

Richards commended for service in Desert Storm operation

(Ed's Note: This is a letter to Plc. Dwayne Richards' parents, Vito Richards of Orlando and Kelly Richards of Mt. Vernon, from his commanding officer. Richards will be home the latter part of next week.)

Dear Parents of an American Hero, Dwayne Richards:

I had the distinct honor and pleasure of commanding your son in combat during the Persian Gulf war. I want to briefly recount for you his accomplishments and experiences. As a parent myself, I understand the special love that binds a son and his parents. Hence, as a personal goal as we headed to Saudi Arabia, I vowed to bring everyone back from this conflict alive and well.

The odyssey started on Christmas

Ev. 1990 when the battalion flew from Nuremberg, Germany to King Fahd International Airport near Dammam, Saudi Arabia. After spending most of January at the Port of Al Jubayl waiting for our vehicles to arrive by ship from Germany, we moved out to the middle of the desert to conduct our final train up for war.

On 24 February 1991 our battalion crossed the border between freedom and tyranny - Saudi Arabia and Iraq. On 25 February we encountered the Iraqi 26th Infantry Division. We were the first unit in the 1st Armored Division to see combat. The men looked impressive in their first fight. However, no time was available for congratulations for within a couple of hours we were on the move again. The battalion continued on with minimal rest towards our next fight, which turned out to be our toughest and largest battle during the entire four day war. The battle began just after nightfall had set in on 26 February. We took on and defeated a brigade from the Tawalkana Division of the Republican Guard forces which were tasked to block our attack, thereby allowing other Iraqi units to escape north out of Kuwait. After catching them by surprise (a captured tank commander remarked, "I never saw you until my tank blew up.") and annihilating them, the race was on. Even though we had been without sleep for the past 36 hours, we pressed east towards the northwest corner of Kuwait to block the withdrawal of the retreating Iraqis. Along the way we had two more fights, one against elements of the Medina Division of the Republican Guard, and another against various armored units fleeing north.

When the cease-fire was announced, we had been moving for 87 hours, traveled 212 miles, captured over 400 prisoners, destroyed elements of three Iraqi divisions, stopped three miles inside of Kuwait, and done so without receiving a single casualty.

From one parent to another, thank you for raising such a fine son. His contributions directly impacted on the success achieved by this battalion. His accomplishments in battle and the selfless sacrifice he displayed for his country in the name of freedom, truly makes him an American Hero.

Sincerely,
James W. Critz
LTC, IN
Commanding

Mopeders need licenses

Owners of mopeds and motorcycles look forward to summertime when they can take their vehicles out more often. Too often, though those who use these two-wheeled vehicles, especially mopeds, have not familiarized themselves with state law.

A moped is a motorized bicycle whose frame design may include one or more horizontal cross bars supporting a fuel tank so long as it also has pedals and a motorized bicycle with a step-through type frame which may or may not have pedals. It does not exceed more than two brake horsepower or a cylinder capacity exceeding 50 cubic centimeters. A moped has an automatic transmission (no clutching or shifting required by the operator after the drive system is engaged) and cannot exceed 30 miles per hour.

In Kentucky, during 1989 there were 170 accidents involving motor scooters and motorbikes (mopeds); six of those accidents resulted in fatal injuries.

Anyone operating a moped upon a highway must have a valid Kentucky operator's license. Application for renewal license shall be made every two or four years during the applicant's birth month.

Questions regarding the licensing of a person to operate a moped or the operation of a moped may be directed to any state police post.

WORKING TO MAKE HEALTH CARE AFFORDABLE

Thirty-seven million Americans do not have access to adequate health care. Yet, $600 billion is annually spent on health care in this country. Billions of those dollars are lost in malpractice lawsuits and medical procedures to guard against such suits.

Earlier this month, President Bush sent a proposal to Congress to help combat this wide-spread problem. The proposal would limit medical malpractice lawsuits - a plan endorsed by the American Medical Association (AMA) for the past five years.

The plan emphasizes reduction of insurance premiums, lowering the number of defensive medical measures, and increasing public access to health care. It is estimated that malpractice lawsuits add $5.6 billion a year to insurance premiums. Defensive medicine adds another $15 billion to $40 billion annually to the cost of health care. Total medical liability premiums tripled from 1982-1988. The high price of malpractice insurance affects not only the cost, but also the availability of health care. Many doctors choose to give up high-risk specialties such as obstetrics in order to avoid malpractice suits and high insurance rates. Four out of five obstetricians in the United States have been sued. For every $3,000 paid for the delivery of a baby, $500 of it is for malpractice insurance.

Kentucky is not immune to this crisis - 73 of Kentucky's 120 counties do not have an obstetrician. Medical malpractice is an issue which must be addressed to make health care more affordable, and accessible to all Americans. We must balance the rights of patients to fair compensation with the rights of all Americans to affordable health care.

ATTENTION PARENTS OF STUDENTS ATTENDING ROCKCASTLE COUNTY HIGH SCHOOL

Important Meeting Scheduled July 1, 1991

Rockcastle County High School will implement School Based Decision Making (SBDM) during the 1991-92 school term as outlined in the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990, Section 14. Section 14 of KERA (KRS 160.345, section 2 a, b.) reads: (a) Each participating school shall form a school council which shall be composed of two (2) parents, three (3) teachers, and the principal or administrator. The membership of the council may be increased, but it may only be increased proportionately. The parent representatives on the council shall not be relatives of any employee of the school. (b) The teacher representatives shall be elected for one (1) year terms by a majority of the teachers. The parent representatives shall be selected for one (1) year terms. The parent members shall be elected by the parent members of the parent teacher organization of the school or, if none exists, the largest organization of parents formed for this purpose. The principal or head teachers shall be the chair of the school council.

Copies of the Kentucky Education Reform Act and local Board policies related to SBDM are available for review at the Central Administration offices during regular business hours 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and will be available for review and discussion at all meetings scheduled to organize a parent group for RCHS.

We were very pleased to see a large number of parents attend the first meeting on May 30, 1991. Another meeting to inform parents of RCHS students of the SBDM process has been scheduled for July 1, 1991, 7:00 p.m. at Rockcastle County High School.

A third meeting will then be scheduled for the RCHS parent support group for the purpose of nominating those wishing to have their names placed on the ballot for the election of the two parent members of the council. Those wishing to be elected to the council will have an opportunity to address the entire group.

Any parent, step-parent or legal guardian of a student attending RCHS for the 1991-92 school term is eligible to become a member of this group with voting privileges.

If you have any questions, please feel free to call Principal Ronnie Cash at 256-4816.

For growing trees are strengthened
When they withstand the storm.
And the sharp cut of the chisel
Gives the marble grace and form...

So He never sends us pleasure
When the soul's deep need is pain...
So whenever we are troubled,
And when everything goes wrong...

We've Hit A New Low.

Imagine that. Super 1 Foods has great values throughout the store, but now you can get these items at rock bottom prices. And while that's a pretty good deal, it's nothing compared to the money you could save if you shopped at Super 1 every week. So, now that you have the low down, why not come out for the deal of the week. And start getting in on the deal of the year.

New federal loan program announced

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has implemented a new program to assist rural residents to become successful homeowners.
In addition to its direct housing loan program, the federal agency is now authorized to guarantee commercial loans to purchase single-family housing.

Lt. Governor candidate John Frith Stewart, was on hand during the annual Brodhead Homecoming to greet the crowd and do a little campaigning. Stewart may have lost in last month's Kentucky primary, but he was a big hit with the large crowd in Brodhead where he has family members, including Mrs. Elenore Gray, his aunt. Mrs. Elizabeth Mullins, far left, was also a big supporter. (Homecoming Photos By: Doug Brock)

In Jackson County Two Rockcastle men involved in shooting

By: George Ferrell
Jackson County Sun
A Rockcastle County man suffered a gunshot wound in the arm early Friday morning, according to the Kentucky State Police, who arrested a Mt. Vernon man for the shooting.
Donald R. Jones, 25, Route 1, Brodhead, allegedly shot Harvey Lee Bond, 27, Mt. Vernon, once in the arm with a handgun.
Bond was taken to Berea Hospital and transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center for treatment.

igation by KSP Detective Ronnie Gay of the Richmond post.
The shooting happened at approximately 5:30 a.m. Friday morning one mile from the Tynes Post Office on Route 30 near Dennis Cole's residence.
The wounded man was put back in his car by Jones, who then drove the victim to Gray Hawk where they called for help from Osar McQueen's home.
They were both transported to Berea Hospital by the Jackson County Ambulance Service, which responded to the call.
Jones, who was having surgery shortly after the shooting, was in intensive care in critical condition at Berea Hospital Friday.
Jackson County Sheriff Hershel Lynch assisted in the investigation.

