriations total $410,700. Estimated revenues and appropriations in the sewer fund total $327,886. All phases of the budget must be balanced.

Estimated revenue in the Municipal Aid Fund totals $98,000 with appropriations of $50,383 leaving $47,617 in resources over appropriations.

The Local Government Economic Assistance Fund has revenues of $11,400 and expenditures of $8,000 leaving $3,400.

A breakdown of the general fund shows $62,728 for general government; $184,385 for police with another $8,000 available in the economic assistance fund and $5,000 for the fire department.

In the Water Department, $22,185 is earmarked for debt service. A total of $93,708 is set aside for Sewer Department debt service. Cost for operations and maintenance in the Water Department is $388,515. It is $234,178 in the Sewer Department.

Where does the estimate of revenues for the General Fund come from? A total of $89,000 comes from property taxes; $46,000 comes from licenses and permits; $26,800 from intergovernmental revenues; $2,500 from charges for services; $8,000 miscellaneous; $45,000 from franchises; $15,000 from interest $19,813 from transfers.

Since the Municipal Aid Fund will have $47,617 over appropriations, Mayor Gary R. Croyer suggested the city use an estimated $40,000 for a new dump truck.

After some discussion, the council voted to get information and discuss bidding at the July meeting.

The council approved amendments to a sewer contract between the city and Cumberland Valley Area Development District add handicap regulations language bringing the federal Department Block Grant program regulations into compliance with the city regulations.

Also voted was to add $769,095 that the city put into the sewer project to the city budget, a technicality, and makes no changes in city financing.

More checking and discussion is needed before the council approves new water usage contracts for the water districts. The council will have a called meeting when it is appropriate.

May was hot and wet

Was it the heat or the humidity or both the past few days?

Statistics at Cox Funeral Home weather station shows the temperatures (in the 80s) was not extreme, so it must have been the humidity. Some call it the heat index.

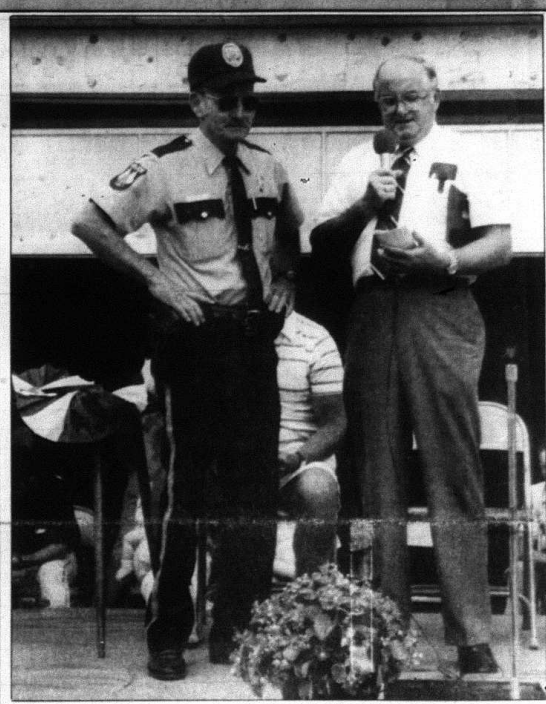

Highest temperature in May was 88 on May 31. It was 87 on May 15, 25, 28, 29, 30. On the first three days of June, the temperature was 85, 85 and 86, plus humidity.

It also rained the first three days a total of .96 of an inch with the most .55 on June 1. Other areas may have had more.

For the record, May had a total of 7.42 inches, possibly one of the wettest on record.

The Weather Service is predicting the rest of the week to be pleasant and sunny, possibly into next week.

Brodhead Citizen of the Year . . .

Brodhead Police Chief Joe Bussell was awarded Brodhead Citizen of the Year, during festivities at the Brodhead Homecoming. Citizen's Bank President Bobby Proctor made the presentation. More homecoming photos will appear next week.

At school board meeting

Bonds for new track approved

By: Richard Anderlin
Rockcastle County High School football and track field fans have a lot to cheer about these days.

At Tuesday night's regular meeting of the Rockcastle County school board, members voted to approve a $100,000 bond sale which will be used to build a new track around the football field and architect Garland Vanhook explained to the board about the upcoming renovation of the bleachers and concession stand.

Once completed $200,000 will be spent on the project, according to Richard Bray, school system treasurer.

Vanhook explained that 11 new rows of bleachers will be built and the bleacher section will be extended 24 feet into the present parking lot.

Besides the new bleachers, a new structure will be built that will include a new press box, complete with heat and air conditioning, two concession stands and a men's and women's bathroom.

There will also be two new terrace areas for lawn chairs.

Work on the project is scheduled

Bowman charged with stolen goods

Dennis Ray Bowman of Mt. Vernon was charged with receiving stolen property over $100 after he was arrested by city police after they stopped him in a 1970 Ford Pickup reported stolen in Lexington.

According to city police, his passenger, William G. Hendrick, address unknown, was arrested for public intoxication. Warrants on at least one Bowman, and possibly Hendrick, are outstanding in two or more counties.

City policeman Larry Thompson and Chris Baker investigated the accident.

Livingston man seriously injured

A Livingston area man was taken by helicopter to the U.K. Medical Center about noon Wednesday when he was injured in a motorcycle crash at the Newcomb Avenue, Richmond Street intersection at Mt. Vernon.

Robert Neil (Bub) Singleton of Gauley Branch, apparently was injured critically when his motorcycle struck the rear of a pickup truck turning right into Newcomb Avenue from Richmond Street, driven by the Rev. Wendell A. Romans, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Mt. Vernon, according to a police report.

He was taken to Rockcastle Hospital where he was treated and transferred on to Lexington.

Alabama man killed on I-75

An Alabama truck driver was crushed to death in the cab of his truck early Tuesday on I-75 on River Hill near the Laurel County line.

Charles Hutchison, 35, of Lawley, Ala., drove his tractor-trailer into the median where it overturned on its top and slid over 200 feet.

Laws of Life was used to remove his body. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Bill Dowell about 2 a.m.

The truck was loaded with steel rods. It was not determined if Hutchison went to sleep or the steel load shifted causing the truck to leave the state.

State Trooper W.C. Sutton investigated the accident.

County will not pursue Hasty debt

By: Ray McClure

The $9,908 that a state audit reported was owed to the county by former sheriff Clarence Hasty may never be collected.

Such was indicated at a meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Tuesday.

Ken Smith, auditor and representative of Smith & Smith, CPAs of Richmond, who completed the audits of Sheriff Shirley Smith and County Clerk Norma Hoak for the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1990, said if the court plans to take any kind of action on the reported Hasty debt for 1986-87 1988 the court would have to do so soon due to the Statute of Limitations.

