Library News

By: Geraldine Robbins

The summer reading program "Summer Splash" will be ending June 27th. We have a lot of children participating in the program and a lot of books have been read already.

We are still having special programs on Wednesday and Thursday of each week at 1 p.m. Bring your children in and let them join the fun. Sharon Lovell will be here Thursday (today) to work with the children and Martha Eversole will be with us Wednesday the 26th.

The 27th we will have a pizza party for all the children enrolled in the program, here in the library or on the bookmobile. The party will be held in the library. Please let Pam or myself know if your children will be attending so that we will know the number of pizza to order.

The list of books read should be turned in at the library on June 26th and the prizes will be awarded at the pizza party on Thursday.

We want to encourage all the parents to continue bringing your children into the library all summer. The story hour will be continuing on Wednesday of each week.

Several of the teachers that are teaching summer school at Mt. Vernon Primary School have been bringing their students to the library. I'd like to commend these teachers for taking the time from their school work to help these children get acquainted with the county library.

I want to invite the teachers in all the elementary schools to use our library this fall, when a new school year begins. Our staff is always glad to work with the teachers and children in any way possible. We want to be a part of the work in preparing the young people for their careers.

Also, we'd like to have special exhibits from the classrooms when they have completed a special project that they would like to share with the public. Our library patrons have expressed their enjoyment and appreciation in seeing our exhibits.

A lot of people have been enjoying our videos this summer and if you haven't looked at our selection, please come in and see what a good variety of titles we have for your viewing pleasure. There are fifty one videos available. We will have a new collection to choose from about July 12th.

When our patrons need books that are not available in our library, we are able to borrow them from other libraries that are members of the Kentucky Reading Network. This means that books that are least fifty other libraries are available to our patrons. We now send mail requests for the books, but we will shortly be hooked up by computer to these libraries and we will know immediately where a book is located and if the book is on the shelf, it will be sent out to us that day or the following day. This will make this service much faster.

We have one section of reference books that are not to be checked out, but as we want you to be able to use them in the library and copies can be made of any pages in the books that are needed.

We have an excellent selection of books for all age groups. There is a table of books that have been chosen especially for the teenagers and I feel sure they would enjoy these.

Some new young adult books at the library are, 1. Baby Face by Norma Fox Mazer, Toni Chessmore and Julie Jensen are best friends; they go everywhere and do everything together. Shy Toni can't imagine who life would be like without Julie, and gorgeous Julie doesn't know how she'd handle her parents' constant fighting without Toni. Teens is more than a friendship - it's a tiny 2. Stand Still Looking Good by Gloria D. Miklowitz. For David, joining the army is a way to become independent of the stepfather he hates. For Carver, the army offers a future, and a way out of his Passadena ghetto.

For Paula, enlisting in the army is a way to pay for her college education and to escape from a failed romance. In this revealing book Gloria D. Miklowitz examines an option that many of today's teenagers are choosing. 3. The Cookcamp by Gary Paulson... So it happened that when he was little and new in the woods, he was riding a Caterpillar tractor in the morning and a gravel truck in the afternoon and helped the crew of raw and rough men build a road west to Canada. The year was 1944. The road had something to do with a war and with the chance that war might come to Minnesota. There were nine men in the camp, and only one woman,

Bray wins trip to Louisville from local Social Services

Social Services tries to make families better. So do the schools. It is with great pleasure and fittingly suitable that we have the pleasure of awarding this prize to one of Rockcastle's School Board members, Richie Bray!" said Edna Kirby and Allen Gilpatrick, Cabinet for Human Resources, Rockcastle County Department for Social Services staff. Mr. Bray won the "weekend getaway" of one night's stay at the Radisson Hotel in Louisville.

Mr. Bray was one of over thirty Rockcastle supporters of the 1991 Kentucky Easter Seal Campaign drive and raffle sponsored by the Cabinet for Human Resources. Assistant campaign coordinator Kirby and campaign solicitor Gilpatrick expressed their thanks to all who participated. In their words, "No one really 'lost.' Their contributions should give each and every supporter the good feeling that they helped others. Easter seals is our state's oldest direct service agency for the disabled."

The Easter Seal slogan is "The Power to Overcome"—and they help our fellow Kentuckians do just that. They help over 24,000 people annually with communication, orthopedic, neurological, social, psychological, learning and developmental disorders. Kentucky Easter Seal society consistently has ranked in the top five among all Easter Seal Societies, based on its range of effectiveness of programs, fiscal management and low fundraising costs.

Ninety-one percent of every dollar raised in Kentucky is spent in Kentucky. The remaining 1 percent supports national program and development consultation. 84 percent of all funds raised support direct program services, including: Camp Kyssa and the Louisville Easter Seal Speech and Hearing Center, Louisville; Cardinal Hill Hospital, Lexington; Southern Kentucky Easter Seal Center, Covington; Geiger Easter Seal Speech and Hearing Center, Ashland; and West Kentucky Easter Seal Center, Paducah.

The Kentucky Easter Seal Society State Office may be reached at 233 East Broadway, Louisville, KY 40202 (502) 584-9781.

a key element in the production of gun powder.

One of the worse parts of the trip occurred as we entered a deep section of the cave which had less than four foot clearance.

Climbing deeper and deeper into the rock laden shaft, at one point during the march we had less than two foot clearance between the ground and ceiling.

Now I know how the Marines felt when they hit the beach!

Coming out to a water fall, the struggle to get there seemed to be well worth the effort, but of course we had to get out the same way, which made me think twice about it on the way out.

Throughout the whole ordeal of seeing me and my buddy crawling on the rock floor with only 24 inches of clearance, a horrible thought came through my mind "what would happen if this caved in?"

With that in mind I managed to struggle out of the passage a little quicker.

With nearly three hours having passed, we decided to call it a night and head out of the cave.

This was a once in a lifetime experience, but for me and my hungry stomach the cookies were probably the best part of the trip.

The dog days of summer are upon us, a little early this year I might add, and with these sweltering hot days comes a slow down in the news.

Once most families are through with another year of school and can be a little more lax in their daily activities, because usually to a certain extent all of us are bound by school schedules, moms, dads, sisters, brothers, grandmas and grandpas alike have to adhere a little closer to a daily routine, than they do when June rolls around.