Lambert gets high marks

Rockcastle County Attorney James H. Lambert's office is winning high praise from the state's Child Support Enforcement Commission, for their child support enforcement efforts.
The Child Support Enforcement Commission was created in 1988 to monitor the state's child support enforcement program, to diagnose problems, and to work with the Cabinet for Human Resources to improve the system.

Chairman General Fred Cowan, of the Commission, says Rockcastle County's program has increased collections by 146 percent.

from $40,190 in 1988 to $99,128 in 1990.
'Increased collections mean more of Rockcastle County's children are having their needs met,' Cowan says.
'Kentucky can have the toughest laws in the country, but without enforcement, they are meaningless.'

Brodhead Homecoming a success

By: Diane Ott
It was relaxing and enlightening. The beginning of the Third Annual Brodhead Homecoming began Friday night with a Gospel Singing Concert. Bill Sowder of the Jubilee Echoes emceed the concert introducing gospel groups who sang out their hearts for the crowds listening pleasure. He also stepped out of role as entertainer into the performers circle to entertain along with his group. It was a great way to begin the weekend.
Early Saturday morning brought scores of people out, setting up tables for the flea market, getting their booths ready for the day to sell their items to raise money for clubs or organizations, or just those people who look forward to seeing Brodhead streets filled with people on Saturday just like it used to be in the days gone by.

The ladies and tots participating in the Pretty Baby and Tiny Tots Contests braved the sun and heat to claim their prizes. They were all so cute and cuddly, and it would have been very hard to judge for the winner but winners there were.
In the Pretty Baby Contest the winner was Patrick Kirby and in the Tiny Tots Contest the winner was Kayla Bishop.
Later in the afternoon, the parade came through downtown. The Brodhead Fire department once again did an exceptional job, preparing, lining up and putting together this exciting event.
The local winners of the parade were: First place - Taylor's Produce; Second Place - Brodhead Volunteer Fire Department Ladies Auxiliary; Third place - Citizens Bank of Brodhead.

After the parade, Jim Sayre of Lawrenceburg portrayed Abraham Lincoln and gave an exhilarating and patriotic speech.
For viewing pleasure during the day there were performances by the Bittersweet Cloggers and the County Line Cloggers.
Saturday night's Homecoming closing event was a Donkey Basketball Game. The Brodhead Fire Department played against the Woodstock Fire Department and Woodstock proved to be better on the backs of donkeys than Brodhead. But it was all in fun and funny it was! There was talk of a re-match sometime in the future. Let's hope so.
The Brodhead Homecoming is an event that bring a lot of people home. With hard work and participation of many people it is the reason the Brodhead Homecoming is such a success and will continue to be so for many years to come.

Brodhead businessman Charles Fletcher was busy during homecoming passing out free snacks and lemonade to the many visitors on hand for the annual event. (Brodhead Homecoming Photos By: Doug Brock)

State will investigate Rockcastle's May election

Rockcastle will be one of six counties that will be investigated for potential voting irregularities by the office of the attorney general.
Other counties include Whitley, Barren, Scott, Metcalf and Mason.
The counties were chosen at random under a law that sets up post-election inquiries and does not in any way indicate there were irregularities in the last election.
The investigation of the May 28 primary will cover such areas as absentee ballots, instances of voter assistance and other cases where vote fraud might have taken place.

Singleton released from U.K. Hospital

Robert Neil Singleton, of Piney Branch, who was injured in a motorcycle accident June 5, has been released from the U.K. Medical Center in Lexington.
Singleton was going north on Richmond Street and struck the right rear panel of a pickup truck driven by Rev. Wendell Romans of Mt. Vernon.
Rev. Romans crossed Richmond Street from School Street to go on to Newcomb Avenue when the accident occurred, contrary to a report in last week's Signal.

Rockcastle to be honored, June 23

Rockcastle County will be honored Saturday, June 23 at the Kentucky Horse Park in Lexington.
The 'County Days' concept provides the Kentucky Horse Park an opportunity to invite each resident of the 120 counties to visit, absolutely free of general admission charges on a designated weekend day. Hope is that all Kentuckians, through this program, will revisit the Park and enjoy the special relationship that has developed between the horse and mankind throughout time.

In another part of town, Paul Cash was up in the Brodhead city park preparing for the volleyball tournament which was won by a group from Bee Lick.

After that was over, Paul then began preparation for the Go Kart exhibition race, which was also held around the city park. The East Oytawa Go Kart Club did the racing.
Downtown, it was time for the Outstanding Citizen of the Year to be announced. It was Joe Bussell. The look of surprise, on his face as his name was announced was worth all the secrecy until that very moment.

The Homecoming Queen contestants were all absolutely beautiful. Kimberly Ann Shivel, Mandy Ott and Tammy Brandenburg. The 1991 Brodhead Homecoming Queen was then announced. It was Tammy Brandenburg. Brodhead is proud to claim this lovely young lady as its 1991 Homecoming Queen.

No change here

A canvass of votes in the May Primary governor's election at the request of Republican candidate Larry Forgy did not change the results in Rockcastle, according to County Clerk Norma Houk.
County voters gave 1,181 votes for Forgy to 725 for U.S. Rep. Larry Hopkins.
Hopkins defeated Forgy statewide. Hopkins faces Democrat Brentwood Jones in the November election.

Fiscal court awards low bids for several items

Bids on various items to be used by employees of the county were opened at a meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court.
Mt. Vernon Oil and Tire of Mt. Vernon is the apparent low bidder on petroleum products, including gasoline, kerosene and diesel fuel.
The apparent low bidder on culverts for county roads and streets is Kentucky Underground Construction Co., of Grayson. The firm had last year's low bid.
Vulcan of Chattanooga, Tenn., is the low bidder for asphalt. They were also last year's low bidder.
As expected, the Kentucky Association of Counties, Frankfort, is the only bidder on countywide insurance for a total of $17,813 annually.
The insurance includes general liability, contractors equipment, auto theft, officials bonds and other.
Contracts will be awarded at a later session.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

My wife and I were having dinner at Wendy's in Berea, when we overheard a couple of Berea College students having a conversation about their student teaching assignments. One particular student starting talking about Rockcastle County and how our county was a one horse county which is inhabited by people who were ignorant. He was literally making fun of Rockcastle County and the people who live in it. He went further to say that he was going to be doing his student teaching at Rockcastle County High School and that he was going to come over here and kick some butts. We do not feel that any student teacher should have that kind of attitude about the county they are going to be teaching in. It would be unfair to the students if they were being taught by someone who thought they were stupid. I think that the school system should have some way of screening the student teachers before placing them in the system. I would not want my child to have a student teacher that felt that way about the students and people in Rockcastle County. Madison County would not like it if the shoe was on the other foot.

Dear Editor,

The members of the Corinth Holiness Church would like to express their gratitude to the many wonderful people that made contributions or donations to the yard sale Saturday June 8. The funds were to make needed repairs on the church. The great people of our community have shown their support of the Corinth Holiness Church. We would like to invite each and everyone to attend our services every Friday and Sunday nights. Again we say thank you.

Yours truly,
Darlene M. Bowles

Dear Editor,

I would like for people to know to be careful about burning their garbage. I was cleaning a building on 7/17-17. I had no idea that I had an explosive can in my garbage that I was burning. The can exploded on me and burned my right arm and both legs. I stayed in U.K. Hospital in the Burn/Intensive Care Unit two days short of a month. I came home on May 17. I would like to thank all my relatives and friends for the get-well cards, flowers and their prayers. I want to thank the Rockcastle County Hospital, the ambulance service and U.K. Hospital, the doctors and nurses for being so kind to me.

Elvia Marie VanWinkle
Dear Editor,

I am looking for a pen pal who served in the Gulf War. He is from Rockcastle County.

My last address from him is: Pfc. Ernie Tracy, C Co. 20th Eng. Battalion "C", APO New York, NY 09657. I would very much like to hear from him as a family member. I have not heard from him since February.

Thank you,

Points East

By: Ike Adams

If I could have my way about things, I would work on Saturdays and take off every Monday. I realize that a lot of folks have to work on Saturday and Monday too, but I have been fortunate, over the last 20 years, to have a five day work week. Monday has consistently been the worst of those five days.