Smith has sued the court that Hasty's audit and other audits would be closely examined if court action were taken by the county.

He told the magistrates both Hasty and the county have their own audits by reputable firms and that each would argue their audit is the correct one.

He added it would finally boil down to the question: Who do you believe? Hasty says his audit shows he doesn't owe anything and the last state audit says he does.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins asked the magistrates for suggestions but got none. He then asked Smith if he knew of any county that ever collected such a debt. Smith said he could remember only one and that was a debt owed by a county clerk and a different situation.

Judge Mullins then asked the magistrates if they would like to have County Attorney James Lambert look into the audits and try to determine if the money is owed.

No one is being investigated, Judge Mullins said. And no one being indicted. It would be just a check of the audits to try to determine which one is correct.

He asked if any of the magistrates would like to make a motion for the county attorney to check into the audits. The question died from lack of a motion.

Smith told the court the current audits of County Clerk Hoak and Sheriff Smith proved credible and complimented both for their record keeping.

Auditions for play begin Friday, 7 p.m.

Open auditions for Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat will be held Friday, June 7 between 4 and 8 p.m. at the Rockcastle Teen Center on Richmond Street, according to Allen Pensol, director.

Pensol said the mid '70s version of the bible story will be an all-musical production and, in addition to many characters, musicians are also needed.

As for the characters needed, Pensol pointed out that Joseph had 11 brothers and there are at least 23 main characters so many auditioners are needed of all ages.

The play, a co-production of the Rockcastle Council for the Arts and the Rockcastle Teen Center, will be given the first week in August at the high school.

Previous productions of the Rockcastle Council for the Arts include Oliver, South Pacific, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum. The council has also used proceeds from these productions to provide teaching funds to local schools for art productions, storytellers etc.

Again, it is emphasized that the auditions are open to all ages and will be between 4 and 8 p.m. at the Teen Center on Friday, June 7th.

Games, prizes at Saturday's Willailla Days

The World's Largest Strawberry Sundae will be just one of the features of Willailla Days Saturday, June 8.

The festivities will run from 2 to 8 p.m. and will include a baking contest, horseshoe pitching, sack race, egg toss, dunking booth, husband calling contest, hula hoop contest and ring toss.

In addition, there will be door prizes, a gas grill, gift certificates, cash awards and an ice cream freezer.

And, there will be entertainment galore with country-bluegrass, country-western and gospel groups and The Chicken Man - Jerry Isaacs.

Greg Farmer, magician will perform and there will also be performers by the Bittersweet Cloggers and Countyline Cloggers.

The second annual event is being sponsored by Willailla merchants so come, bring your lawn chair, and enjoy the day.

An Alabama man was killed Monday night when he lost control of the tractor-trailer he was driving along I-75. Charles Hutchison, 35, was killed instantly.

An open letter to the "91" graduating class of RCHS:

I am a native of the county and a 1976 graduate of RCHS. I was present the evening you graduated as my sister Kellie graduated with you. So to her and to all of you I wish to write the following words of encouragement. You would do very well indeed if you memorized the very wise council you received that memorable evening by Justice Lambert, and act upon it. I will attempt to prevail above my own limitations and underscore the single most important point he gave you by restating it to you in my own words.

You are now out of the nest in a legal sense. You must now stand accountable for what you do, and it is this accountability I wish to discuss with you.

Let me interject here that I love you all even though I don't know you. I love what you can be if you apply yourselves. And among motives and emotions love prevails above all else.

Above, in my case, the shame of past mistakes in order that I might share with you the gems that I mined as I traveled a very rocky road. As I said

I graduated in 1976. From there I continued as I had been doing for 3 or 4 years, wasting mind and body with drug abuse (remember we're talking about making decisions). Life changed very little until a succession of bad decisions culminated in my arrest. A decision that took a second and an action that took a minute removed all my positive options for the next 3 1/2 years, because that's how long I spent in the Kentucky State Reformatory, LaGrange as it is otherwise known. Think about what you just read, the decision took a second, the action took a minute and it was 42 months of walls and bars later before my life began to improve, and don't overlook the gravity of the psychology involved.

How would like to wake in a uniformly negative environment everyday? By letting others think for you or by casually going along with the wrong crowd similar misery could easily befall you. You might not end up in a literal prison as I did. But what if you married someone who drinks too much and develops into an alcoholic. That becomes an emotional prison that people have spent their entire lives in. What if you seek no further training that you now have and have to work low paying dead end jobs to survive because you are without marketable skills. I can tell you that life in financial bind is no place to be. Financial problems have caused people who loved each other to fight and divorce. How would you like to be sentenced to seeing the one you truly love remarried to someone else? I could go on but I don't think it's really necessary, what I want to do is focus your attention on certain realities that govern your life, and in so doing prevent the misery from happening. Realize that it takes a pattern or habit of making the right choices to ensure your success, this is called "good judgement" and "responsibility". Whereas often times it requires only one really poor decision to bring it all down like a house of cards. In any situation I can think of the right decision is the one that keeps your best options open, whereas bad decisions tend to cut you off from those options. Training or the lack of it is one of the best examples. In my case, I was working in a warehouse 9 years ago with no future. Eight years ago I went back to school, taking a vocational course in machine shop. Now I am a tool and die maker and can go anywhere I choose and find and hold a good paying job. I'm saying to you prepare yourself as well as you can, set specific goals, not destinations, just goals, and with all the zeal and drive that youth provides, go for it! Tomorrow is yours if you are prepared to handle it.

With much love, Arthur W. Bengé county, but there are several and something like two thirds did not vote.

I can't understand why there are so many that will not vote. You know that is one privilege that we have here in America and that is one thing we can do as we see fit. A good friend of mine said once that if you wanted to go any place had enough, then you would go and I find that is true.

I realize that this time of the year is a busy time for the farmers, such as setting tobacco and making hay but at that I still say that one should take time to vote. If you don't have time to do that then you are mighty busy. In most cases the polls are not too far away and just take a few minutes to drop everything, however this is my opinion.

The best reason I've heard so far was that they forget the day. A lady told me that and I know she was telling the truth but she did not forget to go to work that day. Perhaps these new voting machines might have kept some away, but they are real easy to operate and I'd say one of the best things to come to Rockcastle County in years.

As I said before I do not know just how many registered in our county near the West Brookhead precinct but this time there were only 297 all told that voted. But I hope that this fall that many more will take the time out to vote. I realize there are several reasons that the voter did not get out such as sickness, no transportation and others.

This letter is not directed to those but only to those who could have made it and did not. Perhaps I have hurt someone's feelings in writing this letter. I have no apologies to make and remember the old saying, if the shoe fits wear it, so be it.