This June is certainly no exception, things are almost dead, at least as far as news goes, they are dead.

Had the powers to be not decided to exhume old "Rough and Ready" and see if he was actually murdered all those years ago, the daily newspapers would be hurting for news as well.

And, if the county was not trying to organize a recycling program, we would probably have to run a picture of grass growing on the roof.

Of course many things are going on in Renfro, this week is Fun Fair and last week they held their annual Mountain Music Festival. If you haven't been to the Valley lately, I'm sure you would enjoy yourself.

But, maybe next week we'll have a little more earthshaking news.

For a fact, we will be able to tell you who will replace Buford Parkerson as the school system's director of pupil personnel, who will replace Ed Reynolds as assistant director of transportation and who has been hired as the basic art's co-ordinator and who will be the new assistant principal at RCHS.

I understand however that we will not know who will replace Bill Jack Parsons at Roundstone just yet, although there are presently three applicants, none of which are from local people.

So, if you are not real concerned about forest fires that happened several weeks ago, tune in next week, it should be better.

County property, including the Brodhead Fairgrounds, is getting special treatment this summer by a group of prisoners, who have been sentenced to community service work.

Final phase of sentence Inmates serving their time and helping clean up county

Though not wearing the stereotypical chains and striped suits, state prisoner work groups have been in the county daily helping clean up along Rockcastle County's roads and highways for the past 10 months.

The prisoners, who are held in Lincoln County Regional Jail; are released to work as the last phase of their incarceration just prior to request for parole.

Luster Bullock, county road employee who supervises the prisoner's daily work, travels to Stanford each day to pick up and return the workers.

Bullock oversees the workers in a minimum security situation (he does not carry a weapon) and says he has had no problems from the workers on the job or to and from the jail.

In Bullock's opinion the work release program is a "fine one" and says the inmates not only work to clean up roadsides and dumps, but also sometimes mow and trim.

According to Roland Mullins, county judge/executive, the inmate program is worth about $150 per day in manpower to the county. In addition, to giving meaningful work to the inmates, he says, it provides a much needed service for the county. The disadvantage, of course, is the daily transportation.

Mullins says he was pleased recently when two local juveniles were sentenced to perform public service, clean-up work, for the county in a Rockcastle County court, the first since he has been in office. More would be welcomed, he says.

Even with the committees and various efforts to clean-up the local landscape, the judge feels in order to insure lasting results all citizens must become aware of the threat roadside dumping poses to the environment and act responsibly.

In a telephone interview Monday, County Attorney James Lambert said he is more than willing to prosecute illegal dumpers or those who litter.

County-wide effort helping solve problems

The county judge gives credit for success with county clean-up to cooperation from local citizens particularly from two committees appointed soon after he came to office. A solid waste clean-up committee comprised of a member from each magisterial district worked to help get the inmate program started in Rockcastle County.

Working through the state highway engineer, who went through the corrections agency, they were able to put the program in place in Rockcastle County last September.

This committee has also sponsored programs of education and awareness in the Rockcastle County Schools including writing and art contests and clean-up contests, and they have also helped organize the adoptions-highway campaign in the county.

Members of this committee are: Tilford Reppert, Elsie Jones, Tom Welch, Calvin Mize and Millard Robbins.

Another important committee, the solid waste planning committee, was formed to anticipate future local problems in solid waste control and make recommendations to the court on how to plan for and deal with these problems as they arise. Members of this committee are: Gilbert Wynn, Ivan Cummins, Alwanda Fain, Douglas Hamm, Jack Hammond, Joe Bussell, Glennis Miller and Donald Mink. Mullins says he is grateful for the commitment and dedication from these people and others who have volunteered to help county government solve some of its vexing problems.

With your help prosecution is available

"People sometimes think if they find a name on a pile of illegally dumped garbage, all they have to do is just pick up some of the garbage and bring it to my office and I can do the rest," said Lambert. However, he says, it doesn't work that way.

For the county attorney to be able to prosecute a case in court, the person who finds the garbage or witnesses someone dumping must not

Fan Fair this week in Renfro

A Fan Fair will be held June 22 and 23 at Renfro Valley.

Better known as Entertainers Appreciation Days, the fair will be at various locations throughout the Valley.

It begins at 10 a.m. and ends at 6 p.m. each day. The public is welcome.

Other regular country music shows will be held.

"It's a change for our regular visitors to meet and chat with the performers," said Pete Stammer, Entertainment director for Renfro Valley FOLKS. "It's also a wonderful opportunity for folks who are not familiar with Renfro Valley shows to come out and get a little sample of some terrific, live country music."

Renfro Valley entertainers will perform in 15 to 20 minute periods at no charge to those who attend the Fan Fair. Drawings for free back-stage passes and other prizes will be held both days.

A special Sunday concert will be held for gospel music lovers at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 23.

Featured performers for the special concert include The Dixie Melody Boys, 1988 recipients of the coveted Singing News Fan Award for Favorite Newcomer Group, The Pieifiers, a six-member group from southern Ohio whose weekly television program airs in seven states and on national satellite; and the ever popular Barkleys, well known throughout the region by Gospel music fans.

Admission is $7 for adults, and half-price for children for the gospel concert.

News Briefs

Mt. Vernon man charged

A Mt. Vernon man posted bond in District Court after he was charged on a warrant with assault in the second degree for allegedly hitting another in the head with a paint can.

Danny Carmack of Mt. Vernon posted 10 percent of a $4,000 bond for his appearance in District Court June 24 for hitting Steven Bullock, owner of Apollo Pizza on U.S. 25 south.

According to Sheriff Shirley Smith, Bullock said he delivered a pizza to Carmack's home. Carmack claimed Bullock was late in his delivery and that Bullock had come down the road from the entrance off Chestnut Ridge Road too fast, throwing gravel and endangering children. Carmack threw rocks at the delivery truck, according to Bullock, when Bullock sped off.

Carmack later went to the pizza restaurant where he talked with Bullock. With their differences unresolved, Carmack struck Bullock on the left side of his head with a paint can cutting his left ear. It required 10 stitches to close the cut.

Two roads to close

Two roads in Rockcastle will be closed briefly to replace a "drainage structure" according to George W. Reed, district 8 chief engineer.