That's nothing new or different. Just about everybody I know dreads Monday. There's probably a name for the condition -- Mondayitis or something like that.

Sometimes I can be as chipper and full of life as a half starved mouse who has just gained entry into a cheese factory on Monday morning. I'll drive to work with a Doyle Lawson tape turned up to full volume and sing along like I'm part of the band. I'll have my intentions for the day stashed in the back of my mind and I'll enter the parking lot anxious and excited to have it at.

I'll pick up the phone still humming a fiddle tune under my breath and the first thing I'll do is wish the person on the other end of the line a pleasant "good morning and how are you this fine day."

Usually the greeting is met by several seconds of absolute silence, the kind of silence you can feel as though you have just spilled your coffee down the front of their shirt. You can actually feel them wondering what on earth is wrong with you and then they'll ask, "Don't you know it's Monday?"

"Don't you know that it's a sin and that it ought to be a crime to be happy on Monday morning. Where have you been budding?"

Or if they know you and like you they'll accuse you of spiking your coffee and they'll inform you that you can get in trouble for drinking on the job.

Word will get out all over the state and even to New York City within fifteen minutes if you come to work happy on Monday morning. Then people will start calling you with whatever bad news they can discover. You'll be threatened with a lawsuit or divorce or you'll be chewed out for general principles all because you happen to be in a pleasant frame of mind. Half a dozen people will dip whatever it is they're doing and take it upon themselves to ruin your life and they won't stop until they have you as ill-tempered as they are.

After three or four such calls, you will be convinced that there is, in fact, something wrong with you and if you are like me, you will bow to peer pressure and become, yourself, a gump with a chip on your shoulder, much like the rest of the civilized world by 9 a.m. on Monday morning. You will growl and say "I'm busy," in such a tone that nobody will call you back. You will insult at least half a dozen people before lunch time and you will spend much of the rest of the week trying to get them back on your side.

And when you go back to work the next Monday morning, you will find the entire process all over again.

On occasion, however, I start it necessary to work on Saturdays or even Sundays. Sometimes I'm in meetings or conferences or traveling or some other deadbeat, but work-related activity. Sometimes I just go to the office and finish up projects that I would have had time to complete during the week if I hadn't spent a fourth of my time patching up relationships that I jeopardized on Monday.

I have discovered that it is often possible to get as much work done in four hours on Saturday as I could have managed over two days during the week. I also find that I can sing along with Doyle and the boys at the top of my voice without interrupting anybody else because I'm the only person around. But the real dividend in working weekends is knowing that I have a valid reason for taking Monday off.

I have also learned to go to places where there are no phones or other people when I manage these Mondays to myself. Lakes and streams that were cluttered with humankind over the weekend are normally mine and mine alone. If I decide to mow the lawn or hoe the garden, no relatives or visitors come around to tell me how they would approach the job if they were doing it. If I decide to write, I can take the phone off the hook and have the house to myself and whatever bluegrass band I choose for company.

Fish that have spent the weekend under rocks or on the bottom hiding from boats or dodging lead sinkers and artificial baits awaken on Monday morning with the best appetites they are apt to have all week. I keep a little leg hook of my fishing tryp and most of my best ones have been (Cont. to A3)

Bro. Hammond called to Mobile, Alabama church

Bro. Eddie Hammond, pastor of the First Christian Church, Mt. Vernon, has been named pastor of the First Christian Church of Mobile, Alabama.

In an "Excerpts from Eddie" mailed to parishioners Bro. Hammond said, "Goodbyes are never easy... and the decision to move has been a grueling one for Roxanne and me. On the other hand, however, moving is made easier because of love. The love I am talking about is our love for the Lord Jesus Christ and a willingness to be obedient to Him."

Bro. Hammond has been pastor at Mt. Vernon since 1987. He and his wife, Roxanne, have two children, Stuart Andrew, 7, and Heather Elizabeth, 4.

curred on Mondays. The lawn mower and the tiller seem to run just a tad smoother and words come to me easier on Monday mornings when I am alone than at any other time of the week.

Better yet, when I go to the office on Tuesday, most of my cohorts have gotten over Mondayitis and I believe we are much more pleasant with each other and that the world is a better place to be because I wasn't there yesterday.

Try taking off on Monday two or three times a year yourself if you can do so without getting in trouble. It could add years to your life.

Variety of summer courses at EKU

Weekend trips to Madison, Ind., and Nashville, Tenn., and a series of special computer classes will highlight the tours, special interest courses, and fitness programs offered this summer by Eastern Kentucky University's Division of Special Programs.

The Madison trip, July 19 to 21, will include accommodations at Autumnwood, a Victorian bed and breakfast inn.

The tour also includes a meal at the family-owned Scotella winery, a riverboat cruise on the Ohio River, and tours of 19th century homes, Clifty Falls State Park, and Hanover College.

Many of the popular special interest courses will be back also, Sadler said.

A few of the new special interest classes this summer include, "Radon Dangers in Kentucky," "Co-ed Step Aerobics," "Archaeology in Your Own Back Yard," and "Supervisory Skills for the Food Services."

Each semester, EKU's Division of Special Programs offers more than 50 not-for-college-credit courses for personal enrichment, professional development, and fitness.

For more information or to register, please contact the Division of Special Programs at 622-1228.

Rockcastle County schools gets award certificate in arts education

The Rockcastle County Schools has received an award certificate at the Kentucky Center for the Arts in Louisville for being one of nine school districts across the state to complete a three-year program to improve its overall arts education program.

The schools have been participating in the Basic Arts Program, a program administered by the Kentucky Arts Council in Cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky Alliance for Arts Education, since 1989 after being selected one of 10 districts out of 51 districts who applied. One district later withdrew from the program leaving nine.

Through the Basic Arts Program Rockcastle County Schools has been involved in comprehensive arts instruction for K-8 generalists teachers in the areas of music, visual arts, dance and drama/cultural resource planning and implementation, curriculum writing and long-range arts program planning.

The Lexington Children's Theatre has brought live performances such as MacBeth, Edgar Allan Poe, Twain

Muse, Country Mouse and Uncle Wiggly.

Of the three years Rockcastle County schools made several notable accomplishments in the basic arts program. A second music teacher was added to our elementary program along with a nine month artist-in-residence working county-wide in a multi-disciplinary capacity. A new music textbook and music instruments were purchased for grades K-8, and a basic arts coordinator serving all schools will be employed for the 1991-92 school year. This position was a result of a needs assessment conducted in our county last year.

The award certificate, which can be viewed in the Rockcastle County Board of Education Central Office states:

The Commonwealth of Kentucky, The Kentucky Arts Council, The Kentucky Department of Education and The Kentucky Alliance for Arts Education are pleased to make this award to the Rockcastle County schools in recognition of the successful completion of the Basic Arts Program, a three year-program to assist Kentucky School districts with strengthening and improving their educational curriculum by incorporating the arts as basic in the day-to-day curriculum of all schools.

The award is signed by Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson for the Com-

Roaden gets scholarship award

Sue Bennett College President Joan K. Stivers presented awards during the colleges' 68th commencement exercises, May 10. The A.W. Walker Scholarship Award went to Kelly Roaden of London. This award is voted on by the professors of Sue Bennett and is given to a first year student who during the year has shown significant growth in pursuing their course of study. Ms. Roaden was also among 18 participants to receive national certification as a tutor from the College Learning and Reading Association and was recognized at Honors Day on May 1. The purpose of this program is to identify and then tutor junior high and high school students who are at risk of dropping out. Ms. Roaden also received an honor of being on the Dean's List with a grade point average of 4.00 with a course load of 16 hours for the Spring semester.

Kelly is the daughter of Irene Bales and the late Clifford Bales.

Cody

By: Marina Mason

My darling Cody
You know I care
For when you needed me most

Alfreda and Cody Leger

I was always there

It's so hard to believe
That you are gone
You left me empty
And so alone

My arms that once embraced you
And held you tight
Are empty now and
It just doesn't feel right

I love you, Cody,
With all of my heart
It doesn't seem possible
That now we are apart

Many were afraid of
Your handicaps
While you were sick
It was I who held you through your naps

Some family and friends alike
They really don't care
When we needed them those fated nights
None of them were there

I know, my darling,
That Jesus has called you home
You will never be sick again
And you will never feel alone

But Cody, my child
I wish you were here
So I could hold you tight
And comfort you, my dear
When all of this is over
And the truth is finally known
Peace will still be out of reach
Because I know that you are gone

With all my love,
Mommy

Thanks to everyone who was there and helped in the time of our sadness.