Sincerely,
Archie L. French

Dear Editor,

I want to thank the people who voted for me in Rockcastle County and thank my campaign chairman Charles Wayne Bullock for his hard work. We came in second in the county and third statewide.

We ran a clean and honest campaign. This is my first run or office but not my last.

Thank you all very much.

Dear Editor,

The Ramsey family placed an ad in the Signal recently announcing the family reunion to be held July 6, 1991. We invited all the descendants of Goldman and Syrena Green Ramsey and any other interested people. We have learned that Goldman and Syrena go back too far for many people to know that they are descendants. Goldman died 100 years ago this year, so they have great, great, great, great, grandchildren!

Just to bring the family a little closer, we would like to add a little information. Goldman was the son of Francis and Harriet Ramsey. This Francis was the son of Thomas Ramsey, a Revolutionary War soldier who lived in Garrard County. Francis was the nephew of Thomas brother Francis who lived in Rock-castle County. Syrena was the daughter of John Green and Orpha Slaton Green. Goldman and Syrena had ten children, including twins who died in infancy. Others were Mary Susan who married Coleman Burdett, John Green who married Haley Porter, Orpha Jane who married William Hiatt, Colonel Thomas Burke who married Betty Harrell, Goldman who married Ollie Coffey, Harriet who married Francis Anderson Burdett and Sally who married John Taylor.

Because many of the next generation died very young, there are not a great number of descendants. However, we are looking forward to a fun and interesting day when we get together July 6. For a map and further information, contact me or June Dowell Roussey, Box 489, Liberty, KY 42539. We are sorry that we don't have all the addresses so that we can send personal invitations.

Dear Editor,

As I am reflecting on the past 17 months of my life, I see the faces of the Kentuckians I had the pleasure to meet and work with during my campaign for governor. We all became a family, shared a dream for a better Kentucky and worked long and hard to make it a reality.

I have never worked in a campaign with finer people.

All I can say now is thank you. As inadequate as that sounds, I am truly and eternally grateful to the people who opened their hearts to myself, my wife Margie and my family.

I know that I could travel to any corner of the state and be treated with kindness -- just as any of the "Poore family" would be treated if they came to northern Kentucky.

All I ask now is that we stay together and keep our hands.

With sincere thanks,
Dr. Floyd G. Poore

Two weeks ago, if someone had walked up and told me that he had just paid a thousand dollars for a refrigerator, I would have been quick with my judgement to the effect that such person had more money than intelligence. A thousand dollars ought to buy at least six refrigerators and leave enough change to stock one of them.

Then my own fridge stopped freezing ice and the margarine changed to roughly the same consistency as miracle whip. A gallon of milk clabbered overnight and half a gallon of fudge ripple flowed down the back wall, over a two dozen box of fresh eggs and finally into the bottom bin where a head of lettuce absorbed it like a sponge. Don't ever try to use fudge ripple as a substitute for French Dressing. I already have and you don't need to.

So Loretta called a repairman who showed up five minutes later and I swear to God this is the truth. He dusted off the back of the frig and convinced it was fixed. And charged us $18. Five minutes to get here, five in the house and five to get back home. It figures out to $72 an hour. No wonder the Maytag man is lonely.

Sure enough, that night a thin layer of ice froze on top of the tray. The repairman said it would take three days to completely heal, but on the third day the ice was back to water. Loretta calls again and he's back in a flash. Somehow between his first visit and the second, he informs us, our frig has somehow developed a freon leak. I don't even bother telling the guy that nobody has fooled with the frig except him, because I'm as sure as I can be that it was out of freon all along.

"How much?" Loretta wants to know and she gets the old, "Since its you and people speak so highly of your routine."

"Somewhere between $100 and $175."

In my experience, that means $174.99.

In the meantime Loretta has deduced that this guy knows about as much about refrigerators as either one of our cats. But the fact remains that ours is old and it ain't working.

Perhaps it was the heat or a hot Diet Dr. Pepper, but something made me temporarily insane. While I was out of my head, I suggested that we just

Sunday morning when the choir marched in at the church I was attending my heart swelled with pride as I saw the seats being filled with a group of handsome and clean cut young people. The older members of the choir gave it the character it needed to make it complete.

I immediately thought of Ecclesiastes, chapter twelve, verse one. It begins, remember thy creator in the days of thy youth. I am sure most of you are familiar with this verse, if not this is a good time to refresh your memory.

There were other young people there filling the front rows of seats and never once did I hear or see anything that could distract the verse. This really impressed me for when I was young we always chose the back rows. I guess we could hold hands and whisper without being noticed back there.

These young people are preparing themselves for the future by acknowledging their Creator now and when the problems of life and old age overtake them they will be established in the faith and will have no fears of the evil about them. At least this is the way I interpreted the verse.

These young people who are going into the fields of mission work, whether it is at home or in other parts of the state are answering the call to reap while the harvest is ripe.

I wish I could give an account of all the ones answering the call of "Follow me" and I will make a list of men but I'm not acquainted with all those answering the call nor of the programs they are taking a part in. I do know some of them are staying at home and serving in their own church where there is always a need for leadership and talents. Many times the home area seems to be neglected so those who have decided to do this are to be commended as well as those going to other fields of harvest. Chad's particular assignment is with a group of singers selected from different colleges who will travel throughout the state singing and witnessing at youth camps and churches. They will also be at King's Island one day doing the same thing. These young people are not hiding their light under a bushel as they travel from place to place or staying at home and serving those in need. The sparks of light coming from their songs of praise, the light shining from their faces as they sing or testify is a witness of their faith in their Creator. Who knows where these sparks may land and start new fires burning?

The quartet, Adam, Chris, Jason and Chad, sang their favorite song, "The Lighthouse" as a tribute to Chad leaving for his summers mission work. It was the perfect song with the perfect title to send him on his way to share the light he has received with all those he comes in contact with.

This is not the only church that has their youth taking leadership roles and witnessing to their faith but it just so happens that it is the one I happened to attend Sunday and was inspired by what I saw and heard. I hope the time will come when all churches work together and encircle the globe with the light of God.

go ahead and purchase a new refrigerator.

So off we go to Hoover's on Memorial Day to price new refrigerators. I'm glad Mr. Dawidowicz didn't have any coffins setting out in the show room, because in all likelihood I would have just crawled in one. A funeral would have been a lot easier to pay for than a new refrigerator.

"What does a fridge do these days?" I asked the salesman. "Bring you breakfast in bed? All I want is something that will keep milk and butter from ruining and freeze a tray of ice."

Now I've traded with Hoover enough to know that you can get him down lower than anybody else in Lexington if you don't mind talking, but I also know that he's gonna make a little money cause Hoover won't trade nickles unless you give him a penny to boot.