Ky. 1326, Little Renfro Creek Road, will be closed between mileposts 3 and 4 from 8 a.m. July 1 to 4:30 p.m. July 2. Ky. 1326 traffic will be detoured via Ky. 461, U.S. 150 and Ky. 1505.

Ky. 1505, Brodhead-Corway Road, will be closed between mileposts 8 and 9 from 8 a.m. June 25 until 4:30 p.m. June 26. Ky. 1505 traffic will be detoured via U.S. 25 and Ky. 3275.

Five miles blacktopping

Blacktopping on county roads has started, according to County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins.

Five miles of blacktop is being placed on Burnt Ridge Road between Ky. 421 and Scaffold Cane Road in District 4.

Slated for blacktop when 10 miles of District 4 is complete is 10 miles in District 3. No mention was made on what roads in District 3 will be surfaced.

Trp. Wooten assigned here

Rockcastle has a new State Police trooper.

He is Charles L. Wooten, 24, and was transferred from the Harlan Post. A native of Grand Rapids, Mich., he is a graduate of the University of Kentucky.

Wooten's assignment brings the number of troopers assigned to Rockcastle County to five. It has been three years since that many have been assigned to Rockcastle.

Rotary Club

Bruce Johnson of the Stanford Rotary Club will speak on "School Reform" at a meeting of the Mt. Vernon Rotary Club at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 15 at Kastle Inn.

The Mt. Vernon Club will have their next meeting beginning July 2 at 7 a.m. at Renfro Valley Lodge, and continue meeting at that time and place.

Weather

A total of 2.36 inches of rain has fallen in Mt. Vernon to date this month, according to figures at Cox Funeral Home weather station.

More may have fallen in other areas of the county since rainfall has been spotty.

Most that fell at Mt. Vernon was .67 Monday, and .55 on June 1.

Hottest to date was 88 on June 1. Lowest was 52 on June 7.

Rep. here

A member of U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers will be at the courthouse at 9 a.m. Friday, June 28.

The purpose is to assist any individual who may have a problem with the federal government.

Forest fires continue to take toil on county woodlands

Forester Marvin Stone had a busy spring fire season and still has another one to go before the year is out.

This spring there were 22 forest fires in Rockcastle and Stone says that all of them were deliberately set by persons unknown.

Last year, there were 44 forest fires in both the spring and fall fire season with 93 percent set, Stone said.

Stone reported he does not know who set the fires, but wishes he did, so he could take them to court. He called Sand Hill and the Chestnut Ridge areas "hot spots," meaning several fires were in those areas this spring.

During the spring fire season, two major fires were at Poplar Gap and Red Hill where they burned a total of 200 acres.

Stone said this fall forest fire season could be worse than previous years because showers have been "spotty" with some areas wet and some dry.

"That always increases the danger of fires," Stone stated. He also thanked local county fire departments for their help.

Stone reported the cicada (17-year locusts) generally did not do much damage this year. There was some damage to maple trees where the little Sheriff Shirley Smith and deputies Ronnie Roark and Phillip Chesnut, along with State Police, found and cut this 148 plant crop in the Quail area. State Police and sheriff deputies also destroyed 257 marijuana plants on a cliff close to a strip mine at Mullins Station. No arrests were made pending investigation.

Dear Editor,
What is it going to have to take, a Act of Congress, to get protection in Livingston? We need protection from dust to dust. Not hours that are consumed. Most citizens are being shot for theft. I hope it doesn't come to that. We need full time police protection and a town board that knows it. We had a good (elected) board this last time, most of them resigned. I.D. Rice and others

Dear Editor,
On Sunday, June 9, the Kentucky Sheriff's Boys and Girls Ranch at Gilbertsville, located in the heart of the lake area, opened with 11 boys from the Purchase area. This camp is completely free for underprivileged children, ages nine through thirteen. All one hundred and twenty counties in the Commonwealth of Kentucky are encouraged to send their needy children to this camp by working through their county sheriff's office.

Nineteen hundred and ninety-one has been a slow year for charitable contributions which the Ranch is completely dependent upon, but with the Grace of God, the Ranch will be able to accommodate at least 1,000 children this summer. In the past fifteen years, over 12,000 children have attended the camp.

Teaching respect for themselves, others and law enforcement officials, plus an excellent drug preventive and child abuse preventive program are part of the week's activities. After a full week of recreation, hiking, camping, and excellent food, the children are then given a free Ranch t-shirt to take home.

The Ranch is striving to prove that service to humanity is the best work (Cont. to A4)

No fewer than 30 people have written, called or even visited me since the first of May to let me know their peas had blight. These folks figure that since Ralph King and I are snow pea tycoons, we ought to be up on disease control.

If you lost your peas this year, or most of them because the hulls got little white spots on them and the vines died after you picked them the first time, there wasn't any blight to it. The only disease they had was hot May. We had several days when the temperature got up to or very near 90 degrees. May actually felt to me, a lot more like the first two weeks of August. And peas can't take that.

The little spots you saw were not disease. They were melted sugar. The peas literally cook on the vine during the day and when they cool off that night, the sugar in them rehardens and turns white. They're not hurt a bit as far as eating them goes. You can munch on them raw. No sense in overcooking to kill whatever it is you think they have on them.

The vines die fast because they are over-stressed, as some horticulturists like to say. If I'd had to stand outside, from day light till dark, in the heat we had in May, it wouldn't have taken much else to finish me off either. Pulling and jerking on them when you picked that first little bunch simply finished them off.

Ralph and I however, are having no such problem at this writing. I'm not bragging. I'm just saying that God was on our side. However, every pea grower that I know in Kentucky and several surrounding states were making fun of me and Ralph because we didn't plant till late. When I announced in this column around the end of April that we had just finished putting in over half an acre, my phone rung off the hook for over a week.

People mostly making fun of us. Brother Keith called from Ulvah to let me know that his peas were already blooming. He said we didn't have a chance, but he'd see to it that we had a few messes if he had to mail them to us. Brother Andy reported that his Mammoth Melting Sugars were already going out the top of the fence. Several other people made similar reports.

About the time all that hot weather hit, everybody had peas starting to set in the vine. Ralph's and mine were just starting to come up. While everybody else had peas cooking on the vine, Ralph was laying the water to our baby plants. About the time everybody else was pulling up the vines that died so fast, the weather cooled off like it's supposed to be in May instead of June and our crop took off.