Mills enlists

Sherman Mills, son of Julie Rowe of Mt. Vernon, and Clarence Mills of Manchester, recently enlisted in the United States Air Force, according to Sgt. Russell, the local Air Force recruiter.

Upon successfully completing the Air Force's six week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, near San Antonio, Texas he will receive technical training in his designated career area.

The Mount Vernon Signal, Thursday, June 13, 1991 P-A5
Sherman, a 1991 graduate of Rockcastle County High School, will earn credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the community college of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

Hoskins promoted to Tech Sergeant

Lawrence S. Hoskins has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of technical sergeant. Hoskins is a missile maintenance technician at Whiteman Air Force Base, Mo. He is the son of Ruby J. Bryant of Rt. 1, Brodhead. His wife, Marcia, is the daughter of James and Dorothy L. Rosenquist of Lees Summit.

Smith completes supply course

Pvt. Kevin L. Smith has completed a petroleum supply specialist course at Fort Lee, Petersburg, Va. Students received instruction in receipt, storage, issue, shipping, and distribution of petroleum products used by the Army. Also included in the training were waterfront pipeline operations, and health and safety hazards.

Births and Birthdays

Jeremy Shane Neal son of Elizabeth Carol Renner of Mt. Vernon and Richard Dawayne Neal of Irvine, celebrated his first birthday on May 30th with a party at his home. Helping him to celebrate was his half brother Ricky Ashcraft and several of his first cousins, Melanie, Lynda and John Renner and Ronnie and Joseph Renner. Thanks to everyone for the nice gifts.

Hello! My name is Sara JoEllen Begley. I was born on May 8th, 1991 at Somerset. I was 8 pounds 14 1/4 ounces and 20 inches long. I was welcomed home by my proud mommy and daddy, Tammy and David Begley and family and friends.

Ha! Ha!

You're 29!

From husband, son and daughter

Seventeen get degrees from EKU

Seventeen Rockcastle County students received degrees from Eastern Kentucky University at the end of the spring semester. They were among more than 930 graduates honored at the University's 84th spring commencement ceremony held Saturday, May 11 at Hanger Field.

Faculty and administrators of the University's academic colleges were on hand, as well as thousands of family members and friends of the new graduates.

Following the University-wide ceremony each of the nine colleges sponsored receptions for the new graduates at various campus locations.

Eastern's new degree-holders join more than 60,000 EKU alumni in Kentucky, the region and across the U.S.

Local EKU graduates include: Judith Ann Baker, Crab Orchard, nursing, baccalaureate, bachelor's degree; Sheila Marie Benge, Richmond, 2-yr. nursing, associate degree; Teresa Brown Blair, general dietetics, bachelors; Debbie Bowman, London, special education/school health, masters; Trina Gayle/Skell-

Mt. Vernon, mathematics (teaching), bachelors; Rhonda G. Caldwell; Brodhead, 2-yr. nursing, associate; Dianna J. Callahan, nursing baccalaureate, bachelors; and Julie Lloyd Ham, Mt. Vernon, 2-yr. nursing, associate.

Others are: Alan Hammond, Mt. Vernon, history (teaching), bachelors; Vicki Lynn Lowery, Brodhead, 2-yr. nursing, associate; Darlene Lakes Martin, Mt. Vernon, home economics education (teaching), bachelors; Saica Morgan, psychology, bachelors; David Pensol, Mt. Vernon, elementary education (K-4) bachelors; Stephanie Reynolds, Crab Orchard, 2-yr. nursing, associate; David Riddle, secondary school health, masters; Diana Thacker, Conway, nursing, baccalaureate, bachelors; and Harold Woodall, Brodhead, elementary education (K-4) bachelors.

Gutenson on Dean's List at Clear Creek

Daniel R. Gutenson has been named to the Dean's List at Clear Creek Baptist Bible College, Pineville.

His inclusion in the Dean's List means that he has achieved a grade point average of 3.3 or higher for the 1991 Spring semester. Gutenson, a native of Waynesburg, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gutenson of Waynesburg. He is the pastor of Mt. Hebron Baptist Church in Waynesburg. Gutenson is married to Sheila Kirby of Brodhead and they have two children.

EKU sponsoring exhibition of projects

The Eastern Kentucky Teachers Network is sponsoring an exhibition of student directed projects at Berea College. This showcase of student work will feature students from various grade levels and subject areas displaying and discussing their work from the past school year. Students have produced books of their original writings, videotapes on various topics, school newspapers, plays and radio programs. For example, a 4th grade class from Sunshine Elementary will present their Octagonography project which they worked on in a classroom in Maine. First graders from Harlan County will show their school year in pictures and writings done by the students. Another 4th grade class in Campbellsville will tell about their Breakfast Club, a one-week breakfast involving local businesspeople. This is an opportunity for the students to display finished products and to share with visitors how the process of the project was accomplished.

This showcase of student work is the direct result of Eastern Kentucky teachers being trained by Eliot Wigginton, founder of Foxfire, Inc. Rabun Gap, Georgia and staff of Eastern Kentucky Teachers Network. Wigginton and his high school students have spent the past 25 years pushing Foxfire magazines and books on subjects of Appalachian heritage through a method of student directed community based academically sound teaching practices. Eastern Kentucky teachers have joined together for support and resources into a professional network promoting experimental learning in the classroom. Teachers who have attended a Foxfire workshop during the past five summers at Berea have returned to their classrooms and with the students direction initiated local community based projects. The Foxfire methodology engages

RES first graders take part in Berea College Foxfire seminar

A representative group of first graders from Mrs. Eversole's and Mrs. Gabbard's Class at Roundstone Elementary School gathered at the school Tuesday afternoon to travel to Berea College, where they had been asked to present an overview of their learning experiences to the Foxfire Seminar currently in session on the campus. Teachers from all across the state and a number of educators from various parts of the country will hear from six- and seven-year-old students how they took an active part in choosing how and what they wanted to learn.

The large classroom of from 27 to 32 students (classroom population shift dramatically throughout the year) learned the importance of a wide variety of communication skills and knowing about your own community. Throughout the school year, the students have recorded a tape of Christmas carols at Renfro Valley; recycled one side of the tape to produce a "Jack Tale"; interviewed and wrote books about a variety of people in the school and community; read 576 books for the "Book-It" Program; designed and made their own class logo and t-shirts; entertained a Kentucky children's author, George Ella Lyon, in their classroom; and completed the year by compiling, editing and printing their own "Memory Book".

Twenty on EKU's Dean's List

Twenty Rockcastle County residents are among 1,088 students at Eastern Kentucky University to be named to the Dean's List for the spring semester study.

To achieve Dean's List honors at EKU, students attempting 14 or more credit hours must earn a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0. Students attempting 13 credit hours must earn a 3.65 GPA, and students attempting 12 credit hours must earn a 3.75 GPA.

"We are always happy to recognize outstanding academic achievement at Eastern Kentucky University," said EKU President Hanly Funderbank.

Teaching is our primary focus here at Eastern," he said.

"We believe that the outstanding academic performance of these students is a reflection both of their hard work and the hard work of our teaching faculty."

Those from Rockcastle County include: Shelia Alsp, Mt. Vernon, communication's disorders; Teresa Brown Blair, Brodhead, general dietetics; Charles Anthony Asher, Brodhead, agriculture/business; Sonya Bullock, Brodhead, business education; Rebecca Burdette, Mt. Vernon, communication's disorders; Angie Bussell, Brodhead, pre-accounting; Jason Chasteen, Richmond, philosophy; Joyce Cummins, Mt. Vernon, 2-yr. child care; Greg Daugherty, Mt. Vernon, music; and Charlene Holbrook, Brodhead, insurance.

Others are: Danny McNew, Mt. Vernon, pre-occupational therapy; Sherri Mink, Mt. Vernon, elementary education (K-4); Lisa Lynn Moore, Berea, middle grade education; Saica Morgan, Brodhead, psychology; Tanya Parrett, Brodhead, elementary education (K-4); Robbie Phillips, Mt. Vernon, pre-general business; Thomas Schaper,

Two get degrees

Two Rockcastle County High graduates received degrees from Berea College in outdoor commencement exercises May 26.

Christy Sexton received a bachelor of arts degree in English. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sexton of Rt. 1, Mt. Vernon. Camela Russell Underkoff also was awarded a bachelor of arts degree in English. She is the daughter of Wanda Russell of Rt. 2 Mt. Vernon and Noel Russell of Berea.