But even allowing him a penny profit still kept the fridge that Loretta had her heart set on way beyond scandalous. It was a lot more like being in a Rolls Royce dealership than an appliance store from my perspective. And suddenly I found myself wondering where on earth my friend had found his new refrigerator for a thousand bucks.

Gardening Tip:
Tipton Caudill from Fairfield, Ohio writes to say that he grew a Charleston Gray watermelon last year that weighed 93 pounds and two others that topped 70. He also had a pumpkin (Atlantic giant) that hit 290. Here's how he did it.

Tip says he didn't cut back the vines any at all. He didn't pick off all the other fruit so the growth would go to just one. He let everything grow just like God intended except he fed those three melons and two pumpkins intransitively.

Take a quart canning jar, and, using a small nail, punch a hole in the center of the lid. Fit a length of a candle wick that you can fit in most craft stores through the hole, making sure that you have to pull sort of hard to get it through the hole. (No, I didn't ask how you get the string started.) The wick should reach to the bottom of the jar with an inch or two to spare. You'll need about 18 inches hanging outside the jar.

Put a cup of sugar, and get ready for this, a teaspoon of epsom salts in the jar and fill with boiling water. Mix it till the salts and sugar melt and then let it cool off.

Screw on the lid, making sure the wick goes to the bottom. Turn the jar over sideways and the wick hanging outside the jar, will soon be soaked. Cut a very narrow slit in the middle of a small melon stem, run the wick through it and the melon will drink the mixture. When the jar empties; take the lid off without taking the wick out of the bine and it may wind up taking five or six quarts. That's all there is to it. With pumpkins, you feed whole milk and 1 tsp. of salt per week the same way. Leave the sugar out.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

Some folks have the false idea that the Sabbath day of Ex. 20:8, which is the 7th day of the week, was changed to the first day of the week. Yet where is one scripture that teaches such a notion as this? People will say, Sunday is the "Christian Sabbath," but again where is the scripture that teaches such? Some folks say, we should rest on Sunday, because God says we are to keep the Sabbath day as a day of rest. Yet where did God say to rest on the 1st day of the week? He said rest on the 7th day in Ex. 20:8.

Now someone will ask, "Do you keep the 7th day as the Sabbath day?" and "why then do you all worship on Sunday the 1st day of the week?" In answer to the first question: no, I do not keep the Sabbath day (7th day) as a day of rest. Why? Because God commanded the Jews to keep the Sabbath day holy in Ex. 20:8. It was a sign between God to Israel, Ex. 31:13-17 not a sign for me! The N.T. teaches us that the 10 commandment law, plus all the rest of the O.T. law was done away with at the cross, II Cor. 3:5-12, Col. 2:14, Rm. 7:1-4. We are under the law of Christ and Jesus and his apostles never taught nor bound the Sabbath day upon Christians. In fact Paul said, "Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of an holy day, or of the new moon, or of the Sabbath. Which are a shadow of things to come, but the body is of Christ." Col. 2:16-17.

Why then do you worship on the 1st day of the week, Sunday? Because God has shown us in the Bible that Christians are to assemble on the 1st day of the week. Two things in particular are to be done, viz. this day, the Lord's Supper, Ac. 20:7, and giving, I Cor. 16:1-2. The 1st day of the week has significance to Christians in that Jesus arose on the first day of the week, Jn. 20:1, Lk. 24:1; and that the Lord's church was established and began on the first day of the week, Ac. 2:1, Ac. 11:15. Yes, some Christians still observed the Sabbath, Rm. 14:5, but this was a matter of individual conscience and choice and not because of divine command. Let's seek to be careful students of the scriptures.

Local school district joins educational cooperative

The Rockcastle County school district has joined the new Central Kentucky Educational Cooperative, a group representing 18 school districts and formed to meet requirements set by Kentucky's new education reform law.

Stephen A. Henderson, new executive director of the cooperative, was introduced today (Wednesday) at the University of Kentucky.

"Dr. Henderson is a perfect choice for our cooperative," said Ronald "Sonny" Fentress, Anderson County Schools superintendent and president of the cooperative. "He has the experience and the expertise we need to help us begin to implement the new law in each of our districts."

Henderson, who will serve school districts that together educate about 52,000 children, comes to the cooperative from the Kentucky Department of Education, where he has been associate superintendent for instruction.

"The cooperative's most important goal is to improve the overall performance of the districts in terms of their educational achievement, generally through staff development and leadership training opportunities," Henderson said.

Under a cooperative arrangement, the districts will be able to take advantage of additional resources they might not be able to afford individually, he said.

Henderson, whose salary will be funded through fees each school district pays to be a member of the cooperative, will begin work July 1 in the UK Taylor Education Building. The university is providing the cooperative with free office space.

Housing the cooperative's offices at the University of Kentucky will be an added plus for the districts, Henderson said.

"One of my functions will be to try to identify the kinds of things the university can do to help support the implementation of the Kentucky Education Reform Act," Henderson said.

Robert Hemenway, chancellor of the university's Lexington campus, and J. John Harris III, dean of the UK College of Education, welcomed Henderson and the cooperative to campus.

Harris said having Henderson and the cooperative on campus will make it easier for the university to reach out to the districts. "This partnership will make it easier for us to work together," Harris said.

RCHS is recipient of $25,000 writing grant from state

Superintendent Bigge W. Towery, Jr. has been informed by Commissioner Thomas C. Boyesen that the Rockcastle County High School's proposal for the Kentucky Writing Program Model School Grant has been approved.

The district will receive $25,000 from the Kentucky Department of Education to continue the work of strengthening and improving writing skills of RCHS students.

Ms. Young, English teacher at RCHS, led the coalition of teachers who prepared the grant application. Ms. Young has been named the On-Site Resources Teacher for the project.

A core committee of three coordinators has been appointed to implement, monitor, and evaluate the plan. The committee members are: Ms. Young; Barbara Hiatt, librarian; and Debbie Cash, science teacher.

Writing will be a primary component of the new Performance Standards identified in the Kentucky Education Reform Act and will be the first area to be measured under the performance based assessment administered in the spring of 1992. Writing and the whole spectrum of communicating skills are emphasized in KERA.

Gregory gets full scholarship to UL

A Mt. Vernon student has been offered a full-tuition scholarship at the University of Louisville.

Christopher Frances Gregory, a senior at Rockcastle County High School, has won a Governor's Scholar Award. Gregory is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Gregory.

Governor's scholarships carry full tuition for one academic year and are automatically renewable each year the student maintains a 3.0 grade point average.

Recipients are selected according to high school grade point averages, ACT scores, class rankings and letters of recommendation.