And if it stays in the low eighties for the next week, we should have a bumper crop.

We've already hired migrant workers and moved them in with us so we can harvest the crop. My nephew, Chris Adams and my buddy, Mike Mitchell, have both migrated down from Leitcher County to pick peas at eight dollars a bushel. We figure we might as well keep all the money in the family. Ralph's sister, Teresa and brother-in-law, Mike, will probably earn a few extra bucks too.

All we need now is more containers and somebody to sell the things. Ralph's guessing we'll have over fifty bushel and that's about 25 more than I can sell without putting some work into it. If you're interested in talking about some commissioned sales, hey, we've got an answering machine at the patch. Wanna purchase a bushel to eat on, and maybe stick a few packs in the freezer, come on down. If you just want a mess, we'll let you know which retailers have them in their stores right on the phone.

We had peas stir fried in a big wok with a little cabbage, mushrooms, zucchini, green onions and fresh herbs for supper tonight at my house. Also had a big bowl of snow peas smothered in butter on the side. Raw peas and onion dip to nibble on -- cold peas, cabbage and a little grated carrot stirred up for a salad. Tomorrow we'll have pea soup. All you have to do is mix all leftovers mentioned above together in a kettle, put in a quart of tomatoes, stir it up together in a kettle, pour in a quart of tomatoes, stir it up a little bit and cook for about ten minutes. I can't hardly wait.

I've been talking to a guy in Berea about drying the things, grinding them up, wetting the dust back down and shaping them like corn flakes. The idea is to market snow pea flakes to that segment of the population with a need for more vitamin A in their diets. The guy says the concept is great and there's probably a good market out there, but he can't imagine anyone wanting to mix milk and sugar with something green and eat it for breakfast.

I'm not a bit worried about it, My kids eat cereal that is hot-pink, royal purple, charrreuse and jet black all mixed together cause they saw some wrestler plugging it on tv.

I know kids who would eat cat litter if The Hulk told 'em to eat milk on it.

I was reading on the side of a cereal box the kids had snuck into the grocery cart that other night about how much nutrition this new miracle breakfast contained. It said in the instructions, that you had to add a cup of milk to the stuff and then when you analyzed it, there was a big long list of the amounts of minifats and vitamins that each serving contained.

I compared notes with some literature Loretta had brought home from work and discovered that a cup of milk has more of everything by itself than it did when it was mixed with the cereal. In other words, this box of junk that cost over $4 provided nothing but some damage to a cup of milk.

The Hulk could look the little kiddies right in the eye and tell 'em to show snow pea flakes to their parents the next time they were in the store together and there you go. He wouldn't even be lying about how good they are for you.

Right now you'll just have to settle for plain old green peas. The cereal variety is still in its early stages of development. Maybe next year.

No kidding though, if your crop failed and you have that awful crap

Bank of Mt. Vernon gets five-star rating

June 1991-Bauer Financial Reports, Inc., a Coral Gables, Florida research firm, is pleased to announce that The Bank of Mt. Vernon has been awarded its five-star rating. This prestigious award identifies this institution as one of the safest, most creditworthy banks in the United States.

The award is based on a zero to five-star rating assigned by BFR based on its analysis of the December 31, 1990 financial data as filed with federal regulators.

A five-star rating, for the safest banks in the country, indicates that the bank's tangible capital exceeds 90% of tangible assets, that there are no delinquent delinquencies or repossessed assets and that the bank is profitable - or suffered an insignificant loss for the year ended December 31, 1990. Paul A. Bauer, President, said, "Our five-star rating is most often awarded to traditional, conservatively run, federally insured, well-capitalized banks that concentrate on serving the consumer and business needs of their local communities."

"Out of 12,342 banks reporting for the period ended December 31, 1990, 3,072 banks, less than one out of four, 24.9%, received our five-star rating.

All the banks that qualified for the five-star rating received a free, personalized award certificate in recognition of their achievement or display on their premises.

Bauer Financial Reports, Inc. analyzes and compiles data on all U.S. banks, thrifts and credit unions. So, the next time you have the urge for a sugary, fatty candy bar, opt for a piece of fresh fruit instead. Although the candy bar will be converted to energy quicker, fruit moves through the digestive system slower, so you feel satisfied longer.

Be on the lookout for these fresh fruits during the following summer months:

June and July: apricots, blueberries, cantaloupe, honeydew melon, nectarines, peaches, plums, raspberries and watermelon.

August and September: cantaloupe, grapes, honeydew melon, nectarines, peaches, pears and plums.

Ample supplies of fresh raspberries and watermelon are usually available in August as well.

Take a fresh look at fruit

What a better time to take advantage of the good, sweet flavor of fruits than summer, when so many are in season and can be bought practically off the tree or vine for better taste and a relatively low price?

Although you don't see commercials plugging fresh fruit the way you see advertisements for chips, candy and other quick snacks, fresh fruit is the ultimate convenience food. It's portable, inexpensive, and doesn't need any elaborate preparation - not even zapping in a microwave.

So many foods are healthier for you in one way and "bad" in another. But fruit meets the requirements for a healthy diet across the board. Fruit is low in calories and sodium, high in carbohydrates and fiber, and practically devoid of fat and cholesterol.

Moreover, fruit is sweet and delicious. Even a child who won't touch vegetables is not likely to turn down a succulent strawberry, peach or orange.

Although many fruits are not excellent sources of any one particular vitamin or mineral, every fruit does contain a blend of nutrients that are bound to help you fulfill dietary needs. Several contain significant amounts of the essential nutrients vitamins A and C. Certain fruits contain a bit of calcium, and a few offer small amounts of iron, phosphorus and magnesium as well as other nutrients. The 1990 American Dietary Guidelines recommend that everyone eat 2-4 servings of fruit each day. A serving is one piece of fruit, or 1/2 cup diced fruit or 3/4 cup fruit juice.

"Many people want to complain about no prosecution," he said, "but without witnesses who are willing to prosecute, no case can be made. Most people simply don't want to get involved when it comes to going to court. They just want to complain."

She was born in Rockcastle County Nov. 3, 1924, the daughter of Stella Reams Moore of Brodhead and the late Leonard Moore.