"Award certificate" Cont. from A6 month-long of Kentucky; Josephine D'Amato Richerson, chairman of the Kentucky Arts Council; Thomas C. Boyesen, commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Education; Martha N. Brown, president of the Kentucky Alliance for Arts Education; and Dennis Horn, coordinator of the Basic Arts Program.

Those attending the two-day evaluation process along with Claudina Cash were Lawrence Bullock, high school art teacher, Charlotte Bullock, fourth grade teacher at Brodhead Elementary, Allen Penson, charter member of the Kentucky Planning Committee and Instructional Assistant at Livingston Elementary.

Richmond, pre-computer info systems; Worth Anne White, Brodhead, child and family studies; and Cynthia Wolfe, Mt. Vernon, elementary education (K-4).

Bales recognized for excellence in teaching

More than 250 teachers in four states including Shannon Bales of Mt. Vernon Elementary School, have been recognized for their teaching excellence in the Ashland Oil, Inc. 1990-91 Golden Apple Achiever Award program.

The honor is part of the company's annual Teacher achievement awards program.

"In addition to the 40 teachers who received cash awards in the Ashland Oil teacher achievement program, our judges believe that these teachers exhibited extraordinary professionalism and commitment to educational excellence," said Dan Lacy, vice president of corporate communications.

The Golden Apple achiever awards recognize teachers who were judged as being in the top 15 percent of all the teachers who were nominated and applied for the achievement awards in Kentucky, West Virginia, Ohio and Minnesota, explained Lacy.

"The Golden Apple certificate is one way we can say thank you to teachers who are training tomorrow's business leaders in their classrooms." The Ashland Oil Teacher Achievement Awards is an ongoing program to promote quality education and to recognize the important role teachers play as they guide and influence students' lives. Award recipients are selected by a panel of education experts. Ten winners in each state receive a $2,500 cash award.

Masters and Ponder to wed

Mrs. Diane Masters and Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Ponder wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their children, Jennifer Lee Masters and Brian Cameron Ponder. The wedding will be Saturday, June 22, 1991 at 1:30 p.m. at the Broadhead Baptist Church, Broadhead. All friends and family are invited to share this happy occasion.

Missionary group meets at Shivel home June 8

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

The Broadhead Christian Churches Missionary Group heard an excellent lesson presented by Nita Ritter at Marjorie Shivel's home, June 8, at 7:30 p.m.

Prisms were quoted. She told us to reach out for the Good Shepherd to lead us safely through the day each morning. She said, "Don't forget and be too busy for morning prayers to give us strength to get through the day -- doing what the Lord would have us do." Prayer is a blessing! She ended the program with reading the 23rd Psalm.

The ladies reminisced about the many meetings that Emily Glovak attended and how we missed her since her recent death, after a long illness. We miss Lou Payne so much since she isn't able to attend our meeting. Her beautiful prayers were an inspiration to us!

"Call the homebound if you can't visit them," someone suggested. The group voted to send at least one to camp this year.

Nellis Colson mailed the package to Brenda and Mike Disken last week to El Paso, Texas. Marjorie Shivel and Barbara Watson will help with cooking breakfast one morning each week at camp.

We welcomed Rissie Cromer as a new member.

Delicious refreshments were served by Marjorie Shivel after Nellie Colson gave the blessing.

July's hostess will be Loraine Newland and Marjorie Shivel will give the lesson.

Mountain Music Festival this weekend

Renfro Valley Folks, Inc. invites you to join them for two special shows during Mountain Music Weekend Friday and Saturday.

Guest performers include the Bill Sky Family, known throughout the country for their renditions of Appalachian music; the A.L. Phipps Family; the Ware Brothers; the Cumberland Rangers; Roan Mountain Hilltoppers; Elmer Goodman; and Renfro Valley's own Jim Gaskin, Virginia Sutton and the Eversole Brothers.

Mountain Music is defined by its traditional flavor and the use of old-time instruments for accompaniment, such as Flat Top Guitars, Dulciners, Mandolins, Banjos and Harmonicas, with occasional use of spoons and wash tubs as well.

Show times for Mountain Music are 7 p.m. on Friday and 10 a.m. on Saturday. Tickets are $6 for adults and half-price for children 12 and under.

In addition to the Mountain Music Shows, Renfro Valley will hold regularly scheduled weekend performances. Friday and Saturday night Bardance Shows begin at 7 p.m., and Lamboree Shows begin at 9 p.m. both evenings. Saturday afternoon at Renfro Valley feature the 3 o'clock Gospel Jubilee.

Tickets for all shows may be purchased at the door, or reserved in advance by phoning 1-800-765-7464.

Second annual brass band festival at Danville June 14-16

The third weekend in June will once again turn Danville into the brass band capital of the world as 12 great bands gather for the second annual Great American Brass Band Festival, June 14-16.

"Last year's festival was so successful, we had to do it again," says George Foreman of Centre College. He and Louis Prichard of Farmer's National Bank are the festival co-chairs.

Adding to the old-fashioned Americana flavor this year will be a historic district garden tour Saturday (June 15). The old House Club has arranged for 10 private gardens, featuring everything from Victorian flowers to roses, to be on display. In case of rain, the tour will be held Sunday (June 16).

Shown are four recent graduates of the Expanded Foods and Nutrition Education Program, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service. They are among the 36 homemakers who recently completed the 14 lesson series on nutrition and food shopping and received a certificate of graduation. The EFNEP, which is federally funded through USDA, is an educational program for families with children, to help them better use their resources. Shown are Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent and supervisor of the program; Pearl Overby; Anita Lamb; Geraldine Spencer; Rita Bowman; Brenda Saylor, Nutrition Assistant; and Judy Hudson, Nutrition Assistant.

Food safety starts at home

It's understandable that people are frightened by headlines touting the dangerous chemical poisons found in food. But it's the bacterial poisons that grow in our food that cause the most harm. According to top safety experts at the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) we are worrying about the wrong things.

It's food-borne disease that is the real culprit. The FDA's Division of Microbiology estimates that at least seven million cases of food poisoning occur each year. But, there are also millions more unreported and undiagnosed cases that are often passed as "just another case of the flu." Symptoms of food poisoning are an upset stomach, nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, fever, and an aching body. Healthy people can often treat a minor case of food poisoning as just a temporary inconvenience. But for more than thirty-six million Americans, even a mild case can be especially dangerous and life-threatening. These high risk people include the elderly, infants, pregnant women and the chronically ill. They are most likely to contract food-borne illness and have the most severe symptoms. Fortunately, the common causes of food poisoning can be eliminated by proper food handling techniques and thorough personal hygiene.

Safe Food Handling
The most easily contaminated foods are meat and poultry products. Proper cooking and handling methods can help reduce the risk of food-borne illness. Actually there are two ways food can become unsafe. Food spoilage organisms can grow even at cool temperatures such as a refrigerator. Food odors and unpleasant tastes usually make food spoilage obvious. Other food poisoning organisms need a warm environment to multiply and cannot be easily detected. Salmonella poisoning has always been a food safety problem, but in the last twenty years the number of reported cases has doubled. Uncooked eggs that are contaminated with salmonella have caused some recent outbreaks of food-borne illness. Avoid serving raw eggs and foods containing raw eggs. Always cook eggs until both the yolk and the white are firm, not runny, in order to kill any bacteria that may be present.

Egg-containing foods that are usually not thoroughly cooked such as soft custards, meringues and French toast, may also harbor harmful salmonella. Homemade ice cream, home made egg nog, and homemade mayonnaise should be avoided, but the commercial forms of these products are safe because they are made with pasteurized eggs. Do not use eggs with cracked shells, and use eggs within five weeks of purchase. Escherichia Coli - even the name sounds scary - is another potential food bacteria. E. Coli, as-it is more commonly called, normally lives in the intestines of humans and animals. Most types of this bacteria are harmless, but one type causes severe diarrhea and abdominal cramping. E. Coli can find its way to the surface of raw meats during processing. Cook your steak and chops and the bacteria is killed. But in the case of hamburger and ground meat, the E. Coli that settled on the surface is distributed throughout the meat in the grinding process. Unless your hamburger is cooked well done, you may become

The Census: Back to Square One

As vice chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Commerce, Justice, State and the Judiciary, part of my job is funding the Bureau of the Census. And the last time Census officials came forward to ask for money, I let them know we are not getting our money's worth.

It was evident to me -- and most everyone else -- that they did a pretty poor job on the 1990 census. Actually, the phrase I used to describe the decennial head-count was "completely loused up."