Towery addresses conference

Rockcastle County Superintendent Bigge W. Towery, Jr. addressed an Education Forum at the Southern Regional Training Conference for the Child Welfare League of America. The conference was held at the Galt House in Louisville May 19-22. Harry J. Cowherd, MC, Secretary of the Cabinet for Human Resources; Linda Harkan, Associate Commissioner, Kentucky Department of Education; Bigge W. Towery, Jr., Superintendent of Rockcastle County Schools; and Janet Levy, Director of joining Forces, Washington, D.C. conducted the Education Forum.

Dean's List

Stephanie L. Hammons of the Crab Orchard area, was named to the Dean's List for the spring term at Western Kentucky University.

Open auditions June 7 for arts production

Open auditions for Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat will be held Friday, June 7 between 4 and 8 p.m. at the Rockcastle Teen Center on Richmond Street, according to Allen Pensol, director.

Pensol said the mid 70's version of the bible story will be an all-musical production and, in addition to many characters, musicians are also needed.

"As for the characters needed, Pensol pointed out that Joseph had 11 brothers and there are at least 23 main characters so many auditions are needed of all ages.

The play, a co-production of the Rockcastle Council for the Arts and the Rockcastle Teen Center, will be given the first week in August at the high school.

Previous productions of the Rockcastle Council for the Arts include "Oliver," "South Pacific," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum." The council has also used proceeds from these productions to providematching funds to local schools for art productions, storytellers etc.

Again, it is emphasized that the auditions are open to all ages and will be between 4 and 8 p.m. at the Teen Center on Friday, June 7.

Circuit jurors announced

Craft Festival at Renfro this week

North Carolina native is summer intern

By John McQueary
County Extension Agent for 4-H/Youth Development

If you see a new face around Rockcastle County this summer, it may be Donna Parker. She is the new summer intern at the Cooperative Extension Service. She is from North Carolina and is a senior at Berea College, majoring in Home Economics and Health Education. Donna will be working with Extension for 12 weeks this summer. She will be participating in all the 4-H activities including 4-H Camp, Dairy Judging, Vegetable Judging and Land Judging.

If you would like to know more about 4-H or the summer internship program, drop by to see her at the Cooperative Extension Service.

A Summer Heritage Crafts Festival will take place Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, June 7-9, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

"Crafts people from all over Kentucky, West Virginia and Ohio have been invited to participate," said Dee Foster, Special Events Coordinator for Renfro Valley Folks, Inc. "We've had an excellent response," she added, "and expect to welcome several thousand visitors to Renfro Valley during the festival."

Craft booth displays will include, but are not limited to handmade quilts, stained glass, pottery, stenciling, ruffled curtains, cross stitchery, jewelry, as well as a variety of wood crafts such as toys, birdhouses, and other novelties, in both Americana and Country styles.

Admission to the festival is $3 for adults, and half-price for children 12 and under.

Visitors may elect to stay over at the Renfro Valley Lodge or one of the Honeymoon cabins, for a night or the entire weekend. The Lodge Restaurant features down-home country cooking, served to order or boarding-house style.

Here's hoping for kept promises!

Rockcastle County is like many other Kentucky counties, they probably voted for the best candidate in the recent Governor's race.

Larry Forgy seemed to have the pulse of many Kentucky voters, and of all the candidates, seemed to know more about what affects us, the citizens of this state, the most.

But, Forgy is no longer in the race, it is down to Hopkins and Jones.

I hope that whomever wins makes some notable changes and is not tied to big business and special interest groups so strongly that they can't perform their duties as they should.

A story in Monday's Lexington Herald-Leader, reported that over 12 million American children are now living in poverty.

One in five to be exact and it is getting worse all of the time. That to me is an indication that our political system is falling apart to a certain extent.

We can spend billions of dollars each year on foreign aid, but we can't keep thousands of our own children from going to bed hungry.

Issues like joblessness in Eastern Kentucky and healthcare especially for our children and the elderly, will be facing the new man in Frankfort.

The next Governor is going to have to clean up much of the mess left by his predecessor and he is going to have to come up with some answers for the Kentucky taxpayer who was trampled by the Governor and state legislators last Spring.

The next Governor is going to have to come up with some answers to help the decreasing job market in Kentucky, to provide healthcare and fix our state's worsening road conditions.

It won't be an easy task, but then something that is worthwhile never is, I would like just once for a candidate to at least try to live up to all of his or her promises after they get in office. Ronald Reagan promised to balance the budget while in office and he and his Congressional cohorts spent more money they did not have than any other group in history. George Bush promised no new taxes, but raised them a year later.

Nobody can remember all of the things Wallace Wilkinson promised. Although he did deliver on the Lottery, he is going to leave office having accomplished very little, except to help raise taxes three times more than was needed to fund education reform.

It simply is a sad state of affairs when in this supposed land of milk, honey and opportunity, that we have children sleeping on the streets and politicians spending millions of dollars each year on mailings to their constituents.

Larry Hopkins and Breckon Jones may indeed live up to their promises and if they do, it will certainly be a welcomed change.

Rockcastle is now recycling

Concerned about saving the earth? Concerned about saving money each week on your garbage collection bill? Concerned about saving the natural beauty and natural resources of Rockcastle County?

Beginning this week Rockcastle Countians have a chance to take action on these concerns as easy-access recycling stations come into being locally.

In a joint effort between Rockcastle County government and Bee Garbage (with Bee Garbage bearing all costs) mobile recycling stations will be in all three towns in the county one day each week.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins said Wednesday that all garbage collectors in the county were offered the opportunity to initiate recycling, and that Bee Garbage was the only operator requesting a permit.

According to Mullins, over a year ago the Fiscal Court applied to the Appalachian Regional Commission for funding to establish three recycling convenience centers, but funding was never awarded. This project, he says, will accomplish essentially the same goals.

Judge Mullins says he encourages Rockcastle Countians to support the recycling effort, not only because it will save as much as 40-60 percent of the weekly average household garbage bill, but also because it reduces the amount of solid waste going into the landfills and saves natural resources. Mullins also emphasizes that these are not unsightly, messy, stinking garbage collection stations.

RECYCLING SCHEDULE
On Mondays the mobile unit will be located near the Sears Store on Main Street in Mt. Vernon.

Wednesdays the receptacles will be at Broadhead on U.S. 150 in the Convenient Store parking lot.

Every Friday the station will be at Livingston on the school parking lot. The hours at all locations will be from 9-5, according to David Ballinger of Bee Garbage.

FOUR BASIC ITEMS TO RECYCLE
Four basic, household items can be recycled in the clean, properly marked receptacles at each recycling center.