In addition to her mother, she is survived by three sons, George Phillips, Earl Phillips and James Phillips, all of Mt. Vernon; two daughters, Shirley Monk of Mt. Vernon and Annabell Lunsford of Berea; two brothers, James Moore of Sand Springs and Luther Moore of Nicholasville. Also surviving are 12 grandchildren, five step-grandchildren, five great-grandchildren and two step-great-grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband George Washington Phillips, a son, a sister and a brother.

Services will be Friday, June 21 at 11 a.m. at the Calloway Mission Church with Bro. Harvey Penol officiating. Burial will follow in the Griffin Cemetery.

Arrangements are by Dowell and Martin Funeral Home where friends may call after 6 p.m. Thursday.

Raleigh Burdett

William Raleigh Burdett, 79, of Green Hill, died June 17, 1891 at the Veterans Affairs Medical Center in Lexington.

He was born in Rockcastle County Jan. 30, 1912, the son of Harrison and Rachel Wilson Burdett. He was a retired farmer, veteran of World War II and a member of the Brindle Ridge Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Martha Wilson Burdett of Green Hill; two daughters, Jean Colman and Rachel Cromer, both of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon; a sister, Mattie Cummins of Middletown, Ohio and four grandchildren.

Services will be Thursday (today) June 20 at 2 p.m. at Dowell and Martin Funeral Home with Bro. Wendell Romans officiating. Burial will follow in the Green Hill Cemetery.

Arrangements are by Dowell and Martin Funeral Home.

(Ed's Note: In an effort to reconcile information received from two sources, this obituary is being reprinted combining this information. pma)

Daniel Brock

Daniel Brock, 69, died May 18, 1991 at the Humana Hospital in Somerset.

He was born Aug. 18, 1921 in Lincoln County, to the late John H. and Josie Brummett Brock and was a former employee of the Cambridge Tire Company in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Brock is survived by his wife, Dawn Albright Brock; four step-sons, Robert G. Brown, Jr. of Louisville, Gary Brown of Berea, Terry Brown of Ft. Campbell and Jerry Brown of Lexington; two step-granddaughters, Danielle and Carolyn Brown; five brothers, Carl, Orin and Marvin Brock, all of Brodhead; Austin Brock of Lockland, Ohio and Houston Brock of Hartwell, Ohio; two sisters, Suddie Proffitt and Jewell Benge, both of Brodhead, Ohio; a brother, Arvil Denney of Kimmel, Ind.; one step-sister, Zella Underwood of Crab Orchard and several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his first wife, Mary Cobb Brock; two brothers, Earl Brock and Charles Brock and his step-father, David Denney.

Services were held May 21 at Watson Funeral Home Chapel, Brodhead with Bro. Gene Crook officiating. Burial was in the Negro Creek Cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Robert G. Brown, Jr., Gary Brown, Terry Brown, Jerry Brown, Lynn Albright and Keven Hollars.

Mareburg Cemetery

Then and Now
By: Goldie Emerick Race Clark
Danville

Now is May of 1991 -
And Memorial week I visited there. What a thrill to see how beautiful it is! No city cemetery is finer. Even in those early days when one grave appeared behind the old Mareburg Christian Church, a farm fence and gate, not for beauty but to keep the cattle out and to separate the church ground from that of the little log school house near by.

The cemetery better known as the "graveyard" was covered in briars, sassafras, honeysuckle and rocks - yes, rocks - you will hear more about rocks but first, I would like to tell you what little I know of a family named Martin, yes, Cyndie and Katy who owned a farm near by, a big family of children. One of whom later was named other than your townsman, Bill Martin, the 10 cent store man. What generous hearted, civic minded people to give all this land to benefit the community. The good deeds even 100 years earlier live after us, it seems. Mr. Martin was a school teacher for a good many years and a good one. I am told. No church or any kind of records were kept back then. I am sorry to report. In fact, Mr. Martin, turned educating over to his successor in the century, a whole book could be written next, but I promised to write about the cemetery. So time went on and finally came to Sam Chandler, who came on the scene 10 years on his knee and learned my ABC's and loved Mr. Chandler. My first year of school lasted 15 days. Kids must be 6 years old you know, but I went home with my two brothers and a school teacher.

Where is this Mareburg? where John Lear came to S.S. and courted the big girls. It's where John Lair helped the community on clearing the cemetery. Well, that little "too head" finally grew up to make a school teacher, and that tomato spark, finally ignited. The common commitment was: "That school teacher is making those poor little children help her carry racks out of the cemetery."

I feel sure that they wondered what I planned to do. So the next announced plan was to be a pie supper. We have to have some money.

The community "pitched in" we worked hard, dinner on the ground, the extras put to good use. The first bank account came into being. A little interest from our bank account helped the meager donations coming very slowly. With a beautiful stone entrance, with a chain link fence and a good road, a need for more land and a good lot of the greatest caretakers, we are proud of the success as of 1991.

Many thank to all -

Fairview

By: Mrs. Hubert Chastean

Hello to all you good readers everywhere. Hope you are well and enjoying life.

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church June 16th and one hundred and sixteen persons were present for Sunday School. It is so good to be able to see in the Lord's House on the Lord's Day. So many people are missing great blessings by not attending church and I feel so sorry for precious little children who aren't brought up in Sunday School and church. But we do know that Jesus loves them and if we have a heart at all we love them too. But I'm sure we all realize that there is not as much love in the world as there used to be. With our suicide rate so high now with our young people I wonder if it can be, that they feel like no one loves or cares for them. So let's always try to be good to all people. Christ loves us and we should love one another.

Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the families and loved ones who have lost relatives recently - including Vinson French (husband of Helen Gatliff) French of West Alexandria, Ohio; Lewis Viors of Richmond, Ind. and Bob Barnett of Fairview. We know all these people and their families and send our love and prayers to each one. Hubert and I enjoyed seeing the Barrett family again. We saw Helen (Lewis's) family, Edd and William. The Barrett family now only have five children, the four that I have just mentioned and Ambrose. The Barrett's, Viors and Gatliff's all lived in the Scaffold Cane area years

by perlina m. underkin

I know everyone gets harassed constantly to join a club, an organization (the AARP must have a postage budget bigger than the national debt, of course they've all addressed to my husband) and all sorts of support groups but I have an idea for a new one -- the "aching back/back surgery support group."