Congressional investigators believe the Census Bureau missed about 4.7 million people in their count, and those of us who did get forms had a difficult time at best in trying to fill them out. The forms were long, confusing and discouraged responses by asking for too much information.

This is not merely grumbling on my part about the Census Bureau's shortcomings and questionable results. Rather, I am trying to make sure we don't have the same kind of problems nine years down the road.

The bill appropriating money for the Commerce Department for fiscal 1992 contains language I drafted that requires the government to take a whole new look at the way the census is conducted.

Given the serious questions raised about the accuracy, complexity and cost of the 1990 census, as well as concern about the appropriateness of collecting such a wide range of data, we need an independent review of the purposes, current collection techniques and possible alternatives for the next census in the year 2000.

At my request, the Appropriations Committee has included $1.4 million in the Commerce Department's census account to enter into a contract with the National Academy of Sciences for just such a study.

- We have three goals in mind:
- To find out if there are more cost-effective and accurate methods of fulfilling the constitutional requirement for a census every 10 years. This would include the study of a substantially simplified or reduced questionnaire, reliance on alternative methods of data collection and the use of sampling methods, or survey research, to collect or refine data.
  - To review and consider all major laws and policy requirements for the use of census data already collected. We need to know what information is needed, if the census is the best means of gathering the data, if it is available elsewhere and if it can be gathered more cheaply.
  - To evaluate possible alternatives to using Census Bureau personnel, such as relying on federal, state and local government or U.S. Postal Service employees.

Assuming Congress approves these recommendations, the contract with the academy would have to be agreed to within 30 days of enactment and the study completed within three years.

Testing, planning and implementing a census takes at least a decade, so we need answers quickly. Otherwise, the census for 2000 could be just as complex and expensive as the one just completed.

Twenty-four Rockcastle students tour many famous historical sites

By: Mary Ann Roser
(Herald-Leader Washington bureau
Reprinted from June 1 Herald-Leader)

For two dozen children from Rockcastle County - some of whom have barely been out of Kentucky - a journey through the past should provide an edge on the future.

That is the hope of Ginny Gilpatrick, organizer of a pilgrimage the students are making to some of America's most famous historical sites - courtesy of an anonymous Kentucky donor who contributed $12,000 to make it possible.

The trip is a big one. The 24 young people and four adults left their homes in Mt. Vernon, Tuesday and arrived at Mount Vernon, Va., the home of George Washington, Thursday. The arrival culminated a day and a half of sightseeing in Washington that included visits to monuments, Arlington National Cemetery, the U.S. Capitol and the Smithsonian Institution.

Yesterday, they took a ferry to the statue of Liberty, and today they plan to bicycle around Martha's Vineyard, Mass. Next, it's on to Boston's freedom trail, Plymouth Rock, Amish country in Pennsylvania and the Gettysburg battlefield.

The students also will sing at the Church of Christ in Millis, Mass., near Boston, where families will host them for a "cultural exchange," said Gilpatrick, a former Millis resident. She moved to Kentucky last year to become program coordinator of the Christian Appalachian Project's Rockcastle Teen center, where most of the 24 youths hang out.

The trip was her way of attracting more students to the center and giving them a life-enriching experience they will not soon forget.

"I hope it will give them a little bit of vision, some courage to get over their fear of leaving Rockcastle County and a broader perspective," said Gilpatrick, who spent months preparing the students for the trip.

But the students probably will not grasp all of that until another day, parent/chaperone Sue Phillips said. "I told my daughter, Tabatha, this is a trip you'll never forget. . . . The next time they pick up a book or see a movie with these places in it or see a soldier or a president, they'll think of this," Phillips said.

Wednesday, when the temperature shot up to a record-breaking 97 degrees, the students had two things on their minds: the heat and the excitement of seeing things for the first time.

On a four bus at Arlington, they cheered so exuberantly when the driver mentioned that a large group from Kentucky was on board that he gently chided them: "Remember, you are in a cemetery."

Their festive spirits soon turned sober when four of them, including Tabatha, took part in a wreathlaying ceremony at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The wreath, decorated with red, white and blue silk flowers and emblazoned with a sash that said, "Rockcastle County," was donated by a local florist.

As Heather Neal, 16, nervously waited with Tabatha and the others to lay the wreath, she watched the solemn Changing of the Guard ceremony.

"I love it," she said. "I think it's great. It's so sad, you know."

David Russell, 17, confessed that he was more interested in other attractions.

"I want to see the big building that looks like a pencil," he said of the Washington Monument.

Sarah Wilson, 15, raved about the National Gallery of Art but was less impressed with the Capitol. Her complaint: "All the money they spent on those expensive chandeliers with homeless people sleeping outside."

Brandi Cromer, 14, said she enjoyed the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, even though she got "fussed at" for snapping a forbidden picture.

And Kelly Garrett, 13, said she was looking forward to seeing the Mayflower because "I like studying about American history."

Teens and chaperons gain new perspective of America

By: Ginny Gilpatrick

When a busload of teens and chaperons spontaneously bursts into strains of "The Star Spangled Banner," it somehow restores your faith in the ascending generation. Having just left the steps of the Lincoln Memorial lit up at night, and the black wall that is the memorial to thousands of soldiers who served in Vietnam, and having spent the day seeing D.C. and placing their Rockcastle wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, their patriotic feelings surfaced in song.

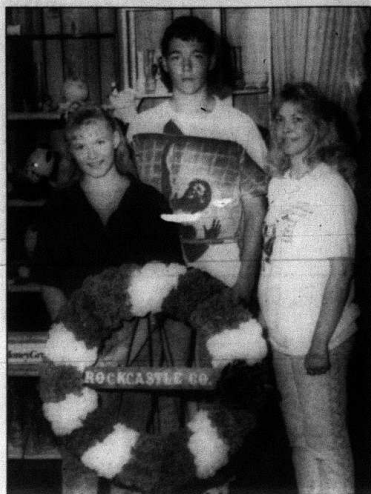

The CAP teens have arrived in Millis. Their boundaries have been expanded so far to include the aggressive crowds and traffic of the East, the ability to relax and entertain themselves up to three hours on the bus without tobacco, soda or TV, the realization that Mt. Vernon is not a village or a shack and that George Washington really did live in that estate on the Potomac for some forty years. They've learned to use the Metro system and to accept the bits of unacceptable lifestyle they witnessed from their windows in Jersey. They have met their counterparts in Millis and are making new friends.

Asked to write comments on the trip, the teens said: "I'm having so much fun I don't know what we're doing next" (Phillip Seals); "I like sitting in the cool motel room. Well, I also like the Space museum a lot - I'd go to Washington again any day" (D.C.); "I liked seeing George Washington's mansion. There is a lot of cool things to see there." (Andrea Powell); "I liked Mt. Vernon because it was when a great man became the first person to become the president of the United States became great there and it was really neat seeing such a historical sight." (R.J.) "I think the whole trip has been wonderful. I'm really excited about the Statue of Liberty. So far my favorite has been the Vietnam Memorial" (Heather Neal). "I think it is really a terrific trip. I will be glad when we will get to see our host family." "I think it is an awesome trip everybody should come." (Frank Fain) "I think it's fun and exciting. I like staying in the hotel and I also like the Space Museum and I loved Washington, D.C. I can't wait to see what happens next." (K.K.) "I thought the unknown soldier tomb was very interesting. I was scared walking down those stairs (to place the wreath). It was weird guards walked back and forth. I am glad I wasn't one of those soldiers I would have got bored, it takes way too long." (Tabatha Phillips) "The art museum

(National Gallery) was one neat site to see all those wonderful paintings and sculptures." "I thought the Capitol was beautiful and I think everything is fun that we do, but I really do miss my boyfriend. I wish he was with me."

The bus will have arrived in Mt. Vernon when this goes to press. Twenty four teens will have grown in self-confidence and will have obtained a perspective of history that will color and heighten their level of comprehension of world events and school subjects. Seeds are being sown; the harvest is unpredictable.

Wreath, created by Mt. Vernon Florist was donated to teen representatives Frank Fain and Shanna Stevens by Judy McFerron to be put on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Washington, D.C.

Seven Rockcastle youths helping to rid county of illegal trash dumps

Seven Rockcastle youths have begun work on a project this summer that has the attention of many. They are working daily cleaning up the eyesores blighting the county backroads - illegal garbage dumps.