- 1. Glass - All glass jars and bottles with lids removed are recyclable. Separate the glass according to color (clear, amber and green) and place in the properly marked container for each. Do not recycle window panes, car glass, household glasses or dishes, Pyrex or light bulbs.
- 2. Plastic - All plastic jars and bottles (caps removed) which contain liquid used in the home. Example: bleach, milk, juice, cleaners, etc.
- 3. Newspapers - All newspaper, but not magazines.
- 4. Aluminum - All aluminum cans, pie pans, foil and storm door and window casings are accepted.

Concerning Recycling

Did you ever stop to think that . . .

"It takes 95% less energy to recycle aluminum cans than it does to make them from scratch?"

"Recycling aluminum cul related air pollution 95%?"

"If you throw away an aluminum can, it will litter up the earth for up to 500 years?"

"If we all recycled our newspapers, we could save over 500,000 trees every week?"

"Making new paper from old paper uses 30-55% less energy than making paper from trees, and it reduces air pollution by 95%?"

"Our vanishing forests causes higher prices for housing and all wood products, acid rain and the destruction of wildlife and hunting game habitats?"

"If everyone in the U.S., recycled one tenth of their newspapers, we could save about 25 million trees a year?"

Train builder, gardener and life-time undertaker

Death is a frontier few people want to explore; nonetheless, it's a part of life with which each person must come to terms. Billy Dowell understands this and attends to the essential details involved in this final phase of life in a matter-of-fact but caring fashion.

His sincerity may be one of the reasons for the business success he shares with his partner, Roy Martin, in a profession many persons view as repugnant.

Persons who have met Dowell through means they would rather not have had to experience have been no less impressed, however, by this gentle giant's capacity for compassion as well as proficiency.

"He's the easy-goingest man I've ever seen," says Eva Sparks, of the tanky, 6-foot-6, 220-pound Dowell. This towering 53 year old man, who genuinely enjoys people, is about as familiar to folks in Mt. Vernon as fried chicken is to Sunday. Those who don't know him by sight are probably strangers in town.

Astained in the conservative wrappings of a business suit and his deceptively impassive expression, Dowell is known in Rockcastle County and surrounding areas as Billy Dowell, Funeral Director. But to the locals, he's just "Billy," and as ordinary as anyone else.

Dowell suggests as much himself as he explains how he chose his particular profession.

"Actually, it was sort of accidental," he said. "Alfred Sparks, the funeral director in Mt. Vernon, was at the funeral home by himself one day, and he had a body to get ready. He had no one to help him, so he hollered at me.

"I was rather young, about 15 or 16 years old, and I'd never touched a body before - had barely even seen one. But I helped him dress her and put her in a casket. I thought it was interesting. I wasn't afraid, either." For most people in Rockcastle County, it's hard to remember a time when Dowell wasn't a part of the funeral business in some capacity.

Eva Sparks, the widow of the funeral director before Dowell, and a friend of the Dowell family, recalls Dowell as a child. He and his parents lived off houses up the street from the funeral home. He still lives there in the same house with his wife, Sandy, and two of their three daughters.

"Why, Billy's been around here since he was about 14 years old," Sparks said. My husband used to get him to mow the yard - that's what Billy did, you know - he mowed yards and delivered newspapers - then, sometimes my husband would say, "Billy, run home and put you on a sport coat, and come open the door for me tonight." And Billy'd always say "OK." He helped us like that all the way through high school.

Dowell, who was born and raised in Rockcastle County, never wanted to live anywhere else. He admits to moving to Bowling Green once when he was younger but he soon realized his mistake. He was back in Mt. Vernon within 15 months.

Dowell was licensed to do embalming in 1959 after completing two years of college and one year at the Kentucky School of Embalming, a mortuary school in Louisville. He became a licensed funeral director in 1962 after completing three years of apprenticeship in funeral homes.

In 1968 a more significant change was made in Dowell's life. He married pretty Sandy Carter, a Monroe County native who was working as a lab technician at the Mt. Vernon Hospital. Dowell had met her while on one of his ambulance runs and "one thing just led to another," he said.

With marriage came more responsibility, however, and Dowell had

Newly constructed recycling trailer was shown to the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Tuesday. ## Hundreds attend show at Renfro

By: Ray McClure

Under a scaring sun, several hundred persons turned out Sunday for the eleventh annual Rockcastle Region Street Rodders car show at Renfro Valley, but it could be their last show at Renfro.

A decision will be made in the next few days on whether the club show will be staying on at Renfro or moved to another location, possibly to the Rockcastle County High School grounds, according to Steve Singleton, club president.

The controversy erupted when Renfro purchased shirts showing with "Renfro Valley Car Show" in large letters, and three-quarter inch letters on a lower side of the shirts that spelled out "11th annual Rockcastle Street Rodders Show."

"The club members were not too happy with that arrangement," Singleton said. "Also, this year we were not allowed to have the concessions which helps pay our show expenses. And, no vendors were allowed. And, Renfro complained when Country Charlie told the crowd about the next car show dates in another town."

Vendors sell various car parts and other items at the show. Country Charlie Napier was master of ceremonies during the car show.

Another club member said he believed Renfro Valley folks are planning to have their own car show. When asked, Singleton said the club does not object, possibly because antique car clubs in Kentucky schedule their shows on different weekends in order not to conflict with each other.

A total of 204 antique and later model cars and trucks showed up at the car show Sunday. The high humidity did not seem to deter the crowd that came mostly in shorts. But as the day wore on more and more visitors sought out shady areas along Renfro Creek or any shade tree they could find.

Among those from the county area who won trophies was Tony Hopkins of Mt. Vernon who won first for his 1985 Dodge pickup in the "unrestored original truck, all years" class.

A third place winner was Jonas Stevens of Broadhead who showed his admittedly been living from "paycheck to paycheck" when he was single.

Editors Note: Carolyn Jones of Mt. Vernon wrote this feature about Billy Dowell for a final examination in a journalism class at Eastern Kentucky University.

Earlier, Alfred Sparks had expressed to Dowell his wish to sell the funeral home business because of poor health. Dowell began to do some serious talking with Roy Martin, also a mortician and a friend, about going into a partnership.

In 1969 the partnership was sealed, and Sparks Funeral Home became Dowell-Martin Funeral Home. Gifted with different talents, both young men had a knack for making the business work.

"They have a perfect partnership," said the wife of a Dowell-Martin employee. "Each half has just what the other half needs to make the partnership work well."

Although both are well-qualified in every aspect of the job, each is more comfortable in the roles they do best. Martin prefers to attend to details and background business duties, while Dowell performs the public and social duties of the business to perfection.

"We're 50/50," he said of his partnership with Martin. "Sometimes we disagree over certain situations, but we always work it out. We compromise."

"What gets you to say things have always gotten to a hick."