Now don't laugh. Those of us who struggle daily with pain and who cannot see a reason for, need to support each other. We're not like those sick people who have a cast or a bandage as physical evidence of their illness. We can only show it in our inability to walk properly, stand over with ease, to sit in a chair without squirming trying to find a comfortable position or to roll out of bed easily in the morning.

I'm not saying my family is not properly sympathetic but... And, I understand this. I, myself, have felt my eyes glaze over and my attention wander when someone I have asked (to be polite) how they feel and they tell me. Particularly does this happen if there isn't a bandage or cast to ooh and aah over. It's something like trying to describe labor pains to a man, you get the picture.

But, I state again, those of us who suffer with backs that are in the process of degenerating because of age or because we have stupidly tried to lift more than our own weight from an awkward position, need support. Or it could be, as a doctor told me once, we are still suffering from walking upright when our ancestors walked on all fours. I know, I took offense too.

In my mind's eye, I can see a back support group working something like this. We all meet once a month, health permitting of course, and we would take turns recounting our current or past problems with our back that we are battling. The therapy would be wonderful because all these people would be more able to understand when you describe the dull ache/shooting pain/catch in the hip than those who have been so fortunate as to not have encountered the problem.

But, as bad as hate meetings, I'm actually the last person in the world that should be advocating a group meeting of any type and, of course, I would no doubt be the first drop-out. So, I guess my family will just have to endure this period of my life as best they can and they are. So no doubt praying there is no surgery involved because they know if things have been bad...

Andrew McFerron and his sisters Evelyn Mink and Margie Barron wishes to thank their family and friends for giving them a birthday supper on June 9th.

Rockcastle County completes first week of summer school

The Rockcastle County summer school members completed the first week of summer school which included a trip to Maywoods, a visit from an E.K.U. professor and other activities. The focus of the summer program is "Knowing Ourselves, Knowing Our Community and Knowing Our World."

The first field trip of the summer was a visit to Maywoods. Homer Strong, a naturalist who is employed at Maywoods, told the group that E.K.U. purchased this reserve in Garrard and Rockcastle Counties in 1973 to be used as a protected area where people can observe natural surroundings and wildlife. All animals and sites are protected by law. The field trip ended with a twenty minute nature hike which took the students through a forested area to a scenic overlook.

Also during the week Dr. Ron Wolfe, an E.K.U. communications professor, entertained students with an explanation of the various uses and ways to read the newspaper. The Lexington Herald is being read by the students every day, so his presentation was very useful.

Motivational lectures given weekly by the E.K.U. tutors were informative and inspirational. These talks encouraged the students to develop a positive attitude and build good self-esteem.

Thus, the students will have a better awareness of themselves in reference to their community and their world.

Alisp and Burdette on EKU's Dean's List

Two Rockcastle County residents are among 145 students at Eastern Kentucky University to receive the Dean's Award for fall semester study. They are Shelia M. Alisp and Rebecca Charlotte Burdette, both of Mt. Vernon.

To be given the Dean's Award, students must have achieved Dean's List honors at EKU for three semesters.
 "The award is a lapel pin, and it's presented to students by the dean of their academic college," said Jill Alligier, EKU registrar.
 "Achieving the Dean's List three times is a very significant honor."
 The award was established at EKU in the fall of 1984 by then-registrar

Donald Smith to recognize students who have consistently earned academic honors.

For the award, students need three Dean's List semesters, but not necessarily three consecutive semesters.

To achieve a Dean's List honors at EKU, students attempting 14 or more credit hours must earn a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0.

Students attempting 13 credit hours must earn a 3.65 GPA, and students attempting 12 credit hours must earn a 3.75 GPA.

During spring semester, 1,088 students qualified for Dean's List honors at EKU. Slightly more than 13 percent of that number also qualified for the Dean's Award.

Others named to Dean's Lists

Gregory, Norton, Sowder and Purcell at UK

Four students from Rockcastle County have been honored by the University of Kentucky as being among the top academic students on the Lexington campus.

They are Joseph G. Gregory, Leslie A. Norton and Alison T. Sowder, all of Mt. Vernon and Alan S. Purcell of Brodhead.

The students were named to the Dean's List in their college for having outstanding grades for the semester.

Aaron Purcell at Cumberland College

Cumberland College student Aaron Purcell of Brodhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Purcell, is among 170 students included on the Dean's List for the 1991 Spring Semester, according to Cumberland College President Jim Taylor.

Alcorn, Bullock and Thompson at SCC

Somerset Community College is pleased to announce that 184 students of the 273 students registered for the spring semester have been named to the Dean's List including three from Rockcastle.

They are Patricia A. Alcorn, Karen F. Bullock and Cathy F. Thompson. Qualifying students must earn at least a 3.5 scholastic average out of a possible 4.0.

Teen Center Perspectives

It's wonderful to be "free" for the summertime. Free from school, free from homework, free to sleep late; just pull on some comfortable shorts, keep the doors open, sit around, be lazy. But then what? More than a few kids say they're bored.

That's what the CAP Teen Center is for: bored teen, but not boring teens. Drop up any Monday, Tuesday, or Thursday evening and you'll see about ten teens and an equal number of adults working on the catchy lyrics to "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat". Come up in the afternoons and join the bunch timing each other swimming the length of the pool under water or playing water polo (an instructor will be at the pool part time starting next week). Or be there in time for a trip to a recreational site on Thursday, or just drop by to make posters, play pool, learn to sew, or meet your friends. Wednesday and Friday the Center is open until 10:30 if you have a tendency to get bored in the evening.

Boredom is something you choose.

It comes from expecting some magic force from somewhere else to come along and excite you. That rarely happens. People who claim never to be bored are those who know that excitement and enjoyment of life are of their own creation. These people make things happen. The first step in shifting to an attitude of enthusiasm instead of an attitude of boredom, is to take a look at the possibilities.

Possibilities are everywhere. Papers and posters are full of ads and schedules of what is going on. There are literally hundreds of kids in Rockcastle County somewhere near your age, some of whom would love to do something with you. Find them. There are skills to learn: sports, crafts, music, survival etc. The Teen Center can provide new friends, new experiences, new skills...this summer there is a young man with the staff who is certified in rappelling and rock climbing. Look over the schedule and see what possibilities are there for you. If transportation is a problem phone 256-4919 to arrange for the CAP van.