County worker Albert Thomas, who is supervising the summer youth crew, says the group has already cleaned up the dump at Cove Branch and are now working on one of the worst sites in the county, the dump along the Brodhead - Cupps Chapel Road, near Possum Kingdom.

According to Thomas, this dump may take as long as a month to eliminate.

To clear the dumps, the youth crew follows another crew (one that removes heavy objects from the site) and takes on the tedious task of filling plastic bags with the mounds of trash.

Just as it is at Possum Kingdom, most trash dumped illegally is tossed over a steep embankment, making clean-up extremely difficult.

According to County Judge/executive Roland Mullins, who last summer initiated the clean-up program using the summer youth workers, the glass and aluminum are recycled, and the rest goes to the landfill.

Thomas says the program is a "great thing", but it's discouraging, he says, to return in the morning to the clean-up site to begin work only to find fresh garbage dumped overnight.

Marvin Stone, state forest ranger stationed in Rockcastle County, also works closely with this clean-up crew. He says the state allows him to put in as much as 420 hours (about 3 days a week in the summer) helping the youths.

According to Stone, the crew cleaned up nine illegal dump sites last summer.

Among those were two of the worst in the county, one on the Clear Creek Road near the Jackson County line and one on the Copper Creek-Brindle Ridge Road. The sites were completely cleared of debris, raked and seeded.

According to Judge Mullins, Berea College helped with the reseeding of the one near the Jackson County line.

Reportedly, these sites have not been recontaminated.

Ranger Stone says that almost 100 names have been collected from trash at illegal dumpsites and turned in; three or four benchwarrants have been obtained and at least one person that he knows of has been fined for dumping illegally.

Within the next few days, notices of violations will be issued to the persons whose names were obtained from illegal refuse. Violators will be required to contact the Solid Waste Office and outline a remedial plan (involving removing the illegally dumped garbage or an equal amount). Violators of the Rockcastle County Ordinance 90-3 are subject to the maximum penalty of a $500 per day fine, for each solid waste violation.

When Judge Mullins campaigned for office, he promised to clean up Rockcastle County. Now, a year and a half into his term, he says the task has been and continues to be a very difficult one. Even though progress has been slow; it is sure, he thinks.

Local cooperation with roadside clean-up has been outstanding with 91 percent of county roads adopted. Recently the county received special recognition from the state Department of Transportation for its outstanding job of clean-up.

Despite various efforts by county government including more stringent statutes regulating garbage disposal, the formation of two committees which work to provide solutions to the local problem, Green Thumb crews working to clean up dumpsites, a recycling program, and a computer which is used to register every residence in the county and the method each has for disposing of household garbage, the problem of illegal dumping still exists.

If garbage haulers do not cover the road on which you live, please contact the local office of solid waste at 256-2313.

Time out in front of the State House on Beacon Hill in Boston, Massachusetts.

Summer crews cleaning dumps

My friend Walter Browning told me the other day that he would just as soon not read any more about garbage in this space. He seemed to think, I had expressed just about every view possible on the situation and that there had to be more important, or at least more to the reader's sanity, a different subject, to write about.

Sorry Walt. After this week's story about the summer work crew cleaning up the dumps in the county, I just can't help myself. Apparently some dumps are being cleaned up and some have already been done away with. And that is great news for the county.

Looks certainly aren't everything, but there are more problems with an illegal dump, than just causing the countryside to look bad.

CHARTING ROCKCASTLE

By Richard Anderkin
Managing Editor

It is usually a health hazard as well as an eyesore and no one really knows just how contaminated our streams and creeks are because of the contaminants coming from the dump sites. Many of the dump sites are located near or even in our creeks and streams, such as the one at Possum Kingdom. Not only will cleaning up the dump sites help the looks of things, it will also help eliminate dangerous health hazards.

We are running a story this week about County James H. Lambert's efforts in collecting child support for children in Rockcastle County. Lambert has done a very admirable job as of late, collecting money from "deadbeat dads," as Martha put it.

While the crews are cleaning up the dumps they are collecting as many names and addresses from the trash as possible.

Maybe Lambert will take those names and addresses and prosecute a few of the illegal trash dumpers as vigorously as he has gone after the dads who won't pay their child support. It couldn't hurt.

"County Attorney gets high marks"

Effective County Attorneys like Jim Lambert, they don't mean a thing to our kids.

In 1988, County Attorneys, citizen advocates and the Attorney General worked with the Cabinet for Human Resources and the General Assembly to toughen Kentucky's child support laws. Changes included stiff penalties for non-support and automatic wage withholding whenever the court orders support.

In 1990, the legislature enacted uniform guidelines for judges to use when determining orders. Cowan says the guidelines not only ensure a more equitable enforcement of the law, but also guarantees a single parent will receive the money to which they are entitled.

Rockcastle County Attorney, James Lambert says, "Our program is working hard to see that each child receives the child support to which he or she is entitled, and the uniform guidelines adopted by the 1990 General Assembly is making this goal more attainable."

Cowan points out that County Attorneys and the Cabinet for Human Resources have more tools than ever to crack down on parents who fail to pay support.

"If a parent refuses to pay his court-ordered support, they may find themselves being turned down by credit agencies for loans or finding their tax return isn't quite as large as they expected," Cowan says. "And if the message still isn't coming through loud and clear, they'll be spending time in the penitentiary, plain and simple."

Any single parent interested in obtaining child support should contact the County Attorney's office at 256-5127.

Mausoleum in question at Berea Cemetery

To build or not to build. That is the question facing the board members of the Berea Cemetery as they consider construction of a mausoleum on the cemetery grounds.

A mausoleum is a specially constructed building containing both individual and family crypts for those who desire above-ground entombment.

The Berea Cemetery has been serving Berea and surrounding communities since 1876. It is a non-profit cemetery administered by a non-paid board of directors made up of local citizens. Although board members have discussed the concept of a mausoleum for several years, serious consideration is now being given to the project.

"Our purpose is to serve the needs of the people in the community," said D. Warren Lambert, president of the Berea Cemetery, "and a mausoleum would provide an attractive, affordable alternative to conventional ground burial."

A mausoleum located in Madison Memorial Gardens has been sold out for several years. Those interested in mausoleum entombment have been forced to look outside of Madison County.

According to Randy Osborne, co-owner of Wray Funeral Home, the mausoleum at Berea Cemetery would be a plus for the citizens of Madison County and surrounding areas.

"It's an alternative many people would like to have, but unfortunately is not readily available," said Osborne.

Currently, several area citizens are entombed in rented mausoleum spaces in Lexington while their families wait for the proposed mausoleum to be built in the Berea Cemetery. The first mausoleum was constructed in 353 B.C. as an expression of devotion to the king of Caria in Asia Minor by his queen, Artemisia. Since the king's name was Mausolus, all structures serving a similar purpose came to be known as mausoleums. Arguably the most famous of all mausoleums is the magnificent, whitened Taj Mahal in India.

Until recent years mausoleums were primarily used by the wealthy, royalty and famous dignitaries such as Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson and Grant. Mausoleums are now, however, priced within the means of the average family.

"Many people think of a mausoleum space as being much more expensive than a regular ground burial," said Maurice Dula, Superintendent of the Grounds for the cemetery. "But, because you don't have to buy a vault or a grave marker, mausoleum crypts are actually about the same price."

The addition of a mausoleum would also enable the cemetery to provide more space for future needs.

"Although the cemetery currently has ample ground plots available, it is important to consider the future generations and prepare for their needs well in advance," Dula explained.

For most people considering mausoleum entombment, price is the first factor to evaluate. People are also concerned about the safety of a mausoleum. Mausoleums are constructed according to strict building codes that help shield against earthquakes, tornadoes and other severe weather. Each crypt compartment is a private chamber and is individually ventilated to ensure dry, clean and secure entombment. The crypts are permanently sealed with an inner shutter so that once someone is entombed, the crypt cannot be disturbed.

Personal care of each crypt is ensured by placing a portion of the purchase price in a trust fund.

Berea Cemetery board members and others associated with the cemetery have been discussing the issue with people in the region to gain insight on the proposed mausoleum. "Although we've received a great deal of positive feedback from those we've spoken with, we feel a need to get an even broader community perspective," Lambert said. "In an effort to accomplish this, Berea Cemetery has drafted a community survey with the hope that citizens will share their opinions about the mausoleum."

According to Lambert, "we want what's in the best interest of our community, and who better to tell us than the people themselves."

Community Survey conducted on behalf of Berea Cemetery

To better serve the citizens of Berea and surrounding communities, Berea Cemetery is considering construction of a MAUSOLEUM on the cemetery grounds.