Dowell acknowledges a sort of dread at times when he has to look at a person he has known who has suffered a traumatic death - a car wreck victim, for instance.

"What gets you to worse are the young people, the children," he said. "That's hard on you." For an instant, Dowell's expression is grim. Then it clears, and with his usual candor, he expresses a fact of which most who know him are already aware.

"I've got a lot of compassion. I hate to see people hurting." He looked down at his hands. "But I guess I try to hide it," he said.

Evidently, his secret is not. Anna Carpenter, a woman from Livingston, relates an incident in which Dowell located and delivered a hospital bed for her mother who was dying of cancer several years ago.

"It would have been easier for him to deliver the bed and just leave," she said. "But he didn't. He set the bed up for us, and then he carried Mom as carefully and tenderly as if she was a baby and put her in that bed. He didn't have to say a word, but his actions said everything."

In addition to his role as mortician, Dowell has served as county coroner for the last 25 years. While the role of coroner has its taxing moments, Dowell maintains that being a funeral director and embalmer requires more time and effort. "You get more death calls as a mortician," he said.

"My main job as a coroner is to determine how, and by what means, a person has died. If the death is by suicide, homicide, or drowning, I order an autopsy."

The autopsies are usually done in Lexington by Dr. John Hunsaker, the assistant chief medical examiner for Kentucky. On days when Hunsaker is off-duty, the bodies are sent to Frankfort or Louisville.

Inevitably, Dowell has been required to testify at nearly all the murder trials in the county. If the questions go beyond his field of knowledge, reports from the pathologists who have done the autopsies, or forensic anthropologists are used to determine the evidence in the case.

"Some cases still stand out in his mind, he said. The Ingraffia/McHarg case is one of them. That was the case in which two bodies were found in a burned out car at Mullins Station. The case was never solved.

Despite the somber aspects of his profession, sometimes an occasional humorous event happens to lighten the situation.

There was the incident in which an older gentleman in the community had died and his widow wished to have him "laid out" earlier than usual. Because the widow was anxious to spend as much time as possible with her late husband, the morticians worked hard and had the body ready early in the day.

"No one comes to the funeral home until after they've had supper," Dowell said. "So it was just the old widow and me. Pretty soon she came into the room where I was just loading. She was chewing gum quite vigorously. Then, she looked right at me and said, 'Mr. Dowell, have you got a Koke?'"

"Well, I could feel my self turning red, and I didn't know what to say. So I just said, 'No, Ma'am, I don't have it.' And she said, 'Just chomping that gum, Well, I wonder where I could get one?'"

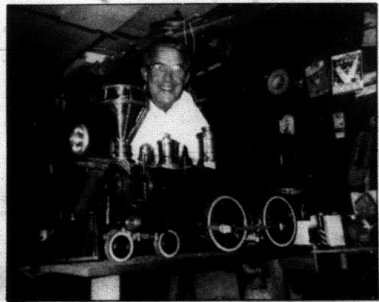

"I don't know," I said. Eva, over there at the flower shop, might have one.

"She said, 'Well, I was just a whim-dinner. I was wanting some pictures made.'"

Dowell didn't bother to tell the woman that what she really wanted was a Kodak.

Dowell begins a typical day by reading a newspaper at the kitchen table. It is accompanied by a pot of fresh coffee. After he has finished reading the paper from cover to cover,

Expos remain undefeated, 6-0

The Expos of the Senior League gained two more wins this past week to move their perfect mark to 6-0 and remain as the only undefeated team in any league in Rockcastle County.

The Expos' first win came this past Saturday in a make up game at Thacker Field when they defeated the Reds, 5-4, despite the Reds smacking two homers. Jason Fletcher had one of the homers while Stacy Kirby got the other.

Please note that the Dodgers vs. Reds and Pirates vs. Indians games that were also scheduled for Saturday were postponed to a later date due to rain.

The Expos followed with their second win this past Monday night with a landslide victory over the Indians, 14-4. The game was highlighted by a three run homerun by J.D. Bussell of the Expos and a two run-shot by Aaron Cox of the Indians.

No score is available in Monday's Reds vs. Pirates game at Roundstone.

In Major League action, the first place Padres received their ninth win of the season over the Cardinals, 16-4, last Tuesday, May 28, at Thacker Field. Also winning big Tuesday were the Twins over the Reds, 16-9, at Roundstone.

Two good games followed in Thursday's action. The Twins edged out the Pirates, 6-3, at Thacker Field while the A's took one from the Cardinals, 5-1, at Roundstone.

The Reds crushed the Cubs, 23-13, at Thacker Field in Friday's only game.

The Padres squeaked by the A's in Saturday's first game at Thacker Field. The game, which proved to be a slug-fest, saw homers by Jonathan Jasper and Josh Blanton of the A's and Rodney Moberly of the Padres.

The also winning Saturday were the Pirates over the Cubs in a forfeit due to the Cubs only fielding eight players.

Jonathan Jasper lifted the A's over the Twins, 6-3, with a three run homerun this past Monday to round out the week in Major League action.

The Bears defeated the Giants, 5-3, last Tuesday, May 28, at Roundstone to begin Minor League play. The Pirates followed with a 17-7 win over the Orioles the same night at Thacker Field.

Two big wins came in Friday night's action at Thacker Field. The Bears rolled over the Cubs, 24-1, while the Orioles routed the Giants, 17-2.

Scores are not available in last Tuesday's Angels vs. Pirates game and this past Monday's Orioles vs. Angels game.

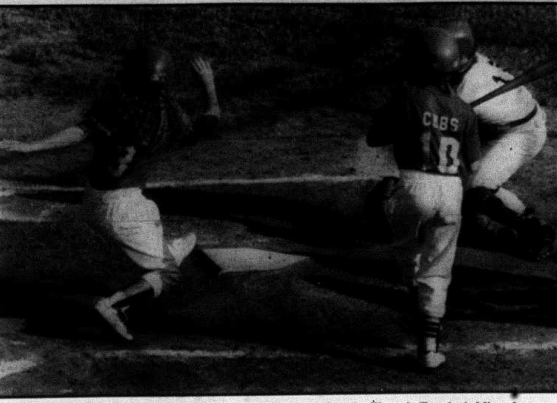

J.D. Bussell of the Expos leads the Senior League in homers with two. ## Gracious snakes alive

Springtime in Kentucky and the arrival of warm, sunny days bring lots of people into closer and more frequent contact with water.

Fishing, hiking and simply enjoying being outdoors around the water increases the opportunity to encounter much-maligned water snakes, for as people emerge from the own "winter hibernation," so do reptiles.

Several species of snakes are almost always found in or near water, whether a creek, river, pond or lake. Most are harmless, but it's a good idea to keep your distance and avoid confrontation, unless you're absolutely, positively sure what species you're dealing with.