Exploring the John Griffith Cave in Rockcastle County, expedition leader Richard Zerby gives some last minute instructions and information on cave safety. Almost a dozen spelunkers spent three hours exploring the cave last week.

Group Explores John Griffith cave

By Rick L. Elkins
When people in Kentucky think of caving, or spelunking as it is called, the first thing that comes to mind is a travel to the western part of the state to visit Mammoth Cave.

Although Mammoth Cave is one of the ten longest and most famous in the world a lot of people tend to overlook the plentiful amount of caves that are located in southeastern Kentucky.

Most everyone has heard of the Great Salt Petre Cave, but most people don't realize that there are 349 other underground caves in Rockcastle and neighboring Pulaski County.

With this in mind a small group of explorers, including myself, set out to investigate one of these unknown dwellers in the Mount Vernon area.

Entering a cave know only as the James Griffith Cavern, our eager little group was led by veteran spelunkers Richard Zerby along with Steve House and Bob House.

The drive to meet Zerby in Rockcastle County was quite a bit longer than anticipated, especially after chief navigator Steve House missed a turn and overshoot our destination by eight miles.

After a helping hand on directions from a neighborhood farmer, we managed to meet Zerby only 40 minutes late.

Zerby was actually the only individual who knew the caves so he was designated the team leader of our humble group.

"Caving can be a lot of fun if you follow some simple safety precautions," said Zerby.

One of the first rules of Thumb Zerby explained to us in a mini-safety talk was to refrain from any loud yelling or talking.

Your voice is a vibration and any type of vibration has the ability to jar rocks loose, Zerby said.

Zerby also reminded us to never drift off from the group or your buddy. Each person selected a buddy in the group and he was supposed to stay near this individual.

Knowing this I quickly selected Zerby for my buddy on this little venture.

I figured if we got lost in this little cave he would know more what to do than I would. In addition to that he always carried a good supply of Orzo cookies with him on these caving trips and believe me when I say caving can work up a huge appetite.

A final bit of advice Zerby gave us was to never pull a rock off the side of the wall because this could cause a cave-in.

With these rules in mind we started walking down a long path that led to the cave entrance.

When preparing for caving you should always remember to wear your worse clothes.

Cover-alls are probably the best and warmest, especially with a 20 degree drop in temperature.

A hard hat is probably a saviour for any caving rookie, especially me. I came away with about three gashes in my helmet which was loaned to me by Steve House.

In the cold dark inclines of the cave it's nothing to bump your head against rocks or out-laying stones, so you learn to love that helmet.

Flashlights are a big part of the trip, especially if you like to see where you are going.

Always bring two because if you are like me, my first flashlight went dead and I had to resort to my pocket sized hand-light.

I would recommend boots or water-tight foot wear. Unfortunately I wore tennis shoes and came away with wet, soggy feet.

The entrance to the cave was a huge beautiful rock opening in the side of a mountain. It was unlike any type of opening I had seen in those commercial type of tours you can take.

The only negative thing I quickly noticed about this wild cave was the increasing amount of trash and graffiti.

Although most notable spelunkers dispose of their trash, a lot had tarnished the rock walls in which mother nature had spent centuries building.

Zerby carried a carbine lantern, upon entering the cave.

he lit the old-fashioned source of light.

For miners this was once their only source of light and actually after a little examination it put out a stronger beam than the flashlights, making it easier to walk by.

Venturing deeper into the cavern I noticed the beautiful formations.

According to Bob House, our resident geologist and park ranger, this cave was apparently once a flowing river.

In fact there were still several passages in the cave which were filled with water.

During the rainy season these passages can easily become raging rivers again. Luckily I checked the weather report the day before. No rain for the next two days (a comforting thought).

One passage had a larger than normal creek and with the curiosity that killed the cat, David Byrd, another member of our party, ventured into the wet water.

The water was about knee deep, but after a quick picture Byrd turned around to travel up stream and simply tripped head first into cold iron sulphur water.

Crawling on the rock floor... a horrible thought came through my mind: "What would happen if this caved in?"

Coming away wet and cold the "Birdman" was alive and well, so we ventured onward.

After about an hour and a half of our little adventure I began to tire (especially after I had played 5 hours of tennis just prior to this trip).

Unfortunately the women were probably the most active ones of the group, tackling several of the tallest rock formations.

Taking a break from all the action, I had a seat while David Grigby and Steve House decided to climb down into a small hole with a creek running in it.

Up to that point the only cave life we had encountered were some cave crickets, two bats and a crowfoot.

As David climbed down into the hole first, a rather large rat was there to meet him, startling him and our women spelunkers.

We apparently were near an opening because rats do not make caves as their homes.

Aside from a few bats and crickets, and a few species of fish, that's about all we saw of cave life.

A lot people think of snakes in caves but because of the cold, damp temperatures they rarely enter caverns.

In fact, according to the park service, these caves are home to several species of endangered Indiana bats.

Another history note about this cave was its use during the Civil War.

During the late 1800's the confederates used the caves for a major supplier of saltpeter, as David Byrd admired some of the interesting rock formations in John Griffith Cave. The cave was originally an underground river and was used for saltpeter production during the Civil War.

Expos, Padres and Pirates are close to a league championship year

Compiled by: David Brock

The Expos, 11-0, are only one game away from a perfect season and the Senior League's season title. The Padres, who are 14-2, also need only one win to clinch the Major League's title. And finally, the Pirates, with their four game lead and 13-1 record, are only a couple of games shy of taking the Minor League's title. All advantages point to these three teams as the close of the Little League season draws near.

Starting last Monday, June 10 at Thacker Field, the Reds easily downed the Indians, 19-1. The Indians also lost two more this past week, one to the Dodgers, 12-3, on Thursday at Thacker Field and the other to the Reds, 9-3, at Roundstone, Saturday.

The Expos walked away with a landslide victory over the Dodgers, 33-15, Saturday at Thacker Field. Two grand slams were hit during the

98 race cars at regular race sets record at Richmond Raceway

There has already been a record attendance at the Richmond Raceway this year, but now there is a new record in the pits as 98 race cars met for a regular race at the Richmond Raceway Saturday, June 8.

In the UMP Open Wheel Modified division, it was John Sparks setting the fastest time and Tommy Walden winning the Trophy Dash. Walden and Butch Shay won the heat races while Ed Chénault, Jr. won the Feature event.