What is a MAUSOLEUM?

A MAUSOLEUM is a specially constructed building containing both individual and family crypts for those who desire above-ground entombment. A MAUSOLEUM provides an attractive, safe resting place, protected from natural elements.

Although once considered an option available only to the wealthy, the cost is actually comparable to ground burial.

Please take a moment to share your thoughts with the Berea Cemetery about the proposed MAUSOLEUM.

Over 1,000 attend festivities

Barbara Fulcher Reynolds, co-owner of Dabney Feed Supply, presented Monica Cummins, 12 and her 16-year-old sister, Dreama, of Berea, with blue and red ribbons for their first and second place finish in the hoola hoop contest.

Jeff Welch, son of Wayne and Cheryl Welch of Willailla, got a balloon from Magician Greg Farmer. Nicholas Bengel, also waits patiently for his turn at the twisted balloons.

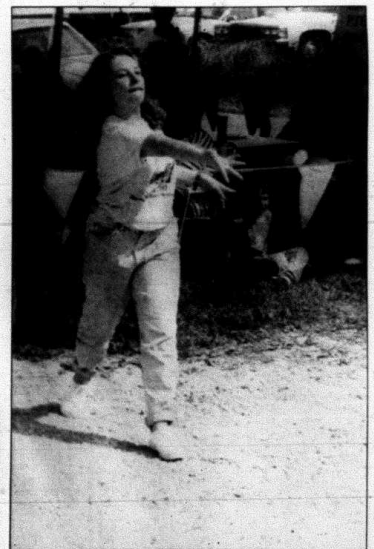

Norietta Thompson and Ora Lee Hurst, both Willailla residents, took their turn in the hoola hoop contest.

"The Chicken Man" was just one of many groups that played to the large crowd at the second annual Willailla Days, last Saturday.

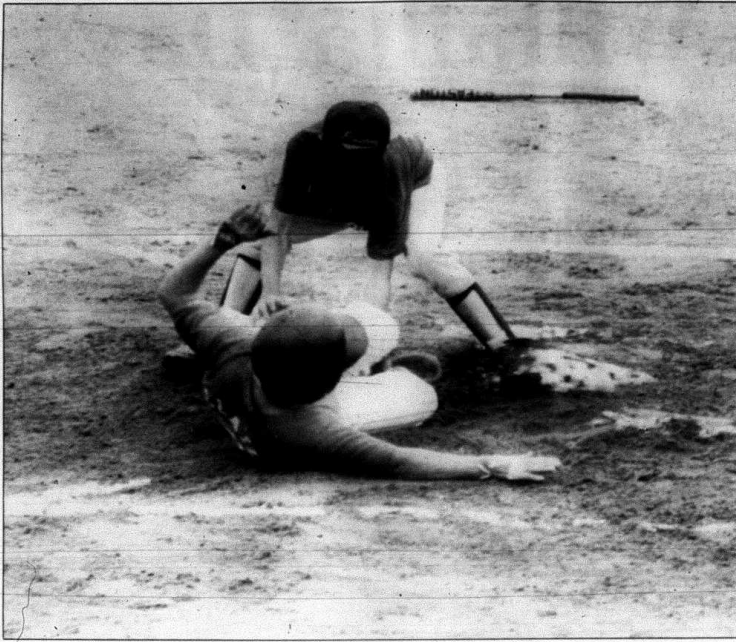

Brenda Lovell of Mt. Vernon and formerly of Willailla, prepares to get dunked on the dunking booth Saturday.

Danetta Ford of Mt. Vernon, was on hand to help her dad, Danny Ford, do a little campaigning, but she also found time to win the egg toss competition.

Crappie on the Hoot Owl Shift

By: Mark E. Thomas

Any serious crappie fisherman knows that you don't need spells or potions to conjure up a little midnight magic when the owls are talking to a midsummer moon.

Instead you start with a comfortable, roomy Spectrum Pontoon Boat, an armful of your favorite light action tackle, then add an assortment of crappie jigs plus some hooks, bobbers and a bucket of minnows on the side.

Add enough lanterns to light up the night and you're ready for what many serious crappie anglers consider to be the most productive method of collecting Old Slabides.

Night fishing has a surreal quality that can be absolutely entrancing. The hot summer sun has long since fled over the horizon, night birds are calling, mysterious sounds splash somewhere out in the shadowy depths and there's a sense of being lost in another universe. Top it all off with an ice chest full of prime filets at expedition's end and you've got a close encounter with Ma Nature at her finest, and the perfect way to break the monotony of summer's searing dog day afternoons.

There's nothing tricky about night fishing for crappie. Just anchor over your favorite brush pile or at the edge of a submerged creek channel.

Next fire up the lanterns and place them at strategic points around the boat.

You'll need ample light to rig gear and find your way safely around the deck. Even more importantly, the lanterns will attract insects, which fall into the water providing a baitfish feast.

Milling baitfish in turn attract crappie. And by this time you'll be ready with jigs or minnows, followed by dancing rod tips and angling action that often comes so fast and furious that the water seems to explode.

Maybe the best thing about crappie fishing on the hoot owl shift is that these ubiquitous fish are found in catchable quantities throughout most of the United States. And they aren't finicky: tackle can be as elaborate as special crappie rigs or as simple as that American standard, the cane pole.

Choose a stable, seaworthy craft like an 18 foot Fishing Pontoon Boat from Spectrum for safety, respect hidden obstacles by maintaining your speed at a minimum, and keep those running lights burning brightly. Don't ruin your fun, or that of your fellow anglers, through carelessness or discourtesy.

And please, pack your litter back with you. It only takes a second to put trash in its proper place. It's a simple show of respect for our wildlife and aquatic resources. And a sign of good taste—just like a golden brown filet, courtesy of crappie on the hoot owl shift, and the magic of midnight on the water.

Steel shot required for waterfowl hunting

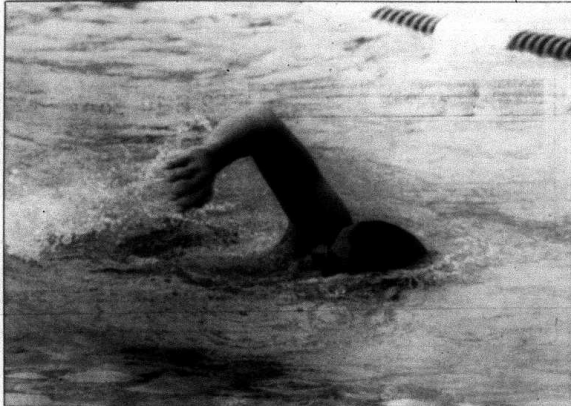

For the 1991-92 Kentucky waterfowl hunting seasons, hunters will not be permitted to use non-toxic steel shot throughout the state.

The use or possession of lead shot while hunting waterfowl will no longer be allowed under state or federal law. Extensive government and private studies have indicated that waterfowl can pick up lead pellets spent by hunters in feeding areas and when ingested, lead can poison the birds.

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources reminds hunters and sporting goods retailers that the new steel shot requirement will take effect in Kentucky this fall with the opening of the wood duck season in September.

Hunters will likely find it necessary to make some minor adjustments in their shooting techniques. A few trips to the range for some encounters with clay birds before heading to the blinds will no doubt prove beneficial. Shooters also should pattern their guns when first adjusting to steel shot and note the differences in shot distribution.

Clark Mullins takes a few practice strokes during the Cedar Rapids Dolphins' practice session at the Cedar Rapids Country Club Tuesday night. The Dolphins will open the '91 swim season this Saturday when they host Lakewood Country Club.

Steel shot is both harder and lighter than lead. Most steel loads start out with greater velocity than lead, but being lighter, they slow down more quickly. As a result, hunters have found it necessary to compensate in front of the target they shoot. When shooting at close range (30 yards or less), the aiming point for steel shot will be closer to the bird than with lead. At medium range (30-50 yards), the aiming point will be just about the same for steel as for lead. But at long range (50 yards or more), the aiming point for steel shot will be considerably farther ahead of the bird than for lead.

A good rule of thumb to remember when selecting a shot for the first time is to use two shot sizes larger than the lead you've been accustomed to. It may even be a good idea to go three sizes larger for longer ranges such as in pass shooting. For example, use No. 4 or 3 steel shot to replace No. 6 lead; use No. 2 or 1 steel to replace No. 4 lead.

Subject to approval by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, waterfowl seasons usually run from late November through early February in Kentucky.