Though the name is frequently and mistakenly applied to any snake found in or near the water, there is only one genuine water moccasin: the Western Cottonmouth -- the "Big Daddy" of water snakes.

Actually, the cottonmouth is relatively rare in Kentucky, found mainly in the swamps and sloughs of far Western Kentucky.

The cottonmouth is a pit viper. That means it has eyes with vertical pupils (harmless snakes have round pupils) and an obvious "pit" or depression just below the midway point between the eye and nostril. Like all pit vipers, a cottonmouth has a triangular or "spade-shaped" head with a narrow neck.

An adult cottonmouth's body is dusky brown to dark olive in color, sometimes so dark as to appear almost black, and is usually marked by a series of broad, dark-edged cross-bands down the back. An average adult cottonmouth will reach 20 to 36 inches long, though they've been found as long as 54 inches. The longest Kentucky specimen on record measured 42 1/2 inches.

A young (juvenile) cottonmouth is similarly marked, however its body is much lighter in color, somewhat resembling a copperhead -- dirty yellow to dull orange -- and has a distinguishing bright yellow tail.

One characteristic which readily distinguishes the cottonmouth from other water snakes is that it swims with its head several inches out of the water. Harmless water snakes swim with their heads right on the surface.

Cottonmouths are often perceived as vicious creatures, but they're actually quite docile and somewhat reluctant to bite. A cottonmouth will sometimes let a human approach within a couple of feet before displaying any aggressive, defense behavior. The "vicious" perception likely stems from their tendency to coil and spread their mouths wide open when alarmed, exhibiting the characteristic (and intimidating) cotton-white (hence, the name) color inside.

First Pitch
David Brock of Brodhead, played by Brock announcer for game at Thacker Field was accorded the honor recently of throwing out the first pitch to open this year's minor league season.

Make no mistake, if provoked, a cottonmouth can and will bite, in or out of the water, and can cause serious tissue damage or even death to a human.

Throughout Central Kentucky and parts of Eastern Kentucky, the Common Water Snake and the Queen Water Snake are most likely to be encountered.

The Common Water Snake is usually the larger of the two. While lengths of two to four feet are most common, it can grow as long as six feet. Its color varies from light gray to dark black "blotches" or bands -- a pattern which causes it to easily be confused with the venomous cottonmouth. Older adults have been known to lose their color pattern completely and become uniformly dark. The Common Water Snake can be found near any body of water throughout Kentucky, although it prefers flowing streams or rivers.

The slender Queen Water Snake is a medium brown to gray color, with a yellowish stripe down each side. Its coloration causes it to sometimes be confused with the garter snake. Lengths of 16 to 30 inches are most common, three feet being about the maximum. Like the Common Water Snake, the Queen Water Snake can be found near any body of water, though it prefers rocky streams in open pastures.

Along with the Common Water Snake and the Queen Water Snake, the Diamond-backed Water Snake and the Copperbelly are common in Western Kentucky.

The Diamond-backed Water Snake is a large, heavy-bodied reptile, light brown to dirty yellow in color, with distinctive dark brown (nearly black) rectangular blotches. Though it's been known to reach over six feet long, lengths of three to four feet are most common. The Diamond-backed Water Snake prefers streams, sloughs and swamps. Herpetologists have described it as "evil-tempered" and it will bite viciously when intimidated.

The Copperbelly (or Red-bellied) Water Snake is quite plain in color compared to many other water snakes. Its body is deep green to dark gray, occasionally marked by faint, dark crossbars on the back. Its name is derived from its yellow to reddish underside. Normally three to four feet long, five feet is about the maximum. The Copperbelly prefers habitat similar to that of the Diamond-backed -- swamps and river bottoms. And, they're known to congregate around spillways at impoundments to feed on fish washed over the dams.

Several other less common water snake species including the Green Water Snake, the Eastern Ribbon Snake and Kirtland's Water Snake also are found in Kentucky.

Keep in mind that there are exceptions to every rule, especially when dealing with wildlife. Color patterns can vary greatly within species making rapid, positive identification difficult, even for experts. Range and habitat can vary within species; it's not unusual to occasionally find a wild critter (or even a snake) in a county where it's not supposed to be! The best rule to remember when dealing with snakes or any other wild creature is "better be safe than sorry."

If you're not absolutely sure what you're confronted with, beyond any doubt whatsoever, back off!

Remember too, most snake bite victims are people who were needlessly attempting to capture or kill a snake. The old adage "leave 'em alone and they'll leave you alone" generally holds true.

KET's Kentucky Afield

Kentucky Afield's Western Kentucky fishing adventure at Kentucky Lake pairs host Dave Shuffett with Wildlife Commissioner Mike Boatright and Norm Minch of the Kentucky Department for Fish and Wildlife Resources. Together they explore crappie fishing and prove that catching crappie involves more than (as local fishermen say) "holding your mouth tight."

Nature enthusiasts of all ages can find answers to all kinds of questions about Kentucky wildlife when Shuffett and other guests conduct a special call-in show on August 8.

"The diversity of Kentucky's watchable wildlife is simply unbelievable," says Shuffett. "If you want to know more about watchable nongame wildlife, you don't want to miss this show." During the live one-hour special, viewers may call and ask questions to the host and a panel of experts for discussion. Possible topics for conversation include wildlife habitat, endangered species protection, and habitat enhancement issues, Shuffett said.

Kentucky Afield is a co-production of KET and the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Record attendance at Richmond Raceway

Hot weather and good racing brought an attendance record to the stock car races at the Richmond Raceway in Richmond last Saturday night.

And highlighting the evening was the Late Model Feature which proved to be one of the best races seen anywhere in a long time. After a devastating first lap crash on the front straightaway, retired 1990 Late Model Track Champion, Ron Allen, the rest of the field set a blistering pace to entertain the fans for the rest of the 40 lap feature. Johnny Wheeler set the fastest time for the Late Model division; Butch Shay won the Trophy Dash; and the heat races were won by Tim Osborne and Allen. John Mull powered his Tincher-Williams sponsored race car to his second win at the Richmond clay oval.

In the Open Wheel Modified division, Shay set the fastest time and won the Trophy Dash. Shay also won the heat races along with Dan Brown. John Sparks won his first feature there during the feature event.

There were 40 Bombers at the Richmond Raceway. Saturday, so cars had to be divided into two feature events. Joey Daniel set the fastest time for the Bomber class and won the A Feature on the last lap in the last turn after 19 laps of dueling with seven other drivers. Dennis Robertson won the Trophy Dash.

George Brockman set the fastest time and Daily Sandlin was the winner of the Trophy Dash in the Road Hog division. The feature was won by Darrell Cain.