The Bomber division, once again, required two Feature events due to game by the Expos. J.D. Bussell had one, along with a solo shot, and Jason Goff had the other. Ricky Tank Moore took the longest shot out of Thacker Field for the Dodgers. Moore's two run blast left the field and bounced off the Conveniens Food Mart building.

In this past Monday's action, the Expos defeated the Indians, 19-1, at Thacker Field and the Reds crushed the Pirates, 15-1, at Roundstone. Jason Fletcher and Stacy Kirby highlighted the Reds' win with one homer each.

In Major League action at Thacker Field, the Reds edged by the Pirates, 11-7, last Monday and the Padres put the 10 run rule into effect on the Cubs, 16-6, on Tuesday. The first place Padres easily knocked off the Twins, 12-2, Friday while the Cardinals followed with a 18-13 win over the Reds, 14-2, at Roundstone.

The biggest game of the week came on Saturday at Roundstone when the only Major League team without a win, the Cubs, notched up their first win with an 18-11 margin over the Pirates. The Padres closed the week for the Major League with a win over the Cardinals, 3-0, this past Monday at Thacker Field.

The league leading Pirates caused by the Giants, 20-7, in five innings last Tuesday at Thacker Field to start the Minor League's action. Jarrod Bardette had a grand slam for the Pirates in the win. And the Angels squeaked by the Cubs, 23-20, in a high scoring game to get their second win of the year on Thursday.

In Saturday's action at Thacker Field, the Bears rolled by the Angels with a 23-11 win. The Pirates ended this past week's Minor League's action with a 6-3 win over the Bears, Monday at Roundstone.

Please note the no score was available for last Monday's game between the Cubs and the Orioles. #1 Hercules leaders for Senior League are: J.D. Bussell, Expos, four; Jason Fletcher, Reds, three; Michael Shaffer, Dodgers, two; Jason Payne, Pirates, two; Jon Martin, Dodgers, two; Jason Goff, Expos, two; Stacy Kirby, Reds, two; Chris McHargue, Reds, one; Freddie Pruitt, Expos, one; Gregg Goff, Expos, one; Corey Scott, Indians, one; Brian Carter, Reds, one; Greg Bowman, Indians, one; Ricky Tank Moore, Dodgers, one and Aaron Cox, Indians, one.

Honorary leaders for Major League are: Mark Todd, Twins, four; Brad Helm, Padres, four; Josh Baldani, A's, three; John Mobley, Cardinals, three; Jonathan Jasper, A's, two; Brian McMillan, Twins, two; Blake Childress, Cardinals, two; Jason Dillingham, Reds, one; Rodney Mobley, Padres, one; Brian Penry, Twins, one; Jason McFerron, Reds, one.

Clerks attend meeting

Rockcastle Circuit Clerk Denver Miller and Deputy Clerks Teresa Lunsford, Pat Brown, Teresa Vanzanti, Kim Hoover and Sandy Whitaker attended the statewide 1991 Circuit Clerk Summer Conference held in Louisville, June 6 through 8.
 This conference provided the clerks and deputies in attendance with the opportunity to enhance professional technical training and skills. Topics addressed during the conference included the implementation of DUI amendment procedures, driver licensing issues, domestic violence, bonds and coping with change on the job.

The conference was planned by the Circuit Clerks' Education Committee and conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

Scotty Winstead of the Cedar Rapids Dolphins takes time for a breath in last Saturday's swim meet with Lakewood Country Club.

Bentley Allen of Burr and his nephew, Marvin Carpenter, caught a 6 lb. bass in Lake Linville Wednesday on a buzz bait.

"Unto These Hills" has opened 42nd season

"Unto These Hills" has opened for its 42nd season. More than five million visitors have seen the nation's second oldest outdoor drama, but few know what is required to stage the production.

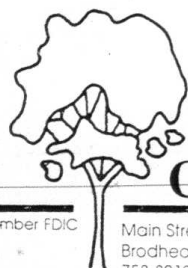

The play is the forgotten history of the Cherokee, capturing the legends, rituals and dances in a woodland theatre set on a cool, green hillside.

The fact that "Unto These Hills" goes from ground zero to full production in two weeks is a yearly feat that astounds even veteran cast members.

The 130 member cast arrives to an outdoor stage that must be cleared of bonnets, wraps and the occasional snake. Clogged drains and the winter forces of Mother Nature are first priority.

RECC annual meeting set for Tuesday, June 25

The 53rd annual meeting and business session for the Jackson County Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation will be held with registration beginning at 6 p.m., Tuesday, June 25 at the RECC farm.

The farm is located 6 1/2 miles south of McKee on KY 290. The business meeting is the main purpose for this event. Cooperative members and their families will hear reports on current activities and conditions of their cooperative. Also, a review of activities from last year, as well as plans for coming years will be presented.

President and General Manager Lee Roy Cole said, "The Board of Directors of Jackson County RECC would like to issue a special invitation to each member encouraging their attendance at the Annual Meeting. There are a number of important matters to report to the membership.

We want our members to know how successful their cooperative is today and what the plans are for the future. In addition to the good news, we are fortunate to have some outstanding entertainment for the entire family." The Nelons, gospel music recording stars, will be the featured entertainment of the evening's program.

In addition to the Nelons, a new Miss Jackson County RECC will be crowned replacing Angela McKinney of Brodhead.

Cole said Angela has represented your cooperative extremely well. In addition to being Miss Jackson County RECC, she was also crowned Miss Kentucky RECC, was crowned Miss Richmond Area USA 1991, and has just completed her freshman year at Vanderbilt University where she made the Dean's List. We are very proud of the representation that Angela has provided to the cooperative.

Angela is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Danny McKinney of Brodhead.

Cole, who will be attending his 40th Annual Meeting with the cooperative and his final meeting as president and general manager, invites all members of the RECC to their annual meeting. He adds that attendance has been increasing in recent years and hopes that many more people will come this year. Mr. Cole also stated that the general public is invited to attend so that they may also enjoy the entertainment.

Also, on the program is comedian and ventriloquist Col. Bill Boley who will entertain the entire audience with many different characters. There will also be a number of door prizes given away to members in attendance.

Anyone needing further information should contact the Jackson County RECC office in McKee at 287-7161 or Toll Free 800-262-7480.
